

Patient Charged With Murder In Hospital Fire

DAVENPORT (AP) — A 22-year-old woman patient, described as "schizophrenic," was reported Thursday to have confessed setting a mental ward fire in which 41 women perished.

Scott County Atty. Clark Filseth filed a charge of "murder of arson" against Mrs. Elnora Epperly, of Rock Island, Ill., across the Mississippi river from here.

Check Story
Meanwhile, authorities said they were checking further the story of the small and attractive brunette who was a patient in St. Elizabeth's, mental ward of Mercy hospital in Davenport, which was destroyed by fire early Saturday. They said she smiled frequently during questioning, and smoked cigarettes. Hospital records showed Mrs. Epperly had entered the institution last Dec. 12 and was due to be released on the day of the fire.

Rock Island State's Atty. Bernard Moran, first approached by Mrs. Epperly, said he had doubts about the woman's "admissions."

He said that Dr. Werner Hollander, Davenport psychiatrist who attended her, described the woman as "schizophrenic," and said the story was typical of her type of patient. (Schizophrenia is a form of mental derangement resulting in inaction or the simulating of qualities which one does not possess.) Moran said Mrs. Epperly told him this story: Wanted to Escape

She had set fire to the curtains of her room at St. Elizabeth's with a cigarette lighter. She wanted to escape and be with her husband whom she feared was in trouble.

After the curtains were well ablaze, she broke the glass in the transom above her door and escaped into the corridor. She was taken out of the burning building and after treatment for severe lacerations suffered in climbing through the transom was released to her home.

Deputy Sheriff Harry Weinbrand, assigned to the Rock Island state's attorney's office as an investigator, said officials probing the fire told him evidence indicated the fire started in her room which was on the first floor center, on the east side. He said he questioned the woman for four hours and that she was "clear and definite" on facts.

Moran said Mrs. Epperly and her husband, a structural steel worker, appeared voluntarily for the questioning Wednesday night. When they did not return Thursday as agreed, authorities picked up Mrs. Epperly at her mother's Moline, Ill., home.

Accompanied by Husband
Mrs. Epperly, accompanied by her husband, was brought to Filseth's office Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Epperly was specifically charged with the death of Mrs. Anna Neal, heroic nurse, who died trying to save her patients. All of the other fire victims were patients. After questioning at the county attorney's office, Mrs. Epperly was taken to St. John's mental hospital here. She is to be arraigned in police court Saturday morning.

Dr. John Marker, who was psychiatrist in charge of the fire-damaged St. Elizabeth's, said he believed Mrs. Epperly was mentally incompetent, but that she was capable of giving a correct version of the fire.

County Attorney Filseth said Mrs. Epperly told this story when questioned in his office:

Thought Husband Dead
"I thought my husband was dead. He would never come and see me. I was going crazy with fear and thought I could escape if the building would burn. "I had a cigarette lighter which I had planned to give John for Christmas. After all the other patients had retired, I ignited the curtain in my room.

"I knocked on my door, which was locked, and a nurse let me out. I ran outside and fled from the building. I didn't know the fire would be as bad as it was."

(The story differed slightly at this point from the story she told Moran.)

Asked if she knew what might happen to her as a result of the fire, Mrs. Epperly replied: "I'll probably get the electric chair." (Iowa does not use an electric chair. The death penalty is by hanging in Iowa.)

Tells Story of Starting Fire

MRS. ELNORA EPPERLY, 22, of Rock Island, nervously smoked a cigarette Thursday as she told her story of starting the fire which claimed the lives of 41 women at the Mercy hospital mental ward in Davenport last Saturday. A first degree murder charge has been filed against her. Mrs. Epperly is shown with her husband.

Truman Joins Attack on Taft; Sees No Emergency in Coal

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman Thursday joined in an administration attack on a Republican stalwart up for re-election this year: Sen. Robert Taft of Ohio.

Mr. Truman, commenting on Taft's demand for military aid to the Chinese Nationalists, questioned Taft's ability as a military expert. And a bit later, he indicated he is getting rosy political reports from Ohio, where Democrats are seeking to unseat Taft next year.

Apartment Project Proposed for City Under Consideration

The amount of time devoted to Taft at Mr. Truman's news conference was greater than, for instance, the coal situation. As for coal, the President said no national emergency exists at the present minute. This means that, at least for the present, Mr. Truman doesn't intend to use the Taft-Hartley act in an attempt to get the miners back on a five-day week.

As for Taft: His name first came up when a reporter asked Mr. Truman about Taft's criticisms of the administration's policy in Formosa. The administration has refused to help the Chinese Nationalists hold Formosa against the Communists.

Well, said the President, Sen. Taft is entitled to his own opinions.

Steady Rains Keep Ohio Valley Flooded

Steady rains throughout the midwest sent the mighty Ohio river and its tributaries spilling into more communities Thursday. The danger of widespread new floods increased. Engineers and weather observers upped their flood crest forecasts for that section of the Ohio river along the Illinois-Kentucky border. Several more days of rain have been forecast.

Hundreds of holdouts — families who have refused suggestions they flee to higher ground — remaining behind weakened levees along the best.

L.W. Sellman, weather forecaster at Chicago, said "it looks very serious" in the Ohio river valley. He said he saw no break in the warm, moist gulf air which is causing the steady rains or drizzle over the watershed. Another batch of rain was moving toward the valley from Arkansas.

Friday-the-13th ...

The first of 1950's two Friday-the-13th's came into Iowa City this morning behind a cloud of mist and drizzling rain.

The superstitious and the practical were warned to watch their step on this alleged unlucky day but because temperatures were predicted in the forties, falls will probably be a result of Friday-the-13th, not winter's ice and snow.

U.S. Won't Veto Nationalist UN Expulsion

LAKE SUCCESS (AP) — The United States announced Thursday it would not veto expulsion of the Chinese Nationalists from the United Nations security council if the Russian — proposed move gets the needed seven votes.

The council, virtually certain to defeat the expulsion move, failed to reach a vote Thursday, and the expected second Soviet walk-out this week thereby was forestalled temporarily. The vote is expected this afternoon.

Apartment Project Proposed for City Under Consideration

Two large apartment projects have been proposed for construction in Iowa City and are now under consideration.

The largest is a $900,000, 92-apartment project proposed to be built on a 5.2 acre tract just south of University Heights, Corbin Crawford, Ainsworth, promoter, said Thursday. The other is a $420,000, 60-apartment proposed project, to be built somewhere in the Iowa City high school area.

Back Project
An unidentified Iowa City businessman and Dr. Henry H. Hamilton, Cedar Rapids, are backing this project.

Crawford said he is acquiring 5.2 acres, bordered by Marietta avenue and Sunset streets, from Mr. and Mrs. Adam Roth, Muscatine, for the 92 — apartment project and that a group of Iowa City businessmen plan to help finance the project. He would not name the Iowa Citizens.

If the project meets FHA approval, part of the construction costs will be met by the local group and the remainder by the federal housing administration. The Federal Engineering company is drawing up plans at the present time and Crawford said he hoped to get construction started next spring.

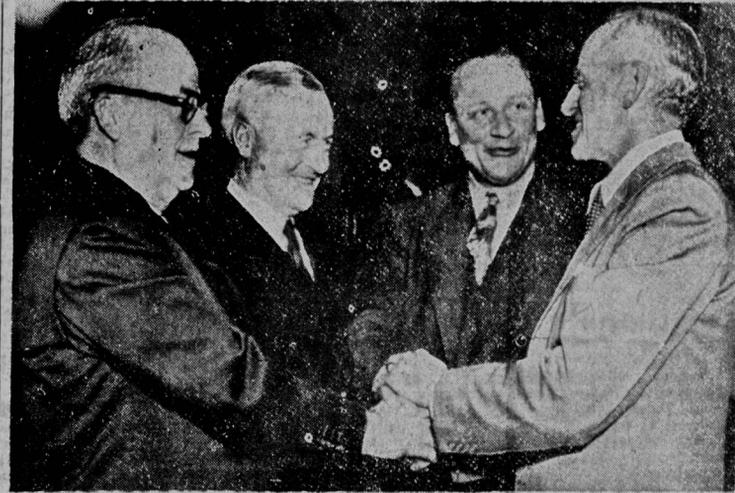

Hopes for Approval
Hamilton hopes to get city council and zoning commission approval for the rezoning of an area, preferably in the Iowa City high school vicinity, for the $420,000 housing project. This project also has been designed to comply with FHA stipulations in order to secure federal housing assistance for the construction costs.

