SUI's Dean Seashore Dies; Public Service Here Sunday

Dean Emeritus Carl E. Seashore, former dean of SUI's graduate college and internationally famous psychologist, died Sunday in Lewiston, Idaho.

The ashes of Dean Seashore will be brought to Iowa City where a public memorial service will be conducted Sunday at 3 p.m. in the Iowa Union.

Death followed a stroke suffered while Dean Seashore was visiting a son in Lewiston. He was 83 years old.

On recommendation of Pres. Virgil Hancher, the state board of education last December conferred on Dean Seashore the title "Distinguished Service Professor."

Pres. Hancher Monday said of Dean Seashore's death, "We at the university have been deeply saddened by the death of Dean Emeritus Seashore. He was a great man, an eminent scholar and an unforgettable humanitarian. His death is a grave loss to the university, the community in which he has lived for many years, and to the numerous students who continuously sought his sound counsel up to the time of his recent illness."

"As one of the truly great scholars in his field, Dean Seashore contributed much to the development of psychology from an offshoot of philosophy to the science which it is today. Rarely does a man in the span of a lifetime see the accomplishment of so much."

"Dean Seashore served as dean of the graduate college for more than thirty years. During his administration he saw this college grow from humble beginnings to a distinguished place in American higher education."

"His memory will long live among the thousands of students whom he inspired and guided through half a century of unexcelled leadership and untiring faithful service."

SUI Physics Prof. G.W. Stewart said of the dean, "The university can wisely describe Dean Carl E. Seashore as a great man. For he possessed in an unusual degree those qualities which an educational institution most admires."

Seashore came to SUI in 1897 as an assistant professor of philosophy. He became a professor of psychology in 1902, heading the department from 1905 to 1937. He then received the title of dean emeritus and in 1942 became dean pro tem.

The dean helped originate the Army Alpha test and organize selective service plans during World War I, when he was a member of a commission to organize mental tests and personnel procedures.

The dean's "Measures of Musical Talent" was one of his greatest contributions to musical psychology. His "Seashore Measures" appeared in 1919 after years of intensive research. These have been widely used in high schools throughout the nation.

Dean Seashore was born in Morunda, Sweden, Jan. 28, 1866, coming to this country at the age of three.

He received his B.A. degree in 1891 from Gustavus Adolphus College in 1891 and a doctorate at Yale in 1895.

Funeral services are being held in Lewiston today at the Vassar-Rawls chapel with the Rev. Douglas Vance, of the Congregational - Presbyterian church, officiating.

The family has requested that no flowers be sent and asks that money be given instead to the Carl E. Seashore Memorial fund in the SUI school of religion.

Dean Seashore is survived by his three sons, Robert, head of the psychology department at Northwestern university; Carl, professor of engineering in the extension division at Pennsylvania State college, and Sigfrid, attorney in Lewiston, Idaho. His wife died last August.

High Court Agrees To Rule on Rents

WASHINGTON (AP) — The supreme court Monday agreed to decide whether the 1949 rent control law is unconstitutional.

The key question the court will decide is the validity of the "local option" section which permits decontrol of rents either by state legislatures or by local governing boards with the approval of state governors.

Thousands of rental units have been taken off the control list under the provision since the law went into operation April 1.

President Truman has halted the statute, which expires next June 30, as a major accomplishment of the Democratic-controlled 81st congress.

Uphold Medina . . .

WASHINGTON (AP) — The supreme court Monday upheld Judge Harold Medina's action in jailing three Communist leaders for contempt during the turbulent New York trial that led to conviction of 11 top U.S. Communists.

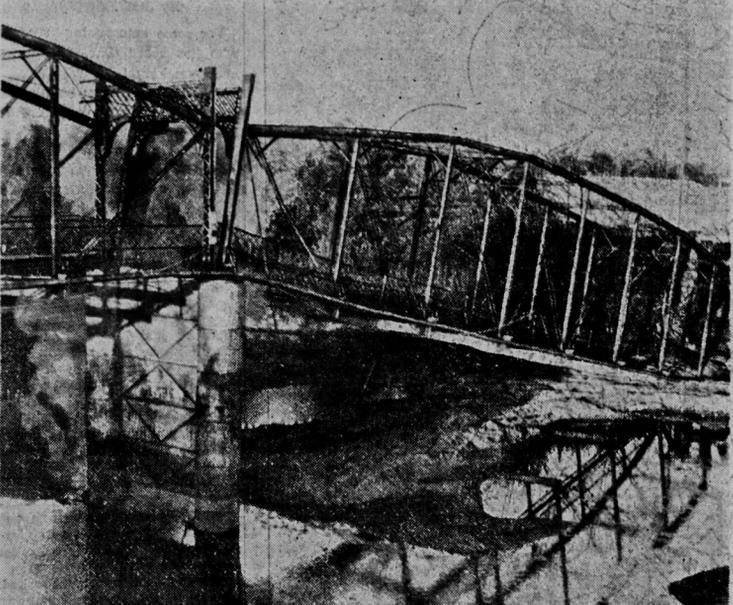

The high court acted indirectly. By a 7 to 1 vote it refused to hear appeals by the trio. The brief order gave no reasons for the decision.

CREWMEN RESCUED

SEATTLE, WASH. (AP) — Seventeen crewmen, adrift in two whaleboats on "pretty rough seas" for four hours after the 1343-ton Panamanian lumber schooner Salina Cruz burned and sank off the Washington coast, Monday night were rescued by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife vessel Black Douglas.

Old Benton Street Bridge Blasted

THERE SHE GOES! Workmen from the Jensen construction company, Des Moines, Monday set off two dynamic charges on the east span of the 47-year-old Benton street bridge. After being ruled unsafe for traffic, the bridge stood by while the Jensen company built a new one, which was completed in July. Demolition work in the old bridge should be completed this week, workmen said.

Marine General 'Blasts' Army

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. Clifton Cates, chief of the U.S. Marines, accused the army general staff Monday of seeking to whittle down his famous sea-to-shore assault corps into a mere "police force."

The army, he said, has already grabbed all the money for amphibious training so that the Marines will not even be able to practice their shore-storming specialty this year.

Cates named four-star Gen. J. Lawton Collins, now army chief of staff, as the author of the so-called "Collins Plan" which he said would virtually eclipse the Marines' colorful role in the history of American warfare.

He said the plan, which he first heard about in 1946, would also let the air force take over Naval aviation.

Testifying in the bitter, wide-open row among the armed forces, Cates told the house armed services committee: "1. Severe 'Budgetary cuts' laid down by the military hierarchy in the Pentagon are inflicting 'crippling handicaps' on the marine corps."

"2. The marines have no important post in the nation's highest defense councils and are struggling to survive from a 'submerged position at the bottom of this vast administrative structure.'"

"The manifest combat power of the marine corps is being destroyed and dissipated and its mobilization potential destroyed," Cates told the lawmakers.

"The army general staff group is striking into the heart of our combat forces."

Gen. A. A. Vandegrift, retired, wartime commandant of the marines, testified in a similar vein but in milder terms.

Switzer Nomination Delayed by Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The senate judiciary committee Monday deferred action on the nomination of Carroll Switzer, Des Moines, for federal judge of the southern Iowa district.

The action postponed any decision until next year. President Truman nominated Switzer, unsuccessful candidate for governor of Iowa in 1948, for the post in June. Sen. Guy Gillette (D-Iowa) has opposed the nomination bitterly.

Wisconsin Trip Tickets Sale Ends Wednesday

All tickets for the student trip to the Iowa - Wisconsin football game, Nov. 12, must be sold by 5 p.m. Wednesday. Trip Chairman Sue Gronna, A4, Minto, N.D., announced Monday night.

Ten buses will carry students to the game and their seats on the 30-yard line, she added. The price of the tickets, which go on sale today at the Union desk at 1 p.m., is $9.42.

Winnie's Daughter To Marry Today

SEA ISLAND, GA. (AP) — A British society photographer, Anthony Beauchamp, and Miss Sarah Churchill, daughter of Britain's wartime prime minister, announced Monday they will be married today.

