Strike Planned For Tomorrow At Ford Plant

DETROIT (AP) — An authorized strike of 60,000 Ford Motor company workers was ordered yesterday.

The walkout was scheduled to begin at noon tomorrow.

Local 600 of the CIO united auto workers changed plans to call the strike today after the international executive board set the Thursday date.

A shutdown at Ford's big Rouge plant would soon tie up most of the company's farflung operations.

Both the local and UAW President Walter P. Reuther charged that Ford had speeded up assembly lines again yesterday. Production rates have been the center of a dispute for several weeks.

There was no comment from Ford.

Confusion

Things happened in quick and confused succession at Ford yesterday.

A local committee checked the lines and reported the speed-up.

The local executive board, in emergency session, ordered the strike at 10 a.m. today — whether or not the international approved.

Shortly afterward, the international executive board set the Thursday deadline and announced that any walkout before then would be unauthorized.

In a second emergency session, local 600 agreed to conform to the international's deadline.

The announcements broke out of a clear sky when it appeared settlement was near. After an investigation Monday, UAW Secretary-Treasurer Emil Mazey reported Ford had slowed down the lines to a speed acceptable to the union.

Walkout at Lincoln

The Rouge strike would coincide with a scheduled walkout of 3,500 workers at Ford's Lincoln-Mercury plant Thursday. An alleged speed-up also is at issue there.

Reuther's statement said: "Unless an agreement is reached on the speed-up issue in the 'B' building by noon Thursday, a strike of the entire plant will be called at that time."

"The union is prepared to exert every effort between now and Thursday noon to reach a settlement through negotiations."

For Reuther, an agreement was particularly urgent. A strike at Ford, first target in the UAW's spring contract drive, could upset strategy in the campaign for industry-wide pensions and health benefits.

Only yesterday the UAW asked Ford for an opening of negotiations May 16, 60 days before the Ford contract expires.

80,000 Now Idle . . .

CHICAGO — More than 80,000 workers were off the job in labor disputes across the nation yesterday.

Briefly, this was the picture: Bendix Aviation company — 7,500 UAW members off the job at South Bend, Ind. The union charged a company speedup.

Hudson Motor Car company — forced to lay off 25,000 workers because it could get no auto brakes from Bendix. A Nash plant in Wisconsin and a Packard plant in Detroit were closed for the same reason.

Singer Sewing Machine company — 9,000 workers, 7,000 of them United Electrical Workers, idle in a demand for higher wages and a 36-hour week. Singer has plants in Elizabeth, N.J., and South Bend, Ind.

Philco corporation — 6,500 UAW members idle — "locked out," the union said. It accused Philco of refusing to extend a contract that expires at midnight Saturday.

In New York City, some 16,000 workers were idle in teamster, brewery and foundry disputes. Other disputes involved 13,000 workers in the mining, construction and shipbuilding industries.

Iowa City Police Find Missing Girl

A 17-year-old Toddville, Iowa, girl was found in downtown Iowa City by police about 6:30 p.m. yesterday and was released to her parents about three hours later, according to police.

The girl reportedly had been missing for several days from her home about 10 miles north of Cedar Rapids. She was held at the Johnson county jail until returned to her parents, police said.

Philco Workers Keep Company Man Out

WHILE FORD WORKERS were scheduled to strike at noon tomorrow, these Philco corporation workers were in their second day of a walkout over a contract dispute. Here pickets bar a company attorney, LeRoy J. Williams (right, light hat), from entering the plant. Altogether, some 80,000 workers were off the job in labor disputes across the nation yesterday.

Admit Fall of Hangchow

SHANGHAI (WEDNESDAY) (AP) — The Shanghai garrison command today admitted the loss of Hangchow, Nationalist escape port 100 miles southwest of Shanghai.

Communist control of Hangchow seals off Shanghai by land from the rest of China and closes the trap on Nationalist forces remaining in the Nanking - Shanghai - Hangchow triangle. Their only exit now is by sea.

City Evacuated

The garrison command communique, issued about 10 a.m., said the Chekiang provincial peace preservation corps evacuated Hangchow at noon yesterday after completing a delaying action. This force was all that was left for the defense of Hangchow.

After the peace preservation corps moved out, the communique said, contact with the seacoast resort city was lost.

The garrison confirmed earlier Chinese press dispatches which said Hangchow had gone to the Communists peacefully. There was no fighting in defense of the city, the garrison said.

There was no indication, however, that the Communists were closing in any tighter on Shanghai itself. Trains still were running to Luchiapang, 26 miles westward on the Shanghai-Nanking railway, and to Kashing, 50 miles southwest on the Shanghai-Hangchow line.

The Shanghai newspaper Shun Pao said Hangchow was occupied by 4,000 Communist soldiers yesterday afternoon.

Communists Silent

The Communist radio made no mention of Hangchow last night but said more than 80,000 government troops had been taken prisoner at the "conclusion of a great annihilation campaign in the Nanking-Shanghai-Hangchow triangle on April 29."

The Communist broadcast from Peiping claimed 12 more towns had been captured south of the Yangtze, mostly with the aid of local guerrilla forces. The broadcast said "this takes the peoples (Communist) army as far south as East Kiangsi."

If Hangchow has gone the way of so many others, the next few days should tell what the Communists intend to do about Shanghai.

If they turn their forces toward this largest city of Asia, probably it will go, too, in a few days. But if they face south, it will likely mean Shanghai is to be bypassed temporarily.

The Communist radio also broadcast a claim that Communist troops had captured Kwangteh, which is about half way from Wuhu on the Yangtze to Hangchow.

Wuhu was one of the major Communist crossing points. It is 75 miles southwest of Nanking. Kwangteh is 114 road miles inland from Wuhu.

A high-level Russian protest was expected, especially as two of the victims were colonels.

Pvt. Edward Touhey, six-foot-four, 200 pounds, Long Island, N.Y., was released yesterday morning from the 110th station army hospital where he had been under psychiatric examination.

At about 3 p.m. Touhey walked into the Russian-operated Grand hotel in the international zone of the city. Military police said he created a disturbance. Several Russians tried to calm him but Touhey, the MP's said, only grew angrier. He stormed out of the Grand and across the street to the Imperial hotel, also occupied by Russian officers.

The MP's said Touhey tried to take pictures of Russian officers lounging in the lobby. Several of the Russians objected.

Touhey picked up a chair and chased the officers around the lobby, it was said. He beat seven, including the two colonels. All were knocked down, the MP's said, and two were beaten unconscious.

The international police patrol, on which all four occupying powers are represented, was called in. But it took 12 MP's and the doctor to deal with Touhey, who was sent back to the hospital.

VIENNA, AUSTRIA (AP) — A 19-year-old American GI beat up seven Russian officers in the lobby of their hotel yesterday before he was dragged away by 12 American military policemen and an army doctor.

Coalition's Labor Bill Clears House

May Call 65 Witnesses in Rutledge Case

CEDAR RAPIDS (AP) — The state may call 65 witnesses in its attempt to convict Dr. Robert C. Rutledge Jr. of murdering an aircraft technician who was friendly with the doctor's attractive wife.

The list includes the parents of Byron C. Hattman, 29-year-old victim. Both men are from St. Louis.

The state contends the 27-year-old specialist in children's diseases followed Hattman here and left him dead with a knife wound in the heart after they fought a bloody duel in a hotel room Dec. 14.

The handsome young defendant has said they fought after he tried to persuade Hattman to quit pursuing his 23-year-old wife.

The lengthy list of state witnesses was read by Defense Attorney R.S. Milner as the process of jury selection moved through its second day. The prospective jurors were asked if they knew any of the persons the state plans to use in its case.

This list included Mr. and Mrs. John Hattman of Corapolis, Pa., who are sitting with the prosecutors at the counsel table. The Hattmans have said their son told them he had two dates with Mrs. Rutledge last summer without realizing she was married. They said Dr. Rutledge made threats against their boy.

It appeared likely much of the defense would hinge on the fatal fight in hotel Room 729. Leo Laughren of St. Louis, who yesterday made his first court appearance here as the third member of Dr. Rutledge's legal staff, has indicated the defense will contend Hattman stabbed himself.

The state's view of the fight was indicated, however, when Assistant Prosecutor David Elderkin yesterday asked prospective jurors: "Do you feel a man has the right to take the law into his own hands."

As court adjourned yesterday 23 prospective jurors had been questioned. It was possible the jury of 12 might be chosen by tonight. Three were challenged for cause yesterday.

