SUI Quonset Apartment Rents Unaffected by Lifted Controls

SUI housing rents will not be affected by the lifting of federal rent controls on housing accommodations used for educational purposes, university officials said yesterday.

Lifting of controls on educational housing was announced Thursday by U.S. Housing Administrator Tighe E. Woods. The order, already put into effect, applies to housing owned by a university and rented to students or faculty members.

Fifty married student quonset apartments are the only SUI housing units that have been under regulation of federal rent control, Elwin T. Joliffe, controller of the SUI business office, said yesterday.

Rent on these apartments is not expected to be increased, according to J. Robert Cotter, manager of SUI married student housing. Cotter added that the rent for the 50 apartments is determined by cost of operation and "I expect no increase in the cost of operations in the foreseeable future."

Rent on the apartments has never reached the ceiling price, Cotter said.

Fitzpatrick Asked To Appear Before Driving Examiner

Dr. D. F. Fitzpatrick, Iowa City, has been requested to appear before a driver's license examiner at 1 p.m. Tuesday at Johnson county courthouse, state department officials said yesterday.

Fitzpatrick was named by a coroner's jury Tuesday as the driver of the car which struck and killed George A. Lumsden, 5, on South Linn street the previous night. The jury ruled the accident "unavoidable."

Safety department officials said the examination next Tuesday was "primarily to determine the competence of Dr. Fitzpatrick to operate a motor vehicle."

Records of the safety department show that Dr. Fitzpatrick's license was suspended May 27, 1941, but the suspension was lifted about a month later when a physical examination was completed and sworn to by a group of physicians showing that Dr. Fitzpatrick was competent to operate a motor vehicle, officials said.

Department officials said records show accident reports for Fitzpatrick for Dec. 20, 1938, March 26, 1939, and Nov. 20, 1940.

Says Pope Prying Into Education Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Protestant organization accused the Vatican yesterday of butting into American internal affairs in the religious dispute over federal aid education.

The charge was made after the use labor committee scheduled showdown vote for next Tuesday on the $300-million aid to education bill which has been held up behind the religious fight.

Glenn L. Archer, executive director of Protestants and other Americans united for separation of church and state, criticized the Vatican after a semi-official Vatican source said that Francis Cardinal Spellman's reprimand of Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt was "necessary."

Dockers Threaten Hawaii-Bound Ships With Union Boycott

HONOLULU (AP) — CIO longshoremen called on all maritime unions yesterday to boycott Matson line vessels carrying cargo to Hawaii to be unloaded by any government-operated stevedoring agency.

The action of the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's union was announced by strike boss Henry Schmidt after Matson lines disclosed plans to ready a freighter at San Francisco next week to accept cargo for the islands.

"If the Matson Navigation company tries to sail any more vessels from the west coast to this strike area, the union calls on all maritime unions — both seafaring and longshore — not to let the ships get away," Schmidt said.

His statement came as the special session of the Hawaiian legislature went into an afternoon discussion of the proposed bill creating a publicly-owned stevedoring agency that could confiscate privately-owned machinery, recruit laborers from among non-strikers and handle incoming and outgoing cargoes until the strike ends.

Senate and house leaders hope to get the bill to Territorial Governor Ingram Stainback by this afternoon and have scheduled a public hearing on the legislation for this morning.

Once Stainback signs the bill he could invoke an emergency clause and put the territory into the stevedoring business immediately and keep it there for the duration of the walkout that began 89 days ago.

Judge Orders Juror To Attend Hearing

CEAR RAPIDS (AP) — District Judge J. E. Heiserman yesterday ordered a juror accused of prejudice to appear at a hearing on a motion for a new trial in the Dr. Robert C. Rutledge Jr. murder case.

Defense attorneys asked the court to order Juror Emil Novotny and three other persons to be present next Monday when attorneys argue on whether the doctor is entitled to a second trial in the knife-slaying of Byron Hattman, 29, St. Louis.

The defendant's lawyers contended in a written motion that certain persons heard Novotny say at one time in reference to Rutledge "that — — — should be hanged."

Charles Blahnik, Jack Phillips and Angelo Bishop also were ordered to appear at the hearing. They signed affidavits saying they never heard Novotny make such a remark.

Rutledge, a St. Louis baby specialist, was convicted of second degree murder May 28 by a district court jury. He is held in county jail in lieu of $50,000 bond.

'Three-Cornered-Pants' Band Steals Show

DETROIT'S SWELTERING HEAT was a hardship on spectators who viewed the Michigan American Legion's annual 40 and 8 parade Thursday night, but these diaphanous horn tooters from Flint Voltaire proved to be a "cool" outfit. They weren't nattily clad, but they attracted the most attention.

CIO Spokesman Tells Board Steel Profits Harm Country

NEW YORK (AP) — A CIO steelworkers' spokesman charged yesterday that the steel industry is rolling up "phenomenal" profits at the expense of employees and consumers.

Robert R. Nathan, former new deal economist, told President Truman's fact-finding board that the industry's policies are hurting the national economy.

Nathan said steel profits are the highest in history and that the industry can well afford to grant the 30 cents an hour increase the union is asking in a wage-pension-social insurance "package."

This demand includes a fourth round wage increase of 12 1-2 cents an hour.

The three-member board is hearing evidence in a dispute that led to a strike threat by the 900,000 union members earlier this month. It will make recommendations to the President after hearing from both sides.

Chairman Carroll R. Daugherty announced that the hearing will recess for a week after the union completes its case, probably in the middle of next week.

Each side has eight days in which to present its case but the union has decided to save part of its time for rebuttal.

Daugherty said the week's recess had been requested by steel company representatives who wanted an opportunity to organize their case so that they might not need all of the eight days allotted them.

Even with the week's recess, the chairman said he believes the hearings will end about Aug. 22 or 23, which will give the board a week to prepare its report to Mr. Truman.

Commerce Forms New Departments

The formation of six new departments in the SUI college of commerce was announced yesterday by President Virgil M. Hancher.

