Taft Says He'll Vote To Kill Atlantic Pact

WASHINGTON (UP) — Sen. Robert Taft (R-Ohio) announced yesterday he will vote against ratification of the north Atlantic defense pact because he believes it will lead to another war.

The chairman of the senate GOP policy committee attacked the 12-nation, anti-aggression treaty in a senate speech on grounds it would commit the United States to supply arms to western Europe and thus raise the spectre of war with Russia.

Senate Group Cuts ERP by 10 Percent

WASHINGTON (AP) — The senate appropriations committee voted yesterday to slash 10 percent off second year funds asked for the Marshall plan.

And it tied up $50-million of what was left in order to cut Spain in on the European recovery program if the administration sees fit.

The recovery program would get $3,778,380,000. President Truman had asked $4,198,200,000. A committee member said one group fought to chop off 10 percent.

Chairman Kenneth McKellar (D-Tenn.) estimated that the committee cut a total of $748,820,000 off President Truman's budget estimates for actual appropriations in foreign spending, which includes other programs besides the Marshall plan.

The members gave formal approval in a bitter closed-door session to reducing foreign spending in general.

Sen. Guy Gillette (D-Iowa) also announced he would vote for the pact, but with "the greatest reluctance, deep misgivings, grave doubts and qualms." He said the senate has no choice but to ratify it since the United States had taken the lead in drafting it.

Predicts Tenth Bumper Crop

WASHINGTON (AP) — The agriculture department reported yesterday that "tremendous" food crops are ripening on farms from Maine to California.

While the nation's tenth bumper harvest in a row is "well on the way," the department said, the wheat crop won't be as large as expected.

Bad weather in the Kansas-Oklahoma-Texas "breadbasket" during June cut down the estimated size of the crop by 148-million bushels.

But the remaining wheat stand, estimated at 1,188,690,000 bushels, still will be the third largest in history and almost certainly will require the government to spend millions of dollars buying up surpluses to support prices.

Secretary of Agriculture Charles Brannan will decide within the next few days whether the latest estimates call for government-subsidized prices, but that Brannan might call for acreage allotments, a milder control.

The department also forecast a corn crop of 3,530,185,000 bushels, which would be the second biggest on record. That means there would be an abundant supply of livestock feed for fattening meat animals.

Since an unusually large supply of corn was carried over from last year's crop, officials said the expected harvest should bring total corn supplies on hand to the highest point in history.

It therefore appeared certain that acreage allotment controls would be imposed on corn next year. But a decision on that won't be made for several weeks.

Britain Threatens Strikers with Jail

LONDON (TUESDAY) (AP) — A state of emergency proclaimed by King George VI today gave the labor government almost dictatorial powers to smash a strike by 10,000 London dockers or send the strikers to jail.

King George issued the proclamation yesterday, at the government's request, immediately after the dock workers decided in a mass meeting to continue their Communist-inspired strike in sympathy with striking Canadian seamen.

Under the proclamation, dockers who refuse to return to work in the world's largest port may receive up to three months in prison and a fine of $400.

The President said, however, that it would be "even less appropriate to rely entirely on

Gene Rides Again, His 3rd Bike

Giving 12-year-old Gene Novotny a bicycle is something like giving dad a necktie for Christmas. Gene's dad runs a bicycle shop here and Gene has been riding a bicycle since a month before his fourth birthday.

Seeking respite from his long years of peddling a bike, Gene turned to soapbox racers and won second place in each of Iowa City's last two derbies.

The second prize each year was — a "deluxe bicycle."

Texas Governor Dies on Train

AAUP Reaffirms Its Beliefs On Communist Teacher Issue

WASHINGTON (UP) — A committee of the American Association of University Professors yesterday reaffirmed its belief that membership in the Communist party is not in itself sufficient cause for firing college teachers.

The committee on academic freedom and tenure said that as long as a teacher does not propagandize in his classroom or among his students, or advocate forcible overthrow of the government, he has a right to be a Communist and keep his job.

This stand, taken by the committee in 1947 and backed by the association last fall, was reaffirmed yesterday in a report concerning Evansville college, Evansville, Ind., for discharging a teacher because he supported Progressive party presidential candidate Henry Wallace in the 1948 election campaign.

The teacher, George F. Parker, was dismissed as assistant professor of religion and philosophy on April 8, 1948, two days after he took part in a Wallace rally at Evansville.

The committee's stand is at sharp variance with the position taken by the National Education association at its recent Boston convention. The NEA, representing more than 85 percent of the nation's teachers, voted almost unanimously in favor of barring Communists from teaching.

Truman Drops Tax Demands; Okays Deficit Spending Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Truman yesterday abandoned his oft-repeated demand for a $4-billion tax boost. Instead he called for an 11-point program to combat the recession and produce a stable, "abundant" economy.

The President also laid down a temporary policy of deficit financing (operating in the red) by refusing to permit slashes in federal spending on foreign aid, defense or social services.

In a message the President sent to congress along with the midyear report of his council of economic advisers, the two key sentences were these:

"No major increase in taxes should be undertaken at this time."

"We cannot expect to achieve a budget surplus in a declining national economy."

1. No major tax boost. Repeal the transportation tax, except on passengers, and liberalize the carry-over of losses by corporations. Raise estate and gift taxes.
2. Lengthen the time limit for repayment of reconstruction finance corporation loans to business.
3. Study investments and developments needed to expand the economy.
4. Adopt an "improved program" of farm-income supports. (Congress is still split on the so-called Brannan farm program urged by Mr. Truman.)
5. Hike the minimum wage from 40 to at least 75 cents an hour, and broaden its coverage. (Congress is working on this.)
6. Cover more industries with unemployment compensation. Increase the benefits and lengthen the period of idleness covered.
7. Extend to July 25, 1950, the veterans' readjustment allowances. This is the "52-20" program, so called from a provision for jobless pay to veterans at the rate of $20 a week for 52 weeks.
8. Raise social security benefits and expand the coverage. Increase direct public aid grants. (The house ways and means committee is now working on a social security bill. It is expected in about a week.)
9. Let federal agencies speed the advance planning of federal works and acquire sites. Help states and localities to do the same.
10. Provide technical aid to develop the world's backward

CIO Threatening Steel Strike As Federal Peace Talks Fail

Presidential Intervention May Avert Walkout of Million Men

WASHINGTON (AP) — CIO President Philip Murray said last night after fruitless government-called peace talks he will recommend that 500,000 CIO-steelworkers strike this weekend.

After a two and one-half hour conference with Federal Conciliation Director Cyrus S. Ching, Murray reported a "complete deadlock." He hinted that only presidential intervention will avert a walkout in the basic industry.

Strike Looms At Inland Steel

CHICAGO (AP) — The CIO united steel workers union said yesterday that a strike is inevitable Saturday unless the Inland Steel company changes its proposed pension-insurance plan.

A union spokesman said the workers entered six specific objections to the pension-insurance plan.

The company, through its industrial relations manager, William G. Caples, said only that "nothing was decided" at yesterday's negotiations session, and that "we're still negotiating."

Another meeting was set for tomorrow afternoon.

At issue in the dispute is a company-offered pension-insurance plan, which Inland said is the first in the industry. Briefly it provides pensions and insurance on a matching "share-the-cost" basis. Hospitalization features are included.

A worker earning $200 a month who entered the plan at age 30 would pay $3.20 monthly toward retirement, the company the balance.

Both John Jeneske, international representative, and Harry Powell, president of the local 1010, one of the locals involved, agreed on the "inevitability" of a strike Saturday midnight when the contract expires.

