Russia Claims West Violates Italian Treaty by Pact Action

LONDON (WEDNESDAY) (AP) — Russia accused the United States, Britain, France and Italy today of responsibility for Italian violations of the peace treaty.

In notes to all four governments, the Soviet Union said Italy had violated the terms of the Italian treaty when she signed the north Atlantic pact by invitation of the big three western powers.

Russia dispatched the notes in the midst of the Italian government's debate on ratification of the north Atlantic pact.

The Soviet note sent to Rome was made public in a Moscow radio broadcast heard in London. It charged the north Atlantic treaty is an aggressive instrument aimed at Russia and the "peoples' democracies."

Italy signed a peace treaty with the big four and 16 other nations in Paris on Feb. 10, 1947. She signed the north Atlantic pact in Washington last April 4 along with the U.S., Britain, France and eight other countries.

The Russian note said in joining this pact Italy broke the peace treaty clauses which, (1) pledged her "to abstain from undertaking any actions directed against states with which that treaty was signed and consequently not to join any alliances or other groupings pursuing aggressive aims," and (2) which limited her army, navy, air force and war industry.

Russia said the pact is "of an aggressive nature and directed against the Soviet Union and the countries of the people's democracy." People's democracies is a term used by Russia and her satellites to identify the Communist-dominated countries of eastern Europe.

The Soviet note said the north Atlantic pact cannot be justified because none of the signatory nations is threatened with attack.

The communication sent to Rome noted Italy's request for U.S. military aid which was published April 6. It said this "refers to the fact that joining the north Atlantic pact imposes on Italy additional obligations demanding an increase of armed forces and of war production."

Iowa City Landlady Named in Rent Suit

The government Monday filed suit for $750.24 in federal district court in Davenport against Mrs. Clyde Shuman, 120 E. Market street, for "overcharging" rents of 12 SU students.

Names of the 12 students were not released. The action was filed by the office of the Chicago housing expediter.

The suit claimed the students were overcharged from Sept. 1, 1948 through April 29. The refund amount due the tenants is $240.18, but the federal government, under the new rent control law, is suing for "treble" damages, according to the Chicago office.

No attorney has yet been assigned the case by the Chicago housing office. A permanent staff of attorneys is on duty there, however.

Says 'Rose' Knew Aim of Broadcasts

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A second government witness testified yesterday that Iva Toguri D'Aquino knew the purpose of her wartime work for Radio Tokyo was to lower the morale of American fighting forces. She is on trial, charged with treason.

George Mitsushio, 44, a native of San Francisco who became a wartime official of Radio Tokyo, testified to conferences held in November, 1943, and March, 1944, at which the defendant was present. It was explained at these conferences, he said, that the programs were to go to American fighting forces and be used as psychological weapons.

Supreme Court Justice Frank Murphy Dies

DETROIT (AP)—Justice Frank Murphy, fighting idealist of the U.S. supreme court, died suddenly yesterday in a Detroit hospital.

Doctors at Henry Ford hospital said the 59-year-old Murphy died of a coronary occlusion—a blocking off of blood to the heart.

Robert P. Patterson, former secretary of war, and Sen. Joseph O'Mahoney (D-Wyo) were prominently mentioned as successors. Patterson has been listed for months as a possibility. Speculation also included the names of Attorney General Tom Clark, of Texas, and Sen. J. Howard McGrath of Rhode Island, chairman of the Democratic national committee.

National Groups Hit Plan to Probe AEC Fellowship Holders

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federation of American Scientists announced last night that representatives of 15 national organizations are opposed to a proposal by Sen. Joseph O'Mahoney (D-Wyo) that would require FBI investigation of all holders of atomic energy commission fellowships.

The federation made public an open letter which it said the representatives have sent O'Mahoney. The letter said an amendment to the pending independent offices appropriation would give the attorney general power to bar from fellowship support anyone about whom "reasonable grounds exist for belief that such person is disloyal to the U.S. government."

"We regard it as dangerous," the letter added, "because it clearly is based upon the principle that federal support carries with it the power and obligation on the part of the government to investigate the political attitudes and associations of the recipients of federal grants."

The federation said representatives of the following organizations were among those signing the letter: American Association of Colleges for Teacher Institutions; American Association of University Professors; American Association of University Women; American Civil Liberties Union, and Americans for Democratic Action.

Local Comment ...

Prof. George Glockler, head of the SUI department of chemistry and chemical engineering, said last night he had refused to subscribe to the protest letter.

"If there are reasonable grounds to suspect disloyalty on the part of the recipient of a fellowship I see no reason why he should have a fellowship," Glockler said. "If he has a clear conscience he should have nothing to fear from the FBI."

Prof. S.B. Barker of the SUI physiology department, head of the local chapter of the A.A.U.P., said he had no advance knowledge of the letter.

He said, however, "If these people have evidence that the political attitudes and associations of the recipients would be set up as deciding factors for federal support, the protest should be supported."

"However, I doubt if any American scientist would object to the establishment of reasonable standards of loyalty."

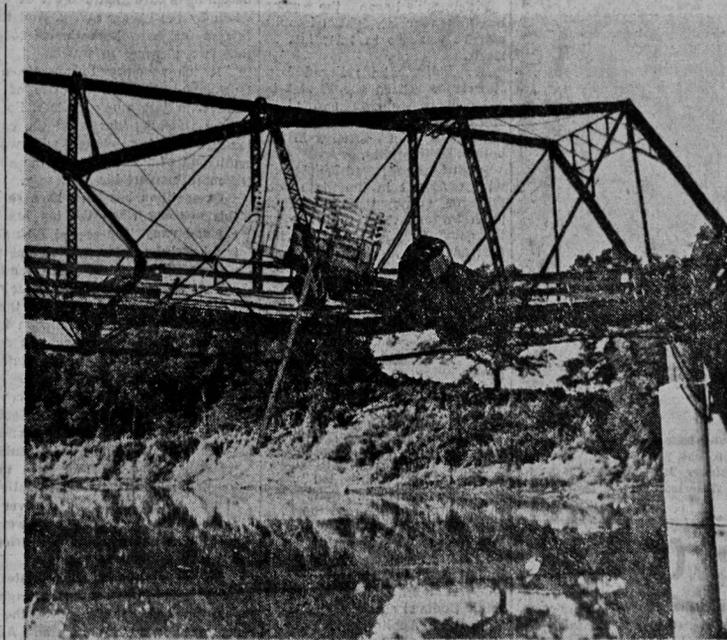

Former Brakeman To Head Trainmen

CLEVELAND (AP) — William Parker Kennedy, 57, Canadian-born one-time brakeman, last night was named president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen.

