Atomic War Wouldn't Destroy Civilization, Russian Tells UN

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y. (UP)—Russia told the United Nations Monday that an atomic war would not necessarily mean the destruction of civilization and deplored American atom-bombing of the "peaceful Japanese town" of Hiroshima.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Jacob A. Malik told the general assembly's special political committee that "atom wielders with weak nerves"—meaning the western powers—were "trying to scare the world." The western powers, he said, "are spreading panic and exaggerated fear of atomic weapons."

Lashes West

Malik's statement came only a short while after Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky told another committee that the west was preparing "a new human slaughter" and forging west Germany into a "springboard for aggression" against Russia.

Vishinsky was answered by Ambassador Warren R. Austin of the United States, who rejected Russia's proposal for a big five "peace pact" as "an attempt to slander, obstruct and deceive."

Austin, offering a counter-proposal in cooperation with Britain, called on Russia to "stop your campaign of hate against the non-Communist world."

Malik launched Russia on its new atomic propaganda attack just before the special political committee adopted a French-Canadian proposal calling on nations to give up those sovereign rights that bar the way to international atomic control.

Offers Amendment

Malik attempted to incorporate the startling new Soviet atomic theory into UN policy by offering an amendment to the French-Canadian resolution. It would have had the UN express the opinion that atomic war would mean "the mass destruction of civilian populations and destruction of civilian towns."

The amendment was overwhelmingly defeated, and the committee kept the original wording which said that atomic war would "bring about the destruction of civilization."

School Aid Ruled For Vets' Orphans

DES MOINES (AP)—Orphans of World War II veterans in institutions of higher learning are entitled to $300 a year in state educational aid indefinitely, the attorney general's office ruled Monday.

In another of two opinions to the Iowa World War I bonus board the attorney general's office held that the $300 is generally regarded as for an academic year, but it cannot be more than $300 for a 12 months period.

The opinions were written by Assistant Attorney General Oscar Strauss. The first held that Sept. 16, 1940, is the date on which orphans of World War II veterans became eligible for educational aid.

The aid continues, Strauss held, until the U.S. government declares World War II ended, which neither congress nor President Truman has done thus far.

West Point Student Dies Of Polio in U. Hospitals

Joy Louise Schroeder, 21, West Point, who was admitted as an active polio patient to University hospitals on Nov. 7, died at 4 p.m. Monday, hospital authorities said.

The body was taken to a West Point funeral home. She is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Schroeder, West Point farmers.

Acheson, Top Russians, Attend Berlin Party

BERLIN (AP)—Secretary of State Dean Acheson talked to Russia's two top representatives in Germany at a cocktail party Monday after a whirlwind six hours of conferences with western allied and German officials.

Council Postpones Decision on Tavern; To Review Statutes

The Iowa City council Monday night postponed final decision on a petition by 15 Iowa Citizens to prevent the establishment of a tavern at 316 E. Benton street.

The petition was filed last month by residents living in the neighborhood of the proposed tavern site on the grounds that such a business would be unbecoming to the neighborhood.

Everett Hull earlier last month had secured a permit to build the tavern after he was forced to vacate another location where he operated a similar business for 16 years.

Hull said Monday night he would delay further plans until the council gave the "go-ahead" sign. To date, construction of the tavern is at the blueprint stage, he said.

City Atty. W.H. Bartley said the council acted legally in granting the building permit, but that the city ordinance in regard to where beer can be sold might need reviewing. The issue was referred to the council ordinance committee which will report at the next meeting, Nov. 22.

Other action Monday night included the second reading of an ordinance prohibiting parking on one side of several streets where parked cars have caused traffic congestion. The council voted to remove "no parking" signs in front of the St. Thomas More chapel on North Riverside drive until the situation there is studied by the parking committee.

An ordinance prohibiting children under 16 years of age from entering City cemetery unless accompanied by a parent or guardian became law after its third reading.

The council also moved to have Prof. Richard Holcomb, SUI institute of public affairs, make a survey of the Iowa City parking situation and report to the council. Holcomb said in a letter to the council that he hoped to complete such a survey by spring.

A petition setting maximum and minimum rates for all local taxis was blocked by council denial. The petition was presented by the taxi companies.

Winchell's Mother Plunges to Death

NEW YORK (AP)—Walter Winchell's mother plunged to death Monday night from the 10th floor of a hospital where she was under treatment.

The official police report said Mrs. Jennie Winchell, 77, "jumped or fell."

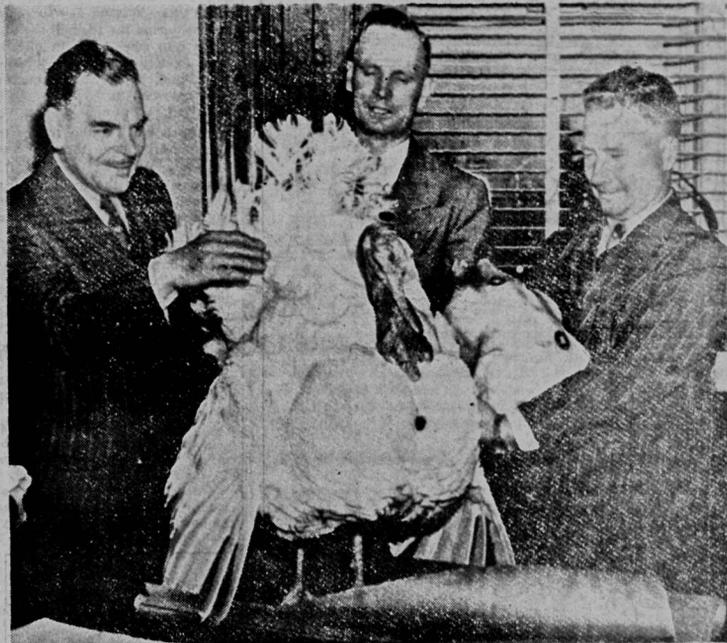

Her death was discovered when a nurse came into her room at Doctor's hospital and found a window open.

Garbage, $1,465 Hauled to Dump

An SUI student and his groceryman father in Cedar Rapids were much relieved after three policemen and a platoon of aides found $1,465 in the Cedar Rapids dump yard.

H.A. Meis, father of Thomas Patrick Meis, 24, Cedar Rapids, told authorities a garbage hauler had picked up a trash box at his store Sunday which contained a hidden roll of cash and checks.

Police posted a special guard Sunday night at the dump ground incinerator, pending an organized search Monday. A power shovel was used in the hunt.

Dewey Receives Thanksgiving Turkey

A TURKEY GAINED ENTRANCE to Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's executive offices at Albany, N.Y., Monday, but the governor didn't mind—in fact he was rather pleased. The 28 pound bird was a Thanksgiving gift from officials of the New York State Turkey association. Pictured with Dewey are Russell Rycer (center), of Watertown, N.Y., president of the association, and Fred Phinney (right), of Mansville, N.Y., a director.

U.S. May Act in Coal Crisis

SUI Campus Chest Far Short of Goal; Drive Ends Today

Contributions to the SUI campus chest-drive which ends today were called "very discouraging" Monday by Chairman Bob Kramer, A3, White Plains, N.Y.

Less than 40 percent of students had contributed Monday, Kramer said. The drive goal is a contribution from every student.

The drive will not be extended. Today is the last day students will be able to contribute to the World Student Service fund, the United Negro College fund, CARE and the American Cancer society, he said.

Thirteen more housing units reached 100 percent contributions Monday. They are Pi Kappa Alpha, Phi Kappa Sigma, Sigma Delta Tau, Alpha Xi Delta, Delta Gamma, Dea n house, Hutchinson house, Howard house, Quad unit (cottages 21 to 24), and Currier units 2, 12, 15 and 16.

Kramer asked the complete cooperation of all students to make the drive a success on the final day. "Make your contribution—no matter how large—to the girls soliciting campus chest funds near Macbride or Shaeffer halls," he said.

Says Judith Tried To Elude FBI Men

NEW YORK (AP)—An FBI agent testified Monday that Judith Coplon and Valentin Gubitchev were arrested because they tried to shake off FBI men in a pursuit rivaling a Hollywood spy thriller.

