Hawkeyes 7-Point Underdogs In League Opener at Purdue

By ALAN MOYER
Daily Iowan Sports Editor

LAFAYETTE, IND. — Iowa's Hawkeyes and Purdue's Boilermakers, both anxious to break into the win column after opening game losses, will meet in a Western conference game here this afternoon before an estimated crowd of 35,000 fans.

Iowa, 36 players strong, plus coaches and trainers, arrived Friday evening and set up headquarters at the Purdue Union. The Hawks are generally listed as seven-point underdogs in a game that most people agree could easily go either way.

The kickoff at the Boilermakers' Ross-Ade stadium is scheduled for 1:30 (Iowa time) and will be brought to Hawkeye fans by both Iowa City radio stations.

Iowa lost its home opener last week when the Hawks outdid UCLA in everything but the score and went down, 41-25. Inability to hold onto the ball at crucial times and an inadequate pass defense spelled the difference. The Hawkeye ground offensive tripped the Uclan yardage and Glenn Drahn gave future opponents something to think about as he completed 12 of 24 passes.

Purdue, opening against Northwestern's Rose Bowl champions, and without the services of Harry Szulborski, (dropped a Big Ten contest, 20-6, Szulborski, the league's leading ground-gainer for the past two years, was sidelined with a leg injury against the Wildcats but promises to be ready for the Iowa tussle today.

The contest will mark the 25th meeting of the two clubs and the perpetuation of a rivalry that has gone without a break since 1929. Purdue currently holds the edge in the series with 16 wins, 10 losses and one tie.

The Hawks, on the other hand, will be trying for their first victory at Lafayette since the Ironmen of 1939 came up with a 4-0 triumph, on two safeties.

In 1946 Iowa blanketed Purdue in Iowa City, 16-0, while last year the Boilermakers came out on top, 20-13.

Both clubs can be said to be in good physical shape after one game. Iowa's Bob Lage, who started at left guard a week ago, has suffered a leg injury and may not be able to play. Jim Shoaf, 240-pound tackle, is still nursing a leg injury and didn't make the trip. He's expected to be out at least one more week.

Szulborski's return brightens the picture for Purdue, the only other ailment of any note being a leg injury to Earl Murray, a senior left guard who will be replaced in the starting lineup by sophomore Don Jackson.

Dr. Eddie Anderson will start a slightly different eleven than he did against UCLA but the bulk of the action probably will be seen by the same group. Lou Ginsberg will replace Lage at left guard and the starting ends will be veteran Ralph Woodard and Bob Hoff. With the Hawks on the offense the ends will become Jack Dittmer, selected as game captain, and Bob McKenzie. That pair grabbed passes for 202 yards and two touchdowns last week.

Earl Banks will start at right guard, the small but mighty senior being appointed captain while

Lilienthal Cleared Of 'Mismanagement,' McMahon Reports

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chairman Brien McMahon (D-Conn) split his joint atomic energy committee Friday by releasing a ready-made report clearing David Lilienthal of charges of "incredible mismanagement" of the atomic program.

The report also denied that tax security practices on the part of the atomic energy commission enabled the Russians to touch off their first atomic explosion ahead of schedule as some critics had charged.

Sen. William Knowland (R-Calif) released an angry letter to McMahon that committee members should have been consulted before the staff prepared the report. The report had been held confidential pending committee action on it.

Sen. Bourke Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) who touched off the committee's investigation with his "incredible mismanagement" charge against the atomic energy commission chairman, told newsmen the investigation was "far from complete" and no report had been authorized.

It was indicated that he, too, would write McMahon a formal protest.

Their statements confirmed McMahon's circulating report summing up the investigation. He previously had announced that the inquiry was "closed."

Asked about the Knowland-Hickenlooper statements, McMahon said the report, prepared by the staff, had been given to committee members with the request that it be held in "strictest confidence."

A covering letter, he said, apprised members that it would be discussed at a meeting next Wednesday.

Two More Nations Break off with Tito

LONDON (AP) — Communist Poland and Hungary fell quickly in line Friday with Soviet Russia in renouncing treaties of friendship and cooperation with Yugoslavia.

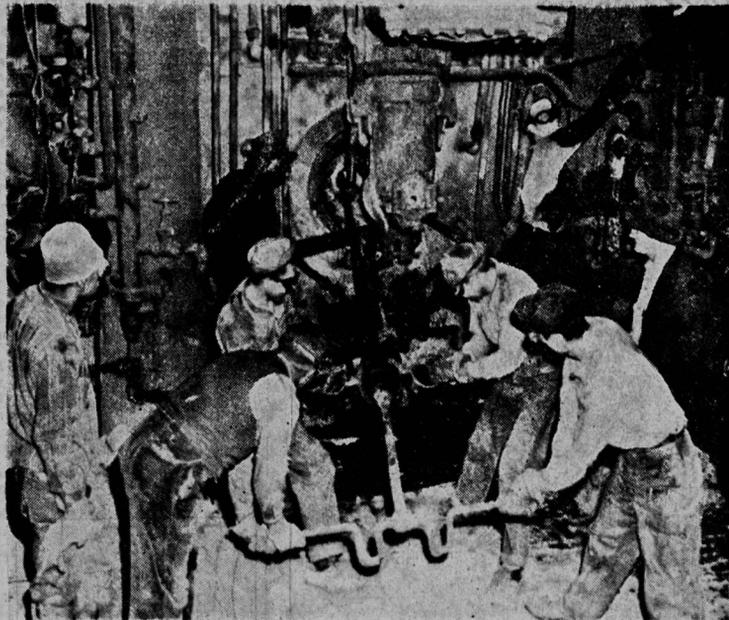

It seemed certain that the other members of the Tito-hating Cominform will follow suit. They are Albania, Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia, and Romania.

