Independence Day Death Toll Reaches New High in Nation

(By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS) More persons died violently in the nation during the three-day Fourth of July weekend than in any other Independence Day celebration period in the country's history.

The final tabulation in a state-by-state survey showed 711 died between 6 p.m. local time Friday and midnight Monday. Of these, 315 were traffic deaths, 256 were drownings and 140 were from miscellaneous causes.

The National Safety Council, in a statement in Chicago, called the record toll "shameful and disgraceful." It said "a showoff attitude" was responsible for the high traffic and drowning totals. The previous record of 628 Independence Day fatalities was set during the three days in 1941.

Three persons died in Iowa from traffic accidents and seven from drowning.

Five amateur sailors still were missing on Long Island Sound yesterday, more than 24 hours after a vicious squall caused at least seven drownings.

Coast Guard sea and air searchers crisscrossed a now placid 40-mile stretch of water around the western end of Long Island from Jamaica Bay to Huntington, N. Y. Winds up to 70 miles an hour—gale force—whipped the sound to a fury of angry waves and hissing spray late Monday. An estimated 300 small craft overturned or were swamped.

Tokyo Rose Trial Begins, But Death Penalty Not Sought

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The treason trial of Mrs. Iva Toguri D'Aquino—Tokyo Rose—opened in federal court yesterday. The prosecution said it would not seek the death penalty.

Tom de Wolfe of Washington, D.C., a special government prosecutor, made that reply to a reporter's question. Opposing counsel moved with remarkable speed in agreeing on a jury. Then court recessed until today, when the government will present its opening statement.

The court, after hearing arguments, permitted Frederick Tillman, FBI man who did much investigating on the case in Japan, to remain in the courtroom. Defense wanted him excluded. The court also permitted an interpreter-investigator for the defense, Teisjio Nakamura, to remain. The government did not object.

Six women and six men were picked to hear the case of Mrs. Iva Toguri D'Aquino, 33, charged with eight acts of treason in broadcasting to allied troops in the Pacific war. Two women were selected as alternates.

The Los Angeles-born defendant sat almost motionless through the first day of the trial. She was pale and serious.

The government contends that, as Tokyo Rose, she hoped to demoralize and discourage allied military men, and to "impair the capacity of the United States to wage war against its enemies."

Coal Talks Delayed By UMW, Owners

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Resumption of coal contract talks with a segment of the bituminous industry was moved back from July 12 to July 19 yesterday as soft coal production climbed toward normal at the end of the miners' nation-wide vacation.

Ezra Van Horn, spokesman for northern and western operators, said the delay was jointly agreed upon by operators and the United Mine Workers "to canvass mutual problems which are expected to come up." He did not elaborate further.

Almost all the nation's 480,000 hard and soft coal diggers returned to work yesterday on a new three-day-a-week basis. For the first time in recent UMW history, they were working without a contract.

Vinson Proposes Compromise Unification Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—Chairman Carl Vinson of the house armed services committee, disclosed yesterday he has drafted a compromise unification bill to give more power to the secretary of defense but to "make sure we never have a military dictatorship."

The Georgia Democrat said he will put his proposal before the committee today. He hopes it will be approved for house action by late this week.

A series of 14 amendments drafted by Vinson would modify sharply the unification bill already passed by the senate. Among other changes, Vinson

Lone Tree Council Resolves to Petition For Rent Decontrol

The Lone Tree town council last night resolved to petition Iowa's Governor William S. Beardsley by the end of the week for immediate rent decontrol in their community.

Mayor Steve Hamilton said he and the council believe their action is the first to be taken in the state by a local government.

Passage of the resolution came after the council scheduled a public hearing for last night where citizens opposing the proposed action could present their views. No one appeared to oppose, and the resolution passed with four votes. One member of the five-man council was absent.

Councilmen said they believed rent decontrol in Lone Tree was wise because they had found no shortage of rental housing there, decontrol would not adversely affect rental housing rates and more rental construction would be started if controls were lifted.

Mayor Hamilton said he wondered if Lone Tree would become the test case to determine if Governor Beardsley had the legal power to order rents decontrolled in any area.

The question was first raised after the legislature failed to authorize the governor to lift controls on demand from local governments in accordance with the rent control bill passed by the 81st congress early this year.

Hershey to Direct Iowa Flood Council

State Geologist H. Garland Hershey, 329 Beldon street, was elected permanent chairman of the Iowa Natural Resources council and L.C. Crawford, 1023 Kirkwood court, was named a member of the council at its first official meeting in Des Moines yesterday.

Hershey is also director of the Iowa Geologic survey, and Crawford is associate director of the Iowa institute of hydraulic research at SUI and district engineer of the United States geologic survey.

The council, which will handle Iowa's flood control problem, was created by the 1949 Iowa legislature. It had held several preliminary meetings, but because the legislature set July 4 as its date of legal existence, no election of permanent officers was held until yesterday.

One of the first projects of the council will be a survey of the Iowa water table level and a study of the number of dams needed in the state for proper flood control.

U.S. Steel, Union To Resume Talks

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Negotiations resume today between U.S. Steel corporation and the CIO united steelworkers on union demands for higher wages, improved insurance benefits and a pension plan.

The talks began June 15 and recessed after six days of meetings to give the company an opportunity to study the union's demands.

would provide for a civilian chairman of the joint chiefs of staff rather than a top ranking military man as proposed in the senate bill.

Under the Vinson amendment the job would go to the undersecretary of defense, the post now held by Stephen T. Early. The undersecretary would be re-titled "deputy secretary."

Another major change would exempt the military establishment from provisions of a general bill that allows President Truman to reorganize government agencies almost at will.

Auto Wrecked in Collision with Bus

ALMOST TOTALLY WRECKED IN A CAR-BUS CRASH yesterday, this automobile came to stop near the Melody Mill night club after it collided with a Greyhound bus on Highway 6. Linda Ann Buzzele, 5-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Buzzele of Los Angeles, who were riding in the car, was seriously hurt. She and her father were admitted to University hospitals and Mrs. Buzzele was treated for lacerations. Catherine Ellen Buzzele, 14-month-old daughter of the California couple, was uninjured. Bus Driver John Ellis of Des Moines said the car was approaching him from the west when it swerved off the highway and apparently went out of control, careening to his side of the road and crashing into the bus.

Four Injured, One Seriously, In Automobile-Bus Smash-Up

Thousands Throng Park to Celebrate Independence Day

An estimated 10,000 persons jammed City park Monday for the community Fourth of July celebration sponsored by the local junior chamber of commerce, according to Wayne E. Putnam, president of the organization.

About 8,000 spectators were on hand for the big fireworks display in the evening. Putnam said the fireworks emphasized stationary displays and low altitude bursts mixed with high-flying rockets and aerial explosions.

In addition to the fireworks there were concessions, rides, a horse show in the afternoon, and the crowning of the Johnson county dairy queen to keep the perspiration-soaked celebrants interested.

The climax of the three-day celebration came Monday but several thousand persons came to the park Saturday and Sunday for other events of the celebration. The new municipal swimming pool reported a total attendance of 4,571 persons for the three days. The high was reached Sunday when 1,898 persons tried to beat the heat with a dip in the pool.

Separatist Priests Granted Protection

PRAGUE (AP)—Prime Minister Antonin Zapotocky said yesterday the Roman Catholic hierarchy will not be allowed to discipline pro-government priests in Czechoslovakia's current struggle between church and state.

He did not refer to recent rioting by Slovak Catholic peasants, up in arms to defend priests loyal to the Rev. Josef Beran, Czechoslovakia primate, against possible arrest.

But he pledged government protection to priests who have joined a separatist Catholic action organization sponsored by the government against excommunication or suspension.

Hanging Scheduled Today for Slayer

FORT MADISON (AP)—Corliss R. Bruntlett, Council Bluffs farmer scheduled to hang on his 52nd birthday today, at 6 a.m. waved goodbye yesterday to other prison inmates and asked to see the gallows on which he will die.

Father H.V. Bongers, Catholic chaplain at the Iowa state prison, said Bruntlett still hopes for a last-minute reprieve. The chaplain said he asks everybody who visits him if a reprieve has been granted.

Bruntlett was convicted of the slaying Dec. 8, 1947, of Percy Smith, Council Bluffs cattle buyer. In a written confession, Bruntlett said he forced Smith at gunpoint to write a $9,800 check, and then shot him through the head with a .22 caliber rifle.

Four persons were injured, one seriously, in a head-on automobile-bus crash about a half mile west of Iowa City on highway 6 at 1:45 p.m. yesterday.

Admitted to University hospitals were Leslie Buzzele, 32, Los Angeles, and his daughter, Linda Ann, 5. Hospitals officials said the girl's condition was serious and the father's satisfactory.

Buzzele's wife, Thelma, and Mrs. Bell Hayes, Salem, Ill., a passenger in the bus, were treated for lacerations but were not admitted, hospital officials said. Four other bus passengers were examined and released.