JUST BEFORE DEFEAT of their compromise labor bill, these two Democrats shook hands yesterday. At left is House Speaker Sam Rayburn (Tex.) who urged the house to adopt the compromise bill. With Rayburn is Rep. Hugo Sims Jr. (S.C.), who introduced the compromise. The house approved the Wood labor bill instead.

General Clay to Get Long-Sought Release

WASHINGTON, (AP) — President Truman announced yesterday he is agreeing to the release of Gen. Lucius D. Clay as United States military commander in Germany.

The President also disclosed that Lt. Gen. Clarence R. Huebner and Maj. Gen. George P. Hays, Clay's military government deputies, "will carry on his work pending the appointment of a civilian high commissioner."

In a statement, Mr. Truman said the work "of moral and economic reconstruction" in the western zone now has reached a point where the Germans "are about to obtain a greatly enlarged measure of political and economic responsibility."

Asserting that "General Clay has now completed a prodigious task of administration," the President said the four-star general is being relieved on May 15, in deference to "his repeated requests to be released from his task."

He said that recurring emergencies had made it impossible to spare Clay before.

"His name will always be associated with one of the toughest tasks and accomplishments of American history," Mr. Truman said.

"He deserves and will receive the thanks of the American people."

ROME (AP) — Vatican sources said yesterday plans for Pope Pius XII to receive Prince's Margaret Rose "are now quite definite," though the date has not yet been set.

DES MOINES (AP) — Four hundred and fifty members and guests of the Iowa State Dental society attended a dinner here last night honoring Dr. Roscoe H. Volland of Iowa City. Volland is past president and past treasurer of the American Dental society and a past president of the Iowa society.

He formerly taught at SUU and Northwestern university.

Dr. C.S. Foster of Cedar Rapids, Iowa society trustee to the American society, praised Dr. Volland's work in his long professional career.

Dr. Harry G. Boks, Sioux City, presented Dr. Volland with a gift and Mrs. Volland with flowers.

Carl Hoffman, Algona, was named vice-president of the society, the only new officer under the society's rotation system.

Other officers are Dr. Ivan Lemley, Ottumwa, president; Dr. Max Kadecky, Dubuque, president-elect; Dr. R.D. Feldman, Ames, treasurer; and Dr. Harry Wilson, Des Moines, secretary.

Dr. Boks is retiring president.

Wood Act Is A Defeat for Mr. Truman

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Wood bill retaining most of the Taft-Hartley act was approved by the house tonight on a 217 to 203 rollcall vote which dealt the Truman administration a smashing defeat.

Some further parliamentary maneuvering was in store before

How Iowans Voted

Seven of Iowa's eight Republican representatives voted in favor of the Wood labor bill last night.

Gross was the only Iowa representative listed as voting against the measure.

the bill could clear the house and go to the senate.

But a coalition of southern Democrats and northern Republicans bent on retaining the Taft-Hartley law largely intact was jubilant.

Conversely, the administration forces, which sought repeal of the T-H law and revival of the old Wagner act in modified form, were plunged into gloom.

On the rollcall test 146 Republicans joined 71 Democrats in voting for the Wood bill. Voting against it was 180 Democrats, 22 Republicans and one American-Labor.

Before the roll call vote, the house had tentatively approved the Wood bill on a non-record tally of 210 to 196.

The measure had been offered by Rep. Wood (D-Ga.).

Previously the Dixie-Republican coalition had chalked up an important preliminary victory when the house knocked down, 211 to 183, a compromise put forward by the Democratic leadership.

Final passage of the Wood bill was delayed by Rep. Marcantonio (AL-NY).

Just as the final vote was reached, he demanded that an engrossed copy on the bill be read. This request can be made if any amendments have been adopted.

So, in view of Marcantonio's demand, the house turned to other matters, putting off final action on the labor legislation until tomorrow.

The Wood bill would "repeal" the Taft-Hartley law on paper, but re-enact most of its important features. It would retain the 80-day injunctions in "national emergency" strikes. It would keep the present non-Communist oaths, but apply them to company officers as well as union officers.

It would ban closed shop contracts, but permit them in any state which took affirmative action to permit them by state law. This states' rights feature was added at the last minute in an amendment by Rep. Hays (D-Ark.).

Plan Rent Survey Of Local Property

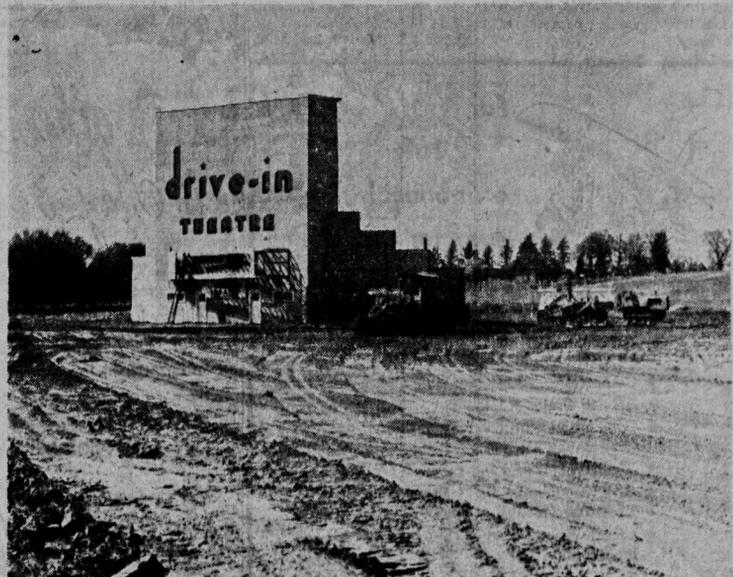

A survey of local rental property will be conducted by the Property Owners and Taxpayers Association of Iowa City and Johnson county within the next several weeks.

Sam Whiting Jr., 825 Rundell street, temporary chairman of the group, said this action was decided by members at Monday night's meeting.

One of the chief objectives of the survey is to find out the number of vacant properties. The survey will also try to determine how many people will build homes or other rental property and how much property will be opened for rent in the event rent controls are lifted, Whiting said.

Whiting hopes to have the survey completed by the first of June.

Hit 7 Homers In 14-12 Win

CHICAGO (AP) — Clyde Vollmer, rookie outfielder, led the Washington Senators yesterday on a home run binge that defeated the Chicago White Sox, 14-12, before 4,507 fans.

Vollmer collected two of the Senator's seven round trippers. The game went ten innings, the Sox tying the score at 12-12 in the ninth on Steve Souchock's pinch double.

Chicago, also helped by a wind blowing away from home plate, poked out two homers.

Washington took a 9-1 lead in the third on a double by Al Evans.

After the White Sox scored four runs in the third on five hits and one of Ray Scarborough's five walks, Vollmer hit his second homer of the day and fourth of the season. With the Senators leading, 10-5, the Sox started to whittle away.

Catcher Joe Tipton, back in White Sox Manager Jack Onslow's good graces after a clubhouse run-in at St. Louis Sunday, hit his first homer of the season behind a pass to Cass Michaels in the sixth. Chicago scored four runs in the eighth to grab a 11-10 lead.

Evans led off the first extra round for Washington with his first 1949 homer. Then left fielder Gil Coan's drive landed in the lower right field pavilion to give the Senators their two-run advantage.

Two Outs at Once But the Slugfest Went On

FIRST OUT IN A TWIN KILLING—Bill Robinson (25), Washington first baseman, hit the dirt in the seventh inning yesterday but couldn't avoid becoming the first out in a double play started by Mark Christman's infield roller. Chicago White Sox shortstop Luke Appling, after taking the toss from Second Baseman Cass Michaels (background), leaped into the air to avoid Robinson's spikes. He got the throw off to first in time to nip Christman. Umpire is Bill Grieve. Washington won a 10-inning slugfest, 14-12.

Branca Blanks Cincinnati, 3-0

BROOKLYN—Right hander Ralph Branca hurled his Brooklyn Dodger team mates to a 3-0 triumph over the Cincinnati Reds here yesterday for his fourth consecutive triumph in as many starts this season.

Branca, who limited the Reds to six scattered bingles in registering the win, bore down in the pinches to strand 12 Cincinnati runners on the base paths.

The Dodgers gave Branca a two run working margin in the first frame when Pee Wee Reese walked and Duke Snider, Roy Campanella and Billy Cox slapped successive singles. Jackie Robinson hit for the circuit in the seventh inning to provide the Brooks with their final tally.

