Violence Flares in Coal Fields As Walkouts 'Pinch' Economy

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Bloody violence erupted anew in the strike-scarred coal fields Monday as the nation's first double-header steel-coal walkout "pinched" America's economy a little harder.

Gunfire pinpointed a clash between Tennessee's union and non-union miners with at least three hurt and two others missing. This came at the same time as 102,000 of John L. Lewis' men streamed back to the pits, the one bright spot on the strike scene.

With 400,000 United Mine Workers and 500,000 CIO united steel-workers on strike over pensions, the industrial snowball began to roll.

Dock workers on the Great Lakes walked out.

Packard Motor Car company said it will furlough 7,556 workers Thursday and Friday due to "shortages already caused by the steel strike."

Railroads announced plans for laying off additional workers—and started toting up their millions in losses if the walkouts continue. In the Pikeville, Tenn., gun battle, Matt Bunch, UMW international representative, said 20 unarmed union miners were ambushed as they approached a non-union mine owned by Keener brothers.

Sheriff H.A. Kelly said he found blood splattered around near the mine but that everything was peaceful when he reached the scene. He has made no arrests.

Bunch said his miners were on a "peaceful mission."

There were two other incidents during the day.

In Elk county, Pa., eight miles from St. Marys, 21 carloads of pickets swarmed into a small stripping operation owned by Fred Eckert. About 110 pickets tore down a tiny supply shed and smashed a tractor.

At Grundy, Va., 26-year-old Walter Carson Compton was killed when a rock fall buried his coal-filled truck in a mountain pass. State police hinted the death might be connected with the coal situation.

In Washington, following a White House conference, Conciliation Director Cyrus Ching indicated he would take no steps to bring the parties in the steel strike together this week. The government labor officials appeared to have adopted the theory that little good would come from any conference called to soon after the strike began.

Brief Session Begins Term Of High Court

WASHINGTON (AP)—A brief formal session Monday marked the opening of a new supreme court term expected to produce historic decisions of racial segregation and congress' right to inquire into communism.

It lasted a scant 20 minutes. About the time it was breaking up, the senate judiciary committee a few hundred feet away announced by a 9 to 12 vote the selection of Federal Judge Sherman Minton for a place on the court.

Expected senate confirmation may give the court a full complement of nine members by the time it meets again next Monday. But Justice William O. Douglas is not expected to be present for weeks. He was gravely injured Sunday when he was thrown from a horse in Washington's Cascade mountains.

Monday's session was given over principally to Chief Justice Fred M. Vinson's tribute to the late Justices Frank Murphy and Wiley Rutledge. Both died since the court recessed for the summer last June 27.

Justice Tom Clark, the court's newest member, took his place for the first time at the extreme end of the bench to Vinson's left. Clark, former attorney general, had been sworn in previously. Vinson took formal note of this.

Although no substantial opposition was foreseen to Minton's confirmation, Sen. Homer Ferguson (M-Mich) told newsmen he has not yet decided whether to make a fight on the floor.

Ferguson was one of the judiciary committee members who wanted the Chicago circuit court of appeals judge brought before the group for questioning. Before the committee approved his nomination, it reversed an earlier action and voted 9 to 3 not to call Minton.

China Recognition Parleys Hastened By Russian Okay

LONDON (AP)—Britain, France and the United States, spurred by Russia's lightning-swift diplomatic endorsement of the new Chinese Communist government, are expected to examine this week their own attitude towards recognition.

Britain took the initiative Monday by announcing she is prepared to discuss recognition with the 11 other nations of the north Atlantic alliance and the countries of the British commonwealth—a total of 18 world governments.

On Thursday, when British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin returns to the U.S. from Canada, he will review with U.S. Secretary of State Dean Acheson and French Foreign Minister Robert Schuman what is to be done in the light of the Soviet step, diplomatic informants said here.

The three foreign ministers will be following a line suggested by the United States last April emphasizing that the west should act as a unit in considering any diplomatic approach to the Chinese Communists. Britain and France agreed with the American proposal that they should steer clear of independent recognition.

This sizeable bloc of nations may, through singleness of action, exert pressure on Mao Tse-tung to carry out many of the international commitments shouldered by the Nationalists.

Follow Lead ...

LONDON (AP)—Romania and Bulgaria, dutifully following Russia's lead, Monday night recognized the new Chinese Communist government and announced plans to establish diplomatic relations with the Communist state.

A recognition announcement issued in Sofia, Bulgaria, agreed almost word for word with Russia's announcement Sunday that she would recognize the new regime headed by Communist President Mao Tse-tung.

Nationalists Act ...

CANTON (AP)—Nationalist China Monday severed diplomatic relations with the Soviet Union and accused Russia of aggression against China in recognizing the "puppet" Communist government in Peiping.

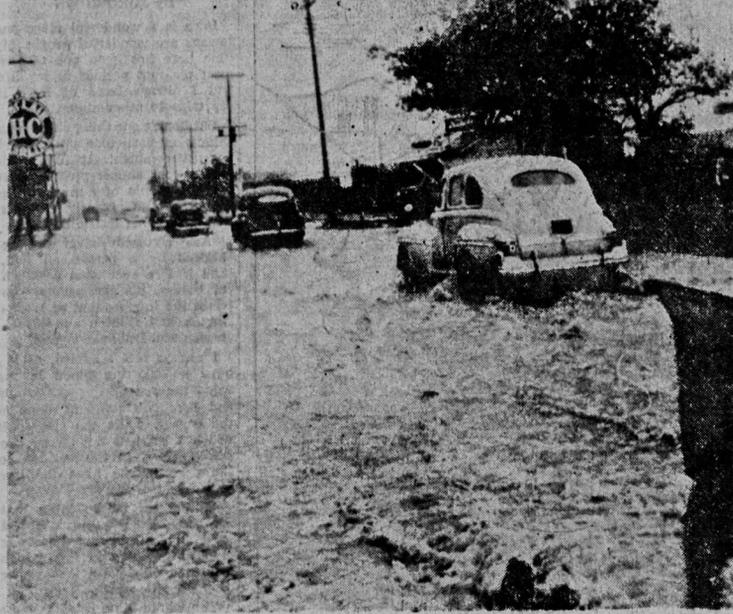

SUI GIVEN FUNDS

WASHINGTON (AP)—The public health service Monday gave the State University of Iowa $3,915 for a study of anxiety and frustration in human and animal behavior.

Blast Wrecks New York Garage

AN EXPLOSION FOLLOWING a gasol ne delivery blasted out the rear wall of a five-story garage and injured 14 persons at 148-50 West 20th street in New York City Monday. Smoking in the center is a heap of six cars and masonry cascaded from the garage. Cars rest perilously near the edge of the top three floors. A five-alarm fire swept the building following the explosion.

Texans Move Out Before Hurricane Hits

HEAVY RAINS FILLED the main streets of Port Lavaca, Tex., from curb to curb Monday. Residents (above) proceeded cautiously along flooded streets as they left town before the expected hurricane was scheduled to hit the Texas coast. Monday night 300 miles of the Texas-Louisiana coast was battered down in preparation for the gale.

Bill for Expansion Of Social Security Cleared After Fight

WASHINGTON (AP)—Legislation vastly expanding the government's social security program was cleared Monday for quick house action. Some members hoped it might lessen demands by some labor groups for special pension plans financed wholly by employers.

Speaker Sam Rayburn set debate to begin today, with a show-down house vote probable Friday or Saturday.

Over Republican protests, of "gag," the house rules committee narrowly cleared the bill for house action under procedures barring all amendments. The vote was reported unofficially as five Democrats for a "this or nothing" rule, and four Republicans opposing.

The measure, if it becomes law, would:

1. Increase by 11-million the numbers of workers covered by old age and survivors insurance for a new total of 46-million;
2. Increase old age benefits by an average of 70 to 80 percent;
3. Create a new insurance system for persons who become totally and permanently disabled;
4. Boost the payroll taxes by more than 300 percent in the next 30 years.

Reject No-Pay-Boost Formula

ST. PAUL (AP)—The AFL leadership Monday rejected the government's current no-pay-boost formula and counseled workers against any letup in seeking wage increases.

William Green, AFL president, said in a keynote address opening the federation's annual convention that the AFL will "constantly" strive for higher wages.

Green hit out at President Truman's steel fact-finding board's recommendations against any wage hikes at this time for American workers. That board called for employer-paid welfare programs, instead, saying wage changes could upset the national economy.

The AFL leader said wages can be boosted without rising prices and, amid loud applause, declared: "We don't accept the principle of government boards setting our wages anywhere."

Green said the American Federation of Labor never has "waived our right to demand wage increases for the workers of America—and we are not going to do it."

President Agrees to Drop Civil Rights Fight

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman and his congressional leaders agreed Monday to drop the civil rights fight until next year and opened the way for congress to adjourn this session in two or three weeks.

Senate Democratic Leader Scott Lucas (D-Ill) announced the decision after a White House conference between the President and his legislative leaders.

Lucas said they agreed it is too late this year to try to enact any

Britain to Reveal Cash Drop; People Told to Save Money

LONDON (UP)—Britain's Labor government, with crisis piling upon crisis, this week will announce another big drop in gold and dollar reserves which may drag the total on hand below 300-million pounds ($840-million), it was learned Monday.

At the same time, a top adviser of Chancellor of the Exchequer Sir Stafford Cripps warned the British that they may face still higher taxation if they spend their money instead of saving it, and admitted there was a real threat of inflation and higher living costs.

Cripps will announce the new reserve figure as of the end of the last quarter terminating last Friday. At the end of the previous quarter, June, 1949, the reserves were already down to 406-million pounds ($1,136,800,000)—far below the 500-million pounds ($1.4-billion) which Cripps previously had set as a minimum.

The cabinet, meanwhile, prepared for a serious meeting to decide on what to do about the Argentine devaluation of the peso and its consequent threat of an increase in Argentine meat prices.

Economic Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Jay told the annual meeting of the Westminster Local Savings committee that the degree inflation could be limited depended upon "how far the public are willing to save rather than spend."

"If the public's savings are not enough, only two alternative methods of checking the rise in the cost of living are open to the government, both of them unpleasant," he said.

The two alternatives, Jay said, are higher taxes or reduction of building programs such as housing.

