Israel Voted Into UN Over Arab Protest

NEW YORK (AP) — Israel was admitted to the United Nations last night as the 59th member. The Arab delegations in the UN then walked out of the general assembly.

The vote admitting Israel was 37 to 12. Nine countries abstained. None of the 58 members was absent.

The vote, announced at 5:20 p.m. (Iowa time), was the end of a battle of more than two years by Israel for national recognition in the UN.

The United States, Russia, China and France voted to admit Israel. Britain abstained, along with Belgium, Brazil, Denmark, El Salvador, Greece, Siam, Sweden and Turkey.

The Arab delegations went immediately to their hotels without clarifying their positions.

A member of the Iraqi delegation said, "We are now out. That is all we can say. No more comment."

He was asked whether this meant they were out of the UN for good.

"I can't answer that now," he said. "You will see."

This was the second walk-out by the Arabs. They left the assembly hall angrily on Nov. 29, 1947, when the assembly voted 33 to 13 to partition Palestine into Jewish and Arab states.

Their feeling on the issue was summed up by Fawzi who said bitterly to the assembly in the closing debate:

"Well, gentlemen, resolve what you may. I hope your resolution will not be an everlasting shame on the United Nations."

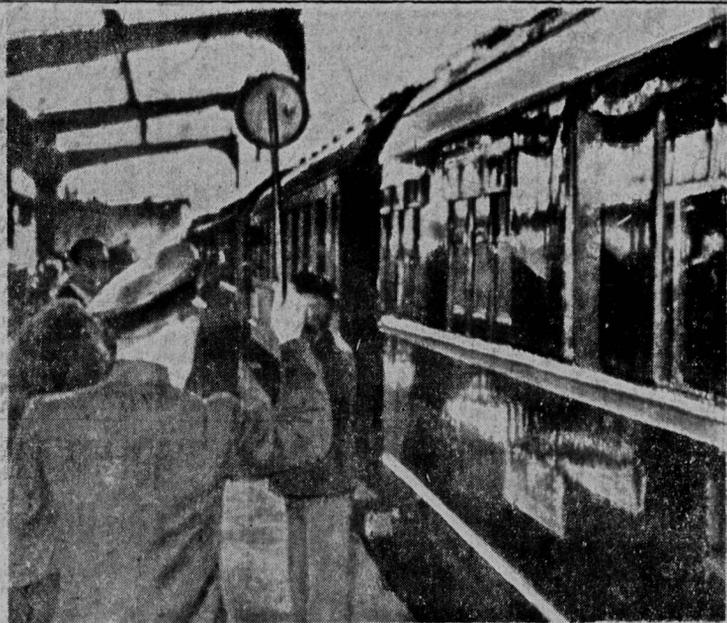

Amidst loud cheering over the vote Australia's Dr. Herbert V. Evatt, assembly president, called Israeli Foreign Minister Moshe Sharett to the rostrum to be accepted as Israel's representative here.

Spanish Question

NEW YORK (THURSDAY) (AP) — The United Nations assembly adjourned early today without discussing the Franco Spain case after several delegates objected to the assembly's heavy work program.

Dr. Herbert V. Evatt, of Australia, assembly president, said he would announce the assembly program for today later this morning.

Dr. Evatt had told Selim Sarpeter, Turkey, reported of the political committee, to make the committee's report on the Spanish case but the protests of several delegates held up that report.

First Train Leaves as Blockade Ends

THE FIRST U.S. MILITARY TRAIN to leave for Berlin since the start of the Berlin blockade was loaded at the Frankfort railway station (above). German Station Master Max Nickel gives the departure signal. The train's movement marked the start of the flow of traffic for Berlin from outlying parts of the country in anticipation of the lifting of the blockade at one minute after midnight last night.

'Let the Work Begin!'

Hancher Gives Signal to Start

SUI President Virgil M. Hancher yesterday morning declared at the SUI library ground-breaking ceremonies that the three purposes of the new structure would be to serve "the liberal education of youth, the preservation of records of learning, and the advancement of research and teaching."

The ceremonies, held at the new library site on the southwest lot of the Madison-Washington streets intersection, were witnessed by a shirt-sleeved crowd estimated at 3,500.

Hancher at the conclusion of his speech gave the signal, "let the work begin," and a dragline located to the right of the speaker's podium scooped the first load of earth from the building site and emptied it in a nearby dump truck.

The ceremonies began at 10:20 a.m. with Dean E.T. Peterson, member of the library planning committee, introducing Prof. M. Willard Lampe, director of the school of religion, who delivered the invocation.

Peterson, in charge of the program, introduced Hancher. The SUI president recalled the fact that requests for funds to build a new library had been made in 1891. That effort had failed, he said.

"It was decided that the library 'should be temporarily housed' in Macbride hall in 1904," Hancher explained, "and so, for 45 years the library has 'temporarily housed itself' therein."

The university in 1941 planned a library building costing approximately $2-million, Hancher revealed, but after eight years while building costs doubled, "we have the sum of $1,580,000 for the first unit."

"Obviously, this sum will not provide the structure we had planned. But it will give us under one roof (and a fireproof roof at that) somewhat more space than we have had before, and for that we are duly grateful."

He warned that since the first step has been taken, there is danger that "we shall rest contented and turn our attention to other needs before we have provided at least a 'minimum' library."

Hancher said the "Benjamin Franklin Shambaugh Heritage library" will be placed on the main floor of the new building.

"This will be the young, beginning student's first acquaintance at the university level—with the records of scholarship," he continued. This is one of the purposes the library will serve.

Another purpose of the building will be to provide "a safe, fitting and worthy home for rare and significant collections of books." Such a collection is that which will be the gift of Judge James W. Bollinger of Davenport, Hancher said as white-haired Bollinger listened to Hancher's speech from the edge of the crowd.

His final words before the signal was given for the dragline to start excavating were:

"Some speak in mathematical symbols; some speak to promote 'knowledge in the mind'; and some speak to promote 'feeling in the heart.'"

"But all speak as men, to men and for mankind!"

"In this belief, let the work begin!"

Berlin Blockade Ends But Airlift Continues

Iowa City Victim Identifies Hat Lost In Second Hold-up

The hat left behind by the gunman who fled the scene of an attempted hold-up in Des Moines Tuesday was identified as the one worn by a man who held-up and robbed the Iowa City office of Household Finance Monday afternoon, police said.

R.W. Lund, manager of the office, declared yesterday, "I talked to two detectives from Des Moines this afternoon and they showed me the hat. I'm sure it's the same one."

Lund said he was forced at gunpoint to tie and gag his secretary and a customer by an armed robber who entered the finance office, located on the second floor of the Bremer building, shortly before the five o'clock closing time Monday.

The bandit then looted the office of $798 and escaped after knocking out Lund, probably with the butt of his gun, according to police.

Lund was shown the photo of a man suspected of taking part in an armed robbery of the Clinton office of Household Finance last December, but Lund did not identify him as the Iowa City bandit.

Senate Committee Hears Prof. Sears

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prof. Robert R. Sears of the SUI child psychology department said yesterday in Washington that it will be cheaper to spend money on child research to prevent rather than cure some present "social tragedies."

