Nehru's India Leans to West, Hancher States

SUI's President Virgil M. Hancher said Saturday that India is far less concerned with communism than the United States even though India is separated from the Soviet Union only by a range of mountains.

The president made the assertion in his first public statement since his return Thursday from the Indian-American Relations conference in Delhi, which he attended as a delegate of the Association of American Universities.

He said he thought the Indians were unsympathetic toward the regimentation that communism relies upon.

They might, however, resort to Russian industrial and agricultural techniques, he said, in attempts to improve their standard of living.

Believe in State Planning

The Indians have a tendency to believe in state intervention and planning, he continued, not from a Socialist or Communist standpoint, but because they see matters are getting out of hand.

They know that someone has to decide where their resources will be expended. The president and Mrs. Hancher met and lunched with Indian Prime Minister Nehru. He described the Indian leader as being a "very gracious" and "very cultivated" person.

"The spirit of Gandhi still rules India," the president said, and Nehru's influence and strength is augmented by the fact that he was a friend and disciple of the late Indian leader.

"It is also apparent that Nehru has been tremendously influenced, himself, by Gandhi."

British Influence to Gain
President Hancher predicted that during the next 25 years the British will have greater influence in India than they had during the last quarter-century, in spite of England's political withdrawal.

He explained this paradox by saying the Indians no longer fear Britain as an imperialist power. They know the British, he said, but they do not know the Americans and Russians.

President Hancher said that the conference he attended, sponsored by the American Institute of Pacific Relations, was merely a discussion group.

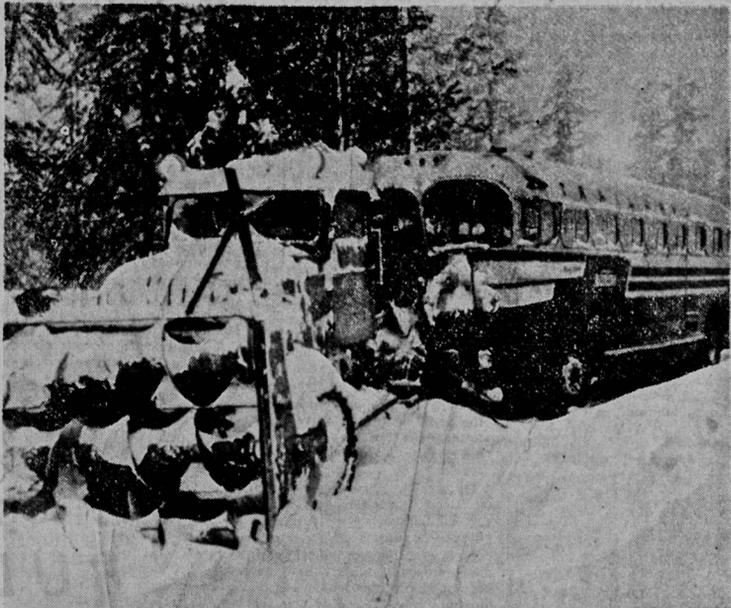

They discussed problems of interest to both countries, he said, and added that the conference was one of "just plain public spirit and public interest."

The major areas of discussion, he said, were those of political, economic and social questions.

The president will lecture on his trip to India Jan. 22 at 8 p.m. in the Iowa Union. The lecture will be free and open to the public.

Byrnes Candidate in South Carolina Race for Governor

SPARTANBURG, S.C. (AP) — Former Secretary of State James Byrnes announced Saturday he will be a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor of South Carolina this year.

Byrnes, once known as "assistant president" to the late Franklin Roosevelt, has served in both houses of congress.

His statement said: "When I left the service of the national government in 1947 I fully intended not to return to actual participation in political affairs. I adhered to this intention until last spring when the trend of political events caused me to express my views of policies affecting the state and nation."

"During the last six months I have been urged by many people in all walks of life in the state to be a candidate for governor. The people of this state have been good to me, and I have decided to be a candidate, in the hope, if elected, I can be of service to them."

Simultaneously, Byrnes repeated a previous assertion that he would not be a candidate "for president or vice president on the ticket of any party under any circumstances."

The primary will be held July 11.

Byrnes is the fourth announced candidate seeking the Democratic nomination, which is equivalent to election in South Carolina. The others are Thomas Pope, speaker of the state house of representatives, Lester Bates, Columbia City councilman, and Marcus Stone, a lumberman.