Fall Semester Fee Payments Continue Through Thursday

Fee payments for the fall semester will continue today through Thursday, SUI Treasurer Flavie L. Hamburg said Monday.

No alphabetical fee payment schedule will be followed, he said. The treasurer's office in the basement of University hall will be open from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. each day.

Hamburg warned a $2 fine for late payment will be levied after Thursday, with 1 added for each day of delay following. He said a student's registration will not be completed until payments are made.

Photographs for student identification cards are being taken at the same place immediately following payment of fees. Students are required to get an IBM card carrying their student number before being photographed.

Identification cards will be available 24 hours; after the photographs are taken unless a retake is necessary.

A list of students who must report for the retake will be printed in The Daily Iowan, beginning today. (See page 4.)

Tucker, Partners Face Court Charges Today

CHICAGO (AP)—Preston Tucker Sr., who organized a multi-million dollar corporation on the promise of building a new kind of automobile, goes on trial with seven associates today on mail fraud and conspiracy charges. Attorneys said the trial may last four months.

Alger Hiss Seeks Retrial in Vermont

NEW YORK (AP)—Alger Hiss announced Monday that he will attempt to have his second trial on charges of perjury moved to Vermont.

The 44-year-old former high state department official said in a statement that the extensive publicity given his first trial "precludes the possibility of an impartial trial in New York."

Hiss is charged with lying when he told a federal grand jury he never gave secret government documents to former Communist spy courier Whittaker Chambers and never saw Chambers after Jan. 1, 1937.

Hiss also revealed that he had retained Claude B. Cross, Boston, as his counsel, replacing Lloyd Paul Stryker, the famous criminal lawyer who served as his attorney during the first trial.

Hurricane Lashes Rich Coast Area Of Texas

Roars Inland With 100 Mile Gale Reported

GALVESTON, TEX. (AP)—A hurricane loaded with winds above 100 miles an hour slammed into the rich Texas coast Monday night between Freeport and Matagorda and moved inland.

The Galveston weather bureau said the edge of the storm was about to strike here.

Houston braced for hurricane winds before midnight.

The striking storm covered a broader area than had been expected. The base of its target extended 70 miles southwest of here to Matagorda. Earlier, Freeport, about 40 miles away, had been set as the southwestern end of the target.

Houston, about 50 miles inland from here, is the apex of a triangle expected to catch the force of the blow.

The area is packed with dozens of towns, millions of people and millions of dollars worth of industry, shipping and farms.

Winds of 75 to 80 miles an hour whipped Matagorda. The Freeport coast guard station reported a seven-and-a-half-foot tide.

The U.S. weather bureau at New Orleans said the highest winds reported to it were 100-mile-an-hour gales at Freeport.

At 10 p.m. (Iowa time) the bureau said the center of the storm had reached the Texas coast near Freeport.

Winds within 25 miles of the center were estimated at more than 100 miles an hour by the weather bureau. Earlier, a navy pilot who flew into the storm said he found winds as high as 120 miles an hour.

The U.S. weather bureau at Corpus Christi said it appeared the storm was moving inland nearer Matagorda than Freeport. Corpus Christi is 130 miles down the coast from Matagorda.

As the hurricane moved in it drove trash cans rattling down Freeport streets. The town is three miles from the beach, and the road leading to the beach already was under water. The big Dow Chemical plant at 10 p.m. reported it was in snug shape.

A small crew was standing by the plant, which sent more than 2,500 men away as it closed Monday. Many residents of Freeport left town about two hours before the storm began edging in.

The U.S. weather bureau's 10 p.m. (Iowa time) advisory said "the hurricane was located at 10 p.m. near latitude 28.9, longitude 95.3, or about 60 miles south of Houston, Tex. It is moving northward about 20 miles an hour.

IC Community Chest Funds Reach $1,725 During First 2 Days

Contributions to the Iowa City Community Chest totaled $1,725 Monday, the second day of the drive, General Chairman Graham Marshall said.

Nearly $900 was turned in Monday as the hospital and business divisions progressed toward their goals.

Most of the total was solicited from national firms represented in Iowa City. Mrs. M. F. Neuzil, a worker at the campaign headquarters, said.

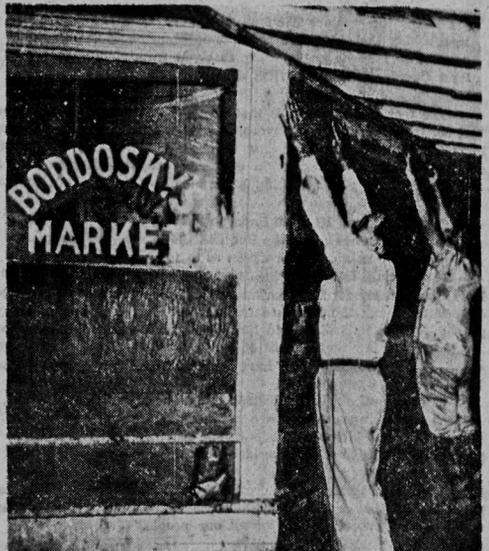

Agencies receiving funds from the drive include the Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, PTA milk fund, Salvation army, National Travellers Aid society and the Visiting Nurse fund.

The Red Cross is not a part of the Chest drive and carries on its own solicitation.

Prof. A. M. Moehlman, head of the SUI division of the fund-raising campaign, called for materials Monday noon and hoped to report progress by Friday, Mrs. Neuzil said.

She urged solicitors to bring contributions to the campaign headquarters in the city hall regularly, rather than to hold them or to turn them in to the division captains. The Chest headquarters are open from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m.

The drive continues until Oct. 15 or until the $26,045.74 quota is reached.

Grocers Prepare for Storm

A FATHER AND SON team, grocer Frank Bordsosky (foreground) and his son, covered the front of their store at Port Lavaca, Tex., with boards Monday as a 100-mile-an-hour Gulf of Mexico hurricane neared the coastal city.

Documents Picture Navy Morale 'Shot to Pieces'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Documents secretly slipped to newsmen Monday pictured U.S. navy morale as shot to pieces and the nation's security imperilled under the present unified defense setup.

The documents, signed with the names of high naval officers, were handed to reporters by a naval source in a shadowy corridor of a downtown office building. He stipulated that his name must not be used and that the papers must not be published until 6 p.m., Iowa time, Monday.

The documents, which consisted of typed copies of letters from the naval officers, included:

1. A statement by Admiral Louis Denfeld, chief of naval operations, that a "navy stripped of its offensive power means a nation stripped of its offensive power."

2. A warning by Vice Admiral Gerald Bogan, commander of the first task fleet in the Pacific, that navy morale has plummeted "almost to despondency" because of a widespread belief that the country is being "sold a false bill of goods."

3. A statement by Admiral A.W. Radford, commander-in-chief of the Pacific fleet, that a majority of officers in that fleet concur in Bogan's views and also in those expressed by Naval Capt. John Crommelin. Crommelin created a sensation recently by publicly charging that the navy's attack power is being "nibbled to death" in the Pentagon, defense headquarters.

Navy officials declined any immediate comment on the release of the documents.

The release was the latest incident in a long tug-of-war between the navy and the airforce for congressional appropriations and the right to carry out strategic air assignments.

Publications Board Vacancy Announced

Prof. Leslie G. Moeller, director of the school of journalism, Monday announced there is a vacancy to be filled on the Board of Student Publications.

Moeller asked for applicants to fill the unexpired term of Katherine McNamara, now publicity director at Merrygrove college, Detroit, Mich.

Students interested in filling the position, which ends June 1, 1950, should send a letter of application to Prof. Leslie Moeller, N-2, East Hall.

Letters should include a brief summary of the applicant's interest in the board and a statement of background which will help the board in judging the qualifications of the applicant.

Applications must be in by 5 p.m. Monday.

81st Congress in Review —

(During the summer The Iowan sent letters to Iowa congressmen asking their views on the accomplishments of the 81st congress. The following is a reply received from Republican Rep. Paul Cunningham of the fifth district.)

"The fact of the matter is that up until this date (Sept. 30) the 81st congress has not acted favorably upon much legislation of major importance aside from increasing the President's salary, ratification of the Atlantic pact, extension of reciprocal trade agreements, a modified form of public housing and a modified form of rent control bill.

"There are some 15 or 20 important pieces of legislation being held up somewhere along the line and the Democratic leadership does not give us much information as to just what the trouble is. "My special interest is in legislation to get better roads for Iowa, particularly farm-to-market roads. I also secured the passage of a bill through the house to transfer the Fort Des Moines army post and all of its facilities to the state of Iowa so it will be kept in the future for the benefit of the general public. It had been declared surplus and would have been sold for private use, or to be torn down, otherwise.

"I was particularly interested in this because I want to see the housing proposition, known as 'boomtown,' continued for the veterans. This bill now awaits senate action, but I was assured recently it will be given consideration in the senate in the near future.

"I am also personally interested in many pieces of legislation, particularly every one that will insure peace and prosperity and enhance the general welfare of all our people."

Out on a Limb —

Marshal Joseph Tito has backed himself out on a limb from which it may be difficult for him to return. The Yugoslav ruler is facing an angry Russian bear armed with a sharp saw.

This, Tito has done without first insuring that friendly arms wait beneath the bough to catch him if the limb is sawed off. Nations of the west still haven't made up their minds whether they should accept Tito's denunciation of the Kremlin as gospel and back him up with the aid he needs to make his defiance stick.

And for Tito, the worst part of the business is he doesn't, and won't know probably for some time to come, whether the west will spread a net for him to fall safely into.

Here is the picture: Tito first withdrew from the Cominform, Communist network of information and espionage for behind-the-iron-curtain nations. This happened several years ago.

He then declared he opposed Russian Communism in particular but not Communism in general — in short, the Tito way. He has verbally attacked other Soviet-protected nations and split open the fissure even further.

And last week, unconfirmed reports from Belgrade declared Yugoslavia has bolstered her troop strength at her eastern borders. The theory goes the move is designed to prepare Yugoslavia better to protect herself in case of attack from the east and Russian-dominated nations, Bulgaria in particular.

Finally, the same unconfirmed reports tell how Bulgaria and three other nations in the Soviet orbit have severed mutual aid and friendship treaties with Yugoslavia. Of course, this latter is just the anti-climax. The wonder is that it didn't happen before.

