Nation's Steel Strike Delayed; Fact-Finding Board Appointed

WASHINGTON (UP)—A nationwide steel strike was averted for at least two months yesterday and President Truman immediately named a three-man public fact-finding board to recommend a settlement of the contract dispute.

The board includes a college economics professor and two lawyers.

The last threat of a mass walk-out that had been scheduled for midnight last night was erased when U. S. Steel corporation, largest of the producers, notified the President it was accepting reluctantly his proposal for dealing with the deadlock. But big steel made it clear it didn't like it.

Its acceptance telegram was received at the White House just 10 hours before the deadline set by the CIO united steelworkers for closing down those plants which rejected a proposed 60-day truce to let the presidential board investigate their wage-pension controversy.

The other members of big steel—including Republic and Bethlehem—and a host of smaller producers accepted earlier. All emphasized they will not be bound by the board's recommendations.

The president, who stood firm all along on his proposal to handle the dispute outside the Taft-Hartley law, immediately appointed the following board to try to seek a steel accord which probably would set a pattern for other mass industries:

Carroll R. Daugherty, professor of business economics at Northwestern university, Evanston, Ill., chairman.

Samuel I. Rosenman, former special counsel to President Roosevelt and now a New York attorney.

David L. Cole, Paterson, N. J., attorney and labor relations expert.

Mr. Truman sent letters to the new board members voicing the hope they can meet soon.

The White House said all three had accepted the assignment.

Relay Tower Building Slows TV Reception

Television set owners in Iowa City probably will have to rely on a Davenport station for their programs for at least another year.

Northwestern Bell Telephone company officials said yesterday two microwave relay towers now under construction in this area will not be in operation until late next year.

One tower is being built near the Nolan settlement on the Johnson-Cedar county line. The other will be a mile east of Homestead.

Meanwhile, officials at WOC, Davenport, said yesterday they plan regular program broadcasts beginning Oct. 1. These will include studio productions, local sporting events and "canned" television film.

The officials said Iowa City will be in their "secondary coverage area" but with a good outside antenna—the higher the better—reception should be "very good."

The "secondary area" begins outside a 40-mile radius of station WOC. They said residents of the quad-cities should get adequate reception with only inside antennas.

Barracks Damaged By Driverless Car

A driverless car rolled from its parking place on Market street, crossed Madison street just north of the Iowa Union and smashed into the lounge of the Madison court barracks yesterday afternoon, police reported.

The car, owned by Harvey E. Contz, P. 2, Waterloo, struck the front entry of the lounge missing a large picture window by a few inches. Damage to the building was estimated at about $50.

It was reported the car was being used by Theta Xi fraternity brothers of Contz who was in Waterloo.

Picket Signs Not Needed Now

NOT WANTING TO TAKE a chance of being caught off-guard in case the threatened steel strike materialized, members of the CIO united steel workers local 1397 at Homestead, Pa., prepared picket signs yesterday. The signs were not needed because President Truman's 60-day peace plan was accepted by the steel industry, thus delaying the walkout.

State Officials May Aid Bridge Finance

Iowa state highway commission surveyors yesterday began surveying the Burlington street bridge and its intersection with South Riverside drive, Grand avenue and Melrose avenue.

Party Chief A.M. Boyd of the commission's preliminary survey department said yesterday his crew was "gathering data for whatever proposed improvements" the highway commission decides to make.

When the surveyors complete their work, Boyd said, the highway commission will probably meet with the city council and Consulting Engineer Ned L. Ashton to decide on bridge improvements.

"It's a good indication they (the state highway commission) are interested and are going to do something," Mayor Preston Koser said yesterday. He referred to state and federal aid to help the city finance the bridge improvement.

Ashton said the commission was following up bridge plans and estimates which city officials laid before the commission June 7.

Vandenberg Pleads Pact Vote To Bolster European Jitters

WASHINGTON (UP)—Sen. Arthur Vandenberg (R-Mich.) told a special night session of the senate last night the Atlantic defense pact will be reduced to a "shambles" if a chain reaction of treaty reservations is set off.

Senate foreign policy leaders opened a drive to block reservations aimed at telling the world the United States does not regard the treaty as an obligation to help rearm western Europe.

Earlier, the senate agreed to vote Thursday on the pact, and its ratification appeared certain. Vandenberg begged senators to keep an "open mind" on reservations pending "totally convincing proof," which he said would be presented against them.

He said reservations by the U.S. senate on the arms question might lead to reservations by other nations and thus "subdivide by inference the general responsibilities" for common defense under the 12-nation agreement.

"If each of us is going to start trying to spell out what this sentence means, the net result is a shambles," Vandenberg said.

Sen. John Foster Dulles (R-NY) and Vandenberg expressed concern that delays, or waverings on senate ratification would give western Europe the diplomatic jitters.

Vandenberg interrupted a speech by Sen. Claude Pepper (D-Fla.) to make another plea against treaty limitations, and directed his remarks at Sen. Harry Cain (R-Wash.), who had asked Pepper to detail his stand on reservations.

Pepper, too, said limitations by the senate on the arms question could well be followed by similar action on other phases of the treaty abroad.

Although Pepper cast one of the four votes against the Vandenberg resolution last June which laid the groundwork for the Atlantic pact, he strongly urged the pact's approval last night.

The treaty, Pepper said, might be "the final step to end the cold war" with Russia. He argued it was too late to turn back from the path of collective defense through regional agreements.

