Darkness, Rain Stop Search For Plane Carrying Refugees

OSLO, NORWAY (UP)—Fog, rain and darkness halted the search Monday night for an airliner which vanished minutes away from here as it was bringing 29 Jewish refugee children from the ghettos of Morocco to a "new" life in Norway.

Volunteers who had trudged in darkness through southern Norway's forest wilderness returned to their base to wait until morning with no trace of the ailing youngsters, refugees of Arab massacres.

Hope of finding the children alive almost disappeared as darkness fell and report after report from searching parties said they had found no trace. Four Dutch crewmen and either two or three nurses — officials were uncertain how many — also were aboard the plane.

Four Nations Help Aircraft of four nations—Norway, Sweden, Denmark and The Netherlands — and salvage cutters of Norway and Sweden called off their search because of darkness. The cutters said the fog was so thick they were barely able to follow the coast of Norway's fjords.

One ground rescue team returned to Sandemosen Monday night after a nine-hour trek through the forests without food or water and reported no success. The same report came from other rescue parties.

The Aero Holland company DC-3 plane, chartered by the European Children's Welfare organization, disappeared Sunday in late afternoon after radioing it was within a few miles of Fornebu airfield here.

Lived in Slums All of the children had been born in North Africa and brought up in disease-ridden, poverty-stricken slums that resembled a medieval ghetto. All of them were considered susceptible to tuberculosis and some of them already had the disease.

They were gathered in a camp near Casablanca and were to have been rehabilitated in a camp at Holmstrand before going on to Israel to join their parents or the adults who had agreed to adopt the orphans among them.

The airliner landed safely Sunday at Marseille on the first stage of the journey and again at Brussels but it disappeared after radioing Fornebu field here that it was preparing to land.

Nick Anderson, Son Of Coach, Charged With Drunk Driving

Edward N. (Nick) Anderson Jr., A3, Iowa City, son of Dr. Eddie Anderson, SUI's football coach, was arrested following an auto accident here early Sunday morning and charged with drunken driving.

After spending the night in the county jail, Anderson was released under $500 bond. Police Judge Emil G. Trott granted Anderson's request for a change of venue and transferred the case to the court of Justice of the Peace C.J. Hutchinson.

Arraignment was continued until 5 p.m. Friday. The accident in which Anderson was involved occurred at 12:15 a.m. on Dubuque street near the City park bridge.

Donald J. McBride, A2, Oelwein, told police: "I was going north on Dubuque street at about 15 miles an hour. All of a sudden I saw a car directly in front of me. I was on the right side of the street, and could go no further. The car swerved, but hit my car on the left side and also the car back of me on the left side."

The driver of the car behind McBride was Karl Kelleher, A3, Lansing. All three cars were damaged considerably but no one was injured.

The car driven by Anderson was a Ford station wagon owned by Oma Smith, father of Nancy Smith, A2, Rockford, Ill.

Expediter Appoints Roth to Rent Post

Dan Roth, route 6, was appointed Monday to the Iowa City area rent advertising board, replacing H.J. Dane who resigned Friday. Roth, who operates a hatchery at 840 S. Clinton street, was appointed to the six-member board by Federal Housing Expediter Tighe Woods upon recommendation of Iowa Governor William Beardley.

Dane, local farmer and fuel dealer, resigned in opposition to continued federal rent control in Iowa City.

Other members of the rent board include J.A. Swisher, chairman; Mrs. Clair Hamilton, Stephen Darling, Herb Olson and H.W. Vestermark.

Judge Cites 5 Faults Of Captain, Owners In Tragic Ship Fire

OTTAWA, ONT. (AP)—Justice R.L. Kellock reported Monday that the captain and owners were at fault for the disaster to the Great Lakes steamer Noronic which burned at her Toronto dock Sept. 17 with a loss of 118 lives. He ordered Capt. William C. Taylor, 66-year-old master of the Noronic, to surrender his master's certificate for a year, and the Canada Steamship lines, the owners, to pay the costs of the investigation.

Outlines Faults The commissioner found five faults with the master and owners: There was no continuous patrol, to detect fire.

There was no organization in operation while the ship was docked with passengers to transmit word of a fire to trained fire-fighters.

Only 15 men out of a crew of 171 were on duty the night of the fire.

There was no pre-arranged plan for arousing the passengers and getting them off the ship.

There was no training of crew and officers in fire fighting beyond showing them how to operate fire extinguishers and hoses.

Suits Total $325,000 Frank Wilkinson, lawyer for the Canada Steamship lines, said civil actions asking a total of $325,000 damages from the company already have been started in Cleveland.

All but one of the nearly 600 passengers were from the United States.

Former SUI Man Accidentally Killed

DES MOINES (AP)—Leland J. Grothe, 20, a son of Jens Grothe, former assistant attorney general, was accidentally shot and killed Monday.

Dr. Leo Luka, acting coroner, said the death of the SUI student was accidental. The mishap occurred at the Grothe home about noon. The body was found in a bedroom by the father when he returned home for lunch. Young Grothe was killed by one .22 caliber rifle bullet in the head.

His father said his son had been cleaning a .22 caliber rifle. Young Grothe had been a junior at SUI where he was majoring in sociology. Grothe said his son had withdrawn from school three weeks ago but intended to return for the spring semester.

He is survived by his parents; two brothers, Martin and Donald, and a sister, Ann, all of Des Moines.

Center of Court Controversy

THE MOTHER OF THREE-YEAR-OLD Marguerite Mary McGahey (above) charges the child is being held illegally by a couple to whom the mother owes board money. Mrs. Ann Sasynski, the mother, was granted a writ of habeas corpus Monday by Justice Roscoe V. Elsworth of the New York state supreme court at Albany, N.Y. It orders Mr. and Mrs. William Sabott to produce Marguerite in court Friday.