The Soviet Union announced Thursday that it had renounced its treaty with Yugoslavia. Hungary's action was disclosed Friday and Poland made its stand known Friday night.

It appeared that the cominform countries and Russia were heading for a complete severing of diplomatic relations with Yugoslavia.

U.S. HAS DEFICIT

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government finished the first quarter of the new fiscal year Friday about $1.4-billion in the red — and with prospects strong for going deeper into the hole.

Steelworkers Shut Down Blast Furnace

WORKMEN THROUGHOUT the steel industry began shutting down furnaces Friday in preparation for the steel strike scheduled to begin at midnight the same day. Typical scenes of such closing down activity occurred at the Carrie plant of U.S. Steel's Homestead, Pa., works where workers are shown removing a fuel and air mixing unit known as a "tayer" from a blast furnace.

Police Have Lead On Loan Company Robbers, Licenses

Iowa City police believe they can identify the trio who held up the Reliable Loan company here Monday as Jerry Zeidema, Robert Latrella and a man known only as Morton.

The three young robbers took about nine weapons, mostly side-arms, ammunition and cash from the loan company. Total loss was estimated at $600.

Jerry Zeidema is reportedly known in Davenport and is said frequently to travel highway 3 to Des Moines.

Police believe the trio is traveling in a light blue 1949 Plymouth to which they were seen to transfer their loot from the robbery Monday in Solon.

They left the maroon 1949 Mercury at the transfer spot and took the Mercury's license plate with them. They may be using the Illinois plate from the Plymouth 1780-103, or the Mercury's license plate of Dubuque county, police reported.

Davenport police think the men may be the same ones who Sunday morning robbed a Davenport tavern and a saddle club near Rock Island, Ill.

Russians Release Two U.S. Soldiers

VIENNA, AUSTRIA (AP) — Two American soldiers held by the Russians since last Sunday morning were released to American officers at Linz Friday night.

The men said they had been treated well and were not questioned. They described the Russian food as fair. Further details of their stay in the Russian zone, or their reason for entering it, are not yet known here.

The men were identified as Cpl. John McGuire of Philadelphia and Pvt. Lawrence Virtue of Hopedale, Ohio.

Both soldiers were members of company G, 350th infantry regiment, stationed at Linz. The Russians gave them into the custody of Provost Marshall Maj. Lee Pray and Lt. Col. Glenn Schmidt, zonal command intelligence officer.

Pray is from Chula Vista, Calif. Schmidt's home is in Iowa City, Iowa.

New Goodrich Pact Ends 34-Day Strike

DAYTON (AP) — The B.F. Goodrich company and CIO united rubber workers signed a new contract Friday, ending a 34-day strike for 16,000 workers in seven states.

Goodrich Vice-President J. Keener signed for the company and International Representative Asa Tiller signed for the union.

FIVE INJURED

BIRMINGHAM, ALA. (AP) — Three explosions, followed by fire, ripped through the Fairfield Coke works of the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad company Friday, injuring five workers.

Lewis Sends Fifth of Strikers Back to Pits; Strike Continues

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Household with empty coal bins got good news Friday as John L. Lewis ordered one-fifth of his 480,000 striking United Mine Workers back into the pits Monday.

The bushy-browed United Mine Workers chieftain ended a sympathy walkout for 102,000 hard and soft coal diggers. But the 12-day strike of nearly 400,000 other bituminous coal miners continues unabated.

The strike began Sept. 19 after suspension of payments by the mine workers' pension fund. The union said it was a rank and file revolt.

The back-to-work order affects 80,000 eastern Pennsylvania anthracite and 22,000 western bituminous miners. Virtually their entire production — an estimated 1.9-million tons weekly — is used for home heating.

"The suspension of mining in the western and anthracite areas is not now vital to the pending wage negotiations," Lewis said in a telegram to UMW district presidents.

He added: the action will "minimize loss to all parties."

Lewis referred to continuing negotiations with northern and western bituminous mine operators at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va.

Talks now are at a standstill. There is no sign of agreement. Both sides accuse each other of acting in bad faith.

UMW Vice-President Thomas Kennedy read the Lewis telegram to newsmen. John L. is at the bedside of his 91-year-old mother in Springfield, Ill.

In addition to Pennsylvania's hard coal workers, the Lewis back-to-work order affects bituminous diggers in 10 western states — Washington, Iowa, Kansas, Colorado, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Missouri, Wyoming, Utah and Montana.

The broadcast, heard by the Associated Press at San Francisco, listed six vice-chairmen who will serve with Mao on the ruling government council.

One is Madame Sun Yat-Sen, sister-in-law of Mao's arch enemy, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek. This was expected. She is in Peiping now. She long has leaned toward the Communists. Her late husband, Dr. Sun Yat-Sen, led the 1911 revolution which set up China's first republic.

Mao, Madame Sun, and five other vice-chairmen were rubber-stamped in Peiping by the political consultative conference. Mao's election was unanimous. Possibly the others were too.

Attempted Crash Foiled on Highway

GRUNDY CENTER (AP) — Edward Beckwith, 27, failed by seconds Friday in an attempt to wreck the car taking him to Waterloo to face trial for murder.

John Meyer reported Beckwith grabbed the steering wheel of the car and attempted to swerve into the path of an oncoming auto. However, Meyer said he pulled Beckwith from the wheel and Wesley Free, Grundy county court clerk who was driving, regained control of the auto.

Beckwith, accused of the mutilation slaying of Mrs. Irma Jean Stahlhut, 22, Morrison, was enroute to Waterloo after his attorneys Thursday gained a change of venue for his murder trial.