City Sells Bonds Totaling $67,466.52

Street improvement bonds totaling $67,466.52 were sold at auction in city hall Wednesday at "par plus a $100 premium," City Clerk George J. Dohrer said. The bonds, which will bear five percent interest, were purchased jointly by the First National bank and the Iowa State Bank and Trust company, both of Iowa City.

The city issued the bonds to finance about two-thirds of the $100,000 paving project completed last summer on sections of Iowa City streets.

The remaining one-third of the improvement cost was financed by special assessment of property owners adjacent to the improved streets.

Congratulations in Order for Sherman

ADM. FORREST P. SHERMAN received congratulations Thursday after the senate armed services committee unanimously recommended his confirmation by the senate for the post of chief of naval operations. Council Approves Plans to Sponsor All-SUI Congress

SUI's Student council Thursday night approved an All-SUI congress to be held April 19 to 22. Plans for the congress were submitted by Committee Chairman Joan Tripp, A4, Mapleton, at the council meeting in the Old Capitol house chamber.

Some 300 SUI campus leaders are expected to attend the congress to discuss student government problems and other aspects of student life.

Representing the university students of Sweden, Asoke Gupta, E4, Patna, India, presented a Swedish flag and a volume on campus life to Council President Dick Dice, A4, Marion.

Gupta represented the SUI International club, which was asked by the Swedish embassy to present the gifts to the SUI student body.

"This is a very welcome sign that students all over the world wish to unite toward a better society," Gupta said.

The council voted to send two representatives to the Midwest Student Government conference to be held March 23 to 25 at the University of Indiana, Bloomington.

Both delegates will be upperclassmen and are to be chosen by the Student council executive committee.

Hancher to Lecture On India Trip Jan. 22

Pres. Virgil M. Hancher will lecture on his recent trip to India Jan. 22 at 8 p.m. in the Iowa Union main lounge.

Lecture tickets will be available Wednesday at the Union desk, Prof. Earl Harper, Iowa Union director, said Thursday.

Senate Group Okays Sherman As Chief of Naval Operations

WASHINGTON (AP)—The senate armed services committee Thursday unanimously okayed Adm. Forrest P. Sherman for chief of naval operations as Republican members called off a probe of Adm. Louis E. Denfeld's ouster from the post.

Action came swiftly after Secretary of the Navy Francis Matthews had testified that the navy won't put up with a subordinate who disagrees with policies of his superior. He'll get transferred but not "punished or demoted."

Sherman's nomination now goes before the senate.

In the committee session Chairman Millard Tydings (D-Md.) accused Sen. William Knowland (R-Calif.) and other Republicans of trying to throw open the dispute over the handling of armed services unification. Knowland reported that Tydings was trying to gag him.

In the session Knowland had read from an article by Rear Adm. Dan V. Gallery, from Collier's magazine. Gallery, citing the Denfeld ouster, said: "In the reshuffle which followed, all the other top admirals who supported Denfeld were swept into the deep freeze."

He said they merely had refused to "conform to a party line."

SUI Graduate Gets Health Directorship

SUI Graduate Dr. Madeline Donnelly, 36, Thursday was named the new director of the Iowa health department's division of maternal and child health by Dr. Walter Biering, Iowa commissioner of health, at Des Moines.

Dr. Donnelly is now director of maternal, child and crippled children's services of the Idaho state department of health.

She will begin her new duties at Des Moines March 15, at a salary of $7,200.

A native of Mason City, Dr. Donnelly received her B.S. degree at SUI in 1925 and an M.D. in 1927.

The post she will fill has been vacant since the death of Dr. John Hayek in May, 1949.

Acheson Claims Russia 'Taking Over' In China

Endorses U. S. Foreign Policy In China Area

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dean Acheson Thursday accused Russia of taking over four vast areas of northern China, including Manchuria, in a far reaching sweep of Soviet Communist imperialism.

He pictured this development as a great opportunity for U.S. foreign policy in the Far East. The best way for this country to win friends and stop communism, he contended, is to pursue its policy of fostering the independence of Asiatic peoples and their economic well being.

By contrast, Acheson declared, Russia's action in northern China will arouse the "righteous anger and wrath" of the Chinese people and show up the Soviet Union as an imperialistic power throughout Asia.

"The only thing that can obscure it," he said, "is the folly of ill-conceived adventures on our part."

The areas which Russia is in the process of taking over, Acheson said, are Manchuria, Outer Mongolia, Inner Mongolia and Sinkiang. His accusation was the first such to be made by a top western official although authorities here have let it be known that they suspected Russian expansion was under way in northern China — despite the fact that China has come under Chinese Communist rule.

Acheson spoke at the National Press club here. His blue ribbon audience of congressional leaders, state department officials and reporters applauded long and loud when he sat down.

He touched only briefly upon the continuing controversy over whether the United States should intervene with armed forces — Sen. Robert Taft (R-Ohio) and others have suggested using the navy to protect Formosa.

Acheson heavily emphasized his warning that the United States should avoid any "adventures" which would turn the expected anger of the Chinese from Russia to the United States or cover in any way what the Russians are up to.

Fear 61 Die As Tanker Hits, Sinks British Sub

LONDON (Friday) (AP) — Rammed by a small Swedish tanker, the British submarine Truculent sank in the Thames estuary east of London Thursday night. Sixty-one of 76 men aboard the submarine are missing and chances of their rescue seem remote.

Rescuers pulled 15 members of the "Truculent's" crew from the murky waters of one of the world's busiest shipping lanes. There were reports that the bodies of two crewmen had been recovered, but these were not confirmed by naval authorities.

Eight hours after the collision, hope still remained that some of the men may be trapped within compartments in the submarine's battered hull.

However, part of the submarine was sheered off in the collision. British naval vessels sent to the scene still had not found the exact spot where the Truculent went down.

A senior officer at the nearby Chatham naval base expressed the fear that no more survivors would be found. Darkness and heavy tide, he explained, "makes me think we won't pick up any more."

The Truculent, a veteran of Pacific fighting against the Japanese, was rammed by the 643-ton Swedish tanker Divina whose bows were built like a battering ram to withstand the icepacks found in northern waters.

County Dimes Drive To Begin Monday

Johnson county's 1950 March of Dimes campaign will open with a "kick-off" meeting at 7:30 p.m. Monday in room E-331 at University hospitals.

The meeting will be jointly sponsored by the county chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis and University hospitals.

Open to the public, the meeting is intended to dramatize the urgency of the polio problem, the cost of treatment and the pressing need for contributions in the Jan. 16 through 31 March of Dimes campaign.

The expense of treatment of the 16 Johnson county polio cases last year is carrying over into 1950. For this reason and also because of the national foundation's urgent need of funds, the county's goal this year is $10,000, twice the 1949 goal.

Wesley Altenberg, regional director of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis will discuss the 1950 March of Dimes drive at the meeting.

Something New in the Way of Sea Monsters

SOME LEGENDARY MONSTERS may have had historical precedent, but here's something of a new puzzler. Its tusks reminded spectators of a walrus or an elephant when it turned up on the beach at Alaska, Egypt, after a three-day gale in the Gulf of Suez. If it's any consolation, the monster has the experts stumped, too.

Lessons in Living —

Mrs. Glenn Frank, who made quite a splash a few years ago when she lashed out at the college fraternity system, has again plunged into the controversial issue.

This time the wife of a former president of the University of Wisconsin has published the results of a special investigation into the Greek letter world in the current issue of Pageant magazine.

Mrs. Frank charges that the fraternity and sorority practice of screening applicants for membership on the basis of income, religion and social position is responsible for innumerable personal tragedies.

Such a flat-footed statement indicates that Mrs. Frank has missed the big picture of fraternity life and has become entangled with pro-saic member-getting tactics of fraternities.

The emphasis in fraternities has always been on training, not on recruiting. Pledgeship once was characterized by brutal stunts including paddling of pledges, spending nights in haunted houses and similar outlandish pranks.

Since the war, however, the emphasis has shifted to personality development of the individual. Fraternities have made a conscious effort to attract all types of persons to their respective organizations because they realize the necessity of living with all types of persons beyond the college period.

Man is essentially gregarious. Fraternities are certainly experiments in living — joint living of a sort. If a fraternity or sorority member can weather the storm of living with various types of persons, that person has learned a valuable lesson in practical living.

