Senate Defeats Amendment to Education Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate sponsors of a $300-million federal aid to education bill scored a top-heavy 68 to 11 victory yesterday. Led jointly by Senators Taft (R-Ohio) and Elbert Thomas (D-Utah), they beat down an amendment by Senator Lodge (R-Mass)

How Iowans Voted

WASHINGTON (AP) — Both Senator Gillette (D-Iowa) and Senator Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) voted the majority yesterday as the senate rejected a proposal by Senator Lodge (R-Mass) to distribute a proposed 300-million in federal aid to education solely on the basis of $10 per school child in each state.

which would have raised the amount richer states would receive for each pupil.

Lodge proposed that every state receive $10 of federal aid each year for all children between 5 and 17 years.

Taft and other sponsors of the aid plan contended this "would kill the bill". They said it would defeat its purpose to equalize educational opportunities among the states.

The senate vote retained a plan for giving each state a minimum of $5 per pupil per year with the poorer states — determined by a formula — receiving as much as $29.18 per pupil. Lodge contended this formula was not an accurate method of measuring relative wealth of states.

Lodge immediately called upon a second controversial amendment. It would bar aid to states where public schools are not open to children without regard to race, color, creed or nationality.

That involves a controversial "civil rights" anti-discrimination proposal which sponsors of the bill said they can defeat as they did such an amendment to the housing bill.

Senator Byrd (D-Va), frequent critic of government spending, engaged in a sharp give-and-take with Taft over the bill.

Byrd predicted that the federal deficit for the current fiscal year would be between eight and nine hundred million dollars, would jump to three billions for the year that begins July 1, and then soar to six or seven billions in the year after that.

Trotts Ups Bond for Stop Sign Violations

Motorists arrested for failure to heed stop signs will have to post a larger surety bond in the future, Police Judge Emil G. Trotts said yesterday.

Judge Trotts notified Iowa City police that his decision to raise the amount of bond on three stop sign violations from $5 to $15 was effective immediately.

The change affects traffic violations of failing to stop at school signs, red traffic signals and arterial highway stop signs.

Wife to Support Dr. Rutledge In Cedar Rapids Murder Trial

CEDAR RAPIDS (AP)—The attractive blond wife of Dr. Robert C. Rutledge, St. Louis physician on trial for his life, will testify in his defense, Leo Laughren, St. Louis attorney said yesterday.

The 27-year-old specialist in children's diseases is accused of fatally stabbing Byron Hattman, bachelor admirer of Mrs. Rutledge. His murder trial opened here yesterday.

Laughren represented Dr. Rutledge during the lengthy extradition hearings to return him to Iowa and came to Cedar Rapids when Dr. Rutledge surrendered to authorities here last month.

Laughren told newsmen that the pretty six-foot Mrs. Sydney Rutledge would be a defense witness. There were indications, also, that Laughren, not an attorney of record in this trial, would appear as a defense witness.

Defense attorneys hinted yesterday they might try to prove that Hattman accidentally killed himself in a fight with the

James Wilt Resigns From Rent Board

James F. Wilt, G. 804 N. Duquesne street, has submitted his resignation as a member of the Iowa City rent control board, Area Rent Director T.J. Wilkinson announced yesterday.

Wilt's resignation from the board will become effective June 1, Wilkinson said.

Wilt's appointment as a member of the rent control board last September marked the first time an SUI student served in such a position.

Wilt, at present managing editor of The Daily Iowan, will receive his master's degree in journalism in June. He will leave immediately after the June convocation to take a position with the Des Moines Register and Tribune.

The news agency dispatch said "the bulk of the Chinese airforce planes" were being massed at Shanghai in preparation for operations against the Communists.

At the same time, the agency belatedly reported that Nationalist planes had bombed eight warships recently captured by the Communists during the river crossing. The reports said six of the ships had been sunk and two seriously damaged. The location of the attack was not specified.

Neutral observers believed the present available airforce strength was not too large in view of the withdrawal of a large number of planes and personnel to Formosa last winter.

It was believed the airforce in the Shanghai area had no more than a few P-51 Mustangs and B-24 heavy bombers.

Chinese Planes Mass To Defend Shanghai

SHANGHAI (TUESDAY) (UP)—The full remaining strength of the Nationalist airforce is being concentrated in the Shanghai area to coordinate with government ground forces in a last-ditch effort to defend the metropolis, the official government central news agency reported today.

This report, so far unconfirmed by official government sources, was the first information since the fall of Nanking that the government plans to throw what remains of its airforce strength into an all-out defense effort.

UN ADJOURNMENT SET — NEW YORK (AP) — The United Nations assembly decided yesterday to adjourn its spring session May 14. It began April 5.

Note to Russ Seen Today

NEW YORK (AP) — The United States, Britain, and France plan to ask Russia to agree to open Big Four talks here "in the next few days" on the Berlin blockade, diplomatic informants disclosed last night.

Sources familiar with a Big Three meeting held here yesterday said the request was being cleared in Washington and Paris before it is communicated, perhaps this afternoon, to chief Soviet UN Delegate Jacob A. Malik by U.S. Ambassador-at-Large Dr. Philip C. Jessup.

That memorandum as now drafted was said to express Big Three agreement on a plan to lift the Soviet blockade and the western counter - blockade by the end of next week. It also was said to include assurance that a Big Four meeting would be convened in Paris to discuss German problems two weeks after the blockades are lifted.

Reliable informants, while declining comment on the substance of the memorandum, expressed "confidence" it had not been delivered to Malik by Jessup. They thought it might be communicated to the Soviet official by "this afternoon" at the earliest.

The outline of the memorandum was drafted earlier yesterday by Jessup, British UN Delegate Sir Alexander Cadogan, and French UN Delegate Jean Chauvel during a conference in Jessup's office. Informants said Cadogan did not feel it necessary to refer the draft to London for approval.

While Malik during earlier talks with Jessup had expressed informal acceptance of the type of plan set down by the western powers, informants predicted "there is still some negotiating to do."

Disclosure of the draft memorandum gave the first official hint that the western powers finally were seeking four - power talks here on the Berlin and German issues. The Big Four ministers' meeting is expected to start in Paris during the last week of May.

Jessup will carry the American-British-French views to Malik, the source said, and it was expected that Cadogan and Chauvel then would join discussions. However, the American ambassador at large may have further talks with his British and French colleagues before summoning Malik.

The city council will meet tonight in the council chambers at 7:30 with the Iowa highway commission and Roland Smith, president of the chamber of commerce, to discuss the proposed improvements on the Burlington street bridge.