MAHANOHY CITY, PA. (AP)

One of two brothers trapped in a mine cave-in talked with weary rescuers early Saturday night and gave instructions as to how to find him.

John Becker, a veteran miner and member of the rescue party, said he heard the voice of Joseph Burda, 30, a miner entombed by a collapse of earth Friday. No word has been heard of Burda's brother, Edward, 25, who was caught in the cave-in.

After Becker relayed the information from Joseph, rescuers feverishly renewed their efforts. Earlier they had heard three dynamite blasts underground.

"There's no doubt about it," exclaimed one jubilant rescue worker. "Somebody's trying to blast his way out."

State Mine Inspector John Morgan of Frackville, Pa., estimated the brothers were trapped about 120 feet underground. At first he expressed doubt they could reach them in less than several days.

But a bulldozer made the job much faster. Morgan said he thought the men — or one, if only one escaped — had scrambled into a passageway only about 40 feet underground.

A third brother escaped the cave-in. Kasimir Burda, 32, was caught in the rush of earth, but managed to leap free, jumping clear out of his boots. Despite minor injuries he helped with rescue work.

Two other brothers, Frank and John, also helped the rescue workers claw through the rain-sogged earth in an attempt to reach the trapped men.

Boosters for Change of City Government To Meet Monday

Meetings will be held Monday at the Community center for the 200 to 300 persons who will circulate petitions Jan. 24 calling for the council-manager form of city government here.

Atty. Clair Hamilton, chairman of the local Council-Manager association, said Monday's meetings will be at 9:30 a.m., 1:30 p.m. and 8:00 p.m. in the center's main ballroom. Persons who will carry petitions are asked to attend any one of the three sessions.

At the meetings, petition circulators will be given kits containing information on the proposed form of government, a list of registered voters in Iowa City and a pamphlet to be given to voters.

The program at each meeting will include: 1. Distribution of kits. 2. Discussion of contents of kits. 3. A skit demonstrating how to present a petition. 4. A question and answer period.

Committee Members

The committee in charge of arrangements includes Mrs. Allyn Lemme, 603 S. Capitol street; Mrs. E. L. DeGowin, 1203 Friendly avenue; Elizabeth Halsey, 915 Roosevelt street; Hamilton, 422 N. Clinton street; Atty. Dan Dutcher, 620 S. Summit street, and R. P. (Pat) White, 618 Ronalds street.

Monday's meetings are open to the public, Hamilton said. Materials will be furnished at this time only to persons who will circulate petitions. The materials will be available to the public after Jan. 24 when circulation will begin.

The training program is to acquaint the petition circulators with the proposal to be placed before Iowa Citizens.

The change is proposed by the Council-Manager association which consists of persons belonging to both major political parties.

Present Form
Under the present form of government, Iowa City has a mayor and seven councilmen, two elected at-large, and five elected from the five wards in the city. Candidates are presented by political parties. The eight officers make the laws and have responsibility for administration.

Under the proposed council-manager plan, Iowa City would have a council composed of three or five aldermen, depending on the 1950 census and elected at large on a non-partisan ticket.

The council would make the laws but would appoint a full-time city manager trained in administration to handle the day-by-day affairs of the city.

Liberal Arts Adopts Policy On Cheating

SUI's liberal arts faculty Friday adopted a written policy on "cheating and plagiarism", which was added to the college's code of rules and regulations.

Dean Dewey B. Stuit, college of liberal arts, explained that the policy is not new, but has been put into writing to add to its emphasis.

The added regulation specifies that disciplinary probation, suspension from the college or recommendation for expulsion from the university may be imposed by the dean as the penalty for cheating.

Disciplinary probation may include loss of privileges in the university, Stuit said.

Permanent Record
A permanent record of disciplinary cases will be kept in the dean's office, although a record of offenses has not been kept before, he added.

The dean may direct also that the penalty imposed be recorded on the student's transcript of college courses, or he may refer cases to the university discipline committee for action.

Further penalties include reducing of offender's grades by instructors or a failure for the course.

Proper orientation, with emphasis on the development of the individual rather than a strict policing system, would be the most effective method of combating cheating, Stuit said.

Guidance and counseling should eliminate those unfit for college work and should devise the best program to meet the capacity of each student, he added.