Hydraulic, Engineer Research Spending Reported at $139,000

A total of $139,000 has been spent for research projects at SUU by the college of engineering and the Iowa institute of hydraulic research during the past fiscal year, according to a report released by the engineering college research council.

The expenditures of the Iowa institute of hydraulic research are listed at $99,000. The institute is self-supporting; it receives no income from university appropriations, except for services rendered.

The report, compiled under the direction of F. M. Dawson, dean of the SUU college of engineering, lists $40,000 spent by all the departments of engineering. According to the report, substantially more than half this total was derived from private sources.

Cooperative arrangements with the U.S. department of agriculture, the war and navy departments, the U.S. geological survey, the soil conservation service and the U.S. weather bureau have been fundamental in developing the research of the institute, the report said.

The report listed 11 projects the institute is working on at the present time for the office of naval research.

TOKYO (SATURDAY) (UP)—A runaway empty electric train crashed through a depot into a suburban town last night killing six persons and injuring at least a dozen, police reported yesterday.

Charges Nation Being Led Into Dictatorship

Workers Take 7th Inning Stretch

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Here's something new in labor relations.

Ben Winn, Chester, Pa., lumber merchant, has installed a television set so the carpenters, plumbers and others may watch baseball games while working on Winn's new home at Merion, Pa.

He reports it hasn't slowed the work at all. On the contrary, he says, the men seem inspired to work harder after they watch an inning or two—at his expense.

UN Aliens Scrutinized For Spies, Clark Says

WASHINGTON (AP)—Twenty or more foreigners attached to the United Nations headquarters in New York City are under investigation by the justice department for possible espionage and intelligence activities, Attorney General Tom Clark disclosed yesterday.

However, the cabinet officer told a senate judiciary subcommittee:

"This is not to imply that these parties are actively engaged in espionage or intelligence work but merely that available information requires these investigations and that they are presently in progress."

The subcommittee, headed by Sen. Pat McCarran (D-Nev.) is conducting hearings on a bill designed to tighten immigration bars against subversive aliens, specifically including those who come here as representatives of foreign governments or international organizations.

Altogether, Clark said, his department currently is investigating approximately 685 aliens, of whom, he said, about 4 percent are attached to the UN in New York. Four percent of 685 is slightly more than 27.

Byron Price, acting UN secretary-general, said at Lake Success that an international agreement approved by congress provides procedures whereby "a person who abuses his privilege of residence in the United States may be required to leave the country."

He said the United States government has not requested the UN to apply this provision.

Other UN officials said they were puzzled by Clark's phrase "attached to the United Nations." They said they didn't know whether the attorney general was talking about some of the 3,000 persons employed by the UN secretariat or some of the members of 59 delegations present at UN headquarters.

Public Housing Bill Signed by Truman

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Truman yesterday signed the new public housing and slum clearance bill and promptly sent congress a request for $23,650,000 to get it in operation.

He also asked congress to grant the agriculture department an authorization of $25-million for loans on farm housing.

In appropriations, Mr. Truman requested $3.4-million for the office of housing administrator to get the slum clearance program underway; $4,750,000 for the public housing administrator for the low-rent housing program; $6-million for the agriculture department for a farm housing, and $9.5-million for the census bureau for a 1950 housing census.

BLAST KILLS 12

PRUEM, GERMANY (AP)—A French army depot exploded last night, killing 12 Germans, injuring scores more, and leaving hundreds homeless in the vicinity of this west German town.

'Big Airforce' Backers Jolted By Huge Military Budget Cut

WASHINGTON (AP)—A $1,010,000,000 slash in military spending was voted yesterday by the senate appropriations committee in an action which dealt a severe blow to advocates of a bigger airforce.

The cut the committee recommended to the senate was from a total of $15-billion in cash and contract authority previously voted by the house for operating the army, navy and airforce during the current fiscal year, which began July 1.

Sen. Elmer Thomas (D-Okla.) told reporters that an additional slash of up to $600-million in funds for stockpiling materials may be recommended before the senate acts.

As for the slashes voted yesterday, Thomas said that Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson will be directed — with his prior agreement — to cut $493-million from the funds of the three services in any manner he wishes.

Slash Federal Expenditures, Taft Suggests

COLUMBUS, OHIO (AP)—Sen. Robert Taft, the Republican congressional quarterback, last night accused President Truman of leading the United States to a dictatorship.

"Huge government spending has from the beginning been one of the essential features of Mr. Truman's program to follow the labor socialized government of England into a totalitarian state, directing the lives and activities of its citizens," Taft said.

"Any President except one obsessed with the panacea of government spending would have cut his budget to meet the revenue provided by the people."

"It is completely nonsense to say that the government cannot cut its expense," he continued. "There is not a bureau in Washington which couldn't cut 10 percent of its personnel and be more efficient."

"Taft coupled a vigorous attack on the President's budget with a defense of the 81st congress, which he said "is not a negative congress although its great merit will be that it has prevented changes which would affect the whole nature of our government and the character of the American republic."

"Affirmatively," said Taft, "its program is:

(1) Reduce expenses and avoid a tax increase;
(2) Adopt a welfare program to give federal aid to states to help them do a better job in education, health, housing and relief. This whole program would cost about a tenth of the President's compulsory health insurance alone;

(3) Revise the Taft-Hartley act to correct those features to which sound criticism has been directed but retain its basic principles of equal collective bargaining and union responsibility. The senate passed that kind of a bill;

(4) Maintain our aid to foreign countries but only to the extent absolutely essential to maintain peace without sacrificing the liberty and the security of the United States."