Improvements include widening the west approach and the roadway and installing cantilevered sidewalks. City officials said they hope the highway commission will give financial support to the proposed improvements.

Colleges, Universities Report —

Fewer Job Opportunities Offered Graduates

By UNITED PRESS

Fewer job opportunities are being offered the expected record turnout of 1949 graduates, compared to last year, major colleges and universities reported yesterday.

In a United Press survey of 43 schools across the nation, 34 reported slightly fewer to a sharp decrease in job offers from business and industry. Six said the number of offers was running about the same as last year. Three, including a teachers' college, reported a slight increase because of special factors.

The most job opportunities are in the sales field in most sections of the country because the downturn in inflation and resultant buyers' market has brought an increase in the demand for salesmen.

"Companies are finding it necessary to increase their sales forces to get business," Dr. Frank S. Endicott, director of placement for Northwestern university, said.

Other fields drawing the most job offers are primary grade teaching, electrical, civil and mechanical engineering, physics and chemistry, in that order, the survey indicated.

Starting salaries generally are higher for all fields than before the war, the schools reported.

Some of the universities said there are plentiful openings available for primary grade teachers because of the reluctance of college graduates to teach elementary grades, as compared with high school and college teaching.

The payment of low salaries to elementary grade teachers also is a factor.

Dr. L. A. Eubanks, director of teacher placement at the University of Missouri, predicted that demand for primary teachers would continue to grow.

"There was a large increase in the birth rate during and immediately after the war," he said. "Those children soon will be going to school and will need teachers."

The Milwaukee State Teacher's college was one of the three schools which reported an increase in job offers. Primary grade teachers, the school reported, are in great demand.

Dartmouth college said more firms were submitting job offers but that there were fewer offers per firm. The firms also are being more selective, Dartmouth reported.

Georgetown university reported an increase in job offers because it has set up a placement service this year for the first time.

The survey showed that in some areas such fields as agriculture, pharmacy, nursing and home economics offer better job opportunities than sales, engineering and chemistry.

Many of the universities emphasized that there is more of a demand for students with master and doctor of philosophy degrees, regardless of the field. They said that firms requesting graduates with bachelor degrees were becoming more selective, specifying that they wanted students with the highest scholastic records.

Increasing interest was reported among graduates-to-be in atomic research and development, but there appeared to be no rush into this field.

Dr. Harry Rubey, dean of the University of Missouri's engineering college, said that atomic plants offer a great opportunity for employment to graduates but that few of his school's graduates were entering the field.

"Graduating engineers, as yet, are mainly entering the old established businesses where job recruiting is better organized than that of the spectacular new fields."

Starting salaries for engineering graduates range from $225 to $300 a month, depending on the locality and type of industry.

Salaries for teachers showed a wider range, starting with a low of $1,800 to as high as $3,500 a year.

Some teachers with doctor of philosophy degrees may start with salaries of $5,000 a year.

Starting salaries for accountants, the survey showed, average $200 to $225 a month.

Some of the colleges reported that in certain fields, such as business office work, married graduates can obtain slightly higher salaries.

Hawkeyes Crush Rox, 14-7

Drahn, Orth Hurl 4-Hitter

By NEAL BLACK
(Iowan Sports Editor)

Iowa made the most of eight hits and took advantage of 12 walks yesterday to beat the Rockford Rox of the class C Central association, 14-7, on the Iowa diamond.

Iowa hurlers Glenn Drahn and Dick Orth gave up a total of only four hits but Drahn's five walks and three by Orth helped account for the Rox runs.

Bob Dill, manager of the Rox and centerfielder homered with two on in the fourth. The inside-the-park blow went over Bob Smith's head in centerfield. Orth gave up only one hit after coming in to relieve Drahn in the sixth.

The professional club opens its season tonight and obviously was saving its better hurlers. Fred Lietz started on the mound for the Rox and gave way to Jack Dowd in the midst of a seven-run Hawkeye fourth inning.

Tedore Gets Two for Three
John Tedore led the Iowa hitting attack with two hits in three official trips. He also drew two walks. Jack Dittmer got two hits in four trips. Orth garnered the Hawkeyes' only extra base blow, a triple in the eighth to drive in a run.

Dill added a double to his homer in three trips to collect half of the Rox hits.

Dill's circuit ball in the fourth after Joe Pattaneli had walked and John Poliak got on when Primrose bobbled a double play ball at second put the Rox ahead, 3-0.

The Hawks got seven runs on only three hits in the bottom half of the fourth to move into the lead. George Schamberger, who played third for the Hawks yesterday, led off and got on when he was hit by a pitched ball. Dittmer and John Dinzole walked. Schamberger and Dittmer scored as George Hand was forcing Dinzole at second. Tedore singled and then Pinsky Primrose's single drove in Hand. Murland Moran fled out to the left fielder, Tedore scoring after the catch.

Stretch Lead in Fifth
Drahn and Smith walked and then Schamberger drew his second free trip of the inning, this time a base on balls, forcing in Primrose. Dittmer singled, diving in Drahn, and a walk to Dinzole forced in the seventh run of the inning.

The Hawkeyes stretched their lead in the fifth on a walk, a pair of errors and Tedore's steal of home plate.
The Rox tallied three times in the sixth on a pair of walks, a double and a single. Orth came in to relieve Drahn after the runs had scored and retired the side.

A Rox run scored in the seventh on a single, a walk, and a sacrifice and an outfield fly. Three more Iowa runs scored walks. Dittmer's single and an infield ground ball. Dittmer stole second and then went all the way home to beat the throw on Dinzole's ground ball.
The Hawks picked up another brace of runs in the eighth on an error, Orth's triple and Smith's single.

Big Ten Still Not Certain?

Chief bit of scuttlebutt to come out of the Drake Relays at Des Moines over the weekend had nothing to do with track, but rather concerned the Michigan State situation as affects the Western conference.

There were several representatives from Big Nine Schools at the Relays who seemed to think it is still not going to be easy for Michigan State to gain admittance to the conference. We thought this rather surprising, since the general consensus for quite some time has been that the Spartans are "in" save for the final vote.

The next conference meeting will be in Chicago, May 18 and 19. The final decision will probably be rendered at that time.

However, there are two schools of thought about what sort of a final decision will be made.

On the one hand there is a group which says the Big Nine faculty representatives will hold another vote covering the entire Michigan State situation. If the vote favors the Spartans, they will be admitted. If it's negative, they won't. That will be final.

