Blind, Blind Pair on Pensions

Moneyless After $600 Robbery

By JIM ROBINSON

An elderly Iowa City couple, both nearly blind and receiving state aid, this week discovered they had been robbed of their $600 savings sometime in the last month.

They were Joe Berry, 77, and his wife Anna, 71, who live on 12th Iowa avenue.

Berry told police Tuesday he had discovered the loss on Sunday. He claimed he had $600 in a steel box in the living room which he had not checked about a month.

He can see, but very poorly. His movements are slow and sure because of his sight defect.

This, he said, is the reason he hadn't checked on the money for a month.

The last time he knows for sure money was still there was a month ago, he claims, when he paid four men who had red the ceiling in the living room of the little home.

Berry has asked police to help him. Detective Harland Sprinkle Tuesday night said the matter is being investigated.

Berry said the money may have been taken anytime in the last month, but since he kept the steel box in the attic, and doesn't get around well, the loss was undiscovered until Sunday.

He has been nearly blind for more than three years and receives an old age pension. His wife has been almost totally blind for nearly five years. She receives a blind pension from the state.

This state aid is their only source of income, the Berry's claim.

"We're pretty discouraged now," Berry explained. "We'd been saving the money to take Anna to a doctor and see if he could help her eyesight. I heard there's one here who might be able to help her."

"I can still tell day from night," Mrs. Berry chimed in.

"Never mind, Anna," he said. "We'll save our money again and pretty soon we'll have enough so we can go to the doctor."

Berry retired from farming in Oxford and came to live in Iowa City about 15 years ago. He was born in Oxford and has lived in Johnson county all his life.

His wife was born in Ireland and came to live in this country when she was still in her teens. They have no children.

Berry's only living relative is Jim Berry, Oxford, a nephew who bought them the house they live in about a year ago.

Jim Berry Wednesday night said he had not heard of his uncle's loss. He said he thought they had no income other than the blind and old age pensions they receive from the state.

Blind Couple Robbed of $600

"I PUT THE MONEY RIGHT HERE, ANNA," Joe Berry, 77, tells his almost blind wife, who is 71. Berry told police Tuesday he had discovered Sunday that $600 in bills had been taken from the steel box he holds on his lap. He receives an old age pension and his wife receives a blind pension from the state. This is their only source of income, they claim.

Grand Jury Returns Twelve Indictments, Arraignments Reveal

Twelve indictments by a Johnson county grand jury, including four for illegal possession of gambling devices and intoxicating liquors, were made public Wednesday.

The indictments were revealed when persons indicted were arraigned before District Judge James T. Gaffney.

Robert Shannon, North Liberty, and Kenneth Smith, Lone Tree, were given until Oct. 17 to file a written pleading to gambling and liquor charges.

In two indictments Shannon was charged with illegal possession of liquor and slot machines, following a raid Aug. 12 on Shannon's Inn, North Liberty.

Two separate indictments charged Smith with illegal possession of whiskey, slot machines and punch boards July 13.

J. M. Kadlec, former Iowa City justice of the peace, was indicted for grand larceny by embezzlement by a public official. Kadlec was accused of taking for his private use funds turned into his office from Jan. 1, 1948, to July 1, 1949.

Richard Krattet, Iowa City, was indicted for assault with intent to do great bodily harm. Krattet is charged with beating and choking Mrs. Carolyn Burns on a North Liberty street Aug. 6.

Richard Eugene Smith and Jack Hull, both of Iowa City, pleaded not guilty to indictments on a grand larceny charge. They were charged with stealing a gun from Howard Smith, July 18.

Four men were indicted on charges of operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated. Eugene A. Arnold and Edward Roskup, both of Iowa City, entered guilty pleas and were fined $300 each and costs of the action.

Albert C. Slade and George Paul Leeney pleaded not guilty to the same charge. Slade was arrested on highway 6 west of Iowa City Sept. 12.

Leeney was arrested for OMVI on an Iowa City street, Aug. 6.

Hancher Gives SUI Medical Expansion Plan to Committee

SUI's proposal for methods and cost of expanding medical college enrollments and facilities was presented here Wednesday to the interim committee of the Iowa legislature by President Virgil M. Hancher.

Funds needed under the plan amount to $82,773 for remodeling and new equipment during 1949-50, and for $40,180 to cover increased operating funds during 1950-51.

The plan, if approved by the Iowa state board of education, which meets here Friday, would allow admission of 120 freshman medical students in the fall of 1950. Ninety is the usual enrollment.

This is made possible by the whole program being broken into two parts, pre-clinical years and clinical years, by the executive committee of the medical college when they drew up the proposal.

The plans presented Wednesday cover only the two years of pre-clinical training.

This was done so that plans for expanding the facilities for clinical training could be drawn up between now and the time the 1950 enrollees reach that phase of training.

The plan calls for an estimated $62,223 in remodeling and renovating expenses in certain quarters in the medical laboratories building, for $20,550 to purchase additional equipment in the several medical science departments, and for increases in annual operating budgets of $40,180 in 1950-51, $74,640 in 1951-52 and $82,000 in 1952-53.

The session Wednesday was the third in a series of reports to the interim committee following a legislative mandate calling for an increase in the size of the college of medicine to help relieve the doctor shortage and distribution problems in Iowa.

In a letter to the committee, President Hancher pointed out that after presentation of the total program to the general assembly in 1951, there would still be 14 months after the beginning of the new biennium on July 1, 1951, to make the capital improvements, purchase the equipment and obtain the staff necessary for the last two years of clinical training.

The interim committee's attitude toward the proposal offered by President Hancher could be influential in the passing or rejecting of the total program in the 1951 assembly.

Chairman J.C. Colburn, state senator from Harlan, said that the committee would like to do something about the proposal if it is feasible.

