Three New Rulings Affect GI Students

Three important announcements affecting many SUI students studying under the GI Bill were released Thursday by the veterans service office.

A supplemental certificate of eligibility is now required to enter any graduate phase of work, William Coder, director of the veterans service, said.

Editor Predicts Russian Atomic Blast Saturday

LONDON (AP) — Editor Kenneth De Courcy says you can look for a second Russian atomic explosion next Saturday night, Jan. 7.

Specifically, at midnight Greenwich mean time. That's 6 p.m. Central standard time, or 2 a.m. Sunday Moscow time.

De Courcy is the man who predicted last January that Russia would attempt an atomic explosion in 1949.

He said in a statement to newsmen Thursday the second explosion will be set off this weekend in blasting for an Asiatic irrigation project unless there's a technical hitch, in which case "the Russian general staff plans are to have the postponed experiment on Jan. 10."

De Courcy is editor of the Monthly Intelligence Digest, a private information service. A man of 40 with an extensive background in international intelligence, he claims information from highly placed informants in several eastern European countries.

The atomic scientists association of Britain also issued a declaration Thursday on Russia's atomic position. It said the Russians will have enough bombs in a year or two to fight an atomic war.

There will be no immediate check on a new explosion unless the Russians choose to announce it, which is unlikely.

Eventually, however, such a secret will out. Intelligence reports, plus scientific monitoring of the earth's atmosphere for radioactivity, tell the news. American-occupied Japan is a likely point for part of the monitoring.

De Courcy's diary Sept. 1 contained the news that Russia had made an atomic bomb. This was 23 days before President Truman announced there had been an atomic explosion in Russia.

President Truman said in Washington Thursday he does not know when the Russians will produce another atomic explosion.

Commenting on De Courcy's new prediction, he said he had no advance notice of the first blast and has no advance information whether another is to take place.

De Courcy said the next blast will be in the Soviet Asiatic republic of Kazak, north of India and west of Mongolia, in a lake region near the republic's border with Sinkiang.

Public Power Plans Outlined by Truman

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Truman called Thursday for public power development wherever it is feasible and where private interests are not ready to do the job as cheaply as the government.

Underlining his power policy at a news conference, he circled the nation with an outline of power, navigation and flood control projects he has urged in the past.

He dumped into the middle a vast central valley project to improve the upper Mississippi and Ohio rivers, intended to be carried out gradually in conjunction with development of the Missouri river.

He reiterated opposition to power development of the St. Lawrence separately from the navigation phases of the long-pending Atlantic - to - the - Great Lakes seaway as urged by Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York.

The President said he wants all or nothing on the St. Lawrence project; that power development alone would benefit only Ontario and New York, whereas that and simultaneous opening of the waterway to ocean shipping as far west as Chicago and Duluth would benefit the whole United States.

This ruling applies to persons moving from under-graduate to graduate work or from one phase of graduate work to another.

A student about to receive an M.A. degree will need the supplemental certificate to begin his Ph.D. phase, or one now in his Ph.D. work will need the certificate to begin any further work.

Coder also said he had been notified that approval of changes in courses within this university will hereafter be made by the Des Moines Veterans administration office on the basis of his recommendations.

This arrangement was made, he said, to give students faster service in obtaining approval of the changes.

The ruling applies only to cases in which the student is asking for his first change in course, Coder added.

The third ruling announced was that no supplemental certificate is now required for re-entrance into training by students who have interrupted their schooling, provided the re-entrance involves no change of school or course.

Coder said the applications for supplemental certificates to enter or re-enter graduate work must be in the Des Moines VA office before the first day of the semester.

Students failing to have applications in by that date will not be permitted to register under the GI Bill at the regular registration.

If the student receives the supplemental certificate later, he still will not be granted books or supplies for that semester, he said.

Application blanks for the certificates and information concerning them can be obtained at the veterans service office at 110 Iowa avenue.

Coder said the Des Moines office has indicated its desire to cooperate and handle applications as quickly as possible.

The supplemental certificates should be turned into the veterans office as soon as possible after they are received, he said.

This ruling does not apply to law or medical students who have already been in the professional college and will receive a B.A. degree on the combined liberal arts-professional college curricula.

Those students desiring their first change of course will report to the veterans service office, and from there they will be returned to the Student Counseling office.

After interviewing the student, that office will submit recommendations to Coder, on the basis of which he will submit recommendations to Des Moines.

Students desiring a second change of course must follow the present procedure of personal interviews in the Cedar Rapids VA office, he said. Permission is granted on the basis of these interviews.

Greek Cabinet, Two High Officials Resign

ATHENS (AP) — The government and two top officers who guided Greece to victory over Communist-led rebels last summer resigned Thursday in disputes that mingled political and military affairs.

The cabinet of Premier Alexander Diomedes was wrecked by differences between the Liberals and the Populists (Royalists) about the timing of the 1950 parliamentary elections.

Field Marshal Alexander Papagos, 67-year-old hero of the Grammos campaign that routed the Communists, resigned as chief of the armed forces with the declaration that criticism from First Deputy Premier Constantinos Tsaldaris, the Populist leader, was responsible.

Then Lt. Gen. George Cosmas quit his job as chief of staff.

A walkout by 11 Liberal ministers launched the cabinet crisis. Their leader, Second Deputy Premier Sophocles Venizelos, wants the elections held earlier than the scheduled April 9 or 16. The walkout forced Premier Diomedes, a non-party man who has headed the government since July, to offer King Paul I the cabinet's resignation. A palace communique later announced the King's acceptance.

Cold Wave Breaks; Roads Near Normal

Winter's first cold wave weakened Thursday and allowed the mercury to climb to 18 degrees, a 10-degree jump over Wednesday's high reading.

For the second straight day the sun broke through to thaw out Iowa City residents after the sub-zero temperatures during the night Wednesday night's low was a wind-blown 2 degrees below zero.

The shift to warmer readings made the state highway patrol's report on driving conditions much brighter. They said roads were practically normal everywhere in the state, but advised motorists to take great caution on hills and curves.

No precipitation was registered at the CAA weather station here Thursday, but light snow was predicted for this evening and Saturday.

Weather officials revealed that precipitation during December was about 20 percent below normal. The average for the past month was .89 of an inch.

Temperatures of from 10 to 20 degrees above were forecast for Iowa City today.

Truman Nominates Switzer for Judge

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Truman Thursday reopened a fight with Sen. Guy Gillette (D-Iowa) by again nominating Carroll Switzer, Des Moines attorney, to be U.S. judge for the southern district of Iowa.

Gillette promptly said he will oppose senate confirmation, as he did successfully last year.

After congress adjourned, Mr. Truman gave Switzer a recess appointment. It still must be confirmed by the senate.

The nomination was among more than 60 the president sent the senate Thursday in his first appointment list of the new session.

'Mercy' Killer Pleads Innocent; At Liberty Under $25,000 Bail

MANCHESTER, N.H. (AP) — A haggard country doctor was at liberty Thursday night under $25,000 bail — an unprecedented court procedure — after pleading innocent to a charge of first degree murder in an alleged "mercy" slaying of a dying cancer patient.

New Hampshire legal authorities were unable to name any previous defendant in a capital case granted similar release.

Only three minutes were required to arraign the accused physician, Dr. Hermann N. Sander, 40. This included reading of an indictment charging he "feloniously, willfully and with malice aforethought did inject 10 cubic centimeters of air four times in close succession into the veins of Mrs. Abbie Borrolo, 59, well knowing the said air injections to be sufficient to cause death."

New Hampshire provides the hangman's noose or life imprisonment for first degree murder, although the extreme penalty has not been exacted in many years.

In Rome, L'Osservatore, the Vatican's newspaper, presumably stating the Pope's opinion, cited the fifth commandment, "Thou shalt not kill" in condemning mercy slaying, and added: "The fact is, that the doctor (by committing a mercy slaying) changes his mission to an inhuman one of giving death."

But the prosecutor, Attorney General William L. Phinney, in approving the physician's liberty under bail, explained this "rather unusual" procedure was followed "because of Dr. Sander's high moral character and standing in the community."

Elefson remained in custody Thursday night while his attorney, Warren Schrempf of Omaha, sought to raise the bond money. The former University of Iowa hospital student is charged with the murder of his grandfather, Alonzo Rhode, of Tabor, whose exhumed body was found to contain poison. Elefson has denied guilt.