The new departments and their heads are: accounting, Sidney G. Winter; labor and industrial management, Karl E. Leib; marketing, Wendell R. Smith; economics, Paul R. Olson; office management and business education, William J. Masson and general business, E. W. Hills.

The departments were established upon the recommendation of a committee of commerce faculty members appointed by Dean C.A. Phillips of the college of commerce. The committee's report was approved by the commerce faculty.

Peron's Party Selects Him as 1952 Candidate

BUENOS AIRES, ARGENTINA (AP) — The Peronista party's national convention unanimously named President Juan D. Peron yesterday as the party's 1952 presidential candidate.

The party controls all branches of the government, both nationally and in the provinces. Peron former it from a nucleus of labor leaders when he made his successful campaign in 1946. He is midway in his six-year term as Argentina's 29th president.

C. of C. to Study Iowa City Budget

The Iowa City chamber of commerce has formed a city budget review committee to study the city budget for the fiscal year April 1, 1950, through March 31, 1951, Secretary Robert Gage said yesterday.

The budget committee will present a report of its study to chamber of commerce members "after" the budget is read at a public hearing Aug. 15 in the city hall, Gage said.

Two committee meetings were held this week, he said, and another will be held — probably Aug. 15, the day of the public hearing.

The nine-man committee, with Horace Stuck as chairman, includes J.L. Powell, Clark Caldwell, Preston Koser, Edward Lucas, Carl Strub, George Zeithamel, William Bartley and Vern Capen, Gage said.

Senate Revamps ERP Aid Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — A huge foreign aid bill, center of a dispute which threatens to hold up a $26-billion in appropriations for various government agencies, was revamped in a senate committee yesterday.

But amendments which caused the row remained largely intact, and it was anyone's guess whether the revised bill would prove acceptable to enough senators to end the big logjam.

The committee will formally send the bill to the senate floor Monday.

One big point of argument in the original measure was an amendment, backed by some farm state senators, stipulating $2-billion in foreign aid funds either must be used for the purchase of surplus U.S. farm commodities, or not used at all.

The senate appropriations committee, working over the bill yesterday cut these required purchases by 10 percent to $1-million.

The committee stuck by another controversial amendment, earmarking $50-million of economic cooperation funds for Spain.

In its new version the bill totals $5,647,724,000, which includes money to carry on the Marshall plan of European recovery, and aid to occupied countries. Originally the bill carried $5,723,724,000.

FIRE CAUSES NO DAMAGE

Firemen were called about 8:45 last night to extinguish a gasoline can fire in the basement of a residence at 703 E. Bloomington street, fire department officials said. No damage was reported.

Pool Closed Yesterday Due to Lack of Patrons

Iowa City's swimming pool was closed yesterday afternoon and evening following cool and rainy weather that kept bathers away from the pool, J. Edgar Frame, city recreational officer, said last night.

The pool was not closed on account of polio, as had been rumored.

High Command Leaves To Set Up Pact Staff

Johnson Warns Arms Plan May Take 5 Years

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States high command left by plane at 3:48 p.m. (Iowa time) yesterday for Europe to talk about setting up an Atlantic pact military staff.

Before they left, Gen. Omar Bradley warned congress Russia is "bent upon absorbing the exhausted victors" of the last war, and he outlined the broad defense strategy behind the European arms program.

The army chief of staff said the program is based on the assumption the United States, which is able "to deliver the atom bomb," would handle strategic bombing, while the European partners would be ready with ground forces.

"In the place of the vanquished foe has arisen this new aggressor bent upon absorbing the exhausted victors," Bradley declared.

"The specter of another would-be master attempting to enslave our presently allied peoples, has given a sense of urgency to our plans."

Bradley did not name Russia Defense Secretary Johnson warned nobody knows the ultimate cost of helping other nations arm against Russian attack — but he figures it will take four or five years.

In Paris, France's parliament completed ratification of the north Atlantic defense pact with a plea for American aid in rebuilding her armies.

In Rome, the Italian senate approved ratification of the north Atlantic treaty by a vote of 175 to 81. There was one abstention.

And in London, informed European diplomats expect an American to be named boss of the armed forces of the 12 Atlantic pact allies.

The informants said the European partners in the alliance presumably would accept any reasonable nomination the United States puts forward. They did not speculate who might be nominated.

Gag or No Gag — P.A.'s in the Can

FORT WORTH, TEXAS (AP) — For years pranksters have plagued the police desk sergeant with the telephoned query "is Prince Albert in the can?"

The sergeant would check his jail sheet, falling for the gag, which joksters built around the tobacco brand name.

Desk Sgt. E. L. Giles was ready for the call yesterday. A 58-year-old man was jailed. His first and middle names are Prince Albert—and he's in the can.

Shanghai Mob Confines U.S. Staff in Consulate

WASHINGTON (UP) — A mob of about 100 Chinese invaded the U.S. consul general's office in Shanghai yesterday and refused to permit American staff members to leave, the state department disclosed.

A dispatch from the consul in Shanghai said the disturbance was started by about 20 Chinese and other local non-Americans who formerly were employed by the U.S. navy, and have been engaged in a pay dispute with naval officials.

The group occupied the lobby of the consulate at 7:20 a.m. Shanghai time, and seized the gates to prevent them from being shut. They summoned reinforcements and by mid-afternoon about 100 were inside the building and more outside.

A state department spokesman said Communist authorities paid no attention to official protests and that Communist police refused to intervene. The last the department heard the mob still was in the consulate.

Officials also revealed that Communist authorities are holding a party of U.S. diplomats in China because the Americans balked at demands they sign "shop guarantees" before leaving for home.

The guarantees are an old Chinese custom not usually invoked against diplomats. Under them, people leaving a city have someone remaining behind guarantee that any unpaid bills will be made good, and that those leaving will return if later accused of a crime.