The couple said they had been secretly engaged for a week and that they had the approval of her parents.

Beauchamp, 32, said he arrived in this country three weeks ago after conferring with former Prime Minister Winston Churchill and obtaining his endorsement of the proposal.

Rep. Stephen Pace (D - Ga) said after the meeting: "I haven't even encountered a situation like this before."

Senate Group Rejects Farm Bill Compromise

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate farm conferees Monday night voted to report back to the senate that they are not able to agree with the house on a farm bill at this session.

The action appeared to all but wreck chances for farm legislation. The house conferees, however, presumably are ready to continue negotiating.

Senators Okay Money For 58 Group Airforce

... And The Tears Flowed Like Wine

Grown men and women — 80 of them — sobbed unashamedly Monday in room 423 of the chemistry building. The halls were wet with salty drops from their red-rimmed eyes.

An unannounced quiz? An unkind word? Final exams cancelled? Nope. Someone just uncorked a bottle of tear gas!

AFL Chief Discourages Lewis' Pooling Proposal

PITTSBURGH (AP) AFL President William Green Monday told John L. Lewis that pooling of labor's resources while labor is divided is "impossible and impractical."

However, Green wrote the United Mine Workers chief that AFL's 105 unions manage their own affairs and will have to decide for themselves whether to go along with Lewis' plan to throw a giant war chest behind the striking CIO United Steelworkers.

Lewis proposed in a labor unity move toward the rival Green group that they give USW $2.5-million a week. He suggested that nine AFL unions each match a $250,000 contribution by the UMW.

Green questioned whether President Philip Murray of the CIO and the steelworkers had not asked for help.

Murray's own reaction to the Lewis plan was sympathy for unity and a counter proposal that AFL, CIO and UMW pool their resources for a "common defense" in the great coal and steel strikes as well as any other union walk-outs.

Elsewhere on the labor front, top federal mediator Cyrus Ching asked officials of the giant United States Steel corporation to meet with him in New York Wednesday afternoon. "Big Steel" immediately accepted.

New contract talks in the 29-coal strike resume today in West Virginia.

The CIO united steelworkers, locked for the past 17 days in a free pensions fight with the basic steel industry, called out 16,000 to 20,000 workers in nine plants of the Aluminum Company of America.

Strike End Awaits Local Union Vote

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Representatives of 1,700 striking CIO united auto workers and officials of the Bell Aircraft corporation reached an agreement Monday to end a bitter labor dispute which has halted production at Bell's Niagara Falls, N.Y., plant for 18 weeks.

Dr. Edmund Ezra Day, Cornell university chancellor and chairman of a board of inquiry appointed by New York state to investigate the often violent strike, announced that both sides had agreed on terms for resumption of operations.

Dr. Day emphasized, however, that the agreement was contingent upon ratification by the membership of Local 501, UAW-CIO.

CATTLE PRICE PEAK

CHICAGO — A herd of cattle was sold Monday for $36.85 a hundred pounds, the highest cattle price this year at the Chicago Stock yards.

Orchestra Conductor Mark Warnow Dies

NEW YORK (AP) — Mark Warnow, 47, long-time orchestra conductor of the Lucky Strike Hit Parade radio show, died of a heart attack Monday. He complained of feeling exhausted and entered Polytechnic hospital for a checkup about noon. He died an hour later.

His brother, Raymond Scott, also is widely known as an orchestra leader and composer.

Horses Help Workmen in 'Operation Clean-Up'

"OLD DOBBIN" HAD HIS DAY Monday as workmen began removing the huge piles of leaves near East hall. Winds a week ago flooded the campus with leaves and "operation clean-up" has been underway for several days. The equine act was called in for heavy duty work and here both "Seabiscuit" and "Citation" seem to be taking their roles in this mechanized age quite calmly.

A Chance to Serve —

SUI students, and townspeople too, have an opportunity to boost the university and a homegrown product, an opportunity which is unique in its newness.

We have a chance to send our Scottish Highlanders through the Lowland countries of western Europe and into the American occupation zones in Germany and Austria.

The Highlanders will serve as ambassadors of goodwill for the whole nation and as special representatives of Iowa.

A look at the American youth in the person of the Scottish Highlanders will demonstrate more practically than all our lectures and boasting just what democracy is like in the United States.

To the American occupation troops in Europe, the Highlanders will bring a glimpse of home — the famous U.S. prototype, the American coed.

The Highlanders' visit should point up a striking contrast to the people of Germany. Young persons' organizations in Germany, for the last several decades at least, have been of the type that breeds revolutionaries. The Highlanders are a happy contrast.

Now concentrate on the work the Highlanders have done in keeping the name of SUI before the public since they were formed in 1935. They have been the best source of publicity SUI has had in the sense that they have been pictured and written about continually.

At least 3-million persons have seen the the Highlanders perform in the 40 thousand miles they have journeyed. They have appeared in 27 states, visited both United States coast, and have also performed in Canada.

Indeed, they have worked hard at their job, had fun undoubtedly, and have done a world of good for themselves in seeing better than half of the nation. This summer they are to get their reward when they visit Scotland and England.

Each woman will pay her own way to England and back. The cost per Highlander amounts to about $425, or a total of $32,000. That's a goodly sum for any young college woman to raise. If Daddy is footing the bill, he probably has his hands full too. He's putting out plenty now just to see his daughter through school.

Add all the figures up and you can see the Highlanders are a pretty high-priced outfit. Here are more statistics to digest: their uniforms alone are worth $25,000. The Highlanders need less than half that amount to extend their trip through Europe and take time off to entertain our occupation troops.

The $12,000 is needed to transport the women from the debarkation point to the American zone in Germany. There the army will take over and provide food and lodgings for the women.

A central organization has been formed to direct the activities for the fund raising. Chairman of the boosters is Dr. M.A. Dalchow, Maquoketa, a dentist who graduated from SUI in 1934. A veteran of World War II as well as a professional man, his activities are many and varied.

He has consented to serve as director for the Boosters knowing it will take probably more time than he has to give. Dr. Dalchow has indicated he expects local and county organizations to help in conjunction with the central organization.

Here's where Iowa City and SUI come in. We have this opportunity to serve the Highlanders who have done so much for us. They're our own homegrown product. Nothing definite yet has been done to organize fund raising activities locally. A leader or several leaders are needed.

We have several service organizations of the campus. All do a good job and probably easily could combine their forces and talents to start our own contributions for the Highlanders.

Each organization has officers who could meet to form the local chapter of Highlander boosters. All we need to get the campaign off to a good start is something like the spirit exhibited at the Homecoming pep rally Friday night. Let's get started on sending the Highlanders to the American zone.

A Small Ripple —

In this day of mad armament races and "protective" alliances it is heartening to see that some people, although in small and insignificant ways, still plod along in pursuit of a real and trusting peace.

Next December, in Calcutta, India, the world pacifists will hold their international conference. It will be attended by people who believe that nothing merits bloodshed and warfare.

With the colleagues of the late Mahatma Gandhi, they will discuss methods of preventing future wars. India is truly an appropriate setting for such a conference, for undoubtedly the teachings of the great disciple of non-violence, still bear much weight in the thoughts of his people.

It is doubtful if this conference, which will be composed of 50 delegates from at least 20 countries, will cause much of a ripple on the troubled waters of world strife.

In a world of power, "littleness" seldom produces results on a very wide scale.

Last summer, the Quakers, strong advocates of pacifism in this country, made several recommendations for peace. They suggested "third party" judgment of international disputes, UN trusteeships over strategic areas, and Abraham Lincoln's philosophy of "agreeing as far as possible" in our relations with the Soviet Union.

The Quaker suggestions have taken their place along with other minorly suggestions. Suggestions without power in this world are of little significance.

That's why a salute is due those people who conscientiously plug for peace, knowing in the back of their minds that they will never be heard.

Establishment of a Tradition —

Town and gown joined hands Friday night to stage a spectacle that was in every way a large success — the Homecoming parade.