Agent Robert R. Granville was the witness. He traced move by the seven-car and 21-agent dragnet that finally closed in on the government girl and the Soviet engineer last March 4 in the shadow of New York's Third avenue elevated railroad.

Miss Coplon, 28, a former justice department employee, and Gubitchev, 32, now suspended from his United Nations post, are charged with conspiring to steal secret U.S. documents for transmittal to the Russians.

The guest, who isn't listed in police records, told officers he apparently had been sleepwalking.

At least when he woke, he said, he found himself standing on the narrow ledge which extends around the hotel at the seventh floor level above Washington street.

The guest didn't take time to plan his next move, just smashed and dived into the room. Thus the reason for the woman's scream, police said.

The sleepwalker suffered only a small cut on his hand.

Get Tickets Early For Holiday Travel, Bus Agent Advises

SUI students who plan to go home by bus for Thanksgiving vacation were urged Monday to purchase their tickets well in advance of the holiday.

This was the advice of Phil Spelman, local depot agent, who said that ample space will be available for all if the depot is able to find out ahead of time the number of students who expect to leave by bus.

"Cooperation in other years has been fine," Spelman said, "and we hope to be able to handle the large crowd of travelers with as little confusion as possible."

"We have plenty of equipment on call to transport the students, but we will call only enough buses to take care of the crowds that early ticket sales indicate."

"There are always quite a number of extra buses added to the holiday runs and we will know just how many to have on hand if students don't wait until Tuesday or Wednesday of next week to purchase their tickets."

Spelman advised students to buy their tickets sometime during the remainder of this week and avoid the depot rush just after classes are dismissed for vacation.

Awakens on Ledge Seven Floors Up

When a woman's scream followed the sound of breaking glass at 2:30 a.m. Sunday, the Hotel Jefferson manager called the police.

The sounds came from the upper levels of the hotel, and when the squad car arrived, police found a guest in his pajamas, recovering from the shock of a harrowing experience.

The guest, who isn't listed in police records, told officers he apparently had been sleepwalking.

At least when he woke, he said, he found himself standing on the narrow ledge which extends around the hotel at the seventh floor level above Washington street.

The guest didn't take time to plan his next move, just smashed and dived into the room. Thus the reason for the woman's scream, police said.

The sleepwalker suffered only a small cut on his hand.

They Should Have Read The Bible

ATLANTA (AP)—The Eighth Commandment—Thou Shalt Not Steal—caught up with a couple of men at church Monday. Police, looking for the pair who had robbed the Sardis church of $1,200 in furnishings, nabbed the two as they returned to the church with a truck.

They had come back for the piano.

Andrew May, Garssons, Must Serve Jail Terms

WASHINGTON (UP)—The supreme court Monday cleared the way for the government to jail former Rep. Andrew May, (D-Ky), and the Garsson brothers for bribery by refusing to reconsider a decision against hearing their appeal.

The three are under sentence of eight months to two years on the charge that May accepted bribes for helping Murray W. and Henry M. Garsson get wartime munitions contracts. May was then chairman of the house military affairs committee.

They have been free under $2,000 bond during a two-year fight through the courts to reverse the conviction. A month ago the high court ruled against hearing an appeal and it reaffirmed that stand Monday.

The next step is for the justice department and the federal district court to decide when and where the sentences shall be served. It may take a week or 10 days for the high court's formal order to clear the legal machinery back to the district court.

Unless the district court allows extra time for the trio to get their personal affairs in order, they may be ordered to prison shortly after Thanksgiving.

Attorneys for the three men said they will ask Federal Judge Henry A. Schweinhart to reduce the sentences. May's attorney said he would seek an oral hearing on his motion. A motion for reduced sentence can be based on poor health of a convicted person, his age, or good conduct while the case has been pending.

An appeal for reduced sentence also could be carried to the President, if rejected by the court. The attorneys declined to say whether they would make such a request to the White House.

In other actions Monday, the court:

Ruled, 8 to 0, that veterans may sue to enforce job seniority claims under the 1940 draft law even though the one-year reemployment guarantee expired before the suits were started.

Agreed to decide whether 21 Germans, sentenced by a U.S. military commission outside the United States, may call on U.S. courts to test their imprisonment.

Becomes Third Hike in Fares In Three Years

WASHINGTON (AP)—The interstate commerce commission Monday authorized a 12.5 percent increase in railroad passenger fares in the east, estimated to give the carriers another $37.8-million a year.

Limited Area

The rise applies to the area east of the Mississippi and north of the Ohio and Potomac rivers and can become effective in five days.

Commuter fares are not affected.

It was the third fare increase authorized for eastern railroads in three years. They got a 10 percent boost in 1947, along with all the nation's railroads. Eastern fares were raised an average of about 17 percent last year.

The southern and western railroads did not apply for the increase granted Monday.

The new rates will raise eastern coach fares to about 3.37 cents per mile and parlor and car and sleeping car fares to about 4.5 cents per mile, the commission said.

Quotes Prices

A spokesman for the New York Central railroad at New York said the new fare increase would boost the price of one-way coach tickets from New York to Chicago from $27.30 to $30.71. First class fares will be hiked from $36.35 to $40.89.

From New York to Detroit, coach fares will be raised from $20.67 to $23.25, and first class tickets from $27.28 to $30.89.

The basic fares in the south and west now are 2.5 cents per mile for coaches and 3.5 cents in parlor and sleeping cars.

Monday's increase was authorized by a vote of 6 to 4.

Local Comment ...

F. E. Meacham, Iowa City ticket agent of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railway, said Monday night he didn't believe the rate hike would affect railroads west of Chicago.

Meacham based his statement on a similar situation last year when eastern railroads jumped their rates 17 percent and the Rock Island failed to follow suit.

He said that the rate increase would probably be confined to members of the Eastern Passenger association, adding that the Rock Island railroad is a member of the Western Passenger association.

"If the Rock Island railroad does increase its rates," he said, "we can expect similar increases in the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy and the Chicago, North-western and Milwaukee railroads."

Bridges Faces Trial On Perjury Charge

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Lean, hook-nosed Harry Bridges, leader of 75,000 CIO longshoremen, went on trial in federal court Monday in the government's third attempt to deport him because of his alleged affiliation with communism.

The action before Federal District Judge George B. Harris is a charge of criminal conspiracy to commit perjury in connection with Bridges' 1945 citizenship hearing.

On trial with Australia-born Bridges are two of his top lieutenants, Henry Schmidt, leader of the recent Honolulu dock strike, and J. R. Robertson, first vice-president of the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's union.

A panel of 75 prospective jurors were on hand for Monday morning's trial opening, but by 4 p.m. adjournment only five were tentatively seated. These included two women and three men, one a clerk for American President lines.

ANACONDA PRESIDENT DIES BUTTE, MONT. (AP)—J.R. Hobbins, president of the Anaconda Copper Mining company, died of a heart attack here Monday.

Hands-Around-the-Globe —

A "hand-around-the-globe" celebration is underway on the SU campus. Sponsored by nine campus organizations, the International Students' week is a step in the direction of worldwide understanding.

The purpose of the celebration is to help cement relations among the various peoples of the world and eliminate prejudices and bigotry. Persons need not be identified with their race, color or creed in a world of intelligent citizens. That idea has prompted the initiation of the International Student week.

Similar meetings to demonstrate worldwide friendship among students are being held in Budapest, Rome, Calcutta, Paris and many other university cities throughout the world.

Various segments of the world's population have always gathered in small ethnic groups and pointed their fingers at other groups, shouting, "They're not like us. We should hate them."

That same basic misunderstanding has always presented a barrier to persons genuinely interested in bettering relations among peoples of the world.

Today there is still a fear against fighting for racial and religious tolerance. Raymond Fosdick described what is happening to persons who fight for equality.

"If you sign a petition to admit colored people to public housing developments, if you favor fair employment practices or are concerned about civil liberties, if you fight for the protection of the rights of the foreign-born, if you oppose religious prejudice or Jim Crowism, if you take any point of view which involves the implementation of the Declaration of Independence . . . you are apt to be suspected in some circles as a knowing participant in the Communist front — or at the very least a witness dupe of Moscow's hypnotic influences."

