Airforce Grounds B-29's After 4 Air Tragedies

WASHINGTON (UP) — Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg, air chief of staff, Friday grounded all B-29 superfortresses which have not undergone engine modernization or which have been "subjected to maximum operating stresses."
 Vandenberg's directive ordered the B-29 grounded pending "complete inspection" by airforce technical experts. It followed loss of four of the big craft in three days in which 43 persons are dead or missing.
 The order was issued following a conference between Vandenberg and Lt. Gen. Curtis E. Lemay, strategic air commander.
 The airforce would not estimate how many planes would be affected. The number in operation was placed at 400, including 10 groups of 30 planes each and spares.
 The order was temporarily waived for the B-29's participating in the search for the superfortress that has been missing in the Bermuda area since Wednesday.
 The epidemic of B-29 disasters started early Wednesday when a B-29 with 20 men aboard crashed into the Atlantic off Bermuda. That night two of the superfortresses collided over Stockton, Calif.
 Earlier Friday, a fourth B-29 crashed in Tampa, Fla., bay while taking off from MacDill airforce base to join in the vast air search for possible survivors of the Bermuda disaster.

Sees Wreckage . . .

HAMILTON, BERMUDA (AP) — The pilot of an army search plane reported Friday night that he had sighted what appeared to be parts of the wreckage of a B-29 superfortress which crashed and landed somewhere off Bermuda Wednesday with 20 men aboard.
 The pilot, 1st Lt. Richard Mullins, did not mention any survivors, but said he had picked up an international distress signal and an SOS. He returned to Hamilton at 7:30 p.m.

Soviets Tell Slavs To Recall Diplomat

LONDON (AP) — The Soviet Union has demanded the recall of Yugoslav Charge d'Affaires Lazo Latinovic, declaring that he is engaging in espionage and subversive activity, Moscow radio announced Friday night.
 The accusations against Latinovic, and the abrupt request that he be called home, were contained in a note handed to Yugoslavia Nov. 16, the broadcast said.
 The broadcast also reported that Yugoslavia had leveled similar charges against two Soviet diplomats and had demanded their recall.

School of Nursing to Acquire College Status at SUI Dec. 3

SUI's school of nursing will become a college of nursing Dec. 3, President Virgil M. Hancher announced Friday.
 Myrtle Kitchell, director of the school and dean-elect, will become dean of the college then.
 An afternoon reception at Westlawn and a banquet at the Iowa Union at 7 p.m., Dec. 3, will mark the change of the school of nursing to college status.
Guest Speaker
 Guest of honor and speaker at the banquet will be Lucile Petry, assistant surgeon general of the U.S. public health service.
 Granting of the new status by the state board of education follows a reorganization of the nursing curricula and faculty, which has been in process for several years.
 Dean-Elect Kitchell has supervised the work of reorganization since she joined the school as director July 5.
 Nursing will become the fourth college under the SUI division of health sciences and services.
 Other colleges in the division are medicine, pharmacy and dentistry.
10th SUI College
 The new college of nursing will become the tenth college at SUI and one of only about a half a dozen colleges of nursing in the country.
 The school of nursing was organized in 1898. This year there are 263 nursing students in the

Jack White Hints Grand Jury Probe Of Parlay Cards

County Atty. Jack C. White said Friday the Johnson county grand jury, which convenes Monday as the November term opens in district court, will probably investigate the operation of football parlay cards in Iowa City.
 "We're going ahead with the investigation of this situation," the county attorney said, "and I will probably take the matter before the grand jury."
 Meanwhile names of two SUI students from whom authorities confiscated large quantities of parlay cards Thursday continued to be withheld Friday by Iowa City police and White.
Cites Students
 "We are almost certain," White said, "that parlay cards are not being distributed by Iowa City business houses, but rather by students on the University of Iowa campus."
 The county attorney continued to emphasize, that no arrests had been made in this case and that no charges had been filed.
 White said the move against parlay cards is one result of the close co-operation among police, the county attorney's office and the sheriff's office in their constant and continued watchfulness against all types of gambling in Iowa City.
Drive to Continue
 The county attorney and Police Chief E. J. Ruppert said police will continue to pick up all football parlay cards if and when they are discovered in Iowa City.
 The cards in question are believed to be used in football game gambling throughout the nation.
 About 700 cards reportedly were confiscated here Thursday.

ACCIDENT REPORTED

Automobiles driven by V. E. Davis, Kalona, and J. P. Meade, Iowa City, were involved in a collision Friday about 7:20 p.m. at the intersection of West Benton street and Riverside drive, police reported. Damage to the vehicles was about $100.

Iowa Citizens Fined For Stealing Gas

Three Iowan Citizens, charged with disturbing the peace in Rock Island, Tuesday were fined $50 each and assessed court costs in Rock Island after admitting they stole gas from a used car lot.
 William Hannah was held in the county jail there pending payment of his fine. The two others fined were Clyde Albrecht and Maynard Poggenpohl.
 Albrecht pleaded guilty Friday to charges of breaking into railroad freight cars at Perry, July 18, in federal district court in Des Moines. Three other Iowa Citizens pleaded guilty to the same charge.

Underling Got U.S. Secrets: Hiss' Attorney

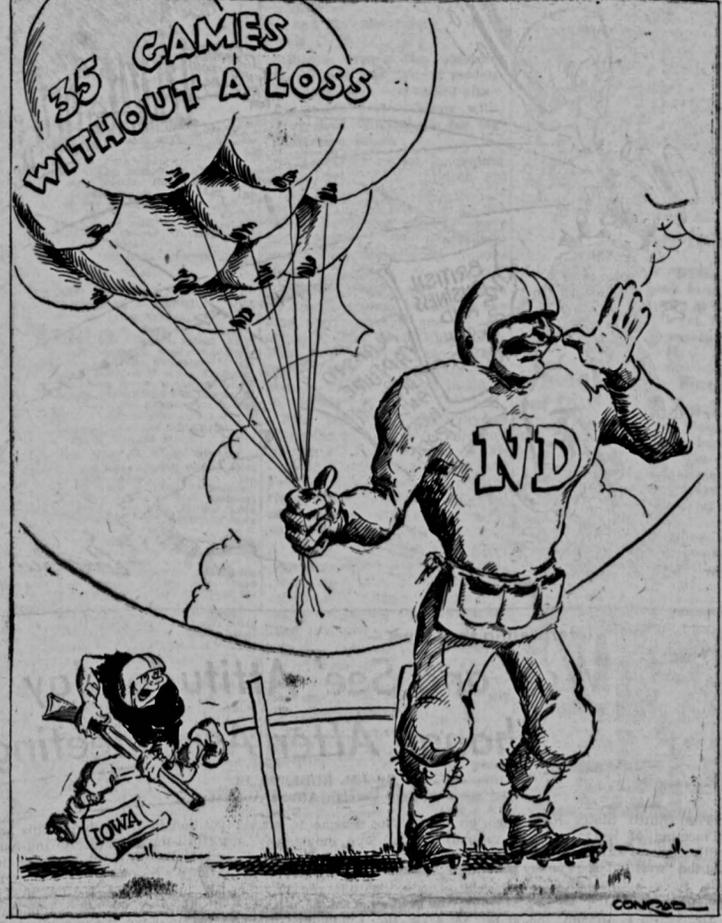

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
 Alger Hiss' attorney Friday said it was not the former state department ace but a thieving underling who stole government secrets for a prewar Soviet spy ring.
 In Hiss' second perjury trial in New York the defense named Julian Wadleigh, an admitted spy ring helper, as the source of the famed pumpkin papers.
Chambers to Stand
 But the government countered late in the day by bringing to the witness stand Whittaker Chambers, the man who dramatically pulled microfilmed secrets from a pumpkin a year ago.
 Last December a New York grand jury indicted Hiss on two perjury counts. Chambers and Hiss fought out their case last spring before another jury, but there was no decision.
 Also in New York Judith Coplon apparently lost her fight to escape a federal trial with Soviet engineer Galentin A. Guvitchev on spy conspiracy charges. Federal Judge Sylvester H. Ryan ordered the case to trial Tuesday.
 Miss Coplon, convicted in Washington last summer of stealing government secret documents, is appealing a prison sentence of 40 months to 10 years.