Sears appeared before a senate labor and public welfare subcommittee which is considering legislation for private and public research in child development. The bill would authorize $7.5-million for research in the first year after it is passed.

"Research in this field," Sears said, "is directed toward preventing the kinds of social tragedies that are represented by juvenile delinquency, alcoholism, broken homes and failure in school and on a life job."

Octopus Pulls 'Gin' on Fishermen

SYDNEY, AUSTRALIA (AP) — Fish story? Two fishermen at Pittwater, near Sydney, hauled in a line and found an octopus on the end. The octopus was cuddling a full bottle of gin. The fishermen threw the octopus back in the water.

Three Testify About Hattman's Last Day

CEDAR RAPIDS (AP) — Three of the last persons to see Byron C. Hattman alive testified yesterday at the murder trial of Dr. Robert C. Rutledge Jr. of St. Louis.

They were Kenneth L. Ebershoff and Arthur L. Luebs, business acquaintances, and Paul Stoekberger, operator of a parking garage across from the Roosevelt hotel where Hattman was stabbed to death last Dec. 14.

Later three employees of another hotel, the Montrose, testified as to an "object" described as resembling a piece of pipe or wood which they said was in Rutledge's room about a week earlier.

A room clerk said he saw the object — "about a foot" long — in a dresser drawer on the night of Dec. 6 when Hattman was said to have failed to keep an appointment with the doctor. A floor maid said the object was gone the next morning when she cleaned the room.

Stoekberger testified for the prosecution that Hattman took his car to the garage between 5 and 6 p.m.

The state charges that when Hattman reached his room, Dr. Rutledge had lain in wait since 2 p.m.; that he jumped Hattman, stabbed him to death and fled with all the money in Hattman's wallet.

Both state and defense agree that the two men met in Hattman's room to discuss Hattman's attentions to Rutledge's wife, Sydney, 23.

Ebershoff, who said he was acquainted with Hattman and both of the Rutledges, testified that he spent much of the day of Dec. 14 with Hattman. They were working together, he said, on a project involving their respective firms.

Hattman was an instrument designer for the Emerson Electric Manufacturing company.

Berlin Traffic Flows Freely

BERLIN (THURSDAY) (AP) — The 327-day Soviet blockade of Berlin ended today with the airlift still going full tilt.

Traffic barriers went down all along the 1,000-mile cold war front in Germany.

A British-American military train chugged into Berlin at 5:08 a.m. today (9:08 p.m., Iowa time) snapping the last land link in the Soviet blockade of Berlin.

The first automobile crossed the Soviet zone into Berlin three and a half hours earlier, ending Berlin's isolation from the west by road.

Thus ended the dependence of 2-million west Berliners on British and American planes for fuel and food. But the airlift was going ahead at full schedule, and pilots said their instructions were to keep right on for at least 30 days.

By then it appeared likely the western powers will know whether Russia is going to seek full agreement on the future of Germany or is likely to clamp down again the blockade she imposed June 26, 1948.

Every indication, however, was that the Russians were going all the way in lifting traffic barriers as agreed by the four powers in New York May 4.

Only here and there were there tiny rifts in the generally smooth operation of restoring ground traffic communications with Berlin and lifting the western powers' counter-blockade of the eastern zone.

However, four German truck drivers reported they had been turned back a half mile outside of Berlin by Russian guards who demanded their papers be stamped by the Soviets.

The drivers reported they were stopped by the guards who refused them passage unless truck papers were stamped with the seal of the Russian sector Berlin administration.

It was the first reported Russian interference with the traffic moving westward since the blockade was lifted. Western authorities were investigating.

In Berlin, promptly on the dot a minute past midnight, about 75 automobiles began the race down the highway from that city to the west.

Five minutes later the first cars moved out of Helmstedt toward Berlin and Soviet checkpoints. They reached Berlin one hour and 40 minutes later, marking the end of the highway blockade.

For the most part, courtesy marked the behavior of the Russians. At Herenberg on the Soviet side of the border at one crossing point the Russians offered prizes of 300 marks ($90) to the first cars that reached Berlin from their area.

Hundreds of spectators surged forward impetuously across the Soviet line and cheered as a cavalcade of Allied vehicles rolled into view.

Overhead, planes of the airlift roared every few minutes. High authorities said that the airlift is being continued for "at least 30 days" to amass a stockpile in case political negotiations at Paris among the four powers should not go well.

The joy of the crowds who lined the highways leading to the Russian sector was attributed to a promise of more heat, light and food.

Ford Negotiations Fail; Number Idle Hits 100,000

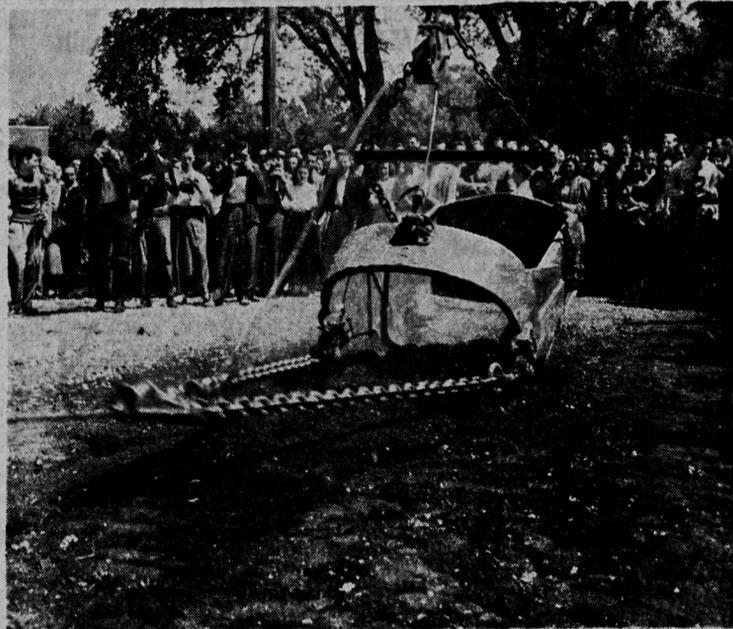

DETROIT (AP) — Two more negotiating sessions failed yesterday to end the Ford Motor company strike, as the number of workers idled by the paralyzing walkout of CIO united auto workers topped the 100,000 mark.

Company and union officials met for short morning and afternoon sessions and then recessed until this morning without reaching a settlement.

WHILE A DRAGLINE WENT TO WORK on SU's new library building, Judge James W. Bollinger of Davenport visited with President Virgil M. Hancher at ground-breaking ceremonies held on the new building's site yesterday morning. "LET THE WORK BEGIN" was the signal from President Virgil M. Hancher as a dragline scooped up the first load of ground from the building site for SU's new million-dollar library yesterday morning. Nats Race On, But Giants Fall

Beat Tigers For 9 in Row

DETROIT (AP)—The Washington Senators turned in the ninth straight win of their western Detroit Tigers, 11-1 yesterday.

