Hickenlooper Hits Outlay at Hanford

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) yesterday cited a secret report criticizing the atomic energy commission for failing to heed "danger signals" on the skyrocketing cost of a Hanford, Wash., plutonium plant.

Plutonium is an element used in making atomic bombs. Hammering away at his charges that the nation's atomic program suffered "incredible mismanagement" under AEC Chairman David E. Lilienthal, Hickenlooper told a senate-house investigating committee:

1. The AEC didn't even know that the estimated cost of the Hanford plant had soared from $6-million to $25-million until a commission member made a routine trip there early in 1949.

Work on the plant started in 1947. It is being constructed by General Electric corporation under a "cost plus $1 profit" contract.

2. The AEC's own review board, in a secret 43-page report, found that a "lack of planning and mistakes" boosted the cost of construction.

Before Hickenlooper cut loose with his new blast against Lilienthal's regime, the AEC issued a statement saying the costs went up because designs for the Hanford plant were changed in mid-construction for safety reasons.

"Plutonium is a deadly material," the AEC statement said.

Witness Recognizes Hiss' Hand Writing On Federal Notes

NEW YORK (AP) — Four secret data slips which the government claims were relayed to a prewar Russian spy ring were identified yesterday as hand-written by Alger Hiss.

Eunice A. Lincoln identified the handwriting as she was shown each slip in turn at Hiss' federal perjury trial.

She was a private secretary in the office of Assistant Secretary of State Francis B. Sayre in 1938. Hiss was an assistant to Sayre at the time.

One of the documents dealt with the whereabouts of a man named "Rubens." Testimony last year before a house committee indicated the Russians as a spy after traveling there on a U.S. passport as Donald Louis Robinson.

It was not learned immediately what subjects the other three slips dealt with.

The defense has said it would concede that at least three of the documents are in Hiss' handwriting. But Hiss has denied the slips were copied from original state department documents for transmission to Soviet agents. This denial brought Hiss' indictment on a perjury charge.

Miss Lincoln said she knew Henry Julian Wadleigh, Whittaker Chambers, who says he was a spy ring courier, named Wadleigh with Hiss as a source of state department secrets. Wadleigh has not commented on the charge.

Green Tells About Browder's Ouster

NEW YORK (AP) — The Illinois chairman of the Communist party testified yesterday about the changes in his party's line which led to the ousting of Earl Browder at the end of World War II.

Gilbert Green of Chicago, second defendant to testify in the New York trial, said he at first believed in Browder's policy of collaboration between capital and labor but that he later concluded this was wrong.

Browder, general secretary of the party in the war years, was ousted in the summer of 1945. The government maintains this coincided with a sharp swing in the party's policy toward advocacy of violent revolution.

The 11 defendants, members of the party's top body, the national committee, are charged with conspiracy to advocate overthrow of the U.S. government by force.

Green said Browder's policies were questioned by party leaders several months before he was ousted.

FRENCH STRIKE ENDS

PARIS (AP) — French civil servants started trickling back to work early today after a 24-hour "warning" strike which crippled the country's administrative life.

Iowa City Hitching Posts Were Never Like This

MOST PEOPLE can find no use for parking meters. But a Johnson county farmer did yesterday when he hitched Dobbin to one in the downtown shopping section. What does the horse think about it all? He's hoping the city fathers put the 300 meters now ordered in nice, shady spots.

Bendix Ready To End Strike

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Bendix Aviation Corp. officials said last night they were "ready to sign an agreement" previously approved by the CIO united auto workers union which would end the 57 day strike at the South Bend plant.

Gov. Henry F. Schricker, who proposed the compromise plan, and State Labor Commissioner Thomas Hutson said union and management representatives probably would meet this morning to sign the agreement.

"The company accepts the governor's proposal without qualification," Millard Stone, Bendix industrial director, said. Union negotiators earlier had agreed to abide by Schricker's suggestion for an immediate end to the strike.

The governor, however, said that neither side had "officially" accepted his peace proposal.

Absence of some union negotiators from the city, including Local No. 9 President Stanley Ladd, apparently prevented a second statehouse meeting last night to conclude the agreement. Ladd and others returned to South Bend after Tuesday night's long session which ended at 4:30 a.m.

Schricker said he did not plan to attend any meeting last night.

Household Finance Robber Captured in Indiana, Police Say

The man who held up and robbed the Household Finance Corp. here of $798.02 on May 9 has been apprehended and identified by South Bend, Ind. police, Iowa City police said yesterday.

The man was captured after he allegedly robbed an Indiana bank of $58,000. According to information from South Bend police, the man gave his name as Luther Roy, 22, Harvey, Ill.

"There's no question at all that it's the man," Police Chief Edward J. Ruppert said.

Iowa City police received a description and picture of the man by writing to the Indiana department. The picture was shown to R.W. Lund, manager of the firm robbed here, and an employee, Mrs. G.W. Englund. Both agreed he was the one who held up the office here.

In custody of the South Bend police, the man identified as Roy reportedly admitted to three finance company robberies in Indiana, and one in Illinois, in addition to the alleged Indiana bank robbery.

Police Chief Ruppert expressed some doubt that the man could be returned here for prosecution. He added the usual procedure was to waive extradition on less serious charges to allow conviction on a more serious charge elsewhere.

The man could receive a life sentence if convicted of the Indiana bank robbery, Ruppert said.

SHANGHAI BOMBED

SHANGHAI (AP) — Two Nationalist planes bombed the western outskirts of Shanghai early today. There was no immediate information on casualties or damage.

Big Four Eyes Berlin Rail Strike

PARIS — The foreign ministers council piled the question of the Berlin railway strike on top of their other complicated diplomatic maneuverings yesterday.

This apparently was the reason for cancellation of the regular day session at the request of Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky. Instead, the ministers met for little over an hour last night at the French foreign ministry, rather than at their regular conference room in the pink palace. This secret meeting, too, presumably was called at the request of Vishinsky.

A communique after the meeting said a working arrangement "relative to the situation in Germany" and the Austrian treaty were discussed. An official source said the Berlin strike was the main subject.

Authoritative sources said the question of settling the Berlin strike, which has reimposed blockade conditions on the city, was taken up with Vishinsky Tuesday night by the western ministers with great reluctance.