Taft offered as the only way out of the present recession "solvent, efficient government spending economically for those projects which the people can afford and which they approve."

First County Bonus Checks to IC Men

The first four Johnson county veterans to receive their veterans' bonus checks in the first mailing will be Keith B. Kelley, 404 1-2 S. Summit street, William J. Doherty, 228 1-2 E. College street, William W. Kriedelbaugh, 336 Finkbine park, and Donald E. Northup, 310 S. Capitol street.

The amounts paid to these men will vary from $210 to $500.

A total of 6,000 bonus checks was mailed from Des Moines yesterday, according to G.C. Greenwalt of the state service compensation board, Des Moines, who gave the information above.

He estimated there are 3,250 eligible veterans in Johnson county. If 3,000 claims are paid in Johnson county, the total amount of bonus money paid would amount to approximately $1,140,000, he said.

The average payment per claim on the 25,000 applications already processed is $388.

Pope's Decree Brings Czech Treason Count

PRAGUE (AP)—Justice Minister Alexi Cepicka said last night a treason charge will be lodged against anyone who tries to enforce Pope Pius' decree excommunicating Communists from the Roman Catholic Church.

"Let no one have the slightest doubt that anyone who, in any way, should attempt to carry out this directive of the Vatican perpetrates treason," Cepicka said in a speech.

"All acts violating valid laws will be punished as such. Whoever tries to carry out on our territory the order of the main enemy of our state (the Pope), let him count on the fact that he must forfeit all right to call himself a Czech or Slovak."

Cepicka disclosed plans for a law to give the Communist government control of practically all Roman Catholic church affairs in this nation, three-fourths of whose 12-million people are Catholics.

Cepicka Brands Archbishop Beran as Traitor

CZECH MINISTER OF JUSTICE, Alexi cepicka (left) declared yesterday that anyone attempting to enforce the Vatican's order of excommunication against Catholics would be charged with treason. He branded the Most Rev. Josef Beran (right) as a traitor to the state and moved to seize full control of the church. Cepicka and Archbishop Beran are shown at a meeting in Prague early this year. Ribbons worn by Archbishop Beran are for his resistance work during the German occupation of Czechoslovakia.

Russians Return GI, Held Since January

BERLIN (AP)—An American soldier was returned by the Russians to the U.S. sector of Berlin last night after spending five months in Soviet sector prisons.

The Russians turned over Christus Rangavies, 21, New York City, to American authorities. Rangavies, a recruit in the 16th U.S. constabulary squadron here, had been missing since January.

The Berlin military post of the U.S. provost marshal said Rangavies is suffering from malnutrition. He was sent to a hospital for examination. He will have to face court martial on charges of being absent without leave.

An officer said he could not explain the delay in releasing the soldier.

Tiger 9th Ends Boston Win Streak, 8-7

17-Hit Attack Wins for Trout

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit's hit-hungry Tigers burst out in a rash of 17 safe blows yesterday to whip Boston 8-7 and snap the Red Sox' eight-game winning streak.

The Tigers had to come from far behind to win. They got four runs in the ninth inning to give Phil (Dizzy) Trout his second victory of the year against six losses and hang a fifth straight defeat on Boston's Jack Kramer, who has yet to win a game.

Both pitchers were the third to be used by their clubs in the free-hitting game.

The Sox, who collected 10 hits in all off starter Hal Newhouser, Freddie Hutchinson and Trout, got off to a two-run lead in the first on Vern Stephens' 21st home run of the year with Ted Williams aboard.

They picked up two more in the fourth and three in the sixth to run up a 7-2 lead.

In the seventh, Detroit began to click. Three straight singles by Paul Campbell, George Kell and Pat Mullin accounted for one run in and sent Boston Starter Ellis Kinder to the showers.

Earl Johnson got the side out with one more score and retired Detroit without difficulty in the eighth.

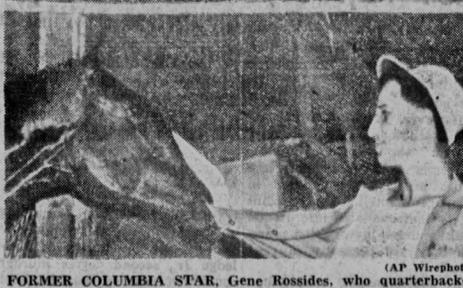

But in the ninth, with Detroit trailing by three runs, he wasn't so effective. Campbell led off with a double. Kell singled him to third, and he scored when Mullin grounded out.

Vic Wertz banged out a single that finished Johnson and brought in Kramer. His hit scored Kell.

Johnny Groth greeted Kramer with a resounding double to left. Aaron Robinson was given a free pass and Johnny Lipon's fourth straight single scored the two runs that ended the game.

FORMER COLUMBIA STAR, Gene Rossides, who quarterbacked and passed for the New York school, has turned down a free grid offer for a law scholarship offered by Walter D. Fletcher. Rossides is shown at Belmont park race track, where he tends Fletcher's horses from six to 11 every morning. The summer job is helping Rossides get in shape for the final game of his career, the New York Giants-College All-Star game in September.