Tito perhaps was not all to blame for his predicament. He just has run into one of the many hazards saved for those who like to live dangerously and play around with international politics.

The part of the whole business that makes his position most dangerous is the recent announcement that Russia has the atomic bomb. Any nation remotely favorable to supporting Tito before this announcement will now think more than twice before proffering any support.

Here's why: The Russian bear with the sharp saw is in a ticklish position. That bear is very like a bull — if you wave a red flag too close too long, who knows what may happen?

The western world will be pretty careful from now on about provoking Russia. The Soviet Union, admittedly now in possession of the atomic bomb, may be feeling confident enough to start a shooting war given sufficient provocation.

Comeback Seen —

Although congress has, for the time being at least, shoved the Brannan farm plan into comparative obscurity, some Washington sources believe "grass roots" backing will be sought for it in the 1950 election campaigns. With this help from the "little people" it should become our official farm program.

Labor's Vote of Confidence Doesn't Indicate Strength

By J. M. ROBERTS JR.
(AP Foreign Affairs Analyst)

Technically the British Labor government escaped from the devaluation debate in parliament with a victory. Practically, from this distance, it seems to have suffered a teeth-rattling blow.

Its own vote of 350 was off, and the vote of 212 to censure was considerably larger than even the opposition had expected. It equalled the previous "no" record for this administration, registered on the question of nationalizing the steel industry.

The party was even farther off on its own motion for a vote of confidence, although winning 342 to 5. The arithmetical victory was not what it seemed to be. The government so worded its motion that a vote against it would also have been a vote against continuation of the new socialist welfare programs.

The conservatives and liberals, thus trapped by a "stop beating your wife" situation, just didn't vote at all. The opposing votes were by Communists and extreme left wingers who had been ousted from the Labor party. The party had told its members to vote or face party discipline.

The immediate reaction of political observers was that the chance of an early election had been greatly increased.

Prime Minister Attlee is represented as opposing such a step, preferring to take his chances on improved conditions before his term expires next summer.

Speculation that Attlee might be overruled by his associates was heightened by an early election demand in the Tribune, a leading Labor organ of which the wife of Aneurin Bevan, health minister, is co-editor with Michael Foot, member of the party's executive committee. Bevan heretofore has sided with Attlee in wanting to wait until late spring or summer for the election.

The government, by calling parliament to return during a vacation-time, was hoping to clarify and get approval — give the country a focus — on its devaluation program.

The result was far different. The debate was almost entirely political. It was addressed more to the election campaign rather than the economic situation. Published reaction indicated Britain was still confused over where it was going, or how.

The Liberal party, a once-powerful force in British politics which has sunk to a relatively minor position in recent years, lined up solidly with the Conservatives. This is no assurance of a campaign coalition, but it does suggest possibilities.

Whatever the election date, American followers of the campaign will likely find a familiar note. To date, the Conservatives are not promising to reverse the socialization projects already established by the Laborites. They merely promise better and cheaper administration.

Stepin Fetchit to Play 'Satch'

— In Baseball Film

BY THE CENTRAL PRESS

MUNCIE, IND. — The one and only Satchel Paige, Cleveland pitching ace, may prove an ace-in-the-hole for another famous Negro, Stepin Fetchit, Hollywood figure who announced here that he's going to make a movie based on the ballplayer's life.

Stepin Fetchit, noted as the world's laziest man, revealed recently that although he has made more than a million dollars doing nothing, he's broke now.

However, he is under contract, he says, to play the part of the Great Satchmo, and after that he hopes to pay all his bills and "sit down and rest."

An alleged account of $570 due a Chicago film library, was Stepin Fetchit's main trouble when the sleepy movie star and former associate of Will Rogers made an appearance with his "Stars on Parade" show at a Muncie auditorium.

Sheriff W. Pete Anthony attached all of Stepin Fetchit's possessions, including a red sedan which the tired man admitted is not paid for yet.

"I ain't had no luck since Will Rogers died," Fetchit, whose real name is Lincoln Theodore Monroe Perry, told the sheriff. "I'm just a poor man trying to make a poor living."

Stepin Fetchit has not always been poor, though; in the Will Roger days and when he was in silent films before, he made plenty of money.

Working with Anita Stewart in "In Old Kentucky" and later with such stars as Spencer Tracy, Bryon Donlevy and others, the former Key West, Fla., Negro delighted millions with his supernally weary ways and high-pitched, piteous drawl.

Even the college kids got to imitating him, and Stepin Fetchit was definitely a national hero.

"I had the biggest bankruptcy in history up in Chicago," Stepin Fetchit told reporters. "It was the biggest up to that time, they said."

He was asked how a man who could make a million dollars doing nothing could lose it so fast.

"Well, I just overspent myself," the actor explained. "About four million dollars more than I had. Spent it different places: I know I wound up without it . . ."

He is pretty smart, though, and if the Satchel Paige picture runs true to expectations the too-tired man may have the last laugh — or snore — in spite of clustering creditors.

Stepin Fetchit is congenitally funny, on the stage or off. You can't talk to him long in serious vein, for that matter.

He just naturally goes into his act, seeming to enjoy its effect on those around him.

The long-tall-gangly entertainer says he was born in Key West, Fla., in 1897, right next to what is now President Truman's summer White House. From then on, he declares, life has been a continued problem of finding out how to make a living doing nothing. "I found out everybody wants you to do something," he observed, "but nobody wants to pay you for it."

Speaking of Satchel Paige, Stepin Fetchit said he is looking forward to playing the role of the great Indians' pitcher.

"We look alike," he explained. "And Satchel Paige has the Stepin Fetchit personality. Paige says the less he exercises, the more he can save his strength to pitch. Now, that's the true Stepin Fetchit personality. We're good friends, too."

Waked up for more details, "The Yawn" said playing the new part will satisfy a lifetime urge.

"I always did want to be something," he confessed, "but I never wanted to do it to be it. I guess that's why I'm a success as the world's laziest man."

'Independent' Method Of Teaching Asked

Instructors who teach physics to non-science students should break with tradition and attempt to cultivate independent thought in their students, according to Prof. G. W. Stewart, SUI physics department.

His views were explained in an article published in the September issue of the American Journal of Physics.

Stewart wrote "If physics is to prepare the student for everyday living among us, the teacher should make a sharp break for freedom" (from traditional methods).

By JOE BROWN

Iowa is a wonderful place and Iowans are wonderful people. My time here has been one of the most pleasant periods in my life, and I always boast of Iowa in my trips to other states.

But there's one thing about Iowa Citizens in particular upon which I must comment. It has to do with a very simple procedure we modern people of a modern age should be faultlessly familiar with: observing traffic lights.

Any civilized driver can be bluffed by a person on foot, and if I've ever seen a bunch of bullies, it's the people who cross the intersections of Washington and Clinton and Washington and Dubuque streets.

I always feel ashamed, as if I have no sporting blood in me, when the red light is against me and I remain standing alone on the corner, while the crowd in which I reached the corner proceeds across, to the vexation of the drivers who have the law-given right-of-way.

It bothers me to think that perhaps I'm all wrong — that I was taught to look at the wrong light. Maybe it's the light which you see diagonally that you're supposed to watch.

The whole thing reminds me of a cousin of mine who is now a grown-up young woman. But when the first traffic signal was installed in the little Tennessee town where she lived, she was only four or five years old.

I was a young fellow myself, and once, when sent to town on an errand while visiting there, I was forced into the humiliating position of having to let her tag along with me to the delight of boys my own age in the town.

As we approached the newly installed light little Mary told me she had already been to town to see it.

But I found that Mary was either fibbing to me or that someone had put the kid wrong.

The light facing us was red when we reached the corner and she became rather impatient when I forced her to stand beside me on the curb instead of bucking the Model A and wagon traffic.

This, though, I simply attributed to childish restlessness. After all, she knew what traffic lights were — she had been to town to see this one. Or so she had told me.

But trouble rode upon the scene when the light facing us turned green. As people do at that signal, I strode forward full of confidence. But not Mary. She jerked me to a stop by hanging to my hand and dragging her feet.

I was young, but old enough to dislike scenes in public. I took my little cousin's refusal to cross the street to be one of her frequent, unexplained fits of temper, and not wanting to really light the fuse, I tried kindness.

"Come on, Mary," I said soothingly.

"We can't. The light's red."

"It is not. It's green."

"It ain't."

"It is. Now come on."

"It's red. See over there," she argued, pointing at the light diagonally across from us.

I should have known better, but I began pulling her. And it was at this point that I was almost chased out of the very town in which I was born not many years before.

First, Mary locked an arm and leg around a mail box post. Then she set up a series of the type yells by which her neighbors for blocks around her house had come to recognize her.

I wasn't at an overly tactful age and I began threatening. But it only sent her screams to a more frenzied pitch, and people began taking notice.

I saw only one answer: pry that brat from the mail box post and carry her bodily across the street — when the green light faced us.

You should have been there. In the eyes of the crowd, I was a brutal boy mistreating a little sister. They didn't understand that I was simply trying to educate her in the observance of traffic signals.

But had I spit on the Confederate cannons on the court house lawn, the crowd's glares and remarks wouldn't have been uglier. And when she began screaming that I was an "ole dumb bell" trying to get her killed, I knew Mary had won. The crowd started moving in on that cruel, sadistic boy.

Needless to say, when the light facing us turned red again, Mary and I crossed the street. We darted forward and backward, and here and there, as mule teams and farm trucks almost ran us down. But we made it, so it can be done. I admit it. And I've often wished Mary would visit me here in Iowa City. She'd really make a good show, being crossing Dubuque and Clinton.

New Tape Recorder Shown at Conference

A magnetic tape recorder, which will silently record thousands of tapes from one master tape, was introduced this week at the fifth annual National Electronics conference in Chicago.

Philip Hubbard, research engineer in the Iowa Institute of Hydraulic Research, said the recorder will be valuable in making mass recordings.

