CIO, Ford To Resume Peace Talk

DETROIT (AP) — Walter Reuther appealed directly to Henry Ford II yesterday to resume Ford strike peace talks today and Ford promptly accepted.

The young company president rejected, however, Reuther's invitation to attend the conference personally. He also turned down the CIO United Auto Workers president's challenge to a debate if the peace talks fail.

Seek End

Ford said his company was going back into negotiations on the union's "speed-up" charge "on the assumption that they will be continued until this strike can be brought to a close."

He suggested that the peace talks start this afternoon. Reuther had suggested a resumption of talks this morning, at a mutually agreeable time and place.

Reuther had proposed a debate between Ford and himself in Briggs stadium Saturday or Sunday night if no agreement were reached by Friday.

Of this Ford said nothing "useful can be accomplished by a public debate on this matter."

Bargaining

"The issues in this strike," he said, "must be resolved on their merits and by conscientious effort at the bargaining table by both parties, and not by emotional appeals."

Ford said the company will be represented at the peace talks by John S. Bugas, vice-president in charge of industrial relations. Bugas headed the company delegation last Thursday when negotiations were broken off.

Bugas, Ford said, "is fully informed as to all Ford Motor company policies." He "has the full support and backing of the management of this company," he added, "and has the responsibility for speaking for it on all matters involving relationships with your union."

The company president said he hoped for a quick settlement "so that the undue hardships being suffered by thousands may be ended."

Slate Meeting On City Rents

A public meeting will be held at 7:30 tonight in the Community building to discuss local rent control issues, the Young Progressives' committee on rent control announced yesterday.

A non-partisan citizens' committee will be formed at the meeting to take action on retention of rent controls in Iowa City, the committee added.

Large numbers of local residents want to retain rent controls, but have no way to voice this desire, and the meeting is intended to provide that voice, the committee said.

It was pointed out that under the new national rent law rent ceilings can be removed by action of the city council.

The committee explained the purpose of the meeting will be to form opposition to any pressure on the city council by local landlords groups.

Charge Too Large, Farmer Loses Mule

CHESTER, S.C. (AP) — Farmer R. M. Massey's mule had the bad habit of leaning against a wire fence.

Massey ran a wire from an electric pump to the fence to shock Mr. mule into mending his ways. But the animal was standing in a puddle of water when he touched the fence.

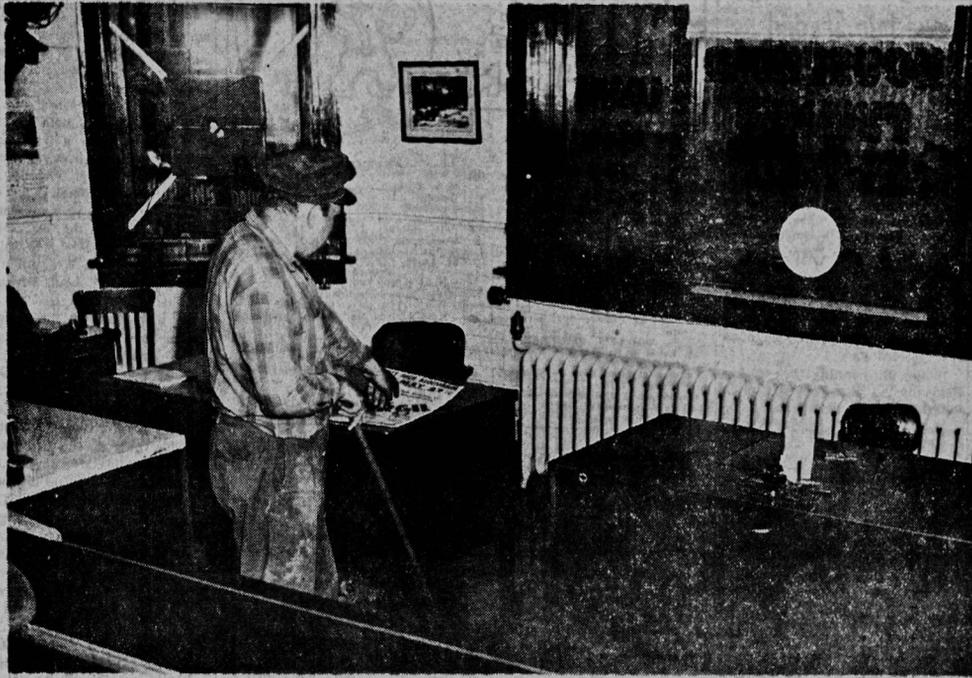

Now Massey is looking for another mule.

Israel Approved by UN Group

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y. (UP) — The United Nations special political committee voted late yesterday to recommend that the general assembly accept Israel as the 59th member of the world organization.

The committee voted, 33 to 11 with 13 abstentions, to send favorable report on the Israeli application to the full assembly, which will consider it later this week.

The applications needs a two-thirds vote in the assembly before Israel can become a member, but the required majority is two-thirds

Soviets to Abandon Blockade of Berlin Thursday Morning

BERLIN (AP) — The Russians and western powers announced last night that two-way traffic to Berlin and across the Soviet zonal border will start a minute past midnight Thursday morning.

The order to lift the Berlin blockade at that time was broadcast on the Russian radio last night by Gen. V. I. Chuikov, Soviet commander in Germany.

Chuikov ordered restoration of "transport, trade and communications services" effective at 4:01 p.m. (Iowa time) tomorrow, the date agreed upon by the four occupation powers May 4 in New York.

Earlier, the western powers had said they would permit traffic into the Russian zone to begin moving at the minute.

The Soviet order specifically lifted the Russian controls on the Soviet sector line dividing Berlin.

Chuikov's order permits 16 freight trains a day to move into Berlin, restores highway traffic, waives previous Soviet claims to search allied baggage and demand Soviet travel permits at certain checkpoints, and restores mail service to Berlin. In short, it puts the situation back to where it was March 1, 1948.

Three Children Die In Muscatine Blaze

MUSCATINE (UP) — Three small children perished as fire gutted the home of Mr. and Mrs. Neil Haynes yesterday, but a fourth child escaped.

The victims were Debra Dianne, 4, Neil Jr., 2, and Dixie Kay, 1, all children of the Haynes'. Anthony Haynes, 5, ran from the burning home and called his mother, who was telephoning at a neighbor's home. She rushed to the flame-shrouded house, but could not save her children.

Firemen said a kerosene stove explosion caused the blaze. The three bodies were found near the stove.

Mrs. Haynes was removed from the home by firemen. She suffered burns in her futile attempt at rescue, but her condition was not serious.

Republican Stalks Out During Treaty Hearing

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Republican critic of the north Atlantic treaty stalked out of senate hearings on the proposed 12-nation pact yesterday with an angry protest that Chairman Connally (D-Tex) was inflicting "gag rule."

Connally heads the senate foreign relations committee which has been conducting the hearings.

Senator Watkins (R - Utah) walked out in silent fury, but later told a reporter:

"I'm sick and tired of it. I don't intend to be lectured, humiliated and embarrassed by the chairman any longer. I'm through with the hearings and any further questions I have to ask will be asked from the senate floor."

Not a Member

Watkins is not a member of the committee, but has been given the special privilege of questioning witnesses at his own request. He has persistently challenged the need for the treaty.

At the outset of the hearings two weeks ago, Chairman Connally accused both Watkins and Senator Donnell (R-Mo) of trying to "obstruct, impede and filibuster against the treaty."

Watkins and Donnell hotly denied the accusation.

The row threatens trouble for the administration when the senate begins debate on the treaty. It developed as Watkins started to question Mrs. Kathryn H. Stone of the U.S. League of Women Voters.

Connally Objects

Connally objected that instead of asking questions Watkins was "making a speech."

That sent Watkins out of the room in a huff. However, his colleague, Senator Donnell, sat tight and told newsmen:

"I expect to question as many of the witnesses as I have time to."

Connally said: "The stenographic record of the hearings shows that the two senators have consumed two-thirds of the time, including questions by the committee and the testimony of the witnesses."

Two large women's organizations — the U.S. League of Women Voters and the General Federation of Women's clubs — both endorsed the Atlantic treaty in testimony before the senate committee yesterday.

CHICAGO (AP) — Joseph Cernak thought his work as a cabinet maker was too tough for his ailing heart.

Hancher Says SUI 'Seriously Injured' By Slash in Budget

OMAHA (AP) — SUI President Virgil Hancher yesterday said the university has been "seriously injured" because the state legislature cut the appropriation from the $7.7-million requested to $5-million.

Speaking at a university alumni luncheon here, Hancher said the university will have to operate during the next two years on "an extremely tight budget."

Drop Unfilled Posts

One of the first effects of this, Hancher said, has been abolishing every unfilled position on the faculty. No department, he continued, will be able to fill vacancies on its staff without first re-applying and re-justifying the need.

He explained that the university had unfilled positions because of the shortage of instructors and the lack of housing in Iowa City.

