UN Rejects Plea To Hear Eisler Case

FLUSHING, N.Y.—(UP)—The United Nations ended the third session of its general assembly last night in a sharp and unsuccessful fight by Poland to have the world organization intervene in the case of German-born Communist Gerhart Eisler.

The 59-member assembly, which early in the morning rejected the Bevin-Storza proposal for the distribution of Italy's former colonies, voted, 51 to 0, to postpone further discussion of the colonial issue until its fourth session convenes here in September.

The session began last September 21 at Paris and adjourned at Christmas to reconvene here April 5.

Polish Delegate Juliusz Katz-Suchy asked formally that the UN debate the Eisler case fully.

Katz-Suchy contended that British seizure of Eisler, who defaulted $20,000 bond by stowing away last week on the Polish liner Batory as a refugee from convictions of contempt of Congress and passport violations, was an infraction of human rights guaranteed by the UN charter and of accepted principles and practices of international law.

Evatt ruled Katz-Suchy out of order on grounds it was a "physical impossibility" to discuss the Eisler case at a moment when the assembly was about to adjourn and that such a matter could not be introduced without notice. The assembly voted to uphold the president's ruling.

Delegations from the Soviet countries abstained, angrily shouting protests as the roll was called. Only Norway voted in favor of the right of Poland to introduce the case at this time.

As tempers cooled, UN Secretary-General Trygve Lie and Evatt delivered closing speeches. Delegates smiled as Evatt, reading his prepared text, assured them that "the fight of the United Nations for peace will go on and on."

Franco Cites British 'Vows'

MADRID.—(UP)—General Francisco Franco asserted in parliament yesterday that the United States and Great Britain in 1944 considered opening their second front against Germany through Spanish territory.

Franco asserted also that Winston Churchill, his wartime foreign secretary, Anthony Eden, and Viscount Templewood, then British ambassador to Spain, offered concessions to Spain at the expense of France and Italy if she kept German troops off her soil.

Franco pointed out, amid cheers, how he had kept the Germans out of Spain and added: "How these promises were kept is known by the history of our relations in recent years with Britain."

Then Franco read a second telegram. He said it was sent by the British foreign office to the American state department in connection with a report made by one General George Strong.

In this telegram, signed, "Robert Armit," Franco said, an invasion of the Iberian Peninsula (Spain and Portugal) was suggested. The allies invaded Normandy June 6, 1944.

West Claims Russia Indirectly Blocks Trucking to Berlin

BERLIN (AP)—Western officials accused the Russians yesterday of imposing a new, indirect blockade on motor traffic to Berlin and the Soviet zone.

At the same time four-power talks here on easing trade and traffic snarls apparently broke down.

This was just a week after the old blockade was lifted.

For unexplained reasons, the Russians suddenly halted all West German trucks at Helmstedt that did not have cargo stamps from the Soviet economic commission.

Helmstedt is the border crossing point on the main route to Berlin.

The Russians also shut off Berlin-bound German freight traffic at the Hof checkpoint and told German drivers that Helmstedt was the only crossing point.

Western German officials said the Soviet move was prompted by a slow but steady fall of the Soviet zone east mark after Western freight started to arrive in Berlin, attracting Eastern as well as Western buyers. It took 3.20 East marks when the blockade lifted to equal one West mark which is officially valued at 30 cents. It now takes 4.50 East marks.

The Russians never have permitted West Berlin trucks to export without an Eastern stamp. The new rules at Helmstedt therefore meant the Russians were trying to control truck cargoes of Western origin. This appeared to be in violation for four-power agreements in existence since 1945.

Barge traffic also was going through normally, as was train traffic.

(In Washington, the state department is studying reports from Germany that soviet authorities are attempting to impose new restrictions on the movement of food and other cargo from the Western zones to Berlin. Officials declined comment, however, pending further information.)

Truman Names McCloy U.S. Chief in Germany

WASHINGTON (AP)—John J. McCloy, 54-year-old lawyer, banker, and top-notch administrator, was named by President Truman yesterday to be "the supreme United States authority in Germany."

McCloy will succeed Gen. Lucius D. Clay, who retired as military governor of the American zone in Germany Sunday. But McCloy's appointment marks the beginning of a changeover from military to civilian control in the American, British and French occupation zones.

Scottie Mothers Three Raccoons

POOR POOCHIE, a St. Petersburg, Fla. Scottie, was sad-eyed when the last of her litter of 10 puppies was given away, but she found a way to fill the void in her heart. Mother-love triumphed when she adopted three newborn raccoons. Where she found them is one of the mysteries of the animal world.

CIO's Top Men Vote To Attempt To Oust Farm Equipment Union

WASHINGTON (AP)—The CIO's top leaders decided last night to recommend that the next CIO convention revoke the charter of the left-wing Farm Equipment Workers union.

The labor organization's executive board took the unprecedented action by a 35 to 9 vote in another showdown between rival right and left-wing factions.

CIO President Philip Murray told newsmen the convention next October 31 at Cleveland will be asked to lift the FE's charter unless the union agrees to surrender it.

It was the first time in CIO history that the executive board has decided to recommend lifting an affiliated union's charter.

The action grew out of the FE's failure to carry out board orders to merge with the big CIO auto workers union. The FE has about 30,000 members.

After a stormy closed door session marked by bitter wrangling between the rival factions, Murray told reporters the board also had decided:

1. To withdraw from the Communist dominated World Federation of Trade Unions and participate with the AFL in forming a new anti-Communist world labor organization.

2. To call on congress to remain in session until the Taft-Hartley labor law is repealed and the rest of President Truman's "fair deal" legislative program is enacted.

Murray said Harry Bridges, president of the CIO longshoremen's union had "misrepresented" the CIO stand on Taft-Hartley repeal.

The resolution calling for Taft-Hartley repeal, adopted unanimously, called for elimination of court injunctions as a step to stop strikes, but indicated a mood for compromise.

Two Young Veterans Facing Life in Jail As Pauper-Debtors

RUTLAND, Vt.—(UP)—Two young veterans, jailed for months like the paupers of medieval England, were faced yesterday with possible life imprisonment unless they pay court judgments totaling less than $5,000.

Both Ralph J. Fugatt, 29, of Springfield, Mass., and Bernard J. Smith Jr., 23 of Fair Haven, Vt., were jailed because they failed to pay judgments resulting from automobile accidents.

They can get out of jail and their terms are indefinite.

"It's possible for them to spend the rest of their natural lives in jail," County Clerk George N. Harman said. He said they were held on a "close jail certificate," a legal action designed to protect persons who receive court awards in civil actions.

To gain freedom, Harman said, the pair must petition the county court to have the certificates vacated. If that is done, they then must face a three-man board of jail commissioners and request permission to take the poor debtor's oath.