Wind Up Summary

In San Francisco federal court the defense wound up an opening summary for Australian-born Harry Bridges, west coast leader of the CIO longshoremen.
 The government then called its first witness in an effort to prove Bridges lied at his 1945 naturalization hearing when he said he was not a Communist. The witness was Lloyd W. Garner, naturalization examiner when Bridges applied for citizenship in 1945.

UN Approves Ban on Arms

NEW YORK (AP) — The UN assembly approved overwhelmingly Friday an arms embargo on Albania and Bulgaria until those Soviet-dominated countries stop helping Greek guerrillas fight the Athens government.
 The vote was 50 to 6. Yugoslavia joined its former partners in the Moscow bloc in opposing the resolution, which was supported by the United States, two countries, India and Israel, abstained.
 The assembly has no power — other than moral force — to carry out the arms embargo.
 Last year the assembly condemned Albania, Bulgaria and Yugoslavia for furnishing help to the Greek guerrillas. Since then the Yugoslavs closed their border to keep out Communists following the Cominform line, and the Tito regime escaped criticism in this year's resolution. However, the assembly called on Yugoslavia to cooperate in attempts to reach a settlement in the Balkans.
 By large majorities in a paragraph-by-paragraph vote the assembly beat down a Soviet proposal to discontinue the UN special committee on the Balkans (UNSCOB) and to call for withdrawal of British and American troops from Greece.
 The arms embargo is in the form of a recommendation that all countries refrain from the direct or indirect provision of any arms or other materials to Albania and Bulgaria.

Iowa Citian Claims 'No Rent Shortage,' Resigns from Board

Claiming "there is a strong demand for housing units here, but no shortage," H. J. Dane, local Republican party leader, announced his resignation Friday from the Iowa City area rent advisory board.
 He expressed this view in a formal letter of resignation to Federal Housing Expediter T. H. Woods in which he contended people "are housed, but not housed in the kind of units they prefer."
 The Iowa City fuel dealer and farmer said he wished his resignation to take effect as soon as a successor is appointed to the six-member board.
 Dane said the remedy to the situation "does not lie in forcing the few landlords to subsidize the many renters. It does lie in allowing rents to seek the level at which investment capital will be attracted and additional rental units will be built."
 Remaining members of the local rent advisory board are Dr. J. A. Swisher, chairman; Mrs. Clair Hamilton, Stephen Darling, Herb Olson and H. W. Westmark.
 Dane has been a board member for the last two years.

Last Basic Steel Group Agrees to Pension Plan

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Crucible Steel corporation Friday night signed a $100-a-month pension agreement with the CIO united steelworkers to end the 49-day-old strike of its 12,500 employees at plants in Pennsylvania, New York and New Jersey.
 Crucible was the last of the 19 leading basic steel companies to settle on the basis of the now-famous "Bethlehem agreement."

 WASHINGTON (AP) — The Atlantic pact council Friday formally established a military production and supply board and charged it with the task of providing standardized, modern arms for defense of the western world.

'Veep' Wed in St. Louis As 5,000 Watch, Cheer

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Vice-President Alben W. Barkley and his pretty bride were honeymoon bound Friday night — but they wouldn't say where.
 It was somewhere south, toward a "Shangri La" not to be found on a map, that the Veep and the former Mrs. Carleton S. Hadley took turns at the wheel of the car he gave her as a wedding present.
 They had said they wanted to have a simple ceremony. The ceremony itself was simple, the usual ritual of the Methodist church, but outside the chapel waited some 5,000 well-wishers who made it difficult for them to go their way.
 Jane Hadley Barkley, 38, smiled through tears of happiness when she was led from the altar by the 71-year-old Vice President. She nodded to her mother, Mrs. Estelle Rucker, and her two daughters, Anne, 17, and Jane, 14, who were standing at a front pew.
Kisses Bride
 When the newlyweds reached the chapel vestibule, the Vice President did something he failed to do immediately after the wedding ceremony. He kissed the bride.
 "Wasn't he gorgeous?" Mrs. Barkley exclaimed later.
 With the bride at the wheel, the newlyweds left in an automobile at 2:30 p.m. (Iowa time) for an unannounced honeymoon destination. They had a motorcycle police escort.
Solemn during the ceremony, the Vice President grinned proudly and showed his good humor to a cheering, rice-throwing crowd outside the church.
Flashes Sign
 While posing for photographers and television cameras, he doffed his gray hat several times and then gave the "V for Victory" sign.

Union, Shipowners Call 30-Day Truce

WASHINGTON (AP) — The AFL masters, mates and pilots Friday agreed to a 30-day truce in their dispute with Atlantic and Gulf ship operators.
 A strike of 2,000 AFL deck officers was scheduled to begin last Wednesday, but government mediators succeeded in obtaining a truce for a week.
 The union, after an all day meeting here, announced its negotiating committee had decided to call off any threatened walk-out until midnight Dec. 15.

