It's All a Mystery to Linda

FOURTEEN-MONTH-OLD Linda Heckman was an attentive listener as she became acquainted with an American telephone at La Guardia field, New York, Tuesday, after arriving by air from Frankfurt, Germany, with her mother, Mrs. Anna Heckman. She took a fancy to the gadget while her mother was talking to her grandmother, Mrs. C.J. Blazaitis, of 948 12th street, N.E., Cedar Rapids, whom they are planning to visit. Linda's father, Capt. Bill Heckman, is with the U.S. army in Augsburg, Germany.

Former Air Base Commandant Tells of Shipments to Russians

NEW YORK (UP) — The Russians sneaked uranium, secret radar equipment and 10-tons a month of American scientific and industrial data out of the Great Falls, Mont., lend-lease air base during the war, former officers at the field were quoted as saying Tuesday night.

Radio Commentator Fulton

Lewis Jr., presented testimony from the commandant of the Great Falls base, Col. Russell Meredith.

Meredith, interviewed at Great Falls by Lewis' assistant, Russell Turner said the material included "everything the Russians could lay their hands on concerning American industries, locations, plans, mechanical designs, scientific data of all kinds."

Turner also said he interviewed three wartime ground crews at the base. They remember the shipment of three carboys of "heavy water," used in the development of atomic energy.

Meredith personally protested to Washington on several occasions about the large amount of printed material passing through to Russia, but was told to "lay off," that such policy was decided by the big brass.

Earlier Tuesday former Maj. George Racey Jordan told how the Russians tried to get secret radar equipment as well as atomic secrets through the Great Falls base.

Jordan, who told a congressional committee Monday that Russia succeeded in getting shipments of uranium and suitcases of classified documents through the base, said at a press conference that he tipped radar equipment out of four Russia-bound transports in the spring of 1943.

Wallace Sought . . .

WASHINGTON (AP)—House spy hunters said Tuesday they will call former Vice-President Henry A. Wallace to answer charges that he flouted A-bomb chiefs and cleared wartime shipments of atomic minerals to Russia.

They said no date has been set for the appearance of the one-time "number two new dealer" who pulled out of the Democratic party last year to run for President on the Progressive ticket.

Wallace telegraphed the committee Tuesday that he "would be happy to appear before your committee at any time."

'A Day of Infamy' Eight Years Ago

Students Recall Japanese Sneak Attack on Pearl Harbor

It's been eight years now—but the memory lingers as if it happened only yesterday.

Yes, eight hectic years since Japanese planes and bombers shattered the peaceful silence of a Hawaiian morning and touched off the most destructive war in history.

That sneak attack on Pearl Harbor, Dec. 7, 1941, was made even more treacherous by the fact that Japanese envoys were masking their military efforts with so-called peace talks in Washington, D.C., at the same time.

Grateful for Peace
Dec. 7 was labeled by the late President Roosevelt as "a day of infamy" when he asked congress for a declaration of war. The attack plunged the American people into the great task of fighting a global war and when the end came nearly four years later, they were grateful for the peace they had attained.

But for many, Dec. 7 will always bring memories of fellows who didn't make it back and who saw their plans of life go up in the smoke of battle at Tarawa, Guadalcanal or a hundred other places.

For at least two SUI students, the day holds definite memories as they each have the distinction of saying, "I was there."

Coming Battle Against Health Program Told

WASHINGTON (AP) — The American Medical association was told Tuesday that it opponents in its fight against "socialized medicine" have given ground—but that the decisive battle remains to be fought in 1950.

Dr. Elmer Henderson of Louisville, Ky., president-elect of the world's largest organization of doctors, said "hundreds" of non-medical groups have rallied to the AMA's banner in its struggle against President Truman's proposal for federalized compulsory sickness insurance.

Henderson said that "at the 1949 session of congress, the fight for compulsory health insurance was abandoned, even though the White House itself had become a sounding board for the socializers."

"But the battle of Armageddon—the decisive struggle which will determine not only medicine's fate but whether state socialism is to engulf all America—is still ahead of us."

He added the fight will not be won completely until we have mobilized overwhelming support from the American people—and until we have provided the vast majority of the people with sound voluntary health insurance. We have made tremendous strides toward both goals, he said.

Henderson made the statements in a report to the AMA's clinical session.

Arrangements Made
The AMA board trustees declared it had arranged "for adequate lifetime remuneration" for Dr. Morris Fishbein, retired AMA journal editor, saying he had given 37 years of "devoted service to the American Medical Association."

The board announced selection of Dr. Austin Smith, of Belleville, Ontario, as new editor of the AMA journal.

The shipments were "common chemicals" which Russia could have obtained elsewhere, they said, and in too small amounts to have been of much use.

They also expressed the belief that the shipments might have been made to screen the nation's own atomic development of that time.

Drs. Harold C. Urey and Thorfin R. Hogness of the University of Chicago and Dr. Arthur Jaffe, scientist of the Argonne National Atomic laboratory, commented on reports of the state department that atomic materials were cleared to Russia in 1943.

William Ludwig, 420 E. Davenport street, and Russell Rourke, 1114 E. Davenport street, were named as the two vice-presidents. Harold Petershagen, 120 N. Governor street, was re-elected treasurer.

These officers, together with the six new directors and the secretary to be appointed later, will be installed at the January meeting.

Doctor Hits Truman Health Plans

Korea to Free 2 Americans; Ward Believed on Way Home

WASHINGTON, D.C. 6 — (UP) — The Communist-controlled government of North Korea Tuesday offered to release two captive American officials as Angus Ward and his party presumably began their arduous exit from Communist China.

Government officials said the offer to release the two Americans, Albert Willis of Brooklyn, N.Y., and Alfred T. Meschter of Kinderhook, N.Y., was announced by the North Korean radio Tuesday.