Beyond question it was the most outstanding event staged under city-campus joint sponsorship for the past several years. The floats were good, the crowd large and the reaction favorable.

There were some doubts among those who planned the parade. They feared that there would not be enough groups or persons who would be willing to participate wholeheartedly in such a venture.

The 20,000 persons who lined Clinton street from Burlington street to Currier hall Friday night dispelled such fears.

The 50 floats, prancing horses, bands, marchers and beautiful girls loaned an air to the Homecoming weekend that has not been duplicated in more than 30 years.

Actually, it appears that those who watched Friday's parade were also watching the establishment of a tradition. The applause that greeted the parade will insure a continuation of the annual event.

But, Phil, The Little Ones!

By JOE BROWN

For some enterprising student who has spare time, I have a money-making idea.

Sell drinking water beside any fountain in Schaeffer or Macbride hall.

OR, IF YOU'RE one to go in for fads, buy yourself a van, equip it with a collection of almost anything and paint on its sides such words as "Stop," "Don't Miss It," "Educational," "Spectacular," and "Sensational."

Then pull it around the country with its "contribution cup" hanging just inside the exit. You'll have to arrange in advance with the police departments to reserve several parking meters for you.

And if you want to pack 'em in, here's a couple more words you can paint on the sides. They're guaranteed to attract thousands. "Adults Only!"

A FRIEND of mine from the south tells me he could make lots of money but his family won't let him quit school.

"What's the matter?" I asked.

"Why don't they want you to quit?"

"They know I want to work for my uncle who makes and bootlegs corn likker down in Mississippi." He's going to stay here, though, and become a lawyer.

I'M TOLD the law students had a pretty effective system for selling Homecoming badges.

Any poor, timid soul who passed their building one day last week was in for a scene — whether he bought a badge or not.

When a badgeless student appeared, obviously a non-patriot, the future lawyers are said to have let up a whoop that would lead one to believe a band of Indians was descending upon him.

This was to attract the attention of the Tailfeather on duty. However, I don't remember seeing a Tailfeather who needed any help in spotting badgeless lapels.

Then, if the fellow refused to buy a badge, yells, jeers and catcalls followed him as he hung his head and retreated from the scene.

But the man who bought one received the hero-home-from-the-wars treatment. Cheers, applause and loud acclaim as to his loyalty were heard in class rooms as far away as the chemistry building.

Perhaps a little cruel on the fellow whose wife empties his pockets every morning but they tell me it really sold the badges.

CAN WE REALLY be as badly off emotionally as the song writers have us?

While trying to study the functions of congress last night and listening to the radio at the same time, I was on the verge of tears several times.

One singer after another cried out his story of a love that was going, going or gone.

It's pretty difficult for a fellow to concentrate on the committee system of our federal legislature when some chap's telling how he's throwing rice at the girl he loves — as she emerged from a wedding to his best friend.

I tell you, a man who hasn't a worry in the world finds himself getting sadder and sadder as he listens to the radio today.

On one program only there were four love-sufferers.

One guy was telling a girl that he knew someday she'd want him to want her. That'll teach her, because he's going to be in love with somebody new.

A girl was raising old Ned with a fellow because he told a lie, another fellow was crying "Where are you" and still another was telling how through a long and sleepless night he had whispered someone's name.

The last two numbers ended the program with some satisfaction, though.

One young person was telling a friend to let 'er go, let 'er go, let 'er go.

And, old now but appropriate, came the defying words "You can have her, I don't want her, she's too fat for me."

I dried my tears then and went back to my books.

Interpreting the News — Chemist Sees 'Sations' As Way to World Peace

By J. M. ROBERTS JR.
(P) Foreign Affairs Analyst

Did you ever hear of a sation? It's a new word coined by one of the world's foremost chemists to describe a new kind of state into which he thinks the people of the world should be divided.

He is William J. Hale of Washington, who coined the word chemistry to cover farm chemical production. He proposes the new state in a book, Farmer Victorians, published by Coward-McCann, Inc.

Hale's sation would be a section of the world whose borders would contain everything necessary for a self-sufficiency. He says chemistry has now advanced to the scientific point where enough can be provided for everybody. And that there would be no reason for wars.

He suggests four or five sations. One Mongolian (Asiatic); one Slavic (with its southern borders not defined but to provide the Slavs with access to warm waters); one Latin — Teutonic including western Europe and much of Africa (or perhaps with Africa as a fifth entity); and one Anglo-American, including the British Isles, the Americas and Australia.

Hale presents his theory simultaneously with intensification of the campaign in the United States for a world federation.

Owen Roberts and others, including more than 100 congressmen, have offered or are supporting various approaches to world federation or for a federation of democracies if the non-democratic nations cannot be included.

The house foreign affairs committee is now holding hearings on a proposed resolution which would state it "as the sense of congress" that the United Nations should be strengthened by such a federation, and that this is a prime aim of American foreign policy.

This is an ancient dream. Tennyson's famous prediction of a brotherhood of man and federation of the world have taken on an almost Biblical quality in the minds of millions of people.

Millions of others, including Chemist Hale, think the idea impractical. Hale agrees with these that there are natural differences between peoples which cannot be compromised under a single political set-up.

Hale and the federalists both present beautiful pictures. But in Hale's Anglo-American sation, for instance, it seems that there could be no most-favored area — that the haves would share equally with the have nots — which means that American living standards would be leveled down while the other components were being leveled up.

The same thing would tend to happen in the federated world. People and nations fight back against that sort of thing. Despite the cold war — perhaps even accelerated by it — there seems to be a trend toward larger and larger blocs in the world. Roughly, there are now two, whereas fifty years ago there were many.

A cold look at history strongly suggests that eventually one of these blocs will take over the other through one of the usual methods of extending hegemony — by war or economic conquest. Then there will be one world. If it is also one sation, it might last.

NEW YORK (P) — Lower prices on men's suits are in the offing for next year.

That's the way things are shaping up today, but the picture still isn't too definite.

A lot of things can happen to business between the time the looms start weaving cloth until the salesman suggests you "try this one on for size."

The price reductions are expected to range from a few cents to as much as $15 a suit. The biggest cuts, of course, will be on the highest priced fine wool garments. The average may run around 5 percent.

Right there a warning is in order. Regardless of forecasts of lower prices and regardless of price cuts already posted by manufacturers for some 1950 lines, the only way you can tell whether a price reduction is being made is to ask your own retailer.

That's because the situation varies so greatly from town to town throughout the country. In a highly competitive area, price cuts will be greatest. In towns where customers demand certain types and qualities of merchandise, there may be no reductions at all.

Many of the largest men's clothing manufacturers in the country already have reduced their 1950 spring and summer lines by as much as $5 a suit. It is expected that these savings will flow along directly to the consumer in a majority of cases.

And besides, you may be getting more suit for the same money. One large New York retailer features suits at unchanged prices "with an extra pair of pants free."

A lot of the wholesale price cuts passed on at retail so far are negligible. One large maker of summer suits cut prices only 75 cents. In this case, however, there is a claim that quality is much higher.

The pressure, behind these reductions for 1950 comes from two important factors—devaluation of foreign currencies and American competition.

TO THE EDITOR:

There seems to be some feeling aroused on our campus in regard to seat saving at football games, ticket "scalping," etc., all of which provoked a horde of transfer students to howling loudly in a recent letter to the editor.

The existence of these practices is apparent, and there is little doubt that the gentlemen are correct in calling them evil.

But they single out SUI and leave the inference that our campus is the only one around where such practices exist. There is probably no major football game in the country without its share of scalpers who buy tickets and resell them to those who either have the money to throw away or are fools enough to buy them.

If anyone has the endurance and fortitude, which I don't, to go to the stadium at 11:30 a.m. and stay until game time perhaps he should be allowed a little extra consideration to get a couple of extra seats for friends.

Both evils are universal, and I

Next Year's Suit Should Cost Less If Trend Continues

NEW YORK (P) — Lower prices on men's suits are in the offing for next year.