DETROIT (AP) — Burglars at the Hughes Glue company tried to crack a small but sticky safe. They: Knocked off the combination knob; ripped off two hinges; drilled several holes in the door; gave up and fled leaving their electric drill: failed to notice that the safe was not locked.

Probers Call Minnesota Professor 'Scientist X'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ending a year-old mystery, the House Un-American activities committee Friday named a young midwest university professor as the shadowy "Scientist X". It accused "X" of slipping wartime atomic secrets to a man it called a communist spy.

The committee said that "Scientist X" is Dr. Joseph Weinberg of the University of Minnesota and formally recommended that the justice department prosecute him on perjury charges.

Weinberg promptly denied the accusation, claiming it was a case of "mistaken identity."

The justice department said the FBI has been investigating Weinberg "for a long period of time."

A department spokesman said when FBI reports on the case are completed they will be studied.

In Minneapolis, Weinberg, 32-year old assistant professor of physics at the University of Minnesota, told newsmen:

"I am innocent! At no time have I participated in any way in disclosure of any secret or classified information or formula to any unauthorized person."

The young scientist also took a slap at the term "Scientist X," which he said is "a publicity-seeking phrase invented by the committee."

Dr. J. L. Morrill, president of the University of Minnesota, called for an immediate government investigation to "establish the truth in this tragic situation for the security of the nation and with strict justice to Prof. Weinberg."

Morrill said the university would not knowingly retain on its staff "any person guilty of perjury or traitorous Communist collaboration."

Left Wing Laborites Urge Early Election

LONDON — The British Labor party split Friday over timing of the next general election when a powerful left wing segment demanded an early date.

Prime Minister Clement Attlee, surviving a parliamentary debate that was more political than economic, still was reported to be holding out against an election before next summer, when it is required by law.

Saturday Students Begin Class Today For 12-Week Term

The fee for Saturday classes will be $5.00 per semester hour. Refunds for fee payments will not be made after Oct. 22.

The office of the registrar, room 1, University hall, will remain open during the noon hour and until 2 p.m. today to accommodate students who have questions about registration, Croysaid.

Candidates for a graduate degree may count a maximum of eight semester hours of graduate work completed in Saturday classes toward their degree, and undergraduates in the college of liberal arts may count a maximum of 12 semester hours toward a degree, Croysaid.

Courses in commerce, education, English, history, physical education, political science, psychology and sociology will be offered, Croysaid.

RUSSIANS PROPOSE LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y.

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y. (AP) — Russia formally proposed Friday that the United Nations order the western powers to pull out of military bases in Italy's former north African colony of Libya within three months.

"Our collective bargaining negotiations ... have come to a complete impasse because of the unreasonable attitude of the union."

The argument has been going on since May.

White House Says Truman Won't Interfere

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A nationwide steel strike began at 12:01 a.m. today.

Philip Murray, president of the CIO united steelworkers, called 528,000 of his unionists off their jobs, shutting down the giant, vital steel industry from coast to coast.

The news wasn't unexpected — the angry argument over free insurance and pensions has been going on for months — yet it came with dramatic suddenness.

At 7:30 p.m. Friday, Murray disclosed telegrams had gone out to local unions, calling the strike at expiration of the presidential truce.

Immediately negotiations collapsed.

Murray and the president of the United States Steel corporation, Benjamin F. Fairless, got out angry statements in which each blamed the other for the nation's first steel strike since 1946.

In his statement, Fairless said the union, instead of giving in on any points, had made fresh demands, including a request for a wage increase of 12 and one-half cents an hour.

Then the negotiators went home. When they'll meet again, nobody knows.

Long before the final news came, mills were shutting down. Workers were leaving their jobs. Picket lines were set up. And the White House had said President Truman would take no further step in the dispute. A White House official put it bluntly, "He is through."

By midnight the shutdown was complete.

Murray sent his strike orders to workers at 53 basic steel plants, at 50 iron ore mining companies and at the American Can company with 23 plants from New York to California.

Just before midnight, however, Federal Conciliator V. Wayne Keenan announced in Cincinnati that American Can had reached an agreement with the union. He said this included a wage increase and a company financed pension plan for 15,000 workers.

Murray put the blame for the strike on U.S. Steel, the giant of the industry with 150,000 workers. This is the company which sets the pattern for the industry.

Said Murray: "This strike has been forced upon the union and the American people by the company. The responsibility for this strike rests entirely upon the company."

Retorted President Benjamin F. Fairless of U.S. Steel in a statement: "Our collective bargaining negotiations ... have come to a complete impasse because of the unreasonable attitude of the union."

Iowa City Engineer Gets Columbus Job

WASHINGTON (AP) — The geological survey's water resources division listed Friday these district engineer appointments for surface water branches:

Columbus, Ohio — Lawrence Crawford, a native of Bentonville, Ind., and district engineer at Iowa City, Iowa, for nine years. He succeeds C.V. Youngquist, who has joined the newly-formed natural resources division for Ohio.

Iowa City — Vernal Bennion, a native of Taylorsville, Utah, and a graduate of Utah State Agricultural college, succeeds Crawford.

College Park, Md. — Floyd Lefever, from Ranolph, Iowa, a University of Nebraska graduate, formerly engineer in charge of the Ellenville sub-office of the Albany, N.Y., district office. He succeeds Bennion.

OFFERS PENSION PLAN CHICAGO

CHICAGO (AP) — International Harvester company Friday offered to pay 10 cents an hour per worker toward a pension and insurance plan for employees, provided they contribute something, too.

IDLE ANTHRACITE MINERS near Pottsville, Pa., cheered lustily Friday as they read a notice ordering them back to their jobs at the St. Clair Coal company Monday. The order was posted by Michael Homa (left of sign), secretary, and Steve Herman (right), president of the colliery local union. Harold Smyth, general manager of the company, (wearing hat) read the notice over Homa's shoulder.