Athletics Knock Out Feller, Beat Tribe for Fowler, 8-0

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Philadelphia Athletics knocked Bob Feller out of the box last night and defeated the Cleveland Indians, 8-0, for their first victory in seven starts.

Pitcher Dick Fowler again made the world champs look bad with his so-called nothing ball. He allowed seven hits and beat them for the third time this season.

Fowler, whose sore arm seems to help, let two Indians reach third base and permitted only one extra base hit, a double by Jim Hegan in the second inning.

After picking up a run in the third, the A's got two more in the next frame off Feller on four walks and an error. Then they got busy in the sixth.

Fowler socked a double and two subsequent singles plus an error by Hegan produced three runs. That sent Feller to the showers.

In the eighth, with two out, the A's pounded Frank Papias for five straight hits and added two more markers.

Snead's Sub-Par Leads Golf Meet

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Sammy Snead shrugged off a storm and a bad hole yesterday to shoot his second straight 67 and take the lead in the $16,500 Dapper Dan open golf tournament.

Snead's total of 134 for 36 holes put him three strokes ahead of Dick Metz of Virginia Beach, Va., who also had a 67 yesterday.

That 67 is five under par for the 6,850-yard Alcoma golf club course, where par is 36-36-72.

Spahn, Braves Subdue Cubs

BOSTON (AP) — Lefty Warren Spahn clinched his 10th victory with a one-on homer in the second inning last night as the Boston Braves defeated the Chicago Cubs, 6-1.

Jeff Heath made his first out-fielding start since fracturing his ankle last September.

The highly effective Spahn limited the last place Cubs to seven hits as his teammates tallied 13, four of which Pistol Pete Reiser belted.

The Cubs drew first scoring blood by tallying once in the second inning.

Right hander Walter Hacker, the first of the three Chicago flingers, suffered his fifth setback against two victories after Tommy Holmes walked and scored on Del Crandall's double in the lower half of the second frame. Then Spahn lashed his first 1949 homer into the right field bullpen.

The Braves drove Hacker out of action by clouting him for three more runs in the third.

Heath rapped one single out of five tries.

Pollet Blanks Phils On Six-Hitter, 1-0

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Howie Pollet pitched and batted the St. Louis Cardinals to a 1-0 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies last night. He held the Phils to six hits and drove in the winning run with a single in the seventh.

Pollet's victory was his third shutout, his 11th triumph in his last 13 games and No. 12 for the season.

The Cards scored the game's only run in the seventh after two were out. Eddie Kazak walked and went to third on Joe Garagiola's hit. Pollet then singled over second to drive in Kazak.

Two HR's by Berra In Yankee Win, 6-0

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Yankee Catcher Yogi Berra, who in three years as a major leaguer has never been able to hit a home run in his home town of St. Louis, realized a lifetime ambition by belting two of them in Sportman's park last night and led New York to a 6-0 victory over the St. Louis Browns.

Pitcher Eddie Lopat handcuffed the last-place Browns with a five-hit performance. The triumph put the front-running Yankees six and a half games ahead of the runner-up Cleveland Indians, who lost to Philadelphia.

Berra, a product of the Italian neighborhood known as the Hill, hit to the top of the right field pavilion with Joe DiMaggio on base in the fourth. In the sixth Berra blasted another pitch by Ned Garver to the same pavilion roof.

A's Sign Galan After Release from NY Giants

CLEVELAND (AP) — Outfielder Augie Galan, who played with four clubs during his 16 years in the National league, was signed yesterday by the Philadelphia Athletics a few minutes after being released outright by the New York Giants.

The veteran Galan, who batted over .300 during six seasons, had seen only limited pinch-hitting service with the Giants and his batting average was only .059.

Six-Run 8th Inning Enables Washington To Clip Chisox, 9-4

CHICAGO (AP) — The Washington Senators blended six hits with a walk and Luke Appling's throwing error to score six runs in the eighth inning and trim the Chicago White Sox, 9-4, before 3,819 persons yesterday.

All told, the Senators collected 18 hits — their season high.

Outfielder Sam Mele led the potent Senator smacking with four singles in driving in a third of Washington's run total.

Bill Wight held a 4-2 lead going into the eighth in search of his tenth victory.

Before the Senators were finally stopped both Alex Carrasquel and Max Surkont rushed to Wight's rescue.

The victory enabled Washington to square the series at a game apiece and move two and a half lengths in front of the seventh place White Sox.

Parker in Finals Of Chicago Meet

CHICAGO (AP) — The expected Pancho Gonzales-Frankie Parker showdown for the National clay courts tennis title yesterday was half in the making as Parker bounced into the finals with his hardest-earned victory of the tournament.

Parker, five times winner of this meet and second seeded, had to get down to real business for a 6-3, 7-5, 6-3 semi-final round triumph over Herbert Flam, former National junior champion from Beverly Hills, Calif.

The other semi-final match — between top-seeded and defending champion Gonzales and third-seeded Vic Seixas of Philadelphia — will be played today. The championship tangle will be Sunday.

Czech Tennis Players Seek Refuge in U.S.

GSTAAD, SWITZERLAND (AP) — Jaroslav Droby and Vladimir Cernik, two of the world's best known tennis players, turned their backs on their native Czechoslovakia yesterday and prepared to seek admission to the United States as political refugees.