The International Student week is designed to erase that fear and to encourage an intelligent approach to the problem of bridging the gap dividing the religious and racial groups of the world. This campus movement should have the unanimous support of the student body.

Last Day to Give —

Today is the last day of the Campus chest drive — a drive that has met with only moderate success thus far.

Until Sunday, about 30 percent of SUI's near 10,000 students had contributed. The totals for yesterday were not completed yesterday evening, but Chairman Bob Kramer did not sound an optimistic note as to the day's result.

He did report, however, that several "100 percent" organizations had been talked during the day.

It is unlikely that even a fair spurt in yesterday's contributions will raise total contributions to over 50 percent, which isn't very good for a campaign that has stressed "number" instead of "amount" in donations.

Certainly, Campus chest is a worthwhile undertaking. It supports CARE, which sends food and clothing parcels to needy persons in war-damaged countries, the World Student service fund, which aids students and faculty in other nations, the United Negro college fund and the American cancer society.

It is convenient, in that it cuts down the number of drives for which the student is asked to dig into his pocket.

Carried on by volunteer students who canvass housing units and the campus area, it asks little compared to the amount the student spends each day.

Gals who could shell out $3.00 to hear "Old Diz" and men who sunk a good chunk of cash to watch the game in Madison, should be able to shell out a little for Campus chest.

Today, when you're approached by some girl on the campus and asked to contribute, instead of quietly continuing on your blissful way, stop and give to Campus chest. Help SUI make a better showing.

A Muffed Chance —

Most persons believed Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) put his foot in his mouth when he charged David Lillenthal with "incredible mismanagement."

Recent developments indicate that all certainly is not well within the vital atomic energy commission. But to place the blame on Chairman Lillenthal is not being fair or even logical.

The atomic energy commission is wound up in an intricate maze of legal red tape. It finds itself handcuffed when it comes to making decisions necessary for successful functioning of our atomic energy program.

One congressional "check" that is causing the AEC no end of trouble is the military liaison committee, to which the AEC must report all matters of policy. The ever-watchful committee then relays to the White House what sort of action should be taken.

This committee has discouraged research not closely related to weapons, and has channeled all atomic findings into military projects. The AEC has objected to these two policies, evidently believing that the commission should be planning for peace as well as war.

The AEC has had to tread softly in obtaining foreign uranium, lest at times it step on the toes of U.S. foreign policy. Trying to adjust itself to what have been inconsistent foreign relations has put Lillenthal's commission at a decided disadvantage.

Of course, there remain the joint congressional committee on atomic energy, headed by Sen. Brian McMahon, and of which Hickenlooper is a member.

It has been critical of the commission's behavior for some time, and last summer when the Iowan senator hurled his "mismanagement" charges, the whole set-up got thorough raking over. There is agitation for another.

Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson and State Department Head Dean Acheson disagree over atomic energy relations with friendly nations. This also hampers the work of the commission, vainly trying to arrive at some sort of consistent program.

With all the legal fodder hampering the work of the commission, it is hard to see how Hickenlooper could have issued his condemnation of the way things are going. From his outside perch, he should have been able to view the activities of the AEC in true perspective, and see that it is a political stronghold and not incapacity that is hampering the work of the commission and its leader, David Lillenthal.

Consequently, now that everyone sees the sad state the AEC is in, few heads nod in solemn agreement with him.

Hickenlooper was on the right track. It's too bad he didn't recognize the real dilemma, instead of placing the blame on Lillenthal, who is struggling to put together the pieces of a puzzle that just won't fit.

Interpreting the News —

France Opposes Increase In German Steel Output

By J.M. ROBERTS JR.
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

There is one way — perhaps the only one — by which the United States can get France to permit any great increase in German steel production. That is to help France's own steel industry to stay ahead.

When the French insist on limiting German production to 11.5-million tons annually it is not so much the matter of quantity as the relative position of the two industries in which they are interested.

And it's not, except in a very minor way, a matter of commercial competition. Recognizing steel as the backbone of ability to make war, the French — every official to whom I have talked — are determined that never again shall Germany outstrip France in this field.

Robert Schuman, French foreign minister and former premier, has been a rock of strength in the allied recovery program for Europe, constantly leading his country into lanes of cooperation about which it was doubtful or even fearful.

But, while cooperating with the integration of Germany into the western system, even he cannot play loosely with French fears of revived militarism across the Rhine.

This French fear was obviously the major fly in the ointment of allied moves at the tri-power foreign ministers conference looking toward greater German participation in western plans for containing Russian communism.

Progress is being made, however, although the ministers are reticent, there are indications they agreed to end or curtail dismantlement of German factories, to give Germany more control of her own foreign trade, and to accept her into various western councils of cooperative action.

In fact, a German representative already is in Paris for discussion of a Franco-German trade treaty.

One factor that may help allay fears of German industrial revival is that, for the present, the limitation on steel production is purely technical. Last year there was a big jump in production, but it has not only stopped advancing, but is receding at present.

This year it will not be within 3-million tons of the limit. Both domestic and foreign markets are off. France would seem to have time to offset any increase in the limit long before German production gets up to it. Raising the limit now would merely mean the beginning of plant preparations.

Increased German industrial production for which steel is needed is of two-fold importance to the United States. First in the campaign to get European economy on a self-supporting basis before the Marshall plan ends in 1952, and second to relieve the burden of contributions now being made to Germany.

It undoubtedly will be worked out. It may take a special shot in the arm for the French steel industry to do it.

HE BECAME pretty provoked when his scissors began snipping the open air because of my constant dodging from side to side.

But if he had been a barber for 40 years, I still wouldn't have wanted him snipping without looking.

But I knew I'd have to humor him since he already had me in the chair, so I tried to hold still.

And it was hard to do so during one of the times his team was trying to hold their opponents on the one-yard line.

Pausing his hair-cutting as the tension grew over whether his team would hold or not, his left hand, or his comb hand, gathered up a good sized bundle of my hair.

And all the while he was pulling, I could hear the scissors snapping open and closed near my right ear.

Surviving that with only a headache and gratitude that the scissors hadn't removed a lobe, I thought the worst was over.

But I had forgotten one thing. My neck was yet to be shaved. And as he opened the razor I felt that the time for revolt had arrived.

"I THINK MY mother's calling me," I said. "I'd better go."

He didn't hear me. His team had started a march toward a touchdown, and the razor raked down the back of my neck in much the same manner he might have sharpened a pencil with a pocket knife.

He forgot to wipe the excess lather from my neck but I didn't mind. I even thanked him when he emptied the hair from the cloth into my lap.

I don't know what people thought when they saw me walking through the rain with a smile of relief on my face and soap suds running down my collar.

But you can bet I'll get my next haircut on a Wednesday.

On 'Far Side of the Sun' —

Enoch Lives on $6 a Week

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Albert Enoch, 57-year-old chemist, has been living for some years now in an economic twilight which he calls "the far side of the sun."

He gets along — adequately and without complaint — on a total of $6 a week. He earns the $6 himself.

Until a few weeks ago, Enoch had resigned himself to obscure poverty. He set but one condition for the remaining years of his life — financial independence.

How he attained that goal — on six self-earned dollars a week — was one of those human-interest stories that go unnoticed in a busy metropolis.

Then his modest design-for-existence suddenly became a cause celebre — an issue in California's current pension controversy.

"The pensioners in the hotel where I lived jumped all over me the day the newspaper carried a story about my $6 a week budget," Enoch says. "I used to have a lot of friends at the hotel. Now I haven't any."

"They say my $6 a week, for which I am indebted to no one, makes their $75-a-month state-paid pensions look a little like fraud."

"Well, what's done is done. I meant no harm, but an old man likes to talk . . ."

Enoch was just talking, killing some of the time that nowadays hangs heavily on his hands, in a veterans hospital a few weeks ago. He goes there occasionally for treatment of the illness (phlebitis) which has left him unable to hold a steady job. A reporter overheard him, and began wondering how anybody can live in high-priced Los Angeles on $6 a week.