The committee did not have

Senate Okays Vets 'Hobby' Course Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—The senate Wednesday passed without a record vote a bill which would let veterans in some instances take avocational (hobby) courses under the GI bill of rights.

The bill, which now goes to the house, provides that such things as dancing, bar tending, photography, personality development, music, public speaking, entertainment and athletics generally shall be regarded as recreational or avocational. The VA in most cases would be barred from paying tuition for them under the GI bill.

But an exception would be made in cases where a veteran presented affidavits from himself and two disinterested persons saying that a course in one of the generally prohibited subjects would be helpful to the veteran in earning a living.

The bill approved Wednesday says the VA shall issue no instructions which would prevent any eligible veteran from selecting the courses he wants, but it sets up certain standards under which the VA could disapprove courses.

Fleet Adms. King, Halsey Warn B-36 Inadequate Weapon

WASHINGTON (AP)—Fleet Adms. Ernest J. King and William Halsey Wednesday threw their great prestige behind the navy's clamor for a new national defense strategy with less emphasis on airforce atomic bombers and more carrier-led seapower.

Both retired five-star admirals warned the house armed services committee that long-range, land bombers like the airforce B-36 are "dangerously" inadequate for preventing or winning a war, even though armed with A-bombs.

They urged congress to take steps to insure that the navy will not be reduced further under unification.

Committee Chairman Carl Vinson (D-Ga.) broke into the navy testimony to denounce Johnson as a "bureaucrat" who is making "a grandstand play" for personal credit by his cuts in navy spending.

"He decided to let congress go ahead and appropriate funds," Vinson roared. "Then he said to himself 'I'll cut it out and it will reflect great credit on my economical ability.'"

Senate Firm ...

WASHINGTON (AP)—The senate stood firmly behind its demand for a 48-group airforce Wednesday after President Truman said that an armada of this size is adequate for defense even though Russia has produced an atomic explosion.

The President set forth his position at a White House conference with senate leaders.

Denounces New Regime

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dean Acheson Wednesday denounced the newly-created regime in eastern Germany as run from behind the scenes by "Soviet masters."

Senate Approves Farm Price Support Measure

Gained: $10; Lost: One Contributor

NASHVILLE, TENN. (AP)—Harry McEwen was hauled into traffic court on charges of making an illegal left turn.

After pleading guilty, McEwen hinted broadly: "Judge I paid $25 to the Policemen's Benefit association."

"I fine you $10," Judge J.L. Uhlian replied immediately and added: "You can't pay $25 and expect to get protection all the year."

Striking Miners Refuse Two-Year Coal Contract

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The striking United Mine Workers refused an offer Wednesday to renew their contract for two years after government prodding brought the coal operators and union together.

John L. Lewis did not attend. He's expected when the talks resume today in White Sulphur Springs and Charleston, W. Va.

Continuance of the coal talks was the only hopeful sign in America's darkening economic structure.

There is still no hint of peace in the steel strike.

Philip Murray, president of the CIO united steelworkers, made a nationwide radio broadcast appealing to the public to back his demands for free pensions and insurance.

The offer to renew Lewis' contract for two more years came from northern and western soft coal operators.

Frank Amos of the Pittsburgh Consolidation Coal company, said renewal of the old agreement until April, 1951, was the operators' "best and final offer."

Amos added the operators want "unrestricted use of our facilities."

That simply means the operators insist Lewis discard the contract clause saying miners work only when willing and able.

The UMW hasn't specified its exact demands, but Lewis has let it be known he wants an increase in the 20-cent-a-ton payments to his welfare and pension fund.

Lewis also has talked about a shorter work week with no reduction of pay.

The miners' walkout has idled 380,000 soft coal diggers east of the Mississippi.

Parking Prohibited On Parade Route

Parking on Clinton street from College to Jefferson streets will be prohibited after 5 p.m. Friday because of the SUI Homecoming parade. Police Chief Edward J. Ruppert said Wednesday.

All cars parked in this area must be moved so spectators can view the parade without crowding onto the street, Ruppert said.

"No parking" signs will be posted.

Report Truman Against Sliding Scale Proviso

WASHINGTON (AP)—The senate Wednesday passed a farm price support bill incorporating a sliding scale of price props which President Truman is reported to oppose.

The measure which the senate finally approved after lengthy debate also is sharply at odds with a rival bill passed months ago by the house.

The senate bill, sponsored by Sen. Clinton Anderson (D-NM), former secretary of agriculture, provides for supporting major crops next year at 90 percent of parity but only if they are under production or marketing controls.

After 1950, the support level could range down to 75 percent at the discretion of the secretary of agriculture.

The house bill, on the other hand, calls for a continuation through 1950 of the 90 percent of parity supports which prevailed throughout the war.

The parity concept has been the basis of federal farm legislation for many years. Parity is a price calculated to give farmers a fair return for the things they raise, in terms of what they have to buy.

The senate bill revises that formula to take account of the cost of hired hands. The result is to give slightly higher price levels for farm products that require a lot of hand labor — meat, milk, tobacco and so on — and somewhat lower levels for corn, wheat, cotton and other row crops.

The senate passed its bill by a voice vote.

The next step is for the senate and house to try to iron out the differences in their bills. These are so basic, however, that no quick compromise is in sight.

Chairman Harold Cooley (D-NC) of the house agriculture committee predicted that the house conferees will insist upon full 90 percent support of basic crops, with the possible exception of corn, where farmers agree to acreage allotments and marketing quotas.

Scottish Lord Gets Nobel Peace Prize

OSLO, NORWAY (AP)—Baron Boyd Orr, Scottish former chief of the United Nations Food and Agriculture organization, Wednesday night was awarded the Nobel Peace prize for 1949.

(Informed of the award at his Scottish home, Orr said that he would use his prize of more than $30,000 to help establish a federal government for the world.)