The independent union's eight-man board of directors elevated Kennedy from the post of general secretary and treasurer.

He will serve until the brotherhood's September, 1950, convention. Union sources expressed belief that he would be continued in the office by the convention.

Murphy's death presents a problem in that it removes from the bench the only Roman Catholic justice. If President Truman were to follow custom, he would probably fill the post with a Catholic. That is the faith of both O'Mahoney and McGrath. In Chicago President Truman late yesterday designated Secretary of Labor Maurice Tobin to represent him at Murphy's funeral. Eben Ayers, assistant White House press secretary, said pressure of work at the White House would make it impossible for Mr. Truman to attend.

Truck Hangs One Inch Short of Plunge

IF THIS TRUCK HAD BEEN suspended another inch out over the Des Moines river, it would have plunged 20 feet into the water below, according to highway patrolmen. The freak accident occurred at Polk City, Iowa, early yesterday morning. The bed of the bridge and several vertical supports buckled under the weight of a truck driven by Lawrence Comer of Granger, Iowa. Comer was not injured.

Senate Subcommittee Rejects Brannon Farm Subsidy Plan

WASHINGTON (AP)—Skeptical lawmakers put a blight on the Brannon farm plan yesterday, and it appeared to be in danger of withering on the vine.

A senate agriculture subcommittee rejected a bill that would have empowered Secretary of Agriculture Brannon to try out his subsidy program on hogs.

While this setback was not decisive, it appeared to indicate strong congressional opposition to the administration plan. One Democratic senator close to the White House told reporters: "There won't be any trial run of the Brannon plan."

The plan would let market prices of perishable crops drop to their natural level. Then the government would pay subsidies to farmers to keep their income up to a certain level. These subsidies would eventually be paid by taxpayers.

The plan contrasts with the present system, under which the government supports the market price by buying up surpluses and removing them from the market. Thereby, the government prevents a price drop which the surplus would create.

The senator's rejection of the subsidy plan for hogs, coupled with other capital hill developments, pointed to a possibility that the fight over future farm legislation may narrow down to a contest between (1) the present high 90 per cent parity wartime price support system and (2) the so-called Aiken law allowing supports for major products to be set as low as 60 per cent of parity.

(Parity is a price calculated to give a farmer the same purchasing power he had in an earlier favorable period.) In the house, a coalition of Democrats and Republicans rejected a Brannon plan compromise proposal and decided on an all-out fight to extend the present program another year. This coalition dislikes both the Brannon plan and the Aiken law. The latter legislation is scheduled to go into effect next Jan. 1.

Sen. Brian McMahon (D-Conn), chairman of the joint committee, announced this momentous meeting as a sequel to the "hush-hush" conference of high government officials and legislators with the President at Blair House last Thursday night.

He said the conferees would explore "the continuing problem of our relations with the United Kingdom and Canada in the field of atomic energy."

Ernie Pyle Buried In Honolulu Grave

HONOLULU (AP) — Ernie Pyle, the reporter who died writing the GI's story of war, was buried yesterday in the mountain crater of the National Memorial cemetery of the Pacific.

The service marked public opening of the new cemetery in Punchbowl crater. It looks down on Pearl Harbor where the first bombs fell bringing the United States into World War II.

Pyle was killed in a Japanese machinegun ambush April 18, 1945, on the isle of Ie Shima, off Okinawa.

Also in Chicago, the executive board of the CIO international union of mine, mill and smelter workers yesterday called the late Justice Murphy "the greatest liberal jurist since Brandeis," who died in 1941. "With unflinching instinct flowing from a great heart, he was able to pierce to the basic issues in cases involving labor and civil liberties," the board said. In 1946, Murphy wrote the sweeping pro-labor decision.

Throughout his career, he never married. He did not smoke nor drink. And he joined no lodge or club.

Czech Priests Told Not to Obey Vatican

PRAGUE (AP) — A Czech government spokesman warned Catholic priests yesterday that mass reprisals will be taken against the clergy and their congregations if the Vatican excommunication order against Communists is carried out.

"Anyone who tries to implement the excommunication decree of the Vatican will be considered a high traitor — not only he himself, but his congregation or his order," the government spokesman told a meeting of Catholic priests.

Church sources said the statements were made to about 80 priests and a few nuns who were summoned to the presidium of the Ministry of Education in the Mala Strana district of Prague.

Gov. Warren Sends 300 Guard Troops To Quell Race Riot

GROVELAND, FLA. (AP)—Nearly 300 fully armed national guard troops moved in last night as new outbreaks threatened from a white mob which has terrorized Negroes by home burnings and shooting forays.

Armed with carbines and pistols, the troops gave this tiny sawmill town the aspects of a military base. The community has been embattled since Saturday when four young Negroes allegedly beat and robbed a white man and raped his 17-year-old bride.

Brig. Gen. Mark Lance, state adjutant general, notified the governor the situation is "in good hands." He added all troops are "completely equipped and armed for any emergency."

The mob, riding in trucks and autos and shooting into the air at random, burned three Negro houses in Monday night's demonstration.

So far, no casualties have been reported among whites or Negroes.

Along Groveland's one business street things were quiet during the day hours. In nearby fields and groves, a number of Negro farm workers were reported absent. Authorities said they apparently were waiting "until all the shooting's over."

Gov. Fuller Warren ordered a minimum of 100 troops here last night when law enforcement officers expressed the fear a new flareup was in the making.

"It looks like the situation is growing worse instead of better," said a police officer who asked to remain anonymous.

President Orders Probe, Says Post

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Washington Post said last night in a copyrighted story that President Truman has ordered a searching investigation of so-called fixers and their "obliging" friends in high placed government positions, no matter who is embarrassed.

The newspaper said it had been informed by reliable sources that the President last weekend ordered Defense Secretary Louis Johnson to conduct an "all-out inquiry" into the matter.