'Monty' Enjoys Flanking Movement at New York

MOST GENERALS HATE TO BE OUTFLANKED, but Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery found this flanking movement to be his liking when actresses Bonita Granville (left) and Janis Paige closed in on him at the rail of the liner Queen Elizabeth which docked at New York Monday. Montgomery, military chairman of the Western European Union Defense alliance, wore the black beret he has made famous. He said he saw no immediate threat of open conflict in western Europe. He sailed to Washington Monday and said he expects to attend the Army-Navy football game at Philadelphia Saturday.

Hiss Pictured As Liar, Spy

NEW YORK (AP)—Whittaker Chambers pictured Alger Hiss Monday as a Communist stooge, a liar and a spy for the Russians.

Chambers, the government's chief witness in Hiss' second perjury trial, testified that the handsome, 45-year-old defendant: 1—Went to work in the justice department and later in the state department at the behest of a Communist underground chief;

2—Turned over state department documents to a Soviet spy ring at regular intervals as late as 1938;

3—Entertained Chambers in his home nearly a year after the last date on which Hiss says the two men met.

The short, stout Chambers — once a Communist courier by his own admission, later a $30,000-a-year editor and now a Maryland farmer — gave names, dates and a wealth of details as he testified for the second day.

Hiss listened with scarcely a sign of emotion. Once or twice he smiled broadly.

U.S. Urges 30 Nations To Ask Ward's Release

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States Monday asked 30 nations—including Soviet Russia—to join in bringing pressure on the Chinese Communists to free American Consul General Angus Ward and his staff from a Mukden jail.

An unprecedented personal appeal for urgent concerted action was sent out by Secretary of State Dean Acheson over the weekend to the foreign minister of every country with representatives in China.

The new step, announced by the state department, was taken amid a mounting outcry for the use of force if necessary to free the consular officials, who were jailed four weeks ago on charges which the United States has denounced as "trumped up."

Without Precedent Officials said Acheson's personal appeal was without diplomatic precedent. It went out Friday night, a few hours after President Truman called the treatment of Ward an outrage.

Acheson's move posed a direct test of the attitude of Soviet Russia and of four other Soviet bloc countries to which his message was dispatched.

Some diplomatic officials voiced the suspicion privately that Russia as the principal backer of the new Chinese Communist regime may have instigated the Ward incident as a blow to American prestige.

"As a matter of urgency," Acheson asked each foreign minister to "express to the highest Chinese in Peiping through such channels as may be available to you the concern which your government undoubtedly feels" over the treatment of Ward.

Concepts Violated Acheson declared the Communists' action is "in direct violation of the basic concepts of international relations which have been developed throughout the centuries."

Ward and his aides, Acheson said, have actually been deprived of their freedom for an entire year.

Lewis Blocks Dawson As Mine Fund Trustee

WASHINGTON (AP)—John L. Lewis reportedly blocked the seating of former Federal Judge Charles Dawson as the coal operators' trustee of the miners' welfare fund at a stormy three-hour session Monday.

The three trustees — chairman Lewis, Dawson and Sen. Styles Bridges (R-NH) — refused to talk about what went on at the bitter meeting. Dawson had sought to succeed Ezra Van Horn as the operator representative. Van Horn recently resigned.

Court Rejects Eisler Appeal

WASHINGTON (AP)—The supreme court Monday rejected an appeal by the fugitive Gerhart Eisler, reputed former No. 1 Communist leader in the United States, against a contempt of congress conviction.

The high court had previously shelved the case after Eisler jumped bail in this country and fled abroad last summer to find refuge behind the Soviet iron curtain.

Monday's action means that Eisler, whose flight came while he was under sentence of a year in jail and $1,000 fine, will face prison if he ever returns to the United States.

The court brushed aside arguments of Eisler's attorneys and tossed the case out without considering its merits.

Eisler stowed away last May on the Polish-owned ship Batory and went first to England and from there to the Russian zone of Germany. Last month he became chief of the newly-formed Soviet zone information ministry.

The case arose from Eisler's refusal to be sworn as a witness before the house un-American activities committee.

Cuts Not Allowed After Noon Today

SUI's no-cut ruling will go into effect today at 12:30 p.m. and will continue through 12:20 p.m. Wednesday when classes will be dismissed for the Thanksgiving recess.

Students who miss classes during the 24-hour period before and after any official vacation are penalized by the addition of one semester hour of academic credit to their degree requirements. The regulation does not apply to graduate students.

Classes will be resumed at 12:30 p.m. Monday and the no-cut ruling will be in effect until 12:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Shah of Oil-Rich Iran Pleads for U.S. Aid

NEW YORK (AP)—The Shah of Iran said Monday night that his oil-rich homeland must have military aid from the United States to assure its survival. He did not mention his Russian neighbors to the north, but it was obvious they were uppermost in his mind.

The handsome young ruler made his first frank public plea for U.S. aid in a speech prepared for delivery before the Council of Foreign Relations.

Citizens Get Chance Before City Council To Fight Paving Tax

Iowa Citizens will have a chance to voice their objections to special paving assessments today, when the city council meets at 7:30 p.m. in the City hall council chamber.

Many objectors have filed petitions protesting the assessments levied to pay for street-paving projects recently completed in Iowa City. City Clerk George J. Dohrer said Monday.

Claim Violation The petitions claim the assessments are in violation of the code of Iowa, which states that property owners may not be assessed an amount exceeding 25 percent of the property's value.

Other action expected tonight includes the third reading of an ordinance prohibiting parking on one side of certain local streets where car parking on both sides has led to traffic congestion, Dohrer said.

Alderman Frank Fryauf, chairman of the ordinance committee, said no action would be taken tonight on the objections to the construction of a tavern at 316 E. Benton street.

Objections Raised Persons living in the neighborhood of the proposed tavern site have protested that such a business would be objectionable to the neighborhood. Everett Hull secured a permit to build the tavern last month.

Last week the council referred the issue to the ordinance committee and planning commission. It will be consulted before further action is taken.

