Russ Propose Control Board To Run Conquered Germany

PARIS (AP) — Russia proposed to the foreign ministers' conference yesterday that a high-ranking German control board be formed to run the conquered country — but that each of the big four should retain a veto over it.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky also gave an economic look behind the iron curtain which western observers at the meeting said left the western ministers skeptical and even humorously misbelieving.

This was the fourth session of the council. The sessions have become progressively longer since the first one.

"It is getting to be just like old times," an American delegate commented in describing the session, which ran for nearly four hours in the pink marble palace near Paris' famous Bois de Boulogne woods.

Western spokesmen gave this picture of the meeting:

The clash of east and west seemed to be increasingly solid, save for the brief look into eastern Germany given by Vishinsky.

His talk represented a change of tone in one respect. His proposal for a high-ranking council of German economic functions apparently was intended to win German favor for Russia's proposal to restore four-power control.

The American, British and French delegates met it head on by saying they would have none of any type of control which hampered the new western German government.

In two long speeches during the afternoon, Vishinsky defended the veto and talked highly of economic progress in the eastern zone, long a secret area so far as western eyes are concerned.

Lewis Strides Out Of Contract Talks; Forces Week Delay

BLUEFIELD, W. VA. (AP) — John L. Lewis yesterday forced a one-week delay in the soft coal contract discussion between his United Mine workers and the Southern Coal Producers association.

Lewis, who said previously that he was taking part in the wage talks only because he did not want the miners penalized under the Taft-Hartley law, emphasized that he was "not walking out of this conference or abandoning it."

He told Joseph E. Moody, president of the southern operators group, that Moody's association is falling apart and that he wants to know exactly with whom he is bargaining.

"We will be back one week from today at 3 p.m.," he said. "In the meantime you can find out who you represent. I wish you a pleasant weekend, gentlemen."

With that, Lewis casually picked up his hat and coat and strode out of the conference hall. Several hundred miners who had left the pits for the day and crowded into the hall made an aisle for him as he strolled to the door.

Reduce Student Ticket Price for Lions Show

The Lions club's 41st annual benefit show featuring the magician, "The Great Virgil," will be held at 8 p.m. tonight in the City high auditorium.

R.W. Lund, program chairman, said yesterday that admission for all students has been reduced to 60 cents. The regular price is $1.20, he said, and Bremers, Racines and Whelstones have agreed to pay for the other half of the student tickets.

Rita Calm as Wedding Ceremony Approaches

CANNES, FRANCE (AP) — Rita Hayworth and her prospective father-in-law, the Aga Khan, were among the calmest people on the Riviera last night as the marriage of the movie star to Prince Aly Khan drew near.

The ceremony will take place shortly before noon today in the town hall of Vallauris. (The French pronounce it Vall-ho-reece). Workmen were busy last night tidying up the building.

Construction Bids On Vets Hospital To Start June 27

Army engineers will request construction bids about June 27 for the Veterans hospital to be built at Iowa City, a veterans administration official said yesterday. His statement was in reply to a query from Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper of Iowa.

The district office of the corps of engineers, Rock Island, Ill., will open the bids for the 500-bed hospital about six weeks later, the official said.

No major changes have been made in the plans for the estimated $11-million construction announced last year, he added.

Contracts for construction of the hospital will be awarded shortly after the bids are opened, he explained, if the bids are not too high and if they are in line with the specifications of the hospital plans.

George L. Horner, superintendent of planning and construction at SUI, said that the new 12-story building will be constructed behind the Psychopathic hospital facing highway 6.

In addition to the hospital, Horner said, there will be a nurses' and interns' home, an attendants' dormitory, a manager's residence and several staff houses accommodating two families each.

The ground on which the hospital will be built was purchased from the university and two private owners, a university official said. The amount received by the university for the land, he estimated, was $130,000.

Jake Bird Saved Again from Noose

WALLA WALLA, WASH. (AP) — Snatched from the gallows for the third time in 18 months, axe murderer Jake Bird got down on his knees and prayed in his condemned row cell yesterday when Warden Tom Smith told him he had been granted a 30-day reprieve.

The ninth U.S. circuit court of appeals in San Francisco granted Bird, a 47-year-old Tacoma Negro, an opportunity to renew his plea for a writ of habeas corpus.

Judge William Denman telephoned Warden Smith from San Francisco at 2:30 p.m. (Iowa time), less than 12 hours before Bird was scheduled to be hung in Washington state penitentiary.

Bird has confessed a total of 29 murders throughout the nation. If his confessions are true, Bird is a mass murderer with few equals in the annals of American crime.

Dr. Bunche Named Father of the Year

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Father's day committee yesterday named Dr. Ralph Bunche, United Nations mediator in Palestine, as "Father of the Year," for his role in bringing peace to the Holy Land.

At its annual luncheon, the committee also cited these men as outstanding fathers in their fields: Connie Mack, sports; Alfred Drake, stage; John Garfield, screen; Gabriel Heatter, radio, and Ed Sullivan, television. Tex and Jinx McCrary were honored as the husband and wife team of 1949.

Combat Veteran Freed from Debtor's Jail

FREED FROM DEBTOR'S PRISON, Ralph H.D. Fugatt, 29, combat veteran joyously embraces his tearful wife as they received news Wednesday night that a Memphis, Tenn., cotton shipper had paid the $2,682.39 court judgment against him. He had been in jail two months. Edward Sanders, who paid the judgment against Fugatt, said he "sympathized" at the veteran's plight under the old debtor's law.