Elefson also has been questioned about the deaths of his mother and grandmother. All three died within a 15-month period.

Diplomatic Moves Give Gains To Chinese Reds

Gillette Fights Bill Approving Colored Oleo

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Guy Gillette (D-Iowa) told the senate Thursday that passage of a house-approved bill to repeal the federal tax on oleomargarine might set loose "an army of federal snoopers."

The snoopers, he said, would spy on restaurants and other public eating houses to see whether they are complying with the law.

Gillette explained that the bill, as passed by the house last year, would require the posting of public notices in places where margarine is served — signs saying, in effect, "margarine is served here."

In addition, it would require that each pat of oleomargarine be identified either by labeling or by being cut in the shape of a triangle.

Gillette denounced this feature of the house measure as "a bold, bald, execrable violation of states' rights" by the federal government.

With Sen. Alexander Wiley (R-Wis.), Gillette is co-author of an amendment which would wipe out federal taxes on oleo, but would ban the shipment of yellow-colored margarine in interstate commerce.

Opponents of the Wiley-Gillette amendment contend that while it appears to be a concession on the dairy bloc, it would actually put the fight right back where it started.

Speaking as lead-off man for the dairy group in the two-day-old senate debate over bread spreads, Gillette declared that repeal of the federal taxes on margarine is "not an issue."

He contended, however, that margarine manufacturers are not willing to let their product stand on its merits in competition with butter, but instead are "trying to take over the butter market by deluding the people."

"They want to use the color yellow so they can usurp the market which butter has built up over scores and scores of years," Gillette said.

Sen. J. William Fulbright (D-Ark.), leading the repeal forces, cut in to remark that coloring is also added to butter in certain seasons, particularly in the winter when butter churns up pale.

Gillette agreed. But he said when yellow is added to butter, it is done "for uniformity, not to deceive the public."

SECRETARY DEAN ACHESON carries a dispatch case as he steps from a limousine upon arriving at the White House Thursday for a conference with President Truman. Earlier, Truman announced a U.S. hands off policy toward the island of Formosa.

Truman Affirms U.S. To Leave Formosa Alone

WASHINGTON (AP) — China's triumphant Communists scored great successes on the international stage Thursday amid bitter recriminations in the United States congress.

1. President Truman, in a major policy declaration, flatly refused to intervene to save Formosa, big island off the China coast, from the Communists.

2. Great Britain prepared to announce today that it is recognizing the Communist government of China. Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's ambassador to London was called to the British foreign office and politely told Britain no longer recognized Chiang's government.

It was a double blow to Chiang's hopes of building up Formosa as a possible springboard from which to jump back some day to the mainland where the Communists had beaten him.

A hot debate raged for hours in the senate. Sen. William Knowland (R-Calif.) cried that the administration had betrayed the non-Communist Nationalists. If Formosa falls, he said, the United States' first line of defense may become its own Pacific coast.

Sen. Tom Connally (D - Tex.), chairman of the foreign relations committee, replied that Formosa is not important enough to risk war trying to save it.

Just because this nation opposes communism, it cannot invade all places where Communists are in control, he said.

President Truman served notice that the U.S. government intends to steer clear of the upheaval which has put much of China into Communist hands.

"The United States government will not pursue a course which will lead to involvement in the civil conflict in China," said a statement he issued at his news conference.

Thursday it was learned that Americans on Formosa, of whom there are between 100 and 200, are being quietly told to leave. Officials here believe that the Nationalist government there is threatened with an internal upheaval as well as a Communist amphibious attack.

The British have substantial trade and other interests in China, but British officials sought to discount this factor. They explained that "nothing would be gained by boycotting indefinitely a government ruling over a vast territory and population."

Secretary of State Dean Acheson made plain the United States would be in no hurry to follow the British example. Any question of recognizing the Chinese Communists is premature at this time, he said at a news conference. Nothing will be done, he said, without consulting congress.

President Truman's statement was a victory for Acheson over the U.S. joint chiefs of staff, who had wanted to send a military mission to Formosa. Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson and Gen. Douglas MacArthur were also reported in favor of some positive move to help the Nationalists.

In his statement, Mr. Truman said emphatically:

1. The U.S. has no intention of using armed forces to interfere in the situation.

2. This government will provide neither military aid nor advice to the Nationalists on Formosa, who have "adequate" resources to obtain the defense items they consider needed.

3. "Having no predatory designs" on Formosa or any other Chinese territory, the U.S. has no desire to obtain special rights or privileges or to establish military bases on the island "at this time."

The one concession to urgent Nationalist pleas for aid was an announcement that the limited economic help currently given to Formosa by the economic cooperation administration will continue. The ECA aid is due to end Feb. 15 and consists largely of shipments of textiles and fertilizer.

Iowa — and Tragic Implications —

Iowa is advertising itself in an effort to get infant industries to move into the state. But the average Iowan would be at a loss to guess what has become a top selling point.

Available raw materials? Nope. A good working force? Nope. Nearby markets? Not that either. Location — with comparative security against atom bomb attacks!

The current issue of Fortune magazine has a large ad sponsored by the Hawkeye state.

Industrial leaders will locate plants in Iowa as a defense against atomic attack. Here, far from vulnerable coastal and congested industrial areas, they will find more than just peace of mind," the ad says.

Although the ad causes most of us — used to speaking of Iowa as the tall corn state and just a comfortable place to live — to smile, it really has tragic implications.

It snaps us into reality, and shows that despite all efforts to arrive at a lasting peace, in the minds of everyone from the ditch digger to the industrial tycoon there is a resignation to inevitable war.

Yes, Iowa, hundreds of miles from the sea, and generally characterized by rustling corn fields, squealing pigs, county fairs, and slow-talking farmers is just as much a part of things to come as Oak Ridge or Okinawa.

A Chance to Save City Money —

If city councilmen voice approval tonight, the Iowa City code will emerge from the meeting thoroughly overhauled and in a position to save the city money.

The present code, a hodge-podge of ordinances and amended ordinances which hasn't been revised since 1936, was ordered revised by the city council more than six months ago.

City Atty. William H. Bartley told the council the current condition of the ordinances permitted many fines collected in police court to go to the state or county because the city had no similar provisions for fining.

Bartley also explained how many of the ordinances were confusing or didn't cover enough ground in the light of court decisions since 1936 — the last revision date. Although code revision was a long and somewhat costly process, the ultimate savings in police court fines alone would make up the difference and start paying for itself in less than a year, Bartley estimated.

A law firm has been at work on the code revision since the council ordered it early this spring. Now the fruits of the work come before the council tonight for what Mayor Preston Koser calls a "proof-reading" session.

Acceptance is almost a foregone conclusion since the council favors revision. Orchids are due the council.

Taking More than a Casual Glance —

State Secretary Dean Acheson stands ready to lash back at critics of his latest policy regarding U.S. intervention in the defense of Formosa.

Senate Foreign Relations Committee Chairman Tom Connally (D-Tex) has reported Acheson's request to appear before the senate in defense of his policy will be granted.

Acheson's stand is promoted by criticism from such outstanding elder statesmen as former President Herbert Hoover. Acheson claims his policy is based on the belief that intervening to help the Nationalists could lead to a shooting war with the Chinese Communists.

This seems sound just to the casual observer and closer observation warrants even more support of Acheson's policy.

The Chinese Communists admit their direction comes from Moscow. Intervening in the defense of Formosa would mean the most strenuous diplomatic protest this country has yet engaged in with Communist Russia.

We have done all in our power to avoid an open break with the Soviets, the kind that Formosa's defense could mean. Acheson apparently figures Formosa isn't worth the chance it would mean taking.

His opinion is borne out by statements from both army and navy officials including the air branch. Formosa isn't considered a crucial point in our Pacific defenses anymore.

So Acheson's stand makes sense and Formosa will probably pass to the Communists before too long.

A Brave Step in a Brave World —

A British auto company is taking a daring stride in this daring new world of the last half of the 20th century.

The company that produces Rolls-Royce cars has announced a sweeping new policy that is going to revolutionize its somewhat staid industry.