That's the way things are shaping up today, but the picture still isn't too definite.

Leopold Defends Belgian Fall

LONDON (P) — Leopold III, exiled king of the Belgians, Monday broke nine years of silence to declare that Great Britain's decision in 1940 to abandon the fight against Germany on the continent and to evacuate the British army from Dunkerque was taken "without the slightest knowledge of the Belgian command."

The Belgian monarch, now living in Switzerland, gave the world his first complete explanation of the Belgian army's capitulation to Germany in a memorandum prepared for the United Press.

The memorandum was given to the United Press by Belgian Prime Minister Gaston Eyskens, who conferred with the king in Geneva during the week - end about the proposed Belgian plebiscite which will determine whether Leopold returns to the throne.

The king's memorandum recites in detail the military operations of May, 1940, after the German invasion of the lowlands and leading up to his capitulation as commander-in-chief of the Belgian army.

The controversy over the capitulation reached its height when Winston Churchill, then British Prime Minister, told the house of commons on June 4, 1940:

"Suddenly, without prior consultation, with the least possible notice, without the advice of his ministers and upon his own personal act, he (Leopold) sent a plenipotentiary to the German command, surrendered his army and exposed our whole flank and means of retreat."

French Premier Paul Reynaud was even more bitter. He said on May 28 that Leopold had surrendered "without warning" and "without one thought for the British and French soldiers who came to the help of his country on his anguished appeal."

Leopold quotes Reynaud, however, as having told Churchill as early as May 15 in a telephone conversation: "We are beaten."

Leopold's version says on the contrary that it was the British who failed to inform the Belgian high command of plans to abandon the fight on the continent. The Belgians, the king said, advised the British and French of the possibility of capitulation as early as May 20 — eight days before the king did surrender — when the Allies were planning a counter-attack to smash the German breakthrough.

King Leopold, referring to the British war cabinet's decision to evacuate its army, said that on the night of May 25-26 "the British forces had already evacuated the positions which they occupied on the right of the Belgian front."

"Voltage Multiplier" Described by Arnold

Wayne Arnold, research assistant in nuclear physics, Monday spoke at a colloquium on SUI's latest atom smasher.

The meeting was held in room 301 of the physics building. The colloquium, attended by about 60 students and faculty members, featured Arnold's explanation of the "voltage multiplier" part of the machine.

The "voltage multiplier," Arnold said, is a system of electrical devices arranged to take a relatively small initial voltage and build it up to the size necessary in the atom smasher.

Arnold told the group a nuclear reaction changing the element boron to beryllium will be one of the problems under study when the machine is operating.

After Nights of Study — Dream Comes True for Local Painter

By ANN RUSSELL
A lifetime dream of becoming a portrait painter has come true for Mrs. James Kent, 7 Kirkwood circle.

Mrs. Kent, wife of an SUI photographer, has just finished a series of five portraits of Iowa Citizens. They are Mrs. William Hageboeck, Mrs. James Kelley, Mrs. J. Bradley Rust, Mrs. Eric Wilson and Mrs. Paul Brechler. The portraits were done in pastels on charcoal paper, and are three-quarter-length instead of the conventional full-length.

"I never attend an art exhibit without picking up some pointers," Mrs. Kent said. "Art books are a great help, too. When people ask me about my education, I explain that I have never stopped studying."

Formerly from Salt Lake City, she studied at night school while working for the Eastman Kodak company there. She continued her studies in New York for six months.

Mrs. Kent has done some photography work, but has given it up to devote more time to painting. She has painted some landscapes also, including one done this fall of Lake McBrine. The autumn yellows and greens blend with the furnishings of the Kent living room where it is hung.

Mrs. Kent has a heavy schedule of housework and caring for her two children, Janet, 5, and Susan, 3, in addition to her painting.

"It's just as if I'm ironing when I'm painting as far as the children are concerned," she explained. "They are very good about not disturbing me."

A small room off her kitchen serves as her studio. In winter, she moves her equipment to a warmer spot in the basement and continues working.

Mrs. Kent believes one of the secrets to portrait painting is to know the model and his background. In that way it enables the artist to show the person's character in the picture. She likes painting children especially well.

Mrs. Kent's portrait of Mrs. Paul Brechler, wife of the SUI director of athletics, was displayed this summer at a local bookstore.

At the lower right is an oil painting of Mrs. Larry Butler.

Schools Crowded — 'War Babies' Grow Up

By BETTY KERR
During the war years between 1941 and 1947, when the stork was flying more missions than four-motored bombers, America's birth rate leaped from 2.5 million to 3.7 million.

schools over a five-year period. Four years ago there were 138 first-grade pupils. Next year the sum will be almost 300.

A number of different methods are being used to meet the ever-increasing demands facing Iowa City's schools.

Opstad reported that besides the hiring of new teachers, additions are being built on two school buildings.

Lincoln grade school has a nearly complete four-room addition to provide for part of the overflow, and a Longfellow grade school addition will soon be constructed.

Lincoln grade school is expected to be finished about Thanksgiving, Opstad said. This will enable the fourth, fifth and sixth grades, currently housed in the Horace Mann grade school, to be moved back to Lincoln.

With the lower grades being swelled by war babies, placement of Iowa City pupils has demanded considerable planning.

"During the past two years, we have had to designate schools other than Lincoln and Roosevelt for receiving tuition pupils from across the river and the rural areas," Opstad said.

These preliminary census figures were startling enough at that time, but recently it's become obvious they meant more than just a boom in baby products.

The war babies are storming the American schools, and Iowa City, like many other cities throughout the country has spent a busy year preparing itself for the invasion.

The Iowa City independent school district lists a first-grade enrollment of 251 first grade pupils—which means 53 more students than last year's total of 198, Supt. Iver Opstad said.

And there appears to be no hope for the already crowded classrooms—at least not in the immediate future. Next year the total will grow by another 41 pupils when 292 kindergarten children reach the first grade.

The problem facing America's school system may be seen by comparing the number of children entering Iowa City's schools over a five-year period. Four years ago there were 138 first-grade pupils. Next year the sum will be almost 300.

Quaker Work Here, Abroad to Be Reviewed

Ursula Dawson, A2, Iowa City, will report on student work of the American Friends Service committee at its annual meeting Friday and Saturday in the Friends church at West Branch.

First hand reports of Quaker work in the United States, Mexico, Europe and Asia will be featured at Friday's meeting.

The newly released report on American-Russian relations will be discussed by Elmore Jackson, AFSC liaison worker with the United Nations for the past two years.

AFSC work with students will be outlined Saturday by Jim Armstrong, University of Missouri; Juergen Herbst, University of Nebraska; Lois Tanquist, Dakota Wesleyan university, and Miss Dawson. Speakers of the day include Garnet Guild, college representative of the Des Moines office; Al Johnson, recently returned from two years in Poland; Betty Mansfield, just back from Germany, and George Mohlenhoff, director of the college program from the Philadelphia office.

Wilmer Tjossem, associate secretary of the Des Moines regional office, and Norman Whitney, professor of English at Syracuse university, will also speak.

Everett Davis, member of the regional committee of the Des Moines office, and Lewis Hoskins, recently returned from three years in China with the Friends Service unit, will also take part.

Week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Brechler, 1622 Muscatine avenue, were Mrs. E. O. Williams, mother of the hostess, Des Moines; Lois and Mabel Elwood, Des Moines, and Mr. and Mrs. John Williams, Red Oak.

Singer to Open Artist Series

METROPOLITAN OPERA BASSO JEROME HINES will appear in Iowa City Sunday, opening this year's Civic Music association concert series. Hines, a graduate of the University of California, made his opera debut in 1946, and has more than 30 operas and 150 songs in his repertory.

Metropolitan Opera Star To Appear Here Sunday

Jerome Hines, Metropolitan opera bass, will appear at City High school auditorium at 3 p.m. Sunday as the first artist on the Iowa City Civic Music association's concert schedule.