Meets Decrease

The $5-million appropriation, Hancher said, "was 40 percent more than we received two years ago and a lot of people think we ought to be on easy street. But, the fact is that all this will be to absorb what we received in federal funds during the war from the army and navy training programs and since the war from the veterans' administration."

Hancher will attend a meeting of the state board of education at Council Bluffs today.

Action on Shanghai Front at Standstill

SHANGHAI (TUESDAY) (UP) — Action on the Shanghai front came to a virtual standstill today while Communists unleashed a sweep along the Chekiang-Kiangsi railroad to cut off 300,000 Nationalist troops in central China and began probing defenses of Tsingtao.

Dispatches to a Chinese newspaper reported severe fighting in the environs of Tsingtao and said artillery fire was heard in the city late yesterday. Some 10,000 Communist attackers reportedly drove at the port city's defense perimeter but were driven off by ground forces and heavy shelling from three Nationalist warships lying in the harbor.

Although the Shanghai front to the west and southwest was relatively quiet, a force of Communist guerrillas infiltrated to within 10 miles from the northwestern city limits, north of the tiny town of Kiating, before they were routed by government troops, a garrison communique reported.

Rutledge, Wife Quiet at Trial

THEIR FACES EXPRESSIONLESS, Dr. Robert C. Rutledge Jr. and his wife, Sydney, sat together during the noon recess of his trial in Cedar Rapids yesterday after defense and prosecution attorneys had made their opening statements to the jury.

Finance Firm Robbed Here

Mrs. Rutledge Cries as Trial Gets Underway

CEDAR RAPIDS (AP) — Pretty Sydney Rutledge wept openly yesterday when the defense pictured her as a "rose" seduced by the man her husband is accused of slaying.

References to the 23-year-old blonde's affair with Byron Hattman highlighted yesterday's opening of the trial proper in the first degree murder case against Dr. Robert Rutledge Jr., 27, St. Louis pediatrician.

The state asserted it would show Rutledge willfully stabbed Hattman in a hotel room here after attempting to extort money from him following the affair.

The death penalty was not asked in the prosecution's opening statement.

The defense contended Hattman plied Mrs. Rutledge with liquor, seduced her and then demanded money from the young physician to leave her alone.

Charge Denied

Defense Attorney W.J. Barngrover categorically denied that Dr. Rutledge "knowingly dispatched the wound" from which the 29-year-old Hattman died.

He said Hattman met Mrs. Rutledge soon after she took a job at the St. Louis firm where he was an instrument designer.

Hattman knew "full well that she was the wife of a young doctor," Barngrover continued. "He made advances... that culminated on that fateful night, July 31, 1948."

It was on that night, Barngrover said, that Hattman took Mrs. Rutledge on a party, gave her liquor, and later pushed his way into the Rutledge apartment "where by clever design he seduced her and debauched her."

He said she would tell the full story of "this sordid chapter."

Mrs. Rutledge, he continued, was filled with remorse. For 10 days Hattman contacted her continually but she repulsed him, he said.

Wanted More

"Hattman had tasted of this rose and wanted more," Barngrover told the jury of 9 men and 3 women.

The packed courtroom watched the young woman's eyes grow red with crying. She sat beside her dark, handsome husband.

Barngrover told the jury that after Mrs. Rutledge admitted to the young doctor that Hattman had seduced her the husband forgave her. Of Hattman's role, Barngrover said:

"He wanted this woman for his own purpose. After he was through with her he would have cast her aside like a soiled garment and left her to drift down life's sewer into an embarrassed grave."

After the affair Hattman attempted to renew his attentions and spurned Rutledge's attempts to get him "out of their life," the attorney said.

Tells of Meeting

Finally, Barngrover asserted, Hattman agreed "to leave" if Rutledge would raise "a certain amount of money." It was in this connection, he said, that Rutledge went to Cedar Rapids "openly and by pre-arrangement" to meet Hattman. The fatal stabbing followed.

County Attorney William Cross-presented a different picture. He said Rutledge got into the hotel room by a ruse, lay in wait more than three hours and pounced on Hattman when he entered.

"From the instant Hattman entered the room, he had no chance for his life," Crissman said.

Crissman also said Rutledge had "attempted to extort money" from Hattman.

Death Ends Rule of Monte Carlo Prince

PRINCE LOUIS II Once fired his army

MONTE CARLO, MONACO (AP) — Prince Louis II, 78, one of the world's richest men, died yesterday, ending his stormy 27-year reign over Europe's tiniest country.

The prince, who had been ill for some time with uremic poisoning, only last week delegated his powers over his little, rock-bound principality to his 26-year-old grandson, Prince Rainier, the heir apparent.

An official communique from the prince's palace announced his death. All visitors had been banned since his condition took a turn for the worse last week. Prince Rainier had been in constant attendance at his bedside.

Army Career

Prince Louis, who made himself a dictator in 1930 after widespread rioting threatened to erupt in revolt, devoted most of his career to the French army while maintaining a lively interest in affairs at home.

Monaco's entire economy depended on the tourist trade and was closely tuned to the clicking of the roulette wheels in the world famous casino at Monte Carlo.

Within minutes after his death, the croupiers at the casino called out their famous "the day is ended," and the gaming tables were closed in mourning.

Glamorous Officer

Prince Louis was born in Baden-Baden, Germany on July 12, 1870.

In his youth he was one of the most glamorous officers in the French Foreign Legion. He fought in World War I, and attained the rank of major in the French fifth army after being cited several times for heroism.

He was serving with the French army in Silesia and was a colonel when news of his father's death and his succession to the throne reached him in 1922.

In 1935, Louis was forced to fire his entire army of 73 men because of an economic crisis precipitated by diminishing gambling returns at the casinos. The army was later reestablished, and now numbers about 125.

Boy Revived After Ten-Minute 'Death'

PASADENA, CALIF. (AP) — Four-year-old Lawrence Page sipped nourishment and looked with recognition at his parents yesterday.

Three days ago, they thought he would never do either again.

For Lawrence stopped breathing for 10 minutes.

But three doctors at a hospital to which the child had been brought suffering from severe shock after an auto accident refused to concede that he was dead.

The physicians, who decline to permit use of their names, injected a stimulant, coramine, into Lawrence's heart. Then artificial respiration was applied, Lawrence's lungs resumed their task.

$798 Taken From Lund At Gunpoint

A young bandit, armed with a .38 caliber revolver, staged a daring daylight robbery in the second story offices of the Household Finance corporation late yesterday afternoon.

Police said the man escaped with loot totaling $798.02 in currency and coin.

The robber, about 25, entered the loan office on the second floor of the Bremer building shortly before closing time, according to R. W. Lund, office manager, and slugged Lund on the head after ordering him at gunpoint to tie and gag his secretary and a customer.

Entered Twice

Lund said the man had come to the office earlier in the day and asked about a "friend" he had arranged to meet there. When he returned later, he brandished the gun and locked the office door before ordering Lund to bind and gag Mrs. John Englund and the male customer with a piece of plastic clothesline and a chamouis skin.

Mrs. Englund freed herself after about eight minutes, police said, and notified them of the robbery at 4:59 p.m. Lund was taken to Mercy hospital by ambulance and released after three stitches were taken to close a scalp wound.

Description

The bandit was described as about five feet 10 inches tall, 170 pounds, and had blond hair with receding hairline. He was wearing a brown felt hat, tan sport jacket, and gray gabardine trousers, police said.

The armed robbery was the first in Iowa City since a holdup Feb. 20, 1946, at the old location of Barney's Grill, now occupied by the B and N food market, police reported.

That bandit escaped with $269, police said, but was shot down in Clinton several days later with his own gun after he fired several shots during a poker game and then fled.

Name 2 for Atomic Posts

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Truman yesterday nominated a top atomic scientist and a law professor to the five-man atomic energy commission — the first changes since it was formed in 1946.

The nominees are Henry De Wolf Smyth, who wrote the war department's much-discussed story of the atomic bomb development, and Gordon Dean, a practicing attorney and professor of law at the University of Southern California.

Smyth also is a professor, chairman of the department of physics at Princeton university. He will be the only atomic scientist on the commission which controls all phases of research and use of this energy for the government.

The nominations for terms expiring June 30, 1950, were announced as Mr. Truman accepted the resignation of Robert F. Bacher, who has been the only atomic expert on the board. Bacher steps out today after pressing Mr. Truman to be relieved. The other vacancy was created by resignation previously of William W. Waymork, former editor of the Des Moines Register.

Dean, 43, was an assistant to Supreme Court Justice Robert H. Jackson in the prosecution of Nazi war criminals. A decade ago he was serving as a special assistant to the attorney general. He helped draft rules of criminal court procedure by appointment of the supreme court.

Giants Take Seventh Straight, 7-2

Dump Cubs Behind Jones

NEW YORK (AP)—The amazing New York Giants coasted to their seventh straight triumph last night, dumping the Chicago Cubs, 7-2, behind the steady hurling of Sheldon Jones. Sid Gordon and Willard Marshall hit home runs for the Giants.