Personal Notes

Mrs. C. C. Cannon, Paulina, arrived last weekend for a visit in the home of her daughter, Mrs. Virgil M. Hancher. Mrs. Cannon is enroute to Tennessee.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Jack Meirhoff, Roseburg, Oregon, Sept. 18. Meirhoff, a 1949 SUI graduate in engineering, is a former resident of Centerville. Mrs. Meirhoff is the former Jeannine Forsythe, Iowa City.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Patton, Sweetwater, Tenn., will arrive Tuesday for a visit in the home of Pres. and Mrs. Virgil M. Hancher. The Pattons will stay for the Iowa-Illinois game Saturday, after which they will leave for California.

Prof. Aspel Meets Continental Authors

Prof. Alexandre Aspel of the SUI romance languages department, recently attended an international Congress of Penn Clubs in Venice, Italy, in an attempt to interest European authors in his research on styles of the French prose sentence.

He is on leave of absence from SUI while conducting his research in Europe. His technique includes the recording of characteristic and systematically chosen texts of 19th century prose as read by French writers.

The recordings are expected to help greatly in the study of acoustic aspects of prose style. He is studying intonation, pausal systems and rhythm.

Likes to Sew —

Swimming Star Designs Clothes

By MAUREEN AUBURN

Edward (Rusty) Garst, Hawkeye varsity swimmer, wishes he had more time to spend at his sewing machine.

An advertising major from Madison, Wis., Rusty is enrolled in two SUI classes otherwise populated by women only, clothing and textile design.

How did he get started sewing? "It was a joke, at first. I wanted to make a dress for a girl I knew, so her mother gave me her old clothes and from them I cut a pattern. I started with crepe, the worst possible material for a beginner," he added ruefully.

That was a couple of years ago and Rusty has been zipping along at his sewing machine ever since. A member of Dolphins, he decided the swimming club needed new suits for this fall's show, so he designed and made broadcloth, Hawaiian diaper-type suits for all the Dolphins.

When he finds time, Rusty makes sport shirts of his own design. "My first shirt took about eight hours," he figures, "but I've cut down the time quite a bit by now."

He reflected that he could get enough orders for sport shirts to make it a full-time job. "But, of course, I haven't the time."

The tall, good-looking junior seldom is bothered by hecklers. However, he does recall one project by his fraternity brothers which took careful work to undo.

"They were having a bull session in my room when I wasn't there. By the time I returned, they had sewed all my clothes together... pants legs... coat sleeves..."

Rusty's first day in clothing class went slowly. He didn't have to be told how to thread a machine and lay out a pattern. "I don't like to use a pattern, as I like to experiment with and change designs."

Rusty has his own philosophy about a ticklish subject. Being enrolled in a class with women who necessarily must fit patterns and try on clothes right there in the sewing room doesn't distract him. "I'm broadminded. I don't mind if they don't," says he.

Swimmer Handy with the Needle

CHURNING AWAY AT HIS SEWING MACHINE, Edward (Rusty) Garst, A3, Madison, Wis., pursues an avocation on which could easily turn into a lifetime job. An advertising major, Rusty is enrolled in SUI clothing classes just because he likes to sew. He has been sewing and designing men's and women's clothes for about two years and can't keep up with outside orders for a sport shirt he has designed for himself. Rusty is also a member of the Hawkeye swimming team.

Dance Classes Included In Recreation Program

Ballet, tap and ballroom dancing classes will be incorporated under the Iowa City recreation center program this year. Mrs. Harriet Walsh will teach the classes.

Free classes for children from 8 through 12 years of age will be offered in ballet and tap dancing at the Community building at 4 p.m. on Fridays. Junior and senior high school students may participate in the free ballroom classes offered there from 5 to 6 p.m. on Fridays.

Mrs. Walsh is resuming her classes under the recreation program after an absence of two years.

During the war she taught ballroom classes for cadets here until the U.S.O. incorporated her teachings under its program.

Mrs. Walsh received her training from masters of the dance throughout the United States. They include Michael Fokine and Ivan Tarasoff, Russian ballet masters; Ernest Belcher of California, instructor in ballet; Donald Sawyer of New York, ballroom dancing teacher, and Cansino of California, an instructor in Spanish dance.

The dancing instructress has written a "Ballet Textbook" and two booklets, one on tap dancing and the other on ballroom dancing.

Previous to her teaching in Iowa City she conducted a dancing studio in Chicago where tap, ballroom, ballet and aerobic dancing were offered.

Aprons to Feature Church Luncheon

An apron luncheon will be sponsored by the Women's Association of the Presbyterian church at 1 p.m. Wednesday in the church. Admission will be by an apron.

Reed Guild is in charge of the luncheon with Mrs. Ray E. Carson, Mrs. E. R. Means and Mrs. G. E. Grunewald as chairman.

Mrs. Edwin E. Breese is in charge of devotions and Mrs. L. R. Taylor will present a brief resume of the organization's plans for the year.

Reservations should be made by noon today through the group chairman or in the church office.

French Professor Visits

Prof. Etienne Wolff of the University of Strasbourg, Strasbourg, France, was the guest of Prof. Emil Witschi, SUI zoology department, this weekend.

Wolff, an embryologist, will be in this country for three months on a Rockefeller travelling fellowship. He was guest lecturer Monday at Witschi's afternoon embryology class.

Meetings Announced By Speech Groups

Three meetings by speech department students will be held this week, Prof. A. Craig Baird, department head announced Monday.

The groups to hold meetings are Delta Sigma Rho, honorary speech fraternity, for men and women; Zeta Phi Eta, honorary speech fraternity for women, and the first meeting of the year for the forensic association.

The forensic association meeting will be held at 7:30 tonight in room 7, Schaeffer hall. All students in forensic activities are invited to this meeting, Baird said.

Delta Sigma Rho will hold a meeting today at 4:30 p.m. in room 7, Schaeffer hall. The business of the meeting is to elect a president and appoint committees, Baird said.

Zeta Phi Eta will hold its second meeting of the semester Thursday at 5:30 p.m. in room 13, Schaeffer hall. A schedule of the coming year's activities will be drawn up and discussed.

Active Polio Cases Rise to 21 Monday

The number of active polio cases at University hospitals rose to 21 Monday as eight new patients were admitted to active wards and five were transferred to the inactive list.

Only one of the eight new patients was reported in "serious" condition by hospital officials. He was LeRoy Coopman, 14, Applington.

Others admitted to active wards Monday, all in "fair" condition, were James Fekkers, 14, Applington; Marcia Walker, 9, Burlington; Mrs. Maxine Kueter, 24, Bellevue; Claude Morrison, 50, Decorah; Ronald Sereg, 8, Albia; Nat Baird, 14, De Witt, and Patricia Tisinger, 10, Tipton.

Transferred to inactive wards Monday were Richard Lohman, 8 months, Burlington; Gary Shigle-decker, 5, Lone Tree; Rodney Wehrhan, 3, Waterloo; Chris Onnen, 3, Lone Tree; and David Kelly, 11, Clinton.

1,519 STUDENTS IN ROTC
Out of a total of 1,519 students enrolled in ROTC this semester, 575 students are in the airforce section and 944 in the army unit. The military department also reported 69 students are taking band for ROTC credit.

From Hitching Posts to Parking Meters In Forty Years

5682. Clinton Street, looking North, Iowa City, Iowa.

HERE'S CLINTON STREET AT THE TURN OF THE CENTURY. Facing the need for more parking space, Iowa City parking officials might be longing for "the good old days." The view of Clinton street looking north from the College street intersection (above) indicates no need for traffic control in the early 1900's. Mayor Preston Koser received the picture on a postcard sent by R.R. Martin, Omaha, Neb. Koser estimated the picture was taken "at least 40 years ago."

HERE'S CLINTON STREET TODAY. Contrast the same view of Clinton street today (above) with that of the early 1900's. The Whetstone building still stands beyond the Iowa State Bank and Trust building which now dwarfs its neighbors. Also noticeable are the changes in the trolley tracks and the cars anxiously awaiting for a parking place to appear.

Reorganize Iowa National Student Association

The Iowa region of the National Student Association was reorganized Saturday under the leadership of Howard Borrett Jr., A4, Ostedock.

Twenty students from five Iowa colleges met in Old Capitol to elect new officers and make plans for revitalizing the state's activities.

Others elected were secretary, Joan Tripp, A4, Mapleton; Beth Budd, Grinnell college, vice-president in charge of national affairs, and Pat Morrey, Clarke college, vice-president in charge of international affairs.

The group is composed of student council leaders at NSA member schools and delegates to the national NSA congress held last August. The next SUI meeting will be Nov. 19. Plans will be made then for an all-Iowa student government conference in the spring.

Officers named will serve as an interim staff to develop interest among non-member Iowa colleges. Miss Tripp outlined a membership drive plan for "flying squads" of students who will attempt to organize these schools for membership.

Delegates agreed to work for NSA affiliation in Cornell, Loras and Iowa State colleges and Drake and Dubuque universities.

U. Women's Association To Broadcast Tomorrow

Three Iowa Citizens belonging to the local chapter of the American Association of University Women will discuss the "AAUW in WSUI-KSUI Wednesday from 3:30 to 4 p.m.

Those taking part, according to Mrs. J. L. Casey, acting chairman, are Mrs. Paul Huston, president; Mary Parden, vice-president, and Mrs. Casey.

Kilpatrick Named Prexy Of Iowa Library Group

Norman L. Kilpatrick, associate director of SUI libraries, Saturday was named president-elect of the Iowa Library association at the close of its annual convention in Des Moines.

Kilpatrick said his position in the library association is similar to that of vice-president. The president-elect becomes president the following year.

Lagging interest at Marycrest and Parsons, both member colleges, was discussed along with tentative NSA affiliation by Wartburg college. Wartburg sent six observers to Saturday's meeting.

Student Council President Dick Dice, A4, Marion, who directed the session, declared its purpose was to "clarify the whole issue — what is NSA and what does it mean to us as students."

Dice will present a detailed report of the NSA congress, held in Champaign, Ill., at the next SUI student council meeting. He said his group was working to promote better student councils through NSA.

Dice has been directing the Iowa region since August, when he was named temporary chairman.

All SUI students are automatically members of NSA as a result of the student council's affiliation some time ago, Dice explained.