"The President is reported to have told the secretary to use his own good judgment in dealing with military officials who are accused of doing favors for the fee-collecting business agents here," the story added.

APPROVES TRANSFER WASHINGTON (AP) — The house public works committee yesterday approved a bill by Rep. Paul Cunningham (R-Iowa) to permit transfer of Fort Des Moines to the state of Iowa.

President Urges U. S. Guide UN 'Militantly'

It Takes Money to Be Governor

GARY, IND. (UP)—Gov. Henry F. Schrieker's car was tagged yesterday when he parked it over-long in a one-hour zone along side city hall, where he attended a meeting.

Police Chief Millard Matavina said his department would "take care of the ticket with satisfaction, and the only satisfactory method will be a $1 payment."

Guatemala Government Repulses Rebel Attack

GUATEMALA, GUATEMALA (AP)—The government summoned troops from outside the capital yesterday to aid loyal detachments holding the national palace against a rebel attack.

"Normalcy will reign very soon throughout the country," said a government bulletin issued after a night of shooting that followed the assassination of Col. Francisco Javier Arana, chief of the armed services. "The government dominates the situation."

The revolt was blamed on "a few bad militarists who misinterpreted their function—which is to maintain peace and order."

Arana was widely regarded in this city as presidential timber. City polls have shown him to be the strongest candidate to succeed Juan Jose Arevalo. Arana denied several times, however, that he wanted the office.

It was the 20th announced plot against the regime of Arevalo since he was elected in December, 1944, to a six-year term as president.

A new election is due in March, 1951. The law forbids a president of this little nation which lies in Central America south of Mexico, from succeeding himself.

Defense Minister Jacobo Arbenz and his supporter held the palace against an attacking force of observers reported was led by Col. Fernandez Ilivares, commander of Fort Guardia de Honor. Armored troops spearheaded the assault.

A Central American source at Lake Success said the revolt developed as part of a three-way struggle for power by President Arevalo, Defense Minister Arbenz and the assassinated Col. Arana.

Five New Clerks Speed Bonus Pay

DES MOINES (AP) — The Iowa bonus board yesterday added night clerical workers to its staff in order to expedite payments to the state's World War II veterans.

Five women employees are scheduled to work four hours each night in order to keep applications processed at the rate of 2,500 daily, the board said.

Barber Beats Heat by Doffing Shoes

CUSTOMERS ARE GETTING used to seeing Lyle Gilliland walk around barefooted in his barber shop in Burlington. A foot ailment and a love of comfort are the reasons why he refuses to wear shoes. In fact, he claims there's nothing like barefoot comfort in the summer. Regular customers like Paul Mathews (left) are no longer startled by Gilliland when he perches on his "side car" seat, sans shoes—and comfortable.

Charges Russ Make Treaty Only to Break

CHICAGO (AP) — President Truman said last night the United States should assume "militant" leadership in the United Nations to offset the Russian "habit" of breaking international agreements.

Earlier he had reported mounting "tensions and conflicts" behind the Russian iron curtain and said America's crusade for peace would win out in the end.

The President, who made a formal foreign policy address at Soldier field in later afternoon for the Shrine diamond jubilee convention, followed up with an informal talk at a Shrine banquet in the Stevens hotel.

He cautioned against a policy of "crawling into our shells and leaving the rest of the world to await the destruction of the world."

"We are assuming the responsibility which we didn't 35 years ago," he said. "God meant us to take that responsibility."

For success of this nation's world peace effort, he told fellow Shriners the United Nations must be made a "going and militant organization for the welfare of the world as a whole."

The chief executive posed a financial problem — whether to spend up to $5-billion a year for peace or $100-billion for war.

He deplored the fact that an "ally" dating back to 1917 — obviously Russia — had since made international agreements "for the purpose of breaking them."

In a busy day, the chief executive also spoke informally at a reception in his honor and observed he has "no respect" for the political opinions and influences of metropolitan newspapers. He recalled their alignment against him last year when they didn't give him a "Chinaman's chance" for election.

He recalled for guests a story in which he said Arthur H. Sulzberger, publisher of the New York Times, told the Pope last year he would not be elected president.

Mr. Truman said metropolitan dailies have always been against him in a hard election fight, but "I am still president."

The speech at Soldier field followed a colorful pageant in his honor staged by 15,000 Shriners. The gala occasion was marred only by the arrest of a man carrying a pistol at a stadium gate.

Police said William Lofton, 26, claimed he was a private watchman, but he was being held on an open charge pending a check of his story. At a late hour, the investigation was continuing.

Oliver, CIO Settle Wage Clause Fight

CHARLES CITY (AP)—The Oliver corporation plant here and the negotiating committee of the striking CIO farm equipment workers' union have reached an agreement, Paul Mathers, local union president said last night.

Mathers said the new agreement would be submitted to union members at a mass meeting this afternoon for ratification.

The union has been on strike since July 3 when its contract with the company terminated. The union represents about 2,000 employees.

The new agreement contains no overall wage increase, Mathers said, but there is a 30-day reopening clause on the wage question. The union had sought a 10-cent an hour wage increase, and later cut this demand to five cents.

AFL Drops T-H Law Repeal Action until 1950

WASHINGTON (AP) — The AFL abandoned further attempts yesterday to repeal the Taft-Hartley law at this session of congress but agreed a new fight to start early in 1950, a congressional election year.

The action reportedly was a tip-off on the strategy of organized labor and Democratic members of congress who favor repeal of the law and a return to the old Wagner act without injunctions against unions.

Hegan's Homer Nips Yanks, 5-4

Tribe Trails By 3 1/2 Games

CLEVELAND (P) — Battery Mates Bob Lemon and Jim Hegan teamed up yesterday to give the second-place Cleveland Indians a 5-4 triumph over the American league's front-running New York Yankees. The victory sliced the Yank's lead to three and one half games.

Hegan broke up the game by leading off the ninth inning with his fifth home run of the season. The blow, off rookie Righthander Dodge Pilette snapped a 4-4 tie.

Hegan also had a hand in the manufacture of two other runs.

The Tribe catcher doubled and scored the first run of the game in the third inning. He came around on singles by Dale Mitchell and Ray Boone.

Yogi Berra gave the Yanks a 3-1 lead in the fourth inning when he clouted his 11th homer of the season with Phil Rizzuto and Tommy Henrich on base.

