Gerhart Eisler Wins Freedom But He's Still Wanted by U.S.

WASHINGTON (UP)—The state department yesterday all but gave up hope of extraditing Gerhart Eisler from Great Britain, but still sought ways of returning the fugitive Communist leader to this country.

Future of the case appeared to hinge on where Eisler goes, when and if he leaves Britain.

'Believe It or Not' Author, Bob Ripley, Dies of Heart Attack

NEW YORK (AP)—Robert L. Ripley, 55, who gave the title "Believe It or Not" to a one-shot sports cartoon and saw it grow into one of the world's most popular newspaper features, died yesterday.

He had entered the Harkness Pavilion of the Columbia-Presbyterian Medical center Thursday after a brief illness. The hospital said he died of an acute heart attack.

Only last Tuesday night he appeared on his weekly television show, latest phase in the fabulous career of his "Believe It or Not" idea.

Since he started the cartoon in 1918 it had grown into a weekly, then a daily feature, jumped from a single newspaper feature to a chain of 30 papers and later to some 300.

World Traveller

It had won him fame as a radio entertainer, author, and star of movie shorts. To collect his material he had travelled throughout the world and at one time hired more than 70 persons—including nine just to handle his mail.

He had exhibited at the Chicago and New York world's fairs and the San Francisco exposition, and received several honorary college degrees for the educational value of his work.

His home at Mamaroneck on Long Island sound, called "Bion" from the initials letters of his famed cartoon, was a museum of curios. He once valued them at $2-million.

First Contract

His first contract for movie shorts brought him $350,000. He has appeared on numerous radio programs since 1930, the first under the cartoon's title, and others titled "See America First with Bob Ripley," and "Romance, Rhythm and Ripley."

Last year Ripley gave up a new radio show to make a trip around the world and collect movie film for his television series. The television show began last March 1.

He had been married and divorced from a former Ziegfeld follies girl, Beatrice Roberts. They had no children.

Big-4 Meeting Gets Russ Bid

PARIS — The four-power foreign ministers' conference came to a dead stall yesterday, but western members planned to steam it up with a new proposal.

The suggestion evidently would call for extension of the new Bonn constitution for western Germany into the Russian zone. The constitution contains guarantees for a democratic government.

Informants said the Russians are sure not to like it. They added that the proposal promises to bring a quick answer to a hot question. Do the Russians intend to come to an agreement at this time, and if so, how far are they likely to go to meet western demands?

At the same time Russian Foreign Minister Andre Y. Vishinsky, by inviting the western foreign ministers to offer amendments to his own proposals, gave the first hope that a deadlock on Germany might be broken.

Mediation Fails in Bendix Strike

SOUTH BEND, IND. (UP)—Officials of the Bendix Aviation corporation walked out of a mediation session last night charging union representatives with refusal to bargain in good faith to settle the 38-day strike of some 7,500 workers.

Millard Stone, Bendix industrial relations spokesman, said union tactics "made a farce of the meeting."

"They have employed every known device to stall and delay efforts by the company to get the strike settled," Stone said.

If he should go, or pass through Western Germany, for example, American authorities there could take him into custody.

Order Final

A state department attorney said department legal officers had advised the justice department that a British magistrate's order freeing Eisler was final and it should drop all efforts to extradite him.

But a state department spokesman said later that this was a "misunderstanding." The spokesman went on to say, however, that "apparently" the U.S. has no further recourse under the Anglo-American extradition treaty of 1931.

But the spokesman insisted the state and justice departments are still seeking possible ways of forcing Eisler's return.

Eisler's attorney, D.N. Pritt, tried unsuccessfully for a judgment to make the United States pay the court costs.

Sfr Valentine Holmes, retained by the U.S. to press the extradition order, declared that Eisler's conviction of falsifying documents, was enough like perjury to come under the extradition treaty.

Attorney General Tom C. Clark said shortly after the magistrate's decision was announced that the justice department would continue to "exert every effort" to return Eisler, who jumped $23,500 bail and fled he country on a Polish liner.

Astonished

Justice department officials admitted privately that they were astonished at the action of Britain's chief magistrate, Sir Lawrence Dunne, in quashing the extradition proceedings against Eisler.

The state department attorney, who discussed the case with newsmen, had said that the United States had hoped the magistrate would base his ruling on a loose definition of "perjury" and not on the strict definition of British law.

Members of congress differed in their reaction to the British decision. Several thought the magistrate had no choice but to free Eisler, some accused the British government of "ingratitude," and others thought this country was lucky to be rid of him.

Sen. Homer E. Ferguson (R-Mich.) told the senate the magistrate's ruling constituted "a very narrow construction of the word 'perjury'."

He also said he believed that Communist pickets "intimidated" the court.

Senate Republican Leader Kenneth S. Wherry (Neb.) thought the magistrate had provided an economical way for this government to deport Communists.

Bridges Released; Trial Date June 9

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Harry Bridges surrendered yesterday on a federal warrant charging perjury and fraud. He was released on $5,000 bail pending his trial June 9.

Federal Judge Louis Goodman rejected a government attempt to have the CIO longshore leader's bail lifted to $20,000.

Bridges, Australia-born head of the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's union, is accused of making false statements in connection with his naturalization here in 1945. He is accused of swearing falsely that he was not a Communist and of conspiring with two others named in the indictment to defraud the government.

Hopper Acquitted in Rath Case

WATERLOO (UP)—Everett Hopper, former CIO union steward, yesterday was acquitted of conspiracy charges filed in the wake of a meat-strike riot at the Rath Packing company plant.

A district court jury found the former union official innocent after deliberating 5 1-2 hours. Smiling broadly, he was freed immediately.

Hopper, former steward of the Waterloo CIO United Packing-house Workers local, was accused of conspiring to incite a riot May 19, 1948, at the strike-bound Rath plant here.

Hickenlooper Given Postponement to Set Claims in AEC Tiff

WASHINGTON (UP)—The joint congressional atomic energy committee yesterday temporarily postponed its full-dress investigation of the nation's atomic energy program to give Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) time to prepare detailed charges against David E. Lilienthal.

At the same time, the committee unanimously adopted a report criticizing plans of the atomic energy commission, which Lilienthal heads, for using natural gas instead of coal as a primary fuel supply at the Oak Ridge, Tenn., atomic plant.

"Mismanagement" Hickenlooper has demanded that Lilienthal resign because of "incredible mismanagement." The committee ordered full public hearings after Lilienthal replied that he would welcome a fair inquiry into both "accomplishments" and "mistakes" of his agency.

The senate-house committee met in closed session yesterday to draw up plans for the public hearings which had been expected to start early next week.

But Hickenlooper halted the discussion of an agenda by asking that he be given until Tuesday to draw up a bill of particulars against Lilienthal.

The report on the natural gas versus coal dispute was drafted by a subcommittee which began looking into the question some time ago, before the current controversy over Lilienthal's stewardship.

The subcommittee took issue with a commission decision to contract for construction of a $10-million, 156-mile pipeline to bring natural gas into the Oak Ridge plant.

The plant gets most of its electric power from the Tennessee Valley authority.

Rita Is a Princess Now

Girl from Brooklyn Says She's Very Happy; Honeymoon Includes Trip to England

CANNES, FRANCE (AP)—The girl from Brooklyn and Hollywood, Rita Hayworth, became a princess yesterday by marrying the Aly Khan. The French civil ceremony will be followed soon by religious rites in the moslem faith of the bridegroom.

Last night, after a reception run off at the rate of 15 bottles of champagne per guest, the couple was mapping a honeymoon that will include a trip to England for the derby.

Rita and Aly said "yes" shortly before noon in the town hall of nearby Vallauris, a two-mile hop from the sunlit Mediterranean.

Paul Derigon, Communist mayor of the village, officiated at the double ring ceremony. Obviously impressed by it all, he referred to the bride as "your highness" and wished the couple happiness. He also got in a plus for Vallauris' ceramics and pottery industry.