SUI, Hancher Prepare for Homecoming Weekend Festivities

THE TRADITIONAL HOMECOMING CORN MONUMENT was unveiled Wednesday afternoon after it was moved from the site of construction to the west approach to Old Capitol. Standing about 27 feet high, the monument was being completed Wednesday night by its builders, members of the SUI Associated Students of Engineering. Details of the monument had been secret until Wednesday.

FIRST SALE OF A '49 HOMECOMING BADGE was made Wednesday afternoon to SUI Pres. Virgil M. Hancher by Tailfeather Margaret Baker, 23, Evanston, Ill. Students will be able to buy badges beginning 7:30 a.m. today. Miss Baker wears the new Tailfeather uniform being worn for the first time on the campus this morning, when the sale of badges began.

Stop And Think —

An anonymous article in the Oct. 15 issue of Collier's magazine has an interesting point. The article is titled "Confessions of a Congressman's Son," and points up the fact that congressmen are becoming less respected than justices of the peace in country towns where speed traps are laid.

The author of the article tells of his father's 20 years in congress, a service from which his exit was in a casket when he died on the job.

This father was like many congressmen, according to the article. He went to Washington with a desire to serve his constituents and emerged in less than half of his time in the congress embittered at the amount of time spent foolishly trying to please his constituents who held the reins—VOTES.

The story is told of the many demands made on a congressman's time, energy, and even his pocketbook in the form of contributions for worthwhile causes. It also tells how the congressman is forced to compromise his principles for the sake of getting votes.

Eventually, all congressmen wake up and find themselves tied to the legislative body, unable to make as much money at any other job, even if they could hold a job at all outside the government.

The congressman is worried, and well he might be. In the disappearance of prestige accompanying the congressional seat, he sees danger that the strength of the republic may be undermined.

This is the point in the whole article that bears watching: is it true we so bedevil our congressmen that they have no time to be real public servants? Do we keep them so busy with trivial requests for their time and attention that they have no time to attend committee meetings—where the real work of congress is done?

The answer is probably an all-to-frequent "yes." We write our congressman and tell him how we want him to vote on a certain issue. And our congressman is glad to have our thoughts on the matter. We put him there to serve us, and he wants to know what we think about the issues.

But should we expect him to answer all the letters we write him? He may have one or two secretaries, but that is scarcely enough to answer all the mail an active congressman receives.

And aren't we far too often talked out of our natural laziness and convinced that we should write our congressman—convinced by some persuasive speaker who's looking out for his own interests? Again, we suspect the answer too frequently is "yes."

What's the matter with our congressman and why do we sometimes get lawmakers of low caliber? For one answer take a look at what happens to the freshman in both the senate and the house. They are shelved for the first term or so until they get a chance to move in from the edge of the circle we have produced by the seniority system.

The congressman in the Collier's piece found the seniority system the most effective throttler of good congressmen the nation has yet devised. An example can be found in recent years without continual reference to the anonymous servant in the periodical.

Consider the case of the two southern congressmen, John Rankin and Theodore Bilbo. Both were admitted by more than one congressman of the same party to be bottlenecks in the throat of progress. And Sen. Kenneth McKellar was so old when the senate replaced him as president of the higher chamber that he often lost track of the discussion and had to be prompted on the proceedings.

We need to stop and take careful stock of the situation in which we elect the men who make our laws. We can elect the best men in the world, but unless we give them a chance to serve us adequately, we can expect little better than mediocre performances.

The Hoover bill is one suggestion to eliminate some of the evils of our present system of government. Maybe we can find some other ways. It pays to look at the situation, especially now when the political structure of the world is undergoing a vast inspection and some changes.

This 'Rough' Football —

A post-season football game to end all post-season football games is currently under consideration by a group of fans in Orange, Tex.

The stunt has probably been proposed with tongue-in-cheek—perhaps as a counter to the absurd number of football games that are played each year during the Yuletide season.

The Orange fans have cooked up a bowl game that would probably rival the Rose bowl for pomp and ceremony. The only shortcoming in the set-up would be finding teams to compete.

The Lacey bowl, as the Orange-Screwball club would call it, would see Texas Christian oppose Washington on New Year's Day.

According to a spokesman for the Screwballs, Arkansas is reported to have played "too rough" against Texas Christian last week. Washington has been howling over the treatment that Notre Dame dished out in another game two weeks ago. Since both teams seem to prefer a mild brand of football, a Texas Christian-Washington meeting seems appropriate for a lacy bowl contest. Both teams lost their games to their "overly-rugged" opponents.

Suitable lace-trimmed uniforms would be provided by the Screwballs, the spokesman said. Tea would be served during each time out.

The clincher for the proposed extravaganza is the attendance regulation. Only women would be allowed to watch the game.

Carrier Again —

It looks like we're going to hear more about the navy's super-carrier. There appears to be two explanations—neither very creditable—to the uproar the big carrier has caused.

Either it is nearly useless, as Sec. of Defense Johnson declares, and was merely a naval attempt at gaining prestige in the unification program or it's a valuable wartime asset as Admiral Blandy claims, and was discarded due to defense department politics.

'Calling No. 22' —

It isn't at all uncommon to have several doctors paged at a Saturday afternoon football game. Maybe four times during a single afternoon, "Dr. So-and-So" will be instructed to call a hospital or his office.

This generally leads to a great deal of merriment among fans. "Better hurry, doc—somebody's got a sliver in his big toe" or some equally side-splitting remark greets a doctor's summons.

The doctor finds the whole business more than a bit embarrassing. Then there are those who claim that doctors get some cheap publicity through the paging device.

The Nashville, Tenn., medical association came up with a solution recently that seems to make everybody happy.

Members of the medical society were assigned numbers and the doctors were paged accordingly. "No. 22, call your office," keeps secret the identity of the doctor, yet the message is conveyed.

The idea has gained immediate favor in Tennessee and there seems to be no reason why it couldn't work in Iowa City.