Fugatt never has filed a petition. Smith tried twice and was turned down both times on grounds that he or his family could pay the judgment. A prisoner must have an estate of less than $20 to take the poor debtor's oath, Harman said.

Has New-born Son
Fugatt's wife Katherine, 22, gave birth to a son four days after her husband was jailed.

"I think it's inhuman to deprive a father of the sight of his first child," Mrs. Fugatt said.

"It's a crime—My husband was shot down on his 20th mission over Germany. He was wounded in the back. He spent six months in a German prison camp. And now he's imprisoned in his own country," she said.

"I have no idea when my son will get out of jail," Smith's father said. "He doesn't have the money to pay the judgment found against him. It's been 15 months now since they looked him up for an accident that wasn't his fault."

Smith was involved in an automobile accident after returning from military service and a judgment of $2,675 was returned against him, because a man changing a tire at the roadside had been killed by his car.

Fugatt, also involved in an automobile accident, was ordered to pay $1,189 in a civil action. He is a former correspondent for the Springfield (Mass.) Union and a recent news editor of Springfield radio station WMAS.

Detective Testifies Of Attempting to Put 'Pressure' on Hattman

CEDAR RAPIDS (AP)—A private detective told the jury in the murder trial of Dr. Robert C. Rutledge Jr., yesterday that he tried in vain to get Byron C. Hattman to leave the doctor's wife alone.

Rutledge is charged with fatally knifing Hattman during a Cedar Rapids hotel room fight December 14. His wife, Sydney, 23, has testified Hattman "seduced" her while she was ill from double whiskeys she claims he tricked her into drinking.

John Wilkerson, co-owner of the Allied Detective of St. Louis, said Dr. Rutledge asked his help about a month after the July 31, 1948, occasion when Hattman allegedly dishonored Mrs. Rutledge.

Dr. Rutledge came to my office about the last week in August and said his wife worked for Emerson (the Emerson Electric company of St. Louis where Hattman, 29, was an engineer)," Wilkerson testified.

"He said his wife had had an affair with Hattman. He said the two of them had gone sailing and then Hattman took her drinking and took her home and sexually knew her by force."

"Rutledge asked me to talk to people Hattman knew and try to bring about a situation so that Hattman would leave the Rutledges alone," Wilkerson testified. "He said Hattman had asked him to divorce his wife and let her have a little fun."

Shadowed 3 or 4 Times

Wilkerson said his agency shadowed Hattman three or four times, but was "unable to locate anybody the right type to put this pressure on Hattman and get him to cease annoying Dr. and Mrs. Rutledge."

Finally, Wilkerson continued, he met Hattman by appointment in a restaurant parking lot shortly after October 1, 1948, and talked to him.

"I told Hattman I would like to convey to him that Dr. Rutledge did not want a divorce because he and his wife were in love," Wilkerson said. "I asked him to leave her alone."

"He (Hattman) said 'suppose I love her too,' and then Hattman's face turned red and he kind of laughed about it. He never did promise me to stop trying to see her."

On another occasion, Wilkerson continued, Dr. Rutledge told him Hattman was demanding money.

"He said Hattman called late at night, sometime after midnight, and asked for $200. He wanted Rutledge to meet him downstairs (in the apartment house where the Rutledges lived) with the money."

Court adjourned at this point.

Key Awarded To Richardson

Charles F. Carroll, 21, Des Moines, will succeed Gail E. Myers as editor of The Daily Iowan, the Student Board of Publications, Inc., announced last night at the Matrix Table banquet in the River room of the Iowa Union.

Harold B. Arkoff, 23, Ft. Dodge, will replace Dene Carney as business manager. Both appointments are effective June 1.

The board's announcement came after awards to journalism students were presented at the annual banquet sponsored by Theta Sigma Phi, national professional fraternity for women in journalism.

Editor of Quest

Carroll was selected from a field of three on the basis of his application and an interview by the board. A senior journalism student, he is at present a copy-reader on The Daily Iowan and editor of Quest, an experimental paper published by the school of journalism.

Carroll worked for a year in the sports department of the Des Moines Register. He has also worked for the Iowa City Press-Citizen on sports and general news and was a correspondent for WMT in Cedar Rapids during this semester.

Arkoff has been assistant business manager of The Daily Iowan since September, 1948, and served on the sales staff one semester previous to this. He also worked on the sales and layout staff of Frivol.

Carroll named the following news staff for next year:

Arkoff named his staff: Herb Holland, Sioux City, assistant business manager; John Fulton, LeClaire, sales manager, and Roland Wedig, Springfield, Ill., classified ad manager.

Top journalism award of the year, the Brewer Torch Press Key, went to Don Richardson, a February graduate from Sioux City, who was selected by the journalism faculty.

Ed Mishak of Torch Press, publishing firm in Cedar Rapids, made the presentation given annually to a graduating senior on the basis of leadership, ability, high scholastic attainment and best promise for journalistic success. Richardson, unable to attend the banquet last night, now has a position in Washington, D.C., as press secretary to Iowa's Senator Bourke B. Hickenlooper.

Picks Phyllis White

The Brewer key was first given by Luther A. Brewer of Cedar Rapids, the first teacher of journalism at SUI. After his death, the Torch Press publishing firm agreed to continue the annual award.

The Iowa Press Women's award, a $25 bond, went to Phyllis White, a February graduate from Forest Hills, N.Y. She was selected as the outstanding senior woman in journalism during 1948-49. The award was presented by Mrs. Esther Dixon, Lenox, president of the Iowa Press Women's association.

Wins Cup

Miss White was also awarded the news photography cup for the best picture appearing in The Daily Iowan during 1948-49. Don Padilla of the Cedar Rapids Gazette made the presentation.

Three awards to outstanding radio students at SUI were presented by radio station WHO, Des Moines. Jack Shelly, news manager, made the awards to the following:

Raschi's 2-Hitter Beats Tribe

Indians Drop To 7th, 6-0

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Yankees, behind the two-hit shutout pitching of Vic Raschi, handed the Cleveland Indians their fifth straight defeat today, 6-0, to dump the world championship into seventh place.

A crowd of 28,606 saw the Yankees club Bobby Feller for 12 of their 13 hits in the seven innings he worked to hang the season's third defeat on the Cleveland ace righthander.

Feller retired the first two men to face him, but fell behind quickly when Gene Wooding doubled and rode home ahead of Tommy Henrich's first home run of the game and sixth of the season.

The Yankees added three more in the sixth and Henrich's second homer in the seventh closed out the scoring.

A 'Blue Plate' Special from the Chisox

CLEVELAND PRESIDENT BILL VEECK received a special gift from the Chicago White Sox yesterday when Sox General Manager Frank Lane sent him the Comiskey Park home plate as a joke. Sunday the Chisox blanked Veeck's Indians 10-0 and 2-0 in Chicago. Veeck is shown whisking the dirt off the plate. A message with the gift read: "We will not need it again until Decoration Day and we thought you might like to know what it looks like."

