Flight Attendant Says Engine Failed Before Potomac Crash

WASHINGTON (UP) — Flight Attendant Joseph Buell, only surviving crew member of the capital airlines DC-3 that crashed in the Potomac river Monday, disclosed Tuesday that one engine of the plane failed at a crucial moment.

Four persons, including Pilot W.J. Davis and Co-Pilot L. L. Porter of Alexandria, Va., were killed. But Buell and 18 passengers were rescued from the fog-shrouded river by speedy crash boats from Bolling airforce base.

Lewis Wins Delay In Fund Investigation

WASHINGTON (AP) — John L. Lewis Tuesday averted an immediate court showdown on the spending of the United Mine Workers $100-million-a-year welfare fund.

The union leader's attorneys won a delay by asking Federal Judge Burnita S. Matthews to dismiss the suit of George H. Livengood, a former Uniontown, Pa., miner. Judge Matthews said he wanted to study the case before ruling on the Lewis motion.

The result was to put off the hearing scheduled for Tuesday on Livengood's charge that the huge welfare and pension fund was "improperly disbursed and dissipated." He asked that the trustees be removed and that the fund's books be opened for inspection.

Royalty collections totaling about $150-million have been spent since January, 1948, but most payments have been frozen since Sept. 18.

At that time Lewis and Sen. Styles Bridges (R-NH), the neutral trustee on the three-man board, voted to halt all but emergency benefits because the money was running out.

Later coal miners went on a 52-day strike, which has been softened to a three-day work week for both the anthracite and bituminous coal industries for the time being.

Lewis, now dickering for a new contract with the anthracite industry in New York, announced Tuesday that soft coal operators producing more than 11-million tons a year have now come to his terms.

Sawyer Proposes Government Merge Transportation Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Commerce Charles Sawyer proposed Tuesday that the government consider merging its widespread programs of aid to transportation.

The programs include federal outlays for waterways, airports, airways and roads, direct subsidies, indirect financial assistance and sometimes outright federal operation of transportation services.

They are known as "promotional" activities to distinguish them from regulatory programs.

The idea of merging them would be to bring them into harmony, promote efficiency and save money.

Meanwhile, another Presidential aide said a sweeping program to reorganize the government will be laid before congress by President Truman next year.

'CAKE WALKER' DIES

GOP Officials Discuss Strategy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Labor Maurice J. Tobin Tuesday renewed his plea for congress to set up a national jobless insurance program which would assure larger benefits than those now paid by the states.

Tobin said the present unemployment compensation system is "far from adequate" because it does not cover enough workers or provide sufficient help to those laid off.

Despite increases in benefits in many states," he said, "these increases have not kept pace with wage increases."

He expressed these views in testimony to a senate-house economic subcommittee which is studying various proposals for assisting people in the low income group.

The labor secretary told the lawmakers he thinks it is "desirable" for congress to write federal standards to require the states to pay increased minimum benefits for at least 26 weeks.

Robert Bednasek Confers with His Attorney

CONFERRING WITH HIS ATTORNEY, Clair Hamilton, is Robert Emil Bednasek, 24, Cedar Rapids, who is charged with first-degree murder in connection with the slaying of an SUI coed Sunday. Margaret Jackson, also an SUI senior, was found strangled in the second-floor bedroom of the rooming house where Bednasek lived. At an arraignment before a justice of the peace, Hamilton asked that a preliminary hearing be held Dec. 21. He refused to let Bednasek talk with anyone except members of his family and close friends.

Declining Farm Income Needs Support: Brannan

ST. PAUL (UP) — Secretary of Agriculture Charles Brannan said Tuesday night it would be neither wise nor fair to hide the "distressing truth" that U.S. farm operators' net income already is down 20 percent from 1947 and may decline another 15 percent next year.

Brannan told 4,000 delegates to the annual Farmers Union Grain Terminal association meeting that the farmers will lead the way to a lower scale of living for all economic groups in the country unless "this toboggan slide" of farm income comes to an end.

Brannan said some legislative progress has been made this year toward protecting farm income, but that "further" steps must be taken — an obvious plug for the controversial price support program he has proposed.

The secretary warned that the American people generally must receive the benefits, both in lower prices and better diets, or they will not continue to support farm price laws.

"The administration's proposal (the Brannan plan) would support farm prices by direct payments to producers of the difference between the support price and what the producer receives in the market," he said.

"The present support system — involving government purchases and loans and holding farm products off the market — forces consumers to pay a 'double' price, one in taxes to support the program and another in higher food prices."

Brannan said there are "elements" that will be out to "undermine agricultural progress in 1950."

The Michigan national committee took no formal action on his views.

Tobin Argues Boost In Jobless Benefits

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Labor Maurice J. Tobin Tuesday renewed his plea for congress to set up a national jobless insurance program which would assure larger benefits than those now paid by the states.

Tobin said the present unemployment compensation system is "far from adequate" because it does not cover enough workers or provide sufficient help to those laid off.

PUBLISHERS TELL PROFIT ST. PAUL (AP) — Brown & Bigelow, leading publishers of calendars and advertising specialists, announced Tuesday that net earnings for 1949 amounted to $2,253,000.

New Yorkers Asked To Observe Friday Without Bath, Shave

NEW YORK (AP) — Don't shave. And don't take a bath. Not in New York on next Friday, anyway.

City officials Tuesday called for a shaveless, tubless Dec. 16 and issued a flock of other requests to make the biggest city in the country the driest city as well on the first "water holiday" in its history.

"If we find out that the public can out down voluntarily as much as is needed," said Chief Engineer Edward J. Clark, "it may enable us to postpone putting into effect the drastic restrictive measures we have in mind."

Clark said the city's water supply remains at the critical level despite a day of rain that is expected to add 5 1-2-billion gallons — about five days' supply — to the two-thirds-empty reservoirs.

Some form of rationing is held certain unless the current voluntary saving campaign gets better results. A number of "non-essential" operations, such as auto-washing, already have been banned.

Besides the no-bath-no-shave plea, officials urged that New York's 8-million residents: Wash breakfast, lunch and dinner dishes all at one time. Stop using running water to chill beverages, including baby's milk.

Collect laundry, including diapers, for normal tub washing rather than washing items individually.

Keep drinking water in a container in the refrigerator rather than letting faucet water run until it cools.

Clark said industrial users will be expected to cut their water use as far as possible. He urged ex-servicemen, because of their experience with water-rationing, to set an example for the rest of the population.

Steady, soaking rain in the New York and northern New Jersey watersheds gave promise of halting the steady drop of reservoir levels for the first time in weeks.

No-Cut Rule to Begin At 12:30 P.M. Friday

SUI's no-cut ruling will go into effect at 12:30 p.m. Friday and will continue before the Christmas recess until 12:20 p.m. Saturday when classes will be dismissed.

SUI Registrar Ted Mc Carrel said Tuesday classes will be resumed after Christmas vacation at 7:30 a.m. Tuesday, Jan. 3.

The no-cut regulation will be in effect all day Tuesday, Jan. 3. Any SUI undergraduates who fail to attend class during a no-cut period, the 24-hour period preceding and following any official holiday or vacation, are penalized by the addition of one semester hour academic credit, Mc Carrel said.

The regulation applies only to undergraduate students and does not include graduate students.

Asserts Bednasek Told University Counselor He Had 'Homicidal Impulses'

An SUI clinical psychologist, identified by a university official as Edward J. Shoben Jr., Tuesday was quoted as saying that Robert E. Bednasek, accused slayer of his coed sweetheart, told him he had "homicidal and suicidal impulses."