The triumph kept the Giants in first place a game and a half ahead of the National league defending Champion Boston Braves.

Jones gave up nine hits to Charley Grimm's tallenders, but he kept them well scattered, except for the second and fifth, when the Bruins touched him for their runs.

Grimm sent five hurlers into the game in an effort to stop Leo Durocher's men but, aided by 10 passes, the New Yorkers pecked away at the assorted offerings.

Gordon's homer came in the third with Whitey Lockman on base. Marshall's was hit in the seventh with none on.

Ralph Hamner started for the Cubs, and was charged with the defeat. He was followed by Dewey Adkins, Andy Dobernic, Emil Kuch and Dwain Sloat.

Cardinals Hammer Six Dodger Hurlers For 14-5 Victory

BROOKLYN (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals, who blew a big lead to Brooklyn Sunday, took no chances yesterday as they hammered four of six Dodger pitchers for 15 hits and a 14-5 victory.

Big guns of the Card attack were rookie Eddie Kazak and Tommy Glaviano. Kazak drove in five runs with a double and a homer with the bases loaded in a five-run eighth inning spree. The grand slam homer was belted off reliever Joe Hatten and crushed the oncoming Dodgers who looked like they might come from behind and steal another close one.

Glaviano sent in four runs with a homer, double and single. Marty Marion, with three hits, and Stan Musial and Ron Northey, with two apiece, were other Cards to fatten their averages.

Al Brazie, St. Louis starter, was knocked out in the seventh inning after giving up seven hits and all Brooklyn runs. Howie Pollet stopped the Dodgers cold to safeguard Brazie's third victory. Jackie Robinson, with a two-run homer and two singles, paced the 10-hit Dodger assault. Mike McCormick also homered for Brooklyn.

First Four Derby Finishers To Run in Preakness Saturday

BALTIMORE (AP)—Palestinian and Old Rockport, a couple of speedsters who missed the jackpot in the Kentucky Derby, arrived here yesterday for Pimlico's Preakness—second stop on the gold-and-glory trail for three-year-olds.

The Maryland jockey club, which stages the $75,000 performance at Pimlico, expects eight or ten starters for the classic. Calmet's Ponder, the "sleeper" who won in the Derby, is due today.

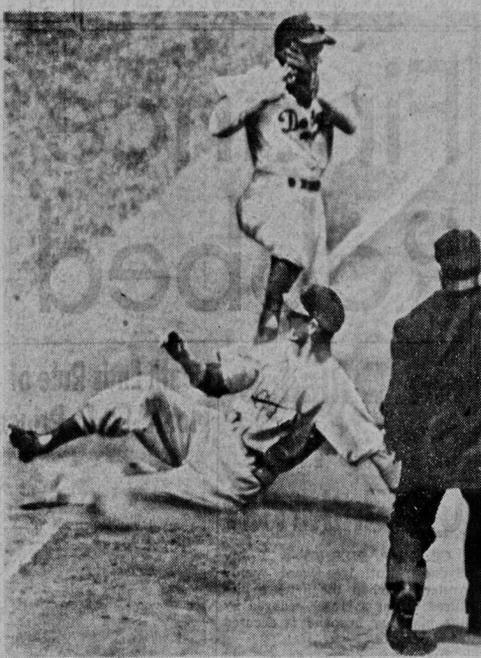

But Fred W. Hooper's Olympia, odds-on choice who ran sixth in the Derby, apparently has had enough for the time being and won't be back this Saturday.

The front line will be made up of the first four colts in last Saturday's Kentucky Derby. The first arrivals of this quartet checked in here yesterday. They were Isadore Bieber's Palestinian and Clifford Mooers' Old Rockport, third and fourth in the run for the roses.

Calumet got off to a slightly slower start in shipping its derby winner up from Kentucky. Ponder is on a train due here about breakfast-time today. Greentree's Capot, second to Ponder, is on an adjoining car.

The jockey club is counting on only one other starter from the Derby. That is Mrs. Ada L. Rice's Model Cadet, the Derby's No. 7 finisher. Model Cadet al-

Hawk Leads League

Southpaw Ace Jack Bruner Posts .333 Earned Run Average in 3 Wins

By BERTHOLD GASTER

When the umpire says play ball come Friday afternoon Jack Bruner will probably be on the mound for Iowa, keeping his record of starting every Hawkeye conference series this year intact. The Waterloo left hander has won three conference contests against no losses so far to lead the Big Nine hurlers. In winning all of Iowa's conference victories, Bruner has given up only one earned run in 27 innings, beating three of the top clubs in the Big Nine—Purdue, Illinois and Indiana.

The 23-year old fireball beat Illinois 4-0 in the Hawks' conference opener, allowing only three hits and whiffing eight. Purdue, current league-leader, was next, biting the dust in a 6-1 decision. Bruner fanned 13 Bismarckers while giving up four hits. The one Purdue run was unearned.

In last Friday's Indiana game Bruner allowed only five hits while striking out eight. He walked two men, showing that his control had settled down to mid-season form. The Hoosiers got the first earned run that he has given up this year.

Bruner pitched and played first base for East Waterloo high school before coming to Iowa in 1945. He hit .519 in his senior year and has gotten some long hits for the Hawks, too.

Bruner's best season prior to this one was his freshman campaign in 1946 when he won four conference games and lost one. This is his fourth varsity season due to the war-time freshman rule which was still in effect in 1946.

The 6-foot southpaw expects to receive his degree in physical education next February. However,

Gray Tops Raschi As Tigers Win, 4-1, Move into Second

DETROIT (AP)—Young Ted Gray of the Detroit Tigers outpitched the veteran Vis Raschi of the New York Yankees yesterday to give the Tigers a 4-1 decision and second place in the American league race.

Gray held the league-leading New Yorkers to five hits while winning his second straight decision. Raschi, who had won four straight before yesterday, gave up only five hits but yielded four costly walks.

The victory moved the Tigers ahead of Cleveland which dropped to third place as it had an open date yesterday.

In the third inning Dick Wakefield blasted Raschi's first pitch into the right field stands.

Bickford's 3-Hitter Beats Pirates, 4-1

BOSTON (AP)—Right-hander Vern Bickford, who was unable to finish the first inning Sunday, last night pitched the Boston Braves into second place in the National league with a classy three-hit job, leading the Tribe to a 4-1 triumph over Pittsburgh's Pirates.

The Boston victory, combined with a Brooklyn loss, boosted the Tribe into second from third place where they dropped Sunday while losing a doubleheader to the Pirates.

The Pirates dropped from sixth into seventh place. The same pitchers started against each other in the second game of the twin bill Sunday.

Last night it was a far different story. Bickford struck out six, walked two and retired the last 16 batters in succession. Dickson gave up eight hits and three of the Boston runs in the seven innings he pitched.

Pinch Hit Homer Gives Little Hawks 4-3 Win

Jerry White's pinch hit homer with a mate aboard in the sixth inning gave Iowa City high's Little Hawks a 4-3 victory here last night over the St. Ambrose Knights.

Knight Hurler Vic Van Camp held the Hawks hitless until the big sixth when Iowa City scored all of its four runs. Jerry Anderson started things rolling with a single to left and scored shortly afterwards on Gene Hettrick's triple into the centerfield bushes.

Joe Smuda bobbled Pinch-Hitter Keith Fulton's slow roller and Hettrick scored. Then came White's tremendous blast. The curving fly hit about two feet inside the foul line, kicked sharply to the left and rolled down the hill towards the football field.

The Knights counted first in the fourth frame. Don Jones sent a ground single to short center. Larry Crankleton picked out one of Dick Doran's servings and drove it over Centerfielder Keith Mulford's head in deep left center, scoring Jones ahead of him.

Doran went all of the way for the Hawks, allowing three hits, one of them Crankleton's home run. He struck out 20.

This was the first win in two appearances for the Hawks. Jim Coryn, who relieved Van Camp in the fateful sixth, was charged with the loss.

Half-Milers Cooperate

Brown Hangs Back While Copeland Sets Pace, Then Turns on Heat to Win 880

By EVERETT MONTGOMERY

Iowa's pair of half-milers, Keith Brown and Jack Copeland, worked one of the oldest tricks in the track game last Saturday to present the Hawk theinards with their solitary track first of the triangular meet.

Copeland, off first at the start, set a fast pace for 660 yards while Brown contented himself with tagging along in fourth position checking his pace with that of Copeland.

Then about midway down the backstretch on the second lap, Brown began to make his move. By the time he hit the turn he was in running third at the heels of Wisconsin's Al Jensen with Dick Beck, another Badger, apparently well in command.

Around the curve charged the trio. Brown swung sharply to the second lane and, as they hit the peak of the arc, he was running abreast and slightly ahead of Jensen.