Wood Group Cool On Hiss Hearings

WASHINGTON (AP) — The house un-American activities committee appeared likely yesterday to ignore any Republican demands for an investigation of the Alger Hiss trial on the ground it is none of the committee's business.

Both Rep. Harold Velde (R-Ill.) and Rep. Richard Nixon (R-Calif.) contend Judge Samuel H. Kaufman showed bias in favor of Hiss and an inquiry in his order. They had made no formal move for one.

Local Forgery Suspect Arrested in Sioux City

Lyle Budd, 717 Kimball avenue, wanted in Iowa City on charges of forgery, has been picked up by Sioux City authorities, police said last night.

According to local authorities a warrant for Budd's arrest was issued earlier this month, and attempts will probably be made to bring him here to face charges. Records indicate he is wanted in several cities in Iowa on charges similar to those here.

Police said Budd has been charged here with writing two false checks. He was placed under a $500 bond.

Capitol Hill Leaders View Economic Report

Reuthers Shake Lefthanded

VICTOR REUTHER (left), educational director of UAW-CIO made his first public appearance in Milwaukee yesterday since an attempt was made on his life May 25. He shook hands lefthanded with his brother, Walter (right), president of the union, Walter, victim of a similar attempt in April, 1948, also has a disabled right arm. Between the pair is brother, Roy, international representative of the union.

UAW Seeks Ouster of Communist-Led Unions

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Spearheading labor's drive against Communists, the United Auto workers yesterday asked the parent CIO to oust all its affiliates dominated by party members.

President Walter Reuther said the anti-Communist action, taken at his union's 12th convention, is "the strongest ever adopted by a CIO union." The vote was almost unanimous among the 2,400 delegates.

The resolution asked the national CIO convention at Cleveland to revoke the charters of all affiliates dominated by Communists, claiming such unions had failed to organize workers within their jurisdiction.

Organizing committees should be set up, too, said the resolution, to bring into the CIO fold workers it said were betrayed by Communist party line leadership.

Eleven CIO unions have been listed by national officers as under Communist domination. Three of them—the United Office and Professional Workers, the United Public Workers and the Food and Tobacco Workers—were singled out by Reuther as the ones which had fallen down most in organizing.

Passage of the measure was a major triumph for Reuther. The red haired UAW chieftain urged a similar drive at last year's CIO convention, but it did not materialize.

CIO Survey Asks 10 Pct Wage Hikes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The CIO took the position yesterday that wage increases are the best cure for the business slump and that most industries can grant them without raising prices.

In an economic survey coinciding with President Truman's own estimate of the nation's economic health, the big labor organization blamed industry for the recession.

It said prices have been held too high and that corporation profits are still big enough to absorb a new round of wage hikes averaging about 10 percent.

The report also criticized congress for failing to curb inflation in time, and laid down a 10-point program of government action "to restore prosperity."

It predicted that "business will get worse before it gets better" but said there are "no firm indications that a major depression is imminent" if prompt remedial steps are taken.

Pacific Pact Asked By Chiang, Quirino

BAGUIO, PHILIPPINES (TUESDAY) (AP) — Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek left for Formosa early today after discussing with Philippine President Elpidio Quirino ways and means of combating the Communist menace in the far east.

The two government leaders, after two days of conferences which ended yesterday, called upon far eastern countries to unite at once in a Pacific union against communism.

Authoritative sources say they agreed that China, the Philippines and Korea would initiate formal establishment of the anti-Communist alliance. Eventually they hope the United States, Australia and Japan will join.

Chiang began his homeward journey at 9:27 a.m. He flew to Florida Blanca airbase in Pampanga province aboard Quirino's private plane. Quirino accompanied Chiang to the Baguio airport after the two had been closeted for some 20 minutes in the guest house.

HONOLULU (AP) — Striking Hawaiian longshoremen announced yesterday that they will unload no more food relief ships if they are operated by Matson lines or handled by the lines' island agents.

Robinson Decisions Gavilan, Retains Crown

No Knockdowns; Win Unanimous

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Ray (Sugar) Robinson's more accurate and explosive punching enabled him to keep his world welterweight championship last night, giving him a 15-round decision over Kid Gavilan of Cuba before an estimated crowd of 35,000 in Municipal stadium.

The decision was unanimous, none of the three ring officials giving the Cuban challenger more than six rounds.

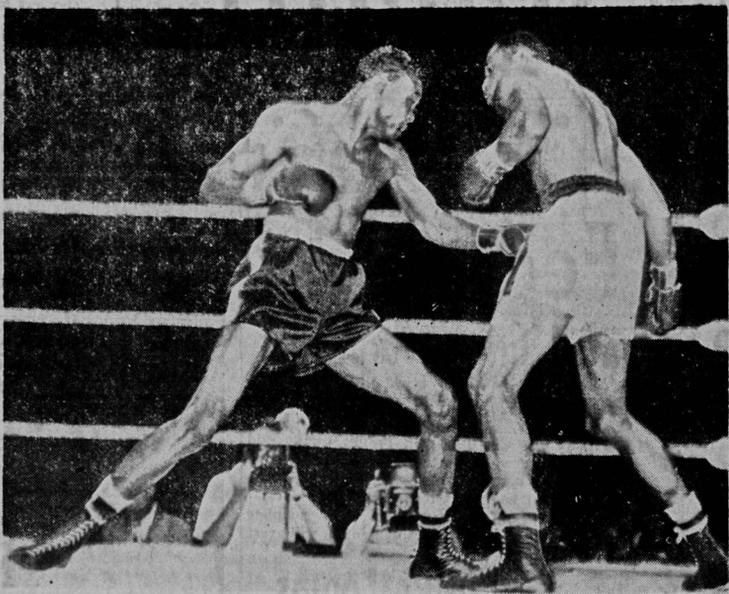

It was an excellent fight in the early stages, and it seemed that the speedy, brown-skinned Cuban might wrest the crown from the tall, slender Negro champion from New York. But the action slowed in some of the latter rounds, and on two or three occasions it appeared that Gavilan might be knocked out.

There were no knockdowns during the fighting, which attained its peak in the eighth round when each scrapper was knocked half groggy by terrific hooks to the head. Robinson suffered a gashed left brow in the fourth round; and Gavilan's nose began to trickle blood in the sixth.

On two different occasions, Robinson seemed half-dazed as Gavilan held him at arms length against the ropes and belted him with rights to the head. But each time Sugar Ray finally wrenched the Cuban aside and escaped.

The well-proportioned Cuban challenger forced the fighting in nearly every round as he pressed with his bobbing-and-weaving attack that was concentrated mostly on slender Ray's waist. However, after the first four rounds, Robinson — the master craftsman — sharpened his timing and landed more accurately and harder in nearly every exchange. However, Robinson's usually formidable ripping barrage of uppercuts was unable to straighten up the challenger more than twice in the bout — when Gavilan elected to remain in his bob-weave posture.

Referee Charles Daggert and Judge Harry Lasky voted in unison, each giving Robinson nine rounds and Gavilan six. Judge Frank Knauerborough scored 12 for Robinson and three for the challenger. The United Press gave Robinson eight; Gavilan six; and called the seventh round even.

Jack Wishmier to Coach At New Hampton High

(Special to The Daily Iowan)

NEW HAMPTON — Jack Wishmier, former SUI basketball and baseball player, signed a one-year coaching contract with the New Hampton high school it was announced yesterday.

Wishmier, who prepped at Van Meter, signed as head basketball, assistant football and assistant baseball coach. He will report to the school Aug. 29.