Shanghai Fighting Ends Victors Also Take Woosung

SHANGHAI (FRIDAY) (AP) — As sudden as the crash of an oriental gong in an empty street, peace and quiet returned to Shanghai today.

The military phase of the Communist takeover of the world's fourth largest city ended in one last, mad burst of fighting on the north bank of Soochow creek.

The final collapse of organized resistance was complicated by indecision among barricaded Nationalist holdout troops. The soldiers were in buildings along the creek that blocks the city from east to west.

This indecision was finally broken by the intercession of foreigners trapped in the buildings and the brisk arrival of Communist soldiers.

After that, the Communists swept on into Honkew and North Shanghai. They swiftly eliminated a handful of Nationalist holdout troops there.

Meanwhile, the fortress of Woosung fell. Government forces which had failed to reach this last evacuation point 10 miles north of Shanghai surrendered.

Thus ended the month-long siege and two days of isolated pitched battles in the heart of the city. Civilian casualties — mostly Chinese — numbered less than 200.

Shanghai, often a prize of war, had passed into new management.

Truman Asks Peace Prayer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Truman declared yesterday that only through "divine guidance" can the world avert war. He signed a proclamation calling upon the nation to observe Memorial day Monday with a "prayer for peace."

Strikers to Continue Rail Tie Up in Berlin

BERLIN (AP) — Railway strikers said last night they will continue to tie up all rail traffic in west Berlin yards.

Strike leaders said an earlier order which permitted movement of four stalled allied military passenger trains was "contrary to strike orders."

The four trains were at strike-bound Wannsee station on the outskirts of western Berlin. A young American officer had succeeded in getting Karl Kennig, a district strike chieftain, to agree to move the four trains and they were taken over the single track to terminal stations.

Now the strikers indicated they would not do anything further to relieve the logjam unless they got specific orders from the western allies to do so. This did not appear to be forthcoming.

Thus the latest developments shut off any early hope that 31 Berlin supply trains with loads including 16,800 tons of coal would move from their stalled positions on Soviet zone tracks.

Rail traffic to Berlin from the west has become increasingly snarled since 12,000 members of the anti-Communist UGO (independent labor organization) went on strike last Saturday against the Soviet-controlled railroad in Berlin.

Pope Pius Proclaims 1950 as a 'Holy Year'

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Pius XII officially proclaimed 1950 a holy year yesterday and called on Roman Catholics to pray that the rights of the church be guarded against "conspiracies, deceptions and persecutions."

The 73-year-old pontiff issued a papal bull which exhorted Catholics to acquire Christian virtues and urged a pilgrimage of peace to Rome during the holy year.

Defense Hits State Attack on Sydney

Letter Aims Heir's 'Errors'

DECATUR, ILL. (AP) — It's human to err, but to make an "error" of an heir, is still another thing, says Laurence Tangney, Macomb county clerk.

Tangney aired the contents of a letter received yesterday from a Springfield, Ill., attorney referring to an estate being probated.

Heirs of the estate, he said, were described as "errors" throughout. And one portion of the letter referred to a child involved in settlement of the estate as a "minor error."

'Unethical,' Defense Says

CEDAR RAPIDS (AP) — The defense late yesterday challenged the state's request that the jury find Dr. Robert C. Rutledge Jr., guilty of "the deliberate murder of Byron C. Hattman."

Replying to Assistant Prosecutor David Elderkin's admission to the jurors that if they do not convict the 28-year-old St. Louis doctor then "all reason has fled," Defense Attorney R.S. Milner said in his formal plea:

"It is completely impossible if you follow the evidence to return a verdict of first or second degree murder or of assault with intent to commit murder."

"In 35 years of legal practice I have never seen a more vicious, cruel and unethical attack on a witness than (the state) perpetrated on Sydney Rutledge when the prosecutor asked her, with a sneer in his voice, if she didn't go into her bedroom, remove her clothes, and then invite Mr. Hattman in," Milner declared.

Milner asserted Hattman met death accidentally as the two men fought a bloody duel during which the 29-year-old engineer drew a knife from his pocket after Rutledge had begged him to "get out of our lives."

Milner's plea, interrupted by adjournment, will be finished today.

The state claims Rutledge fatally stabbed Hattman in a Cedar Rapids hotel room fight last Dec. 14 from motives of "jealousy, extortion and robbery."

"I don't know who seduced whom," Elderkin said in arguing that Mrs. Sydney Rutledge, 23, "was still hanging around Hattman's drawing board" after the incident last July 31 when she claims he pled her with liquor and was intimate with her while she was too ill to resist.

"It would seem passing queer to me if there was any seduction at all," Elderkin told the 12 jurors. Turning to the hotel room clash which left Hattman fatally stabbed, Elderkin declared, "Byron C. Hattman never had a chance."

In a courtroom charged with suspense, Elderkin attacked the doctor's story that Hattman was the aggressor. He said:

1. Rutledge came to Cedar Rapids — "not once but three times" — for the purpose of murdering Hattman.

2. Rutledge lay in wait for "his victim" and killed him with a single knife thrust after stunning Hattman with a blow on the head.

Pres. Truman Moves To Lillenthal Defense

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Truman yesterday went to the defense of Atomic Chief David E. Lillenthal, charging that Lillenthal's critics are engaging in "pre-election campaigns" and endangering the "integrity" of the atomic energy program.