The department, meanwhile, assumed that Ward and his party have begun their long train ride through Communist China to a waiting American ship and freedom.

The last word the department had from the bearded U.S. consul-general was that he and his staff—20 persons in all—would leave Mukden, Manchuria, at 2:45 p.m. Tuesday.

The group was due to board a special train furnished by the Communists in a last-minute surprise gesture of courtesy after they had held Ward, his wife and his employees under "house arrest" for a year.

There may be no direct word from Ward and his party until they reach Tientsin. The trip is expected to take about two days. The state department list of the Ward group leaving Mukden includes Mary E. Braden of Dyarsville, Iowa.

Wisconsin Student Takes Own Life

MADISON, WIS. (AP) — A University of Wisconsin student from Oak Park, Ill., elected president of his Chi Psi fraternity chapter two weeks ago, was found dead in his room Tuesday night with a .22 caliber rifle beside him.

The death of Edward F. Riley, 21, was ruled a suicide by Dane County Coroner Dr. David Atwood. Riley's roommate, Robert Steuber, Wausau, Wis., found the body after returning from a university basketball game.

Lewis Signs Contracts To Break 'Solid Front'

Daylight Makes a Lot of Difference

ST. LOUIS (AP) — George A. Barnes was fined $100 Tuesday for shouting "Hey Babe!" at Mrs. Mildred Myers at 10 p.m. Oct. 27. City Judge John Lee Waechter said he wouldn't have fined Barnes if he had made the same remark during the daytime.

Larson Says Crackdown Needed to Stop Violence

DES MOINES (UP) — Atty. Gen. Robert L. Larson told Iowa law enforcement officers Tuesday that his gambling crackdown was a move to prevent an outbreak of "great violence" threatened by gangland interests.

He addressed a new battle-cry in an address before a combined convention session of the Iowa State Sheriffs association and the County Attorneys association.

Larson said he was certain that conspiracy charges would have to be used before the current campaign attains its objective. Persons who combine their efforts to injure others are guilty of conspiracy, he said.

The crackdown was necessary, Larson said. Because racketeers were involving innocent people, gamblers were breaking down public resistance, enforcement was resisted by intimidation, violence was flaring up, and syndicates were "successfully" organizing smaller gamblers.

While these things were occurring, Larson said, "we as officers became disorganized and bewildered in many places." Therefore, he said, it was decided to start the drive on a statewide basis.

"We expect vigorous prosecutions and in addition to the other criminal action, I expect the use of the injunction and the use of criminal conspiracy (charges) if necessary to stop these persistent violators," the attorney general said.

Free Tickets Left For Union Concert

There are still plenty of free student tickets for tonight's concert by Metropolitan Opera Baritone Donald Dickson, Prof. C.B. Richter, concert manager, said Tuesday.

Students can get their tickets by presenting their "ID" cards at the special table set up in the lobby of the Iowa Union. Tickets at $1.50 each are also available for the general public.

Dickson will present his concert of songs and arias in the main lounge of the Union at 8 p.m.

Featured on the program will be the first performances of "Autumn" and "You Are Not Small" by Dickson's accompanist, Lawrence Stevens.

Terms Okayed By Kentucky Independents

WASHINGTON (AP) — President John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers broke the "solid front" opposition of the soft coal producers Tuesday and signed new contracts with a group of independent operators.

Lewis' formal announcement of the deal said the operators, whom he did not identify, had agreed to a 15 cents per ton increase in contributions to the union's welfare and retirement fund and an increase of 95 cents a day in basic wage rates, both effective Jan. 1, 1950.

Those miners covered by the new agreements will receive $15 for an eight-hour, portal-to-portal day. The scale for other miners remains at $14.05.

Up Production Costs
He estimated the concessions will increase coal production costs about 23 cents a ton. But he said he is convinced the companies can absorb the costs out of present profits—without increasing the price of coal.

The companies signed up represent about one percent of the nation's production. It was understood that most of the companies signing were Kentucky independents.

Lewis' announcement came as negotiations with the major producers—northern, western, southern and captive mine owners—were stalemated. Since their old contracts expired last June 30, these groups have taken the position that Lewis' price is "too high."

They indicated no change in their attitude after the mine boss' surprise statement. The contracts signed Tuesday will run nearly two years—until Sept. 1, 1951.

"Willing and Able" Clause
Lewis did not say so but it was understood they continue the controversial clause which requires the miners to work only when "willing and able."

In his formal announcement, Lewis said the independents which met his terms will start operating on a five-day, 40-hour week immediately.

The rest of the nation's hard and soft coal miners will continue working on a short work week.

Accepts Post . . .

FAIRMONT, W. VA. (AP) — Howard W. Showalter, president of the Monongahela Rail and River corporation Tuesday night accepted an appointment as one of three trustees on the United Mine Workers welfare fund.

Showalter announced his acceptance after a telephone conversation with a "gentleman" in Washington. He refused to identify the "gentleman" but there was little doubt that he meant UMW Chief John L. Lewis.

"This thing is something I haven't sought," Showalter said. "I was not looking for a job of any kind. But if I can be of any service to the miners, I would be very happy to accept."

Smugglers of Aliens Arrested in Florida

WASHINGTON (AP) — Attorney General J. Howard McGrath announced Tuesday that federal agents have seized operators of an elusive Havana-to-Miami air shuttle who allegedly smuggled aliens into this country at $500 to $800 a head.

Several of the aliens apparently came from behind the Soviet iron curtain, the announcement said.

Authorities here and in Miami said the two alleged ring leaders and their wives were arrested in the Florida "gold coast" city Monday after a long vigil by immigration agents.

The attorney general named Gaylord Saxton, 26, a former Michigan State college student, and Charles Cramton, 26, both of Grand Rapids, Mich., as operators of the illegal air transit service.

Conviction on the smuggling charge would carry a possible sentence of five years in prison plus $2,000 fine for each alien illegally brought into the United States.