Everybody Hits as Dodgers Romp to 14-5 Win Over Cubs

CHICAGO (AP) — Pounding three pitchers for 20 hits, the Brooklyn Dodgers overwhelmed the Chicago Cubs, 14-5, yesterday to sweep the two-game series.

Roy Campanella and Duke Snider hit homers for 'the Dodgers, their sixth and seventh, respectively. Carl Furillo came out of a slump with a double and two singles. Everybody in the Dodger line-up made at least two hits except Campanella, whose two runs batted in brought his leadership total to 24.

Behind the barrage, Lefty Joe Hatten went all the way for his third victory against one loss. Gene Mauch and Clarence Madden homered for the Cubs.

Phillies Tally in 8th To Beat Cards, 3-2

ST. LOUIS, (AP) — A double by Granville Hamner and a single by Eddie Waitkus off relief pitcher Ted Wilks broke a 2-2 tie in the eighth inning and gave the Philadelphia Phils a 3-2 triumph over the St. Louis Cardinals yesterday.

Starter Harry Breechen allowed just three hits in his seven innings on the mound, then went out for a pinchbatter in the bottom half of the seventh.

10 Trackmen To Big 9 Meet

Coach Francis Cretzmeier will send a 10-man Iowa squad to Dwyne stadium in Evanston where the Big Nine's top track and field stars will converge for the 49th annual Western conference outdoor championships tomorrow and Saturday.

Headlines of the gigantic meet will be Ohio State's defending champions and Wisconsin's power-laden Badgers, co-holders with the Buckeyes of the league indoor crown.

The Hawks this year hope to garner more than the 11-2 points they earned in the 1948 meet.

Top-ranking Hawk is Half-Miler Keith Brown, who currently holds the fastest outdoor time in the conference for the 880. Brown's best mark is 1:56.8 — one-tenth of a second faster than Ohio State's Mark Whitaker and Michigan's Herb Barton for the half.

But if Brown is to be crowned champion he must outrun Wisconsin's Don Gehrman. The great Badger scampared the half-mile last winter in 1:53:1 for a new Big Nine indoor mark.

Russ Merkel is another Hawk with a chance of placing in the first five in the 220-yard low hurdles. Russ was fifth last year but has been hindered by the great part of this season by injuries.

The short dashes hold still another possibility for Hawk points. In the 100 and 220, Iowa has Captain Jack Simpson. The veteran Simpson has pulled out some fine performances despite the torment of pulled muscles.

There is an outside chance that High Jumper Dick Erdenberger can help the Hawk cause. He has cleared the bar at 6' 2 1/2" this spring and a good day could put him into the scoring.

The rest of the Hawks entered in the meet are Clair Jennett, pole vault; Jack Copeland, half-mile and relays; Dick Tupper, two mile; Bill Bye, mile; Tom Sangster, 440 and relays and Elliott McDonald, relays.

Visiting Sports Writer at SUI Says —

Mexico Plays 'Beisbol,' Soccer

The SUI athletic department extended "hands across the border" yesterday when Carlos Alvarez de la Cadena, sports writer and drama critic from Mexico City, visited Iowa's athletic facilities and commented on sports in his country.

"Beisbol" said Cadena, is very popular in Mexico, both in college and professional ranks. "But our big crowds," he said, "are for soccer, where we sometimes have 50,000 people."

Commenting on the athletics at the University of Mexico in Mexico City, Cadena, who is spending ten weeks visiting Iowa newspapers, said track is "not so good" in the south-of-the-border school.

Basketball for both men and women is very popular, and "very good" in Mexico, said Cadena, who has written sports in Mexico for seven years. He recalled the women's basketball team from Denver that played eight games in Mexico a year or two ago.

"Only one victory," he gestured, assuring the writer that the feminine cagers of Mexico were hard to beat. "Our women's team won the Olympic championship," he said, but he shook his head at the showing of some of the other teams Mexico had in the Olympic games.

The basketball season is on now in Mexico, Cadena said. Vacation time is during the winter and schedules for both men and women's basketball go right on into the summer.

The dapper newsmen from the Daily Estos said soccer and baseball are his main interests in sports, while he spends about an equal amount of time as a theater critic.

As he was being shown the fieldhouse facilities, the swimming pool and the stadium the conversation turned to the widely discussed Mexican baseball league.

It was just three years ago that George Pasquel, the millionaire president of the league, was raiding American clubs for baseball talent. Now says Cadena, Pasquel has just one club, Vera Cruz, and only a handful of the American players are still in the league.

"Lou Klein, the former St. Louis Cardinal, still plays," he said. Although the league is smaller in operations, "we still have good baseball and the league is a success in Mexico." He added that the crowds are not so big but that in general the people support the league very well.

In reply to the recent charge by Mexican League President Eduardo Pitman that American minor league players are luring players from the Mexican league Cadena said the condition is true, but that the game is not hurt very much by it.

Cadena confided that he much prefers the Midwest to other sections of the U.S. He has seen on his trip. "These northern states are the best," he said.

Hatton's Ninth Inning Grand Slam Homer Tops Boston, 13-9

CINCINNATI, (AP) Bucky Walters' rampaging Cincinnati Reds moved within one game of a tie for first place in the National league yesterday by trouncing Boston, 13-9 when Grady Hatton hit a grand slam homer in the ninth.

Eddie Erault was the winning pitcher and Nelson Potter was the loser.

It was a see-saw game, with Cincinnati twice coming from far behind. Homers by Ray Mueller and Jimmy Bloodworth, along with Boston Errors, kept the locals in the contest, and the 4,380 fans in a dither until Hatton punched the winning hit over the right field fence.

Boston and New York remained tied for first place in the pennant chase, since Pittsburgh walloped the Giants, 5-3, this afternoon.

Kenraffensberger, and Johnny Sain were the starting pitchers. The Reds used five hurlers and the Braves four.

Baseball Race Muddled

End of First Month's Play in Major Leagues Makes Dopsters Look Like Dopes

NEW YORK, (AP) — The major league baseball season was one month old Tuesday, and about the only thing you can say about it with any degree of certainty is that it is going out of its way to make dopsters look like dopes.

With approximately one-sixth of the campaigns completed, there still is no real hint as to the probable pennant winners, or even the first division clubs.

Some teams have done better than expected, some haven't done as well as expected, and a few have proceeded more or less according to pre-season calculations. Here are the general impressions we have soaked up during the early play:

Disappointments — Boston Red Sox, Cleveland Indians, Brooklyn Dodgers and Pittsburgh Pirates.

Surprises (pleasant) — New York Yankees, Washington Senators, Chicago White Sox, New York Giants, Cincinnati Reds, Detroit Tigers.