Striking German railway workers in Berlin offered last night to handle all rail traffic between western Germany and western Berlin in an effort to defeat Russia's semi-blockade of the city.

But western allied quarters believed there was virtually no hope that the offer would be accepted by the Russians.

Rehder said, "The 150 beds in the new addition at Currier hall will be ready and are now being assigned for next fall. At present it looks as if the new space in Currier hall will be adequate," he said, to permit closing Madison court. "However, if there is demand, Madison court will undoubtedly be used," he added.

It has not yet been determined what will happen to the Madison court barracks if that housing unit closes.

Madison Court Unit May Remain Closed

Madison court, housing unit for SUI women, has been closed for the summer and may not be opened next fall, T. M. Rehder, director of SUI dormitory and dining service, said yesterday.

The Madison court area which includes six "pair" buildings — two barracks connected together by a wash room — contains 154 beds and the unit's office space. It was constructed in 1947 and has been used by the university for two years.

The purpose of Madison court was to provide housing for women who could not be accommodated at Currier because of lack of space in that building.

Rehder said, "The 150 beds in the new addition at Currier hall will be ready and are now being assigned for next fall. At present it looks as if the new space in Currier hall will be adequate," he said, to permit closing Madison court. "However, if there is demand, Madison court will undoubtedly be used," he added.

It has not yet been determined what will happen to the Madison court barracks if that housing unit closes.

Largest Group Burial Staged at Arlington Cemetery

FIFTY-TWO CASKETS with the remains of 248 men — who died when an explosion ripped the navy ammunition ship Serpens off Guadalcanal — were draped with American flags in Arlington National cemetery in Washington yesterday. It was the largest group burial for a military cemetery in the United States. In the foreground and far background, relatives witnessed the ceremonies.

Hungarians Purge Former Party Men

No Idyll for Idle Bronx Okapis

NEW YORK (AP) — There will be no idyll of romance among the okapis at the Bronx zoo. No patter of little okapis' feet. For, to the utter sorrow of everyone concerned, the okapi brought 7,500 miles from the Belgian Congo yesterday turned out to be a male, just like the one waiting at the zoo. And they are the only okapis extant in the United States.

For the benefit of the uninformed, an okapi is much like a giraffe except it doesn't have a very long neck. It has legs striped like a zebra only it doesn't look anything like a zebra, more like a donkey. Except it doesn't have the tall ears of the donkey and has long stiff front legs — like a giraffe.

Dixie Coal Operators Oppose 'Czar' Plan

BLUEFIELD, W.VA. (UP) — Southern producers yesterday rejected proposals for a coal industry "czar" and indicated they are seeking help from congress to block such a plan.

They said they are bitterly opposed to the idea and will fight it with every weapon at hand. But they conceded they may be forced to go along if congress refuses to intervene.

If John L. Lewis and the rest of the industry agree on a "czar" they would have to sign up or face the prospect of having their mines shut down indefinitely.

Joseph E. Moody, president of the Southern Coal Producers association, met with UMW negotiators for three hours yesterday but never got a chance to outline the operators' views on a new contract.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The senate banking committee yesterday ordered an investigation, starting Monday, into reported plans for a coal industry "czar."

Sen. Robertson (D-Va.) who asked for the inquiry, said many producers fear the plan would subject them to "the same type of monopolistic control John L. Lewis exercises over his United Mine Workers."

Lewis' 500,000 hard and soft coal miners now are in the third day of a weeklong stoppage which Lewis ordered to "stabilize" the industry by cutting down the record stocks of coal above ground.

Pair Slug Jailer, Escape; Nab One

ROCKFORD, ILL. (AP) — Two prisoners escaped from the Winnebago county jail last night after slugging the jailer and a trustee, but one was recaptured within minutes, two blocks away.

Prisoners Marion Levi Barr, 30, and Vito Cascio, 22, visited the office of Jailer Hank Reichling on the fourth floor of the county courthouse where the jail is located. Cascio slugged Reichling into unconsciousness with a pillowcase filled with bars of soap.

The pair carried the jailer to a freight elevator. They slugged a trustee who attempted to aid Reichling, and descended to the second floor, Reichling regained consciousness on the elevator and he was hit again with the butt of the gun they had taken from him.

Two policemen, O.K. Monge and Stanley Podaszwa, caught Cascio two blocks away in the heart of the downtown area after he had separated from Barr. Barr carried the stolen gun.

Dedication of Pool Put Off to June 26

Iowa City's playground and recreation commission has postponed the dedication of the City park swimming pool until Sunday, June 26, Commission Chairman H. Kenneth Cline said yesterday.

The original date had been June 19, but the commission "wanted more time" to plan appropriate ceremonies, Cline said.

Other commission members who will help in arranging the program are Clifford B. Kitta and Walter F. Schmidt.

MAY FREE MINDSZENTY

VIENNA, AUSTRIA (AP) — Hungarian Communist chief Matyas Rakosi has indicated his willingness "in principle" to release Joseph Cardinal Mindszenty from prison in the near future, a Roman Catholic church source said yesterday.

The source said Rakosi explained his position by saying the cardinal "is no longer dangerous to us and his release might actually serve as a propaganda asset."

Oust as Spies Rajk, Szoenyi

BUDAPEST (AP) — The Hungarian Workers (Communist) party yesterday kicked out Laszlo Rajk, who rose from schoolteacher to foreign minister, and demanded the crushing of imperialist agents with an iron fist.

An official party bulletin said Tibor Szoenyi, another leading Hungarian Communist, was ousted from the party along with Rajk. They were called "spies of foreign imperialist powers and Trotsky agents."

The ouster announcement partly dispelled the cloud of secrecy which had hung over the Rajk case. He recently disappeared, without explanation, from his post of minister of foreign affairs.

Rajk, listed as an extreme left-wing Communist, also was secretary-general of the People's Front of Independence—the Communist-controlled coalition of political parties that rules Hungary.

The unusually strong wording of the communique left little doubt of a severe fate for the once all-powerful minister of interior. While in that post two years ago, Rajk helped write a new election law which provided no restrictions on how many times one person might vote.

As an iron-handed interior minister, with control of the police, he took a hand in the purging of the then majority Smallholders party, paving the way for Communist domination.