There are other, little publicized ventures of fraternities which underscore functions of fraternities. These include Christmas baskets to the needy, parties for underprivileged children, etc. Last year on the SUI campus, a group of fraternities offered blood to a small girl who was dying of a rare blood disease.

Incidents of that type are often overlooked. More important to many persons are fraternity parties where raccoon-coated fraternity men are reported to run around wearing lamp shades, singing off-color songs and making general nuisances of themselves.

Obviously, fraternities are dedicated to a nobler purpose.

The Ghost of FDR Reaches Out —

Harry Truman and the Democratic party are on the losing end of a vicious circle. They seem to be caught in the dying gusts of a wind stirred up by the late Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The FDR who led the Democrats to victory for 16 consecutive years, and who pulled us from the depths of a depression, is also the father of the spending policies that are leading the Democrats over very shaky ground. Our economy is bound to suffer from wanton spending.

News analysts and commentators have been warning that the American public is weary of deficit spending, of operating our economy in the red. President Truman's latest budget demands, slightly in excess of $42-billion, are not meeting much acclaim by anyone.

A fellow Democrat from Missouri sounded the note when he declared on the house floor: "Make no mistake about it, my friends. Deficit spending is not popular with the folks back home. They are insisting in emphatic terms upon a curtailment of federal spending."

The speaker was Rep. Clarence Cannon. Now let's get a look at the budget in terms of a dollar breakdown and how it stacks up with the previous year.

The fiscal 1949 figure was about $37-billion, but deficit spending in the form of supplemental appropriations increased it by about $5-billion. This figure hits the total fiscal 1949 figure, and financial figures estimate at least another $5-billion deficit.

As usual, Virginia's Sen. Harry Byrd was in there swinging with his economy axe whetted to take the total down to about $36-billion and his own set of plans on where the money should be spent.

Byrd will probably not succeed in his plan, because it seems safe to assume that the Republicans will not trim the budget much in an election year. They think that was one of their mistakes last time and they will be canny about losing another election for the same cause.

But the voters likely will have no qualms, especially when they learn that granting this budget would probably boost the national debt to its all-time high of $263-billion.

FDR, who inherited a shaky economy from his predecessor, Herbert Hoover, has left a similar one for the Missourian who has stepped into his shoes.

Thanks — For a Healthy Share of Opportunities —

Veterans on the GI bill of rights have received another break from the veterans' administration. The latest allows the vet to return leave pay and in turn receive semester benefits.

Benefits for actual school work amount to more, and the new deal will be similar to trading in an old pair of shoes for new ones.

It is heartening to see that government gives the veteran on campus a healthy share of opportunities to get an education. If it would not have been for Uncle Sam, thousands of young men and women the nation over would never have benefited from higher education.

But we don't feel that the transaction is a one-sided affair. Certainly our country will receive long-run benefits from nearly a million more college educated men and women. Of course, the ominous threat of too few white collar jobs hangs over us.

But if the college-trained man is really benefiting from his opportunities, he will be in a position to adapt to such a situation.

Maybe the government is impressed by the showing the former GIs are making. Statistics prove that they are getting better grades than the non-vet student. The "rah-rah" days that characterized college campuses following World War I are wisely absent.

The charge of alcoholism that many have hung on the college graduate is being exposed for what it is worth. The war and college veteran is a good mixer in society.

The GI bill of rights is one of the few bright occurrences of recent years. It is ironic that it was born on the beachheads of Salerno and Iwo Jima.

Interpreting the News —

Nationalist Days in U.N. Numbered

By J.M. ROBERTS JR.
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

The Soviet Union is using the United Nations security council to make big medicine with the Chinese Communists.

That's about the only profit to be seen for the Reds in Jacob Malik's walkout.

It seems obvious that with spreading recognition of the Peking regime — five council members already have done it — that Nationalist China is on the way out as a member. Malik is trying up the council now over an issue on which he already stood to win by default, perhaps within a few weeks.

But, despite Mao Tze-tung's protestations of comradeship with Moscow, there are issues to be settled there. The American state department has information leading it to believe that Mao has trouble with nationalism at home. Control of Manchuria is in the hands of a group which is reported to maintain far greater liaison with Moscow than with Peking. But Manchuria is vital if Mao is to get anywhere with his promise of a better economic life for the Chinese.

Russia isn't giving anything up to anyone, of course. But by standing as Peking's chief friend before the world she can spread a little butter as she goes along. The Malik walkout was taken calmly in U.S. diplomatic circles. But it was not expected. There were indications that it occurred on last minute instructions from Moscow, where Mao is now an honored and volubly cooperative guest.

It stands to reason that Malik will be on hand in the council when his resolution demanding the ouster of the Chinese Nationalist representative comes up. Then he can walk out again if things don't suit him.

The United States stands to lose either way when the issue is finally decided. The U.S. delegation continues to hold that such questions are procedural and not subject to veto, thereby weakening the position of Chiang Kai-shek's representative. But if and when the seven votes against the Nationalists are secured, as expected, the U.S. will be in the position of doing business in the UN with a government which it refuses to recognize individually.

That is likely to continue for the few months which the state department expects the Chiang government on Formosa to last. If the Nationalists surprise with signs of more permanent tenure say beyond six months, then the matter of recognition will have to be reconsidered.

The U.S., basically, seems to be trying for time in which something will happen to help her drive a wedge between the Chinese Communists and Moscow. Manchuria is the chief peg for this hope. In the meantime, Washington seems prepared to accept whatever equivocal position may result from the security council argument.

The subcommittee, which has been studying federal money and financial policies, also came out for a government surplus in good times but red ink spending in bad times of depression.

Douglas, backed up by Sen. Ralph E. Flanders (R-Vt), rank-and-file Republican, told reporters the committee "rejects the idea of the annually balanced budget." He said the general idea is that when times are good the budget should be balanced, but "in periods of depression it is proper for the government to spend more than it takes in."

How to Make a Long Tail Short

Committee Backs Eccles in 'Easy Money' Tiff

WASHINGTON (AP) — A senate-house economic subcommittee Thursday threw its support behind Federal Reserve Board Member Marriner S. Eccles in his fight against the "easy money" policies of Secretary of Treasury John W. Snyder.

The subcommittee, headed by Sen. Paul Douglas (D-Ill) said Eccles was right in arguing that the reserve board should be able to raise interest rates on government bonds to curb credit and check inflation.

It recommended in a formal report that congress pass a resolution giving the federal reserve board "primary power and responsibility" for regulating federal credit policies, and requiring the treasury to bring its monetary actions into line with federal reserve policies.

This was a victory for Eccles, who was demoted by President Truman from his job as former federal reserve chairman after a backstage row with Snyder over fiscal policies.

Eccles and Snyder brought their differences into the open during subcommittee hearings last year, and later renewed their argument at a closed-door subcommittee session.

The subcommittee, which has been studying federal money and financial policies, also came out for a government surplus in good times but red ink spending in bad times of depression.

Douglas, backed up by Sen. Ralph E. Flanders (R-Vt), rank-and-file Republican, told reporters the committee "rejects the idea of the annually balanced budget." He said the general idea is that when times are good the budget should be balanced, but "in periods of depression it is proper for the government to spend more than it takes in."

The subcommittee also came out for repeal of the silver purchase act which requires the treasury to buy newly mined domestic silver at above market prices.

"Douglas said the silver purchase policy is unreasonable, and added: "There are only 16 reasons for the government purchase of silver and those are the 16 senators from the mountain states."

Among major proposals for federal fiscal policies were:

1. All banks which accept demand deposits, including both federal reserve member and non-member banks, should be made subject to the same federal regulations and be given access to federal reserve loans.

2. Congress should repeal any legislation that might be so construed as to permit a change in the price of gold by other than congressional action.

3. A national monetary and credit council should be set up, headed by the chairman of President Truman's council of economic advisers, to help coordinate federal fiscal policies.

NOTE: One notices, when reading a novel, a textbook, or a play, that the author invariably dedicates the manuscript to someone of whom he is very fond.

For instance, we find in Sir Cedric Hsaaphoplon's, "1001 Ways to Make a Million Dollars" — "Dedicated to my two sons, Milford and Barnaby, who, at the ages of 43 and 52, respectively, still depend on their pensioned father for financial support."

OR, IN ROGER Tookie's three act drama, "Psychology for Children — How to Treat Your Parents," we find, "Dedicated to Mr. Eagles, warden of Alcatraz penitentiary, who, for the past 99 years, has been like a mother to me."