Bear Played Possum, Almost Got Hunter

THE HUNTER DRAPED OVER THE CAR, Harry Szarowski, of Buffalo, N.Y., says this is just a gag and points out that he's alive and the bear is dead. However, says the 34-year-old television repairman, the tables were nearly turned when he was hunting near Salamanca, 50 miles south of Buffalo. He says the bear played possum after the first shot missed and if he hadn't been wary, the 325-pound brute would have bagged his hunter before a second shot was fired.

Time to Decide Once and For All —

Considerable agitation for Iowa City to "get on the bandwagon" in regard to the trend in city government may result in a showdown some day soon.

Since the league of women voters looked into the possibility of a council-manager form of government for Iowa City, a lot of pro and con arguments have been offered. One of the most popular reasons for advocating a change is that other cities, all over the country, have been shifting to the new plan, and it apparently is working better than old systems.

Indeed, since 1917 the number of U.S. cities with the council-manager plan has increased 25 percent. The other two popular forms of city government, the mayor-council and commission forms have dropped off 14 and 11 percent, respectively.

Iowa City today has a mayor-council form. It is still the most prevalent form found in Iowa. What is it about the city manager plan that appeals to so many voters? Two features probably stand out. First, the greater efficiency and coordination possible when a trained city manager is in charge of administration.

Secondly, is the greater freedom from "politics." The city manager is appointed, not elected, and is comparatively free from patronage strings. However, to prevent the manager from becoming a virtual local dictator, the council-manager plan provides for his dismissal at any time—and for any reason—by vote of the elected council.

In Iowa City, such coordination could probably result in more discriminating use of city funds. Not that the present set-up can be held up to the public eye as an example of waste or inefficiency. It is probably as good a mayor-council form as will be found in Iowa.

But all that glitters is not gold, and that is written about the council-manager plan is not complimentary. The matter of expense is foremost. Iowa City probably would have to pay $10-12,000 to get a trained city manager to come in. This would be a sizeable chunk of cash—considering that the mayor's salary is now $2,400.

And what if the plan would not prove practical for Iowa City? It would take six years to abandon it if it had been put into effect by referendum.

The council-manager plan could also be put into operation by city ordinance, but here lies the danger of the city council not relinquishing sufficient power to the new system. In this case, the new plan would have two strikes on it from the start. It could be abandoned more easily, though.

Political winds are blowing the merits of the council-manager system back and forth across the nation. It seems to be part of a new trend in city government.

An independent committee of Iowa Citizens is already looking into the plan. It would be a good idea for the city council to do likewise—even though some council members might feel a squeeze if the plan should be adopted. Councils in the city manager plan usually contain five members for cities over 20,000. Iowa City now has seven.

If 25 percent of the voters then sign a petition, the mayor must bring the issue up for a vote. A simple majority would be sufficient to activate the plan.

In this manner, the council-manager question for Iowa City could be decided once and for all.

A Verbal Spanking —

Latest in the current phase of Communist-labelling is the attempt to discredit men in the administrations of the late FDR. The charges and counter-charges that fly across the continent are all a part of the reflections to be seen in the minds of a frightened people.

It is said that history is cyclical and that everything has a parallel in history. Yet mankind never seems to learn from history.

As short a time ago as the aftermath of World War I we were faced with the same sort of name-calling and Communist scares that stare bleakly at us from the headlines today.

President Harding's Atty. Gen. Palmer made the headlines then with his famous "Red scare." Benjamin Gitlow was imprisoned, thus paving the way for the later conviction of Earl Browder. All these in a day when it wasn't against any law to be a Communist—providing you didn't incite rebellion or engage in rebellious activities yourself.

Now it's almost against the law to be a Communist and men have collected damages in court by calling another a Communist.

Since the war, we've been frightened out of our beds several times with the Case of the Pumpkin Papers, the Case of the Lady Who Had a Russian Boy Friend and now we have the Case of the Initialed Memo.

We violated one of the principal rules of our courts when we fined 10 Hollywood writers for refusing to testify on the grounds of self-incrimination.

(That the claim was refusal in order to test a principle was given not even scanty approval.)

We seem to be allowing ourselves as a nation of rational business people to be overwhelmed at every turn of fortune's wheel by anyone with an ax to grind. The charge—epithet now—that someone is a Communist seems to be enough to call for court action, investigation, loss of friends and any consequence the foe can think of.

Nothing is too ridiculous to be probed by this or that committee. We misplace several pounds of uranium and the nation flies into an uproar.

When the missing ore is found, do we sit back and laugh at ourselves? Oh, no! We sit back and breathe a sigh of relief that we have escaped without unloading some of our precious secrecy to the Bogyman who lives behind the iron curtain.

We've lost our sense of humor and that's one of the worst things that can happen to anyone. When we lose our perspective and get the shivers at every shadow on the wall, we're acting like scared kids in the dark.

This is probably just what our cold war enemies want us to do. Make no mistake, we're sure the Soviet Union means what Communist ideology says they must mean. And we're sure that they probably intend war eventually. But the time isn't ripe for them anymore than it is for us.

The secrecy of the A-bomb was po-poosed in 1945 and the secret is out. The Russians have an A-bomb of sorts and all our fears for the past few years have been for nothing.

The thing we need to do as a nation is sit down and see where we stand. We should also look where we've been. Mostly we need to start worrying about how we can warm ourselves out of this mess.

Whatever damage that has been done is done and all the probing in the world won't undo it. Let's start worrying about how to get along with the rest of the world that's throwing out the capitalistic system. That's our real problem.

Parking: A Problem in College Towns —

Iowa City's parking problem has received several boosts in the right direction recently, but one more job remains to be done. We need a parking place for student cars, centrally located if possible, that would take up the slack between existing parking places and the number of cars driven.