"It is time people stopped getting hysterical when the word atom is mentioned. The plain fact is that the atomic energy program is in good shape — and in good hands," the President said in a statement read at his news conference.

Several members have demanded that Lillenthal, chairman of the atomic energy commission, resign. They have charged gross mismanagement, saying among other things that insufficient measures were taken to protect atomic secrets.

Appearing before a senate-house investigating committee yesterday, Lillenthal testified in response to questions that the AEC unanimously cleared two scientists for atomic work after the AEC's own security officer turned thumbs down on them.

Lillenthal named the men as: 1. Dr. Edward U. Condon, chief of the U.S. bureau of standards. 2. Dr. Frank Graham, now a Democratic senator from North Carolina, former president of the University of North Carolina and former head of the Oak Ridge institute of nuclear studies.

Senator Hickenlooper (R-Iowa), who is pressing the demand for Lillenthal's ouster, had this to say of Truman's remarks:

"The President is certainly entitled to his own opinions. His knowledge of the program, of course, comes from the commission chairman's reports."

Meanwhile, on the senate floor, Senator Cain (R-Wash.) rekindled the long-standing controversy over civilian or military control of the atomic program.

Cain introduced a bill to abolish the present commission and turn atomic development over to an eight-man board, consisting of the secretary of defense, the secretaries of army, navy and air force, the three chiefs of staff and a scientist.

Gardener Gives Clay Hug as Welcome

A "WELCOME HOME 'MASSA,'" combined with a big hug was the greeting General Lucius D. Clay received from Reuben Johnson, 88-year-old gardener for the Clay family, on Clay's return to Marietta, Ga., yesterday for a homecoming celebration. Johnson has served the Clay family since the general was born.

Engineer Killed in Iowa Train Wreck

WAVERLY (AP) — An engineer was killed and three other trainmen injured yesterday in the collision of two freight trains.

E.C. Bradford, Waterloo, engineer on an Illinois Central freight, was killed.

The injured were: B.T. Crummer, Illinois Central fireman; T.A. Drew, I.C. conductor, and A.M. Walsh, flagman.

The collision occurred at the crossing of the Illinois Central and Great Western tracks a half mile from Waverly and involved a Great Western and Illinois Central freight.

The Illinois Central engine turned over on its side and about 12 cars of the Great Western freight were scattered about.

Robert Callahan, Illinois Central depot agent at Waverly, said the Illinois Central engine apparently ran into the Great Western train about 15 cars ahead of the caboose.

Big 8th Wins for Bosox

'Gift' Tallies Nip Brownies

BOSTON (AP) — Boston's Red Sox took full advantage of an error and a close play at second base by scoring four unearned runs in the eighth inning yesterday for a 7-5 decision over the last place St. Louis Browns.

The victory gave the Sox a slightly firmer grip on third place in the American league.

The Browns, on a rally sparked by former Red Soxers Ed Pallagrini and Stan Spence, had gone ahead 5-3 in their half of the eighth when they drove out Boston starting left hander Mel Parnell.

St. Louis starter Ned Garver seemed on his way to his third victory after disposing of the first two batters in the eighth.

But Al Zarilla, former Brownie, bounded a single into center field. Birdie Tebbetts followed with a line single into left, his fourth hit of the game.

Tom O'Brien, batting for reliever and winner Tex Hughson, walked. Dom DiMaggio then drilled the ball toward shortstop.

Zarilla raced home. Lou Stringer, running for Tebbetts, did everything but get hit by Dom's grounder and obscured Pelly's vision enough to make the St. Louis shortstop bobble the ball. All hands were safe as the run scored on the error.

Johnny Pesky then banded one toward center field. Gerry Priddy made a great barehanded stop and flipped to Pellagrini at second. DiMaggio slid to the bag in a cloud of dust and was ruled safe as Stringer scored the tying run.

Both Pelly and Priddy charged Umpire Joe Paparella to no avail. Ted Williams then came through with a line single into right for the winning runs.

ST. LOUIS BROWNS' LES MOSS slides in to third base but Umpire Cal Hubbard says he's out. Red Sox Third Baseman Johnny Pesky took the throw from Outfielder Dom DiMaggio in time to nip the Brownie base-runner in the third inning of yesterday's American league game at Boston. Moss started from first on a hit by Jack Graham, while Hubbard hurried from home plate to call the play. The Red Sox rallied to beat the Browns, 7-5.

Cardinals Get Seven in First To Outslug Pittsburgh, 13-6

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The rejuvenated St. Louis Cardinals exploded for seven runs in the first inning and went on to defeat the stumbling Pirates from Pittsburgh last night, 13-6. Ralph Kiner pounded out his tenth homer in the first inning with two men on base.

Kiner's blow helped the Pirates to a four-run lead and sent George Munger to the showers before he had retired a batter. The Redbirds promptly stormed back with seven in their half.

It was the Cards' third win in a row and enabled them to tie the Philadelphia Phillies for fifth place.

Indiana Drops One Place in Loop Meet

CHICAGO (AP)—The order of finish in the team race as well as two individual races in the 1949 Western conference track and field championships was revised yesterday after a review of the official movies of the competition held at Northwestern university last Saturday.

Head Judge Leon Kranz reported to conference headquarters here that Ed Tunnichoff of Northwestern had been awarded fifth place in the 100-yard dash, instead of Charles May of Purdue and that Jim Mitchell of Michigan had been awarded fourth place and Tom Mitchell of Indiana fifth place in the 120 yard high hurdles. Previously, the order of finish of the two Mitchells were reversed.