The consulate mob locked the gates at 3:30 p.m. Shanghai time, preventing any of the consulate staff from entering or leaving the building.

Some 13 male U.S. staff members and 35 Chinese employees were locked in.

Ex-GI Witness Says He Knew 'Rose' As Childhood Neighbor

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A surprise prosecution witness testified yesterday he was a childhood friend of Los Angeles-born Mrs. Iva Toguri (Tokyo Rose) D'Aquino who heard her voice broadcasting Japanese propaganda when he was an infantryman in the south Pacific.

The government called Gilbert V. Velasquez, 27, Los Angeles, to the stand in Mrs. D'Aquino's treason trial to substantiate its charges that she worked for the enemy by attempting to undermine the morale of allied GIs fighting up the island chain in the Pacific.

Velasquez, currently a navy department machinist, served three and one-half years as a "dough-foot" in the Pacific, battling from Finschhafen, New Guinea, to Leyte in the Philippines.

He told how he listened to broadcasts made by the same voice he used to hear in the Los Angeles neighborhood grocery run by Mrs. D'Aquino's father before the war.

And he quoted from memory some of those exhortations to the American troops.

House Group Passes Ban on Job Prejudice

WASHINGTON (AP) — The house labor committee yesterday approved 14 to 11, a bill to abolish job discrimination because of color, race or creed.

The proposal, the most controversial of President Truman's civil rights program, was sponsored by Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, (D-NY) one of the two Negroes in congress.

West to Put Airlift in 'Cold Storage' Monday

BERLIN (AP) The Berlin airlift, biggest western weapon of the cold war, will go into "cold storage" starting Monday.

American and British officials announced yesterday the greatest air freight operation in history will be reduced gradually until it is cut out entirely Oct. 31.

For nearly a year — from June 26, 1948, until the Russians lifted the Berlin blockade May 14 — thundering stream of planes was the only means of keeping 2-million west Berliners supplied with food, fuel and raw materials. The airlift surprised the Russians and heartened the Germans.

The decision to retire the air cargo operation was taken because adequate supplies have been stockpiled since the Russians have permitted rail, highway and water traffic to be resumed from the western zones.

But the western allies made it clear they will be prepared to re-start the airlift on short notice if the Russians adopt new blockade tactics against the four-power city, 100 miles inside the Soviet zone.

The gradual reduction in operations, which starts Monday, will permit some airlift fliers to head back to the U.S. in September.

AN ANCHOR POST broke loose Thursday as Jerome Strazzo of Sacramento, Calif., was backing his heavy gasoline truck out of the ancient ferry operating across the Sacramento river near Elkhorn, Calif. The ferry started moving. Strazzo jumped to safety as the front end of the truck plunged into the river.

Cardinals, Brooklyn Battle to 3-3 No Decision

Rule Prevents Extra Innings

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The league leading St. Louis Cardinals and the Brooklyn Dodgers played to a 3-3 tie game last night in the opener of their important three-game series at Sportsman's park.

The Dodgers tied the tense struggle in the ninth on a walk, a single by Pinch-Hitter Marv Rackley and an outfield fly by Pee-wee Reese.

Thus the Cardinals remain a game and a half ahead of the runner-up Dodgers.

Eddie Miksis, running for Roy Campanella who drew a walk in the ninth, tagged up on Reese's fly and scored from third after outfielder Chuck Diering's throw to the plate on a close play.

Relief Pitcher Ted Wilks struck out Pinch-Batter Johnny Jorgensen to end the Brooklyn half of the inning.

The start of the game was delayed one hour and 28 minutes by rain and the contest, witnessed by 30,640 fans, did not end until 12:10 a.m. (Iowa time).

U.S. Trackmen Rally to Win 'Little Olympics' by 14 Points

OSLO, NORWAY (AP) — The star-spangled American track and field team climaxed an uphill climb last night by winning the "Little Olympics" and its accompanying decaathlon competition.

The final point score was 238 1/2 points to 224 1/2 points over the combined Scandinavian squad which had led almost all the way through the three-night meet.

Chunky Bob Mathias, the Tulare, Calif., wizard, used his customary second-day surge to win the decaathlon going away. Irv Mondschein of New York university was third and Bill Albans of North Carolina last in the six-man grind. Mathias had 7,346 points.

Fortune Gordien of Minnesota bettered the listed world record for the discus throw for the second time this month. His throw last night measured 182 feet 3 5/8 inches. The approved record is 181 feet 6 3/8 inches by Adolfo Consolini at Milan, Italy, last Oct. 10, but Gordien has a still better throw awaiting record approval. He reached 185 feet 2 4/7-192 inches at Lisbon, Portugal, July 9.

Dan Ferris, secretary of the United States AAU, and manager of the American team, accepted a big silver cup at the conclusion of the meet. A return match with the Scandinavian team is scheduled for Minneapolis, Minn., in the fall of 1950.

Andy Stanfield of Seton Hall added the 200 meter dash to his previous 100 meter triumph. He was timed in 21.1 seconds with teammates Charles Peters of Indiana and Don Campbell of Colorado close behind.

Bob Richards of the Illinois athletic club set a Norwegian record in the pole vault at 14 feet 8 27-32 inches.

From an American point of view one of the best performances of the three nights rated no better than a third place. Curtis Stone of Penn State, running 10,000 meters for the first time in competition, was clocked in 3:03.8 seconds which is 28 1-2 seconds under the American record set by Don Lash in 1936. Stone finished third behind Viljo Heino, the Finnish star, and Martin Stocken of Norway. The winning time was 30:04.8.

Mathias took over the decaathlon lead at the end of eight events and went on to pile up 207 more points.

IOWA GOLF POSTPONED
DAVENPORT — Heavy showers which soaked greens at the Davenport country club yesterday caused the postponement of semifinal matches in the Iowa women's golf tournament. Tourney officials ruled that play will be resumed today, with winners to meet in a 36-hole final match tomorrow.