Fourteen-month-old Catherine Ellen Buzzele, a rider in the car, was uninjured.

Greyhound Bus Driver John Ellis, Des Moines, said he was heading west out of Iowa City when the "California car" coming toward him slipped off the pavement about 100 yards ahead. The car, he said, seemed to go out of control; it careened across the road and crashed into the bus.

The front of the bus was slightly damaged when it swerved south across the highway into the ditch, crashing into a telephone pole and fence. The car, driven by Mrs. Buzzele, was almost demolished. It came to rest in the parking lot of the Melody Mill night club.

Bob Smith, owner of an ice cream bar near the scene, said he heard the crash and after seeing the badly damaged car and the bus, called the police.

Smith then aided in removing the injured from the automobile. He said the 5-year-old girl was "all cut up, and had a bad gash on her forehead."

"The father," he said, "was knocked out, but the baby seemed to be uninjured."

Ellis reported to police that none of the 11 persons riding in his bus was badly hurt, but just shaken up. Another bus, Ellis said, was sent from Des Moines to take the passengers on to their destinations.

SUI Enrollment 141 Below Last Year's

Final registration figures show that both total and veteran registration for the summer session is below last summer's enrollment, Registrar Ted McCarrel said yesterday.

The total enrollment dropped from 5,003 to 4,862, a decrease of only 141 students, while the veteran enrollment dropped from 3,014 to 2,559, 455 less than last summer.

On the other hand, the graduate school has an enrollment of 2,407 students, which is an increase of 389 over last summer's enrollment of 2,018. Veterans in graduate school have increased from 1,041 last summer to 1,285 this summer, an increase of 244.

Liberal arts enrollment dropped from 1,643 last summer to 1,410 this summer. With the exception of graduate and nursing, all schools in the university have dropped in summer enrollment.

The nursing school has increased from 202 last summer to 231 this summer. There are no veterans in the nursing school.

Same Story, Different Ending

DANVILLE, ILL. (AP)—Here's a mother-in-law story that doesn't conform to the jokester's pattern: Carroll Anderson of Fisher and his mother-in-law, Mrs. Minnie Rohloff, 60, of Chicago, were boating on Lake Vermillion Monday night.

Mrs. Rohloff fell out of the boat. Instead of yawning and rowing away, according to pattern, Anderson jumped into the lake and pulled her out. A rescue squad revived her.

Rayburn Ridicules Idea U. S. Depression-Bound

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congressional leaders leaving a conference with President Truman yesterday ridiculed any idea the nation is heading into a depression.

They discussed the general economic picture and government finances. Mr. Truman is preparing a mid-year economic report to congress. Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex) was asked if he thought the country is in either a depression or recession.

"When you've got over 58-million people employed in industry and 30-million farmers with money to pay for whatever they need, I'll be damned if I see how you can call it a recession," Rayburn replied.

"If it is," interjected Senate Democratic Leader Scott Lucas of Illinois, "it's the most prosperous one we've ever experienced."

The White House said Mr. Truman's special economic message may go to the house and senate late this week or early next week. It probably will carry recommendations for dealing with the declining price and employment situation.

Rayburn said the President talked government finances with his congressional lieutenants. The treasury has just announced a $1.8-billion deficit for the annual period ended July 1. This was three times the $600-million Mr. Truman had anticipated.

"How about the possibility of new taxes?" Rayburn was asked.

"That's got to be determined yet," the house leader said. Rayburn didn't make it clear whether he meant the President is reconsidering his plea for $4-billion additional taxes a year, or whether the matter is still up in the air in congress.

Engel's Spell Fails To Raise His Bail

CHICAGO (AP)—Judge George M. Fisher cut Sigmund Engel's bail by $20,000 yesterday but the aged swindler who claims to have fleeced marriage-minded women out of $2,000,000 still couldn't raise the money to get out of jail.

Engel's lawyer succeeded in getting bond reduced from $50,000 to $30,000.

Engel, 73, who is held on a charge of fleeing Mrs. Reseda Corrigan, 39, out of $8,700 after promising to marry her, appeared in court but said nothing.

Lilienthal to Relate AEC's 'Progress'

WASHINGTON (AP)—David E. Lilienthal will go before congressional investigators today ready to assert the record of his atomic energy commission has been one of "striking progress" instead of "incredible mismanagement."

He will testify at a public hearing of the joint congressional atomic energy committee. For more than a month, the committee has heard Sen. Bourke Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) present facts, figures and witnesses in an attempt to back up his charge that Lilienthal mismanaged the atomic program. Now it is Lilienthal's turn to reply.

Informed sources said the commission chairman is prepared to present a "positive" accounting of accomplishments under the commission's stewardship rather than a "defense" against Hickenlooper's allegations.

First witness after Lilienthal's own opening statement will be Dr. Robert F. Bacher, one of the five original members of the atomic commission. He resigned last May 10 and is now chairman of the physics department at California Institute of Technology.

Advisers Suggest Money Value Cut

WASHINGTON (AP)—Without mentioning dollar-short Britain, President Truman's advisers on foreign finance suggested yesterday "some" European countries might well cut the value of their money.

The theory behind the suggestion is this: when a foreign country cheapens its currency in terms of dollars, a dollar will buy more of the foreign currency and hence more of the goods produced by the foreign country.

Senators Lead Drive to Ratify Atlantic Pact

Byrd Predicts Eight or Less Will Fight Pact

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Tom Connally (D-Texas) yesterday urged speedy senate approval of the north Atlantic treaty as a warning to would-be conquerors that 300-million people will fight aggression.

In solemn tones, opening senate debate on the treaty, Connally told his colleagues Russia's domination of eastern Europe is "a constant threat to world peace."

He said the proposed 12-nation pact is "a flaming sign to any aggressor: 'Do not enter the north Atlantic area.'"

Sen. Arthur Vandenberg (R-Mich.), ranking senate GOP leader in foreign affairs, is scheduled to make a plea for ratification of the treaty today.

Connally predicted the debate will last only a few days. "Opposition is getting weaker," he said.

Sen. Harry Byrd (D-Va.), an opponent of the arms-for-Europe program which the Truman administration is seeking to back up the Atlantic treaty, said he expects that not more than six or eight senators will vote against the treaty.

"We cannot tolerate the grabbing off of weak or defenseless nations closer and closer to the United States," Connally said. "Aggressors and conquerors must keep their distance. They must not extend their mailed hands into this territory."

"If the Soviet Union really believes the pact is aimed at her, then I suggest that she demonstrate her peaceful intentions and embrace a policy of full cooperation with the north Atlantic countries within the framework of the United Nations."

Citing the danger of "indirect aggression," the Texas Senator tolled off the list of nations which he said have fallen under the shadow of Moscow—Estonia, Latvia, Lithuania, Czechoslovakia, Romania, Hungary, Poland, Yugoslavia and Albania.

"Let us be perfectly frank. Such a situation which breeds fear and suspicion and distrust is a constant threat to world peace."

The treaty has already been signed by the United States, Canada and 10 European nations but to become binding on this country it must be ratified by a two-thirds senate vote. Less than a dozen senators are expected to oppose it.

He said it will not automatically commit the United States to fight in the event an ally is attacked, as some critics have contended.

Dom DiMaggio Leads Sox Past Yanks

Homer, Triple Spark Sox, 4-2

NEW YORK (AP) — Dom DiMaggio stole a page from his older brother Joe's book last night, slamming a home run and triple, and making a spectacular catch of Phil Rizzuto's extra-base bid, to lead the Boston Red Sox to a 4-2 victory over the New York Yankees.

A crowd of 60,252 saw the 20-year-old Maurice McDermott hold the Yankees to four hits as the Sox broke an eight-game losing streak.

The Yankee lead over the idle second place Philadelphia Athletics was cut to four games.

Tommy O'Brien's first home run broke a 2-2 tie in the seventh, while Dom DiMaggio's homer clinched it in the eighth.

The Sox pounded Ed Lopat and Frank Shea for 14 hits and left 14 men stranded on the bases.

Onrushing Indians Maul Three Detroit Pitchers for 8-1 Win

DETROIT (AP) — The onrushing Cleveland Indians mauled three Detroit Tiger pitchers for 14 hits and an 8-1 decision last night to sweep their three-game series. Left-hander Frank Papias scattered seven Detroit hits for his first victory of the season.

The third place Indians picked up a full game on the New York Yankees whose American league lead over second place Philadelphia was cut to four games as the A's were idle yesterday. The Indians are now six games behind the New Yorkers, who lost to Boston last night.

It was Papias' second start of the season and the Indians got him off to a flying start as they climbed all over Tiger Starting Pitcher Marv Grissom for three runs and four hits in the opening inning.

They drove Grissom to the showers in the second stanza as they pushed over another run on a walk and two singles before Marlin Stuart came in and got the side out.