As a result of the changes, the official team score is: Minnesota 49, Ohio State 37 3-4, Wisconsin 36, Illinois 35, Indiana 34, Michigan 15, Purdue 10 3-4, Northwestern 6 3-4, and Iowa 3-4. The most important change effects Indiana, which lost one point as a result of the revised hurdle finish and dropped from a fourth place tie with Illinois to fifth place.

Cereal Still Tops with 'Thumper'

Big Cereal Variety Favored Over Eggs

By BETTY KERR
After an evolution from colonial meal mush to the modern "box to bowl" variety, cereals are still the favorite American breakfast.

"Thumper" Whitesel, five year old son of Prof. and Mrs. Russell Whitesel, finds that a bowl of one of two dozen different kinds of cereals is just what he needs in preparation for a day at the Kirkwood kindergarten.

"Thumper," who is "definitely not an egg man," likes a variation in cereals. Mrs. Whitesel's kitchen, at 221 Finkbine park, is kept well supplied with several different brands.

Mrs. Whitesel, like so many housewives, favors cereals because they are versatile. A wide variety of cereals, including bran flakes, farina, puffed rice, oat, or wheat cereals, vary the breakfast menu from morning to morning.

A combination of fruit, cereal, milk, toast, and butter brings from a fourth to a third of the day's food requirements to the morning meal — at a thrifty 15 cents per person.

The cereal breakfast is a real American heritage. In colonial days it bolstered the energy of loom and mill laborers, just as it sends workers off to countless jobs today.

In the early days of America, cereals were eaten mostly in the form of mush, porridge, or in pones, a dish the Indians taught the New England settlers to make.

About the turn of the 19th century, a revolution in grain cereals turned them into the streamlined, ready-to-eat dish we know today.

Cooked cereals, too, received new trimmings. Gone are the days when housewives spent hours cooking porridge for breakfast. Many hot cereals can now be prepared in as little as three to five minutes.

Since cereals contain protein, vitamins, essential minerals and food energy, small wonder that "Thumper's" mother insists that he start out the day with a bowlful of breakfast food.

"Thumper" doesn't know too much about calorie counting, but he does know he likes cereal, and those "pictures and cut-outs that come on the boxes."

NO COAXING FROM MOTHER IS NEEDED to make Thumper Whitesel, 5, son of Prof. and Mrs. Russell Whitesel, 221 Finkbine park, eat his cereal. Thumper, who knows that a big breakfast pays big dividends, gets ready for a day at Kirkwood kindergarten with his favorite morning menu, puffed wheat.

To The Motoring Public:

We now have on hand the sensational New D-X Ethyl Lubricating Motor Fuel. It is a gasoline developed during the war and now being introduced in this territory for the first time.

It is produced by the newest miracle of gasoline chemistry, the "catalytic cracking process." A few other refineries are now or soon will be using a similar process but will still not have a number of the "exclusive" developments of the New D-X Ethyl.

To you owners of new cars:—You don't realize what performance has been built into your motor by the engineers who had just such a fuel in mind, until you have tried the New D-X Ethyl. The automotive engineers knew that all large refineries were feverishly working to develop a non-aviation high octane fuel. With this thought in mind they designed the new high compression motor for your new car. The motor car designers almost got ahead of us, but we have this fuel TODAY, not tomorrow or in the near future.

To you owners of older cars: You don't know how much power and pep is left in the old bus until you have tried the New D-X Lubricating Motor Fuel.

You will find that a few motors are not timed to take full advantage of this remarkable new motor fuel so we urge you to come in after you have run thru a tankful (to be sure it is not mixed with the older type of gasoline) and let us recheck your timing. You are the judge: soft on a money-back guarantee to out-perform any other gasoline on the market today. For your own satisfaction try a tankful and see how it adds to your driving pleasure.

Villagers Try New Sport

Plant Garden Along River

By GREG FOSSELMAN
They have a new kind of sport down in Hawkeye village. They call it riverbank gardening — probably because the gardens are only a rake's reach from the Iowa river.

What used to be a riverboat landing is now the site for straight rows of tomatoes, peas, onions, radishes, corn, lettuce — and for beauty's sake, borders of flowers.

The garden plot is just west of Hawkeye village on the east bank of the river. It lies in a little three-walled cove which once formed the sides of a boathouse.

On one of the stone walls a row of large steel hooks remain, apparently once used to secure boats many years ago.

The gardeners are John Ryan, D3, Clinton; Tom Buck, A3, Dunlop, Pa.; William Parman, E3, Iowa City, and Glenn Leber, E1, Rockford, Ill. They all live in Hawkeye village.

Parman was the originator of the riverbank horticultural experiment. A year ago this spring, he jumped over the fence behind his trailer and started hacking weeds, which he estimated had grown nearly 10 feet high.

He soon discovered that vegetables would grow on the land, and he began "farming" in earnest.

This year Buck, Ryan and Leber joined Parman with the rake and hoe and planted vegetables before Easter vacation. They report the crop is "doing fine."

One drawback in the riverbank venture, according to Parman, is the rapid growth of weeds, which seem to spring up as fast as they are pulled.

Another disadvantage is the ever-present danger of floods. The garden plot is only about four feet above the water now, and is flooded each spring during the pre-garden season.

"I've heard that flooding takes something out of the soil," Parman said, "but this land seems to grow vegetables and weeds just as well as any other soil."