Asked about a report that the SUI senior, held on a first degree murder charge in the campus rooming house death of Margaret Anne Jackson, recently had visited a psychiatrist, County Atty. Jack C. White told newsmen: "We heard a rumor to that effect. We checked and found out that he had seen a psychiatrist some weeks ago. A statement by the psychiatrist said Bednasek had come to him and said he had 'homicidal and suicidal impulses.'"

White would not elaborate, nor would he name the person who had made the report.

No "Psychiatrist" The SUI official, who asked not to be named, said Bednasek had gone to Shoben for counseling. He said White probably was confused on his terms in calling Shoben a "psychiatrist."

The official said Bednasek was one of a good many students counseled by Shoben, who also is an assistant professor of psychology, as part of his regular duties during the school year.

During a brief contact with Bednasek reporters asked him whether he had seen a psychiatrist recently and the 24-year-old psychology major, who himself was enrolled in a course titled "abnormal psychology," said "no."

When asked about the statement, Defense Atty. Clair Hamilton said, "I would have no comment until they show me a sworn statement from the psychiatrist."

Shoben said Tuesday night, "My only comment is that I'm not confirming the statement."

Bednasek earlier had told newsmen that Shoben "probably knows more about me than anyone else."

To Explain Relationship After visiting Bednasek at the jail, Shoben said he didn't "feel at liberty" to discuss his relationship with the student. The professor added that he planned to inform attorneys for both sides.

Shoben also said that if subpoenaed he would be willing to tell of that relationship.

The International News Service Tuesday night quoted White and Ray Connor, agent of the Iowa bureau of criminal investigation, as saying they would present further evidence about Bednasek's impulses later. It quoted them as saying they intend to prove that Bednasek's motive was jealousy inflamed by a "snub for a sorority dance date" last Friday night.

"White added," the story continued, "We intend to prove that Bednasek had a plan for slaying as far back as last October and that on the fatal night he certainly had a motive."

"We have evidence that Bednasek, convinced he was losing out with the coed, had decided to have one last fling and have all the things he liked best."

White would neither confirm nor deny the statements attributed to him by INS. Connor said, "Somebody is working in a lot of assumptions."

Sheriff Albert J. (Pat) Murphy said Bednasek was being kept alone in the bull pen of the county jail. He said the senior from Cedar Rapids had regained most of his shattered composure following his arraignment Monday.

Bednasek conferred for more than an hour Tuesday with Hamilton, who Monday had requested a fullscale preliminary hearing Dec. 21. Hamilton told reporters it was possible the defense might waive to the grand jury.

No Further Information Hamilton said he had no further information to give out. "This case is not going to be tried in the newspapers," Hamilton said.

Bednasek was arrested early Sunday after he summoned police to his rooming house. They found Miss Jackson dead. She was clad in the white evening gown.

Strangled Coed Buried After Private Services

BURLINGTON — In a sharp, cold wind, beautiful Margaret Anne Jackson was buried at Aspen Grove cemetery here Tuesday afternoon.

About 100 persons attended private funeral services for the 20-year-old SUI senior who was strangled early Sunday morning in Iowa City.

Among those attending along with most members of the family were some fellow students of Miss Jackson, including 10 Kappa Alpha Theta sorority sisters, and Mrs. M. H. Anderson, the Theta housemother.

The rites were conducted at the fashionable home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. Elmer Jackson. Her parents remained upstairs during the funeral services but listened to the Rev. Paul Calhoun's reflections on life over a microphone system. Mrs. Jackson remained at home under the care of a physician during the burial.

Margaret Anne's father wept.

Dewey's Chief Adviser Quits N.Y. State Post

ALBANY (AP) — Gov. Thomas E. Dewey Tuesday night accepted the resignation of Elliott V. Bell, state superintendent of banks and his chief adviser, indicating the twice-defeated Republican presidential candidate is through with politics.

Bell has been head man of the Dewey political team since 1940. He was chief speech writer in two Presidential campaigns and two successful bids for governor.

Film Official's Daughter Hospitalized After Chase

DARIEN, CONN. (AP) — Dionysia Skouras, 23-year-old daughter of Spyros Skouras, motion picture executive, was taken to a private sanitarium Tuesday following a wild, bullet-punctured automobile chase along the Boston post road early Tuesday.

she had worn to the winter formal dance at Bednasek's Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity house Saturday night. Preceding the dance the couple had a candlelight dinner for two of lobsters and red wine at the rooming house.

A county attorney's statement quotes Bednasek as saying they were alone in the room, dancing to a record player, and paused for a playful and impromptu demonstration in "choking" a person.

"The next thing I remember was Margaret lying on the floor and she was not breathing," the statement quoted him.

Bednasek has told reporters they loved each other and planned to marry. The state claims the death was "murder" and that "jealousy" was the probable motive.

Help Bednasek Charles Baughman, A3, Charles City, president of the Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity chapter here, said the fraternity brothers were doing what they could to help Bednasek.

"Everyone in the house is doing what he can individually to support Bednasek financially and morally. However, there has been no fund set up from the house treasury," Baughman said.

Mrs. Rufe Dickinson, fraternity housemother, said the fraternity members have been taking cigarettes, books and magazines to Bednasek and have told him to let them know if he needs anything they can bring.

Asked what precautions had been taken to keep Bednasek from harming himself, Sheriff Murphy replied: "I got everything away from him I could. I had to give him a couple of blankets to keep warm."

The sheriff said Bednasek was wearing only a pair of trousers and a pair of socks. Shoes, belt and shirt were taken away. He said Bednasek had shaved Tuesday, but "I was there when he shaved."

Memorial Fund At Burlington, a group of friends of the Jackson family created a cash fund for a memorial to the strangled coed in the First Presbyterian church, of which she was a member. The type of memorial was not announced.

Similar Poem . . .

A dinner somewhat similar to the one which preceded the tragic slaying of SUI coed Margaret Jackson early Sunday morning, is referred to in one of the poems by Walter Benton in his book, "This Is My Beloved" — the same book which Robert Bednasek requested from jailers Monday.

The book, a series of love poems with sensuous imagery passages, is set down in a diary-like manner with each poem headed by an entry date.

In a poem listed as "Entry November 12" the poet describes a dinner his hero prepared for the girl he loved, a dinner which had everything she loved. Like the ill-fated dinner enjoyed by Bednasek and Miss Jackson, the rest of the poetic lovers was also a "candlelight" affair.

Also among the items of food that the hero of the poem procured for the dinner are shellfish and wine. And according to the signed statement by the SUI senior, Miss Jackson and he dined on lobster, oysters and shrimp and drank "burgundy wine" before the events leading up to her death.

However, unlike the dinner party held in the Iowa City rooming house, the meal prepared by the hero in the poem was left uneaten as his "beloved" did not show up although he waited for hours.

Press Coverage . . .

The death of Margaret Jackson, pretty SUI coed, in a rooming house here early Sunday morning has made headlines in newspapers from coast to coast.

Monday morning the three major wire services — Associated Press, United Press and International News Service — carried the story as one of the top news events of the day.

United Press listed it Monday and Tuesday in its "budget" a list of what the national bureau considers the five to seven biggest national news stories of the day.

At least three Chicago newspapers — the Chicago Tribune, the Chicago Herald-American and the Chicago Sun — had staff reporters in Iowa City covering the story.

How to Save and Spend at the Same Time —

In this day of increasing social benefits and free-and-easy government spending, we are bound to come face-to-face with a very vital problem.

How can millions be guaranteed a certain amount of security — certainly not the cradle-to-grave "handouts" as it has been called — without wasteful government spending and indebtedness.