Mexican Oil—

In a recent speech before the house of representatives a New Jersey congressman suggested that the U.S. tie itself up with Mexico for the sake of a constant supply of oil.

Mexico, it seems, has large oil reserves, but lacks the technical know-how and working capital that is necessary to make the most of nature's abundance.

Rep. Charles Wolverton would have us supplying the scarce commodities, the main item of which would be a $200-million loan. He sees "mutual benefits" for years to come from such cooperative efforts.

The proposal has its goods points — and its bad ones. We have given billions to Europe to help her back on her feet. Surely a $200-million loan in Mexico would be a sound investment in goodwill, if nothing else.

But what we can't afford to do is sink this sum in Mexican oil and let it become the basis for "dollar diplomacy" such as we have exhibited in the near east.

"Such a loan would encourage United States private enterprise to go into Mexico . . ." according to Wolverton. How very true. And such unregulated enterprise could very easily create another near eastern situation, which is securing us petroleum, but also a lot of condemnation.

Before we tie any knots with our good neighbor to the south, there are a couple of things we must consider. They are:

1. How badly do we need foreign oil? It is reported that we have oil-bearing shale in the Rocky mountains that could satisfy our demands for many years to come. Whether this oil can profitably be acquired right now is another question.

2. The last time our oilmen went into Mexico they came out without their proverbial shirts when Mexico expropriated foreign oil properties in 1938. It's something to think about although it could probably never occur again.

A $200-million loan to Mexico would undoubtedly do wonders in the comparatively undeveloped nation. It would put the U.S. and Mexico much closer together.

But the loan might lead to something that would directly contradict the main purpose.

It's a calculated risk.

Home Front Hot Water—

Britain's labor government is rumored considering a snap election call sometime this autumn. And what the result will be nobody knows. But since the laborites received a substantial majority confidence vote Thursday in the house of commons, it seems apparent they are treading on firm ground.

The big question in the minds of statesmen all over Europe and even on this continent is this: what's the future government in Britain going to be? Labor, conservative or a hybrid — something which will be a product of the times as was the coalition government of Winston Churchill during the war.

This question is important because it will be an indication of the way political feeling is going all over the social democracies of Europe and North America.

Here's the picture: Winston Churchill, conservative leader and ex-prime minister has demanded a vote of confidence which laborites in the house of commons were glad to give.

They supported their party's decision to devalue the pound by a rip-roaring 342-5 vote. Churchill's motion of "no confidence" was defeated, 350-212. The discrepancy between the first and second votes is accounted for by the fact the liberals and conservatives abstained from voting in the first motion.

That's point one: the laborites still have the confidence of their members in the lower house. Point two: will the British people demonstrate they have the same confidence if and when they are called to the polls to elect representatives?

The labor government is pretty certain they will be restored to the house in sufficient majority to make their program still the official policy of Britain. The conservatives have the suspicion the laborites are on their last legs, and feel an election will prove it.

It's just a shot in the dark to make any prediction, but the chances look good for the laborites. And here's why: a look at the statistics of the labor party's accomplishments shows they are turning the trick — putting Britain back on sound economic footing.

Pound devaluation was just another step in the long, tough road back for the British people. It was intended to hasten the process of putting Britain back in the running as a creditor nation. Back to a place where she sells more than she buys.

The dominions and possessions cut loose during the war were reluctant to go back to their former dependent status. So British supremacy in the empire trade all but vanished.

Pound devaluation's place in the labor party's scheme of things is this: with the pound worth less, the British can sell their goods here at lower prices with the hope of selling more. When they sell more they can accumulate more American dollars. And American dollars are what make the economic world go around today.

So to Britain's problem. If the labor people can keep the English public satisfied with the progress they're making, re-election will be a cinch.

Strange Carolina Soil Products

By THE CENTRAL PRESS
MEBANE, N.C. — The sumac wore a coat of old gold and black. The wind tasted of frost.

The late afternoon sun slashed its way through the crowns of the moss-draped cypress to mark the least-carpeted floor with specks of silver.

Already the crickets were playing their fiddles in the hedgerows, while the katydids sang their hymnals.

The Plant Woman had lived there on Honey Island in the log cabin with the Carolina-Virginia Dismal swamp as a back drop long enough to outlast three husbands and send nine children into the outside world.

Her wrinkled, weatherbeaten face was mute evidence that she had heard thunder roll through the swamp many a summer.

She rocked to and fro in a rocking chair there on the pine board planks of her front porch.

The fisherman had gone to her cabin to obtain information on a bass stream in eastern North Carolina but before he left, he learned many things concerning the gathering and marketing of one North Carolina's more important products of the soil: medicinal herbs and roots.

When you or one of your loved ones are struck down by illness, your first concern is a doctor. Secondly, you are concerned with getting your doctor's prescription filled. Without drugs your doctor's prescription would be worthless.

Now, where do those drugs, which your doctor orders, come from?

The answer, of course, is from those folk who brave the forest and the fence tows to gather herbs and roots in their wild state. That is, with the exception of those medicines which are made of chemicals.

Significantly, recent reports rank North Carolina at the top in this little-known industry of root and herb gathering.

The Plant Woman wore a slat bonnet. Her hands were folded in her lap. The air was pregnant with the goldenrod, with the new-mown hay and the late-blooming yellow jessamine that covered the paling fence which surrounded the yard.

In the opposite corner of the yard, there was growing a bed of ill-smelling skunk cabbage. The flowers were all that their name implied. The fisherman was interested in the contrast.

"Granny," said he, "Why the skunk cabbage, when the yellow jessamines give off with such wonderful perfume?"