Iowa City has done its part and is continuing to do its part in helping a tight parking situation. Numerous free parking places were lost this summer when meters were installed in places on and near the campus.

Partial compensation was made by the opening Monday of another municipal parking lot on the corner of Burlington and Gilbert streets. This, coupled with the other parking lot in the 300 block on East College street, is about as far as the city can go with existing funds.

Now the problem is to find a spot where students can park their cars without having to walk to classes. A student who doesn't come to town until 9:30 a.m. has real trouble finding a place to park.

Parking places in the part of the business district that has moved north and east are jammed from 8:30 a.m. on through the day. The southern part of the northern residential section is equally crowded.

The one parking lot owned by the university has been taken up by the new library. This closes all the possible grounds SUI had to make parking lots. University officials are actually aware of the problem, but have reported no solution as yet.

There is a parking committee in existence to make long-range plans as well as deal with the immediate problem. A report was submitted this fall to university officials.

What can be done to alleviate the parking problem for SUI students no one knows. This problem is not, however, unique to SUI. Many other educational institutions have sought the answer, but none seems to have found a satisfactory solution.

A few have banned cars, some have inaugurated a share-the-ride program (where it could be enforced when the institution was shut off from the city's business section) and others have used spare space to build parking lots.

SUI unfortunately can't find the space to make parking lots. The space just isn't there to be found.

Here the problem rests. The city has done all it can for the time. SUI won't be able to do anything until the parking committee gives its report.

Man-Made Laws for Animals —

Man-made laws are generally thought to be designed only for men, but a Tennessee fracas Tuesday shows that the intent of laws might spread to all members of the animal kingdom.

Elmbo the baboon escaped from his master Monday and faced possible charges of petty larceny, disorderly conduct, terrorizing the neighborhood and resisting arrest.

During a hectic interlude Elmbo—so nicknamed by police who didn't know his real name—performed the following violations:

- 1—Stole a bag of clothes pins;
- 2—Scared the habitants of a new residential section by prowling on their front porches;- 3—Battled two patrolmen who tried to capture him;

- 4—Tore a leg off Patrolman Herman Roberson's trousers.

Finally, the policemen were able to subdue the baboon and take him to jail. Then they sent out a call for his owner.

A final blow to Elmbo's pride was dealt when officers locked him up in a cell in the women's quarter of the jail.

It was only after quite a discussion did Elmbo's owner talk the police officers out of pressing charges on four counts.

Berliners Expect 'Breeze' of Winter

BERLIN (AP) — West Berlin's rugged citizens await the approach of winter with pardonable smugness.

Last year they stubbornly withstood a Russian blockade that meant short supplies, little fuel and constant worry.

Winter 1950 looks as if it will be a breeze. The western allies don't expect the Russians to institute another blockade, at least in the foreseeable future.

But if they did, the airlift for food would begin within 72 hours, and inside of 90 days big cargo planes again would be spewing coal at west Berlin airports.

In addition, the western allies have laid in a thumping backlog of supplies.

W.T. Babcock, deputy director of Berlin, high commission element, says there are 985,000 tons of coal in reserve. This is a five-month supply at full use.

Last November, when all coal came by airlift, there were only 394,000 tons in reserve — a 60-day supply at strict rationing.

There is no regular rationing of fuel today. Last year it was doled out over five months in carefully conserved amounts on the basis of family size.

LIFE IN AN OYSTER

By GIL PEARLMAN

WHENEVER A friend tells me that I am the world's slowest person, or whenever a professor informs me that my grade in his course is declining, I have found the best answer to be, "Yes, that may be true . . . But I've been sick lately!"

Before, that was just a stock answer of mine, but now I can make the statement with all sincerity and honesty.

LAST WEEKEND I joined many others in keeping company with an ailment. I don't know exactly what I had, something involving an inflamed throat, but, actually, that is unimportant. No matter what condition is responsible for putting a person on the sick list, he or she receives the same treatment.

It is this treatment that bothers me the most, not the internal discomfort caused by low ebbs in the personal health cycle.

WHEN I started to rise last Friday morning, I couldn't, so I didn't. I dove back in the sack, pulled the covers up over my head and began moaning. I figured an occasional moan, here and there, would add a little atmosphere to the situation.

My roommate was quick to act. He immediately called the student health office at the hospital. (He also had the number of a local embalmer, just in case my plight was beyond the help of medical science.)

AND WHEN I gave the slip of paper to the nurse, what do you suppose I was going to get? You're right! Goody, goody gum drop . . . Penicillin. Penicillin, the medical panacea.

My experience taught me the value of that old saying, an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure. Especially when that cure is penicillin. And especially until they can discover a way of making penicillin effective in capsule form.

High brow, middle brow and low brow students at SUI are the subject of a feature story in December's Frivol, campus humor magazine.

The current Frivol will be distributed today, Robert Alter, business manager, said Tuesday.

Other Frivol features are an interview with Artie Shaw and a profile of wrestler Joe Scarpello, A3, Omaha, member of the 1948 Olympic team.

Winners of the Chesterfield contest may pick up their cartons of cigarettes at The Daily Iowan business office, Alter said.

calls. Send him over. Can't you loan him a pair of roller skates or a wagon or something? The exercise will do him good."

WELL, WHAT are you going to do in a situation like that? My roommate and I can hardly buck the American Medical association. So my pal pulled me to a standing position, threw me into an auto and took me to the hospital where we went directly to the office of student health.

No questions were asked aside from what name my parents gave me. Oh yes, I think I heard someone say, "That kid looks bad. Is he sick or something?"

NO CONVERSATION passed between the examiner and yours truly. He carved a chunk out of one of my fingers, shoved a piece of glass in my mouth, wrote out a note, gave me an envelope containing gray pills and instructed, "Take one of these every hour. There is nothing wrong with you that a miracle can't cure. Give this slip of paper to the nurse Next!"