The Senators jumped all over Detroit starting pitcher Stubby Overmire for five runs in the first inning. They continued their 14-hit attack against his three successors.

Paul Calvert and Dick Welteroth gave the Tigers only three hits, two of them coming in the sixth inning when Detroit scored its lone run.

Calvert started for Washington but had to retire at the start of the fifth inning. He developed a blister on the index finger of his pitching hand. He had a one-hitter up to that time.

Big Ed Robinson led the Senators batting attack. He hit a three-run homer in the first inning and added two singles. It was his fifth four-bagger of the season.

Rookie Johnny Groth of the Tigers went hitless in three trips to the plate, making the fourth game in a row that he has failed to hit safely.

Chisox Tally in all 9 To Blast Sox, 12-8

CHICAGO (AP)—The Chicago White Sox scored in every inning here yesterday to blast Boston, 12-8, and climb back to a .500 percentage rating in American league standings.

The White Sox blended 15 assorted hits with five walks, a wild pitch and a walk, plus four errors — three by Bobby Doerr — to post their 11th win in 22 games.

Tex Hughson, first of four Red Sox pitchers, was charged with the loss. The victory was starter Bill Wright's third straight decision although he was replaced in the sixth by Howie Judson.

Ted Williams, who struck out twice in his first four appearances at the plate against Wright, hit his seventh home run off Judson with a mate aboard in the eighth.

Spann's Three-Hitter Beats Cardinals, 7-0

BOSTON (AP)—Lefty Warren Spann gained his fourth win of the season, plus his second shut-out, for the Boston Braves by plunking the St. Louis Cardinals, 7-0, with a three-hit performance last night before a chilled 14,419 crowd. The Tribesmen clinched matters with a five-run uprising in the first inning.

Spann has been charged with but one defeat to date.

The only Red Birds to connect against him were Chuck Diering, Red Schoendienst, and Marty Marion. Spann had six strikeout victims.

Cincy Stops New York, 4-2

NEW YORK (AP)—The Cincinnati Reds, behind the six-hit pitching of righthander Howard Fox, defeated the New York Giants 4-2 yesterday, to snap the National league leaders' winning streak at seven straight.

The light-hitting Reds whacked three Giant fingers for 10 hits and shelled starter Monte Kennedy off the mound in the sixth inning.

Fox had a two-hit shutout going into the eighth inning, but a home run by Jack Lohrke ended his hopes in that direction. A double by Johnny Mize followed by Will Marshall's single, accounted for the losers' other run in the ninth.

The tall sinkerball pitcher not only pitched, but batted the Giants into submission. Fox helped himself to two singles in three official times at bat. His second safety drove in two runs.

Over The Fence is Out

PLYMOUTH, MASS. (AP)—Four inmates of the Plymouth House of Correction escaped during a softball game yesterday when one of the players hit a home run over the wall and a guard opened a gate to retrieve the ball. The guards do not carry guns. The prisoners are still at large.

Bruner, Ritter Lead Big Nine

CHICAGO (AP)—Indiana's Don Ritter, batting .517 for a total of 26 bases, is threatening Western conference hitting records. Ritter, with Lefty Jack Bruner, Iowa's pitcher, have established themselves as the Big Nine's leading slugger and pitcher respectively.

With the conference season at the halfway mark, official statistics released yesterday reveal that Bruner in 27 innings pitched has allowed only 12 hits while striking out 29.

However, in defeating Indiana last Saturday, Bruner failed to cool off Ritter. The Indiana first baseman hit two for four against Bruner to boost his average to .517.

He connected with 16 hits in 29 attempts. Ritter also has hit five doubles to tie the conference's modern record held by Wisconsin's Frank Granitz (1946) and Purdue's Olin Martin (1946).

With 26 total bases and six Big Nine games remaining, Ritter faces an excellent chance of smashing the record of 42 set by Dick Wakefield, Michigan, in 1941.

Bruner, in becoming the most effective pitcher, won his three conference starts against tough competition. He defeated Illinois, 3-0, Purdue, 6-1, and Indiana, 7-2.

With league leading Purdue meeting Michigan State in a non-conference game this week-end, runner-up Indiana will attempt to gain ground in a two game series with Illinois. Michigan plays at Ohio State, Minnesota at Northwestern, and Wisconsin at Iowa.

Hawkeye Netmen Beat Beloit, 5-4

BELOIT (AP)—The University of Iowa tennis team defeated the Beloit college netters 5-4 here yesterday.

The two teams each won three singles matches but the Iowans took two of the three doubles events to gain the victory.

Beloit ace Bill Sayres defeated Don Lewis of Iowa 6-0, 6-4 in the No. 1 singles match.

Iowa Frosh Thinclads Take Postal Meet

Iowa's freshman track team rolled over the Purdue yearlings in a postal track and field meet, 89-38, Freshman Coach Cliff Juedes said yesterday.

The Hawk frosh grabbed first place in every event but one, the broad jump. They probably could have won that one also had Marcellus Boston competed in the event. Boston pulled a muscle slightly during the 100-yard dash and was withdrawn from the broad jump.

The Hawks swept five events of the 14-event meet. DuWayne Dietz was the leading point-getter with 13. Dietz won the 120-yard low hurdles, tied for first in the 220-yard dash, placed second in the 100 and was on the winning mile relay team. DeReefe Green was second highest with 12.

Kush Beats Phillies In Relief Role, 4-2

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The Chicago Cubs came from behind last night to defeat the Philadelphia Phillies 4-2 and hand Ken Heintzelman his first loss in five decisions this season.

Emil Kush relieved Johnny Schmitz in the fifth and pitched steady ball for his third victory without a defeat in relief roles.

Chicago pushed over the winning run in the seventh when Henry Schenz singled, stole second, went to third on Kush's hit and scored as Harry Walker forced Kush.

Cajuns Gird for Race That'll Decide 'De Dam Best Pirogue Paddler in All The World'

By JACK GATES UNITED PRESS SPORTS WRITER

LAFITTE, LA.—Fuzzy-faced youths and sun-scorched bayou veterans seeking Cajun glory began final preparations yesterday for the gruelling event that decides "de dam best pirogue paddler in all the world"—the championship pirogue race.

The event which is equalled by no other in the storied land of South Louisiana will be held Sunday afternoon along the moss-draped Bayou Barataria, a stream of water made famous by the Patriot-Pirate Jean Lafitte and his free-booting band.

To be the champion pirogue paddler is just about the highest honor that a Cajun of the marshland can attain. The term world champion doesn't mean so much in itself.

The honor comes when a friend points to the champion and says, "He's de dam best paddler in all de bayous." It's a praise that the grinning Cajun will repeat over and over to his grandchildren in later years.

The slender, leatherly-faced dwellers of the marshland can drive the graceful, but tricky pirogues through the water with far more ease than the average citizen pilots a car. For in many places of the water-logged bayou land, it is the only mode of transportation and they use them from boyhood on.

The pirogue championship race, an annual affair since 1936, is run over a gruelling four and three-tenths mile course. It often is dangerous.

Spills Are Dangerous The straining contestants have to buck high tides and a stiff wind at times. And a spill from the bayou "automobile" could easily mean death from huge alligators that infest the beautiful, but treacherous bayou.

