DM Loan Company Held Up; Woman Employee Shot in Leg

DES MOINES (AP)—A woman employe of a finance company thought a holdup here yesterday was a joke. She was shot and wounded for laughter.

She is Miss Virginia Leo, 21, a clerk in the Aetna Finance company office.

Don Croskey, assistant manager, said a man who identified himself as "Thomas" entered the office for the third time at 2 p.m. and asked to apply for a loan.

In the interviewing booth, Croskey said, the man pulled a gun and said, "This is a stickup."

He then directed Broskey to call all the office employes into the booth. Miss Leo was the first to enter.

Thought It a Joke

Standing in the doorway, Miss Leo saw the gun. Thinking the man was joking, she laughed. Apparently angered, the man fired. The bullet grazed Miss Leo's leg and penetrated an office partition. The slug lodged in the far wall of the adjoining office.

Winnifred Armour, another employe, said: "Virginia laughed when she saw the gun, thinking it was a joke. The man fired. Virginia screamed and so did I. The man dashed out of the office, into the hall and down the stairway."

Pursued by employes, he dropped his hat on the stairs which were the only exit. He got no money.

Been There Before

Croskey said the man had been in the office twice before during the day but left, apparently because the crowd was too large. Croskey described the man as in his 30's, about five feet 10 inches tall and weighing 200 pounds.

Miss Leo's wound was described as not serious. Police said the man fitted descriptions of the bandit who escaped with $798 Monday from an Iowa City loan company after slugging the manager.

Salesmen Tell Hearing Fight In Room 729

CEDAR RAPIDS (AP)—A brief struggle was heard and an anguished cry—"Stop, you're killing me"—rang through the seventh floor of the Roosevelt hotel the day Byron C. Hattman of St. Louis was slain, witnesses testified yesterday.

L.W. Sheets and Eugene E. Potstock, Des Moines traveling men, took the stand in the murder trial of Dr. Robert C. Rutledge, 27, St. Louis baby specialist, near the end of an otherwise quiet court session.

Potstock, who said he was in a room directly below Hattman's, said he heard a "very brief" struggle overhead and "a human voice moaning."

Rutledge—who is 28 today—is charged with the "love triangle" slaying last December of Hattman, a 29-year old aircraft instrument designer. The state charges the pediatrician stabbed Hattman during a quarrel over the latter's attentions to Rutledge's wife, Sydney, 23. Defense counsel says Hattman "debauched" Mrs. Rutledge.

Clothing—including a blood-encrusted shirt—allegedly worn by Hattman at the time of his death, was admitted as state's evidence over the strenuous objections of the defense. Other items introduced by Assistant County Attorney David Elderkin included socks, shoes, underwear shorts, trousers and necktie.

Both Sheets and Potstock said the disturbance about which they testified occurred about 5:45 p.m. The state claims Rutledge lay in wait for Hattman starting at about 2 p.m.

Sheets, a state witness, said he had a room several doors down from the one occupied by Hattman last December 14. Upon hearing the outcry, he said, he walked a few steps down the hall to peer along a cross hall. Seeing nothing unusual and hearing nothing further, he returned to his room, he stated.

Earlier, Hattman's empty billfold and his wrist watch were admitted as state's evidence, along with a hotel key and towel, and 14 of 17 photographs of the death scene submitted.

County Attorney William W. Crisman said the billfold was found beside Hattman's body in room 729. Robbery and extortion were among the motives listed by Crisman for the slaying.

Des Moines Bandit Fits Description of Local Loan Robber

Police Chief E. J. Ruppert said he was notified by Des Moines police yesterday that the man who failed in a robbery attempt there yesterday afternoon fits the description of the bandit who robbed the Iowa City Household Finance corporation office of $798 Monday at 4:50 p.m.

Local police described the man as 25-years-old, five feet 10 inches tall, 170 pounds, with blond receding hairline. They said he was wearing a brown felt hat, similar to one left behind by the Des Moines gunman during his escape. Gray gabardine trousers, and a tan sports jacket.

R.W. Lund, 27, manager of the Iowa City office of Household Finance, said the bandit came to the second floor loan office just before closing time at 5 p.m.

When Mrs. John Englund, office secretary, approached the counter, the man drew a gun and ordered her and Lund to step farther back in the main office, Lund said.

Maurice Rice, 9 S. Linn street, entered the office as the gunman backed up to close the door, Lund said, and the bandit ordered Rice to join the others behind the counter.

Lund declared he was forced at gunpoint to tie and gag his secretary and Rice with 10 feet of plastic clothesline and two chamois skins. Police said investigation disclosed these were purchased from the Firestone store, 22 South Dubuque street, about 4:45 p.m. Monday.