Joe Page Captures Relief Triumph As Yankees Win Again

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Joe Page, looking more like the Page of 1947, pitched three perfect innings yesterday and gained credit for the victory as the New York Yankees downed the St. Louis Browns, 5-3.

Page took over from starter Ed Lopat in the seventh inning with the score tied at 3-3 and gained the nod when the Yanks pounced on Joe Ostrowski for two runs in the eighth.

Gene Woodling singled to start the winning rally and raced home on Tommy Henrich's double to right. Henrich zipped home an out later on Bobby Brown's single to right.

Durocher Returns to Giants

(AP Wirephoto)

FREE TO GO BACK to his New York Giants, Leo Durocher gave a big smile after being reinstated in baseball by Commissioner A.B. Chandler yesterday. Chandler announced lifting of the suspension after a two-hour hearing with Durocher and Giants' executives. Durocher was suspended last week after a Giant-Dodger game when a fan claimed he was kicked by Leo.

CINCINNATI (AP) — Commissioner A.B. (Happy) Chandler gave Leo Durocher a clean bill of health yesterday and demanded that every baseball club in the country take immediate measures to protect its players from the abuse of fans.

In less than two hours, Chandler found there was not sufficient evidence to indicate the New York Giants' manager had "deliberately assaulted" Fred Boyesen, a fan of Puerto Rican descent, after a game at the Polo grounds last Thursday.

"Under the circumstances, the suspension against Durocher is lifted immediately and Durocher will rejoin his team on Wednesday, May 4th," Chandler announced as movie and still cameras preserved the happy scene for baseball posterity.

The commissioner took a bell both at club owners who have not properly policed their parks and at fans who have abused the athletes.

"There is ample evidence," he said, "that the Polo grounds was not properly policed on the afternoon of April 28th, or Fred Boyesen would not have been permitted to move about in the box seat section, for which he had no ticket, and to hurl insulting language, which he directed at Durocher principally, and would not have been on the field at the conclusion of the game."

Durocher, having paid what he earnestly hopes is the last of numerous trips to Chandler's office here, just sat and relaxed and drank milk after the ordeal had ended.

In New York, Benjamin H. Chasin, attorney for Boyesen, upon being informed that Durocher had been cleared, said: "That's good."

He declared, however, that he will proceed with the prosecution of Durocher on a simple assault charge.

Dubiel Hurls Cubs to 4-0 Win Over League Leading Braves

BOSTON (AP)—Right Hander Walt Dubiel, who joined the Cubs in a winter trade, last night pitched a five hit shutout in leading the Chicagoans to a 4-0 victory over the National League Leading Boston Braves.

It was the second time this season the defending champions have been blanked. Southpaw Ken Heintzelman pitched the Philadelphia Phillies to a 4-0 triumph over the Braves here opening day.

The Cubs scored single runs in the second, third, fifth and ninth innings. Phil Cavarretta, Cub captain and first baseman, poked his second home run of the season in the third, a high clout into the visitors' bull pen.

Knights Compile 90 Points to Win Meet

St. Ambrose Knights scored 90 points yesterday afternoon to win a triangular track and field meet at the City high athletic field. City high placed second with 84½ points and Tipton third with 48½.

The final outcome of the meet was not determined until the last event, the broad jump, was finished. The Knights and Tipton combined their strength in this event to shut out the Little Hawks and raise St. Ambrose to the title spot.

With the exception of the broad jump, City high dominated the field events with Rox Shain as the leading Hawket in this department.

Ex-Net King to Conduct Clinic

Charles E. Hare, a member of the British Davis Cup teams of 1937, 1938 and 1939, will conduct a tennis clinic sponsored by the SUI athletic department at the Library annex tennis courts at 4 p.m. today.

The former Davis Cup team captain, one of England's outstanding players, was recently discharged from the U.S. army air force. He served 25 months in the ETO as an athletic technician.

Hare's claim to fame dates back to 1937 when he scored a dazzling 17-15 win over Don Budge at the Davis Cup interzone final between the United States and Great Britain. He lives in Chicago now and is married to Mary Hardwick, one-time Wightman Cup player.

SUI Tennis Coach Donald Klotz has announced that everyone is invited to attend the clinic, though he is particularly interested in having a group of younger players come out. All those attending have been asked by the coach to bring playing equipment with them.

Married Yesterday

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Parrott

Bernice Sullivan Marries Herman Parrott

St. Mary's church was the scene of the marriage of Bernice Sullivan to Herman Parrott yesterday at 9 a.m.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Sullivan, 423 S. Church street. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Parrott Sr., 1029 St. Clements street, are the parents of the bridegroom.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rt. Rev. Msgr. C. H. Meinberg.

Mrs. Bill Zenishek, Solon, sister of the bride, was the matron of honor. The best man was Patrick McCarney, 1315 Muscatine avenue. Ushers were Francis Sullivan, 323 S. Clinton, brother of the bride, and Joseph Parrott, 1029 St. Clements street, brother of the bridegroom.

A reception was held following the ceremony in the Rose room of Hotel Jefferson. The couple then left on a wedding trip to Colorado.

Mrs. Parrott was graduated from St. Patrick's high school, Iowa City. She is employed at the Northwestern Bell telephone company, here.

The bridegroom was graduated from Iowa City high school. He is now a member of the Iowa City police force.

When the couple return, they will make their home at 12 1/2 S. Dubuque street.

TWENTY "PENGUINS AT THE WALDORF" perform for the Seals swimming show in the fieldhouse Friday and Saturday nights beginning at 8 p.m. The show, "Penguin at the Waldorf," has the theme of a floating night club with water shows as its floor show. Ballet and synchronized swimming will be featured by members of the Seals, honorary swimming club of Women's Recreation association. Tickets are now on sale for 50 cents at Aldens, the Iowa Union desk and Iowa Supply.

Anne Ross

Seals to Star Diver Anne Ross in Show

Anne Ross, amateur athletic union high and low board diving champion, will be a featured swimmer in the Seals swimming show at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday in the fieldhouse.

Miss Ross won the national lowboard title 1941, 1944 and national highboard title, 1942, 1944. She was also a member of the All-American swimming team, 1941, 1944.

This champion received her A.B. degree from Barnard college in 1945 and her M.S. degree from Wellesley college in 1947. At present Miss Ross is an instructor at Washington University.

Miss Ross will perform both high and low board dives at the exhibition put on by Seals, honorary swimming club of the Women's Recreation association.

The show, called "Penguin at the Waldorf," will be given as a floor show in a floating night club. Swimming will be done to music. Committees for the show include the following:

Costumes: Rusty Kelly, A3, Jeff. Ala.; Joyce Ashton, A2, Iowa City; and Madlin Melrose, A3, Waterloo.

Props: Peggy Cornwall, A1, Spencer; Ursula Dawson, A1, Iowa City; Barbara Linden, A1, Oak Park, Ill.; and Margaret Lynch, erloo last weekend. The recreational leaders meeting was held at the Waterloo Boy Scout camp. Mrs. Carson is Iowa City Girl Scout director.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bower, Coralville, are the parents of an 8 pound, 6 ounce boy born in Mercy hospital Monday.

DEMONSTRATING THE PERFECT FORM that won her national lowboard and highboard titles, is Anne Ross, now an instructor at Washington University. Miss Ross will be featured performer at the Seals exhibition.

Quad, Currier Top Other SUI Housing Units in Grade Points

Quadrangle dormitory and Currier hall topped all other university housing units in grade point averages last semester, according to figures released by the registrar's office yesterday.

The men's dorm boasted an average of 2.459 while Currier co-eds had a 2.345 average. Delta Delta Delta led sororities with 2.704 and Phi Epsilon Pi was high among fraternities with a 2.518 average.

The engineers hit an average of 2.37 to top the other colleges. The liberal arts college was second with 2.34.

Among smaller housing units, the co-eds in Madison Court cottage 223 led the campus with an average of 3.165. Quadrangle cottages 25 through 30 came in for second honors with a 2.994 average.

Figures also showed that seniors did the best work and the freshmen the lowest. McCarrel said it is only natural that freshmen do the poorest work and seniors hit the top.

Fraternity and sorority members got about equal grades compared to non-members. Athletes make lower grades because of increased demands on their study time, the registrar said.

McCarrel feels the enrollment of many veterans at SUI has not substantially affected the school's standards. He also believes pre-war grading is about the same as it is now.

Annual Matrix Table Of Theta Sigma Phi To Be Held May 18

The annual Matrix Table banquet sponsored by Theta Sigma Phi, national professional fraternity for women in journalism, will be held May 18, President Katherine McNamara, G. Wintereset, said yesterday.