Sluggish Ted Smacks a Double

SAFE AT BASE is Ted Williams of the Boston Red Sox, who slides into the bag under the tag of Cleveland Shortstop Lou Boudreau. Williams doubled down the right field line, the throw coming from Bob Kennedy, but a bit too late to nip the Sox slugger. Calling the play is Umpire Jim Honochick. Boston won the afternoon half of an afternoon-evening doubleheader, 2-1, in the first of a five-game set between the second and third place American league clubs.

Indians-Bosox Split Day-Night Twinbill; Feller Relief Victor

BOSTON (AP) — In sharply contrasting games the Cleveland Indians and Boston Red Sox divided a day-night doubleheader, the locals winning the well pitched afternoon contest 2-1 and the world champions crashing out for the afternoon last night.

A total of 48,640 fans witnessed the twin program, 34,234 of them turning out for the after-dark affair.

The Indians settled the night-cap when they scored four times at the expense of starting left hander Chuck Stobbs who was unable to retire a batter.

Lou Boudreau hit Stobbs' eighth pitch into the screen in left field for a home run, scoring Dale Mitchell, who had walked on four pitches ahead of him.

A single followed by two passes and another single accounted for two additional runs and Tex Hughson replaced Stobbs.

The Sox counted thrice in their first as they drove out the starter Gene Bearden, but Bob Feller came in and after giving up one single in that inning for Boston's second and third runs, got the side out. From then on the Sox were held away from the plate.

The Indians added two runs in the second inning, their seventh on Bob Kennedy's homer in the third and picked up additional single scores in the fifth and eighth.

Here Since 1907 — Schroeder's Seen 'Em All

Back in the good old days a pigskin could have been used as waterwings on the old Iowa football field, now taken over by Hawkeye village.

E.G. "Dad" Schroeder, who has been connected with Iowa athletics since 1907 and who served 10 years as director, recalls that in June, 1918, a dike broke and small boys used the field for a swimming pool. The goal posts were used as diving boards.

During "Dad's" 42 years in Hawkeye athletics, football grew out of the horse and buggy stage. Today's fast game is more exciting, he says, but he has a great many pleasant memories from the earlier period.

When Schroeder first came to Iowa the teams were still using a play that resembled the previously outlawed flying wedge.

Another favorite called for a star hurler. In this one the ball carrier would leap on the back of the center and hurdle himself over the line. However, this proved a trifle hard on the ball-carrier and resulted in some bad injuries, causing the play to be outlawed.

A rudimentary version of the blocking back was introduced during "Dad's" early days at the university. The blockers had strong canvas handles stitched on their pants and the man with the ball hung onto these while the interloper bowled over the opposition.

"Dad" has watched the regimes of 10 football coaches at SU and has helped with the coaching himself for a time. He has watched most of Iowa's greatest players and finest teams. He saw the record games, 95-0, over Iowa Teachers and 78-6 over Northwestern.

He remembers well when all-American Aubrey Devine led the 1921 team to mythical national title honors. Their toughest game was a 10-7 victory over Notre Dame at Iowa City which ruined the 20-game winning string of the Irish.

"Captain" of Irish squad was a lean hardhitting end named Anderson," Schroeder recalls. "Eighteen years later when I was athletic director, we signed this same man, Dr. Eddie Anderson, as Iowa's head coach."

At the five home games of 1949, "Dad" Schroeder, still on the Iowa staff in a part-time capacity, will watch Anderson's eighth Iowa squad.

Pro Basketball Merger Again in 'Talk' Stage

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Talks concerning a merger with the rival Basketball Association of America, which broke down a few weeks ago, may be renewed here today at a business meeting of the National basketball league.

NBL Vice-President Leo Ferris said the meeting was arranged to plan the 1949-50 schedule and to attend to "other league matters."

He said it was "quite possible" that the question of merging with the BAA might be brought up. "Frankly," said Ferris, "I'm for a merger. I think it'll come about, if not this year perhaps next year."

The Merger question and a chance for peace in pro basketball fell through when both leagues met in Chicago July 1 and rejected peace overtures.

Reds Tip Giants, 3-0 On Wehmeier's 1st Shutout of Season

CINCINNATI (AP) — Herman Wehmeier pitched his best game of the season last night as he blanked the New York Giants with four hits to give the Cincinnati Reds a 3-0 victory. Wehmeier was in trouble only in the second and seventh innings. He allowed two hits in the second and walked three men in the seventh.

Wehmeier also helped his cause along with two hits, and he drove in one of the three Redleg runs.

The big hurler didn't allow a safe blow after the first inning as he chalked up his first shutout of the season. It was the eighth time the Giants had been blanked.

Cincinnati had the bases full in the first inning but failed to score. They got to Dave Koslo for a run in the second, however, on successive singles by Jimmy Bloodworth, Claude Corbitt and Wehmeier.

Koslo finally was lifted for a pinch hitter in the seventh and the Reds promptly got another run off Kirby Higbe. Higbe walked three men after giving up a single to Wehmeier and the last one forced in a run. The final Cincinnati run was scored in the eighth on a single by Johnny Wyrrostek, a stolen base, an error and Bloodworth's double.

Joost Saves A's 5-3 Win

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Philadelphia Athletics extended their winning streak to six straight — their longest of the year — by defeating the Detroit Tigers, 5-3, last night as Shortstop Eddie Joost came through with a game saving catch with the bags loaded and two down in the ninth inning.

Joost, after putting relief Pitcher Bobby Shantz in a hole by fumbling Neil Berry's grounder, caught up with Pat Mullins' short fly in left and made a vest pocket catch of the blooper.

Shantz took over for Dick Fowler when the heat got the best of the veteran righthander at the start of the ninth.

Art Houtteman blew a 3-0 lead his mates gave him with two runs in the fourth on a pair of walks, as many hits and another marker in the fifth on three singles.

Wright replaced Sam Chapman in the fifth when the latter was struck on the left elbow by a Houtteman pitch.