For one thing, there's going to be a terrific price slash as the company enters the low-priced automobile field. The cars are going to be marketed in this country for a paltry $9,950.

That figure represents a cut in price of about $9,000 per car.

Officials of the company have also announced they intend to mass produce cars, a move that makes possible the price slash.

They intend to turn out 25 cars per month.

No announcement was made concerning the advertising campaigns of the company. In the past, advertising has centered around a picture of the Rolls-Royce product and the modest motto, "the best car in the world."

However, the car industry now feels a need to compete with "dynaflow" and "fireball" features of American automobiles. They feel the price cut is a step in the right direction.

We salute the British auto makers for their courage, and hope that the day won't be too far distant when we'll be able to see a Rolls-Royce in every garage.

Fifteen Cents for a Cup of Coffee? —

Despite Sen. Guy Gillette's efforts to dig out the reasons for high coffee prices and offer some corrective measures, the U.S. is on the way to the 10 and even 15-cent cup of coffee.

The reasons are many and varied — and some even downright ridiculous. But the fact is, they will affect the price and amount of coffee for some time to come.

Gillette heads a congressional committee that has looked into the situation. Most of the blame, he says, can be laid at the door of "speculators." He says there has been collusion between Americans and foreigners in the business.

Which is entirely true. But the fact is, the speculators are taking advantage of a situation that exists, and not causing the rising prices of coffee.

Following the war, an over supply of coffee in Brazil caused the Brazilian government to burn 78-million bags of coffee.

Another thing: Coffee is hard on the soil. It often erodes it to depths of two feet. Consequently, coffee is being produced on less productive land than in the past. Less is being produced, which creates a bit of irony when one considers the absurd waste of three years back.

Americans and other nations are drinking more coffee. Our own consumption has increased 50 percent since the war, despite an increase of population of only about 12 percent.

These facts give us the unwelcome promise that coffee will stay up. It is now strictly a supply and demand situation. Such critical situations usually occur, however, when a nation takes it on itself to regulate the world's supply of any commodity.

TO THE EDITOR:

This student is not wholly satisfied with the general state of affairs here.

In particular he would like to see the administration take a more positive and constructive approach to the problem of student conduct, which they apparently believe has been made obvious by the Bednasek-Jackson incident.

As we know, administration officials are taking steps to make it more difficult for students to indulge in "dangerous" practices. Restrictive action of this type raises the question: Does taking away a person's freedom to practice also take away the individual's desire to practice a certain type of conduct?

Among students of human relations it is recognized that the person who goes to the extreme in a dangerous practice is either confused, misguided, or emotionally sick. Using an iron fist to curb his activity only drives him to a different, and often to a more harmful practice, in a more secretive fashion.

Now we have this somewhat ironic condition: Student opportunities for recreation and general social life, which were quite limited before the death of Miss Jackson, are becoming all the more so due to present administrative tactics.

Furthermore, no steps by university officials are being taken to provide a substitute for social drinking and other such means of obtaining fun at student social activities.

It is felt here that there should be at least be an attempt by the administration to provide guidance, or the means of attaining such, for the students to help them develop more adequate social personalities through constructive use of their leisure time. The university needs to feel a responsibility to teach and train its students in the other aspects of living, not simply the one of earning a living.

We seem to have a rather impersonal and stratified social life on campus. And university officials appear even more determined to keep it so through their new efforts at closer supervision of fraternity social life.

However, what really saddens one is the realization that as much effort could be expended by the officials to encourage more fellowship, understanding and appreciation among students of many and varied backgrounds, races and nationalities. For isn't it true that nothing is more wholesome for the personality than the capacity to carry on satisfactory social relations with a variety of individuals — rich and poor, black and white, ignorant and intelligent, handsome and homely?

Thus it follows that the only sure way of ever preventing a Bednasek-Jackson affair is that the individual — no matter who he is — is reached in time before his personality is so conditioned as to be subject to a dangerous social practice, such as excessive drinking. Someone or some agency must do this reaching, accept such responsibility.

The administration is apparently feeling a sense of responsibility in the death of Miss Jackson. If it is to demonstrate a sane and sound sense of responsibility, the university administration must provide more social and recreational facilities to allow for the development and expression of the talents, emotions, and general individualities of the students.

In a more extreme sense, why could the university not provide a required course on how one can make more constructive use of his leisure time?

A course of this type would be aimed at the personality development of the individual through personal and social creative pursuits, such as hobbies, avocations, and community-improvement projects.

Finally, and of more immediate importance to the student, would be the effect of the personality-development course on the student's attitude toward the university.

By GIL PEARLMAN

MY MOTHER, my youngest sister and her husband had a wonderful Christmas this year. I visited them in their small abode in Decatur, Ill.

Brother-in-law is a wonderful institution, especially when you can take advantage of their homestead. It's so inexpensive. You can eat the food they buy and smoke their cigarettes.

WHENEVER I visit their hamlet, Fred (that's the brother-in-law I'm speaking of in this particular case — I've got a few more spread out over the nation) swears that he is going to leave my sister and return to single life.

During my recent visit he called me a bum, a loafer and a parasite, all in one breath. Do you know, that's the nicest thing he's said to me so far.

HE PROBABLY would have gone to greater extremes, but he ran out of breath. By the time he inhaled I had left the room and once again turned to raiding the refrigerator.

This was on the first day I arrived. Things would have progressed had it not been for the fact that on this occasion he planned to use me for one of his schemes.

WITH assistance I finally completed the job. They pushed me out the back door and brought my three-year-old nephew in the front room. I then rushed in the front door, white cotton beard and all.

"Ho! Ho! Ho! Merry Christmas, little boy," I shouted, spitting cotton out of my mouth.

"Ho! Ho! Ho!" came my nephew's reply. "Where's my toys?"

"I'll bring your toys. But first you must tell me, have you been a good boy?"

"Have you?"

Ten seconds of complete silence.

"That's what I thought," continued the three-year-old, "now cut the examination and bring me my toys!"

THE KID was right. He had me stumped. So I rushed outside and brought in his toys. Before I rushed out the door I heard "little Gil's" final words.

"Goodbye Uncle Gil," he said, "come again next year."

to distinguish between him and myself. I'm somewhat bigger than he, but actions must also be considered, thereby making a verbal distinction more conclusive.

ORIGINALY, I guess, his name wasn't Gil. When, however, he became a terror and at the age of two refused to take a paper route, my brother-in-law turned to my sister and sweetly suggested, "Dear, this little boy of ours is full of little good. It is only natural that we should name him after your brother."

ANYWAY, 'twas the night before Christmas, about 8 p.m., when I put on the Santa Claus suit they had secured for me. They hid 'little Gil' in another room telling him he must clean up for the arrival of the North Pole favorite.

I made the mistake of tying pillows around myself and putting the suit on first. When it came time to pull my black boots on I couldn't bend over.

WITH assistance I finally completed the job. They pushed me out the back door and brought my three-year-old nephew in the front room. I then rushed in the front door, white cotton beard and all.

Dairy Senators Suffer Setback

WASHINGTON (UP)—Dairy state senators trying to block federal oleo tax repeal suffered a sharp setback Thursday when most Democrats agreed not to support unrelated amendments.

Apparently their chief remaining hope was to try to push through a proposal which would erase the oleo tax but prohibit the shipment of colored oleo in interstate commerce.

After a two-hour caucus, Democratic Leader Scott W. Lucas told reporters all 47 Democrats on hand agreed unanimously not to support the irrelevant amendment to any legislation so as to speed up congress' work. Seven senators were absent.

The agreement means that Democrats who oppose repeal of the oleo tax will refuse to join their Republican sympathizers in an announced drive to kill the bill by taking on an amendment to repeal wartime excise taxes.

Sens. Guy M. Gillette (D-Iowa) and Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn) who oppose the repealer, promised specifically to keep excise taxes out of the fight.

"I doubt," Lucas said, "if we could get either excise tax or margarine tax repeal if the excise amendments were tacked on the oleo bill."

As the senate resumed debate on the repealer, Gillette said the oleo makers want tax-free colored oleo so they can "usurp" the market so successfully built up by the butter industry.

He said the repealer also would violate states' rights because it would "loose an army of federal snoopers in the states" charged with the almost impossible job of trying to police the oleo makers.