"Ha!" she said. "The skunk cabbage is worth its bother. The yellow jessamines ain't!"

In back of her cabin, there literally were hundreds of other wild herbs growing which she had gathered from the swamp and the fields and transplanted to her own land "to gather when they be ripe for marketing." She said the skunk cabbage root would bring 15 cents a pound.

Blue flag, that lovely swan flower which bears a solitary bloom with violet sepals, veined with purple over white, brings 28 cents a pound, she said. She added that its roots were used in the preparation of cathartics and sometimes as a stimulant.

But the bloodroot was in bloom. The pure whiteness of its eight petals were like new-driven snow. It center was tintured with a bright golden yellow.

It gets its name from its stem, which bleeds a reddish juice when broken. This flower is used both as a stimulant and an emetic. Its worth to the medicinal trade may be judged by the fact that its roots bring 40 cents a pound in the wholesale drug market.

The plant woman pointed out boneset, catnip, lady slipper, pink root and mullein, blue vervain, wild ginger, poke berries and jimson weed, all growing there in her yard.

There are approximately 300 different kinds of herbs and roots gathered in North Carolina each year that bring varied prices of from four cents a pound for willow bark to upwards of $10 a pound for ginseng root.

Interpreting the News — Western Europe Defenses Not Planned for A-Bomb

By J. M. ROBERTS JR.
(Foreign Affairs Analyst)

The concept that western Europe could be defended by its own armies while American strategic bombers cut the Russian army's lines of supply and command has been given a knock by Russian development of an atomic bomb.

Reports which apparently are taken seriously by American military men say Russia is developing formidable guided missile installations all along what would be the new western front. While she is believed to be far behind in planes for delivery of the bomb against the United States, she has the B-29 prototypes for devastating work over Europe.

This is bound to bring back into prominence the development of aerial defense which had been pushed into the background by the postwar strategic bombers.

Heretofore, Europe and her backer, the United States, have not had to worry too much about Russia's air force. Allied fighter and interceptors in production or being developed promised enough in the field of tactical support and defense of ground forces.

But stopping the delivery of atomic war-heads is an entirely different matter.

For one thing, it will mean that preparation of western Europe's defenses will become infinitely more expensive than previously estimated.

The military assistance program which congress has just approved merely envisions the equipment with modern weapons of the forces which Europe normally conscripts.

Within several years it was expected that perhaps 40 modern divisions could be mustered to meet an assault. Much of it was to be done with equipment the U.S. already has on hand or in production.

Creating of vast new defensive air forces, of which Europe is practically bare now, is not a part of the present program. Yet it appears to have become a high priority necessity.

Russian ability to support its troops with the atom bomb, to blast a path and destroy the cities which are the backbone of defense, also changes the potential of the ground army itself.

The Russians learned at Stalingrad and Leningrad what it means to have the urban factories running weapons to the men in the defense lines. As the Germans pressed against those cities life stopped, except in the tank and munitions plants and in the frontal defenses. One atom bomb at Stalingrad probably would have sent the Germans sweeping all across Russia.

This means, then, that ground defense needs also are far greater now than when the rearmament program was being developed.

The Russian bomb produces new pressures which, whether there is a war or not, could result in strange political repercussions due to increased defense needs.

For a long time allied military men have been wanting to ignore political differences and bring Spain into the western camp. Strategically, they envisage her as a base of incalculable value in case of externity in Europe.

And she has an army of considerable consequence.

Now, with the pressure on, you can expect to hear more about that, and about another startling thing.

The talk about rearming western Germany is only just beginning.

Tots Clothes Feature 'Grow With' Instead of 'Grow Out' Design

If your little tots are like Alice-in-Wonderland who just grew and grew, then lend an ear to the trend-setting styles in store for them.

After taking a close-up squint at pre-schoolers, it appears that most of the small-fry are wearing rugged blue jeans and corduroy overalls with cotton blouses in gay plaids. Most of the little tots' clothing has been designed to allow them to "grow with" rather than "grow out" of their clothes.

Especially notable in this respect were the boxer corduroy slacks, because they are a big factor in solving the "too tight" complaint voiced by many mothers. Many are featured in pastel-toned corduroy with gay nursery prints.

In little boys' clothes the western influence and the "bold look" appear to be playing an increasingly important role. These are featured in jackets a la Eisenhower, shorts and shirts in matching or complementary colors and fabrics. According to stylists the emphasis will be on mannish "just like Dad" glen-plaids for boys' suits.

For the "not-so-bold" look for little girls there are big and little sister dresses. As is true in the rugged outdoor overalls, dresses are made to "grow in" with button-on belts which may be lowered when the hem is dropped.

Utility is another big factor in girls' apparel, with many clothes leading a double life. Reversible jackets, rain-resistant clothes and zip-out linings carry out this factor.

According to fashion experts, pinafore-styled dresses with bows in the back will figure strongly in the fashion-picture for little girls.

Women's Scholar Cup To Be Given Monday

The Panhellenic scholarship cup will be awarded at the tenth Panhellenic scholarship dinner at 6 p.m. Monday in the main lounge of the Iowa Union. Prof. Jaek T. Johnson will speak.

Maxine Erickson, A4, Boone, Panhellenic president, will present the cup to the sorority maintaining the highest grade average during the past year.

The cup, a traveling award, must be won three consecutive years to remain in the permanent possession of a sorority. Pi Beta Phi has won the cup for the past two years.

Although this is the fourteenth year the Women's Panhellenic association has sponsored presentation of the cup, three different cups have been in circulation.

In 1937 Zeta Tau Alpha presented the first scholarship cup to Panhellenic. That cup was awarded to Alpha Xi Delta at an all-Panhellenic tea.

From 1933 to 1937 an annual tea was held at which time the cup was given.