The actress, radiant in a light blue, silk crepe dress and broad picture hat wound with tulle of the same delicate color, appeared just a little nervous. Her lips trembled at times, and she tugged at her handkerchief. But she went through it like a seasoned trouper.

When the mayor came to the part of the ceremony where he asked if each agreed to all of the conditions, both Rita and Aly replied "oui, oui." One "oui" is enough but the double response is a standard reply by enthusiastic Frenchmen.

Then a reception centering about the swimming pool was held at Aly's Chateau de L'Horizon.

Demurely Rita tried to lose herself in the throng at the reception. But groups formed about her constantly, and over and over she answered the same questions.

Yes, she is very happy.

Yes, there will be a Moslem religious service, probably in a few days in Paris.

Yes, she will return to the United States to make more movies, but probably not before the end of the year.

Little Secret The honeymoon? Well, Rita giggled, she and the prince are keeping it a little secret but it will involve some traveling. Aly chimed in to say that part of it may be in Britain and that he hoped to attend the English derby at Epsom Downs June 4.

Rita has been a Roman Catholic.

New Witness For Rutledge

Ford Strike Settlement Hits 'Minor' Snag

DETROIT, SATURDAY (UP)—Federal Conciliator Arthur C. Viat said early today that negotiations to end the Ford Motor company strike struck an unexpected snag over a "minor" issue, but that other points in dispute were "tentatively settled."

Viat said principal stumbling block to settlement of the CIO United Auto Workers' strike was the inability to agree on the fate of 20 Ford strikers fired by the company.

"I don't think this disagreement is insurmountable, however," Viat said as he emerged for a recess from a long night negotiating session.

He said earlier that there was a "strong possibility" the walkout would be settled before dawn.

A reliable source reported, meanwhile, that a compromise formula for arbitrating the major issue in the strike had been reached, and that a "reputable engineering firm" would be the impartial third party called in to decide whether a "speed up" exists at the struck plants.

UAW President Walter P. Reuther, emerging from the conference room yesterday afternoon, said "things look better than at any time since the strike started."

John S. Bugas, Ford vice-president in charge of industrial relations, would only say there was "some progress" at the afternoon meeting.

The optimism came despite union rejection of the Ford company's restated plan for arbitration of assembly line "speed-up" issues in the dispute.

Soviets Tell Allies To Narrow Airlift Corridor to Berlin

BERLIN (AP)—The Russians suggested narrowing of one of the three airlift lanes to Berlin as a safety measure yesterday, saying Soviet military maneuvers will start immediately and they will not be responsible for allied planes entering the "danger areas."

United States and British authorities replied that their planes will continue to fly the corridors — 20-mile-wide links between west Berlin and west Germany — without deviation.

The notification was given the western allies as total paralysis gripped the railway from Helmstedt in this seventh day of a strike by anti-Communist west Berlin rail workers.

Berlin's supply situation appeared as critical as it was at the height of the recently lifted Soviet blockade.

The airlift, manned by Americans and Britons, has again become the main source of supply to west Berlin. It is steadily ferrying in about 8,000 tons of food and other things daily. The two allies had planned to use the airlift to stockpile 200,000 tons of supplies as a protection against another blockade.

C.P. Zorchenko, chief Russian air controller at the Berlin air safety center, advised the allies to shift their airlift route in the Buckeberg corridor from the British zone and detour planes along the northern edge.

He said there would be air to ground firing "from May 28 onward" at heights up to 30,000 feet. British and American officials protested. They said this would permit use of only a third of the lane.

Willy Kriekemeyer, president of the Soviet-controlled Reichsbahn (railway system), made a new peace offer to rail strikers — 60 percent west mark wages — in a radio Berlin broadcast last night. Strike leaders immediately called the offer worthless.

Shanghai Returns To Near Normalcy

SHANGHAI — Asia's largest city has returned to near normal conditions again.

Traffic jammed streets, money changers clinking silver dollars and street vendors' shrill cries herald Shanghai's occupation rule by Chinese Communists.

As yet, no commercial airplanes have resumed flight, but a trial run on the Nanking — Shanghai railroad has been sent out and the Chinese press reports that regular rail schedules will shortly go into effect.

Communication lines between this city and Peiping and Nanking have been reopened and correspondents allowed to file dispatches abroad — but at commercial rates, not the usual press rates.

Shipping has not been resumed, and the only ships on the river are those left scuttled by the fleeing Nationalists.

State Bringing New Witness In Trial Also

CEDAR RAPIDS (AP)—A surprise witness in the murder trial of Dr. Robert C. Rutledge Jr., testified yesterday that the late Byron C. Hattman flashed a knife and made a death threat in her presence last August.

The witness was Mrs. Agnes Schamberg, 65-year-old janitress in a St. Louis plant.

Late last night Linn County Attorney William Crissman announced that the state also is bringing another witness from St. Louis. Crissman said the prosecution intends to file a motion today to reopen testimony in the trial.

Crissman would not identify the state's new witness.

Interrupts Pleas

District Judge J.E. Heiserman interrupted the final pleas to the jury yesterday after the defense asked that testimony be re-opened so Mrs. Schamberg could testify.

Mrs. Schamberg said the man whom she recognized from a newspaper picture only last evening as being Hattman came into the plant where she worked last Aug. 15.

"He said, 'I'm Barney from the Emerson plant' and asked to use the phone," she testified.

Associates of Hattman at the Emerson Electric company plant in St. Louis where both he and Mrs. Rutledge were skilled employees testified they knew him as "Barney."

Mrs. Schamberg said a "noisy fan" prevented her overhearing the conversation, if any.

Showed Knife

"But I heard the telephone smash down on its stand," she testified. "Then I asked him jokingly if some fellow was stealing his girl."

"He said 'yes' and he showed me a knife. He said 'I could plunge this through his heart, clear to his back.'"

Mrs. Schamberg said the knife had a prong on it "and the blade flew open." She said it was a long knife with a sharp point.

The man returned a few nights later to use the phone again, she said, but on that occasion was quiet and polite. She never saw him again after that, she said.

Mrs. Schamberg said she looked up newspaper files Thursday night and identified the man from a picture as being Hattman. She said a priest told her to go to a lawyer and tell her story. Then, she continued, she got in touch with the Rutledge defense counsel.

'Same Man'

Shown a newspaper picture in court, Mrs. Schamberg said, "It's the same man." Mrs. Rutledge then took the stand briefly to identify the picture as one of Hattman.

Her testimony supported the defense contention that Hattman was the aggressor in the bloody hotel room duel and that he was stabbed accidentally as the two men grappled after the engineer had struck Dr. Rutledge and drawn a knife.

After the interlude of surprise testimony, Defense Attorney W.J. Barngrover opened the final plea to the jury in behalf of the defendant.

In his narration of Dr. Rutledge's quarrels and final fatal fight with Hattman, Barngrover said:

"In his (Rutledge's) entire story you can't trip him up on a single thing."

Defense Attorney R.S. Milner, who earlier had told the jurors it would be their "gladsome and glorious duty" to find Rutledge innocent, disclosed the jury would have a choice of four verdicts. They were:

1. Acquittal; 2. Murder in the first degree which carries a penalty of death on the gallows or life imprisonment; 3. Murder in the second degree which carries a term of 10 years to life in prison; and 4. Manslaughter, which carries an 8-year-prison term.

Wildcats Thwart Iowa's Title Bid In 13th, 10-8

Hawk Rally Fails As Bruner Sets Season Strike Out Record

By NEAL BLACK
Iowan Sports Editor

The string ran out on Southpaw Jack Bruner in the 13th inning here yesterday as Northwestern got four hits and tallied four runs to break a 6-6 deadlock.

Iowa got two runs in the bottom of the 13th on a pair of walks and Jack Dittmer's double, but a close and much-disputed play at third base, on which umpire Dick Beall changed his mind twice, ended the rally and the game with Iowa on the short end of a 10-8 score.