Here for the Swiss national championships, the two defied an order by the Communist-dominated Czech government to return to Prague immediately because of the presence of two Germans and a Spaniard in the tournament.

They said they would continue to play here, then enlist the aid of the U.S. Lawn tennis association and friends abroad in gaining a haven as exiles in the United States.

(In Washington, D.C., state department officials said any request by Droby and Cernik to enter the United States would be received "sympathetically.") They pointed out that other foreign athletes had been permitted to come here after renouncing their governments.

(Former Ambassador Juraj Slavik, a leader among Czech political refugees now in the United States, said that group would help the players and carry their plea to the state department, if necessary. "There is no question but that both of them are anti-Communist," he said.)

(In New York, however, President Russell B. Kingman of the International Lawn tennis federation told the Associated Press that an application by Droby and Cernik to remain in the United States "will be a matter strictly for the state department.")

On the first day of his voluntary exile, Cernik reached the semi-finals of the Swiss tournament by defeating another political exile, Franjo Puncce of Yugoslavia, 6-2, 6-2.

Puncce landed in the finals by default Thursday when Cernik and Droby withdrew on orders of the Czech government. But the two Czechs changed their minds yesterday morning and announced they were not returning to Czechoslovakia.

Three Dodger Home Runs Put Reds Down for 8th Time, 11-5

BROOKLYN (AP) — Home runs by Tommy Brown, Roy Campanella and Jackie Robinson plus some sloppy fielding enabled the Brooklyn Dodgers to trounce the Cincinnati Reds, 11-5, yesterday.

The triumph was the Dodgers' eighth straight over the Reds at Ebbets field this season.

Brown poked his first homer of the season with Gil Hodges and Luis Olmo on base in the second inning to begin the rout.

The Dodgers nicked balding Ken Raffensberger for two more runs in the fourth with the aid of an error by Ted Kluszewski.

The Dodgers polished off Raffensberger in the fifth, scoring five runs although they got only one hit—Campanella's 12th homer.

Robinson completed the Dodger scoring in the sixth when he lined his ninth homer into the left field stands.

Newcombe, in posting his seventh victory, granted ten hits including Walker Cooper's 12th homer. Two double plays pulled Newcombe out of jams.

Church On the Offensive —

Fifty million Catholics behind the iron curtain now find themselves caught between their church and communist politics. The church's recent excommunication decree was directed to include all Catholics who advocate the Communist cause. There can no longer be any such thing as a Catholic Communist.

Actually, there never could be anything like a Catholic Communist. Communism simply stated, rules out the possibility of a church. The government is heaven, the officials, God, in a communist scheme.

The church has frequently said that it would "gladly render unto Caesar the things which are Caesar's, but we will not sacrifice to him that which is God's."

Communism, though, replaces Christianity by Marxism, which assumes for the state the rights in matters of conscience, faith and morals—something no Christian can honestly accept.

The church has now gone on the offensive. Alarmed at losing ground in the communism-church fight, Pope Pius XII has introduced a sweeping force into the conflict.

He has denied the sacraments and comforts of the church against militant Catholic Communists all over the world.

In previous excommunication decrees the Pope has singled out small groups and cut them off from the church. But this most recent action poses a knotty problem for millions of Catholics in Czechoslovakia, Poland, France and elsewhere.

In France, nearly four million persons voted the Communist ticket although they are not members of the party. In the face of excommunication, it seems unlikely that more than a handful of these French voters will desert their church.

About two-thirds of Czechoslovakia's population is Catholic. In Poland more than 90 percent of the 24-million people claim Catholicism. Hungary boasts a two-thirds Catholic population.

It is these people who have been forced into a decision of the church vs. communism fight. It is these people who will be hit by the excommunication decree.

Specifically, the excommunication order includes three groups.

1—Catholics who are actively engaged in Communist party work.

2—Catholics who have embraced the Communist theories, but not the practices.

3—Catholics who have exposed themselves to Communist doctrines but are undecided on whether to follow Marxian or Christian teachings.

The cold war thus far has been largely one of ideologies. Power politics and economics have been the chief weapons. Now the battle of ideas has been joined with a vengeance.

Atlantic Pact: GOP's Lineup —

The sharpest senate split over the Atlantic pact runs down the center of the Republican party ranks.

On one side stands Sen. Robert Taft and Sen. Ralph Flanders. They both have announced they will vote against the pact, but for different reasons.

On the other side of the split stands Sen. Arthur Vandenberg and Sen. John Foster Dulles, newly-appointed legislator from New York. Both champion the pact; both are bipartisan godfathers to the proposed treaty.

Taft, most influential member of the anti-pact scattering, objects to the arms program which he feels must go along with the pact. The Ohioan sees such an arms program as an excessive drain on the nation's economy.

Flanders, also agreeing with the economic drain point of view, would rather see the western nations provide mutual security through the United Nations.

Together, Taft and Flanders have advocated the Atlantic pact be scrapped. Instead, they propose, the U. S. should extend the Monroe doctrine to western Europe. By sticking to the 126-year-old doctrine, they claim, America can best meet the present emergency and still show its continuing support of the UN.

After discounting Taft and Flanders, the anti-pact group dwindles fast in quantity and quality. It is, however, composed almost exclusively of Republicans. Nebraska's Kenneth Wherry, Utah's Arthur Watkins and Missouri's Forest Donnell are the most prominent.