The unique race attracts huge throngs. On the big day, fashionable dressed city folks mingle with the backwoods residents.

Hours before the event starts mile-long strings of automobiles head toward the bayou, some 20 miles from New Orleans. And every pirog and stream leading to the race is crowded.

A holiday air prevails. Penitents wave in the breeze. Whistles and bells keep up a continuous clamor. Bottles of beer and hot dogs are consumed by the hundreds.

The needle-shaped pirogue is hewn from selected cypress logs. It is constructed by hand and re-

Indians Nip Yankees On Run in 7th, 3-2

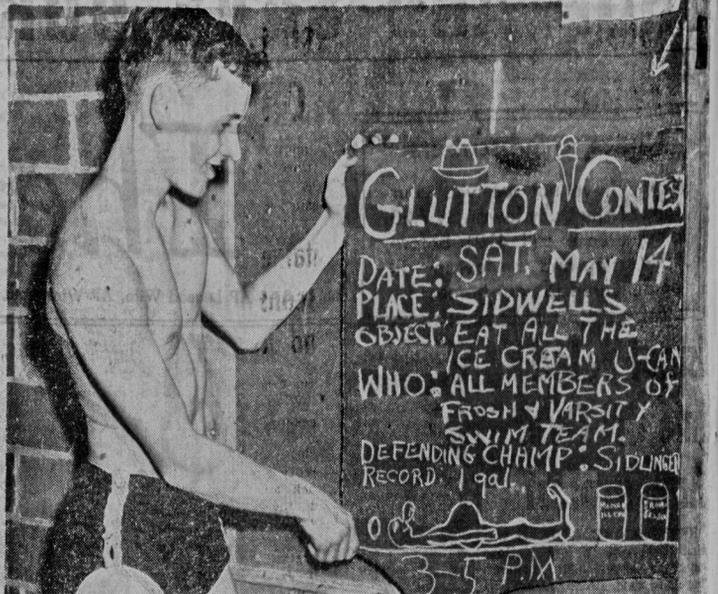

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cleveland Indians snapped out of their slump last night by trimming the front-running New York Yankees, 3 to 2. Left Fielder Dale Mitchell crossed the plate with the winning run in the seventh inning on a wild pitch by losing pitcher Bob Porterfield.

Bob Lemon started on the mound for Cleveland but it was only a formality. He received a torn fiber in a muscle above the left hip during the pre-game warmup and pitched to only one man because his name already was in the lineup.

Then aging Al Benton took over and allowed the Yanks only five hits for seven innings. He went out in the seventh for a pinch hitter but was credited with the victory.

Werle Weathers Rally To Beat Dodgers, 5-3

BROOKLYN (AP)—Rookie southpaw Bill Werle survived a ninth inning rally last night as the Pittsburgh Pirates whipped the Brooklyn Dodgers, 5-3, before 22,709 fans at Ebbets field. Werle gave up seven hits, three of them in the last inning when Bob Ramazotti homered with one on base.

What's Yours, Chocolate or Tutti Frutti?

THE ALL-TIME RECORD for 20 years of "glutton contests" is a gallon and a quarter of ice cream at one sitting, freestyle. Saturday the 65 Iowa Dolphins will swarm to Irv Weber's ice cream shop to try to break the record. Willis Weber poses above with the announcement of the affair at which his father expects to dispose of 15 gallons of ice cream. Bruce Sidlinger was last year's freshman champ, but the varsity co-champs at seven pints apiece were Duane Graves and Phil Cady. "But you'd be surprised how many of them quit at two dishes," Weber chuckles.

Herb Thompson, Whitey Diehl, Two Hawks Kinnick Candidates

Two Iowa athletes, four all-stars, and an Iowa City high basketball star are among 19 candidates for five Nile Kinnick scholarships, President Virgil Hancher announced yesterday.

The candidates will be guests of the university tomorrow and Saturday when they will take examinations and meet university officials.

Ralph Woodard, Fort Dodge, three times major letter winner at Iowa as an end on the football team and John Townner, Al, Des Moines, are the two candidates from SUI. Townner was an all-state football center at North high in Des Moines.

He received a Kinnick scholarship last year but turned it down to attend Drake. He then came to Iowa instead.

Robert "Whitey" Diehl, son of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Diehl, 532 S. Dubuque street, one of the hot-shots on the City high five which was one of the better teams in the state last year is the Iowa City candidate.

The all-stars are Herb Thompson, Leland; Robert Mau, Charles City; Bill Skafte, Dubuque, and Richard Mau, Perry.

Thompson led the Forest City basketball team to the finals of the state tournament this year and has been acclaimed as one of the best high school centers to come out of Iowa in many years.

The two Maus are basketball stars and Skafte was a football star at Dubuque.

The other candidates are Tony Strange, Seymour; Leslie E. Thayer, Storm Lake; Wendell Stevens, Mason City; Frank Barile, Newton; J. Burt Britzmann, Harward; Jerry Clark, Glidden; Charles Fredericksen, Exira; Roger Hendrickson, Cresco; ETA NU N Hendrickson, Cresco; Jim Bullard, Grand Junction; Richard Eggers, Bellevue, Carroll Papajohn, Ft. Madison, and Kenneth Weber, Hartley.

After two hours of tests beginning at 11 a.m. tomorrow, the candidates will meet with Hancher, university deans and officials and the educational committee of the Iowa Junior Chamber of Commerce for a coffee hour at noon today for Bloomington where it will engage Indiana on Saturday in the first of a two meet weekend schedule. After the Hoosier match, the Hawks will travel to Lafayette for a dual meet with the highly touted Boiler-makers.

Hawk Golfers Face Hoosiers, Purdue

Iowa's golf team will leave at noon today for Bloomington where it will engage Indiana on Saturday in the first of a two meet weekend schedule. After the Hoosier match, the Hawks will travel to Lafayette for a dual meet with the highly touted Boiler-makers.

The Hawks will be seeking their third victory of the season and their second in league competition when they take on the Hoosiers.

Iowa Netmen Hosts To Marquette, Indiana

Iowa's tennis team will play host to Marquette and Indiana this weekend. Marquette's winless team will be Friday's guest while the Hoosiers, fresh from their first conference triumph in 12 years, will be Saturday's opponents.

The Hawks beat Marquette last year, 7-2. The Hilltoppers have lost five straight meets.

House Group Votes Pension For Unemployable Vets Only

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Pensions of $72 a month for the low-income, unemployable veteran over 65 were approved yesterday by a sharply divided house veterans committee.

Chairman Rankin (D-Miss), who sought unsuccessfully in March to get pensions of $90 a month for all aged veterans, angrily denounced restrictions in the new bill as a "blow" to many ex-servicemen.

Iowa Mountaineers To Visit Wisconsin On Weekend Jaunt

A dual-purpose Iowa Mountaineer outing to Wisconsin will be held this weekend, Director Carlton Schrader, G. Iowa City announced yesterday.

The Mountaineers will drive to Wisconsin by truck and car to Devils lake and the Baraboo range, where they will divide into two groups tomorrow.