Representing SUI were Sue Gronna, A4, Minot, N.D.; Ross Williams, A3, Davenport; Miss Tripp and Dice, all delegates to the congress; Mary Anneberg, A3, Carroll; Mary Van de Steeg, A4, Orange City, and Borrett.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

BIG LEAGUE baseball stars, more often than not, are shy on palaver. They hate inquiring reporters and banquet promoters. Catcher Bill Dickey, called on for a speech at a dinner in honor of a teammate, arose reluctantly one night and confined his remarks to "He used to be a sucker for a high curve on the inside, but now he can hit anything!"

When the Braves' pitching star, Johnny Sain, beat Feller and the Cleveland Indians, 1-0, in the first game of the 1948 World Series, reporters mobbed him demanding, "What did you throw?" Sain thought hard, and answered, "Baseballs, I guess."

A rookie policeman, recently imported from Ireland, was assigned to paint the cornice of the precinct station house a bright emerald green. He set to work with such vigor that globs of paint spilled over the edge of his scaffold, and plumped onto the sidewalk. His best friends saw the green paint coming down and called up anxiously, "Murphy, my boy! Are ye havin' a hemorrhage?"

147 Register for Saturday Classes

A total of 147 persons registered for the SUI Saturday class program at the first class sessions Saturday, Registrar Ted McCarrel said Monday.

The total includes five men and 36 women enrolled in the college of liberal arts, and 75 men and 31 women enrolled for classes in the graduate college.

Last year's total enrollment totaled 144, with 98 enrolled for graduate courses and the other 46 for liberal arts courses.

The class meetings began Saturday and are scheduled for 12 Saturdays from October through March (vacation Saturdays excepted). A total of 17 courses are available, and all work completed during the program may be applied toward an undergraduate or graduate degree, McCarrel said.

The Saturday class program is designed for persons unable to attend regular class sessions.

Pershing Rifles Elect Officers and Advisors

Results of the fall elections for advisors and officers of the Pershing rifles, ROTC honor unit, were announced Monday by unit officials.

MaJ. Kenneth Sturman is faculty advisor; Harvey Jensen, A4, commander; Everett Waller Jr., L1, adjutant; Jack Burns, C3, finance officer; Robert Stout, A3, operations officer; Hughes Hope-well, A2, supply officer, and Richard Branner, Iowa City, operations advisor.

Darnell, Dabhour Say —

'Fatima Was Not Fat'

— Hollywood Disagrees

By BILL HOLLANDER

Was Fatima fat or skinny?

Hollywood producers say fat — or at least plump. But Linda Darnell and Sheikh Hussein Dabhour, A2, Lebanon, say she was thin.

Both have their reasons for defending the daughter of Mohammed against dietary slurs. Miss Darnell plays the role of Fatima in a movie now in production.

And Dabhour is a Moslem minister for eight states and has studied Moslem history.

"According to history," Dabhour said, "Fatima was slim and beautiful."

Irritated at Hollywood claims of plumpness, Dabhour sent several telegrams to the cinema center last April, protesting this obvious disregard for fact. No answers were received.

As it stands now, no one knows, except possibly those on the Fatima set, whether Miss Darnell will be corn-fed or sleek.

Contrary to most beliefs, Sheikhs don't necessarily have long beards, much money and many women. The dashing sheikh once portrayed by Rudolph Valentino, is a myth, Dabhour said. Sheikhs, instead, are ministers.

About harems, he said that top score for today is probably the four wives owned by Ibn Saud, king of Saudi Arabia. Though, including those he divorced, he has a total of about thirty.

"Religion dictates that we should have no more than four," the Moslem minister said. "We are also told to deal with them justly. In other words, don't have more than one."

Dabhour came to the United States from Lebanon in August, 1948 at the invitation of the Rose of Fraternity, a Cedar Rapids organization made up of thirty Cedar Rapids Moslem families. While there, he preached at the Moslem mosque and attended Coe college for one semester.

Army Medals Available Only from Washington

Army veterans will no longer be able to secure campaign and service medals from veteran organizations, recruiting stations or army installations, fifth army headquarters disclosed in a letter to the SUI ROTC Monday.

To secure these medals, veterans must now write to the adjutant general, department of the army, or chief of staff, U.S. air force, Washington, 25, D.C., the letter said.

Iowa Citizens Named As Jurors to Hear Civil Cases Oct. 10

Thirty-two Iowa Citizens were named Monday to serve as Johnson county petit jurors for the September term of court. Jurors selected will report for duty at 10 a.m. October 10.

The panel will provide juries to hear the first civil cases on the docket for this term in district court. Presiding Judge James P. Gaffney excused 42 persons from jury duty for various reasons. Iowa City jurors selected were:

First ward: Walter Chudwick, Helene E. Connell, Mary Jane Glenn, Hiram Ivie and Mary Miller.

Second ward: Robert M. Bratton, William F. Cambridge, Mary E. Glenn, G. G. Hill, Henrietta H. Howell, W. H. Kirby and Pauline T. Lierle.

Third ward: Betty R. Bartley, Carroll Coleman, William E. Hale, Robert G. Kaiden, Marie Edith Ruppert and Wendell Wellman.

Fourth ward: Omar J. Eimen, Ernest Johnke and John C. Sterba.

Fifth ward: LaVerna E. Brown, Sara Daykin, Roy A. Ewers, Marie F. Herrick, E. A. Horsefield, Mary L. Kennedy, Lucille E. Maske, Rudolph J. Maurer, Sue McGinnis, R. R. Reimers and Marc M. Stewart.

SUI Alumni Wed At Lutheran Church

SUI graduates Barbara Jo Snover and Armand W. Halweg were married Saturday at St. Paul's Lutheran church with the Rev. John F. Choltz officiating at the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Snover, Knoxville, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo A. Halweg, Alta.

Judy Snover, sister of the bride, attended as maid of honor. Best man was M. S. Miller, Iowa City. James McDonald, Iowa City, and John Loughlin, Cerrokee, served as ushers.

A reception was held following the ceremony in the church parlors.

The couple will live in Des Moines after a wedding trip to Chicago.

Counting Coins Can Pay

Parking Meters Produce a Variety of Coins, Slugs for Iowa City Woman's Collection

By GEORGE WILSON

If you flinch every time you are forced to drop a coin into the hungry mouth of one of Iowa City's parking meters, stop and give a moment's thought to Mrs. Edith M. Frederickson, 1138 Hotz street.

Since December, 1947, when she became custodian of parking meter records, Mrs. Frederickson has been looking after all the pennies, nickels, dimes and miscellaneous slugs that are fed into the meters daily except Sunday.

Mrs. Frederickson was appointed to her position at city hall when the counting, sorting and recording of meter receipts became more than a part-time job.

"The treasurer's office used to do the work," she said "but later meter additions made necessary more counting and sorting than they could handle."

With the addition of 271 new machines last summer, 681 parking meters now dot the curbs around the SUI campus and Iowa City business district.

Mrs. Frederickson now has some mechanical help in her office. The city has furnished two invaluable machines which "save all kinds of time." One of these "mechanical brains" sorts the coins into their respective groups and the other one counts and packages the money.

"The police collect the coins from the meters, emptying each meter once a week," Mrs. Frederickson explained. "After the money is counted and recorded, it goes back to the bank. Half of each week's total receipts goes toward payment for the latest addition of 271 meters."

Weekly receipts amounted to about $1,000 in 1948, according to Mrs. Frederickson, but the total has swollen to about $1,500 per week this month.

That sounds like quite a bit of money in small change," she laughed, "but the sorting machine will sort about $650 in only 30 minutes."

The vast collection of foreign coins she has accumulated is a continual source of amusement to Mrs. Frederickson.

"I have coins from Germany, Belgium, China, Japan, Italy, Canada, France, Mexico, Colombia and the Philippines," she relates, "and tax tokens and street car fims from almost every state in the United States. Of course, we get every variety of 'slugs' mixed in with the receipts, too."

Mrs. Frederickson, who also serves as police court recorder, says collectors have offered her huge prices for some of the coins, but she turns them down. "I want to save them, myself," she says.

And what coin collector wouldn't envy her collection? You might say Mrs. Frederickson is "in the chips."

Social Worker to Speak

Prof. Richard Seaman, SUI school of social work, will address the southeast chapter of the Iowa Welfare association Wednesday at Newton, Director Wayne Vasey said Monday.

Seaman, who is in charge of the school's group work training program, will speak on group work, one phase of social work.

That's Where the Money Goes!

"IN THE CHIPS" describes Mrs. Edith M. Frederickson, 1138 Hotz street, as she counts some of the coins taken from Iowa City parking meters. As custodian of parking meter receipts, Mrs. Frederickson runs about $1,500 in small coins through the two machines each week. The machine in foreground sorts the pennies, nickels and dimes into groups while the other counts and packages the coins.

Iowa City Dump To Get Art Look

People passing the city dump today will probably take a second look — it isn't every day you can see a modern Venus de Milo peering out of a stack of tomato cans.

It seems Monday was cleaning day in the sculpture annex at the art building. Pounded after pound of realism and surrealism was lowered from the high shelves along the back door and lugged out the back door to await the city dump truck.

Most of the pieces represent the early attempts of would-be sculptors, done more in the spirit of

Student Forum to Discuss A-Bomb Policy

The year's first SUI student forum of the air will be broadcast over WSUI, Wednesday at 7 p.m., Prof. A. Craig Baird, forensic association director, announced Monday.

The topic to be discussed is: "What shall be the policy of the U.S. concerning the atomic bomb?"

The forum will try to answer such questions as: What is the size of the American stockpile of bombs? What are the facts concerning Russia's atomic bomb production? What program shall this nation follow in view of this problem?

Students who will participate in the discussion are David Cornell, G. Knoxville; William Shuttleworth, G. Cedar Rapids; John Oostendorp, G. Muscatine; and Robert Jeffrey, G. Iowa City.

Acting as chairman of the forum will be Mel Baker, speech instructor.

"Student forums of the air have been broadcast over WSUI since the station started broadcasting in 1919," Baird said.

Topics discussed over the weekly forum involve current, national and international problems, Baird said.

During last year's series, 26 forums were broadcast. Some questions discussed last year were: What are the issues in the 1948 presidential campaign? Should we condemn the 81st congress?

"The program seems to be well-liked by everyone involved," Baird said.

The forum is presented by the speech department and WSUI.