Girls Make Camp in Michigan Woods

Girls Rough It in Scout Camp

Betty Welter, Iowa City Senior Girl Scout, is one of Iowa's two representatives at the western hemisphere encampment being held near Muskegon, Mich. July 19-Aug. 9.

Eight other Iowa City Senior Scouts, their adviser, Mrs. Hugh Carson, and assistant leader, Margaret Sewall, are also camping in the area after setting up the Iowa unit at the international camp.

They are Barbara Dean, 519 S. Summit street; Kitty Nolan, 513 S. Summit; Helen Huber, 1112

Muscatine avenue; Marilyn McLachlan, 1308 Muscatine; Jane Condon, 427 S. Dodge street; Pat Holland, 325 Melrose court; Joan Shriner, 131 Ferson street and Margie Moeller, 623 E. College street.

The local scouts set up the Iowa unit at the encampment in the form of a "little Iowa City". Paths and tents were named after Iowa City streets and buildings. The campfire area was patterned after a map of the Hawkeye state and the girls used the state flower, the wild rose, to decorate all cooking utensils and camping equipment.

Girl Scouts and Girl Guides from 40 states, the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico, Alaska, Hawaii, Canada, the Canal Zone and Latin American nations assembled last week at the encampment for the first international meeting to be held in the mid-west.

The girls will return to Iowa City August 14, accompanied by Mrs. Carson.

SUI Chorus, Orchestra To Give Joint Concert

A joint concert by the SUI summer session chorus and orchestra under the direction of Prof. Herald Stark, SUI choral director, will be presented Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the Iowa Union.

The program will include a complete performance of Arthur Honegger's symphonic psalm "King David" and the cantata "God's Time Is the Best" by Johann S. Bach.

Cast members for the symphonic psalm will be Richard R. Lutton, G. Evanston, Ill., narrator; Edith Lecco, G. Pella, soprano; Thomas Muir, assistant professor of voice, tenor, and Faye Von Draska, SUI voice instructor, contralto.

Soloists in the Bach cantata will be Donald Ecroyd, G. Iowa City, tenor; Dorothy Krebill, A3 Donnellson, contralto, and James Wood, G. Lindsborg, Kan., bass.

Free tickets for the concert are now available at the desk in the Iowa Union.

Stark said yesterday he wished to stress the fact that although "King David" is modern, it is good drama and very understandable.

"The music," he said, "is stirring, and follows closely the story told by a narrator."

Bach's cantata, in direct contrast to the Honegger, is relaxing music, Stark said.

A concert by the SUI chorus and orchestra, an event of the fine arts festival, will be broadcast today at 1 p.m. over most NBC stations. WHO will re-broadcast the concert at 2 p.m.

Program for the concert will include two overtures, "Cyrano de Bergerac" by Philip Bezanson, SUI theory instructor, and "Tragic Overture" by Johannes Brahms, played by the orchestra, under the direction of Philip G. Clapp, head of the music department.

SUI Alumnus Gets Paris Fellowship

SUI Graduate Richard C. Hazlett, West Liberty, has received a confirmation for a one-year fellowship granted by the French government for graduate work at the University of Paris.

He will leave for France Sept. 3 on the Queen Elizabeth and will work for a master's degree in political science.

Hazlett graduated from SUI in June. He majored in political science and was a member of the French club, German club, forensics and Beta Theta Pi, social fraternity.

Two Polio Cases Enter Active Ward

Robert Regglesen, 23, Clinton, and Jimmy Welter, 3 1-2-year-old son of Roy Welter, Dubuque were admitted to the "active" polio ward at University hospitals yesterday, according to hospital officials.

Both were described as in "fair" condition yesterday.

Five patients were transferred to the "inactive" lists yesterday, reducing to 26 the number of "active" patients being treated at the hospitals.

Transferred were Jane Uthe, 15 months, and Eldon Uthe, 8, both of Dubuque; Carl Ruan, 5, Clinton; Janet Bowstead, 8, Tipton, and Gregory Brown, 19 months, Rockford.

Vocalist, Musician To Present Recital

Mary Ecroyd, G. Iowa City, soprano, and Donald Sherrard, A4, Normal, Ill., trombone and baritone horn player, will give a joint recital at 4 p.m. Aug. 8 in the north music hall.

Mrs. Ecroyd will sing four songs by Schumann, the aria "Il est doux, il est bon," from "Hérodiade" by Massenet, two arias by Mozart and two songs by Poulenc.

Sherrard's program will include "Solo de Concert" by Combellé, "Morceau Symphonique" by Guilman and a shorter number by Von Weber.

Piano accompaniments for the recital will be played by Dorothy Krebill, A3, Donnellson, and Harriet Pettigrew, A4, Ottumwa.

Local Churches Plan Five Union Services

Union services for five Iowa City churches will be held at the Congregational church at 10:45 a.m. Aug. 7, 14, 21, 28 and Sept. 4.

The Presbyterian church will take charge of the services Aug. 7; the Congregational church, Aug. 14; the Baptist church, Aug. 21; the Christian church, Aug. 28, and the Methodist church, Sept. 4.

'Sacrifice' Expresses Guilt

BY CARL BRAHCE
(Third of a Series)

If you've ever felt guilty about killing a pet chicken, you should see the bronze sculpture, "Sacrifice," by the French sculptor Jacques Lipchitz, now on exhibition in the art building.

"Sacrifice" was one of two sculptures by well-known artists purchased last week for SUI's fine arts collection. Chosen from 12 sculptures recommended for purchase from the 58 pieces in the art building, the bronze was bought for $1,200, along with "Girl Withdrawn," by Henry Kreis.

According to Lipchitz, his latest work reveals his desire to follow "the impulses of his heart and the mad race of his imagination." He has said, "I have been able to rise, to soar, even with the heavier than air substance which is sculpture."