The climbing group, under the direction of John Ebert, Iowa City, will practice techniques on the rock walls of the range. Ebert will instruct both advanced climbers and beginners.

The sight-seeing group, led by Martha Ann Isaacs, Iowa City, will spend Saturday night at the Wisconsin Dells, Sunday they will take a three-hour boat excursion up the Wisconsin river, making stops at Cold Water canyon, Witches gulch and Standing rock.

Both groups will camp out at night and do their own cooking, Schrader said.

Iowa City Photographer Reuben Scharf will make color movies of the trip. Physical Education Prof. Arthur Wendler and Prof. and Mrs. Robert Buckles will be chaperones.

The Mountaineers will return to Iowa City May 15. Schrader said reservations for the trip should be made with him before Tuesday.

He pointed out that returning graduates might be interested especially in observing the many changes that have taken place on the campus since the war.

End of 28th Season —

Last SUI Play of the Year Starts Tonight

The University theatre will fold up shop for the 28th season at SUI with the production of Sidney Kingsley's illustrious play, "The Patriots."

Opening tonight, "The Patriots" will play through May 21. One matinee show will be performed on May 21. There will be no Sunday performance.

"The Patriots," a historical drama in prologue and three acts, deals with the Jefferson and Hamilton rivalries and antagonisms with President George Washington as an unhappy referee.

Seven scene sets were designed for the play under the supervision of Dramatic Arts Professor A.S. Gillette by SUI students Warren Clymer, Robert Richey, and George Zimmerman. Coordinating their ideas and work was quite interesting, Gillette said, for it was like three men who write differently trying to match their handwritings.

This production will require fast and soft shoe work by the production crew which has been trained to shift sets in semi-darkness during the play. They won't be "flying" the sets (a technical term for raising and lowering an entire set by pulleys and cables to and from a girder 60 feet above stage).

Instead, the producers will utilize the revolving stage for the first time this season. My using half of the revolving stage which is 36 feet in diameter, the crew can keep one set rigged up and ready while the actors play out front.

By means of various devices on wheels like little wagons, outriggers, tip-jacks, and lift-jacks, the fragmentary sets will be wheeled in place on stage. Where it would ordinarily take four persons to carry the load, one or two persons can handle the device which also aids in speeding up set arranging.

A feature usually left unpounded is the cooperative nature of the University Theatre players. When they are not rehearsing for a play or aren't in a show, you can bet they have a hand in it somehow. Each actor or actress pitches in by working on the stage, building, paint, costume, light or property crew.

Hale has accepted a position as senior scientist and head of the division of bacteriology and virology in the department of medicine of Brookhaven National Laboratory in Upton, Long Island, N.Y.

Prof. Phillips to Speak Here

Prof. H.J. Phillips, one of the University of Washington faculty members dismissed last winter after being charged with Communist activities, will speak on academic freedom Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the chemistry auditorium. His lecture will be sponsored by SUI Young Progressives.

Phillips and two other professors were dismissed from Washington after the charge was made by the university's president, Herman Schuchman, civil rights committee member, said yesterday. Previously a faculty committee had investigated the professors' activities and voted for their retention but it was overridden by the president's actions, Schuchman said.

The three professors had been on the faculty of the university for 20 to 29 years before their dismissal, Schuchman said. No previous action had been taken although two of them, including Phillips, admitted for many years that they were Communist party members, he added.

Phillips is currently touring the country, speaking in many cities in defense of his convictions and trying to raise funds to present his case in court, Schuchman said.

Who are America's Most Successful YOUNG Men?

In anybody's book, one of them is Marion Harper, Jr. of Advertising's McCann-Erickson. Said TIME—late last year:

Just ten years ago, Marion Harper Jr., fresh from Yale, got a job as office boy at McCann-Erickson, Inc., one of the six largest U.S. advertising agencies. Tall (6 ft. 1 in.), strapping (190 lbs.) Harper was far from the out-sider's idea of an advertising man. He was quiet and studious; he did not wear hand-painted ties, didn't smoke, showed not a single huckster characteristic.

But he had been an office boy only three months when he was moved into the copy research department where he could put his liking for market research to work. Not long after, Harper was made manager of copy research; at 28, only seven years after he had left Yale, he was vice-president in charge of research and merchandising.

By bearing down on market studies, he helped boost the agency's billings from $46 million in 1946 to a 1948 rate of more than $50 million. Last week in Manhattan, at 32, Marion Harper was made president as Founder H. K. McCann, 68, moved up to board chairman. Said an awed agency director, in summarizing Harper's rise: "He energizes people . . . he's got so much energy himself. The agency has never had such good teamwork before."

On Harper's team is his wife Virginia, whom he met while she was a clerical worker at the agency and married in 1942. She is now assistant director of McCann-Erickson's copy research department. Having no children, Mr. & Mrs. Harper sometimes stay at the office until 2 a.m., working together. Says Mrs. Harper: "I think he's quite bright."

Successful adman Harper reads TIME each week—as do more than 1,500,000 other U.S. college graduates who find in TIME the news they can't afford to miss.

Spring Band Concert —

Audience Enthusiastic

Prof. Philip Greely Clapp, head of the SUI music department, won the enthusiastic approval of a large audience in the Iowa Union last night.

His piano rendition of the first movement of "Concerto in C Minor" by Ludwig van Beethoven was the climax of the Spring concert of the SUI band, under the direction of Prof. Charles B. Righter.

The great virtuosity of Clapp gave the overall effect of mechanical perfection to the rendition of the concerto. A gay and lyric theme was fervently played, and the variations and developments were done in such a manner as to bring out the delicate changes so frequent in Beethoven's compositions.

Three numbers were outstanding on the band's side of the program: "Fourth movement and Epilogue" from "London Symphony" by Vaughn-Williams, "Cortege de Bacchus" from "Ballet Sylvia" by Delibes, and "Fandango" from "L'Arlesienne Suite" by Bizet.

Dormitory Banquet —

Quadrangle to Honor Residents

Nineteen Quadrangle men will be honored for scholarship achievement and outstanding service to the dormitory at a banquet tonight in the Quadrangle cafeteria.

Scholarship medals will be awarded to 12 men while seven will receive service medals, Jack T. Patterson, C4, Rolfe, banquet committee chairman said yesterday.

Guests of honor announced by Patterson were Dewey B. Stuit, acting dean of the college of liberal arts; M. L. Huit, counselor to men; Walter R. Goetsch, director of the office of student affairs; T.M. Rehder, director of dormitories and dining service.

V.S. Copeland, manager of dormitory operation; Walker T. McElheny, personnel counsel at the office of student affairs; Mable Walther, manager of the Quadrangle dining service; Elizabeth M. Engliert, manager of the Quadrangle, and Samuel M. Fahr, assistant professor of law.

Present and former members of the Quadrangle council, Quadrangle athletic managers and those with outstanding services to the dormitory will be at the banquet.

Assisting Patterson on the banquet committee are Richard C. Manson, A4, Delaware; Luther H. Smith, E3, Des Moines; James R. Donachie, A3, Brooklyn, N.Y., and Karl S. Winborn, C3, Williamsburg.