Heavily Favored Notre Dame Seeking to Extend Win Streak

By ALAN MOYER
 Daily Iowan Sports Editor
 SOUTH BEND, IND.—There isn't a conference championship or a bowl bid to think about but just the same the big day is here. Iowa, injured but present, is in South Bend for the annual game with mighty Notre Dame, the Irish powerhouse that tonight will probably own its 36th straight game without defeat.
 Still, the chance remains for Iowa to turn in the biggest football upset in 10 years, and 57,000 will jam Notre Dame stadium this afternoon at 1:30 to see what could be the seemingly impossible upset victory.
 Once before a long string of triumphs came to a crashing end when the Hawks and the Irish met and then, as today, Notre Dame was a heavy favorite. In that year, 1921, it was to be victory No. 23. It's a longer streak than that this time.
 When the smoke had cleared away in that game so many years ago the score was 10-7 in Iowa's favor. But the Hawks went on to an undefeated season. With a four and four record as they enter the season's finale here today the chances of victory aren't that great.
Irish 34-Point Favorite
 Many persons feel the Hawks will need the 34 points the Irish are favored by. At any rate it will be the eighth game in the series between the two schools and Notre Dame leads, four games to three. The Ironmen and Nile Kinnick did it in 1939 and again Iowa triumphed in 1940. Since then the South Benders have won four straight.
 Dr. Eddie Anderson and his 36-player squad spent Friday night in Chicago, then were scheduled to arrive here at 11 this morning. Win, lose or draw the team will head back for Chicago immediately following the game.
 The weather forecast is for rain, snow and sleet, with the temperature to be somewhere near the 40 degree mark. It snowed enough here Friday to cover the canvas that covers the playing field, but provided it doesn't rain, snow or sleet before game-time the field will be dry.
 Injuries the Hawks have suffered in recent games will certainly do no good in increasing the possibilities for upset. Seven, and possibly two others, are on the Iowa doubtful list, making it impossible for Anderson to name his full traveling squad until after a light limbering up workout at Iowa City early Friday afternoon.
 Hardest hit is the line, where Ends Jack Dittmer, Bud Kaiser-shot, Bob Hoff and Dave Deprospero, Guards Austin Turner and Junebug Perrin and Center John Towner are all injured. Towner and Hoff are definitely out of the game.
More Iowa Injuries
 In the backfield Duane Brandt, Don Woodhouse and Mearl Naber are not sure of playing. Coaches thought Dittmer, one of the outstanding ends in the nation, would be ready to go this afternoon, although he wasn't able to practice at all during the week.
 Injury lists don't usually mean a lot at Notre Dame. The Irish are at least three deep at every position and so shouldn't have to worry about replacements. For the record Coach Frank Leahy's squad is in good physical shape for the battle with Iowa that his team had to go all out to win over a year ago at Iowa City, 27-12.
 Iowa will probably take to the air during a large part of the game, as the Hawks did at Madison, Wis., a week ago. There they set a new Big Ten record by attempting 41 passes, but still lost to the Badgers, 35-13.
 In practice this week Quarterback Glenn Drahcn continued throwing passes to his record-breaking ends, Dittmer and Bob McKenzie. Both have bypassed the mark for passes received in conference play and both will be in for a busy afternoon today, provided Dittmer is able to be at his right end position on offense.

Navy Captain Asks Clearance or Trial; Combat Planes Cut

WASHINGTON (AP) — Navy Capt. John G. Crommelin fired a new blast at the military high command Friday even as the navy announced a sharp cutback in the naval air power that he has fought to preserve.
 In and out of official hot water for months, Crommelin has charged that the navy's attack strength was being wrecked by Pentagon military planners.
20 Percent Cut
 Friday the navy ordered a 20 percent reduction in naval combat planes. In addition, the navy said, six naval airbases will be reduced to a "skeleton" status. Cuts have been anticipated under the general military economy program. Friday's order follows a recent lay-up order for 77 naval vessels. The army and airforce are experiencing reductions also.
 Lashing back against a severe public reprimand given him 10 days ago, Crommelin demanded that the rebuke be cleared from his record "completely and forever" or that he be court-martialed.
 The navy's 48-year-old stormy petrel told a news conference he thinks the chances of getting a court martial now, on the strength of his latest broadside, are "probably pretty good."
Declines Comment
 Admiral Forrest P. Sherman, new chief of naval operations, who administered a stinging reprimand to Crommelin on Nov. 10, declined to comment immediately on the captain's demand.
 Sherman said Crommelin's reply to his reprimand has been received in his office, but said he had not yet read it and did not expect to get to it until late Friday night.

Local Apartment Owner Told to Refund Money

Hugo Sippel was ordered Friday in Des Moines federal court to refund $496.50 to tenants in his Iowa City apartment house and enjoined from further violations of rent control laws.
 Federal Judge Carroll O. Switzer, who heard the case, granted the government's application for a summary judgment against Sippel.

Barkleys Cut Wedding Cake

IT WAS CAKE-CUTTING time in St. Louis Friday for Vice President and Mrs. Alben W. Barkley following the wedding ceremony at St. John's Methodist church. Here, the bride gestures with her left hand showing her wedding ring to the "Veep." The reception was held at the home of a friend of Mrs. Barkley's.

Britain's Fourth Estate —

British newspaper, long considered a model of both propriety and sobriety as well as the media where the public got its information, are in serious danger of falling by the wayside.

The Good Samaritan they need to rescue them is the same bugaboo that irked American newspaper publishers during the lean years of the war. Newsprint was short, still is short, and the mergers that have evolved here and abroad in the last decade may well be attributed largely to the newsprint shortage as to any other single factor.

Here in America the shortage was licked by several tricks: newspaper chains bought up forests to produce pulps, papers merged to enable mass buying even with the evils of group rationing, the black market was probably dealt in — though such has never been proved.

In Britain, with much world trade — except for war materials — cut off, newspapers faced a crisis. The only answer was to reduce from 24, 36 and 48 pages to six page editions, occasionally going overboard with eight page edition.

Wire dispatches were telescoped into several paragraphs. Local news got little more play. And as the newsprint shortage increased with the war's duration, front pages became capsule sentences of the world's happenings.

Britain is still in this plight and sees little present hope of climbing out. Thus the well-informed British citizen must turn to radio to get his news. This is where the real difficulty lies.

British radio is more government-controlled than in America. The federal communication commission monitors the radio stations here and checks on frequencies and other miscellany. In Britain, radio is government-sponsored and managed.

No commercials are used to finance the cost. The government shoulders the burden and happy Britons can listen all day without hearing the virtues of soap extolled. But with government footing the bills, what is to prevent the party in power from booming its side of the case and presenting the public with only one side of the question?

No records or data exist to prove that the British Laborites are slanting the news on British radio, but the situation could easily occur.

A very real danger exists for freedom of the presses in Britain. The monopoly situation for British radio could easily result in misinformation reaching the public, information withheld from the listeners and no competition to harm the government.

One of the four freedoms needs watching. George Orwell may have had considerable foresight when he wrote "Nineteen Eighty-Four," predicting totalitarianism in Great Britain. Suppression of the freedom of the press has been one of the first steps in every nation where a dictator has taken over the government.

A Dying Movement —

The socialization of Britain has hit a temporary snag. In fact, the obstacle that has loomed large in front of the Labor government's steam-roller may be enough to check the whole movement.

The house of commons last Wednesday voted to postpone government's taking over of the steel industry until after the next election. On the basis of the poor showing the Laborites have made in the recent votes of confidence, the steel industry may never become government controlled.

The Laborites have progressively lost backing when votes of confidence, made necessary by some policy measure, were called. On the devaluation question, they received their smallest vote since they came into power.

Winston Churchill has told the house of commons that if the Conservative are returned to power, the steel socialization bill will be wiped from the books.

Prime Minister Clement Attlee has declared the next election will be "almost a referendum" on the nationalization of steel. One of the two Communist members of commons solemnly declared the steel bill is "now finished."

The English people, smarting under a tough but necessary austerity program, will probably welcome any change in government. Winston Churchill still commands a big spot in the hearts of many Britons, and when Attlee calls the next election he and the Conservatives may be swept into power.

It is possible the postponement was a Laborite political move. The Laborite maybe saw some benefits from postponing the action which would call for more government expenditures at such a critical time.

At any rate, when such a basic industry is kept from government control it is probably safe to say the socialization movement has been checked. Whether it is good or bad, is a more difficult problem.

On a Year-Round Basis —

Today is Kid's day across the nation. Sponsored by more than 3,000 Kiwanis clubs and the National Kid's day foundation, its purpose is to focus attention on the vital problems of America's youth.

Fund raising, for the purpose of combating juvenile delinquency, will be carried on in many cities.

Setting as de one day a year to consider the problems of America's youth is good and well — but far from adequate. During the other 364 we sometimes forget about the generation that is growing up, the group that will become tomorrow's citizens.