Comment Refused On Parlay Probe

County Atty. Jack C. White Monday refused to comment on a proposed grand jury investigation of the alleged distribution of football parlay cards in Iowa City.

Monday afternoon White brought several cases before the jury but later refused to say whether the "parlay card" situation had been considered.

Seven grand jurors were selected after the November term of court opened officially at 2 p.m. Chosen were Jury Foreman J.M. Zenisek, Cedar township; Frank Condon, West Lucas; Dennis Kennedy, Oxford; Clarence Kouba, Scott; Guy Meyers, Madison; Victor A. Shima, Newport, and Omar Yoder, Sharon.

Russ Charges

The Soviet bloc, abstaining on the final vote, had charged repeatedly that the plan for Libya, famed North African battleground of World War II, was an Anglo-American device to pay the way for building bases for future war against Russia.

A decision on a third former Italian colony — Eritrea — was postponed until next year pending an on-the-spot study in which the wishes of the population will be canvassed.

The Soviet bloc tried repeatedly and vainly to bar the three western powers from a 10-member advisory council that will aid a UN high commissioner in preparing Libya for independence.

Bunche Mentioned Among those prominently mentioned as candidates for the commissioner's post is Dr. Ralph J. Bunche, who gained prominence as peace-maker in Palestine.

The assembly overwhelmingly rejected Soviet proposals which would have given Libya immediate independence; ordered western military forces out of Libya within three months; established direct UN trusteeships for Somaliland and Eritrea until they became independent in three to five years.

Quadrangle Council Drops Investigation Of Food Situation

The Quadrangle council voted, 17-8, Monday night to drop their two week old investigation into charges of unfair prices in the Quadrangle grill and cafeteria.

The investigation was a result of complaints voiced by several quadrangle residents through their council representatives at a council meeting Nov. 7.

A special closed meeting was called the following night and T. M. Rehder, director of SUI dormitory and dining services, explained the university's stand on food prices.

The council later delegated Council Pres. Robert Yackshaw, G. Clinton, and Council Member Charles Loomer, A3, Mason City, to contact SUI Business Manager Fred Ambrose for a further explanation.

SUI's stand was given Monday night by the delegates. All dormitories at state-owned schools form an independent, self-sustaining corporation. Expansion of one unit, such as the present addition being built on Hillcrest, is paid for out of a "maintenance fund."

Money from this "fund" is taken from all dormitories. Profits — or "excess costs" — from the Quadrangle grill, and the Union cafeteria and similar units throughout the state, provide the money for this fund. And Ambrose, who went through a thorough auditing of his books before submitting his explanation to the delegates, said the Quadrangle was not paying an undue share into this "fund."

Some students will leave by commercial airliners, a few by private plane, and several by chartered aircraft, according to Iowa City Flying service officials.

In addition to public transportation, many will leave by private cars at noon Wednesday. Several students driving their own cars home have reported that for the most part extra seats are booked solidly.

Students Ready to Go Home

Thousands of SUI students will leave Iowa City Wednesday by private cars, buses, trains and planes heading for their annual Thanksgiving vacation from classrooms.

Iowa City transportation officials are well prepared to handle the crowds of holiday travelers, and barring bad weather, they anticipate no great travel confusion.

Some students with no Wednesday morning classes, plan to leave for their homes tonight.

Phil Spelman, bus depot agent, said 12 extra buses are being added to the regular runs.

"Early ticket sales indicate that approximately the same number of students will be leaving by bus this year as last," Spelman said.

He thanked the students for their fine response to the request to buy tickets early and added there was still some room available on the buses if students applied early today.

The Rock Island railroad will add extra cars to all of its trains leaving Iowa City Wednesday, but officials at the depot said no special trains will be necessary.

One Solution, But —

On first reading of the Alameda county, Calif., medical plan, one might conclude that here is the way to bring adequate medical treatment to the lower income brackets without resorting to ominous-sounding "socialized medicine."

The plan was elaborately described in a current article in the "Women's Home Companion," titled "Can We Have Enough Good Doctors for Everybody?"

The plan, which was recently put into effect in Alameda county, population 700,000, certainly has its merits. It remedies many of the sore spots that have existed between the medical profession and the general public for years.

The county medical association, composed of "1,000 ethical doctors," offers emergency and routine service whenever it is needed. Doctors serve voluntarily and rotate the "on call" duty.

Reimbursement is determined "not by how much patients can afford to pay, but rather how much they can afford without hurting themselves."

Malpractice among doctors, in the past spoken of in hush-hush terms by both the profession and the public, is brought into the open by the association. If anyone believes some member of the profession has violated a trust or obligation, he need only report it to the association and the offender will be disciplined.

Any patient who thinks he has been overcharged by a doctor has a right to take his complaint to the association. If the board agrees, the doctor may be asked to knock off some of the fee.

Persons who cannot pay in lump sums may pay their bill on sort of an "installment plan" at no added cost.

In Alameda county, the plan appears to be enjoying tremendous success. Those who need medical treatment are receiving it. In fact, the leading public health official in the San Francisco-Oakland district, heretofore an advocate of socialized medicine, has said "if private medicine has any hope of survival, this is it."

But is it? Is it the answer to the nation's medical woes? Will it work in these areas, such as the deep south and big city slum sections, where medical care is needed most?

The Alameda association admits that in their county there is an abundance of doctors. It does not work a hardship on anyone to serve a little time "on call." It guarantees a certain amount of practice and is extremely helpful for young doctors attempting to set up a practice.

The Ewing report on the nation's health, submitted to the president preceding his request for compulsory health insurance, pointed out the crying need for doctors. Would doctors, now being taxed to the limit, be willing to take part in a volunteer program that would at the most result in more work and lower wages? The answer is probably no.

What is needed is more doctors, nurses, and space for treating the sick and injured. Furthermore, many of the lower middle class could not afford even nominal fees if they were required at specific times.