The first scholarship dinner was held in 1937 and continued each year until 1944. The traditional dinners were resumed in 1947.

From 1937 to 1943 the cup changed hands almost every year. But Pi Beta Phi captured the original cup by maintaining the highest chapter grade average in 1940-41, 41-42 and 42-43.

Kappa Kappa Gamma repeated the performance by winning possession of the second cup in 1943-44, 44-45, and 45-46.

The cup now in circulation was then presented by Kappa Kappa Gamma.

Joan Tripp, A4, Mapleton, Panhellenic scholarship chairman, will tell the history of the cup at the dinner.

Miss Helen Reich is Panhellenic advisor.

City Bridge Subject Of Magazine Article

The recently completed Benton street bridge in Iowa City is the subject of a lengthy article appearing in the September issue of The Welding Journal.
 Author Ned L. Ashton, professor in the SUI civil engineering department and bridge designer, writes in the article, "Welded Deck Girder Highway Bridge," that a bridge of all welded construction is economical.
 Structural members of most bridges are joined together by riveting rather than welding. Improved welding processes developed during the last war paved the way toward realization of projects such as this Iowa river span, Ashton explained.
 Many of the sections were assembled and welded together before arrival at the bridge site. This resulted in substantial savings on the cost of the bridge, the article said.
 Twenty-four pictures accompanying the article illustrate construction methods used and the progress of erection.

SUI Football, Women, to Be Telecast

SUI will be seen in television. "Big Ten Football Highlights," a television show to be featured early in October on radio-television station WGN - TV, Chicago, will show shots of SUI's football games, coeds and campus.

 SUI coeds appearing in the early October show will be Martha Young, A4, and Connie Jewett, A2, both of Des Moines; Dorothy Danielson, A3, Fairfield; Sally Watson, A3, Parkersburg; and Margie Felner, A2, Van Meter.
 The SUI campus scenes used in the half-hour show will be televised for approximately five minutes.
 The university extension division will photograph the Iowa campus next week, including buildings, residences and campus scenes.

Tryouts for WSUI To Be Held Today

 The topic to be debated is Resolved: That modern society enjoys the greatest benefits under a planned economy. SUI will take the negative side, Baird added.
 This is the fourth international debate with a British team since the end of the war.
 The British team will arrive in the U.S. Oct. 14. Members will visit 43 colleges and universities.

Activity Accelerates In Top Conferences

NEW YORK (AP) — Although inter-sectional engagements will occupy many of the nation's collegiate grid powers today, there also will be a marked acceleration of activity in major conferences.

Michigan's Big Ten champions, still shuddering from their narrow squeak with Michigan State, are at Stanford to stake their 24-game winning streak against a team that flattened Harvard last week.

But back in the midlands, half a dozen other Big Ten teams will get down to cases in conference struggles. These find Indiana at Ohio State, Wisconsin at Illinois and Iowa at Purdue.

Northwestern's Rose Bowl heroes, off to a fast start with a league victory over Purdue, remain out of conference play to entertain Pittsburgh and Minnesota goes to Nebraska.

The southeastern conference matches the Big Ten in titular activity. Dixie's headliner sends Georgia Tech, surprise winner over Vanderbilt, to Tulane, pre-season favorite for the conference crown.

Vanderbilt, meanwhile, will entertain Alabama with hopes of hitting its expected stride and Kentucky opens its conference campaign at Mississippi with each seeking a third straight triumph.

In the Pacific Coast conference, California's defending champions invade Oregon State and Southern California, the team picked to do the Rose Bowl honors this time, will entertain Washington State.

Notre Dame, unbeaten in its last 29 games although tied twice, also is on the coast for an inter-sectional date with underdog Washington.

Ivy league contests sending Dartmouth to Pennsylvania and Harvard to Columbia share the eastern spotlight with Army's West Point battle against slightly deflated Penn State.

Cornell, the Ivy league favorite, is at home against Colgate and Princeton invades Navy. Other eastern highlights send Holy Cross to Brown, Rutgers to Temple and Lafayette to Syracuse.

Although Oklahoma's Big Seven champions remain out of league play to meet the invasion of Texas A&M, two tussles are on tap in that conference. They find Iowa State at Kansas and Colorado at Kansas State. Non-conference competition in the midwest includes Marquette at Michigan State and Florida at Tulsa.

Texas Christian invades Arkansas for a southwest conference game, while Southern Methodist and Texas will be at home for non-league games, the former against Missouri and the latter with Idaho.

Clemson's defending champions go to North Carolina State in the southern conference, where other league titles find Virginia Tech at William and Mary and George Washington at Virginia Military.

Georgia will be at North Carolina in one of four good inter-league struggles carded in the south. The others find Duke at Tennessee, Rice at Louisiana State and Baylor at Mississippi State.

In addition to the Pacific coast games and inter-sectional highlights, the far west also will have such promising attractions as Oklahoma A&M at Denver, Nevada at St. Mary's, Santa Clara at Fresno State, Montana at Utah State and Utah at Arizona.

WILLIAMS WINS

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Lightweight Champion, Ike Williams won an unanimous non-title decision over Doug Ratford, New York, Friday night but he had a real scrap of it over most of the 10-round route at the arena. Williams weighed 139 1/2, Ratford 140.

Packer Coach to Front Office

GREEN BAY, WIS. (AP) — Colorful Curly Lambeau, the man who put little Green Bay on the professional football map, said Friday he'd had enough of big-time coaching.