The semi-formal banquet will be in the Iowa Union river room at 6:15 p.m., she said.

Jean Strong, A4, Cedar Rapids, is banquet chairman. Committee chairmen announced yesterday by Miss McNamara are Carol Thurnau, A3, Elgin, Ill., invitations; Pat McDermott, A4, Des Moines, program; Miss McNamara, awards; Elfreda Kolsch, A4, Sioux Falls, S.D., finance; Jo Wright, A3, Hampton, decorations, and Jean Ellis, A4, Marengo, hostess chairman.

SUI Pianist to Perform Bach Fugues at Recital

John Simms, piano instructor in the SUI music department, will be featured in today's faculty recital in studio E, radio building at 8 p.m.

KSUI and WSUI will broadcast the program. The program includes Bach's "Prelude and Fugue in A-Minor" and "Prelude and Fugue in A-Major" both from the "Well-Tempered Clavichord, Vol. One."

City Park Bridge Gets New Planks

Iowa City's street department crews shut off bus and auto traffic across city park bridge for nine hours yesterday while they re-planked the bridge.

Traffic was re-routed from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. while the bridge was re-planked for the first time in "six or seven years," Street Commissioner Willard Irvin said. About 35 planks and a keg of spikes were used for the job, he added.

Other street crews were busy patching holes on South Linn and South Madison streets. Irvin announced the crews would probably work on College street between Madison and Capitol streets today.

Hospital Children Visit Waterworks

Five children from the Hospital School for Severely Handicapped Children yesterday toured the Iowa City Water Service company.

The class of intermediate students was accompanied by its instructor, Mrs. Laverne Holle, 81 Riverside drive. The trip is one in a series of visits made to various concerns in Iowa City to acquaint the students with the community, Mrs. Holle said.

The students have made trips to Priebe's hatchery and the university art building. Tours to the Iowa City fire department, Swanner Farm dairy and Sidwell Ice Cream Co. are being planned, Mrs. Holle said.

E. J. Brennehan, 55, Dies at U. Hospitals

E. J. (Tiny) Brennehan, 55, operator of the Brennehan Feed store at 217 E. College street, died yesterday at University hospitals.

Funeral arrangements had not been completed last night. The body is at the Oathout funeral home.

Mr. Brennehan had been in ill health for several years and suffered a heart attack in January of this year.

He was born Nov. 12, 1893, on a farm near Wellman, the son of Jacob P. and Mary Brennehan.

Mr. Brennehan is survived by three brothers, Menno of Wellman, William of Chicago, and Daniel of Upland, Calif., and a sister, Mrs. Anna Horst of Wellman. His parents preceded him in death.

Hew Roberts, associate professor of education, will attend the annual meeting of the American Association for Adult Education Monday and Tuesday in Columbus, Ohio.

Roberts is international affairs committee chairman of the association and will submit a report to the group on a study of adult education groups in Iowa.

The conference will be held in cooperation with the college of education of Ohio State university.

Government Medicine — Doctor Favors Voluntary Plan

Dr. Nathaniel G. Alcock, SUI doctor and president of the Iowa State Medical society, contended that the quality of medical service would be inferior under government control in a talk yesterday at the Iowa Union YMCA rooms.

Speaking before students and members of the YMCA, Dr. Alcock said that an alternative to government health plans are voluntary insurance programs. Such voluntary insurance would be an adequate way of meeting the medical needs of the people, he said.

Dr. Alcock added that the

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

MINNIE MADDERN FISKE, the American star whose mere name was enough to bring tears of adoration to the eyes of the late Mr. Woolcott, did not take the success of younger rivals too gracefully.

Standing in the wings one day with her young niece, Emily Stevens, while Blanche Yurka rehearsed an emotional scene, Mrs. Fiske remarked in a most audible stage whisper, "My dear, I hope you will let this be a lesson to you. Act if you must, but never Yurk!"

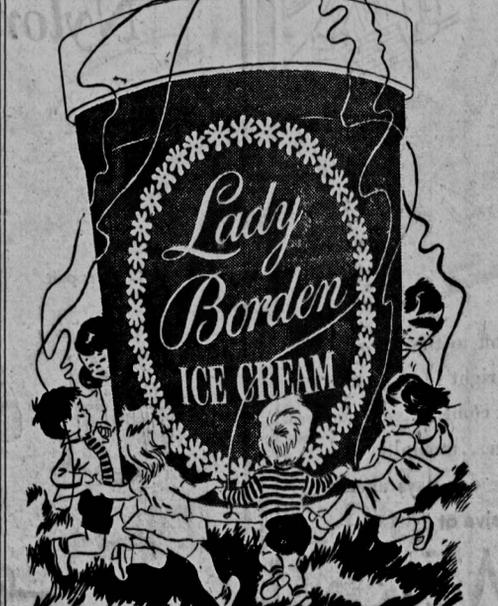

An impetuous playwright once burst into Mrs. Fiske's home and accused her of mislaying the script of a priceless play he had submitted to her. "I never mislay plays," she told him. Then she rang for her butler and said, "James, it's cold in here. Put three more manuscripts on the fire."

An actress noted for her risqué lines opened in a new theatre. "They'll never hear her in that barn," said a critic. "How nice," commented Ethel Barrymore. "Now she can be obscene but not heard." Later Miss Barrymore was told that the actress had acquired a new husband and had made a full confession of her past life to him. "What honesty! What courage!" marveled the critic. "What a memory!" added Miss Barrymore.

Dads Club to Hold 'Stag' to Get Funds

A "stag" party May 12 at the Melody Mill will be the Community Dads club's first move in the final drive to finish collecting $12,500 for the swimming pool fund, William Grandrath, publicity chairman for the Dads, said yesterday.

All proceeds from the stag will be used to complete the fund, Grandrath said.

"We still need $494 to make up the full $12,500 and we hope that the proceeds from the party will go a long way toward completing it," he said.

Tickets for the stag party can be purchased from Grandrath or from Clarence Wilson, Bill Hoffman, Charles Smith, James Callahan and Frank Fryauf, other members of the committee. Tickets will be available at the door on the night of the party also, Grandrath said.

Student Art Salon To Open Saturday During Coffee Hour

The annual Student Art salon will open officially Saturday during an 8 p.m. coffee hour in the Iowa Union main lounge. The show will run through June 7 and is open to the public.

Held jointly at the Union and art building, at least 100 art works will be exhibited. Among them will be oil paintings, sculpture, prints, drawings, water color paintings, and gouaches.

A two-day popularity poll will be held on Saturday and Sunday in which the public will vote for the art works they consider the best. Ribbons will be awarded for the most popular work in each category at a time to be arranged.

Ballots and ballot boxes will be placed in the Union and the art building from 8 to 10 p.m. on Saturday and 1 to 10 p.m. on Sunday. The salon is sponsored by the Student Union board in cooperation with the Student Art guild.

He criticized "socialized medicine" plans because they would interfere with the personal relations of doctor and patient.

During the informal discussion followed his talk, Dr. Alcock, head of the university's department of urology, pointed out that patients would not have freedom in selecting their own physicians under government supervision. It would be like our education system, he said, in which children are sent to specified public schools.

Questions raised by the group in the discussion period included:

1. Are doctors responsible for extending medical treatment to those who need it?

2. Can all states afford equal medical facilities?

3. Is it true that where government enters medicine it results in inferior quality of service?

Dr. Alcock in turn posed one question to the group. He said, "I question whether there is an individual in the state of Iowa who does not receive adequate medical attention."

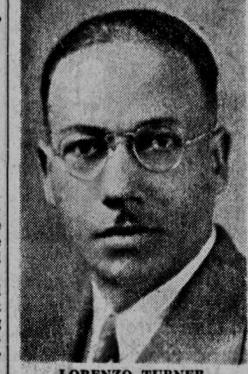

Dr. Alcock's speech was one in a series of talks on the pros and cons of various government health plans recently proposed before congress. The talks are sponsored by the Students Concerned committee of the YMCA.

Visiting Professor To Talk at Three Campus Meetings

Lorenzo D. Turner, professor of English at Roosevelt college, Chicago, will make two speeches on campus tomorrow and one Friday.

Turner is visiting SUI this week under the auspices of the student YMCA lectureship committee. He will speak in cooperation with the Race Relations committee, American Friends Service committee.