WSUI to Be Hosts To 150 Rural Pupils

The University of Iowa and radio station WSUI will be hosts tomorrow and May 20 to rural school children who have been taking part in WSUI's "Listen and Learn" series, Program Director John P. Highlander said yesterday.

About 150 pupils and their teachers from 11 rural schools will visit the WSUI-KSUI studios Friday afternoon and about 100 will visit on May 20.

The WSUI-KSUI staff will fetter the youngsters with a program that will include songs, stories, a motion picture and a tour of the studios.

Among the 11 schools visiting the studios Friday will be five from Johnson county — Sharon number one, Clear Creek number one, East Lucas number four, Scott number seven and Madison number five.

School of Nursing To Give Aptitude Tests to Applicants

Pre-nursing tests for applicants to SUI's school of nursing for the 1949 fall class will be given Saturday in the geology lecture room. Miss Amy Frances Brown, assistant professor of medical nursing, announced yesterday.

The tests were given earlier this spring to applicants for the nursing school who are now attending the University. Saturday, students living within a 50 mile radius of Iowa City who have filed application for admission will take these tests.

The battery of tests has been assembled by the department of measurement and guidance of the National League of Nursing Education to determine the scholastic aptitude of students for nursing.

The tests include a psychology examination, reading comprehension and tests in the fields of natural sciences, history and social studies. In addition, a mathematics test is included for which norms have been established based on approximately 1,000 applications to schools of nursing.

The papers will be scored by the National League of Nursing Education. Applicants are requested not to inquire as to individual scores, Miss Brown said.

An examination fee of $5 is payable at the time the students report for the tests, Miss Brown said. Robert L. Ebel, director of the university examination service, will administer the tests.

Students who are interested in entering the fall class and have not filed application for admission, should secure application blanks immediately from the registrar's office, Miss Brown said. No application will be considered until test scores have been received from the pre-nursing tests, she added.

Dental Research Modernizes Teeth Brushing

You're out of date if you still use the up-and-down or the lateral or the circular scrubbing strokes in brushing your teeth.

Dental research at SUI has led to the development of a new concept in oral hygiene and results have been teeth that are healthier and less susceptible to decay.

The new concept was developed by Dr. F.D. Francis who has charge of this work in the SUI college of dentistry. It consists of trying to think of the toothbrush as a "compound toothpick."

The main function of brushing our teeth is to get as much of the food particles off the teeth and at the same time to stimulate the nerves and the blood supply in the gums, Dr. Francis said.

Vigorous brushing by the old method is not only unnecessary but it tends to push food particles into the spaces between the teeth and between the gums and the necks of the teeth, he explained.

The toothbrush also fails to reach and cleanse the interproximal spaces by the old method, he pointed out.

So instead of the old method, the jaws are held open and the toothbrush placed on a section of teeth making sure that the "multiple toothpicks" reach into the spaces between the teeth, Dr. Francis said.

The points of the bristles must not come in contact with the gums because they can irritate and puncture the gums. The smooth sides of the bristles, however, should touch the gums because they act as a massaging agent.

With the toothbrush in position, short vibratory strokes are used which produce a picking action and get the food particles off the teeth and out of the spaces between the teeth, Dr. Francis explained.

This "picking" is continued along the teeth, from the outside and inside, he said.

After the rinse comes the massage. With the fingertips pressure is applied from the outside for an instant to the cheeks and lips immediately over the gums, moving progressively around the mouth. This is repeated several times.

The former method of rubbing the gums is comparatively inefficient because this "sustained pressure permits no influx of blood and lymph," Francis explained.

Faculty Members, Student to Present Research Reports

Two SUI faculty members and a graduate student will present reports on the use of sedative drugs in the treatment of various diseases at the semi-annual meeting of the Institute for the Study of Analgesic and Sedative Drugs in New York City today.

Prof. Joseph I. Routh and Robert L. Dryer, G, of the biochemistry department, and Dr. W.D. Paul, associate professor of internal medicine at SUI hospitals, will report on studies of the use of aspirin and other salicylates in the treatment of rheumatic fever, rheumatoid arthritis and other diseases.

They will also present a study of aspirin metabolism and discuss the use of bromides in the treatment of cirrhosis of the liver.

Research of this type is supported in part by the institute and large drug companies throughout the country, Routh said. He explained that representatives of the companies meet periodically with persons carrying out the research to discuss progress of these continuing research problems.

Girl Scouts Learn Animal First Aid

(Daily Iowan Photo by Cleo Wiley) BUDDA KING LOW, A PET SIAMESE CAT, submits peacefully as three Iowa City Girl Scouts use him to demonstrate animal first aid. The girls, left to right, are Sandra Williams, troop 24; Jo Ann Slaymaker, troop 17; and Ruth Nybakken, troop 24. The initial demonstration was given by Dr. E. C. Howe, 2300 Muscatine avenue, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Slaymaker, 1103 Third avenue, Tuesday evening.

Animal First Aid Show Given

The first demonstration in animal first aid ever given in Iowa City was presented to a group of Girl Scouts Tuesday evening by Dr. E. C. Howe, 2300 Muscatine avenue.

The Iowa City veterinary surgeon gave the initial demonstration in connection with a Girl Scout program to earn badges in animal first aid.

Dr. Howe showed how to restrain injured or diseased animals until a veterinarian arrives. Mrs.

Dale Slaymaker, 1103 Third avenue, the hostess and troop leader, assisted him as he bandaged Budda King Low, the Slaymakers' pet Siamese cat, and "Jack," their pet dog.

Muzzles, bandages, splints and pressure were applied to the animals in the demonstrations for hysteria, bruises, suffocation, burns, shock, wounds, gases, drowning and hemorrhage.

Another point discussed by the girls was the need for a shelter in Iowa City for the care of stray animals.

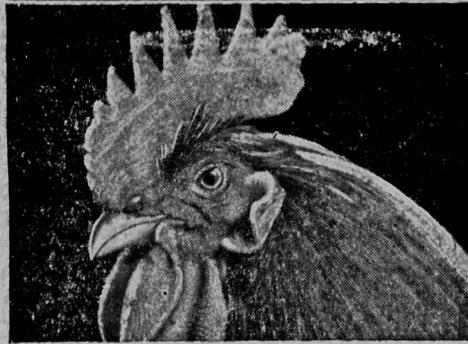

Dr. Howe also explained the proper disposition of dead animals. Pets should be buried or buried more than three feet deep.

THIS SEEMS to be my week to lose notebooks. There was no report from the little black one Tuesday because it could not be found. I looked in every conceivable place for it over the weekend, but it didn't turn up until Tuesday night. Some unthoughtful individual had put it in my other suit coat pocket. I'll thank whoever that person was to let my black notebook remain where I put it.

And now, my class notebook is missing, and this won't do at all, what with finals looming on the horizon. If anyone has seen a gray, three-ring notebook, please return it. Some of the notes were written in ink, others appear in soft pencil, and still others were made by dipping a paper clip in a cup of coffee.

