B-29 Plunges in Ocean With 20 Men Aboard

HAMILTON, BERMUDA (UP)—A U.S. airforce B-29 superfortress with 20 men aboard went down in the Atlantic off Bermuda Wednesday, its fuel exhausted.

The biggest peacetime ocean search in history began after the big plane's crew reported Wednesday morning by radio that it was going down.

Authorities believed the men had time to float life rafts after the plane hit the water.

Flying to England

The giant bomber was en route from March field air base, Riverside, Calif., to England. It was nearing the end of a 3,500-mile non-stop flight from California to Bermuda.

The great plane, blinded by bad weather and the failure of a radio compass, groped for four hours trying to find Bermuda.

A pilot reported to Capt. Arthur C. Raley, communications officer of the U.S. airforce base at Kindley field here that he was trying to reach the island on instruments through bad weather.

Then came the final message at 11:43 a.m. (10:43 a.m. Iowa time) — there was but five minutes' fuel left and the pilot was preparing to ditch. Rescue operations were started at once.

Many Planes Search

A force of more than 100 planes, based at points all the way from Salem, Mass., to Puerto Rico, swept the ocean lanes or prepared to join the search today.

All ships and smaller craft within 200 miles of Bermuda were alerted to be on the watch for the plane's two life-rafts.

In the plane were its normal complement of 11 men and a ground crew of nine.

Airlines Plane Flies Over Danger Zone

WASHINGTON (UP)—The navy disclosed Wednesday that an Eastern airlines passenger plane trespassed Tuesday on a military reservation's aerial target area where anti-aircraft guns were being fired intermittently.

A navy spokesman said no anti-aircraft guns were fired while the airliner was over the danger area, but that ack-ack practice had been going on at intervals throughout the day.

The navy statement was issued after Capt. Hasson Calloway, an Eastern pilot, asserted that his DC-3 transport nearly collided with a military plane Tuesday over Dahlgren, Va., site of a naval ordnance proving ground.

Meanwhile, the CAA issued orders banning all combat-type aircraft from using Washington National airport.

Murphy received word Wednesday morning that Nixon was being held in Mt. Carroll. He was arrested in Clinton Tuesday night by Mt. Carroll sheriffs and Clinton police, Murphy said.

Friends View Trousseau

Mrs. Hadley Shows Wedding Gown to Former Co-workers as Preparations are Made

ST. LOUIS (UP)—Mrs. Carleton S. Hadley, bride-to-be of Vice-President Alben W. Barkley, lifted the veil of one of the year's top fashion secrets Wednesday by holding an impromptu trousseau preview for the girls from the office.

The attractive 38-year-old widow, who will marry the "Veep" here Friday, thought first of her friends of typing and shorthand days when she decided to make her choice of wedding clothing partially public.

Guests at the affair, held in the plush Lindell boulevard home of Mrs. T. M. Sayman, were fellow-workers at the Wabash railroad and Washington university. The invitations enabled them to visit the scene of Mrs. Hadley's wedding luncheon as well as to view her trousseau.

Taught at Washington

Mrs. Hadley was formerly employed in the romance language department of Washington university and later became secretary to Chancellor Arthur H. Compton. More recently she has been employed as a secretary in the legal department at Wabash.

Friends said that Mrs. Hadley, who has been staying at the Sayman home since she was released from the hospital after an attack of the flu, has been busy with alterations and fittings since Sunday. She made the final selection of the wedding dress from the Six, Baer and Fuller department store here, it was learned.

Public Must Wait

The public at large must wait until the wedding to see the bridal gown, however. Mrs. Hadley prefers not to disclose its design until then.

Today she will resume her busy round of preparations for the wedding, visiting the hairdresser and greeting early arrivals among

U.S. Colleges Show Smaller Vet Enrollment

WASHINGTON (AP)—Despite another drop in veterans, the nation's colleges this fall enrolled more students than ever before.

Enrollment totaled 2,456,841, the office of education reported Wednesday. This is an increase of only 48,000 over a year ago. The indication that the big post-war increase in higher education is tapering off.

The number of veterans studying under the G.I. bill dropped to 856,000, 16 percent below last year.

The October, 1948, enrollment of 1,022,000 veterans was nine percent below the record in the fall of 1947.

Men Outnumber Women

More than twice as many men as women — 1,728,000 to 728,000 — enrolled this fall.

The increase in number of men students over autumn 1948 was less than one percent. The number of women students increased almost five percent.

The 10 largest schools and their enrollments:

New York University, 47,936; University of California, 43,426; City College of New York, 30,192; Columbia University, 29,153; University of Minnesota, 25,084; University of Illinois, 25,062; Northwestern University, 22,822; Ohio State University, 22,416; Indiana University, 21,826; and the University of Wisconsin, 20,796.

Negro institutions enrolled 70,000, a decline of 1.3 percent.

Freshmen enrollment declined 6.2 percent to 372,000 in the universities, colleges and professional schools. They remained stable at 19,000 in Negro institutions, and rose 6.2 percent to 54,000 in teachers colleges and 9.7 percent to 113,000 in junior colleges.

Freshmen Enrollment Drops

The over-all decline in freshman students was 1.9 percent, compared to a four percent decline the year before.

The drive conducted in the housing units, which included co-ops, married student housing areas, fraternities, sororities and dormitories, was quite successful, Kramer said. "But we fell down in our campus solicitations from those not reached in housing units."

Return Clinton Man For Larceny Count

Charles Ralph Nixon, Clinton wanted here for larceny, was brought to Iowa City from Mt. Carroll, Ill., late Wednesday afternoon by County Sheriff Albert J. (Pat) Murphy and a state official, the sheriff said Wednesday.

Nixon was taken into custody in Mt. Carroll May 24 and charged with theft of a Mall power chain saw and other tools on the night of May 12, from the farm of Joseph Novotny, about six miles west of Solon.

Murphy received word Wednesday morning that Nixon was being held in Mt. Carroll. He was arrested in Clinton Tuesday night by Mt. Carroll sheriffs and Clinton police, Murphy said.

Errol Flynn Picks Princess for Bride

LONDON (UP)—Dashing movie star Errol Flynn Wednesday announced his engagement to a 20-year-old Romanian princess who has "all the qualities I adore in a woman," and said they would be married next spring.