Proper Conditions
Giving examinations under the proper physical conditions, such as alternate seating in class rooms, and making the exams measures of reasoning rather than recitals of facts, were listed by the dean as actions to forestall cheating.

"I agree with the principle of the 'honor system' used in many of the smaller schools," Stuit said, "but it demands pride and tradition."

Under the "honor system," students sign pledges against cheating and report branches to a student organization which imposes the penalty, described by Stuit as usually being more severe than faculty action.

Other Action
Other action taken by the faculty Friday included changes in the code regarding acceptance of armed forces credits and credits earned in non-accredited institutions.

No credit will be accepted for work performed in the armed forces by those who entered service after July 25, 1947. College level courses completed through the Armed Forces institute, however, will be accepted.

Credit earned at non-accredited institutions will be accepted if the student maintains an average of 2.0 on all work attempted at SUI.

This replaces the section of the code which states that students will maintain a "satisfactory average." This included grade points of 1.5 for freshmen, 1.6 for sophomores, 1.7 for juniors and 1.8 thereafter.

Dubuque Mother Finds Son, 14, Dead in Closet

DUBUQUE (AP) — The body of a 14-year-old boy was found hanging in a closet of his home here Saturday. Coroner Norbert Behr said the death was "an apparent accident." The boy was Melvin Jones, son of Mr. and Mrs. Burtle Jones.

Coroner Behr said Mrs. Jones found the body when she returned home. The coroner said the boy apparently had been experimenting with something he had read or seen in the movies.

Rescued Mental Patient Denies Knowing of Fire

DAVENPORT (AP) — Scott County Attorney Clark O. Filseth said officers Saturday questioned Mrs. Amy Rivers, who was rescued from the burning hospital mental ward here a week ago, and she denied she knew anything about the origin of the fire.

Filseth said officers were assigned to question the East Moline woman after she was reported to have said: "A girl out at the hospital started the fire with a cigarette lighter."

Chinese Communists Seize U.S. Consulate

WASHINGTON (AP) — In contempt of American protests, the Chinese Communists Saturday swarmed in and took over the United States consulate office in Peiping.

American patience snapped. The state department immediately ordered all its official personnel out of Red China. It reportedly acted with President Truman's direct approval.

It blasted the Communists' latest anti-American move as "a flagrant violation of our treaty rights and of the most elementary standards of international usage and conduct."

Denounce Seizure

Angry U.S. lawmakers denounced the invasion and seizure of American property in the strongest terms. Republicans redoubled their criticism of the administration's handling of far eastern affairs. Several said this latest insult should rule out all possibility of U.S. recognition of the Chinese Communist regime.

Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn) declared bluntly: "We should classify the Chinese Communists as outlaws and cease to do business with them."

Sen. William Knowland (R-Calif), riled for months by the state department's handling of the tense far eastern situation, demanded the resignation of all administration officials responsible for American policy there.

He said he was thinking principally of W. Walton Butterworth, assistant secretary of state for far eastern affairs. Knowland added, however: "If the policies of the far eastern division are approved by Secretary of State Dean Acheson, the shoe fits him, too."

Lengthy Announcement
The state department broke the news of the Peiping consulate seizure in a lengthy announcement, documented with copies of protests filed in advance with Chinese Communist generals.

The United States is recalling 135 American foreign service officers and their dependents. Of those, 36 are in Peiping, where Consul General O. Edmund Clubb has been in charge.

The actual invasion and seizure of the premises of the American consulate general was effected by Chinese Communist police and four civilian officials, the state department said, at 7:50 p.m. Friday.

The department said the seizure was carried out quietly and without violence. None of the Americans had been arrested; all were said to be safe.

Hickenlooper Says 'Out of Squabbles'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator Bourke Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) said Saturday he wants to keep out of squabbles among Iowa Republican party members.

"I'm trying to attend solely to my own business," he told a reporter.

He had little comment on a report that Don Berry, Indiana editor, had said that Hickenlooper would have primary election opposition unless he split with Harrison Spangler, national Republican committeeman from Iowa, and Guy Gabrielson, national Republican chairman.

21 Die as Quake, Gales, Blizzards Lash Nation

By UNITED PRESS

Blizzards, gales, cold waves and floods lashed much of the nation Saturday and an earthquake shook Eureka, Calif. At least 21 deaths were attributed to the weather.