A rash of child-committed crime, the heavy toll in teen-ager automobile accidents, the 50 percent drop-out rate in our high schools, all demonstrate that a lot of kids are unsettled and insecure.

But we can't fall back on a superficial "running wild" explanation for the whole thing. There are deeper causes. The kid of today are growing up rapidly, maturing in a shorter length of time. The recent war and the "high times" are immediate causes, for kids have assumed man-sized jobs.

Pessimists have labeled the present generation the "lost generation." Nothing could be farther from the truth. It is in the hands of the kids of today to found a new and better civilization tomorrow.

With adequate understanding of their problems, careful guidance in the still-important "growing up" period and an opportunity to develop their interests, they can succeed. Certainly they cannot do any worse than the generation that is today shaping the world's destiny.

Kid's day is a fine undertaking. It deserves our support — on a year-round basis.

Playing Safe —

A Hollywood swami gazed into his crystal ball recently and came up with a batch of predictions about Hollywood for the coming year.

In his inverted goldfish bowl he saw such things as scandal, big fires, top notch pictures and a conglomeration of good and bad. But he didn't put himself on the spot. The swami didn't predict any successful Hollywood marriages.

Interpreting the News —

'Wait and See' Attitude May Change After Asia Meeting

By J.M. ROBERTS JR., AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

The United States has called a meeting of its representatives in the far east as a prelude to ending the "wait and see" policy pursued since Nationalist China began to collapse.

Dr. Philip C. Jessup, the state department's top trouble shooter, will probably carry to the meeting some broad general ideas of what the United States would like to do. He will ask the on-the-ground men how best it can be accomplished in their respective areas.

Some of the major questions involve specific action — negative or positive — in individual areas.

FOR INSTANCE, the Communist threat toward Formosa is developing. The U.S. has said that no more military aid would go to Chiang Kai-Shek. But Chiang has made Formosa his hold-out base. And Formosa, lying across the southeastern shipping lanes from Japan and only a short hop from the Philippines, is in a vital strategic position. Should the United States do for Formosa what it did for Greece?

This ties in with the question of Okinawa, and the extent to which it should be developed as the permanent American military base for the area, which seems to be its destiny. Formosa in hostile hands would be a threat here, too.

Jessup, for his part, may receive first hand information about far eastern desires regarding a peace treaty for Japan. American actions in connection with this treaty will have an important bearing on the attitude of all southeast Asia toward any anti-Communist front which America proposes.

IT SEEMS logical, too, that the question of recognition of the Communist government in China was ratified by 18 states in 1947, three in 1948, and two in 1949.

The state department said that only eight state legislatures are meeting the remainder of this year and in 1950, of which six have already acted upon the proposal. About 40 will meet in 1951, a year before the next presidential election.

Unlike the five other amendments — all still technically alive — the two-term proposal has a seven-year limitation attached to it. The deadline is March 24, 1954. If not ratified by that date, the proposal becomes officially dead.

23 States Not Enough —

Two Term Proposal Doomed

WASHINGTON — A GOP-sponsored constitutional amendment to limit a president to two terms in office appears headed for oblivion barring some unexpected change in national sentiment.

A state department spokesman reveals that 23 of the required 36 states have ratified the proposed amendment, 13 short of the 75 percent needed to make it part of the constitution.

Significantly, all the 48 state legislatures have met since the amendment was submitted to the country on March 24, 1947, by the Republican 80th congress.

It therefore appears that the two-term amendment will take its place alongside five other proposed amendments which have never been ratified — the child labor amendment, submitted to the states in 1924, and four other long-forgotten proposals advanced in 1789, 1810, and 1861.

Unlike the five other amendments — all still technically alive — the two-term proposal has a seven-year limitation attached to it. The deadline is March 24, 1954. If not ratified by that date, the proposal becomes officially dead.

A REPORTER friend tells me he finds it pretty difficult to teach his contacts what's news and what ain't.

A few days ago he visited some of the brass at one of the men's dormitories and went through the usual routine of questions.

"So nothing's happened, huh?" he asked the fellow after several minutes of conversation.

"Nope, nothing you'd be interested in."

"The REPORTER started to leave but stopped in his tracks when the fellow said:

"Nobody was hurt the other day when the gun went off."

"The other day..." the reporter exclaimed, mentally seeing himself delinquent by the city editor for bringing in a story days after it had happened.

"And a gun went off? When? Where?"

"Oh, nobody was hurt," the fellow yawned.

"Oh, come on, friend. What's this all about?"

"Well, it wasn't much. You see, a fellow was in his room and was handling his shotgun. This is the hunting season, you know."

"Yeah, yeah. But what happened?"

"Oh, he just accidentally discharged his gun. That's all."

"Yes, but what then?"

"Well, now it does seem like I remember it blasting a hole in the wall. Yeah, you know, come to think of it, it did. Blasted a big hole in the wall."

"Oh, no! And to think I didn't get the story!" the reporter moaned to himself.

"SURE SURPRISED" the other fellow.

"Other fellow? What other fellow?"

"The one in the next room. You see, a fellow in the next room was studying and I guess it sort of surprised him when the buck shot whizzed past him. Why I guess I'd even say it scared him."

"Why didn't you tell me about this?" the poor newsman asked.

"Why, nobody was hurt. Wasn't any news, really. Anyway, it happened the same day the shooting at Ohio State, so you wouldn't have been interested in our accident. If anything exciting ever happens, though, we'll let you know."

Took lots of assuring and consoling to soothe that reporter.

Matter of fact, took us a long time to find out from him what was wrong when he came back to the newsroom crying.

JUST FOR one short trip I'd like to be a city bus driver. Guess I'd work without pay, too, if they'd promise me that one of my passengers would be a certain driver I've ridden with.

You can see that I've given this some thought, bad as revenge may be, because I have it all planned.

If I could get this short job I'd speed up to about 45 miles an hour as I approached the corner where this driver stood waiting.

I'd let him wonder, too, for a while whether I intended to pick him up. And then I'd find that the middle of the next block would be the very nearest I could stop.

However, in my feigned attempt to stop where he stood, I'd roar over until I almost touched the curb with the front left wheel, and watch him dash back away from the spot.

If he had a large bag of groceries I could let him get the second foot almost inside the bus, move away as quickly as the vehicle was capable, and hasten to the first corner that needed turning.

It should really take the drabness of bus riding for the passengers to watch the fellow fall from side to side, grasping frantically for support.

Reckon they'd get down right amused if he sat on someone's shoulder and a few grocery items took off down the aisle toward the rear of the bus.

And, then I'd pull my master stroke. I'd wait until he had worked his way to a seat and was in a descending position.

Yes, bless him, that's when I'd hit the brakes.

Soil Conservers to Get $500

The Johnson county soil conservation district has received state approval for its $500 share of the $50,000 made available by the last legislature for commissioners' expenses.

Before this amount was made available, county conservation commissioners served without pay. Now they will receive allowances for travel and other necessary expenses, William David, district soil conservationist, said.

About one-fourth of Johnson county's funds were used last Sept. 10 for the Amana field day, Davis said.

Another $200,000 was appropriated for the districts to hire technical and office assistants, according to their needs.

Of the four districts under Davis' supervision, Johnson, Washington, Keokuk and Iowa, only Washington has needed the full amount, Davis said.

All four will receive about $500 for paying technical assistants to lay out contour lines for farmers. Some districts say they will plan 50 percent more farms with this aid.