Perhaps a combination compulsory-private set-up is the answer to the medical problem. The fine print, working successfully under optimum conditions in Alameda county, probably is not.

A Wrong Step —

The government agency that is charged with the responsibility of caring for the atomic bomb is reportedly near collapse.

Chairman David E. Lillenthal of the atomic energy commission is about to resign. In the face of congressional probes that have charged his commission with "incredible mismanagement" Lillenthal appears ready to step out of the picture if things aren't straightened out.

A joint congressional committee is supposed to exercise policy control over the AEC. The AEC is unhappy having a group of congressmen making top level decisions for it.

In fact, Lillenthal and his commission claim that any competent person would shun the responsibility of heading the atomic commission.

A professor of history at Columbia university, in the Saturday Review of Literature, recently pointed out the danger of pursuing a course that involves witch hunts of the Lillenthal type.

"... First-rate men cannot and will not work under the conditions set by those who tremble at original ideas. . . . Sooner or later we will arrive at an official standard of conformity, orthodoxy and loyalty. . . . If we establish a standard of 'safe' thing, we will end up with no thinking at all."

The arguments of Prof. Henry Steele Commager, of Columbia, ring true. The congressional control is a step toward the wrong channel of management.

Futile Attempts at Agreement Show Wide East-West Rift

By J.M. ROBERTS JR., AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

Britain, after warning Soviet Russia that the time for agreement between east and west is running out, is making another effort to see if something can be done about it.

She is undoubtedly acting in full concert with American policy, and in accordance with the desires of the smaller members of the UN who are showing increasing irritation over the subordination of their hopes in that organization to the power plays of the great nations.

On Wednesday of last week Hector McNeill made a fervent and what sounded much like a final appeal to Andrei Vishinsky in a speech at Lake Success, who should know from his wide western contacts, convince the Kremlin that the west has no evil designs on Russia, McNeill asked.

THE BRITISH minister of state probably came as close as anyone to expressing the almost despairing plea of the western world, "Why can't Russia see that we'd just like to go about our business? Why can't she see the profits to be gained from world cooperation? Why can't she see that her actions are merely hardening the heart of the world against her? Why can't she see?"

Then on Thursday McNeill took a page from the book of the committee of the American Friends society which has recommended that small issues with Russia be explored to see if agreements on them might be made and, through their observance, lead to mutual trust in the search for larger settlements.

He is believed to have suggested to Vishinsky that an Austrian peace treaty, faithfully observed in both spirit and letter, might be such a bridge.

There is no indication of how far he got. The barriers are wide and high. Many times the Soviets have agreed to agree, but the final upshot has been demands which were wholly unacceptable to the west, no matter how small the issue.

AS I HAVE said before, there are many indications that Russia has no intention to make war. But there can be no doubt that she is deliberately continuing the cold war.

It has been a year and a half since the United States gave Russia, through the famous exchange between V.M. Molotov and Ambassador Bedell Smith, a completely clear picture of the American and western attitude. All Russia needed to do to stop the cold war was to stop her power plays against other countries, respect their independence and call off the fifth columns.

This was accompanied by a warning that the American government, with the support of a fully-awake public, intended to see that Soviet expansion was stopped, voluntarily or not, with each thrust certain to meet a counterthrust in kind.

Smith explained that the west was involved in reaction, not action, against Russia, which as McNeill explained to Vishinsky.

Molotov made a pot-and-kettle reply. Russia has been careful not to go too far since then. But she has shown not the slightest intention of fundamental change. Fundamental change would involve the heart of Bolshevism itself. The day for that seems far off.

Letters to the Editor

TO THE EDITOR:

There is no need to defend the University theater against a recent letter by Gil Taylor, simply because the reputation and tradition of the theater is its own defense.

However, as naive as this letter was, it may serve to convey a totally distorted picture of the dramatic arts department.

Drawing a comparison between the Footlighters theater and the University theater is complete nonsense. Granted, Burt French turns out some very attractive productions. But to throw mud at the local schedule for this year appears to be the work of an unarmed intellect.

Unless Mr. Taylor is sincerely convinced that Shakespeare, Shaw, Barry, Bellasco and Kaufman are inferior playwrights, I believe his criticisms are immature and prejudiced.

Contrary to what Mr. Taylor would lead us to believe, I contend that the first two shows this year have been successful. This opinion is based on attendance and popular reaction. Though the actors are students in the process of development through experience, it is unfair to tab their efforts "amateurish in quality."

A dogmatic statement such as this suggests a self-appointed critic who neither understands the purpose of the university program nor interpretation of dramatic material. There are many others more capable than he who have reacted entirely different to the play.

Because Burt French puts on fine shows does not mean that the Cedar Rapids group overshadows the theater across the river. Taylor asserts that the theater in Cedar Rapids has "taste, intelligence and style." If this is meant to denote that the University theater doesn't, I contend that the author's letter is lacking in the same taste, intelligence and style, as this is entirely untrue.

In conclusion, I believe Gil Taylor should spend more time in forming constructive criticism than in condemning the University theater at every opportunity.

This type of criticism is certainly not constructive, and it reminds one of high school journalism.

Clumsy with the Banjo, But —

Snappy Does OK — for a Horse

KALAMAZOO, MICH. (AP) — As banjo players go, Kalamazoo's best known performer is strictly schmalz.

His technique is clumsy and his rhythm uncertain. He can't read a note and he can play only a dozen or so tunes.

But for a horse, he's sensational.

Just to erase any lingering questions, let us be specific. The player's name is Snappy; he is a horse and he plays the banjo. He is probably the only banjo-playing horse in the world, which puts him in a highly specialized and distinctive position.

Snappy owes whatever success has come his way to his owner, a Kalamazoo harness-maker named George Hall.

Years ago, when vaudeville was still a lively part of the American way, Hall was a professional banjo player. He twanged back and forth across the country until vaudeville died. Then he settled down in Kalamazoo and wound up as a harness maker. But, of course, he never forgot the banjo.