That final out also put an end to the Hawkeyes' hopes of capturing the Big Ten title. Even though league-leading Purdue fell to Indiana, 8-5, yesterday, Iowa's chances of pulling up to a tie for the title are very slim indeed now and a tie is the best they can do.

Although Bruner couldn't come up with that sixth victory that would have tied the Big Ten record for the most victories in one season, he did establish one record.

His 12 strikeouts, added to his previous total of 54, eclipsed the mark of 62 set last year by Marv Rotblatt of Illinois.

Errors at critical moments and sloppy base running meant the ball game. Iowa gave away five runs in the first two innings and wasn't able to get them back until the seventh.

By that time it took another run to tie the game after the Wildcats tallied one in the top of the seventh. Another Iowa run in the eighth knotted the count at 6 all and sent the game into extra innings.

Northwestern pushed a man as far as third in the 12th after Iowa had stranded two men in the 10th and one in the 11th but the game rolled into the 13th without anyone crossing the plate.

After the Wildcat lead-off man fled out in the 13th, the strain of pitching 12 innings of five-hit ball began to tell on Bruner.

Gordon Rothrock and Don Blasius singled and Henry Schillmoeller doubled to drive in one run. Hugo Bertini, who had come out to pitch for starter Dug Bielenberg in the seventh, hit a ground ball to Bruner.

The hurler's throw to the plate was too late, as was the throw to first and all hands were safe, one run scoring. A moment later Schillmoeller scored on a passed ball and Bertini crossed the plate on Don Burson's single. Bruner wasn't completely gone as he struck out Wilbur Tucker to end the inning.

After pinch-hitter George Hand fled out the Hawks started a valiant do-or-die rally that fell short of the win that would have put them in a first place tie with Indiana.

John Sullivan and Keith Kafer walked and ran around the bases to third and second while the Wildcats paid no attention to them. Dittmer's double to left drove in two runs and after Ed Browne fled out, Dale Erickson walked. By this time Dick Maine had taken over on the mound for Northwestern.

Then John Tedore cracked the ball to the Wildcat shortstop, who bobbled it before throwing to third for a play on Dittmer. Umpire Beall called the Iowa Second Sacker out, then safe and then out in the decision that sent the harder of the 3,400 fans, who had stuck around to the end, home muttering.

The two clubs play again this afternoon at 2 o'clock with Iowa's Hooks Hoeksema likely to face Wildcat Jack Ogle on the mound.

A win today would still give Iowa a mathematical chance for a tie for first in the final conference standings. To make that possible Purdue would have to beat Indiana today and then split with Ohio State next weekend giving Iowa, Purdue and Indiana a final 8-4 record. And then if Michigan's Wolverines, who beat Wisconsin yesterday, 10-3, won another from the Badgers today they would also be tied for first to make a four-team affair of it.

The tension the Iowa club was playing under was evident early yesterday as the first man up in the first inning singled and the second walked. After a sacrifice moved the runners to second and third, Kafer threw over the first-baseman's head to let in two runs.

Three walks loaded the bases with Wildcats in the second and when Pinky Primrose went behind third after a fly ball with two out the runners were off. Primrose dropped the fly letting in three more runs and it was a long time before the Hawkeyes could catch up.

They started whittling at that lead in the second when Erickson singled and Primrose tripled driving in one run. But Primrose rounded third and was trapped between the hot corner and the plate to end that rally.

In the fourth Dittmer led off with a single and scored on an infield out. After the Wildcats picked up a run in the seventh on a triple and an outfield fly, Iowa got three more back in the same frame.

Primrose and Murland Moran started it off with singles. Primrose scored on a close play at the plate after Smith hit an infield ground ball and Moran scored on an infield out. Smith scored the third run on Browne's single.

Indiana Tips Purdue To Take First, 8-5

LAFAYETTE (AP)—Indiana knocked Purdue out of the western conference baseball lead with an 8-5 decision here yesterday.

The Hoosiers slugged Bob Hartman for five hits and four runs in the first inning. Jim McGeen, sophomore righthander, blanked Purdue for six innings as his mates built up the score.

Purdue got to McGeen for four runs on three hits, two walks and a wild pitch in the seventh, but it was too late. It was Hartman's first loss in five conference starts.

They started whittling at that lead in the second when Erickson singled and Primrose tripled driving in one run. But Primrose rounded third and was trapped between the hot corner and the plate to end that rally.

In the fourth Dittmer led off with a single and scored on an infield out. After the Wildcats picked up a run in the seventh on a triple and an outfield fly, Iowa got three more back in the same frame.

Primrose and Murland Moran started it off with singles. Primrose scored on a close play at the plate after Smith hit an infield ground ball and Moran scored on an infield out. Smith scored the third run on Browne's single.

Hawks Third In Big 10 Golf

ANN ARBOR (AP)—Michigan ran well out in front at the halfway point in the annual Western conference golf meet here yesterday.

Playing in alternately windy and rainy weather, the Wolverines showed the way over their own tough, hilly, 6,600 yard course by setting up stout claims for team and individual honors.

The Michigan six-man delegation turned in the lowest total of the day—897. It was just 34 strokes better than second place Purdue which was expected to make quite a battle out of the 1949 classic.

Iowa, with a team total of 943, followed Purdue in the all-medal affair, and was, in turn, trailed by Ohio State, 945, Illinois and Northwestern, 948; Minnesota, 954; Indiana, 956, and Wisconsin, 972.

Play will be resumed today with 18 holes scheduled in morning and afternoon. When the last putt is sunk, each team will drop its worst score and the school with the best five-man total will be crowned champion.

Scores at the end of 36 holes for Iowa's team:
Bob McKirahan, 73-80—153
Warren Strout, 76-84—160
Jim Ragley, 81-79—160
Skip Carlson, 75-75—149

Fightin' Freddie Lindstrom Victim of Famous $50,000 Pebble Incident Against Nats

By JOHN HOLWAY

If you think Freddie Lindstrom, the Northwestern pilot, was a fighter in pulling out that game against the Hawks in the 13th inning yesterday, ask your dad how Lindstrom used to scrap as a boy-wonder third baseman under that famous old fighter, John McGraw of the Giants.

But it was a nasty fate that 25 years ago decreed that the name of Fred Lindstrom should always be remembered with a pebble—a $50,000 pebble.

Lindstrom was an 18-year old rookie when the Giants and Washington Senators battled down to the seventh game of the 1924 series. And in Washington, with President Coolidge and a packed house screaming against them, the Giants were leading by two runs in the last of the eighth.

The bases were loaded and two were out. Bucky Harris, the Washington leader, tapped a bouncing ball to third. Lindstrom set himself to gather it in when it hit a pebble, bounced over his head and let in the two tying runs.

But the Giants held the Senators away for four more innings into the twelfth.

With two men on, Earl McNeely came up and knocked another grounder to Lindstrom. Lindstrom moved in to gather it in—when it struck ANOTHER pebble, bounced over his shoulder and the winning run scored.

The Giants lost $50,000—the difference between the winning and losing share because of those two pebbles.

Today the white haired coach laughs the heart-breaking play off. "It's funny," he smiled yesterday, "to think that your immortal name was decided by a pebble."

It wasn't all pebbles, though, in the 11-year career of Freddie Lindstrom. Even in that same ill-fated series, he was the batting star, getting four hits for five against the great Walter Johnson in the fifth game.

In a later year, Lindstrom slugged .381, the second highest average a right-hander has ever hit in the National league.

In the stands yesterday was one of the old-time Giants' most hated rivals, Burrell Grimes, long-time Brooklyn pitcher.

How did Lindstrom hit against Grimes? "Well, I hit him about as often as he hit me," Lindstrom grinned, recalling the "duster" contests between Grimes and the entire Giant batting order.