Washington district also received enough money to pay a full time office assistant to keep the office open during the day and to handle clerical work, Davis said. The Johnson county district commissioners are, Chairman Ray Cummings, North Liberty; Kenneth Wagner, a member of the state committee, West Liberty, and J.C. Burns, Oxford.

Rome Police Are Former Prisoners

ROME (AP) — Rome has one of the world's most distinctive cops — they are mostly ex-prisoners.

That doesn't mean they are ex-lawbreakers. They have been chosen, for the most part, from among former prisoners of war for the benefit of the millions of tourists who flock each year through the Eternal City.

As one-time prisoners of war, almost all of them know a little, at least, of some foreign language — chiefly English, German, French or Russian, in that order. Thus Rome has made the war's prison camps a vast language school.

Disinterested Students Don't Know Council's Job

Reason number one why students regard student government with apathy is because "the councils fail to explain and make known their functions to the student bodies," Vice-President Ted Perry of the National Student association, said Friday. "Also, the extra-curricular activities seem to lack diversity. They fail to appeal to a wide number of students because they are either too academic or too social," he continued. Perry will speak today to members of the Iowa regional assembly of NSA in the senate chamber of Old Capitol from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. He will discuss "What NSA Should Mean to You," and will present background and general information telling how to make NSA more effective on campus. Perry is on tour of several colleges and universities to consult with NSA officials before he goes to Washington, D.C., to represent NSA at the American Council on Education and the president's commission on higher education. The purpose of NSA is to bring together student governments at colleges and universities throughout the nation to pool their efforts in projects too large to be handled successfully by a single group, Perry explained. Perry is an accounting major at Temple university, Philadelphia, and has been granted a leave of absence to work on NSA programs.

RAILROADERS PRESIDENT CHICAGO (U)—William T. Farley was re-elected president of the Association of American Railroads Friday by the association's new board of directors meeting here. He has served as president for the past two and a half years.

William and Steve Thorman, 6 and 4 years old respectively, were both reported in "fair" condition Friday by hospital officials. Transferred to inactive wards Friday were Nelda Mastain, 11, LaPorte City; Paula McCoy, 3, Coralville, and Susie Peterson, 8 months, Waterloo.

Plastic Records Fit Child's Needs

By VIRGINIA BOYLE
The day when folks worried about tots breaking their parents' favorite recordings of Beethoven's Fifth symphony is long past.

Youngsters now play with unbreakable plastic records fitting their age level and own little world.

"Little Red Riding Hood," "Pinocchio," "The Three Little Kittens," "Mother Goose" and other fairy tales and nursery rhymes are recorded by famous artists for the evening story hour.

Edited by a board of psychologists, these records are aimed at children of pre-school age (2 to 6) and for elementary school levels (7 to 11).

Plastic records for children range from tiny 25-cent models for youngster's own record players to complete albums with story book supplements for the children to follow.

A relatively recent innovation, plastic records for children are becoming more and more popular with parents. Besides being unbreakable, plastic records have the added advantage of their light weight, and easiness for youngsters to handle.

Recording companies are even making recordings for tots in the long playing range, and popular artists like the Great Gildersleeve, Phil Harris, Bing Crosby and many others are cooperating to give youngsters the best in musical entertainment.

Fairy tales and nursery rhymes aren't the only type of children's recordings. Basil Rathbone's album of "Peter and the Wolf" and Fred Waring's recording of the "Nutcracker Suite" are classical recordings parents buy for the younger set.

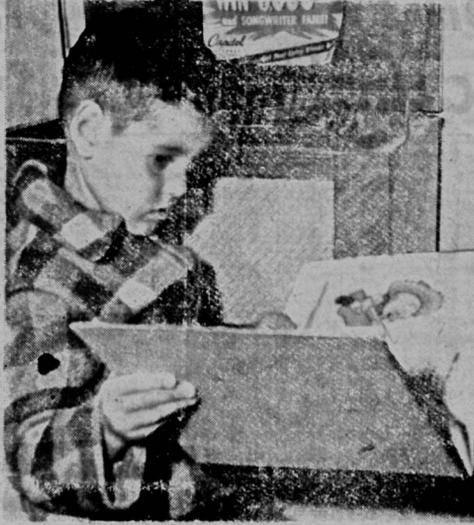

Tiny tots often prefer livelier records with fewer vocals and more instrumental sounds, so clerks selling records to parents of preschoolers definitely take age into consideration.

Before records were a scientific phenomena geared to age levels, parents often purchased recordings far too advanced for their youngsters, clerks say.

Recordings now follow reading levels. Bugs Bunny albums narrated by Mel Blanc include story books for children to follow while listening to the record. Gongs indicate the exact time to turn the page, and are a valuable aid in teaching youngsters to read. This album is complete with colorful illustrations and costs $3.68.

With Christmas approaching even more recordings are appearing on music shop shelves. "The Littlest Angel" and "The Night Before Christmas" are taking their place beside Roy Rogers' albums.

While it's still a good idea, if Johnny likes Chopin, to include classics in his musical education — symphonies no longer need be casualties of record "target practice."

"... Ah-h-h, What's Up Doc?"

LISTENING TO A "BUGS BUNNY" recording, and watching the story in picture book form is Donald Rhoades, four-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald E. Rhoades, 155 Riverside park. Although he can't read the words yet, Donny enjoys looking at and listening to comic character Bunny so he can tell his big brother, already in kindergarten, about it.

Wisconsin Firm Fined For Overloaded Trucks

E.M. Koenig and Son, Sauk City, Wis., was fined $75 including costs Friday in the justice of the peace court of C.J. Hutchinson when two of their trucks were found to be carrying an overload.

Sgt. J. Clark Hughes of the Iowa State highway commission made the arrests and filed the charges, Hutchinson said.

SUI Student Celloist To Present Recital

Lois Brandt, G, Duluth, will present a cello recital Sunday at 7:30 p.m. in north music hall for the fourth in the student recital series this year.

Miss Brandt will play "Divertimento" by Haydn as arranged by Gregor Platigorsky. The three movements are "Adagio," "Minuet" and "Allegro di Molto."

She will also play "Canconetta-Allegro" by Dupont and Platigorsky's arrangements of Chopin's "Nocturne in C Sharp Minor" and Prokofieff's "Waltz" from "Music for Children," opus 65.

Her final selection will be Brahms' "Sonata in E Minor, opus 38" with its three movements, "Allegro non Troppo," "Allegretto Quasi Minuetto," and "Allegro."

Miss Brandt's accompanist will be Ivan Olson, A4, Soldier, Iowa.

Traffic Violators Fined $63.50 in Police Court

James W. Smith, route 7, was fined $12.50 in police court Friday for operating a vehicle with defective equipment.

George Livesey, 214 S. Madison street, was sentenced to four days work for driving without a license.

Police docket for Thursday showed 31 persons were fined a total of $51 for parking and meter violations. One case was dismissed.

Robinson Wins National Loop 'Most Valuable Player' Award

Comes as Birthday Gift for Jackie Jr.

NEW YORK (AP) — It was ice cream, cake and presents for Jackie Robinson Jr., Friday, as his father — second baseman for the Brooklyn Dodgers — gave a birthday party and took a few bows himself.

Jackie Sr., learned Friday that he had been chosen the National league's "Most Valuable Player."

Robby to Retire?