Pres. Dan Dutcher Monday announced the year's program will offer three other concerts. Jan 30 is the date set for the appearance of the Viennese Ballet Ensemble Andre Segovia, interpreter of the Spanish guitar, will present a concert Feb. 14.

Planiat Leonard Pennario's program March 5 will mark the end of the concert season.

Hines, described as a "handsome, big-voiced bass", became an outstanding member of the Metropolitan opera after his debut in 1946.

At 18, while studying chemistry and mathematics at UCLA he made his professional debut with the Civic Light Opera company of that city, singing with John Charles Thomas.

As a result of this performance, he was engaged while still a sophomore at UCLA by the San Francisco Opera company for the following season.

By the time he received his B.A. degree in 1943, he had appeared as soloist at the Hollywood Bowl and with the Los Angeles Philharmonic orchestra.

Hines has played leading bass roles in opera festivals in Montreal, Central City, Colorado and with the New Orleans opera.

Last summer he appeared at the Goethe Festival in Aspen, Colo., and as Baron Ochs in "Der Rosenkavalier" in a performance under the direction of Fritz Busch at Ravinia.

Winner of the Metropolitan Opera $1,000 Caruso award, Hines has been labelled by the New York Times as "one of the most gifted of the young American artists."

Membership cars will be mailed this week so Iowa City Civic Music association members will have them in time for the concert, Dutcher said.

Chicagoan to Lecture On Christian Science

Arthur C. Whitney, Chicago, Ill., will lecture in Iowa City Friday evening at the First Church of Christ, Scientist, 722 E. College street, church officials said Monday.

Whitney is authorized by the Boston First Church of Christ, Scientist to explain the purpose and importance of Christian Science.

The Iowa City church sponsors this lecture and invites anyone interested to attend.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

RICHARD WIDMARK, who plays all those snarling, sinister, sadistic villain roles so effectively in Hollywood, was asked by Earl Wilson, "Hasn't your home life been affected by the horrible deeds you perform each day in the studio?" "It certainly has," admitted Widmark. "Every evening I come barging arrogantly into the house, where my wife promptly beats me."

The Friars Club in Hollywood staged an evening in honor of comedian George Burns, and as is their hallowed custom, made him the target for an endless series of jibes and good-natured roasts. Eddie Cantor declared, "There is a rumor that before Burns discovered Gracie Allen, he starved with nine different partners. This is a bald-faced lie. The fact is, he ate the partners."

Two old friends met at Seventh Avenue and Thirty-Eighth Street. "Did you hear about Sam?" asked one. "He's taken a turn for the worse." "What happened?" demanded the other. The first answered, "He died."

'Bump Reader' Camps Here

Nomad Family Led by Fortune Teller, 75
Stop at Foot of Indian Lookout Hill

By MURRAY SEEGER

A band of nomads, led by a 75-year-old phrenologist, is camped today at the foot of Indian Lookout hill about two miles south of Iowa City.

They are the Evans family. Mrs. Evans, mother of five sons born on the road, plies her trade as phrenologist at carnivals and fairs. Her sons operate concessions.

A Cherokee Indian, Mrs. Evans says she inherited the practice of phrenology from her mother. She feels that through her practice she has helped many persons with marriage and business problems.

Most frequent callers at her mystic booth are young persons who are searching for answers to their romantic problems. Some inquire about financial matters. Others about health.

The life of the vagabond began for Mrs. Evans at a tender age, when she married a coppersmith with a yen for travel. Together they traversed the U.S., at the same time rearing a family of five sons.

In 1941, after enjoying more than 50 years of wedded life, Mr. Evans passed away. His life depicts the nomadic nature of the family. Born in Chicago, Mr. Evans died in New York and was buried in Pittsburgh.

Along with her family, Mrs. Evans started on a tour of the States. Her life on the road will end "when they take shows off the road," she said.

The Evans progeny now includes five daughters-in-law and nine grandchildren. The entire family group travels together.

The five sons are Joe, 27; Harry, 22; ob, 19, Costello, 23; and

James, 17. Besides operating concessions, they also carry on their father's trade as coppersmiths.

Traveling in nicely furnished trailer-houses, the group rented parking space at Kelly field and intend to make their residence there for about 10 days. They came from the National Dairy Cattle congress at Waterloo and plan on moving to St. Louis when they leave.

The Evans family has visited every state in the union more than once and has traveled in Canada and Mexico.

For the last 15 years they have circulated in the midwest. "Our home base," as the oldest son Joe explained, "is the USA!"

The Evans own land in Texas but will never reside there, since five months in one place is too long, Joe said. "Once in a while, one of the kids decides to 'hop scotch' but soon comes back."

"Hop scotch" in show business means to break away from the parent unit and operate alone. But with the Evans it has never worked out. As Joe explains, homesickness, especially for their mother, usually bring them back to the fold.

The five brothers expect to travel the rest of their lives.

They were born on the road, reared on the road and work on the road. But they agree that their children will get a chance to choose for themselves.

As Joe summed up: "It looks as if the world is going to be looking for kids with education and I'll do all I can to get them one."

Radiation Research Lab Enlargement Under Way

Work on the final phase of SUI's radiation research laboratory began Monday morning, M.D. McCreedy, president of the McCreedy construction company, reported.

McCreedy was awarded a $14,800 general-construction contract Sept. 22 for enlarging the laboratory.

Located in the basement at the north end of the medical building, the laboratory, which has been in operation for the past two years, is engaged in research on the biological effects of radiation and in investigation of cancer problems. Radioisotopes from the Oak Ridge, Tenn., atom plant, are used extensively.

Medical research problems from other sections of the university are also referred to the laboratory.

Though no special construction problems are involved in the new work, additional shielding will be provided around the X-ray machine and the "hot laboratory" to protect laboratory workers from deadly rays emanating from radioisotopes.

Storage space for atom by-products will be provided in the sub-basement which will be divided into concrete-walled cubicles, each to be enclosed by steel doors.

Other structural features and special equipment will be installed to protect workers from harmful radiations and from accidentally breathing in or swallowing radioactive materials.

Completion of the project will give the laboratory 9,800 feet of floor space. Researchers will then be able to investigate certain problems for the atomic energy commission and other national organizations.

When the additional facilities are installed, the laboratory will occupy both the basement and the sub-basement at the north end of the medical laboratory.

McCreedy said work should be completed around the first of next year.

All Seniors Advised To Register Early For Placement Aid

February degree candidates should complete their registration with the SUI business and industrial placement office immediately, Director Helen Barnes said Monday.

Students who will graduate in June or August should also register as soon as possible if they intend to use the services of the office in finding a job, she said.

Some interviews will be scheduled with company representatives as early as November and the remainder during December and January, she said.

"It is necessary that registration be completed by interested students as soon as possible because it takes about three weeks at the least to arrange the records and materials before any interviews can be scheduled," Miss Barnes said.

The earlier the students complete their registration with the office, the more specific advice and aid with respect to the field of their choice can be given by the office, she said.

Another advantage from early registration would be that the office could plan to conduct special meetings to inform students what job opportunities in various fields are like and how applicants should prepare for the interviews with prospective employers, she added.

Registration materials are obtainable for all colleges, except engineering, at Miss Barnes' office in room 111, University hall.

Social Fraternity Organizes at SUI

Sigma Alpha Mu, a social fraternity being organized at SUI, will hold a meeting tonight at 7:30 in the YWCA room of the Union, temporary Chairman Gerald Felowitz, A3, Council Bluffs, said Monday.

At a recent meeting, members of the organization elected Felowitz temporary chairman; Harry Herman, C4, Rock Island, temporary vice-chairman; Harrison Mitnich, G, New York, temporary recording secretary; and Harold Arkoff, G, temporary corresponding secretary.

MARRIAGE LICENSES ISSUED
Marriage licenses were issued in Johnson county clerk's office over the weekend to Robert Rhodes and Mary Kaspar, both of Iowa City; Donald Clark Poland, Iowa City, and June Rose Foblan, West Branch; Lawrence Martinson, Melrose Park, Ill., and Evelyn Polan, Chicago; Sam Torrossian and Juliann Cassell, both of Chicago; Howard Stevens and Marcella Ness, both of Minneapolis.