Joe Enjoys the Game

Young fathers, take note. Here's a couple of inventions you'll be interested in, and I think the U.S. should stake claims right now before Russia has the chance.

If you're falling your economics course, or if you and the little wife are on the verge of divorce because of jagged nerves caused by Junior's screaming, you should try a remedy far more sure-fire than anything Dorothy Dix can offer.

An enterprising young engineer-inventor has combined modern science with ancient needs, and produced a device which should do wonders for Junior's three-cornered zone and for your stability of temperament.

Into his offspring's diapers, he has sewed two small metal plates which are highly sensitive to humidity changes.

Now when a change is in order in this fellow's house, and when the screams are beginning to attract the neighbors, you'll never hear:

"Maybe he's wet."

"No, dear, I don't think so. I just changed him."

"Well, what's wrong?"

"How should I... Ooops! Well, maybe he does need changing."

You'll never hear this time-wasting chit-chat, because when a change is needed those humidity-sensitive plates telegraph an impulse to a neon sign which lights up on the top of the crib.

But thinking back over this, I wonder if it might not cause the child to be irritable. It must be a heck of a job to house-break 'em when they've learned to depend on a red light to make needs known.

IF YOU'RE one of the fathers who stumble up stairs and into class rooms every morning, exhausted from getting up at feeding times during the night, here's one for you.

Another young inventor has attached a microphone to a crib. When the youngster squalls, a relay switch is closed, which in turn lights a coil and warms a bottle of milk.

At the same time the milk reaches the proper temperature, a soft alarm rings and the room lights flash on so the father won't stub his toe in getting to the bottle.

And get this. His wife added a feature. It's an amplification with ear phones for the alarm. And guess who wears the ear phones in that family? That's right, Father!

OVERHEARD AT THE FOOTBALL GAME

Boy — I wish I hadn't worn this hot coat.

Sweet and Tender — Take it off and lay it there on the steps beside you.

Ole' Cautious, I'm afraid somebody'll step on it and break my bottle.

FRETTING, ISN'T IT... when you find a motor-bike or a Crosley in what you took, from the distance, to be an open parking spot?

... when you park a shoe lace the second time?

Six Board Jobs Listed At Student Employment

Six board job openings are listed at the student employment bureau office in room 111, university hall, Director Robert Ballantyne said Wednesday.

These six board jobs were the first listed with the bureau since classes started, he said.

Several odd jobs such as leaf raking, putting up storm windows and housework for girls are still available at the office, Ballantyne said.

Some observers think it will be a long time before enough money is accumulated to start appropriating it. They think the miners still have a long wait ahead.

Interpreting the News —

India's Nehru Is Central Figure of Entire Orient

By J. M. ROBERTS JR.
(AP Foreign Affairs Analyst)

By any number of definitions, Jawaharlal Nehru is one of the greatest men in the world.

By personality, education, and the inheritance of the mantle of Mohandas Gandhi; by a philosophy developed through 13 years of contemplation as a political prisoner in British jails; by his position as first prime minister of a free India which bids fair to pioneer a great industrial revolution in Asia, Nehru is the central figure of the entire Orient.

It was Nehru who applied much of the necessary practicality for the success of Gandhi's spiritual drive for the freedom of India. In this role, and with Gandhi gone, he is endowed with a warm and personal popularity among millions of people which has seldom been approached by any man.

When he speaks, his audiences gather not by the fives and tens of thousands, but by the hundreds of thousands. When he moves about he attracts throngs intent on something close to worship.

The matter - of - factness of Americans will make his first visit to the United States vastly different. But the United States government is making every effort to see that Nehru gets a favorable impression.

The prime minister, of course, is not unaware of the differences he will find here.

His sister was formerly her country's chief delegate at Lake Success and is now its ambassador to Washington. She is Mrs. Vijayalakshmi Pandit, who really gets around, and ranks high among the world's attractive women.

His visit is billed as one of goodwill, but its implications cut the paths of worldwide foreign policy.

Nehru, although he by no means comes begging, will meet people who can talk to him about his country's financial needs and prospective economic development. It is possible that during his stay he will see his country voted a seat in the 11 - nation security council of the United Nations.

But overshadowing everything else is the fact that Nehru's India is a non-belligerent in the cold war.

He has said repeatedly that he will not become involved in the power politics being played by the Russian and western blocs. He and his sister are both moderate Socialists—Marxists but not even remotely connected with the type of communism which Russia's rulers have turned into a weapon in international politics.

Communist disturbers get short shrift — jail — in India. But Madame Pandit found nothing during her term as ambassador to Moscow to make her — or lead him — into taking sides in the cold war.

Yet the western powers are anxious to see a far eastern line drawn against Communist expansion — to have the Orientals themselves form this line.

Very little if anything can be done about organizing such defense, or about things like a Pacific pact, unless Nehru takes the lead.

There is a great deal of work to be done with Nehru.

TO THE EDITOR:

Having read the letter concerning seat saving at home football games, we, the occupants of Hillcrest cottage 48, would like to express our sentiments.

We are all transfer students and, until this past week, were ignorant of the ways with which this university's extra-curricular activities are run.

At the Iowa-Illinois game two members of our cottage secured seats on the fifty-yard line in the student section. How did we do it? By arriving at the stadium at 11:15 a.m.

Why did we resort to doing this so-called low deed? We have learned to follow the norm set forth by the students here — that of first-come-first-served and be sure to get enough for your friends. This not only applies to football games, but other activities as well.

Three different examples have forced us to come to this conclusion.

1. At the UCLA game we arrived at 12:30 p.m. in an attempt to get seats before the 1:30 p.m. game time. We were told that there were no seats left, but when we crossed the field we saw many vacant seats in the student section.

Were these seats being saved, or were their occupants "just up getting a coke?" — which is the over-used excuse.

2. Some fellows attempt to secure seats for the Northwestern game for their parents. They found that there were a few seats in the end zone, or that they could buy seats from other students at a high premium.