One of the worst blizzards in 50 years hit the Pacific northwest. Ten persons died and five were missing. Portland, Seattle, Tacoma and Spokane were virtually isolated. Communications and traffic were disrupted in Oregon, Washington, Idaho, Northern California, Western Nevada. Five persons were killed and at least 25 injured when two buses crashed on an icy Michigan road during a snowstorm. Heavy snows fell in Northern Wisconsin and Michigan. Another blizzard left eastern North Dakota and Western Minnesota blanketed with snow.

An estimated 5,000 persons were homeless in Illinois. The Ohio river surged over its banks for 200 miles. At Shawneetown, Ill., the Ohio pounded a weakened levee and residents began to flee. National guard troops arrived at Shawneetown. The Washash river flood threat abated above Vincennes, Ind., but work on the Vincennes levee continued as the crest approached.

Exact figures are not available but at least nine locals representing more than 11,000 bituminous diggers balked at their union leader's order to end a week-old strike.

"Five days or nothing," their spokesmen angrily declared.

For the operators and a coal-starved public there is little satisfaction in the miners' move.

The nation's soft coal supply is dangerously low because of a series of strikes last year and the 3-day-work week instituted by Lewis in December.

The supply of coal in some Iowa cities is considered to be adequate for only a week to 15 days. The current cold weather is causing householders to dig deeper into their coal piles.

Iowa City and Cedar Rapids dealers said they had been able to meet demands. E.M. Soboda, president of the Retail Coal Dealers association at Cedar Rapids, said if a critical period developed it probably would be about Jan. 25.

Dealers in many Iowa communities have been limiting deliveries to domestic customers to one ton.

Cold Winds Here...

January's changeable weather continued its unpredictable course Saturday as cold winds blew into Iowa City, plunging the mercury to an early morning low of 7 degrees.

The winds, which reached 55 miles an hour, scattered windows and tossed a few scattered snowflakes about, but no mentionable damage was reported here. The winds came on top of an all-day rain Friday and a sunny Thursday, giving Iowa Citizens a taste of something different in each of the past three days.

Today's surprise is expected to come in the form of clear cold weather in the morning, changing to cloudy in the afternoon with a high of 40 degrees forecast. Light rain is forecast for tonight.

Demos to Head Off House Rule Change

WASHINGTON (AP) — Administration Democrats rallied Saturday to head off a developing drive by Republicans and southern Democrats to gain power to block President Truman's Fair Deal measures.

A strategy meeting of administration Democrats was called for Monday morning by Rep. Herman Eberharter (D-Pa) to combat a Dixie-GOP move to restore to the rules committee its former throttle over legislation.

Last year's change permits chairmen of legislative committees to by-pass the rules committee if it fails to clear bills within 21 days.

Democratic leaders of the house, caught by surprise by the coalition maneuver to junk this rule, were obviously concerned. The action came in the rules committee where a 9 to 2 majority decided to ask the house to make the switch. Republicans and southerners voted together.

If the house agrees, the change would imperil much of President Truman's "Fair Deal" program by putting effective control over legislation at the mercy of southerners and Republicans when they choose to form a majority on the rules committee. Southern Democrats bitterly oppose his civil rights bills and Republicans have criticized his fiscal and welfare policies.

Co-op Failure Laid to Altered Vet Beliefs

By BILL HOLLANDER

When the spirit of cooperation brought on by the returning veterans' resentment against exploitation by society failed, the married students' co-op store was bound to go down with it.

This was the opinion expressed Saturday by Prof. Hew Roberts of the college of education. Roberts had been a faculty adviser to the co-op's board of directors and had aided them extensively in their dealings with the administration.

Roberts, a veteran RAF fighter pilot and later an American air force intelligence officer in the Pacific theater, said veterans who returned at war's end felt the civilians didn't sufficiently appreciate their efforts.

Campus Consequences
"The consequence of this on the SUI campus," he said, "was the formation of the co-op store by a group of Hawkeye village veterans in late 1946."

"Their original object was to slash prices which they felt were being unjustly charged by local merchants."

The store was successful in 1947, with sales jumping from $3,000 monthly to $6,500 within the year's span. At the end of 1948, monthly sales hit $9,000.

Peak sales for the store, located in a converted limestone skating lodge just south of Riverside park, were reached in the first three months of 1949. Monthly average during that period soared to $9,943.