The Tigers got their only run in the third inning as Johnny Lipon walked and raced home on a double by George Kell. Kell, with two doubles and single, was the only Detroit to have much luck against Papias' stuff.

The Indians made it a 6-1 game in the fifth as Joe Gordon hit a two-run homer, his 13th of the season.

Stuart was lifted for a pinch-hitter in the fifth and Paul Trout finished up for the Tigers.

Browns Put Coach on Active List as Pitcher

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis Browns took a coach — Ralph Winegarner — and placed him on the active list as a pitcher yesterday.

A club spokesman said the decision to use Winegarner as a pitcher came after he turned in an effective job in an exhibition game last month.

Winegarner, 39, started his professional baseball career in 1930 as an infielder and outfielder. He later turned to pitching and won eight games against six losses with the Cleveland Indians during the 1934, 1935 and 1936 seasons.

THE RUN THAT WOULD HAVE TIED the game in the 10th inning was cut off at the home plate yesterday when Cardinal Catcher Joe Garagiola took Stan Musial's throw from right field and tagged Cub Shortstop Roy Smalley. Smalley attempted to score from second on Pinch-Hitter Bob Ramazzotti's single. The out ended the game with St. Louis winning the third game of the series, 2-1. The umpire was George Barr.

Cardinals Edge Cubs, 2-1, in 10 As Tying Run Caught at Home

CHICAGO (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals captured the rubber tilt of their three-game series with the Chicago Cubs here yesterday when they won a 10-inning battle, 2-1, before a ladies day crowd of 26,802.

Al Schoendienst singled with one out in the tenth, took third on another single by Marty Marion, and tallied while Stan Musial forced Marion. But Musial still had to make a great play to preserve the victory.

Roy Smalley singled in the Cub half, Mickey Owen sacrificed and Bob Ramazzotti lined a pinch single to right that sent Smalley galloping home. However, Musial's perfect throw nailed him on a close play.

Catcher Joe Garagiola was knocked out for a couple of minutes by Smalley's hard slide.

Howie Pollet, who relieved Harry Brecheen in the seventh, earned the victory for his tenth of the season. Bob Rush, who allowed seven hits in going the route for the Cubs, lost his tenth against six wins.

Brecheen yielded only one run and one hit in his six innings and was touched for four more safeties. The lone run of Brecheen was unearned due to his own error. Hank Sauer singled in the fifth and Brecheen threw wild to second on Hank Edwards' sacrifice. Sauer took third on the wild heave and counted on Owen's long fly.

Charles-Lesnevich in Title Fight Aug. 10

NEW YORK (AP) — Ezzard Charles made good on his promise to be a fighting champion yesterday by agreeing to defend his newly-won NBA heavyweight title against Gus Lesnevich, former world light heavyweight king, in a 15-rounder at Yankee stadium, Wednesday, Aug. 10.

No heavyweight champ in boxing history ever risked his crown so soon after winning it. Only 49 days will have elapsed since Ezzy whipped Jersey Joe Walcott at Chicago's Comiskey park June 22 before he makes his first defense.

The bout, announced by Harry Markson of the International Boxing club of New York, will be staged by a branch of the same corporation which ran the Walcott-Charles bout in Chicago. Joe Louis, Arthur Wirtz and James Norris join the Madison Square Garden setup in the promotion.

DiMarco, Kay to Join All-Star Grid Team

Tackle Bill Kay and Quarterback Al DiMarco, former Hawkeye football stars, have been added to the all-star team that will meet the Philadelphia Eagles in Chicago, Aug. 12.

Both players were invited to the all-star team some time ago, although official announcement of team membership was not made by all-star officials until yesterday.

Browns Defeat White Sox, 9-5

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A single by Paul Lehner in the seventh inning with the bases loaded resulted in four runs when Catcher Joe Tipton missed the throw from the outfield and then threw wild—and the St. Louis Browns went on to take a 9-5 victory from the Chicago White Sox last night.

Both clubs scored three times in the fourth frame. The White Sox picked up a run in the fifth and another in the seventh for a two-run lead, but Bill Wright lost control of the Browns after that.

Johnny Sullivan, Whitey Platt and Bob Dillinger each singled to load the bases in the Brownie seventh. Lehner hit the ball to right field and when Dave Philley threw to the plate trying to head off one of the runners the ball got away from Tipton and three men were safe at the plate. Then Tipton threw into left field trying to catch Lehner who was racing to ward third. Lehner went on home.

Two walks and a double by Sherman Lollar against Relief Hurler Matt Surkont cinched the Browns victory before a slim crowd of 1,955.

102 Degrees and Last Place Can't Stop Cub Fans

The people of Chicago get pretty disgusted at their Cubs' position in the National league race, but contrary to the attitude of most cities with a last place ball club, the fans in the Windy City continue to support their team—last place or not, 102 degrees or not.

We found this out over the weekend, watching the Cubs look like last place, against seventh place Pittsburgh on Sunday and the same way against St. Louis on Monday—for one game. Definitely not in the second game, however, when Lefty Bob Chipman set the Redbirds down on five very small hits.

Sunday nearly 20,000 persons showed up to see their favorites and on Monday almost 40,000 came out to Wrigley field for the holiday doubleheader with St. Louis. And WHEN one of the Cub pitchers came up with a well pitched ball game you almost wonder why Frankie Frisch's boys are looking up to seven National league clubs, standingwise, anyway.

Hank Sauer has quickly become a great favorite of the fans, with his big bat providing the come on. Since the big fellow came from Cincinnati he has crashed eight home runs in three weeks. As soon as he comes to the plate in batting practice until his last time at bat in the game the faithful call for Hank to blast one out of the park. . . . Enemy pitchers have found he follows the whims of his followers very closely.

When Mickey Owen, newly-acquired Cub catcher, and Max Lanier, newly-retained Cardinal pitcher, faced each other in the first inning of the first game Monday it was Mickey's first turn at bat in a National league game in three years and Max's first turn on the hill for the Cards for three years.

Both fell for Jorge Pasquel's Mexican league gold in 1946, found it wasn't so golden after all and have been reinstated to the majors. . . . Owen bounced out, shortstop to first in his first turn at bat, while Lanier found the going pretty rough along the third inning and was removed in favor of another ex-Mexican leaguer, Fred Martin.

Martin had better luck, hurling only a couple of innings and receiving credit for the win. . . . The Cubs sent Rube Novotny to Los Angeles to make room for Owen. . . . The stands buzzed with questions when an unnumbered Cub took his turn in batting practice and poked the offering of the practice pitcher completely out of the park. He stuck around shortstop when he wasn't batting, causing some fans to start feeling sorry for Roy Smalley, Cubs' shortstop who finds difficulty in doing the appointed task with the warblur, at least to any greater extent than a .220 batting average.

A bleacher fan, probably about 10 years old, got the fright and the thrill of his lifetime during batting practice. Seems he couldn't resist trying for a baseball to take home, so he scampered down the vines in center field and snatched a souvenir, only to look up and see Bob Muncief, Cub relief pitcher, charging toward him.

It was no use running, Muncief was upon him in no time. Back Muncief marched, villain and baseball in hand. When he got back to the wall he put the ball in the youngster's hands and boosted him back up the ivy-covered wall and into his seat in the bleachers.

Quotes of the day: In the seventh inning of the first game against St. Louis, Owen sent a long drive toward center field. Chuck Diering raced back and gloved the ball on the run, making a nice save. Said a very critical Cub fan, "That's OK Mickey, you'll have to get used to that, this is the Cubs you're playing for now. They just don't fall for hits on this ball club." After the Cards had scored six runs in the fifth inning the same fan left his seat and announced to all around him, "I'm going out for a beer, if I don't come back it's because I'm watching the massacre over television, I can't stand seeing it so close."

Barbara Wolf Weds Vernon Naggatz

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Naggatz

Four Couples Marry Weekend of Fourth

Barbara Jean Wolf, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry S. Wolf, 1205 Pickard drive, became the bride of Vernon Naggatz at a double-ring ceremony in the First Methodist church at 4 p.m. Sunday.

Mr. Naggatz is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Naggatz, Hastings, Neb.

The Rev. I. R. Beery, Alliance, Ohio, grandfather of the bride, performed the ceremony before an altar decorated with baskets of white gladioli and ferns.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of marquisette styled with a yoke edged in Chantilly lace and leg-o-mutton sleeves. Her full length train and veil of imported illusion were edged in matching lace. She carried white gladioli with a center corsage of white roses.

Mrs. Arleigh E. Cox, 1027 Kenkus street, was her sister's matron of honor. She wore a pale yellow marquisette gown fashioned after the bride's and carried yellow flowers.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Norman Pollack, Ames, and Letha Meller, Marshalltown. They wore identical gowns of blue and pink net.

Harold P. Mills, Kearney, Neb., was best man and ushers were Arleigh Cox, Iowa City, and James F. Histerworth, Hastings.