Firemen Dampen Celebrators' Fire

Firemen, no doubt inspired by a week of stressing fire prevention, Saturday night put a damper on the spirits of Homecoming celebrators who tried three times to make a victory pyre of the Hawkeye corn monument.

Little damage was caused by the three attempts which came at 8:30, 10, and 11:25 p.m., Fire Chief Al Dolezal said Monday.

A Hawkeye Homecoming football victory inspires the burning of the monument, but the would-be arsonists had to be satisfied with tipping it over this year.

UNION BROCHURES

Printed brochures illustrating activities at the Iowa Union will be distributed to SUI students sometime this week. The Union board prepared the folders last summer and this fall with the idea of letting students know the recreational and educational opportunities afforded by the Union.

Hawks Prepare For Northwestern Tilt

'Cats Fresh After Beating Michigan

Iowa's Hawkeyes today will begin preparing in earnest for the battle here Saturday against the team that last week put an end to Michigan's 15-game conference winning streak.

Coach Eddie Anderson eased up Monday and let the Hawks off with the lightest practice session since the season opened one month ago.

Satisfied with his team's second half comeback which whipped Indiana, 35-9, Anderson said that he hoped to have two regular linemen, Guard Earl Banks and Tackle Hubert Johnston, back at work this week.

Saturday's victory cost Iowa the loss of Ralph Woodard, defensive end, for the season. He suffered a compound fracture of the left leg early in the game. Just who will be the man to replace him is not known as yet. It was Bud Kaisershot and Jerry Long who took his place Saturday.

The 1949 Rose Bowl champions are currently tied with Iowa for third place in the Big Ten standings with a 2-1 record.

Leonard Raffensperger, Iowa freshman coach who coached the Wildcats against Minnesota and Michigan, praised their speed, power and skill.

"Obviously, Northwestern is really rolling," he said. "The players had a lot of fire against Michigan, after being down in the Minnesota game the previous Saturday."

"The team was especially rugged on defense, with excellent linebackers in Dick Price and George Sundheim. Don Stoneifer stood out in the line at left end," he said.

Raffensperger believes that Gaspar Perricone, fullback who made 90 yards in nine carries, apparently is playing better ball than all-American Art Murakowski. John Miller and Ed Tunnicliffe are exceptionally speedy halfbacks and also gather in the passes of Quarterback Don Burson.

The last time an Iowa team met the Wildcats was back in 1939 when the Hawks were held to a 7-7 tie in the final game of the season. It cost the Ironmen the conference championship.

Gophers Rampage, Begin to Smell Roses

GUARD GENE FRITZ leads the way for Billy Bye, Minnesota seatback, who is on his way to a touchdown against Ohio State. The Gophers smashed the Buckeyes at Columbus, Saturday, 27-0, and cleared another hurdle in the race that they hope will lead to the Rose Bowl on Jan. 1. The action took place in the opening quarter of the game, which was Minnesota's fourth straight victory this year. Iowa plays at Minneapolis, Nov. 5.

"Speaking of the Indiana game Anderson said, "Our offense started to move well in the second half. The backs ran hard and the blockers handled their assignments. If we want to go any place against Northwestern, the team will have to play that way during the entire game instead of 30 minutes."

Iowa trailed Indiana, 9-7, at the half, but in the next half made nearly 100 yards more each by rushing and passing for its four touchdowns.

This was the most decisive win over a conference team since 1922.

Rossie Defeated

CHICAGO (AP) — Danny Womber, 146, of Chicago's south side, won an eight round unanimous decision over Bob Rossie of Iowa City, Monday night in the Marigold Gardens.

It was Rossie's first defeat in the Marigold arena after winning three straight.

Each Yankee to Get $5,665.54

CINCINNATI (UP) — Baseball Commissioner A.B. Chandler announced Monday that the world champion New York Yankees divided their world series pool into 30 full shares of $5,665.54 each and 17 partial shares ranging from $4,272.74 to $350.

The Brooklyn Dodgers, who lost the series to the Yankees, voted to cut their pool into 31 full shares of $4,272.74 each and three lesser shares. The Yankees series pool was $206,159.45 and the Dodgers' $137,439.54.

The Yankees who were voted full shares were:

Hank Bauer, Larry Berra, Bobby Brown, Tommy Byrne, Gerry Coleman, Joe DiMaggio, Tommy Henrich, Bill Johnson, Charley Keller, Johnny Lindell, Ed Lopat, Cliff Mapes, Clarence Marshall, Gus Niarhos, Joe Page, Bob Porterfield, Vic Raschi, Alie Reynolds, Phil Rizzuto, Fred Sanford, Frank Shea, Charley Silvera, George Stinewiss, Gene Woodling, Manager Casey Stengel, Coaches Frank Crosetti, Bill Dickey and Jim Turner, Road Secretary Frank Scott and Trainer Gus Mauch.

ST. AMBROSE HERE

Iowa City high's freshman-sophomore football team will entertain the St. Ambrose Frosh this afternoon at the City high field. Game time is slated for 3:30.

19 Midwest Teams Among Nation's 56 Unbeaten Gridders

NEW YORK (AP) — Fifty-six college football teams—a remarkably high total—still proudly bore perfect records Monday to go along with the bumps and bruises acquired in a month of campaigning.

The coast to coast honor roll of big and little powerhouses found 19 of the unbeaten and untied teams in the Midwest, 16 in the east, 10 in the south, six in the far west, five in the southwest, and just one in the Rocky Mountains.

Army in the east with 164 points scored in four games for an average of 41 points per game, led the big-wig powerhouses, closely chased by Notre Dame with 157 points and a 39 per game average in the Midwest.

Busiest scorers among the little toughies was intrepid Trinity of Connecticut with 147 points in three victories and a 49 points per game average—highest in the nation.

Pennsylvania, producing its annual crop of rugged teams, leads the nation with defensive standouts. There are only three schools which are unbeaten, untied, and unscored upon and all are from Pennsylvania.

Little Clarion, Pa., Teachers are sounding their horns with the most spectacular mark of all, 142 points to a big zero for their opponents in four games. St. Vincent of Latrobe, Pa., has made it 92 to 0 in four games and Gannon, which didn't even field a team last year is 71 to 0 against its collective opponents in three games.

Hardin college of Texas, which started bowling over opponents away back on Sept. 10 has the most victories of any school in the nation, six, with five more to go to make it a perfect season.

The major unbeaten teams are Army, Cornell and Pennsylvania in the east, Virginia, North Carolina and Kentucky in the south, Notre Dame and Minnesota in the Midwest, Baylor and Oklahoma in the southwest, California and College of Pacific on the west coast and Wyoming in the Rockies.

There were some hardy perennials on the list including California and Occidental which completed their 1949 regular seasons with perfect records, although California lost to Northwestern in the Rose Bowl. Occidental now has a two-year string of 11 victories in a row. Notre Dame, unbeaten in 32 straight games, has had two ties in that stretch.

Among the others which went well into the 1948 season without suffering defeat and are back again this year are the Valley City, N.D., Dusties, Middle Tennessee State's Blue Raiders, Austin Peay State of Tennessee, West Chester, Pa., and Florida A & M.

Undeclared but — Pitt Coach Sees Trouble

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Pitt's once mighty Panthers Monday boasted four straight grid wins for the first time in 10 years but Coach Mike Milligan moaned "trouble, nothing but trouble."

Mike referred to Pitt's two supposed breathers—Miami of Ohio and West Virginia.

The Panthers barely managed to subdue little Miami, 35-26, and had a rough time with an aroused West Virginia eleven before finally winning, 20-7, in the final half.

Before that it was Pitt 13, William and Mary 7; Pitt 16, Northwestern 7.

The Panthers tackle Indiana at Bloomington on Saturday.

"I anticipate a lot of trouble there," said Mike. "They haven't won a game in their last 11 starts but there's always a first time."