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Daily News Friday night quoted Jackie Robinson, who was voted the National league's most valuable player, as saying that he may retire from baseball "possibly at the end of next season."

The Dodgers' star second baseman said his reason for quitting would be because "I want to see my kids grow up," the News reported.

The News quoted Robinson as saying that he had his eye on a job as manager of a housing development and, "if that turns out okay, I wouldn't be surprised if next year is my last."

for 1949 by the Baseball Writers' Association of America.

Another Addition

"Of course, this comes as a nice surprise," the second sacker of the pennant-winning Dodgers said at his home in St. Albans, Queens.

"But we had this birthday party for Jackie planned long, long ago. So, I'm celebrating along with him, but the birthday is the big thing."

Jackie Jr., is three years old, the only child of Robinson, and his wife, Rachel. Robinson said, however, that they were expecting an addition some time in January.

The 30-year-old Negro, first of his race to reach stardom in major league baseball, easily won the annual award. He had 12 first place votes out of a possible 24. He had a total of 264 points for the award, 38 more than Stan Musial, St. Louis Cardinals' outfielder, with 226. Musial received five first place votes.

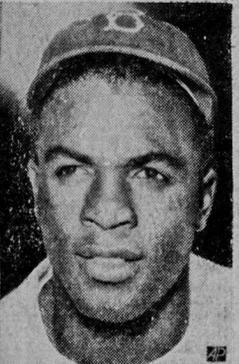

Jackie Led Hitters

Only three other players finished over the 100-point level. Enos Slaughter, also of the Cardinals, was third with 181; Ralph Kiner of Pittsburgh, the league's leading home run clouter with 54, received 133 points, and Peeewe Reese, Brooklyn's sparkplug shortstop, was fifth, with 118 points.

Musial has won the most valuable award three times, in 1943, 1946, and 1948.

Robinson, a native of Cairo, Ga., who was a star athlete at UCLA, led National league hitters with a .342 average last season, his third in the majors. He was signed by Branch Rickey of the Dodgers during the winter of 1945-46 and played one season at Montreal before moving up to the parent club.

Robinson led National league base stealers with 36 thefts, and drove in 124 runs, losing out in the latter department when Kiner began a home run surge late in the year.

Three-I Loop to Vote On Cedar Rapids Bid

CHICAGO (AP) — The Three-I league will study a revised constitution and vote on Cedar Rapids as a new member at its annual meeting here today and Sunday.

Cedar Rapids, formerly a Central association city, has purchased the Springfield, Ill., franchise in the Three-I league from the St. Louis Browns. Springfield backers, however, requested the league to give them until Dec. 1 to find a new major league sponsor.

A report is expected from Davenport representatives on progress in an effort to sell $20,000 worth of stock for purchase of the club from the parent Pittsburgh Pirates.

THE IOWA HAWKEYES FAILED TO PACK SKIS or any snow equipment when they left for South Bend, Ind., Friday, but from appearances of the Notre Dame gridiron they might come in handy. A tarpaulin was hurriedly thrown over the field Friday night when a sudden snow storm blew in from the northwest. Here Joe Dierick, head caretaker, peeks at the green sod underneath. The weatherman said Friday that the Irish-Hawkeye game today probably would be played in rain, sleet or snow.

City High's Fenton Named to All-State High School Team

Bill Fenton, the big, powerful end from City high, had more laurels added to his name Friday when he was named to the Iowa Daily Press association all-state team.

He was the mainstay in the Hawket football machine all fall. Not only was he the chief target for City high passes, but also was the bulwark of a strong defensive line which bogged down the offensive play of its opponents. Six Mississippi Valley foes could dent the Little Hawk defense for only 34 points.

Good Blocker

Time after time Fenton broke through into the opposing backfield to mow down both ball-carrier and blockers. Barely 17 years old and standing 6-foot 3-inches tall, he tips the scales at 195-pounds. Some have said that he might some day become another Leon Hart, Notre Dame end who was named by the Maxwell club Thursday as college player of the year.

Fenton might have been a powerful running fullback, but the team needed his terrific blocks to set the stage for long gains on end sweeps.

Landau Moves Up

Of the 28 passes which City high throwers completed this year, Fenton nabbed 18 for 340 yards. Don Ginger, Shenandoah's outstanding center, and Joe Bush, St. Ambrose tackle, are repeat selections from the 1948 team. Art Landau, hard running back from West Waterloo, moved up from last year's second string backfield.

First team selections included:

- E—Fenton, Iowa City
- E—Tidd, Marshalltown
- T—Champlin, Ames
- T—Bush, Dav't (St. Ambrose)
- G—Craft, Ft. Dodge
- G—McCloskey, Dubuque (Loras)
- C—Ginger, Shenandoah
- B—Burgmeier, Dubuque (Loras)
- B—Landau, West Waterloo
- B—Petersen, Decorah
- B—Wilson, Burlington
- Utility Lineman — O'Boyle, Des Moines (East), Utility Back—Jackson, Creston

Penn Suspended From Iowa League

DES MOINES (AP) — The Iowa conference Friday suspended Penn college from the loop indefinitely for using ineligible players during the football season.

Commissioner Robert Cass announced the suspension after the group held its winter session Friday and discussed the situation. Cass said the college could make application for reinstatement "when the administration thinks it can comply with all rules and regulations of the Iowa conference."

Dr. W. G. Farr, Penn college faculty representative, said the school will seek re-admission this year.

tion, although he probably will not start.

Gerald Nordman, the fullback from St. Louis, will share duties with Reichardt. Nordman played his best game in the Minnesota game two weeks ago and at times last week continued to show ground-gaining ability.

Provided injuries are healed enough for them to be in the game at all the Iowa starting line will have McKenzie and Dittmer at the ends, Bob Geigel and Don Winslow at tackles, Earl Banks and Turner at guards and Dick Laster at center.

Laster, Guard Lou Ginsberg, Banks, Winslow, Geigel, Dittmer, McKenzie and Halfback Bob Longley will be playing their final games in Iowa uniforms. Three other seniors, not on the traveling squad, also wind up Iowa careers. They are Quarterback Jim McKinstry and two players lost because of injury, End Ralph Woodard and Tackle Jim Shoaf.

Anderson has not named the Hawkeye captain for this afternoon, preferring this week to name his captain shortly before game time. Tackle-End Leon Hart and Tackle Jim Martin are the Irish co-captains.

Although Notre Dame still has two games following today's contest, serious preparations did not begin for Iowa until Tuesday. Last Saturday the Irish downed North Carolina in New York, 42-6, after trailing 6-0 in the first quarter.

Leahy has put the emphasis on trying to improve his team's defense because of the proven offensive power of the Hawkeyes. Surprisingly enough, Leahy has put more emphasis on preparing for the Iowa running attack than he has on the aerial threat.

Same Irish Line-up

The Notre Dame coach has indicated he will employ much the same starting eleven which has been in action for the Irish all season. This means that Hart will be at right end on offense and right tackle on defense and Bill

LARRY COUTRE
Fleet Right Half . . .

Wightkin at left end. Martin, who will be starting his 32nd game for Notre Dame, more than any other player in Irish history, will be at left tackle.

Ralph McGehee will start at right tackle. Frank Johnson will be at left guard and either Fred Wallner or Bob Lally at right guard. Walter Grothaus will open at center, although Jerry Groom, of Des Moines, will see plenty of action at the center position.