The more a government takes upon itself, the more possibility there is for taxpayers' money to be scattered wantonly through its rambling structure. The more opportunity there is for such things as graft, payoffs and kick-backs.

A bi-partisan committee, under the leadership of former President Herbert Hoover, some time ago came up with 18 suggestions for saving the government approximately $3-billion per year. Two of the committee's recommendations have been put into effect.

The two are the revamping of the armed forces set-up, for which Defense Secy. Louis Johnson was lauded for his cooperation, and the creation of the general services administration to handle government property and records.

That leaves 16 recommendations, all of which could save millions yearly if put into effect.

As government's long arm reaches more and more into the lives of each of us, it becomes more apparent that there must be some sort of administrative and executive economy. More coordination is needed.

Overlap must be eliminated. Useless offices should be abolished. Mergers should be promoted where separate agencies attack a part of a problem and beat around the crux of the matter.

Since the Hoover reorganization committee was composed of 12 men divided evenly among the Republicans and Democrats, there is little reason for action to be delayed because of party strife.

But that seems to be the case, or else we would have more than one-ninth of the legislation that can serve no more than good purpose.

"Patronage" is still undoubtedly rearing its hungry head. A lot of jobs will be sliced from the juicy government vine as the reorganization program is put into effect.

Jobs that have in the past carried a lot of prestige will be relegated to the sweat and work class without the bright lights of national publicity. Such was the case in the recent defense department struggle.

The next congressional session has a challenge before it. If it can continue with its program of social benefits and at the same time eliminate wasteful government spending, it will take a mighty Republican earthquake to shake it from its perch. The reorganization plan will get its share of the limelight in the next session — if the Democrats play their cards right.

Add to the list of hazards confronting Londoners these days: cules molestus, a man-eating cave-dwelling mosquito that has been pestering Britishers since the war.

Seems the little rascal became fond of working on crowded subway platforms during the war, and has hung around ever since.

Consequently, the Stuka blitz days may be over, but London still feels an air attack. And the menace can't be avoided by going underground. That's where the Londoners are to begin with.

Soon after the presiding officer had opened the meeting, Fritz Steuber, noted for his poems in praise of Hitler after the "Anschluss," got up and wailed about his three month imprisonment by the Russians in 1945, likening it to Nazi concentration camp experiences.

At this point, members of the three democratic parties in parliament — the Socialists, the Communists and the People's party — jumped from their seats and gathered in front of the 16 deputies of the Independent party, a neo-Nazi group of which Steuber is a member.

The aroused legislators called the Independent deputies "war criminals and murderers" and seemed likely to lay hands on them when order was finally restored.

Cripps Asks Investment As Socialism Totters

By J.M. ROBERTS JR.
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

Almost simultaneously with the news that a second British commonwealth has rejected socialism comes word from Sir Stafford Cripps, virtual dictator of Britain's economy, that Americans can invest in British private enterprise without fear of nationalization.

Sir Stafford, in an interview with the U.S. News and World Report, a news magazine published in Washington, says the Socialists in Britain have no intention of taking over anything except the basic industries like coal, transportation and steel.

The chancellor of the exchequer was making an outright bid for American investment in British industry. Any creditor nation, he says, "should ease the situation of debtor nations by investing" and thereby provide currency for the purchase of the creditor's exports.

If American investors should happen to run into nationalization, which Cripps insisted would be unlikely, they would be fairly paid. Britain is definitely depending on private enterprise, he said, to do the export job on which Britain's livelihood depends.

"That is the line upon which nationalization has already proceeded in this country."

In these words Sir Stafford attempts to answer the big question about contemporary Britain — how far does socialization go and where does it stop short of totalitarianism?

The voters of New Zealand and Australia, after years of socialism, have just answered the question for themselves. They have said: "we have gone far enough. We have saddled ourselves with too much government, too expensive government, too much red tape and regulation. We will keep the social benefits we have attained through governmental administration of certain health and security programs, but from here on out the green light is up for private enterprise."

The returns from these elections were not in, of course, when Sir Stafford gave his interview. He saw for himself that Britain must set some limit to socialization if she was to obtain the help she needs from American business.

Cripps specifically rejected what he said were American suggestions that the British government must take over export trade (This presumably has in connection with the trouble Britain has had in convincing her manufacturers that it was not enough to sell all they could make — that they must channel it into dollar trade). "I am not quite so socialistic perhaps as some of my American friends, and pointed out to them that we could not go as far as that. We thought it better on the whole to rely upon private enterprise to do the export job."

Sir Stafford, of course, still faces the problem of coordinating the nationalized suppliers of basic materials — coal and, if his party stays in power, steel — with the needs of that private enterprise which he seeks to encourage.

In this respect his position is much like that of one of his cabinet associates who tried to explain to me why the United States, a major supporter of the entire British economy, had no right to consider itself as thereby actually supporting the "cradle to the grave" social security programs.

Cripps' statement, however, coupled with the New Zealand and Australian elections, suggests strongly that in both industrial and agricultural economies the experimenters are beginning to find that socialization is not the unmitigated panacea they once believed it.

Longer Beaver Season Planned by Commission

MADISON, WIS. (AP) — A longer beaver trapping season was set by the conservation commission Tuesday to help cut down the state's booming beaver population.

The commission ordered a 20 to 45 day trapping season starting next Feb. 15 and increased the bag limit to 12. This year there was a 19-day trapping season, with a bag limit of eight.

In setting the season, the commission followed the conservation department's recommendation. Two sportsmen had pleaded for a later trapping season in the northeast part of the state, claiming beaver are ruining good trout streams there.

One of the President's closest advisers confirms that no real report effort is contemplated. He says Mr. Truman will call for repeal all right — but only to keep the issue alive for the congressional campaign in the fall.

Christmas Buying Expected to Hit $1.6-Billion

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The average American family will spend about $40 on Christmas gifts this year, a survey has shown.

Twenty percent of the money will go for toys, so that the nation's 41-million youngsters below the age of 15 can wake up Christmas morning and find about $8 worth of toys under the tree.

These figures were worked out by the family economic bureau of the Northwestern National Life Insurance company. They were based on retail sales figures and U.S. department of commerce statistics.

No matter how much papa complains about the bills, the survey showed, the average expenditure for Christmas presents won't put the family in the poorhouse. That $40 amounts to about one-sixth of the average monthly income after taxes.

Christmas buying is expected to total about $1.6-billion this year, less than in 1948 and about the same as in 1947.

This means the nation's 150-million citizens will shell out an average of $10.67 each, while the average family of 3.67 persons will spend $39.16.

Toy sales alone are expected to hit $320-million, some 65 percent of the toy industry's total annual business. This amounts to $7.30 for each of the country's children.

Some will get too many toys, of course, and some too few. That $7.80 figure is the average spent for playthings ranging from a cheap red wagon to such mechanical wonders as a $250 toy bear that actually blows bubbles.

The Santa Claus who buys his son a train will find the bill can run easily into hundreds of dollars. This year trains come equipped with really miraculous gadgets — a cattle car which stops at an unloading platform, and lets toy cows march out of the car and back in again.

Or there's a car with a milkman who deposits a can of milk when the train stops at the platform.

Gifts for a small girl can cost a large wad of folding money too. One famous 5th avenue toy store is advertising a doll house with electric lights. It comes completely furnished, with miniature furniture, a modern kitchen and a tile bathroom with a shower and shower curtain. The price tag reads $300.

LIFE IN AN OYSTER

By GIL PEARLMAN

I AM shocked, absolutely shocked, to read there has been cheating going on during examinations at the university.