Prof. Paul J. Blommers, Iowa faculty representative to the Big Nine, said last night that he did not think that would be the procedure. As he understands it, and he isn't sure, Michigan State is now unofficially a member.

This is conditional, Blommers said, upon a conference vote to determine whether Michigan State is complying with Big Nine rules. If the conference rules negative on this point, it will not rule the Spartans out but just delay their admittance.

Blommers was a member of the conference committee which recently inspected the Michigan State physical plant. This committee will give its report at the Big Nine meeting.

There are several schools, of which Michigan is the most notable, definitely against Michigan State being admitted as the tenth member. Right now Michigan is the top dog in that state as far as prestige and the drawing of the best athletes is concerned. Michigan State would cripple that situation if it became a conference school.

Now, suppose a new vote were taken at the May 18-19 meeting. The question would be, "Do you want Michigan State in the Western conference?" If this is the case, and a vote to end all votes is cast, Michigan State would not be in a favorable position.

Since a simple majority vote is needed, five schools would be sufficient to swing the ballot against the Spartans. And we have heard that Michigan is lining up the big conference powers — Ohio State, Northwestern, Illinois and possibly Minnesota — to vote against Michigan State.

Why would these schools go along with Michigan? Right now the big schools hold a majority over the lesser members, Iowa, Wisconsin, Purdue and Indiana. With Michigan State in, it would tend to even the small and big boys up at five to five. The big boys may not like that.

Apparently Michigan State holds a lot of political power in Michigan. But the University of Michigan remains superior because of its Western conference membership. The way Michigan sees it, that superiority would dwindle if the Spartans were on even terms in the same league.

Should the Spartans be unofficially "in" right now, as Prof. Blommers indicated, they can still be delayed. And if they don't get in this spring, they won't be on football schedules for at least another seven years since grid cards for 1954 and 1955 will be drawn up next December.

At any rate, the Michigan State - Michigan battle would be interesting to watch. If the Spartans don't make the Big Nine a Big Ten, you can be pretty sure it was because Michigan had the power to keep them out.

U-High Retains Loop Track Championship

University high school retained their Eastern Iowa-Hawkeye conference track and field championship at the university track yesterday afternoon, scoring 51 1-2 points as meet records in 11 of the 17 events fell.

Mt. Vernon scored 26 1-2 points for the runner-up spot, a half a point in front of third place Winfield. Wapello's 25 markers gave them fourth while New London was fifth with 20.

The Blue Hawks came up with six firsts and a tie for first in the track events but could not bring in a winner in the field events. Ronald Coldsnow gained seven and one-half points to lead the Blue Hawks. Coldsnow set a new meet record for the century and was member of two winning relay teams.

Winfield, led by a trio of cagers, dominated the meet field events. Ron Kester took a brace of triplets and Clayton Rabegeaux one as the Wolves captured 22 of the possible 66 field event points.

Iowa Golfers Fall To Gophers, 17 1/2-15 1/2

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The University of Minnesota nosed out Iowa, 17 1/2 to 15 1/2, yesterday in the opening Big Nine golf meet for both teams.

The outcome was in doubt until the final match. Leading by one point, Iowa went down when the Gophers' Carl Dosen defeated Warren Strout, 3-0, in the last pairing. Dosen carded a 78 to Strout's 80.

The summaries:
Singles — Martin (I) defeated Johnston, 2-1. Martin (I) defeated Johnston, 2-1. B. Waryan (M) defeated Rasley, 3-0. Ernst (M) defeated McKirahan, 2 1/2-1/2. Matthews (I) defeated Zwerner, 3-0. D. Waryan (M) defeated Carlson, 2-1. Dosen (M) defeated Strout, 3-0.

Doubles — B. Waryan and Ernst (M) defeated Rasley and Graham, 3-0. Carlson and McKirahan (I) defeated D. Waryan and Zwerner, 2-1. Matthews and Strout (I) defeated Rodlum and Dosen, 2 1/2-1/2.

Other than that, Chandler declined to be quoted on the case. Yet it seemed fairly evident from his untroubled countenance that he isn't as peeved at Leo this time as he was, say, two springs ago.

So far as he knows, the commissioner said, the only ones who will appear at his office this morning are Durocher and Giants officials, including President Horace Stoneham.

Fred Boysen, the Brooklyn fan who claimed Durocher assaulted him after a game at the polo grounds Thursday, is not to be represented. It will be, presumably, a simple case of Chandler asking "Did you do it?" and Durocher saying "No, sire, I didn't."

After that it will be up to Leo and Stoneham to convince the commissioner, orally and by affidavits of fans, that it was all a mistake.

If Chandler gives the peppery little pilot the benefit of the doubt — as he probably will — then Durocher's suspension will be lifted and he will be free to resume his management of the Giants. He has been suspended since last Friday.

Summons Charges Leo With Assault
NEW YORK (AP) — A summons charging Leo Durocher, stormy, suspended manager of the New York Giants, with simple assault on Fred Boysen, an unemployed 22-year-old Brooklyn Dodger fan, was signed yesterday in upper magistrate's court by Judge Doris I. Byrne.

However, Durocher said he had not yet been served with the papers when he left by plane last night for Cincinnati.

On landing at Cincinnati, Durocher merely said, "No comment. I can say nothing."

A bystander among the 50 men and women waiting to meet the plane told him, "Leo, the fans are back of you in this one."

"That's great," Durocher replied, "I appreciate it."

The summons, which is merely a device for bringing both sides into court to determine whether there is sufficient evidence for a formal complaint, was granted upon the application of Benjamin H. Chasin, Boysen's attorney. The summons is returnable next Monday morning.

The writ charges Durocher with assaulting Boysen on April 28 at or about 5:15 p.m. at the Polo grounds following the Giants' 15 to 2 defeat at the hands of the Dodgers. It specifies that "the assault was of the nature of striking the complainant from the rear, in and around the head, and when the complainant was on the ground . . . that he was kicked by one Leo Durocher."

All-University Ping-Pong Tourney Begins Monday

That's Quite Cricket, Old Chap
STRIKE ONE! WAIT, this is the game of cricket and the batter can swing and miss as often as he wants to as long as the ball does not hit the wicket, which would constitute an out. The wicket is seen between the batter and the catcher. Shown completing a powerful swing is Jagdish R. Bammi, E3, Jodhpur, India, with Moreshwar V. Nadkarni, G. Poona, India, doing the catching. A group of foreign students played the English game last Saturday afternoon on the women's athletic field.