Frankie Frisch, New York second baseman, was Grimes' special target. "Oh, how he hated Frisch," Lindstrom chuckled. "He'd walk Frisch on four straight spit balls trying to hit him!"

One such incident ended up with John McGraw reportedly pulling a knife against the whole Dodger team.

Did Grimes remember the day? "McGraw heard a commotion on the field," Grimes recalled, "and came rushing out of the dugout with a knife in his hands. He told the newspapers he was only cleaning his nails."

What caused all the commotion, Burrell?

"Why, a fella named Grimes knocked down a fella named Frisch on a 3-1 pitch," Grimes recounted, sucking quietly on his pipe.

Cubs Win 3rd Straight, 3-1

CHICAGO (AP)—Johnny Schmitz hurled a five-hitter yesterday to pace the Chicago Cubs to a 3-1 victory over the Cincinnati Reds before a chilled crowd of 6,174.

It was the third straight win for the Cubs, their longest streak of the season, and lifted them out of the cellar.

Emil Verban turned in a spectacular game afield and at bat. He cracked out a double and two singles to spearhead the 11-hit attack on Howard Fox and Harry Gumbert. Furthermore, he figured directly in all run production.

Verban singled and scored on Frankie Gustine's hit in the first inning; in the second he drove across Roy Smalley with another single and in the fourth he dropped a double into short right to send Schmitz dashing home. In the field Verban handled 11 chances, some of them brilliant stops.

Roe Hurls 2nd Shutout In Stopping Boston, 4-0

BROOKLYN (AP)—Veteran Preacher Roe turned in his second straight shutout last night as he pitched the Brooklyn Dodgers to a 4-0 triumph over the Boston Braves. The Dodgers scored all of their runs off Johnny Sain in the seventh inning with Spider Jorgensen knocking home three with a double.

It was Roe's third victory against two setbacks and his second over the Braves. Sain's record now is 4-4.

Another undefeated Hawk scheduled to compete is Bill Snook.

Phils Top Giants, 9-3

PHILADELPHIA—A big third inning started the Philadelphia Phils on their way to a 9-3 triumph over the New York Giants last night, with Curt Simmons getting credit for his second victory of the season. Del Ennis' home run helped the Phils defeat Giant hurler Clint Hartung.

Marcellus Boston will head the contingent. Boston will lay a string of five straight 100-yard dash victories on the line. His best for the event is :09.7. Boston will also compete in the 220-yard dash and the broad jump.

Nine Iowa Frosh in State AAU

Nine Iowa freshmen athletes will compete in the Iowa AAU track and field meet in Cedar Falls Monday. The Iowa yearlings will register as "unattached, Iowa City" because of a Big Ten rule which prevents freshmen athletes from representing their school.

The other entrants are DeReef Greene, 440; Jack Davis, mile and half mile; Duane McCarty, pole vault; Don Spain, half mile; Gerald Schiffman, high hurdles and Charles Darling, shot and discus.

'New' Tribe Clips Chisox

CLEVELAND (AP)—With 38-year-old Al Benton twirling six-hit ball, the Cleveland Indians came to life last night and beat the Chicago White Sox, 4-0, before a "reopening day" crowd of 33,235.

The seventh place world champs, losers of 10 of their last 12 games, jumped on Lefty Bill Wright in the third and seventh innings, getting two runs in each. Benton allowed the Sox only widely spaced singles.

Last night's affair was a mock reopener, with everybody going through the motions of re-starting the season because of the Tribe's poor showing so far.

Kazak's Home Run Nips Pittsburgh, 2-1

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A combination of tight pitching by Lefty Al Brazle and a two-run homer by Rookie Eddie Kazak gave the St. Louis Cardinals a 2-1 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates last night.

Kazak's drive into the left field seats came after a pass to Enos Slaughter in the fourth inning. It was his fourth of the season.

Brazle gave up nine hits to the corsairs, all singles, but kept them well scattered. He received brilliant support, especially from Kazak, Red Schoendienst and Stan Musial.

Wildcats Grab Lead In Big Ten Net Meet

EVANSTON (AP)—Northwestern, aiming for its third successive Western conference tennis title, grabbed a two-point lead over second-place Michigan at the end of the semi-final rounds yesterday.

The Wildcats and Wolverines enter today's finals with seven entries apiece. Northwestern has compiled 17 points and Michigan 15. Wisconsin is third with 6 1-2, followed by Minnesota with 5, Ohio State and Illinois 4 1-2 apiece; Indiana 4; Iowa 2 and Purdue 0.

Lopat Limits Athletics To Six Safeties, 3-0

NEW YORK (AP)—Home runs by Tommy Henrich and Yogi Berra shepherded the New York Yankees to a 3-0 triumph over the Philadelphia Athletics last night. Unbeaten Eddie Lopat stopped the A's on six safeties to gain his fifth victory.

Joe Coleman yielded five safeties in dropping his fourth decision against five wins.

Tigers Tip Browns

DETROIT (AP)—Virgil Trucks pitched a six-hitter against the St. Louis Browns last night and beat them 5-4 to snap the Detroit Tigers' six-game losing streak. Dick Kokos of the Browns hit his eighth home run of the season in the eighth inning.

Ticks, Poison Ivy Come with Capers Over Memorial Day

A long Memorial Day weekend means picnics and outings and with them the twin menaces of wood ticks and poison ivy.

Dr. Charles I. Miller, director of student health, said a number of people have already been treated for both wood ticks and poison ivy.

The wood tick can carry the deadly Rocky Mountain spotted fever. Dr. Miller said "there is not too much to get excited about in this area" but he added that it pays to be careful.

He advised all nature lovers to check thoroughly after any outing in a wooded area to make certain they haven't picked up any of the insects.

If any are found get them to let loose and pull them out of the skin without leaving the head imbedded, Dr. Miller said. This can sometimes be done by squeezing them, applying rubbing alcohol or even the litged end of a cigarette.

Dr. Miller recommended a two-point program for poison ivy: stay away from it, or, if contact is made, wash thoroughly with soap and water as soon as possible.

He said that any clothes coming in contact with the plant should be cleaned before being worn again.

Ohio Youth Wins National Spelling Bee

WASHINGTON (AP)—Kim Calvin, 13, of Canton, Ohio, became the nation's top young speller yesterday in competition so fierce the runnerup fainted moments after the contest ended.

James Shea, also 13, from St. Saviour school in Brooklyn, finished second in the 22nd annual national spelling bee.

Then, overcome by the strain of almost five hours of steady spelling, he toppled, and would have fallen from the platform if it hadn't been for a crowd pushing forward to congratulate the finalists.

James revived quickly, and soon was feeling fine, though sheepish because he had created so much excitement.

In order to win, Kim had to spell more than 50 words correctly—and outspell 48 other city and regional champions. They were sent here by Scripps-Howard and other newspapers from coast to coast.

Kim got his big chance when James missed "dulcimer," which the dictionary cheerfully explains, is:

"A trapezoidal zither with metal strings struck by light hammers." Apparently trapezoidal zithers are a rarity in Brooklyn, for James tried it, "D-o-l-c-i-m-e-r."

Kim not only knew "dulcimer," he also knew the next word that would make him a champion. He whipped right through "onerous," which means burdensome, oppressive and troublesome to some people—and $500 to Kim.

Shea, sent here by the New York World-Telegram, got $300 for finishing second.

Collectively, the kids spelled correctly more than 550 of the toughest words. To give you some idea, here are a few they missed: replevin, expatriate, augury, meringue, obloquy, liaison, periphrasis.

Can you blame them for missing?

Local Church Elects 4 SUI Faculty Men

Four SUI faculty members were among new officers elected Thursday night by the First Congregational church of Iowa City.

Director of Athletics Paul Brechler and Prof. E.C. Mabie, head of the speech and dramatic arts department, were named to three-year terms on the board of trustees.

Norman Kilpatrick, associate SUI librarian, was elected to the board of deacons and Prof. Ralph Ojemann, of the educational psychology and child welfare departments, was re-elected president of the student activities board.