Perhaps the outstanding disappointment to date is the Boston Red Sox, the team which was expected to get away to a fast start after getting away in low gear last year and then sprinting breathlessly to a tie for the American league championship.

Joe McCarthy's team apparently is following the same script as last year, however. It is puffing and wheezing along, dropping games to clubs it was expected to blow over without effort.

The Indians, with their highly-touted pitching staff, also were expected to be away galloping but they are having their difficulties hovering around the .500 mark. The hurling staff seems to need one as it limps along unimpressively.

The Brooklyn Dodgers, with youth and fire, also were expected to be right up there after a month of play. They also are flirting with .500, and although only about four games out of first place they nevertheless haven't measured up to expectations. The Pirates also were highly regarded as a result of their fine fourth-place finish last year. They have shown little to shout about to date.

The Yankees, who didn't look well this spring and were expected to fold like a jackknife without the great Joe DiMaggio, were away winging and couldn't lose for winning for a while.

They seem to be leveling off, but their spectacular spurt was unexpected, to say the least.

As for the White Sox and Senators, they should be investigated. The Senators were labeled little better than semiprofs this spring, and the Sox looked good only to their relatives. Yet here they are, giving the supposed contenders fits. Nobody yet has been able to figure it out.

The long home standing advantage of a Giants team, taking advantage of a long home stand, was doing much better than expected, although they might meet trouble on the road.

The Cincinnati club, generally picked for last place, has come up with some power and pitching and right now at least is anything but a setup. Detroit also has done much better than most critics thought possible.

As for the other clubs, the Braves are battling for first place, as expected; the Cards are having their troubles, also expected and the Phils, Cubs, Athletics and Browns seem to be proceeding according to plan. The Browns are about the only team in either league which seems to have a permanent address for the season.

Bosox Start Early, Beat White Sox, 7-4

BOSTON, (AP) — Boston's Red Sox landed on Marino (Chick) Pieretti for three runs in the opening yesterday and used their heavy bats in good style to defeat Chicago 7-4 before 10,406 fans.

It was Boston's second decision in two days over the White Sox.

Gus Zernial, Husky Chicago Rookie outfielder, drove home all the losers' runs. He lined a three run homer into the screen in left field in the fifth and whacked a 400 foot double to center to send in the final White Sox score in the ninth.

Who are America's Most Successful YOUNG Men?

In anybody's book, one of them is Paul W. Trousdale. Said TIME's issue of December 2, 1946:

With a banker's natural curiosity old A. P. Giannini wanted to meet the 32-year-old builder who had already borrowed $30 million from his Bank of America, and was now asking for $50 million more. So he made a special trip to Los Angeles, dropped in on Paul W. Trousdale, looked at his past projects and future plans. Banker Giannini's curiosity was apparently satisfied, for last week Trousdale announced that he was getting his $55 million loan.

Post Projects. The record which impressed Banker Giannini: during the war the Paul W. Trousdale Construction Co. had built 3,025 small houses, including seven big housing projects. Now it was hard at work on 2,000 houses for veterans and was turning them out at the rate of ten a day.

Builder TROUSDALE A.P. took a look.

Paul Trousdale got into the Los Angeles building business by way of the University of Southern California and the ad department of Beech-Nut. After a year as an adman, Trousdale took a $125-a-month timekeeper's job with a local contractor, quit to form his own company with a $10,000 bank loan to finance it.

On each project, he and his stockholders put up the money to cover the cost of real estate, got Bank of America loans to cover all construction costs, had little trouble getting materials by his cash-on-the-line policy. Like most builders he formed a new corporation for each project, dissolved it when the project was finished. Thus his fat profits were taxable at only 25% as capital gains, gave him plenty of capital to expand. In all, he invested some $900,000 in his wartime projects, made another $900,000.

Future Plans. Well heeled at war's end, he decided the time had come to plunge. For this he picked one of the best pieces of undeveloped land in Southern California, a 625-acre tract at Baldwin Hills, a short run from downtown Los Angeles.

Now, with the Bank of America loan, Trousdale plans to build 8,000 rental units on 450 acres of it, along with a 26-acre super-shopping center. Eventually he hopes to build a hundred 13-story apartment houses on the rest of the land.

Builder Trousdale reads TIME each week—as do more than 1,500,000 other U. S. college graduates who find in TIME the news they can't afford to miss. To enter your subscription to the WEEKLY MAGAZINE see any of TIME's Representatives at S.U.I. Iowa Supply Co.—Students Supply Store

Men's Summer Clothes Will Be Cool,
Comfortable in Hottest Weather

You no longer need to pity the poor male. Clothing designers have finally come to the rescue of sweltering males by designing men's fashion's that are cool and comfortable. And a welcome change it is.

Light-weight wools, rayons, cottons and synthetic materials are being used time and again to manufacture clothes that dress up the man but keep him comfortable. For dress, business and sports alike, men's clothes are now being made with the emphasis on comfort.

THE BOLD LOOK in cool, comfortable summer sportswear. Bold look shirt worn by Herb Holland is the popular new pastel shade, with French cuffs and wide-spread collar. Herb's cool, grey gabardine slacks combine with navy blue, light weight sports jacket to give him a man-about-campus appearance. Sports outfit from the Men's Shop.

WEARING a loose-weave T shirt of bright yellow and brown with blue-grey tropical worsted slacks, Herb Holland is as sharp as any man on the course. Brown and white soft leather golf shoes complete his outfit. The cool, calculating onlooker is Curly Hultman who likes to play his golf in a crinkle crepe short sleeved sports shirt and gabardine slacks. Both outfits came from Ewer's Men's Store.

TENNIS enthusiasts are usually warm of their accord, but Chuck Dodd believes in starting his game feeling cool and looking sharp in white twill tennis shorts and a cool gaucho sports shirt. These gaucho shirts are the latest thing in sports shirts, combining good looks with comfort. This sports outfit from the Bremers sports Department.

KEEPING COOL in a forest green rayon sportshirt from Ewers Men's Store is Curly Hultman. Mrs. Hultman finds this washable fabric keeps its rich color and fine tailoring even after numerous washings. Also helping make it easier to survive on sultry summer days is Curly's cool summer weight tropical-worsted slacks. His heavy soled, dark brown sportshoes are perfect for campus wear or summer sports.

ONCE AN ENSEMBLE to be avoided by all men, the summer formal is now a thing of masculine beauty and cool comfort. Here Rey Kruckman models a pearl grey dinner jacket worn with summer weight formal trousers. Accessories include a pleated-front dress shirt of cool cotton mesh, black bow tie and boutonniere, black studs and cuff links and black patent leather shoes. The dinner jacket is a new rayon fabric, wrinkle resistant and sold in white, blue, brown and pearl grey worn by Rey. Formal ensemble furnished by Bremers.