$3,000 Deficit

Then came a slump which resulted in a deficit of $3,240.02 by year's end. A stockholder's meeting held Wednesday resulted in a decision to close the store. Trustees, elected at that meeting decided to close the co-op's doors for good sometime this week.

Monthly purchases per family, at the end of the year dropped to a $20 average.

"Interest in the co-op lagged for several reasons," Roberts explained. "One was that the feeling of resentment against civilians no longer existed. The veteran was not a veteran, but a civilian."

No K-Rations
"No longer was he fresh from a table stacked with unpalatable K-rations, a jungle rifle with mosquitoes and bitter complaints against civilians who were enjoying the fruits of his suffering."

"Overseas combat units," he said, "were compact groups of men who realized they had mutual interests. Their feeling of cohesiveness was reflected in postwar ventures."

There were other reasons for the store's failure, Roberts indicated. One was that the co-op stopped paying dividends after the first year, reckoning they could serve a better purpose by making up the dividend price by cutting prices on their merchandise.

"This was probably a mistake," he said, "since the psychological effect of a dividend check makes a person feel more the part of a stockholder than a price slash would."

Other reasons were the lack of professional management, and the return of the automobile to local show windows — allowing students and their wives to "shop around."

Student Interest Wanes
"The whole business of the co-op folding seems to me a further confirmation of the lack of student interest in running their own affairs."

"The student at SUI is an individual and also used to being looked after by professional people paid to do that job," he said.

"He is probably more nurtured than in other areas. The consequence of this is an indifference to effective organizations."

BY GIL PEARLMAN
ONCE in a while I travel across the mighty river to eat at a popular dormitory cafeteria.

The other day, however, I received additional food. It was food for thought, which is much harder for me to digest than roast beef, green beans and apple pie.

I WAS making the normal pilgrimage along the counter of delicacies when I heard a lady in white, behind the counter, say to a student who was serving mashed potatoes...

"You've got to stop serving such big helpings of potatoes, young man. We're supposed to get 26 scoops to the pan and you're getting only 23!"

THE POTATO - server, I call him that in want of a better title, evidently instantly agreed with his superior, because he began scraping the scoop on the sides of the pan and served a that resembled a medium sized portion of potatoes that resembled a Fanny Farmer assortment.

I thought about the lady's argument all through my meal, eating the potatoes in very small bites and feeling very guilty when I remembered that on previous occasions I had sometimes consumed as much as two scoops of that same starched luxury.

IT WAS not until I returned home that I checked the validity of her logic. She certainly must have been sincere when she said it was not the monetary value involved.

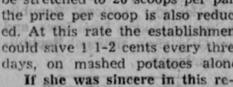

The best quality of potatoes sell for 60 cents per 10 pounds, making them 6 cents a pound. These mathematics check with Einstein's theory of relativity.

FIVE SCOOPS, of the 23 scoops per pan variety, can be obtained from one pound. For one of these 23 scoops, then, the cost is 1.2 cents. If, however, the figure can be stretched to 26 scoops per pan, the price per scoop is also reduced. At this rate the establishment could save 1-2 cents every three days, on mashed potatoes alone.

It she was sincere in this respect, she must have been equally sincere in stating that the real factor involved in her reprimanding the server was the fattening process, for here her argumentative forces held water... if nothing else!

KEEPING the previously quoted figures in mind, we find that approximately 90 calories are contained in one scoop of mashed potatoes.

Cutting down from 26 scoops to 23 on the pan scoops would give the 23 recipients of the enlarged portions just about 12 extra calories everytime they ate supper. This is also true if they eat mashed potatoes for lunch.

AT 12 EXTRA calories per day, assuming these same consumers have normal metabolism rates and healthy stomachs, it would take them close to six years to add a pound of excess fat to their skinny frames.

So you see, it pays to dine at establishments where your physical well-being is the chief concern.

Throngs Gathered at Old Capitol in 1865 as - Campus Mourned a Death

By BILL HOLLANDER
The windows of the east front of Old Capitol were draped in black. University officials massed on the steps and portico, facing the students, veterans, bandsmen and other assembled Iowa Citizens.

The Civil War was over. The students and townspeople packed the wagon wheel rutted campus to mourn the passing of the leader of the North, Abraham Lincoln.