IOWA CITIAN TENNIS CHAMP

Jamie Andrews, City high school tennis player, defeated his younger brother, Arthur, for the boys' championship in the Cyclone tennis tournament at Ames Saturday.

Senior Chamber Keeps 'Ye Olde Gobboon'

'Ye Olde Gobboon' — battered spittoon trophy — is still in senior chamber of commerce hands today, despite revenge hungry jaycees.

The seniors copped the annual junior-senior chamber softball game last night, 9-8, but it took them twelve innings, four pitchers and a double by the fourth pitcher to win.

They won last year by the top heavy count of 25-3. Despite a sit-down strike in the top of the fifth when all players but the seniors' battery took a rest and a mass rout at umpire Harry Dunlap in the 8th, the participants showed the know-how of professionals.

The game was further inspired by the public address announcers, one a jaycee, the other a senior who not only announced but often cheered their own team.

After the lead banded back and forth, the local enemies tied the score at eight apiece in the seventh. Steve Ordos finally broke the ice when he brought in Bob Bradley on a double.

Howe Derby Winner

Joe Howe, 15-year-old son of SUI Prof. Joseph Howe, head of the mechanics and hydraulics department, won the Iowa City soap box derby championship here Sunday.

Joe, a carrier salesman for The Daily Iowan, won a trip to Akron, Ohio, where he will participate in the national soap box derby Aug. 14.

Hawklets Top McKinley, 2-1

City high and Wilson of Cedar Rapids advanced to the finals of the sectional tournament here last night as City high beat McKinley of Cedar Rapids, 2-1, and Wilson downed Muscatine, 2-1, in ten innings.

Whitey Diehl pitched for the Little Hawks, allowing four hits and striking out 15. The lone McKinley run came in the seventh inning on one scratch hit and two Hawklet errors.

City high collected five hits and scored its two runs in the fifth inning on three walks, a sacrifice and a fielder's choice.

Wilson high, the defending state champions, had a tough time getting by Muscatine. In the 10th inning two walks and an error produced the winning run.

British Sportsman To Lecture Here

Roland Harper, director of physical education at the University of Manchester, England, will lecture at SUI Thursday.

He will speak on physical education in British universities and also inspect the facilities and physical education program at SUI.

Harper came to the United States in June in charge of the combined Oxford - Cambridge track team which competed against combined teams of four eastern universities.

Paul Brechler, director of physical education at SUI, will honor Harper at a staff luncheon Thursday.

Frank Parker Victorious In Spring Lake Tourney

SPRING LAKE, N.J. (AP) — Frank Parker of Los Angeles won the Spring Lake Invitation tennis tournament for the 10th time yesterday by overcoming an erratic start to defeat Billy Talbert of New York, 3-6, 7-5, 6-4, 6-0.

Talbert later got partial consolation when he teamed in the doubles with Gardner Mulloy of Miami, Fla., to upset Parker and Richard (Pancho) Gonzales of Los Angeles, the Wimbledon titlist, 4-6, 6-0, 4-6, 6-4, 6-2, for the Tandem crown.

AL Favored in All-Star Game

By JACK HAND

BROOKLYN (AP) — With Jolting Joe DiMaggio a surprise starter in center field and Lefty Mel Parnell of Boston doing the pitching, the American league is a 5 to 7 favorite to whip the National in today's 16th all-star game at Ebbets field.

Parnell, stylish ace of Joe McCarthy's oft-maligned staff, will draw either Warren Spahn, Boston Braves southpaw, or right-handed George (Red) Mungler of the St. Louis Cardinals, as his starting foe at 11:30 a.m. (Iowa time).

Williams' Rib Broken

NEW YORK (AP) — Boston's slugging Ted Williams has suffered a broken rib and may not be able to play in today's 16th renewal of the major league baseball all-star game, it was revealed last night.

Williams injured the rib in a vain but spectacular diving attempt at a Joe DiMaggio home run at Yankee stadium July 4. It bothered him some, but he did not have X-rays taken until yesterday when he learned that the rib was broken.

No pitcher, however, can go more than three innings unless it's an overtime game.

A crowd of 34,000, lured by the "big names" and drama of the annual prestige battle between the two majors, is expected to jam Ebbets field, host to the all-star game for the first time. Millions more will listen or watch the game by radio and television.

The weatherman promises to cooperate with a forecast of "fair" weather for early afternoon. If it rains, the game will be played Wednesday morning at 9 a.m. (Meantime, it was announced in New York yesterday that the 1950 all-star game will be held in Chicago, with the White Sox acting as hosts.)

Trailing 11-4 in the long series, the National leaguers probably regard the July "dream game" as a nightmare that usually ends the wrong way. If it's not a homer by Babe Ruth, as was the case in the series opener back in 1933, it's one by DiMaggio or Teddy

ALL-STAR LEADERS Lou Boudreau (left), manager-manager of the Cleveland Indians, and Billy Southworth, manager of the Boston Braves, chat during a meeting of baseball officials at the Sherry Netherlands hotel. They piloted the rival clubs in the 1948 World Series and today at Ebbets field will lead the American and National league teams in the annual all-star game.

Williams of Boston.

The Americans already scored heavily with the public by naming Joe DiMaggio to the squad. The Yankee Clipper was overlooked in the nationwide voting of some 4,600,000 fans because he missed the first 65 games with a sore heel.

Lou Boudreau, American league manager because his Cleveland Indians won the pennant last fall, first picked Joe to the squad and then named him to start in place of the injured Tommy Henrich, another Yank. Henrich, sidelined by a knee injury, hopes to pinch hit. He's the only crippled regular. To make room for Joe, brother Dom of Boston moved over to right field.

Each starter, except the pitchers, must play at least three innings.

Neither manager chose to go beyond his starting choice in pitchers. Southworth, hustling back to Boston for an exhibition between his Boston Braves and the Red Sox, indicated he wouldn't decide between Spahn and Mun-ger until this morning. Receipts, expected to approach $75,000 will go to the player pension fund as in the past several years.

Losses May Doom Big League Pension Fund to Early End

NEW YORK (AP) — The major league ball players' pension plan, after two years of operation at a loss, is in imminent danger of folding, it was learned yesterday.

Inaugurated in 1947, the plan thus far has been a financial flop, according to Player Representatives Fred (Dixie) Walker of Pittsburgh and Fred Hutchinson of Detroit.

"It's no use to kid ourselves," Walker said. "The plan has not panned out as well as we hoped it would. We're just not taking in enough money to meet the cost of operation."

"We went into the hole for $80,000 last year. In other words, we paid out that much more than we took in. And it will get worse as we go along. As I see it, we must take in approximately $200,000 more a year for the next eight years to keep the plan working."

Walker pointed out that last year the players paid in $118,000, and the owners gave as much. That together with proceeds from the all-star game ($111,000) and world series ($150,000) brought the total income to $497,000. The disbursements were $572,345.

"We were forced to take more than $80,000 out of our reserve fund of $272,000 to make up the deficit," Hutchinson said. "Obviously, this can't go on. We simply must figure out ways and means to raise more money or give up the ghost."

Under the rules of the pension plan, a five-year veteran of the majors received $50 a month after he reaches the age of 50. A ten-year man received $100 per month after 50.

The maximum amount a five-year man can receive is $5,300. A ten-year man's maximum is $10,600.

The owners have agreed to underwrite the pension for five years, after which they were to make a review of the situation. At the halfway mark, the owners have seen nothing to justify its existence.

Dolphin Show to Feature Hawaiian Theme in '49

The 1949 Dolphin show will feature a Hawaiian theme, members of the swimming group have decided.