COOL CLOTHES FOR CLASSES and sports are available too. Ideal are Rey Kruckman's loose weave navy blue T shirt and summer weight all-wool pearl grey slacks. With this combination and all-wool argyle hose, Rey is correct and comfortable anywhere on the campus or any golf course. Dark brown scotch-grain shoes with heavy soles complete the outfit. Shirt and slacks are from the Men's Shop.

Employment Opportunities — Job Openings in Three Fields

By TOM BUCK

Rounding out the job prospects for June graduates, here are the positions facing journalists, speech and dramatic arts major, musicians and nurses.

Paul I. Lyness, instructor in journalism and head of the journalism placement office, says there are "three or four" jobs waiting for each of SUI's June journalism graduates through the journalism placement office. This is "about the same" situation that faced graduates the past few years, he said.

The Iowa job picture for newspapermen, Lyness declared, is somewhat better than the job situation on the east and west coast. Iowa's weekly newspapers, he said, are now paying wages to college graduates comparable to those paid by many dailies.

"About 50" journalism students will graduate in June, according to the journalism placement office.

Plenty of Jobs

Actors, dramatic directors, radio announcers, costume and scenery designers, and other graduates in speech and dramatic arts have more jobs waiting for them than can be filled, according to Prof. E.C. Mabie, head of speech and dramatic arts. The only pre-requisite for graduates in these fields is that they be capable of filling them, he said.

Although he described the Hollywood and New York City actor situation as a "catch-as-catch-can" affair, he said community theaters and recreation centers afford many employment situations for dramatic arts graduates.

"We don't train our students for Hollywood and New York," he explained.

Prof. Mabie stressed that the graduates must be "saleable" to be well placed through the university.

Music Jobs Uncertain

The job future for music graduates is still uncertain, according to Prof. P.G. Clapp, head of the music department.

"We don't know what the situation will be," he said. "We're trying to get our students graduated first."

Seventy-seven music students will be graduated in June, Professor Clapp said, "but as for the future on placements, I can't give it to you."

SUI's graduating nurses will find job opportunities "excellent," according to Miss Amy F. Brown, nursing.

Graduates of the three-year program are eligible for jobs as hospital staff members and private duty nurses, Miss Brown said.

However, with the higher VA hospital wages and approximately $175 per month being paid out for general duty nurses, (night duty extra), fewer graduates are planning to become private duty nurses, she said.

Public Health Nursing

She listed public health nursing as "an open area," but girls entering this field are limited by the lack of necessary educational opportunities.

Only four nursing schools in the country offer approved public nursing programs, she explained. They are Vanderbilt, Nashville, Tenn.; Skidmore Department of Nursing, N.Y.; University of Washington and Yale university.

With the law of supply and demand reduced to "the law of demand," in the nursing field, no placement office is necessary at SUI for the nursing graduates.

Miss Brown listed three reasons for the nurses' sunny employment picture: (1) Hospital expansion programs, (2) More technical duties for nurses, and (3) A public clamoring for more medical care.

Saunders to Address Royall High Seniors

Prof. Harold W. Saunders, chairman of the SUI sociology department, will give the commencement address to the graduating class of Graettinger high school tonight.

Saunders spoke at commencement exercises at Everly last night, and will address the graduating class of Royall high school tomorrow night.

Childhood Problems Will Be Discussed At Iowa Conference

Problems of childhood and parent-child relationships will be discussed at SUI June 22 and 23 at the 22nd Iowa conference on child development and parent education, Robert R. Sears, director of the Iowa Child Welfare Research station, announced yesterday.

Panel discussions and exhibits on pre-school laboratories, workshop on human relations and hospital school for severely handicapped children will also be presented.

Principal speakers will include Thomas W. Richards, professor of psychology at Northwestern university; Vincent Nowlis, associate professor of social development at the Iowa child welfare research station; Dale B. Harris, professor at the institute of child welfare at the University of Minnesota; Robert J. Havighurst, professor of education at the University of Chicago, and Katherine Bain, U.S. Children's bureau.

SUI Students to Attend Washington Seminar

Three SUI students have been accepted by the National Intercollegiate Christian council in Washington to attend the Washington Student Citizenship seminar this summer.

The students are Joyce Rimmel, A3, Bedford, Doris Miller, A4, Montrose, and Eugene Thomson, A4, Garrison.

The Washington seminar will begin immediately after the Geneva conference, June 13 to 20, and will last until Aug. 30.

Civil service appointments have been given to the 90 students at the seminar for the summer. Joyce Rimmel will do stenographic work and Thomson will work in the bureau of census.

During their first week in Washington, students will spend full time attending congressional hearings, observing the senate, house of representatives and the supreme court in session.

They will all hold full-time jobs in governmental agencies or in congressional offices.

During the eight-week seminar, students will devote eight to twelve hours a week to meetings and field trips.

ANTONINA FUSCO DIES

Antonina Fusco, 53-year-old Davenport resident, died at 3:55 a.m. yesterday at University hospitals. Authorities said he was admitted April 30.

Two Iowa Citizens Plan Buffalo Trip

Prof. M. Willard Lampe, director of the SUI school of religion, and Police Judge Emil G. Trott plan to attend the general assembly meeting of the Presbyterian church of the United States today in Buffalo, N.Y.

Mrs. Owen Sutherland, Presbyterian church secretary, said yesterday that Lampe and Trott will represent the Iowa City Presbytery at the seven-day meeting.

Other Iowa representatives will be the Rev. Harry Poston, Keota, and R.R. Kline, Montezuma.

SCOUT WEEKEND

The Johnson county Boy scout weekend activities will begin tonight with a discussion of the planned activities by the adult leaders in the scout offices, at 7:30 p.m.

June Graduate Plans 3-Year Stay in India

Like about 1,700 other SUI students, she's graduating in June. But unlike the others, Georgana Falb, A4, Elgin, is planning to spend three years in India doing social work.

A sociology major, Georgana, in the past six months became interested in a project called "1-3" sponsored by the mission board and Women's Society of Christian Service of the Methodist church.

The project is to send 50 college graduates between the ages of 21 and 28 to India for three years to do social work, medical work and teach.

Georgana, who celebrated her 21st birthday Sunday, went to Chicago recently for an interview with the regional mission board. She was notified shortly after that she had been accepted.

Before leaving for India, the 50 students will take a six weeks orientation course at Hartford, Conn., starting July 1.

If they complete the orientation course successfully they will leave about Sept. 1 for India, Georgana said.

One of the conditions of "1-3" is that the students agree not to get married during the three years.

If Georgana goes to India this will be the first time she has been abroad, in fact, she added, "I've never even seen the ocean."

Her work in India will probably be with young girls. Georgana spent three summers counselling in the Cedar Rapids campfire council camp at Walker.