Also named to the board of trustees was A.O. Kelley, Iowa City insurance man. Other members of the board of deacons are Dr. Jack Layton and Truman Slager. Mrs. Emma McRoberts was elected deaconess.

Adolph Boye was named membership chairman and Mrs. A.O. Kelley was elected music chairman.

The election was held at the church's annual meeting which followed a supper Thursday night.

Dr. Dunnington Tells New Service Time

Only one service will be held on Sunday mornings throughout the summer at the Iowa City First Methodist church, the Dr. L.L. Dunnington said yesterday. Dr. Dunnington said that until school begins next fall his morning services will begin at 10 a.m. and last until 11.

He will preach on "Vital Religion" tomorrow, he said, and will tell a "stranger than fiction" story he learned first while touring Tennessee and Kentucky two weeks ago. He will tell of a minister who brought about "a remarkable change in the moonshine district of Kentucky," he said.

Radio station KXIC will continue to broadcast Dr. Dunnington's sermons beginning at 10:30 a.m.

Dr. Dunnington said his 10 a.m. service is a new attempt to provide a convenient hour for students and townspeople to attend church this summer.

NLRB Rules Coal Contract Clause Illegal

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Labor Relations board ruled unanimously yesterday that the union shop clause in John L. Lewis' contract with coal mines owned by the steel companies is illegal.

The decision came amid Lewis' already troubled contract talks with mine operators.

The board gave Lewis 10 days in which to promise: 1. To drop the union shop clause with the steel industry's "captive" coal mines. 2. Not to call a strike to force continuance of the present union shop contract or demand that the steel industry continue it.

Lewis and the U.S. Steel corporation declined immediate comment on the board's action. But Lewis is almost certain to appeal it all the way to the Supreme court.

The clause, in fact, specifies that it shall remain in effect until nullified by a "court of last resort."

The clause requires all miners to be members of Lewis' United Mine Workers union — the same condition he has in contracts with the rest of the soft coal industry.

The Taft-Hartley law permits a union shop, but only if the workers covered agree to it beforehand in an NLRB election.

The NLRB pointed out Lewis had obtained no such election. And he can't get one, because the law bars him from using the NLRB until he signs a non-Communist affidavit.

Lewis, probably the nation's number one T-H hater, has refused to knuckle down to the anti-Communist oath requirement as a matter of "principle." Lewis even marched his 600,000 member union out of the AFL when its leaders decided to submit oaths, even though they dislike them, too.

The union won one point in yesterday's decision. The NLRB dismissed by 4-1 vote a charge of refusal to bargain in good faith with the steel industry because of Lewis' insistence on the union shop clause.

The majority held it had never determined legally whether Lewis is compelled to bargain with the steel owned "captive" mines alone, or any other single segment of the industry, or with the industry as a whole. In other words, the proper coal bargaining unit is still an open question.

Depending on how tough the NLRB and coal operators want to get in enforcing the decision, the case can either rock along in the courts for a year or so, or become an immediate pressing issue in current efforts to get a new contract to succeed the one expiring June 30.

H. Moyle to Speak At Chapel Dedication

Henry D. Moyle, Salt Lake City, elder of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, will speak at dedication ceremonies Sunday night of the church's Iowa City chapel, 918 E. Fairchild street.

The dedication ceremonies will be conducted at 7:30 p.m. by Elder Moyle and Creed Haymond, president of the church's Northern States' mission.

The public is invited to attend, Iowa City Elder Vaughn Hansen said yesterday.

The chapel was purchased last fall and since then has been remodeled and painted.

Elder Moyle was ordained to the church's Council of the Twelve Apostles in 1947. He has served as chairman of the general committee on church welfare since 1936, directing production of food and clothing for overseas relief.

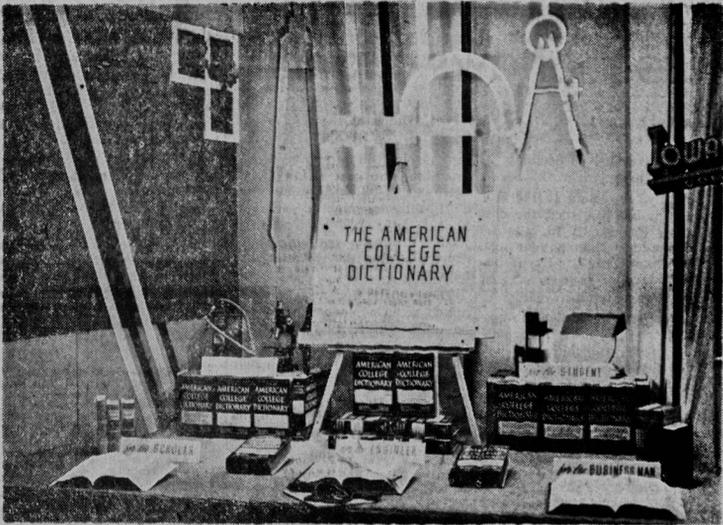

He is an attorney and was on the University of Utah law school faculty for over 25 years. He has studied at the universities of Utah, Chicago, Harvard and Freiberg, Saxony.

Iowa Supply Dictionary Display Wins Prize

THIS DICTIONARY DISPLAY won a $100 first prize for the Iowa Supply company from Random House company, New York. It shows the dictionary as "a precision tool for every need." The display, which appeared in April, presented the dictionary as useful to the student, the businessman, the engineer, the scholar, and the professional man.

National Contest Winner— Local Firm Gets Two Awards

The Iowa Supply company learned Thursday in a letter from the American Book Sellers association that it has won two prizes, one of $100 and another of $25, for two window displays the local firm used in April.

Hal Lundquist, originator of the displays and assistant manager of the store, pointed out that the $100 award was a duplicate award since a book store in Kansas also won first.

Centered around the American College dictionary, the winning display depicted it as "a precision tool for every need." It showed how the dictionary could be used by the student, the businessman, the engineer, the scholar, and the professional man.

The contest was sponsored by the Random House publishing company, New York, publishers of the dictionary.

For a display on the Better Homes and Gardens cookbook, the local firm won the $25 award from the Meredith publishing company, Des Moines.

Contest winners were announced at the recent national convention of the American Book Sellers association in Washington, D.C.

U.S. Medical Lead Due to Teamwork, Dr. Queneau Says

America's lead in medical research and progress is largely due to the organization in American hospitals and their training, and not to money alone, Dr. Pierre Queneau, Paris orthopedist, said yesterday at Children's hospital.

Dr. Queneau, who is in the U.S. on one of about 10 annual French government fellowships, is visiting and observing in the orthopedic department of the Children's hospital for "a week or 10 days."

The European people recognize America's lead in the medical field, he said, but they attribute the lead to the wealth of the U.S.

This is partly true, he agreed, but added that a spirit of teamwork exists in the U.S. hospitals which is not found in the hospitals of Europe.

American hospitals are organized in such a way that everyone knows exactly what he is to do, he said.

Many European doctors and professors come to the U.S., he said, but too often they only attend a convention or observe methods for a couple of weeks and then return.

This gives them no opportunity to really see the efficiency of the American hospital system, he said.

Dr. Queneau finished four years of study in the Crippled Children and Foundling's hospital in Paris before coming to the U.S. on the 10-month fellowship.

During the latter part of 1944 and early 1945, he worked with American medical personnel in a U.S. army general hospital and an evacuation hospital in France.

The 31-year-old doctor will return to Paris in late July.

Jobs Prospect Is Better This Year

WASHINGTON (AP)—Ewan Clague, commissioner of the bureau of labor statistics, said recently job prospects for college graduates will be "somewhat less favorable" this year than at any time since 1942.

Clague said, however, the outlook for professional type job vacancies this year "may be better than during the next few years."

"More graduates will be coming out of American colleges this year than ever before in history," Clague said. "And industry is hiring fewer workers than in recent years."