The 39-year-old actor, whose two previous marriages ended in divorce, said he and slender, blue-eyed Princess Irene Ghica had been "going together" since he met her in Paris six months ago.

The princess flew here from Paris Wednesday shortly after Flynn announced their betrothal. Flynn whisked her off to lunch and then to a London film studio where he is rehearsing with Greer Garson and Walter Pidgeon for a royal command performance to-day.

"Irene has all the qualities I most admire in a woman — honesty, sincerity, a sense of humor and an outlook which is rare in women — she is willing to do anything to help the man," Flynn said.

He added that the princess is a "talented pianist and very sporting," and that she is independently wealthy.

He said the wedding would be in either London or Paris and at a Greek Orthodox church in deference to his fiancee's religion.

The actor's 1935 marriage to film star Lili Damita was dissolved in 1942. His second wife, Nora Eddington, a former cigarette girl now married to singer Dick Haymes, divorced him last July.

Alcoa Grants Pensions; Offer Accepted by Union

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The Aluminum Company of America has signed contracts with its AFL union granting company-paid pensions and insurance, to 10,000 workers in five plants.

The AFL international council of aluminum workers Wednesday announced acceptance of the offer which covers Alcoa workers in East St. Louis, Ill., Lafayette, Ind., Massena, N.Y., Cressona, Pa., and Chillicothe, Ohio.

WEDDING SITE of the nuptials between Vice-President Alben W. Barkley and Mrs. Carleton S. Hadley will be the chapel of John's Methodist church in St. Louis shown here. The noted couple will be married Friday.

The public must wait until the wedding to see the bridal gown, however. Mrs. Hadley prefers not to disclose its design until then.

Today she will resume her busy round of preparations for the wedding, visiting the hairdresser and greeting early arrivals among

And You Think We Had it Rough

RECORD NOVEMBER SNOWS covered the midwest and east Wednesday blanketing areas from Iowa City to this Buffalo airport. The heaviest snow on record for this month clogged the field with 10-12 inches of heavy wet snow, cancelling all flights and giving the snowplows their first heavy workout of the year. The airport's administration building can be seen in the background. Shivering Iowa citizens probably won't appreciate the fact that the snow fall here lasted only an hour as they got out their galoshes and heavy winter clothing.

City Gets First Taste of Winter

The weatherman gave those Iowa citizens who are a little behind in their winter preparations a fair warning Wednesday, unveiling the first real snow of the season.

The snow didn't last long but gave the effects of a real midwinter blizzard while it fell.

Powered by 30-mile an hour winds, the wet flakes fell for almost an hour during the morning.

It brought the usual round of "ah's" and "oh's" from SUI students who suddenly remembered their wardrobes lacked galoshes. But Wednesday's winter was a short one, for the snow melted as it fell and soon weakened into a steady rain which stopped by 11 a.m.

Temperatures were forecast to come down with the snow. Wednesday's low hit 28 and it was scheduled to drop to 22 during the night. The icy winds will decrease today, but the cool weather is here to stay, at least until the weekend.

The sloppy conditions brought out umbrellas, boots and scarfs in Iowa City. The anxious younger set didn't have a chance to bring those sleds out of the basement, but seemed content to wait for another and more lasting snowfall.

Murphy instigated two raids Aug. 11 and 12 on Shannon's and the Lighthouse, two North Liberty night clubs. He was charged with reckless driving Sept. 20 by Ivan Schmidt, part owner of one of the clubs.

Murphy said previously that he would plead innocent to the charge. He claimed that three cars chased his car back to Iowa City the night of Sept. 20 after he and his companions had visited several North Liberty taverns.

He also reported several attempts were made to damage his car during the wild chase.

Mrs. Robert Shannon Files Suit for Divorce

Jeanette E. Shannon, North Liberty, filed suit for divorce in Johnson county district court Wednesday from Robert K. Shannon, part-owner of Shannon's Inn, North Liberty.

Mrs. Shannon charged cruel and inhuman treatment and asked for an equal share in the Inn, a grocery and tavern at Windham and a home in North Liberty.

Judge James P. Gaffney issued an injunction prohibiting disposal of the property.

PROCLAIMS THANKSGIVING

DES MOINES (AP)—Gov. William S. Beardsley Wednesday proclaimed Thanksgiving Day, Nov. 24, Thanksgiving day. "As mortal beings," he said, "we should give thanks for all the blessings and good fortune which have come to mankind during the season of this eventful year."

350 AT CONVENTION

DALLAS (UP)—More than 350 newspapermen and college journalists gathered here Wednesday for the opening of the 30th annual Sigma Delta Chi convention.

SHAH VISITS HERE

WASHINGTON (AP)—The youthful Shah of Iran arrived Wednesday for a good will tour of the United States and almost as a first act invited President Truman to visit his country.

What Else Could a Man Do?

ROANOKE, VA. (AP)—Marshall (Shotgun) Leftwich, 49, told Police Court Justice S. R. Price Wednesday why he got drunk on a mixture of shellac reducer and water.

"You see, judge," said Leftwich, "A woman told me to build her a new henhouse out of an old henhouse, and not to tear down the old house until the new one was built."

"Judge, I had to get drunk on that."

The case was dismissed.

Heavy Wet Snow With Chilling Winds Hit East, Midwest

CHICAGO (UP)—The season's first heavy snow spread over the midwest Wednesday and moved into the east.

Buffalo, N.Y., recorded a record fall of 17.3 inches in a freak snow storm that confined itself to an eight-mile path across the city. The snowfall eclipsed the old November depth record of 14.8 inches set during a nor'easter blizzard in 1920.

The flurries were wet and sticky in most places as they blanketed Wisconsin, Minnesota, Michigan, northeastern Iowa and northwestern Illinois.

Forecasters said the snow would invade the east as far as New York City by today and might reach as far south as the Blue Ridge mountains of Virginia.

Meanwhile, chilling winds of 30 to 40 miles per hour lashed the plains states and were due to move into the midwest. The blow kicked up topside dust storms in Kansas.

Murphy said previously that he would plead innocent to the charge. He claimed that three cars chased his car back to Iowa City the night of Sept. 20 after he and his companions had visited several North Liberty taverns.

Forecasters said that general temperatures were normal for the season, except in the deep south where below freezing readings were reported in northern Mississippi and Alabama.