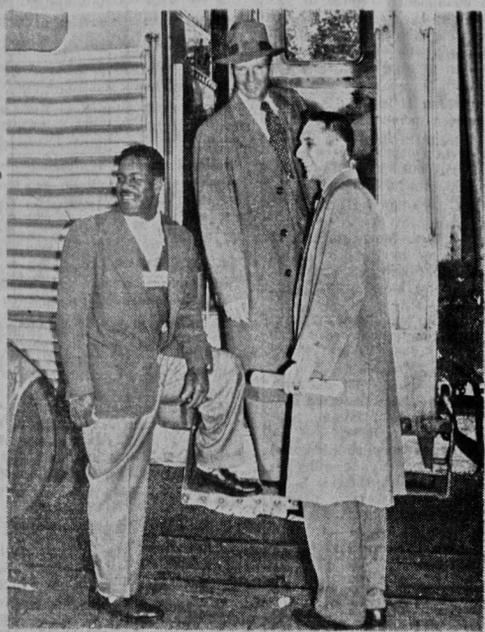

Founder of the Green Bay Packers in 1919 and the club's only coach through 28 years in the National football league, Lambeau stepped into the front office and named his three assistants to succeed him on the field.

From now on, he said, he'll work solely as vice-president and general manager, titles he's held for several years. In charge of actual playing will be Line Coach Tom Stidham, Backfield Coach Bob Snyder and Defense Coach Charley Brock.

The move followed the most disastrous season in the Packers' long NFL history and the only year in which the club, playing out of a town of 50,000, smallest in the league, lost money.

The 1948 team won only two of

Smiles When They Return?

BOARDING THE TRAIN for Lafayette, Ind., and today's football game with Purdue's Boilermakers are (left to right) Iowa Guard Earl Banks, Head Coach Eddie Anderson and End Jack Dittmer. Dittmer and Banks will be team captains for today's game. The contest will be the 1949 Big Ten opener for the Hawkeyes. Purdue opened its season last week by losing to Northwestern's Rose Bowl champions, 20-6 (see story on page 1).

IOWA --

Dittmer is not in the ball game. The tackles will be Don Winslow and Hubert Johnston, the latter a 6-foot, 5-inch sophomore from Wheeling, W. Va.

The backfield, possessed with more depth and talent than has graced an Iowa backfield in several years, will open with Drahn at quarterback, Don Fryauf and Jerry Faska at the halves and Bill Reichardt at fullback.

Reichardt served notice last week that he is going to be hard for opposing tacklers to handle when he compiled a 9.2 yards per try on 10 ball toting assignments. Right behind him in the fullback slot will be Mike Riley, another big sophomore, who made five yards per try against UCLA.

In addition to the expected running of Szulborski, Purdue will lean heavily on the aerial ability of Bob Hartman and Ken Gorgal, ranking quarterbacks who'll be tossing to Receivers Bob Whitmer, Ronnie Bland and Neil Schmidt.

Ticket Sales Jump

Big Ten Home Games May Be Sellouts

Warning from Frank Havlicek, athletic business manager, says that if you're planning to watch the Hawkeye football team in Big Ten competition this fall, you'd better hurry with those ticket orders.

"We could sell out any, and maybe all three, conference games here this season," Havlicek asserted after watching the jump in ticket sales after Iowa's fine showing against UCLA.

Reserved seats on both sides of the field are still available, but ticket-buyers for the Illinois game Oct. 8 should get their orders in this week so that the ducks will reach them in time, he said.

The remaining conference home games are against Indiana, the Homecoming game, on Oct. 15, and Northwestern on Oct. 22.

The final Hawkeye home contest will be against Oregon, Oct. 29. Tickets for the Oregon game are more plentiful than for the conference affairs, according to Havlicek.

Chrissinger proved too much for the game Bluehawks who made a real battle of it all the way. Halfback Hill carried the brunt of the Winfield attack, figuring in each of their three scores. Early in the second quarter he set up the first touchdown by intercepting a Bluehawk pass on his own 40-yard line.

A few plays later, he crashed to the 12 where, hemmed in by U-High men he lateralled to Guard Ron King who went over for the TD.

Late in the first half, Back Art Chrissinger, all alone in the U-High secondary, grabbed a Red Hill pass on the 20 and raced over for the score. In the third period, Hill skirted right end and sped 20 yards for the winners' final score.

The Bluehawks' lone touchdown came on the next play when Quarterback Bob Ewalt took the kickoff and ran 78 yards, shaking off half a dozen Winfield tacklers. It was the first time Winfield's goal has been crossed in four games this season. Carter Morgan's dropkick was good to make the final score, 18-7.

Bierman Pleased With His Gophers

MINNEAPOLIS — From the Northland, football fans again can hear the thunder of Bernie Bierman's Golden Gophers pounding the gridiron turf, the way that only Minnesota can do it.

Even the Old Gray Fox himself seems highly pleased over the 48-20 bone crushing defeat the Gophers handed the Washington Huskies last Saturday.

Many observers were a bit apprehensive before the opener last Saturday. They thought that a squad filled with 23 senior lettermen, most of them GI's, might prove to be the Gophers' downfall as has been the case in the last few seasons.

However they proved conclusively that they are still abundantly imbued with the "old college try". Commenting on his reaction to conquest of the Huskies, Bierman remarked, "I was highly pleased with the spirit of our boys. Each man played about as well as we could have expected."

Sophomores captured the first four places in the practice run with Jack Davis, Iowa City, second; Bill Snook, Freeport, Ill., third, and Ken Carmen, Cresco, fourth.

Veteran Bill Bye, Odebolt, ran fifth with Jack Copeland, senior from Des Moines, and John Collins, sophomore from Chicago, crossing the finish line together. Tom Ryan, a Dubuque freshman, was not figured in the finish but was well up in the group.

Corn Monument Contest Opens

The 1949 Homecoming corn monument will be displayed on the west approach to Old Capitol beginning the afternoon of Oct. 7, and can be viewed during the entire Homecoming weekend.