This conclusion was reached, and substantiated, in a recent survey taken on campus wherein 27 percent of the students answered, "Yes," when asked, "By you kid, is cheating?"

AFTER COMING out of the shock, my first reaction was to ask, "What, actually, is cheating?" I asked the occupants of the House on Fairchild, but none of them seemed to know. Not that they are particularly honest — no one owns a dictionary.

I borrowed a "word definer" from up the street and turned quickly to page 172 where I found, "cheat (chēt), v. (From Latin, chēstella, a Roman curate drugstore). — To practice fraud or trickery, esp. in business, at cards."

You see, examinations are not even mentioned. Perhaps a survey should be taken of proprietors and bridge players to comply with Webster. Connotations are the root of all evil.

In testing the validity of the survey we must consider the possibility, as did the pollster, that the random samples might cheat in answering the survey question.

Next week another survey will be taken. The question used will be "If asked the question, do you cheat in exams? — would you cheat in answering it?"

After Christmas vacation, another survey will be taken. This time, "In answering the question, would you cheat in answering to do you cheat in exams? would you cheat?"

After MANY successive tries we would have a survey of fairly high validity. We would also find that 25 percent of the students would answer, "Yes. I would cheat if asked would I cheat if asked would I cheat in an exam."

We might even be able to write a popular song similar to "I Know That You Know, That I Know, That You Know." Anybody interested in forming a songwriting partnership?

MANY OF THE students revealed that they didn't cheat because they never had the opportunity. I was shocked, absolutely shocked, to read that there was inequality of opportunity in Iowa City, the arsenal of democracy.

Maybe we should have a campus-wide debate: Resolved, that the administration should adopt a policy of equalizing cheating opportunities in state supported classrooms.

THERE IS AN organized, fascist exclusive group we must recognize in discussing this problem. They are known in our modern slang, as "The Peacocks."

Formally, they go by the name "Test Swindlers." To become a member you must have good vision, a long neck and, in case of emergency, a telescope.

THEY, LIKE many others blame the objective, competitive exams for utilizing dishonest methods. You can't argue with them, for they invariably give the following example from a sociology test:

22. What is a conservative? (check one):
(a) A man who smokes opium,
(b) A person who collects old stamps and coins.
(c) Both.
(d) None of the above.

And we complain about them cheating. Let's let well enough alone. A thing like that could drive them to drink. And then where would we be? We would be shocked, absolutely shocked.

By BILL HOLLANDER

War is tough, not only for the poor guy in khaki who slashes through battlefield mud, but for the taxpayer who has to foot the bill of $50-million to put a full-sized army division in the field.

The multiple million-dollar figure was quoted in an article which appeared in a Chicago paper recently. The figure includes one day's pay for all of the division's 18,752 men.

On the local front, the figures are not quite so imposing, but still enough to make tax-conscious Iowa Citizens raise a quizzical eyebrow.

Starting from scratch, it costs $156,000 to fully equip SUI ROTC, from mortars to uniforms for the men. This sum includes a day's pay for non-commissioned officers and officers on the military department staff and students in advanced ROTC.

This money buys, among other things, one outboard motor, which once was used by engineer students for practice in sea rescue, and a portable gas saw and chain.

Water purification equipment and movie projection gear are included in the bill, but the local ROTC lacks the division's costly ($2,898) mobile bath unit, or their mobile laundry.

Conspicuously absent from the SUI ROTC supplies are the division helicopter, chaplain's tent, and bridge equipment — though the military department loans own bridge models for classroom purposes.

The cost is heavy, both on a "level" and the comparatively insignificant level of a single ROTC unit. But Col. W. W. Leana, commander of the SUI

ROTC summed it up this way: "It's better to spend today and be prepared than to face the terrible costs in money and lives brought on by being unprepared."

English Professor Writes 2 Articles

Articles by SUI English Prof. Bernard Baum are appearing in two current magazines, the 1949 Puja Annual and the South Atlantic Quarterly.

Baum said the Puja Annual, printed by Hindustan Standard publishers of Calcutta, India, used his "Western Civilization and the Spirit of Ghandi" in their 1949 magazine.

"Willa Cather's Waste Land" is his article in the South Atlantic Quarterly, published by the Duke University press. Cather is the author of many novels and magazine stories on the midwest.

The article on Cather, Baum said, stressed the "relationship of her work with the cultural completion of the United States." The writing on Mahatma Gandhi dealt with the Indian leader's ideas and related western thought.

Home Furnishings Add Gift Ideas

By VIRGINIA BOYLE

Shopping days until Christmas are at the point now where you can count them on the fingers of two hands.

If you're still racking your brains about a gift for mom or the little woman, there's a possibility that may please her as much as jewels or ermine. A gift for the home!

No matter if home is one room, a trailer, an apartment or a home of five rooms and more, it's a woman's pride and joy. While she often thinks about new furnishings, she's apt to put off buying them with — "We need to buy some new furniture, but I hate to invest in any right now."

Why not surprise her at Christmas with something she's been wanting?

Maybe she's admired the pictures in a neighbor's house, and has been debating about purchasing a large print to hang over the mantle in the living room.

Maybe she thinks the lamps in the house are "simply grotesque" and has been wanting to replace them with the new light blonde modern variety featuring colorful square shades.

If mom's an entertainer, imagine how thrilled she'll be to find one of the smart, step-saving "hostess carts" under the tree on Christmas morning. Her card tables may be outdated enough so she'd appreciate a new set with washable plastic tops.

End tables, too, very often are a welcome gift for homemakers as are coffee tables. The combination end-table and lamp has advantages as a space and dollar saver.

The little woman may have been wanting new curtains. You've probably heard her praise the ones hanging in someone else's home and a word to the wise should be sufficient.

Slipcovers and drapes give a home an entirely new look and choosing from the many colorful patterns may be your Christmas gift answer.

If your heart is big but your purse small, inexpensive plastic drapes will brighten your living quarters and please the woman in your life.

A modern chair may be on mom's Christmas list and an easy chair, hassock or smoker on dad's. Magazine racks are not to be slighted as Christmas gift possibilities.

If you want to consider the utilitarian, there are hundreds of practical gifts designed to save steps and time. The ultimate in utilitarian gifts is an electric foot warmer for those approaching cold winter evenings.

Comforters and cozy blankets are Christmas gift possibilities as are silverware, glassware, china-

MAYBE YOU CAN SURPRISE MOM with a gift for the home this Christmas. Margaret Fuller, A4, Centerville (left) and Dolores Haney, A4, Glenwood, are searching for gift ideas in a local store. A modern display caught their fancy and both eecds admired the pictures in the blonde modern frames and the attractive chaireuse lamp.

Personal Notes

Mr. and Mrs. John Weber, 804 N. Dubuque street, are parents of a boy born Sunday at Mercy hospital.

Dr. and Mrs. Robert Leighton, 947 Iowa avenue, are parents of twins, a boy and a girl, born Sunday at Mercy hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. William Hildebrand, 18 S. Van Buren street, are parents of a girl born Monday at Mercy hospital.

Ware and similar housewares. Wonderfully attractive and practical is the chintz-covered chair which may double as a clothes hamper.

The designs in home furnishings are functional and colorful enough to blend with any scheme. Whether your budget is less than five dollars or more than fifty there may be a solution for that unsolved gift problem in home furnishings.

Musicians Entertain At Hospitals Here

Iowa City musicians Monday night entertained children at the hospital school for severely handicapped children and patients in University hospitals.

Bill Meardon's orchestra presented a concert in the medical amphitheater from 7 to 8 p.m. for University hospitals patients.