Interpreting the News —

By J.M. ROBERTS JR.

AP Foreign Affairs Analyst President Truman, by offering no new eye-catching suggestions for prosecution of the cold war, says he believes things will turn out all right if we just keep plugging along present lines.

That's the hard part, of course, of such programs as the Marshall plan and the point four proposals. To keep plugging when the battle has become routine. Not to go to sleep on the long pull.

When it comes to appropriating the money this year congress will have no such spectacular things to attack in Europe as the hunger and imminent threat of Communist conquest which spurred the program two years ago. Nor are the "hold the line" successes of the past year, and some of the failures, conducive to great enthusiasm.

The President has not conjured up anything to fire congress as it approaches renewed debate on these subjects. Of course the "State of the Union" message is not always the best place for such. More will be done later.

The President slurred over the Asiatic crisis on which he may have some suggestions to offset Republican criticism of "watchful waiting." The British are putting him in a particularly tight spot by going ahead with recognition of Communist China this week.

There will be major fights with congress all along the way. Not over the principle of the Marshall plan, for instance, but over the size of continued contributions. Countries which cannot or will not meet U.S. desires about the conduct of their economies have injected a sour note.

Britain, rejecting a loan from the world bank, which means largely from the U.S., objects to letting us in on too much of her procedure in colonial business. But she is reported to be seeking, simultaneously, complete access to U.S. atomic developments. All such things have their effect in congress.

Continuation of selective service, which so far has served more as a notice to the world of an attitude rather than as a practical military measure, is opposed by many congressmen.

So is membership in the international trade organization, designed to give some form to practices and "prevent anarchy" as the President puts it, but which was put together through so many compromises and embraces so many generalizations that many fear its effect on American business.

Point four probably will get major support but little money, with congress holding the President strictly to his own idea that the government's job in it is merely to provide favorable circumstances for the export of American capital and technology.

Reluctance about large appropriations will also make itself felt in proposals for implementing European rearmament in connection with the Atlantic pact.

All in all, unless the debates are conducted on a very high plane, a lot of America's friends abroad are going to get the idea that isolationism is once more raising its head here.

In fact, China, Europe's failure to achieve greater economic unity, the British situation, etc., have contributed to a certain feeling of futility. Without the glamour of day-to-day objectives to be won, boredom and impatience set in. Yet the cold war promises to stretch out almost endlessly on just these lines, and the degree of tenacity with which it is conducted will determine its outcome.

Cookies Make Delicious Desert for Lunch at School

TASTY ADDITIONS TO ANY YOUNGSTER'S LUNCHBOX are these two variations of chocolate chip cookies. At left are oatmeal chocolate chips and at right are honey chip cookies. These 'easy-to-prepare' recipes will provide tasty snacks for cold days. If placed in a covered container, such as the ones pictured here, the cookies will last a long time—provided the children don't find them.

Honey New Ingredient

New Recipes Add Meal Interest

Freezing January winds make it difficult for pint-sized students to get home for lunch these days. The solution — an old-fashioned lunchbox featuring a new twist in cookies.

A new ingredient, honey, has been added to this favorite recipe for chocolate chip cookies. They make an excellent addition to any lunchbox.

Sift together one cup sifted all-purpose flour, one teaspoon baking powder and 1-2 teaspoon salt. Cream together 1-2 cup shortening, 1-2 cup honey and 1-2 teaspoon vanilla. Blend them into the dry ingredients.

Sift into the batter 1-2 cup broken nuts and one cup chocolate chips. Drop from a teaspoon onto a greased cookie sheet.

Bake in a moderately hot oven (375 degrees) for 12 to 15 minutes. This recipe makes from 30 to 36 cookies.

Another recipe for a snack guaranteed to satisfy the little ones is an "oatmeal" variation of the standard chocolate chip recipe.

Put into a large mixing bowl one cup each of rolled oats (quick — cooking variety), seedless raisins, chocolate chips and brown sugar, firmly packed. Mix well.

Then add two cups sifted all-purpose flour, one teaspoon baking powder, 1-4 teaspoon soda, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-2 teaspoon cinnamon and 1-2 teaspoon nutmeg.

Combine two well-beaten eggs, 1-3 cup milk and 1-2 cup shortening that has been melted and cooled. Add this to the first mixture and blend to make a stiff dough.

Drop from a dampened teaspoon on a greased cookie sheet. Shape and flatten the cookies. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for 15 minutes. This recipe makes 50 cookies.

Remember that cookies spread while baking, so make them rather small and leave plenty of room between them.

Classics Professor To Lead Americans On Tour of Europe

Prof. Oscar Nybakken of the SUI classics department will conduct a tour of 25 Americans, mostly students, through Europe this summer.

For the second consecutive year the Bureau of University Travel in Newton, Mass., has selected Nybakken to lead the classical tour designed to acquaint Americans with the spread of early Greek and Roman culture.

The tour will be two months long and will begin June 30. Other tours, under the sponsorship of the bureau, have been arranged in the fields of art, English history, literature, government, music, education and French language.

Nybakken expressed hope that a number of SUI students would take part in the tour. Enrollments are limited to 25 and he said that last year all places were reserved by Feb. 15.

"This is not just a tour for those in the classics department but rather it should prove interesting to anyone who makes the trip," he said.

He told of last year's successful tour and traced this summer's route. The travelers will land at Naples and, with a private motor bus to transport them, will explore Italy.

After leaving Italy they will move north following the spread of the classical influences. Places to be visited include Switzerland, France, Belgium, Holland and England.

Nybakken said college credit up to six semester hours can be earned by students who participate fully in the tour. Interested persons are invited to see Nybakken in room 111, Schaefer Hall.

The troups will return Aug. 29, docking at Quebec.

WAC Commissions Available to Seniors

Senior women students may now apply for commissions as second lieutenants in the regular army (WAC).

Capt. Albert Brey, SUI professor of military science and tactics, said Thursday a limited number of commissions are available for college graduates or prospective graduates who are in their senior year.

To qualify, the applicant should be in the 21 to 27-age bracket, single, have no dependents under 18, belong to no subversive organizations, be of good moral character and be physically fit, Brey said.

If selected, the candidate will receive a direct commission as WAC second lieutenant and will be sent to Camp Lee, Va., for basic training. While training she will receive second lieutenant's pay, Brey explained.

Further information may be obtained from Brey at the military department.

WSUI-KSUI to Air 4 Classic Dramas Transcribed by BBC

Four British Broadcasting Corp transcriptions of classic drama will be broadcast over WSUI-KSUI in January.

WSUI Program Director Richard Setterberg, G. Burlington, said Tuesday the series would begin at 2 p.m. Saturday with Oliver Goldsmith's "She Stoops to Conquer", featuring Irene Vanbrugh.

The rest of the series will be devoted to Shakespearean plays "Macbeth", with Stephen Murray and Flora Robson, will be given at 2 p.m. Jan. 14.

Clifford Evans and Fay Compton will present "Cleopatra" at 2 p.m. Jan. 21, and the last of the series, "Othello", with Jack Hawkins, John Clements, Margaret Leighton and Fay Compton will be broadcast at 2 p.m. Jan. 28.

The dramas were broadcast recently in England on the BBC "World Theater" series.

A formal dinner-dance, sponsored by members of Theta Xi social fraternity, will begin at 7:30 p.m. Saturday in the Rocco room of the Hotel Jefferson.

Leo Cortimiglia and his orchestra will furnish music for dancing. Prof. and Mrs. Lloyd Knowler, Mr. and Mrs. Noble Loewen and Mrs. Robert Glen will be chaperons.

Newcomers' Club Greet New Faculty Wives

Teas, Bridge Help Acquaint Members

SUI welcomes its newcomers and helps them adjust to their new surroundings through the medium of clubs, one of which is the University Newcomers' club.

Three of the organization representatives discussed their group's activities Thursday morning when WSUI's Club Camera resumed its weekly broadcasts after the Christmas vacation. Participants were Mrs. Myron Olson, chairman of the tea division; Mrs. Robert Muir, secretary, and Mrs. Hugh F. Seabury, president. Flo Robinson, WSUI women's director, was program moderator.