The monument is the annual Homecoming contribution of the SUI Associated Students of Engineering.

Entries in the corn monument design contest, open to all SUI students and Iowa Citizens, will be received at the library in the Engineering building until 5 p.m. Monday, A.S.E. publicity chairman, James Bingham, E4, said Thursday. A $10 cash prize will be awarded the contest winner.

Officers of the A.S.E. and the presidents of the SUI branches of five other engineering societies will judge the winning design.

Wilfred George, E4, managing editor of The Iowa Transit, will direct the corn monument construction. Engineering student volunteers and the A.S.E. corn monument committee will assist George.

Members of the corn monument committee, elected at an A.S.E. meeting Thursday night, are:

Electrical engineering department: Robert Hartsock, E3, and Gerald Luecke, E4.

Civil engineering department: Richard Larew, E1, and Theodore Krishna Khandelwal, E4.

Chemical engineering department: John Fleming, E4, and Cate, E4.

Construction of the monument will begin Wednesday in the mechanical engineering laboratory, according to Bingham.

Handicapped to Attend Concert

Crippled children and patients from University hospitals will be able to attend Iowa City's Civic Music concerts this year, President Dan Dutcher said Friday.

Interested Iowa Citizens unable to attend concerts themselves, are buying memberships to make the special service possible, according to Dutcher.

Prof. Earl E. Harper, SUI fine arts director, asked Iowa Citizens to get behind the Civic Music association and to "support this worthwhile community program as it enters upon its fourth year."

"Personally, I have been acquainted with this organization in its national outreach for many years," Harper said. "It has done a great deal to make first-class concert attractions available in many cities where they were not available before and to arouse the interest of the public in them."

The Rev. Evans A. Worthley, pastor of the Unitarian church, encouraged other civic organizations to lend support to the group's membership drive.

Group president, Dan Dutcher said at least three concerts, including the appearance of the Viennese Ballet ensemble, are scheduled for this season.

General hospital Superintendent Gerhard Hartman is cooperating and will provide ambulances to take patients to the auditorium.

Tonight marks the close of the organization's membership drive. Headquarters at Hotel Jefferson close at 8 p.m. and all workers' reports must be in at that time, Dutcher emphasized.

Informality to Keynote 1949 'Open House' At SUI Homecoming

Informality is the theme for this year's SUI Homecoming open house, formerly called the Homecoming reception, to be held in the Iowa Union the night of Oct. 14. Informality here means no reception line and no speeches.

The Homecoming dance, with which the reception has had to compete in former years, has been shifted to Saturday night, leaving Union facilities available for open house.

Another feature of the new program will be the revised registration procedure. When alumni register, their names and graduation year will be posted on a large master board to facilitate reunion of old classmates.

Loren Hickerson, alumni secretary, said requests for tickets and Homecoming information have been pouring in from alumni all over the country.

The program will follow the same plan as the alumni reunion held each year at June commencement, Hickerson said.

Mrs. Charles Mott Quits School Post; L. R. Beals Named

L. R. Beals, 714 Brown street, was unanimously elected to the Iowa City school board Friday, succeeding Mrs. Charles Mott, 420 N. Gilbert, who submitted her resignation at a special meeting of the board.

Mrs. Mott is ineligible to continue as a member of the board because she and her family are moving to a new residence at 420 Park road, outside the Iowa City independent school district.

Upon a motion by Atty. William Bartley at Friday's special meeting, Mrs. Mott's resignation was accepted by the board. Her second three-year term on the board would have expired next March.

Beals, who was one of the seven candidates for school board posts in the district election last March, will succeed Mrs. Mott during the remaining six months of her term.

The board also transferred $10,000 to the school house fund. This will pay estimates on the Lincoln grade school addition, now under construction, and will postpone issuance of $182,000 in bonds for construction work at Lincoln and Longfellow schools.

Officials May Use Corporation To Settle Problem of Armory

Four city officials and six Iowa national guard unit members have been selected as participants in a proposed non-profit corporation to be organized to settle the question of responsibility for repair and maintenance of the national guard armory.

City officials selected were Mayor Preston Koser and members of the city council grounds and buildings committee, Frank Fryauf, Wayne Putnam and C. Mighell.

National guard representatives are Lt. Col. E.W. Paulus, Maj. Stephen Ware, Capt. Harry W. Dick, Master Sgt. Edward Windrem, Sgts. Harold Knotts and Robert Lee.

The proposal will be made at the city council meeting Monday. City and armory officials met Wednesday to discuss the controversy over whether Iowa City or the state armory board should pay for damages to the armory.

According to the lease in which the city gave use of the armory to the board, the city is responsible for yearly damages to $1,200. But today's repair costs are much higher than that.

So Mayor Koser, two members of the state board, the city grounds and building committee and City Atty. William Bartley proposed that the city deed the armory to a non-profit corporation made up of city officials and members of the Iowa City national guard.

Bartley explained the proposal this way: The corporation would borrow money to pay off bonds amounting to about $20,000 against the armory. An architect would plan repairs necessary to make the armory, originally for cavalry use, into a fit place for the guard's mechanized units.

The corporation would lease the armory to the state armory board for 20 years. Rent would cover principal and interest on the mortgage for repairs and the board would be responsible for maintenance, upkeep and repairs.

For this the city would pay nothing and when the lease terminated the property would revert to the city.

Bartley said the corporation plan is necessary since there is no other legal way the armory board can turn over the rent to the city.

A meeting of Koser, Lt. Col. Beryl Averill of the Cedar Rapids national guard garrison, and Architect Henry Fisk to discuss tentative costs and repairs is scheduled for Tuesday morning at the armory.

No accurate estimate has been made, but officials thought the repair costs would be about $40,000.