The communique did not say what actually had happened to Rajk and Szoenyi. It also failed to disclose what had happened to certain other less important Communists who disappeared with them.

Szoenyi was the leader of the section of the party which supervised all rank and file party members.

Rajk, although listed as a Communist of the far-left type, was not a member of Hungary's so-called "Moscow group" whose members have lived in Russia.

Anderson Is Sane State Doctors Say

Oscar Anderson, 58-year-old Iowa Citian who was committed to the criminal insane ward at the state reformatory in Anamosa last fall after allegedly attempting to murder an Iowa City man, was declared sane Tuesday by doctors at that institution, Sheriff Albert J. (Pat) Murphy said yesterday.

A charge of assault to commit murder was filed against Anderson last year after he allegedly shot Clifford Kelley, Iowa City salesman, through the chest April 22, 1948, in the Strand cafe here.

Fourteen witnesses were brought in by the defense in its successful effort to prove Anderson sane.

One of these witnesses was Dr. Andrew H. Woods, former director of the state psychopathic hospital here. Four of the other witnesses had lived with Anderson before the shooting.

After Anderson was adjudged insane by the Johnson county jury, he was committed to the Anamosa ward "until sane." Anderson will be delivered to Sheriff Murphy when the latter calls at the reformatory.

Preston Tucker Wins $15,000 Bail Reduction

CHICAGO (AP) — Preston Tucker Sr., whose attorney said he is "absolutely without funds," won a reduction in his bail yesterday while awaiting trial on a federal indictment charging mail fraud and conspiracy as president of a firm to mass produce rear-engine automobiles.

Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan ordered his bail reduced from $25,000 to $10,000 over the objections of government attorneys. Sullivan said that high bail had not been required in similar cases that he recalled.

Tucker arrived at the federal building for the hearing driving a grey Tucker automobile. His attorney, Frank McAdams, said he would have to borrow money to make the bond.

Noble Sued

SOUTH BEND, IND. (AP) — Robert D. Noble, Iowa City, who is to go on trial Monday on charges of reckless homicide, was sued for $18,000 damages yesterday by Miss Ann Lent, nee 35, of nearby Mishawaka. She alleges suffering injuries while a passenger in Noble's car Oct. 25, 1945. The other charges against Noble are in connection with the highway death of two youths on that date.

MRS. EDWARD U. CONDON . . . Going to Coplon Trial

Coplon Trial Report Barred

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal Judge Albert L. Reeves yesterday blocked an attempt to bolster Judith Coplon's spy trial defense through publication of a top-secret FBI report on Soviet intelligence in the United States.

He ruled that Defense Attorney Archibald Palmer had failed to prove the report was "competent material" in the guilt or innocence of the 26-year-old former justice department employee.

The report, now locked in a safe in the justice department's criminal division, was linked to the trial through a typewritten memorandum allegedly found in Miss Coplon's purse when she and Valentin A. Gubitechev, a Russian, were arrested in New York March 4.

Palmer had no better luck in his attempt to use the testimony of Dr. E. U. Condon, director of the national bureau of standards, his wife, Emilie, and former secretary of the interior Harold L. Ickes in Miss Coplon's behalf.

All three appeared as defense witnesses, but government objections, sustained by Judge Reeves, prevented them from answering any but routine questions.

Palmer complained to the judge that there now was no point in calling actors Frederic March, Canada Lee and other Hollywood personalities who, like the Condons and Ickes, were mentioned in secret FBI reports.

"You are right," Reeves intoned.

Boone's Two Clouts Spark Tribe Victory

BOSTON (AP)—Three runs driven home by Rookie Ray Boone's first two major league homers provided the victory margin for the world champion Cleveland Indians yesterday as they vanquished the Boston Red Sox, 8-5, for their fourth consecutive victory.

Boone currently is playing shortstop in place of Manager Lou Boudreau. Boudreau as he did Tuesday night against the Sox, played first base yesterday until taking himself out of the game after batting in the seventh.

Yankees Vanquish Chisox Again, 9-4

NEW YORK (AP)—Maintaining their hot home streak, the league leading New York Yankees clubbed out a 9-4 victory over the Chicago White Sox yesterday. A Ladies day crowd of 16,459 saw the Yanks hang up their second straight victory over the Sox and their 17th triumph in 20 contests at the stadium.

Catcher Yogi Berra, ran his consecutive hitting streak to 17 games with a three-run homer in the fifth inning. The three-run clout featured a four-run burst which gave the Yanks a 6-0 lead. Despite the big lead, Allei Reynolds failed to go all the way although he was credited with his seventh victory against one defeat.

Nippy Jones Leads Attack

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Nippy Jones was a one-man army last night as he smashed a home run, two singles and a double-batting in six runs — to lead the St. Louis Cardinals to a 9-5 triumph over the Brooklyn Dodgers. It stopped the Brooklyn winning streak at eight games.

Behind Jones were a single, double and triple by Marty Marion and the effective five-hit relief pitching of Jerry Staley who took the decision from the Dodger Reliever Paul Minner.

The Redbirds took an early lead against Ralph Branca, putting across three runs in the first inning on two singles, two walks and Peeewe Reese's error.

The 32,131 fans represented a record attendance this year.

The victory pulled the Redbirds back within two games of the league-leading Dodgers and sent them one game ahead of third place Boston Braves.

Cubs Obtain Sauer, Baumholtz in Swap

CHICAGO (AP)—In the biggest player deal since the start of the 1949 season, the Chicago Cubs last night traded veteran Outfielders Peanut Lowrey and Harry Walker to the Cincinnati Reds for Outfielders Hank Sauer and Frankie Baumholtz.

Officials of the Cubs said it was a straight player deal with no cash involved.

None of the four have enjoyed particularly fruitful seasons at bat this season. In the latest official National league averages Walker was batting .281; Lowrey .277; Sauer, .243, and Baumholtz, .246.

The trades were accomplished shortly before the deadline at midnight last night when major league player transactions were frozen. They were the first changes under the new management of Frank Frisch. The Cubs, in the cellar of the National league, apparently were in the midst of a reorganization, after having lost three straight games Tuesday and yesterday to the Philadelphia Phillies.