Did these "scalping" students just happen to buy extra seats?

3. A couple of the fellows tried to buy tickets to the Homecoming dance at 11:15 a.m. Monday morning. They found that the tickets had all been sold, but for a price up to $20 they could secure a $3.60 ticket.

Just an accident that some people had one or two extra tickets?

These examples show that the first-come-first-served-and-be-sure-to-get-enough-for-your-friends system has really got a great start at Iowa.

Since we learned what to expect and how to play this university game, two fellows went out two hours and 15 minutes early to secure decent seats for six at the last game.

Also at future activities we will be sure to have someone in line so that we will be able to get tickets at regular prices.

We admit that two wrongs do not make a right, but at Iowa the case seems to be the survival of the earliest!

Coal Miners Will Collect Salaries Owed for 19 Years

BENTON, ILL. (AP)—About 500 coal miners considered Wednesday they had a pretty good chance of collecting a month's salary owed them for 19 years.

Their hopes lie in the discovery of oil on property owned by the defunct Franklin county mine company.

The company went broke in 1930 and missed a couple of payrolls.

The miners made claims totaling about $20,000, plus interest, which now amounts to about 86 percent of that.

Their claims were recognized under a reorganization plan adopted several years ago to administer the company's unfinished business.

At the time some of the miners weren't too optimistic about receiving their back pay.

But then the situation brightened. Oil was brought in on some of the 5,000 acres of land the company owns. Eight wells, including some of the biggest in the area, have been paying royalties for more than a year.

The miners have to line up for their money.

They are ahead of common creditors and common stockholders. But they'll have to wait until bondholders collect some $550,000 in capital and interest.

Three trustees under the jurisdiction of the Franklin county circuit court are expected to issue certificates of indebtedness to all creditors for their share in the oil royalties.

The certificate will be redeemable if and when the trustees get

Russ A-Blast Early: Bradley

AKRON, OHIO (AP)—Gen. Omar Bradley admitted Wednesday the Russian atomic explosion occurred sooner than his military high command expected but he asserted that defense plans "are well under way."

The chairman of the joint chiefs of staff said that what he termed "red atom day" makes it necessary that the United States review its rate of military expenditure and "choose carefully the further armaments of defense."

Departing from the customary diplomatic reference only to "an aggressor nation," usually used by American military leaders in public addresses, Bradley spoke of the Russians by name and speculated on their intentions.

Estimates by the joint chiefs of staff on when the Russians would have the atomic bomb ranged from 1950 to 1952, Bradley said, but "their atomic explosion" preceded the earliest of their estimates by several months.

In an address prepared by the American Forestry association, Bradley also said his staff made estimates of the time Russia could have enough atomic bombs "to influence the course of a modern war." But he did not disclose that estimate.

Then he said of the Russians: "They could be foolhardy enough to launch an atomic attack with only a handful of atomic bombs. But of all the people of the earth, they are students of force and of power in war, and should understand clearly the disastrous results of such a gruesome error."

"In the meantime, I earnestly hope that they will see the difficulty and tremendous expense of atomic manufacture, and come forward to join us in international control of such a weapon."

Student Tells About — European Money Troubles

— After Summer Visit

By VIRGINIA BOYLE

England's devaluation of the pound was more important to Miriam Showalter, A3, Kokomo, Ind., than it was to most people. Miriam was stranded in England with only one wearable skirt and three blouses at the time the devaluation was announced.

After a plane flight scheduled to leave England Sept. 8 was cancelled, Miriam and her girl friends decided to tour more of Europe.

They saw Italy for a second time, visited Spain and France, and arrived in England on their way to Ireland and New York.

Miriam's baggage was to have been sent from Fribourg to Paris where she planned to pick it up on her way home. After six hectic days of search from station to station, hotel to hotel, she discovered after calling the express office in Fribourg that "we're just getting read to send it this morning."

"We hadn't paid our room rent at the time the pound was devalued, so we gained money," she said. It meant that she could purchase a badly needed coat and some other articles of clothing.

Miriam was on her way back to the United States after attending the University of Fribourg's first summer session in Fribourg, Switzerland. She was the only SUI representative among 40 students from the United States.

The SUI political science major enrolled in a course called social and economic conditions of Europe. She also studied European history.

Visiting professors from all over Europe taught at the school. Each course had three different professors who lectured during each two-week session of the course.

"There were no textbooks," Miriam said. Although the lectures were in French, English resumes were given.

"I had only one year of French in my freshman year," she explained, "and didn't realize how little of the conversation I would be able to understand."

There were no exams at Fribourg, but persons wishing to transfer credit took exams each two weeks, Miriam said.

schools have one complete examination system prior to graduation but none before that time.

The professors were amazed that the Americans attended classes so regularly. "The attitude toward education there is what you personally want to get out of it," Miriam noted.

About half of the American students were men. Many were studying under the GI bill, Miriam said.

Miriam, who enrolled here over a week late, is studying French this year in preparation for returning to Europe at a later date.

The exchange value of American money confused the girls on their first trip through Italy.

"We tried to barter, just like the book said, but ended up with what actually turned out to be a five or ten cent decrease in the price," she said.

On their second trip through Italy the situation was different. The girls confused the dealers by throwing all kinds of exchange at them. They knew the values of each country's money and capitalized upon it.

Miriam was surprised to see a Communist demonstration in Italy. Demonstrators marched by the train in Naples carrying the red flag and wearing red caps.

"We didn't know what was going on in world affairs. You had to get up at 7 a.m. in order to buy an American newspaper before they were all gone. Most of the time we didn't get to see them," she added.