A crude rail fence, recently erected, kept traffic and livestock from entering the campus. This was SUI at war's end, described by Prof. H. J. Thornton, history department, in "The State University of Iowa and the Civil War," appearing in the current issue of the Annals of Iowa.

REVIEWING the war as it affected SUI of 85 years ago, Prof. Thornton quotes the college newspaper, The Daily Reporter, in a flow of patriotic ardor reacting to the firing on Fort Sumter:

"From every store and shop, from every bank and school, from every hamlet and hearthstone, from fane and ancient capitol dome, is heard the rustling minstrelsy of the flag of the stars.

"A thousand banners all the city over salute the early morn, and evening's twilight comes, the murkiness dispelled and irradiated by the gleam of a thousand thousand stars. Hail the glorious emblem of the free!"

Contemporary accounts told of war meetings held daily in the chapel, located in Old Capitol. Company D was formed by two SUI professors, made up of volunteers from SUI, Cornell and Western colleges. This was in early 1864.

AN IMPRESSIVE percentage of SUI's 268 students (1862 - 63), Prof. Thornton writes, were enlisted in the Northern armies. An 1865 honor roll cited 124 students.

The university, he reports, was referred to as an "almost female institution."

Of the few men who remained on the campus, the local press referred to them as "lonesome and disconsolate." Reasons for failure to enlist were given as refusal of parental permission, and the critical stage of coeds.

Coeds of that period were advised to "bear these considerations in mind, treat the disappointed youths with kindness, and console them if they can."

LOYALTY, always a scarce element during wartime and sometimes afterwards, cropped up on the campus then. Several Copperheads, southern sympathizers formed a strong element in SUI's first literary society, the Zetaghians, but were later expelled.

The outcasts formed the Ciceroans, but the organization was short-lived. Wearing of Copperhead emblems and the observance of Confederate appointed fast days resulted in the expulsion of about seven students.

The son of SUI President Theodore Tilton was run out of town when he was found denouncing the North at a street meeting.

After the war, provision was made for all veterans who served in the Northern armies for two years, or had been permanently disabled or discharged because of wounds to be given a tuition free education. Fifty-five men accepted this provision.

Writing a parallel to today's veteran, Prof. Thornton has this to say of the Civil War college GI:

"The presence of these veterans brought a new seriousness to the campus... Sobered by years of fighting and hardship, they had learned with deep intensity the worth and need of education!"

Automobiles driven by Raymond Hahn, 2127 Friendship street, and Clara Kraemer, 1172 Hotz avenue, were involved in an accident Saturday afternoon at the intersection of Muscatine and Jefferson streets, police said.

No injuries were reported and no damage estimates were given.

U.S. Enjoys Warmer Weather Over Last 50-Year Period

WASHINGTON (AP) - Weather experts, who rarely register surprise at the whims of the elements, admit they are amazed at the persistent far above normal temperatures which have cloaked the eastern U.S. since March 1948.

They are saying too that there's a definite 50 year trend toward slightly warmer weather, not just in the east but over many areas of the whole northern hemisphere.

Wilson H. Ahlmann, a noted Swedish glaciologist, says he is in a period of "climatic amelioration," with average temperatures slowly inching upwards. One piece of supporting evidence he offers is the retreat of many glaciers in Scandinavia and Iceland.

In this country, Jerome Mamias, head of the weather bureau's extended forecast section, says "no one can know for sure whether it will continue getting warmer as it has for the past 50 years."

"Excesses of temperature over the east," he agrees, "have been tremendous for the past year, but maybe it's strictly temporary."

He says two theories have been advanced to support the contentions of those who say it's getting hotter:

1. G.S. Callender, an English meteorologist, claims there has been a slight increase in carbon dioxide in the air. This, he says, to prevent "out-going radiation" of the sun's heat after it has struck the earth's surface. Thus the earth retains more heat in something like the manner a hot-house will absorb and retain heat from the sun.

2. Something in the atmosphere has acted to bring steadily increasing amounts of "maritime air," warmer air overlying oceans, into and over the continents. Mamias says that possibly the quality of the sun's radiation could provoke this.

The entire northeastern U.S. had its third warmest winter on record last year. The same section sweated its way through the hottest summer ever. New York City set a three-month record from June through August. Portland, Me., had its hottest June and July since the observation station was moved from town to the airport. Washington came up with all-time high temperatures for July.

During the year New York City built up 1,550 degrees of temperature in excess of normal. This day last year was about 43 degrees warmer than 80-year old records show it should have been.