Hawks Prepare For Illinois, Injuries Stall Key Players

Sophomores Get Big Ten Experience

Dr. Eddie Anderson and his grid assistants yesterday began loosening the kinks acquired by the Hawks in the Purdue battle Saturday and initiated preparatory drills for the Illinois game here Saturday.

Anderson stated Monday that the Purdue conflict brought several injuries, and it would be impossible to tell who would be able to play Saturday until careful checks are taken.

"We will have to develop replacements this week, knowing that we'll probably need them. I think some of the sophomores learned a lot about Big Ten football in their introduction at Purdue and it should give them confidence," Anderson said.

Men on the injured list include Earl Banks, Jerry Faske, Andy Buntz, Glenn Drahn and Hubert Johnston. Numerous others have bumps which will slow them up considerably during the early part of the week.

Both the offensive and defensive play of the Hawks will gain additional polish this week in order that they will be able to cope with their second loop foe. The Iowa offense, which clicked for three touchdowns in the first half Saturday, was inconsistent in the final half.

Meanwhile, the Illini will invade the Iowa stadium Saturday with high hopes of molding a win after two consecutive tie games. The young Illinois team has knotted with Iowa State and Wisconsin.

"This could very easily be the Saturday that Illinois puts everything together and becomes a strong ball team. They have fast and clever backs and a good forward passer in Bernie Krueger," said Leonard Raffensperger, who scouted Illinois in its tie games.

Raffensperger pointed out that the Illini line is strong, with two virtually 60-minute tackles in Al Tate and Charles Ulrich. Ulrich is used ahead of Capt. Lyle Burton.

"Walt Kersulis, a 6-foot, 4-inch end, is very good on pass catching and Krueger also likes to throw to the fast halfbacks, Sam Piazza, Ronnie Clark and John Karras. Russ Steger, the fullback who has hurt Iowa in three previous games, so far has been played mainly on defense, with Burt Schmidt as the offensive fullback," he declared.

Alertness was probably the most important factor in Iowa's 21-7 win over the Boilermakers

DRAWING A BEAD with a shotgun just as he did on outfield fences this season, Ralph Kiner, slugging Pittsburgh Pirate, is shown just before leaving for his California home where he plans to do some duck hunting. Kiner led the major league homerun derby this season with 54 circuit smashes. Looking on approvingly is teammate Rip Sewall, veteran Pirate pitcher, who was given his unconditional release Monday.

Saturday, said Anderson after seeing the movies of the contest. The Hawks snatched six Purdue fumbles. He was also pleased with the vast improvement defensively. The Hawkeyes stopped Purdue drives on their own 13, 8 and 6 yard lines.

Hawk Home Tilts Attract Top Teams

The longest home stand of major games in Hawkeye history opens for the Iowa football team here Saturday against Illinois in the second conference game.

Illinois will be followed by Indiana and Northwestern, with Oregon, the Pacific Coast conference team ending the home season Oct. 29.

Dr. Anderson's teams have defeated Illinois only in 1940 and 1941, while losing in 1942, 1946, 1947 and 1948. Including the wartime record, Iowa has gone down seven straight times since 1942. Out of the 29 contests played between the two teams over a 50 year period the Illini have compiled 18 victories to the Hawks' nine.

City Jammed; Series Tickets All Sold Out

By TED SMITS

NEW YORK (AP) — The ten-cent world series boomed into a $10-million bonanza for New York City Monday.

The last day, almost unexpected victories of the New York Yankees and Brooklyn Dodgers in the frenzied pennant races brought thousands to the big city, jamming hotels and putting a heavy premium on series tickets.

Hotel and restaurant men said the sports minded throng would spend $10-million here even if the series sounded cheap because the subway fare from Yankee stadium to Ebbets field is only a dime. It used to be a nickel.

Offers of $25 and more were made in the black market for single tickets. The ball parks are completely sold out.

The Yankees, the American league champions, are the favorites over the National league Dodgers, 5 to 9, which means that a bettor must put down $9.00 on the Yankee to win $5.00.

WEATHER PROSPECTS POOR
The weather prospects are poor for the opening game in the vast, three-decked Yankee stadium at 2 p.m. (Iowa time) Wednesday. The outlook is for cloudiness and scattered showers. Not since 1941 has bad weather caused postponement of a series game.

If all goes well, the series will be played Wednesday and Thursday in Yankee stadium, and Friday and Saturday in Ebbets field. If these games are not enough to decide the world champion in the best four out of seven contest, the fifth game will be Sunday in Ebbets field and the sixth and seventh on Monday and Tuesday in Yankee stadium.

The same two teams last met in 1947, with the Yankees winning. Burt Shotton managed the Dodgers then, and Bucky Harris the Yankees. Harris has departed in a top level Yankee shuffle, but the sharp-eyed, white-haired Shotton is back again. This time the 64-year-old Shotton is pitted against the 57-year-old Casey Stengel.

HOTELS JAMMED
New York's big midtown hotels anticipate a peak room occupancy for the rest of the week with a possible easing over the weekend because Ebbets field seats only 34,000 compared to 70,000 in Yankee stadium.

The 1949 series promises to have the sparkle that unusual baseball personalities always give to the competition. Brooklyn has Jackie Robinson, first Negro to play in the majors and the National league's leading batter with a season average of .342.

On the Yankee side is Joe DiMaggio, ailing but fiercely competitive. During the first of the season a bone spur on his heel incapacitated him. Two weeks ago he was stricken with a virus infection, but he played in the big final games against Boston, although he wobbled a bit and his face was white and drawn.

Vets Sewell, Walker Released By Pirates;

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Two baseball veterans got their walking papers Monday as the sixth place Pittsburgh Pirates began a minor remodeling job for next year.

Twenty-four hours after the 1948 season ended, the Pirates unconditionally released Pitcher Truett (Rip) Sewell and Outfielder Fred (Dixie) Walker.

Sewell, at 41, was the oldest Pirate both in years and time of service.

Two years ago he decided he was too old to pitch. But at the beginning of the 1948 season, Rip told Manager Billy Meyer he thought he could still throw a little.

Skill Win 'Em
Meyer put him back on the roster and Rip went on to win 13 while losing only three. He won his last eight in a row last season and notched five more this year before he was stopped.

Rip had a brief fling with the Detroit Tigers in 1932. He reached his peak during the war years when he won 21 games each in 1943 and 1944.

His all time major league record shows 132 wins and 97 losses. The Chicago Cubs will be particularly glad to see him go. He beat them 36 times.

Although Sewell's playing career is ended, it's a sure bet he won't leave baseball.

'Peepus' Cherce'
Dixie Walker is a mere lad of 38 but he's knocked around the majors 18 years. He broke into the majors with the New York Yankees in 1933.

Dixie was supposed to be through when Brooklyn bought him from Detroit in an inter-league deal in the middle of the 1939 season. It was said his aged bones were held together with tape and baling wire.

Early Birds Reap No Harvest

THE MONUMENTAL TASK of returning over 130,000 letters of application for world series tickets received by the St. Louis Cardinal organization, is being tackled by Nat H. Hall (standing), ticket supervisor and his staff after the Brooklyn Dodgers won the National league pennant Sunday. Cardinal officials started accepting applications for tickets a few days ago when it appeared that St. Louis would win the flag chase.

Kuhel Fired as Senator Pilot

WASHINGTON (AP) — Joe Kuhel got his walking papers Monday as manager of the Washington baseball team.

With the final standings for the 1949 season showing Washington 47 games behind the league leading Yankees, Clark Griffith, president of the club, told newsmen that he had let Kuhel go.

"It's time for the Senators to try something different," Griffith commented.

"I have not picked a successor," he added.

Griffith refused to comment on whether he would dispose of some ball players now that he had released Kuhel.

The ball club itself gave Washingtonians moments of pride during the past season but more despair. One day they were knocking off the top clubs, then they would lapse into a losing streak that would extend into 15 or more games.

The club started the season off by sticking around the top division for a month or so. During one western trip they only dropped one game.

But somewhere along the line the zip was missing.

Kuhel had managed the American league team since Oct. 9, 1947.

He was a fancy fielding first baseman with the Senators in his heyday as an active big leaguer.

When he was hired in 1947 the 43-year-old Kuhel was appointed on a trial basis for a one-year term. The club wound up in seventh place, but Griffith gave Kuhel a contract for another year.

"It's just baseball," Griffith said. "I found no fault with Joe's managing. It was just the breaks that ruined Joe. Joe's a fine boy and in the two years with us things just didn't break for him."

The club started the season

Badgers, California To Complete Pact

MADISON, WIS. — California's Golden Bears and Wisconsin will complete a four year inter-sectional contract here Saturday, Oct. 8 with the Big Ten eleven endeavoring to square accounts with the Pacific Coast loop team.

The battle, which is scheduled to take place in Camp Randall stadium, will be the last between the two schools. That is, another series will probably not be resumed until after 1952 because of previous commitments on the schedules.

California's defending Coast conference champs step into this tilt with two wins. These Bear victories came in the 1947 and 1948 campaigns. The Badgers won the first conflict 28-7 in 1946.

Ref's Opposed Us, Says Leahy

SOUTH BEND, IND. (AP) — Coach Frank Leahy of Notre Dame charged Monday that not only were the officials who worked the Irish game against Washington Saturday "incompetent, but also they seemed prejudiced against our team."

Leahy, who previously had been quoted that he wouldn't want any one of the officials involved to handle another Notre Dame game, said that he would accept umpire Bill Corbus of Stanford.

"But the other three," he said, "I wouldn't want any part of them."

The other officials at the game were Referee Thomas D. Wilson, College of Pacific, Field Judge E. T. Starbuck, Chicago, and Linesmen W. H. Frazier, Gonzaga.

Leahy said he felt obliged to speak in defense of his players.

"If any team is penalized 135 yards, as we were," he said, "All the people in the stadium will think it was an illegal, unethical and dirty team."

"We didn't play any different than we ever played, but if I didn't speak up the people who saw the game would think we were dirty."

Leahy said that charges that the officials saw the movies of last year's Washington game, played at South Bend, on Saturday morning had been confirmed by one of the officials to a South Bend writer in a telephone conversation Monday.

"It's slightly irregular," he said. "I never heard of it before. If you take the officials into a room and show them a moving picture and point things out, it's bound to influence their judgment."