CHIANG WARNED

CHUNGKING (UP)—Political quarters Wednesday said Acting President Li Tsung-Jen in effect is telling Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek to agree to stand and fight the onrushing Communists or take back the presidency.

His announcement was made in a telegram to a labor delegation which on Monday asked him to seek his party's nomination for senator in 1950.

Taipei already is campaigning and is regarded as virtually certain to win renomination. Lausche would have stood a good chance to win the Democratic nomination.

Turkey Nips Plot To Kill President

ANKARA, TURKEY (AP)—The Turkish government announced Wednesday night it had smashed a plot to assassinate Pres. Ismet Inonu.

The information immediately sent Tijuana police rushing southward towards the resort and fishing town of Ensenada. Inspector of Detectives Gerardo Souza said he definitely believed Stroble was at a Mexican hotel in Tijuana as that of a man who left there about two weeks ago. The murder suspect arrived at the home of his son-in-law, Ruben Hausman, only last week.

The Rosarita Beach lead was supplied by Bartender Hector Estrada of Rene's cafe, a roadside inn midway between Tijuana and Ensenada, which are about 60 miles apart.

Estrada gave the United Press one bit of information that police said may be the best clue thus far. The bartender said his customer with the close resemblance to Stroble had a split finger. He could not recall which finger was deformed. Stroble has a cleft left index finger and Los Angeles police said the split in the finger was very prominent and shows up clearly in fingerprints.

The Rosarita Beach bartender said the man he believes was Stroble stopped in at the bar at about 12:30 p.m. Tuesday. A San Diego bus driver previously had reported he took a man who identified from photos as Stroble to the border a little after 9 a.m. Tuesday.

Shot in the Arm —

The allies have wisely agreed to a slow down in the dismantling of German industry. At least, a more discriminatory policy will be followed in the future.

It certainly is defeating the purpose of the whole Marshall plan if we destroy German factories capable of producing necessary materials. Prodled along by an uneasy France, this has been western policy since the war's end.

Accompanying the slow down in dismantling is an agreement by the west German republic at Bonn to submit (as if it could do anything else) international control of the rich Ruhr valley.

With this big source of coal and iron under international control, the occupation of Germany by American, British and French troops, the possibilities of war-racked Germany getting out of control are very remote.

Under the new agreement, steel and synthetic oil producing factories will not be tampered with. They will be allowed to manufacture for German and world consumption. In arriving at this decision, we are being consistent with the aims of the Marshall plan—which provides present aid, but looks to future and self-sustenance on the part of benefitted nations.

Decaracterization will be continued in the Reich, according to Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of the Bonn republic. This is in accordance with the wishes of the western powers—although many of them are guilty of questionable economic practices themselves.

Germany has ceased to be a menace to anyone. She is a struggling nation attempting to retain some sort of status among the powers of the world. She can become a bulwark against communism if the allies will demonstrate, by consistent policy in regard to German industry, that they are honestly behind her recovery.

Let the Dust Settle —

State Secretary Dean Acheson walked straight into a hornet's nest when he returned from Europe to meet the disquieting news that Chinese Nationalists had fired on an American steamship in Shanghai harbor.

What Acheson will do about the demands to make suitable re-dress is not at the moment clear to the man in the street—probably not even to the state department.

One thing is clear, however. This conflict between Nationalist and Communist China is one that is forcing greater attention from the state department than the state department is prepared to give it at this time.

The focus of attention in world policy-making since the close of World War II has been largely on the European continent. This focus has changed gradually but at the same time inexorably, so that now the Orient—particularly China—is coming to occupy a joint spot in policy makers' attention.

The firing on American commerce in the Pacific is only a symptom in the vast malady that grips our Oriental policy. What we do in this one little incident is not the important decision. What we do in recognizing or failing to recognize Communist China is the larger problem.

Nationalist actions in bottling up Shanghai's harbor are really just the dying gags of an already almost extinct government. Nationalist China is for all practical purposes dead. Communist China will have to be recognized. That fact is apparent. The question is—when?

This is the point where there is vast disagreement among world powers concerned. Asiatic nations feel they must do it soon to retain their leadership (like India) or their borders (France's Indo-China with Viet Nam).

The United States is pursuing a "let the dust settle first" policy which may be the best one temporarily. Hasty recognition from the United States would perhaps set the pattern for many nations who are economically indebted to us via the Marshall plan or bound by the Atlantic treaty.

Recognition now might mean the presence of another Communist vote in the UN. Especially if the other nations in doubt follow suit.

Failure to recognize the Communist government now will mean loss of a foothold for American business. Further, we will not get news from the Communist stronghold unless we recognize the government. Correspondents from nations not recognizing China's new government were barred last month.

So Secretary Acheson has a nest of hornets buzzing around his head while he seeks to find the solution to the European problem. China will probably get more attention from the policy makers, but the decision to let the dust settle will probably stand for a time.

The Battle Cry —

President Truman has chosen a strategic time to again sound the battle cry for his civil rights program. Although in the past two sessions the program has been shouted down, congress may now be forced to listen.

The recent off-year elections were a big boost to Mr. Truman. Voters in many states indicated they still stand behind him and his "fair deal" program.

Consequently, congressmen who were certain during the languid days of the 81st session that the President had lost his spark, are now not quite so sure. Many bolting Democrats will have to voice endorsement of the President's "fair deal" schemes if they intend to be re-elected.

Of course, the south with its heritage of poll-taxes, lynching and discrimination will not be affected much. No single person is strong enough to alter these ingrained ideas.

But border-line Democrats and many light-seeing Republicans may come to realize that such legislation is backed by the American people. They may be forced to make compromises—compromises that may see civil rights legislation swept into law over the disapproval of the south.

Mr. Truman has public support on this issue. His current revitalization of the program indicates he will press the next session to come through.

Yes, Maybe He Should —

Bus-riders in Haverhill, Mass., will probably be very tolerant of persons who violate the "please don't talk to the driver" sign. The driver could be the city's mayor, and big policy decisions may be in the making.

Recently-elected Mayor Joseph L. Willet says he will keep his job driving a bus because he "wants to stay close to the people and know their problems." From what we know of bus passengers, he will.