THE LACK of heat in my room is exactly the element that threw me into the clutches of a cold. Upon visiting my humble dwellings, several persons have innocently concluded that I commuted daily, from Nome, Alaska.

"Why don't you write a column about it?" inquired Gary.

"Mmm," I managed, meaning "Yes," among other things.

"Must not have any heat in your room," suggested Mr. Sparks.

Pain rushed through my body, for, as all good boys and girls know, it's the truth that hurts. And nothing could be closer to the truth.

But one, very seldom, if ever, notices such a dedication in a newspaper column like this. Evidently, Walter Winchell, Earl Wilson and Harlan Miller don't know anyone of whom they are highly fond.

CALMLY ignoring the danger of breaking a tradition or worse yet, establishing a precedent, it behooves me to dedicate today's short message.

Dedication: To Gary Sparks, an SUI student, I fondly dedicate today's humble offering amidst a warehouse of sentimental cliches.

Mr. Sparks served as an inspiration and his assistance in assembling and selecting the necessary materials was invaluable, constructive and, in the last analysis, priceless.

(I reserve the right to define, to my own personal taste, the words: invaluable, constructive and priceless.)

IT WAS a bleak, frosty January afternoon when I met Gary in one of the campus libraries. He goes to the library once a month, in order to find a quiet place to read Esquire.

I was using a tablecloth for a handkerchief, chewing penicillin tablets, coughing at the rate of twice per second and swallowing

It's Finally Agreed, Harry's Number 33

WASHINGTON (AP) — A five-year dispute finally has reached a conclusion: Harry S. Truman is the 33rd President of the United States.

After considerable soul-searching, the "congressional directory" editors have reversed their field and raised Mr. Truman from No. 32 to No. 33.

The confusion is all on account of Grover Cleveland.

He got himself elected President in 1885, No. 22 in a distinguished line.

At the end of Mr. Cleveland's term, Benjamin Harrison took over, No. 23.

Then back came Cleveland — and confusion. Did Cleveland get back his old presidential jersey, with No. 22 on the back? Or was he entitled to a new outfit, with No. 24?

Franklin D. Roosevelt, who had the job long enough to know, called himself the 32nd President, which meant he counted Cleveland twice.

A legal eagle in the state department agreed. This unnamed authority handed down an opinion in which he made these points:

1. There is no harm in counting Cleveland twice.

2. If you count Cleveland once, you wind up with the Cleveland of 1893 as No. 22 whereas the man just ahead of him, Harrison, had been 23. To the state department, this would be an intolerable situation.

PLANE SETS RECORD

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — A Northwest airlines Boeing stratoscruiser flew non-stop from the Twin Cities to New York Thursday in a record 2 hours 38 minutes, company officials said.

Sandwich Fillings Add Variety To Balanced Luncheon Meals

Plan on popular sandwiches for a well-balanced luncheon at home or one that goes into a school lunchbox. A variety of breads combined with protein-rich fillings, meat or egg fillings, provides a substantial noontime meal.

Complete the luncheon with a bottle of milk and a dish or thermos of hot vegetable or tomato soup. For dessert try delicious peanut butter cookies, jam filled tarts or cake.

Salmon salad sandwiches are a welcome addition to the parade of luncheon specials for they are tasty, economical and easy to prepare. Chopped celery and green pepper add desired crunch and color to the flaked salmon, while salad dressing makes the filling spreadable.

Salmon Salad Sandwiches
1-2 cups flaked salmon
1/4 cup chopped celery
1 tablespoon chopped green pepper
2 tablespoons salad dressing
12 slices bread

Combine salmon, celery and green pepper. Add salad dressing and mix thoroughly. Use as filling for the bread. Makes one and one-half cups filling, enough for six sandwiches.

One of the best-liked cookies for every-occasion service is the peanut butter cookie. Its pleasant flavor goes well with a glass of milk or cocoa, with fruit sauces, and with ice cream, too.

Peanut Butter Cookies
1-2 cups sifted enriched flour
1 teaspoon soda
1-4 teaspoon salt
1-2 cup shortening
1-2 cup peanut butter
1-2 cup brown sugar
1-2 cup white sugar
1 egg, beaten
1-2 teaspoon vanilla extract
Sift together flour, soda and salt. Blend shortening and peanut butter. Add sugar and cream until light and fluffy. Then egg and vanilla extract. Mix well. Add flour mixture to creamed ingredients and mix well. Chill, so that the dough is shaped more readily. Form dough into small balls, the size of marbles. Place on greased cookie sheet about one inch apart. Press crosswise with a fork. Bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees F.) for 12 to 15 minutes. Makes 40 cookies about two inches in diameter.

NOURISHING "ON-A-PLATE" special for the students in the house are these salmon salad sandwiches on white bread, with milk and deviled eggs as nourishing additions. A tasty dessert for this student special is suggested in the form of peanut butter cookies.

Iowa City Auxiliary Lobbies for Postal Employee Benefits

They're the women behind the men who carry the mail, these members of the Ladies Auxiliary of Letter Carriers.

They're the wives, daughters, sisters, aunts and female relatives of letter carriers — they don't like to be called "mailmen" — and their purpose is to help in any manner possible to better conditions of the Letter Carriers of the United States and other employees of the postoffice department.

Three representatives of the local branch of this group participated in WSUI's weekly women's feature, "Club Camera," Thursday morning during which they discussed the work of their organization.

Participants were Mrs. Robert Weeber, president; Mrs. Mila Huffman, charter member and past state president, and Mrs. Edgar Vassar, publicity chairman. Flo Robinson, WSUI women's officer, served as moderator for the program.

26 Members
Organized in 1925, the local branch claims a membership of 26 women, who convene on the second Tuesday of each month at a member's home.

"We carry out our campaigns through letters and telegrams to our state congressmen and representatives," Mrs. Weeber explained. "Each member sends a letter or telegram stating her personal feelings on the bill under consideration. Our largest project last year was helping to pass a salary raise for letter carriers which amounted to a boost of $100 a year," she added.

This year's campaigns include an attempt to secure an additional $100 a year for letter carriers' uniforms; a 26 - day vacation instead of the present 15 days; a 15-day sick leave instead of the present 10; an additional pay raise, and an attempt to pass their veterans' bill which provides that veterans working at the postoffice be given military service credit on their pay grades.

The letter carriers' auxiliary also donates money to charitable causes such as the polio campaign, the heart and cancer fund, the Rev. Edward Flanagan's Boys Town fund, and last summer to the local swimming pool campaign.

Other officers of the organization, installed Tuesday night for the 1950 term, are Mrs. Leo O'Meara, vice-president; Mrs. Ed Ipsen, secretary; Mrs. Bruce Hiseock,

Union Plans Party After Indiana Game

The Iowa Union cafeteria will be converted into a miniature nightclub Saturday for the Union board's first post-ballgame party of the year.

Large enough to accommodate about 30 couples, the "nightspot" will be furnished with colored lights and a dance floor, surrounded by tables.

No reservations or tickets are needed for the open house, which will be held immediately following the Iowa-Indiana basketball game Saturday, Union Board Pres. Bill Tandy, A4, Pella, said Thursday.

Although the cafeteria-nightclub will highlight the party, all Iowa Union facilities will be open to the post-ballgame party-goers, Tandy added.

Other attractions include dancing in the main lounge, movies, community singing, card games and a half-hour student talent show.

Musical dancing in the cafeteria and the main lounge will be supplied by the Iowa Union's collection of pre-war recordings.

"The records were made by famous name bands before the war and many are now collector's items," Party Chairman Mike Trueblood, A3, Sioux Falls, S.D., said.

The Saturday open house will begin at 9:45 p.m. and is the first of four post - ballgame parties scheduled for the Iowa Union this spring. The other three will be held Jan. 21, Feb. 11 and March 4.

Journalism Director To Conduct Program

Prof. Leslie G. Moeller, SUI school of journalism director, has been appointed by the American Council on Education for Journalism as head of the council's program to provide "summer internships" for journalism faculty members.

The program is planned to offer teachers of reporting and editing classes in schools of journalism the opportunity to get further training by working on a newspaper or other publication.

Moeller is contacting editors and publishers to enlist their cooperation in arranging jobs on a "vacation schedule" basis for internship applicants this summer.

Experts Tell How to Rid Linen of Holiday Stains

The holiday scramble is over but the evidence lingers on!

Housewives are resigned to seeing stains on their best linen now that holiday entertaining is over. There's no need to be rueful and disappointed, experts advise. Various methods may be used to remove the telltale spots.