A reception was held in the church parlors for the couple after the ceremony.

Both are graduates of Hastings high school and Mrs. Naggatz is associated with the art department of the Economy Advertising company. Mr. Naggatz works in the office of Moore-Iowa Business Forms, Inc.

The couple will live at 1004 Woodlawn drive.

Boyd, Strawn

Marriage rites were solemnized Saturday morning for Adina Boyd, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Julian Boyd, 607 N. Templin road, and Loren D. Strawn Jr. in St. Thomas More chapel.

The bride is a graduate of University high school and attended SUI for 2 1/2 years. Mr. Strawn, the son of Mr. and Mrs. L.D. Strawn Sr., Oelwein, is a senior at the university.

The Rev. J. Ryan Beiser officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Maid of honor was Mary Healy, Farley, and Delbert Strawn, Oelwein, was his brother's best man. Robert Wilson, Iowa City, was the usher.

A reception was held at the Iowa union after the ceremony. The couple will live in Oelwein for the summer and return to Iowa City next semester.

Parker, Moore

Marilyn Parker and Hazen Moore were married Monday at 9 a.m. in St. Thomas More chapel by the Rev. Leonard J. Brugman.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Viva Parker, Belmond and will graduate from the SUI school of nursing in August. Mr. Moore, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Moore, 1826 G street, received his degree from the university in June.

L.P. Gilligan gave his niece in marriage. She wore a floor length gown of ivory skinner's satin styled with a fitted bodice, yoke and sleeves of illusion lace and a full length train. Her fingertip veil fell from a tiara and she carried an orchid surrounded by white gladioli.

College Grads Replace 'Shy Maiden' Librarian

By DICK DONAHUE

The musty and gloomy library tended by a shy maiden aunt is fast becoming a thing of the past, according to Joyce Niensstedt, director of the Iowa City public library.

The maiden aunt is being replaced by a college graduate with a degree in library science, she said.

Miss Niensstedt reported that libraries today are dressing up with brightly painted walls and comfortably equipped reading rooms. They're a fine place to relax and read, she added.

She pointed out that library science is not a career restricted to women but is also entered by many men.

"Contrary to popular belief, librarians have many kinds of work to offer," she said. "If you like to work with people, there are jobs for you. If you'd rather do a technical job such as cataloging, you can be 'behind scenes' all day."

She said a library school graduate can get $2,700 or more in a first job and an able worker can advance rapidly.

Librarianship is a rapidly expanding profession, Miss Niensstedt said. While the number of doctors and lawyers per 100,000 population has been shrinking, the number of librarians has jumped from 6 per 100,000 population in 1900 to 29 in 1940, a rise of over 380 percent.

The trend is continuing, she added, because many more librarians are needed. There are still no public library facilities for 35,000,000 Americans.

It is unfortunate, Miss Niensstedt said, that none of the 25 accredited library schools are in Iowa.

"I am a graduate of the library school at the University of Wisconsin," she said, "and for that reason am usually able to get trained help from there." Other Iowa librarians may not be so lucky in this respect, Miss Niensstedt added.

"It's an open profession," she declared, "and more young men and women should look into it."

Woman, 25, Admitted To Active Polio Ward

Mrs. Mary Roland, 25, Ottumwa, was admitted to the "active" polio ward yesterday according to hospital officials. Her condition was described as "fair" yesterday. She was admitted for diagnosis Friday.

The admission of Mrs. Roland brings the number of polio patients at the hospitals listed as "active" to two.

Hospital officials said Rose Schultz, 37, Mason City, and Ronald Leiss, 22 months, Fort Dodge, were transferred to the inactive list Monday.

SUI Co-eds Clocked On Daily Walk

The average woman student attending SUI walks three and eight-tenths miles per day between classes. And junior and senior women do more necessary walking than sophomores and freshmen. These facts were revealed in a study made here by Dorothy Copony for her masters thesis. Dr. Roland Rooks, associate professor of hygiene and preventive medicine, assisted with the study.

By means of a pedometer the basic walking load of SUI women was measured as they went to and from classes. An attempt was made to exclude measurement of walking during leisure time activity, Miss Copony said.

The average amount of necessary walking was determined on 100 subjects. Each woman wore the pedometer for one week. Eighty-three percent of the women in the study were housed in the same dormitory and represented a variety of fields of study.

One of the women followed a study schedule which required her to walk eight and four-tenths miles per day, Miss Copony said.

The average junior and senior women exceeded four miles of necessary walking per day. There was a marked difference, however, in the individual walking loads due to differences in class schedules.

Boy Scout Leader To be Feted Here

Scouting friends and parents can make reservations until noon today for a reception and dinner honoring Scout Executive and Mrs. Martin L. Hunter at 6:30 tonight, Boy Scout officials said yesterday.

Hunter will be officially installed as scout executive of the Iowa River Valley council by O. A. Kitterman, regional executive of the eighth district, Kansas City. The event will be in the River room, Iowa Union.

Following the installation ceremony, Council President Harold Vestermark will welcome Hunter, officials said.

Other out-of-town guests will include Earl K. Behrend, deputy regional executive of the eighth district, and executives and presidents from the Southern Iowa council, Ottumwa; Waubea K council, Cedar Rapids; Waupsipin council, Waterloo, and Mesquaque council, Clinton.

Summer Wear

AWNING STRIPES are being featured in this summer's fashion parade for beach, country and city wear. Here the designer uses the stripes on the horizontal for the bodice and in deep V's for the skirt of a spun rayon dress with softly-tailored look.

Roads in Housing Area to be Fixed

All roads in SUI married student housing areas will be reconditioned starting today, J. Robert Cotter, manager of SUI married student housing, said yesterday.

Roads in poor condition will be resurfaced with asphalt and stone chips and those in fair condition will be cleaned and patched, Cotter said. A similar program was carried out last year.

Cotter said that the time needed to complete the maintenance work will depend upon the weather and the cooperation of residents in moving their cars from the area.

Each unit will be notified the day before work is to start in that area, allowing persons with cars ample time to move them, Cotter said.

Prof. Stewart Leaves For Physics Meeting

Prof. G. W. Stewart of the SUI physics department will leave tomorrow for Cambridge, Mass., where he will attend a special conference on scientific methods Saturday and Sunday.

The conference is sponsored by James B. Conant, president of Harvard University.

Bridge Completion Expected In Ten Days, Officials Say

Jensen Construction company officials yesterday estimated 10 working days would be required to complete the Benton street bridge.

Completion date of the project depends upon the available supply of ready-mixed concrete used for sidewalk construction on the approaches, they said.

Other phases of the construction program awaiting completion are abutments at the east end of the bridge, parking area on the east approach, landscaping and lighting.

Workers yesterday removed wooden forms from the abutments at the west end of the bridge. A bronze plaque set in one of the abutments tells the history of the bridge. It reads:

"The Iowa river was first crossed near this site by the Ralston creek ferry 1839-40. Then it was bridged upstream in 1853 to better serve Old Capitol at Iowa avenue. Then came the railroad and Ryerson's mill, just upstream on the west bank.

"This site was then bridged with light steel truss spans and timber approaches in 1902-03 to serve the mill, and the first bridge was known as the Ryerson bridge until the old mill burned.

"It later became known as the Benton street bridge from its location. The present bridge replaced the old one in 1949 at a cost of $278,000."

County Fees Reach $5,500 in 3 Months

Nearly $5,500 in fees was received by the Johnson county clerk's office during April, May and June, County Clerk R. Nelson Miller said yesterday.

The largest single portion of the $5,495.90 total was $3,200 collected in fines and bond forfeitures. This part will go into the school fund, Miller said.

Fees collected by probating wills added $1,151.75 and district court fees amounted to $483.75. Transcripts, marriage licenses and copies of papers and records added $438.50, and court reporters' fees and miscellaneous items accounted for the rest, Miller said.

Four Deaths Reported At University Hospitals

Four deaths were reported at University hospitals over the holiday weekend by hospital officials yesterday.

Mary Peterson, 66, Fort Madison, died at 2:15 p.m. Monday. She was admitted to the hospitals Friday.

Herman Robins, 50, Osceola, and Mrs. Nellie Minick, 75, Mechanicsville, died Sunday at 1:15 p.m. and 11:15 a.m., respectively. Robins was admitted to the hospitals June 22 and Mrs. Minick was admitted Friday.

Michael Robinson, 68-year-old Albia resident, died at 8:25 a.m. Saturday. He was admitted June 28.

Bingo Game Raided, Priest Gets Hearing

ROCKFORD, ILL. (AP) A hearing for a Roman Catholic priest and three parishioners charged with running a bingo game in a church basement was continued indefinitely yesterday.

Justice of the Peace Elmer Johnson granted a continuance and set no date for a further hearing.