At 12:30 p.m. tomorrow in the Y rooms, Turner will talk about Brazil as an example of racial tolerance. This is a buffet luncheon meeting and is open to all interested in minority races.

LORENZO TURNER

The former head of the English department of Howard and Fisk universities will speak at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow night in the senate chamber of Old Capitol. His topic will be "The African Element in the Speech of Negroes of the South."

Turner will illustrate this speech with phonograph recordings.

Friday the Y Commission on Religion in Higher Education will present Turner speaking on the topic "Democracy Comes of Age in an American College." This is the story of Roosevelt college. The speech will be at 4:30 p.m. in the Y rooms.

Believes Next Berlin Move Up to Russia

NEW YORK (AP) — A diplomatic source said yesterday he believed a joint western power declaration on the Berlin blockade had been sent to Russia's Jakob A. Malik. This would mean the next move is Russia's in the top secret talks.

Ambassador Philip C. Jessup, United States, Sir Alexander Cadogan, Britain, and Jean Chauvelin, France, sat in their offices through the day awaiting word on what comes next.

Malik attended a committee meeting at Lake Success yesterday morning and then returned to the Soviet delegation home at Park avenue.

Malik answer "no comment" to all questions about a possible meeting when he left Lake Success.

Jessup, Cadogan and Chauvelin met at Jessup's Park avenue office Monday.

Out of this three-power talk was drawn up the joint declaration of policy which the western diplomatic source said he believed had gone to the Russians yesterday.

Speculation among several official sources was that this declaration contained at least these two points:

1. A call for lifting the blockade of Berlin soon, perhaps next week.

2. A suggested date for the meeting of the foreign ministers of Russia, Britain, France and the United States to deal with the whole German problem. These officials make up the council of foreign ministers. May 25 is the date generally mentioned in informal circles.

It is generally accepted here that the council would meet in Paris. Malik speculated in talking with the newsmen this morning whether the council meeting would be open to the press but recalled that previous meetings had not been open.

Senate Defeats Amendment to School Aid Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The senate yesterday snowed under an attempt to write an anti-segregation amendment...

By a vote of 65 to 16, it rejected a proposal by Senator Lodge (R-Mass) to bar distribution of any of the federal funds to states whose public elementary and secondary schools are not open to pupils "without regard to race, color, creed or national origin."

How Iowans Voted WASHINGTON (AP) — Senators Hickenlooper (R) and Gillette (D) of Iowa voted with the majority when the senate defeated, 65 to 16 yesterday, an anti-segregation amendment offered by Senator Lodge (R-Mass) to the aid to education bill.

Opponents of the amendment said it was an effort to kill the bill; that southern senators would be united against any measure that would make the price of aid the abolishment of the south's separate school system for white and Negro children.

Lodge denied he was trying to kill the bill. He said that "federal aid to education must not mean federal aid to segregation, and that is what will happen if we use the federal dollar as this bill contemplates."

It was the second defeat in two days for Lodge. By a vote of 68 to 11, the senate Monday turned down his proposal to revise the aid formula so as to give the states a flat $10 a year for each school age child.

After turning down the anti-segregation amendment, the senate took up a proposal of Senator Tydings (D-Md) to knock out aid for all states except those in which per pupil expenditures for education are below the average.

The effect of this amendment would be to provide school funds for the 25 states which Tydings said need help, and to eliminate any aid for the other 23 states and the District of Columbia.

The senate quit overnight with the amendment still pending.

Announce Student Internships

The state department has announced a full-time internship program and a united Nations summer student intern program for university students interested in careers in the state department or interested in international affairs.

The state department internship, expected to begin in July, will be limited to outstanding students completing their undergraduate or graduate courses by June.

The program will involve special assignments of professional or administrative work in one of the areas of the department, specialized instruction in the Foreign Service institute, rotational and observational assignments and periodic group discussions.

Professors Leslie G. Moeller, director of the school of journalism, and Fred M. Pownall, director of publications, were appointed members of a committee last week to screen applicants for an overseas "laboratory course" in journalism this summer.

Moeller and Pownall were appointed by the American Council on Education for Journalism which is recommending the nine week tour to all accredited schools in the U.S.

About 50 journalism students will leave for Europe on the tour at the end of June. They will observe current political, economic and social conditions in England, France and Scandinavia as a supplement to their regular journalism studies.

The program is directed by Travel and Study, Inc.

Oregon Professor To Talk at Press Meeting Sept. 9, 10

An authority on high school journalism will be featured speaker and also conduct a series of conferences for high school journalism advisors at the 1949 meeting of the Iowa High School Press association in Iowa City Sept. 9 and 10.

Prof. Laurence R. Campbell of the University of Oregon will address a general assembly of the convention, which is being sponsored by the SUI school of journalism.

Campbell is a native Iowan and has been closely connected with high school press activities. He is an advisory editor for School Activities and Scholastic Editor, and wrote "Careers in Journalism" and "Principal's Guide to High School Journalism."

He has been news editor of the Pacific coast edition of the Wall Street Journal and associate editor of Drug Progress. His latest book, "Newsmen at Work," will be released this summer.

Campbell is a journalism instructor at the University of Oregon at present.

DRIVING CHARGE Charged with drunken driving yesterday morning, John W. Merrill, A3, Salt Lake City, Utah, was released under $500 bond, police said.

Preliminary hearing is set for police court Friday.

Norwegian Teacher — Visitor Says Americans Are Easy to Meet

The people of the United States are easier to get acquainted with than the people of Europe in the opinion of Mrs. Helene Klovstad of Oslo, Norway.

And now it turns out that we must worry according to age groups or we're going to throw the compilations of four Illinois Institute of Technology psychologists out of kilter.

A fellow by the name of Harry Newman let the cat out of the bag at the Midwestern Psychological association meeting in Chicago Saturday.

He presented a composite worry age scale which started at 18 years and ended in the vicinity of 45.

THE 20 YEAR bracket in Newman's chart interests me. At that age, persons are supposed to worry about personal appearance.

It may well be that a 20-year-old worries about appearance, but Mr. Newman should drop around here sometime and watch my style if he wants to see a blown-in-the-bottle personal appearance worrier.

Try getting out of bed some morning about 3 a.m. to have a look at your stomach and elbows. Anyone can fret about haircuts and shoe shines, but the fellow who concentrates on stomach and elbows is really a specialist.

A wrinkled, bumpy elbow at 3 a.m. can be plenty disconcerting, let me tell you, and looking at your stomach in a mirror at that hour is enough to give a man the inverted fantods.

IT'S JUST as I thought. Newman hasn't even mentioned at what age people worry most about incinerator chutes. That's pretty slipshod research, if you ask me.

Thousands of persons spend all of their spare time worrying about incinerator chutes, and science ignores them completely.

Now I'm not an expert incinerator chute worrier, but I can hold my own with the masses. My chief point of worry in this area is based on the thought, "What if something should happen to our incinerator chute?"

Suppose it should disappear one night while I sleep? What then? Who would carry the garbage down those three flights? How do you go about reporting the disappearance of an incinerator chute?

Come, come, Mr. Newman, you can be more precise than that.

ANOTHER FLAW appears in the Chicago psychologist's theory. He says that persons worry about giving up ambitions at the age of 45. I'd say off-hand that a person who waits until he's 45 to worry about giving up ambitions is a little behind in his worrying.

I gave up my first ambition at the tender age of five, and that isn't boasting, it's a fact. My first ambition was to crawl into a telephone and peek out the other end, scaring the jabbers out of the operator.

The fallacy in this ambition became apparent to me when I saw that dial systems were becoming the rage.

ONE OF my later ambitions which I gave up (bear in mind that I am only a tender, balding 27 now) was to become an Indian.

Of course, anyone with a feathered bonnet can pretend to be an Indian, but pretending wasn't good enough for me. I had my ambition to think of.

When I think of it now, I can see how impossible it was, but when the War came along and upset all my Indian plans it was quite a blow, and I worried about it until I had a talk with a genuine Indian.

He explained to me how being an Indian these days is a pretty routine sort of life, and that most Indians barely manage to keep their own scalps, let alone collect a few to decorate the tepee.

AND THAT leads us to the question of what does a 32-year-old Indian worry about? Harry Newman hasn't even mentioned that.

I'm sorry, Harry, but the worry age scale just won't do at all, but don't worry about it.

Interpreting the News —

Congress Tarnishing Atlantic Pact's Glory

By J.M. ROBERTS JR. AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

Discussion of the Atlantic pact in the senate foreign affairs committee represents a typical American approach to great international problems.