Test Taken in Waitkus Shooting

HAVING A PARAFFINE TEST TAKEN in connection with the shooting of Eddie Waitkus, Phil's first baseman, is (left) a girl identified by police as Ruth Ann Steinagen. The test, for gunpowder traces, was taken yesterday at a North Side police station in Chicago. Detective James Johnson applied the paraffine. Police Capt. John T. Warren said the girl had orally admitted shooting Waitkus.

Eddie Waitkus Much Improved; Girl Assailant Signs Confession

CHICAGO (UP)—Eddie Waitkus, star first baseman of the Philadelphia Phillies, rallied in a fight for life yesterday after he was shot by a love-crazed girl fan who said she "wanted the thrill of murdering him."

Waitkus, taken to Illinois Masonic hospital with a bullet near his heart, worsened for a time while oxygen and blood transfusions were administered and an operation to remove the bullet was delayed.

Then, hospital attendants said, he rallied after they had been "afraid we would lose him." Dr. George Holmes, a chest surgeon, said he examined Waitkus and he was "much improved" and prospects for recovery were "better all the time."

While the popular, 29-year-old ball player fought for his life his assailant, Ruth Steinagen, 19, signed a statement admitting she shot the star Tuesday night because she was "infatuated" with him.

She told an amazing story of frustrated love for a man she had never met, but had watched worshipfully from the stands while he played ball. She said she had planned to kill him for two years to put "some excitement" in her life and so no one else could have him.

She was charged with assault with intent to murder and was scheduled for a hearing in felony court today.

A girl friend, Helen Farazis, 18, told police that the girl some years ago had had similar crushes on Harry (Peanuts) Lowrey, Chicago Cubs outfielder, and movie star Alan Ladd.

The Little Hawks garnered only five hits off two Ft. Madison pitchers but five errors by the Bloodhound infield were costly.

In a preliminary game the Fort Madison reserves beat City High, 4 to 3.

The Little Hawks' next game will be Monday night at Cedar Rapids against McKinley high.

Joost's 14th Homer Beats Bengals, 2-1; Fowler Hurls Win

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Eddie Joost's 14th home run of the season was the margin of victory as Dick Fowler recorded his fourth straight pitching victory in hurling Philadelphia to a 2-1 victory over Detroit last night.

Joost's winning smash came off Southpaw Ted Gray's first pitch in the fifth inning. Philadelphia's other run resulted from two walks and Outfielder Don White's single in the third frame.

Detroit's lone marker off Fowler was Vic Wertz's seventh round tripper of the season in the eighth frame.

Braves Give Masi For Bucs' Sauer

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The Boston Braves last night sold veteran Catcher Phil Masi to the Pittsburgh Pirates for newly-acquired Rookie Outfielder Ed Sauer and an undisclosed sum of cash.

Masi has been with the Braves for 10 years. He is currently hitting a weak .210.

Sauer, who was purchased from the St. Louis Cardinals by the Pirates earlier yesterday, is a six-foot-right-handed hitter and thrower who batted .305 for Los Angeles in the Pacific Coast league last season and drove in 121 runs. He is the younger brother of Hank Sauer, the Cincinnati Red slugger who was traded to the Chicago Cubs last night.

Pacific Coast Cracks Down on Purity Code

PORTLAND ORE. (AP)—The Pacific Coast conference cracked down on illegal recruiting, subsidizing and proselyting of athletes yesterday by slapping a total of $21,105 in fines on its 10 member schools.

Every school was adjudged guilty of some infraction of the west coast's strict "purity code." The extent of the violations of the recruitment provision was shown by the fact that eight of the 10 schools were cited.

Phils Rap Cubs Twice, 4-1, 3-0

CHICAGO (AP)—The Philadelphia Phillies, shocked by the shooting of Eddie Waitkus, nevertheless carried on yesterday to sweep a double bill from Chicago Cubs, 4-1 and 3-0.

Dick Sisler replaced Waitkus yesterday and collected three of the eight hits off Bob Rush and Emil Kush in the opener. In the nightcap he went hitless.

Ken Heintzelman held the Cubs to five hits in the curtain raiser for his seventh victory. In the second tilt, Hank Borowy also tossed a five-hitter, though he needed a ninth-inning lift from Robin Roberts when Hank Edwards rapped a double for his third hit and Andy Parko singled.

The Phillies collected 11 hits off Johnny Schmitz and Kush in the second game. They got four of them in the first inning and mixed them with an error by Schmitz for two runs. Del Ennis drove in one with a double and Andy Seminick then singled Ennis home.

Five Hundred Hawkeye Yearbooks Unclaimed

Five hundred 1949 Hawkeyes have not been picked up by SUI students who purchased them. Hal Sorenson, Hawkeye business manager, said yesterday.

The yearbooks may be obtained at the Daily Iowan business office any weekday from eight a.m. to five p.m. According to SUI year book contracts the books must be picked up within 30 days after the June 4 distribution date, Sorenson said.

REYNOLDS MOVED

James Reynolds, 4-year-old Clear Lake polio patient at University hospitals, has been transferred to the "inactive ward," hospital officials said yesterday. He was admitted June 5.

Wreckers Raze Historic University Building

New students on the SUI campus this summer have about three weeks to view the dust-shrouded remains of old North hall, now being razed by the American Lumber and Wrecking company.

A campus landmark, the building is located between University hall and Macbride hall.

Wrecking operations will be completed "in about three weeks unless weather holds us up," Art E. Meedel, head of the Des Moines branch of the wrecking company, said yesterday.

Meedel reported the work must be done by July 10, when the crew will move to another job. He said work on the two-story brick building is about half completed.

The first building constructed specifically for the university, North hall's cornerstone was laid July 4, 1865. It was originally constructed as a chapel, but in its 80 years of service North hall has served as headquarters for nearly all the academic departments at one time or another. The 1867 commencement exercises were held there.