The Rev. Raymond Patrick Gordon and the parishioners were arrested last week in a raid on St. Bridget's Catholic church in suburban Loves park. All four had been released, Gordon on his own recognizance and the parishioners on bond.

The raid was ordered by Mayor Frank S. Larson after a declaration of "open war" on gambling "in and out of churches." The mayor said he ordered the raid to prevent a "double standard" of gambling.

Officers found 50 persons playing bingo in the basement, but Gordon denied they were violating gambling laws. He said donations were being taken for establishing a parochial school.

County Bond Sale Goes Over Quota

Johnson county topped its Opportunity drive quota last week as bond sales reached a $786,572 total, County Chairmen Ben S. Sumnerwill and Frank D. Williams said yesterday.

The new total brings the county to 107.3 percent of its quota. Twelve counties attained their goals during the past week, bringing to 35 the number over the 100 percent mark.

Sloux county maintains the lead, with more than 144 percent of its quota. Johnson county is now in 23rd place.

In the eighth of 11 reports to be made to the office of the state director, the state now stands at 94.3 percent of its $50-million with E, F and G sales totaling $47,098,762.

Fewer Fishing, Hunting Licenses Sold in June

Sale of resident fishing and hunting licenses in Johnson county during June dropped to less than two-thirds of the May total, County Recorder R.L. Jones said yesterday.

A total of $210 worth of fishing licenses were sold during the month, and $400 worth of combination hunting and fishing licenses were sold, Jones said. The $610 total is $380 less than the $990 total during May, Jones said.

"WBZE Calling South Africa . . . Australia"

WBZE SIGNS OFF THE AIR for the evening. The amateur radio station, owned and operated by Prof. Lothrop Smith of the chemistry department, is located in the garage of his home at 224 Fairview avenue. Smith isn't the only WBZE announcer for his wife and eight-year-old son are also amateur radio fans.

Spree on Air Lengths —

Professor and Family Operate Radio Station

By WENDELL WOODARD

Most garages have cars, bicycles and sometimes dogs inside, but the garage at 224 Fairview avenue shelters none of these things.

Instead, the interior is filled with all the mysterious gear found in amateur radio shacks from Hoboken to Hong Kong. Prof. Lothrop Smith of the SUI chemistry department, his wife and their 8-year-old son, Carver, are all amateur radio fans.

Smith has held an amateur radio operator's license for over 20 years and can remember the first time he listened to voice broadcasts from station KDKA in Pittsburgh.

Mrs. Smith does not hold a license, but she has operated the radio extensively. Carver has a special radio project of his own. Friendly competition goes on between Smith and his wife to see who can work the longest distance with another radio amateur.

Mrs. Smith held the family distance record throughout the war years by virtue of a successful conversation with an amateur radio operator in Buenos Aires, Argentina, a distance of about 5,600 miles.

In 1948 Smith took the lead when he conversed with a radio amateur located 8,000 miles away in the Union of South Africa and he clinched his hold on the title when he talked to a radio operator near Sydney, Australia, over a distance of about 9,500 miles.

His wife accused him of using all kinds of "souped-up" equipment to wrest the championship from her.

Carver has his own private radio set beneath one of his father's tables. He uses his equipment to broadcast police, aircraft, fire calls and whatever else takes the fancy of boys at play.

"He's a great help to me when I'm working," Smith said. Carver helps his dad whenever an extra pair of hands are needed around the radio shack.

The chemistry professor operates station WBZE when he has time to spare during the week, although he said he follows no set routine.

"I'm more interested now in the experimental side of amateur radio, particularly the directional antenna," Smith said. He built the 45-foot directional antenna located in the backyard and is proud of the fact that it withstood a recent windstorm.

Work on the antenna sometimes requires the aid of several of the neighbors, Smith said, adding that so far they have cooperated good naturedly.

Smith is also a member of a local amateur radio group which could function as an emergency communications network if a disaster should occur.

Census of Iowa City Business Two-Thirds Over, Bureau Says

Iowa City's business census is about two-thirds completed and will be finished in about two weeks, Robert Cosgriff, A4, Tipton, census interviewer, said yesterday.

The survey, conducted by the bureau of census under the United States department of commerce, began here June 15 under Director Gale McClean, Wilton Junction. It covers retail sales, services and all wholesale establishments.

"Work has been fairly smooth here — no one has refused to give information," Cosgriff said. He has been the only interviewer here since McClean and the third interviewer, Mrs. Bernice Huntzinger, 524 Wylie, Corvairville left June 22. Mrs. Huntzinger is now conducting survey in Washington county, Cosgriff said.

After the Iowa City census, Cosgriff will survey other Johnson county communities. That will take about three or four weeks. "Then I'll move to Iowa county," he said.

All information is confidential and used only by the department of commerce, McClean said.

Workshop Session On Guidance Opens

Approximately 40 teachers, guidance directors, counselors and deans of men and women met here yesterday for the opening session of a workshop on guidance and counseling.

Sponsored by the college of education, the department of psychology and the student counseling office, the workshop will continue through July 16.

The workshop will emphasize the "how" of administration in the fields of student personnel work.

The staff of the workshop will consist of Profs. John E. McAdam and L.A. Van Dyke of the college of education, Edward J. Shoben and Dewey B. Stuit of the department of psychology, and Prof. C. d'A. Gerken and Dr. Raymond J. Schlicher of the student counseling office.

Other members of the cooperating departments will participate in discussions and act as consultants in their special fields.

Movie Writer Turns G-Man

Hollywood Fad for Realism Uncovers Criminals As Scenarist Studies Underworld Life

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—A movie writer is making such a realistic picture he uncovers criminals the cops haven't gotten around to.

Yesterday Irwin Gielgud bought stolen goods from a fence. Last month he tracked down a doctor running a black market in babies. Next month he starts a story on Los Angeles' Bunco King who runs 13 rackets and hasn't been caught.

This Junior G-Man activity is part of a Hollywood fad for finding out how life really is. Writers are leaving their desks to study life in the underworld, and they may get to the rest of us eventually.

A movie writer noting the truth about crime has a head start on a cop.

"People would rather talk to me," Gielgud said. "They know I'm not going to arrest them or use their names."

"I think I could catch a murderer," he added thoughtfully. "I'll try that next."

When Gielgud gets stuck on a story, he goes out and lives it. "I couldn't work out a scene in the county jail," he said, "So I

Johnson County Gets 1950 License Plates

It's still a little early for Johnson county car-owners to stand in line for their 1950 license plates, but the plates will be ready when it is time, County Treasurer Lumir Jansa said yesterday.

The 12,500 new plates were unloaded in Johnson county courthouse yesterday, Jansa said. The plates, packed in 250 boxes of 50, were made by inmates of the Iowa men's reformatory at Anamosa and delivered by the Iowa department of public safety.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF
"ONE of the most memorable experiences of my career," a famous war correspondent told his friend, "took place on my way to fill a lecture date in Buffalo. I met a beautiful girl in the diner. One thing led to another and it wasn't long before I was being entertained in her compartment."

"Suddenly she burst into tears. 'My husband is the most wonderful man in the world,' she sobbed, 'and look at me here kissing an absolute stranger.' She painted this husband in such glowing colors that the first thing you know, I was crying, too!"
"A delicious picture," remarked the friend. "What happened next?"
"Nothing new," said the correspondent. "We just kissed and cried all the way to Buffalo."

In Miami Beach, Moss Hart concluded a happy fortnight at the Lord Tarleton Hotel, and asked for his bill. He took one look, paled and murmured stily, "The Lord giveth and the Lord Tarleton taketh away."

1949 Dairy Queen Crowned

Helen Wolfe Named Dairy Queen

Helen Arlene Wolfe, North Liberty, was crowned Johnson County Dairy Queen for 1949 at the Fourth of July celebration in City park, Monday. She will represent the county in a district dairy queen contest in the near future, James Swaner, co-chairman of the contest, said yesterday.

Miss Wolfe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Wolfe, was graduated from City high school in 1948. She has been active in musical organizations and 4-H clubs for nine years.

During the past year she attended Bethany Lutheran College in Mañkato, Minn., where she was a member of the student council and of the Bethany choir. As dairy queen Miss Wolfe received a $100 savings bond from the sponsors, the Johnson county dairymen. The district contest winner will compete in the national dairy queen contest at the Dairy Cattle Congress in Waterloo next September.

Date and place of the district contest will be announced at a later date, Swaner said.

Two Students Told Marriage Terms in Boston Heresy Case

BOSTON (AP)—Two young students engaged in a running doctrinal dispute with Catholic authorities were told yesterday on what terms the church would consent to marry them. A spokesman for the Catholic pair quickly branded the conditions "unacceptable."

The exchange — involving Miss Doris Coulombe, 22, of Cambridge, and Thomas Sennott, 26, of Arlington, was the latest development in what has come to be known as the Boston college heresy case.