He estimated that more than 319,000 young men and women will graduate from college, an increase of about 50 percent over the prewar record graduating class of 1940.

"Safe in the arms of Big Business" (after Steig)
From Fortune Magazine

editorials

Forty-niners Are Best—

The new Fortune magazine salutes, for better or worse, the class of 1949.

In an article sub-titled "Looking to big business for security, a cautious generation turns back on venture," this magazine presents a somewhat flattering account of the abilities of this year's graduating classes.

Professors, placement directors and industrial recruiters call the '49'ers the "best class the country has produced."

Fortune the magazine, at least, smiles on them. Excerpt—"In almost every respect, '49 is remarkable. It is one of the biggest classes of all time: some 150,000 (including mid-year graduates) men—40,000 more than in the largest prewar class. It is the most mature . . . It is the most responsible . . . Mentally, it is admirably adjusted to the now tightened job market."

But, the magazine's account concludes, the crop of '49 wants no part in risk—only in the booming southwest is there much indication of the Horatio Alger, own-your-own, wildcatting spirit.

The security prized so highly by the forty-niners is bound up in people—service to a large organization or to the community. In return for this technical and spiritual service, the forty-niners ask security. Although Fortune does not say so, this may also mean these boys want more federal security—at least the many thousands who will not get into a big business where security is the keynote might be expected to pursue this security-fetish to the end of that government will provide the future goodies.

Apparently there is less venture per square graduate if the Fortune poll is accurate—only two percent of the seniors have any intention of going into business for themselves. To punctuate this, the article says: "If '49 has a class bogey, it is ulcers."

The fact that these graduates don't talk salary as much as their predecessors, Fortune takes to mean an expressed faith "that industry does not intend to exploit (them)." And this generation is a "settling-down" generation in spite of its insecure early life in the thirties and chaos of the war.

But these men want to settle down, avoid risks, and do a good job for their employer and their community.

Excerpt—"He will tend, accordingly, to lubricate rather than to build, and thus to evaluate success less on the basis of concrete achievement than on services performed."

What about salaries? This magazine has found none of the downgrading of the bachelor's degree which so many college people complain of. Besides that, there are salaries of $55 and $60 a week as compared to $25 in 1939. Business, and Fortune, think this is giving the forty-niner a pretty good deal, even considering the increased living costs.

How should you train to get one of these security-laden jobs "safe in the arms of big business"?

Right here things get confused. Business needs technicians. But business also has found out that technicians, imbued with their own abilities and little else, have little grasp of the "personality patterns of industry."

In short, business wants specialists—but specialists who have general training. They want a combination vocational and liberal arts graduate. They want a man who can adjust a micrometer with one hand and sociological problems with the other.

Excerpt—"One firm, for example, which in the past has leaned heavily on engineering majors for its general trainees, has found that engineers are inclined to treat every problem as an engineering problem; since many are not, the firm is now looking around for liberal arts men. Similarly, a large Detroit advertising agency says it prefers men who have not specialized in advertising. 'We can teach them advertising,' it says. 'We can't teach them how to use their minds.'"

Summing it all up, the Fortune article says the energies of the forty-niners promise to be analytical rather than creative—"if ever there was one, this will be a generation of managers."

We're glad to hear that. This graduating class with its greatest number of job-seekers, inheriting a world of headaches, can do with a whole generation of managers.

I'D RATHER BE RIGHT

Inflation Shows Fight

By SAMUEL GRAFTON (New York Post Syndicate)

The cost of living went up a little in March, about three-tenths of one percent. That's bad. But unemployment dropped a little, from 3,220,000, to 3,167,000. That's good. So maybe the whole thing is turning up again—an increase in the number of jobs, for which one gets money to buy things, the prices of which; however, flutter upward, because of an increase in activity.

IN OTHER WORDS, inflation, far from being dead, displayed a flicker of new life last month; it sat up in bed, and showed fight. Actually, my own view, in spite of all optimistic current declarations that the inflation is over, is that it stands right now at its absolute worst.

That is because high prices have continued into an era of unemployment. That is when inflation really hurts, and is really inflation. High prices during a period of complete employment are burdensome enough; but it is when high prices continue into a period of significant unemployment that we face the somber realities of what inflation really means.

IN EFFECT, we have exaggerated the importance of the recent price decline. Most interpretations have been tendentious, and much too gleeful. The urge to find arguments against current wage rates and government relief plans, has led some observers to attach much too much significance to relatively inconclusive declines in the price level.

Actually, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics, the cost of living, on March 15, was 1.6 percent higher than a year ago. It had fallen only 3 percent below the postwar peak of August and September of last year.

And the small recent wobbles in the price level have been made the basis of tremendous observations about labor greed, etc., by some who have not hesitated at all to jump from two-ounce premises straight to two-ton conclusions.

IT IS TRUE that the prices of some articles of clothing are down. But woollens have turned up again. It is also true that house furnishings and appliances are cheaper. But food is rising once more, which makes it small comfort that the pot you cook in is, perhaps, a little cheaper.

I go back, at this point, to a feeling I expressed in this place some weeks ago, which is that the business level is perhaps not going to go either straight down or straight up, but is going to move, so to speak, sideways, with relatively high activity and prices in a number of fields, even in an atmosphere of significant unemployment and of recession in some areas.

THE OLD CLASSICAL notion that there are only two directions in which to move, up or down, may not hold in an unprecedented era like the present, in which there is a $5-billion Marshall plan, a 16-billion domestic military budget, and, as a kind of post-Easter fillip, a one-billion-plus arms plan for the Atlantic pact nations.

These make for an extremely mixed period, in which some can be quite active, busy and prosperous, while others are, not to put too fine a point upon it, jobless.

THESE ARE trend-denying influences, and they postpone the rationalization of the economic picture which has seemed for so long overdue. We are faced with something we have never been faced with before, something brand-new—unemployment in a high-price era. We have told ourselves that the postwar period would be complex, but we never told ourselves it would be that complex.

To touch on one small angle, Mr. Truman's plans for sharing relief costs with the states, which have, so far, been indignantly disregarded by Congress, now become an integral part of our post-war figuring. We are going to need relief payments in a time of high prices; something hitherto unknown to us. It will be interesting to see how long we can persevere in the myth that the inflation is over, in a period in which it has attained to an unprecedented painfulness.

Interpreting the News —

Trade Revival Seen, Europe

By J.M. ROBERTS JR., AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

The United States is moving cautiously, and Russia by frontal attack, to see what can be done about revived trade between eastern and western Europe.

The problem for the United States has been to compromise two prime and conflicting needs. One is to obtain for western Europe the eastern products without which, it was recognized in the beginning, the Marshall plan cannot be a complete success.

The other is not to give the eastern, in return, anything which tends to build up Soviet power.

Technically, this latter objective has been approached from the military standpoint, but since economic power and military power go hand in hand, the practical result has been economic war and damage to recovery on both sides of the iron curtain.

Official reports indicate that the damage in the east has been greater than in the west; that the "Molotov plan" is failing among the Russian satellites, and that their own two, three and five-year plans are far from achievement. But western Europe's historic trade patterns also are heavily involved.

There is no argument in western Europe against the U.S. position that military materials must not be shipped to the east. But there is dissension among the allies over the rest of the program, conducted in secret by expert veterans of the economic warfare against Japan and Germany. It involves decision as to what machinery constitutes war potential, and what does not.

American rulings are enforced through the economic cooperation administration's power over re-export of ECA supplies and over-export materials for which Marshall plan goods are substituted.

The U.S. recently lifted export license requirements on a long list of non-controversial goods. But the great need of eastern Europe is for machinery which still is subject to controls.

Pressure for easement of these controls is two-way. France, Britain, Sweden and Switzerland are all big producers and need export markets. Russia has been unable to keep her promises to the satellites and wants them to be able to buy to take some of the heat off herself.