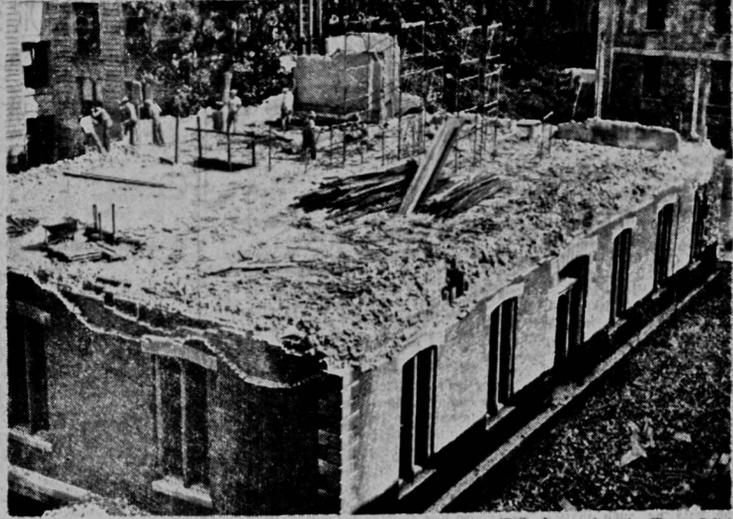

Lightning nearly destroyed the building in 1897 when it was serving as the first university library.

The second floor was completely destroyed by fire, and one fireman lost his life fighting the blaze which destroyed many rare and costly volumes in the second floor library.

One of the first groups to hold meetings in North hall was the Baconian club, still active on campus. Professors in the early days were forced to take turns tending the wood stoves while reading their research papers at the meetings.

Used for classrooms until 1942, the building was condemned and has been used for storage since.

George Horner, university architect, is preserving some of its stones for use in future campus building so that the spirit of old North hall will continue as part of the campus.

JUST ONE FLOOR MORE THAN A MEMORY is old North hall, now in the latter stages of being wrecked. Located between University hall and Macbride hall, the historic campus landmark will be completely razed in about three weeks.

Federal Education Post for Lindquist

Prof. E.F. Lindquist of the SUI college of education will serve as a member of a federal board of consultants on teaching and testing methods. He was asked by the office of the secretary of defense to accept the position.

The committee, one of several civilian committees on various phases of education appointed by the office of defense, will recommend an educational program for the armed services.

Lindquist will work in conjunction with the service academy board, which includes Prof. Charles H. McCloy of the SUI physical education department.

The board recommends teaching methods for the three services. Aim of the recommended program is to train men qualified to meet the needs of the regular armed forces.

Bond Sales Reach $555,350 in County

Johnson county reached the three-quarters mark in the Opportunity Bond drive, Chairman Ben S. Summerwill and Frank D. Williams said yesterday.

Sales of series E, F and G bonds have reached $555,350, or 75.76 percent of the $733,042 quota.

Story county with 112.10 percent, and Taylor county, with 108.06, pushed ahead of Sioux county's 108.03 percent. Sioux topped its quota two weeks ago and held the lead last week. Plymouth county is in fourth place with 101.35 percent.

The original covered wagon used to publicize the drive is now visiting the north eastern section of Iowa. Today and tomorrow it will appear in Dubuque.

Try and Stop Me
By BENNETT CERF

IN HIS early barnstorming days, Joe E. Lewis stopped once at a boarding house whose proprietress could make a pound of food go further than any other landlady in history. She produced a platter of cold cuts one Sunday that were actually transparent.

"Did you cut these?" asked Lewis politely, indicating the slices. "I did," said the landlady. "Okay," said Lewis. "Then I'll deal."

Harold Ross, the editor of the New Yorker Magazine, was born in a hamlet called Aspen, Colo. (It's developing into a winter sports center today—but that was long after Ross hit the rods for San Francisco.) Somebody asked Ross what they did for excitement in the good old days. "Saturday night was tops," answered Ross. "The boys would get all het up. When they reached the boiling point, they'd all go down to the barber shop and watch a few haircuts."

Interpreting the News —

Arms for Europe An Issue

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

The closing weeks of the present congress may be churched by the first really first-class row on major foreign policy since the cold war began warming up two years ago. The issue is arms for Europe.

What actually happens will depend on decisions Secretary of State Acheson must make immediately after he returns here from Paris. The stage, meanwhile, is being set by Undersecretary of State Webb, Chairman Connally (D-Tex.) of the senate foreign relations committee and others.

Two weeks ago Acheson sent word from the Paris foreign ministers meeting that action on the north Atlantic pact and arms aid should be speeded to strengthen his hand in dealing with Russia. Webb promptly conferred with Connally and other senate leaders; but he failed to get the treaty debate scheduled ahead of action on the labor bill.

Then at Little Rock, Ark., Saturday President Truman, after praising a foreign relations committee report okaying the treaty, asked also for enactment of arms aid. Yesterday, however, Senator Connally said that while he expects the treaty to go through he does not look for arms bill action this session.

There, as of the moment, the matter stands. The next move, officials here believe, is up to Acheson. Aides expect him home again soon and say that this is one of the most important situations he will have to deal with.

Congressional leaders see the problem partly in terms of a piled up back-log of legislation; Acheson looks at it, from a diplomat's view point, as foreign policy. Some congressional critics raise the question, "Can we afford that particular piece of foreign policy now?" State department officials reverse the emphasis: "Can we afford not to buy it?"

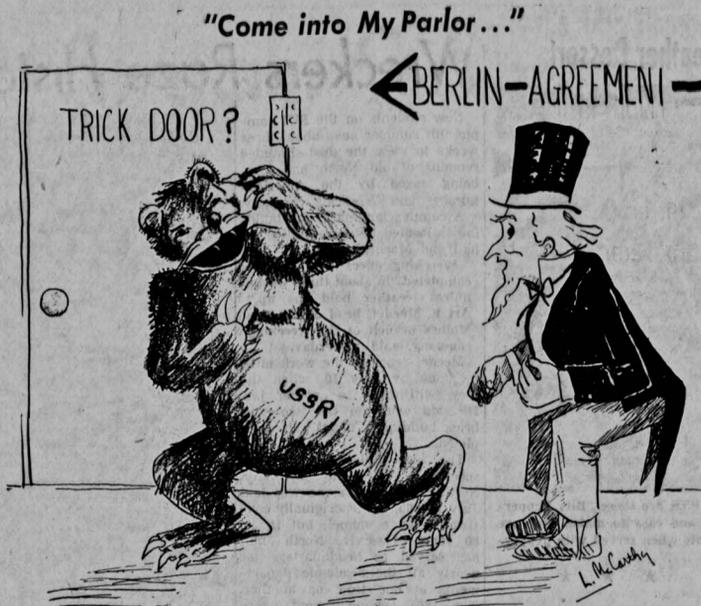

The arms program has been developed in about the same manner President Truman's administration has employed in the past on such matters — the administration's line is laid down and congress is asked to approve.