Scheduling of the 26th annual show has been announced for Oct. 13-15. The four performances will be held in the fieldhouse pool. For the benefit of the homecoming visitors two performances will be staged on the evening of the Indiana-Iowa football game.

Last year the show attracted more than 12,000 persons.

Big Time Tennis for Iowa City Fans —

Starting next Monday Iowa City will be host to one of the foremost tennis tournaments in the midwest—the annual Missouri Valley championships.

Tennis stars, ranked as high as sixth in the nation at one time or another, will enter the week-long tourney that will be capped Sunday with the awarding of over $300 in trophies.

Sponsors of the tournament are hoping for at least 150 entrants, not quite as many as usually enter the meet, but a good showing considering that Iowa City is on the northern fringe of the Missouri Valley district, which includes six states, Oklahoma, Kansas, Nebraska, Missouri, Arkansas and Iowa.

SUI Tennis Coach Don Klotz, one of the sponsors—who, incidentally, are staging the meet at their own risk, financially, said yesterday that this year is the first time the meet has ever been held in Iowa City in its more than 40-year history.

"It's going to cost in the neighborhood of $1000 to hold the tournament," he said, "and we're just hoping there is enough interest in town to support it."

The tourney is one of the outstanding summer attractions to sports fans in Iowa City, giving them a chance to see the best in midwest tennis. Most of the matches will be held on the clay courts next to the reserve library annex. A few of the early matches are scheduled for the clay courts behind the fieldhouse.

In addition to Klotz the sponsors are Dr. Clarke Millikan and H. Kenneth Cline, both of Iowa City, the Iowa City Tennis club and SUI.

Two former champions will compete. One, Dick Hainline, winner in 1941 and '46, is a former Hawkeye tennis player. The other is Mrs. Joanne Gibson, Des Moines, out of tournament play for several years because of a back injury.

Illinois is about to land a golf star from Milwaukee, by the name of Don Cassady. He'll enroll at Illinois in September, but in the meantime is in Champaign, playing golf. According to the Daily Illini a fraternity likes the Wisconsin state golf champ and he likes the scenery.

From the same paper comes the note that several of the football players are beginning to work out in preparation for the grid season, mostly light workouts to get the legs in shape. . . . Perry Moss, a former Illini passing great, will sign a Green Bay Packers contract in the near future.

In case of depression the University of Texas daily has the answer. Football. "If you are faced with the probability of having to withdraw from school in the event of a depression, be a top-notch football player," the article says.

"You wouldn't do so well financially as you probably believe, but you would have no trouble finishing school, economically speaking. Football and football scholarships would undoubtedly be least affected in colleges and universities by a recession or depression.

"Besides, you would have a better-than-average job to go to after graduation, although it would be considerably rougher than others."

It means that Texas doesn't like the NCAA "sanity code," a little device that has done much to keep college athletics "amateur." The southern schools have been the loudest in protesting some of its provisions. Now what could that mean?

The nine '49 opponents of Iowa in football for this fall won 46, lost 38 and tied 1 last year. Notre Dame had the best record 9-0-1, followed by Oregon's 9-1 and Northwestern's 8-2.

Couple Married Yesterday

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth W. Lange

Miss Miskimins Wed To Kenneth W. Lange

Miss Gladys Miskimins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John G. Miskimins of Riceville, became the bride of Kenneth W. Lange yesterday at 1 p.m. in St. Paul's Lutheran church.

A teacher in the Henry Longfellow elementary school here, Mrs. Lange is a graduate of Iowa State Teachers' college, Cedar Falls, and attended SUI.

Mr. Lange, the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Lange, Paullina, is a graduate of Iowa State Teachers' college and also attended SUI. He is employed at Yetter's Department store.

The Rev. W.T. Choitz performed the double ring ceremony before an altar of candelabra and baskets of gladioli.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and wore a white wool suit with white accessories. She carried an arm bouquet of white gladioli.

Her matron of honor, Mrs. Reed Lockie, Riceville, wore an aqua blue suit and carried a bouquet of light yellow astorettes.

Best man was Burdette Lange, Bedford, and ushers were Robert J. Miskimins, Riceville, and Don Buthman, Estherville.

A reception was held at the Iowa Union.

The couple will live at 524 E. Church street after July 28.

Farewell

To Those Lingerin' 'Goodnights'

Lingerin' "goodnights" at Currier hall are going to be seriously hampered in the future due to work being done at Currier this week.

The glass canopy is being removed from Currier's south entrance.

Since the "roof" is not going to be replaced, couples will no longer be able to seek shelter from rain or snow when saying good night at Currier's south door.

The canopy, which has been a part of Currier since the building was constructed, is being torn down because it required too much maintenance and did not properly dispose of snow and rain, SUI Architect George L. Horner, said yesterday.

SUI physical plant workers started removing the canopy Saturday and are expected to be finished in several days.

Clapp to Present 'Sonata' in Recital

The fourth Wednesday evening music hour of the summer session will be presented tomorrow at 8 p.m. in studio E of the engineering building, Prof. Philip G. Clapp, director of the SUI music department, said yesterday.

All musicians will be faculty members. They are Prof. Imre Waldbauer, violin; Philip G. Clapp, piano; Marianne Fleece, violin, and Patricia Trachsel, viola.

Three numbers, "Sonata in D Minor" by Philip G. Clapp, "Serenade" by Zoltan Kodaly, and "Sonata in A, Opus 100" by Johannes Brahms, are on the program.

Waldbauer and Clapp will play the two sonatas. Kodaly's "Serenade" will be presented by Waldbauer, Mrs. Fleece and Miss Trachsel.

George Shuster to Give Third Summer Lecture

George N. Shuster, president of Hunter college, New York, will deliver the third university summer lecture at 8 p.m. Friday on the west approach to Old Capitol, Prof. M. Willard Lampe said yesterday.

In case of rain Shuster will speak in Macbride auditorium, he said. The lecture will be followed by an informal question and answer period.

Shuster will speak on "Nihilism and Two Wars." When submitting this subject he wrote "this will give me a chance to summarize my own personal experiences with trends of thought during this troubled time," Lampe said.

Shuster studied at the University of Notre Dame and at Columbia.

GEORGE N. SHUSTER

Shuster is a professor at Hunter college. Starting with literature as his specialty, he has achieved distinction in many fields including journalism and a wide range of public service, Lampe said. He has been president of Hunter college since 1940.

Shuster served as adviser to the American delegation at the London conference on international education in 1945. He was appointed a United States delegate to the UNESCO conference in Paris in 1946.

He was formerly the managing editor of Commonweal and still contributes to this Catholic lay weekly.

Iowa City Boy Scout To Attend Jamboree

Jerry Holland, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Holland, 325 Melrose court, left yesterday to attend the 10-day Canadian Scout Jamboree starting Saturday at Ottawa.

Holland went from here to Des Moines where he is meeting seven other Boy Scouts from the eighth region, Field Executive Jack McDavid said.

From Des Moines the group will go to Waterloo for specialized camp training, orientation and to get acquainted before leaving for Ottawa, McDavid said.

Holland, a senior eagle scout, is one of 96 scouts from the United States invited to the jamboree.

Law Students, Faculty To Hold Annual Picnic

The annual picnic for law students, faculty members and their families will be at 2 p.m. Thursday at the Showers farm, one mile south of Iowa City, Dean Stichnoth, LI, picnic chairman, said yesterday.

A baseball game between students and faculty has been planned.