'Loot' Collected on Trip Abroad

(Daily Iowan Photo)

EXAMINING THE "LOOT" collected on her trip abroad this summer is Miriam Showalter, A3, Kokomo, Ind. She attended the University of Fribourg's summer session in Fribourg, Switzerland, as one of the 40 students from the United States. Included in her souvenirs are three bottles of perfume—Sur Tes Pas, Odysee and Revetry—from Paris; wine-colored scuffs with hemp soles from San Sebastian, Spain, which are worn for shoes by the people there, according to Miriam; hats from Switzerland; a purse and a pair of navy blue, suede-lined gloves from Italy; white wool gloves from Switzerland; a checked shirt and two wool scarves—one a cashmere—from Scotland; a silk scarf from Italy, and a watch from Switzerland.

Says Mail Overseas Christmas Gifts Early

If your Christmas shopping list includes friends or relatives overseas, you won't have 62 shopping days until Christmas like the rest of us.

Postmaster Walter J. Barrow advises Iowa City residents to send overseas packages even as early as this week.

In sending packages to armed forces personnel and their families and authorized United States civilians who receive their mail through army and fleet post office numbers, mark each package "Christmas Parcel" and mail it between Oct. 15 and Nov. 15.

Packages for navy and marine corps personnel in the most remote regions should be mailed by at least Saturday of this week. Parcels going to Japan, Korea and the Pacific islands should be mailed by Nov. 1.

All Christmas cards mailed overseas should be sent first-class before Nov. 15.

Limits on size and weight for overseas packages are the same, in most cases, as for those in the United States. The postoffice department strongly advises, however, that the packages be carefully and sturdily wrapped with permanent, legible addresses, Barrow said.

School for Handicapped Observes Anniversary

The hospital school for severely handicapped children today will observe its first anniversary of operation, Director W. B. Schoenbaum announced Wednesday.

Open house will be held today at the hospital school from 3:30 to 5 p.m., in observance of the anniversary.

During the past year, the school has expanded from no pupils to its present high of 27 pupils. Of these, 22 are dormitory students and five are day pupils who return home each day.

"Children at the hospital school receive care, education and treatment," Schoenbaum said.

Three teachers, a senior teacher, an occupational therapist, a physical therapist, a speech therapist and a recreational therapist, added this fall, are on the school staff, he said.

Children from 3 to 10 years old are accepted in the school by application from the family, a doctor or a welfare agency. Age exceptions are made in the case of day pupils, he added.

Plans have been made to expand the hospital to an 80-bed unit in the future.

Construction on the first unit of the $750,000 hospital will begin in the spring, the SUI architect's office announced last week.

Medical director of the school is Dr. R.R. Rembold, who supervises the health program.

The hospital school makes a valuable contribution, aside from the care of pupils, in the training of graduate students and practice teachers, Schoenbaum said.

Close coordination is maintained between the school and University hospitals. Before a child is admitted to the hospital school, he is given a thorough physical and mental examination at the hospitals, Schoenbaum said.

Seek Front-Line Replacements As Hawks Prepare for Indiana

Defense Stressed In Hawkeye Drill

Coach Eddie Anderson put his Hawkeye football squad through an extended defensive drill against Indiana plays Wednesday in preparation for the Homecoming battle here Saturday.

Anderson said the tackle and guard situation still is critical but that the reserves are making a great effort to fill the gap left by injuries to Earl Banks, Bob Lage and Hubert Johnston.

FRYAUF will miss the Indiana game.

"Sure we are thin there, but some of the men are developing and will be better than they were against Illinois," Anderson said.

A definite backfield alignment is uncertain but the backs have received plenty of offensive drill this week in an effort to get the most out of a potentially strong attack.

Don Commack, sophomore left halfback who has averaged 4.5 yards per play and caught three passes for the 67 yards, will see a lot of action. Jerry Faske, Don E. Woodhouse, Don Fryauf, Mearl Naber and Bob Longley are ready to go.

The Hoosiers will arrive in Cedar Rapids Friday and will come to the Iowa stadium by bus Saturday morning.

Fields, Braysley Tie In Fall Golf Tourney

This year's edition of the annual fall golf tournament in which prospects for the following spring compete has been completed, Coach Bucky O'Connor stated Wednesday.

Les Fields, a 1948 major "I" winner, and Bob Braysley, on the 1949 freshman squad, tied for laurels with identical 279's for the 72 holes.

Bill Ferguson, who, like Braysley, will be eligible for varsity play for the first time this season, came in next to the winners.

Termed the three outstanding freshmen in the meet were John Crabbe, the 1949 Iowa Junior champion, Jack Stewart, who advanced to the quarterfinals of the State amateur tourney this summer, and Elmore Collins. These men won't be on the varsity until 1951.

Bob Goode, Gene Slack, Dick Anderson, Jim Twoocod, Chuck Kromer, Bob Ackley and Vernon O'Reilly weren't able to compete on enough holes because of time limitations and could not be considered for the championship.

The only 1949 letter winners who will still be eligible for the 1950 season, Skip Carlson and Gene Mathes, didn't compete.

Homecoming Scene Of Greatest Wins

When an Iowa football fan hears the word "Homecoming," he recalls some of the Hawkeyes' greatest victories. The 38th of these fall festivals is next for the team.

Indiana, the Saturday foe, has never won at Homecoming, losing in 1941 and 1947 and tying in 1931. However, records show that homecomers have watched only 16 Iowa victories, against 18 defeats and three ties.

Three games of the past decade stand out above the other victories:

In 1947 Al DiMarco completed 10 of 14 passes for 198 yards, three of his passes going to Em Tunnell for touchdowns, as Indiana was beaten, 27-14.

Tom Farmer hurled to Bill Burkett and Iwca's 6-0 win spoiled undefeated Wisconsin's title dream of 1942.

Passes also defeated Minnesota power in 1939. Nile Kinnick tossed to Bill Green in the end zone with four minutes left to eclipse the previous 9-0 Minnesota lead, 13-9.

Charles 5-1 Favorite Over Valentino Friday

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Ezzard Charles and Pat Valentino tapered off as the deadline for their title bout drew near.