"The object of the Newcomers' Club is to welcome new faculty wives and give them an opportunity to get acquainted," Mrs. Seabury stated. "Our membership includes wives of men with the rank of instructor or above and is limited to the first two years of eligible residence here."

Organized in 1938 by Mrs. Dewey B. Stuit, the club has grown from 16 members to 213 at present. Members met originally for teas, sewing, bridge and choral work, but their activities include tea and bridge exclusively now.

"The bridge section has grown to such an extent that meetings are held now in the south lobby of the Iowa Union," Mrs. Seabury said.

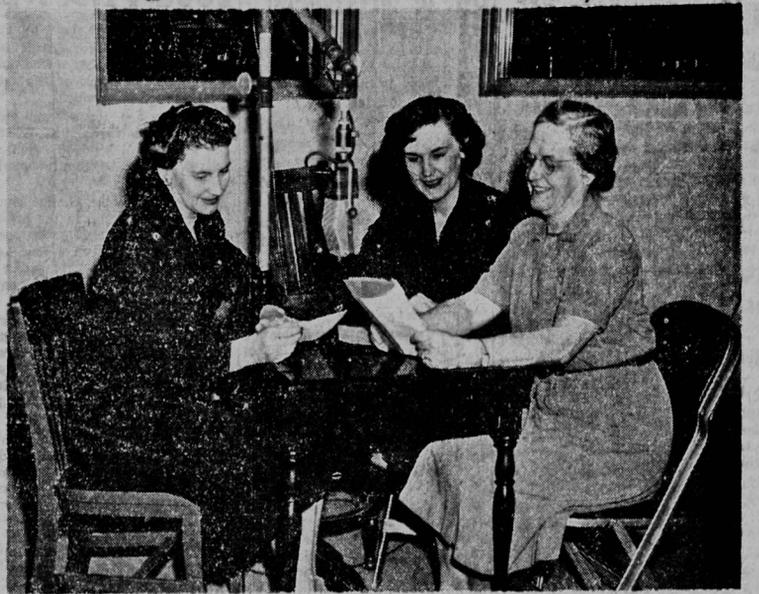

Dues were not collected at first, the president explained, but were required after 1941 when a 50-cent assessment was decided upon. Money for incidental expenses was obtained between 1938 and 1940 through the compilation of a book of members' recipes which was sold for 10 cents.

A club custom, instigated in 1939, is the May Guest day to which are invited the wife of the university president and wives of college deans and heads of departments.

Activities of the club are directed by a board of sponsors composed of wives of university department heads. This year's sponsors are Mrs. Homer Dill, music; Mrs. Earl Harper, fine arts; Mrs. Joseph W. Howe, engineering; Mrs. Ewen M. MacEwen, medicine; Mrs. Baldwin Maxwell, English; Mrs. Kenneth Spence, psychology; and Mrs. C. Woody Thompson, commerce.

"Sponsors are changed every few years," the president added. "They attend our meetings, help us to acquaint ourselves with the university, discuss problems with us and provide the meeting place for our tea gatherings."

Other officers of the club are Mrs. Andrew P. Boehmer, vice

THE UNIVERSITY NEWCOMERS' CLUB made its radio debut Thursday morning when these three representatives discussed the group's activities over WSUI's weekly women's feature, Club Camera. They are (left to right) Mrs. Myron Olson, chairman of the bridge division; Mrs. Robert Muir, secretary, and Mrs. Hugh F. Seabury, president.

Iowa Occupational Therapists to Meet Here

The winter meeting of the Iowa Occupational Therapy association will be held in Iowa City Jan. 27 and 28, Secretary - Treasurer Doris Klindt said Thursday.

The meeting will feature craft demonstrations, case presentations by occupational therapists throughout the state and the annual auction of articles made by members of the group.

Hospital and university personnel will tell the correlation of their work with occupational therapy, Miss Klindt said.

The occupational therapy departments at University hospitals' Psychopathic hospital and the hospital school for severely handicapped children will be open to visiting occupational therapists.

Visitors will be welcome at the auction of articles made by occupational therapists which will be held Jan. 28, Miss Klindt said.

Other Iowa City members who are officers in the group include Marguerite McDonald, president; Mrs. W. R. Fields, vice-president; Maxine Ferrell, delegate, and Jean Lovett, alternate delegate.

Student to Present Clarinet Selections

Elbert Masmar, A3, Clarinda will present a clarinet recital at 7:30 p.m. today in the North Music hall.

He will play two selections, opening with Max Reger's "Sonata in B flat Major, opus 107" for clarinet and piano.

The four movements are entitled "Moderato," "Vivace," "Adagio" and "Allergretto grazia." He will be assisted by Norma Cross, instructor at the piano.

Masmar's other selection will be Igor Stravinsky's "Suite de l'Historie du Soldat." The five parts are entitled "March du soldat," "Le violon du soldat," "Petit concert," "Tango-Valse-Rag" and "Danse du diable."

Assisting him with this number will be Marianne Fleece, violinist, and instructor John Simms, pianist.

Prof. Barker to Talk At Zoology Seminar

Prof. S. B. Barker of the SUI physiology department will be guest speaker today at a zoology seminar here. He will talk on "Physiological Actions of Thyroxine Analogues."

The seminar will be at 4:30 p.m. in room 201 of the zoology building.

Barker's talk will deal with physiological studies of chemicals similar to the thyroxine secreted by the thyroid gland, he said.

Such chemicals can be manufactured and used in the treatment of goiter, abnormal growth, and other conditions caused by malfunctioning thyroid glands.

Marquis Childs To Give Talk In Iowa Union

SUI graduate Marquis Childs, Washington news columnist, will lecture in the Iowa Union main lounge Jan. 16 at 8 p.m.

Childs' "Washington Calling" will be the second address given in the 1949-50 university lecture series.

A native of Clinton, Childs worked for the United Press in the Midwest and New York City following his graduation from the University of Wisconsin in 1923. He received his M.S. degree from SUI in 1925, and in the following year he joined the St. Louis Post-Dispatch as a feature writer.

A trip to Sweden's housing exposition in 1930 and a later European trip resulted in the first of his best-sellers, "Sweden — The Middle Way."

The 1936 book received wide acclaim and prompted the government to send a special commission abroad to study cooperative systems in Europe.

His first novel, "Washington Calling," was published in 1937. In the same year he returned to Europe to gather material for "This Is Democracy," before moving on to cover the Spanish civil war from Madrid.

During the war he visited Sweden and England and later made a complete tour of the European battle fronts in the spring of 1945.

In 1947 he began a fact-finding investigation of Greece, Germany and western Europe, interviewing government and military leaders.

Other books by Childs are "This Is Your War," "I Write from Washington" and "The Cabin." He also wrote the introduction for the reprint of Brooks Adams' "America's Economic Supremacy," first published in 1900.

DIVORCE SUIT FILED

Mrs. Inez Elsea, Iowa City, filed suit in district court Thursday for a divorce from Ray Elsea, charging inhuman treatment. She asked no property or alimony, but requested the court to restore her former name of Dodd.

Magazine Publishes Article on Religion By SUI Professor

The basic principles of early Protestant doctrines of vocations need re-emphasis, Prof. Robert Michaelsen of the SUI school of religion wrote in the December issue of the magazine, Social Action.

Michaelsen says it is not only the minister who can choose a life work by accepting a "call" and serve and glorify God.

"The SUI instructors article 'The Gospel of Work in America,' headlined the monthly publication of Councils for Social Action of the Congregational Christian churches and the Evangelical and Reformed church.

Besides the re-emphasis on "vocation," Michaelsen says workers need to take a realistic view of their jobs in the social-economic setting of the industrial world.

The SUI instructor cited Henry Ford as an "apostle" of "purposefully ordered work, the prime necessity for attaining all that is good in this life and the life to come."

Report Shows Boom In Chemical Sales

Some branches of chemical manufacturing showed increase in production and sales up to 800 percent in the period between 1939 and 1947, according to a recently published United States manufacturing census report.

The 300 percent rise was shown in the production of medicinal chemicals. It reflected in part heavy sales of penicillin, streptomycin, sulfa drugs and other new drugs.

Production of ammonium nitrate, used as a fertilizer, jumped from 26,000 tons in 1939 to over a million tons in 1947.