This method grew out of bipartisan work between the Roosevelt administration and congress of the United Nations. It evolved through the period of war-end economic aid to Britain, France and other nations, and the early friendlier period of relations with Russia.

When the cold war began to warm up the administration presented congress with the Greek-Turkish aid program to bolster the western power position in the Mediterranean. That was voted — after an argument. The Marshall plan followed the same pattern, and so did senate and house resolutions calling, in effect, for formation of the north Atlantic treaty.

All these pieces of foreign policy legislation have had one thing in common. The government has gone out on a limb, more or less committing itself to a course of policy, long before it was sure that congress would approve.

The Atlantic treaty modified this process somewhat. Senate and house had adopted resolutions favoring the alliance idea before any negotiating was done with other governments.

Acheson's Return May Speed, But — Arms-for-Europe Waits Paris Breakdown

WASHINGTON (P) — Senator Connally (D-Tex.) has said a breakdown in the foreign ministers conference at Paris could speed action on the administration's $1,130-million arms-for-Europe program.

Democratic leaders have set aside the rearmament plan at least until the north Atlantic treaty has been ratified by the senate. One senator said privately that President Truman is in "complete agreement" with that schedule.

Mr. Truman was said to be in no rush to send the arms program to congress ahead of treaty ratification and action on important domestic legislation. The treaty must be approved by a two-thirds vote of the senate to become binding.

But Connally, who is chairman of the foreign relations committee, said failure of the American-British-Russian-French meeting at Paris could change the entire situation. The underlying purpose of the meeting is to find a way for Russia and the other powers to get along together for the benefit of Europe and world peace.

"If Secretary of State Acheson should return and recommend quick action," Connally told a reporter, "it might bring the arms plan up sooner."

The committee's report urging ratification of the treaty made it clear that a vote for the treaty will not bind any senator to vote for the arms plan.

Senator Lucas of Illinois, the Democratic leader, turned away questions about when the arms program will be submitted or when some senate action on it may be possible.

Connally told reporters that "with or without the treaty" the President has the power to send the armed forces to strategic points "in anticipation of an armed attack."

As commander-in-chief of the armed forces, Connally said, the President may station combat forces throughout the United States and "at our bases wherever they might be."

The Texan argued the treaty neither adds to nor subtracts from the constitutional powers of the President or congress.

Senator Vandenberg of Michigan, Republican leader in foreign affairs, said the committee's report was "very conclusive."

"I think it should clarify any questions which do not really arise out of total opposition to the whole idea," he added.

No one will say precisely when the treaty will be called up for debate, all indications are it will be toward the latter part of the session, unless international events create pressure for faster action.

Count on Corn Borer Eggs High in County

Corn borer egg masses in Johnson county fields have counted as high as 160 masses to 100 plants and young borers have already hatched in taller corn fields, Emmett C. Gardner, said yesterday.

A demonstration on corn borer control will be held Friday at 9 a.m. on the Francis Glaspey farm, one-half mile north of Hills on Highway 218, Gardner, Johnson county extension director, said.

I'D RATHER BE RIGHT Sanctity Starts Wearing Thin

By SAMUEL GRAFTON (New York Post Syndicate)

Shall we unbalance our budget to help balance the budgets of these other countries? asked one senator.

Yes, said Mr. Hoffman firmly, if we have to, to win the peace — and the question and answer highlight the enormous psychological burden of carrying the Marshall plan in a time of declining business.

Suppose we have to reduce our imports from Marshall plan countries during a depression, went another question, shall we send them some more money to make up for that? No, said Mr. Hoffman, we'd all have to sweat it out together.

But this question, too, throws light on the unusual basic quality of the Marshall plan, considered as a diplomatic "line" — it is unique in that it represents the only occasion in history in which a great power has deliberately adopted an economic diplomacy in trying to reduce its own competitive advantages.

We have embarked on this for what we consider good and sufficient long-range political reasons, but it remains a hard line to carry in even moderately hard times.

WE HAVE stayed with the Marshall plan so far, because of our fear of Russia, etc. But with even a slight settling down of our production figures, another mood begins to come forward, a mood of heightened concern, or psychological normalcy, or whatever you want to call it.

And, as a matter of fact, there are elements of fantasy in the Marshall plan, as it has evolved. There isn't a nation in Europe covered by it which isn't trying to reduce its imports and increase its exports — something which we know, from our own experience, cannot be indefinitely done.

The postwar western world is a congress of would-be autarchies, kept going by the one near-autarchy, the United States, which has learned that autarchy isn't so very practical.

I HAVE supported the Marshall plan from the beginning, as a humanitarian device, without necessarily believing it would accomplish all that was promised for it. It has seemed to me a decent means and I will accept a decent means even when the projected ends seem a little blurred.

But now, with the first stages over, it is necessary to re-think the problem, and I feel the state department should do so before the senate, perhaps, makes an abrupt cut in Marshall plan funds going beyond the house's more-or-less nominal reductions.

AND THE WAY forward, it seems to me, is for us immediately to undertake, as a major diplomatic line, the revival of trade between western and eastern Europe. That was the original Marshall plan conception.

It remains the only approach that can squeeze the fantasy out of the plan. It would ease us of the burden of being quite so spectacularly self-denying, and it would set up valid trade goals for western Europe. It might lead toward the solution of other east-west problems.

And it has the merit of being a better answer, not merely a cheaper answer, which a mere cut in Marshall plan appropriations would be.

Torpedoed Tucker; Suspicions Are Raised —

The $26-million saga of the Tucker Torpedo is at an end. Preston Tucker and his firm are in bankruptcy and disgrace; his dealers and security holders are out in the cold.

Yet the full story of the Tucker financial fiasco may never be known although much of it is due to be aired in a federal trial. In a forthcoming issue of Collier's, Lester Veie does a convincing job of picturing Preston Tucker as a scoundrel and a fool who, in complete and lavish insincerity, squandered away the millions entrusted to him.