Willet also claims he can't live on the $2,500 annual mayor's salary. With this thought in mind, everyone gives the driver a dollar bill for change, the riding public may think it's witnessing a "pay-off."

Maybe Willet should have taken a job as a shoe cobbler.

Among the Loffy Peaks

By JOE BROWN

OLD ST. NICK'S going to get a letter from me giving him the lowdown on a certain little five-year-old boy in my neighborhood if the youngster doesn't stop making it so rough on me.

It's necessary that I drive along a rather narrow, unpaved street going to and from my room in a neighborhood so far out that we don't even have sidewalks.

About five days ago I turned into this street and saw a perfectly normal looking child, except for a bandana mask, standing near the edge of the street about a half block away.

As I approached, he moved out into the middle of the street and stood there tossing a small stick into the air and catching it.

I slowed and sounded the horn but he only frowned and remained in his spot.

Continuing on, I moved far over to the right side. He moved to the right. I moved farther to the right. He moved farther to the right.

Two wheels were off the gravel by the time I reached him and I was using up patience faster than I was generating it.

BUT THEN he giggled, jumped aside, and in a sudden change of character, held up one hand to hold back non-existent traffic and motioned me on with the other.

There wasn't another car in sight and this little Jesse James help was neither needed nor solicited.

About two days later, I turned into the street and saw the same little bandit again, apparently waiting for a victim.

And again he ran for his position in the center of the street. But as I slowed the car, the door of a house flew open and a woman dashed out to the brat, shouting, "Look out! Look out, Tommy! Look out!"

Having slowed to about five miles an hour, I stopped almost 25 feet from the spot and felt a little indignant that the woman would exaggerate the danger.

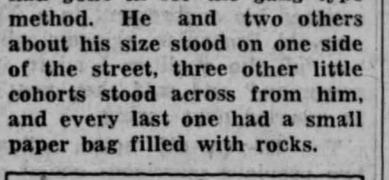

"LADY, I wasn't going . . ." I began, as she stalked away with the miniature highwayman dangling his mask and grinning at me from her arms.

"Oh, why don't you be careful?" she snorted without looking at me? "Lady, I tell you . . ."

"You ought to be arrested!" And she disappeared into the house.

Well, yesterday was the climax. That is, I hope it was, because if it becomes worse, I'll have to ask for a police escort when I drive home.

Yesterday little Tommy was waiting again, sans mask but he had gone in for the gang type method. He and two others about his size stood on one side of the street, three other little cohorts stood across from him, and every last one had a small paper bag filled with rocks.

Two of them were so small I doubted their ability to chuck a nipple out of the cribs they belonged in, but those other four had their arms cocked and ready to let fly what I knew could be telling blows if they connected.

This was no place for courage; it was a moment when strategy was needed. Broken windows and dents suffered from trying to get through their crossfire would be no less real because I was a grown man and they were hardly out of diapers.

I decided to try cajolery so I stopped almost on line with them and got out of the car.

THAT WAS MY mistake. At least three rocks whizzed toward me, one of them bouncing off the door. I retreated.

I was saved again by the woman, but did she acknowledge my plight? No. She simply called out in an irritated voice:

"Tommy, I told you not to throw those rocks. You'll hurt each other."

"Lady . . ."

Sir! She was gone and the hoodlums disappeared around the corner of the house, their impudent little leader laughing back at me over his shoulder.

I never thought I'd look forward to an Iowa winter, but it seems that my only hope lies in the weather getting so cold that those little bandits can't play outside.

And when Santa Claus starts standing around on the corner of Dubuque and Washington streets, you'll know what we're discussing if you see me talking with him

Young Iranian Ruler Welcomed by Truman

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Truman Wednesday personally welcomed the youthful Shah of Iran here on a state visit designed to strengthen cold war ties between his strategic middle-eastern country and the United States.

His imperial majesty, Mohammad Reza Shah Pahlavi, 30-year-old monarch of an oil-rich but arms-poor land at Russia's southern border, arrived at National airport aboard the presidential plane "Independence" to begin a month-long tour.

Brother and Sister Meet Again

Schoolmates After 10 Year Separation

By MART BAILEY

A brother and sister are going to the same school again — for the first time in 10 years. And they came nearly a third of the way around the world to do it, too.

The last time that Knut and Birthe Synnestvedt went to the same school was in 1939 when they were both in grade school in their home town of Nykoebing F. Denmark.

After that they went their separate ways — Knut to a boarding school and Birthe to a public school and to the University of Copenhagen.

Last year they came to America. Knut came to SUI to study engineering. His sister went to Alabama State College for Women to get her degree in mathematics.

They saw each other for a couple of days in the early part of the summer when Birthe was working in a Pan American airlines office in New York City and Knut was making a hitch-hiking tour of the United States.

From New York, Knut went to California and got back to Iowa City just before school started this fall. He saw a friend on the street who told him of meeting a Danish girl on the train. Knut was just mildly interested, never dreaming it was his sister.

But when he arrived at Roger Williams house where he lives he found that Birthe had been there asking for him. Knut was so surprised he could hardly believe it. There hadn't even been any talk of her coming to SUI.

Birthe lives only a few blocks from her brother at the Delta Delta house. They are the only Danish students on campus.

Birthe says her brother was a big help to her in getting acquainted at SUI and Knut replies that when he gets stuck on a tough engineering problem he can always go to his math-major sister.

Birthe will probably get her doctorate in mathematics here and then go back to Denmark to teach in a university. Knut will stay until he gets his masters degree in engineering and then go back, possibly to help his mother who manages a breweria.

The two Synnestvedts have a lot of fun together at SUI, mostly talking over old times when they were little tots in school together.

SUI Artists Win Awards at Exhibit

SUI art department students, faculty members and former students won eight of 11 prizes awarded at the Second Biennial Exhibition of Paints and Prints.

SUI artists won all of the first-place awards at the six-state show which opened Sunday at Minneapolis.

First places in the print division were won by Prof. Mauricio Lasansky and William McCloy, art department graduate assistant.

First prizes in painting went to Byron Burford, art instructor, and Raymond Parker, former SUI student.

Second awards in painting were won by Parker and Prof. Stuart Edie, SUI art department. Lasansky also won the second award in prints and Otto Ovcirk, A4, Detroit, won a third award.