"Anybody that wants to point out faults can find a lot of little things to show officials. I think the moving picture affected the officials' judgment a lot."

Leahy said it was the first time his team had any difficulties with officiating on the west coast, although his club plays Southern California each year.

"Why, last year in the Southern California game," he said, "and we didn't win that one, I thought the officials did a wonderful job. Referee Jim Cain was 'fine and so was Bill Corbus.'"

"The officials out that way have always been fine. I regret it all very much, Leahy said. "I've never made any public complaints about officiating before, but I felt I had to speak out on this one to protect the reputation of Notre Dame."

Corky Major Has Bright Future

— In Athletic Circles

By JACK BENDER

Iowa Sports Writer
If previous accomplishments are any criterion of things to come, Corky Major—the Ottumwa senior—can look forward to a successful future in golf.

Although she took up the game seriously only three years ago, Corky advanced to the semi-finals of the Iowa State women's amateur last summer. In that round the chunky 5-foot, 3-inch was stopped by Mrs. H.R. Staats, who eventually won the meet.

Also in the competition of that tournament were Mary Louise Cordinley, Lois Penn and Mrs. Dave Bonella, all previous winners, and Mrs. Ray Mansfield, this year's runner-up.

The play of Corky and Mrs. Staats on the 15th green was later termed the outstanding event of the 1949 tourney at Davenport.

Mrs. Staats had Corky three down going into play on the 160 yard hole. The former, a long ball hitter and a fine putter, drove the ball to within 20 yards of the cup, then one-putted it.

However, Corky, also having driven the ball relatively close to the cup, astonished the gallery by duplicating her rival's feat.

The 20-year-old Gamma Phi Beta, a sociology major, has many other laurels on her record in competition against the top-notch women golfers from all parts of the United States.

Besides being club champ at Ottumwa for seven consecutive years, she has advanced as far as the quarterfinals of the intercollegiate meet at Columbus, Ohio, the semi-finals of the first flight of the Western Open at Chicago and the second round of the Trans-Missouri tournament at Lincoln, Nebraska.

Last summer in the 1948 state tourney at Waterloo, she cut three strokes off Babe Didrikson Zaharias' course record of 79.

A tomboy as far back as she can remember, Corky began playing with toy golf clubs when she was six, but not until three years ago did she seriously concentrate on the game.

Her parents play golf occasionally—although not too skillfully—and they encouraged her to continue sports for pleasure. She also likes tennis.

At the present she averages 220 yards on drives and has a good short game. She usually cards in at 36 to 40, depending on the women's par for the course.

The athletic-appearing woman plays as much as possible at Finkbine during the school year. Last year, from September to June, she was able to practice only four times, but, to offset this lack of free time, she worked at golf for two weeks, averaging five hours a session, before the State Women's Open.

Corky plans to teach after graduation unless she receives a good enough offer to turn pro.

"However," she added, "if I do become a professional golfer, I would first like to make a bigger name for myself outside Iowa."

Opening Cage Drills Reveal Speed Theme

If the first practice of the Hawkeyes basketball team is any indication of things to come, all speed limit signs for the cage season are going to be ripped down. For Monday afternoon, as Coach Pops Harrison sent about 30 basketball candidates through their initial conditioning workout, the prevailing theme was SPEED.

Harrison said that he intends to stress fundamentals and a lot of leg work until the boys get toughened up. Practices will be held on Mondays through Thursdays for the first couple of weeks, then daily workouts will begin.

Aiding Harrison with his duties this year will be Jack Spencer, whose name is almost synonymous with Iowa basketball.

After a year in professional basketball, Spencer decided to return to his alma mater for post-graduate work.

Asked if he thinks he will prefer coaching to pro ball he replied, "All you do in professional basketball is make a lot of money and throw it away."

Among those reporting for opening practice were: Jack Scalan, Chicago, Ill.; Robert Clifton, Boone; Dick Reicks, Danbury; Eddie Colbert, Iowa City; Gene Slack, Oskaloosa; Don Hays, Des Moines; Wayne Ryan, Cherokee; Ken Arnesen, Oak Park, Ill.; Skip Greene, Davenport; Bob Friesmeier, Fort Madison; Edgar Aleshire, Plymouth, Ill.; Jim Seroggs, Cedar Rapids; Al Fisher, Independence; Dick Reid, Wilton Junction; Tom Parker, Elgin, Ill.; Ned Viquain, Ames; Frank Calsbeek, Hull; Norman Harris, Oakland, Calif.; Gene Gettys, Harlan; Bob Wismeier, Burlington; Bob Vollers, Keokuk, and Shuck Darling, Fort Logan, Colo.

Among the onlookers at the first Iowa basketball practice Monday afternoon, was the famed Murray Weir who broke about every record in the books on the hardwoods at SUI a couple of years ago.

Now a member of the Tri-City Blackhawks of the National professional basketball league, Murray said that he had stopped in to get some tickets for a football game here.

For the "Redhead," practice started Saturday. He said the Blackhawks open their schedule Oct. 12 against the St. Louis Bombers in an exhibition game at Moline.

The Tri-City entry has been strengthened with the addition of such names as Dike Eddleman, from the University of Illinois, Mac Otten, brother of the great Don Otten and present center on the team.

Weir said that he spent the summer months at a boys' camp in Minnesota and had charge of baseball and basketball there.

Royals Grab First Series Victory, 3-1

MONTREAL (AP) — The Montreal Royals squeezed maximum results out of three hits Monday night and defeated the Indianapolis Indians 3-1 in the third game of the little world series. The series now stands at two games for Indianapolis and one for Montreal.

Negro Righthander Dan Bankhead, who won 20 games for the Royals during the regular International League season, allowed the Indians only five hits as he fanned the Royals to their first series win. The Indians won the first two games in the best of seven series.

The Royals opened the scoring off starting hurler Mel Queen in the fifth inning. George Schmees walked and Ted Beard booted Rocky Bridges' line single to centerfield, allowing Schmees to score.

Catcher Toby Atwell followed with another base hit to score Bridges. Bankhead's attempted bunt sacrifice went for an error for Third Baseman Nanny Fernandez when he let it go through him, Atwell taking second. Two fly balls to the outfield allowed Atwell to score Montreal's third run.

Bankhead had tossed no hit ball until the top half of the fifth when Clyde Klutz singled. He weakened slightly in the sixth to allow the Indians to score. He dropped Jack Cassin's high pop fly to the mound and the dangerous Les Fleming followed with a single scoring Cassin.

The Indians seemed on their way to a big inning when Roy Weatherly doubled and Jack Kalin walked to load the bases but Bankhead, who allowed four walks and struck out six, bore down and retired the side.

Queen gave the Royals their three hits during his six innings on the mound. He was lifted for a pinch hitter.

Left-Hander Chet Johnson pitched the last three innings and held the Royals hitless.

Irish Fan Wants a Look at Lassies —

Received an interesting letter from a Notre Dame fan the other day, one who likes both football and girls. In other words, he thinks the Irish have a winning football team but lack Highlanders. Here's his suggestion.

"We all know there won't be much for the loyal followers of Iowa to cheer about when Notre Dame and Iowa met in football, so why not send the Scottish Highlanders to the game?"

"This is one of the greatest bands in the country and it would give the people around here the opportunity of seeing a great band, from that great state of Iowa (trying to appeal to our pride). To see this all-girl outfit perform is worth the price of admission to any ball game. I've seen them many times and think they are tops in any part of the country. Please make a move to send them to the Iowa-Notre Dame game and give both sides something to cheer about. We've got the team, you've got the entertainment, let's get together for the great day."

The ideal situation would be a Highlander visit, as his letter suggests, and an Iowa victory, as his letter doesn't suggest. What a sweet group of 67 girls and a 21-7 victory would make.

We looked into the situation and found the Big Ten has a "gentlemen's agreement about bands, consisting of one trip for the band and one trip for the Highlanders, to be kept within the league.

A call to Bill Adamson, who heads the Highlanders, revealed that it would cost about $2,000 to finance the trip to South Bend. If the Fighting Irish want the Highlanders maybe they'd like to pass the hat and make the additional trip possible. If that did occur the university would probably be glad to sanction the trip.

Herb Wilkinson, former Iowa and Utah basketball great, left Sunday for Minneapolis to join the Lakers for the coming pro basketball season. He'd been working out in the fieldhouse the past several days, getting ready for the training grind that was scheduled to get underway Monday.

HERB WILKINSON Off to the Lakers

Wilkinson, an all-American for the Hawks a couple of seasons back, was at home in Salt Lake City, for part of the summer, where he saw his old teammate from the Utah national champs of '44, Arnold Ferrin. Arnie played for the Lakers (sometimes known as George Mikan's team) last year and will be with the club again this season. "I just hope I can make the team," Herb said as he stepped up the rope-skipping pace.

Iowa's middleweight champ and SUI student until June, Bob Rossie, will fight in Chicago's Marigold Gardens again next Monday. Bob won the Golden Gloves crown and about everything else in boxing there was to win around here before entering the ring game.

BOB ROSSIE Iowa champ

Shortly after turning pro he fought on two Joe Louis cards in the midwest, then captured the Iowa middleweight title. This summer he moved to Minneapolis, where he proved a real crowd pleaser. Now, still moving up boxing's ladder, sometimes a painfully slow process, Rossie is sharing the feature attractions at the Gardens.

In his last appearance there he stopped his opponent in one round. Rossie was in Iowa City Thursday for a short stay... says his foe for Monday has not been named as yet.

Ken Blackman, who caught for Otto Vogel's Hawks back in the middle thirties, is back at school for graduate work. The former Buena Vista athletic director was out warming up the arm at fall practice the other day.

Also along the baseball line — Herb Preul, a student here last year, tossed a no-hitter in September, pitching for Greenville of the Cotton States league. The Jolly, Iowa, hurler was signed by the Yankees a couple of seasons ago.

Notre Dame coach Frank Leahy had a new kind of worry at Seattle Saturday where his team met Washington. Seems his trainer, Hugh Burns, has 24 relatives in the Seattle area and the game had been sold out since June 6th! Maybe each relative could carry a towel!

Reardon to Retire After Series

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Umpire Beans Reardon will retire from the business of "call 'em as you see 'em" when the world series is over.

He disclosed his retirement plans Monday, saying he will go to California and devote full time to a beer distributing business he has been building up.