A woodwind quintet led by Richard Hills, G, Iowa City, entertained the children at the hospital school. Other members of the musical group are Joan Hill; Laverne Wintermeyer, G, Iowa City; Allan Tyree, A4, Des Moines, and Katherine Fulkerson, G, Iowa City.

Meardon is chairman of an Iowa City project sponsored by the American Federation of Musicians' recording fund which is bringing music to Iowa City hospitals this week.

The quintet will visit Psychopathic hospital Thursday and Mercy hospital Friday evening.

16 ROTC Students To Receive Medals By National Society

Sixteen freshmen ROTC students soon will be awarded "Minute Man" medals by the National Society of the Sons of the American Revolution, military department officials said Tuesday.

The medals are awarded for proficiency in the knowledge and observance of the "ten commandments of good citizenship" — the Bill of Rights — and for a practical knowledge of the preamble to the Constitution, the American's Creed, and several soldier's duties.

Designated to receive the awards were Charles Arndt, A1, Des Moines; Donald Dalton, A1, Carroll; David Fry, A1, Cedar Rapids; Quentin Jenkins, A1, Ainsworth.

Dean and Gene Kenny, A1, Ridgewood, N.J.; George Kern, A1, Iowa City; Albert Mintzer, A1, Des Moines; Mathew Maughan, A1, Leon; Clarence Norman, A1, Cedar Rapids; Leo Riggs, A1, Chicago; Donald Rosche, A1, Bettendorf.

Gaylord Stavelly, A1, Traylor; Merryl Schulke, A1, Cherokee; George Waller, A1, Sioux City; Richard Williams, A1, Iowa City.

Harold Arkoff Gets New Iowan Position

Harold B. Arkoff, G, Iowa City, Tuesday was appointed promotion manager of The Daily Iowan by Prof. Frederick Pownall, director of publications.

Arkoff's appointment was approved by the board of trustees, Student Publications, Inc.

Arkoff, a 24-year-old advertising journalism major, will be the first person to occupy the newly created post on the newspaper. His duties will be centered around promoting the paper's circulation, advertising and editorial content.

Arkoff was formerly business manager of The Daily Iowan. Before serving in that capacity, he was assistant business manager of the paper.

He received this year's $500 Des Moines Register and Tribune advertising scholarship.

SUI Student Wins National Talk Meet

Robert Paulus, A2, Iowa City, won the national "Talk Meet" held as part of the American Farm bureau convention in Chicago, it was announced Tuesday.

Paulus went to the national meet after winning the Iowa contest in Des Moines, Nov. 28. A graduate of Iowa City high school, Paulus has been active in Johnson county 4-H work and has appeared in productions of the University theatre both this and last year.

Church Group to Show Slides of Mexico Trip

Colored slides taken last summer when SUI YMCA members toured Mexico will be shown Thursday evening following a waffle supper sponsored by the Pilgrim fellowship, Congregational church high school youth group.

The Rev. John Craig, pastor of the Congregational church and Mrs. Craig, chaperoned the group which went to Mexico. Rev. Craig said the supper, open to the public, will begin at 6 p.m.

The colored slides, entitled "Mexico Jaunt," will be shown after the supper. Joann Slager, president of the group, is in charge of the arrangements.

Attorney Toomey to Talk At Optimist Club Meeting

J. Newman Toomey, Iowa City attorney, will speak at the Optimist club meeting at noon today at the Hotel Jefferson on the topic, "The Hoover Commission Report."

Toomey will speak in behalf of the Iowa City junior chamber of commerce which is sponsoring a project publicizing the work of the Hoover commission.

Christmas Caroling Planned for Hospital

Freshman YMCA and YWCA members will sing Christmas carols at University hospitals Thursday night.

Members should meet at the Iowa Union at 7:15 p.m., YMCA Member Ted Leighton, Storm Lake, said.

The serenade will be followed by a party at the Congregational church, Leighton said.

The party committee includes Doug MacRae, Eldora; Bea Vandenberg, Joliet, Ill.; Nancy Hall, Mason City; Bob Peters, Iowa City; Dale Crosier, Cedar Rapids, and Leighton.

Mail Parcels This Week Say Post Office Officials

Bargain day crowds were keeping postal clerks busy in the Iowa City postoffice Tuesday as the deadline for mailing Christmas parcels drew near.

Postoffice officials warned that packages should be mailed this week to insure delivery before the 25th. Greeting cards should be mailed the first of next week, they added.

SUI Council Studies Faculty Rating Plan

SUI's student council is now studying a faculty rating program to be conducted among SUI students.

The proposed rating system was found to be generally acceptable to faculty members, Committee Chairman Burton Faldet, A2, Decora, said Tuesday.

Prof. Dewey Stuit, dean of the SUI liberal arts college, and Prof. Norman Meier, SUI psychology department, will help the council prepare a questionnaire for sampling student opinion on rating faculty members.

A complete report on the faculty survey will be released soon, Faldet said.

MARRIAGE LICENSE ISSUED

A marriage license was issued in Johnson county clerk's office Tuesday to Norman W. Fischer and Ethel Kohler, both of Dubuque.

Suit Against Estate Dismissed Tuesday By District Court

An $18,000 suit filed by Willard Clark, North Liberty, against his former guardian, Mrs. Elizabeth Lentz, North Liberty, was dismissed with prejudice in Johnson county district court Tuesday.

Clark filed the petition Oct. 8 claiming he was the adopted son of Mrs. Lentz and the late Charles Lentz, and was therefore entitled to $12,000 of the Lentz estate.

He asked an additional $6,000 for work he claimed to have done while living with the Lentz couple.

Mrs. Lentz denied the allegations in a counterclaim, stating she and her husband had agreed merely to provide a home and care for Clark when they took him from an orphan's home in Cedar Rapids in 1910.

A jury impanelled Tuesday morning was waived by the parties.

The court found Clark had not been adopted as claimed under holdings of the supreme court of Iowa, and that the parties had entered into a settlement to provide for the wages asked.

35 Seats Available on Plane to N. Y. City

Fifteen SUI students have made reservations to fly home to New York City via chartered airliner for Christmas vacation.

Robert Ballantyne, director of SUI's student placement bureau,
Tuesday urged other SUI students from New York City who intend to fly home in the airliner to contact his office before the fifty seats are filled.

"The roundtrip ticket price is $70. The airliner scheduled to leave the Iowa City airport at noon Saturday should arrive in New York City in time for the evening meal and will return the students to Iowa City after vacation Jan. 2," Ballantyne said.

Complete details and instruction for making reservations can be obtained at Ballantyne's office in room 111 University hall.

All the comforts and services of a commercial airliner will be furnished by the chartered plane from New York.

The airliner was chartered by a group of West Point cadets to fly to Minneapolis and it will stop at Iowa City to pick up passengers Saturday for the return flight to New York City.

The airliner will land in Iowa
City Jan. 2, to discharge the Iowa City passengers, on the flight to Minneapolis where it will pick up the West Pointers and return them to the military academy.

Stores to Stay Open Until Nine Tonight

Iowa City retail stores will remain open until 9 o'clock tonight offering students a last minute opportunity to shop here before returning home for Christmas vacation, Chamber of Commerce Secretary Robert Gage said Tuesday.

Retailers are planning a "Shopper's Special Nite" and will offer a popular item at a reduced price during the evening hours only.
Stores will offer different items.

A second program of Christmas music will be presented at the community Christmas tree beginning at 7 p.m., Gage said.

The senior Girl Scouts, under the direction of Margaret Sewell, will sing Christmas carols and other yuletide music. Community singing also was planned.