The Hawk sophomore sensation slammed into the straight-away and drove down the stretch to snap the tape 15 yards ahead of the tiring Beck.

It was this final 220-yards of the race that shows how well this strategy worked. Copeland's three furlong pace enabled Brown to judge his own standard and at the same time forced the Badger due to extend their gait.

It also left Brown with enough kick at the end to speed across the finish line and rack up a new meet record of 1:56.8 for the event.

But it was in the turn that Brown helped his own cause. By cutting along beside Jensen he prevented the pair of Badgers from working a "box"—that is spreading out to prevent an opposing runner from coming through easily and force him to cut far to the outside if he wants to pass.

The story is that Wisconsin's plan didn't work. Iowa's move did and the Hawk half-miler won the race with the Badger's Beck in second place.

An Adventure in Good Smoking

Taking Time Out

With Buck Turnbull

They're Singing the Blues in St. Louis —

St. Louis Blues is usually the first thing you think about when discussing that great Missouri metropolis on the Mississippi river. And after watching the Browns play baseball in St. Louis over the weekend, we now know where the Blues part of the song comes in.

For the sports fans in St. Louis are really singing the Blues in no uncertain terms, both for the lackluster Brownies and the fading Cardinals. It's not a happy situation down there, what with the Browns having a firm hold on the American league cellar and the Cards also in that vicinity in the National loop.

But the Cardinals have color. They win their share of ball games and are pennant contenders year in and year out. As for the Brownies, they're just blue, that's all.

We were in St. Louis Saturday but didn't bother going out to Sportsman's Park. We couldn't quite see sitting through a Washington Senator-St. Louis Brown game. The Senators won, 8-7, while 3,558 fans looked on.

Sunday we saw the Browns go spinning down to their ninth and tenth straight defeats, losing to the Boston Red Sox, 10-6 in 13 innings and 4-3.

The Red Sox did not look good, but the Browns were nothing more than miserable. After that doubleheader we were convinced, as had been indicated by major league baseball moguls in the past, that the Browns should be moved to another city.

Not only do the Browns lack outstanding ball players, they also lack spectator support. There were 8,223 fans out for the twin bill Sunday, and a good share of them had portable radios so they could listen to the Cardinal game while the dull Browns because it was a major league game, or to see the Red Sox—not to root for the Browns. More times than not they'd boo the Browns and their manager, Zack Taylor.

The Brownies have an amazing season's record. It's amazing because they've won only three games. They started out by beating Cleveland and Bob Feller on opening day in St. Louis. Then they dropped their next seven straight.

Following that they took two in a row from the Tigers at Detroit, only to fall over and play dead again in their next ten outings. So the Cleveland victory on opening day is the only home win of the season.

What are they going to do about it? Manager Zack Taylor says they'll snap out of it. "No ball player likes to lose," says Taylor. In the meantime the fans, who are supposed to be paying the freight, don't go near Sportsman's Park. If they have to pass it on business while the Browns are in town, they walk on the other side of the street.

Now take the Browns management. It should be able to help the situation.

So far the front office has made one trade, which gave many fans a good chuckle, and suggested another "aid" for the Browns' weak hitters.

Number one was the trade of Outfielder Al Zarilla, the team's leading batter in 1948 with a .329 average, to the Red Sox for Outfielder Stan Spence. Zarilla is 29 and Spence is 34, quite a big difference as ball players go. On top of that Spence batted only .235 last year, 94 points below Zarilla, who was fourth in American league hitting last year.

After taking all that into consideration, the statement by Brownie President Bill DeWitt, made after the trade, sounds rather funny: "We are sacrificing a few years in age but we are hopeful that the extra power that Spence will give us will enable the Browns to win more games."

Number two is the possibility that the Browns will take down the screen in front of the short right field bleachers in order to let more line drives go for home runs. This will probably help the visiting clubs more than the Browns, witnessed by the fact that Ted Williams lined a single off the screen for the Red Sox Sunday which would have been a line homer minus the screen.

In view of everything, the St. Louis owners ought to think seriously about moving the Browns out of town. The St. Louis fans certainly don't seem to want them. And there are a great number of cities in the middle west much more capable of supporting one major league team than St. Louis is of two. St. Louis has been a Cardinal town through and through for a long time.

Groth Leads American Hitters

CHICAGO (AP)—Johnny Groth, Detroit's rookie outfielder, yesterday topped the American league's busier batters with a .388 average.

Groth's 24 hits in 63 trips to the plate gave him a 16-percent average point margin over Boston veteran outfielder, Dom DiMaggio, who has a .365 average.

Two players actually top Groth, but both have fewer than 50 AB's. Cleveland's Dale Mitchell has a .467 percentage for 45 trips and rookie Dick Kryhoski of New York has 404 in 47 AB's.

Following DiMaggio is Chicago's husky rookie, Gus Zernial, with .354. Other leaders through Sunday's games are: George Kell, Detroit, .351; Tommy Henrich, New York, .343; Hank Majeski, Philadelphia, .337; Sam Chapman, Philadelphia, .333; and Vic Wert, Detroit, .328.

The home-run leadership is shared by Jack Graham, surprising St. Louis newcomer, and Boston's Vern Stephens, each with seven. Mitchell leads in triples with five and Zernial has the most doubles, eight.

Zernial also is deadlocked in hits with Majeski and Chapman at 28 apiece.

Marionette Made of Cheesecloth

Puppet to Perform Title Role in Play

A little bit of cheesecloth stuffed with cotton has become the marionette, Red Chief, in the hands of Robert Corso, 12, 225 N. Madison.

Robert is one of 28 sixth grade students at University elementary school who are making marionettes for a group of plays. Robert's marionette, Red Chief, will have the leading part in one of the plays, "Red Chief," which will be presented May 24.

All the work on the marionette, except the clothing, was done by Robert. Mrs. Joe Corso, Robert's mother, made clothes for the puppet.

About 20 inches high, the marionette was first made in parts and then sewed together.

Each part of the arms and legs was made of cheesecloth four inches square, Robert said. The body is a piece of cheesecloth eight inches square and the head, a six-inch square. Each square was sewed together and stuffed with cotton.

The parts were loosely sewed so that the body would move easily, Robert explained. Lead shot was sewed in each hinge joint for weights, he added.

For the feet, lead washers, gauze and cotton were covered with adhesive tape. The feet were then sewed on the body. The lead washers, used for the soles of the feet, weighted the feet.

Before a puppet's head is painted, it must be starched and dried, Robert said. Then the features are painted and the yarn hair is sewed on. Strings which are used to work the marionette, are attached to the puppet at the knees, wrists and back of the head. The strings are attached to a wooden double cross.

Red Chief has been gaily dressed by Mrs. Corso to fit his part in the play. He wears blue denim jeans, a red figured shirt and neckerchief.

Local Girl in Television Program

City High Graduate Is 'Toastette' in NY

Norma Thornton, daughter of Prof. and Mrs. H.J. Thornton of SUI's history department, is a busy girl in New York these days.

Miss Thornton, who began her dancing career in Iowa City, manages to appear on a television show, do eight performances in a Broadway show, understudy a leading dancer, and take four ballet lessons—all in one week.

The 18-year-old dancer appears with the "Toastettes" dancing ensemble on the television show, "Toast of the Town," which is broadcast from New York via the CBS network.

Miss Thornton is one of 16 dancers in Mike Todd's "As the Girls Go," a Broadway show, and understudies Kathryn Lee, lead dancer of the show.

She takes her ballet lessons at the Ballet Arts school in New York between rehearsals for the two shows and her understudy part.

Miss Thornton graduated from Iowa City high school in 1947. During her high school days here, she taught dancing lessons on Saturdays. Her students gave a dancing recital every spring.

After attending SUI for the 1947 summer session, Miss Thornton went to Chicago where she danced in operas and concerts. She attended the Edna McRae School of the Dance there from 1947 to 1948.

In the late summer of 1948, she went to New York to study dancing. After arriving in New York, she appeared in the Golden Jubilee fashion show from August to September.

"While appearing in the fashion show, Miss Thornton auditioned for "As the Girls Go." She became one of the 16 dancing girls in the show and later became understudy to Miss Lee.

Later she went on the TV show which is broadcast every Monday from 8 until 9 p.m.

Funeral services will be at 2 p.m. tomorrow at the Oathout funeral chapel with the Rev. Robert Crocker officiating. The body will arrive in Iowa City this morning. Burial will be in Oakland cemetery.

Mrs. Fountain was born in Pleasant Valley township June 23, 1882, the daughter of Lewis and Wilhelmina Miller. She attended the Iowa City Business academy and taught school in Johnson county until her marriage to Manly Fountain in 1901.

She was a member of the Iowa City Methodist church, W.S.C.S., the order of Eastern Star, and was a charter member of the River Valley club.

Surviving Mrs. Fountain are her husband; two daughters, Mrs. Ira Hills, Lone Tree, and Mrs. Mapes; a son, Howard, Iowa City; nine grandchildren, and two great-grandchildren.