Letters to the Editor

TO THE EDITOR: The story of the former SUI student held as a murder suspect, which was carried in the Sunday Daily Iowan, was a violation of honest journalism and unbiased news writing.

The constant stress of the suspect's "left-wing intellectualism," his political affiliations and support of the Progressive party, can serve no purpose other than to prejudice the reader that somehow Communism is tied up with the crimes in question.

The reading public is already afraid of anything that smacks of Karl Marx, so this story's emphasis will build on fear. What had the police to do with the crimes; has reading Marx and supporting Wallace become an indication of homicidal tendencies?

This story in The Daily Iowan is just one further indication of the rapidly disappearing, much bruted-about "midwestern liberalism."

Wise Choice Of Silver Easy If Six Points Are Followed

Choosing her first chest of silver wisely is one of the problems that faces today's bride. Many a bride takes the silverware she uses everyday for granted, not realizing that quality silver should last a lifetime.

The homemaker should choose her silver pattern only after careful consideration of the various brands, patterns and prices.

Making a wise choice isn't difficult if the six basic points experts offer for choosing silver are followed.

A woman is sure of getting the best return on each dollar she has invested in her silver pattern if she uses these six basic points. The first suggestion experts offer is to buy the silver at a store you trust.

Then compare the details of ornamentation of the different brands. Quality silverplate has refinement in detail, and this can be obtained only through skilled craftsmanship and modern equipment.

Next it's necessary to study the gracefulness and rhythm of each design. An interior design can be detected easily by lack of overall beauty.

Testing the balance of a knife, fork and spoon is the fifth suggestion. When the tip of a finger is placed under the shank of a spoon, for example, there should be perfect balance between the handle and bowl.

The last suggestion offered by the experts is to compare the finish and workmanship of each individual piece, since the finish of silver is as important as the finish of a suit of clothes.

So whether it's silverplate or sterling the bride is buying she should be sure she's choosing wisely and for a lifetime!

Living Room Built by Graduate Chemists

(Daily Iowan Photo)

BLONDE FINISHED FURNITURE makes this corner of the Wennerberg living room an attractive spot. The desk is functional as well as decorative, for both Arnold and Ann are graduate students in chemistry. When time for relaxation is available, the big record player at left is often busy.

Couple Builds Prefab — Chemists Solve Housing Problem

By PHIL BLUMER
The house the chemists built—that's what Arnold and Ann Wennerberg might call their new home at 233 Melrose court.

The Wennerbergs are both graduate students in chemistry. When the housing shortage hit them last fall, they decided to build a home.

Since they weren't burdened with too much cash and because they had to move into the house six weeks after they decided to build, they weren't able to pay for all of the work to be done on the building.

That's where the other chemists came in. Costes Issidorides, G. Athens, Greece, helped out on the foundation and with other general work.

Ken Burnham, G. Chicago, and his wife, Esther, G. helped to finish the basement and paint it. Ralph White, G. St. Paul, did some wiring for the Wennerbergs.

When the going was tough, they were also helped out by Jules Hallum, G. Detroit Lakes, Minn., and Manville Bro, G. Exira.

The Wennerbergs met while they both were teaching junior college classes in Chicago. Now they are in some of the same classes.

They admitted that this situation worked out to their advantage in getting their home ready in such a short time.

When the work on the house was most critical, Ann went to class for both of them. Arnold added, a little ruefully, that stern warnings from the instructor led them to confine their house work to after school hours.

The couple said they will probably sell the house when they get out of school unless they are employed here.

The Wennerbergs had to move into the house before it was completely finished. This raised some problems, for the house was not then connected with the city water mains or electricity.

With the help of their neighbor, Dr. John McCann, they solved this difficulty by making water and electrical connections through his home.

Painting, draperies, wall fixtures and furniture arrangements are still being worked on in the four-room prefabricated structure.

The living room is furnished with blonde wood including chairs and desk. Though the room is rather small, its arrangement gives it plenty of space for a study desk, studio couch, large record player and a few chairs.

The Wennerbergs admit that it's pleasant to be living in their own home and they appreciate the work of their fellow students that made it possible.

"Everyone has been just swell about helping out," said Ann. But she sighed a little when she thought of all the work it took. "You know," she added with a joking tone and a rueful grin, "There's only one thing worse than a husband who won't do anything around the house — and that's a man who wants to do everything."

Taking part in the Christmas chorus will be Mrs. Morris, Frances Coultrap, Mrs. G.M. Edverson, Mrs. George S. Harker, Mrs. West Hill, Charlotte Vasey, Mrs. Frank Druyor, Mrs. William McCabe, Eleanor Dunn, Mrs. Howard Holman, Mrs. Eugene Spangler, Mrs. Robert Myers, and Mrs. R.G. Cannicott.

Mrs. E.J. Milroy will be dining room hostess for the luncheon. She will be assisted by Mrs. Clarence York, Mrs. Dorothy Bell Hill, Mrs. John Wood, Mrs. John Uthoff, Mrs. Pauline Wilson, Mrs. S.K. Slemmons, and Mrs. Vincent Nowlis.

Local Women Help CARE Soap Drive

The United Council of Church Women is sponsoring a "Swan soap wrapper" campaign locally to aid in CARE'S program of sending soap overseas to needy people, according to Mrs. B.J. Lambert, campaign chairman.

The project is being carried out in this county through the Protestant churches, she explained.

"For every two wrappers of Swan soap sent in, Lever brothers will send one bar of soap to CARE," Mrs. Lambert said. CARE is the Cooperative for American Remittances to Europe.

She suggested that wrappings be taken to the individual's own church or left at the Edwin Beauty salon, 118 S. Dubuque street.

"The campaign will last through Dec. 31 and all wrappers must be turned in by then," the chairman emphasized.

National sponsor of the campaign is radio comedian Bob Hope.