The advantage was short lived as Hegan singled in the fifth and scored when Lemon followed with his fourth homer of the year.

New York forged ahead, 4-3, in the eighth with the aid of an error by Mickey Vernon.

Vernon fumbled Bobby Brown's grounder and then threw wild past first for an error. Rizzuto raced home from second on the play.

The Indians promptly tied the score again in their half of the eighth against Pilette who entered the game after starter Allie Reynolds was lifted for a pinch-hitter in the seventh.

Doby greeted Pilette, recalled Monday from Newark of the International league, with a triple. Joe Gordon bounced out but Lou Boudreau lined a double over Rightfielder Cliff Mapes' head to deliver Doby.

Hegan sent the crowd of 52,800, including 34,504 paid, home happy by lining a Pilette pitch over the left field wall to open the Cleveland ninth.

WAITING TO MAKE THE PUTOUT is Joe Gordon, Cleveland Indians second baseman, as Gene Woodling, New York Yanks outfielder, attempts to steal second base. The action took place in the fifth inning of yesterday's game at Cleveland. Gordon took the throw from Catcher Jim Hegan. Cleveland won 5-4, on Hegan's ninth inning home run. The win cut New York's American league lead to 3 1/2 games.

Giants Smash Reds For 13-3 Victory

NEW YORK (P) — The New York Giants banged out 20 hits and scored in every inning last night to rout the Cincinnati Reds, 13-3. Hank Thompson, Willard Marshall and Johnny Mize featured the bombardment of Howie Fox and Harry Gumbert with home runs. Larry Jansen coasted to his tenth triumph.

Lockman and Marshall each made four hits. Thompson, Mize and Marshall pounded out their second, 16th and 10th home runs respectively.

Each Giant starter with the exception of Jansen made at least one hit, drove in a run and scored a tally.

Heintzelman Whips Cubs, 1-0

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Ken Heintzelman won his second straight shutout and his 8th victory in a row as the Philadelphia Phillies blanked the Chicago Cubs 1-0 last night.

Andy Seminick's single sent Willie Jones home from second in the eighth with the only run.

Heintzelman ran his string of successive scoreless innings to 26 as he chalked up his 12th victory of the season against three defeats.

Two were out and Jones was on second when Seminick crashed through with the game winning single.

The Cubs made their most serious threats in the fifth and sixth innings, when they loaded the bases.

Hawkllets in Finals of District Meet Tonight

City high meets Franklin of Cedar Rapids in the finals of the summer baseball district tournament here tonight at 8 p.m. The winner of this game will advance to the state tournament, site still undetermined.

The Hawkllets barely beat St. Ambrose of Davenport Monday night, 9-8, to advance to the final round. City high scored the winning run in the last of ninth on Keith Mulford's double.

Dodgers Cool Bucs With 4-3 Triumph; 1st Loss for Sewell

BROOKLYN (P) — The Brooklyn Dodgers cooled off the hot Pittsburgh Pirates 4-3, yesterday with Bruce Edwards' bases loaded ninth inning single breaking up the game.

Pittsburgh began the game boasting four straight triumphs and 14 victories in their last 18 starts.

Erv Palica who relieved Don Newcombe retired the Pirates in order in the eighth and ninth and gained his sixth victory when the Dodgers came through in the bottom of the ninth.

Hugh Casey relieved Rip Sewell with none out in the ninth and Edwards slammed Casey's first pitch through short to break up the game. The loss was Sewell's first against five victories. Sewell had a skein of 13 straight victories over a two year span.

Boston Rally in 9th Edges Chisox, 6-4

CHICAGO (P) — Vern Stephens' two-run single highlighted Boston's three-run ninth inning spurt as the Red Sox defeated the Chicago White Sox, 6-4, before 22,998 persons here last night.

Ellis Kinder allowed eight hits in outpitching Marino Pieretti to gain his tenth victory. Umpire Eddie Rommel chased both Shortstop Luke Appling and Catcher Joe Tipton of the White Sox in late inning arguments.

Four walks in the first three innings had Pieretti in early trouble as Boston scored single runs in each round.

Chicago pulled even when George Metkovich and Cass Michaels unloaded successive doubles for one run in the second. Appling doubled for another run in the third and got around with the tying score on Dave Philleay's single.

The 3-3 deadlock carried into the ninth. O'Brien opened with a single. Appling missed getting O'Brien on Johnny Pesky's force play grounder and both runners were safe. Appling was bounced by Umpire Rommel for disputing the decision.

Williams singled to fill the bases. Then Stephens singled, scoring O'Brien and Pesky. Williams counted on Billy Goodman's grounder.

Tennis is Here, the Fun to Watch Kind

After two days of seeing tennis played at most any time of the day or early evening students and residents around town are becoming aware that some sort of tournament must be going on down by the library annex. And the persons who have stopped, too few so far, have been treated to good tennis, the brand of tennis that is a pleasure to watch.

It takes money to operate a tennis tournament, any tennis tournament, but one of the size of the Missouri Valley meet takes more than just a few dollars. So after a couple days of standing nearby watching "for free" the canvas will go up either today or tomorrow and spectators will watch from the bleachers on the south end of the courts, in the shade and from a sitting position. It's more comfortable that way.

Competition has been keen so far and it will become keener this morning when the top brackets of the men's singles will get underway. Top-seeded Dick Hainline, the Davenport dentist, is scheduled to play today, along with many other of the ranked players. He's a former SUI tennis star.

Fans shouldn't mind the nominal cost of watching the best in tennis from the mid-west. With the hot weather we've been having it's worth the price of admission to sit in the shade. Last week in Cedar Rapids spectators weren't so fortunate. There wasn't a tree near the courts and the spectators were just a couple degrees cooler than the players.

The players agree that the courts are in fine shape, a compliment seconded by Mr. D.K. Cambell, president of the Missouri Valley tennis association who Monday afternoon described the playing conditions as "ideal if it could just be a few degrees cooler."

Cambell was satisfied with the number of entrants in the tournament, about 125. "We usually have a few more," he said. "Last year I believe we had over 180 when we held the tournament at St. Joseph, Mo. However, St. Joe is just about the geographical center of the district so we'd expect to have more entries," he commented.