Here's how Enoch says he does it:

- 6 small eggs at 42 cents doz. . . $ .21
- 1 lb. bacon ends at 20-cents (2 weeks) . . . . .11
- 2 small cans evaporated milk. . . . .10
- half-lb. ground meat . . . . .15
- 1 lb. fish . . . . .20
- 5 lbs. honey at 70-cents (6 weeks) . . . . .11
- 1 lb. peanut butter at 30 cents (3 weeks) . . . . .10
- 1 lb. coffee at 42-cents (2 weeks) . . . . .21
- 1 sack tobacco . . . . .20
- surplus . . . . .20

His only other expense is $3.75 a week for a hotel room.

"Of course, you have to stuff your pride up your sleeves and adjust to living on the other side."

The "other side," Enoch says, means the areas of any city where the poor live.

"It's another world, a world of the aged and lonely who sit in rockers and talk about politics or the past; of the people who wear old clothes and whom you don't see when you pass them on a street, a hemisphere on the far side of the sun, where the inhabitants get less than their share of warmth."

Those words are Enoch's words. He reads philosophy for relaxation, and the years when he lived a little closer to the sun are reflected in his conversation.

By JOE BROWN

SATURDAY is no day to get a haircut during the football season. The rain caught me in one of these Iowa towns this past Saturday, and, being near a barber shop, I dashed in.

The one idle barber was hunched over a small radio trying to hear an early game through the static.

Remembering the embarrassing comments recently about the length of my hair, I thought I'd have a few inches sheared off.

In passing I'd like to say that it's through no desire on my part that I let my hair grow long — it's simply a matter of a buck buying four hamburgers.

But for several days I had known I'd have to break down soon and add a dollar to the bill of those independent, head-strong barbers.

I sat down in the empty chair, coughed a couple of times and received no attention from the radio quarterback.

Knowing that impertinence would get me nothing but a Mohawk hair-do, I didn't dare call him from the radio.

WHEREUPON I BEGAN reading a copy of The World's Greatest Newspaper, and by the time I was thoroughly down on everything, a station break permitted the barber to notice that his chair held an occupant.

His disappointment was obvious when he came over and said, "You don't need a haircut, do you? You're just listening to the game or getting out of the rain, aren't you?"

Still remembering what barbers are capable of and still not wanting to get him against me I emphasized my need by lifting a lock of hair which covered my ear and asked him to repeat his question.

He cut my hair, but I paid in more ways than by giving him a dollar.

I wouldn't have minded his excitement over the football game if he had only looked at my head as he cut my hair instead of at the radio across the floor from us.

HE BECAME pretty provoked when his scissors began snipping the open air because of my constant dodging from side to side.

But if he had been a barber for 40 years, I still wouldn't have wanted him snipping without looking.

But I knew I'd have to humor him since he already had me in the chair, so I tried to hold still.

And it was hard to do so during one of the times his team was trying to hold their opponents on the one-yard line.

Pausing his hair-cutting as the tension grew over whether his team would hold or not, his left hand, or his comb hand, gathered up a good sized bundle of my hair.

COLLEGE FOR JAPANESE TOKYO (AP) — The U.S. army intends to spend more than $200,000 to send some 140 Japanese men and women to American colleges next year.

Drug Seen as Alcoholism Cure

SAN FRANCISCO (UP) — Preliminary experiments with a new drug, antabuse, indicate it may be the long-sought "quick cure" for some alcoholics, it was revealed recently.

Medical men involved in the experiment emphasize the "perhaps" angle of their still young investigation and declare that the drug has shown no signs of being a cure for all persons afflicted with the disease.

Dr. Alexander Simon, assistant superintendent of the Langley Porter clinic, said that preliminary results of a study being conducted jointly by the clinic and the University of California's pharmacology department are inconclusive.

But the experiments, first started by a group of Danish workers last year, show that of 30 alcoholics who have been taking antabuse for a month or so, 22 have done no significant drinking — and 14 of the 22 needed no supplementary psychotherapy to keep them off the bottle.

Alcoholism is one of the toughest illnesses to treat, not because there is no remedy for it, but because the remedy has in the past been limited to a long and costly and involved psychiatric treatment during which the patient — and sometimes the doctor — loses patience and the patient has a complete relapse.

Medical science, for that reason, is seeking a "quick cure" that can be handled by the family doctor or general practitioner without resort to the lengthy and costly psychiatric treatment. One of the purposes of the current experiments here is to determine if antabuse is such a "cure."

Cheese Puff Souffle A Delightful Solution To Fast Meal Need

Ever have guests drop in unexpectedly? Wonder what you could whip up that's quick, tasty and made from ingredients you have in the cupboard and ice-box?

Mrs. Carroll Coleman, wife of the SUI typographer, suggests cheese puff, a tasty dish cheese lovers will enjoy.

The whole casserole may be prepared and ready to serve in a matter of about 15 minutes.

More Dependable
Cheese puff doesn't fall like ordinary souffles, and it's more dependable since you don't have to know the exact moment your guests (or husband) will arrive.

Mrs. Coleman recommends taking the cheese dish to potluck dinners, as well as serving it for dinner at home.

Cheese puff, unlike most souffles, may be kept in the ice box, warmed over and served again.

Cheese Puff Recipe

Mrs. Coleman's recipe for this dish requires 1-4 cup rice, 2 tablespoons flour, 2 tablespoons margarine or butter, 1 cup grated cheese, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1 cup milk and 2 eggs.

The cheese dish is prepared as follows:

Cook the rice in boiling water to which 1-2 teaspoon of salt has been added.

Melt the margarine, add flour, add the milk slowly, then the grated cheese. Cook over low heat until the cheese is melted. Add 1-2 teaspoon of salt to the mixture after removing it from the stove.

Combine the cheese sauce with rice.

Separate the eggs. Beat the whites until stiff, the yolks until frothy. Fold yolks and whites into the rice and cheese mixture.

Pour in a greased baking dish and bake for 30 minutes at 350 degrees Fahrenheit.

The cheese puff serves four. Mrs. Coleman says she often doubles the recipe when entertaining groups of eight for dinner at the Coleman house, 111 Lusk avenue.

'King' Cole Trio to Appear at SUI Friday

Cole Trio Shows —

Jazz Musicians Go to College, Too

Jazz combined with education! That's the theme of Nat "King" Cole and his trio who will appear here Friday on the double feature program sponsored by the Central Party committee.

Woody Herman and his orchestra will provide the other attraction for the two programs in the Iowa Union Friday night at 7:30 p.m. and 10 p.m.

Irving Ashby, guitarist with the Cole trio, holds one of the highest scholastic records at his home town high school in Summerville, Mass.

Awarded Scholarship
Ashby was offered a scholarship to the New England Conservatory of Music as a result of his interest in the guitar.

Since the conservatory had no courses to offer in the study of this instrument, Ashby undertook the self-learning process.

The guitarist wrote a technical text book on the instrument which was later accepted and used by this conservatory.

Ashby has completed a course in harmony at the University of Chicago and he and his wife hold three degrees between them.

Mrs. Ashby, a school teacher, is now working on her Ph. D. at the University of Southern California.

Joe Comfort, who plays bass violin with the trio, finished four years at Compton college, Los Angeles, and was graduated with an AB degree.

Practice Makes Perfect
The educational theme of "Practice Makes Perfect" is exemplified by Jack Costanzo, "bon-goi" and newest member of the trio.

Costanzo received his early practice on bongos by beating on his wife's cold cream jars. He constructed his first real drum out of an empty butter tub and a piece of dried sheepskin.

Nat "King" Cole used his musical education during his early years in Chicago by seeing that his family was well-fed on Christmas. The musician won the amateur contest sponsored by his church on Christmas Eve for four straight years. The first prize—a 25-pound turkey.

Cole's musical education consisted of five years of piano lessons. He demonstrated his musical ability at the age of four when he played nursery rhymes and lullabies for his family and his kindergarten companions.

Civil Service Hits Information Fakes

The U.S. civil service commission is "declaring war" on the so-called "civil service schools" which promise success in federal examinations.