One day three years ago a colt was born on Hall's farm near the city.

"He was a real cute little fellow," the harness maker said, "and I used to go out to the barn and play him a few lullabys on my banjo each evening. He liked it. He got real curious and wanted to sniff the banjo, so I let him."

"Then one night," said Hall, "he hit the strings with his lips and made a noise. Scared him half to death. But he came back for another look and made another sound on the strings. It got to be quite a game."

"I've kept it up until now he listens to me strum a few bars and then he puts his head down on the banjo and strums away with his lips while I do the fingering."

"Snappy sort of leans toward the slow tunes like 'My Old Kentucky Home.' But he likes to listen to me play the faster stuff like 'Pony Boy' and 'Camp Town Races.'" Hall tells the horse's admirers.

By JOE BROWN

IF THERE'S one group of persons on this campus performing a thorough job, it's those who sit behind little signs which read "Please Stop at this Desk Before Leaving Library."

Some of those kids must have taken courses in "How to Become a Detective" because they know what they're doing, believe me.

And it's a job where we need proficiency, too. A fellow can get right panicky when he strolls in the night before a test which was assigned four weeks earlier.

He might find that for 150 students there are only seven copies of the assigned book because some knuckle-heads had slipped the other three out to enjoy with pipe and slippers.

THERE shouldn't be much of that going on anymore, though. When you leave the library now you've been through a search that might have brought to light anything from a hidden sandwich for that mid-afternoon pick-me-up to a case of sore throat.

The police department might even do well to enlist the aid of those conscientious young sleuths. I'll bet pencils into so many brief cases probably turn up numerous parlay cards and punch boards.

The situation has a pretty unpleasant effect on me. I have the same feeling as I approach those desks that I'd probably have if I were completely innocent but about to face a lie-detector test.

THERE'S ALWAYS the possibility, you know, of some practical joker framing you. Imagine the embarrassment of walking up knowing you never stole anything bigger than a grape from a grocery shelf, and suddenly finding the girl pulling one of those priceless editions from between two of your own books.

I've often wondered if she has a little button under her desk which she could use to summon the authorities.

If so, you'd probably find yourself standing there with your mouth opening and closing, trying to appear indignantly innocent, while the guy who framed you had a great time watching university policemen closing in.

"Here's the cad," the girl would probably shout.

"Now wait a minute . . . I ain't do nothing."

"Oh, you thief, you! Let me see inside your notebook. Got any of the library's pamphlets in there?"

"SO HELP ME, I didn't know that book . . ."

"Open your coat. Let me see in your coat pockets. Humman Peanut butter and crackers."

"You can't do . . ."

"Open your mouth!"

"You can't do that . . ."

"Open it!"

"Ah, ooooh can't ooooh iss ooooh ee!"

"Nothing in there."

By this time, all the students who had been sleeping would be awake, those who had been whispering and giggling would be chattering and making bets on the outcome of your trouble and that one fellow who had been studying, poor guy, would have to give up until the noise died down.

Don't get the idea I'm against those kids at the checkout desks. They've got an important job, and one that's probably embarrassing to them, too.

I'd hate to have the job myself.

Spending Shows U.S. Strategy

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. defense strategy becomes apparent when you size up the trend in our military spending:

1. The President and his policy makers are not building up our military strength as though they thought war were coming soon.

2. The keynote of our defense strategy is economy—striving for great military forces than for sound financial and economic conditions within our nation.

Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson says certain "risks" are involved but that present economies will not reduce American fighting power.

3. Maintaining just sufficient armed might to avert disaster if attacked, to retaliate swiftly with B-36 bombers, to build a nucleus which can be quickly mobilized and developed.

What happened to the armed forces amid the confusion of the long battle over their appropriations? The fiscal experts of the military establishment are gradually unraveling the scrambled threads, and it is at last possible to see.

Congress economized in a very mild way despite all the economy talk.

It cut only $119-million from the navy's request for $4,347,000,000.

It cut $235-million from the army's request for $4,476,000,000.

Even these cuts are not so large as they look, for the requested funds had included $180-million for retired pay for all three services, and this was provided by congress under a separate heading.

Congress gave the airforce $735-million more than the $4,554,000,000 it requested. This was to provide for a 58-group airforce instead of the 48-group force the administration had sought.

The only other major economy by congress was to cut the funds for stockpiling of strategic materials to $425-million from the $525-million the President had recommended.

Meanwhile the President and

Secretary of Defense Johnson have been economizing in a big way. The President has ordered that all funds in excess of those needed for the 48 air groups be recommended be put aside, leaving the airforce with almost exactly what it originally had requested.

Other economies already have been effected and still more are being planned. The military establishment intends to pay for all new pay raises for uniformed and civilian personnel out of this year's budget.

No funds were appropriated for the raises. It is customary to pay salary increases and then seek a deficiency appropriation later. But now no deficiency request is planned.

Driving Course Given In 180 High Schools

DES MOINES (AP) — Students in at least 180 Iowa high schools now have a chance to take supervised courses in driving a car.

"It will take time before the effects of these courses are reflected in better young drivers," Frank Ullish, director of safety education for the state department of public safety, said Saturday.

"It has been estimated for the nation as a whole that driver training courses will reduce the number of accidents among teenage drivers 50 percent," Ullish added.

He said the safety department plans to make a survey in Iowa on the safety record of students who have taken the courses in the last three years.

Only Man in Foods Class Prepares Duck

(Daily Iowan Photo)

"... WHILE I SLAVE OVER A HOT STOVE" — the end of this complaint may apply some day to Richard Witte, A3, Carroll, the only man enrolled in an SUI foods course. This man of distinction, shown above preparing a duck for its entrance into the oven, is a sportsman who is learning to cook because it's the "practical thing to do." Planning to enter the resort business, Witte is learning the cost-cutting method of buying through some home economics courses.