New Play to Open At Theater Tonight

"Parlor Story," a comedy by William McCleery, opens tonight at 8 in the University theater and will run every evening this week through Saturday.

The cast includes Irene Fosness, G. St. Athony; Florence Schuck, A2, West Point; John Anderson, G, Quincy, Ill.; Frances Artley, A4, Hampton; Levern Reynolds, G, Lenox; Aldrich Paul, G, Waukegan; Carl Kohlhoff, A3, Milwaukee; Judy McCarthy, A3, Erie, Pa.; William Morgan, G, Burlington; and Raymond Hill, G, La-Crosse.

Theodore Viehman, summer session guest director from Tulsa, Okla., is directing the play.

Lasansky, Two Students To Show Prints in East

Prof. Mauricio Lasansky of the SUI art department and two graduate art students have been invited to exhibit prints in the Carnegie institute exhibition, Pittsburgh, Pa., Lasansky said yesterday.

Lasansky, James Louis Steg, G, Churchville, N. Y., and Raymond French, G, Terre Haute, Ind., will exhibit prints in the institute show to be held Oct. 13 through Dec. 31.

Torrid Love Helps

Latin Gets 'New Look'

Anthony and Cleopatra's torrid love affair may help future classical language students learn Latin.

At least that is the approach at the Iowa Latin workshop, sponsored by the SUI classics department, which began June 21 and ends today.

The aim of the workshop is to show the teacher new approaches to teaching high school Latin and to acquaint him with materials which can be borrowed easily for his use.

Prof. William M. Seaman of the foreign languages department of Michigan State college, leader of the seminar on audio-visual aids in teaching, demonstrates the use of shortened versions of motion pictures in teaching Latin.

Among the pictures used are travelogues and "Antony and Cleopatra" starring Claudette Colbert. Seaman also uses plain and colored slides of Latin and Greek excavations. He has over a thousand of his own slides which he made in Italy two years ago.

Museum relics on Roman antiquity are kept on exhibit. These pieces, largely from the Boston and Metropolitan museums, would be available to the teachers during the school year.

The purpose, Seaman said, is to show the group what is available from various sources, how they can get the material and at what cost.

High school teachers from eight states are attending the workshop which Prof. Gerald F. Else, head of the classics department and director of the workshop, calls the first of its kind of Latin teachers in this part of the midwest.

The program is centered around four basic seminars, each of which meets for a total of 12 to 15 hours. In addition to the audio-visual seminar there are others dealing with new approaches to Latin reading, new approaches to grammar and vocabulary, and texts, tests and classroom methods.

In addition to the seminars a series of lectures and group discussions led by experts from various fields relating to the classics are offered.

Three semester hours of graduate credit may be earned in the workshop.

"Stranger in a Strange Land"

(Reprinted from the Mason City Globe-Gazette)

The exoneration of Robert N. Noble by an Indiana court in connection with the death of two college students on a suburban highway near South Bend in 1947 is gratifying. But it comes as no surprise to those acquainted with the case.

The Iowan's absence of blame in the case was so pronounced that investigating officials at the time issued a statement to that effect and parents of at least one of the victims of the accident expressed a like view.

The accident occurred after an Iowa-Notre Dame football game at what turned out to be a heavily used but wholly unmarked pedestrian crossing at the gates to St. Mary's college on highway 31.

The Iowan, son of a former highly respected school superintendent at Oelwein, once the state editor of this newspaper but now assistant secretary of the University of Iowa alumni association, was caught between the jealousies of two local officials in the Indiana city.

One in whose jurisdiction the case would normally rest made an examination at the time of the accident and found Mr. Noble wholly without blame. His criticism was directed at local officials for their failure to provide sign or signal protection.

Another official, jealous of his prerogatives, saw a chance to embarrass one whom he didn't like by bringing suit on a charge of "reckless homicide"—whatever that may be. All manner of accusation was trumped up against the Iowan.

A superior court jury in South Bend heard the evidence in the case as it bore on the charge that he was driving at excessive speed and on the wrong side of the highway.

The Iowan's testimony, substantiated by other witnesses, was that he was going no faster than 55 miles an hour, the common speed at the point of the accident, and that he had not the slightest reason to believe that he would be encountering pedestrians at such an unlighted and unmarked spot on a six-lane highway.

At the conclusion of the case the jury reported that it found no evidence to support the prosecution's claim. A verdict of innocent was returned and it is announced a second indictment against Mr. Noble is being dismissed.

The Iowan was a "stranger in a strange land." All of the sympathy considerations were against him. It follows, therefore, that to gain exoneration under such adverse circumstances, he had all the facts on his side.

Crystal Ball Tactics —

Despite President Truman's optimism about the economic health of the nation, fair dealers are preparing a bill to be introduced this month which would insure isolation or quarantining unemployment to stop localized recessions before they spread too far.

The sponsors of the bill are Democratic Senators James E. Murray, Mont.; Hubert H. Humphreys, Minn.; Elbert Thomas, Utah; and John Sparkman, Alabama. In the house, sponsors are Representatives Wright Patman, Tex.; Helen Gahagan, Cal.; and Andrew J. Biemiller, Wis.

These fair dealers are wise in their analysis of the problem of unemployment's contribution to recession. Unemployment has been spotty, and it seems a wise analogy to believe recession has been spotty as a corollary of unemployment.

Now comes the problem of how the fair dealers propose to quarantine unemployment.

Big point of the proposed bill is co-operation between the existing economic advisory boards initiating additions in the fields of industry, labor, agriculture and the consumer where sufficient representation is not already present.

Other provisions still to be worked out include loans to small businesses in affected areas of unemployment and recession, long range planning for public works to take up the slack in unemployment and full scale government studies to spot potential areas of unemployment before they can get started.

This would seem to be the sort of planning long needed to keep the national economy on firm footing. Since we are to have a planned economy of sorts, we must go more than just part way. We must enter the field with more than just track shoes if we intend to stay in the race.

Such crystal ball tactics are what we need to keep our politics on as firm a level as our economy.

When we are certain our government is planning for the future rather than to erase the smudges left from previous mistakes, chances are we'll have little worry about communism gaining a foothold in our country.

Of English China and Czech Shoes —

Reader Gillis has a good point when he mentions tariff barriers hurting world trade. (See Letters to the Editor, columns four and five.) But what Reader Gillis seems to have forgotten is the reciprocal trade agreements acts, passed in 1932 as an amendment to the Smoot-Hawley tariff of 1928.

Under the reciprocal trade agreements act, the President has authority to lower tariff rates on a reciprocal basis by as much as fifty percent at a time. The only flaw here is the President can never do away with any tariff by the powers of the act.

This act based on reciprocity is a fine thing for world trade. Many who opposed the act in the beginning have come around to that way of thinking. Chief among these is Sen. Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan. In fact, part of Vandenberg's historic reversal in the early 40's was spurred by high tariff principles and his acceptance of tariff reciprocity.

Now Reader Gillis mentions the principle of absolute and of comparative advantage as contributing to America's greatness. Here again, he has the right slant—as far as he goes. But if we took him at his word and stuck truly to comparative advantage, all our shoes would come from Czechoslovakia, all our fine China from England and nobody but Americans would build automobiles.

Fine for automotive manufacturers, but not so good for those in other industries.

Take this interpretation on a step farther and nobody but Americans would grow grain. This would work out fine for farmers for awhile, but the end result would be depleted soil and a starving world.

There's one more factor to be considered. Every time reciprocal trade agreements have come before congress for extension, it's been a fight from the start. We almost scared our state department out of a few years' growth when we nearly refused extension last June just as the International Trade organization was being set up. It looks like a case of can't see the trees for the forest.