Gage said stores would remain open until 9 o'clock three nights next week, on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

IC Engineer, Brides Become U.S. Citizens

Four women, one the wife of an SUI student, and one man became citizens of the United States in a naturalization ceremony at the Johnson county courthouse Tuesday morning.

One of the women, all of whom were brides, was Fay Belinda Marder, 24, 109 E. Burlington street, formerly of Shanghai, China. She was listed as "stateless, last of Russia." Mrs. Marder is the wife of Daniel Marder, G. Chicago.

Others were Joyce Evelyn Van Duyn, Montezuma, Iowa, formerly of Wolverhampton, England; Ginette Seydel, 27, 529 Ronalds street, formerly of Migenne Yonne, France, and Marguerite Larimer, 24, 1831 G street, formerly of St. John's, Newfoundland.

August Nuechter, 51, 610 Iowa avenue, formerly of Hofund Haid, Germany, was the only man in the group of five. He is an engineer at Mercy hospital.

District Judge Harold D. Evans presided at the ceremony which began about 9 a.m. Also participating was Fred J. White of the U.S. immigration department at Omaha.

After a few questions by the judge, the five repeated the oath of allegiance with right hands raised. They then signed the written oaths and were given last instructions on the duties of a citizen by Evans.

William H. Bartley, Iowa City attorney, spoke to the new citizens in behalf of the American Legion. He welcomed them as "benefits" to the country.

"National citizenship is not our ultimate goal," he said. "We hope someday to talk in terms of world citizenship."

Representatives of the Daughters of the American Revolution and the Pilgrim and Nathaniel Fellows chapters of the Women Relief corps also gave welcome talks.

SUI Student Writes Series for 'Transit'

Claude Peterson, E4, Mankato, Minn., is the author of the first in a new series of articles beginning in the December issue of Transit, SUI student engineering publication.

The series is designed to describe the aims and work of the various departments of the college of engineering.

This month's article deals with the mechanical engineering department.

It explains the system of "options." These "options" permit a student to specialize in one particular field, such as aeronautical engineering.

Yet, the student gets his degree in mechanical engineering and consequently is not "labeled" and limited to a narrow field.

Peterson mentioned new equipment, such as the X-ray unit that permits inspection of metals for internal flaws, that makes the SUI mechanical engineering laboratory one of the most useful in the country.

For Carols or Hints —

Christmas Books Available

By JACK RIPPEY

If you need holiday hints or carols for a Christmas program, or just want some yuletide information, stories and readings, the SUI library has just the source books for you.

This week all sorts of books dealing with Christmas were put on the display shelves at the library reading room in Macbride hall.

The collection contains stories, plays, novels, children's stories and readings, histories of celebrations and traditions in different lands, song books full of carols and other publications on Christmas lore.

You can find just about everything concerning the yuletide on the Macbride shelves — except maybe where to hide the mistletoe so you can trap "that certain party," or how much nutmeg to put in the eggnog.

Seals Sale Nets $4,200 in Drive

More than $4,200 has been received from the sale of Christmas seals, James Schmidt, sale chairman, said Tuesday afternoon.

He said sales had been going "fairly well."

But more money is needed than ever before, Schmidt said. That is because the drive is being operated in conjunction with a financial campaign of the Heart association.

Money contributed will be divided between the Heart association and Tuberculosis association this year. Christmas seals are sold through the mails.

Handicapped Need Gifts That Can't Injure Body

If you are planning to send gifts to children at the hospital school for the severely handicapped children, don't send anything with which they might injure themselves is the advice of Grace Chenoweth, senior teacher at the school.

But children at the school enjoy almost all gifts any child would enjoy, she added.

The school can use many articles that people wouldn't realize handicapped children could use, she said. However, the gift must be fitted to the child.

Persons who send presents are asked to indicate the type of gift on the package if it is wrapped. This will enable the staff to determine which child would be able to use it.

"We can use gifts for children from the three-year age level up to about the 14-year age group," Miss Chenoweth said.

Smaller children enjoy many types of large toys and games like checkers or card games.

Miss Chenoweth advised that small articles not be sent to children at the school, since many of them have difficulty in grasping small objects.

Favorites with the children include dolls for girls (preferably unbreakable), bells, billfolds and cowboy and Indian costumes for boys.

Musical instruments, stuffed animals, children's phonograph records, ball-point pens, stationery and books of all kinds are well liked by children at the school.

Scrapbooks preferably should be empty and crayolas of the large size so they can be easily handled by the children, Miss Chenoweth said.

Other gifts which the children especially enjoy are toilet articles, dresser sets, earmuffs and plants.

Bite, Bite Away — Teeth Now Stay

Persons who can't make their false teeth stay in place may welcome a new-type denture — it attaches directly to the bones of the jaw.

The development, described as "a revolutionary idea in prosthetic dentistry," is reported in the November Dental Digest.

It makes use of a metal plate which is fastened by metal screws to the bones underlying the gums. The skin of the gums is then molded over the metal and teeth are placed in sockets in the plate. The metal implant becomes a permanent part of the jaw.

Two advantages claimed for the new dentures are less bulk and greater comfort to the wearer.

Judge Grants Landlord Right to Evict Tenant

Judge Harold D. Evans granted Earl and Novella Gilpin the right to oust Charles Abbot, 102 S. Gilbert street, from an apartment which they own at that address.

The action was taken in Johnson county district court Tuesday after the couple filed an eviction petition Nov. 19. The judge gave Abbot until Jan. 2 to leave the apartment.

School of Journalism To Criticize Papers

The SUI school of journalism has invited 85 high school journalism advisers in the state to submit their papers for criticism, Prof. E.F. Mason of the school of journalism said Tuesday.

The critical service is offered in cooperation with the Iowa High School Press association and is open only to association members.

Don Brown, former SUI faculty member who is now head of the Illinois State High School Press association, will judge the papers.

He received his master's degree in journalism at SUI, has worked for radio station WHO, Des Moines, and is now a member of the University of Illinois school of journalism faculty.

Maryland's Jim LaRue Thinks He's Played Enough Football

COLLEGE PARK, MD. (AP)—Six years of college football and three Bowl games are going to be enough for Jim La Rue although he could play another season with Maryland.

La Rue will be playing in his second Gator Bowl game in Jacksonville Jan. 2 against Missouri. He appeared there in the 1948 game in his first season at Maryland and in 1945 he played with Duke in the Sugar Bowl.

La Rue is one of the few remaining college players who gained extra eligibility because of the war.

His first college playing was for Carson-Newman college at Jefferson City, Tenn., in 1943. He was assigned there by the Navy as a V-12 student so the year didn't count as far as eligibility went.

La Rue was transferred to Duke in 1943 and 1944 and played both years for the Blue Devils. Still he hadn't used up any eligibility after three years of play.

After a year at sea, La Rue returned in 1947 ready to play for it to count.

So only the three years La Rue has played for Maryland count toward eligibility and he could be back next year. "But I figure I've had enough," said La Rue.

MEYER SIGNS CONTRACT — FORT WORTH, TEX. (AP)—Tart-tongued Leo (Dutch) Meyer, Texas Christian's noted "spoiler of champions," did away with rumors he was going to retire as football coach Tuesday — he signed a three-year contract renewal.

Owners Face Radio Problem

NEW YORK (AP) — President Ford Frick of the National League said Tuesday night that baseball was in a dilemma over how to handle the new ruling by the attorney general's office which permits virtually unrestricted broadcasting of big league games in minor league territory.

"The club owners in our league spent the entire day discussing the far-reaching effects of this new ruling," he said. "We tried to determine what our policy will be and that's the sixty-four dollar question — we just don't know."

President William Harridge of the American league said the same situation prevailed in his loop — "We didn't talk about another thing."