His sculpture shows his spirit of adventure and his belief in the greatness and power of man. In his powerful "Sacrifice" he expresses the feeling of human brutality and at the same time, the guilty feeling of a murderer.

The statue shows a massive, hooded figure — part human, part animal and part phantom — plunging a knife into a rooster.

The strange, distorted structure of the figure's back resembles a huge bug about to pounce on his prey. In the ugly face, the cold eyes of an insect stare with deadly purpose. The two feet resemble those of an animal, but also suggest a human form.

The whole ferocious attitude is strikingly opposed to the almost-pleading form of the rooster. In its clinging posture the idea of man's brutal necessity is clearly shown. The rooster is the helpless victim of man's superior position and power.

The rooster's life must be sacrificed so man's purpose can be fulfilled.

Lipchitz' sculpture cannot be called abstract because it conveys ideas. He has the job of creating forms that will show a particular meaning and still obey the laws of three-dimensional sculpture. His important messages are found in the harmonious balance of his figures.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

IN W. L. WHITE'S new book, Land of Milk and Honey, he tells of two Russian peasants who heard an early speech of Stalin's, and went running to the local holy man to check on the proper reaction. "This fellow Stalin says that despite the opposition of all the rest of the world, socialism can be successfully built up in one country like ours. Is this so?"

The holy man meditated, stroking his beard, and then answered, "Yes, Stalin is right. Socialism can be built in one country. But — while they are doing it, my sons, it is much wiser to live in some other country!"

Front-page newspaper recently carried this item: "Local police are puzzled over the finding of an automobile parked outside the church containing a full case of Scotch whiskey. So far the owner has not been traced, but Captain Cagney is working diligently on the case." And a journal in Tennessee described "the greatest mule parade of the decade, headed by the governor."

Feudin' and Fussin' —

From the front page of Friday's Daily Iowan: Secretary Acheson said yesterday the state department is making a "thorough survey" of the far eastern situation. He indicated future policy on China would be based on the results.

Some new neighbors had moved in next door. The wealthy Smythe-Coperwaithe looked somewhat dubiously at the new arrivals. They probably were going to be questionable characters, because they read Schopenhauer and listened to music by that upstart Stravinsky.

Old Man Smythe-Coperwaithe had watched as the newcomers moved in their belongings. He had seen (with the aid of his field glasses) the titles of the books from their library and the names on the albums from their music collection.

Now let it be understood that the Smythe-Coperwaithe are not nouveau-riche. They had arrived, in every sense of the word, more than 50 years before. They were looked upon in the neighborhood as being people of substance, definitely "upper crust."

Indeed, a bid to dine or play bridge with the Smythe-Coperwaithe was what the whole neighborhood craved, even bragged about to the rest of the neighborhood. The Smythe-Coperwaithe would tell you so themselves.

And so naturally, everyone wanted to see what the self-acknowledged most influential family thought about the new arrivals. Should the Smythe-Coperwaithe invite the new Jones to dinner, everyone in the block would fall all over themselves doing likewise.

But the Smythe-Coperwaithe weren't having any just yet. They were, according to the grapevine, waiting to see what the newly-arrived Jones would prove to be like.

So what if Carolyn S-C found the heir apparent to the Jones lands and titles a decidedly interesting person. Mrs. S-C must needs first inspect her neighbors sterling and find it the approved pattern.

Truth to tell, there was one thing that gave the S-C's momentary qualms. It was this: If their hated social rivals, the Get-there-firsts, decided the Jones were nice people and sneaked in the first invitation, then the well-known fact would be in the well-known fire.

Never again could S-C Sr. hold up his head at the club. Never again could Mrs. S-C condescendingly discuss servants with her neighbors at afternoon bridge teas. And the grapevine was silent on what the Get-there-firsts thought about the Jones.

Needed: one crystal ball for the state department.

Peron: Following the Script —

Members of Argentina's Peronista party, it was learned yesterday, are launching an early drive to "draft" President Peron to run for re-election in 1952.

The move comes as no surprise. It is another methodical step toward perpetuating Peron's dictatorship. Peron the dictator is exceedingly fond of posing as President Peron the freely-elected president of a republic.

For the first several years of his regime, this worked without a hitch. Major segments of the economy were run by the government on the corporate state pattern. Peron has kept his tight-fisted grip on the army and the laboring class although there are signs of dissension among labor's ranks.

Against this background looms Argentina's 1952 elections. Peron does not intend to risk his career in a free election. He had the choice of running himself or putting in a hand-picked crony for a term and then returning the term after that.

Under the former Argentine constitution, a president could not serve for two consecutive terms. Peron — apparently deciding to "run" himself — fixed that.

He simply had a new constitution written. The document is a quger conglomeration of Fascist and Marxist dialect. But the important thing is that it allows an Argentine president to serve for two consecutive terms or longer.

Even after this, Peron did not come out and announce his intention of running in 1952. A spontaneous call from the people would look more impressive. Peron's party, the Peronistas, are following closely the script and are manufacturing such a spontaneous demonstration at the present time.

Undoubtedly Peron, deeply flattered, will soon announce that he is turning aside personal considerations with the greatest reluctance and will run for re-election.

Then, according to plan, Argentina will go through the motions of staging a free election and Director Peron will be entrenched firmly for another term.

Peron has something disgustingly in common with the world's Communist dictators. Neither believes in democracy; all secretly despise it and publicly ridicule it.

Yet they take the greatest of pains to go through the motions of being democratic. The Soviets stage a "free trial" to get rid of a political undesirable. Peron is determined to be "re-elected" with a great nationwide mandate from the Argentine people. And he's willing to re-write constitutions and fabricate political parties to do it.

Pink Pills Diagnosis —

The American Medical Association's campaign against President Truman's health insurance program is meeting passive, but not necessarily active support of Johnson county doctors, a Daily Iowan survey showed.

Main reason given for doctors not using the literature supplied by the AMA is that the doctors fear their relationship with their patients might change.