BASIC TRAYNOR

Watched the Soap Box Derby Sunday. Am convinced the younger generation are better mechanics than we were. They really know how to build those cars.

Reminds me of the time I made my bid for glory only to be disqualified on a technicality. What a race that was!

I thought my car was pretty slick looking but some people seemed to think that I took the term "soap box" too seriously.

In fact when the judges were confronted by it, they had to retire for a special consultation. Seems they weren't quite sure just what the thing was.

I had to answer many embarrassing questions but I finally convinced them that it was a car.

I pointed out it had four wheels and they agreed it certainly did have four wheels. That won the argument and, after advising me to be careful when I was on the hill alone with it, they gave me a number.

TO THE EDITOR:

I have been slowly stewing all day regarding your "British Dollar Crisis; A History." May I commend you upon your analysis of the situation up to the final two paragraphs.

"Britain's inefficient, costly production" . . . may be in some degree true; however, inasmuch as the "world market" into which the British are trying to export is primarily the U.S.A., it might be worth looking into the market, ourselves.

After World War I, congress passed the Smoot-Hawley tariff, thereby making it virtually impossible for foreign countries to pay their war-debts, as their products could not compete with American goods.

Although there has been no prohibitive tariff passed since World War II, the tariff rates are still quite high. In the case of British automobiles, it is high enough to put the low-priced British automobile on the same level with the American lower priced cars.

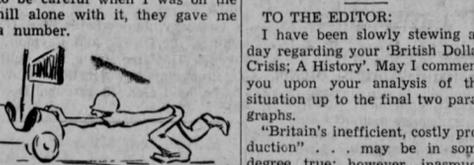

This amounts to a subsidy to our Infant Automobile Industries, and the cost is paid by the American consumer.

As an American consumer, currently driving an almost antediluvian model B Ford, sterling vehicle though it is, I become more irritated with that tariff every time my roof leaks, which is every time it rains.

American industry and consequent prosperity have been built largely upon the economic principles of specialization and the principles of absolute and comparative advantage.

It is high time the American consumer insists on a truly competitive economy in which his ultimate welfare will be considered, through the medium of true competition.

Besides these selfish reasons, a lifting of restrictive tariff barriers would enable us to be even more selfish and simultaneously altruistic.

Soon, however, they got me on the technicality. Some of the other contestants objected to the fact that I got out and pushed the car the last fifty yards.

What was I to do? I was in the lead but the car couldn't quite make it to the finish line.

You can imagine how foolish I felt with about five thousand people cheering me on and my car refusing to go any further. I wasn't about to let the other two guys go whizzing by, so I got out and pushed.

I tried to explain that there just wasn't enough hill but no one would listen. I don't know how they expected the car to run on the straight section. Mine was definitely a hill car.

However, time has healed the wound and I am content to think that I at least had my finger tips on glory.

Those kids really had a day Sunday, though. I never saw so many in my life. They were all over the place. One of them was selling pop and he really could sell the stuff.

He picked me out as a likely looking customer and I swear I never drank so much pop in my life. There was no sense in arguing with the little guy.

If I refused to buy it, he raised such a fuss that all the mothers and fathers thought I was beating him.

Iowa Corn May Be Close to Previous Year's Record High

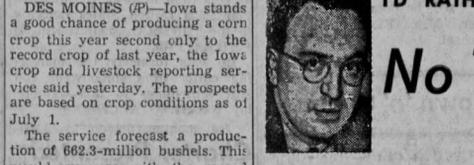

DES MOINES (AP)—Iowa stands a good chance of producing a corn crop this year second only to the record crop of last year, the Iowa crop and livestock reporting service said yesterday. The prospects are based on crop conditions as of July 1.

The service forecast a production of 662.3-million bushels. This would compare with the record yield of 667.7-million bushels. As of July 1, the service said, the per acre yield would be 60 bushels, one bushel short of last year's record.

"Prospects now are fully as good as those of last year at the same time," the service said. "However, the crop will require timely rains if it is to equal or exceed last year's production."

"It is a bit dry now over parts of the state as the corn goes into the silk and tassel stage. We are going to have to have timely rains if the high production potential is to be maintained."

"The crop is further advanced than usual, with about seven percent of the crop in the tassel stage by July 9. Outside of a few late fields, the corn is all laid by and stands are generally excellent, clean and free of weeds."

I'D RATHER BE RIGHT

No Time to Talk About It

By SAMUEL GRAFTON (New York Post Syndicate)

The question before us is not whether we can do anything about unemployment, because we obviously can, if we want to. The only real issue is whether we are going to face up to the problem. The question is whether we are going to take up the question.

Ours is much more a crisis of complacency than it is an economic crisis. It is, if anything, a moral crisis.

The plain truth is that we have passed through a long period of complacency on economic questions, of which Mr. Dewey's complacent campaign last year was the culmination.

And Mr. Truman won that election precisely because he wasn't complacent. He did not win because he knew all the answers, he won because he knew what the questions were.

THE AMERICAN PEOPLE

voted for Mr. Truman not so much because they believed he would solve all their problems, but because they felt he at least identified those problems correctly.

They voted for him because he lived, politically, in the same world in which they lived, a world of concern about a potential decline in living standards and the threatened loss of extremely hard-won gains.

And now the same curious fight has to be fought all over again. It is not a fight over whether we can solve our problems, so much as it is a fight just to get them on the agenda.

It is a strange, almost a hidden quarrel, over whether we intend to continue with complacency for a little longer, or whether we propose to get help to ourselves. The issue is whether we are going to face the issue.

AND THE QUESTION before us isn't Lillithal. It isn't even economy in government — except insofar as that question is always with us, like truth, beauty and what is love.

These and other such issues are being raised for us often and passionately but they are not the problems which threaten our stability at this moment.

The problem which is a threat to our stability is unemployment — the problem, which, as I say, can't seem to get a place on the agenda.

To put it another way, our problem is ourselves, and that is a more difficult and complicated problem than any straight economic issue could possibly be.

Interpreting the News — Tito's Loan Chances Slimmer

By J. M. ROBERTS, JR.
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

Marshall Tito, by deciding to close the Yugoslav-Greek border, has found a face-saving method for getting out of the Greek civil war. Whether it boosts his chances for an American loan remains to be seen.

The ability of the Greek Communist guerrillas to escape across the border, there to be reorganized and re-supplied for renewed forays, has been one of the great drawbacks to the Anglo-American effort to help the Greek army clean up that situation.

Tito, increasingly aware that the cominform might attempt to include Yugoslav as well as Greek Macedonia in a new Communist state, and badly in need of western economic ties to replace those cut off by the east, has been backing off for some time.

Guerrillas had already accused him of stopping aid, and of actually permitting Greek troops to use Yugoslav soil against them.

The marshal also was under pressure from the U.S. Not that world bank loans are based on politics, American officials laboriously point out.

But they say that "uneconomic activities," like aid to guerrillas for political purposes, have a bearing on a government's financial qualification.

Tito, his five-year-plan in bad shape because of the cominform's economic boycott, has been busier than the traditional one-armed paper hanger with the hives.

He is cut off from most trade by Russia, Bulgaria, Hungary, Romania, Czechoslovakia and Poland.

His people are upset over loss of Russian support for their claims to Austrian Carinthia.

His army and secret police are engaged in trying to prevent infiltration of cominform agents from his former allies in the east, fearing the Moscow-liners may eventually try a coup.