Russian propaganda is stressing the possibility of cooperation between different economic systems. "If two different systems could collaborate in war, even more can they collaborate in peacetime," the Moscow radio says. The Russian delegate reported to the economic commission for Europe that the eastern bloc wanted the trade and would welcome a change in U.S. policy.

These are very difficult and confusing problems.

There is fairly general acceptance of the theory that Russia has no idea of making war now. This makes some of the most extreme measures seem unnecessary. But no one can say positively, and misjudgment on this score could mean suicide. Also, Russian communism has promised repeatedly to "get" the western countries sooner or later.

The American argument so far has been that the drawbacks of economic war to western Europe are a necessary part of the price of defense.

Yet there is growing realization that world amity will be built ultimately on mutually profitable trade and the elimination of areas which are perpetually hungry for the better things of life.

When the west has become strong enough it may prove profitable to see how Russia will react to some relaxation of pressure. The trick will be to recognize that time when it arrives and not let it slip by without action. For economic war, pressed too relentlessly, historically leads to shooting war.

Psychiatrist Must Teach Public About Life-Menninger

MONTREAL (AP)—The psychiatrist has an important role to fill in "our troubled world" in teaching the public how to neutralize hate, Dr. William C. Menninger, Topeka, Kan., retiring president of the American Psychiatric Association, said recently.

Speaking on "Psychiatry in every day life," Dr. Menninger told the A.P.A. convention that through psychiatry the public can "neutralize hate, discover and accept the fact that life is a continuous struggle in which we have to learn to compromise, find satisfaction through socially approved outlets and create areas of security for ourselves."

He said, "The public is learning that psychiatry can and will help all of us to achieve the sense of security, reassurance, and hope that every human personality needs."

It is the psychiatrists' job, he said, "to make everyone familiar with the basic anatomy of the human personality—the conscious, the unconscious, and the conscience." Psychiatrists must also teach the public the relations between love and hate.

"It is especially important that we all learn to recognize the healthy and the unhealthy manifestations of love and hate," he stressed.

'Impossible' Gives Streetcar Movies

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The Hollywood press, which is feted at lavish movie premiere junkets from Texas to Paris, has just returned from the shortest, smallest and cheapest junket in history—a premiere on a streetcar.

This all-expenses-paid trip was staged by a little cartoon company, Impossible Pictures, Inc., whose slogan is, "If it's a good picture it's Impossible."

"This is the poor man's McCarthy junket," announced Impossible Chief Leonard Levinson. "Not being able to compete with Glen McCarthy, who moved half of Hollywood to Texas for his premiere, we are doing the opposite."

Forty-six travelers (McCarthy had 600) gathered for this excursion at the Hollywood Brown Derby, where dessert was served. Impossible Pictures could not afford a full-course meal.

Then a bus took the Junketers seven blocks to a streetcar named Impossible, which was parked in the shadows of RKO and Paramount studios, home of flashy premieres. A battery of two cops held back the teeming crowd of 15 citizens who waved good-bye as the party hopped aboard.

The Los Angeles transit lines had lavishly appointed the streetcar by yanking out hanging-on poles so the view of the movies would be unobstructed. "This is Impossible" was painted on the fare box behind conductress side of the trolley and a pair of crossed-eyes decorated the front. The movie screen was taped onto Virginia Hill, who said she'd never done anything like this before.

In view of the recent publicity concerning the man who is touring the country in a sealed car, I would like to make an offer to stay in the room I am now occupying, for a period of one year, without venturing out of these portals, if somebody is willing to pay me the sum of one thousand dollars to do such.

The taker of such offer will have to pay the room rent, and pay for my meals, while all other incidentals will be my responsibility.

I would appreciate it very much if this offer was publicized, as I am very much interested in doing such if there are takers.

Directors' Award Brings Him Happiness

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Director Joe Mankiewicz said recently the award he just won from his fellow directors made him a lot happier than sharing an oscar ever could. He says academy awards are involved with politics, personalities and publicity, anyway.

Mr. M. collected a gold medalion at the Screen Directors' Guild first annual award dinner for making a hit comedy, "Letter to Three Wives."

He's been up for Oscars more times than he can remember. But this honor made his heart thump faster, he said, than if he'd won a truckful of those statuette that big stars would give two swimming pools for.

The academy awards he added, have gotten to be popularly contests. And that's partly why the directors got together last year to set up awards of their own—the first crack in that solid front the academy has shown the world.

"It isn't that we're dissatisfied with the academy awards," explained the directors' Guild retiring president George Marshall. "We just want awards of our own judged on technique only."

"The academy awards involved personalities and publicity."

Four Vehicles In 2 Collisions, $442 Damage

Damage estimated at $442.14 was caused to three of four cars involved in two accidents yesterday, police said. No injuries were reported.

Two cars were involved in a collision yesterday at 10:30 a.m. at the intersection of Iowa avenue and Johnson street, the accident report said.

Edward L. Krall, 711 E. Fairchild street, estimated $330 damage to the front end, frame and fenders of his car.

Krall estimated $120 damage done to the door and door post of the other machine involved, owned by Earl Sangster, 1106 E. College street. It was driven by Robert Williams, 2203 E. Court street, at the time of the accident.

In another accident yesterday, damage estimated at $22.14 was caused to one of two cars involved in an accident at 1:35 p.m. near the intersection of Burlington and Capitol streets.

Thomas W. Slattery, P2, 125 Riverside park, reported he was driving east on Burlington street when the accident occurred. No damage to the Slattery car was reported.

A Crosley station wagon owned by John W. Bolin Jr. A1, Tipton, was the other car involved, police said.

Bolin estimated $22.14 damage to the tail-light, body and bumper of his car.

Arthur Walter, 808 E. Davenport street, was fined $27.50 on a reckless driving charge, and Robert D. Lumpa, 603 First street, paid a $12.50 fine in police court yesterday for failing to heed a stop sign.

Thursday's police docket listed 38 persons who paid $51 for traffic and meter violations. Three cases were dismissed.

National Guard Unit To Attend Services

The 34th reconnaissance company, local unit of the National Guard, will furnish a firing squad for the Memorial day services at Oakland cemetery Monday, Administrative Assistant Sgt. Ed Windrem said yesterday.

The services at Oakland cemetery will follow the Memorial day parade which starts from the community building at 9 a.m.

Coupled with the other local unit of the National Guard, the clearing company of the 190th medical battalion, the 34th reconnaissance company will display its vehicles and the majority of its enlisted strength in the parade.

The 34th reconnaissance company will be led by its commander, Captain Harry W. Dic, while Lt. Col. Edward W. Paulus will head the clearing company.

Somerset Maugham's —

'Quartet' Is Gratifying

— For Irony, Insight

BY BOB SENNISH

Somerset Maugham's "Quartet," which moves into the Capitol theater today, is a gratifying piece of work which scores on two main counts.

The first of these clearly shows that the short story as a film medium has been seriously overlooked. On celluloid, the short story brings with it a variety which no other length, not even a three-hour Hollywood catch-all, can produce.

The second of these shows just as clearly that the sharpness of Maugham's irony and insight is not lost on the screen. Rather, the screen adds a few wrinkles of its own to the otherwise self-conscious Maugham pose with a more life-like result.

"Quartet" consists of four typical Maugham stories. All of these are paced with the precise observations which have won their creator such a vast reading public. The stories are not profound. But they don't set out to be. This, however, does not keep the irony from a crispness seldom attained in films.

They are, all of them, funny enough to drive any self-respecting laugh-meter to wrack and ruin. It's a kind of humor which catches the subject off guard. Entirely unconstrained, it points up the moral faux-pas which are unconsciously committed but which, when show-cased on the screen, are hilarious.

Of the four vignettes, "The Kite" is perhaps the most provocative. It takes a suburban English family and traces their addiction to kite-flying. All this seems a little silly at first glance, but as the story unfolds we become aware of the soul-killing routinization which has occurred in the lives of these people and how the kite serves as agent for releasing what may be haphazardly referred to as the "romantic" in them.