The India project is similar to a project of the mission board last year. The board then sent 50 college graduates to Japan for social work.

The board hopes next year to send 50 students to Africa and in 1951 they want to send 50 to South America on similar projects, Georgana commented.

She has no idea of what part of India she will be sent.

Georgana spent her first two years of college at Upper Iowa university, where she was editor of Collegian, the college newspaper.

In her two years at SUI she has been a member of Wesley foundation cabinet, Wesley Players, Methodist students drama group, Town Women's association, Hick Hawks and a "Y" cell group.

Word has been going around by mouth, print and taxiab that our dog, Penny, is smarter than I am. I don't like this sort of chat-chat in the least. After all, who in this family is getting a degree on June 10th?

(Note to registrar: I am getting a degree in June, aren't I? If I'm not, someone is going to have to refund the outlay I made for those four graduation announcements.)

In the way of offering proof of my superior intellect over the dog, I would like to point to the trick I have taught Penny since she came to our house.

THE FIRST achievement came when she learned to eat from a tin plate. After one lesson, Penny caught the idea firmly. Now, all we have to do is put food on the plate, and she eats it. You have to be smarter than the dog to teach it a trick like that.

Another little trick Penny picked up in no time at all is how to tear up a paper sack on the living room floor. About all I had to do in this instance was to drop a paper sack on the floor and turn my back. In less time than it takes to tell, Penny had the hang of it and was soon an expert paper sack terror.

AT PRESENT we are engaged in learning how to attack. If a dog is to be worth its salt, it must know how to attack. Of course, the only living thing who will attack at present is a moth, but give us time.

Before the season is out I hope to have her off-key fraternity yodlers who wander around in our neighborhood after curfew.

THERE ARE a number of things you should know if you are in the mind to train a dog. The tone of your voice is important. You should deliver the commands in a firm voice. You must let the dog know you mean business without being harsh.

Try out your commands on a friend first. If your friend cringes and hides in a corner, you'd better soften up a bit.

SUPPOSE YOU want to teach a dog to roll over. What is the first thing you're going to do? If you say to the dog, "Roll over," there will be something left to be desired. No, just telling it to roll over won't do.

The secret is to establish contact first... find a common meeting ground. And what could be more common than an actual demonstration. Assume a prone position and roll over.

This action not only informs the dog of what you expect it to do, but also gives the creature confidence. In some cases it serves as a challenge. The dog watches his master roll over, and then thinks to itself, "Well if that big show-off can roll over, there's certainly no reason why I can't."

AFTER THE ice has been broken by your demonstration, you may continue with the lesson. Turn to the dog and say simply, "Roll over."

If it doesn't quite grasp the command, help the animal by giving it a push. (It is nice if you own a small dog at this point, since small dogs are not likely to push back.)

IT MAY BE necessary to go beyond the pushing stage. Once the dog is off its feet, but still fails to roll over, take it by the legs and roll it over bodily.

After this is done, offer congratulations. No praise is too high for the dog after it has first completed a new trick. You can even go so far as to offer a reward, such as a dog biscuit or a stuffed olive, depending upon your dog's tastes.

New York Consulate General Says —

Austrians Look to Coming Big Four Meeting

Austrian Communists Few but Noisy

VIENNA POLICE struggle to control a demonstration of 5,000 Communist workers who have broken through a police cordon around the famed Ringstrasse. The Communists were demonstrating against a new government wage-price agreement.

By BERTHOLD GASTER

Austria has made great strides in improving living standards during the past year, according to Dr. Martin Fuchs, head of the Austrian Information Service of the Austrian consulate general in New York.

Dr. Fuchs said in an interview recently that he observed improving food conditions in Vienna early this spring.

"Some of the basic foods are still rationed, but there is a slow and cautious return to a free economy," he said.

Speaking in his Fifth avenue office overlooking fashionable midtown Manhattan, Dr. Fuchs spoke of a reduction in tension between the occupying powers in Vienna.

HE ATTRIBUTED this partly to the coming big four talks in Paris starting May 23. A possible item on the agenda of this foreign ministers' conference will be the Austrian problem.

"The number of Soviet kidnappings is much smaller than last year's figure which reached about 400," he said.

The improved food situation that has seen the Austrian calorie ration go up to 2,100 per day has taken much of the wind out of Communist sails in Vienna.

"There has been no appreciable change in their strength since the 1945 elections," Dr. Fuchs observed. Their share of the total vote then was three percent.

SPEAKING OF the elections coming up this October, Dr. Fuchs expressed the opinion that there will not be any large deviation from the 1945 figures which saw the People's party and the Socialists come in one-two in a very close vote.

"In any event, no matter who wins, the coalition government will continue," the official stated.

A new problem may arise in the coming elections. According to present law no fourth party may enter an election. A new party has come into being, though. It is of course illegal, but has shown some strength among the new voters.

The new political group includes many of the old Nazis and is headed by Dr. A.H. Kraus, a publisher of a weekly in Salzburg. Its main appeal is directed to the youth who did not vote in 1945, to former Nazis and to former prisoners in Russian camps.

CHANCELLOR FIGL decides if this new party, as well as a new leftist Socialist group, should get a place on the ballot.

Turning to the displaced persons question, Dr. Fuchs deplored the heavy financial burden placed on the Austrian government in having to pay a large share of the upkeep for these refugees. They range from political exiles from behind the "iron curtain" to Jews who want to go to Israel.

Dr. Fuchs stressed that the recent London talks on an Austrian treaty had been on a friendlier basis than the press had pictured. He said that all minor points had been more or less agreed upon, and that the major points of reparations, former German assets and the Yugoslav claims had been left for the foreign ministers' meeting starting at Paris next week.

A REPORT from Paris Sunday said that Austria's foreign minister, Dr. Karl Gruber, had asked U.S. delegate-at-large Phillip Jessup to include the Austrian question in the Paris talks.

Dr. Fuchs emphasized that Austria's main aim was "to get full independence."

"A small country like Austria can only see economic salvation as part of a larger unit. We don't want to become members of an aggressive western bloc anymore than we want to join an eastern bloc," he continued.

DR. FUCHS stressed, in conclusion, that "economically Austria could not subsist without the Marshall plan."

He said that the small state had been cut off from eastern and southeastern European trade. While regular trade has been cut off with Danubia and the Balkans, Russian control of the industries in the Vienna basin provides Hungary with Austrian products for nothing.

Dr. Fuchs seemed to feel that the Paris talks may solve many of the issues left unsolved at London.

Western Railroads Lead the Nation in Converting to Diesel

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The old "iron horse" steam locomotive is a virtual curiosity west of the Rockies as western railroads lead the nation in using diesel-electric power, a survey showed yesterday.

The three major western railroads have retired 1,211 steam locomotives, replaced them with 1,488 diesel electric units and have 230 others on order, according to W.F. Weidner, district manager of SKF industries.