The latter were not taken in class, but may provide satisfactory parlor joke material. If there is any doubt, look in the front of the book. My name is there in crayola.

AFTER THE Kappa Phi dinner, at which Jeanne and I were plied with tenderized ham and jolly-good-fellow songs, Tuesday evening, Penny (our dog) received a bath. This is no reflection on the Kappa Phi girls' dinner, but two major events in one night belong in the same sentence. (And it's not a very good sentence at that.)

This was Jeanne's first experience in dog bathing, but then it was the first time the dog had been bathed by Jeanne, so I guess it comes out even.

I have bathed dogs before, and realizing what a joy it is, finally agreed to let my wife handle the project.

BATHING A DOG is one of those things which quickly falls into a stereotyped pattern. No matter what tone of voice you use in calling a dog to give it a bath, it seems to sense immediately that something distasteful is in the offing.

At the first rattle of the galvanized wash tub in the bathroom (where else would you bathe a dog), Penny tried to crawl under the studio couch. Until this time, she had been perfectly happy gnawing great chunks out of a ten cent rubber bone, purchased because it was guaranteed to withstand the most voracious of gnawings without shredding.

I am happy to report at this time, that not only did Penny get de-flea'd, but also the bulk of the bathroom fixtures and Jeanne were saturated in flea soap suds.

CONCERNING the M.C. business at the Sport Swing, May 14 in the Community building — there has been an error of omission. The ads are billing me as M.C., but in reality, Dick Spencer (former guest columnist) is going to hold that position, and I will be his assistant. It will take both of us to present the queen.

Spence and I know who the queen is already, because we selected her from photographs of five lovely finalists. When judging time came, however, there were six pictures in the pile. The sly old dog had entered his four-year-old daughter, Bobby Jo, in the race at the last moment and then tried to stuff the ballot box on me.

WITH SOVIET troops now on the Bavarian border, the Soviets could ill afford to leave their southern flank in Austria unprotected, for a pincer movement from Silesia and northern Austria could isolate the vital Bohemian industrial basin, including the invaluable Skoda works.

The Russians came to London Feb. 9 to resume their talks on the Austrian peace treaty knowing all the time that they could not agree to a settlement at this time. They found plenty of excuses.

THERE HAD BEEN some hope expressed in western circles that the Soviet-Tito split would cause the Russians to give in on one of the two seemingly insurmountable issues — the Yugoslav territorial claims. Russian maneuvering to get the Yugoslavs into the London conference to state their case dispelled any of these western hopes.

Lo, A Rose 'Ere Blooming

Prelude to New Big Four Talks? —

Austrian Parley Has Ended; Score: A Complete Deadlock

The deputy foreign ministers of the big four have adjourned the London conference on Austria in anticipation of the big four talks coming up in Paris May 23. This announcement out of London speaks failure no matter how you spell it.

The problem of Austria no longer exists by itself as a stumbling block to east-west peace in central Europe. The question of Soviet troops on the Danube is only part of the overall picture of cold war tension, the center of which until recently was the Berlin blockade.

RUSSIAN occupation of eastern Austria and the question of any future evacuation of these territories by the Communist army, is linked to the military jockeying that has been going on since the end of the war. From the Baltic to the Greek frontier the Soviets have attempted to keep intact a long communication system that has supplied their troops in the satellite states.

Before the Communist coup in Czechoslovakia of little more than a year ago the Soviets were willing to withdraw their armies from Lower Austria — after their position in Hungary and Romania had been solidified. The coup in Prague changed the entire picture.

WITH SOVIET troops now on the Bavarian border, the Soviets could ill afford to leave their southern flank in Austria unprotected, for a pincer movement from Silesia and northern Austria could isolate the vital Bohemian industrial basin, including the invaluable Skoda works.

The Russians came to London Feb. 9 to resume their talks on the Austrian peace treaty knowing all the time that they could not agree to a settlement at this time. They found plenty of excuses.

THERE HAD BEEN some hope expressed in western circles that the Soviet-Tito split would cause the Russians to give in on one of the two seemingly insurmountable issues — the Yugoslav territorial claims. Russian maneuvering to get the Yugoslavs into the London conference to state their case dispelled any of these western hopes.

The other thorny issue — reparation payments by Austria — was complicated further by the Soviets as soon as the question came up. The west asked the Soviets to state their reparation demands. The Soviets mentioned percentages but no actual figures. This game was plain in its intentions.

SINCE NO ONE really knows just how much the Russians hold in lower Austria, a percentage of their holdings could amount to anything they choose to name. With the discovery of new oil fields near Matzen, their oil holdings alone are great, and it seems quite unlikely that they would be willing to give them up on an actual tonnage agreement basis. Of course, the Austrian people have long since ceased to be an issue in these peace conferences. They have the misfortune to be situated just at the crossroads of Europe. Vienna is the gateway to the Balkans as well as the easy entrance route to the Czech industrial might.

AS LONG AS the Soviets feel that their military position in north-central Europe is insecure, they cannot agree to a settlement of the Austrian problem. Such a settlement would bring about a military withdrawal a short time after its conclusion, and the Russians are not ready to leave.

It is for this very reason of military expediency that the forthcoming talks at Paris should not be viewed with undue optimism. The Soviets have staked an Austrian agreement for three years because they feel it is unsafe to sign one. There is no reason to believe that they will be any the less cautious on the Elbe than they have been on the Danube.

LOOKING BRIEFLY at the background of the two chief issues that have stalled all attempts at solution in Austria: The Austro-Yugoslav dispute over minorities in Austrian Slovenia is an old story dating back to 1919. At that time a plebiscite decided in favor of Austria.

The Austrian foreign minister, Dr. Karl Gruber, stood fast in this issue during all the London talks. He was willing to grant recognition to the problem, but he was unwilling to discuss autonomy as a solution to it. So it looks as if 728 square miles of mountain territory will have much to say in the final settlement in south-central Europe.

A DILEMMA being faced here is the fact that Austria was Hitler's most willing and active ally, in contrast to the Yugoslavs, who almost singlehandedly drove the Germans out in 1945, not to speak of their heroic efforts during the German occupation. But — politics makes strange bedfellows.

The west has taken sides in support of recently Nazi Austria; the Soviets have supported Tito on this issue, though at the same time they are doing everything to stop the growth of his power in the Balkans by nurturing pro-Communist regimes in Albania and Communist-occupied Macedonia.

BEHIND THE conflict over reparations — thorny topic number two — lies the strong Soviet in-

I'D RATHER BE RIGHT T-H Act and Injunctions

By SAMUEL GRAFTON (New York Post Syndicate)

WASHINGTON — After interviews with a number of interested parties here, it seems to me the only way the Taft-Hartley issue can be settled is not by "compromise" but by a new approach.

The sticking-point is injunctions. Labor hates anti-strike injunctions, and quite properly so; they are a throwback to the period of our immaturity. We got along without them during a troubled decade, and to go back to injunctions now is like leaping frantically through a faded 1929 calendar in search of fresh, vibrant, thrilling ideas with which to solve the problems of 1949.