Part of the Collier's indictment: The hand-made Tucker which made its world premiere two years ago was a patched-up cross between a 1942 Oldsmobile and a tin can.

The corporation paid Preston Tucker's bills for a private plane, a $44,000 yacht and a six-month spree in Chicago's Drake hotel. It also put his son-in-law — fresh out of college — on the payroll at $10,000 a year.

Dealers in the U.S. and 39 foreign countries paid from $1,000 to $40,000 apiece for the dealership rights on Tuckers. An estimated 50,000 persons bought $17-million in Tucker stocks. And when finances got short, Tucker raised another $2.3-million by selling accessories to persons willing to get priority on the waiting lists for the new cars.

Obviously, there is something very, very wrong in the story of the ill-fated Tucker corporation. It may well be that Tucker advertised as accomplished facts engineering feats still 15 years away. It may be that his payroll was salted with slippery promoters and relatives.

One wonders, however, if this tale of trickery isn't a bit too simple, too one-sided.

The author of the Collier's article writes of an interview with Preston Tucker: "Tucker fished in his pockets and drew out a letter from an ex-Wac. To it was pinned a $5 bill. Contributions like these, Tucker explained, poured in daily 'to use as I see fit in my fight for American enterprise'."

That in a nutshell is the part of the Tucker story the public also wants to know about. Even if the fantastic facts about Tucker's own operations are proved correct, the many people who backed Tucker just to see him "crack" the auto industry have a right to know just to what extent the auto industry caused his fall.

To many persons, the Tucker story is not just one of an isolated corporation. To many, his firm is either the proof or the denial that we still had "free enterprise" in large parts of our economy.

Even if Tucker's failure was due to internal mistakes, many will cast a suspicious eye at the auto industry and attribute Tucker's trouble to unfair, behind-the-scenes competition.

In searching out the truth in the case, the federal court should consider this aspect of it. Suspicions here may be entirely without foundation. But the suspicions have been raised.

Roosevelt Rides Again —

When Franklin Roosevelt was guiding the fortunes of this nation there, probably were some persons who claimed that something was "as American as the Roosevelt family."

It seems unlikely that the Roosevelt smile ever reached the stature of the one about Paddy's Irish pig but there is a similarity if you feel like reaching for it.

Anyway, there is a little commotion afoot now about one of Roosevelt's children — Franklin Jr. The former chief executive's son spent his first full day in congress yesterday as a representative of New York.

There is some speculation on whether young Roosevelt has any ambitions to follow in his father's footsteps that lead to the White House. This in turn has caused speculation on whether his place of birth disqualifies him from the presidency.

Franklin Jr. was born August 17, 1914 at the Roosevelt summer home on Campobelle Island, just beyond the boundary of Maine. Is a child born beyond the continental limits of the United States a United States citizen? Apparently, he is — or at least Roosevelt is. Members of the house of representatives raised no such question yesterday so he is considered a citizen by birth in that body's eyes.

The constitution may be interpreted a bit differently, though. Article Two of the constitution says in part:

"No person except a natural born citizen or a citizen of the United States at the time of the adoption of this constitution, shall be eligible to the office of the president . . ."

The question of a "natural born citizen" has never been answered by judicial decision.

Under federal statutes, children born of American parents resident in foreign countries are presumed to be American citizens. However, to retain their citizenship they must, before their eighteenth birthday, record their intention of becoming a citizen of the U.S. Protection of children of our diplomatic officials in foreign countries was behind that stipulation.

Roosevelt's acceptance by the house clears up the question of his birth for the present. He can now join with other presidents' sons who have served in congress — John Adams, W.H. Harrison, Martin Van Buren, John Tyler and Robert Taft.

It looks as if the way is clear for him to run for president if he wants.

Sheriff Protests He's Powerless

BIRMINGHAM (P) — A mob wearing odds and ends of Ku Klux-type robes kidnapped a foundryman Tuesday night and flogged his back raw in the third act of terrorism here within a week, authorities reported yesterday.

Sheriff Holt McDowell complained he is powerless to prevent such attacks despite a directive from state Public Safety Director Bankhead Bates to "take necessary action" to deal with hooded bands.

McDowell said the laws provide only for intervention in case of actual violence. He challenged Bates to produce a law where authorities could disperse or arrest Klansmen and other bands for appearing on the streets in sheets, whether or not bent on violence.

McDowell did not believe the Ku Klux Klan was responsible for the abduction and beating of B.G. Stovall, third victim in the current series of outrages. Last Friday, a 42-year-old grandmother said she was slugged by a mob and a cafe operator said he was threatened by a cross-burning band.

Stovall reported that some of his abductors did not wear masks and others had on only rags of the typical white Klan sheeting, McDowell said.

Iowa Mountaineers Will Climb Pacific Peaks This Summer

The Iowa Mountaineers will climb the snow-capped peaks of the Pacific Northwest on their 10th annual summer outing leaving Iowa City Aug. 13 and returning Sept. 5.

A large number of the participants will be students who recently completed the university course "Outing and Mountaineering," the first course of this type to be offered by any American university.

John Ebert, director of the Mountaineer's outing, said special training will be offered to those interested in developing their skill in glacier and ice mountaineering. The 5,000 mile journey will be made in special trucks and students, but is open to all healthy men and women.

Several vacancies exist at present due to emergency cancellations. Ebert invited interested persons to inquire for information by calling 7418 or writing to: Director, Summer Outings, P.O. Box 163, Iowa City.

V.A. Won't Pay For Hobby Courses

If you are a veteran signed up for what may be considered a "hobby course," you should consult your veterans service office, William D. Coder, director of veterans service, said yesterday. You may have to pay for the course yourself.

The Veterans administration refuses to pay for courses such as music and art, sports and games, museum techniques and photography unless the courses are desirable and functional for the veteran's major.

For instance, a course in photography is permissible if the major is in journalism. But golf is not considered necessary to a commerce major.

Coder said he would obtain names of students in the "hobby courses" and would remove unqualified names before submitting bills for payment.

Forty-Five Begin — Tots' Summer School

Dad isn't the only one who started summer school yesterday. Children of university personnel and veterans began their eight week play school session.