Towering over the pro-pact Republicans is Michigan's Arthur Vandenberg, senate champion of the bipartisan foreign policy in general and its latest product in particular.

Backing him up is John Foster Dulles, elder statesman turned senator. New York's Gov. Dewey appointed Dulles to fill Sen. Robert Wagner's vacated senate seat until a special election can be held in the fall.

If he does nothing else between now and adjournment time, Dulles will want to guide the north Atlantic pact through the senate. For the GOP's foreign policy expert helped the administration draft such a pact.

He revealed this week that he and Secretary of State Dean Acheson decided in Paris not to create an "artificial crisis" to insure the pact's passage. But he sincerely, openly wants it passed.

Behind Vandenberg and Dulles is the majority of the senate's Republicans. Teamed with the anticipated overwhelming Democratic vote for the pact, they seem certain to approve it when debate ends next Thursday.

Nehru Versus Communism —

India's Premier Jawaharlal Nehru mounted the Calcutta rostrum. He began his speech describing communism as India's "number one enemy."

Several feet away there was a scuffle. A bomb exploded on the edge of the crowd. One policeman lay dead. At least 50 persons were injured. Nehru orated on.

Throughout the speech, a three-way battle ensued with police trying to keep Communists and Nehru's audience apart. Suddenly a truck flying the hammer and sickle rolled up to the edge of the crowd. The men aboard—shouting "go back, Nehru!"—threw stones into the audience. Another 50 were injured.

Gradually the riot-ruffled crowd melted away. Nehru finished his address without an interruption.

A short time ago it was religious fanaticism that threw Indian against Indian in bloody riots. Now, more and more, it is communism versus Nehru's brand of socialistic democracy.

The incident at Calcutta this week is only the beginning as Russia eyes the orient's millions living south of China.

It's a Tough Combination Shot

CONRAD

INTERPRETING THE NEWS —

U. S. Can Influence China Rebels

By J. M. ROBERTS JR.
Associated Press Foreign Affairs Analyst

Chiang Kai-Shek's latest appeal for renewed American aid in an effort to halt the Communist penetration of Asia comes at a time when the subject is being newly agitated in Washington.

A number of senators are advocating a new aid program. The Chinese Nationalist government at Canton has been trying to persuade American officials a new military stand can be made in western China.

There have been reports that "young Chinese" with American ideas are organizing a resistance movement.

The planes which have been harassing the Communist around Shanghai apparently are from Chiang's Formosa redoubt, although operating from bases nearer their targets.

On the face of it, renewed resistance seems to be developing. Underneath, American authorities find little on which to base any hope. Economic aid to non-communist territory will continue. Military intervention seems to be over for good.

American policy makers are looking to the past for an explanation of what happened, and to the future for clues on relations with the Communists. As for the present, it is merely accepted.

The administration is expected to answer the senators soon with a "white paper" describing and explaining past policy, but not containing a new program.

The statement is expected to include the famous Wedemeyer report, and likely will cause a lot of people to wonder what all the hullabaloo over it was about.

The report was not a definitive statement of something that could have been done to save China, and much of the importance attached to it came about because it was kept secret.

Its pros and cons serve largely to emphasize the impossibility of the Chinese situation at the time.

A lot of people have interpreted discussions of China policy among the western powers as directed toward development of a new policy.

As I get it, however, they have been directed merely at an agreement for unified action when the time for new policy making arrives. Something just to make sure nobody rushes into unilateral action on such things as the recognition of a Communist government.

(On that point there is strong evidence the Communists will be recognized when their regime is a functioning fact, after the west has exacted whatever concessions it can from them.)

As for Chiang's appeal, there is little new in it.

Most observers now agree with him that the Chinese Communists belong to the Moscow sphere, rather than being nationalistic in the Tito pattern.

Chiang's contention that resistance to the Communist army is still possible in the same areas which resisted Japan — that the situation now is the same as then — is based on one fallacy.

In 1938 and thereafter, the Chinese were fighting a foreign invader. Now an undetermined but vast number of Chinese welcome the Communists as the true successors to the revolutionary mantle of Sun Yat Sen.

This is true both among the peasants, whose lot is such as to make them welcome any change, and among the intellectuals as represented by Madame Sun, Chiang's American-educated sister-in-law and daughter of the man who overthrew the Chinese throne.

The decision before the U.S. government has been whether to become directly involved in the Chinese civil war (or to be re-involved in it now) or to avoid further irritation of relations with the Communists.

The Communists will have a lot of trouble organizing China. They are going to need economic aid which Russia cannot supply, as eastern Europe has found.

They are going to have vast troubles with the large Moslem population. Manchuria lies between Chinese nationalism and Russian acquisitiveness like a bone between two hungry dogs.

(Trouble over Russian hegemony there already has been reported, along with heavy reinforcement of Communist railroad guard forces, but nothing, conformable.)

After a few years the Titoism which the Chinese Communists disclaim now may really develop. Then there might be a possibility of introducing American influence.

If the U.S. can be said to have a Chinese policy now, it seems to be to do nothing which would prevent taking advantage of such an opportunity if it arises.

Direct armed intervention, with large forces supplied entirely from the United States, is now considered the only — and an impossible — alternative.

Railway Strike May Halt Streamliners In 7 Western States

SAN FRANCISCO — The brotherhood of railroad trainmen yesterday called a seven-state strike for July 22 against the Southern Pacific railroad to enforce demands for larger crews.