The district includes six states: Oklahoma, Arkansas, Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska and Iowa. Staging the meet here means having it on the northern fringe of the district, making quite a drive for players from Oklahoma and Arkansas.

A glance down the pairings shows a large number of contestants from Kansas. We wondered why. Gene Fotopoulos, second round singles winner from Hutchinson, Kan., is a good example of the answer. We sat with his father during part of the matches yesterday and he told how many of the small high schools that are without major sports are going for tennis in a big way.

"We're having local tournaments, then district tournaments and finally the boys go to a state championship meet," Mr. Fotopoulos said. The program is already getting results, such as SUI Tennis Coach Don Klotz has hopes for in Iowa City. Klotz has started tennis of all kinds here this summer, in the hope of developing talent for both Iowa and his own Hawkeye squad.

His outstanding "pupil" right now is Jamie Andrews, a 14-year-old City high student who has already won three trophies this year and is seeded second in the boys' singles in the Missouri Valley. He swept aside Joe Martin of Keokuk, 6-0, 6-0, in his second round match yesterday.

Len Prosser, Mission, Kan., who teamed with Alex George in Cedar Rapids last week to win the Iowa Open doubles title, will not have his partner in the doubles here. George did not enter so Prosser and Hainline will get together. That will make a combination mighty hard to beat. . . . And along the hard to beat dept., watch Dave Snyder in the boys' singles. When and if he and Jamie Andrews tangle in the boys' singles, it ought to be good. Snyder looks like a hard shot would knock him down, but he calmly returns all his opponents, sometimes about twice his size, have to offer, plus a little more.

The Missouri Valley association was begun in 1900 and has held tournaments every year but during a few of the war years during both wars. It has never been held here before. Come on down and watch, if you don't it may never be held here again.

Braves Defeat Cardinals, 5-2

BOSTON (P) — Elbie Fletcher's three run homer plus Lefty Warren Spahn's highly effective six hit pitching gave the Boston Braves a 5-2 win in the opener of a three game series with the St. Louis Cardinals last night before a sweltering 24,850 crowd.

While wrapping up his 11th victory against eight defeats, Spahn limited the Cards to one hit, a Chuck Diering double off the left field wall, until the seventh. Then they scored their first run on singles by Red Schoendienst and Eddie Kazak and Enos Slaughter's fly to left.

Stan Musial lashed his No. 11 homer in the ninth for the only St. Louis counter. It was only the National league champion's third win in 10 starts against the Cardinals to date.

Washington Rally Falls Short, 7-6

DETROIT (P) — The Detroit Tigers blew a six-run lead but finally edged the Washington Senators 7-6 last night with Virgil Trucks getting credit for his twelfth win of the season in a relief role.

Only two sensational double plays, started by Center Fielder Johnny Groth, kept the Senators from a possible victory and one of the Senators and Manager Joe Kuhel protested so vehemently that Kuhel was tossed out of the ball game.

The Tigers got the winning run in the last of the eighth when losing pitcher Al Gettel walked Vic Wertz and Hoot Evers successively after one was out.

SUI Student in Valley Upset

Unseeded Ken Donelson, SUI student from Clarinda, defeated seventh-seeded Lou Gerdes, Omaha, in the second round of the Missouri Valley Tennis tournament here yesterday, providing the first major upset in the annual tourney. The score was 6-4, 3-6, 6-3.

Jamie Andrews of Iowa City, seeded second in the junior singles division, easily defeated his second opponent, Joe Martin, Keokuk, 6-0, 6-0.

Donelson's victory was the only real upset of the day. The other seeded players advanced to the third round of play either by default or by winning matches.

Dick Hainline, seeded number one in the men's division, advanced on a default. Hainline will probably play this morning. Among SUI students who lost yesterday were Bill Ball, Don Lewis, Harold Long and Bruce Higley.

William Ziervogel, St. Louis, beat Ball, 6-4, 6-4; Bob Taggart, Tulsa, defeated Lewis, 5-7, 6-4, 7-5; Gene Echols, Topeka, beat Long, 6-1, 6-3 and Ben Bishop, St. Louis, defeated Higley, 6-1, 6-3.

Doubles play started yesterday and John Ben, Okmulgee, Okla., and Don McKee, Oklahoma City, won two matches to advance to the semifinals of the boys' doubles division. They beat John Symon and Richard Luboskie of St. Joseph, and Marshall Clark and Ed Stremmler of St. Louis.

Vines Give Shade, Privacy to Cottage

Templin Hut Also Has Porch, Fence

Some people dream of rose-covered cottages, but Mr. and Mrs. Milton Zegel, 100 Templin park, have compromised. They settled for half of a vine-covered cottage.

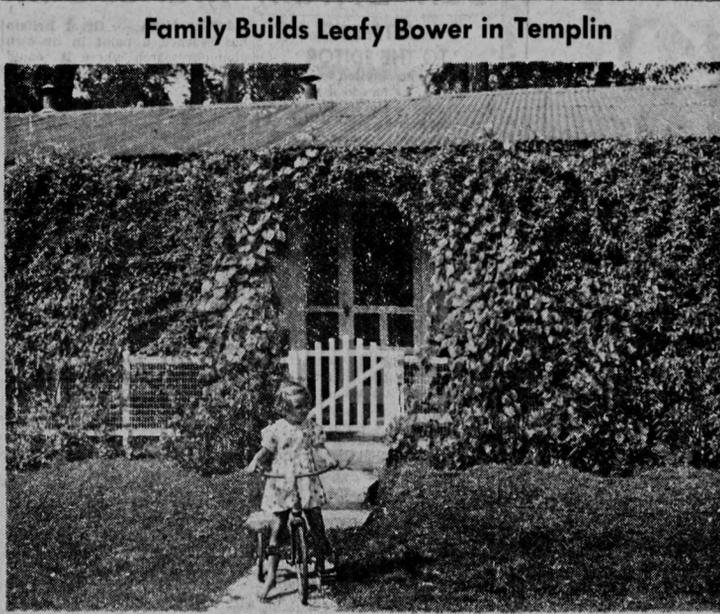

Zegel, an instructor in the German department, decided to remedy the shortage of space and privacy. After getting approval of the university, he and a neighbor took about a week of spare time to put in a cement foundation for a front porch and a picket fence.

Low Cost
The material cost $25, Zegel said, and the vines in front of the fence added $3 to his beautification program.