Thinks Happy to Clear Leo

By GAYLE TALBOT
CINCINNATI (AP) — Leo Durocher, who suddenly has come up with a lot of friends he hadn't even suspected were on his side, probably will gain a quick exonerated when he faces baseball commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler here today.

Chandler wouldn't say so. He still was intent last night on going through the motions of a hearing and said he was "of an open mind." But the letters and telegrams pleading leniency for the manager of the New York Giants were piled high on his desk, and he had read them.

"I hope I can give you a quick decision, as soon as the hearing is over," said the man who holds Durocher's fate in his hands — again.

Other than that, Chandler declined to be quoted on the case. Yet it seemed fairly evident from his untroubled countenance that he isn't as peeved at Leo this time as he was, say, two springs ago.

So far as he knows, the commissioner said, the only ones who will appear at his office this morning are Durocher and Giants officials, including President Horace Stoneham.

Fred Boysen, the Brooklyn fan who claimed Durocher assaulted him after a game at the polo grounds Thursday, is not to be represented. It will be, presumably, a simple case of Chandler asking "Did you do it?" and Durocher saying "No, sire, I didn't."

After that it will be up to Leo and Stoneham to convince the commissioner, orally and by affidavits of fans, that it was all a mistake.

If Chandler gives the peppery little pilot the benefit of the doubt — as he probably will — then Durocher's suspension will be lifted and he will be free to resume his management of the Giants. He has been suspended since last Friday.

Summons Charges Leo With Assault
NEW YORK (AP) — A summons charging Leo Durocher, stormy, suspended manager of the New York Giants, with simple assault on Fred Boysen, an unemployed 22-year-old Brooklyn Dodger fan, was signed yesterday in upper magistrate's court by Judge Doris I. Byrne.

However, Durocher said he had not yet been served with the papers when he left by plane last night for Cincinnati.

On landing at Cincinnati, Durocher merely said, "No comment. I can say nothing."

A bystander among the 50 men and women waiting to meet the plane told him, "Leo, the fans are back of you in this one."

"That's great," Durocher replied, "I appreciate it."

The summons, which is merely a device for bringing both sides into court to determine whether there is sufficient evidence for a formal complaint, was granted upon the application of Benjamin H. Chasin, Boysen's attorney. The summons is returnable next Monday morning.

Onslow, White Sox Catcher End Fracas With Handshake

By JERRY LISKA
CHICAGO (AP) — Manager Jack Onslow of the surprising White Sox and his No. 1 catcher, Joe Tipton, shook hands yesterday and each said the other was a great guy. Thus ended the latest squabble on the "fighting" pale hose.

If they had gotten that close in Sportsman's park visiting clubhouse at St. Louis Sunday, somebody would have got clouted-but good.

As it was, blistering words were shouted between the two after the second place Sox swept a pair of shaky wins from the Browns precipitated these rumors:

1. That Onslow fined Tipton $500 for "tipping pitches" to the Browns, who scored a total of 11 runs in both innings of their 7-6 and 14-11 loss to the Sox.

2. That Tipton became so enraged during the clubhouse rhu-rhu that he charged Onslow with battle at heart and teammates had to separate the two.

3. That Tipton threatened to quit the team if matters weren't straightened out and the fine lifted.

But everything was hunky-dory after Onslow, Tipton, Vice-President Charles Comiskey and General Manager Frank Lane held a hurry-up peacemaker parley at Comiskey park this morning.

Sixty-One Tri Delts Attend State Meeting

Sixty-one active members and alumnae of Phi chapter of Delta Delta Delta, social sorority, at SUU attended Tri Delt State day in Cedar Rapids Saturday.

Approximately 83 members from cities throughout the state and 134 actives from chapters at Iowa State college, the State University of Iowa, Coe college and Simpson college attended the state meeting in the Roosevelt hotel.

Awards totaling $50,000 have been given in scholarships to 417 college women since 1943 by Tri Delta, it was announced at the meeting.

Each award is a cutright gift to the applicant, who may or may not be a member of the fraternity. The gifts are from $50 to $500 each and are available to outstanding college women on any campus where there is a chapter of Delta Delta Delta.

More awards are to be given this spring, according to Mrs. Charles Perrin of Philadelphia, service projects chairman.

Veterans Jam Local Centers; 357 Bonus Forms Processed

About 357 Iowa bonus forms were processed in Iowa City yesterday as hundreds of veterans jammed the Red Cross office, county courthouse to obtain bonus forms and get help in filling them out.

The local office of the American Red Cross processed about 150 bonus forms, officials said. Director William Coder of SUT's veterans service office said his office processed 132 applications.

The Veterans of Foreign Wars post 3949 reported 25 forms processed while the VFW post 2581 processed 50 forms.

County auditor Ed Sulek reported that hundreds of persons called there yesterday to receive bonus forms while the county clerk said he was "rushed" in checking and notarizing forms already filled out.

The bonus forms were brought to the Johnson county courthouse Saturday by the highway patrol from the State Bonus board.

Sulek said he received 5,000 bonus forms, of which 2,400 were distributed to organizations in Iowa City and 175 were distributed to organizations out of town.

Veterans must bring a full-size copy of their discharge with the application form when bringing it in for processing.

Veterans can fill out most of the information on the application by themselves but the information taken directly from the discharge must be filled out by a notary public.

Veterans can obtain assistance in filling out the forms at the Red Cross office, 15 1-2 S. Dubuque street from 8:30 a. m. to 12:30 p. m. and 1:30 to 4:30 p. m.

Assistance may also be obtained from SUT's veterans service office, 110 Iowa avenue, every Monday through Friday from 2:30 p. m. to 4:30 p. m. until the processing is completed.

Veterans may also receive assistance at the VFW post 3949, 208 1-2 E. College street, from 2 p. m. to 8 p. m., Service Officer Charles M. Wilson said yesterday.

Notarizing service will be furnished by Amvets, 112 S. Capitol street, in the evenings today and tomorrow, Adjutant William Parkin said.

Members of VFW post 2581 may obtain application forms and membership receipts from that group. These may then be taken to Atty. Edward Lucas, 8 Paul-Helen building, 209 1-2 E. Washington street.

Notary publics can be found in most insurance offices and law offices in Iowa City.

Orders for Novelties from East Indies to Iraq

NOVELTY DEALER CHARLES HALL puts another pin on his "brazing" map, representing a new customer in Delhi, India. Thirteen areas outside the United States are included in Hall's world-wide novelty trade. Requests for unusual articles are frequent in Hall's novelty shop, and most of them are difficult to fulfill. But Hall usually keeps looking until the order is filled and the customer is satisfied.