Thirty-five of the 84 pictures selected for showing were the work of former students and present faculty and students of the SUI art department.

Columbia Fellowship Available for Iowans

Graduate study at Columbia University is now being offered under the Lydia C. Roberts graduate fellowships, the graduate college announced Wednesday.

The $1,100 grants are awarded annually by the trustees of Columbia University.

Candidates must be of the Caucasian race, natives of Iowa, and graduates of an Iowa college or university.

The awards will not be given to students majoring in law, medicine, dentistry or veterinary medicine, except when such studies are required in a course leading to a degree in another field.

Applications are available at the graduate college office, Old Capitol, and must be filed before March 1.

County Courthouse Junks Switchboard

Suspicious noises emitted from the county treasurer's office Tuesday — but they weren't from safe-cracking.

The courthouse central switchboard was being "Evicted."

Courthouse offices now have their own outside phone connections and can call outside without waiting for connections through the former switchboard system.

This means outsiders can call a county office directly, from numbers listed under "Johnson County" in the new telephone directory.

"AND BE SURE TO TELL MOM that I'm getting so I like football now," Birthe Synnestvedt reminds her brother Knut who is writing their mother in Denmark. Birthe joined Knut at SUI this year and is studying for her masters in mathematics. Knut came here a year ago to study engineering. They are the only Danish students on campus.

Speech Match Won By Professor's Son

Karl Harshbarger, University high senior, won this year's "Speak for Democracy" contest, the Iowa City junior chamber of commerce has announced.

Harshbarger is the son of Prof. and Mrs. H. Clay Harshbarger, North Liberty. Prof. Harshbarger is a member of SUI's speech department.

Prize for the contest was a $50 war bond.

Harshbarger has recorded the speech which will be entered later in the statewide contest at Des Moines. He won the local contest last year and placed second in state competition.

The dinner will be held at 6 p.m. on the sun porch of the Iowa Union.

Mrs. Sharp will speak this afternoon on "Israel: Trumpet Call in the Desert," at 4:30 in the senate chamber of Old Capitol.

An informal discussion with Mrs. Sharp concerning her relief work in Europe will be held following the dinner.

Movie Version —

'Devil in the Flesh'

Poignant, Realistic

By VINCE BRANN

the movie first appeared. It is a tribute to our censors that the film has been left almost untouched for its American exhibition. They have sensibly left the decisions up to the movie-goer himself.

As far as this reviewer is concerned, the position of the director and writers seems crystal-clear. They have let Radiguet's story speak for itself. Without trying to defend the action of Marthe and Francois, "Devil in the Flesh" offers a tender and sympathetic study of two people in a desperate situation from which they cannot extricate themselves. There is no sensationalism here — only honesty.

As a production, it is a remarkably mature use of the motion picture medium. As a story, drawn from life with delicacy and sensitivity, it ties the heart in knots.

A final note to the audience: see "Devil in the Flesh" from beginning to end, instead of from middle to middle. It will be worth the effort involved.

City High Students To Present Comedy

416 Workers to Take Census In Johnson County Next April

"She's a cute number" soon will be more than a figure of speech.

For next April, some 3,238 nose-counters in Iowa, including 416 in Johnson county, will start taking the 17th decennial census in the U.S. according to an Associated Press dispatch Wednesday from Washington, D.C.

Census taking in Johnson county will be done by 416 workers from the Davenport office, one of nine district offices being set up throughout Iowa.

The 24 office workers, 22 crew leaders and 370 enumerators in the Davenport office will also count the residents of 11 other counties, including Cedar, Iowa and Washington counties.

Other district offices in Iowa will be located at Council Bluffs, Des Moines, Dubuque, Ft. Dodge, Ottumwa, Sioux City, Waterloo and Cedar Rapids.

When completed, the government will know many things about Iowans and the rest of the citizens in the U.S., including the total number, employment status, education, income and other facts.

The census bureau announced in Washington that employees for district offices and enumerators will not be recruited until next March. Announcement of the schedule for receiving applications for employment will be made then.

Student Question Baffles City Clerk

City Clerk George J. Dohrer is a busy man, but he almost lost his faith in mankind when a local high school student walked into the city hall seeking material for a paper on municipal government.

Dohrer handles city council paper work which is always heavy. The city is having new downtown streetlights and new traffic signals installed and has just finished several paving projects on city streets.

All this is in addition to the many routine clerical duties in a bustling city of nearly 20,000 persons.

And the youth asked Dohrer, "Do you have any city government problems?"

"It does no queasy evading, no beating about the bush. The nature and torment of this romance are fully and literally explored — and that sort of thing is horrifying to certain elements . . . But it stands as a triumph for the film's makers, its distributors, and, to a degree, for our censor board, that this honestly created picture should at last be shown . . . And indeed, it stands as a tribute to the public's intellect, because if this film were thought too strong for it, there wouldn't be much hope."

Students to Discuss Parliamentary Rules At Fourth Meeting

The last parliamentary procedure forum meeting sponsored by Omicron Delta Kappa, national honor society, will be held at 3:30 p.m. today in room 309, Schaeffer hall with Prof. Hugh Kelso of the political science department presiding.

Three earlier meetings of the forums were held on Oct. 27, Nov. 3 and 10. Since its beginning at SUI three years ago, ODK has sponsored a similar forum each year for the benefit of campus organizations and the student body at large.

Committee Chairman George McBurney, L1, Council B luff's, said Tuesday about 40 students had attended each of the first three meetings of the forum.

"The interest shown by students in the forum and number who have taken part in this year's forum is noticeably greater than in previous years," McBurney said.

European Physician Receives Fellowship Here for One Year

Dr. Bruno Haid, assistant resident in anesthesiology at University hospitals, is one of two European doctors studying in the United States this year on a Rotary International fellowship.

Haid was recommended for the fellowship by Dr. Stuart Cullen, department of anesthesiology, under whom he is studying.

He will return to the University of Innsbruck in Austria when he finishes his year's study here. Haid was a champion skier at the University of Innsbruck, where he received his M.D. in 1941.

During the war he served three years as a physician and field surgeon on the eastern front.

Since his graduation, Haid had been training under Dr. Burghard Breitner, a prominent Austrian surgeon.

He said he was surprised at the centralized medical facilities at SUI. He also envied the amount of modern equipment here.