The cement platform is six feet wide and runs the length of the half of the cottage Zegel, his wife and daughter, Janie, occupy.

Provide Shade
Mrs. Zegel said that the silver lace and honeysuckle vines help a lot to keep the cottage cool during the summer. The vines are nursery stock they bought a year ago April. Since then the vines have grown until they stretch from the top of the picket fence to the roof line of the cottage.

"We eat out on our secluded front porch quite a bit. It's just like having an extra summer room," Mrs. Zegel said.

COOLNESS AND CAMOUFLAGE are provided by the vine-covered porch Mr. and Mrs. Milton Zegel, 100 Templin park, built in front of their quonset hut. Their daughter, Janie, contemplating a spin in the front yard, uses the porch for a playroom on sunny days. The porch, which took about a week to build, cost the Zegels $28.

Try and Stop Me By BENNETT CERF

IT was five minutes before the end of a tense Army-Navy football game. The score was 28-28; Army had worked the ball to the Navy three-yard line. The stands were in an uproar.

Suddenly a man who had been following the fray on his television set snapped off the current. "What's the idea?" cried his outraged guests. "We'll miss the most exciting part."

"I know," admitted the host, "but do you think I'm going to get caught in that mob?"

A flutist at the Berkshire Festival figured in a famous Toscanini episode. The maestro interrupted a rehearsal to upbraid the unfortunate fellow and ended by firing him from the spot. The departing flutist muttered, "you blank-blank egomaniac. I'd like to..." Toscanini cut in angrily, "None of your apologies!"

Judge Murphy: Liberal Legend —

The sudden death of Associate Justice Frank Murphy removes the supreme court's most extremely liberal champion of labor rights and civil rights.

While the court became more conservative in recent years, Murphy's decisions created more and more disharmony. This last term of the court has been called one of the most divided in its long history.

Apparently Mr. Truman will appoint a new justice who will reinforce the court's liberal wing. This will not, of course, seal the liberal-conservative breach.

Prominently mentioned are Robert Patterson, former secretary of war; Sen. Joseph O'Mahoney (D-Wyo); Atty. Gen. Tom Clark, and Sen. Howard McGrath (D-R.I). If the President follows custom and replaces the court's only Roman Catholic with another Catholic, Senators O'Mahoney and McGrath stand the best chances for appointment.

Of the four, Senator O'Mahoney could best carry on the highly liberal course charted by Murphy.

Frank Murphy had always hewed to the new deal line in most decisions on constitutional questions affecting social, economic and human rights.

His public career was first spotlighted when his vigorous campaigning for FDR helped swing Michigan to the Democrats in 1932. President Roosevelt sent him to the Philippines as governor-general in 1933.

Returning for the 1936 campaign, Murphy was elected governor of Michigan on a solid new deal platform. Immediately after taking office, he was confronted with a sit-down strike at the Flint General Motors plant.

Ignoring demands to drive the strikers out by force, he jammed through a negotiated settlement. The strikers peacefully left the plant. His foes labeled him "the father of the sit-down strike", and popular resentment against his tactics defeated him in the 1938 campaign.

By this time, Murphy was riding high on the new deal hand-wagon. Roosevelt called him to Washington in 1939 to become U.S. attorney general. A year later, Murphy was elevated to the supreme court to replace the late Pierce Butler.

Since then, Murphy's clear, emotionally-worded and generally unlegalistic opinions spelled out his devotion to the underdog. He blended Catholicism and new dealism into an idealistic fabric of social democracy.

This is the legend Frank Murphy has left behind. That legend will either be carried on, tempered or turned aside, depending on President Truman's forthcoming appointment.

Closing the GOP Split —

The Republican party, torn by internal disorder, got what looks like a shot in the arm when Hugh Scott resigned as chairman of the national committee Monday.

Scott, who took over the job with the blessing of Gov. Thomas Dewey last year, quit because "certain dissensions continue" within the party.

Chances of closing the GOP split are not greatly enhanced by Scott's withdrawal from the picture. In fact, the list of possible successors has already reached alarming proportions.

The Taft forces seem willing to accept Bert Howard, Nebraska state chairman of the party.

Carroll Reece, of Tennessee, has been mentioned to move back into his old job. Former Chairman Harrison E. Spangler, of Iowa, has gathered his forces to support Reece.

Guy Gabrielson, New Jersey national committeeman, is another prospect. So are Gov. Ralph Gates of Indiana and Rep. Everett Dirksen.

Whoever is chosen for the chairmanship, he will have a hard time welding together the various elements of the Republican party.

Scott is stepping out of a cluttered scene. He had to fight to retain his chairmanship last January when anti-Dewey forces ganged up to run him out of office. Scott notched a personal triumph by retaining the job on a slim margin of four votes.

Scott's victory was a slap at the old guard of the party, as well as at the more liberal elements.

Taft's tub-thumpers kept fighting for Scott's scalp even after Scott won the confidence vote at Omaha. Taft charged the party was being ruled "by the Albany gang."

Harold Stassen lined up with Taft by asking for Scott's removal. Stassen wanted a young man in the position.

Whatever choice is made in the scramble for the national chairmanship of the party, it looks as though the biggest job will be one of unification.

Monopoly Practices: Not Freaks —

A few weeks ago a house judiciary subcommittee began probing restrictive trade practices in the economy. Their intent was primarily to straighten out gnarled anti-trust laws with respect to big business. But the investigation is fast turning into a probe of the entire economy.

The first witness was Atty. Gen. Tom Clark. Aiming squarely at giant corporations, Clark said there was danger of "private regimentation through monopoly control" by such corporations.

He said the existing anti-trust laws do not prohibit the mergers and consolidations which have, in the past 50 years, turned competitive industries into clumps of "big threes" and "big fours."

The house investigating group found itself chewing on a mighty big chunk. Nearly every basic industry is dominated by two, three or four giants. This condition has created such modern problems as price leadership, basing point pricing and fair trading.

But the probers were just warming up, they soon found John D. Clark, a member of the three-man council of economic advisers which serves President Truman, demanded the United Mine Workers be investigated. They called a three-day work week in the mining industry, Clark protested.

Under anti-trust laws, it is illegal for the industry to do that. But the union is exempt. If the committee probes the UMW, the whole question of unionism under the anti-trust laws will be aired.