Food stains are simple enough to remove by first soaking the cloth in cool water and then washing it in very hot suds with household bleach added.

Candle wax, lipstick and grease stains on colored napkins and tablecloths need special attention, the spot removers say.

Dull Edge
Use the dull edge of a table knife to scrape away blobs of wax which adhere to the fabric. Then soak the material in cleaning fluid for about ten minutes. This removes the wax.

If the stain from colored wax still remains, try washing in hot water and suds or use an appropriate bleach.

For white linen, cotton, or rayon, use a chlorine bleach, ac-ording to stain removal directions on the label. But for colors that may not be fast to bleaching, use hydrogen peroxide. Make a solution of two tablepoons of hydrogen peroxide to four quarts of water. Soak the stains in this solution for half an hour or longer. Rinse thoroughly.

Lipstick Stains
Lipstick stains may be taken care of with ordinary washing unless the fabric is badly stained. Soaking lipstick spots in cleaning fluid for a few minutes removes the fatty material and usually takes out part of the color. If stains still remain after washing, bleach the cloth as directed for candle wax removal.

Stains from buttery fingers may seem to disappear in the washing only to show themselves again when the napkins are ironed. These stains are prominent on colored napkins and although they may not be seen on white napkins for the first few launderings, eventually they appear as ugly yellow discolorations.

After laundering, soak the napkins in cleaning fluid for 10 minutes. This should remove the stains. When using cleaning fluid, pour only a small amount into a dish or bowl. Use what you need without being wasteful, the experts say.

Tibet Traveler To Show Film Here Sunday

Nicol Smith, an adventurer-photographer, will present his color movie travelogue, "Caravan to Tibet," in Macbride auditorium at 8 p.m. Sunday.

Smith was the last American to leave Tibet with a full pictorial record of the western section of the country. Iowa mountaineers officials, sponsors of the lecture, said.

The Dalai Lama, spiritual and temporal leader of Tibet, closed the border of his country in December, 1947, on the advice of his astrologers.

British officials were able to get permission for Smith to enter the country, meet and photograph high officials and tour western Tibet.

Smith's journey took him to Lhasa, the capital of western Tibet, across dangerous mountain passes and past the famous Matayan glacier, officials said.

He photographed the king and queen of western Tibet in the 15th century palace and later in their 40-room country palace.

On tours, Smith met nomadic tribes of Tibet in their grazing lands and on the steep mountain passes, officials said.

The final sequence in Smith's color film pictures the hidden valley of Hemis, known as the real life "Shangri-La."

Tickets for the travelogue can be purchased at the door. Mountaineer members will be admitted by their membership cards.

Council to Consider Truck Bids Tonight

Sealed bids on the city's proposed purchase of three trucks will be opened at a special council meeting at 5 p.m. today at city hall.

The meeting was scheduled after criticism of the council's decision Dec. 27, to buy three dump trucks from three local firms for street department use.

The council voted to buy the trucks for $6,282 after bids were submitted Dec. 12. The complaints followed on the basis that bids submitted earlier were not considered.

Mayor Preston Koser vetoed the proposed purchase and asked the council to re-advertise for bids. Koser said the exact specifications were not made clear and for that reason, prices could not be compared.

Dean Bruce E. Mahan said Thursday a total of 2,388 titles of all types of audio-visual materials, varying from kindergarten to college and adult training levels, are listed in the catalogue.

The catalogue lists 1,299 different sound film titles, 202 silent film titles, 63 sets of 3 1/4" by 4" slides, 49 sets of 2" by 2" slides, 522 silent film strip titles, 23 sound film strip titles and 300 educational transcriptions and recordings.

Woof of Rich Widows Enters Illinois Prison

JOLIET, ILL. (AP) — Sigmund Engel, the 73-year-old woof of wealthy widows, became number 29157 in an all-male community Thursday.

He was transferred from the Cook county jail to the Illinois state penitentiary here to serve a two to 10 year sentence for swindling red-headed Mrs. Reseda Corrigan of $8,700.

Food Prices Here Level Off

Food prices recorded in The Daily Iowan's Market Basket Index leveled off this week from a slight holiday increase and stood at an even $15.

For a month the prices have been remaining between $14.93 on Dec. 8, and $15.23 last week. This represents the most stable month since last summer.

The survey is based on the basic commodity needs of an average student family of three. The study made at seven Iowa City grocery stores mirrors a similar trend recorded by The Associated Press commodity index.

Seven items fell in price since last week, carrying the index total downward 23 cents. A dozen medium sized oranges fell 6 cents, as did 10 pounds of potatoes. Canned peaches were down 2 cents and Kraft "Velveeta" cheese dropped 4 cents.

Ground beef slipped 2 cents a pound and "Spry" and Ivory flakes fell a penny each.

Although The Associated Press reported that General Foods corporation trimmed the wholesale price of their leading brand of coffee on Wednesday, local merchants said their jobbers had announced another increase effective immediately.

Prices here on a pound of Hill's Brothers coffee were up 4 cents. The Associated Press quoted eastern seaboard trade observers as saying that additional "competitive" price cuts were anticipated.

Other items which increased in prices were salmon, 2 cents; round steak and pork chops, 4 cents each; and "Gold Medal" flour, Quaker Oats, lard and Baker's unsweetened chocolate, all 1 cent.

Median prices compared with a week ago were:

Weed Law Potent, State Official Says

DES MOINES (AP) — The Iowa Weed law has plenty of teeth in it even though it doesn't provide for fines or jail sentences, C.A. Kading, assistant attorney general, said Thursday.

He addressed the statewide weed control conference here.

"The weed law provides for 'economic sanctions'; it provides for hitting violators in their pocketbooks and that's really where it hurts."

Kading addressed his remarks particularly to county weed commissioners and members of the board of supervisors who were present.

He told them that it is mandatory for each board of supervisors to name by March 1 of each year a full-time county weed commissioner.

Kading said that if certain noxious weeds are not destroyed within a time set by the weed commissioner, he can enter the private premises and destroy the weeds.

The actual cost of destruction plus all costs plus a 25 percent penalty can be assessed against the owner of the property.

He said most property owners will conclude that they can take care of the weeds themselves far cheaper than to have the county do it and then tack on a special assessment.

Mrs. Dean was granted custody of two children. She filed suit Nov. 5, charging cruel and inhuman treatment.

Concert Band To Open Season Wednesday

By MURRAY SEEGER

SUI's concert band will open its 69th season with a concert Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the Iowa Union lounge.

For the 13th year, Prof. C.E. Righter will direct the band. His assistant director is Arnold Oehlsen. SUI's band is the oldest musical organization in terms of continuous service on campus. Righter said Thursday. It may be the oldest in the state, he added.

The concert band which will play Wednesday was formed after the football season last fall. Righter divided his football and fall concert bands into the concert and varsity bands.

The varsity band plays for the basketball games.

84 Pieces

The 84 piece band of today is a far cry from the group that organized into the first band in 1881.

The first band was composed of 13 pieces and gave its first concert in March, 1882, for the medical school commencement.

Righter said.

In 1865, a group of students petitioned the board of education for money to buy music and instruments. Permission was granted to form, but the group never got together, Righter said.

The band has had only three paid directors since its inception. It was under student leadership until 1936, Righter said.

First band director was Henry Cox, who directed the band until 1911. Cox now lives in Pella, Righter said. Dr. O.E. Van Doren, Clarinda dentist, directed the band until Righter took over in 1937.

$180 for Year

Righter has figures showing that the band in 1883 spent $180 in the year for instruments, music and salaries for the musicians.

He said he couldn't guess at the band's cost for a year's operation today even with no player salaries.

Two band members will be starting their fourth year with this concert, Righter said.

They are Paul Khoskins, E4, Clarinda, baritone saxophonist who doubles on clarinet, and Delbert Hardy, A4, Missouri Valley, cornetist.

Exam Service Reveals — Penalties for Mismarking

— Machine Scored Tests

By DON ANDERSON

SUI's two electric test scoring machines are not foolproof — but students stand little chance to gain in the coming finals if "stray" marks or bad erasures appear on answer sheets.

All answer sheets are checked by both machines. Any sheet with non-identical machine scores is hand checked. "Stray" marks affect each machine differently and, therefore, record different scores.

Prof. Robert Ebel, director of the university examination service, hopes that the "educational period" for students to adapt themselves to correct marking procedures is over. (The service's first IBM machine was leased in 1948 and the second last year.)