Pope Backs Free Enterprise

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope Pius XII said in a speech released yesterday that the "free initiative individuals" rather than Socialism is the key to economic progress.

He asked for cooperation between workers and employers and said:

"The opinion, unhappily too widely spread, that between them there is an irreducible opposition of divergent interests is erroneous and sad in its consequences."

The Pontiff said the answer to the world's economic ills must be found in employer-worker relationships which preserve the authority of the employer while providing for "the prosperity of all the members of the people."

The Pope spoke Saturday night to a 400-member delegation of Catholic employers from Britain, Canada, Chile, France, Belgium, the Netherlands, Spain, Austria, Germany, Italy, United States and Switzerland. The text of his speech, delivered in French, was released yesterday by the Vatican.

"Today, above all, when the lack of capital and the difficulty of international exchanges paralyze the free play of the costs of national production, both sides (employers and workers) have an interest in seeing that the costs of national production are proportional to its return," Pope Pius said.

Arthur J. Hummer, 78, former Johnson county resident and for many years a resident of Brooklyn, Iowa, died Sunday in University hospitals after an illness of four weeks.

Mr. Hummer was born near Cosgrove June 13, 1870, the son of Adam and Fredericka Mahuke Hummer. On Dec. 6, 1900, he married Mary Carl.

After their marriage the couple lived on a farm near Guernsey. Mrs. Hummer died in May, 1927, after which Mr. Hummer retired and moved to Brooklyn.

He is survived by a sister, Mrs. Alice E. Hicks, Erie, Pa., and several nieces and nephews.

Chicago U. Case to Be Re-Opened

SPRINGFIELD, ILL. (AP) — An Illinois legislative commission voted yesterday to re-open its inquiry into whether there are subversive activities at the University of Chicago.

Sen. Paul Broyles (R-Mt. Vernon), chairman of the seditious activities commission, said seven U. of C. professors will be subpoenaed to appear at a hearing in Springfield next Monday.

Broyles said the faculty members will be asked to explain "discrepancies" in affidavits denying membership in organizations described by a witness at an April Commission hearing as "Communist-fronts."

Broyles said the commission was "not quite satisfied" with the sworn statements replying to allegations made by Howard Rushmore, a New York-Journal American reporter specializing in stories on communism.

Those named by Broyles as on his subpoena list were:

James Luther Adams, professor of religious ethics; Ernest W. Burgess, professor of sociology; Robert J. Havighurst, professor of education; Wayne McMillen, professor of social service administration; Malcolm P. Sharp, professor of law; Rexford G. Tugwell, professor of political science, and Harold C. Urey, professor of chemistry.

In addition, Laird Bell, president of the university board of trustees, will be asked to appear voluntarily, Broyles said.

Following Rushmore's testimony last month, Bell wrote the commission a letter, accompanying the affidavits in which he said 49 of 59 allegations made by Rushmore were false.

Bell said one statement made by Rushmore that was true identified Professor McMillen as a member of the Chicago chapter of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship.

Food Preparations To Be Displayed by Home Ec Students

Seven food preparation demonstrations open to the public will be given by home economics majors this month, Prof. Lavon McCollough announced yesterday. The demonstrations will be at 9:45 a.m. in room 213 Macbride hall.

"The girls do not claim to be professionals," Mrs. McCollough emphasized, "and often the unexpected happens." The students participating intend to become dietitians, teachers or to work for utility and food companies, she said.

The demonstrations are scheduled as follows:

Tomorrow—"Chicken Every Sunday," Marjorie Wood, A4, Kansas City, Mo., and Roberta Forest, A3, Clinton.

Friday—"Yeast Rolls," Phyllis Johnston, G, Joliet, Ill., and Phyllis McCarthy, A4, Iowa City.

Monday—"Make Your Own Quick Mix," Betty Jansen, A, Champaign, Ill., and Nancy Hartman, A4, Vinton.

May 18—"Summer Salad Meals," Miss McCarthy and Miss Johnston.

May 20—"Let's Make Freezing a Breeze," Pat Benesh, A4, Cedar Rapids, and Helen Danner, A4 Iowa City.

May 25—"Nancy Makes Hors d'Oeuvres," Miss Hartman and Miss Jansen.

May 27—"Angel Cakes," Miss Forest and Miss Wood.

4 Deaths Reported By SUI Hospitals

Four deaths were reported over the week-end by University hospital officials yesterday.

Estus Weiden, 45-year-old Perry resident, died yesterday at 5:10 a.m. He was admitted Sunday.

Arthur Hummer, 77, died Sunday at 5:10 a.m. He resided at Brooklyn. He was admitted April 9.

Henry Pemberton, 52, Bellevue, and Katherine McCune, 64, Clinton, died Saturday. They were admitted to the hospitals March 22 and May 3 respectively.

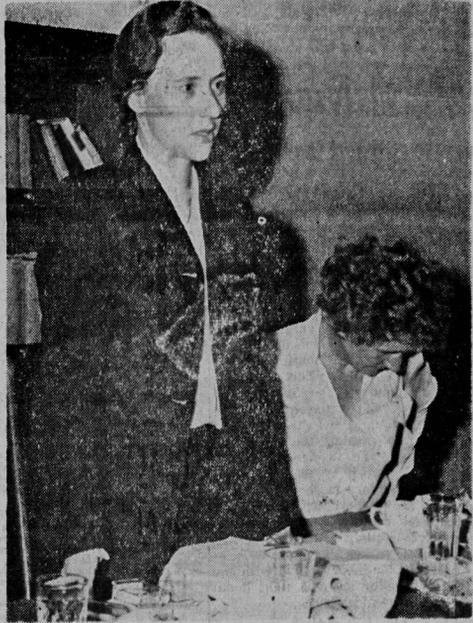

Goetsch to Address Students Concerned

Student Affairs Director Walter Goetsch will address the Students Concerned luncheon meeting at 12:30 today in the YMCA rooms.

Goetsch's speech, "The Philosophy and Organization of a Student Body Government," is the first of two talks about student government to be sponsored by Students Concerned.

Committee Chairman Buford Lindy, A3, Winfield, emphasized that all interested persons are invited to the meeting.

Mrs. Nowlis Assumes New Office

MRS. VINCENT NOWLIS, newly appointed president of the League of Women Voters, assumed the position yesterday. She succeeds Mrs. William Porter, whose resignation became effective recently. The league adopted the new program for the coming year's activities and instructed delegates going to the state convention of the League of Women Voters to be held in Des Moines. At the right is Mrs. Carlisle Jacobsen, vice president of the league.

City Government, Water Study Listed in League's Program

Whether Iowa City should adopt a manager-council form of city government highlighted a three-point study and action program adopted by the local League of Women Voters at the regular monthly business meeting yesterday.

Other points in the program for the coming year were a continued study of Iowa City water production and distribution, and a "know your town survey" to provide background material for future local programs of the league.

Mrs. Vincent Nowlis assumed the presidency of the league at yesterday's meeting. She was appointed by the board to succeed Mrs. William Porter who resigned recently.

Under Mrs. Nowlis' leadership, members of the local league voted to support one proposed change in the state league's by-laws and to oppose another. The proposal to drop local league presidents as members of the state board of directors was supported. The measure to change state convention meetings from annual to bi-annual meetings was opposed.

Approval was given to the local board's recommendation, sent to the state board of directors, to continue the current tax study.

Committee reports on the past year's activity was heard by members. The recommendation of a manager-council plan of city government in preference to either the present mayor-council plan or the commission plan was submitted to the league members.

The committee studying water production and distribution suggested a "model" franchise with certain minimum provisions as a solution to the water franchise problem which will face Iowa City voters in 1950.

Two changes in the league's budget were approved by the members. An increase in membership to 300 was proposed in order to provide $900 in dues for the current year.

Hillel Group Gives Awards to Students At Annual Banquet

Five Hillel foundation members were awarded Hillel keys and five members were given honorable mention for service to Hillel Jewish student group, at their fourth annual Parents banquet Sunday.

Receiving Hillel keys were Deborah Cohen, A3, Brooklyn, N.Y.; Herb Holland, C3, Sioux City; Shirley Elman, A3, Davenport; Ernest Kipnis, G, Iowa City, and his wife, Mildred Kipnis.

Mr. and Mrs. Kipnis were awarded keys for their services as Hillel house chaperones.

The keys are awarded annually to students who have been outstanding in some phase of Hillel activity.

Miss Cohen has served as recording secretary, publicity chairman, dance group chairman and corresponding secretary.

Holland has been vice president of Hillel and chairman of the social committee. Miss Elman has been editor of the Hillel Eye newspaper, Inter-collegiate Zionist Federation of America president, and public relations chairman for Hillel.

Honorable mention for Hillel activities during the year went to Leah Woolf, A2, Woodstock, Ill.; Bob Lipshutz, C4, Sioux City; Alice Shakow, A3, Jack Kramer, M4, and Anita Schiller, A3, all of Chicago.