"We weren't too sharp against Miami and we have a lot of work to do this week with our tacking dummy. We're improving game by game but we still have a lot of work to do."

After Indiana, Pitt takes on such football Goliaths as Minnesota, Ohio State and Pennsylvania.

The cautious Mike almost forgets his caution when it comes to Pitt's star halfback, Lou (Bimbo) Ceconi.

"I think Bimbo is a great little halfback," enthuses Mike. "He's meant everything to us."

The record bears this out. Bimbo, a 165-pound triple threat man from Donora, Pa., is responsible for seven of Pitt's touchdowns to date. He scored four and set up three on passes.

He has gained 191 yards on the ground and completed 13 out of 29 passes. A senior, he's a 55-minute man on the field.

Also responsible for Pitt's rise in the football scale is a huge forward wall.

Milligan is working out the last year of a three-year contract. His aides predict the Panthers this year will win seven straight—and maybe even the final two for Pitt's first undefeated season since the golden days of the late Pitt Coach Dr. John (Jock) Sutherland.

Former Iowa Gridder Papa for Second Time

DETROIT (AP) — Bob Smith, former Iowa backfield star now with the Detroit Lions, became a father for the second time Saturday night with the birth of a daughter.

The child and Smith's wife, Beverly, were reported in good condition in St. John's hospital.

Ris Wants to Return To Iowa; Then Tokyo

By JOHN HOLWAY

Saw two old friends, back in town for Homecoming over the weekend: Ray Carlson and Wally Ris.

Ray, who played guard for the Hawks for three years, is now working in his home town of Ft. Dodge with a packing company. He said he's working on studies of "speed and motion."

Wally, captain and mainstay of the swimming team, is working near his Chicago home, but he wants to come back to Iowa. He missed the old prairies. Says there's a "good possibility" of catching on with radio either in Des Moines or Davenport.

The Dolphins welcomed him back to their show Saturday night, presenting him with a silver desk lamp. Wally was so proud Sunday, he kept taking it out of its box and showing it to everyone he spied.

The Olympic champ is "definitely" planning to accept the invitation of the Japanese swimmers to swim in Tokyo next year. He made a big hit with the Japanese this summer.

Wally was the only big name American who swam against the Japanese in their visit to Los Angeles and it meant a lot to the people who were so anxious to compete with the best we had.

He made five telephone calls to Tokyo and was a feature personality in their new reels, posing with their stars. Ris and Bob Gibe were the only two Americans who could beat the Japanese.

The other Iowa fellows who were at the Los Angeles meet, Duane Draves, Bow Stassforth and Don Watson, say that Ris missed his last turn which cost him the 100-meter race to Gibe.

Gibe, they say, was pretty cocky after knocking off Wally and wouldn't admit that he'd gotten a break. However, the fellows say, Wally remained the champ as far as everyone else present was concerned.

If Wally does go to Tokyo, it'll be about the only place he hasn't touched, after visiting Hawaii twice and touring England with the Olympic squad.

We bet it'll include audiences with General MacArthur and Emperor Hirohito, two gentlemen who took a great interest in the international meet this summer.

Sophs Share in Gopher Plan to Dump Michigan

MINNEAPOLIS — After Minnesota stomped over Ohio State, 27-0, Saturday and as the scent of roses from out Pasadena way grew stronger and stronger, the real surprising part of the Gopher squad is the share of praise given the sophomores on a team dominated by 23 senior lettermen.

It is on the performance of these "rookies" that rests a big share of the hopes for victory over Michigan at Ann Arbor, Saturday.

It was one of these sophomores who replaced the injured halfback, Billy Bye, and figured so prominently in the Gopher victories over Northwestern and Ohio State on successive Saturdays. He is the 173-pounder from Billings, Montana, Dick Gregory.

He took over when the cards were on the table in the Northwestern game. Gregory produced two touchdowns in addition to a net of 130 yards by rushing and passing.

Against Ohio State he again

Little Hawks Prepare For Franklin Invasion

Coach Frank Bates left his City high regulars off with light drills Monday afternoon and said that today full scale work will begin in preparation for Friday night's game against Franklin of Cedar Rapids.

Bates was pleased with the Hawklets showing in their 7-0 win over Clinton last week, but just as tough competition when once-beaten Franklin invades City high field.

At present Franklin is tied for third place in the conference said that they would be meeting standings with City high.

Balmy Fall Aiding Hawk Baseballers

While Iowa City's balmy, warm October days might seem a bit out of season for football, they are perfect on baseball. It's just what Coach Otto Vogel ordered to get a look at his baseball prospects for 1950.

During the practice sessions which have covered about four weeks' time, Vogel has been watching more than 40 aspirants for pitching talent, being mindful of the loss of Jack Bruner and Wes Demro from this year's squad.

Vogel indicated that he expects to trim the number of candidates down, so he can devote more time to each player in ironing out hitches in a batter's swing or faults in pitching style.

(Daily Iowan Photo)

OFF THEY GO INTO THE WILD BLUE YONDER with the aid of their two trusty trapezettes. Trapezettes are being used by the SUI cheerleaders for the first time this fall and were photographed for the first time in action at the Homecoming game Saturday. Gymnastic Coach Richard Hozapfel introduced trapezettes to the cheerleading squad as an aid in their tumbling stunts.

SUI Initiates Trapezettes for Cheerleaders

Trapezettes, miniature trampolines, were used by the SUI cheerleaders at the Saturday game for the first time in Homecoming history.

A trapezette is a piece of canvas stretched tautly over a metal frame and is used as a spring board by tumblers.

The trapezette is a small portable version of the trampoline. Gymnastic Coach Richard Hozapfel, who is also faculty advisor for the cheerleaders, said he saw a demonstration of trapezettes at an athletic equipment demonstration last year.

He secured some for use in teaching beginning tumbling classes and for an aid in the cheerleaders' tumbling stunts.

"To my knowledge the cheerleaders here are the first in the country to use trapezettes," Hozapfel said.

Trapezettes fill the gap between tumbling and trampolining stunts and greatly enlarge the number of stunts the cheerleaders can perform at pep rallies and games, he said.

A trapezette would fulfill the game function but would be too large to move around. The smaller trapezette provides the same advantages and is small enough for one person to carry, he said.

"So far we have used them as an aid in making front and back dives, long vaults over obstacles and spectacular high dives to a mat," he said.

"If a football team could use trapezettes for an aid in catching high passes it would really be a secret weapon for the gridiron," he laughed.

A former SUI student helped design the trapezettes. Bruce Sidinger, Cedar Rapids, and his father, Paul, invented the tramps.

The elder Sidinger with the help of some others constructed those now used by the SUI pep squad.

Students participating in the discussion are Patricia Sloan, A4, Des Moines; Dick Dice, A3, Marion; Ed Diekmann, E3, Ottumwa; Ben Crane, A4, Upper Montclair, N.J.; and Phil Bigelow, A3, Council Bluffs.

The mats, designed by Charles Townsend, G, Des Moines, depict humorous scenes of SUI campus life, including cartoons of Old Capitol and other landmarks.

All campus housing units, fraternities and sororities are represented in some manner on the mats.

WSUI Forum to Debate U.S. Military Expansion

Problems pertaining to expansion of the U.S. military program will be discussed on the "Student Forum of the Air" at 7 p.m. Wednesday over WSUI and KSUI.

The topic for discussion is: "Shall the U.S. Immediately Expand Materially Its Military Powers?"

Students participating in the discussion are Patricia Sloan, A4, Des Moines; Dick Dice, A3, Marion; Ed Diekmann, E3, Ottumwa; Ben Crane, A4, Upper Montclair, N.J.; and Phil Bigelow, A3, Council Bluffs.

Forum Planned for SUI Organizations

Omicron Delta Kappa, national honor society, plans to sponsor a parliamentary procedure forum for the benefit of all campus organizations. Committee Chairman George McBurney, LI, Council Bluffs said Monday.