Preparing for Future —

Male Studies Home Ec

By VIRGINIA BOYLE

A sportsman who's also a student in home-economics seems like an impossible combination, but it's not.

Richard Witte, A3, Carroll, hunts game and he's learning how to cook it.

The only man in an SUI foods course, Witte says his interest started when he was a guide for a camp in Ontario, Canada, this summer.

Witte isn't taking foods because he plans to have a bachelor life nor because he doesn't like the food he's been served for the last 20 years. He's learning to cook because it seemed to be practical from his standpoint.

Temporarily Witte is thinking about entering the resort business, and although he's an economics major at SUI, he's taking the home-ec course with an eye toward the future.

"You have a general idea about buying and how to cut costs after a course of this kind," Witte said. "Definitely I'm not a home economics major," he added, "but I'll probably go on to take the meal planning course next semester."

At present Witte has three mallard ducks in freezers here and is planning to prepare them in his foods class. He's reading up in cook books on the art of preparing game and intends to let the coeds in the class sample the results.

From a hunting trip in Rock Island two weeks ago Witte netted five more game birds, but didn't bring them back to Iowa City.

Auditions were also held Monday. Co-directors Jack Pederson, A4, Marshalltown, and Robert Gaines, A3, Detroit, said the 1950 show will be staged in Macbride auditorium Jan. 17 through Jan. 20 and will feature music by Jack Davis and the "All Stars," an eight-piece band with Vocalist Jane Pinneo.

Before 1911 Students Had 1-Day Thanksgiving Recess

By DICK JACKMAN

When SUI students settle down to make that incision on their Thanksgiving turkey Thursday and begin counting their blessings, they will do well to include SUI officials of 1911 on their list of people to thank.

For it was in that year SUI officials first decided on the "five-day week" for Thanksgiving vacation. Prior to then students were allowed only a one-day recess from the puzzling pages of their textbooks.

Now this one day was nice, but hardly long enough to be looked forward to with the enthusiasm students do now.

Now, why did the 1911 administration make the switch?

Well, from The Daily Iowan of 38 years ago we find several reasons. First, it was believed students needed a fall vacation to match the one in the spring.

Also, about this time of year, the freshmen had reached the peak of their homesick state and were feeling quite inferior to the "hardened" upperclassmen.

However, nearly half of that 1911 group stayed in Iowa City during the Wednesday-to-Monday recess. The reason, of course, was transportation — or rather the lack of it — because then there was an alarming shortage of new convertibles and rides home were as far apart as pay days.

Anyone who lived more than 200 miles from Iowa City just never got the chance to leave for that home-cooked dinner. But plans were very complete to keep those who had to stay here entertained as much as possible with parties, dances and shows.

Probably the top attraction listed by The Daily Iowan was the showing at a theatre of "A Married Bachelor" starring Cecil Andrus, "the 19-year old college girl star." This was billed as "Chicago's joyous musical farce, featuring a million miles of laughs."

And a local hardware store took advantage of the holiday by putting on sale the day before Thanksgiving "five bushels of very fine pocket knives, cut in price from $1 to 39 cents — all you want."

But it remained for an Iowa City coal company to pun its way to the top of the mythical Thanksgiving slogan contest. In bold letters they advertised, "Be grateful for a grate full of our coal, for many Thanksgiving turkeys will be roasted by our rapid-fire coal."

Yes, Iowa City was just as excited then as it is now about the holiday and those 1911 SUI students were probably the most thankful of all, enjoying that first five-day Thanksgiving vacation.

Air parcel post includes packages under 70 pounds and more than 8 ounces. Air mail will take packages under 8 ounces.

By air international parcel post, a one-pound package can be sent to Great Britain for $2.23.

WSUI-KSUI to Air Interview of Debaters

An interview of the two SUI participants for the international debate Nov. 28 at Macbride auditorium by Merrill Baker, speech instructor, will be featured this week on the WSUI-KSUI student forum of the air Wednesday at 7 p.m.

The SUI debaters, Evan Hultman, L1, Waterloo, and William Shuttleworth, G, Cedar Rapids, will also discuss the topic of the debate: Resolved: That government ownership of basic industries and services is in the best interest of democratic society.

Hultman and Shuttleworth will take the negative side of this question against Robin Day and Geoffrey Johnson-Smith of Oxford university at the international debate.

C. Addison Hickman, economics department, will be chairman of this year's debate.

Unanimous Votes by Conferences Give Ohio State, California Rose Bowl Bids

Undefeated Bears Get 2nd Bowl Bid

PASADENA, CALIF. (AP) — It will be California and Ohio State in the Rose Bowl Jan. 2.

The Pacific coast and Western conferences made it official—and unanimous—Monday. Thus will unbeaten, untied California give once-beaten, twice-tied Ohio State a chance to reverse a 28-0 count in the 1921 Tournament of Roses game.

Bears Easily Best

California—voted into the Rose Bowl last year despite Oregon's equally impressive record—is easily the class of the west this year, and the west is hopeful that the Golden Bears can finally crack Big Ten dominance of them in this classic.

Illinois led off under the agreement, which excluded any eastern representative except the Big Ten champ, by thumping UCLA, 45-14, in 1947. Merciless Michigan poured it on Southern California, 49-0, the next year. Last New Year's day, it took all Northwestern's power to turn back California, 20-14, late in the game. But it still left the midwestern teams with a 3-0 margin.

Comparative scores are usually meaningless, but just for the record, the Bears have a shade the best of it this year, the shade being a modern-day galloping ghost named Frank Brunk. His 102-yard touchdown dash gave the Bears a 16-10 victory over Southern California. The Trojans earlier tied Ohio State, 13-13.