In the past, no major league baseball game could be broadcast in a minor league city without permission of both the minor league and major league teams involved. This was to prevent fans from staying home to listen to a big league game instead of patronizing the local ball park.

However, the minor league permission is no longer necessary. This change was made to avoid, through technicalities, charges that radio broadcasting made baseball subject to anti-trust laws.

Meanwhile, Commissioner A. B. Chandler expressed his wholehearted approval of the new major league rule which will permit lights to be turned on in the late innings of games threatened by darkness.

Statistics Deceptive For National Loop Championship Game

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — On the record, it'll be Los Angeles passing against Philadelphia running in the National Football league championship game Sunday — but it ain't necessarily so.

Final statistics for the 1949, and last, NFL season, Tuesday gave the Los Angeles Rams a decided yardage advantage over the Philadelphia Eagles in passing and a whopping Eagles' margin over the Rams in rushing.

Figures Deceptive — But figures often are deceptive. For instance, the Eagles, seventh in passing yardage, are second in passing percentage. And the Rams, sixth in rushing yardage, are second in rushing percentage.

Neither the Eagles nor Rams won the team championship in total yards gained. Thanks to a brilliant final game performance by Johnny Lujack, the Chicago Bears vaulted into the top position with a total of 4,883 yards in 12 games. The Rams were second with 4,560 and the Eagles a shade behind in third place with 4,533.

Chicago Leads Passing — The Bears also led in passing yardage with 2,045 with the Rams again second with 2,819. The Eagles were far behind with a total of 1,909 yards.

Philadelphia, spearheaded by the league's ground gaining leader, Steve Van Buren, was far ahead in rushing with 2,607 yards.

Defensively, however, it was the Eagles all the way. The defending champions ranked first in yielding the fewest yards, the fewest total points and the fewest passing yards.

Jack Davis Elected '49 Harrier Captain

Jack Davis, sophomore harrier, has been elected honorary captain of SU's 1949 cross country team. The former Iowa City high school track star was given the award by members of the team.

The newly-elected captain never placed farther back than third in the Hawks dual hill and vaie meets. In the Big Ten championships over Chicago's four-mile Washington park course, Davis placed 11th in the field and was the No. 1 Hawk.

On the flat oval, Davis specializes in the mile run but will probably also compete in the half-mile event.

Hawks Compile .311 Shot Mark

In spite of their miserable shooting against Lawrence Tech Saturday night, statistics revealed Tuesday that the Hawkeys still maintain a healthy .311 mark for their three game stretch.

During this time their opponents have hit a .266 percentage.

Iowa has made 81 of 260 shots. On free throws, the figures are 36 made and 30 missed for .575 percent. The team has averaged 66 points per game to the opponent's 53.6.

Best shooting percentage among the regulars is held by Bob Schulz, guard, with 9 of 18 for 500. Bob Vollers who leads scorers with 38 points has clicked for an even .300. Center Frank Calsbeek has the third best mark with .229 average.

Skip Greene, sophomore reserve guard, has the best free throw mark, sinking 9 of 11.

Talk Prevails at Diamond Meeting

IT COULD BE TRADE TALK, OR SOMETHING ELSE, but nevertheless these National league baseball club bosses seem to be plenty interested in what the Brooklyn Dodgers President, Branch Rickey (center) has to say. On his left is P.K. Wrigley, owner of the Chicago Cubs, and the Boston Braves owner, Lou Perini sits on his right. Both leagues have been holding separate meetings in New York with a joint meeting scheduled for today.

Varsity Wins, But — Frosh Tankers Set 4 Records

Iowa's varsity swimming squad edged the Hawk freshmen swimmers 50-34 Tuesday night in the fieldhouse pool, but the frosh unofficially shattered four freshman NCAA records and tied one national NCAA record, all 50-yards, or long course.

Ronnie Johnson, St. Louis, Mo., accomplished the most outstanding feat of the evening when he overshadowed the present record in the 200-yard breaststroke with a clocking of 2:32.3. This time is compared to the NCAA mark of 2:39.8.

New Relay Record — Although the varsity squad won the 30-yard medley relay, the frosh tankers eclipsed the national record in that event with a time of 3:05.7 compared to the present record of 3:17.0. The winning time in this race was 3:04.8. The varsity team was composed of Draves, Stassforth and Busch while the freshman team included Kang, Johnson and Kern.

Larry Dunbar and Robert Kang, both of Honolulu, Hawaii, each won an individual race and tied and set marks in their respective events. Dunbar tied the NCAA record in the 50-yard dash with a time of 24.8. Kang broke the present record in 150-yard backstroke in 1:44. Iowa's Duane Draves holds the present record in this event with a time of 1:44.1.

Varsity Wins Event — The varsity 400-yard relay team composed of Draves, Busch, Garst and Berge won that event in 3:45. The freshmen established another national mark in this event also with a clocking of 3:36.2 compared with the present mark of 3:54.9.

Larry Dunbar's knotting of the 30-yard sprint race will be the only mark able to be sent to the NCAA for recognition. This is because a boy has to be a second semester freshman in order to have a record officially recognized by the NCAA.

LAFAYETTE, IND. — Purdue whipped out a 30-point win over Drake university here Tuesday night, 81-51, but the Boilermakers had to change tactics completely in the second half to do it. Drake had a 21-15 lead about midway in the first half but the Boilermakers evened the count with three minutes to go, then pulled ahead to lead 36-29 at halftime.

Eight Men Rescued After Ship Explodes

MIAMI (AP) — Eight men were rescued from the Dutch motorship Doros which exploded, burned and sank some 300 miles due east of Miami and 16 others are missing, coast guard district headquarters said Tuesday night. The Doros left New York at midnight on Dec. 8 bound for Port au Prince, Haiti, with 24 men aboard, the coast guard said. The coast guard cutter Mocoma sped to the scene from its base here. Five planes were to take off early today to begin search of the area, which was reported buffeted by heavy weather and easterly winds. Eight men were reported picked up by the tanker Sparrows Point, which radioed it was continuing the search for another lifeboat missing with six men aboard.

Council-Manager Group Plans To Open Campaign in January

The Iowa City Council-Manager association will launch its campaign for a new city government plan here shortly after Jan. 1 with an evening kick-off meeting.

From the group's second general meeting last week came the announcement that from 200 to 300 persons will canvass the city for signatures to petitions advocating the change.

Iowa Farmer Says Farm Bureau Builds Farmer's Knowledge

The farm bureau can keep the farmer informed of marketing and legislative trends he can not follow himself, Harry Crist, Clarence, Iowa, farmer, said Tuesday night.

Crist spoke to about 145 membership drive workers of the Johnson county farm bureau at their "kick off" dinner in the river room of the Iowa Union.

He outlined a brief history of the organization describing the gains it has made for the farmers already.

Marketing information is as much of the farmers' equipment as his implements, he told the group. The bureau can protect the farmers' interests by keeping them informed of market trends, he added.

Crist said he opposed the Brannan plan of farm price supports since it would cost too much in taxes to be of any value to the country.

He said present parity prices could be cut if the farmer knew that other prices would go down also.

The workers will canvass the county in the next week to sign up 1,350 members of the bureau increasing by 200 last year's membership.

SUI Young Demos, Republicans Debate Brannan Price Plan

SUI Young Democrats and Republicans debated Agriculture Secretary Brannan's farm price support program Tuesday night before about 60 people in the senate chamber of Old Capitol.

The Democratic affirmative side was argued by Jim Kennedy, L. I. Esterville, and R. Bruce Hughes, L. I. Sioux City.