BUT MOST of the "compromise" proposals on Taft-Hartley act repeal would allow injunctions — not a lot of injunctions, you understand, just a few little special ones in the field of "national emergency" strikes. Such compromise attempts will create more difficulties than they will solve — as was shown in the house last week when a compromise proposal, embodying "national emergency" injunctions, failed completely to split the right — but did split the left.

AND IN the end, a strategy that was supposed to win right-wingers over to moderate liberalism, ended by leading some liberals over to labor injunctions; however reluctantly, and with whatever good motives, it was they who moved, not the other side.

Many voted as they did, of course, only for strategic reasons, to get as much as they could, or to stall off and kill the Wood bill, and without believing in injunctions at all.

But in the continuing talk now being heard among congressional Democrats to the effect that any successful Taft-Hartley act compromise must include "national emergency" injunctions, there is danger that it is liberalism which may be shifting its sights, not conservatism.

IN THIS situation, it seems to me we should go back to the idea offered three months ago by Mr. William H. Davis, former chairman of the war labor board. Mr. Davis suggested that "national emergency" strikes be handled, not by injunction, but by temporary seizure of the plants involved.

This was, if you will pardon the allusion, the method Roosevelt used, and he knew at least as much about handling labor problems as anybody who has been orating lately.

IT IS THE grown-up way, Mr. Davis pointed out that injunctions, after all, don't settle issues, and that is important to get issues settled, which seems like a reasonable approach.

Plant seizure puts pressure on employers as well as employees in any "national emergency" strike situation, which injunctions certainly don't do; an employer confident of obtaining an injunction is under no particular compulsion to be reasonable. Under Mr. Davis' idea, an impartial board would determine wages and profits during the seizure period. The public would be protected, without any need for forcing men, by court order, to work for somebody's private and perhaps unreasonable profit.

ONCE THIS POINT were settled, I don't think there would be much trouble about disposing of other Taft-Hartley act features. The non-Communist oath business is a fading notion; even strongly anti-Communist labor leaders don't think it is very effective.

The idea of balancing the non-Communist labor official oath with an oath by employers to the effect that they, too, are not Communists or fascists, or whatever you like, is merely amusing.

What's the penalty in case an employer refuses to sign an oath that he is not, say, a cartelist? He'd be denied the right to collective bargaining, which might not make him sore. One can hear an employer, telling his men, regretfully: "Sorry, boys, I can't bargain with you, through any federal agency, because I didn't sign the oath."

IF THE IDEA is to protect the public against "national emergency" strikes, Mr. Davis has shown us a way.

The only argument the opposition could bring up would be to work on fears that seizure might lead to socialism. The answer is that Roosevelt used this method, and the amount of socialism thereby produced is still too small to be measured by any instrument however precise and refined.

Steamfitter Fatally Hurt In Fall at Alcoa Plant

BETTENDORF, IA. (P) — Clarence Dybedock, 43, Bettendorf, was fatally injured yesterday in a seven-foot fall from a ladder at the Alcoa plant, east of here. Authorities said Dybedock, a steamfitter, died on the way to a hospital. Witnesses said he fell about seven feet to the ground from a ladder after he apparently lost his balance. He suffered a fractured skull.

Correspondence School —

Mail Solves Students' Problems

Students lacking a few hours credit toward graduation but not enough to warrant going to summer school may find the SUI correspondence school is the answer to their problems. Up to six hours of courses can be taken in a summer by correspondence, which is considerably cheaper than summer school, Miss Helen Williams, director of correspondence study said yesterday. Students do not have to pay room and board and can work full time while taking the courses.

Students who wish to make up credits lost in transferring from other colleges and those who have had trouble working schedules during the year may also find the correspondence school helpful, she said.

The school provides an excellent opportunity to complete a teacher's certificate, she said. Students who plan to teach in another state may need additional hours of education to meet that state's requirements.

Each course is prepared and taught by regular members of the university faculty and corresponds as nearly as possible to similar courses on campus.

Each lesson assignment contains instructions, questions, references and helps. The student prepares and mails in the lesson report on each assignment

(usually eight for each semester hour of credit.)

The assignment is corrected and graded by the instructor in charge and returned to the student with corrections, explanations and suggestions. When the course is completed, a comprehensive examination is given under qualified supervision, preferably a school official.

A special section is set up in the university library for correspondence work. These books can be checked out for four weeks at a time.

Fees include an enrollment fee of two dollars and a course fee of five dollars per semester hour.

Inflation Raises Price Of Missionary Work

LONDON (AP)—The Church Missionary Society of the Church of England, in a "History Book" published for its 150th anniversary, gives this inflation note:

Nowadays it costs three times as much to send a missionary out as it did in 1899 and twice as much to keep him in the field.

Bond Drive Starts Monday

The U.S. savings bonds Opportunity drive will get underway in Iowa City Monday, Ben S. Summerwill and Frank D. Williams, yesterday.

The "kick off" for the national drive will take place at Independence, Mo., where 50 of the original Conestoga wagons used during the 1849 gold rush will begin a nationwide trek.

One of the covered wagons will be flown from Independence to Des Moines where it will be exhibited during the opening week of the drive, the co-chairmen said.

The covered wagon will then be on display in about 20 Iowa cities during the drive which is scheduled to close June 30.

It is not known yet whether the covered wagon will visit Iowa City during the drive, Summerwill said.

The bonds are on sale at the Iowa City post office, banks, and savings and loan associations.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

AN IMPORTANT corporation lawyer told a reporter from the Wall Street Journal that the best advice he ever got was tendered by the doorkeeper at the United States Supreme Court.

The lawyer had just been handled in rather summary fashion by that august body, and expressed himself in no uncertain terms as he stamped out.

"You better be keener 'round heah," warned the doorkeeper. "Remember dis am de Supreme Cote ob de whole country an' ef you gits contempt of cote here dere ain't nobody to appeal to but God-a-mighty."

Shortly after her honeymoon, the comely receptionist, Betty Duffy, brought a strange-looking concoction in from the kitchen and promptly plunked it down in front of her husband. He dutifully ate a few spoonfuls, gulped, and ventured, "What do you call this, darling?" "It's date pudding," beamed Betsy. "How interesting," he answered. "But tell me, what date?"

Gibbs Seeks $250 Accident Damages

Lampert Yards, incorporated, Iowa City, and Robert Heppie, 16 E. Prentiss street, were named defendants in a $250 judgment suit filed yesterday in district court by Archie Gibbs, 1171 Porter avenue.

Gibbs asked judgment in that amount for damages to his auto as a result of a collision with a truck allegedly owned by the firm and driven by Heppie. Gibbs claimed the accident occurred at the intersection of Dubuque and Burlington streets on Oct. 22, 1948.

Kenneth M. Dunlop is attorney for the plaintiff.

COP TICKETS SELF
CHICAGO (AP)—James Wardell drove down a west side street. A cop stopped him for speeding, filled out a ticket and handed Wardell a copy. Later, Wardell took a quick look at the ticket—then read it slowly and smiled. For there in the space where Wardell's name should have been was the name of James Casey, the officer who wrote the ticket.