The son's plan to marry breaks up the team and the kite-flying session. How these "nice" people snarl and scratch to prove that the wife is too "common" and how the wife, a misguided pseudo-sophisticate, scorns kite-flying as childish, all combines in a well-timed comment on the middle-class notion of dignity.

Each cast is excellent and, for my part, the players are largely responsible for clearing the dust off Maugham's sense of humor. If you don't have evenings to throw away, let me assure you of the wisdom of deciding upon "Quartet."

Awards Presented To Dental Seniors

Seven graduating dentistry students were honored in ceremonies in the senate chamber of Old Capitol yesterday, highlighting the college of dentistry's Senior day. Omicron Kappa Upsilon membership and keys were given to Robert James Bosveld, Pella; Herman Dale Holland, Boone, and Robert Benjamin Yeager, Sioux City.

James W. Cross, Dinuba, Calif., and Holland received certificates and memberships in the American society of dentistry for children, for outstanding ability in children's dentistry. Cross also was awarded a certificate and journal from the American academy of dental medicine.

Bosveld was winner of a new Alpha Omega scholarship award. Prof. A. W. Bryan, dean of the college of dentistry, presented it to him for having the highest grade point average of the 13 graduating seniors.

Dean Bryan also presented three journal subscriptions to Francis Joseph Fleege, Iowa City; George William Bremer, Iowa Falls, and John Arthur Maxwell, Epworth. John Howard Hogeland, D1, Marshalltown and Harold John Bohl, D2, Davenport, each received cash awards from the Rudy E. Minger Memorial fund as outstanding freshman and sophomore, respectively.

E. W. Smull Elected Fraternity President

Edwin W. Smull, E4, Wilton Junction, was elected president of Pi Tau Sigma, mechanical engineering honorary fraternity, at a meeting held Thursday in the engineering building.

Other elected officers, all juniors, are Otto C. Podlaha, Chicago, vice-president; rank R. Herud, Chatham, N.J., treasurer; Lester W. Haether, Atkins, corresponding secretary; Donald R. Wagner, Iowa City, recording secretary, and James W. Better, Winslow, Ariz., historian.

The fraternity also re-elected Prof. H. O. Croft, head of the mechanical engineering department, as faculty advisor.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

I WONDER how many of you remember the shenanigans of Montague Glass' greatest creations, Potash and Perlmutter? These two hot-tempered and argumentative partners called one another every name under the sun, but if an outsider attacked, they were as united and indivisible as Park and Tilford or Haig and Haig!

One of Potash's rages was provoked by a high-salaried salesman who was too lazy to cover his accounts properly. "Look at you sitting here twaddling your thumbs," screamed Potash. "Why aren't you out selling?" "Listen, Mr. Potash," the salesman assured him. "If I could sell like you think I should, I'd be in business for myself!"

There came a day when Potash and Perlmutter invested in a motion picture company, and Perlmutter hired a slinky siren of the then-popular Theda Bara-Pola Negri type. "How much you paying her?" demanded Potash suspiciously. "Seven hundred a week," admitted Perlmutter. "Robber," cried Potash. "You've gone crazy." "Calm yourself," said Perlmutter. "You don't seem to understand that this girl is a Kipling vampire." "For seven hundred dollars a week," declared Potash, "she should Kipple for somebody else."

Police Fly Reuther Gun East, To Meet with Arms Officials

DETROIT (AP)—Police set out on an extensive piece of cross-country detective work yesterday to solve the shooting of Victor Reuther.

The gun with which the brother of Walter Reuther was shot Tuesday night was flown in a Michigan state police plane to Chicopee Falls, Mass.

There detectives were to confer with officials of the Stevens Arms company, makers of the gun, in an effort to track down the weapon's recent history.

They based their hopes on these facts: the type of weapon used in the shooting has been in production only since last February; only about 2,000 have been produced.

Thus by grinding, detailed work, the hunters hoped to find the man or men they sought.

In their search they were promised the co-operation of the FBI. As in most major crimes in this area, the FBI already has opened its laboratories and certain of its records to Detroit and state police.

There was not yet, however, a full-fledged investigation by the FBI. Attorney General Tom Clark said that would come only "if there is any indication of a federal violation."

The U.S. senate has called on President Truman to order the FBI out on the hunt, terming the shooting of Reuther of "national significance."

While the developments fanned out through the nation, the slim, bespectacled Reuther, educational director of the CIO-United Auto Workers, was reported improving in Detroit's Henry Ford hospital.

His right eye, torn by the shot-gun pellets, was removed Wednesday. Otherwise his condition has been consistently "good."

Walter Reuther, the auto workers union president, was wounded in a similar nighttime attack 13 months ago.

In view of the threat to the two officials of the union, police took steps to guard other UAW leaders. Patrol cars were ordered to check regularly on the homes of several of the top men.

Henry W. Fairchild, 84, Dies; Coralville Resident 60 Years

Funeral services for Henry William Fairchild, 84, who died Thursday evening at University hospitals, will be held at 2 p.m. today at the Oathout funeral chapel.

The Rev. E.V. Streed of Coralville will officiate. Burial will be in Coralville cemetery.

Mr. Fairchild was born November 15, 1864, in Ontario, Canada, the son of Timothy and Johanna Smith Fairchild.

He came to the United States at the age of seven with his parents, who settled near Lone Tree. A resident of Coralville for the past 60 years, Mr. Fairchild was justice of the peace for approximately 30 years. He had more recently been employed in the medical laboratories at the University hospitals.

He is survived by his wife, Grace; two sons, William W. and Henry T., both of Coralville; a step-grandson, Claude Williams; four grandchildren, and many nieces and nephews.

Junior Farm Group To Meet Wednesday

The Junior Farm Bureau of Johnson county will meet in the lower lounge room of the Community building Wednesday at 8 p.m.

Edward S. Rose, pharmacist, will speak on the topic, "Getting Rid of Pests on the Farm."

Men's Chorus —

Concert Well Received

— 'Jubilant Mood'

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

By DONALD KEY

A small but enthusiastic audience gathered in the Masonic temple last night to hear the second spring concert of the Iowa City Men's chorus.

The program, under the direction of Glen Jablonski, consisted of light songs and choruses from operettas. "Hail Bright Abode," arranged by Homer, opened the evening's music with a jubilant mood, which continued throughout most of the concert.

First soloist to appear was Patricia Kelly, who sang "The Hills of Gruzia," and then joined voices with Dick Williams, baritone, for the "La Ci Daren La Mano," by Mozart.

The deep, rich soprano voice of Miss Kelly blended well with William's light baritone in this number and in two duets which followed: "My Hero," from the "Chocolate Soldier," by Oscar Strauss, and "Sympathy," from

Levi Schriener, 77, Dies in Minnesota; Plan Services Here

Funeral services will be held at 8 a.m. Tuesday in St. Mary's church for Levi Schriener, 77, who died Thursday morning in St. Paul, Minn., following a short illness. Burial will be in St. Joseph's cemetery.

The rosary will be recited at 7:30 p.m. Monday at the Hohen-schuh mortuary, where the body will arrive tomorrow.

Mr. Schriener left Johnson county in 1913. He was preceded in death by his parents, one brother and two sisters.

Survivors include five sons, Ralph, Bob and Elmer, all of St. Paul; William, Minnesota, and Harry, Iowa; a sister, Mrs. Ellen Moravec, Davenport; two brothers, John, Davenport, and James, Iowa City, and several nieces and nephews.

Engineering Societies To Hold Picnic Today

The American Institute of Electrical Engineers and the Institute of Radio Engineers will hold a joint picnic this afternoon at Showers' farm, about a mile and a half south of Iowa City.

A stag picnic for members of AIEE and IRE only, the afternoon's activities will include a ball game and lunch. This will be the last activity of the current semester for the two organizations.