Monsignor Walter J. Furlong, chancellor of the Boston archdiocese, said he "would be glad to talk" with Miss Coulombe and Sennott "under certain conditions — but the conditions will not be made public."

A friend of Miss Coulombe and Sennott, speaking for the engaged couple, said Monsignor Furlong's condition was that both publicly renounce St. Benedict's center, a Cambridge school in which both are students.

St. Benedict's, which has 55 Catholic lay students, is operated by the Rev. Leonard J. Feeney, noted Jesuit author, poet and lecturer who was deprived of priestly functions by Archbishop Richard J. Cushing in mid-April for disobedience. The archbishop accompanied his order with another denying Catholics the sacraments if they attended the center.

James R. Walsh, an instructor at the center, which has continued to operate despite the archbishop's ban, said in behalf of Miss Coulombe and Sennott that public renunciation "is completely and utterly unacceptable."

"This condition," he said, "is tantamount to a denial of the Catholic faith and loyalty to the Holy Father (Pope Pius XII)." Miss Coulombe and Sennott said they would not be married outside the church.

Hungarian Diplomat to Speak On Communism, Christianity

Tibor Eckhardt, Hungarian statesman and social reformer, will speak on "Communism's Challenge to Christianity" in the second university summer lecture Friday at 8 p.m. on the west approach to Old Capitol.

Prof. M. Willard Lampe, chairman of summer lecture series committee, said in case of rain Eckhardt will speak in Maebriede auditorium.

A round table forum in the house chamber of Old Capitol will follow Eckhardt's lecture, Lampe said.

Eckhardt was graduated from the Budapest Pairists college with honors and received degrees in law and political science from the universities of Budapest, Berlin and Paris, Lampe said.

He started his political career in 1918 after the collapse of the Austro-Hungarian empire. When a revolutionary government was established, he refused to submit and organized a guerrilla armed force of his own.

In 1919 when the Bela Kun Communist regime took over, Eckhardt started active resistance with a police force which later became the skeleton of the Hungarian national army. He was appointed under-secretary of state after the anti-Bolshevik government was set up.

Eckhardt was first elected to parliament as a member of the government party in 1922 and has since opposed the conservative government. He has advocated progressive reforms, Lampe said.

His first trip to the United States was in 1929. In 1939 he visited the country for the second time at the invitation of President Butler of Columbia university and lectured in 40 universities under the auspices of the Carnegie endowment fund.

He represented Hungary as its first delegate to the League of Nations in 1932. He was forced to leave his country in 1941 because of his opposition to the Nazis.

Under the sponsorship of the American government, Eckhardt started a world movement for the restoration of Hungarian independence upon his arrival in this country in 1941, Lampe said.

John Boettiger Files Divorce Proceedings

PHOENIX (AP)—John Boettiger, former publisher of the Arizona Times and the Seattle Post-Intelligencer, yesterday filed divorce proceedings against his wife, Anna Roosevelt Boettiger.

Mrs. Boettiger, the daughter of the late President Roosevelt, was divorced in 1933 from her first husband, Curtis Dall.

The complaint charged Mrs. Boettiger, who served as co-publisher with her husband here and in Seattle, with mental cruelty.

Boettiger, in his complaint, charged his wife "repeatedly and continually by statement and actions" humiliated him "making it impossible to live congenially together."

The Boettigers, who came to Phoenix in 1945 from Seattle to launch the Arizona Times, have one son of their own, John Jr., however, Mrs. Boettiger's two children by her marriage to Dall, a New York broker, took their step-father's surname when their mother married the second time.

Check the Fine Print In the Contract, Girls

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—If you like to see actresses in bathing suits, or other leggy, chesty poses, give Universal-International studio today's gold star, it's on your side.

The studio has found that young actresses — only too willing to go for "cheesecake" art, as it's called, when they're seeking fame — often decide it's beneath their dignity when they hit the higher-salaried brackets. So, the studio announced yesterday, it's writing the "cheesecake clause" into its new contracts.

In brief, the section reads that any gal with physical charms suitable for display "shall for the first five years of her contract display said charms in publicity pictures as well as on the screen."

Farmer to Appeal Price Set on Land

Charles Grolmus, Coralville farmer who was awarded $28,400 in damages by a United States commission at a condemnation hearing held in Iowa City and Davenport last week, will appeal the verdict to a federal court, William R. Hart, United States attorney for the southern district of Iowa, said yesterday.

Grolmus is the owner of 266.3 acres of land north of Iowa City which was condemned by the army engineers for use in the Coralville flood control project.

Grolmus declined to sell his land for the price offered by the government, and asked for a hearing. The amount awarded by the commission is the same as that in the appraisal report made by the army engineers, Hart said.

Six other properties needed for the dam site and reservoir have been acquired without court action.

Soap Operas Help Men, Lecturer Tells Kiwanis

Men should listen to soap operas to find out why wives do the things they do, Prof. Forest Whan, director of market analysis at the University of Wichita and visiting summer lecturer in speech at SUI, told the Kiwanis club yesterday.

This is only one of many facts learned from surveys conducted by the Foundation for Industrial Research at Wichita, he explained.

Whan spoke on "Measuring Middle Western Attitudes," describing interviews, polling and testing projects conducted by the foundation. In addition to radio listening they include newspaper readership and business and educational surveys.

Surveys usually employ about 50 interviewers, but one required 800, he said. They have been conducted in 14 states from New York to the Rockies. The foundation formulates questions and plans the study, Whan said. Questions range from "What do you think of egg prices in Wichita?" to "Have soap operas helped you solve marital problems?"

WANTS AUSTRIAN OIL

LONDON (AP)—Russia disclosed yesterday that she wants the right to explore for oil in about 3,000 square miles of Austria, as part of her price for ending military occupation of that country.

Farmer Kills Wife, Then Shoots Self

KENOSHA, WIS. (AP)—A farmer faced with divorce shot and killed his wife yesterday despite his daughter-in-law's attempt to beat him off with a broom. Then he committed suicide.

Ernest Snyder, 53, of nearby Wilnot argued with his wife, Belle, 52, over her plans for a divorce. He shot and wounded her in the head in the bedroom of their son's home, and she staggered into the living room.

The daughter-in-law, Mrs. Francis Snyder, seized a broom and tried vainly to prevent Snyder from firing again. But during the struggle, a second shot struck his wife, killing her instantly.

The daughter-in-law fled from the house with her two children. Outside, she heard Snyder fire a third shot into his own head.

Two Women, Two Men Report Hooded Beating

BIRMINGHAM, ALA. (UP)—Mrs. Elizabeth Studdard said last night that she, her daughter and two men were flogged by a mob of 75 to 100 night riders three months ago.

Her report brought to 25 the number of victims of Alabama's hooded violence in recent months.

Mrs. Studdard, of Lynn Park, Ala., said that she, her 21-year-old daughter Opal, and Albert Sanders and Axford Spradlin were beaten in April.

She told her story while waiting to testify before a special session of the Jefferson county grand jury investigating masked terrorism.

Mrs. Studdard said that her husband was working in South Carolina when the beatings were carried out and is still there. Sanders was a boarder in her house, she said.

On the night in question, Mrs. Studdard said, she answered a knock at her door and before she knew it her house was surrounded by hooded figures, some of them armed with pistols.

She said she and her daughter and the two men were taken to a road in front of the house where she and the girl were lashed four times each with a three-inch leather belt, and the men eight times each.

Mrs. Studdard lives near Praco, where two men and a 25-year-old woman also were said to have been beaten several weeks ago. The Praco incidents came to light Saturday.

Mrs. Studdard stayed only a few minutes before the grand jury, reporting that "they could not use my testimony" because the alleged beating was committed just inside Walker county.

About half of the beatings and intimidations have now been placed in Walker county and half in Jefferson.

GOP Campaign: A Clouded Crystal —

The 1952 presidential chase in the Republican party has already shown signs of being a pretty lively tussle.

At this point it looks as though Sen. Robert Taft (R-Ohio) and Harold Stassen are favored in the contest—but there are still a lot of "ifs" to be conquered before either will be considered seriously.

Taft, riding the crest of a personal triumph over President Truman's pre-election labor promises, is concerned mainly with retaining his senate seat in the Ohio election next year.

If Taft is able to whip labor in his home state, he will definitely be a major contender. However, if the Ohio labor forces can muster enough strength to defeat the 60-year-old senator, Taft will be removed from the presidential picture.

The labor organizations have declared war on Taft and the other pro-management legislators who pushed the Taft-Hartley law through the senate last week over administration and labor opposition.

The Ohio election next year, then, has all the earmarks of a real fight. Taft plans to stomp Ohio as soon as the session of congress adjourns. Labor, meanwhile, is just as ready to fight Taft's return to the senate.

If Taft is returned to the senate he will jump to the front among candidates for the presidency. It will be his third crack at the nomination. In 1940, he was beaten out by Wendell Willkie. Last year Thomas Dewey got the nod over Taft.