Ebel said recently that a newly prepared instruction sheet, to be attached to each test, gives the penalties for mismarking. They are:

1. If mismarking causes the machines to register differing scores — the lower score will be recorded.

2. If mismarking causes the machines to register more answers than questions — the excess marks will be subtracted from the score.

The machines are operated by passing electricity through the test answer marks made by a graphite pencil. Hundreds of tiny copper bars are pressed against the sheet and a maze of electric circuits are completed through the marks.

Graphite pencils are used to make answer marks because graphite is a conductor of electricity and no current passes through if there is no mark in one of the five answer choices.

A humid day will result in more current going through — and a higher score. Each machine, however, can be hand set to correct for room humidity and

READING THE ANSWER of a test paper electrically scored by one of the university examination service's IBM scoring machines is Mrs. Norma Fisher, a service employee. The service's director, Prof. Robert Ebel, is shown watching the fascinating machine at work. Two machines are leased by SUI and each serves as a check on the other.

Iowa Citian Awarded Judgment for Damages

Clarence Studt, 710 E. Devenport street, was granted a $123.94 judgment in Johnson county district court Thursday against Glenn Schnoebelen, 315 S. Gilbert street.

Studt filed suit Sept. 22 asking $153.65 for damages he claimed resulted from an automobile accident July 2 on an Iowa City street.

Foreign Aid Chief Says Devaluation Rushing Recovery

WASHINGTON (AP) — Britain and other Marshall European Recovery Plan nations took a "long step" toward solving their economic problems by devaluing their currencies last fall, Foreign Aid Chief Paul G. Hoffman reported Thursday.

But he said Marshall Plan nations must keep hammering away at efforts to relax trade barriers, cut production costs, increase output, and channel exports into dollar-market, if they hope to get back on their feet by the time U.S. aid ends in 1952.

Sixth Report

Hoffman surveyed the progress of ERP in a formal report to congress, the sixth submitted by his Economic Cooperation Administration since it began work in April, 1948. The report covered foreign aid operations during July, August and September, 1949.

By last Sept. 30, the report showed, the United States had spent $7,085,700,000 on European recovery. During the quarter covered by the report, the outlay was $1,132,700,000.

The report also covered U.S. economic aid to China and Korea during the July - September period. Although Communist armies had by then already overrun most of mainland China, ECA continued to ship rice, wheat, cotton, oil, fertilizer and coal to the island of Formosa, where the Nationalists have gathered for a last stand.

Hoffman estimated that about $100-million of the $275-million earmarked for 1948 for aid to China will remain unspent by the time the program expires next Feb. 15.

'Improvement'

Hoffman said the "great economic improvement" wrought in western Europe was demonstrated by the way ERP nations reacted to the shock of currency devaluation.

"Western Europe had achieved a higher degree of economic stability than was generally recognized before devaluation. The shock was absorbed without evidence of panic or public disturbance."

Hoffman said devaluation will help western Europe earn badly-needed dollars by making some "greatly overpriced" European exports cheaper in the American market.

But he suggested that ERP nations should back it up by offering special "incentives" to exporters to sell in dollar markets.

The report indicated that western European nations have been far more energetic and successful in raising their production levels than in lowering the barriers to trade among themselves.

Visiting Nurse Group Opens Office Here

The Iowa City Visiting Nurse association has opened an office in the Johnson county court house and is now prepared to offer its services to the community, the Rev. John Craig, the association president, said Thursday.

Registered Nurse Clarice Hickman is now available for home nursing service, he said. She may be contacted by calling 5751.

Although services had not been formally announced, Miss Hickman made 45 home calls last month. The visiting nurse service is a project of an organized group of Iowa City citizens and is partially supported by the community chest.

Trustees Vote to Keep Co-Op Store Open Until Next Week

Trustees of the married students co-op store voted Thursday night to keep the store open the remainder of this week and a "few days" next week, Sid Goldberg, G. Sioux City, said.

Goldberg is one of three stockholders named by the co-op to dispose of assets of the store within 60 days. The store will be three years old Jan. 24.

Customers of the converted limestone skating lodge located near Riverside park still had one unanswered question on their minds Thursday — "How much is my original investment of $25 (price of one share) worth today?"

A conservative estimate of a share's present value is $11.35. This was given at Wednesday night's stockholders' meeting where a motion to dissolve the corporation was passed.

The value may be slightly higher after the corporation's assets are liquidated and the creditors are paid. The co-op's board of directors reached the figure on a conservative estimate of the store's assets.

Cause of Collapse?

What prompted students to sign up for a share in the ill-fated store?

Low prices provided the original impetus. Mrs. Charles R. Harrington, 415 Riverdale village, has been a member of the corporation for 2 1/2 years. Big inducements were bargains and convenient location. She had no car to carry her bundles from town.

But the Harringtons bought a car early this year. She and her husband both have been working in town. At first they would pick up a few items in town and bring them home. Then they found town prices were lower in many cases than those at the co-op.

The result is that Mrs. Harrington finds now she does a considerable amount of shopping in town.

Mrs. William Middlebrook, 105 Finkbine park, joined the co-op in August because she and her husband had been members of a successful co-op at the University of Minnesota the previous June.

Glowing Accounts

Her neighbors gave her glowing accounts of the SUI co-op and she decided to join. Then the discovered co-op prices were high and that some of her neighborhood co-op pluggers had been dealing at local supermarkets.

"When you are living on a low income," she said, "you've got to shop around."

Max Shirk, L2, 201 Finkbine park, who delivers groceries for the co-op, and is also a member, said he believes the need for a co-op is now gone.

"When the co-op first opened," he said, "a seller's market existed (store operator had complete control over prices). Today there is a buyer's market. Supermarkets offer our store heavy competition."

Big reason for the co-op failure is that volume of sales has greatly diminished. Stockholders bought on the average $19.94 worth of groceries in December, about a quarter of a family's monthly food bill, it was brought out at Wednesday's meeting.

When volume dropped in April, 1949, prices were raised in a desperate effort to make up the deficit. The effort failed. About 100 stockholders pulled out over the summer months, drawing $2,500 out of the operating capital, Manager Joan Simpson reported Thursday.

Harry Bridges Perjury Trial Erupts in Fiery Words Again

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Harry Bridges perjury trial erupted in fiery words again Thursday.

Chief Defense Counsel Vincent Hallinan accused the prosecution of "fraud, corruption, deceit and concealment."

Federal Judge George B. Harris again cited the volcanic Hallinan for misconduct.

Demands Mistrial

Then Hallinan demanded a mistrial ruling from the bench on the grounds the judge was "manifestly prejudicial."

Judge Harris denied the motion for mistrial.

The flareup was over a hotel registration card which a government witness, Lew Michener, professed former Communist and now a Long Beach labor union official, signed here Aug. 26, 1940.

Michener and several other government witnesses have testified Bridges once belonged to the Communist party.

Says He Lied

The government accuses Bridges of lying when he swore at his naturalization hearing in 1945 he had never been a member of the Communist party.

Michener had testified he attended a Communist meeting with Bridges here late in 1940.

Hallinan accused the prosecution of trying to keep Michener's hotel card out of evidence so Bridges would have no opportunity to produce an alibi for that date.

Hallinan asked Lawrence Kessler, an immigration agent who had obtained the card if he did not have a "desire unjustly and contrary to the facts to procure a conviction in this case."

F. Joseph Donohue, chief prosecutor, objected.

Hallinan's flareup led to his being cited for misconduct.

Professor - Emeritus Marks 80th Birthday

Prof. Emeritus Edward Bartow, SUI department of chemistry, was 80 years old Thursday. He retired as head of the department of chemistry and chemical engineering 10 years ago.

Bartow, whose specialty is water chemistry, last summer served on the International Union of Pure and Applied Chemistry's conference on international chemical standards in Amsterdam, The Netherlands.

He is given a half-column reference in Who's Who in America and has been assistant editor of Chemical Abstracts, standard reference compilation for American chemists, since 1911.

He is also a past president of the American Chemical society, and has held responsible positions in many other organizations.

Dixie Colleges Stand Together In Struggle Over Sanity Code

'Showdown' Saturday, Says Iowa's Dr. Leib

NEW YORK (AP) — Dixie colleges rose Thursday in a seething rebellion that split the National Collegiate Athletic Association wide open in a fight over the sanity code.

The Southern, Southeastern and Southwest conferences, in a joint indignation meeting, voted unanimously to stand back of four southern institutions threatened with expulsion because of admitted code violations.