To illustrate his point, he pointed to a row of onions, whose green stems reached far out of the ground and were fast approaching maturity.

Buck pointed out the advantages of gardening on a riverbank.

"For one thing, when I want some radishes or onions for supper all I have to do is step out the door and climb over the fence to pick them."

"But what I really like about it is that you sure don't have to go far to water the garden!"

Workmen 'Raze the Roof' at Old North Hall

OLD NORTH HALL was without a roof yesterday as workmen continued to tear down the building. Razing operations began last week. Snow fences have been erected around the structure to protect passersby from the falling debris. The historic landmark, located between University hall and Macbride hall, has been used by the university for more than 80 years.

Penology Class 'Studies' State Penitentiary

Eight SUI students got a glimpse of prison life Saturday inside the Iowa State penitentiary at Fort Madison.

They were given a first-hand view of the penitentiary's buildings, industries, hospital, library, cell blocks, athletic field and chapel.

The tour was a project of a penology class instructed by Prof. F.E. Haynes of the SUI sociology department.

Purpose of the Fort Madison trip was to give the students an idea of what prison life is like and to compare Iowa prisons with the penal systems studied in class.

Commenting on the prison tour, Harold Mulford, G, said, "I was impressed by the fact that the prisoners did not appear to be different from the man on the street."

James Vincent, C3, said the institution "seems to be an old prison trying to bring standards up to modern day penology."

"All in all, I think the prison officials are trying to do their best with so many barriers confronting them."

Haynes explained that among these "barriers" are the age of the buildings and a small budget.

He pointed out that the buildings housing the prisoners are more than 100 years old.

Though the prison tour was a new experience to many of the students, to Haynes it was just a routine trip. The 80-year-old professor has been at SUI for the past 35 years and has visited Fort Madison often during the past 20 years.

At the penology class meeting Monday, Haynes asked the eight students to give their impressions of what they saw at Fort Madison.

The students gave a rating of excellent, good, fair or poor to each of the following aspects of the prison:

Buildings, food, hospital, cleanliness and sanitation, industries and equipment, education and recreation, attitude of the officers and guards, religious opportunities, and the attitude of the inmates.

Of the 72 ratings thus listed, 14 were excellent, 38 good, 15 fair, and only 4 poor.

Penology students who toured the prison were Howard Lauderbaugh, G; Mulford; Vincent; Gilbert Burns, A2; James Franey, A4; Rex Crayne, A4; Mildred Bishop, G, and Mrs. Marilyn Van Antwerp, A4. They were accompanied by Prof. Robert G. Caldwell, Haynes and Mrs. Mulford.

Pork, Flour Up — Market Prices Rise Slowly

The price of pork and flour went up this week to send The Daily Iowan market basket total to $16.44, 21 cents over last week's figure.

Although round steak prices stayed the same and bacon prices went down, the price of center-cut pork chops jumped six cents. Merchants indicated that wholesale pork prices have increased about five cents a pound in the past week and would probably continue to climb.

Wholesale beef prices have also risen and will probably continue to rise, although not as high as pork prices, they said. Oranges stayed at the same level as last week, a jump of ten cents over the previous week. While the stock of oranges is limited, the prices are high, merchants pointed out.

New potatoes from California have largely replaced Idaho russets on local grocers' shelves.

The only other item to go up this week was red sockeye salmon which went from 73 cents to 74.

Only three items had a lower price this week than last, according to market index figures. They were butter, one cent; potatoes, six cents, and bacon five cents.

By BENNETT CERF

ALICE BAHMAN of Radio Station WIZE in Springfield, O., tells about a farmer who was making one of his infrequent visits to a moving picture show. One corny slapstick comedy showed a group of shapely maidens coyly undressing beside a pond. Just as things reached an interesting point, a railroad train obscured the view. When it had passed, the girls were already splashing about in the lake.

The farmer remained rooted in his seat for four continuous showings. Finally an usher inquired, "Are you here for the winter, Pop?" The farmer answered, "Dawgone it, I'm going to stay here till that train is a couple of minutes late!"

W. B. Jones and R. H. O'Riley, in Vassar's undergraduate magazine, describe a typical Yale-Harvard football weekend as "one continuous cocktail party punctuated by an occasional dance and an afternoon of sitting in the cold to sober up."

Senate Passes Bill to Extend Powers of Defense Secretary

WASHINGTON (AP)—The senate last night stamped its approval on legislation aimed at correcting "certain weaknesses" in the unification of the army, navy and air forces. Action was by a voice vote.

The legislation, which now goes to the house, was first urged by the late James V. Forrestal, first secretary of national defense, after he tried for 18 months to coordinate the three defense forces into a single team.

In general, it provides broader and more definite powers for Louis Johnson and others who succeed him as secretary of national defense.

Spensers also claim that fiscal and spending reforms, written into the bill, may save from several hundred millions to a billion and a half dollars annually in defense costs.

One major change ordered by the senate would install a uniform budget and accounting method in the office of the defense secretary as well as the subordinate army, navy and air forces.

WELL, HELL-O-O-O! (GULP!)

Things are beginning to come to a head around here. Commencement, finals, picnics, finals...

The only magazine in the house I hadn't read previously was a woman's publication, written by and for women.

After reading all the bra and panty girdle ads, I settled down to look for an article of general interest.

THE GENERAL interest article I found was entitled simply "Sunday Brunch."

ACCORDING to the article, "Sunday brunch, any Sunday, is a happy thought..."