These agents get information from the commission and sell it to applicants who think it is some special aid, Lester Parizek, Iowa City civil service secretary, said Monday.

The commission has no connection with such schools and recommends none, Parizek said.

No agents of the commission sell courses or accept fees or commissions for securing applications for government jobs, he said. Free information about civil service exams may be obtained from the civil service secretary at any first or second class post-office, Parizek said.

Correction

In Sunday's Daily Iowan, the proprietorship of the Student Lunch, 108 S. Capitol street, was erroneously reported. Mrs. Zayne Hedges, 1907 G street, is the proprietor of the restaurant which opened recently.

Civil Service Positions Open for Science Aids

The U.S. civil service commission is looking for physical science aids to fill positions paying $2,200 to $3,100 yearly in Washington, D.C. and vicinity.

The branches covered by the examinations for the positions include chemistry, physics, metallurgy, geology, mathematics and other physical sciences except meteorology, the commission said.

Applications and information may be obtained from the local civil service secretary, Lester Parizek, at the Iowa City post office.

County to Support U.S. Crop Controls

The Johnson County Farm Bureau resolved Saturday night to support federal crop controls and price supports for farm products at 90 percent of parity at the annual meeting in the Iowa City community building.

The group, which includes half of the county's farmers, also went on record as favoring more facilities for training doctors and more investigation into the "farmer's share" of the consumer's food dollar.

Re-elected to office were Lisle V. Hurlbut, route 2, president; and Emil Novy, North Liberty, vice president.

C.C. Erb, route 6, was elected secretary and Dewey Elliot, Oxford, treasurer. Mrs. J. Orville Hora, route 7, was re-elected women's committee chairman.

Oxford 4-H Youth To Attend Meeting

Donald K. Johnson, 20, Oxford, has been selected as one of the 25 Iowa 4-H club members to represent the state at the national club congress in Chicago, Nov. 27 to Dec. 1.

Johnson will leave about Nov. 27 for the meeting which usually draws about 1,400 outstanding club members and leaders from all parts of the U.S.

Johnson was president of the Johnson county boy's 4-H club in 1948 and secretary-treasurer in 1946. He also served two years as president and secretary-treasurer of the Cosgrove Hustler's club.

Johnson was named champion shorthorn beef club member at the 1949 Iowa state fair and received a shorthorn heifer from the breed association. His trip to Chicago will be sponsored by the Cudahy Packing company.

Compare the smoothness of the ride. Compare De Soto's Tip-Toe Hydraulic Shift and gyrol Fluid Drive that let you drive all day without shifting.

Above all, compare dollar-for-dollar value, and see why this is the most wanted De Soto in all De Soto history. Find out how easy it is to own. Then—and only then—make your decision.

Camp Has Fourth Polio Case

The fourth polio case in three weeks from Dinty's Trailer camp, Coralville, was reported Monday at University hospitals. He is James Thompson, 2, son of an SUI graduate student, Donald Thompson. Mr. and Mrs. Thompson have another son, Stephen, 19 months.

The trailer camp is situated in West Lucas township just beyond the Coralville town limits.

The township health physician said Monday that the state department of health and state sanitary engineer had inspected the camp three times.

"The state health department and local health authorities are doing everything possible in the way of sanitation and isolating people at the camp to keep the situation under control," he said. Atty. William Morrison, member of the Coralville school board and city attorney, said he thought it unlikely the board will close the school.

The number of active polio cases under treatment at University hospitals rose sharply Monday to 18 as four patients were admitted to active wards and two persons were transferred to the inactive list.

New patients in serious condition were Susan Kerres, 6, Cedar Rapids, and Theresa McDonnell, 14, Clinton.

Also admitted were Mrs. Satsia McQuillen, 44, Cascade, and the Thompson boy, both in fair condition.

Those transferred to inactive wards were Thomas Turner, 2, and Thomas Haynes, 5, both of Waterloo.

TALKS ON BLOOD

Walter Seegers, a 1934 SUI graduate who is now head of physiology and pharmacology at Wayne university, gave a talk Monday afternoon in the SUI chemistry building on "Coagulation of the Blood." Drs. R. T. Tidrick, department of surgery, and John T. McClintock, director of post-graduate studies, gave addresses of welcome Monday morning.

Drs. John Randall and W.C. Keetzel of the SUI department of obstetrics and gynecology and Robert L. Jackson of the department of pediatrics, spoke at the first session.

Dr. John Huffman of the Northwestern medical school, Chicago, was guest speaker Monday.

The conference will continue through Friday. The Friday meeting will be combined with the fall meeting of the Iowa Obstetrical and Gynecological society.

'Let it Blow' Says Snow Clean-Up Crew

The SUI campus snow clearers are well prepared for the winter's first blow, R.J. Phillips, superintendent of the SUI physical plant, said.

Phillips said the plant owns three sidewalk snow plows, one road maintainer (a street snow plow), a bull dozer with a blade and loader, "all the shovels we need and an ample supply of cinders, sand and salt."

The snow clean-up crew numbers at least 15 men, he said, and if things get out of hand, more can be added.

According to Phillips, here's the way the cleanup works: The snow men are on the job at 4 or 5 a.m. — early enough to beat the morning traffic. Prior-

Starts TODAY CAPITOL

Dear Joe and Jane:
For weeks now we have been deluged with requests for a new film that has taken New York and the critics by storm. "DEVIL IN THE FLESH" at last arrives in Iowa City today. It is without question one of the great films of our day.
But rather than try to extol the greatness of this film in my own inadequate way, let us reprint here a review by BOSLEY CROWTHER of the NEW YORK TIMES.
LOOKING UP
By BOSLEY CROWTHER

It is rare, indeed, that this corner has occasion within one week to hail the boldness and candor of two exceptional films. Yet that was our privilege this past week, and the thrill which this coincidence inspired has led us to wild and hopeful wondering whether maybe the millennium has set in, whether maybe the screen is maturing, instead of drifting toward gibbering idiocy.
The first of these stimulating pictures was the French film, "Devil in the Flesh," which opened here at the Paris Theatre in the wake of a stormy career. Even before it was presented in France two years ago, it had started a train of agitations because of its unconventional theme. Later when it was submitted for entry into the United States, the Treasury Department seized it until it was passed by a special reviewing board. And then the New York censors foiled it — until it was finally passed by them with one or two slight cuts.
The reasons for all these interceptions are unambiguously plain: the film tells a frank and forthright story of an openly adulterous affair between a 17-year-old French schoolboy and the wife of a soldier during World War I. It does no queasy evading, no beat-

Hawks Begin Preparations For Irish

Irish Do Everything Right, Say Scouts

Iowa wound up its Big Ten schedule Saturday, but it doesn't mean that the Hawkeyes will have a chance to slack off any this week. The Hawks have one more game left on their schedule — against a team by the name of Notre Dame.

Coach Eddie Anderson sent his men through a brisk signal call-in drill Monday afternoon and will begin hard work today in preparation for the Irish Saturday.

The Hawkeye injury list may be shortened for the final game of the season. The only serious casualty from the Wisconsin game Saturday is Halfback Duane Brandt with a sprained ankle.

Austin Turner, Glenn Drahn and Gerald Nordman were bumped up a bit, but it is believed that they will round into shape well before the weekend.

Junebug Perrin, right guard, who missed the Wisconsin trip, may be available for Notre Dame.

Three Irish Backfields Iowa scouts, who looked over the Notre Dame team in October, reported that the Laphy men do just about everything as it should be done. Their record most certainly bears this out.

"They have three good backfields and you have to defend against quick thrusts off the T, pitchouts and forward passes," was the report of Scout Waddy Davis.

He named the outstanding line-men as Leon Hart, offensive left end and defensive left tackle; Jim Martin, an offensive tackle and defensive end; Emil Sitko, full-back; Larry Coutre, halfback; and Bob Williams, a smart quarterback and fine passer.

Eighth in Series The game with the Irish is the eighth in the series. Iowa trails, 4-3, since the first contest in 1921. It was in 1940 that the Hawks last beat Notre Dame, 7-0. Since then Iowa has suffered successive defeats from 1945 through 1948.