After Rice and Mrs. Englund were bound and gagged, Lund said the thief commented, "Well, I wasn't counting on three of you here," several times.

Police said Lund was ordered to turn his back to the gunman at this point and the manager was slugged on the head with the gun. Lund was taken to Mercy hospital by ambulance, after police were notified, and three stitches were taken to close a scalp wound.

Arrest Virginia Youth For Church Murder

ROANOKE, VA. (AP)—Police last night lodged a formal murder charge against Lee Scott, 16, accused of murdering young Dana Marie Weaver in the parish house of Christ Episcopal church on Sunday.

Scott was put in jail atop the municipal building, instead of being turned over to juvenile authorities.

Bandit Leaves Empty-Handed, Hatless

A WOULD-BE BANDIT of a Des Moines finance company is now hatless. Des Moines Detective Omar Beardsley looks at the hat dropped by a man after he unsuccessfully attempted to rob the Aetna Finance company yesterday. The man fired at and wounded a woman clerk who at first thought the stick-up "was a joke." An assistant manager of the company said the bandit fit the description of the man who held up the Household Finance company at Iowa City Monday.

A Wet Day All Around in Brooklyn

NEW YORK (UP)—It rained in Brooklyn yesterday. Three-year-old Mark Armstrong couldn't go outside to play. His grandmother, Mrs. Ida Perlmutter, gave him a toy tool chest. He went into the bathroom, locked the door and nailed it shut with three-inch nails. Then he turned on the water in the bathtub and lavatory. Mrs. Perlmutter screamed. Neighbors called police who knocked down the door. "I forgot to thank them," Mark said when they left. "I will next time."

Ford Strike Continues As Peace Talks Fail

DETROIT (AP)—The first peace talks since the start of the six-day Ford strike broke up yesterday with no settlement in sight.

Another session was scheduled today at 10 a.m. As the talks went on, more Ford plants across the nation prepared to lay off 14,000 workers and shut down at the end of the day's operations.

The strike of 65,000 workers hit Ford's Rouge and Lincoln-Mercury plants last Thursday. President Walter Reuther of the CIO united auto workers said the company asked for the recess "to discuss its position."

Reuther said the union had not changed its position on the "speed-up" issue "because our original position was basically correct."

"We have decided there will be no other issues injected into these negotiations except those out of which this strike grew," he declared. Union speed-up charges apply only to Lincoln - Mercury and the final assembly building of the Rouge plant.

Officials of the Ford Motor company have estimated that nearly all of its 106,000 production workers in 49 plants will be affected by next Monday if the strike continues.

Report Drive On Shanghai

SHANGHAI (WEDNESDAY) (AP)—The Communists threw 200,000 troops at the gates of Shanghai today in the long-awaited opening of their offensive to take the biggest city in China.

An official communique of the Shanghai garrison command reported that the big push was opened last night in a two-pronged drive from the west, 30 miles from Shanghai's walls.

Three Communist armies were reported locked in struggle with Nationalist defenders and being met by government warplanes operating from two fields within the Shanghai defense perimeter. The perimeter extends around the embattled city in a semi-circle 30 miles to the west and approximately 60 miles to the southwest.

Bugas' wife, Margaret, gave birth to a six-pound 14-ounce boy yesterday. (Note sponge carried in the palm of Reuther's hand for exercising the fingers of his injured arm.)

Fusion Ticket Swamps Foes

JERSEY CITY (AP)—Former Mayor Frank ("I Am the Law") Hague's undisputed 32-year rule over Jersey City politics was smashed last night when his five hand-picked candidates for the municipal commission were crushingly defeated by a fusion ticket.

Thousands of Jersey City residents danced in the streets as John V. Kenny, formerly a trusted Hague lieutenant, broke the reign of the 73-year-old "boss" by carrying a slate of "Freedom Ticket" candidates to victory in every position on the five-man city commission, assuring himself of the mayoralty.

Incumbent Mayor Frank Hague Eggers, Hague's nephew, conceded defeat in his drive for reelection at 10:05 p.m. before the returns were complete. "It is the will of the people," Eggers said.

Kenny, head of the city's new administration, announced immediately that he would appear before Superior Court Judge William J. Brennan this morning and demand that all records of the late Eggers administration be impounded until the "Freedom ticket" takes over next Tuesday.

Every one of the "Freedom Ticket" candidates swamped his opposite on the Hague ticket and won more votes than even Mayor Eggers himself.

Complete unofficial returns gave Kenny, a wealthy contractor, 81,117 votes. He was high man. Lowest man on the fusion "Freedom Ticket" was James F. Murray Sr., with 73,448 votes.