He is trying to qualify for western aid and western trade on a strictly business basis, without giving up what he calls his socialization program at home.

And then he pulled what western observers are calling a big boner by incorporating his Trieste occupation zone into the Yugoslav economy, substituting his dinar for the occupation lira.

This may have been a ploy of economic desperation, to avoid continued redemption of the lira, brought in by thousands of Italians who live in the zone but work in or near Trieste.

It may have been an effort to offset the Corinthian business to the public mind.

But the Italians and many others took it as an effort to establish a fait accompli in the zone as France has done in the Saar and Poland in German Silesia.

It may cost him the trade treaty he was eagerly trying to work out with Italy, and generally stiffen the western attitude toward him.

There had been some easing of this attitude, some indications of a "Let Tito live" policy, so long as he remained divorced from the cominform.

But the Trieste thing might be bad.

There is a strong question whether the concession on Greece, recognized as due at least as much to the cominform war as to any westward leaning, will restore the balance which had been building up in Tito's favor.

Seminary Students Correlate Religion, Psychiatry in Work

Five seminary students, working as attendants at the state psychopathic hospital, are learning the use of psychiatry in the teaching of religion.

The students, studying for the priesthood in the Episcopal church, are here under a program sponsored by Seabury-Western Theological seminary of Evanston, Ill.

Under the 10-week program, now in its third year, the students work as hospital attendants, attend lectures by the hospital staff and make a field trip to Mount Pleasant State Mental hospital.

Max L. Kors, Beatrice, Neb., one of the attendants, is a student at Seabury-Western, and a veteran of three years service with the 96th signal service, U.S. army, during the war.

D. Sanford (Sandy) Duncombe, Briarcliff Manor, N.Y., also is a student at Seabury-Western. An American field service ambulance driver with the British Eighth army for a year and a half, he worked his way back to this country with the merchant marine and joined the U.S. army, serving two years.

John Pruessner, Wichita, Kan., another Seabury-Western student is a veteran of two years service with the signal corps in the 104th infantry division.

Robert E. Gariepy, Woonsocket, R.I., is a student at the Berkeley Divinity school, New Haven, Conn. He was Rhode Island's youngest Episcopal lay reader in 1945 at the age of 18.

William G. Worman, Fremont, Ohio, a graduate of the Curtis Institute of Music in Philadelphia, is a student at Bexley Hall, Gambier, Ohio. He served in the U.S. army air forces from 1942-46.

In their ward duties at the hospitals, the students supervise the patients in all of the routine events of the day such as dressing, showering and meals.

In addition to the lectures by the hospital staff on the methods of psychiatric treatment, the Rev. Perry M. Gilfillan from St. Mark's Episcopal church, Waterloo, lectures each week.

Father Gilfillan discusses the spiritual nature of healing and correlates the students' psychiatric experience and training with their spiritual role as future priests.

The students emphasized that their work is not designed to make them specialists in psychiatric healing. The program has a three-fold purpose.

1. To help them learn and recognize cases they will meet that need psychiatric treatment.

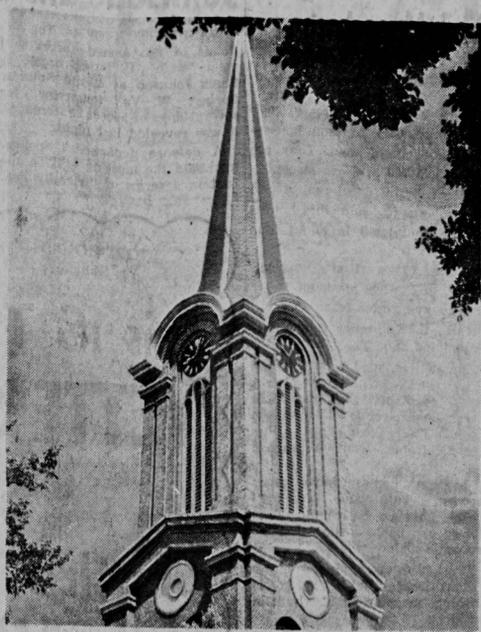

2. To enable them to interpret this need to the patient and his family and friends as an illness that can be treated.

3. To make it possible for them to work in cooperation with the psychiatrist when the patient is improved.

Besides the help to the students in their work, the program is one of the means for re-educating the public as to the nature of mental illnesses, according to authorities at the hospital.

Seminary officials said Iowa City was selected as a location for the program partly because of the excellent facilities available and partly because the cultural background here resembles that of the areas in which the students will work.

Turn a Corner, Lose an Hour

ON WHICH SIDE OF ST. MARY'S CHURCH do you check the time? If it's on the south side, you were an hour ahead yesterday according to the church clock. The Rev. C. H. Meinberg, rector at St. Mary's church, said he didn't even know the clock was out of order. Leonard Belger, janitor at the church, explained the four clock faces operate on different rigs and a set screw might have come loose on the clock which faces east.

Dean Dawson Reelected ASEE Chairman

Dean F.M. Dawson, college of engineering, returned Sunday from Troy, N.Y. where he attended the annual meetings of the American Society for Engineering Education and the Engineering College Research Council.

Dawson, as chairman of the research council, presided at its annual business meeting. He also was reelected chairman until the next annual meeting.

Next year's meeting will be at the University of Washington at Seattle, Dawson said. Thorndyke Seville, dean of engineering at New York University, was elected president of the ASEE.

AUTO ACCIDENT
Automobiles driven by Alfred A. Spaan, 624 S. Clinton street, and Lucille Leinbaugh, 482 Grand avenue, were involved in a collision yesterday at the intersection of Melrose and South Grand avenue, police said. No injuries were reported.

Thursday Deadline Set on Applications For Graduate Tests

Thursday is the deadline for making application to take a graduate record examination Aug. 1 and 2, Prof. Robert L. Ebel, director of university examination service, said yesterday.

The examination is a series of general education tests including mathematics, science, social science, literature, English and advanced tests in the student's field.

Although SUI does not require the examination for admission to graduate school, many professional graduate schools do. The examination is designed for seniors and graduate students and serves as a supplement to their undergraduate records.

The examination fee is $10. Application blanks are available at the examination service office, room 114, University hall.

Missouri Trucker Released on Bond

Robert Pumphrey, Liberty, Mo., pleaded innocent yesterday in justice of the peace court to a charge of reckless driving. He was released on a $200 bond.

Pumphrey, a driver for the Southwest Freight Lines, was taken into custody by State Patrolman J.L. Smith after an accident yesterday on highway 218 four miles south of here involving a car driven by Chris Rayner, 607 S. Johnson street.

Smith said the Rayner car went into the ditch and knocked over a telephone pole. Mr. and Mrs. Rayner were taken to an Iowa City hospital with possible chest injuries, he said.

Justice J.M. Kadlec set Pumphrey's trial for 9 a.m. July 23.

Machines Robbed In 3 Gas Stations

Three Iowa City service stations reported thefts of money from soft drink machines Saturday, police said.

The Deep Rock Oil products station, 304 E. Burlington street, and George's Standard service, 102 E. Burlington street, reported $4 and $5 dollars were taken when the locks on their soft drink machines were forced Saturday night.

The Cliff Hoag service station, 404 E. College street, said two thefts occurred there, one on Wednesday and one on Saturday night. About $6 was taken each time.

Roskup Waives Hearing, Held Under $500 Bond

Edward J. Roskup, 1115 E. Burlington street, was bound over to the grand jury yesterday on a charge of operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated.

Roskup waived preliminary hearing in police court and was held under $500 bond.