"Glacial Drifts in Northwestern Iowa" will be discussed by Robert V. Ruhe, graduate student in geology.

Alert Hawkeyes Average 74.5 Points In Winning Two Games

Initial Road Test At Lawrence Tech

Monday night's 73-53 win over Michigan State by the Iowa Hawkeyes probably surprised a lot of basketball fans.

Smoother ball-handling, alert rebounding, and a continued shooting average of over 30 percent accounted for the fine showing against the Spartans.

Iowa is now in the process of preparing for the first of two straight road trips. Saturday night Lawrence Tech will provide the opposition at Detroit.

53.5 for Opposition
In two games, the Hawks have averaged 74.5 points to 53.5 for the opposition. They have hit on 33 percent of their shots compared to 24 percent for their foes.

Forward Bob Vollers has the best accuracy record — connecting on over 42 percent of his shots. Frank Calsbeek, center, tops scorers with 29 points and has hit on a bit better than 34 percent of his tries at the hoop.

Sophes Improving
Sophomores continue to show ability and lot of finesse on the floor. Ev Cochrane, driving forward, has averaged 10.5 points per game, and Bob Clifton, Harold Greene, and Fred Ruck, guards, are showing progress. Chuck Darling, alternating at center with Calsbeek, has averaged 6.5 points.

Lawrence Tech, next foe on the calendar, has broken even in four games but lost its last start to Carnegie Tech, 66-53. The Detroit school has lost Norman Hankins, forward, who topped all scorers in the nation in 1948.

Clinton Hilltoppers Tip Ramblers, 50-37

After playing on even terms most of the first half, St. Mary's of Iowa City dropped behind St. Mary's of Clinton here Tuesday night and lost, 50-37.

Alert defensive play by the Ramblers gave the tall-rugged, Clinton team plenty of trouble in the first half.

Iowa City jumped out to an early 8-3 lead, but the visitors had tied the count, 11-11, at the end of the first quarter.

The second period was closely contested until the closing minutes. With the Walton boys, Gene and Nate, leading the way, Clinton held a 30-24 halftime lead.

Iowa City's Ramblers pulled to within two points of the Hilltoppers after the intermission. With the count at 30-28, the Clinton five widened the gap to 38-32, going into the final quarter.

That was about as close as the Ramblers were able to get at that stage of the game. They could only count two fielders plus a free throw in the last quarter.

St. Mathias Downs St. Patrick's, 46-44

St. Patrick's basketball team fell victim of a 19-point third quarter spurge by St. Mathias of Muscatine here Tuesday night and lost, 46-44.

At the half, St. Patrick's held a slim two-point lead, 18-16, but the St. Mathias quintet's double barreled attack in the third period proved too much for it.

With five minutes left in the final quarter the Shamrocks crept to within nine points of the Muscatine team and with only seven seconds remaining made the score 44-45. St. Mathias successfully held them off and added the final free throw with three seconds left.

Earl Cooney, Shamrock forward, was the game's high scorer with 17 points. Kenny Lang, forward for St. Mathias was second with 15, followed by his teammate at guard, Bill Bond, who dumped in 11.

Springfield to Buy

The Chicago Cubs, who operate Springfield, approached the Yankees and said they wanted to buy the Newark franchise.

General Manager George Weiss of the Yankees and General Manager Jimmy Gallagher immediately went into conference, but after a two-hour session said that they had not yet completed a deal.

It was indicated by both, however, that the transfer would be made, almost certainly before the end of the minor league convention.

They said they could not officially begin their negotiations until after it had been formally announced that the New England league would not operate in 1950, since to have done so would have amounted to invasion of that league's territorial rights.

However, the deal had been discussed at length previously.

Drew Under 100,000

Newark, the nation's 18th largest city with a population area of 500,000 drew less than 100,000 patrons for the entire 1949 season as compared with more than 300,000 patrons which annually packed the park during the golden years from the early '30's until just before the war.

The minor leagues finally completed the two-day marathon of player drafting, winding up with a record number of 218 players being selected for a total of more than $500,000.

Tuesday the Class B loops drafted 76 players from Class C and D circuits, and the Class C leagues picked up 39 more in the afternoon, getting the best of what was left in Class D. Monday, 103 players were chosen, 28 by Class Triple A teams, 27 by Class AA and 48 by Class A outfits.

Hawk Coaches To Meetings

The December exodus of Iowa athletic staff members for the winter meetings of the Big Ten in Chicago starts today with 14 Hawkeyes appearing during the five days of sessions.

Schedules for 1950 in baseball, golf, tennis and wrestling will be drawn Saturday. Football schedules for 1953 and 1954 are also on the agenda for that day.

Coach Otto Vogel will schedule the usual 12 baseball games, evenly divided between home and road. Between five and eight golf meets will be booked by Coach Frank O'Connor and a tennis schedule will be arranged by Coach Don Klotz. In wrestling, Coach Mike Howard definitely will confirm the dates of five meets, now tentatively listed.

Iowa, like other conference universities, will play six conference football games in 1953 and 1954. The schedules now are complete through 1952.

Other sessions are scheduled for sports publicity directors, intramural directors, ticket managers, physical education heads, athletic directors and faculty representatives.

The Iowa delegation will include Paul Brechler, athletic director; Dr. Eddie Anderson, football coach; Prof. Paul Blombers, faculty representative; Otto Vogel, baseball; Frank O'Connor, golf; Don Klotz, tennis; Mike Howard, wrestling; Frederic Beebe, intramurals; David Armbruster, physical education; Frank Havlicek, business manager; Eric Wilson, publicity; and Pat Boland, Frank Carideo, and Bob Fitch, football assistants.

Quiz Williams About Fight 'Fix'

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The Pennsylvania athletic commission Tuesday called Ike Williams on the carpet to give an official account of his story of a "fix" attempt in his title fight with Freddy Dawson.