Diplomats and senators alike feel the obligation to let the public know that its affairs are being handled with searching care and deliberation. Sometimes, this seems to deteriorate into an effort to convince ourselves that we aren't doing what we are doing.

When it was decided that Britain needed a big recovery loan, everything was agreed upon among the top leaders. Then it went to congress, where Britain was so berated that much of the good will of the action was lost.

Congress approved the Marshall plan and then scared Europe to death with a last minute fight over the actual appropriation.

Now the United States has taken the lead in forming a historical alliance. Norway, for instance, joined under considerable pressure and in defiance of threats from neighboring Russia. But, instead of standing as a firm and shining example of western unity, it seems likely that the pact will be delivered all tarnished with legalistic quibblings.

It would be unnatural if Europe does not wonder, if interpretation of the pact varies so much now, what loopholes will be sought in case of an emergency. The alliance is designed as a firm warning that no nation can again gamble on conquering Europe without having to fight the United States. That is its military objective, and its hope for peace lies in the fact that no nation is going to deliberately attack the United States in all its power. The pact also has its economic objective. It is to assure western Europe that its industrial and business life can be rebuilt without fear of loss by war.

A political objective is to convince western Europeans that the United States is not trying to use them as buffers, as they have widely feared; that the U.S. no longer tries to ignore the fact that trouble in Europe is trouble in Kansas.

The U.S. army, navy and air force are deployed in Britain, Germany, Austria, Trieste and the middle east. A war of any size, could hardly start without involving them immediately, pact or no pact.

For the diplomats to say, then, that the pact does not mean automatic war in case of aggression is merely to disguise the taste of the medicine.

It is true, as the state department points out, that there is room for measures short of war in some possible cases; that there is no obligation to go to war until we have consulted and decided that war is necessary. Then, in this legalistic approach, we will be obligated to fight.

Did anyone ever decide how many angels could dance on the point of a needle?

The Atlantic pact represents heroic action for a nation which has sought traditionally to keep clear of the entanglements of others. It represents one of the most momentous policy shifts in American history.

One of the keenest American observers of the international scene asked me yesterday: "Why is it, when we are going to do something heroic, we don't recognize the value of doing it heroically?"

I'D RATHER BE RIGHT A Link with The Past...

By SAMUEL GRAFTON (New York Post Syndicate)

I have been reading John P. Marquand's "Point of No Return"; very good, and what hit me hardest in it is the long section describing the spring and summer of 1929. Mr. Marquand touches off that fantastic year very well, getting its woody, dreamy quality down on paper — the absolute confidence so many had that nothing could go wrong, and the simple, childlike wonder with which the stock market crash was greeted in the fall.

THE ODD THING is that while I was reading the novel, I had, at times, the feeling that it was about the present. I think I know why, too.

That strange, pervasive optimism, that refuses to look at very many facts, that is relatively unperturbed by deep social problems, that builds its world on a hope, though it can't quite explain the hope — haven't we had something like that lately?

WASN'T THE election campaign of last year, with the feeling that Dewey was sure to win, that liberalism was no longer an important force, that the people didn't care any more about sweeping social reforms, something like the bull market of 1929?

Election day certainly came as a kind of Black Tuesday for a number of people, and the sense of wonder with which the voting returns were greeted was remarkably like the sense of wonder with which the great Wall Street crash was received in '29.

I SENSE here a kind of wavemotion, a pattern of conservative over-confidence that seems to repeat itself. As I am very fond of saying, I don't think we yet understand the full meaning of Truman's "miraculous" election victory, and I don't think we can understand our country until we do.

But one catches at least at the edge of the truth when one senses that the election was basically a story of conservative over-confidence, not justified by the facts, a story of wishful thinking, a sort of fantasy.

It is this which links the election with the crash of twenty years ago, and makes it part of a picture, and keeps it from being an isolated thing that just sort of happened, all by itself.

AND IS THE story finished? Or is the same curious kind of over-confidence showing up again — as in congress, in which one sees attempts to put one social reform after another off until some future time?

The extension of social security, it is said, may have to wait until next year; compulsory health insurance is not conceded a chance; federal sharing of relief costs with the states is disregarded. Again, in this congress dominated by the Republican-southern Democratic coalition, there is that same bland emergence of conservative confidence, the feeling that there is not much reality in the social problems being pressed for consideration, the feeling that nothing much has to be done now, just as nothing much had to be done in the summer of 1929, and not very much, it was thought, to win the election last year.

AND THIS KIND of confidence is a very pervasive thing; it becomes in the end, as we have seen, the only reality for those who share in it, so that reality itself, when it finally turns up, is received with wonder and not easily recognized. But reality will turn up, and the people will have the reforms they need.

Could It Be? Women Are Safer Drivers?

CHICAGO (U) — There is some evidence that women may be better drivers than men, it was reported last night.

The American Public Works association reported on a survey of 1,300 two-car accidents on rural Ohio roads — accidents in which one driver was a man and the other a woman.

The plain facts are these: 61 percent of male drivers were in violation of the law, as compared with 57 percent of the women. In some of the cases surveyed, both drivers were breaking the law.

The association said the Ohio highway department found that the most frequent violation for men was speeding, while women were guilty of making more improper turns or failing to signal for turns.

Contrary to popular belief, women did NOT drive over the center line of the road more than men. The percentage was even.

Men, however, were guilty of improper passing on hills and curves in nine percent of the cases, as compared with five percent for women.

The analysis of speeding was taken from the record of 28,000 men and 1,900 women drivers in Ohio in 1947. It showed that 26 percent of all men involved in accidents on rural state roads admitted speeds of more than 50 miles an hour, as compared with 17 percent for women.

The association said Ohio officials were hedging on whether men or women are the safer drivers. "Too many variables," they said.

Bureaucracy Needs an 'Axing', Warren Says

WASHINGTON (U) — Comptroller General Lindsay C. Warren yesterday renewed his charge that waste and incompetence are rampant in Washington and called for "bush-axe treatment" to clean up the "mishmash of government."

Writing in the current American magazine, he said the nation has reached a crisis in its efforts to reign in a government "Frankenstein" that in many cases "has become stronger than the congress that created it."

"If congress and the President are now unable to put through an honest, widespread and effective reorganization, they and the taxpayers might as well surrender unconditionally," he wrote. "If the bureaucrats win again we might as well concede that we are through."

Warren, whose general accounting office checks on government spending for congress, said that "waste and incompetence" are so widespread and flagrant that "finding examples is child's play."

For instance, he said, the government sold a damaged station wagon for $105.90, and the purchaser at once resold it for $150 to a man who sold it for $675. The third man "spent $400 on it for repairs, and sold it for $1,200 to a man who, in a few days, sold it for $1,350."

In another case, he said the army department paid $2,619 to rent two tractors for five months, although the tractors cost only $500 each when new. Thus, "the owner collected $1,619 more than the cost of the tractors and still owned them."

He said one of his agency's "most startling disclosures" was the approval of $203,000 in "excess" commissions on the purchase of some parts. He said the agreement to pay the overcharge was in the contract although "proper negotiation" should have prevented it.

The Scientists Have Faith —

From their meeting in Washington, the Federation of American Scientists picked up two radiation-hot atomic energy issues. In both instances, they disputed policy stands taken by President Truman. But they only attempted to pass immediate judgment on one of them.

They called for publication of the long-suppressed official report of the Bikini atomic bomb tests. Turning to the nation's ultra-secret atomic stockpile, the federation next wondered, "should congress and the public be told the number of atomic bombs in our stockpile?"

Rather than answer that one themselves, the scientists pushed it off onto the American public, calling for a nationwide debate. They were specifically considering the stand of chairman Brien McMahon (D-Conn) of the joint congressional atomic energy committee.

McMahon scored congress for "legislating in the dark" when it voted billions for conventional defense forces without the slightest idea of how many atomic bombs the nation has.

One obvious answer would be: let congress know our atomic stockpile situation but keep the information from the public for security reasons. That's the way the atomic bomb project was handled during the war; and the government had no trouble obtaining millions in congressional appropriations then.

If congress cannot reasonably decide how much our conventional defense forces need without being briefed on the atomic situation, brief them.

The scientists, however, preferred to let the people decide.

That in itself is significant. It was also significant when the scientists protested the firing of an Oregon state college professor because he advocated studying Soviet party-line genetics. Certainly it is "deplorable" that Russia has made an unlikely theory official policy, said the scientists. But "it would be equally deplorable" for U.S. schools to require "orthodoxy" in rejecting the theory.