Banquet speaker Sunday was Prof. George L. Mosse of the SUI history department. He spoke on the value of education.

Presbyterians Plan Dinner for Choir

The Westminster choir of the First Presbyterian church, composed of about 50 SUI students, will be honored at a dinner tomorrow night by the Session, church ruling body.

The dinner will be held at 5:30 p.m. in the church parlors, Church Secretary Mrs. Owen Sutherland said yesterday.

The choir is under the direction of Prof. Thomas Muir of the SUI music department.

Planning the banquet are Elder and Mrs. Stephen Darling; Robert Ebel, director of the university examination service, and Elder and Mrs. L.R. Taylor.

Dr. Anderson to Give Paper at Dental Meet

Dr. L. D. Anderson, associate professor of operative dentistry, will give a paper and a clinic on dental amalgams at the North Dakota state dental meeting this week in Bismark.

The paper will supplement a new color film by the American Dental Association on the subject of dental amalgams.

'Going Places' — WSUI Program Wins Honor

Radio station WSUI's "Going Places" program has been named one of the outstanding educational radio programs for 1949, according to John Highlander, WSUI program director.

The program, produced and directed by Dave Stashower, A2, Cleveland Heights, Ohio, was awarded first place among the programs entered in the "in-school programs for intermediate grades" at the 13th annual American Exhibition of Educational Radio programs held in Columbus, Ohio last week.

Highlander said this was the first time WSUI has received such an award from the AEEER and that "it is a real honor for an educational station to win a 'first'" since most of the awards are won by commercial networks and stations.

The exhibition was part of the 19th Institute for Education by Radio held this year at Ohio State university in Columbus. Carl Menzer, director of WSUI, spoke on "The Institutionally Owned and Operated Television Station" during a symposium on "Television and Education" at the meeting of the Institute.

As part of the "Listen and Learn" series, the "Going Places" program is beamed each Friday afternoon at 2:15 to over 200 rural schools in this section of the state. It has about 3,000 children in its listening audience, Highlander said.

The "Going Places" programs are a series of tape-recorded visits by Stashower to places of interest that the children themselves may never have a chance to visit, Highlander said. The award was won for Stashower's recording of a trip in the cab of a Rock Island railroad "Rocket."

The citation commended the program "for giving children worthwhile vicarious experience, otherwise unavailable, and demonstrating the power of the out-of-studio microphone as an educative force."

The Association of Shirt and Pajama manufacturers is trying to find out why I don't wear pajamas, and I'm not sure if I like that idea or not.

"We would like to find out," said one of the association's spokesmen, "whether men are sleeping in their shorts; or perhaps even raw."

I don't know about the rest of you boys, but I'm going to lock my door tonight.

THE REASON why the association wonders about my sleeping attire is that their pajama sales have dropped considerably in the last year.

You see, they sold 88,440,000 pairs of shorts last year (an increase of 23 percent over 1946), and the pajama department came through with a piddling 18,752,400 pair.

It seems to me that these figures speak highly of the durability of the GI shorts. It is my idea that veterans have finally worn out the shorts that Sam distributed, and now, three years after the Disagreement, former Johns are turning to commercial skivvies.

THIS, of course does not take into consideration the decrease in pajama sales, but if anyone in the ASPM ever tried changing to p.j.'s before crawling into a GI sleeping bag, the loss of the pajama habit might become reasonably clear to them.

If the association is interested, I still have one pair of those old shorts left. I've stopped wearing them, though, because I hope to show them to my grandchildren someday as evidence of my participation in WW II.

These and my good conduct medal (pinned to the seat) may prove to be the background for some stirring war tales in the future.

FRANKLY, I'm happy to learn of the slack in pajama turn-over. For years I've been fighting pajamas over all sorts of domestic obstacles.

In the first place, pajamas are not comfortable. The average male turns over approximately 84 times in bed each night after he retires. That's a lot of turning and I, for one, don't want my turning any more inhibited than is absolutely necessary.

Most pajamas aren't properly equipped to anchor the pant legs and jacket sleeves securely in place. The last pair I had was back in 1940 (a Christmas present), and they lasted exactly 15 bed-time minutes before they balled up on me and cut off my circulation.

Dangerous business, if you ask me!

WOMENFOLK are on the side of ASPM, and they can think of more foolish excuses for a man to get himself all bound up in "sleeping attire." Adam was the only man I can think of who didn't have to put up with this sort of chit-chat, and he finally broke down and wore a fig leaf to bed. This is a poor time of year for fig leaves.

Probably the oldest argument womenfolk use in this area is the "what if the house catches on fire" question. The best answer I have come up with to this query is another question: "What if the bubonic plague would strike tonight?" That is irrelevant, but it serves to change the subject.

I WOULD a whole lot rather run out into the street in my o.d. skivvies in case of fire than let all those burly firemen see me in a set of blue, green and red Turkish harem-styled pajamas.

Surely no man ever really sleeps in a Valentino affair like that. It would be just my luck to get my nose caught in one of those fancy embroidered button-holes and suffocate in my sleep.

THE ASSOCIATION of Shirt and Pajama manufacturers is trying to find out why I don't wear pajamas, and I'm not sure if I like that idea or not.

"We would like to find out," said one of the association's spokesmen, "whether men are sleeping in their shorts; or perhaps even raw."

Labor Reefing In for Harder Times?

With more grace than thought possible, organized labor has succeeded in switching its "fourth round" contract demands from inflation-inspired provisions to deflation-inspired provisions.

Traditional demands for pay raises are still around as the nation's major unions prepare to enter contract negotiations. Part of the demands represent sincere goals on the part of some unions but, others seem to be smokescreens for the deflation-inspired provisions unions are beginning to ask for.

The CIO united steelworkers, often the nation's pacesetter in wage matters, illustrate the trend. Last week its 200-man wage policy committee listed its 149 askings: higher wages, guaranteed weekly wages, social insurance, pensions.

The steel unionists will undoubtedly point to the record first quarter steel profits in asking for a pay boost. But they will also point to those profits to justify management-financed security and welfare plans.

Philip Murray, president of both the steel union and the CIO, stated that the three main points to be demanded—wages, insurance and pensions—were of equal importance. He indicated none would be dropped at the expense of another.

This, in effect, elevates security provisions to the status of wage demands. What kind of security provisions do the steel unionists want?

First, a guaranteed minimum wage for each week worked. This is apparently aimed at cushioning the effects of a possible decline in steel production with resulting unemployment.

Social insurance demands include disability payments of $35 a week for periods up to a year; hospital and medical care up to 70 days; maximum hospitalization payments of $10 a day for wives and families of steel workers, and maternity care. All would be financed entirely by the employers.

Murray said the cost of the insurance program, including life insurance of every worker equivalent to a year and a half's pay, was estimated at 8.4 cents per hour per man. In addition, the unionists are preparing a pension plan.

Unions in other basic industries, besides steel—coal, auto and electrical goods—are also demanding more and bigger security benefits. It all adds up to one impending trend. Labor—and everyone else—is no longer tagging after a spiraling cost of living curve. Unions are getting down to real deep-seated goals—like winning a greater share of the country's produced wealth and insulating members from industrial insecurity.

The "fourth round" may be an inaccurate phrase. Coming negotiations will not necessarily be the fourth inflationary wage-raise period. They may, instead, herald the first recession round with both management and labor keenly aware of slackening times ahead.

It may be the period of strained labor-management relations; it may be the period when favorable labor legislation can swing decisions one way or the other; it may be a period when labor will turn more and more to politics. It will be, at any rate, a significant period for all concerned.

Exclusive Interview:

Iran's Shah Wants Security

(Editor's note: George H. Pival, United Press correspondent now touring the middle east, has obtained an exclusive personal interview with the Shah of Iran. It is the first interview the Shah has granted to any reporter for a long time.)

By GEORGE H. PIVAL

TEHRAN (U.P.)—The Shah of Iran, Mohammed Reza Pahlevi, declared yesterday that "Iran is an independent nation, and we will defend our independence to the last."

"As long as present international tensions remain, security is the first necessity for my country," he told The United Press in an exclusive interview. Russia has been pressuring Iran in an intense war of nerves.

The vigorous young ruler of modern Persia, who will be 30 years old in October, received this correspondent in a private drawing room of his modernistic palace in the center of the Iranian capital.

In fluent, forceful English, the Shah expressed his hopes for the future of his nation of 15-million: "Iran has an illustrious history of 6,000 years. This long history gives us the deep traditions and patriotism which today are our great strength.

"Because of our pivotal position, this history has often been a chaotic one, even in modern times. "Our primary tasks today are to secure our independence, guarantee justice and liberty, and raise our standards of living and literacy.

"We wish to create a new life for our people by raising our economic standards with modern methods and techniques. We hope that the seven-year plan will give us this economic development."