As part of the drive, the AMA sent stickers to member doctors, urging them to place the stickers on envelopes. The stickers say, "As your personal physician, I oppose compulsory health insurance because — it would bring you inferior medical care at high cost — invade your medical privacy — put both of us under political control! If you agree, please write your U.S. senators and representatives. For more information, ask me."

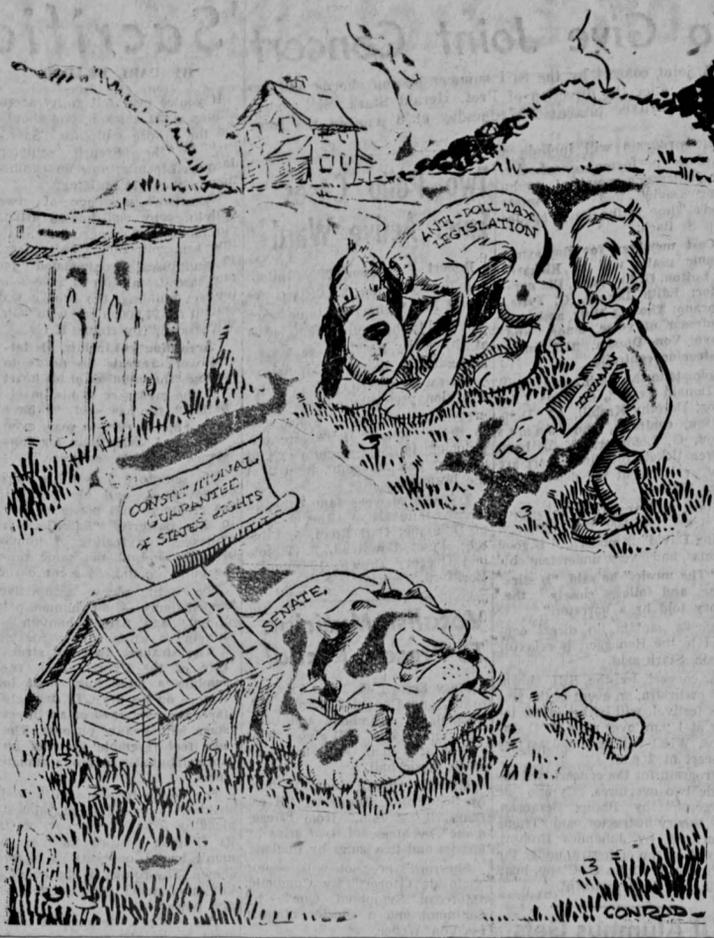

Doctors thus far, have been reluctant to use the AMA material. Still, those interviewed were unanimous in the view that socialized medicine is bad.

"The whole thing is a matter of singling out one group to socialize," one doctor said. "Why not include public utilities too?" Said one doctor, "I feel that I can do justice to only 30 persons per day. Under the proposed set-up, doctors' offices would be flooded, and the doctors would end up by merely passing out pink pills and telling patients to go home to bed."

Other complaints against the proposed legislation ranged from "look at the mess England's doctors are in" to "no one will study medicine under a socialized medicine program."

However, there isn't immediate cause for worry among Johnson county doctors. It doesn't seem likely that President Truman will be able to muster enough support to push the socialized medicine bill through congress during the current term.

No 'Active' War Plans

By J. M. ROBERTS JR.
(AP) Foreign Affairs Analyst

Secretary Dean Acheson declines to answer yes or no to the question whether Russia is actively preparing for war.

He might have answered yes or no, depending on what you mean by "preparing for war."

If you mean preparations with the definite aim of making war according to a certain schedule, the answer is very probably no.

If you mean making preparations through fear of what may happen in an uncertain future, and for the purpose of backing diplomacy with armed might, the answer is a shouted "yes."

And so are the western powers.

The difference between Russian and western military policy is that the Communists subscribe to a doctrine that war between the Communist and non-Communist states is inevitable, whereas the west hopes it may be averted through a display of sufficient strength and unity.

And even the Kremlin avows that peace between the two systems is possible until the day when, according to their theories, historical forces will of themselves produce the downfall of western society and the clincher of Communist revolutionary violence backed by the Communist army, will be applied.

Communist theories on international economics even suggest a hope that their world conquest may be carried out without the common forms of international war.

During last fall's crisis over the Berlin blockade, when a wave of war jitters swept western Europe, Russia was militarily calm.

Hurried maneuvers were ordered to turn America's swivel chair army in Germany into a combat force. Britain became a base for U.S. B-29 atom-bombers. American short range jet fighters were flown to Germany, ostensibly to prove that ferrying was both feasible and economic as compared with boat shipment. Actually it demonstrated to Russia how quickly we could build up our air force in Europe.

Allied military men were considering a possibility they felt was very grave, that the Berlin airlift might need fighter escort.

Russian troops kept to positions which were a far cry from war deployment. Units moved around some, perhaps for normal purposes, perhaps to worry the allies. But no striking force was formed to threaten Europe.

Since then Russia appears to have gone over to the defensive politically, with a corresponding lessening of the chance that her aggressiveness would extend into the military field.

That is why the administration is proposing a minimum instead of an emergency program for military aid to Europe, and why there is a feeling among some congressmen that even this minimum is reducible.

President Truman's program does not appear to be aimed at increasing the size of western Europe's armies. It merely calls for modern equipment for the 1.5-million men which represent the area's normal draft program.

Of that number, only about 60 percent — perhaps 40 divisions — will represent combat strength when the program has been completed. This is less than the number Russia would be expected to throw into any blow, but believed to be enough for defense pending general mobilization.

The American delegation to the recent Paris four-power conference returned convinced the real defense against Communist expansion continues to lie in the economic solidification of western Europe.

They consider rearmament vital not so much as a preparation for war as a line of security behind which recovery can continue with some expectation of permanence.

So both sides are "preparing actively," yet not for war now.