Professional odds-makers have made Charles a 5-1 favorite and it's even money Valentino won't be around to answer the bell for the 10th round.

It's a good money go for Charles. He gets $40,000, or the option of 35 percent of the gate. The fight may gross around $150,000. Valentino is guaranteed $8,500.

Gopher Center Best Lineman

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — A pleasant young fellow whose keen football sense puts him in the opposing team's backfield quite a bit has been chosen as lineman of the week.

Named in The Associated Press' third poll of the season was Caltion Tonnemaker, Minnesota's burly center. Chief reason for his selection was his play in the Northwestern game last Saturday, won by Minnesota, 21-7.

"It was Tonnemaker who wrecked us in that first half," said Don Heap, assistant Northwestern coach. The Gophers led, 14-0, at halftime.

Heap wasn't exaggerating. In his line-backing position on defense, "Tonny" smelled out virtually every play Northwestern tried and made more than his share of tackles.

"Naturally, I'm pleased—I don't imagine I deserve the honor," Tonnemaker said. "But it's really nice. I've been watching that lineman of the week but I never thought I'd make it."

Tonnemaker, co-captain of the Gophers, is termed a "very good leader" by the coaching staff at Minnesota, and that quality is "the best team spirit in several years."

Tonnemaker won the designation over Lou Creekmur, William and Mary tackle; Bob Jablonski, Yale guard, and J.D. Ison, Baylor end.

Winners of the first two polls were Howard Houston, Harvard tackle, and Art Weiner, North Carolina end. Earl Banks, Iowa Guard, was runner-up last week.

A Hawkeye 'Pass Grabber'

BOB MCKENZIE, 185-pound senior from Tonkawa, Okla., will captain the Hawkeyes on offense against Indiana Saturday in the Homecoming game here. He and Teammate Jack Dittmer are known as the Iowa offensive ends, both being among the top pass grabbers in the conference.

McKenzie Prefers Defense But —

Senior Wingman Highly Regarded Pass Receiver

One of the Hawkeyes' star pass-catching ends, Bob McKenzie, frankly states that he would rather play defense.

"Defense is more fun. I would like to back up the line or play defensive end, but the coaches say no," the co-captain for Saturday's Indiana game says.

End Coach Bob Fitch, once a great wingman at Minnesota, jokingly tells McKenzie that he can play defense on the last play of his last game. But that's as far as the defense talk goes and for good reason.

McKenzie, the Tonkawa, Okla., senior who has played defense for only a portion of a college game, has caught five passes in Iowa's first three games, and two have gone for touchdowns. Last year he grabbed 22 for 382 yards, but did no scoring.

Last year McKenzie and Jack Dittmer accounted for 42 passes caught and 756 yards gained and there is no reason to believe that they will be halted this year.

In his first season, 1946, he received only a minor letter, being rated behind Dittmer, Bob Phillips, Tony Guzowski and the Shoener twins.

McKenzie started one game in 1947, caught one pass, picked up a kick-off and was tackled by Wisconsin's "Red" Wilson. The injury ended Mac's career for that season.

He hit his stride in 1948, starting offensively in every game. He immediately became a marked man for opposing pass-defenders. His only defensive play was for a few minutes against Marquette.

DYER TO RETURN

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Owner Fred Saigh of the St. Louis Cardinals said Wednesday that Manager Eddie Dyer will definitely skipper the team again next year and may have some good new material to work with.

Indiana in Top Condition for Iowa Contest

BLOOMINGTON, IND. — The Hoosiers of Indiana university were fighting for starting positions with pre-season enthusiasm Wednesday as the return of Left Half back Al Tuttle put them at their greatest strength of the football year.

"Indiana will go to Iowa in the best physical shape of the season unless we are unfortunate enough to get some new injuries this week," stated head Hoosier grid mentor Clyde B. Smith Wednesday.

There is an outside chance Indiana's football team will have regular right end, Joe Bartkiewicz, for the first time this fall. Jerry Van Ooyen, sophomore fullback, who suffered a rib injury 10 days before the season opener will also see his initiatory action.

"We will be better off all the way around," Smith said Wednesday, with his fingers crossed. He had reason for this good luck gesture because by the time Indiana met Ohio State's eleven his squad was minus brilliant prospects.

The clouds broke this week for Smith, and he has now caught a glimpse of silver in the Hoosier grid picture. He is again playing a role in a grid renaissance at Indiana. His first part was as an assistant to Coach Bo McMillin in 1934.

This doesn't mean that Indiana suddenly will climb aboard the victory wagon.

"It doesn't happen that way," he says. "A sick football team doesn't get well in one game or one season. Often it doesn't recover in two seasons or even three. The evidence is all around us — if you care to look for it. But we saw some signs Saturday against TCU."

"We were more alert and we were smarter. Our defensive game was improved; our tackling was more savage."

"There was considerably more poise on the part of the team and individuals."

"The pass protection was re-lected in the fact that we hit the first eight passes.

"There were individual displays of courage all along the line."

"We feel more confident now than at any time in the past two years."

Tuttle, Indiana's regular left halfback who returns to action for the Iowa game, still paces the Hoosier offensive with a 5-yard average. Tuttle has gained 89 yards on 18 jaunts.

Quarterback Nick Sebek is nearing his 1947 passing standard with 23 completions in 50 pitches. He hit his first eight against Texas Christian, sending his passing yardage to 258 for three contests.

Top Czech Police Jail Thousands, Aim to Destroy Underground

PRAGUE (AP) — A police roundup of private firearms started Wednesday night in Communist-ruled Czechoslovakia, the scene of thousands of arrests in the last 10 days.

Communists as well as non-Communists were reported required to surrender their pistols and hunting weapons. Even air rifles were taken from non-Communists.

Coincident with the police campaigns, Communist pressure developed against the United States information service in Prague. The U.S. embassy protested vainly.