AND WHAT'S this "perfect brand of entertainment" business? You mean we are supposed to invite someone over for brunch on Sunday morning?

If Aly Khan and Eleanor Roosevelt dropped on our front stoop in the throes of starvation with beri-beries hanging from their ear lobes before 4 p.m. Sunday, they would not even get one Kibble biscuit from me.

WELL, LET'S see what's on the menu for this Sunday brunch. Eggs in a special Sunday dress — creamed in patty shells, and sausage cakes — just ask your butcher...

There doesn't seem to be any need for that special dressed egg at our house. In point of fact, I'd feel a little uneasy, knowing that the eggs were all dolled up while I just sat there in my T-shirt and fatigue pants.

I DON'T quite grasp the significance of the "sausage cakes — just ask your butcher" line. Sounds like a secret code. What's going on down in that butcher shop?

Maybe the butcher is supposed to be invited to this affair too. Well, if he comes, he can just bring his own sausage cakes with him.

ILL TELL you what. Let's rearrange the program a trifle. The basic idea seems all right, and the British may get along fine with it, but I'd like to make a few changes before the situation gets completely out of hand.

Instead of Sunday, we'll have our brunch on Saturday evening — about mid-night. Let's see... we'll substitute longhorn cheese for creamed eggs, pumpernickle for patty shells, kippersnacks for sausage cakes and top it off with a tall, cool, refreshing bottle of milk or something.

Interpreting the News —

Russia Changes Tactics Now

By J. M. ROBERTS JR., AP FOREIGN AFFAIRS ANALYST

Russia's position in the council of foreign ministers has given the western allies the offensive in the propaganda as well as the economic battle for control of Germany and of Europe.

A vastly different atmosphere exists in comparison with previous council meetings, the last of which was held in London in December 1947.

From the first going the allies, unified as never before, have displayed an air of confidence and a "you come to us" attitude toward the Russians, whereas formerly they were groping for some means of stopping Soviet moves.

Vishinsky threw in a sly reminder at the beginning that, while things might be going well for the west in Europe, the day of a Japanese peace settlement was coming, when there would arise the matter of reentry into world negotiations of a China under Communist domination.

But, the western diplomats shrugged him off and told him to stick to the case in point. Then they reminded him that it was up to Russia to iron out the kinks in a Berlin newly freed from Russian blockade.

Instead of making a big play for German support with a plea for a self-governing, unified Germany, free of military occupation and heavy Russian reparations demands, Vishinsky tried to turn the clock back.

AND WHAT'S this "perfect brand of entertainment" business? You mean we are supposed to invite someone over for brunch on Sunday morning?

If Aly Khan and Eleanor Roosevelt dropped on our front stoop in the throes of starvation with beri-beries hanging from their ear lobes before 4 p.m. Sunday, they would not even get one Kibble biscuit from me.

instate Russia's $10-billion reparations claim.

The allies promptly took advantage of the opportunity to reassure the Germans, and to put the Russians on notice, that political and economic gains of the western Germans during the past years would not be sacrificed under any conditions.

The changed temper in Europe as compared with last year was also epitomized in Berlin. In May, 1948, the Russians were issuing ukases all over the place about the conditions under which the allies could operate.

The blockade had been applied fractionally, and was about to be proclaimed on a broad basis. But, while Vishinsky was speaking in Paris recently, thousands of Soviet-directed police were being withdrawn from western zone railway stations in Berlin at the order of the United States.

Crowds of city railway strikers, defying their Soviet employers, were crying "Down with Russia." American authorities, who had so often made futile protests against Russian policy in the city, were replying to a Russian protest this time, labeling the complaint entirely unfounded, "as you must be aware."

In Paris, Vishinsky acted like a poker player who has raised the pot on prospects, only to find on completion of the deal that he has not filled his hand. He had either to re-raise the allies or drop out. He had nothing on which to raise, and was on notice that all bluffs would be called.

Students of Soviet tactics were under no illusions that Vishinsky would not open a new pot. But in Europe, if not in Asia, the Russian winking streak seemed to be definitely halted.

Farmers Lead The List of Drinkers

Results of a survey recently conducted by the Keeley Institute, famed medical rehabilitation center for alcoholics, Dwight, Ill., show that farmers head the list of drinkers by occupation.

The Keeley survey covers 65 different occupations and includes 13,471 patients treated by the famed institute from 1930 through 1948.

A total of 1,553 farmers, constituting 11.5 per cent of all patients, have been treated there during the past 18 years. Next in line on the "leading drinkers" list, in the order shown here, are: salesmen, merchants, mechanics, clerks, lawyers, foremen and managers, railroad men, physicians, and manufacturers.

"While we are situated in the middle west and are easily accessible to farmers," James H. Oughton, Jr., director of the Keeley Institute, pointed out, "our patients come from all over the world."

State Department's Men Have Answer

DES MOINES (AP)—Two U. S. state department officials explained yesterday why, in their opinions, things are going the way they are in Europe and China.

The officials are Le Roy D. Stinbower, special assistant to the assistant secretary of state for economic affairs, and Francis H. Russell, director, of the office of public affairs for the state department.

Meeting with the state department officials and the Iowa members of the policy committee were some 45 Iowa leaders in agriculture, business, labor and industry.

Russia acts the way it does primarily because the great majority of the Russian people and the Russian leaders take their Marxist philosophy like religious fanatics — they just "know" it is the only system possible for the world.