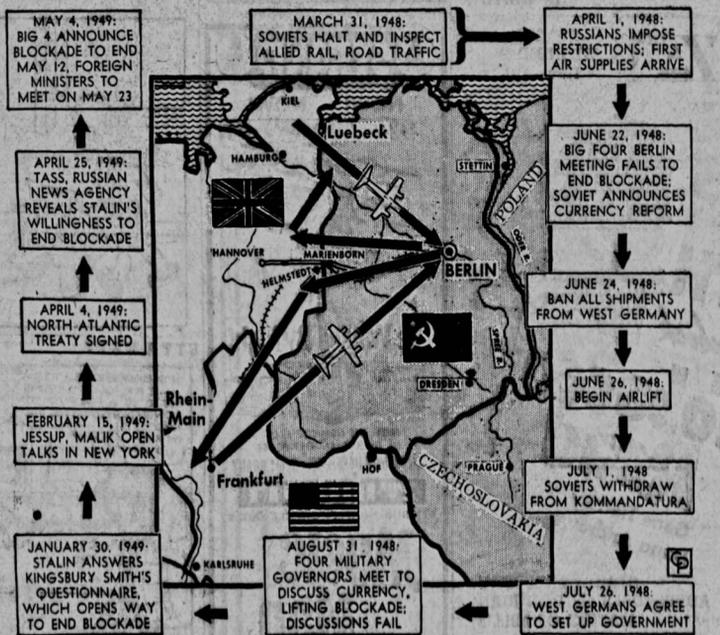

The seven-year plan, recently approved by parliament, incorporates the recommendations of a staff of American engineering, irrigation, health, sanitation, industrial, financial and administrative experts.

They were retained on a private basis by the Iranian government, as were two small training missions of American officers assigned to the Iranian army and gendarmerie.

The Shah appeared completely recovered from an assassination attempt on Feb. 4 when a news photographer, accused of Communist connections, fired five shots at a 10-foot range. Only a slight scar was noticeable where one bullet ripped through his upper lip and right cheek.

I'D RATHER BE RIGHT A Hot Time In Washington

By SAMUEL GRAFTON (New York Post Syndicate)

WASHINGTON — I've spent a couple of hot days in Washington, trying to decide whether it's hot for liberals or hot for conservatives. On the whole, I think it's hot for conservatives.

YOU MAY, if you voted for Truman, feel like moaning low because this congress hasn't put through a comprehensive program of social legislation during its first four months.

But you have to remember that no social legislation has been passed by congress since 1938. The wage-hour law, now eleven years old, was the last substantive social reform put on the books. Ever since then it has been a case of holding on, tinkering, repairing, or more often, wrecking.

BUT THIS YEAR the senate has already passed a good housing bill and a federal aid to education bill, and congress has given the Tennessee Valley authority its controversial steam power plant. For the first time since the long drought started in '39, the issue is how much social legislation we're going to add, not how much is going to be destroyed. Conservatives know it, and that is why they are sweating two drops to the liberals' one on these steaming streets.

IF YOU WANT a measure of the gains that liberal sentiment is making in this country, note that Senator Taft has sponsored and supported both the housing bill and the federal aid to education bill. Taft's voting record is a better barometer of the changes that are taking place in this country than are the editorial pages of the papers that support him.

THIS IS a transition congress, still uncertain as to whether it is the last conservative congress or the first liberal congress in more than a decade. Neither interpretation gives much comfort to the rightwingers. Even on the Taft-Hartley issue (of which I shall have more to say in another piece; the record isn't as bad as it can be made to appear.

IT IS a transition record. Of 178 candidates for the house who were supported by the CIO, 169 were electd. Of the 169, only five voted for the Wood bill — Ford of Michigan, Hoffman of Illinois, Gregory of Kentucky, Carlyle of North Carolina and Willis of Louisiana.

THE REMAINING 164 opposed the Wood proposal, which was, on essentials, the Taft - Hartley act, rewritten. But of the 108 members of the house who last year voted to override the President's veto of the Taft-Hartley act, and who managed to survive the election, 31 switched this year, and voted against the Wood bill.

It may be a slow, grinding change, but it is going on. And the mutterings in some labor circles are that rather than accept a weak compromise measure, one which still retains injunctions against strikes, it might be preferable for labor to live with the Taft-Hartley law and fight it out on the political level.

WE CAN EXPECT a transition congress to be a slow congress. As a matter of fact this one hasn't been as slow as it sometimes looks. The two chambers have been working in different fields, the senate on social legislation, the house on the major appropriations bills.

Actually, the house has passed these in record time; last year it was still struggling with appropriations deep into the summer. The house now has plenty of time to take up social legislation, without running into the "automatic filibuster" of a last-minute logjam of necessary measures.

I DON'T SAY everything is rosy; I say only that there are good fighting positions. I did hear complaints in labor quarters that the liberals, who took over the Democratic convention and platform last summer, don't fight hard enough within the party; that they are content to draw up good bills and accumulate good voting records, without striving sufficiently to avoid such confusing and even shattering surprises as the sudden attempt to swing the party behind the weak Sims compromise in place of the Lesinski repealer of the Taft-Hartley act.

All this is part of the stewing that's going on here. The important point is that the long drought is over, the thing is fluid again.

16-Million Hospitalized in '48

NEW YORK (U.P.) — More than 16-million patients were treated in American hospitals during last year being admitted at a rate of one every 1.9 seconds, a survey showed yesterday.

The length of stay per patient averaged 10.5 days, about a day less than in 1947, the survey also showed. In all, patient days in 6,335 hospitals added up to 445,478,364 days. Using a $10 a day for an average cost, hospitalization of the 16,422,774 patients probably cost around $4.5-billion during the year.

The survey, compiled and published by the American Medical association, further disclosed:

There are 1,423,520 hospital beds in the United States. That the average daily population in the hospitals is 1,217,154.

There are 664,399 persons in mental and nervous hospitals.

The number of tuberculosis hospitals is declining, an indication that more and more patients are being treated with streptomycin, reducing the necessity for hospitalization.

The use of hospitals for maternity care is increasing tremendously. During 1948, there were 2,794,281 hospital births as compared with 621,896 in 1929. The high mark, however, was set in 1947, with 2,837,139 hospital births.

The trend for shorter hospital stay is continuing. In the governmental general hospitals, the average length of stay dropped from 19.5 days to 17.9 days in 1948. In the non-governmental general hospitals, the length of stay dropped from 8.7 days to 8.2 days.

The AMA reported that in the overall picture, the average length of hospital stay has dropped by 5.4 days in the last three years.

The survey further showed that the non-governmental hospitals, although having only 28.4 percent of the hospital beds, admitted 12,132,283 patients during 1948. The government hospitals had 4,290,491 admissions, which included 128,942 in hospitals operated by the veterans administration.

UAW Has Finances for Long Ford Strike

DETROIT (U.P.) — The CIO united auto workers union is well heeled financially for a prolonged and expensive strike against the Ford Motor company.

The international union has $4-million in the till, and a spokesman said that amount "doesn't come close" to the money the UAW could raise in the event of a two or three months walkout.

The union discounted talk that it had been "mousetrapped" into a strike against Ford over assembly line speed ups last week, and wouldn't be able to afford as well a possible walkout against the company if agreement on a new contract can't be reached by the July 15 deadline.

"No UAW-CIO strike has ever been lost or even weakened because of a lack of finances," Walter Reuther, president of the auto workers, said.

"History shows we waged our longest and most hectic strike when our treasury was either non-existent or at a low ebb," he said.

The UAW does not pay regular strike benefits to workers. Instead the union takes care of hardship cases.

House Group To Question Florida Man

WASHINGTON (AP)—The house un-American activities committee plans to ask Paul Crouch, Miami newspaper employe, what he knows about the disappearance of Juliet Stuart Poyntz, former high Communist, in 1937.

Crouch, who says he was a Communist party official for nearly 20 years, is to testify here May 24.

He was reported to have provided some leads which committee officials believe may be valuable in the investigation of alleged Communist espionage in this country.

The disappearance of Mrs. Poyntz has been an unsolved mystery for more than a decade. The report quoting Crouch as saying she was slain was published in the New York World-Telegram.

Washington police said they had no evidence she was slain. Mrs. Poyntz's disappearance June 5, 1937. They added they had no evidence she was slain.

The name of the 51-year-old woman Communist still is carried on New York's missing persons file. She legally was declared dead in 1944.

Nor was it ever established, they said, that Mrs. Poyntz was "lured or kidnapped" to Soviet Russia because she "knew too much."

Such a claim was made in 1938 by Carlo Tresca, editor of an Italian language newspaper in New York. He was slain Jan. 11, 1943, and his killing never was solved.

A native of Omaha, Neb., and one-time history teacher at Barnard college, Mrs. Poyntz was the widow of Dr. Frederick L. Glaser, former attaché of the German consulate in New York.