Seamon explains that "excess temperature" of 4.3 degrees is not surprising for two or three straight days maybe, but for a whole year it is "positively remarkable."

The trend toward higher-than-normal temperatures got an even bigger boost during the first 10 days of this month. From Jan. 3 through Jan. 10 Baltimore averaged a daily 21 degrees above normal. Washington 20 degrees. Asheville, N. C., 17. New York City broke four consecutive high records.

This was the "hot spell" which brought out the johnny-jump-ups in Lancaster, Pa., and spring peeper frogs in New Jersey. The latter usually hibernates until late March or early April.

A small shaft of cold pierced the warm air last weekend from the west, and Washington got one day of "normal" temperature. That was Sunday. But on Tuesday thermometers soared again, bringing means that, on the average, each more record high readings for the date all over the east.

Snow has been practically absent from most parts of New England this winter. A fair snow cover resulted from a small storm the end of November. Another fall came on Dec. 3, but the snow all but disappeared a week later. Thousands of skiers cancelled Christmas and New Year skiing trips. No snow.

Will it last all winter? "We know there has been an abnormal containment of cold, polar air over Alaskan Yukon and Northern Canada," Mamias says. "Our reports tell of temperatures down to 60 degrees below zero in central Sweden. Colder Than Hell, Norway, where it's been down to 40 below."

The cold air is breaking through in places, Mamias points out. California's citrus crop has suffered some damage, but nothing like the losses of January, 1949. And temperatures in Montana, the Dakotas and other midwest and southwest areas have been well below normal.

TO THE EDITOR:

I should like to lodge a protest against references in Monday's Iowan, specifically in John Holway's column, to "... Marcellus Boston, the dusky sprinter who was flirting within a tenth of a second of the national 60-year mark..."

One is tempted to ask, "What the heck is 'dusky'?" "How adequately as an epithet does it serve?" "Is it dim, misty, dusky 'white' or dusky 'colored'?" (Seems that I recall a "dusky rose" cosmetic, used, of course, by American woman irrespective of race, according to their own coloring, hair, etc.)

Boston, whoever he is - and I imagine Holway meant for his readers to know that the athlete is an American Negro - is probably not so misty, dusky, or dim as the flippant columnist infers.

The point is that no one gives two hoots about whether the man is dusky or not. He's a runner; if he performs, satisfactorily, the campus will be satisfied to the point where his physical attributes (if, indeed, the man can be with truth said to be "dusky" or not) are unimportant. If the public clamors for positive identification of this promising figure, it seems feasible that photographic delineation will accomplish much more in a much fairer manner than Holway's inept prose efforts.

The man's being colored or white would be of no importance to his performance - which is what the Iowa student body is interested in - and it should have no relevance in either an objective news item or in a slightly less objective feature article.

Such evidences of lack of taste, the way they may be perpetuated through naivete, certainly have no place on a progressive, reasonably fair, journalistic organ - such as I suppose the Iowan makes some attempts at being. The term is hackneyed, actually archaic (even so in the league of poetry), and is entirely superfluous to the needs of good reporting.

While this seems a small thing - certainly in comparison to other seemingly more important issues, it is symptomatic of something deeper, mainly that on every level Americans all must grant to each other - and some must, unfortunately, fight for it - a certain measure of respect for human dignity. Hence those of us who are concerned must militate against such evidence of (double) thoughtlessness as was shown by Holway - even to the point of influencing, if possible, not only overt performances but very basic attitudes toward the respect of all people.

keynote by DONALD KEY

A program of recently-arranged band numbers will be presented Wednesday night at 8 p.m. in the Iowa Union by the SUI band under the direction of Prof. C. B. Righter.

Prof. Righter said that seven of the eight numbers programmed were arranged for band within the last three years. All the numbers will be presented by the band for the first time.

"Suite Francaise" by Darius Milhaud was listed by Prof. Righter as a featured work on the concert. This suite, divided into five movements, was originally written by Milhaud for band and later adapted for orchestra. It was performed here two years ago by the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra.

One of the most technically difficult numbers on the program is the "Jota Aragonesa" by M. Glinka, which has been chosen to close the concert. Music in this composition involves difficult shifting of melodic passages and rapid staccato tonguing for clarinets.