Beans — almost nobody in baseball ever called him John Edward — is the dean of the National League umpiring staff, a veteran of 24 seasons. This will be his fifth world series assignment.

A quiet, stocky man, he came to the National League in 1926 in the roaring, rough-house era of John McGraw, Frank Frisch and Rogers Hornsby. Umpires were only beginning to get the respect of players and fans.

He quickly became known as a cool, steady official, not often involved in player rows, rarely if ever wrong about the rule book.

In some ways, Reardon was an individualist. He ignored Bill Klem's order, as chief of National League umpires, to wear a slim, hard chest protector under his coat. Reardon preferred the big inflated shield used in the American League.

And he balked at wearing the black four-in-hand tie favored for National League umpires. Beans stuck to a blue and white polka dot style.

LOUIS BREEZES — WASHINGTON (AP) — Joe Louis, retired world's heavyweight champion, slammed Abel Cestac of Argentina all over the Griffith stadium ring Monday night in the first of a series of exhibition matches.

Ortiz Defeated — MANCHESTER, ENGLAND (AP) — Ronnie Clayton, British featherweight champion, won a 10-round bout from Manuel Ortiz, world bantamweight champion from El Centro, Calif., Monday night.

Ortiz' title was not at stake. Clayton, whose home is in Blackpool, England, weighed 126 1-4 pounds while Ortiz was a pound less.

Pitt Grid Prospects Look Strong Again

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Even cautious Mike Milligan put out the word Monday that Pitt has something the football world may fear again.

Pitt's 16-7 upset of mighty Northwestern prompted a victory celebration by a delirious student body.

Pitt people have been contending all along that Pitt is on the way back to the grid glory it once knew under the late coach Dr. John (Jock) Sutherland.

The Panthers have had 10 lean years of de-affection. They lost 22 straight to Western Conference opponents before Milligan's team surprised Ohio State in 1947.

Last year the Panthers won six and lost three for their best record since 1938 when Pitt decided to play football strictly for fun. Nobody enjoyed it but the opposing teams.

Pitt defeated William and Mary 13-7 in the opener. The schedule still includes such biggies as Minnesota, Ohio State, Indiana and Pennsylvania.

Van Buren Snaps Mark As Eagles Nip Steelers

DETROIT (AP) — Halfback Steve Van Buren of the Philadelphia Eagles set a new National football league lifetime ground gaining record Monday night as he smashed over for two fourth period touchdowns to give the Eagles a 22-14 win over the Detroit Lions.

Van Buren piled up 135 yards in 33 tries to give him a total of 3,951 yards in his NFL career. The former Louisiana State university star, now in his sixth year as a pro, eclipsed the record of 3,860 yards set by Clark Hinkle of the Green Bay Packers in his 10 years pro career.

The Eagles had to call on all of Van Buren's running wiles to erase the 14-5 halftime lead which the stubborn Detroit club built up in its first home game of the year before 25,012 fans.

SUI Students' Newspaper Week Cartoons Lauded

National Magazine Prints Drawings

Three former SUI student cartoonists have received mention for "outstanding contributions" to National Newspaper week, Oct. 1 through Oct. 8, in the current issue of Editor and Publisher, magazine.

The students, Elbert S. Gabbard of New Orleans, La., Richard Marsh of Cedar Falls, and Walter Warnholtz of Sioux City, were enrolled in SUI's editorial cartooning class last semester.

Gabbard's cartoon is in two parts. The upper half depicts the world, as a globe, seeing itself in an undistorted mirror, over which is a banner labeled "The News — Uncensored! Undictated!"

The lower half shows the same world seeing itself reflected in a distorted mirror, with the label "The News — Police State Version!"

Marsh's cartoon portrays the grave of "Free Press." A typewriter and wreath rest on the grave mound, with the number "30," the journalist's mark for "the end," printed on the paper in the typewriter.

On a hill in the background the statue of liberty is shown draped in chains.

The cartoon submitted by Warnholtz pictures a hand sinking in a sea of "oppression," "propaganda" and "slavery," "Dropping toward the hand is a lifesaver on which is printed the words "S.S. Free Press."

The honorary society, Quill and Scroll, will award certificates of merit, signed by officers of the National Newspaper week committee and the society, for "distinctive achievements in celebrating 1949 National Newspaper week."

Entries of the three former SUI students will be judged with others at Syracuse (N.Y.) university school of journalism.

The slogan for this year's observance of National Newspaper week is "Freedom Goes Where the Newspaper Goes."

The cartoons were drawn to advance the week's purpose of promoting public confidence in the press, of building an appreciation of its services to the community and of presenting it as a leading advocate of traditional U.S. freedoms.

President Truman, in a letter to the chairman of the National Newspaper week committee, said:

"Again it is my pleasure to send my greetings and best wishes to the press of America on the occasion of National Newspaper week . . . All of us should be eternally grateful that we live in a country where freedom of the press is guaranteed as a fundamental right."

Mats of the cartoons are available without charge from the Mat Service Division, Newspaper Advertising Service, Inc., 1301 Dodge street, Omaha, Nebr.

Two Injured Sunday In Car Crash, Fire On Country Road

Two Windham residents were injured early Sunday morning when their car caught fire after crashing into an embankment of the Rohret road, about 2 miles west of Iowa City.

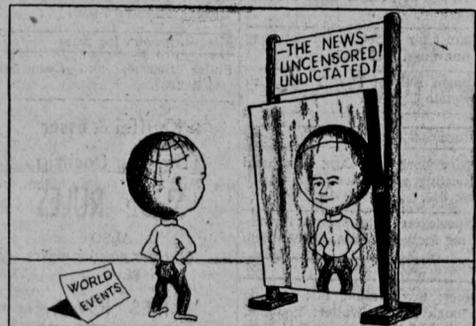

Mr. and Mrs. J.W. Speers, traveling west, failed to make a turn with their 1949 Hudson. The accident occurred about 1:30 a.m. Speers suffered head injuries, a possible fractured pelvis and a burned hand. He received the burned hand attempting to put out the fire at the rear end of the car.

Mrs. Speers received a lacerated forehead, and was released from University hospitals, where she and Speers were taken, after treatment.

Speers was reported in fair condition by the hospitals Monday.

A highway patrolman has filed a preliminary information in Iowa City police court charging Speers with failure to have his car under control.

FORMER SUI STUDENTS have submitted three cartoons for competition in National Newspaper Week. Shown here, the cartoons were called "outstanding contributions" by the Editor and Publisher magazine. "The Key to Your Liberties," upper left, was drawn by Richard Marsh, Cedar Falls. "The Press: A Lifesaver," above, was submitted by Walter Warnholtz, Sioux City, and "Let's Keep the Mirror Clear," lower left, is the work of Elbert Gabbard, New Orleans, La.

Corn Monument Contest Won by Richard Martin

The 1949 Hawkeye Homecoming corn monument will be a replica of a model submitted by Richard Martin, A2, Hamburg.

Contest judges Monday night named Martin's design the winner after narrowing the field of 23 entries down to four, James Bingham, E4, publicity chairman of the SUI Associated Students of Engineering, said.

The award, carrying a cash prize of $10 donated by the ASE will be presented to Martin by ASE President Duncan Putnam '54, at the traditional night party Oct. 14.

The contest, which was open to all SUI students and Iowa Citizens, closed Monday.

Construction of the monument Bingham said, will begin today. It will be moved to the west approach of Old Capitol sometime Oct. 14 where it can be seen during the Homecoming weekend.

The monument is the annual Homecoming contribution of the ASE and is built entirely by engineering students. A maximum of $200 is allowed the engineer, by the homecoming committee to build the monument.

Union Board to Pick Committee Members

A Union board meeting to choose members for the 1949-1950 Union board committees will be held in the office of the assistant director of the Iowa Union at 7:30 p.m. today.

Forty-eight committeemen will be chosen from hundreds of applications submitted by representatives from all SUI colleges, according to Assistant Union director Frank Burge.

Six members will be selected to serve on each of the eight Union board committees which include game, bridge, publicity, tea dance, matinee dance, house and library, movies and fine arts.

Bridegroom Killed, Four Hurt In Train Derailment at Ames

AMES, (AP) — The crack City of San Francisco streamliner left the rails at more than 40 miles an hour here early Monday and one passenger was killed when half the side of a passenger coach was sheared away.

Four persons were injured severely and 35 others aboard the damaged coach said it was miraculous they escaped with minor cuts and bruises.

Although five cars filled with slumbering passengers left the rails, the only major damage was to chair car 101. It was gashed open for 30 feet when it plowed against a box car on a siding.

The interior of car 101 was a mass of tangled steel, seat cushions and strewn luggage.

Ernest Briggs, 40-year-old Carpenter returning to the Oakland, Calif., air base from his honeymoon trip, was killed outright when the coach was torn open. His bride was hurled from her seat but was not hurt.

Twelve cars and the diesel engine of the westbound 17-car Chicago and Northwestern streamliner did not leave the tracks.

Passengers on car 101 said a moment of silence followed the tinkling of broken glass and the thud of lurching persons, baggage and fixtures. Then a woman screamed, "My God! Where are my babies?"

The woman, Mrs. Kenneth Glazier, Tulalake, Calif., found her daughters Carol, 4, and Brenda, 3, still asleep and unharmed.

16 Killed in California Collision of Bus, Train

ONTARIO, CALIF. (AP) — Ten airforce men from March air base, five girls and their chaperones were killed when a speeding train tore into the bus on which they were returning from a beach party Sunday night.

The death list dropped to 16 Monday when the coroner's office discovered one duplication. The airforce still declined to name its personnel killed.

Baby Sitters Want Jobs, But Few Call

Iowa Citizens who need baby sitters should contact the student placement bureau, Director Robert Ballantyne, said Monday.

The bureau has a list of student women who are looking for baby sitting jobs, and so far few calls for student help of this type have been received, Ballantyne said.

While not many permanent jobs are available at the office, a few odd jobs are available for both men and women most of the time, Ballantyne said.

With four home football games scheduled in succession, Ballantyne suggested Iowa Citizens who plan to use student help for fall house cleaning, lawn-raking and putting up storm windows, should contact the office on week days, since student help might not be available on Saturday afternoons.