The Hague forces were led by Philip McGovern who received 59,358 ballots. Eggers was second on his ticket and seventh in the balloting with 59,231 votes.

A record high vote of 143,541 ballots was cast in the election.

The five new city commissioners who were elected individually and not in a bloc, will vote among themselves and elect one of their number as mayor. Since all of them were "Freedom Ticket" candidates, it was considered assured that Kenny would be Jersey City's next mayor.

Citizens Rent Control Group Picks J. Wiley

JAMES E. WILEY, 123 1-2 S. Clinton street, last night was named chairman of a "Citizens Committee for Rent Control" by a non-partisan group meeting at the Community building to discuss local rent issues.

The public meeting, sponsored by the Young Progressives' committee on rent control, was held to discuss plans to fight a possible rent decontrol action in the city council by Iowa City landlords, Charlotte Leavitt, president of the Young Progressives' committee, said.

Such action was deemed necessary because of the provisions in the new federal rent control bill allowing local governments to determine whether rent controls should continue in their respective localities, she said.

The "Citizens Committee for Rent Control" was formed to encourage renters and other interested persons to petition the city council to retain rent controls in the interest of the public.

Mrs. Lucy Kaplan, 301 1-2 S. Dubuque street, a rent control committee member, said it is a well-known fact that local landlords are planning to petition the city council for rent decontrol in August, when SUI students and faculty members will not be here to participate in council meetings to fight the issue.

Another public meeting will be held on April 19 to continue discussions of the rent issue and plan other ways to interest city officials in retention of rent controls.

Time and place of the meeting will be announced later.

Senate Committee OK's $2,455,500 For Coralville Dam

Included in a senate appropriations committee approval yesterday, was a $2,455,500 allotment for work on the Coralville dam. The Associated Press reported.

This figure was part of $722,690,690 for flood control projects of the army engineers in the year beginning July 1. Congress appropriated $700,000 for the dam and reservoir project during the present fiscal year ending June 30.

First phase of the Coralville project may be started by July 4. Col. R.L. Dean, district army engineer at Rock Island, reported.

Location of the dam and reservoir is four miles south of Iowa City's north city limits, just south of the point where Turkey creek enters the Iowa river.

The earth dam will be 1,400 feet wide at the base and 22 feet wide at the top.

Mickey Haefner Hurls 1-Hitter

Nats' Southpaw Tops Tribe, 1-0

CLEVELAND (AP) — A first-inning single was the only safe hit the Cleveland Indians got yesterday as Southpaw Mickey Haefner hurled the Washington Nationals to a 1-0 victory, the Senators' eighth straight.

It was the first one-hitter of the major league season.

Haefner's knuckle ball didn't strike out a single Tribe batter, but the hefty little 36-year-old lefthander had the vaunted Cleveland hitting power completely subdued.

He walked four men and in the ninth inning hit Larry Doby — the only Indian who had hit him safely. Doby got around to third on Ray Boone's sacrifice and Joe Gordon's ground-out. He was the only Indian to get that far. Ken Keltner walked, and Mickey Vernon grounded to Sherry Robertson to end the game and Cleveland's only serious threat against Haefner's shutout.

Steve Gromek, Cleveland righthander, allowed the Nats only seven hits, but two of them were singles in the fourth inning before and after a base on balls. Robertson got the first of those singles and scored when Eddie Robinson rapped the second base hit to right field.

The victory gave Washington a surprising sweep of the three-game series here. It was achieved by Haefner in spite of weather so chilly (53-55 degrees) and so windy that the 6,208 paying customers were told they could turn in their rain checks for tickets to another game.

Haefner put the Indians down in order in the sixth, seventh and eighth innings.

Iowa's Bresnahan Honored

Former Hawkeye Track and Field Coach Joins Track Greats in Helms Hall of Fame

By EVERETT MONTGOMERY

Former SUI track and field Coach George T. Bresnahan was one of the 46 track and field coaches and athletes selected by the Los Angeles sports editors to join other track greats in the Helms Hall of Fame.

Bresnahan retired as head track and field coach last year and was succeeded by a former protegee, Francis Cretzmeier. In his 28 years of coaching at Iowa, his men had won 35 conference titles and five men have won national honors.

A graduate of Wisconsin in 1915, Bresnahan took over the Hawkeye track team in 1921 and in 1922 guided the Hawks to the runner-up spot in the Big Ten outdoor championships.

He brought Iowa its first conference crown in the 1926 indoor meet.

While a student at Wisconsin, Bresnahan competed for three years in track, running everything from the 440-yard dash to cross country. He was captain of the Badger's 1915 Big Ten championship cross country team.

During Bresnahan's 28-year reign at Iowa the Hawks won two conference indoor titles and gained the runner-up position three times outdoors and once indoors. They placed third in the indoor meet four times and once on the outdoor track.