Dewey, twice-defeated for the presidency, is not expected to toss his much-battered hat into the ring in 1952.

Harold Stassen, however, looms as a definite contender in the election. The 43-year-old university president has already begun to lay the groundwork for his bid in 1952.

He stands out as the candidate of the younger generation of Republicans.

Rep. Hugh Scott (R-Penn.) is a man that Stassen lieutenants are out to remove from the top level of the Republican party. The first move was made last week when Thomas E. Coleman, Wisconsin finance chairman, resigned from the GOP strategy committee.

Stassen forces are trying to run a Stassen protege into that job.

With this undercover activity going full blast, some 36 months before the Republican national convention, some observers have remarked that the GOP would do well to unite in 1950, before it splits in 1952.

They favor clearing the hurdles as they present themselves instead of trying to play Mandrake. Probably the crystal ball is a little clouded on many issues that the Republican party will have to meet in the next three years.

Doctrine of Contradictions —

Gen. Douglas MacArthur in his statesmanlike prose has just issued a sweeping condemnation of communism and issued a question of its right to legal sanction. Japanese Communist rioting in Tokyo occasioned the outburst.

When MacArthur condemned communism, most persons in this country joined him. Not so when he questioned its right to legal sanction.

Let's borrow MacArthur's exact words and examine them: "That it should continue to advance its treacherous purposes behind the shield of those very freedoms which, to succeed, it must destroy, is one of the paradoxes of the age, and poses the question as to whether such a movement should longer be accorded the validity, the sanction and the protection of the law," the general declared.

When MacArthur calls communism's protection under the laws of our democracy "... one of the paradoxes of the age ..." he has a good point.

But when he poses his own question whether this country should not deny to communism the right to exist, then it is Gen. Douglas MacArthur speaking his own and not the feelings of the average citizens.

Were we as a people to deny to communism the right to its existence as doctrine which seeks to use our laws to find expression, then we should be doing, in effect, just what we have so roundly condemned other nations for doing.

We should be denying to a group the right to expose itself to the pure white light of scrutiny where the public may choose what it pleases of this doctrine of contradictions.

For that is just what communism is—a doctrine of contradictions. Using the protection of our laws to propound its views, communism seeks to remove those protections when it preaches world revolution and social ownership.

Communism seeks to remove the guiding force which has made our nation great; it seeks to remove the capitalist notion and free enterprise from an economy which has perpetuated itself on the idea that every mother's son of us could grow up to be the President of the United States.

The doctrine of communism has had plenty of chance in recent years to convert the people of this nation, but little progress has been made. Its prime opportunity was in the depression of the thirties.

Why then deny legal sanction at a time when communism has the least chance it has had since 1928-32? Our people may fear communism, but they have little notion of espousing it and making it as much a part of their lives as they have capitalism and democracy.

Hats Off to Hoover Commission

The now-defunct Hoover commission came in for a bit of praise the other day from Rep. Earl Wilson (R-Ind.).

Wilson patted the commission on the back for practicing what it preached in its report on the overhaul of American bureaucracy.

When the commission got its job done, Wilson reported, it just closed job and went home without trying to perpetuate itself at the taxpayers' expense.

The commission must be just about unique in the history of this nation. Let's have more of the same efficiency in government bureaus.

BASIC TRAYNOR

Took care of Duke over the long week-end. Duke is a cocker spaniel, and he is a very smart cocker spaniel. I knew right away that I was in for a fast and rough week-end.

He arrived early Saturday afternoon on the bus with his sack of dog food hanging from his mouth. He seemed quite upset when the driver closed the door on his tail and lost no time in telling the driver what he thought of him.

After this incident, he, of course, didn't exactly go into fits of ecstasy when he saw me. I attempted to relieve him of the sack but this didn't go over very well either. He gave me a very contemptuous look and indicated that I was to lead the way.

We arrived home and, after looking the place over, he decided that he could tolerate it for a few days. He found what he considered a safe place for the sack of food and carefully deposited it there. I could tell by the way he did it that he didn't expect any fooling around with it by me or anyone else.

Things went along well enough until he decided that he would like to be a bird dog. Being a clever dog, he realized that to be a bird dog he would first have to find some birds. This he did very quickly.

He found a nest in some tall grass and, as luck would have it, there were birds in it. The birds resented the intrusion but, thinking it foolish to stay and fight, they immediately vacated. Then it started.

Seems that one of the birds was still young and just learning how to fly. It fluttered along about six feet above the ground with Duke right on its trail taking a jump at it every now and then.

Round and round they went with people jumping out of their way and cheering for the bird. Then the bird's mother and father decided to get in the act. They flew along behind the dog and tried to divert his attention, but his attention was not to be diverted.

Somehow or other the chase worked its way toward the trailer and then in the front door. I heard the dog going through my legs. I decided that this was a good place to end it.

Before he knew what hit him, Duke was corralled and tied to the door of the trailer. He didn't like that and threw several threatening growls in my direction.

Meantime the bird was busy trying to find its way out of the trailer. I decided to help it and again I met with ingratitude. By this time the bird's parents had found their offspring and were perched outside screaming at me.

All this goes to prove that it doesn't pay to try to act as mediator in any squabble. No one appreciates it.

Well, I finally got the bird out and the three of them flew off without a word of thanks. Duke was still feeling very hurt and would have nothing to do with me. In fact he just ignored me for the rest of his stay.

'Rose' Treason Trial Begins

SAN FRANCISCO (P) — For nine months a slim, slant-eyed girl called Tokyo Rose has waited in jail here to find out whether the country of her birth will brand her traitor, or set her free as the helpless pawn of circumstances.

Iva Ikuko Toguri D'Aquino (her real name) is charged with treason, punishable by death. The lightest sentence she could get, if convicted, is five years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

Her trial started yesterday before Federal Judge Michael J. Roche. It is expected to last six to eight weeks.

To many thousands of servicemen in the Pacific her voice was a familiar one, coming over the air on the "zero hour" program from Radio Tokyo.

"Hello, boneheads, this is Orphan Anne, your favorite enemy —"

Much of it was entertaining stuff, with a lot of music. Uncle Sam's weary, bored fighters listened. Even Adm. Chester Nimitz got a grim smile when he learned she had beamed an airfield out of south Pacific island jungle.

"Look out boys, your strip is showing!"

But it's no joke now. The government—in the persons of Special Washington Prosecutors Tom DeWolfe and John B. Hogan, aided by FBI investigators—aims to prove that Mrs. D'Aquino betrayed the stars and stripes that flew protectively above the little Los Angeles home where she was born.

However, there is a gimmick to this seemingly rural practice. A city ordinance says you may keep chickens in your backyard only

'Off Again, On Again —'

They topped off the evening by stopping in at a club which is patronized mainly by young men who are backward (reverse is a better word) in their biological outlook. This has been the subject of much conversation since my arrival, and the questions brought about by this visit are becoming increasingly difficult to answer.

Now about this employment business ... I have been trying to get acclimated before rushing into anything. In talking to a newspaperman the other day, I learned that job prospects in this area aren't bad at all. In point of fact, the man offered me half of his business at a price which could be considered a steal.

I finally turned the deal down, though. My voice isn't what it used to be, and standing on that street corner in all sorts of weather could be the ruin of a man's health.

State Department Denies Czechoslovakian Visas

WASHINGTON (P) — State department officials said yesterday that Czechoslovakia has turned down recently several requests by Americans to visit the country.

Among those denied a Czech entry permit was a newspaper correspondent whose identity they declined to disclose. The explanation in each case was that the visa application was denied for "personal reasons."

The department had no comment on a New York report that Henry J. Taylor, writer and radio commentator, has been denied a visa.

The Czech Communist regime complained last year that the United States, while pressing for free flow of news, delayed for months before agreeing to authorize a visit to this country by a Czech news correspondent.

Summer School

Views California Job Prospects

By BILL MCBRIDE

PASADENA, CALIF. — The Chamber of Commerce fellow who dubbed California "The Land of Sunshine" failed to mention that it is also the land of hot rods, super market mortuaries and two-legged fruitcakes.

I am convinced the state has more crackpots per square acre than any other locality in the country, and furthermore, I am prepared to swear on a stack of Kinsy reports that each of the aforementioned c.p.'s spends all his waking hours driving an automobile in downtown traffic.

This is indeed a strange place ... take, for example, the garbage situation. No one is allowed to wrap his garbage in paper here. The reason for this regulation is that all the garbage is collected and shipped to Utah where it is fed to hogs.

On the other hand, nearly all the pushy, supercharged markets in this area advertise "Iowa Corn Fed Pork" in their meat departments. On the basis of fair trade relations and exchange, this simply does not ring true, and one never knows when the moldy chop suey he throws out today may come back in the shape of a pork roast tomorrow.

In the city of Glendale a citizen may keep chickens in his backyard if he so desires. This is commendable, since chickens not only make excellent pets, but some persons consider those pimply fowls edible.