Shop Has World-Wide Trade

Novelty Customers in Far Away Places Order Aprons, Grass Skirts, Pink Elephants

Charles W. Hall goes in for the good-neighbor policy in a big way. He helps people find all sorts of novelties and takes pride in his world-wide business.

Hall and his wife opened a novelty and gift shop here in June, 1946. Since then they have received orders or inquiries from places as far away as India, Malaya and British Guiana.

Thirteen areas outside the United States are on Hall's list of customers, including Canada, Puerto Rico, the Philippines, Venezuela, Cuba, Hawaii, Virgin Islands, Mexico, Iraq, and England.

Hall recently put a "bragging" map on the bulletin board in his novelty shop. Each order or inquiry he has received is represented by a pin on the map.

As for the unusual requests, Hall has received some of the strangest pleas you've ever heard of. But he draws no lines when it comes to getting unusual articles for his customers.

For example, an SUI campus group recently needed some grass skirts for a special event. But where can you get grass skirts? You guessed it. They went to Hall's novelty shop.

The patient novelty dealer telephoned, telegraphed and sent letters in an effort to locate some grass skirts.

He finally located a grass skirt manufacturer. The order was filled and the event went on as scheduled.

A man came in one day and wanted a novelty bar-apron. Hall didn't happen to have any bar-aprons at the moment but he found one the same way he obtained the grass skirts.

"Now I know just who to contact in case anybody else comes in and asks for grass skirts or bar aprons," Hall said.

But if grass skirts and bar aprons seem a bit out of the ordinary to you, get this:

Hall will personally see to it that a herd of pink elephants go floating on the Great Lakes this summer.

Don't run out and take the pledge, brother. The pink elephants are only decorations on beverage mugs.

Hall received the order from a steamship company which plans to use the illustrated mugs on summer pleasure-cruises, maybe to influence over-indulgent passengers.

So far, nobody has ordered a purple allegator but if you ever need one, don't be surprised if he finds it for you.

He'll try anything once.

C of C to Conduct Membership Drive

The Iowa City chamber of commerce will hold a concentrated drive for new members on May 17 and 18, Jack Liechty, membership chairman, announced yesterday.

13th Annual Cops' Clinic — 300 to Attend Police Course

About 300 Iowa peace officers and county attorneys will attend the 13th annual police officers short course at SUI, June 20-24, Director Richard L. Holcomb, SUI assistant professor of public affairs, said yesterday.

In addition to courses extending throughout the five-day period, one-day courses will be offered for those who can attend for only a short time.

The basic course will be similar to a regular recruit course offered in a beginners' school for police. The advanced section will cover general police subjects for persons who have previously taken the basic course.

The advanced course in investigation, which will deal with homicide, will be limited to about 25 men and will be taught by R.W. Nebergall, chief of the division of criminal investigation of the Iowa department of public safety, and Dr. LeMoyn Snyder, nationally known for his work with the Michigan state police department.

Shotgun shooting and use of tear gas will be demonstrated and movies showing crime-prevention techniques will be presented during the five days.

The Iowa Association of Chiefs of Police and Peace Officers, the Iowa State Policemen's association, the Iowa department of public safety and Iowa Attorney General Robert L. Larson will sponsor the course.

ODK Honors President Hancher

Group Sets Election For New Members

President Virgil M. Hancher, recently named a member - at-large of the general council of the national Omicron Delta Kappa society, was honored at a luncheon yesterday noon by the local chapter. President Richard E. Rust said yesterday.

Omicron Delta Kappa, upper-class men's leadership honor society will hold its spring election of new members May 23, Rust announced.

A national organization established at SUI in 1947, Omicron Delta Kappa is the successor to the former senior men's AFI (All For Iowa) honorary. AFI founded at Iowa in 1915 elected 12 junior men to membership each spring.

In 1943 due to the war, AFI became inactive until 1946 when a group of student leaders and faculty members organized the honorary Century club.

The Century club offered its services to the university and co-sponsored the first Panacea show with Mortar Board, senior women's honorary and the student council.

In the spring of 1947 the members of the Century club were named to membership in AFI. The local AFI chapter then petitioned the national organization of Omicron Delta Kappa and was officially recognized as a local ODK circle.

On May 10, 1947, the AFI members were officially installed as the Beta Iota circle.

At first only 60 AFI members were initiated into the local circle but last year membership reached 104. M. L. Huit, secretary of the organization, said one-third of the former AFI members have affiliated with the local circle.

The first project of ODK at SUI included a series of four parliamentary law forums held for officers of campus organizations. Because of the great interest in this course it was added to the university curricula in 1948.

Omicron Delta Kappa co-sponsored the second annual Panacea and in 1948 cooperated with Mortar Board in organizing the All-Campus Carnival.

Last fall it sponsored the Dad's Day dance and gave an award to the outstanding campus alumnae dad and student father.

The organization now has 24 active members and six faculty members. The faculty members include Jack T. Johnson, C.

Woody Thompson, H. Clay Harshbarger, Loren L. Hickerson, Walter R. Goetsch and M. L. Huit.

Present officers are Richard E. Rust, president; Leo Ziffren, vice president; M. L. Huit, secretary; Pete Everett, treasurer and C. Woody Thompson, faculty advisor.

The organization attempts to recognize all men who have attained a high standard of efficiency in college activities, and to bring together the most representative men of all phases of college life with members of the faculty.

ODK has no predetermined membership limit and no restrictions on the basis of race, color or creed.

Eligible candidates must be junior or senior men in the colleges of liberal arts, commerce, pharmacy and engineering or junior men in the other professional colleges.

Election to the organization is based on character, participation in extra-curricular activities and scholarship. A point system with points assigned for each activity, is used in determining eligibility. Activities may be in the fields of scholarship, social and religious organizations, athletics, publications, speech, music, radio and dramatic arts.

Candidates must have a 2.6 cumulative grade point or be in the upper 35 percent of their professional college. They must have completed 30 semester hours at SUI.

Interested students should fill out an activity form available through housing units, the office of student affairs or the Iowa Union desk. The completed form must be mailed or turned in to the election committee of ODK, 111 University hall, on or before May 10.

Omicron Delta Kappa is anxious to assure that eligible men students will have an opportunity to be considered for election, Rust said.

OUR NEW dog, Penny, has turned out to be a lover of fine music. She is enraptured with my ukelele playing, and it's nice to have a sympathetic audience for a change.