Day Off for Irish SOUTH BEND (AP) — Unbeaten Notre Dame got a day off from practice Monday following Saturday's 42-6 triumph over North Carolina at New York.

Trainer Hugh Burns reported the Irish emerged from the Tar Heel game with no injuries other than bumps and bruises. Preparations for the Iowa clash here Saturday will begin for the Irish today.

Opinion Differs in Irish, Tarheel Game

OFFICIALS RUSH IN BETWEEN NOTRE DAME AND NORTH CAROLINA players near the end of their game at Yankee stadium in New York, Saturday. Friction followed Notre Dame's final touchdown in the game which the Irish won, 42-6. Notre Dame players identified are: Tackle Ed ukak (72); Center Jim Hamby (55); Guard Bob Lally (60); Back Fidel Gander (47); Center Jerry Groom of Des Moines (50). Among the Tarheels are Guard Bill Wardle (62) and Back Bob Gnat (29).

St. Pat's Opens Cage Season Here Tonight

St. Patrick's high school opens its current cage campaign tonight, meeting Catholic Central of Ft. Madison in the Shamrock's gym at 8 p.m.

The Shamrocks are looking for improvement over last year's outfit which won the Davenport diocesan championship.

Father Ray J. Pacha, coach of St. Pat's says this year's team is going to be bigger than last year, though they won't be as big as he would like.

Heading the returning letter-men's roster are five seniors, Earl Cooney, Tom Falls and Leo Sorenson, forwards; and Alvin Streb and Clayton Michael, guards.

The rest of the squad is made up primarily of juniors. Jerry Cunningham, center; Duane Loney, forward and J. J. Connors, guard are juniors who will probably see a lot of action.

Twelve of the 22 games will be played here.

The schedule: Nov. 15-Catholic Central, Ft. Madison, HERE; Nov. 18-Immaculate Conception, Cedar Rapids, HERE; Nov. 21-St. Mathias, Muscatine, HERE; Nov. 23-St. Wenceslaus, Cedar Rapids, HERE; Nov. 28-St. Patrick's, Cedar Rapids, HERE; Nov. 30-Parcell, HERE; Dec. 2-St. Paul's, Burlington, HERE; Dec. 6-St. Mathias, Muscatine, HERE; Dec. 9-St. Mary's, Muscatine, HERE; Dec. 13-Catholic Central, Ottumwa, HERE; Dec. 16-Immaculate Conception, Cedar Rapids, HERE; Dec. 20-St. Mary's, Clinton, HERE; Jan. 4-St. Mary's, Muscatine, HERE; Jan. 6-Catholic Central, Ottumwa, HERE; Jan. 10-St. Patrick's, Cedar Rapids, HERE; Jan. 12-Catholic Central, Ottumwa, HERE; Jan. 15-St. Paul's, Burlington, HERE; Jan. 18-St. Mary's, Iowa City, HERE; Jan. 24-St. Mary's, Clinton, HERE; Feb. 3-St. Wenceslaus, Cedar Rapids, HERE; Feb. 10-7 — Davenport Diocesan tourney at St. Ambrose College, Davenport; Feb. 10-Cosgrove, HERE; Feb. 15-St. Mary's, Iowa City, there

Flying Grid Fan Finds Score 'High'

EVANSTON, ILL. (AP) — A youth who flew his plane low over a football game and shouted, "What's the score," found out Monday.

Richard Crockett, 20, was brought to court after someone spotted the number on his plane and notified police.

"The score is $100 fine and $6 costs," said Judge James Corcoran.

Dittmer, McKenzie Set Records

Jack Dittmer and Bob McKenzie, Iowa's great pair of offensive ends, closed out their Big Ten careers against Wisconsin Saturday by breaking conference pass receiving records.

Dittmer gained 343 yards by pass receiving in six Big Ten games to better the old record of 313 yards set by Dick Rifenburg of Michigan last year. Dittmer's mark was set on only 15 catches, while Rifenburg's was established on 17.

McKenzie caught four passes against Wisconsin Saturday to run his total to 19 for six Big Ten games. This is one better than the old conference record of 18 set by Purdue's Bill Canfield in 1945.

However, it is likely that Indiana's Junior End Clifton Anderson will set new records in both departments in the Hoosier finale with Purdue Saturday. In five games Anderson is tied with McKenzie for number of pass completions with 19.

Dittmer and McKenzie end the season in a non-conference game at Notre Dame.

SCRIMMAGE CANCELLED COLUMBUS, OHIO (AP) — Coach Wes Fesler Monday cancelled all scrimmage this week to avoid Ohio State injuries in the crucial Michigan game Saturday.

Hawklet Cage Outlook Drab

Coach Howard Moffitt doesn't have room for optimism when he sits back to survey the hopes of his City high cagers.

He recalls that of the top 15 men from last year's team, 12 graduated. Gone are such stand-outs as Gene Hettrick, Rox Shain and John Fenton.

Coach SUI Grad Moffitt, who learned his basketball at SUI from Coach Rollie Williams, is in his first year as head basketball coach at City high. He succeeded Gil Wilson who moved to a new position at DeKalb, Ill.

Bill Fenton, Ken Hay and Bob Kacena, the only three returning lettermen, will probably form the nucleus around which he will mold his team, Moffitt said.

He added that he expected to be weak in the vital height element. Last year, the Hawklets were among the tallest in the state.

Lineup Not Set With the opening game of the season only a week away, Moffitt still has to decide on a starting lineup.

Fenton will be worked in as a forward or center, he said, with Hay at a guard and Kacena a forward. These boys still have their football muscles to loosen up, after finishing their duties on the gridiron Friday night.

Among other candidates likely to be counted on for major duty, Moffitt named Gene Brawner, Jack Frantz and Bob Fry from last year's "B" squad.

Platoon System Hit By Rutgers Coach

NEW YORK (AP) — Harvey Harmon, Rutgers football coach and a member of the national coaches rules committee, revived the two-platoon controversy Monday when he asserted that free substitution would have to be ruled out of football "before it destroys the game."

Harmon said that the two-platoon system, inaugurated by Michigan four years ago, have separated the "haves" from the "have-nots" so definitely that now there are few close college games and 90 percent of the nation's coaches are against the system.

Concurring with him, at a meeting of the New York Football Writers association, were such coaches as Jim Tatum of Maryland, George Sauer of Navy, Rip Engle of Brown, Ed Danowski of Fordham, Hooks Mylin of N.Y.U., and Moon Mondschein of C.C.N.Y.

NO REST FOR WILDCATS EVANSTON, ILL. (AP) — Northwestern's footballers, despite a 39-20 win over Colgate last Saturday, were sent through a two-hour drill Monday by Coach Bob Veights.

But the College of Pacific Tigers of Stockton, Calif., St. Vincent of Latrobe, Pa., and Gannon college of Erie, Pa., sported the most impressive scoring records among the unbeaten and untied.

Brechler Criticizes Method of Ranking Top Football Teams

CHICAGO (AP) — Purdue football coach Stu Holcomb praised Notre Dame as a "great team" before a quarterback luncheon Monday, but intimated that the Irish schedule was not as rugged as that played by numerous other squads in the nation.

"When you play Notre Dame that week you've got to be the greatest team in the country," he said. "There's a big let down after Notre Dame. Last year we prepared for them all spring, and early fall, and we lost by one point. This year we had six days to get ready for them."

Notre Dame would like to play teams like Michigan, Minnesota and Illinois, Holcomb said, but doesn't. Other clubs, he added, meet tougher teams week after week, and "brother, it's tough when they keep hitting you on the head."

Army Football Minor "I've been at army three years," he said, "and football is just a minor part of the activity there. They can't afford to play the schedule they'd like to play and have the kids keep up for it."

Athletic Director Paul Brechler of Iowa criticized rankings of teams on a national basis of games won and lost.

"There ought to be some method devised for credit for the teams you play instead of the teams you beat," he said.

"Holcomb must have done a terrific job with his team to beat Minnesota," he added. "Minnesota has a tremendously powerful team."

Hints at Cheating Brechler said he would "grant that many and probably all schools were cheating" in acquiring players under the present recruiting system, but he asked "How are you going to solve the problems?"