Bob Williams, the Baltimore whiz who has master-minded the attack and thrown the passes will be at his usual signal — calling spot. Either Frank Spaniel or Ernie Zaleski will be at left halfback. Larry Coutre is definitely at right half and Emil Sitko will be at fullback.

With the exception of Williams the Irish starting eleven could be all seniors, if Leahy starts the same group he has indicated starting in drills.

Leahy has pointed out to his team all week that Anderson, an upset specialist in the coaching ranks and a former Notre Dame captain, would like nothing better than to end the Irish win streak and that he has pulled this type of upset in the past.

With that in mind there will assuredly be no mental let-down on either team.

'Oaken Bucket' at Stake

LAFAYETTE, IND. — For the 52nd time, possession of the Old Oaken Bucket will be at stake when Purdue and Indiana square off here today.

The Hoosiers still remember last year's stinging 39-0 rebuke which snapped their four-game winning streak.

Coach Stu Holcomb intends to stand pat on the same combination that gained the Boilermakers victories over Minnesota and Marquette plus a workman-like performance against Michigan. John Kerestes, junior fullback, who is currently leading in both ground gaining and scoring, will team up with senior Halfbacks Norbert Adams and Harry Szulborski. Quarterback Kenneth Gorgal will complete the No. 1 offensive backfield.

Defensively the Boilermakers are concerned with stopping the brilliant aerial team of Nick Sebek and Clifton Anderson, who have already accounted for new Big Ten records in passing and receiving. Also they will have to be on the watch for the elusive running of Robert Robertson, one of the most dangerous runners in the conference.

Major Bowl Bids At Stake in Top Grid Tilts Today

NEW YORK (AP) — College football arenas from here to Hawaii will be loaded with bowl game agents today as the '49 season ends for many schools in a flurry of "big" games in which sectional honors and post-season cash will be at stake.

Perhaps the spotlight will beat most fiercely on Michigan's huge stadium at Ann Arbor, where more than 97,000 fans will watch the Wolverines tie into Ohio State in a struggle which may decide the Rose Bowl.

Out on the west coast, at Palo Alto, Calif., another 90,000 will turn out to see California's power-laden Golden Bears try to crush Stanford for their 10th straight victory and qualify as the host team in the daddy of all the bowl contests at Pasadena.

Army Idle

Notre Dame, the old monarch of the college tribes, faces an apparent breather against Iowa at South Bend, while the muscular Oklahoma Sooners, No. 2 in the Associated Press national poll, are favored to rack up their 19th win over Santa Clara at Norman. Unbeaten Army rests up in preparation for its annual classic with Navy next week at Philadelphia.

Stanford is given a robust chance of upsetting California and throwing things into a turmoil out there. If Pappy Waldorf's boys get licked, and UCLA also upsets Southern California in their crosstown tussle at Los Angeles, the final conference standing will read 6-1 both for California and UCLA, and the coast selectors will be measured for straight jackets tonight.

The Rice Owls, winners of four straight in the tough Southwest conference, are favored to make it five at the expense of Texas Christian university at Fort Worth and to clinch at least a tie for the conference crown.

Bowl Scouts Watching

Baylor, the only other contender with a 3-1 conference record, faces extinction if it loses to Southern Methodist at Dallas, as the experts think it likely will. The Southwest champion automatically plays in the Cotton Bowl, maybe against Oklahoma.

From all accounts, scouts from other bowls, including the Sugar and Orange, will help boost attendance at the clash between unbeaten Virginia and once-beaten Tulane at Charlottesville. Tulane is the favorite, but it should produce a colorful duel between two fine runners, Tulane's Eddie Price and Virginia's Johnny Pappit.

Kentucky, boasting an 8-1 record and beaten only by SMU, can become a red-hot bowl candidate by bashing Tennessee at Lexington, and the same goes for Villanova if the Wildcats score impressively over North Carolina State at Philadelphia. Villanova, 7-1, was defeated only by Tulsa and holds victories over Penn State and Texas A & M, among others.

With Army idle, the biggest thing in the east is Dartmouth's invasion of Princeton. The Indians from Hanover, who stopped Cornell last week, still have an outside chance at the Ivy league title.

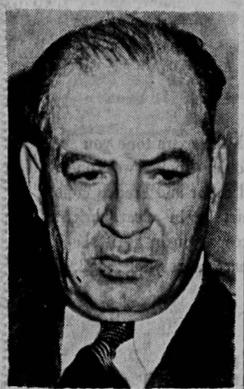

Gophers, Badgers Vie for Bowl Bid

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Minnesota and Wisconsin wind up their Big Ten football season here today with both having a possible chance at the Rose Bowl.

Both teams will be at or near full strength for the final test. Leo Nomellini, big Minnesota tackle is expected to see service in spite of a sore back. He is bidding for all-America honors for the second straight year.

The largest contingent of Wisconsin rooters — an estimated 10,000 — will be in the sell-out crowd of 63,500. Partly cloudy weather with a temperature in the 40's is forecast for the game.

New NBA Head

FRED SADDY of Milwaukee, Wis., was elected president of the National Boxing association Nov. 17 in a meeting at Havana, Cuba. It started out as a stormy session, but ended peacefully when he received a unanimous vote from the gathering.

Williams Hits

TED WILLIAMS, the Boston Red Sox's hard-hitting outfielder displays the 185-pound buck he shot Nov. 13 while hunting deer in the Basswood Lake region north of Ely, Minn. He and seven companions had to spend a night in the woods because bad weather grounded their plane.

Wolves to Test Bucks' Offense

ANN ARBOR, MICH. — Ohio State's fine offensive team runs head-on into Michigan, one of the strongest defensive teams in the country, here today.

For Ohio State, the main victory spark is provided by a possible Rose Bowl bid being extended its way.

For Michigan, a win would give the Wolverines their third straight Western conference title — an unprecedented feat.

Coach Bennie Oosterbaan expects Michigan to have its hands full in trying to stop the running of Ohio's Jerry Krall, Ray Hamilton, Jimmy Clark and Vic Janowicz. At the same time the passing of Pandel Savic will bear watching.

From the passing standpoint, there are perhaps no better passers than Michigan's Chuck Ortmann, blond left half from Milwaukee, Wis. He has been handicapped this year, however, by the absence of receivers of the caliber of Dick Rifenburg or Ed McNeill from the 1948 team.

Both teams are single-wing offenses. In fact, Ohio State's offense is practically a replica of Michigan's.

Club President Denies Banning Ezzard Charles

CINCINNATI (AP) — Peter A. Horback, president and general manager of River Downs race track here, said Friday night that Ezzard Charles, NBA heavyweight boxing champion, never was ordered out of the track club house because of his race.

"As far as I know, Charles never was in the clubhouse," Horback said. "I know he never was ordered out."

Lean Years May Be Over

— For Hawk Trackmen

By JACK SQUIRE

The lean years in Iowa track aren't officially over, but with freshmen like Gary Scott and Connie Jones on the premises, can the cloud with the silver lining be far away?

Anybody even remotely familiar with Iowa's scholastic sports will recall that these young men were members of the renowned North high relay team of Des Moines, the swiftest high school combination ever assembled anywhere.

In addition to Scott and Jones, the quartet consisted of George Nichols and Reggie Kaiser, both of whom were at SU for a brief spell last year but are currently enrolled at Drake.