As long as I continue to sing to her, Penny manages to contain herself. It is when the music stops that she causes spots to appear on our floor.

I'll bet I'm the first man who ever tried to housebreak a pup with a ukelele.

While on the music subject, I have the chords figured out for three additional numbers, but can't find the words. Does anyone know the words to "Ballin' the Jack," "Down in Jungle Town" and "He's a Rag Picker?"

IF YOU recall the March 24 Haul where I mentioned some of my difficulties with birds in this neighborhood, you will remember that something was said about a wren on our fire escape.

A fellow Iowa Press Columnist member up in Toledo reprinted that whole column in his paper, The Toledo Chronicle, April 14.

His name is L.W. Burns and he used to be circulation manager on the Iowan back when George Gallup was here.

HERE IS what Mr. Burns has to say about my views on the wren situation: "McBride, the poor be-nighted soul, doesn't know that wrens (the avian kind) do not appear in Iowa in March."

I am standing my ground, Mr. Burns. Wrens do appear in Iowa in March. It may be that you are thinking of the yellow-bellied sapsucker (S. varius), which has been known to stay away from Iowa completely in March, because it tends to suffer from Riggs' disease (pyorrhoea — the avian kind) about that time of the year.

If word other than mine is needed to convince that you are the one in error, I quote Dr. Nels Noodnick, professor of avian idiosyncrasies at Oxford.

In his book "Birds I Have Known," Dr. Noodnick specifically writes:

"Until the year 1831, wrens frequently stayed away from Iowa until July 4. In that year, however, the Congress of Wrens in San Antonio passed a bill stating that any wren which wanted to, could come to Iowa in March, to avoid overcrowding available transportation facilities."

So you see, Mr. Burns, if wrens don't show up until April or May in Toledo, it indicates a certain weakness on the part of your chamber of commerce, and I wouldn't let a thing like that get noised around if I were you.

SPEAKING OF birds: I got to see a boat-tailed grackle swallow a sword Friday. This happened in the Bertelle Bird circus trailer parked on Iowa avenue.

While the boat-tailed grackle put on his act, a cockatiel named Peter whistled "Yankee Doodle" in a disinterested cardinal's face, and a saucy little canary did a soft shoe routine on a cat's head with no thought of danger.

AT THIS time I was introduced to my first ostrich and neither the ostrich nor I was impressed. Frankly, I don't think I care much for ostriches. They seem to be all feet and neck.

A crow, whose name I didn't catch, carried on a short conversation with Max, a scarlet macaw. Max was rather surly about something, and spent most of his time mumbling in his beak.

All this has only served to make me more discontent with our fire escape birds. If they had any spunk to them at all, they'd get out and learn to swallow swords or something.

Boiling Down the Local Rent Control Issue —

The transfer of the rent control issue from the halls of congress into thousands of American municipalities was a big step. Now that the issue has come to Iowa City, it has produced some unusual conditions.

The "home rule" feature of the law, of course, is the actual device for bringing about the shift. At the time it was written into law by a conservative coalition, it sounded like plain buck passing.

It seemed to many people that the conservatives were saying "sure, we'll extend rent controls. But at the same time we'll slip in a home rule provision so that any and every community in the country can scrap the controls at will."

Many congressmen, by words and actions, provided this explanation for the home rule clause. Others believed that the loophole would let local communities make level-headed decisions. If wartime housing shortages and excessive demands had eased, then a community could lift controls. If conditions were still tight, there was every reason to leave controls on.

When the local scrap-controls option was written into law, the intentions or consequences of it were not clearly defined. It was up to the local communities to puzzle out.

While the rent control issue was still on a national level in Washington, the arguments pro and con took on an abstract, ideological hue. Controls were either a protecting shield for the little guy on a diabolical plot — creeping socialism. This again was up to the local communities to puzzle out.

The issue has been laid on Iowa City's doorstep and it is up to us, as Iowa Citizens — temporarily or permanently, to do the puzzling out.

The immediate contrast between rent controls, U.S.A., and rent controls, Iowa City, is that on the local level the ideological abstractions have been squeezed out.

Rent control is neither a shield nor a plot to Iowa Citizens — it's a dent, a bulge or the same old shape in the pocketbook.

Proponents have one simple, piercing argument. Housing in Iowa City is still critical. What few impartial surveys have been taken in town bear this fact out. If the home rule feature is to allow cities to decide on the basis of local conditions, this argument states, then Iowa City will surely retain rent controls.

Opponents, represented by a new property owners group, have scrapped high-flown arguments sprinkled with such phrases as "regimentation," "socialism" and "un-American." The property owners, instead, frankly admit that they'd like to raise rents.

Their frank contention is covered with a thin veneer of contentions about getting rid of undesirables, forcing older people to get out and build, indexing vacancies and putting new rental units on the market for higher rents. Even with the veneer, though, the talking point is simply — rents should be raised.

In a Des Moines meeting over the weekend, representatives of the Iowa City property owners group told their fellow delegates that chances of lifting controls in Iowa City were slim.

The reasons: too many local groups were protesting. "We believe we will get pressure on us from all over the state because of the sons and daughters attending school there."

In the middle, a small segment of Iowa Citizens think there should be some adjustment — say a flat 15 percent hike — but that the control lid should be clamped back on.

The local arguments, then, turn out to be a plain, homey battle of the pocketbook. Under existing local conditions of tight housing supply and a swelled demand, removing rent controls would obviously force rents up to a new high.

The wisest solution seems to be a check to see if property owners are getting a fair return. If they are not, some adjustment might be made. But rent controls, for the present, should be retained.

Who Were the Riff-Raff I Seen You With? —

The Rev. Wallace Murphy, author of the "Tulsa Plan", called off a speech in Sioux City one night last week. He discovered that the hall was jammed with "riff-raff."

Those weren't "riff-raff," Rev. Murphy, those were renters.

The fight to lift rent controls has been launched in earnest since the congress passed the buck to the state and local governments. So it is not too surprising to find Rev. Murphy appearing in Sioux City to present a plan to fight rent controls. He met in a closed session with Sioux City Apartment and Property Owners association members to let them in on his plan.

He was also scheduled to make a public address. But the public showed up — and the "public" turned out to be people who might conceivably be opposed to the Tulsa plan and its founder. So there was no talk. Rev. Murphy did not feel impelled to venture into the camp of the enemy.