"I believe one of the best ways, if we're really sincere, is for the universities to take over the budgets of the athletic programs as they do everything else, and instead of charging $3 or $4 a seat, make the games part of the educational program."

He said he was satisfied with the present Rose Bowl agreement between the Big Ten and the Pacific Coast, but he thought the "setup could be improved."

"I wouldn't object to changing the pact," he said, "but I would oppose changing it to send the champion every year. I do not regard the game as a contest between the leagues."

Have You Heard? — Joe's Going Pro—He's Funny and Can Wrestle

By JOHN HOLWAY Joe Scarpello, SUI's Olympic wrestler, says he's going to wrestle pro starting this summer. "You've got to be a comedian" to get ahead on the professional mat, says Joe.

"And I'm a comedian." If color means comedy, then Joe definitely qualifies. Now a senior at Iowa, Joe has been national amateur champion, national collegiate king and a member of the American Olympic team.

Among Joe's lesser sung talents, he resembles the late Marcel Cerdan and he can shift auto gears with his right toe, a gift that has a number of subtle advantages.

He'd like to team up with Verne Gagne, formerly of Minnesota, now wrestling the pro circuit in Minneapolis. The two were teammates on the London trip in 1948.

Eventually, he wants to tour Europe, Australia, and all the other parts where colorful grapplers are in demand.

Joe doesn't think the 30 and 60-minute bouts will be too much for him, and at 175, he doesn't worry about being pitted against 250 and 300-pound behemoths. "They're just clowns," says Joe. "They loaf."

Mike Howard, the hearty Iowa coach, shares Joe's disdain of the "grunt-for-pay" men. Mike was an Olympian, on Denmark's water polo team and a European mat champion before coming to America and the professional game.

Mike beat the famous "Man Mountain Dean" twice back in 1916. "He didn't have a thing," scoffed Mike. "He was a clown, that's all."

But Mike was more anxious to "talk about the boys," and he waved to his squad, pitching and puffing about on the mats up in the wrestling room.

The Hawkeyes have a veteran team returning with just enough new blood to make the competition sharp. He has Joe, 175; Del "Junebug" Perrin, heavyweight; Russ Tharp, George Tesla, Ralph Thomas and Don White, all 145 or 155, and Vern McCoy, 121, all returning.

Behind those lettermen, Mike happily scanned his roster to pick out the names of Manuel "Lotto" Macias, 121; Ken Carmen, 128; Roger Kolker, 136; Miles Benda and John Brezina, 165; Charlie Muhlstock, "a good boy to have around in case anything happens to Joe," and Heavyweight Joe Paulsen.

In addition, Bob Geigel will be able to help out for the first semester before his eligibility runs out. Bob took second in the national AAU heavyweight class last spring.

Another ex-Hawk champion has gone pro, too, but Romeo "Rummy" Macias, former Big Ten 128-pound titleholder, didn't do it the way Scarpello plans to. He's now the busy assistant to Mike.

Louis Punching Hard Leo Nomellini Sidelined But May Face Badgers

BOSTON (AP) — Retired Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis dropped aggressive Johnny Shkor of Boston for three nine-counts during their lively 10-round no-decision boxing exhibition Monday night before a cheering 8,471 crowd at the Boston Garden.

Leo Nomellini was on the injured list Monday with a pulled back muscle, but Dr. George Hauser believed the ace lineman will be in shape for the Wisconsin game Saturday.

Cosgrove Tops Ramblers, 39-28

A bad first half cost St. Mary's a basketball game Monday night when it lost to Cosgrove, 39-28, at the junior high school gym. The Cosgrove zone defense had the Ramblers puzzled throughout the first half. Forward Bud Lenz was the only Rambler able to hit the hoop for St. Mary's during the period.

12 in First Half The Cosgrove defense limited St. Mary's to a mere 12 points in the first half while they were floundering. St. Mary's defense to their liking and scoring 31 points.

Big Stanley Eckrich was the seige gun for the winners. Although he missed eight free throws, he connected for five field goals and a total of 10 points. Going into the final half, the Rambler attack came to life, cutting the score to 34-21 by the end of the third period.

Both squads speeded up their offense in the fourth period, but it became ragged as they mistimed their hurried shots.

Lenz Leads Attack Bud Lenz led the Rambler attack with 13 points.

The aggressiveness of the Ramblers in the second half resulted in 23 fouls being called in the game against them. Cosgrove connected on only 10 of 28 free throws.

St. Mary's reserves won the preliminary game, downing the Cosgrove reserves, 27-19. Dick Zahradnek led the Ramblers with nine points.

St. Mary's next home game is Wednesday at 8 p.m., when they meet St. Joseph of Ft. Madison.

The smouldering internal disension burst into the open after Greene completed his commissioner's report to the opening session of the NBA's annual convention.

SUI Lost and Found Office to Open Today

SUI's first lost and found office opens today in the Student council office, northwest corner of the first floor of Old Dental building. The Student council-sponsored project will be operated by Alpha Phi Omega service fraternity, Chuck Barker, L2, Iowa City, said. Barker is chairman of the Student council lost and found committee.

Only articles lost on the east campus will be collected at the new office since University hospitals and the fieldhouse already have similar services in operation. Found articles will be tagged with cards giving the date and location found. Articles not claimed within three months will be returned to the finder. Claimants must appear in person to present identification and an accurate description of the lost article. The office has been functioning unofficially for several days and has accumulated several books, a strand of pearls, a fraternity pin, and a weaving set. The first major item returned to its owner by the new service was a $35 coat, Barker said. The office will be open Mondays through Fridays from 10:30 a.m. until 12:30 p.m. and from 2:30 until 4:30 p.m.

Panther 'Brunches' on Mink

Fur Flies as Feline Feeds on Guest's Coat To Break Up Washington Radio Show

WASHINGTON (UP) — The audience of radio station WQQW got tuned in on an unscheduled moment of horror Monday when a "tame" panther attacked a mink furpiece worn by a woman guest on an interview program and tore it apart.

The blood-chilling episode occurred in the studios of WQQW on swank Connecticut avenue.

Announcers Bill Carmichael and Nan Garcia had just begun their daily interview show, "Brunch with Nan and Bill."

Mrs. Francis I. McGarraghy of Washington, chairman of a benefit committee of the Smith College Alumnae club, was telling Nan and Bill about the benefit show the club will hold here Saturday.

The well-dressed, and as events proved, highly courageous Mrs. McGarraghy wore a handsome mink furpiece.

Seated in the studio, and awaiting their turn to be "interviewed," were Bob Hicks, a pet-lover with somewhat unusual tastes, and a small brown panther which he caught in the Florida everglades.

Hicks was waiting to tell Nan and Bill, and the radio audience, how the panther was so tame he doesn't need a leash.

Suddenly, Mrs. McGarraghy's well-modulated voice was drowned out on the broadcast by a hair-raising growl.

Without warning, the lithe beast sprang at her and fastened his teeth and claws in the furpiece.

Then, to the accompaniment of angry growling that rumbled out over the air, the panther dragged the furpiece to the floor and ripped it to pieces.

But she proved herself a woman of remarkable composure.

Even while the panther was chewing on the neck piece, she managed to laugh a bit nervously and assure everyone that "he didn't even scratch me."

Carmichael also met the crisis in "the show must go on" tradition. He broadcast a full account for the benefit of the listeners after it was clear that Mrs. McGarraghy was in no further danger.

According to studio eyewitnesses, Nan became so excited when the panther sprang that she fied the studio.

The mink scarf was taken to a local furrier to be repaired at studio expense. The panther was taken to a zoo.

Mrs. McGarraghy said she "didn't mind at all."

"After all," she said, "it was wonderful publicity for our Smith benefit show."

Permits for the week ending Monday totaled $43,500 as compared with $25,200 for the second week in November, 1948. Most of last week's total was due to planned new home construction.

Detective Claims Girl's Rebuff Touched Off Fraternity Killing

COLUMBUS, OHIO (AP) — A girl friend's rebuff after a gay Homecoming dance touched off the week-end spree in which an Ohio state university freshman killed a fraternity brother, a detective speculated Monday. But, the girl denied this theory.