He was arrested late Saturday night after his car struck two automobiles in the 500 block on College street, police said.

Polio Victim Dies; 3 Cases Admitted

One boy died of polio Saturday and three new polio patients were admitted at University hospitals over the weekend, according to hospital officials.

Keith Scharf, 7, son of H. W. Scharf, Fort Dodge, died at 5:40 p.m. Saturday. He was described as in "serious" condition when he was admitted to the hospitals earlier in the day.

The Scharf boy's death was the second polio death at University hospitals since the first of the year.

The addition of the three new patients brings to five the total number of "active" polio patients at the hospitals.

The new patients admitted were Victor Jass, 16, Aiden, son of Herman Jass, admitted Sunday; Dallas Jass, 6, Iowa Falls, son of George Jass, admitted Saturday; Mrs. Dorothy Sheerer, 36, Cedar Falls, admitted Saturday. The condition of all three new patients was listed as "fair" yesterday by hospital officials.

Fuhrmann Files Suit, Asks $721 Judgment

V. B. Fuhrmann, Lower Muscatine road, filed a $721 judgment suit in district court yesterday against K. A. Moss and C. E. Moss. The plaintiff charged the defendants defaulted on payment of a promissory note allegedly signed by them March 11, 1946, and asked judgment for the amount of the note plus interest.

Russ Limit Last Berlin Truck Route

BERLIN (AP) — Seven bored Russian soldiers kept a stranglehold last night on the only truck supply route still open from Western Germany to Berlin.

This tiny Soviet guard detachment at Helmstedt, frontier post on the main highway to Berlin, limited passage of trucks to four an hour—96 a day. Before the unexplained "slow-down blockade" was clamped down daily traffic averaged about 300 Berlin-bound trucks at Helmstedt.

A strong smell of rotting fish, fruit and vegetables hung over the checkpoint as more than 100 food-laden trucks lined up under the hot sun waiting their turns to pass.

Many had been turned back from other Soviet zone crossing points closed to Berlin-bound trucks since Friday. Only at Helmstedt was restricted truck traffic permitted by the Russians.

A British protest that the truck curb violated the four-power agreement on lifting the blockade went unanswered last night. Some allied officials regarded the Soviet slowdown as a pressure move for western acceptance of Russian proposals for more interzonal trade and a higher value for the lowly east mark.

Trucks headed for other points in the Soviet zone outside western Berlin were waved on through with quick inspections. German buses and private passenger cars moved freely at all times.

The slowdown affected mainly shipments of fish, fruit and vegetables—all unrationed foods which west Berliners have been buying in large amounts.

But it did not seriously threaten the city's supplies. The airlift roared on, bringing about 8,000 tons of food and fuel daily to Berlin's western sectors. Airlift authorities announced last night 6,177 tons had been flown to Berlin in the last 24 hours, a total below average because of early morning fog.

Train and barge traffic from western Germany was about back to normal.

British military government sources said the western powers would take strong action against the blockade. The new harassment of Berlin's supply lines produced a tense atmosphere for today's meeting of the four military commanders of divided Berlin.

Ex-Sheriff Unmasked As Hooded Flogger

BIRMINGHAM, ALA. (AP) — A former special deputy sheriff was unmasked as the accused ringleader of Alabama's hooded floggers yesterday in a roundup of 17 men indicted for terrorism.

A suburban police chief also was among those arrested. By late yesterday 12 of the 17 had been taken into custody. Five of them were ordered held without bond, including the two most heavily indicted men on the list. They were Coleman A. (Brownie) Lollar, 35, and A.B. Carradine, 39. Each was accused of four separate acts of flogging while masked, one of "boycotting" and one of first degree burglary.

SUI Librarian Examines Ding's Cartoons

"PRESIDENT TRUMAN'S STERLING ADVICE" on inflation, one of Jay N. (Ding) Darling's cartoons given to SUI libraries, is being examined by Miss Grace Wormer, assistant director of libraries. Darling retired from the Des Moines Register and Tribune three months ago after 49 years of editorial cartooning. Miss Wormer processes all manuscripts and works given to the library by Iowans.

Darling's Cartoons Emphasize Crusade for Soil Conservation

A pictorial crusade for soil conservation is the theme of many of the several hundred Jay N. (Ding) Darling cartoons at the SUI libraries.

Brought from Des Moines about a week ago, the cartoons are the original works of Darling, for many years a Des Moines Register and Tribune cartoonist. The original cartoons are sketched in black ink and average 18 by 24 inches in size.

Darling began cartooning 49 years ago and since that time has drawn a political history of the United States and Iowa, with special emphasis on the problems of soil conservation.

The cartoons at the library here are by no means all of Darling's work, for he gave his originals away quite freely.

This is indicated in a journal accompanying the cartoons which lists the date of drawing, publication and disposition of his cartoons.

Records show that he gave one cartoon each to the Yale and Princeton university libraries; Harold L. Ickes, former Secretary of the Interior; Leon Henderson, former head of the office of price administration, and to many others.

Darling evidently did not know what became of his cartoon titled "Scientific Data on Growing a Lawn," for after the journal listing he had written, "Oh, I don't know."

Grace Wormer, assistant director of libraries, said that ultimately the cartoons will be processed and put on file in the Iowa room of the new library now in construction.

Construction Begins On 2 More Lustron Steel Houses Here

Work began yesterday on two more Iowa City Lustron houses—made entirely of steel. They are at 705 and 709 S. Clark street.

Roland Smith, local realtor and Lustron dealer, said the houses will be completed in about four weeks.

Iowa City's first Lustron home, in the 800 block on Melrose avenue, across from the varsity football practice field, was completed June 28.

The houses, made of porcelain fused to steel at high temperatures, are shipped here by truck in pieces. Each piece is loaded on the truck so those needed first—like house frames—can be reached first.

Lustron homes have five rooms, a bath and a utility room, but no basement. The floors are asphalt tile over a concrete slab.

The houses are equipped with a radiant heating unit, automatic washing machine and built-in furniture. The built-in furniture includes a vanity dresser in the "master" bedroom and a book case in the living room.

The Lustron company claims the houses never have to be painted, are termite-proof and fire-proof, and you can't even hear hail pounding on the roof during a storm.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

ROBERT CONSIDINE, columnist and co-author of Thirty Seconds Over Tokyo, was cruising in a friend's brand-new convertible one morning about ten when he discovered that the car was equipped with a telephone.

He couldn't resist calling his wife, Mildred. That good lady was awakened from a sound sleep to hear an operator drone, "There is a mobile call for you." "I don't know anybody in Mobile," said Mrs. C. firmly, and hung up.

The operator rang her again, however, and she heard her husband say, "What hath God wrought?" "Come home," answered Mrs. Considerine. "You're drunk."

Louis Kronenberger once visited the home of a brand-new millionaire. The furnishings were ornate; the only thing missing was pictures on the walls. "I suppose," hazarded Kronenberger, "you're going to acquire some old masters?" "I should say not," replied the hostess. Get ourselves painted!

Johnson Calls Unity Meetings

WASHINGTON (AP) — Top officials of the armed forces will meet with Defense Secretary Louis Johnson at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., tomorrow for several days of secret conferences, it was revealed last night.

A defense department spokesman said the meeting will be the first in a series of "friendly get-togethers" which Johnson has planned as a way of bringing the leaders of the three services into harmony on basic national strategy.

More than a dozen high-ranking officials, including the secretaries of the army, navy and air force, the joint chiefs of staff, Undersecretary of Defense Stephen T.

Early, and General of the Army Dwight D. Eisenhower, will be hand.