The strike against the sprawling railroad, the west's largest, could be postponed for at least two months by action of President Truman under the railway labor act.

Approximately 8,000 workers could walk off the trains and out of the yards at 4 p.m. (Iowa time) in California, Texas, New Mexico, Utah, Nevada, Arizona and Oregon and tie up luxury streamliners and limiteds operating to Chicago, New Orleans and north to Portland, Ore.

From Texas to New York City —

Pipe Line Will Carry Gas

NEW YORK — One of these days soon a transcontinental tunnel will stretch 1,840 miles from the Gulf tip of Texas to 132nd street in this city.

Already the first of an army of welders, pipe fitters, miners, trenchers and others has started digging. In time, 6,000 men will be hard at work on the long horizontal hole.

No ordinary hole, this one will pass through 11 states. It will be called the Transcontinental Pipe line, and will carry in its 30-inch steel pipe 340-million cubic feet of gas daily to the eastern seaboard.

It means that eastern cities which never have enjoyed the benefits of natural gas, plus smaller communities adding up to one-ninth of the United States population, will have more and steadier jobs. To say nothing of more heat for their homes.

Digging the slender trench and tunnels for this line will involve the removal of some 10-million cubic yards of earth, enough to bury two Empire State buildings and the Washington monument in a hole 300 feet square, or hide four city blocks to a depth of 650 feet.

More figures and facts: The line will cost $190-million. It will take 20,000 freight cars to haul the pipe. Two and a half years will be required to complete the vast project.

FOR ALL THESE MONTHS, before the folk in Philadelphia, Newark and other communities will feel the glow of natural gas fires, many men will struggle through swamps, mountains and congested communities. Their tasks are prodigious.

Their work starts in the Kaiser steel mill at Fontana, Cal. Great sheets of the tough stuff roll from blast furnaces to pipe rollers in Los Angeles. From there, the finished pipe is moving to a hundred points along the pipe line.

Meantime, you learn from Transcontinental's President Claude A. Williams, 28,000 signatures are being gathered from property owners along the right-of-way, permitting the pipe to pass through their homes and ranches. Some 7,000 tracts of land are involved.

Many engineering and construction problems must be solved. Take the stretch between Baltimore and New York. Here heavily concentrated industrial sections are so puzzling in their complexity, some tunneling will be required through public streets. Too, it will be the first pipe line to pass underneath the Hudson river.

Suspension bridges by the dozen will be required to cross rivers, including the Coosa and Atchafalaya in Alabama. Surprisingly, the engineers aren't the least bit worried about how to cross the Mississippi. They have crossed the turbulent Colorado and other rivers in the past, with giant towers and steel slings.

However, down in Texas, Louisiana and Mississippi, the story is different. There the line crosses 200 miles of morass and irrigated fields. The heavy pipe must be weighted with concrete to prevent it from popping up through the mud and water, it's so buoyant.

How do you get a heavy length of pipe from the railroad across wet fields, far beyond the reach of roads? Trucks will do some of the hauling. Tractors will drag it the remaining distance. And where dragging cannot be done Transcontinental will build temporary roads.

Speaking of 10-million yards of earth — how much is that? Nearly as much as the half-mile chunk that fell into Puget Sound, out in Washington, not long ago. That falling chunk created a tidal wave.

Dynamite will blast much of the earth loose, diggers and drag lines will pull it from the trench. After the pipe is laid, they will push most of it back again — four feet wide and seven feet deep.

How much pipe is 20,000 car loads? First, it creates a cylinder big as a manhole cover nearly 2,000 miles long. Each section must be welded to its neighbor. The cars required would make up a single freight train 160 miles long.

ON THE WORKING SITE, each length is coated with asphalt enamel and wrapped with either lead or fiber glass to protect it from corrosion and static electricity.

When finally all units are joined 10 compressor stations developing 72,000 horsepower will push the gas northward for delivery at various outlets. Meantime, the gas will have to climb one mountain 1,000 feet high.

Delivery of such a vast quantity of natural gas into the northeastern section of the nation means that plants will have to spend about $300-million for expansion facilities so they can make use of the fuel. Yet, say experts, their fuel bill will drop $25-million a year.

WILLIAM LONG has endeavored to build a mammoth pipe line. His company bid on the original "inch" lines, but failed to obtain the award.

That failure stimulated him to go ahead on his own, and he obtained approval from the federal power commission to proceed. He turned to Henry Kaiser for steel, and Kaiser agreed to crowd his California plant for 470,000 tons of the stuff. Kaiser installed an additional blast furnace to help meet the new demand.

Now long will Transcontinental be able to deliver gas? The line will carry three and one-half-trillion feet of gas during the next 20 years. At the same rate, the boosters will be operating until 90 years, for engineers say there is 90-trillion cubic feet of gas available along the Gulf coast. By 2033, maybe they will find new sources.

Combined with other pipe lines this one will help link the several corners of the nation together for industrial production. Texas gas supplies California and other states. Mid-continent gas supplies Chicago and other areas. That's certainly a far cry from the day when small factories had to depend upon wood and coal, stoked into small furnaces.

Automobile Accident Kills Minnesota Man

SKYBERG, MINN. — The body of Clifford Sortedahl, 24, Kenyon, Minn., was found yesterday in the wreckage of his car along highway 56 one mile south of here.