In a way, the scientists' actions and proposals are refreshing. It is the nation's scientists, after all, that have been warning us since 1945 of the seriousness of atomic weapons. It is they who fully realize that atomic control could twist our country into a police state.

Yet they have enough faith to ask the people to decide whether they want to know how many atomic bombs we have. If we think such information would imperil our safety it made public, we would have the option to say so.

And the scientists have enough faith to ask the nation's scholars to freely study a controversial genetic theory and accept or reject it on its scientific merits.

It's a simple faith; it even seems foolish to pass heated resolutions proposing its application. But many people — scared by science, technology and hostile ideologies — do not have such faith. These people would prefer a nation wearing blinders.

Compared to such pessimists, our scientists stand out as pillars of democratic wisdom.

Spotlighting Our Life Insurance Industry —

When the senate judiciary committee voted Monday for a joint senate-house investigation of the multi-billion dollar life insurance industry, it uncovered a topic that has been worrying government officials and many businessmen for years.

The idea for the inquiry stems directly from a charge made last summer by Rep. Emanuel Celler (D-NY) that life insurance firms have grown so large that they can run the country. Celler and fellow congressmen — mostly Democrats — want to find out the uses to which insurance firms may put their estimated $50-billion in assets.

The committee proposes to give specific attention to the industry's compliance with antitrust laws. Actually, the status of the insurance industry in the American economy has worried observers for some time. The federal reserve board — until recent months — saw the industry frustrate its credit-control program. While the FRB held bank credit below 1947 levels last year, the insurance industry loaned more than ever before. FRB could do nothing about it.

Banks have been decrying the threat of insurance firms to the financial industry. Many think insurance is slowly easing banks out of their dominant position as sources of private capital.

Insurance firms doubled their holdings of corporate securities since 1929. In the 1948 fiscal year, their holdings jumped $3.8-billion, the FRB estimates. What further annoys the banking interests is that corporations as borrowers and insurance firms as lenders do business directly, bypassing investment banks.

Other toes are being stepped on as insurance firms invest heavily in real estate. It is estimated that the industry now owns $1-billion worth of property and is the landlord of 22,000 families.

In voting for the investigation, only Sen. Ferguson (R-Mich) refused to sanction the probe saying later "I haven't any facts that lead me to the conclusion that we should have an investigation."

Chances are, though, that congress will see eye to eye with the judiciary committee and will approve the inquiry. Both houses would have to vote to set up the joint committee and to put $100,000 in its pockets for spending money.

New York Landlords, Tenants Turn Out in Angry Confusion

NEW YORK (AP)—Scores of landlords and tenants of the nation's largest city turned out in angry confusion yesterday to criticize the government's new rent ceiling formula.

Housing expeditor Tighe Woods, who announced the formula last night to provide owners with a "fair net operating income," came here and stepped personally into a hotbed of landlords' inquiries.

Tenant spokesmen called for a city-wide rent strike and a "fight to the last ditch" against rent increases.

Landlords assailed the formula as giving inadequate relief to hard-pressed property owners. The formula is intended to produce a "net operating income" of 25 to 30 per cent of gross income on some 14 million dwelling units throughout the nation still under federal rent control.

Thousands of landlords flocked to federal offices here yesterday to apply for approval of rent increases. Other hundreds crammed a midtown auditorium to hear Woods explain the new regulations.

As Woods expressed belief both landlords and tenants would be happier under the new formula, a surprised murmur of laughter swept the audience which overflowed the 869-seat hall. Police reported several hundred persons were turned away at the doors.

Woods dashed from this meeting, where he answered some 50 written questions, to a conference with Mayor William O'Dwyer at city hall.

Meanwhile Rep. Vito Marcantonio, chairman of the American Labor party, called the new formula a "Democratic party betrayal" of the people.

He said he would advise tenant groups to prepare for a city-wide rent strike "to meet the real estate offensive."

Other groups also were bitterly critical. Woods said the new rent law, on which the formula is based, "goes right down the middle, protecting landlords against rents that would deny them a fair profit, and protecting tenants against being charged a higher rent than the fair net operating income allows."

In response to a question Woods conceded the permissible net operating income bears no relation to the size of mortgage, interest and amortization payments. "They are ignored completely," he said.

The house expeditor told his audience that his office hoped to get regulations affecting hotel operations ready within two weeks. He said rules affecting luxury accommodations would be issued some time this month.

Hillel to Celebrate First Anniversary Of Israel as State

The first anniversary of the Israel state will be celebrated tonight with a speech by Prof. Judah Goldin of the school of religion and a skit by members of the SUI Hillel foundation.

The special services are being sponsored by the Intercollegiate Zionist Federation of America in cooperation with the Iowa City Hadassah, Jewish women's group. The services will be held at 8 p.m. at Hillel house, IZFA President Shirley Elman, A3, Davenport, said yesterday.

"The State of Israel — The First Anniversary," will be Goldin's topic.

Students participating in the skit are Sam Becker, G. Quiney, III; Alice Shakow, A3, Chicago; Marian Honeyman, A2, Davenport; Robert Abbott, A1, Iowa City; Ellen Sideman, AI, Des Moines; Rosalie Lasker, A3, Bronx, N.Y.; Burt Wiener, A2, Dubuque and Miss Elman.

Following the services there will be dancing and refreshments at the house.

Charter Issue To Be Decided By IC Amvets

At 7:30 tonight members of Amvets Post No. 32 will vote to decide whether they are going to keep the charter of the post in Iowa City, Allan H. Brandenburg said yesterday.

Brandenburg, a member of an investigating committee, said the post members will meet to elect officers but the primary purpose is to decide whether they will keep the post charter.

At last week's nominating meeting State Amvet Commander Woodrow Singley threatened to remove the charter from the Iowa City post if the present financial and administrative difficulties were not straightened out immediately.

Brandenburg said the main issues preceding the election were the absence of a treasury balance despite a seemingly thriving business in the Amvet club, lack of meetings, and liabilities amounting to nearly $8,000.

According to an audit by an attorney acting for the state commander's office the Iowa City Amvet club showed assets amounting to less than $2,000.

The audit, Brandenburg said, was incomplete in that it did not include losses due to depreciation of fixed assets. Equipment such as cash registers, shuffle boards and kitchen equipment have considerable depreciation if the necessity of forced sale arises, he said.

The members of the post will make the choice of whether they will buy out William Parkin, club manager, and finance the club themselves, or drop the club entirely as a function of the post. At present the club is owned by Parkin who permits members to use the facilities for parties and dances with the privilege of using the bar, Brandenburg said.

'Dads' to Sponsor Softball Team(s)?

Community Dads will sponsor at least one and possibly two softball teams in the city league competition this summer vice-president William Grandrath announced yesterday.

Decision on whether one or two teams will be formed by the club for the summer competition will be decided at the meeting of the Dads club Tuesday night, he said.

The team, or teams, will be managed by Charles Smith with the assistance of Bill Hoffy. Anyone interested in playing or helping with the proposed teams are invited to contact either Smith or Hoffy, Grandrath said.

Medical Fraternity To Hold Initiation For Nine Pledges

Two doctors and seven medical students will be initiated into Alpha Omega Alpha, honorary medical fraternity, at a banquet in the Iowa Union Thursday at 6 p.m., Robert Lubin, committee member, announced yesterday.

As part of the initiation program, the fraternity will sponsor a speech by Dr. B.J. Anson, professor of anatomy at Northwestern university, in the medical amphitheater Thursday at 8 p.m. Dr. Anson will discuss "The Great Plague of London."

New members to be initiated are Dr. Mayo H. Soley, dean of SU's medical college, and Dr. Robert Tidrick, associate professor of general surgery.

Medical students who will become members include Jack Kramer, M4, Chicago, Ill.; Luella Voogd, M4, Walker; Richard O. Emmons, M4, Clinton, and Margaret Emmons, M4, Clinton. Gordon M. Mindrum, M3, Minneapolis, Minn.; Carlyle Moore, M3, Terill, and Roy F. Statton, M3, Boone.

GREEK CABINET STAYS

ATHENS (AP)—The new cabinet of Premier Themistoklis Sophoulis yesterday received a 224 to 44 vote of confidence in the Greek parliament. Opposition that had been expected did not develop.

Lions Club to Give Benefit Fund Show Featuring Magician

'VIRGIL'

The Iowa City Lions club will sponsor a benefit program May 27 at 8 p.m. in City high school featuring the magician, "The Great Virgil."