The sale value of insecticides, including DDT, increased by about six times in the period studied. Detergents, chemicals now often used in place of soaps in home and industry, also showed a heavy increase.

The census report showed the growing production of synthetic rubber was another factor in producing the chemical boom period.

Three Women Initiated Into Pi Lambda Theta

Three women were initiated into Theta chapter of Pi Lambda Theta, national honorary educational association for women, Wednesday evening at a ceremony in the Iowa Union.

Those initiated were Maxine Fig, G. Oneonta, N.Y.; Marjorie Latchaw, G. Wilton Junction, and Joanne Ruby, A4, Harlan.

Gunnar Sausjord, graduate student from Norway, spoke on education in Norway following the initiation ceremony at a dinner in the south dining room of the Iowa Union.

Market Basket Index — Food Prices Show Drop from 1949 Level

Food prices recorded in The Daily Iowan's Market Basket index were considerably lower than a year ago, a check of the records showed Thursday.

One year ago, the average student family of three spent $16.55 for a single week's food supplies. Today, the same family would spend $13.22 less.

The most notable change since January, 1949, came in the prices of eggs and coffee. Eggs dropped from 51 cents a dozen a year ago to 35 cents in Iowa City markets and coffee jumped from 55 cents a pound to 75 cents.

Nineteen of the 24 basic commodities included in the Iowan's weekly survey showed a price drop since a year ago. Meat prices remained generally steady with no product falling more than 10 cents a pound.

This week's survey was slightly higher than the last study made before the SUI Christmas recess. The index total on Dec.

15, 1949, was 26 cents less than the current figure which is based upon the quantity of each commodity a student family of three would use in one week.

Since just before vacation eggs dropped another 6 cents a dozen, butter fell off a penny a pound, prepared shortening (Spry) slipped 2 cents a pound and choice round steak was down 4 cents.

Medium sized oranges climbed 6 cents a dozen from a two-year low of 29 cents and potatoes were up 8 cents on 10 pounds. Only a few cobbles remained on local market shelves and important varieties were priced considerably higher.

Canned peaches and 10 pounds of "Gold Medal" flour were each up 2 cents since mid-December.

Median prices recorded in the Iowan's survey are compared here with prices of Jan. 6, 1949.

Items	Today	Year Ago
1 lb. Iowa Brand butter	57	57
1 doz. grade "A" eggs	35	51

1 lb. Hills Bros. coffee	75	55
1 doz. med. sized oranges	35	49
10 lbs. potatoes	49	59
No. 2 can med. sized peas	19	20
No. 2 can Van Camp pork and beans	17	20
No. 2 1/2 can Del Monte sliced peaches	29	35
1 can Campbell tomato soup	11	11
1 lb. Spry	29	42
1 lb. can red sockeye salmon	67	75
1 lb. "choice" round steak	75	71
1 lb. center cut pork chops	49	55
10 lbs. "Gold Medal" flour	97	97
Small box Quaker Oats	16	18
1/2 lb. pkg. Baker's unsweet. chocolate	39	45
2 lbs. Kraft "Velveta" cheese	83	97
1 lb. Armour lard	17	18
1 lb. ground beef	49	53
1 lb. "choice" round steak	75	71
1 lb. center cut pork chops	49	55
1 lb. first grade bacon	59	65
1 20-oz. loaf white bread	17	17
1 qt. grade "A" milk	18	18
Index totals (not total of above prices):
Today	$13.22
Year ago	$16.55
Month ago (two-year low)	$14.97
Two year high (Feb. 5, 1948)	$17.77

The Daily Iowan market basket index is not an added total of the prices listed above. That is, the index figure takes into consideration both the costs of the items listed above and the amount of each item the student family of three uses in one week. The amount of each item the family of three uses in one week was arrived at in a survey conducted in cooperation with the university bureau of economic and business research.

Farmer Claims Fall, Asks $7,500 in Suit

A $7,500 damage suit was filed in district court Thursday against the Witwer-Grocery company, 817 S. Clinton street, and the Buehler Brothers store, 123 S. Clinton street, and a Witwer's employe, Robert Snider.

Leo Tucker, West Branch farmer, filed the suit for injuries he claimed he received when he allegedly fell through an open cellar door in the sidewalk in front of the Buehler's store, Oct. 19.

Tucker claimed he was hurt on the open, steel trap doors leading to the cellar of Buehler's store, while Snider was working in the cellarway.

He charged he received no warning, and that there were no signs or barriers provided for the safety of passers-by.

As a result of the injuries Tucker claimed he was unable to perform his duties as a farmer and would be handicapped for an indefinite time, depending on the extent and nature of his injuries not yet known.

SUI Librarian to Go To Chicago Meeting

Prof. Ralph E. Ellsworth, SUI library director, will attend a Midwestern Inter-Library Center board of directors meeting in Chicago today.

Ellsworth is a member of the executive committee and board of directors of the library center.

The Chicago library was recently organized to house books and other source materials to be loaned out to member schools.

The central library helps different member libraries avoid unnecessary duplication and expensive purchases of little used books, Ellsworth said.

Try and Stop Me

WHEN Red Smith, of American Airlines, was on his way from London to the flying field, a careless pedestrian darted in front of the taxicab. The driver swerved sharply and managed to miss him giving the side of his cab a resounding slap with his free hand as he did so. Smith unscrambled himself in the back seat and asked, "What was the big idea of that slap?"

"Simple, gov'nor," explained the cabbie, who probably studied Freud in his off-hours. "If I'd sounded my horn he'd have known I saw him and he'd ignore me and go on the same way next time. When I banged my cab, however, he thought he'd been hit—and he won't forget it in a hurry."

A man called up a drugstore and asked for a sleeping pill five feet long. "A pill like that would make you sleep six months," scoffed the druggist. "So what?" said the man. "I'm an Eskimo."

Noted Novelist To Talk Here; Visit Classes

Robert Penn Warren, Pulitzer prize-winning novelist, will be at SUI Saturday through Monday to confer with writer's workshop students.

Prof. Paul Engle, head of the workshop program, said Warren will also give a public lecture here Monday on "Writing Fiction" at 8 p.m. in room 221A, Schaeffer hall.

Warren, director of creative writing at the University of Minnesota, won a 1948 Pulitzer prize for his book, "All the King's Men." The film version of the book was named one of the 10 best movies of last year.

The author has written many books, short stories and poems. Some of his better-known works include "Night Rider," "At Heaven's Gate" and "Circus in the Attic." He also wrote several literature text books now in use at SUI.

While here, Warren will confer with young student writers individually and during regular workshop class sessions. He will discuss and criticize poetry and fiction manuscripts, Engle said.

Iowa City Chamber Elects Roy Ewers President of Board

Roy Ewers, 1530 Muscatine avenue, was elected president of the Iowa City chamber of commerce board of directors Thursday night at the annual organizational meeting.

He will head the activities of the businessmen's organization during 1950.

Other officers elected were Robert T. Davis, 1030 E. Burlington street, first vice-president; Emil G. Trott, 630 N. Van Buren street, second vice-president, and Walter Schmidt, 6 Woolf avenue court, treasurer.

ROY EWERS

Robert L. Gage, 1301 Pickard street, is secretary of the chamber.

Five new members, who will serve three-year terms, were also welcomed at the initial meeting held Thursday night. They were Ray W. Vanderhoef, 519 Oakland street; Dan Dutcher, 630 S. Summit street; Roy Williams, 25 Olive court; Clark Caldwell, 512 River street, and Frank Williams, 733 S. Summit street.

The new board members were elected in late December by all subscribers of the chamber of commerce. The board itself consists of fifteen members, five of which retire each year.

Woman Slightly Injured In Auto Accident Here

Mrs. L.G. Walters, 329 Lee street, suffered minor injuries in a traffic accident at 3:40 p.m. Thursday at the intersection of Madison and Court street, police said Thursday.

Mrs. Walters was a passenger in a car driven by her husband which collided with a car driven by Orville Cline, Oskaloosa, police said. No damage estimates were given.

To Give Second of Concert Series

TOSSY SPIKOVSKY

Famous Violinist to Play Here Wednesday

The young Russian violinist, Tossy Spivakovsky, will play the second concert in the current university series Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the Iowa Union.