Gets Wilson Award for German Studies

RECEIVING THE CHARLES BUNDEY WILSON memorial prize for outstanding work in German language and literature is William A. Shackelford Jr. (second from right), A4, Cincinnati, Ohio. Presenting the $25 check is Mrs. C. B. Wilson (center), widow of the former head of the SUI German department, in whose memory the prize is presented. Others shown witnessing the ceremony yesterday are (left to right) Mrs. Eric C. Wilson, Eric Wilson, SUI information service sports editor and son of Prof. and Mrs. C. B. Wilson, and Mrs. Shackelford.

'Super Salesman' Leaving - Recruiting Station to Close

Sgt. O.A. McClung will close the door of the airforce and army recruiting office in Iowa City's post office for the last time Thursday at 5 p.m.

McClung has enlisted or re-enlisted 116 men since he took charge of the recruiting station in July, 1947.

Among those whom he enlisted was a former student who had to be persuaded three times that the army was the place for him. McClung talked the fellow into going to Ft. Sheridan, Ill., but after the trip the boy wearied of army life and returned to Iowa City almost immediately.

This happened again and again. Finally after his third trip, the student stayed for good, convinced he "never had it so good," McClung related yesterday.

The youngest person who tried to enlist was on the light side of 16 and was turned down by McClung. At the other end of the age scale was the married 39-year-old with two children. McClung passed him with flying colors.

McClung, 30 years old and a native of West Virginia, is married and living in Coralville at the present time.

After serving 22 months in the four-year old station, he said he will be sent to the Muscatine recruiting station. He said he is closing the station in compliance with an army directive that will affect seven other stations in the Iowa-Nebraska district.

Sgt. M.L. Herdlika, who has been aiding McClung in the station, has been assigned to go to the Oskaloosa recruiting station.

Rev. Hotze Speaks At Catholic Center

The Rev. A.J. Hotze, a member of the faculty of the University of Pei Ping, China, spoke to members of the St. Thomas More auxiliary guild on life in China last night in the Catholic student center.

Father Hotze stressed the quiet, unexcited life of the Chinese people even during invasion.

The Chinese attitude seems to be "I don't care who is running the government just as long as they leave me and my family alone," remarked Father Hotze.

Using color slides, Father Hotze pointed out the beauty and perfect symmetry of Chinese architecture and design. Although the Chinese had no nails, compasses or modern tools, they created art in their temples and buildings with which "Americans have nothing to compare," Father Hotze said.

Civil Rights Group Forms on Campus

The purpose of the group, Kyle explains, is to study cases of racial discrimination and to find their possible solution.

bring one guest, the committee said. Reservations at $1.50 per person should be made by May 20.

Graduates of 1944 have been requested through letters to send information on themselves to Mrs. Cline, 27 Olive court, so the committee can compile a bulletin on the class of '44.

Shackelford Wins C. B. Wilson Prize

The tenth annual Charles Bunday Wilson Memorial prize of $25 for outstanding work at SUI in German language and literature was awarded yesterday to William A. Shackelford Jr., A4, Cincinnati, Ohio.

A memorial to the head of the SUI German department from 1888 till 1932, the prize was instituted by Professor Wilson's widow in 1939.

The prize is paid from interest earned by $1,000 donated by Mrs. Wilson.

Yesterday's ceremonies were held in Professor Wilson's former office, 101 Schaeffer hall. A corner of the room is now a memorial library consisting of books donated by Mrs. Wilson, including many from Professor Wilson's library.

A short talk on the history of the prize and on Professor Wilson's connection with SUI was given by Prof. Erich Funke, present head of the German department.

The British film, produced by J. Arthur Rank, will be shown twice daily with extra matinees Saturday and Sunday. Seats for all performances will be reserved.

The movie uses the basic plot as written by Andersen with a contemporary romance interwoven into the film story. A parallel theme of a full-length ballet is presented as a story-within-a-story.

Try and Stop Me

From Delos Avery comes a story of the legendary tyrant Ying-Nu, who was husband to a hundred surpassingly beautiful wives. For a time, all was bliss in the household, then a tragic day arrived.

"One of you incredibly lovely ladies," he announced to them sadly from his golden throne, "apparently has been betraying my secrets to my enemies. It would break my heart to discover which one it is. I must let the somewhat harsh law take its course. Let each tenth one of you come forth, for ten must die."

But when Ying-Nu beheld the tears of the ten and observed their reluctance to have their heads chopped off, his stern features relaxed. "No, no," he cried. "It shall not be! Am I not known as a man of some compassion? There shall be instead a feast with wine and music. Come!"

And Ying-Nu gently led the ten away, whispering softly to the executioner as he passed, "Off with the heads of the other ninety!"

Council Authorizes Purchase Of Twelve Traffic Signals

Iowa City aldermen last night authorized purchase of 12 traffic signals at a cost of $43,940. The move was an effort to beat the restrictions put on use of parking meter funds by an act of the recent Iowa legislature, City Atty. William H. Bartley said.

Four actuated signals were purchased from H.B. Allen company, Des Moines. They will be installed at the corners of West Benton street and Riverside Drive, Burlington at Capital and Dodge streets and Iowa avenue at Riverside Drive.

Six pre-timed signals were authorized. They will be installed on Dubuque street at Market, College, and Jefferson streets, on Clinton street at College and Washington streets and on College at Gilbert street.

A push button signal was authorized at Dubuque and Prentiss streets and a push button-actuated signal at Burlington and Summit streets.

Consulting Engineer Ned L. Ashton got authorization to revise plans and costs for widening the Burlington street bridge from 40 feet to a figure that would meet the requirements of state and federal authorities for outside financial aid.

A $5,000 payment plus interest was ordered for the council's debt on the municipal parking lot on College street to Cora and Calvin T. Hoskins.

The council heard a communication from the federal works authority asking that funds advanced for planning a new city hall be returned or accounted for. The communication was referred to the public grounds and building committee.

In other actions the council: 1. Gave first reading to an ordinance requiring speed limits in alleys to be 10 miles an hour. 2. Purchased a pest exterminator spraying machine from Messer Bros., Cedar Rapids, for $1,450.

Concert to Present 'London Symphony' Adapted by English

Tomorrow's presentation of Ralph Vaughan-Williams' "London Symphony" by the combined SUI varsity and concert bands will mark the first public presentation of Albert English's transcription of the work.

English's arrangement was done as a master's thesis at SUI last August. Prof. C.B. Righter, director of SUI bands, said that English intends to be present at the concert.

The program for tomorrow's 8 p.m. concert in the Iowa Union includes in the first section, "Introduction and Bourree" by Handel; an overture "In Springtime" by Goldmark; the fourth movement and epilogue from "London Symphony" by Vaughan-Williams and a selection from "Ballet Sylvia" by Delibes.

Prof. Philip Greeley Clapp head of the SUI school of music, will be the piano soloist for the second section of the concert. He will play Beethoven's "Concerto in C Minor."

The final section of the concert will include "Overture" from "Mardi Gras in New Orleans" by DeRubertis; "Triumphal March" by Shostakovich; "Choral Prelude" from "We All Believe in One God" by Bach and "Farandole" from "L'Arlesienne," a suite by Bizet.

Cattle Truck Hits Crandic Overpass

CRANDIC PASSENGERS STARE as the interurban passes over where a semi-truck loaded with cattle hit the overpass on the east approach of the Iowa avenue bridge at 9:22 p.m. Sunday. Damage to the trailer, which had just been pulled from under the overpass, was estimated at $1,000.

Vehicle Damages Total $1,275

A semi-truck struck the interurban overpass near the east approach of the Iowa avenue bridge Sunday at 9:22 p.m., police said, causing $1,000 damage to the top of the trailer rack, and injuring a leg of one of the 21 animals in the trailer.

James Brown, 31, Wahoo, Neb., driver of the truck, said he made a wrong turn onto Iowa avenue from Riverside drive, and because of the rain, he underestimated the low clearance of the overpass. Brown and a passenger, Bob Yarman, escaped injury, police said.

Another accident Sunday at 6:30 p.m. caused a total of $200 damage, police said, when cars driven by Harold Hamann, E1, Sundry, and Paul A. Chalupsky, E3, La Porte City, collided on Riverside drive near Grove street.

Hamann estimated damage to the grill and radiator of his car at $150; Chalupsky said the rear of his vehicle received $50 damage.

Max E. Shirk, L1, Conrad, reported a car turned over in a ditch on highway 6 between Dinty's Trailer park and the Blue Top cabins, police said.

Patrolmen said they investigated the report and were told a passing motorist stopped and assisted in putting the overturned car back on the road.

An accident Saturday at 6:45 p.m. involving a car and a motor scooter, resulted in $75 damage to the car but no damage to the scooter, police said.

According to the accident report, the car driven by Glenn J. Means, 309 E. Fairchild street, was going west on Bloomington street and the scooter was driven south on Lucas street by Eugene E. Janko, 1510 Sheridan avenue, when the collision occurred.