Morrell Plant Dispute Settled

OTTUMWA (AP) — Settlement of a long-standing dispute over work standards in the pork cutting departments of the John Morrell plant was reported yesterday.

The company and the CIO packinghouse workers announced the settlement in a joint statement yesterday which also said work in the department would resume normal proportions as rapidly as possible.

No other details on the settlement were available.

The dispute over work standards in the department had existed for weeks and at times resulted in as many as 50 employees being suspended.

Another 250 workers have been out of work at times in related departments because of the curtailment of operations in the pork cutting section.

The plant has been out of the pork market recently during the dispute, but company officials said yesterday buying would be resumed immediately.

Operations will be stepped up and will probably reach normal next week, the company said.

And the Population Can Double —

Economist Thinks U.S. Food Supply Ample

WASHINGTON (AP)—The president of the Brookings institution this week said the United States has the ability to support a doubled population, 100 years from now, on a plane of living eight times as high as that of the present.

Dr. Harold G. Moulton, widely known economist, is the author of a 397-page report issued by the non-profit, privately endowed research organization.

He said it is by no means certain the country will achieve such an expansion, but given wise policies it has the resources to do it.

Discussing those policies, he said, for example, the huge 100-year advance would require a continuing increase in productivity — or per-capita production — and a "progressive expansion of mass purchasing power," preferably through price reductions.

Dr. Moulton rejected contentions our minerals and fuels are inadequate, that the country is approaching a "static" condition, or that the government must set up a "controlled economy." He argued that after a century of phenomenal progress, the economic promise of American life remains undiminished.

In concluding our natural resources, if systematically preserved and fostered, are "adequate" for a great economic expansion, Dr. Moulton placed emphasis on things like this:

Electronics, plastics, scientific agriculture, soil-less food production, new metals, new methods of exploring for minerals, synthetic production of oil, development of low-grade iron ore.

He estimated on the basis of past spending habits and present income distribution, a rise in the population to 300-million and an eightfold rise in living standards would multiply the nation's dollar spending as follows:

For food and nutrition, about eight times; for shelter and home maintenance, about 16 times; for attire and personal care, about 20 times; for health and education, about 30 times; and for recreation and travel, about 33 times.

But the actual physical quantity of goods required would not be that great, because much of the increased spending would be for services rather than goods, and much of it would be for goods of better quality.

For example, Dr. Moulton estimated the actual quantity of food required would be less than triple the present production. And he said it's highly probable this could be done without any appreciable increase in the number of people engaged in agriculture.

Dr. Moulton, at 65, has been president of the Brookings institution since 1922. The title of his study is "controlling factors in economic development." He made it under a grant of funds from the Falk foundation, Pittsburgh.

There are several "ifs" in Dr. Moulton's picture. For example, he said the vast expansion would require:

1. A continuing increase in productivity. This in turn would require constant scientific and technological development, new tools, replacement of obsolete plants, better management methods including personnel practices.

A progressive increase in the efficiency of workmen, adequate incentives for labor and management and investors, and "at least a fair degree of assurance with respect to the perpetuity of the private enterprise system."

2. A progressive expansion of mass purchasing power. Dr. Moulton said, "the unfulfilled desire of the masses constitute the great potential markets of the future."

He said America's economic potentialities can't be realized unless there is "a constantly broadening" distribution of income. How to achieve this distribution, he said, is "the greatest single problem with which we are confronted."

Dr. Moulton said taxation in the higher income levels and wage increases both may have some legitimate function in this redistribution of income, but he said a much better way of doing it would be progressive price reductions, because they benefit all segments of the population.

3. Large-scale enterprise.

4. Monetary stability.

5. Fiscal stability. He proposed the government, instead of deciding what expenditures must be made and then setting out to get the required money, should first determine what taxes should be levied over a four-year period and then hold expenditures well within those limits.

RAILWAY REPORTS
ST. PAUL (AP) — The Great Northern railway yesterday reported a net income for the first six months of this year of less than one-half the total for the same period last year. Net income was reported at $3,104,914, compared with $6,607,213 last year.

Student Returns from Uranium Hunt

By BOB CHAPMAN

A beard, a blanket and a Geiger counter are all that Lawrence E. (Bud) Urban, A4, Iowa City, needs to go hunting for uranium.

After spending three weeks in the Harney national forest near Rapid City, S.D., Urban came home with a promising growth of whiskers, a few pounds of uranium ore and a healthy dislike of using the ground as a bed.

Located near the Mt. Rushmore memorial, Harney national forest is one of the largest game reserves in South Dakota. "Didn't get a chance to shoot anything big enough to eat because of the game laws," Urban said.

Urban was busy poking the business end of his Geiger counter into crevices and behind rocks.

Looks for Atom Bomb Stuff

HE ISN'T LOOKING FOR URANIUM in a backyard. Lawrence E. (Bud) Urban, A4, Iowa City, is just demonstrating a Geiger counter. Urban recently returned from Harney National forest near Rapid City, S.D., where he spent three weeks prospecting for uranium. About all he picked up was that growth of beard and a dislike for sleeping on the ground.

He was too busy, he said, to enjoy the good fishing in that part of the country, which is unusual for a man who likes to fish as much as Bud Urban does.

A Geiger counter is a battery-operated gadget with an earphone attached, designed to indicate the presence of uranium. When the Geiger "tube" is placed near a uranium deposit, a definite ticking is heard in the earphone.

The counter maintains a "background count" when it is plugged in. The effect of the presence of uranium produces a second tick of a different nature in the earphones.

When the Geiger tick is twice as rapid as the "background count," there is a uranium deposit nearby. When the Geiger tube is very close to the deposit, the counter makes so much noise the ticks cannot be counted. This is called a "bust."

"A lot of prospectors with counters have been through that part of the country," Urban said, "but there isn't enough uranium ore to make it worthwhile."

"I wouldn't go back there again to prospect but I would like to take a vacation in Harney national forest. If I wanted to look for uranium again, I'd go to Canada, Alaska or South America."