The Last of the Irish Nab Mr. Faske

JERRY FASKE BROKE INTO THE CLEAR for a 25-yard run against Notre Dame Saturday. The first quarter action came with the Irish leading Iowa, 7-0, and put the Hawks on the Notre Dame 18. Halfback John Pettibon is shown about to make the tackle, as Iowa's Bob Bestwick (32) tries to throw a block. Others in the picture are Bob Geigel (62) of Iowa and Walter Grothaus (52) and Jim Mustscheller (85) of Notre Dame. The Irish won, 28-7.

technique may have added a few grey hairs for Coach Lynn Waldorf. The Bears have pretty consistently been forced to come from behind in the last stages, but superior power and depth were enough to pile up healthy margins in the fourth quarters.

This year's Bears weren't expected to do as well as last. They'd lost Backs Jackie Jensen to pro baseball, Billy Main on an eligibility ruling, and Charlie Sarver with injuries. But Bob Celeri developed into a heady-accurate-passing quarterback; Jim Monachino turned into the sort of driving back who dives for his last couple of yards; the blocking and tackling was hard and vicious and the Bears rolled it all up in an unbeaten season.

Rumor Bierman for New Gopher Athletic Director

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Football fans wondered Monday if Bernie Bierman will quit as University of Minnesota grid coach to take over Frank McCormick's job as athletic director.

Bierman's name was the first to pop into the picture when Dr. James L. Morrill, university president, announced Sunday night that McCormick plans to resign in June after 17 years as leader of Minnesota's athletic fortunes.

Those close to the university administration figured Bierman could have the job for the asking. The question was whether he would ask for it.

Little Hawks Open Cage Play Tonight With Marengo High

City high fans get their first look at the 1949 edition of the Little Hawk basketball team here tonight against Marengo.

At the end of Monday's practice Coach Howard Moffitt pronounced the team as ready for their test.

The probable starting lineup will have Bill Fenton teamed with either Gene Brawner or Bob Kacena at the forwards, he said. Bob Fry will be at center; Mickey Moore and Ken Hay, guards. Fenton was named game captain.

Scrimmage U-High

After a scrimmage with U-high Friday night Moffitt said, "We did a lot of right things, but also a lot of wrong things. However, I believe those mistakes have been corrected by now and the scrimmage was a great benefit to us."

There are several new rule changes that should prove interesting to spectators.

This year the second and fourth quarters will begin with a jump ball instead of the team which had possession of the ball putting it in play from out-of-bounds.

Orange Paint For Black

The basketball hoops are now painted an orange color to provide better visibility than black ones.

In hopes of cutting down on fouling in the closing minutes of a game, a technical instead of a personal foul will be charged against the offending player. This rule will take effect after the fourth quarter automatic time out.

All-Conference Post To U-High's Rohret

Guard Les Rohret of U-high has been named to the first team of the Eastern Iowa football conference while teammate tackle Frank Baker and Dick Hradek were elected to the second team.

Other men named to the first team were Ends Kevin Cahill, West Branch, and Ron Kester, Winfield; Guards Rohret and Jim Behrens, Mount Vernon; Tackles Bob Lucassen, West Branch; and Rolland Moeller, Wilton Junction. Center Bill Brown, West Branch; and Backs Art Chrissinger and Duane Hill, Winfield; Ron Matthews, Wapello; and Ken Moore, Mount Vernon.

Irish Still 1st, Sooners Third

NEW YORK (AP)—California has taken over the job of chasing distant Notre Dame in the Associated Press football poll. The next-to-last voting of the season finds Notre Dame still way out front with 113 of the 151 first place votes cast by football writers and sportscasters across the nation.

California moved into second place with 24 firsts after its convincing 33-14 triumph over Stanford to win the Pacific Coast conference crown.

Oklahoma dropped a peg to third position, being hard pressed to grab a 28-21 verdict over Santa Clara. Eleven writers put the Sooners in the No. 1 spot.

St. Pat's Victorious At Muscatine, 36-31

(Special to The Daily Iowan)

MUSCATINE—St. Patrick's high of Iowa City scored its second basketball victory in three outings here Monday night, edging out St. Mathias of Muscatine, 36-31.

The Shamrocks were slow in getting started, owned a slim 6-4 advantage at the end of the first period, however, increased the lead to 13-10 by the end of the half.

With two minutes remaining in the contest the score was 28-27. St. Pat's in the lead, but a sudden burst of scoring punched netted the Iowa Citizens eight points and a safe margin.

Guard Jim Fuller of the home club led all scorers with 13 points, earned on three field goals and seven free throws. Forwards Tom Falls and Earl Cooney paced St. Pat's with 10 points each.

St. Pat's also capped the preliminary game, beating the Muscatine seconds, 44-13. Dean Kelsey accounted for 33 points for the winners.

Indians Sold for $2.2-Million

OUTGOING PRESIDENT BILL VEECK shakes hands with Ellis W. Ryan (left), head of a group of Cleveland business men who purchased the Cleveland Indians baseball club Monday. The purchase price was approximately $2.2-million. Ryan pledged to "put our city back on top in baseball." Hank Greenberg, vice president of the club under Veeck, will be general manager of the Indians under the new owners.

CLEVELAND (AP) — A group of Cleveland business men purchased the Cleveland Indians Monday and selected Hank Greenberg as club general manager for the next three years.

Ellis W. Ryan, a 45-year-old insurance executive, who took over Bill Veeck's job as president, said his syndicate paid approximately $2,200,000 for the property.

At the same time Veeck was sued for $1,000,000 by minority stockholder Jack Harris who said he acted on behalf of all of the stockholders in the Cleveland baseball corporation.

Greenberg has been vice president in charge of the American league team's farm system. He came with the Indians early last year after a big league playing career in which he twice won the American league's most valuable player award while with the Detroit Tigers.

Grimming Salesman
Veeck put his southpaw signature on the sales papers at a news conference in his office at Municipal stadium, grinning as usual.

He gave no hint of where he next will use the executive ability and magic showmanship which during his 41 months here helped his ball club win the 1948 world championship and — in the last two seasons — draw nearly 5,000,000 fans to home games.