Commission Chairman George Jones said his agency wants to know why the lightweight champion suspected he might be robbed of his title.

As it turned out, Williams wasn't robbed of his title. He defeated Chicago's Dawson in a 15-round decision bout at Convention Hall Monday night.

Told of 'Fix'
In an unprecedented news conference summoned shortly before the fight Williams said a telephone informant told him a "fix" was on and that if the bout went the distance, Dawson would win.

Williams wouldn't say who made the call.

He did say, though, that if Dawson won a decision he would have "plenty to tell." After the bout he said he must have been given "a bum steer."

"We're asking him to appear today noon and explain the statement he made to newspapermen before the bout," Jones said. "If he had any reasons to mistrust our officials, we want to know what they are."

"So far as we are concerned, we have implicit faith in the ability and integrity of the judges and referees in Philadelphia."

Close Decision
Referee Charley Daggart gave Williams the nod, nine rounds to six, while both judges, Frank Knaresborough and Harry Lasky, saw Williams a narrow eight-seven victor.

Jones said he was aware of reports of heavy gambling on the bout.

Monday afternoon Williams was a 12 to 5 favorite to lick Dawson in their fourth meeting. But by fight time the odds had fallen to 7 1-2 to 5.

Some sources said all betting on the bout was halted some time during last evening.

NBA May Halt Big Cage Centers
NEW YORK (AP)—In an effort to pep up the gate with action-filled games, the National Basketball association may put a curb on the loop's big men.

Alarmed over the mounting number of fouls called in NBA contests, the pro league's executive board has recommended an experimental try at doubling the width of the foul lanes from six feet to 12 feet, for a one month period, from Dec. 15 to Jan. 15.

This would put a halter on the pivotmen. It also is likely to bring long and loud howls of protest from teams with good big men like George Mikan (Minneapolis), Anie Risen (Rochester), Jack Nichols (Washington) and Alex Groza (Indianapolis).

The dissenters may even vote down the proposal.

Paving Appeal Notices Total 13

Nine more cost bonds and notices of appeal against city paving assessments were filed Tuesday in Johnson county district court, bringing the total of proposed actions to 13.

Today is the deadline for filing the bonds and notices, and petitions must be filed by the first day of the next court term, Feb. 6, County Clerk R. Neilson Miller said Tuesday.

A bond for costs was filed by Robert Barry, 1129 E. Washington street, administrator for the estate of George W. Glasgow, deceased, his heirs and Henry H. Hamilton.

Also filing cost bonds Tuesday were P.J. Rega Jr. and Betty A. Rega, 424 Rocky Shore Drive; Christine Adrian, Clarence G. Adrian and Martha A. Adrian, 1806 E. Court street.

Rolf Scheurer, 1729 E. Court street, Grace P. Scheurer and Margaret Walsh; Ralph O. Boldt and F. Jean Boldt, 1720 E. Court street, and David B. Foerster, 340 Ellis avenue.

Appeal bonds were filed by Glen Hochstetler, 808 Sixth avenue, and Dean A. Fitzgarrald, 335 S. Dubuque street.

Joseph G. Wayner, 1921 F street, and Martha Wayner filed a petition of appeal.

Available figures on assessments against 11 of the protesting parties revealed a total of close to $15,000 in the contested levies.

Chauffeur Licenses Based on Birthdays

Order of chauffeur license renewals next year will be based on the "birthday" system used in Iowa last year, the highway patrol announced Monday.

Licenses are now being renewed for drivers whose birthdays fall in the early part of January. This system of renewal actually becomes effective January 1, but the law requires that licenses must be renewed within the 30-day period preceding a driver's birthday.

Old chauffeur's licenses renewed in 1949 were identified by a blue receipt attached to the license. All holders of blue receipts must have their licenses renewed under the new system next year.

Persons obtaining chauffeur's licenses for the first time this year will find the expiration date stamped on the new license. Renewals are handled at the Johnson county courthouse each Monday and Tuesday.

PROF. SAUNDERS TO SPEAK

Prof. Harold Saunders, chairman of the SUI sociology department, will speak at today's noon luncheon meeting of the Iowa City Optimists club. He will discuss "Trends and Problems in the Modern Family." The meeting will be in the main dining room of the Hotel Jefferson.

Iowa Medical Men To Convene Here For Annual Clinic

Members of the Iowa Clinical Medical society will hold their annual fall meeting in the medical amphitheater at University hospitals Saturday, Dec. 10, and Sunday, Dec. 11, at the University of Iowa, said Monday.

About 50 Iowa physicians are expected to attend the meeting which will begin at 9:30 a.m., January 1.

Members of the staffs of the SUI departments of dermatology, pediatrics, neurology and internal medicine will present the morning program.

Dr. James W. Culbertson, director of the laboratory for cardiovascular research, will give the first paper in the afternoon program.

He will talk on "Clinical and Investigative Studies on a Case of Pheochromocytoma Before and After Successful Operation." This condition concerns a type of tumor, ordinarily of the adrenal gland, which is one of the causes of high blood pressure.

Dr. J.E. McFarland, Ames, will speak on "Functional Headache." Dr. R.D. Hunting Jr., Cedar Rapids, will talk on "Unipolar Electrocardiography."

Officers of the society are Robert N. Larimer, Sioux City, president; John C. Shrader, Ft. Dodge, vice - president, and Herman J. Smith, Des Moines, secretary-treasurer.

Tau Kappa Epsilon Plans Chapter Here

A field representative for Tau Kappa Epsilon, national social fraternity, will be on the SUI campus today to help organize a chapter of that group in Iowa City.

Walter J. Miller, field secretary in the fraternity's main office at Champaign, Ill., stopped in Iowa City Monday while on an inspection tour of chapters in the mid-west. He said he would meet with a nucleus group in room 408, chemistry building, at 7:30 p.m. today.