On top of all this, Agriculture Secretary Charles Brannan piled another load this week. He wants the retailing middlemen probed. According to Brannan, they are absorbing most of the price cuts made by farmers before they get to the consumer.

If the house group finds its area of study becoming tremendous, they will prove one fact before they go much farther. Monopolistic practices are not economic freaks in our economy. They are rapidly becoming the general rule. Congress, in mapping legislation, may gradually recognize them as such.

Aunty's Having Trouble with Her Wash Again

INTERPRETING THE NEWS —

British-U.S. Loan Chances Slim

By J. M. ROBERTS JR.

Associated Press Foreign Affairs Analyst

Great Britain is reported seeking a trade agreement whereby the United States would guarantee to buy empire raw materials at fixed prices over a set period to insure a stable dollar flow into the sterling area.

This, they say, would enable the commonwealth to continue equivalent dollar purchases.

The British know their present program, calling for a 25 percent reduction in dollar imports, can be only a temporary easement of her gold and dollar shortage. Her big problem is to get back into the American market.

If the commonwealth knew it could sell its rubber, wool, cotton and tin at a fixed price for a considerable period, then it could work out something more than a month to month fiscal program.

It sounds good, but there are considerable difficulties. This is not the program, suggested long ago by Bernard Baruch, of an American policy of buying stock-pilable products to encourage world production.

That was merely to guarantee a market, at world prices. To agree to buy over a long period at fixed prices is an entirely different thing. And especially when it involves goods priced on the basis of a pegged currency, such as the pound.

The pound isn't worth the $4.03 at which the British government holds it. In the Swiss and U.S. free markets it sometimes brings as little as $2.50.

It remains up because, within the commonwealth, it is largely a matter of tit-for-tat and doesn't much matter, and on the outside because it has been good politics for the United States to support Britain in this as well as in other ways.

There is at present much American criticism of the entire aid-to-Britain program. Opponents accuse her of not cooperating, of using American funds to fight American trade, and to support a domestic economy which is not economical.

The labor government is accused (as it is also by some factions in Britain) of contributing to the high prices with a social security program which strips the financial ability of the country.

It is accused — the Wall Street Journal has had three bitter, name-calling editorials on this line in the past 15 days — of using American money to set up state industry and state trading in opposition to American economic aims.

The Journal calls it totalitarianism, and compares it with Hitlerism. Whatever one believes about these matters, this discontent with British methods is a fact.

It makes it pretty sure that there will be no more loans to Britain outside the Marshall plan — one of the things which has been suggested to alleviate the present currency crisis.

And it makes it very doubtful there will be any trade-at-fixed-price agreements unless the direct subsidy angle is removed through devaluation of the pound, and perhaps not even then.

Can Britain Make Own A-Bombs?

TO THE EDITOR

(Readers are invited to express opinion in Letters to the Editor. All letters must include hand-written signatures and address—typewritten signatures not acceptable. Letters become the property of The Daily Iowan; we reserve the right to edit or withhold letters. We suggest letters be limited to 300 words or less. Opinions expressed do not necessarily represent those of The Daily Iowan.)

TO THE EDITOR:

My congratulations on your editorial "Church on the Offensive" in The Daily Iowan. It goes to the heart of the conflict between the Catholic church — and all Christian churches — and communism.

Too many have seemed to think the conflict is political, social and economic, and that has confused the issue.

The Church has adjusted herself to various political, social and economic orders. In these respects she has no quarrel with communism.

But no one, and no organization, that accepts the fact of the existence of God and of the spiritual order can accept or compromise with a philosophy of life that is atheistic and materialistic.

The Rt. Rev. Carl H. Meinberg, St. Mary's Rectory

TO THE EDITOR:

We would like to begin this letter by saying that (1) We, the undersigned, live in Hawkeye Village. (2) Neither of us had gardens planted on the riverbank.

Ever since the day that Crumley & Co. gave orders to demolish the gardens on the Hawkeye Village riverbank, one question has been uppermost in the minds of many of us:

What did these men have to gain by ordering the destruction of food which in another week or two would have been mature enough to be used? Why did they commit such an act? Was it merely to show the villagers how much power they wield over us? (We see that every day.)

The consensus of opinion here in Hawkeye is, "This time they've gone too far. Even so, we are helpless to take any effective action against these minor administrators, who are so impressed with their own authority." Any time a man is given such authority his employers should first make sure he has an ounce or two of common sense.

Anyone who saw the green tomatoes, the half-ripe sweet corn, and the slashed cucumber vines lying on the ground — all wasted after so many weeks of caring for them must have thought, "No one but a fool, an irresponsible one, could have ordered the destruction of so many dollars worth of food."

We believe that these people, who were forced to stand helpless and watch their weeks of work slashed to nothing, should be repaid in some way for the foolish act of the university's incompetent employees.

It's hard enough to live on $105 a month without being plagued by a pair of officials who are unable to distinguish Old Capitol lawn from the Iowa riverbank.

Famed Power Utility's Trade Sets Sale Record

NEW YORK (AP) — Trading in Commonwealth & Southern swamped a rising stock market yesterday.

A single transaction in C & S involved 350,000 shares, the largest single sale in the memory of many veteran traders. Other deals were reported at 150,000 shares down.

Total market transactions amounted to almost 1.6 million shares, the largest since March 30. Business Monday amounted to 820,000 shares.

His Majesty's Government (Limited)

LONDON (AP) — Great Britain has reached a point in its own atomic research where it could produce an atomic bomb if it decided to concentrate on the problem, well informed sources said yesterday.

But so far as is known, Britain has not made such a momentous decision. Nor is it believed such a decision will be made unless it becomes clear there is no hope of getting the know how from the United States.

Discussion of British atomic research is not encouraged. This is especially true at this moment when there is a desire to avoid anything that might be construed as getting involved in the situation created by President Truman's secret Blair house conference last Thursday night.

Thus there is considerable soft peddling of such facts as that the Belgian Congo mines, which produce the best uranium for America's bombs, are British owned. Nor is it mentioned that the American contract to buy the entire Congo uranium production is expiring.

A United Press Brussels dispatch quoted Belgian government sources as saying Monday the contract expires July 31.