About 100 letters have been sent describing the forum to campus organizations, especially the married student housing organizations, and if enough organizations reply that they are interested in the program, the meeting will be held as scheduled, McBurney said.

Four meetings have been tentatively scheduled with the first to be held Oct. 27 and the other three on Nov. 3, 10 and 17. All the meetings will be held at 3:30 p.m. in room 309 Schaeffer hall.

Prof. Hugh Kelso of the political science department will preside at the meetings, McBurney said.

Music Hour Series Broadcast to Begin

Faculty members of SUI's music department will present the first of a series of Wednesday evening music hours, this Wednesday at 8 p.m. in studio E of the engineering building.

The concert will be broadcast over WSUI.

Prof. Philip G. Clapp, head of the music department, said the first number on the program, Bartok's second sonata, will be played by Prof. Imre Waldbauer, violin, and John Simms, piano.

Mozart's quartet in D major will be played by Dorothy White, flute; Marianne Fleece, violin; Patricia Trachsel, viola, and Charles Becker, cello, Clapp said.

Final number on the program will be the serenade, opus 141A, by Reger played by Miss White, Mrs. Fleece and Miss Trachsel, Clapp said.

The two-week enrollment campaign for the Junior Red Cross is underway in Johnson county schools.

A goal of 100 percent enrollment has been set, according to Mrs. Ellis Crawford, Junior Red Cross chairman. Plans for the year include many gifts for hospitals and contributions of money, food and clothing to foreign children.

Senate Humor Sours Nearing End of Session

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress hopes to close up shop this week, and judging from congressional tempers, it looks as if adjournment won't come a moment too soon.

Even a cake, sent to Sen. McCarran (D-Nev) on his 72nd birthday, has failed to produce a mel-low mood.

Normally, of course, congressmen are exaggeratedly polite to each other. Especially in the senate.

There it's "the distinguished senator" or "the able senator" all day long. But now, after being on the job since Jan. 3, the strain is beginning to tell.

Monday's issue of the "congressional record," which covers the debate on the displaced persons bill, illustrates the point.

Sens. Scott Lucas (D - Ill) and Kenneth Wherry (R-Neb) are the floor leaders for their respective parties. Day after day they've tried to disagree agreeably. And now — Well, they're still trying. Listen to this exchange:

Mr. Wherry: I want to say this demonstrates the full cooperation we have given the majority leader (Lucas) throughout the session of the congress. (Laughter).

Mr. Lucas: Yes, the senator from Nebraska was very cooperative. He has been cooperating in the opposite direction so far as the displaced persons bill is concerned.

Mr. Wherry: Mr. President, will the senator yield?

Mr. Lucas: I do not have any more time to yield. I should enjoy debating with my friend from Nebraska.

Mr. Wherry: The feeling is mutual.

Mr. Lucas: The senator always inspires me to great heights.

Lucas also brought up the matter of the cake.

McCarran is chairman of the senate judiciary committee, which held hearings on the displaced persons bills. The administration tried, with no luck, to overcome McCarran's opposition to the bill, which would let more European refugees into the country. Last Saturday, while McCarran was in Europe, the senate shelved the bill.

Mr. Lucas: We provided him (McCarran) with a huge birthday cake, hoping that a birthday party might produce in the distinguished senator a mellow mood, and while in the mood he would consider this bill.

(Sen. Forest Donnell (R - Mo) rose.)

Mr. Lucas: In other words, we were affording him every opportunity to change his mind, giving him a little cake topped by persuasive arguments to the effect that he ought to do the proper thing; but it did not succeed. I yield.

Mr. Donnell: I think the senator has just answered the question I was going to ask, namely, whether the cake changed the mind of the senator from Nevada.

Mr. Lucas: The cake had no effect upon the senator from Nevada whatever. It was a large cake, too. (Laughter). It was a good cake. It was a delicious cake.

Lecture Lived By Tiny Visitor

A lecturer in an SUI marketing class thought the university had gone to the dogs, but it wasn't long before he was wishing it had gone to the cats.

Right in the middle of Prof. Wendell Smith's 10:30 a.m. lecture in the geology auditorium, a quiet little mouse caused a lot of noise.

It nonchalantly wandered in the back door, down the long aisle of steps, and crawled up the leg of a student sitting in the front seat. The confusion created quickly frightened the mouse away.

Prof. Smith agrees the university hasn't gone to the dogs—the mice have come to the university.

Chi-Hawks to Hold Dinner-Dance Rally

The Chi-Hawks, SUI alumni club in Chicago, will hold a dinner-dance rally Friday night Nov. 18 at the Morrison hotel, Chicago, preceding the Iowa-Notre Dame football game, Club Chairman F.E. Curran said Monday.

All former SUI students and their friends are invited to attend the rally, Curran said.

Tickets for the dinner, scheduled for 7 p.m., will be $3.75 per person; for the combined dinner-dance, $4.95. Dance tickets will sell for $2.40. Persons wanting tickets may write Al Schenk, room 2016, 208 South La Salle street, Chicago.

Arrangements are also being made for an Iowa alumni railroad car from Chicago to the Notre Dame game in South Bend, Ind. Information regarding the train and tickets for the game may be obtained from Erwin Prasse, Equitable Life Insurance company, 29 South La Salle street, Chicago.

Tailfeathers Must Buy Game Tickets Tonight

Tailfeathers who intend to go on the student trip to the Wisconsin, football game, Nov. 12, must pay for their tickets at the club meeting tonight, Pres. E.K. Jones said Monday.

The meeting will be held in Macbride auditorium at 7:30 p.m., Jones added.

If results can be tabulated before the meeting, team and individual winners of the Homecoming badge sales will be announced, he said.

Agree Homecoming Parade Was A Success

The Homecoming parade Friday night was a success, Homecoming committee members and residents said Monday.

"Considering it's being the first attempt at a Homecoming parade," William Coder, parade chairman, said, "it was even better than we had hoped for."

"Committee members from town," he said "did a Herculean job in getting the parade organized and off in time—men like Harry Dunlap, Martin Hunter and Wayne Putnam."

Regarding a common comment by some persons that the parade should have been held during the day, Coder said there are a number of reasons why this would not be possible nor practical.

Iowa City nor state highway police would permit a daytime Saturday parade, he said, because of an already bad traffic condition on that day.

"Thousands of persons can't get to Iowa City, continued, from distant spots in the state in time to see a Friday afternoon parade."

Another reason, Coder said, is that to have a unified program, where people can conveniently attend more attractions, it's best to have one event follow the other.

This was in reference to the parade's being followed by the pep rally, the Dolphin show and the open house at the Iowa Union.

Prof. L.C. Zopf, Homecoming committee general chairman, made the following statement Monday:

"Few persons appreciate what a tremendous job it is to get a parade organized and how many persons it actually takes to make an event of this kind successful."

A meeting of the Homecoming committee will be held in the near future, Coder said, and until then there will be nothing definite as to plans for another parade next year.

Slight damage was caused by a fire at University pre-school, 10 E. Market street, at 3 p.m. Monday. The fire was started by painters burning paint off the building, firemen said.

Pre-Professionals To Confer at SUI

SUI will hold a pre-professional conference Oct. 28 for prospective medical, dental and nursing students from other Iowa colleges. Prof. W.W. Morris, assistant dean of the colleges of medicine and dentistry, announced Monday.

The conference is designed to familiarize pre-professional students in the health sciences with the SUI educational programs and services.

Students who have applied, or intend to apply, for admission to dentistry, medicine or nursing will have an opportunity to meet members of the admissions committees and the SUI registrar to

Corn Bins Secured For Johnson County

Johnson county's corn storage problem may be ended with the arrival of 84 steel bins, Ray Samley, county AAA chairman said Monday.

The bins, each holding 3,200 bushels of corn, should be finished this week and filling operations will begin immediately, he said.

Administrators and faculty members of the health science colleges will speak to the group during the conference.

Only students from Iowa colleges other than SUI will attend the conference. A special conference will be held later this fall for SUI pre-medical students, Morris said.