Getting equipment will be one of his big problems when he returns to teach the new methods of anesthesiology he had learned, he said.

Haid arrived in Iowa City in September and since has addressed Rotary clubs in Marshalltown, West Liberty, Muscatine and Iowa City.

Author to Address Students

Joseph Dunner, internationally known lecturer and author, will be the featured speaker of the Internation Students' Day program today at 8 p.m. in Macbride auditorium.

Dunner, who has traveled extensively in China, India, Palestine and western Europe, will speak on the "Significance of International Students' Day."

Now a professor of political science at Grinnell college, Grinnell, Dunner spent the early 1930's inciting the wrath of two dictators.

He was blacklisted by Mussolini's government in 1932 for writing a series of articles accusing Mussolini of causing the murder of Giacomo Matteotti, an Italian liberal.

In 1933 Hitler placed Dunner on a list of the first 100 men to be expatriated by the Nazis. This was an answer to Dunner's articles and pamphlets predicting the Nazi dictatorship would menace the peace of the world.

In 1936 and 1937 he directed Brookings Institute in Washington, D.C., and authored a novel, "If I Forget Thee."

He became chief of the intelligence section of the London Office of War Information in 1944 and served on its policy committee on Germany.

After VE-day, Dunner worked with the psychological warfare division in the screening and licensing of newspaper editors and publishers in the American zone of occupation.

He founded the first Democratic newspaper in Bavaria in 1945 and a month later organized the first congress of Bavarian writers and journalists.

Since joining the Grinnell college faculty in 1946, Dunner has worked with Dorothy Thompson and Ely Culbertson on the National Council of the Citizens Committee for United Nations Reform.

Air-Minded Hawks Prepare For Irish

Passing Stressed In Light Practice

Iowa sharpened its offense in practice Wednesday in preparation for the 1949 finale at South Bend, Ind., against Notre Dame.

The Hawkeyes are the passingest team in the Big Ten and may fill the air in an attempt to compensate for the all-around strength of the fighting Irish. In six conference games this fall Iowa has averaged almost 24 pass plays per game.

Quarterback Glenn Drahn loosened his arm in a light dummy scrimmage Wednesday. Drahn leads the league in number of touchdown passes with five. His favorite receivers, Ends Jack Dittmer and Bob McKenzie, have caught seven touchdown passes between them in Big Ten competition.

Irish Lead Series

Going into Saturday's game Notre Dame has won four straight from the Hawkeyes.

The Hawkeyes won the first three games between 1921 and 1940 and was the only university to lead Notre Dame in a series.

But the Irish crashed through in 1945 against a wartime Iowa team and also won in 1946, 1947 and 1948 from the teams coached by Dr. Eddie Anderson.

An added attraction to the popular series is the fact that An-

Former Hawkeye-Notre Dame Stars Don't Agree

DUKE SLATER AND ROGER KILEY don't see eye to eye on the outcome of Saturday's Iowa-Notre Dame game. Slater is a former Iowa star while Kiley was an end on the Irish. They played against each other in the '21 game, when the Hawks won, 10-7. Both men are now judges in Chicago. In the picture they are looking over the sports section of a Chicago newspaper.

derson was captain of the 1921 Notre Dame team which had its 20-game winning streak snapped by the 10-7 Iowa win at Iowa City.

'39 Hawks Victorious

After the 1921 Hawkeye win, the teams did not meet until the 1939 season of Nile Kinnick and his ironmen. Kinnick scored the touchdown and kicked the point which gave Iowa a 7-6 win at Iowa City in one of the most sensational victories in Iowa history.

In the third quarter, only three minutes remained when Steve Sitko of Notre Dame tried to run the ball out of the end zone. He fumbled when tackled on the four yard line and Iowa recovered.

A quick switch from left to right halfback by Kinnick befuddled the Notre Dame defense and Kinnick scored. Late in the game, a 68-yard punt by Kinnick pushed the Irish back to their own seven-yard line.

The Hawks were strictly underdogs in 1940, with Notre Dame the owner of a seven game winning streak. But the scoreboard read Iowa 7, Notre Dame 0 at South Bend.

56-0 in 1945

First Notre Dame victory was over Clem Crow's sub-standard youngsters, 56-0, in 1945; and in 1946 the Irish converted Iowa mistakes to their own advantage, 41-6, with half of the six touchdowns on flashy long-gain plays.

The Irish won at South Bend in 1947, 21-0, as Iowa missed two touchdowns by small margins. It was a good game all the way in 1948. Notre Dame won, 27-12, after Iowa trailed at half time, 13-6.

The series will continue in 1950 at Iowa City, in 1950 at South Bend and in 1952 at Iowa City again.

Track Drills Begin For 25 Candidates, 11 Lettermen Return

About 25 varsity track men reported to Coach Francis Cretzmeyer Wednesday afternoon for the initial indoor practice session of the year.

The Hawks didn't lose a letter-winner from last year's team by graduation. Several promising sophomores are expected to give the team added strength. Altogether there are 11 lettermen out for practice.

Light workouts and wind sprints featured the day's practice as the Hawks began preparation for their first dual meet with Marquette here on Feb. 10.

All Lettermen Return

Returning lettermen from last year are Keith Brown, Cedar Rapids, half-mile; Jack Simpson, Sac City, dashes; high-jumper Dick Erdenberger, Mason City; Elliott McDonald, Davenport, half and quarter-mile; hurdler Russ Merkl, Quincey, Ill.; Clair Jennett, Sac City, pole-vault.

Bob Nelson, Des Moines, shot put; Tom Sangster, Nathrop, Colo., quarter-mile; two - miler John Collin, Chicago, and Bill Bye, Odebold, mile. John Weik, Des Moines, a previous letterman, has returned and will bolster Erdenberger in the high jump.

Have Soph Prospects

Some of the sophomores are Bill Snook, Freeport, Ill.; Jack Davis, Iowa City; DuWayne Dietz, Iowa City; and Dereef Greene, Washington, D.C.

"We will have at least one good man in every event," Cretzmeyer said. He hinted that Iowa would be definitely stronger in the dashes, hurdles and distant events.

At the present it appears as though the Hawks will probably vacate the No. 9 position doled out to them last year in the Western conference.