Eight Hawks under Bresnahan's tutelage have been members of Olympic teams, one of them twice. First of these men was Eric Wilson, present editor of sports information service. Two of them were Olympic champions.

Ed Gordon, two-time Olympic team member posted a world's record in the broad jump in the 1932 games at the Los Angeles coliseum. Another Hawk, the late George Sailing wrote a new Olympic and world 110-meter high hurdles mark of 14.1 in the '32 games.

Other Bresnahan coached men who won Olympic berths are Harold Phelps, Chan Coulter, Charles Brookins, Frank Cuhel and George Baird. Coulter is now a member of the Iowa City school board.

Bresnahan cooperated with W. W. Tuttle, professor of physiology in writing a book "Track and Field Athletics." The book was made possible by contributions and aid from some of the better known track men in the country, he said.

His book has been "almost unanimously adopted" throughout the United States, by the Netherlands for the Olympic teams and the U.S. Army Special Services.

Bresnahan is now an assistant professor here in the physical education department.

He was inducted into the Helms Hall of Fame at the University of California at Berkeley in 1948.

Dixie Objects To NCAA's 'Sanity Code'

ATLANTA (AP) — The president of the Southeastern conference doesn't foresee a Dixie revolt over the National Collegiate Athletic association's sanity code.

Many of the southern college officials have no love for the code, adopted by the NCAA in January, 1948. They're to meet here May 28, to discuss amendments, which would be submitted to the NCAA. The Southeastern, Southern and Southwest conferences will be represented.

"There is no indication of a rebellion on the part of the Southeastern conference," said Dr. Balek Van Leer, president of the conference and of Georgia Tech.

The issue was revived Monday when two sports editors — William Keefe of the New Orleans Times — Picayune and Johnny Bradberry of the Atlanta Constitution — wrote in their columns that resentment against the code in the south might flare into the open this month.

The penalty for violation is suspension from the NCAA.

Under the code financial aid may be granted to athletes only if the same aid is available under the same conditions to all students of the institution.

Prior to its adoption, Southeastern conferences colleges gave grants-in-aid to promising athletes — principally football players — graduating from high school. The grants consisted of tuition, room and board, books, laundry and $10 a month spending money.

None would predict yesterday that they would secede from the national organization and play among themselves in that event.

Leib Comments . . .

Iowa City (AP) — The president of the National Collegiate Athletic association said yesterday he felt "it would be premature to comment on any proposed actions" against the NCAA's sanity code.

Dr. K.E. Leib of the University of Iowa added that he saw no reason to comment "until any opposition becomes definite enough to know just what is under consideration."

He said many of the leading colleges of the United States have felt the code "represents the minimum standards to preserve amateurism as distinguished from professionalism in college sports."

Browns Beat Bosox On Priddy's Homer

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The lowly St. Louis Browns could muster only three hits yesterday but one of them was a ninth-inning home run by Jerry Priddy that gave the Browns a 2-1 verdict over the Boston Red Sox and snapped their losing streak at ten straight.

One of the other two hits off Charlie Stobbs was a double by Priddy that sent Dick Kokos home with the Brown's other counter, in the third inning.

Red Embree yielded only four safeties, one of them Ted Williams' sixth homer of the year, to get credit for his first victory. He is charged with four defeats.

A's Get Three Hits But Top Sox, 5-0

CHICAGO (AP) — The Philadelphia Athletics blended three scattered singles with 11 bases on balls to defeat the Chicago White Sox 5-0, before 9,361 persons last night in the first Comiskey park night game of the new season.

Joe Coleman pitched the distance on a yield of five hits to gain his second victory against three losses as the A's scored all their runs in two innings — a two-run third and three-run eighth.

He was out of action most of last season because of a sore throwing arm, but was extremely popular with Louisville fans. He was the property of the Boston Red Sox.

He collapsed on a Melbourne street and died two hours later. Connelly was 53 years old and a former lord mayor of Melbourne.

Newhouser Shelled As Yankees Speed Past Tigers, 6-1

DETROIT (AP) — The New York Yankees combined six timely hits with seven walks yesterday to hand Allie Reynolds a 6-1 decision over Hal Newhouser and the Detroit Tigers.

Reynolds yielded six hits and five walks. But the Yankees came up with four double plays to nip some Tiger scoring threats.

Newhouser was knocked from the box in the ninth for the second time in a row.

Sam Breadon, Former Cardinal Prexy, Dead at 72 of Cancer

ST. LOUIS (UP)—Sam Breadon, a gray-headed gentleman who lifted the St. Louis Cardinals to Baseball's heights, died yesterday at St. John's hospital.