Only diesel power is being used by the Union Pacific west of Ogden, Utah. Retiring 141 steam locomotives since the war, the Southern Pacific operates only 63 switch engines with steam on its Pacific lines, and the Santa Fe has 669 diesel electric units replacing 540 steam engines.

The nation's railroads are scrapping 12 steam locomotives daily, Weidner said, and in the last two years retired 4,800 steam engines while only 138 were ordered. "Despite this strong trend, up to now steam-driven locomotives still furnish 85 percent of all railroad power in the nation," Weidner said. "That ratio of steam to diesel is reversed in the west, however."

Why Not 'Giveaway' Strikes —

Ford's "square deal" proposal that CIO strikers return to work and then settle their dispute — while probably futile — recalls a recent plan advanced by two labor experts.

The idea calls for a "statutory strike" in vital industries — a strike in which labor and management would battle with economic weapons while the innocent public remained untouched.

The trouble with most big strikes nowadays, these two labor experts reason, is that the public suffers as much as the contestants. So why not pass a law under which both the strikers and the company would keep functioning but would suffer losses similar to those involved in a strike.

In such legislation, it is argued, the "bargaining function of the strike would be preserved, yet the conflict with the public interest would be avoided."

How? Well, such a law would require the company to pay for all work performed at a rate so high that it would be in the same position as if a strike were in progress. The workers would receive such a small compensation that they would be under the same economic pressure as they would be on a picket line.

"The difference between the rate at which the company pays out and the rate at which the men are paid," the two experts say, "would be deposited in a public trust fund... available for the general needs of the government."

Then all that would be needed is a special labor court to set up varying rates of pay in a "statutory strike" and make any retroactive adjustments that prove necessary.

Applying this novel proposal to the current Ford strike, the union and the company would still be at each other's throats trying to win by economic strangulation. But Ford would keep rolling off the assembly line and a flood of money would pour into a public fund.

The idea, in a way, is similar to the old warring custom of certain American Indian tribes where the brave who could give the most goods away was declared the victor.

And, even if Ford and the United Auto Workers feel they have a real battle on their hands, it would be nice to see those cars wheeling out to the buying public.

Our Fiscal Freedom Lost advertisement featuring a portrait of a man and the text 'I'D RATHER BE RIGHT Our Fiscal Freedom Lost'.

By SAMUEL GRAFTON (New York Post Syndicate)

Our military program and our foreign policy programs are designed to keep us free. But how free are we, when we find ourselves caught in a 43-billion-dollar budget, more than half of which, or about 22 billions, represents arms and foreign policy expenditures which we do not consider that we can alter?

Since another quarter of the budget, or about 10 billions more, goes for debt service and veterans' expenditures, it might be said that at least three-quarters of our huge budget is, except for minor congressional tinkering, almost automatically appropriated for us.

THE PRESENT budget-and-tax crisis in congress raises the question of how free a nation can consider itself to be when it has, so to speak, lost control over such enormous expenditures. How free are you when the way you spend your money is no longer up to you?

OUR CONGRESS has, in a sense, lost its fiscal freedom. And it seems to me that one of the great aims of American diplomacy ought to be to try to recapture our power over our own purse, i.e., to recapture a very essential form of freedom.

An easing of the international situation would allow us to regain fiscal control, that would enable us once more to spend our money as we pleased, could be more significant for the shaping of a free American destiny than the acquisition of new bases anywhere in the world.

We have increased our power at the expense of our control, so to speak; we find ourselves able profoundly to affect the future of a good part of the world, and yet unable to shape our own.

Well, Why Not a Wrist-Molecule?

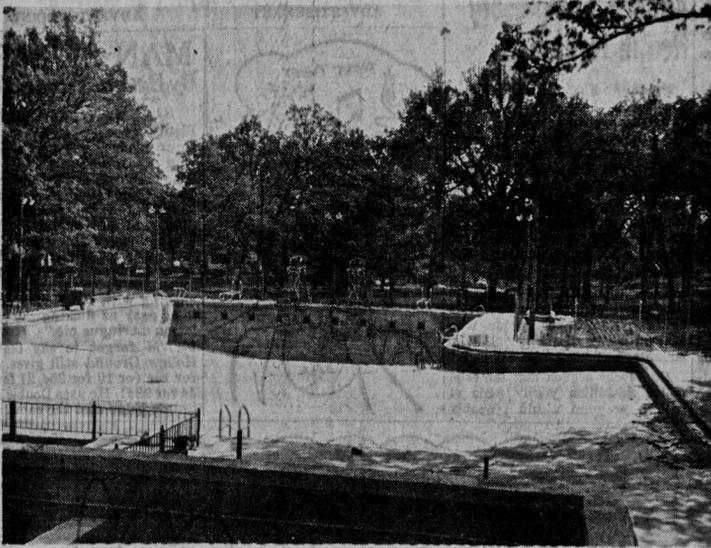

PALO ALTO, CALIF. (AP) — An atomic scientist predicted yesterday that in the future time will be measured by the rotation of molecules instead of the earth.

Dr. Edward L. Ginzton, professor of physics who is currently developing an electron linear accelerator at Stanford university, said the measurement of the time it takes for a molecule to spin on its axis can be measured with microwaves more accurately than present time methods.

He said that a molecule of ammonia gas, subjected to microwave powers and "watched" with a sensitive microwave radio receiver, can be judged accurately because the frequency of its spin is constant.

IT IS PERFECTLY true, as they say, that our freedom is at stake in the management of our foreign affairs. But in making up your list of freedoms, don't leave this one out — freedom to spend our own money as we please, hegemony over our own budget. To preserve that freedom ought to be central to any nation's diplomacy.

FOR many years the theatrical weekly, Variety, has been famous for its terse, jargonistic headlines. When the stock market crashed in 1929, for instance, Variety's front-page banner read "Wall Street Lays an Egg." When a raging blizzard cut Buffalo's theater receipts in half one week, Variety summed up the situation, "BLIZ BOFFS BUFF BIZ." When small-town movie exhibitors turned thumbs-down on rural subjects, Variety headlined "STIX NIX HIX PIX."

It seems that a New York tabloid, however, has decided to give Variety headline writers a run for their money. Its captions have been growing friskier by the day, culminating recently when a strip-tease artist in a Fifty-second Street bistro was pinched on a morals charge. The tab covered the trial, and reported, "Three Judges Weigh Her Fan Dance: Find It Wanton."

A tender, fragrant little rosebud looked around wonderingly and asked, "What brought me here?" The rose answered briskly, "The stalk, of course."

Bendix Strike Stops Delivery Of Engines to Airforce, Navy

SOUTH BEND, IND. (UP)—The effects of a 29-day-old strike at Bendix Aviation corporation spread from the automobile to the aircraft industry last night and stopped delivery of jet engines to the air force and navy.