The proceeds from the show will go into the Lions' charity fund for aid to needy families and children. Harold Reedquist, publicity chairman for the benefit, said yesterday.

E.W. Lind, general chairman for the show, said yesterday that Virgil is considered the "world's greatest traveling magician."

The last benefit was the Lions' 40th annual show in 1940, Lind said. The club discontinued the show during war years.

Lind said Virgil's show will include sawing a girl in half, floating another in air and making her disappear and shooting another with a highpowered rifle.

Removal of Needle Leaves Baby Spry

DENVER (AP)—It didn't seem to matter to nine-month-old Patrick Durbin that he'd had a needle extracted from his head.

His mother, Mrs. Charles Durbin, said yesterday the baby appeared as spry as ever yesterday after an operation at Denver general hospital.

The needle, an inch and a half long, was buried in the baby's head with a length of white thread dangling from it when his mother discovered it. He had been playing on the living room floor.

Youth Held on Suspicion Admits Auto Theft

Arrested and held on suspicion Monday evening, Paul Prescott, 17, Milan, Ill., has admitted theft of a car in Milan last week, police said yesterday.

Prescott's strange behavior at a local filling station prompted the manager to call police to investigate. According to Bill Olson, the service station manager, Prescott asked to use the rest room and then made his exit through a rest room window.

Officer Ollie White arrested Prescott at 7 p.m. Monday in the Iowa City post office, police reported.

Prescott later made a statement to Officer Harland Sprinkle, admitting he stole a car belonging to a friend of his uncle in Milan, near Rock Island, to take a joyride, police said.

Ford Official Inspects Factory Sites in Israel

HAIFA, ISRAEL (AP) — A representative of the Ford Motor Co. in Detroit has visited the Haifa area to inspect possible sites for a factory, it was learned yesterday.

Official circles said an automobile spare parts or assembly plant may be located in Israel.

Mortar Board to Tap 'Chosen'

Next year's Mortar Board members will be chosen at a tapping ceremony Saturday at 2 p.m. on the west approach to Old Capitol, Chairman Jeanne McDonald said yesterday. In case of rain the ceremonies will be held in the Iowa Union lounge.

Each spring the junior women elect 20 candidates from their class to vie for Mortar Board membership. Mortar Board makes the final selection.

Mortar Board, senior women's honorary, bases its membership on scholarship, activities and character. These outstanding campus women meet weekly and wear white jackets with mortar board emblems as a symbol of their membership.

At the Saturday ceremony, this year's members will pick the new members from the crowd and place the mortar board cap on their heads.

New members selected Saturday will serve at President and Mrs. Virgil M. Hancher's tea in their home Sunday from 3 to 5 p.m. All SUI students and their parents are invited to attend.

A mother-son-daughter luncheon in the river room of the Iowa Union at noon will precede the tapping ceremony. Tickets for the luncheon are now on sale at the Iowa Union desk.

Council Hears Estimate Cost Of Bridge Job

Iowa City council members, the Iowa highway commission and the chamber of commerce last night heard Engineer Ned L. Ashton estimate costs for revamping the Burlington street bridge would be about $143,500.

This figure includes widening the west approach bottleneck at a cost of about $55,000. Ashton emphasized the figures were approximations and the total could run either above or below his estimates.

He stressed the bridge must be repaired because weathering actions of ice and water on the north side of the middle pier had weakened the structure.

J.J. Swamer, Mark Morris and W.R. Jones of the Iowa highway commission told the council the possibility of state or federal aid to repair and widen the bridge was hard even to guess.

The best Iowa City could hope for in outside financial aid would be "up to 50 percent," Jones declared.

State or federal approval could not be expected in less than six months, he warned. He called the intersection "one of the worst in the state."

Morris showed charts to illustrate the survey the highway commission is making to determine traffic flow at the west intersection.

He said an average day would show movement of about 30,000 vehicles at the intersections.

Moeller Announces Applicants May File For Iowan Positions

Applications may now be filed for the positions of editor and business manager on The Daily Iowan, Prof. Leslie G. Moeller, director of the school of journalism, announced yesterday.

Candidates should file their written applications before 5 p.m. Monday with Miss Lois M. Randall, secretary, Board of Trustees, Student Publications, Inc., N - 2 East Hall.

Experience on The Daily Iowan, demonstrated executive ability and good scholastic standing are requirements candidates should meet.

A candidate may merely state that he is seeking the position or he may include details which he thinks may help the board in evaluating him.

The board of trustees will interview candidates on May 16 and 17 at 4 p.m.

Plans for Putnam Campaign Discussed

Iowa City Jaycees discussed plans for Wayne E. Putnam's campaign for the state vice-presidency at their meeting in Hotel Jefferson last night.

Putnam, local Jaycee president, is candidate for the office of southeast district vice-president.

He has no announced opposition yet, but local members expect other candidates to get into the race after the convention gets underway.

The state elections will be held at the state Jaycee convention in Cedar Rapids, Friday through Sunday.

Morris Dickler and Emil Trott will serve as Putnam's campaign manager at the convention.

Prof. Lundquist to Talk To Composite Squadron

Prof. Elmer Lundquist of the mechanical engineering department will lecture tonight at the regular meeting of flight A of the 211th composite squadron.

Lundquist will speak at 7:30 in room 124 Fieldhouse. His subject will be "Jet and Rocket Propulsion."

3 States Searched For Missing Plane

HUMBOLDT (AP)—Parts of three states were searched yesterday for a private plane carrying a Hum-bold couple, missing for two days on a flight from Chicago.

High winds kept light planes from taking off here to resume their search for Mr. and Mrs. Jack Russell, but a large plane took off to search as far as Wisconsin. Another plane arrived here after a search flight from DeKalb, Ill. Search planes also took off from the Dubuque airport to search the surrounding countryside.

No trace of the Russells' light plane was reported.

IC Hospital to Start 3-Week Recruitment Program for Nurses

Faculty members of the school of nursing at Mercy hospital this week started a three-week recruitment program of student nurses from Iowa City and surrounding towns, Sister Mary Bridg, director of the school of nursing, said yesterday.

The faculty will talk to junior and senior girls in the various high schools about the advantages of a nursing education, what nurses mean to a community and the requirements and program offered at Mercy hospital, Sister Bridg said.

In addition, lantern slides showing nursing activities in the various departments of Mercy hospital and the nursing home will be shown.

The recruitment teams will visit Williamsburg today, Kolona and Riverside tomorrow and University high school Friday, Sister Bridg said.

Sister Bridg pointed out a new ruling in Iowa this year allows girls who are 17 years old to enter nurses' training. Formerly, a girl had to be 17 years, eight months at the time she entered a nursing school.

The director emphasized the need of girls making application to nursing schools as early as possible so that arrangements could be made for them to take the pre-nursing tests prepared by the National League of Nursing Education.

Coroner's Verdict Slightly Premature

BAKEWELL, ENGLAND (AP)—Alexander Rainey, 64, an itinerant blacksmith, came back from the dead yesterday.

Last July a coroner's jury declared him dead. A body fished out of a nearby river had been identified from photographs as Rainey. Even Rainey's son agreed the identification was correct.

Yesterday the coroner called another hearing. He read out the name "Alexander Rainey." Up stepped the blacksmith. The coroner ordered the word "dead" erased from beside Rainey's name on the town register.

Welfare, Correction Workers — 400 to Attend Annual Institute

More than 400 welfare and correction workers will attend the annual institute for Crime, Delinquency and Community Welfare here May 12 and 13, according to Wayne Vasey, director and professor of the SUI school of social work.

Lowell Olson, president of the Iowa Welfare association, will speak at the opening session Thursday morning. SUI President Virgil M. Hancher will extend a welcome on behalf of the university.

John C. Burke, warden of the Wisconsin State prison, will speak at a dinner in the Iowa Union, concluding the first day's activities.

Prof. Robert G. Caldwell of the SUI sociology department will preside over the Friday morning panel and Dr. Frank Flynn, University of Chicago school of social service administration, will preside at the Friday afternoon session.

Two other groups will hold meetings in conjunction with the institute, Vasey said. The County Directors of Social Welfare will meet Wednesday night preceding the institute meeting. The Iowa Chapter of the American Association of Social Workers will hold its meeting Thursday noon. Caldwell and Vasey are co-chairmen of the institute's program committee.

MINISTER TO SPEAK
Rev. Evans A. Worthley, minister of the Iowa City Unitarian church, will speak at this noon's Lions Club luncheon at Reich's cafe.