Breadon, 72, had been ill of cancer for some time.

The former baseball magnate, whose club won more National league pennants than any other team, entered the hospital in late March for a periodic checkup. He never left.

Breadon left instructions in his will that his funeral services are to be so private that the public is not to learn where, when and how he is buried, the family attorney, Lon Hoehner, disclosed.

Breadon was president of the Cardinals for 27 years, from 1920 until he sold the team to Robert E. Hannegan and Fred M. Sain Jr., the present owner, on Nov. 26, 1947, when his health began to fail.

Breadon's climb to success was a saga of thrift, shrewdness and industry. He was a struggling mechanic, fresh from his native New York, when he started his career at the St. Louis world's fair in 1904.

He gambled his earnings on popcorn, sold at the fair. With that stake, he became one of the city's leading automobile dealers. In 1917 he invested $200 in the pitifully weak Cardinals.

He became president of the Cardinals in 1920 and picked up enough stock to become majority share-holder as well by 1923.

The Cardinals, under Breadon, won nine national league pennants and captured the world series six times.

Eager Birds Pick Lab as Nest Site

Eagerest birds in town are the robins trying to build nests in one of the biochemistry laboratories on the fifth floor of the chemistry building.

The friendly birds enter the room through open windows carrying bits of string and twigs, and an occasional candy bar wrapper, and head for the top of a metal ventilator hood located near the ceiling.

Students in the laboratory reported they spent a busy day yesterday trying to discourage the birds from nesting in the "lab."

MUSIC STYLED FOR YOU

The telephone received quite a workout Monday because of the Sunday Haul about Mother's Day.

It seems that a great many student fathers forgot their wives are mothers. By writing about Mother's Day, I aided in heaping coals on an already hot spot of resentment.

The fellows who forgot to bring home a box of candy or a bunch of flowers failed to explain to their tearful spouses that they still seem more like sweethearts than mothers.

BY TEN o'clock Sunday morning, it was obvious that Mother's Day had been forgotten by many fathers, and it began to look like a blown-in-the-bottle rebellion was about to cork off.

Irate groups of mothers gathered together over cups of coffee to discuss the horrible pass things had come to, and anything in trousers could at best expect to receive only a burning glance from the corner of red-rimmed eyes.

Adding to the difficulties was a four-year-old girl who tumbled from one galled group to another, saying proudly, "My mommie isn't mad. My daddy brought her a big box of candy and took her breakfast to her while she was still in bed!"

To this the mothers glared and growled even more, and the fathers muttered, "Get away, little girl. Ya bother me."

TRYING TO square himself, one of the harried fathers reminded his wife that he had given her permission to go downtown and buy herself a present earlier in the week, and that she failed to do so.

To this the mothers turned with vigor. They did not want to buy their own presents. That is not the way things are done. They would rather receive the ugliest, most useless impractical gift in the world, and have it come with the correct spirit.

It's the spirit that counts.

A YOUNG doctor at the University hospitals ran into more trouble than a bear coon treed in a lilac bush. At 7 a.m. his wife and a neighboring mother started out to play their first game of tennis since last Mother's Day, and then discovered they were without tennis balls.

The doctor was to stay with the children, but when he learned of their plight he decided he might as well pop off for a round of golf, thus leaving mother on Mother's Day with the kiddies. This move was not exactly considered tactful in the light of his failure to produce anything in the way of a gift.

His final error was to poll all his doctor friends at the hospital and come home to report that all the doctors except one had forgotten that it Mother's Day, and that one was a "darned perfectionist."

EVERYONE WAS trying to do the right thing, though, and when another father asked his wife what she would like to do in the way of celebrating Mother's Day, she said she wanted to go to a movie all by herself.

And go to the movie she did, leaving daddy home with two energetic youngsters. When it came time for the baby's feeding, the only thing the 13-month-old boy would eat was beans. Taking most of the afternoon to do it, the little fellow ate 45 beans in all, and then gaped in daddy's textbook. Happy Mother's Day!

FOR EXPERT advice in this sort of situation I should refer you to my father. Remember that statement: It's the spirit that counts?

My mother is a happy woman with the salt and pepper shakers (in the shape of miniature skunks) she received from him on Mother's Day. He had meant to give her an umbrella, but forgot which store ordered it for him.

Personality Sketch: Fascists in Britain Flock to Mosley

By JAMES G. McGLINCY LONDON (AP)—Sir Oswald Mosley, Britain's No. 1 fascist leader, predicted yesterday that he would come to power "the minute the last American dollar is given to Britain."

"There will be an economic crisis and we will be needed to take over," he said. Two chief points in his program, Mosley said are: 1—Send the overflow of world Jews who can not get into Palestine to Ethiopia, to share the country with the natives, by agreement with the Ethiopian government.