They argued that Brannan's plan would make more farm products such as eggs, meat, fruits and dairy products available to consumers at lower prices than under present parity prices.

The high cost of the plan which proposes that the federal government pay the difference between a set price and the market price would be offset by the high income of the farmers, they said.

The negative side argued by Louise Bekman, A2, and Edward Diekmann, E2, both of Ottumwa, pointed out the higher taxes to support the plan would offset higher farm incomes.

No decision was made on the debate moderated by Prof. Hugh Kelso of the political science department.

SUI Alumni Build New Superhighway in Washington, D.C.

A friendship that developed on the Iowa football field in 1910 has resulted in the completion of a new engineering project in Washington, D.C.

The Whitehurst Freeway, a superhighway, is the architectural product of Archie Alexander and Maurice Repass, SUI engineering graduates of 1912.

After graduation Alexander went into business in Des Moines. Designing SUI's heating plant was one of his projects.

Repass went to work for a firm in Minnesota. He later became an instructor in the University of Minnesota department of mechanics and hydraulics.

Their paths crossed again in Des Moines in 1929, and they formed a partnership.

Although they have worked throughout the United States, they still maintain their headquarters in Des Moines.

Alexander and Repass are the subjects of an article in the December Alumni Review, published by the SUI Alumni association.

Santa Gives Kids A Command Performance

Article Tells of Benton Bridge

Iowa City's new Benton street bridge, opened to traffic last July, rated the lead story and a cover picture in the December issue of the General Contractor, monthly publication of the associated general contractors of Iowa.

The article is based on material from a paper written by the bridge's designer, Prof. Ned L. Ashton of the SUI civil engineering department. Ashton designed the project while serving as a private consulting engineer for the city.

Financed by a special city bond issue, the bridge was completed at a total project cost of $276,000, the article points out.

The story also commends the designer, city officials and the construction company for their choice in selecting this type of bridge.

The bridge is of all-welded construction, termed in the magazine as the best method of joining metals and offering considerable economy of materials at the same time.

One of the special features of the bridge's design and construction was the prefabrication of all the curbs and handrails in 20-foot sections. They were completely assembled and fabricated as single units and then erected on the job.

Stretching 480 feet across the river, the structure provides two lanes for highway traffic on a 24-foot concrete roadway and for pedestrian traffic on one five-foot sidewalk on one side of the bridge.

Pedestrians are separated from vehicles by a steel safety curb. A steel refuge sidewalk is provided on the downstream side of the bridge. A steel handrail is also provided for pedestrians.

Parking facilities are provided on both approaches on the downstream side.

Another feature mentioned in the magazine was the inclusion of Bell Telephone conduits in the concrete to carry wiring for the bridge lighting system and for traffic signal controllers.

The article, which includes a liberal sprinkling of pictures and illustrations, gives a good technical description of the bridge. It also presents a chronological account of the project's day to day progress.

ROMANIANS EXECUTED

BUCHAREST (AP) — An official announcement said Tuesday night that three Romanians sentenced to death last week on charges of spying for the American counter-intelligence had been executed by a firing squad.

Air Crash Victim Wrote for 'Transit'

A posthumously published article appears in the December issue of Transit, SUI student engineering magazine.

James E. Randall, author of the article "The Use of Scale Manifolds," was killed in the crash of a Bolivian fighter plane and an airliner Nov. 1, in Washington, D.C.

In the article Randall discussed the lack of consideration given in the designing of automobile and truck seats for the majority of people who are not "average" size.

Bride of One Day Lands Mate in Jail On Kidnap Charge

DES MOINES (P) — A 29-year-old man was jailed here Tuesday on a charge of kidnapping on complaint of his bride of a day.

The bride, the former Helen Lavonne Herrick, 19, Des Moines, alleged that Francis Early Byers, a salesman of Des Moines, forced her to accompany him on a trip through Colorado and Nebraska.

Detective Chief Paul Castelline said the young woman, an office worker in a hospital, alleged Byers picked her up in a car the morning of Dec. 8 on the pretext of taking her to work but instead drove her to the city limits where he drew a gun.

Castelline quoted the woman as saying she was "kept in constant captivity" while Byers drove from Iowa through Nebraska and Colorado and back to Tekamah, Neb., where he married her Monday.

During the entire trip, the bride claimed Byers "always had the revolver handy" and caused her to "fear for her life," Castelline said.

Castelline said Mrs. Byers claimed she had met Byers only "a couple of times" prior to the time he picked her up in the auto.

Mrs. Byers also alleged Byers used a forged blood test certificate in obtaining the marriage license at Tekamah.

Police said Byers denied he used a gun or had forced the marriage. "She married me of her own free will and agreed to accompany me on the trip," Detective Capt. Phil Cavender said Byers told him.

Byers was arraigned before Municipal Judge Ralph Moore and released under $3,000 bond after waiving his case to the grand jury.

Police said Byers claimed the couple visited with his relatives in both Nebraska and Colorado and had a "very nice and enjoyable trip." His wife alleged, however, Byers never let her out of his sight.

Census Bureau to Ask Salary Figures in 1950

WASHINGTON (UP) — Acting Census Director Philip Hauser said Tuesday he is going ahead with plans to collect salary statistics in the 1950 census, despite bitter new blasts from congress.

He told Secretary of Commerce Charles Sawyer in a special report that his only concession will be to permit persons questioned to send their income information directly to Washington if they prefer not to give it to the local census-taker.

Hauser made it plain that he doesn't think even that concession is necessary because the law prohibits census-takers from gossiping.

Republican critics have called the plan an "invasion of privacy" and a "raw injustice" to the small wage earner because persons with incomes of more than $10,000 a year do not have to break them down on a dollars-and-cents basis.

The dispute spilled over into an angry shouting match Tuesday at a joint congressional economic subcommittee hearing.

Rep. Robert Rich (R-Pa.), who proposed Monday that everyone in government should be required to take a mental test, said the census bureau is only wasting money. The same information, he said, is available to the internal revenue bureau.

Hale said the law prohibits the internal revenue bureau from giving out information to other federal agencies.

Rich questioned Hale's assertion that much of the census information is valuable to private business after it has been compiled and analyzed by the bureau's experts.

"If you find out a man doesn't have a bathtub, do you send that information to a manufacturer?" he demanded.

Hale said no. "Well," Rich continued, "you leave it up to the business people and they will put more bathtubs in the homes of this country than the government will — unless you want to subsidize bathtubs."

"And I think everybody ought to take a bath."

Searchers Nearing Pakistan Air Crash

KARACHI, PAKISTAN (AP) — Search parties attempted Tuesday to reach the wreckage of a Pakistan Airways plane which crashed in the rugged hill country of miles north of here Monday night, apparently killing all 26 persons aboard.

Passengers in the plane included five prominent Moslems, delegates to a recent Islamic conference here, and two Pakistani army generals.

A Pakistan Airways search plane flew over the area and the pilot reported seeing the airplane's charred wreckage but no sign of life.

The plane, a twin-engine Dakota with 22 passengers and a crew of four, was en route to Karachi from Peshawar in the northwest frontier province, on a regularly scheduled flight. It crashed near the village of Jungahsi.

Callahan Boy Hurt From Tricycle Fall

Pat Callahan, 7-year-old son of Dr. and Mrs. George D. Callahan, 405 S. Summit street, suffered a brain concussion Monday night when he fell from his tricycle.

His father, Johnson county coroner, said Tuesday afternoon that his son was getting along "fairly well."

The boy lapsed into unconsciousness shortly after the accident at the Callahan home Monday night. He was taken to Mercy hospital and regained consciousness about 8 a.m. Tuesday.