James D. Heer of Euclid, 20-year-old former Marine, pleaded innocent Monday to a charge of first degree murder in the slaying of James T. McKeown, 21-year-old senior journalism student from Norwood, Ohio.

The girl friend, Joyce Crafton, 22, Cleveland, was arraigned as a material witness.

Heer was held to the Franklin county grand jury without bond; Miss Crafton's bond of $300 was continued.

Detective Sgt. Lowell V. Sheets considered the good-night exchange between Heer and Miss Crafton — who came to the university for a Homecoming party at the Delta Tau Delta fraternity house — a possible "key" to the wild sequence that followed.

Sheets said Heer made "improper advances" to the Cleveland girl. He said they were rebuffed.

Oust Officers . . .

COLUMBUS, OHIO (AP) — The Ohio State council on student affairs Monday ousted the faculty adviser, president and social chairman of the fraternity. The council also revoked all "social privileges" of the fraternity until June 1, 1950.

Fraternity officers admitted at the hearing that the fraternity had violated the university rule prohibiting serving of liquor in fraternity houses.

He said Heer "stomped from the room, stating Miss Crafton would read plenty about him in the newspapers."

Sheets said Heer admitted he was "mad at a group of six or eight fraternity brothers, who had criticized him for dancing with other girls," and that he intended to get a pistol and "start on a criminal orgy."

Matthew L. Bigger, attorney for both Heer and Miss Crafton, scoffed at this report from Sheets. "You may quote both myself and Miss Crafton as saying there was nothing in Heer's attitude when he left Miss Crafton to indicate that he was mad at anyone."

Miss Crafton, secluded in the home of Heer's uncle and aunt, was quoted by Bigger as saying: "There were no improper advances. There was no violent argument either at the dance or after it. He became slightly amorous while saying good-night. That is all."

Bigger explained that Heer, "in his drunken state," merely tried "to make love to the girl."

"There was nothing you could possibly call improper advances," the detective, who filed the charge against Heer, tells the story this way:

"After the Homecoming dance of the fraternity, Heer took his 'date' to the home of his aunt and uncle. (The girl was staying at the home of Heer's aunt and uncle for the week-end.)

"They were driven there by John W. Johnson, 20, Shaker Heights, another fraternity brother, and his date.

"En route to his aunt and uncle's home, Heer argued with Miss Crafton and when they arrived at the home he refused at first to leave the car and accompany her to the door.

"Johnson censured him and told him that if he didn't take the girl up to the house, he (Johnson) would not drive Heer back to the fraternity house.

"Heer then took the girl to the house and went with her to her room.

"There he attempted to make improper advances, but Miss Crafton resisted.

"Heer stomped from the room, stating Miss Crafton would read plenty about him in the newspapers."

McKeown, managing editor of the university's student daily, came into the picture accidentally. He had just arrived at the fraternity house. He saw Heer running away, pursued by fraternity brothers.

McKeown joined the chase. He was shoved away by Heer. McKeown circled behind Heer, looking for an opening to grab a .45 caliber pistol which the freshman was brandishing.

Then, he was shot.

The shooting followed a cocktail party and dance at the fraternity house. Alcoholic beverages, by university rules, may not be served in a house under university jurisdiction.

None Injured Here In Three Accidents

No one was injured in three accidents reported to police over the week end.

Automobiles driven by Douglas Hill, 1931 East Court street, and Robert Breese, 926 Bowery street, collided Saturday at the intersection of East Market and North Dodge streets, police said.

Damage to the vehicles was estimated at $175. Damage to a set of carpenter's tools in Breese's car was estimated at $30.

The second accident occurred at 12:30 p.m. Sunday at College and Summit streets, police said. The automobiles involved were driven by W. B. Gelman, 232 Summit street, and John Yoder, 1232 College street. Slight damage was reported.

The third accident involving automobiles driven by Rex Parks, 115 N. Clinton street, and Deloris N. Clinton street, and Deloris Seimer, Victor, occurred Sunday at Lucas street and Iowa avenue.

The left rear fender on Parks' car and the right front fender on Miss Seimer's car were smashed. No damage estimates were given, police said.

'Bum Rap' 'Yellow Kid' Charged With $3 Swindle

CHICAGO (AP) — Joseph (The Yellow Kid) Weil, 74-year-old confidence man who swindled millions from people who could afford it, maintained Monday that he would never take $3 from the little sisters of the poor.

"This is my first bum rap," he moaned. "Why, I've been going straight since 1936 when I promised my wife on her death bed."

The dapper, spade-bearded kid, who claims to have swindled $8-million and spent only four years in jail, was in the soup on a charge of taking $3 from the charitable nuns in a confidence game.

He appeared for arraignment in felony court but Judge William Daley continued the case until Nov. 29 because a witness was unavailable. Weil was released on $300 bond.

The kid was arrested last week and admitted to police that he cashed a $3 check a donor had contributed to the sisters, who operate a home for the aged.

But Weil claimed he had been duped by two men who hired him to collect funds for the sisters, and then vanished.

His lawyer, John Phillips, objected to the delay in the case on the grounds police had acted without a warrant in raiding a loop office where the two men and Weil allegedly operated.

But Weil claimed he thought the other men were legitimate solicitors and that he had turned over $260 to the nuns, cashing only the $3 check.

Weil pulled his first con game in 1902 and went on to become an internationally known exponent of the fake gold mine and other swindling schemes.

He always boasted that he never took a penny except from the wealthy, who could afford to be suckers.

Says Cosmic Rays Surpass A-Bomb Energy

Some aspects of cosmic ray phenomena are more amazing than the atomic bomb, W.F.G. Swann, director of the Bartol Research foundation of the Franklin Institute, told a lecture audience in the physics building Monday night.

Cosmic rays, he explained, are predominantly positively charged particles which come to the earth from outer space. Many of them are protons.

When these cosmic ray protons strike the earth's atmosphere, some are transformed into other particles, mesons, which are ultimately destroyed.

In their destruction, they give up great quantities of energy. For the same amount of mass, the energy they give off is far more concentrated than that given off by the atomic bomb, he said.

He suggested that there might be a link between sunspots and cosmic ray phenomena.

"It is now evident that during periods of sunspots there are fluctuations in cosmic radiation," he said.

Ghandi Assassin, Cohort Executed

AMBALA, INDIA (TUESDAY) (AP) — Nathuram Vinayak Godse, high caste Brahmin, was hanged early today in the Ambala central jail compound for the assassination of Mohandas K. Gandhi.

Executed at the same time was Narayan Apte who was convicted of conspiracy in the plot to kill the aged Indian religious leader.

Reporters were barred from the executions which were given a minimum of publicity presumably to avoid creating any disturbances. It was believed that the bodies of the executed men will be cremated inside the jail compound sometime today.

Reports from the prison yesterday said Godse did not appear to regret pumping four bullets into Gandhi after a prayer meeting Jan. 30, 1948, in New Delhi, 120 miles south of here.

Davenport Mayor Describes City Plan Here

The success and problems of Davenport's four-year-old city plan were discussed in Iowa City Monday night by the plan's top organizers and officials.

Speaking in the Iowa Union's river room to about 50 members and guests of the Engineers Club of Iowa City, Davenport Mayor Arthur R. Kroppach said that Davenport's plan, set up for an estimated "100 to 150 years" would assure residential property buyers that their property would remain in a residential area.

The same assurance was true, he said, for industrial site buyers; and the parking problem is a major part of the plan.

Off-street parking plans, Kroppach said, are designed to keep present business district tax valuations up because the district's properties are responsible for a large share of the city's tax receipts.

Engineer's Paper Earns $100 Prize

An SUI graduate recently won a $100 prize for the eighth place awarded his technical paper in a national contest open annually to engineering students.

Raymond J. Hudachek, a June 1949 SUI graduate, Cleveland, Ohio, wrote on "Arc Welding as Applied to the Fabrication of Orthopedic Appliances."

Hudachek's cash prize was one of 77 totalling $5,000 in the 1948-49 contest sponsored by the James F. Lincoln Arc Welding foundation, Cleveland, Ohio.