The Chinese Communists were successful in China, not because of superior military power or equipment, but because a large section of the Chinese Nationalist army and of the people back home were war weary and were convinced the Chinese Nationalist government was not trying to give them a government to their benefit.

I'D RATHER BE RIGHT

Showroom Demonstration

By SAMUEL GRAFTON (New York Post Syndicate)

The President is settling down into one of those political doldrums which have not, in the past, been very beneficial to him. One has the definite feeling that there is a pause. He is not keeping his reform program rolling.

HE HAS LEARNED a lot, and I do not think that his political stock will ever again sink quite so low as it has from time to time in the past. He has learned not to try to please the opposition by making more or less direct attacks on liberal ideas, as on the famous occasion when he sharply criticized price control. He has learned to keep the conciliatory — and confusing — phrases down.

HE HAS LEARNED, also, that the public responds to a liberal presentation, that there is a great force out there, beyond the desk and beyond the room, and that when he addresses the right words to it, it unlocks, and manifests itself, as in the last election.

HE IS VASTLY concerned with being right; he does not seem sufficiently concerned with getting the right things done. The great thing about Mr. Roosevelt was his sense of urgency, his sure, uncanny instinct that the moment had come.

LIBERALS WEREN'T asking for much, and were so downhearted that even the Presidential recognition that they were still alive and extant was enough to fill them with grateful emotion.

Trans-Oceanic Travel Might Top Peak Years of The 20's

NEW YORK (AP)—Trans-Atlantic travel is getting back to the lush levels of 1929.

Transportation men figure well over a million passengers will sail or fly the Atlantic this year. They say they'll have no trouble topping the figures for 1938, the last normal travel year.

And they are confident they'll come within striking distance of the number of trans-Atlantic passengers carried in 1929, the year they chalked up the all-time record.

Statistics show steamships ferried 1,380,000 passengers across the Atlantic in record-breaking 1929 and transported 1,056,000 passengers on the Atlantic run during the last year of normal travel, 1938.

These figures include the passenger lists of United States and foreign lines alike. They are the total of passengers carried in both directions — eastbound and westbound.

Ships had the trans-Atlantic business all to themselves in those days. There was no real competition from the airplane.

A few commercial aircraft maintained flight schedules across the Atlantic just before the war. But the number of passengers they carried was extremely small when compared with the number of people traveling.

During the war trans-oceanic flying developed into a routine operation almost overnight. And today transportation sources figure planes are ferrying as high as 50 per cent of the trans-Atlantic passenger business in the more plush rate brackets.

The steamship men were left with only a handful of passenger vessels immediately after the war ended. Reconditioning of old ships and construction of new vessels moved slowly.

Transportation men say 966,000 trans-Atlantic passengers were carried by ship and plane in 1948; the exact number who flew the Atlantic isn't available but aviation sources estimate planes carried about 220,000 of that number.

Foreign countries are in better shape for tourists than they have been. Accommodations are more comfortable; food is more ample; clothing rationing has ended in Britain. And many foreign nations have dropped visa requirements.

Shipping men say it would be a cinch to top the 1929 record if they had the vessels to carry their potential passengers. There are going to be about nine more passenger ships in the Atlantic trade this year than there were in 1948.

In the pre-war days between 60 and 65 passenger vessels were regularly on the trans-Atlantic service. Both foreign and American lines came out of the war with a shortage in this type of vessel and foreign lines have been rebuilding the United States since the end of hostilities.

Whatever the overall percentage, the airlines have been doing an increasingly good off season business. Spokesmen attribute this in part at least to seasonal fare reductions. The rate of this increase is indicated by recent figures of one United States airline, which averaged 80 to 100 passengers a day. In late March, this line's eastbound passenger traffic hit a record high of 193 on one day and 190 on another.

Cover Garbage, Says Inspector

With the "fly season" beginning, Iowa Citizens should get trash hauled away and keep garbage tightly covered, Health Inspector Charles J. Schindler warned yesterday.

The city dump on South Riverside drive is the only legal place for dumping trash. Residents should get trash hauled out by Memorial day or shortly after, Schindler said.

Persons dumping refuse on sites near the North Dodge street bridge and near Prairie du Chien road two blocks north of Whitebook's grocery, are violating city ordinances and subject to fine, he said.

Garbage should be drained, and must be covered to eliminate the "possibility of flies," Schindler said. A city ordinance requires tight-fitting lids for garbage cans.

If collectors don't pick up garbage within a "reasonable time," residents should call the city clerk who gives the message to the collector, he advised.

Mrs. Joan Simpson Appointed Manager Of Students Co-op

Mrs. Joan Simpson, 453 Riverside park, has been appointed new manager of the Married Students Co-operative store, it was announced yesterday.

She will replace Donald Messick, C3, who submitted his resignation to the store's board of directors May 13. Messick, who has been manager of the store since July, 1947, resigned because of the pressure of his school work.

Mrs. Simpson has worked in the co-op since February, and assumed full management Monday. Her experience in the grocery store business includes work in a store managed by her mother in Sac City. She is not a student.

The co-op store was begun as a non-profit enterprise in 1947 by a group of married students who wanted to save on food costs. It is housed in a limestone building on the riverbank north of the University theater, a former shelter house.

"It was through Don's effort and hard work that the store has been built up," Les Person, C4, president of the board of directors, said. "The board is very sorry to see him go."

Person said that the purpose of the store has been "service at the lowest possible cost," and he added, "Don has fulfilled that aim in a satisfactory manner."