Deputy Coroner E.C. Larson said Sortedahl apparently was killed instantly when his car traveling at a "terrific rate of speed," left the highway.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

EARLY in his term on the bench, Judge Jim Wallace presided over a case that involved two participants in a drunken brawl. There was one witness. "You saw what was going on," Judge Wallace said to the witness. "Why didn't you go to the assistance of the defendant?" "Your honor," was the reply, "at the time I was witness, it was impossible to determine who was going to be the defendant."

In the White Plains branch of a clothing company, a housewife was helping her husband pick out a new suit. Whenever he liked one, she cried, "Take it off. It's terrible." Finally, however, she grew tired of the argument and said, "Oh, well, suit yourself. After all, you're the one who'll have to wear it." The man corrected her quietly, "That goes for the coat and vest, anyway."

If you dislike puns, I advise you to skip Jean Vanderbilt's story of the race-horse who met another thoroughbred on the Belmont track, and murmured, "I don't recall your name, but your pace is familiar."

Five Members Of Commerce Faculty Resign

Five SUI college of commerce faculty members have resigned their 1949-50 appointments to accept positions in other schools, the college of commerce office said yesterday.

They are Daniel Sweeney, John Swackhamer, Cecil Meyers and Ward McDowell, all instructors, and E.L. Marietta, associate. They will begin their new work in the fall semester.

Swackhamer has accepted a position at Montana university, Missoula; Meyers at the Duluth branch of the University of Minnesota, and Marietta at Iowa State Teachers college, Cedar Falls. All will be assistant professors.

McDowell and Sweeney will be instructors at Michigan State, East Lansing, and Michigan university, Ann Arbor, respectively.

All except Swackhamer are here this summer, but McDowell and Meyers are not teaching. Swackhamer is teaching at Southern Illinois university, Carbondale, for the summer.

Swackhamer, who received his Ph.D. from SUI in February, taught public utilities and history of economic thought here. He will be an assistant professor of economics at Montana.

Meyers will be an assistant professor of economics in the school of business and economics at Duluth. He taught principles of economics at SUI.

Marietta will teach shorthand, methods of shorthand and typing and business letter writing at ISTC. He taught secretarial science and business letter writing here.

McDowell, who taught principles of economics and introduction to economics at SUI, will be in the school of business administration at Michigan State.

Sweeney will be an instructor of accounting at Michigan, where he plans to work for a Ph.D. degree. He taught principles of accounting and intermediate accounting at SUI.

Four SUI Veterans Quit Hobby Courses After New VA Rule

The "hobby law" has resulted in only four out of 111 SUI veterans dropping courses that are not functional to their employment objectives, William D. Coder, director of the veterans service center, said yesterday.

The law went into effect for veterans on the college level June 1, 1949.

The reason for the low figure of "drops" by veterans is that it is "occasional, not usual, for veterans to take 'extras,'" Coder said.

The "hobby law" states that the veterans administration will not supply equipment for courses that do not help the student attain his educational goal. Such courses at SUI include voice, piano, wind instrument, swimming, tennis, golf, art, chorus and band.

"The veterans administration does not say a veteran can not take these courses," Coder said. "It just says it will not pay for the equipment needed."

However, full approval will be granted to some veterans if such courses are necessary for fulfilling their employment objectives.

Coder said a list of SUI courses the veterans administration will not approve for non-majors will be made available to the veterans who register this fall.

State Plans Lake South of Iowa City

A new state-owned artificial lake will be built 3 miles west of Brighton, about 40 miles south of Iowa City.

Harry Wagoner, district forester with the state conservation commission, who announced the project, said the lake will be similar to Lake Macbride but not as large.

Work on the lake, including the damming of Honey creek near Skunk river, will begin later this year, Wagoner said.

Cedar Rapids Company Sues Henry C. Miller

A $77.35 judgment suit was filed by the Day company, Cedar Rapids, against Henry C. Miller, operator of the Melby Mill, yesterday in district court.

The firm claimed that amount was still owing it from merchandise sold to the defendant, and asked judgment plus interest and costs.

SIoux CITY TO IOWA CITY IN 45 MINUTES was nothing at all for Al Grier, second lieutenant in the Iowa national guard air arm, Sioux City. Grier piloted the F-51 which visited Iowa City airport yesterday afternoon. China Asks Peace Regardless Of Political Rule, Says Cheng

By VIRGINIA BOYLE

The people of China are not politically-minded. They want peace, and they don't care who gives it to them, Bill Cheng, Chinese graduate student, said yesterday.

Cheng, whose parents and sister live in Communist-occupied Shanghai, said that his countrymen are "fed up with war."

"So long as the civil war goes on in China there is no solution to the economic situation," Cheng said.

"Up to now the Communist government seems to have done a better job than the Nationalist," he said.

"The United States should have pressed the Nationalists to reform instead of sending them direct aid. Munitions they sent only became a part of the Communist victory parades," he said.

Cheng worked for an information office for two years, taking feature pictures which were supplied to newspapers of China.

He also was "a sort of roving reporter and photographer" during the month of August, 1947. He accompanied a British parliamentary group on a month's tour of China, along with two representatives of the Chinese government.

Since the Communist occupation of Shanghai in May, Cheng has received no mail from his family. However, he said that he is not seriously worried since the occupation took place peacefully.

In time, the 28-year-old student thinks the United States will recognize Communist China and that