Arrests continued, though on a diminishing scale.

Prague citizens who went shopping found the old owners of some stores gone and Communist-controlled national administrators in charge. This strengthened reports that the roundup was aimed chiefly at wiping out what is left of the small business and middle class here.

Reliable sources said that arrests in the provinces outside the capital were aimed at picking up persons suspected of membership in an underground organization. The next step, these sources said, is to connect this underground with the Roman Catholic church and the stage trials.

These sources said many of those picked up by police were being sent to labor camps for two-year terms, but can be released after six months at the discretion of government authorities.

They are being seized under a law authorizing imprisonment of so-called "non-workers."

The security police are making spot inspections in Prague restaurants and coffee houses. Patrols jot down the names of anyone lacking identification cards and work papers, apparently for use in future roundups.

The regional action committee of the Communist-dominated national front approved measures authorizing more widespread transfer of workers from less productive lines into vital heavy industries.

Police Hunt Pals Of Missing Actress

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The mother of missing actress Jean Spangler, returning home from a vacation, Wednesday said her daughter would not have gone out with a total stranger and her statement sent police searching for acquaintances of the striking beauty.

Mrs. Florence Spangler emphasized that her 27-year-old daughter was careful of casual meetings with men she did not know well. The mother had been on a visit to Lexington, Ky., when the actress disappeared last Friday.

"She was very careful about her friends," Mrs. Spangler told police. "She could only have gone with someone she knew very well. She would never strike up a friendship with a stranger."

Student Organizations To Discuss National Association Tonight

The student council has invited representatives from almost every SUI student organization to attend a discussion on the National Student Association tonight.

Council president Dick Dice, A4, Marion, announced that letters had been sent to all campus groups, except honorary and housing units, inviting their participation in council's discussion of NSA.

The discussion will be part of a regular council meeting in the house chamber of Old Capitol. NSA matters will be taken up at 7:30 p.m. following an hour set aside for other council business, Dice said.

Honorary and housing units will be represented indirectly through other organizations, Dice explained.

After tonight's discussion, the council will vote on whether to continue affiliation with NSA nationally.

Four SUI students who attended the NSA congress at Champaign, Ill., in August, will outline various aspects of the NSA program.

All SUI students are members of NSA, Dice explained, and for that reason council is interested in getting the opinions of non-council members about the national organization.

Mary Louise Anneberg, A3, Carroll, who spent part of last summer in Europe on a student tour, will report on what she saw of NSA's international activities. NSA sponsors many tours each summer with reduced rates for students.

Part of the council's regular business meeting, which starts at 6:30 p.m., will be devoted to November student trip plans.

U.S. 457 Years Later — If Columbus Only Knew

By DICK JACKMAN

When Christopher Columbus first looked on the "western world" 457 years ago Wednesday, there were no bands to greet him or flags unfurled to honor his arrival.

Wednesday, Iowa City, like the rest of the nation, again paid tribute to the man responsible for the discovery of America.

It was balmy here Columbus Day just as it was four and one-half centuries earlier when Columbus first set foot on the new world.

Low-Born Woman To Fill Ambassador Post at Denmark

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mrs. Eugenie Anderson of Red Wing, Minn., was nominated Wednesday as ambassador to Denmark.

A native of Adair, Iowa, she would be the first woman to hold that rank in the diplomatic service.

President Truman sent the nomination to the Democratic national committee from Minnesota to the senate.

Active in the Democratic party since 1944, Mrs. Anderson has long been identified with the league of women voters.

While other women have served this country as minister — Mrs. Perle Mesta, former Washington hostess — Mrs. Anderson is the only one this country has ever had with the full rank of ambassador.

Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen was minister to Denmark before the mission there was raised to embassy rank.

The post in Denmark has been vacant since Josiah Marvel Jr., left it some months ago.

Mrs. Anderson was born in Iowa in 1909 and is a blonde. She is of Scotch-English ancestry.

Wednesday, Iowa City, like the rest of the nation, again paid tribute to the man responsible for the discovery of America.

It was balmy here Columbus Day just as it was four and one-half centuries earlier when Columbus first set foot on the new world.

That 1492 date, probably the first one school children pick up and the last one they forget, ended some 18 years of hopeful planning by Columbus, or so historians say.

Little did the gallant Christopher realize, as he herded the now famous Nina, Pinta and Santa Maria across the unknown Atlantic, that this newly discovered land would someday produce such marvels as automobiles, Babe Ruth, the new look, atomic bombs, the two-pants suit, or soapless suds.

Historians tell us that Columbus spent most of his life in poverty and waged almost alone his struggle to prove to men of his day that one could reach India from Europe by going west.

On his voyage Columbus overcame bad weather, doubt and threatened mutiny by his crew. But early on the morning of Oct. 12, over two months after the departure from Spain, a cannon was fired as the first piece of land loomed ahead.

The Italian navigator never did profit from his discovery and died with none of the riches which were being uncovered in the new world. The modern American owes much to "the discoverer," but wouldn't he shiver if he could see us now?

Goethe Festival Symphony — 'Faust' Admirably Presented

— Says Reviewer

By DONALD KEY

Music based on the story of "Faust" by Johann Wolfgang von Goethe was enthusiastically received by a capacity audience of about 1,800 in the Iowa Union last night.

The concert, played by the SUI Symphony orchestra under the direction of Prof. Philip G. Clapp, opened the SUI Goethe Centennial Festival commemorating the 200th birthday of the famous German poet-philosopher.

Major work of the evening was heard "Faust Symphony" by Franz Liszt, which was admirably presented by the orchestra with full tone climaxes and lyric solo passages.

Of special note were the solos and duets played by the violin, viola, flute and clarinet soloists in the second movement. The musicians performed expressively and in sympathy with the feminine character of the music which so ably exemplifies "Gretchen."