2—Europe should take over Africa, move the natives to the tropical northern part and use the south for exploitation as the answer to Europe's economic problems. Mosley, sixth baronet, was educated at the exclusive Winchester "public school" and at Sandhurst, the British West Point. He started out in politics as a Conservative, became an independent, went over to the Labor party and became chancellor of the duchy of Lancaster in the cabinet.

He spent most of the war in prison as a subversive after leading his "British Union of Fascists," strongly pro-Nazi, in the years before the war. He is 52 and wealthy.

Now he has given his fascist movement the new look. He says he is no longer an intense nationalist but is working in favor of a European union. His movement is now called "Union," as is his newspaper. He has put his party back into politics and his men have clashed frequently with Communists at meetings.

That was why the government recently banned all political parades indefinitely, and why the police are present in hundreds at his meetings. Mosley speaks several times a week.

At his meetings, sometimes held in working class pubs, his followers jam so tightly together they can hardly move. Fuzzy-faced teen-aged boys stand on benches and yell "hell!" Grown men and women, middle-aged couples, gray-haired grandmothers applauded.

Mosley stalks to the platform, a set politician's smile on his face, raising his arm in salute and returning the "hells." Many plain clothed detectives are scattered in the audience. Outside a police inspector has up to several hundred men parked unobtrusively in groups nearby. Mosley is surrounded by bodyguards and his strong arm squads await any leftist invasion.

I talked to some of the audience at a recent meeting. They

THE STIFF-ARMED fascist salute, which went out of style along with Hitler and Mussolini, is revived by admirers of Sir Oswald Mosley as Mosley arrives in an open car in London for a gathering of his Union movement.

Living Alone and Nobody Likes It —

Whatever Russia's long-range plans may be, her present actions manifest a strong desire to stay apart — isolated — from the rest of the world.

Moscow has chosen to paint in opposition to outside influences — music and science must conform to Soviet thought. History is being rewritten by Soviet chroniclers to emphasize Soviet leadership in the development of nearly every invention or innovation in the books. News favored by someone else's propaganda must be blacked out before it reaches a Russian radio.

The nationalism-isolationism is alarming when it comes from a nation whose pattern has been a world society of communism. What's up?

The people in Russia today are being isolated from the rest of the world. They are being indoctrinated in the belief that they have progressed beyond all other nations in material and cultural affairs.

Japan enjoyed a period of isolation from 1600 until 1853; China lived alone and liked it during the Ming dynasty. Even little Paraguay for 30 years isolated itself until 1840.

Tibet is still a far-away place, penetrated by few travellers and many imaginations. But Tibet is not a great world power.

Besides that, isolationism is much more difficult today than it was when continents were linked only by slow sailing craft.

Russia is finding out that ideas can be transported across borders that may be closed to trade. The cold war of the kilocycles has begun in earnest as he Russians jam "Voice of America" broadcasts and the "Voice" branches out to circumvent jamming.

But as Russia tightens censorship, the west increases its pressures to break it. As Russia appears to be afraid to let its citizens see the outside world, the west appears to be just as afraid of a purposeful, single-minded, nationalistic country breaking loose again on a master race, master nation principle.

Samuel Grafton, of the New York Post, writing from Washington said: "This is a transition congress, still uncertain as to whether it is the last conservative congress or the first liberal congress in more than a decade. Neither interpretation gives much comfort to the rightwingers."

A writer for David Lawrence's U.S. News & World Report, commenting from Washington said: "The trend toward a welfare state is to go on. The trend, however, is to be slower than many expected after the November election. Speed is not to be much different under Mr. Truman and a Democratic congress than it would have been under Dewey and a Republican congress. It will be a bit faster, but not much."

No wonder the casual observer is puzzled. With all the profound observations they can sweep together, the experts shrug the 81st congress off by conceding that, perhaps, the American political thought has taken a baby-step to the left.

What they are saying in effect is that the complex congress and the trends it represents will not be understood or appreciated until long after it has gone.

The UN both have two major organs, similar in make-up.

The council of Europe has a committee of ministers, a kind of cabinet, corresponding to the UN's security council. In this committee each member will have a veto over most important issues. In the security council only the five big powers can veto.

The council will have a consultative assembly, corresponding to the UN's general assembly. In the general assembly there is no veto and each country has only one vote.

But in the council of Europe's assembly the various countries have different voting strength, based on the populations.

SCOTCH ARE HEALTHY LONDON (AP)—The Scotsman's healthier than he ever was before, according to the annual health report of the department of health for Scotland. What's more, fewer of his brothers and sisters and "wee bairns" (infants) are dying than ever before recorded in the history of Scotland.