One by one, more than 40 college representatives stood up to announce they would vote "nay" Saturday when the convention will be asked to kick out Virginia, Virginia Tech, Virginia Military Institute, The Citadel and possibly others.

Three of the original prospective "black list" have not been identified.

"We must use all our influence to get out the vote for the Virginians," W. L. (Bill) Alexander, athletic director at Georgia Tech, announced at the joint meeting. He presided.

These were other quick-breaking developments of a riotous day with the nation's college athletic chieftains:

1. The Citadel announced it already had quit the NCAA but planned to join in the fight on the floor.
2. Virginia announced, through President Colgate Darden, Jr., it probably would pull out of the NCAA also unless the code is changed — regardless of the expulsion action.
3. A move was started to rip the NCAA of its governing powers

Where Big 10 Teams Play This Saturday

Indiana at IOWA
Michigan at Wisconsin
Northwestern at Ohio State
Purdue at Minnesota

and return to its position to two years ago as merely a schedule-making body.

4. Karl Leib, Iowa commerce professor and president of the NCAA, called Saturday's meeting the "showdown," determining the future of the sanity code and the NCAA.

The fireworks started in the early afternoon when all seven violators were given the privilege of presenting their cases before a joint meeting of the NCAA's executive committee, council and compliance committee.

Offers Code

Virginia's Darden, a former governor of his state, came to the meeting armed with a statement proposing an "honest and workable" code offering above-board athletic scholarships, rigidly administered by the university.

The present code, adopted two years ago, restricts grants in aid to the needy and those of high scholarship and stipulates athletes must work for board and keep.

When Darden entered the room of the NCAA's policing and governing groups he prepared to make his lengthy statement.

"We are supposed to probe into compliance and opportunities of compliance and have no jurisdiction over recommended changes," the Virginia president was told by Dr. Leib, the presiding officer.

"I suppose I was in there less than a minute," the educator stated later.

Minors Vote to Keep Baseball Bonus Rule

COLUMBUS, OHIO (AP) — Rebuffing the majors as they have done so often in the past, the 59 minor leagues have voted once again to keep baseball's much-blasted bonus player rule in force, it was revealed Thursday.

Although there was no official announcement from the headquarters of the National Association of Minor Leagues here, it was learned that the club owners stood by their original decision which was made at their annual meetings in Baltimore last month.

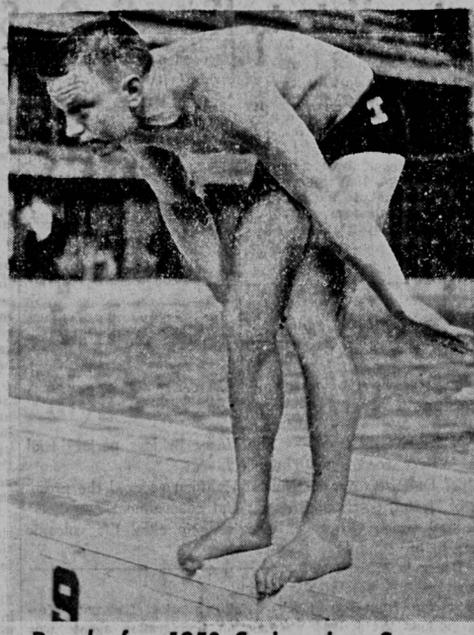

Because the majors voted to repeal the rule as Commissioner A.B. Chandler cast the deciding vote the minors were asked to take a new ballot by mail but the results were essentially the same. They showed a slight number of leagues in favor of wiping out the rule but failed to muster the three-fourths majority necessary for repeal.

In Cincinnati, Chandler after learning the minors had voted to keep the rule said "it will be enforced by my office until such time as both the major and minor leagues agree to eliminate it."

U-High Home Tonight Against West Liberty

University high's Blue Hawks will attempt to break their seven game losing streak tonight when they entertain West Liberty in a return Eastern Iowa Hawkeye conference match.

Reserve teams of the two schools will clash in a preliminary contest beginning at 7 o'clock, with the varsity tilt scheduled for 8:15.

Ready for 1950 Swimming Season

DUANE DRAVES, Iowa swimming team captain, will lead his team in the first competition of the year at Madison, Wis., Saturday afternoon. Draves is a three-letter winner who swam the backstroke on Iowa's 300-yard medley relay team which swept first place in the NCAA, Big Ten and National AAU outdoor meets last year. He's twice been named to all-American swimming teams.

Tankers at Madison Saturday

Seventeen Iowa swimmers are scheduled to leave for Madison, Wis., Saturday morning, where they will meet Wisconsin's tankmen in a Western conference meet.

The Hawks will be out to stretch the 19-5 dual meet margin over the Badgers. Iowa has won 19 of the last 20 meets with Wisconsin, with the last Badger victory coming in 1944. Wisconsin began its Big Ten schedule last Saturday by losing at home to Purdue, 53-31.

CUBS BUY NEWARK

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Cubs, looking for another minor league spot for polishing prospects, announced Thursday that they have bought the franchise of the Newark, N.J., International league club and will move it to Springfield, Mass.

The 'Graying Effect' of Big Ten Basketball

Branch McCracken's Indiana basketball team lost a ball game to Michigan last Monday night in a manner which usually causes a mail uproar among the faithful, not to mention the poor weather-beaten coaches.

But such was not the case. McCracken quietly told his hometown newspaper, after getting back to Bloomington, that in his opinion the timer at Ann Arbor had stopped the clock when he shouldn't have. Then in two seconds (also open to question) a Michigan player took the ball out of bounds, passed to a teammate who took a shot, missed, but was saved by a tip-in by another Wolverine. All that in two seconds.

As the tip-in slid through the buzzer sounded, 8,000 onlookers went wild and Michigan had its second Big Ten victory, this one over a team some people have picked for the championship. The score was 69-67. A few days before the Wolverines clipped our Hawks, 66-46.

Jack Spencer, assistant coach at Iowa and a standout performer during the Murray Wier era, saw the Michigan-Indiana fray. He agrees with McCracken.

"The clock only stops if the referee signals for it to stop," Jack said Thursday. "He didn't signal. I looked up and saw the clock stopped with two seconds left and figured it to be a sure overtime game. Then three guys handled the ball and Michigan won, it was a raw deal and a hard one for Indiana to take."

McCracken could have thrown a fit right on the spot, but he didn't. He isn't even going to register an official protest. We think it was, and is, a real show of sportsmanship. You might say he now has "legal" gray hair, if there's any left.

It's getting so college students aren't even safe from written tests during team practice sessions. Anyway, the Iowa freshman basketball squad walked right into an hour test the other day.

The test was administered by a gentleman from Grinnell who said he has been giving such tests for a long time. He claimed they help a coach find good material. One part of the test was for perception, another set up play situations on an imaginary court, like, with two seconds left and your team trailing by 35 points, what do you do?

Some of the situations were much more involved than that one.

Hawks, High-Scoring Indiana Clash Saturday

Iowa and Indiana, each with a loss to Michigan within the last week, meet in the fieldhouse Saturday night in the first home Big Ten game of the season for the Hawkeyes.

Up until they lost by two points in the final second at Ann Arbor Monday night, the Hoosiers had won 10 straight games. The Hawks had a mark of eight victories and one loss before losing the conference opener.

Hope for an Iowa win rests upon the return to normal shooting form. The team had a .329

St. Pat's Wins, 42-38, Over Catholic Central

Although they trailed less than two minutes to be played, the Shamrocks of St. Patrick's struck back here Thursday night to defeat Catholic Central of Ottumwa, 42-38.

The visitors led to begin the final quarter, 36-34, but fell victim to a push shot by Alvin Streb with a minute remaining, then two free throws while the two-minute rule was in effect assured the victory.

St. Pat's upset Catholic Central at Ottumwa earlier this season by one point and appeared to be headed for defeat Thursday night until Streb's one-hander shot the Shamrocks into a one-point lead.

Ward 1, precinct 2 — Mrs. Leonard Nagle, 714 McLean street.

Ward 3 — Mrs. Clark Tanberg, 25 N. Johnson street.

Ward 5, precinct 2 — Mrs. Ray Anderson, 519 Oakland avenue.

In charge of organizing the petition circulation were Mrs. Harold Decholdt, 148 Riverside park, and Robert G. Stevenson, 1305 Yeager street, of the Council-Manager association.