Spivakovsky, ranked among the four greatest violinists of today, will appear here just three weeks before his fortieth birthday. Prof. C.B. Righter, director of the concert series, said.

Born in Odessa, southern Russia, Spivakovsky was taken to Berlin at an early age to study with Arrigo Serato. He made his debut at the age of 10 after studying under Willi Hess, Righter said.

Des Moines, Boston AP Chiefs to Switch

NEW YORK (AP)—Frank Starzel, general manager of The Associated Press, Thursday announced two changes in the news services' executive staff.

Effective Jan. 15, L.P. (Pat) Yale will become chief of bureau at Boston in charge of the New England territory. Yale has been the Des Moines chief of bureau for Iowa and Nebraska since April, 1942.

The new chief at Des Moines, effective about Feb. 1, will be Cy Douglass, who has been the Boston chief of bureau for seven years.

Mayo Clinic to Spend $12-Million on Addition

ROCHESTER, MINN. (UP)—The Mayo clinic Thursday announced plans for a $12-million expansion of the facilities which already have made it one of the world's foremost medical centers.

The Mayo association, holding company for clinic properties, will build a 10-story, 150-foot-high structure designed to increase the clinic's theoretical capacity from 85,000 patients a year to between 150,000 and 160,000 annually.

The project is scheduled to start Aug. 1, 1950, and is expected to take three and a half to four years to complete.

Dr. Arlie Barnes, chairman of the clinic's board of governors, and Harry Harwick, chairman of the board of members of Mayo association, said the new clinic will supplement the present 15-story building erected in 1929 and a five-story structure built in 1914.

The three buildings will be grouped in the heart of the city and connected by a wide underground concourse "to preserve our fundamental idea of operating under one roof," clinic spokesmen said.

They are planning for the new clinic has been underway for 10 years and that the project will permit consolidation of some activities now conducted away from the clinic premises proper.

The new building, to have four wings shaped like a cross, will house nearly all of the clinic's diagnostic work as well as administrative quarters. Space in the 1929 building will be divided between therapeutics and training.

Designs for the new building are such that as many as eight additional floors can be added if the need arises, officials said.

Services Saturday For SUI Librarian

Funeral services for Sylvia Ann Noffsinger, SUI librarian who died Wednesday, will be Saturday at 10:30 a.m. at the McGovern funeral home, 506 E. College street, it was announced Thursday.

Miss Noffsinger, head of the serials and reserve department at the library annex and a librarian here for 23 years, died of a heart attack while working at the annex.

Burial will be at South English after a service there at 2 p.m. South English services will be conducted by the L. J. Powell funeral home at Wellman.

The Rev. Elmer E. Dierks, pastor of the First Baptist church of Iowa City, will conduct services here. The Rev. Hal E. Norton, pastor of the Grinnell First Baptist church, will give the sermon.

Funeral services at Iowa City will be conducted by Beckman's but because of remodeling, will be held at the McGovern funeral home.

Minneapolis Firm Sues Iowa Citizen for $5,084

The Physicians and Hospitals Supply company, of Minneapolis, filed a $5,084.71 suit in district court Thursday against C.A. Frimml, 618 N. Dubuque street.

The company claimed Frimml, a former employe, was indebted that amount for overdrawn commissions, according to the terms of a contract between the two parties Nov. 15, 1947.

Manslaughter Case Dismissal Overruled

DES MOINES (AP)—Municipal Judge Charles S. Cooter Thursday overruled a defense motion to dismiss a manslaughter charge against Hal Sheridan and ordered the case to be sent to the grand jury.

The judge's ruling came at the close of a preliminary hearing for Sheridan, salesman and former manager of the Des Moines Better Business bureau.

Sheridan is charged with being the driver of a rented car which struck Mrs. Arlyne Spears, 47, last Dec. 25.

In making his ruling, Judge Cooter said: "She (Mrs. Spears) didn't have a chance. In my opinion, Mr. Sheridan is guilty of willful and wanton recklessness."

Journal Publishes Professor's Article

Prof. R. L. Sutherland, college of engineering, is the author of an article in the December issue of the Journal of Applied Mechanics, American Society of Mechanical Engineers publication.

The article, "Bending Vibration of a Rotating Blade Vibrating in the Plane of Rotation," describes a method of analyzing the vibration of a rotating propeller or blade.

Iowa Mountaineers Plan Tour Of Canadian Rockies in August

Lake O'Hara in the heart of the Canadian Rockies will be visited by the Iowa Mountaineers on their eleventh annual summer outing from Aug. 17 through 25.

After climbing, hiking and fishing in the Lake O'Hara, Alberta, region for nine days, members of the group will leave for a scenic tour of Moraine Lake, Lake Louise, the Columbia ice field and the Athabasca glacier. They will return to Iowa Aug. 31.

Among peaks the group will attempt to climb next summer are Mt. Victoria (11,365 feet), Mt. Huber (11,051), Mt. Lefroy (11,230 feet) and Mt. Hungabee (11,457 feet).

Stops will be made at Banff, Calgary and Edmonton, Alberta on the return trip. The Mountaineers travel by car and truck, sleeping and eating outdoors except under poorest weather conditions.

S.J. Ebert, chief engineer at WSUI, will direct the outing and senior chaperon will be Prof. Arthur Wendler of the physical education department.

The Mountaineers have previously toured the Pacific Northwest, the California Sierras and various mountain peaks in Mexico. Future plans of the climbing club included a trip to Alaska in the summer of 1951, provided enough members are interested. The group plans to drive over the Alcan highway to Alaska and return part way by boat along the coast of British Columbia.

Hospital Releases Fight Participants

Joe Kindl, 604 Bowers street, and Leo Nichols, Morning Sun, were released from Mercy hospital Thursday afternoon after undergoing treatment for cuts which police said were suffered in a fight Wednesday night at Antlers Tap, 232 S. Dubuque street.

They were both charged in Iowa City police court with disturbing the peace.

The fight started at 9:02 p.m. in the tavern and moved outside into the alley near Nall Motors Inc. The two men broke three windows in the garage during the fight before persons nearby separated them, police said.

Review of 1949 - Hawks Had Good Year

An examination of Iowa athletics during the 1949 season reveals several highlights including the Hawk baseball club which shared the conference championship, the swimming team which finished second in the conference and national meets and high in AAU competition, Joe Scarpello's wrestling prowess and the 1949 edition of the Hawkeye gridder.

Iowa captured eight victories in 12 outings in baseball to share a three way deadlock for top conference honors with Michigan and Indiana. The Hawkeyes tallied 20 runs in the season's finale against Northwestern to establish a scoring record against a league foe.

The team was spearheaded by Jack Bruner, sensational southpaw who registered 66 strikeouts in 61 and two-thirds innings in league play and Jack Dittmer who committed but one error in 107 chances afield.

Ris Outstanding Swimmer
Wally Ris, voted the outstanding college swimmer of 1949, again paced the Iowa tankers with first place wins in the Big Ten and NCAA 100-yard free style for the third consecutive year. Ris also won the National AAU indoor 100-yard event.

Hawk swimmers won four of five dual meets in 1949 and enjoyed the added distinction of being the first Iowa tank squad to defeat Michigan. Iowa tied for third in the NAAU indoor meet at Daytona Beach, Fla., and fourth in the outdoor meet at Los Angeles.

The 300-yard medley relay team, composed of Duane Draves, Fowen Stassforth and Ervin Straub took first place in the National Collegiate meet. Ris replaced Straub as anchor man as Iowa captured the event in National AAU competition.

500 Loop Record
In football, the Hawks posted a 500 record in six conference tests, which was better than pre-season speculation would indicate. Iowa notched wins over Northwestern, 28-21, Purdue, 21-7, and Indiana, 35-9. Another highlight of the football season was the thrilling, 34-31, triumph over Oregon in which the Hawkeyes staged the greatest grid comeback - four touchdowns in nine minutes - in Iowa athletic history.

Jerry Faske led the Hawkeyes offensively with a 6.6 rushing average while Jack Dittmer established a new Western conference pass reception mark of 333 yards on 15 aerial completions. Bob McKenzie, Iowa's other end, placed second in total passes received.

The Hawkeyes exhibited offensive potency by tallying 26 touchdowns, including a 99 yard return of a kickoff by Bill Reichardt and a 34 yard punt return by Bob Longley which was the best in the nation.