There has been no discussion of dispatches to the Manchester Guardian and other newspapers that Britain may have put up to the United States the delicate problem of yielding some of its atomic secrets or facing the loss in part at least of this source of uranium ore.

Britain's progress in its own atomic research, while slow, has been satisfactory to those entrusted with it. British scientists are not pessimistic about their chance of catching up with American discoveries if they decide to switch their main emphasis from atomic energy for peaceful uses to atomic explosives.

Britain started its first atomic pile at Harwell in Berkshire in August, 1947, and by March, 1948, had become the first country outside the United States to produce plutonium, so far as is known. It was described at the time as "one of the most important steps forward in this country's atomic energy program."

Irish Get Free Rides To Britain, but Leave

ORPINGTON, ENGLAND (AP) — A new kind of Irish question is before the ministry of labor in London. It's what to do with men and women who sign up in the Republic of Ireland to do nursing in Britain, accept a free four-pound (16-dollar) ride over and then leave their hospitals to take other jobs.

The management of the county hospital here, which complained to the ministry about this, said 15 of 33 recent recruits already have left.

One young Irishman, it reported stopped only long enough to have a cup of tea — also free.

Officials Compile List of Hawkeye Gardeners

A list of all students who planted gardens on a river bank strip bordering Hawkeye village was compiled yesterday by university housing officials. The same officials refused to comment on why the list was made.

Four river bank gardens belonging to Hawkeye village residents were destroyed and another garden was damaged last week when university grass cutting crews were ordered to clear the area of weeds and gardens.

SUI Campus Foreman J. F. Crumley said Monday that the river bank strip, which is separated from Hawkeye village by a fence, and the gardens within the strip were measured by university workmen. No reason for the measurements was given.

Students whose vegetables reportedly were destroyed include Frank Riassetto, Robert Stienstra, Evan Hultman and Tom Buck. A watermelon patch belonging to Donald E. Bently was reportedly damaged.

Students whose gardens were not damaged were William Parmar, John Ryan, Glenn Leber and Charles M. Betzel.

Soil Conservationist Plans Flying Tours

Air tours of Johnson county to show the difference between soil conservation farms and farms on which soil conservation is not practiced will be held July 28 through July 30, Soil Conservationist William Davis said yesterday.

The tours are being sponsored by the Johnson county soil conservation commission with the cooperation of Shaw Aircraft company and the Iowa City flying school.

Starting at the Iowa City airport, each tour will follow the Iowa river north across the new Coralville dam site to Lake Macbride, then continue through the North Liberty area, over to Cosgrove and back to Iowa City.

Charge for the half-hour trip will be $3. Flights will be made between 8 a.m. and 6 p.m. A four-passenger plane will be used for the tour, with room for three passengers each trip, Davis said.

Each passenger will be given a map with a key at the bottom showing and describing points of interest in Johnson county.

Atom War Warning Stated by Roberts

A warning that a period is fast approaching when both sides in a war may use the atom bomb was given last night by Prof. Arthur Roberts, director of research in nuclear physics at SUI.

Speaking to an audience of about 150 persons in the chemistry building auditorium, Roberts explained the nature of modern war in which the atom bomb will be a major weapon.

The lecture was the fifth in a series of lectures designed to explain to the layman atomic energy and its applications in both war and peace.

Roberts told the audience that the best plan for control of atomic energy so far suggested is the Baruch plan which, although it would not prevent atomic warfare, would at least give the attacked nation a period of warning.

Joseph I. Routh, associate professor of biochemistry, will deliver the next lecture on the application of atomic energy to plant and animal biology at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the chemistry building auditorium.

POLICE COURT FINES
Monday's police docket listed 25 persons who were fined a total of $28 for parking and meter violations. There was one dismissal.

Tommy was just scared, not hurt.

Active Polio Cases Reduced to Fifteen

The admission of one new polio patient and the transfer of three others to the inactive list reduced the total number of "active" polio patients to 15 at University hospitals yesterday, according to hospital officials.

Manning Hollingsworth, 36, Casper, Wyo., was admitted to the active ward yesterday in "serious" condition. He was admitted for diagnosis Monday.

Transferred to the inactive list were Constance Pocht, 13, East Dubuque, Ill.; Judith Ann Kinny, 2 1-2, Dubuque, and Dallas Jass, 6, Iowa Falls. All three were reported in "good" condition.

Research Assistant Awarded Fellowship To English School

Lois C. Bigger, research assistant in the SUI department of bacteriology, has been awarded a Fulbright fellowship to Girton college, Cambridge university, England.

Miss Bigger, a resident of Mount Vernon, received an M.S. degree in bacteriology from SUI in June.

The Fulbright fellowships are part of a plan for repayment of wartime lend-lease without decreasing the already diminished dollar supply of the debtors nations.

Under the agreements negotiated by the state department, the foreign countries pay the American students in the currency of the country in which they study.

The plan was sponsored in the senate by Sen. J. William Fulbright (D-Ark.), a one-time Rhodes scholar and former president of Arkansas university.

Miss Bigger will leave for England in early September and will resume her studies in bacteriology when the Girton school year begins the first part of October.

The fellowships are awarded by the state department and the Institute of International Education on the basis of scholastic work and confidential reports by educators.

SUI Loans Painting To Two Exhibitions

A painting from SUI art department's permanent gallery will be exhibited in New York City and Toronto, Canada, Prof. Raoul Delmare of the art department, said yesterday.

The painting, "Endless Voyage," by Mitchell Siporin, will be shown in Whitney Museum, New York City from Sept. 8 to Oct. 30 in a special memorial exhibition in honor of Miss Juliana Force, former director of the Museum.

It will be exhibited at Toronto from Nov. 4 to Dec. 25 as part of the art gallery's fiftieth anniversary celebration.

"Endless Voyage," which depicts a tiny boat full of refugees in an open sea, was purchased from SUI's third annual summer exhibition of contemporary art in 1947.

Carlton Files Petition Asking $500 Judgment

A petition filed in district court yesterday by Leo V. Carlton, Iowa City, asked judgment of a $500 commission fee from Elwood D. Pyle and Edith A. Pyle of Johnson county.

The plaintiff claimed that the defendants owe him the amount as result of a written contract under which he was to act as agent for the sale of certain land in Johnson county. Carlton claimed that after he found a purchaser for their land, the defendants refused to sell.