In addition to securing signatures on petitions calling for the special election, circulators will also distribute information material, and answer voters' questions on the new form of government.

Court Delays Ruling On Cigarette Prices

CEDAR RAPIDS (AP) — District court officials said Thursday a new turn in the cigarette price case means that a ruling cannot be expected until Jan. 23 or possibly Feb. 1.

The May Drug company of Cedar Rapids filed a third amendment to its petition to have the court declare unconstitutional a 1949 legislative act. It regulates the price of cigarettes.

The act provides that cigarettes cannot be sold below a certain wholesale and retail price percentage markup. The objective of sponsors of the act was to prevent price-cutting below cost.

The defendant state tax commission had filed its final brief and the May company had been given until Saturday to make its final reply.

Judge G.K. Thompson Thursday permitted the company the third amendment. The commission was given until Jan. 20 to file its answer.

The amendment merely makes more specific the drug company's contention that under the Iowa constitution the legislature cannot fix the prices of cigarettes.

The case was argued before Judge Thompson recently.

Rural School Pupils To Take SUI Tests

About 1,200 rural school children of Johnson county next week will begin a battery of tests prepared by the SUI basic skills testing program, under the direction of Prof. Albert N. Hieronymus of the college of education.

Frank J. Snider, Johnson county superintendent of schools, said Thursday an all-county teachers' meeting would be held at 9 a.m. Saturday in the courthouse where directions for the tests will be discussed.

Olive Pearl Ritter, 314 E. Clinton street, elementary education lecturer, will speak to the group on pre-first grade reading.

Tests will be given to pupils in the third through eighth grades, to give teachers an idea of the educational accomplishments and abilities of their students.

Findings will be used to help teachers adapt instruction and guidance to pupils' needs and interests.

Top Japanese Red May Become 'Tito'

TOKYO (AP) — The Japanese Communist party Thursday officially set its top strategist, Sanzo Nozaka, on the way to becoming the Orient's first "Tito."

There were too many unanswered questions to determine immediately whether the move was genuine or an elaborate plant — but on paper it looked convincing.

The Cominform, dominating organization of international Communism, last week attacked Nozaka as a tool of the "imperialist occupiers" of Japan. Pravda, official Communist paper in Moscow, echoed the accusations.

The Japanese Communist party Thursday cracked back. The party's political bureau said the Cominform conclusions were "unacceptable to the popular masses and that Comrad Nozaka enjoys the confidence of the masses as the boldest patriot of the people."

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

A PUBLICATION called the Wolf Magazine of Letters specializes in reproducing unusual missives of every description. The following, sent by a postmaster in a remote Kentucky hamlet, a customer of the U.S. mails in Dover, Delaware, was more usual than most:

Dear Sir: The next time you send toads thru this post office please see that they are not wrapped securely, but carry sufficient postage to cover possible additions to the merchandise in transit.

I don't know how many of the darned things you mailed originally, but when the package burst this morning there were fifteen. Our Mr. Denny, who spent the day catching flies for them, has developed warts.

If you ever tried to run a cancellation machine, you will realize the difficulty we had trying to stamp your toads. Every time we tried to cancel one, he jumped into the money order department. This place sounded more like a mill pond than a post office.

Please remit 28 cents postage due, and you'd better add 10 cents for a bottle of wart-remover for our Mr. Denny. I won't charge you a cent for handling because I'm going to try one of the toads for fishing this Saturday. Respectfully

Thief Gets Money From Dormitory

Two cases of theft were reported to police Thursday.

Chase Stephens, G. Gordon Ark. a resident of Hillcrest Cottage taining $8 at 3 a.m. Thursday, N55, was robbed of a billfold containing $5.

George Bluestone, G. New York resident of a cottage nearby, told police he chased the thief but failed to catch him. The thief was described as fairly heavy wearing a leather jacket.

In another theft report, Howard Summit, route 2, told police Thursday morning the ignition keys had been stolen from his car.

JUMPS OFF BRIDGE

ST. PAUL (AP) — Police reported that an unidentified man jumped off a Mississippi river bridge here Thursday afternoon and plunged through the river's surface late Thursday. The body was not recovered.

fair. He admitted he had been through a "nerve shattering experience" that also cost him his job at the United Nations.

Hachem was engaged to 16-year-old Narriman Sadek and planned to marry her in December. There were reports that recently divorced Farouk saw her and was so smitten by her beauty that he decided to wed her himself.

Two Persons Fined For Traffic Violations

Two persons were fined a total of $155 in police court Thursday. Bob Stout, Lisbon, was fined $102.50 for driving without an operator's license. Stout's license had been revoked on a previous charge, police said, which was the reason for the heavy fine. He also was fined $27.50 for driving on the wrong side of the street.

Carl E. Sweeting, 417 E. Daventport street, was fined $25 for speeding.

The police docket for Wednesday showed 41 persons paid $82 for parking and meter violations. One charge was dismissed.

Relief Drive Funds Below County Goal

By Dec. 31 Johnson county had reached 47 percent of its goal for the overseas relief program, according to figures released by the state office of the Christian Rural Overseas program.

The Johnson county goal set by CROP, a program sponsored by an interdenominational group, was six cars of food valued at $1,800 each.

The deadline for cash credit for 1949 is Jan. 31, state officials said.

The state's record shows 42 percent of its 45-car goal. Five counties have gone over 100 percent, officials said.

Recorder's Report

The largest single item among fees collected by the Johnson county recorder's office last year was chattel mortgage fees, which amounted to $1,690.75, according to the annual report of Recorder R.J. (Dick) Jones.

Next in line were real estate mortgage fees at $1,143.90, followed by "other office fees" at $1,123.70. Recording deeds brought $812.10; releases, $347.95, and dangerous weapon permits and revocations, $2.

The total fees listed in the annual report were $5,110.40. Of this, $1,225.55 was collected during the months of October, November and December, the recorder's quarterly report indicated.

Chattel mortgage fees brought $460.75; real estate mortgages, $295.20; other office fees, $214.35; recording deeds, $178.90, and releases, $76.35, the quarterly report showed.

Mary Martin's Hat to Be Sold at Bargain Ball

Today is Friday the 13th, and it's plenty unlucky for Mary Martin, star of the musical "South Pacific," — she's going to lose her hat.

A Panama straw hat belonging to her will be auctioned off at the Bargain Ball tonight in the Iowa Union from 8 p.m. to midnight.

Also to be sold at the dance will be an autographed picture of Frank Leahy, Notre Dame football coach.

Head auctioneer at the "hard-times" party will be "Snowball" Cole of Orion, Ill. Cole's nickname dates back to a snowy, winter day in 1938, when companions decided to call their "kinda round" friend "Snowball" instead of "Butterball."

A graduate of Ruppert's Auction school in Decatur, Ind., Cole participated in school talent shows and musical comedies. A versatile entertainer, "Snowball" also does imitating.

Appearing at a college won't be new to the auctioneer, since he is a graduate of Monmouth college, Monmouth, Ill.

During the intermission of tonight's very informal "hard-times" dance, "Snowball" will auction off items belonging to other famous personalities, and to persons at SUI. "Snowball's" repertoire includes a clever imitation of a Model T starting.

In charge of collecting items for the auction are Francine Appleman, A2, Elmhurst, Ill., and Helen Hays, A2, Iowa City.

At the Bargain Ball a short skirt, or a patched pair of trousers will be in style, since the costumes might even have been picked up at a rummage sale. Skippy Anderson's band will be heard in the main lounge, and Leo Cortimiglia's combo in the River room. Cortimiglia will also be a "roving troubadour" with his accordion during rest periods.

Gas Explosion Kills 2 Mothers, 3 Children

VINCENNES, IND. (AP) — A gas explosion shattered a two-family housing project unit here Thursday, killing five persons.

Two mothers and their three children perished when the house, made of concrete blocks, fell into the basement after the blast. At first it was feared that a fourth child also had been buried but authorities said a search of the ruins showed only three children.

Dead were Mrs. Wanda Cooper, 23, and her two children, Charles, 5, and Barbara, 3; Mrs. Rose Overfelt, 21, and her daughter, Vickie, June, 18 months.

Mrs. Cooper was the mother of two children and not three as had been reported earlier, officials said.

Federal housing authority officials and Knox County Coroner Paul Strate were to start an investigation today.

The explosion in the Bowman terrace development project ripped the one unit to bits and shattered sections of walls in three other units. Debris was thrown more than a block and plunged down through roofs, injuring one invalid slightly.