Miller said about 20 transfer students at SUI were already members of the fraternity. Purpose of today's meeting will be organizing to petition university officials for permission to become a chapter. The group must operate as a "colony" for a year before administration approval can be granted, Miller said.

Elefson Wants to Return to School, Study Law

SIDNEY, IOWA — Lyman Harvey Elefson, 22, former SUI student who is charged with the murder of his 75-year-old grandfather, Tuesday told of plans to return to school.

"I am planning on going back to school as soon as this is over with to study law," Elefson said in an interview with Fred Pettit, Des Moines Tribune reporter.

"I want a career in law — I am interested in and have followed all types of law. "I have been in the courts and watched lawyers and judges work and they have fascinated me."

(As an SUI freshman last year, Elefson took core courses and an introductory speech course. He received seven 'A's' and one 'B'.)

ELEFSON

Declines to Answer

Elefson declined to say where he had met Warren C. Schrempf, an Omaha attorney, who is representing Elefson.

Elefson has been charged specifically with the first-degree murder, by poison, of his maternal grandfather, Alonzo Lyman Rhode, of Tabor, who died April 26.

The charge was filed against Elefson by his uncle, Wayne Rhode, of Tabor.

County Atty. Harold L. Martin said he also is investigating the possible poisoning of three other Tabor persons.

Being investigated, he said, is the death of Mrs. Lucy Ann Rhode, 72, Elefson's grandmother and Alonzo Rhode's wife, and the death of Mrs. Winifred Elefson, 47, the youth's widowed mother. The fourth poison case being investigated, he said, is the illness of Mrs. Anna Kemp, 85, step-mother-in-law of Alonzo Rhode, who is step-great-grandmother of young Elefson.

'Had Arsenic'

Martin has announced that "it is very definite that Mrs. Kemp, who recovered from her illness, had arsenic in her system."

When questioned Tuesday in his jail cell, Elefson said that he had been "instructed by his attorney not to say anything about the case."

"Certainly I have reactions to all this, but what they are I don't feel I should tell," he commented.

Asked what he thinks about communism, Elefson replied: "If the question is asked in court, I believe I can answer it capably."

Elefson was very evasive in answers to many questions put to him and flatly refused to answer any questions pertaining to the four alleged poisonings.

Deputy Sheriff L. W. Johnson said that he asked Elefson if he was a Communist and Elefson replied: "I wouldn't say I was a Communist, but I do lean in that direction."

Johnson said that Elefson eats well and sleeps well, but "doesn't like to wash dishes."

Elefson has been instructed by Sheriff A. S. Christopher that he must clean up his own dishes after each meal.

While in jail, Elefson is fed the same type of food as the sheriff and his wife are fed in their own dining room.

Johnson said, "Elefson acts anything but normal."

Heavy Clothing

"He complains of being cold in the jail, wears his topcoat, scarf and hunting hat and will get under three blankets," Johnson said.

"The temperature in the jail always is the same as in the Christopher home, which is directly beneath the jail."

"If we turn the heat up, Elefson then immediately complains that it is too warm and insists that a window be opened."

Johnson said another prisoner in the jail never has complained of being cold. The prisoner, a trusty, is dressed in shirt sleeves at all times and seldom uses a blanket at night, Johnson said.

'Quiet Kid' ...

OMAHA — Lyman Elefson's landlady said here Tuesday that the 22-year-old Iowan held as a suspect in the poison death of his grandfather was "just a quiet kid."

Mrs. Richard Ortega said that Elefson came to her home in September to rent a room. She said he produced references from residents of Tabor friends.

"I have five children and I feel that I can't be too careful in checking those who wish to occupy the rooms in our house," Mrs. Ortega said.

"He told me his mother had died recently and that he had nothing but sad memories of Tabor. He said he wanted to start anew in a big city," she said.

Mrs. Ortega said Elefson was "crazy about candy." He kept boxes of candy in his room, she said.

"He paid his $25 per month rent in advance, and he seemed to be cheerful. We often heard him singing as he went to and from his room. He did a lot of typing and he always had plenty of candy in his room," she said.

"He always spoke to the children but did not intrude. Once in a while, he would have visitors — young men about his own age."

Mrs. Ortega said she was amazed at the reports that Elefson was in jail in connection with the death of his grandfather.

"He was a model boarder," she said.

Over 130 Executives Attend Conference

More than 130 executives from the United States and Canada Tuesday attended the opening-day session of the 10-day conference here on quality control by statistical methods.

According to Prof. F. M. Dawson, dean of the college of engineering, this is the seventh quality control course to be offered at the university in the last five years.

Speakers at Tuesday's session were: Henry J. Becker of the American Steel and Wire company, Ernie L. Faye of Deere and company, and Profs. Lloyd A. Knowler and Allen T. Craig of the mathematics department.

Quality control deals with the check and elimination of trouble sources at each step of a production process, resulting in more efficient production of better products.

City May Consider Connection With Coralville Sewage System

Iowa City's interest in the solution to Coralville's current sewage disposal problem was assured Monday night at a Coralville town council meeting.

Iowa City Alderman Wayne Putnam, chairman of the local sewers and disposal plant committee, told Coralville officials that the Iowa City council would consider connecting the two systems if a practical plan can be worked out.

Coralville, a town of some 450 persons, does not have a community sewer system, but it plans to start building one next spring.

Town officials are faced with two solutions to the problem of sewage disposal.

They can either build their own sewage treatment plant with discharge three miles upstream from the Iowa City intake, or dispose of their sewage through the Iowa City sewage network and disposal plant.

Coralville officials have shown preference for the latter solution, but their attorney, William F. Morrison, said last week they would be forced to build their own plant unless Iowa City officials showed more interest.

Later, the local council indicated they were not uninterested, but were merely waiting for Coralville officials to decide on their plans concerning the problem.

City Atty. W.H. Bartley said the Iowa City council and mayor are willing to discuss the situa-