This may seem even more strange when one considers that it is the cause of the un-housed public that Rev. Murphy is espousing — he avers that if controls are lifted on rents the builders will begin to build and the apartment owners will be able to put their closed apartments back on the market — presto, no housing shortage for the public.

Rev. Murphy also belongs to the school of thought that has insisted that there is little or no housing shortage. Maybe that is what he didn't want to tell the Sioux City group he failed to address.

It would probably be hard to convince people who were living in sub-standard housing that housing is pretty good.

The Sioux City gathering may have just been a demonstration against a prophet from a neighboring land — a prophet whose honor was being questioned and whose mission could bode no good for the renters, the riff-raff

Housing Expediter Ruling —

'Fair Rent Income' Defined

WASHINGTON (AP) — Housing Expediter T. E. Woods last night issued his long-awaited regulation under which landlords may obtain rent increases if they can prove their operating costs warrant them.

Under the rent control extension law passed by congress in April, Woods was instructed to set up a system under which landlords would be assured of a "fair net operating income."

To do this, he divided rental properties into small and large structures and ruled that:

1—Any landlord operating a small structure — from one to four rental units — may increase his rents if his net operating income is less than 25 percent of his gross income. He will be granted an increase to bring his net income up to 30 percent.

2—A landlord operating a building with more than four rental units may increase his rents if his net operating income is less than 20 percent of his gross income. He will be granted an increase to bring his net income up to 25 percent.

Woods defined net operating income as "the income remaining after payment of all operating expenses and an allowance for depreciation."

He gave the following examples of how the new provision is supposed to work:

On a small structure — supposing a landlord has an annual gross income of $1,000, expenses of $600 and a depreciation allowance of $200. This leaves a net operating income of $200 or 20 percent of his gross. Since his net operating income is less than 25 percent he is entitled to an increase to 30 percent. This requires a gross income of $1,143, which will be obtained by letting him raise rents $143 a year or about $12 a month for the whole property.

On a large structure — the landlord has an annual gross income of $10,000, expenses of $6,000 and a depreciation allowance of $200. This leaves a net operating income of $3,800 or 38 percent of his gross. Since his net operating income is less than 25 percent he is entitled to an increase to 30 percent. This requires a gross income of $11,430, which will be obtained by letting him raise rents $1,430 a year or about $119 a month for the whole property.

On a large structure — the largest in any raid in recent years in the city or county. Edward Brandt, a World War I veteran, obtained the search warrant which brought about the raid.

come of $10,000, with expenses of $7,000 and a depreciation allowance of $1,500. This leaves a net operating income of $1,500, or 15 percent, or his gross. Since it is less than 20 percent he is entitled to an increase to 25 percent. This requires an annual gross income of $11,333, to be obtained by raising his rents $1,333 annually or $94.50 a month.

Congress left it up to Woods to decide what constituted a fair net operating income, but it told him to take into account increased taxes, unavoidable increases in operating and maintenance costs, major capital improvements as distinguished from ordinary maintenance and repairs, increases or decreases in living space or services and "substantial" deterioration of housing accommodations.

Woods said he considered several formulae before deciding on the principle that "Whenever the net operating income from a rental property is less than a certain percentage of the gross income, the landlord is not receiving a fair net operating income and is entitled to an increase in his rents."

Then, he said, the problem was to decide on what the percentage should be. To do this, he used surveys prepared by the now defunct OPA through 1939 to 1946 which included years before and during rent controls.

For each property analyzed in the surveys, he took the gross rental income and subtracted from it the amount of operating expenses and depreciation, thus obtaining the net operating income and the percentage of the gross income.

In the case of small structures, he said, it was found that the "median" net operating income was 30 percent — of half the structures yielded a net operating income of more than 30 percent and the other half less than 30. In his regulation he made allowance for a five percent variance on either side of the "median."

The same procedure was followed for larger buildings where it was found that the median net operating income was 25 percent.

Woods said landlords will be limited to only one adjustment of their net operating income a year, except in unusual cases where there is a general increase in a particular type of expense in a given area.

I'D RATHER BE RIGHT Mr. Acheson's Prospects...

By SAMUEL GRAFTON (New York Post Syndicate)

Mr. Acheson's lot is not an easy one. I feel we owe him a certain amount of sympathetic understanding as he looks ahead to renewed negotiations with Russia. The courage to negotiate is a special kind of courage, in the current political setting, and it involves stiff like this:

1. BIPARTISAN harmony of foreign policy tends to be weakest during a period of negotiation, strongest during a period of non-negotiation. It is much easier to get up general agreement on a tough line than on a line of conciliation and compromise.

It will be odd, indeed, if Mr. Acheson isn't accused, during any sort of negotiation that seems to be going well, of giving the country away. It would not be unprecedented for any concession whatever to be taken as a sign of pro-Russianism in the administration.

A tough line can be worked out jointly by both parties; a line of compromise and practical settlement has to be justified to the Republicans by the Democrats, and that's not quite as easy as ordering up some more arms. To expect critics of the administration not to kibitz a negotiation is to expect a great deal indeed.

2. ANOTHER very serious difficulty is wrapped up in the idea of "open diplomacy" which will certainly be urged upon Mr. Acheson. The theory that the public should know of every diplomatic offer, the moment it is made, is a fine, idealistic one, but it does make bargaining hard. Such publicity tends to make it difficult to withdraw from any position once taken, without seeming to have surrendered.

The press, too often, tends to score the results as if it were scoring a basketball game, so many points for them, so many for us, and that hardly minimizes each side's all too human desire to be credited with winning as many points as possible.

If Acheson wants to negotiate effectively, he will have to negotiate privately, and yet if he negotiated privately he is almost sure to negotiate in an atmosphere of considerable alarm and suspicion.

3. AS IF ALL this were not enough, Mr. Acheson is going to have to try to get concessions from Russia, while trying to put the Atlantic pact through the senate.

The first requires an atmosphere of reassurance, if not cordiality, while the second requires an atmosphere of apprehension. If the negotiation goes too swimmingly, interpretations of that fact may be bad for the pact; if the pact is pushed too raucously, that will not be good for the negotiations. To steer both these craft at once will not be easy.

4. TO SUM it all up, it is much easier to get along, domestically, when you're not negotiating, than when you are. The plain truth is that the road of rearmament, defense pacts, toughness, etc., while complicated and expensive, is not the hard way — politically, it is the easy way. The other road, the road of negotiation, is incomparably harder.

We have been talking a great deal lately about our increasing national political maturity, and I think that here, in the currently renewed interest in negotiation, we have a golden chance to show such maturity off.