However, there is a gimmick to this seemingly rural practice. A city ordinance says you may keep chickens in your backyard only

Austria on Way to Recovery

By BERTHOLD GASTER

The Austria of summer 1949, is a country well on its way back to recovery.

Production figures, especially in coal and electric power, have reached levels surpassing those of the last pre-Hitler year — 1937. A spokesman for the Austrian Consulate General in New York, who just recently returned from a tour of the little country, has given optimistic reports on the country whose agricultural production is now going far toward meeting its own needs.

With the hoped-for passing of the occupation after the long-awaited state treaty is signed, Austria will be able to put its economic house in full order. The only restrictions will be the concessions the Soviet Union has been able to get, specifically in oil products and the Danube shipping trade.

Austria's coal production now stands at 15 percent above the 1937 figure. This will enable the Austrians to be more independent of the Ruhr valley coal.

The increase in electric power production, which now amounts to 100 percent over the 1937 figure, has given Austria the ability to pay in full for Germany's Ruhr coal, needed to supplement domestic productions. It has also led to an extensive electrification program on the national railways.

Before the war, Austria depended heavily on agricultural imports from her eastern neighbors, such as Hungary and Romania. The Communist regimes in those countries have pushed for heavier industrial production. As a result, Austria can no longer sell industrial products to them.

Moreover, these countries' agricultural surplus is now going to the Soviet Union, and not to Austria. This is where the Marshall plan has come in to fill the gap.

Vienna has again taken its place as a "Weltstadt" — a true city of the world. Its cafes again have good food to offer, its shops sell goods at ever-falling prices, its theatres and state opera are again achieving prewar eminence.

The railroad stations that were hit heavily by bombing during the war are slowly being rebuilt. The damaged dome of St. Stephen's cathedral is in the final stages of restoration.

Austria is hoping for a revival of the prewar tourist trade to bring in much-needed dollars. It is a shortage of dollar credits that is keeping reconstruction from assuming a faster pace than it has taken up to this point.

The general economic situation, which is strikingly different from Germany's uncertain economic set-up, has contributed to a strengthening of the political party coalition in power.

The alliance between the conservative People's party and the Socialists — representing about 95 percent of the vote in the 1948 elections — has ruled the country for the past four years.

The small Communist following should dwindle after the Russian army leaves and takes with it the inevitable pressure that an occupying military force can exert.

An explosive issue coming to the foreground at this time is the four-power regulation which has kept a fourth party from becoming a legal force.

New underground groups have sprung up. They voice opinions ranging from nazism to left-wing non-Communist socialism. Included in these groups are former Nazi party members and returning prisoners-of-war who are dissatisfied with the existing parties.

It will be interesting to observe in the coming October elections just how these groups, as well as the new voters who have come of age since 1945, will vote.

Authoritative sources believe that the distribution will be even, so as not to have an appreciable effect on the balance in the 1949-53 government.

Japanese Fear Rail Chief's Death May Incite Uprisings

TOKYO (WEDNESDAY) (UP)—The decapitated body of Sadanori Shimoyama, president of the state-owned National Railway of Japan, was found yesterday on the railroad tracks on the outskirts of Tokyo, a victim of suicide or murder on the property he managed.

Police said murder was suspected in the mysterious death. But they did not deny that Shimoyama may have taken his own life in despair over having to enforce an unpopular government mass discharge of railway workers.

Police feared the incident may signal the start of a bloody uprising by Communists accused by Premier Shigeru Yoshida of plotting an August revolution.

Shimoyama disappeared yesterday — on the eve of government dismissal notices to some 30,000 of the country's 200,000 rail workers. He left for work in his automobile but never showed up at his office.

He had been threatened by workers ever since the government, acting to carry out an economy drive set up by Gen. Douglas MacArthur, had announced an "austerity" program for the railways. The order raised a storm of protest.

Shimoyama's widow, Yoshihiko, 45, was quoted in the Japanese press as saying, "when I received the news I instinctively thought it might be suicide."

A high official at MacArthur's headquarters said a top-level conference would be called later today to decide policy in the Shimoyama matter.

Yoshida's cabinet already is considering taking a firm hand with expected rioting and has under discussion a program calling for "shoot to kill" orders for police attacked by malcontents.

If the death is finally blamed on the Communists—legally or otherwise—the affair may prove the excuse the government has been waiting for to outlaw the Japanese Communist party.

Ex-Convict Admits Beating Two Fatally

EUREKA, CALIF. (AP) — Henry Brun Gulbrandsen surrendered last night and admitted to Humboldt county officers that he killed two men in Jack London's idyllic Valley of the Moon.

He denied however that he raped Mrs. Eva Paget, 27—who accused him of that crime. His statement said she "offered herself and I accepted."

Gulbrandsen first summoned a Humboldt Times reporter to a bar and related his story. Later, he made a detailed statement to Charles Cavagnaro, sheriff's detective.

He gave no motive, but said he "awoke feeling rapid pulsation and pounding heartbeat. I felt no compassion at the time, but was in somewhat of a stupor. I (now) feel the greatest revulsion at this time, but can still speak objectively."

The victims were: Lt. Peter J. Flint, a merchant marine officer and roommate of Gulbrandsen, and Peter J. Jensen, owner of the isolated mountain cabin where the bludgeoned bodies were found.

Critically injured in a hospital lay Mrs. Paget, Berkeley vacationist who reported she was lured to the cabin by an acquaintance she knew as "Hank" on pretense that Flint had a broken arm and needed aid.

When they reached the cabin, she said, "Hank" slugged her with a stone pestle, ripped off most of her clothing and raped her. The bodies of Flint and Jensen — both nude — lay on beds in the cabin, covered with sheets.

Just outside, officers later found the stone pestle, bloodstained and matted with hair. They believed it was the weapon used on all three victims.

Their heads crushed by blows, Flint and Jensen appeared to have been killed while asleep in the two-room cabin, an exotically decorated place with oriental wall hanging, screens and art.

Mrs. Paget, naked except for a t-shirt, staggered down a mountain road until she met some picnickers, to whom she hysterically told her story.

She said "Hank" had fled in an automobile.

Victims in California Attack Mystery

ATTACK VICTIMS Mrs. Eva Paget, 27, (right) Berkeley, Calif., reported to sheriff's deputies that she had been summoned to a mountain cabin near here with the ruse that a friend had broken his arm. She said she was beaten and attacked. Investigating authorities found the bodies of Peter J. Flint, 31, (left) a lieutenant in the merchant marine, and Peter J. Jensen, bludgeoned to death.

Flint and Jensen appeared to have been killed while asleep in the two-room cabin, an exotically decorated place with oriental wall hanging, screens and art.

Mrs. Paget, naked except for a t-shirt, staggered down a mountain road until she met some picnickers, to whom she hysterically told her story.

Unified VA Supply Spending Policy Adopted

William D. Coder, director of veteran's service at SUI, said yesterday a new regulation clarifying VA policy of paying for veterans' supplies will help to eliminate confusion of different interpretations of VA policy by various regional veterans' service offices.

The new VA regulation defines supplies which will be paid for as those consumed or expended by the student or instructor which have to be replaced at frequent intervals.

Examples are nails, sandpaper, abrasive wheels and students' laboratory glassware which is easily broken.

Coder said the first three items are used in only very small quantities, and breakage of laboratory glassware up to a certain amount is included in a student's general fee.

He explained the VA determines what a reasonable amount of breakage is, and the student pays for breakage above that amount.

Coder said the recent tightening of VA policy in paying for veterans' supplies will hit hardest states such as Missouri where it was much easier for the veteran to receive all kinds of supplies through the VA.

HOLCOMB TO SPEAK

Prof. Richard L. Holcomb of SUI's bureau of public affairs and director of a recent police officer's short course here, will speak on "Police Training" before the Iowa City Lions club at Reich's Pine room this noon.

Blind Girl's Death Ends Tragic Vigil

CHICAGO (AP) — Six-year-old Patsy Ann Markusky, a little blind girl who wanted a puppy, died yesterday in Illinois Research hospital.

Her death, caused by the brain tumor that blinded her last December, was a crowning sorrow in a series of tragedies that has befallen her widowed mother, Ann, 33.

Patsy's father, Clarence, 33, a steel company clerk, shot and killed himself Dec. 14 in grief over the belief his daughter would die before Christmas.

But Patsy rallied and physicians predicted she might live but would never see again. That when she started wanting a puppy. A newspaper story of her plight brought offers of scores of pet spaniels.

Socialite Gets Approval For Luxembourg Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — Washington's no. 1 party giver, Mrs. Penn Mesta was approved by the senate after a lively row yesterday as American minister to the Grand Duchy of Luxembourg.

The lone but emphatic dissent came from Senator Donnell (R-Mo) who shouted that the appointment of the wealthy socialite widow marked a step backward to the "spoils system."