Playful prattle of tots aged two to five years enliven University hospitals barracks 67 from 8:30 till 11:30 on week-day mornings. Children from three and one-half to five years meet on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. Those from two to three and one-half years are meeting for the first time today and will continue their meetings on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays.

M. Kulhavy Files $891 Judgment Suit

Milo Kulhavy, Johnson county farmer, filed a $891 judgment suit yesterday in Johnson district court against F. E. Rugger, veterinarian.

Kulhavy charged that Rugger had vaccinated 28 of his brood sows with improper vaccine on March 1, 1949, and as a result three of the sows and 41 of the little pigs farrowed died of hog cholera.

Kulhavy asks for $870 for the loss of the sows and little pigs and $21 in repayment of the veterinarian's bill.

Edward L. O'Connor is attorney for the plaintiff.

Mrs. T.C. McCarthy, 105 S. Clinton street, supervises the school, assisted by Mrs. Don Carney, 822 Rundell street, and two mothers.

According to Mrs. McCarthy, over 20 are registered in the older group and more than 25 in the younger group.

The organization is cooperative. Each mother helps approximately once every three weeks, and all the work in keeping up the school is done by the parents. The tuition for the summer period is $11, which includes the cost of refreshments.

Each morning the children are checked by a nurse, Mrs. Otto Kraushaar, 117 Central park. The remainder of their schedule includes stories, music and records, a mid-morning snack of juice and crackers, a rest period, art and craft work, and outdoor play.

The barracks was offered by the university and has been occupied by the school since last November.

SUI Students to Take Part In Marengo Atom Experiment

A "selected group" of SUI students enrolled in a college of education course will participate, starting Tuesday, in an experiment to determine the most effective methods of instructing laymen in atomic energy, Prof. Hew Roberts, director of the program said yesterday.

The experiments here will be a re-staging of the "Marengo Experiment," a series of seven atomic science lectures for laymen which were delivered by SUI professors at Marengo last fall.

Purpose of the re-presentation, Roberts said, will be to further evaluate the original experiment techniques by an audience drawn from a higher formal educational level.

The lectures, which will be general and open to the public, are scheduled for seven successive Tuesdays at 8 p.m. in the chemistry auditorium.

"We are especially interested at this particular time in what the academic people think of our program," Roberts said. An attempt to get the reaction of an urban-industrial society to the program will be made in Davenport next fall.

The lectures will begin with fundamentals in physics and chemistry, working through nuclear physics to the principles involved in the actual release of atomic power.

They will be delivered by Prof. George Glockler, head of the SUI chemistry and chemical engineering department; Joseph Routh, biochemistry; and Prof. Arthur Roberts, director of nuclear physics research.

Results of the three programs — Marengo, Iowa City and Davenport — will be included in the state board of instruction atomic energy committee's curricula to be published next year. At that time, courses will be offered on all educational levels.

In the original Marengo experiment, tested on a rural group of 450 adult students, typewritten notes on what could be learned from lectures were distributed before each talk. The Marengo experiment is now being used throughout the country as a basis for teacher-training in atomic energy education.

Legislature Grants Iowa City $1,679.64 In Children's Tuition

The Iowa City public school district received $1,679.64 from the state for 1948-49 and 1947-48 tuition of children living in tax-free university housing areas, School Superintendent Iver A. Opstad said at Tuesday night's school board meeting.

The payment, made possible in one of the last acts passed by the state legislature this spring, reimbursed the Iowa City school district up to the legal tuition limit for every pupil from the SUI housing areas.

While the legislation did not provide for the current school year, Opstad said the city school system would continue to enroll children from the university's villages and parks.

At the same meeting, parents in the Longfellow school district presented a statement offering suggestions to relieve crowded school room conditions.

They felt that "39 or 40 pupils" in a room was a hardship on both teacher and student. They proposed that the school board divide the Longfellow school gymnasium to provide another classroom, rent a Quonset hut or hold three kindergarten sessions at successive periods to free one room for second graders.

Opstad, reviewing the problem of dividing classes during the past school year, believed difficulties would arise from the suggested changes.

Members agreed, however, that

Londoner Feels Guilty — Steak 'Rare Treat' for Visitor

Steak dinners are "a rare treat" for W. J. Robinson, London, England, one of the 400 hydraulic engineers who attended SUI's fourth hydraulic conference this week.

Robinson, of the department of scientific and industrial research in London, said "It is quite a novel experience to have a large plate of meat before me. Really, I feel quite guilty."

Under present rationing English families get meat for one meal each week, Robinson said. Rations are smaller than ever and the situation is critical, he added.

"I have a pretty liberal income, but I can buy only a limited amount of food," the engineer said.

Robinson said he believes the temporary controls now enforced by the government will have to remain.

The present government is tackling a very difficult job, Robinson said, but he declined to comment on the morale of the people.

"I think England's socialized medicine system is a good scheme," he said, adding that the standard of health there is quite good now, although not as high as in the United States.

Robinson has been in this country about five weeks touring industrial firms, universities and government laboratories.

The SUI hydraulics laboratory "is a very fine institution, I should think one of the finest of its kind," he said.

City Boys Describe Life at Boys State

Hawkeye Boys State was government in action complete with city, county, state and even "dirty" politics, six Iowa City boys agreed yesterday.

Local youths who attended were Jerry Holland, Charles Rocca, Bob Ballantyne, Bill Fenton, Ed Duncan, and LeRoy Ebert.

They described their experiences of the weekly camp sponsored by the American Legion before the local Lions club yesterday noon.

Hydraulics Meeting Termed Successful

Hydraulic engineers termed SUI's fourth world-wide hydraulics conference "very successful" yesterday at the close of the final session of the three-day conference.

Over 400 engineers from throughout the United States and about 15 foreign countries attended sessions at the University theater and discussed chapters of a new reference book, "Engineering Hydraulics" for revision before publication.

Leading engineers in the field of hydraulics wrote the 13 chapters upon invitation of the Iowa Institute of Hydraulic Research, SUI engineering professors wrote four of the chapters.

Josyula Vesveswara Rao, of the public works department, Madras, India, said, "I think it will be a wonderful book, much better than all the books of its kind written so far."

Prof. F.W. Edwards, SUI alumnus now of the Illinois institute of technology, said this is the first time that a book of this type has had such wide discussion among engineering experts.