Break 48 Records

Over a two year period this flying foursome broke no fewer than 48 records. Outstanding on the list are their national interscholastic marks of 42.3 and 1:27.6 for the 440 and 880 yard relays. These brilliant clockings were turned in at the state championship at Ames in May, 1948, and erased the previous figures which had stood for 16 years.

Scott, youngest and probably fastest of the quartet, has performed a 9.7 time for the 100 yard dash. Considering that Chuck Peters' 9.8 was sufficient to take first in the Big Ten meet last spring, it's not surprising that track Coach Francis Cretzmeyer is smiling these days. Gary has also done 21.3 for the 220 and 49.3 for the quarter mile, both excellent times.

His major problem has always been and still is in starting.

Poor Starter But . . .

"It's a funny thing," he said, "I was the poorest starter of the gang in high school, but I ran first on the relay team."

Have You Heard? —

Anderson, Carideo Pick Their 'Greatest Thrill'

By JOHN HOLWAY

Consider the poor football coach. Not only must he play Notre Dame, he has to keep various sports writers happy by periodically picking "My Greatest Football Thrill."

Patiently he sits, going over the game, or the play, or the moment that supposedly gave him a large charge on the gridiron. He resembles George Washington sitting for his portrait.

Dr. Eddie Anderson and Frank Carideo of Iowa, being players of note, coaches of distinction and generally polite fellows, are frequent contributors to this vast literature of the sports page.

Both were all-Americans. Both played for great Notre Dame teams. Both knew Knute Rockne.

And both selected games against Northwestern, just 10 years and one day apart, as the game that gave each his biggest playing bag.

Dr. Eddie remembers best the game in which he caught three touchdown passes against the Wildcats in 1920. The records show it was Nov. 21.

"But we beat them rather handily," Dr. Anderson said in an apologetic way, fearing that the feat wasn't worth mentioning.

Then, with a twinkle in his eye and a toss to his head, a new thrill occurred to Dr. Anderson. "Say," he said, "that my biggest thrill was beating Notre Dame in '39 and '40."

With that new thought, Dr. Eddie wheeled off, bound for South Bend.

ANDERSON

Frank Carideo, backfield coach, chose an Irish-Northwestern game, too: November 22, 1930. The Irish squeaked through 14-0, scoring in the last seven minutes, to keep their winning streak going a second straight year.

It looked bad for the Irish most of the way that day, but Quarterback Carideo punted his team out of trouble time after time until a break gave him their scoring chance in the last quarter.

That will be 19 years ago Tuesday. The records of that game are older than some freshmen. But you can still see Frank booting them forty yards or so out on the Hawks' practice field.

King Basketball takes over after today for the next four months. Fans are wondering what kind of team Iowa will have this season. Well, don't ask me. I'm wondering too.

There are more new faces than usual, and, in scrimmages, some of them look like they can shoot.

There's 6-foot, 8-inch Chuck Darling. Imagine this sophomore working in a double pivot with Frank Calsbeck.

Forward Ev Cochrane and Guard Bob Clifton seem to be nimble-fingers when they have the ball under the basket. They will probably work into the squad with Veterans Bob Schulz, Bob Vollers and Calsbeck and Darling.

Tall Bill Bauer, a guard, and short Eddie Colbert, a forward, look promising. Bauer can pass as hard and as sure as a cannon. Colbert, third baseman for the Iowa City softball team, has the energy of a Murray Wier.

Wildcats, Illini Battle In Homecoming Game

CHAMPAIGN, ILL. — Two of the Big Ten's oldest rivals, Northwestern and Illinois, battle in the Illini homecoming here today.

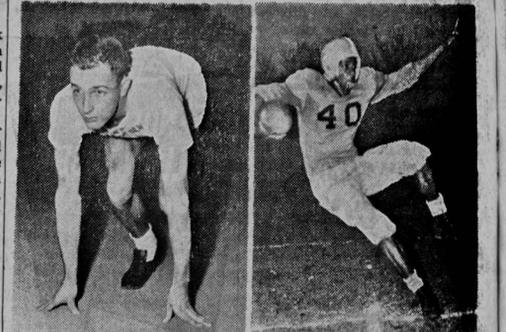

The Wildcats will be out in an attempt to salvage what they can of a disappointing season. Meanwhile, the Illini can measure the success of the 1949 season on their ability to stop the Wildcats. A win would give them a 4-3-2 record, plus a first division standing in the final conference tabulations.

It will be Johnny Karras who will be leading the Illinois offense. It was about a quarter of a century ago that the fabulous Red Grange ran wild for Illinois and now it has Johnny Karras, who someday may match the football legends created by Grange.

Northwestern, a team which lost only two letters from the team which beat California in the Rose Bowl last January, has failed to live up to expectations. Wildcat Quarterback Don Burson will attempt to find the holes in the Illini pass defense which has been a source of trouble to them all year.

TWO FRESHMEN RESPONSIBLE for a bright track future at SU are Gary Scott (left, in track togs) and Connie Jones (in football uniform). Track fans remember this pair as half of the famed North high relay team of Des Moines. While Scott limits his activities almost entirely to track, Jones is also a member of the freshman football squad.

weak in starting," Jones commented, "but I don't remember our second man ever beginning at a disadvantage. When Scottie starts moving, he really flies.

Connie, himself, doesn't exactly stand still when the gun sounds. Though he has never done better than 10.1 for the century or 23.7 for the 220, the general impression is that the lean 160 pounder is capable of lowering those marks considerably.

"Don't let those times fool you," said Scott. "He's never really been pushed in an individual race. But just watch him go when the pressure is on in a relay. You know he once did a 48 quarter in a relay."

Another Ozzie Simmons? Jones is out for a halfback position on the freshman football squad where many observers feel

Santa to Visit Iowa City

Merchants Plan Program, Special Store Hours for a 'Gala Christmas Season' Here

Special store hours, decorations, a community Christmas tree and a special program for youngsters are among the completed plans for a "gala Christmas season" made by Iowa City retail merchants.

Ten thousand feet of balsam roping will be used to add a holiday appearance to store fronts in the business district. Several SUI students will be helping merchants string the decorative roping before Thanksgiving. Chamber of Commerce Secretary Robert Gage said Friday.

Saturday, Nov. 26, is "Kid's Day" and the merchant's annual Christmas opening. Santa Claus will descend from the top of Whetstone's building on the fire department's extension ladder to distribute candy to children. Iowa City Mayor Preston Koser will welcome Santa.

Last year, Santa Claus visited Iowa City under the sponsorship of the retail trades division of the chamber of commerce. He was marooned on the roof of the Whetstone building until the fire department came to his rescue with their new extension ladder.

Santa's appearance this year marks his second annual visit in this manner since the war, Gage said. He also announced the special Christmas store hours for evening buying. Retailers have designated Dec. 7 as "Family night" and will light the community Christmas tree for the first time then. Stores will remain open until 9 p.m. A group of high school age young people and others from church groups will present a program of Christmas carols at the community tree in the Moose parking lot at the corner of Clinton and College streets.

Stores will remain open until 9 p.m. on Dec. 14. That date has been designated by local retailers as "Shopper's Special night."

Last minute buyers will be able to buy until 9 p.m. in Iowa City stores on Dec. 21 through 23, Gage said. Plans are underway to provide caroling at the community tree each night the stores are open.

Stores will close at 5 p.m. on the Saturdays before Christmas and New Year's and remain closed all day on Monday both weeks.