Truck Snags Cables, Disconnects Phones

Telephone service in Riverdale park, Riverside park, Quonset park and the Married Student Co-operative store was interrupted yesterday about 10:15 a.m. when a dump truck caught and disconnected a low cable.

The cable was located in the area between North park and Quonset park, where the Weitz construction company has been hauling dirt to fill a gully caused by river seepage.

Service was restored to the 150 telephones affected by 8:00 p.m., C. H. Snook, wire chief for the Northwestern Bell Telephone company, said.

Repeated refilling of the area in India and then studied for a year and a half in England. His home is in Bangalore.

Indian Student Stops At SUI on Visit of American Colleges

A student from India, Rousseau S. Jayanti, visiting different American colleges, stopped at SUI yesterday.

Sent to this country by his government, he is particularly interested in the physical education departments of the various schools.

Jayanti said physical education is in its infancy in Indian schools and that he will help formulate a vast new program when he goes home.

"I heard a lot about the department (physical education) at Iowa and especially of Professor McCloy," Jayanti said.

He said he will remain in this country and work for his doctor's degree after his visits. He doesn't yet know which school he will pick.

He received his master's degree in India and then studied for a year and a half in England. His home is in Bangalore.

Van Zandt Accuses Symington Of 'Irregular' B-36 Purchases

WASHINGTON (UP)—Rep. James E. Van Zandt (R-Pa) yesterday accused Secretary of Air W. Stuart Symington of irregularities in connection with B-36 superbomber purchases.

Symington retorted that the charges are "obviously and demonstrably false."

Quoting "sources I cannot disregard" and referring to "ugly rumors," Van Zandt predicted Symington will resign his defense post to head a "huge aircraft combine" after congress approves funds for more B-36's.

The congressman, a former navy captain, said the new combine would be controlled by millionaire Floyd B. Odlum, who now controls Consolidated-Vultee Aircraft corporation, manufacturer of the B-36.

There are "well-founded reports," he said, that Odlum helped Defense Secretary Louis Johnson raise campaign funds for the Democrats last fall. Johnson resigned as a director of Consolidated before being sworn in as defense secretary.

Johnson was in New York and not available for comment.

The Van Zandt - Symington flare-up came after Rep. Carl Vinson (D-Ga) announced that the house armed services committee which he heads will make a full investigation of the B-36 buying program to "sort facts from gossip."

Symington said he will welcome investigation of Van Zandt's "allegations and rumors," and he appealed for an "open hearing."

"Even allegations and rumors should be investigated," he said, "because by that process the truth will be revealed, as it should be."

Van Zandt referred to Johnson as "my old friend" and said he should welcome a chance to clear his name. But his references to Symington carried more sting.

"I have heard from sources I cannot disregard that there is a plan underway for Mr. Symington to resign as secretary of air, as soon as the 1950 budget containing more funds for more B-36's is approved, and head this huge aircraft combine," he said.

Dr. Kersten Attacks Socialized Medicine

There is no justification for throwing present-day medicine into a "political pork barrel" — compulsory health insurance, Dr. Herbert Kersten, University hospitals' staff member, declared last night.

Speaking before a meeting of the Residents' Wives club at the Community building on "Socialized Medicine," Kersten explained that gradual expansion of present medical facilities will take care of people's medical needs as they arise.

Kersten attacked Federal Security Administrator Oscar Ewing's proposed compulsory health insurance program. He declared that Ewing distorted facts and presented a biased viewpoint of the medical picture.

"The American Medical association supports voluntary health insurance programs but is definitely opposed to the Ewing plan and a later proposed compulsory insurance bill, Kersten explained.

Taff's Housing Bill Endorsed by YRL

A vote to support the Taft-Ellender-Wagner housing bill last night brought SU's Young Republican league activities to a close until the fall semester. No dissenting votes were cast on the measure.

George Carroll, LI, Indiana, Pa., was appointed parliamentarian. Jeananne Skinner, A3, Rochester, Ill., and Helen Eaton, A2, Marion, were selected as recording secretaries.

Rutledge's Lawyers Begin Closing Arguments

STANDING BETWEEN HIS ATTORNEYS, Robert C. Rutledge Jr. prepared to leave the Cedar Rapids courtroom yesterday. Rutledge, who is accused of the murder of Byron C. Hattman, listened as his closing arguments were begun by Defense Attorney Sidney Milner (right). His other lawyer, W.J. Barngrover (left) is expected to continue the arguments today.

SUI Council Adopts Using Non-Members As Committee Heads

The Student Council ended its final meeting of the semester last night by approving a policy designed to encourage greater student participation in council committees.

This policy would allow council committees to be headed by non-council members who would report their activities at council meetings. It would also encourage as many interested students as possible to participate in these committees.

In line with this policy, David Swanson, A2, Spencer, was appointed chairman of the on-campus publicity committee and David McPherrin, A3, Mason City, was appointed head of the off-campus publicity committee.

In other actions the council:

1. Set the date for next year's student elections as March 29 in conjunction with the UWA recognition day, March 30.

2. Heard the faculty grading committee report that a poll of faculty members in the liberal arts, commerce, engineering and education colleges will be taken to determine their interest in such a project.

3. Heard E.K. Jones, Tailfeathers' president, report that tentative plans have been made for a Students' wives want full-time or part time jobs! Find a willing worker with a Daily Iowan Classified. Phone 4191.