Basketball Below Par
Iowa's basketball, between January and March, wasn't comparable to the formidability displayed by other Hawkeye clubs throughout 1949. Inability to score a reasonable percentage of shots from the field in conference games relegated the Hawkeyes to eighth place in the Big Ten chase. However, Iowa established a season's total point mark of 1,102 markers in 20 games and a new Iowa free throw record of 294 conversions.

In the fall and winter of 1949, the Iowa cagers have won seven games in eight starts and extend-

'Not Buying' Says Veeck

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) - Veeck, who recently sold Cleveland Indians baseball said Thursday he's "not buying any baseball team at present."

"If I should change my mind, though, it wouldn't make any difference whether it happened to be a major or a minor league club, Dubuque or Detroit, just as long as it presented a challenge," Veeck said.

Veeck, reportedly interested in the New York Giants, said he had no definite plans as to whether baseball is concerned.

Just a Wanderer

"Just call me a wanderer, a drifter, a vagabond," he said. "But for a man without a home, I've had plenty of ideas."

He readily announced that the Boston Red Sox should win the American league pennant this year, and that the Boston Red Sox should take the National League pennant.

Stengel, he said, can't win with the Yankees. Veeck, wearing his open-neck sport shirt despite Minneapolis' sub-zero weather, predicted that Bob Feller would go to put in a "good year" for Cleveland because the famo-

Lemon Greatest

Bob Lemon, though, won't be nominated as the greatest pitcher in the majors today.

Veeck foresaw a bright future for Dick Wakefield, the bonus player who was traded to the Detroit Tigers to the New York Yankees this winter.

"Wakefield is going to be a consistently good player," Veeck said. "He just couldn't get going with the Tigers."

Red Strader Signs As Bulldog Coach

NEW YORK (AP) - Norman (Red) Strader was signed Thursday as coach of the New York Bulldogs of the new National - American football league, succeeding Charles Ewart, who resigned at the close of the past season.

Strader, a T-formation operative, coached the New York Yankees of the disbanded All-America conference from mid-'48 through '49. His team won eight out of its 12 games the past campaign.

Ted Collins, owner of the Bulldogs, did not announce the length of Strader's contract or the salary to be paid him. He said Strader would choose his own assistants.

of the Hawkeye non-conference winning string on the fieldhouse court to 44 consecutive triumphs. The overall track picture wasn't excellent last season but several individual performers scored in major meets. The cross country team was one of the best in Iowa history, winning three of four dual meets with Earle Duggan and Jack Davis as leading competitors.

Tennis Team Rebuilds
Like track, the tennis team was in the process of rebuilding graduation depleted ranks. The 1949 Iowa netsters captured four dual meets in nine outings. The win over Indiana during 1949 snapped a scourge of 19 straight conference defeats dating back to 1940, although the sport was suspended for three war years.

Golfers won three of five meets and finished fourth in the conference last season. Jim Rasley and Skip Carlson led the Hawkeye linksters. During 1949, Iowa teams won 47 dual contests, lost 38 and tied one for a respectable .547 percentage.

DAN MARKHAM

Branch McCracken's Hoosier would like nothing better than to extend that streak into conference play against the Badgers.

Wisconsin can contribute the success of their second half conference which brought a conference win over Illinois' defending title holders to the stellar rebound play of two reserve forwards, Danny Markham and Don Page. Page has seen little action all season but stepped into Fred Schneider's place in the first period to help pull the Badgers from a 10 point deficit.

Meanwhile big Don Rehfeldt, Badger center, cut loose with a 27 point barrage to lead both clubs in scoring.

S. Spends $3-Billion on Farm Price Support

WASHINGTON (UP)—The government reported Thursday its investment in farm price supports climbed to a record of $3,148,500,000 on Oct. 30.

That would be the equivalent of nearly $21 for every man, woman and child in the nation. The program is intended to keep farm prices from falling through a theoretical floor said by congressmen to be fair both to farmers and consumers.

The money, including a $1-billion investment in wheat, represents price support loans and purchase agreements as well as commodities actually removed from the market to maintain prices.

How much represents actual losses depends on future market prices. Theoretically, the government could make a profit on its surplus holdings. Actually, it seems unlikely in view of the sharp skid in farm prices.

Alph Trigg, president of the commodity credit corporation which handles the program, said the government's actual losses total about $43,958,000 from July through October.

He said the government's surplus stockpiles contain everything from turkeys to turpentine. Items whose removal from the market had a direct impact on the housewife's budget include eggs, butter, beans, dried milk, cheese, dried fruits and potatoes.

If the government had not bought these products, retail prices presumably would have fallen. But congress feels this is less important than bolstering the economy through guaranteed minimum farm prices.

The government's total price support investment includes $1,018,000,000 in wheat, $724-million in cotton and $526-million in corn.

The figures include price support loans made to farmers, which may be repaid later, and actual cash paid for surplus crops which the government has removed to its storehouses.

Cash outlays on Oct. 30 totaled $1,692,478,677, including cotton which topped the list at $613-million.

Threaten America, SUI Professor Says

The spread of communism and rapid modernization of "backward" countries are two outstanding threats to American prosperity, according to a recent magazine article by Prof. G.R. Davies, SUI statistician.

The article appears in the January Iowa Business Digest, a monthly publication of the SUI bureau of business and economic research.

Davies said that Asia's masses have ambitions to attain the pleasures of an industrial civilization. Such masses, guided by aggressive leaders, could try to gain such standards through aggression.

Such action could be a great military threat to the western world, Davies said.

Russia is the second great threat to the West, according to Davies. The Communists are busy copying the institutions of capitalism in a "planned economy" that is rigidly controlled by secret police and a stern Communist state.

Davies said we should meet the threats of the east and Russia "with a wholesome measure of fear," and try to match our miracles of materialistic science by social understanding and ethics. Only then can we protect ourselves and our society, he said.

Majestic Poise, Ringing Baritone

— Thrill Iowa Citizens

By DONALD KEY

The majestic poise and ringing baritone voice of Lawrence Winters, of the New York City Opera company, thrilled a large audience of over 800 last night in City high school auditorium.

It was the first subscription concert of the season for Iowa City Civic Music association members, and the recital provided a brilliant beginning for the series.

Time and again the artist was recalled by the enthusiastic audience for encores which he graciously rendered.

Handel Arias

The program opened with two arias "Aria di Porsenna" from "Muzio Scevola" and "Ombra Mai Fu" (the "Largo") from "Xerxes" and a song, "Love That's True Will Live Forever" all by George Frederick Handel.

From the beginning, Winters' light yet resonant quality inspired the listeners. His phrasing was expressive as was his reverent interpretation of the famous "Largo."

Two songs by Franz Schubert, "An die Musik" and "Der Wanderer," which was especially well-liked by the audience, followed.

Here the talented artist sang with an exceptionally warm lyric quality in complete accord with the light Schubert music.

"Auf dem Kirchof" and "O Liebliche Wagen" two difficult art songs by Johannes Brahms, were style by Winters. Florid passages in these songs were sung with flexibility and accuracy.

Two French Songs

Probably the most outstanding numbers on the recital were the two French songs and the aria "Vision Fugitive" from the opera "Herodiade" by Jules Massenet.

The genial baritone's light interpretation of the difficult "Chanson a Boire" by Maurice Ravel was as pleasing to listen to as it seemed to be to sing.

High covered tones — the kind one wants to "hang on to" — were beautifully sung in Vincent D'Indy's "Madrigal."

The last part of the program was lighter in mood except for the lyric "Serenade" by the Chicago composer John Alden Carpenter and "Waltz" by Arensky-Koschetz.

Novelty Numbers

Thoroughly enjoyed by the audience was the ever-popular novelty number, "Old Mother Hubbard," by Victor Healy-Hutchinson, written and sung in the style of Handel.

Another novelty song, "Sailor Men" was equally enjoyable.

To close the program the young artist sang a group of Negro spirituals which included "Go Down Moses," "Swing Low Sweet Char-lot," "Every Time I Feel the Spirit," and "There's No Hidin' Place Down There." His encores included two songs from Gershwin's "Porgy and Bess."

Accompaniments for the recital were ably and sympathetically played by Sherman Frank.