Council of Europe Tames Veto

LONDON (AP)—Members of the new council of Europe admit that the veto in international affairs is here to stay, but they refuse to admit that Communist governments should be allowed to stay around and exercise it.

The 10-nation council, scheduled to start work late this summer, is modelled after the United Nations, but the council planners have tried to avoid some of the problems which have plagued the UN.

They are seeking to assure harmony in the new organization by:

1. Strengthening and widening the power of the veto.
2. Make it easy to expel any member state which gets too far out of step.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

IN A wrecked Italian cathedral, bewildered American officers discovered an old wooden sword carefully preserved in a glass case near the altar. This is how it got there.

A pompous vicerey centuries ago decreed that no courtier was to appear in public without his sword on penalty of death. He soon caught one of his officers and ordered him hanged.

The noble begged, "If you must kill me, let it be a death consonant with my rank. Have the next courtier that comes this way run me through with his sword."

"So be it," said the vicerey. They waited, but the one who finally hove into view had just lost most of his possessions, including the blade of his sword, in a gambling den. Mindful of the law, he had fitted a wooden blade to the hilt. Now ordered to stab the condemned man he tried to beg off but when that got him nowhere he turned his gaze heavenward and solemnly prayed, "Mercy! To spare this man and me, turn my sword to wood!"

He drew his sword and brandished it. "A miracle!" cried everyone. The vicerey himself carried the wooden sword to the cathedral, where it became the chief attraction for tourists until the Nazis destroyed the town.

Professors Oppose Decontrol of Rents

Iowa City's chapter of the American Association of University professors Monday night resolved to oppose rent decontrol locally until "impartial surveys" show housing easier to get in Iowa City.

President S. B. Barker, physiology professor, said a copy of the resolution would be sent to the city council and the local control office.

The chapter elected officers for the year beginning in September. Prof. Frank Kennedy, law, will be the new president. Miss Elizabeth Halsey, women's physical education, was elected secretary-treasurer, and Barker was elected to a 3-year term as counselor.

Lou Gehrig's Wife Makes Sclerosis Plea

WASHINGTON (AP)—Mrs. Lou Gehrig, widow of the pride of the Yankees, pleaded with congress yesterday to help find a cure for the disease which killed her husband in two pain-racked years.

A senate labor and public welfare subcommittee has before it a bill to set up a national multiple sclerosis institute.

This would try to discover the cause and cure for what Senator Tobey (R-NH) called "this hellish disease."

Mrs. Gehrig told how amyotrophic lateral sclerosis—a disease akin to multiple sclerosis, only it usually works faster-cut down the New York Yankees' first baseman in his prime. The disease causes hardening of the spinal cord, resulting in muscular wasting and paralysis.

"I am not an expert," Mrs. Gehrig began, "but it is a tragic fact that my testimony on this subject is almost as authoritative as that of any doctor in the land."

A quarter of a million people in the U. S. suffer with this little understood disease, she said. And these people usually are young, between the ages of 20 and 45, when it strikes.

Winners Announced For Annual Student Art Salon at SUI

Winners of the popularity voting for the outstanding student art works in each of the five divisions at the 16th Annual Student Art salon were announced yesterday by Union Hostess Jean Henrehan.

The salon is being held jointly at the Iowa Union and art building through June 7. Seventy-four art works comprise the show. Thirty-five oil paintings are being exhibited at the Union and 11 drawings, 7 prints, 11 watercolor and gouache paintings, and 10 sculptural works at the art building.

Winners are as follows:
Oil paintings — "Head" painted by Dick Sears, G. Santa Barbara, Calif.

Prints — "Self Portrait" by Gordon Gunther, G. Galesburg, Ill.

Drawings — "Claude Marks" by Hayden Scott, G. Iowa City.

Watercolor and gouache — "Landscape" by Charles Beck, G. Fergus Falls, Minn.

Sculpture — "Orlando Furioso" by Orazio Fumagalli, G. Valley Stream, N.Y.

Popularity voting was conducted at the Union and art building last Saturday and Sunday. Over 200 votes were cast by the public. White and gold ribbons were awarded to the winners.

The show is sponsored by the Student Union board with the cooperation of the Student Art guild.

School Board Votes Salary Increases

The Iowa City school board last night voted three percent salary increases for each of the 15 staff janitors and a ten percent wage hike to Vern Miller, superintendent of buildings and grounds.

The board also authorized its buildings and grounds committee to work with Miller on plans for a new $8,000 boiler for Henry Sabin school.

In another motion, the directors empowered city superintendent of schools Ivar Opstad to arrange a summer automobile driver training course for high school students. The course will cover a period of eight weeks and is intended to accommodate students of parochial and university schools who have not been offered the course during the regular school year.