Indiana Stealing Cage Star: Rupp

BLOOMINGTON, IND. (UPI) — A charge of "unethical" overtures levelled at Indiana university came as surprise to Hoosier basketball Coach Branch McCracken, he said Wednesday night.

Kentucky university's cage mentor, Adolph Rupp, made the accusation. He said the IU Hoosiers were trying to steal Cliff Hagan, stellar performer with last year's Owensboro, Ky., championship high school team. Hagan has signed an athletic scholarship at Kentucky, Rupp said in his blast.

Haven't Hidden Yet

McCracken pointed out, however, that Hagan's signing didn't mean he couldn't talk with him.

"We're not making any bids but I'm going to treat the boy all right if he comes up here to visit. I haven't hidden from any good ball players yet."

They will not be allowed to finish the western tour of the Spartans and will not play against Arizona university Saturday. Plans were to send them back to Lansing, Mich., by train tonight.

Yocca, a junior, is a second string guard. Kelly, a senior, substituted at right half for star back Lynn Chandnois. Both will forfeit their letters.

Squad members were supposed to be in their rooms by 10 p.m. Yocca did not check in until 4:20 a.m. He said he had been visiting friends in Los Angeles.

Kelly wasn't in at 5:30 a.m. When he checked in later, he said he had been playing cards with some acquaintances, not connected with the team or traveling party.

The disciplinary action was approved by a vote of the squad.

Curfew Regulations Nip Two Spartans

ARROWHEAD SPRINGS, CALIF. (UPI) — Two Michigan State football players were dropped from the team's traveling roster Wednesday for violating curfew regulations.

The disciplinary action was taken against Guard John Yocca of Windber, Pa., and Right Halfback Marty Kelly of Detroit.

They will not be allowed to finish the western tour of the Spartans and will not play against Arizona university Saturday. Plans were to send them back to Lansing, Mich., by train tonight.

Yocca, a junior, is a second string guard. Kelly, a senior, substituted at right half for star back Lynn Chandnois. Both will forfeit their letters.

Blue Hawk Cagers Open Play Tuesday

Although the echoes of the throngs cheering their favorite football teams are still ringing in the air, University high school's athletic followers are turning their attention to another sport—basketball—as the Blue Hawks start to open their cage season Tuesday evening.

Although there are nine lettermen listed on the roster, only three are real veterans. They are small, but might shape into a speedy outfit.

Tuesday night's opening encounter with Durant on the home floor will mark the Iowa City debut of Coach Clem Thompson. New to University high, Thompson has established himself as capable by his past performance elsewhere.

The three regulars returning around which Thompson will base his team are Curt Miller, Karl Harshbarger, and Dean Evans. Others who won their monograms last season are Jim Vitosch, Bob Cantrall, Frank Baker, Evan Clasen, Bob Ewalt, and Carter Morgan.

Miller ranked second to center Bob Ojemann as the leading scorer on last year's team that finished last in the Eastern Iowa Hawk-eye conference.

Nobody Expected — Iowa Surprise In '21 Battle

By WHITNEY MARTIN
NEW YORK (AP) — Nobody expects Iowa to snap Notre Dame's undefeated string Saturday. Taking everything into consideration the idea is absurd, even preposterous.

Nobody expected Iowa to snap Notre Dame's undefeated string on that early fall day back in 1921, either. In fact, at the time, the 10-7 Hawkeye victory was considered a shameful blemish on the Notre Dame record; a defeat which would be discussed in hushed tones around South Bend for years to come.

It wasn't until the Hawkeyes had swept through to an unbeaten season that it was realized that the Notre Dame defeat by such a narrow margin was anything but a disgrace. It was quite a compliment to come that close to Iowa that year. Howard Jones' team really had it.

If the clients will refrain from counting the intervening years and putting the finger on our age we'll shhly admit we saw that game, and never have quite forgotten it, although some of the memories are hazy and possibly distorted with age.

Slater Great

Memories of Aubrey Devine squirming over and under and around the Irish defense; of Gordon Locke's tremendous drives into the line; of Duke Slater, vast and powerful, fairly sweeping one whole side of the Irish line aside with a tremendous lunge; of Johnny Mohardt, trim little Irish halfback, flitting for more yardage than the whole Iowa team; of the sterling end play of Roger Kiley and Eddie Anderson for Notre Dame.

Two great teams they were that day battling on old Iowa field hard by the bank of the Iowa river. The names of the players will give you some idea — Mohardt and Slater and Locke and Lester Belding and Hunk Anderson and Tom Lieb and Chet Wynn and Kiley and Eddie Anderson and Buck Shaw.

They are trying to say that the current Notre Dame team is the greatest of them all. That is one of those questions which never could be answered; a Joe Louis could lick John L. Sullivan question.

St. Mary's Defeated By St. Joseph's, 40-34

St. Mary's couldn't hold their two point half-time lead Wednesday night and lost their second game of the season to St. Joseph's of Ft. Madison, 40-34. St. Mary's won one game.

The Rambler attack just couldn't get rolling when the chips were down in the fourth quarter.

Possibly one reason is Eddie Anderson, the same Eddie Anderson who captained that 1921 Notre Dame team. The shrewd doctor, being one of the Notre Dame immortals himself, apparently through some subtle psychology seems able to remove the apprehension of his players when they face the South Bend eleven, maybe pointing out that the Notre Dame players are no different than himself, and he is quite human.

Notre Dame probably will run up quite a score. The team is geared that way, and just can't help it. The North Carolina game showed that. It might fall behind at the quarter, be no better than even at the half, as it was against the Tarheels.

But sooner or later the dam will break. Frank Leahy has too many good men and they hit too hard. If one man can't go, another will be put in who can, and for sheer poise and almost cocky confidence how can you beat them?

Imagine any other team, trailing by six points early in the game and with fourth down and four to go inside their own 20-yard-line, throwing a forward pass and getting away with it!

If they lost the ball, the Irish knew they had the ability either to stop a Carolina drive or to spot the Tarheels another touchdown and still win. It's a rather discouraging prospect for the opposition.

Successful Badgers Now Face Gophers

MADISON, WIS. — Its football season already a huge success, Wisconsin winds up the '49 season meeting the Minnesota Gophers in the 59th renewal of their all-time series which rates as the longest in the midwest.