The April 20 walkout of 7,500 CIO United auto workers was blamed at Indianapolis for a disruption in the delivery of jet engines for seven types of air force and navy planes.

The Allison division of General Motors corporation, whose plant in Indianapolis produces more jet engines than any other U.S. firm, stopped shipments Monday.

The shipments stopped when the last J-33 and J-35 jet engine complete with an automatic control regulating the flow of fuel moved out of the big plant.

But Allison continued the production of the engines, minus the control part supplied by Bendix before production lines ceased four weeks ago yesterday.

Earlier, auto plants shut down, idling thousands, because of the strike.

Meanwhile, picket lines were back to normal size at Bendix and 1,600 non-striking salaried workers entered the plant after a one-day holiday while company and union representatives met in their ninth mediation session.

Willis-Overland, one of several auto makers whose brake supply was cut off by the strike, filed a federal court petition for a restraining order and injunction against the union late yesterday afternoon. A hearing was set for 2 p.m. today by Judge Luther M. Swygert.

There was disorder on the Bendix front Tuesday when pickets armed with baseball bats scuffled with 20 plant guards and kept supervisory and office personnel from entering all day.

Kauffman Named Engineers Head

Juniors and first semester seniors in engineering yesterday chose Thomas M. Kauffman, E3, Audubon, as senior class president for next year in an election held at 1 p.m. in the electrical engineering building lecture room.

Also elected were Donald R. Wagner, Iowa City, vice-president; Luther H. Smith, Des Moines, secretary, and Gerald Luecke, Mattoon, Ill., treasurer. All the new officers are juniors. As president, Kauffman will represent the engineering students in the Association of Senior Class Presidents at SUI.

Ryan, Welter Picked Outstanding SUI Catholic Students

Catherine Welter, A2, Iowa City, and Tom Ryan, C4, Brooklyn, received the outstanding SUI Catholic man and woman awards last night at the Newman club's annual spring banquet.

About eighty persons attended the banquet in Hotel Jefferson. Newman club officers for next year were also announced.

They are Ryan, president; Dale Scannell, A2, Iowa City, vice president; Sally Lachner, A2, Des Moines, recording secretary; Joan Schwab, A3, Davenport, corresponding secretary and Elmer Hentges, A2, Dyersville, treasurer.

Miss Welter served as co-chairman of the Newman club social committee during the last year, and served on various club committees. She is president of the Townwomen's association.

Ryan was publicity manager for Kampus-Kapers, variety show sponsored by Newman club, and served as chairman for several Newman club committees.

Jack Whitesell, A3, Davenport, also received an honorary membership in the John Henry Newman society. Whitesell was Kampus-Kapers director this year.

Milton Schwartz Files Suit for Divorce Here

He asked to be awarded personal belongings and other equitable relief.

Swisher and Swisher are attorneys for the plaintiff.

Engineering Group Gives Regent Post To C. W. Lazenby

Charles W. Lazenby, E3, Marion, was elected regent of Theta Tau, professional engineering fraternity, at the regular meeting of the SUI chapter Tuesday in the engineering building.

Other officers elected were William H. Olson, E3, Iowa City, vice-regent; Claude E. Peterson, E3, Mankato, Minn., scribe; Ronald Larson, E2, Chicago, Ill., treasurer; William E. Griffith, E4, Mount Pleasant, corresponding secretary.

Lowell D. Kraatz, E4, Oak Park, Ill., marshal; Robert C. Holle, E3, Oak Park, Ill., inner guard; Richard W. Inman, E4, Oak Park, Ill., outer guard; Thomas M. Kauffman, E3, Audubon, athletic director, and Terrance J. O'Brien, E2, Tiffin, assistant athletic director.

The officers will be installed at the regular meeting next Tuesday at 7 p.m. in room 006, engineering building. The members also discussed final preparation of the Alumni News-Letter, which will be published and sent out shortly to all Theta Tau alumni.

New officers and committee chairmen of the club will be introduced.

TO ATTEND MEETING

Robert Gage, chamber of commerce secretary, will go to Cedar Rapids tomorrow where he will attend the spring conference of the Iowa chamber of commerce executives.

Chamber of Commerce Adds 63 Members

The Iowa City chamber of commerce added 63 new subscribers to its rolls in the membership drive which ended yesterday.

"Wet's Wallflowers," membership team headed by Dale Welter, defeated "Bywater's Buttercups," led by Ray Bywater, in the drive which garnered $1,415 in subscriptions, Membership Chairman, Jack Leichy, said yesterday.

George Dane and R.T. Davis, the winning pair in the membership drive, were each presented a picnic basket, thermos jug and a set of picnic dishes by Leichy at yesterday's drive concluding luncheon. Dorr Hudson and R.H. Lind placed second, and in third place were Ray Vanderhoef and Jack Larew.

There are now 460 subscribers in the chamber of commerce and about 525 assigned members, Leichy said.

The difference in these two to-als is accounted for by the fact that each subscribing firm may assign any number of members up to 10, Leichy explained.

Art Guild to Show Movie by French

The French movie "Passion of Joan of Arc" will be shown tomorrow at 8 p.m. in the art building auditorium, Art Guild President Len Everett said yesterday.

The film will be the last of the University Film series sponsored by the Art Guild. Tickets will cost 40 cents and can be bought at the door. Season tickets are still available at the bargain price of $1.50 and six persons can attend one showing on one season ticket.

SUI Doctor Warns Against Compulsory Health Insurance

Dr. Rubin Flocks, SUI urologist, warned the Iowa City Lions club yesterday against hasty acceptance of compulsory health insurance as a cure-all for the country's medical aid problems.

He argued that there are too many "unmeasurable intangibles" involved in such a plan for the country to rush into it without thorough experimentation and planning.

The "intangibles," he said, are the value of a doctor's service and the number of people who are not really sick who will take advantage of "free medical care."

Dr. Flocks argued that the estimated $6-billion yearly costs of such a program would probably be two or three times that amount. There is no immediate need for compulsory health insurance, he added, because anyone who really needs medical care can get it regardless of his ability to pay.

MAN SWEARS By Better Razor Blade

IOWA CITY, IOWA, MAY 19.—Plenty of men swear at their razor blades, but here's a man who swears by his!

When reporters called on Joe Muddoon, they found him whistling in the bathroom. "Boys," he said, "just tell my public I'm razor blade happy. After years of trial and error, mostly error, I finally found my blade — just a 'feather touch' and so long whiskers! Why, shaving with Pal Hollow Ground is as easy as flicking the top of lemon meringue pie."

Mr. M forgot to say that Pal Hollow Ground still gives you 4 for 10¢ (or 10 for 25¢, 21 for 49¢, 44 for 98¢). He uses Double Edge. Single Edge cost the same.