Modern Store Designs to Be Exhibited

PART OF THE "MAIN STREET OF TOMORROW" exhibit, scheduled for Iowa City tomorrow, is the trailer shown above. The exhibit, owned by the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co., will display models of modern "open-front" stores from 11 a.m. to 10 p.m. on Clinton street between Washington street and Iowa avenue.

'Main Street of Tomorrow'

Models of Ultra-Modern Stores to Have Outdoor Showing Here Tomorrow

The "Main Street of Tomorrow" will be in Iowa City tomorrow when models of 12 ultra-modern "open front" stores will be given an outdoor showing from 11 a.m. until 10 p.m. on Clinton street, between Washington and Iowa avenue.

The model stores are traveling in two specially built trailers. They are constructed to one-eighth scale with the displays being executed in minute detail.

Planned as a service to architects, merchants, and civic groups interested in mass modernization of their community, the models were developed by Pittsburgh Plate Glass company's department of architectural design.

The models shown can be used as basic designs by architects for any locality in the United States. E.A. Lundberg, director of architectural design for the firm, said.

A great expanse of glass wall gives the "open front" effect and enables display of the entire merchandising area on the street level. The entire store becomes a glass enclosed showcase, Lundberg said.

Stressing that the stores are not futuristic in design but modernistic, Lundberg said they are not radically different from the more advanced stores being built today.

The models include a tavern, pharmacy, women's apparel store, jewelry store, food market, theater, restaurant, bakery, hardware store, shoe shop, floral shop, and a man's apparel store.

W. B. Schoenbaum, director of the Hospital School for Severely Handicapped Children, left today by plane for Washington, D.C., where he will testify tomorrow before the senate labor and public welfare committee on the proposed National Child Research act.

The proposed bill, introduced into the senate by Senator Paul Douglas (D-Ill) Feb. 10 would increase research in the field of child life and development through grants-in-aid to universities and other research centers.

Schoenbaum said yesterday he would summarize the treatment and education of handicapped children now being done at the hospital school and similar institutions.

In addition, he will point out the areas where research in the field is needed. "The biggest need is research into the prevention of deformities," Schoenbaum said. By spending more money in this area, he pointed out, money can be saved on the treatment and education of crippled children.

Welfare Workers From 66 Counties To Attend Institute

Sixty-six Iowa counties will be represented at the annual Institute for Crime, Delinquency and Community Welfare at SUI tomorrow and Friday.

About 4,000 welfare and correctional workers will attend the institute, according to Prof. Wayne Vasey, director of the SUI school of social work.

Professional aspects of welfare and administration, with emphasis on the problems of delinquency and crime, will be discussed in separate groups during tomorrow's session. Correctional administration, probation and parole will be featured at the Friday meetings.

Twenty mid-western leaders in social work will appear on the program.

The conference is the annual spring institute of the Iowa Welfare association. This year the institute is sponsored by the association and the university department of sociology, school of social work and the extension division.

Spring Concert —

Band Members to Get Keys

Eleven members of the concert band will receive gold service award keys at the 68th annual spring concert tonight in the Iowa Union, Prof. C. B. Righter, director of SUI bands, said yesterday.

This is the tenth year that such awards have been made to members of the university bands. The keys are made possible by the Alumni I club and are awarded in recognition of the band's contribution to athletic activities.

Righter said the awards were begun as a result of a remark overheard at a dinner, while the band was on the 1938 tour in Fort Dodge. A prominent alumnus heard Righter discussing a system of awarding students for service with the band and personally gave $25 toward establishing a fund for that purpose. Later this same person suggested that the Alumni I club contribute $50 annually to purchase keys to promote recognition of the band's contribution to athletic activities.

The keys, Righter said, are a "recognition of service given by members and encourages some members of the band to remain longer than they otherwise might."

Awards are given to students who have played with the concert band for six semesters and to varsity band members who have played with the varsity band for eight semesters.

Students to receive the awards tonight include Julia Burch, A3, Iowa City; Helen Garles, A3, Eldora; William Gibb, C4, Kirkwood, Ill.; Delbert Hardy, A3, Missouri Valley; Offie Leeper, A4, Leon and William Littlejohn, C4, Ottumwa.

Receiving the service award are John M. Miller, A3, Iowa City; Maurice Olsen, A3, Newton; Frank Rice, A3, Council Bluffs; Blandina Steinbrink, A4, Manson and Edward Sullivan, A4, Iowa City.

The concert will begin at 8 p.m. in the Iowa Union. Righter said tickets are available at the lobby desk, Whelstone's and the band office in the Music Studio building.