Probably no greater importance has been attached to a season windup between two arch rivals than this Saturday's date at Memorial stadium.

Both clubs, along with Ohio State, will remain in contention for the Rose Bowl assignment as well as some consideration for Western conference laurels.

The two teams have met annually since 1890 and only once, in 1906, when the Wisconsin football schedule was "de-emphasized" did they fail to play each other.

Works by Students Highlight SUI Art Department Display

Drawings and sculptures by SUI art students are now on display in the Art building gallery, the art department has announced.

The drawing display represents works completed by SUI art students within the past two years and includes drawings done in all media — pencil, ink, Crayon and charcoal.

Art show visitors will have an opportunity to register their preferences among the drawings and the results will be used in selecting a group to be sent on a tour of several colleges and universities.

The drawings were selected by Vincent Burns and Mrs. Helen Carter Cox, life drawing instructor, and Prof. James Lechay, all of the SUI art department.

Included in the drawing exhibit are works by Hayden Scott, G; Vincent Burns, G; Gerald Boyce, G; Paul Running, G, all of Iowa City and John Youngquist, G, Minneapolis.

Don Wilson, A3, and Elizabeth Hobbs Wilson, G, both of Bay City, Mich.; Elliott Elgart, G; Chelsea, Mass.; Dan Wingren, G; Dallas; Stan Rainmeny, A4, Detroit; Len Everett, A4, Kirkwood, Ill.

Mary Jean Winter, A4, Wapello; Harold Stepanek, G, Cedar Rapids; Cal Gross, A4, Oelwin; Mary Cady, G, Houston.

Former students represented in the drawing display are George McCullough, Edward Ellis, Lucile Durham, Austin Killian, Claude Mays, Gloria Porte, Norman Cole, Carolyn Gosson, Margaret Fisher, Kae Lynch, Lou Williams, Richard Edwards, and Jean Agnew.

The sculpture exhibit includes thesis works and pieces recently completed by students under the direction of Prof. Humbert Albrizio, SUI art department.

Two exhibitors, Houston Chandler and Mrs. Cox, art instructor, have work represented in the permanent collection of the Walker Art Institute, Minneapolis.

Exhibitors winning prizes in the Iowa State fair sculptor show are Orazio Fumagalli, G, Valley Stream, N.Y.; Dean Bowman, Stanley Kearl and Otto Oevirk, A4, Detroit.

Two others, Leroy Burkett and Carl Rosenberg, exhibited during the summer in the International Sculptor show, Philadelphia.

Other students and graduates represented in the sculptor exhibit are Angelo Granatta, Warren Wilson, Joan Cox, Don Stewart, Joseph Delauro, Frederick Schleselman, Robert Day, Jack Jordan, James Steig, Walter Meigs and Mary Cady.

Traffic Control Program Here Nears Finish

One phase of Iowa City's traffic control program, new traffic signal installation, should be completed before the first of next year, according to Police Chief Edwin J. Ruppert.

Eighteen local intersections now have new "stop-and-go" signals, and the nineteenth, the last in present plans, will be installed as soon as an H. B. Allen company official arrives from Des Moines.

Ruppert said the company representative wants to "check on some phases of installation" before the signals at the Capitol-Burlington streets intersection are erected. The Allen company, Des Moines, has handled the signal installation.

The current traffic signal program originated in December, 1947, when the city council authorized three new signals to be installed on Burlington street where it crosses Clinton street, Gilbert street and Riverside drive, respectively.

The Allen company had estimated the new lights would arrive by spring of 1948, but actual work was started in late summer of that year.

From that beginning, the signal installations came by leaps and bounds. Using parking meter funds to pay for installation of the "traffic regulators," city officials immediately recognized the signals' value in regulating the heavy flow of cars in and around the city.

The new signals were put up at intersections where traffic warranted their installation, with emphasis on main highways winding through the business district.

Most of the lights change automatically about every 20 seconds, where the flow of autos is uniformly steady from all four directions at the intersection.

The seven signals along highway 6 through the city are "vehicle actuated" mechanisms, allowing a continuous flow of traffic when it is predominantly in one direction.

Intersections with actuated signals are at Iowa avenue and Riverside drive, and where Burlington street meets Gilbert, Dodge, Summit, Dubuque, Clinton streets, and the junction of Grand and Melrose avenues with Riverside drive.

All four approaches to these seven intersections have metal pressure plates sunk into the road surface. Vehicles passing over these plates make an electrical contact which regulates the signal changes.

Six of the 18 new signals replaced old center island signals which formerly directed traffic on those corners, but which also took up valuable space in the street.

The intersections where single center islands stood are on Dubuque street at its intersection with Burlington, College and Washington streets; on Clinton street where it meets College and Washington streets, and at the Iowa avenue - Riverside drive corner.

Two of the new signals — at Dubuque and Prentiss streets, and Muscatine and Court streets — are school signals. These remain green to vehicle traffic except when changed by hand to allow school children to cross.

Houseboys Claim —

Nothing Like a Dame

— In SUI Sororities

By BILL HOLLANDER

There is nothing like a dame! So sing the male choristers in the Broadway musical "South Pacific." And the echo bounces back from sorority houseboys on the SUI campus.

Houseboys are the martyred men who balance trays and smiles in local sororities. They're constantly exposed to the unadorned side of sorority life, the mud-packs, pincurls and haggard in the morning looks which most single girls never see.

One houseboy shuddered gave this account of houseboy hazards: "I've almost been frightened to death when I walked into the kitchen on Sunday mornings."

He agreed most coeds looked reasonably good on their Saturday dates, but said the transformation from two hours before the bow-tied beau walks in is like a Jekyll from a Hyde.

And that "morning after" look is worse yet, he added.

Another white-coated waiter who refused to have his name used, had this to say:

"They really put on the dog when they're entertaining guests or rushes for dinner."

Ash trays go under cover and smiles, make-up and Saturday-night-dresses are applied all at once.

Then he leaned over and said in a confidential whisper, "But you should see them the rest of the week."

Biggest gripe among the tray-bearers is against those who look down their noses — and in many cases can't see beyond them. Girls like that usually meet with meal-time accidents, they agreed.

Kitchen crews said some of the sorority antics are juvenile. Like persecuted pledges crawling under tables to identify actives by the week.