When he and his associates bought the property June 22, 1946, Veeck paid a reported $1,250,000 for it. His personal profit from the deal was estimated at $500,000 for a stock holding of about 30 percent.

In addition to the Indians' franchise, Ryan's purchasing group got ownership of League park and working agreements with 13 minor league clubs, including San Diego in the Pacific Coast league and Oklahoma City in the Texas league.

Keep City First
The new owners, Ryan said, hope to "retain the entire Tribe organization" and to devote themselves to "a bold effort to make and keep this city first in baseball." He added that Veeck has offered to give them "every bit of help we want."

"I'm no Bill Veeck," the blue-eyed, graying new Tribe boss said, "but my associates and I hope to keep Veeck's progressive policy in operation. We will make a bold effort to make and keep this city first in baseball. As of right now, we plan to concentrate on building the club back to championship strength."

Gophers Might Beat Notre Dame on Good Day, Says Anderson

CHICAGO (AP) — "On a real, good day," Minnesota quite conceivably could beat Notre Dame. That's what Coach Eddie Anderson, whose Iowa Hawkeyes bowed to the Irish, 28-7, Saturday, told the Herald-American Quarterback club meeting Monday.

The Hawkeyes were trimmed by Minnesota, 55-7, on Nov. 5. (The Gophers finished third behind champions Ohio State and Michigan in the Big Ten).

Hawks Below Par
Anderson said, however, that the Hawkeyes played below their capabilities against Minnesota and that the comparative scores did not accurately gauge the Gophers and Irish.

Anderson described Notre Dame's John Pettibon as "the man of the game" against the Hawkeyes.

"I'll bet there aren't many fans who know that Pettibon is Notre Dame's safety man, but we certainly knew it Saturday," said Anderson. "He played a great defensive game against us."

Games Longer
Anderson said he noticed the free substitution rule was ruining games 15 to 25 minutes longer than usual and that he believed the fans disliked it. The Iowa coach said he suspected that some players, eyeing the glory which goes to offensive players, "don't try to look too good defensively."

SUI Law Student 'In Stitches' Over 'Stop the Music' Prize

Here's a pre-Thanksgiving quiz for you: If you were an SUI law student living in normal student housing conditions, what would you do with a brand new sewing machine you had won in a contest?

That's the problem facing Dick Mayer, LL, Clinton who was called Sunday night on the nationwide NBC radio program "Stop the Music." He identified the preliminary song which he thinks won him a sewing machine "and something else that I'm not too sure of."

Not Sure
"We can't seem to find anyone who was listening to the program so we're not sure just how much we did win," Mayer said.

By we, he was referring also to his roommate, Al Tingleff, A3, Clinton, who was quietly studying with Mayer in their room Sunday when the call came about 7:30 p.m.

"At first I thought it was some gal pulling my leg and I was ready to hang up," Mayer said.

She Wasn't Kidding
"But then I could hear the other operators in the background and knew she wasn't kidding when she said she was calling from New York. She told us that we were going to be called on the program in a few minutes."

"We didn't even have the radio on, but it didn't take long to change that. Al kept pulling out old songbooks in preparation. Then they put Bert Parks, the show's m.c. on the phone, and the first song they played was easy."

"We guessed it right as 'An Old Fashioned Walk' and they told us we had won the sewing machine and something else. We were both so excited and confused I guess we didn't listen too well.

Missed Mystery Tune
"They played the mystery song then for the jackpot of thousands of dollars worth of prizes. Neither of us even faintly recognized it. And to think I almost hung up when they called the first time."

Mayer and Tingleff were both rather disappointed they weren't able to win the jackpot, but at the same time were elated at what they had won.

"We had agreed ahead of time to split anything we might win on the show," Mayer said.

So maybe that quiz could be revised. If you were an SUI law student, what would you do with half of a sewing machine?

Mayer hasn't the slightest idea.

Religious Rally to Hear Former Football Star

Joe Weatherly, Minneapolis, former University of Alabama football player, will speak here today at a Youth for Christ rally. The rally will be held at 7:30 p.m. at Macbride auditorium, Wendell Wellman, director of Iowa City Youth for Christ, said Monday.

Prof. Dawson Heads Group Simplifying US Plumbing Codes

The almost monumental task of condensing more than 1,500 different plumbing codes in existence in the United States into a single acceptable code has begun here.

Prof. F. M. Dawson, dean of the SUI college of engineering, is chairman of the national committee assigned to do the task.

Dawson returned last week from Washington, D.C., where the committee met and completed part of the simplification job. He said the committee, which will meet again in March, hopes to have the model code completed by June or July.

At the recent meeting, the committee completed the condensation of basic principles and definitions, and five chapters of the proposed model code.

Dawson said most of the simplification task concerns methods of construction rather than specifications of materials.

The committee compiling the model code is the "Co-Ordinating Committee for a Uniform Plumbing Code."

Chairman Dawson is one of two committee representatives from the American Society for Mechanical Engineers. His ASME colleague on the committee is Albert H. Morgan, first deputy building commissioner of New York City.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

EMILE ZOLA, author of such grimly realistic novels as Nana and Le Terre, also had a neat sense of humor, particularly concerning himself. When R. H. Sherard was collecting notes on him for a biography, Zola told him,

"I was writing novels for ten years before I discovered fiction was hardly my forte—but by that time I couldn't stop." "Why not?" asked Sherard. "Because," said Zola, "by that time I was too famous!"

He also bowled Sherard over by saying with a sly grin, "Perfection is such a nuisance that I often regret having cured myself of smoking."

Bernardine Kiely, visiting a wealthy sportsman in Canada, was taken salmon fishing by her host. "I caught one," she cried suddenly. Her host, obviously pained, informed her, "My dear, one does not 'catch' salmon; one 'kills' salmon." Miss Kiely took the correction so much to heart that after driving forty miles to the nearest railroad station, she wired the sportsman, "Happy to tell you that I killed my train."