It will have to be the maturity of genuine understanding of Mr. Acheson's difficulties, and the world's, instead of merely that maturity of defiance which is, no matter how you look at it, maturity of a lesser order.

SECRETARY Acheson — Needed: a special courage in face of bipartisan foreign policy, open diplomacy and the Atlantic pact.

Traffic Deaths Up 2 Percent

CHICAGO (AP) — Traffic accidents in the first three months of 1949 killed 6,610 persons in the nation, an increase of two percent over deaths in the same period last year, the National Safety Council reported yesterday.

The month of March, however, showed a decline with 2,210 deaths, one percent lower than the toll of March, 1948.

The council said that increased travel apparently was responsible for the upsurge in fatalities for the three-month period. Vehicle mileage was up five percent in January and February over the same months last year.

Figures were not available for March travel, the council said, but it expected mileage to be greater than last year.

"The increase in the traffic toll can be explained," the council said, "but it cannot be excused."

North Atlantic states with an increase of 14 percent in deaths and south Atlantic states with 12 percent accounted for most of the increase in the three-month period, the council said.

Wyman Report Says 'Get Tough' in Greece

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress has a new report on hand that says we will have to "get tough" in Greece to get any results from the million dollars a day we are pouring in. The report says we should cut off further aid to Greece unless the government meets our demands for reforms.

Author of the report is Louis C. Wyman, who has made a survey of American aid to Greece for the joint congressional committee on foreign economic cooperation. One trouble appears to be, he said, that Washington policy-makers are afraid of cleaning up the Greek government for fear Communist propagandists will brand us "imperialists."

Members of Central Party Group Picked

The joint executive councils of the Student Council and Student Union board appointed 11 SUI students to the 1949-50 Central Party and Entertainment committee last night.

Three freshmen, three sophomore and five juniors were appointed from at least 100 applicants.

The freshmen appointed are Wilber Friedman, Helen Hays, and Francine Appleman; sophomores are Diane Carson, Jerry Febowitz, and Carol Shuttleworth; juniors are Dick Colville, Bob Dickinson, E. K. Jones, Jim McKenzie, and Anne Smith.

All-University parties are sponsored by the Central Party and Entertainment committee. In addition the committee sponsors and supervises occasional popular concerts like Spike Jones and Duke Ellington shows. Another function of the committee is to serve in an advisory capacity to the committee on student life.

Members of FEPC Vote to Keep Active

The future status of the Iowa committee for fair employment practice was decided at a meeting in the Iowa Union last night.

Members decided to keep the committee active and try to expand it to a statewide level. Members also recommended that a civil rights committee be set up to handle all areas of discrimination in Iowa City and on the campus.

Chairman Bill Davis, A3, Burlington, appointed Larry Kaplan, A3, Chicago; Bob Mohr, G, Mason City, and Bill Kyle, G, Knoxville, Tenn., to serve on the committee.

The three appointees will work on organizational problems during the summer. They will be the nucleus for the civil rights committee to be formed on campus next year.

An open meeting will be held by the committee next Monday.

New Garbage Collector Makes First Rounds

ENCLOSED GARBAGE TRUCKS began making the rounds in Iowa City yesterday as Don Ayers began his year as city garbage collector. Roger Ayers, no relation to Don, is shown with one of the two trucks which canvassed about half of Iowa City their first day. A third truck may be added later if necessary, Don Ayers said yesterday. Ayers, who was awarded a $17,000 contract by the city council last month, said that he plans to make the rounds of the city at least every two or three days.

Six representatives of the Iowa City Congregational church, including two university department heads, will attend the annual meeting of the Congregational Christian conference of Iowa in Ames today, tomorrow and Thursday.

Nurses Agree Mental Hospital Old but Clean

"It's not as bad as I thought it would be," eleven SUI student nurses agreed after touring the understaffed, antiquated but clean Iowa State Mental hospital at Mt. Pleasant Saturday.

The nurses expressed amazement that so much was done with so little. They said they expected "worse" in view of the journalistic "exposés" on the hospital that have appeared in various Iowa newspapers.

For two hours the nurses toured the three-story structure which has had numerous additions to the original building constructed in 1861.

Patients Work

About half of the hospital's 1,500 patients work, Mrs. Martha Rodgers, social worker, said. The patients were dusting, scrubbing, polishing, sweeping, and working in the kitchen, laundry, bakery, carpenter's shop, shoe shop, sewing and mattress departments and repair shop.

Other patients were helping overburdened attendants in the wards and generally aiding the maintenance of the hospital that might otherwise be financially impossible to run without their assistance.

The state hospital does not have enough money to attract physicians, offer modern equipment for the patients or maintain the standards of an ideal mental institution, Dr. W.B. Brown, acting superintendent of the hospital, said.

Mrs. Rodgers explained that the supervised patients primarily maintain the upkeep of this city within a city. These working patients are placed on jobs by ward physicians and would rather work than be idle, she said.

In the hospital wards, crowded with patients unqualified for this "industrial therapy," the nurses saw plaster crumbling on drab walls that still had some vestiges of cleanliness.

Old but Clean

The floors were clean but worn and decrepit. The beds were old but neatly made. The corridors were dimly lit and crowded with patients.

The patients either stood with apathetic expressions or squatted with their heads hung between their knees, mumbling incoherently to themselves, the nurses said. Some sat dejectedly in old rocking chairs in the damp, permeating odor that filled the wards.

One patient lay in the infirmary suffering from burns. Another sat gnashing her teeth surprisingly loud. One woman who had bit an inmate's ear recently — stared continually out a window. Still another patient sat crying in an empty barracks room.

Patients wear unattractive clothes the nurses declared. Their hair is cut in short, straight bobs. A hair dressing shop has recently been instituted but like every other department, it is understaffed.

For approximately 1,500 patients there are five physicians, one dentist, six registered nurses and 90 attendants. The hospital's operation cost is about $1.60 a day per patient. Salaries are low, Dr. Brown said, and doctors are "not attracted."

Miss Florence MacAnnich, instructor in psychiatric nursing at SUI, explained that the tour was taken by the nurses as part of their eight-week psychiatric training.

Psychiatric Care

She said the university's hospital gives the nurses an optimistic idea of psychiatric care and treatment because it approaches the standards of an ideal mental institution.

There are approximately 50 patients at Psychiatric hospital with an operating cost of $15 a day per patient.

ternes, psychologists, occupational therapists and others. Also included in operational costs is money spent for research and consultation services to the general hospital and the university.