The number is actually a theme and variations. The theme is an old folk melody used in a Liszt rhapsody and the "Espangia Rhapsody."

A third featured work on the concert will be "Entr'acte" from "Orestes" by Sergius I. Taneiev, an early Russian composer who succeeded Tschickovsky as professor of instrumentation at the Moscow Music conservatory.

Two works on the program will be very familiar to Iowa City listeners, "The Sorcerer's Apprentice" by Paul Dukas and "Three Dances" from "Gaya ne" ballet by Khachaturian, which opens with the ever popular "Sabre Dance."

Other works listed for the Wednesday band concert include "Prologue and Fugue in F Minor" by G. F. Handel, "Comedian's Gallop" by D. Kabelevsky, and "American Folk Rhapsody" by the contemporary American composer Clare Grundman.

EASTERNERS MAY BE

Blue Frames for Blue Eyes —

Modern Specs Donned for Vision -- and Style

The notion that eyeglasses are a social liability is almost as extinct today as the dinosaur. Notwithstanding a few die-hard who neglect their eyesight because they fear glasses may detract from their appearance, most people realize that style has stamped its approval on specs.

In fact, spectacles are now considered a means of accenting one's personality as well as improving and preserving vision. Many wear glasses with no correction — just for the sake of wearing them.

Functional at First

Glasses were first in demand for their usefulness. Later they went through a period of elaborate ornamentation. Because they have been needed urgently by millions of people and since they continue to grow more and more necessary as civilization marches on, glasses have developed into works of art.

It is said that an early prejudice against specs was deliberately promoted by medical men of the middle ages who used ointments and lotions in treating eye ailments and who feared the newly-invented lenses would destroy their income.

Improved Fashion Aspects

In the past few years wonderful progress has been made, not only in the scientific qualities of spectacles, but in their fashion aspects. Glasses no longer are considered "old-maidish" or "school-teacherish". Styles are available to suit every type of person from six to 60. Lenses are shaped according to different facial contours, and frames come in a wide variety of sizes, shapes and colors, including plaids.

There are up-tilted harlequins or pixie glasses to make one look young and piquant, modified versions of these to give a needed lift to older faces and owl-like glasses to flatter a little face.

Emphasize the Eyes

There are pale blue frames that emphasize blue eyes, amber or tortoise frames that match tawny hair or contrast becomingly with golden blonde tresses, red frames to make a brunette look dashing, and black or jade green bows with gold or silver trim that look sophisticated on the career girl or coed.

From inconspicuous rimless glasses to elegant gold framed ones, the list goes on and on, so everyone can be admirably suited in looks and personality.

Fashion experts decree that girls who wear specs get plenty of male attention. Men think, they say, that girls who wear glasses must be nice, intelligent and not too vain or frivolous. It's no secret that many eyesight-conscious and fashion-conscious damsels are sporting the latest in the spectacle parade.

"COQUETTE" SHAPED RIMS FOR A PENSIVE COED. Jean Wilson, A2, Waterloo, wears these plastic rimmed glasses with a lace design. With the approach of finals, coeds may have to don their spectacles to rest their weary eyes, but stylists say there is no need to fear a loss of glamour. Men think, the fashion experts say, that girls who wear glasses are nice, intelligent and not too vain or frivolous. (Both pairs of glasses were furnished by the Kelley Optical company, Iowa City.)

Literary Quarterly Published at SUI To Be Distributed

The winter issue of "The Western Review," SUI published literary quarterly, will be ready for distribution next week, according to Prof. Ray B. West Jr., editor.

This is the second issue of the magazine to be printed here. It will include book reviews by two SUI graduate students, Robert Shelly of St. Louis, Mo., and Austryn Wainhouse of Washington, D.C.

The quarterly is made up of short stories, poems, articles and book reviews, and is one of the oldest magazines of its type. West founded it in 1937 and published it in Salt Lake City and Lawrence, Kan. before coming to SUI. The 1949 fall "Review" was the first published here. West, an English professor, said all 1,000 copies of that issue were sold, and 1,500 copies were printed this time.

A few copies of this issue will be for sale this week at the Bookshop, 114 E. Washington street. The magazine sells for 50 cents.

Most copies of the quarterly must be sent to a central distributor in New York. Some will be shipped back afterwards to book stores in this area, West said.

Hawkeyes Down Hoosiers In 65-64 Thriller

Winners Survive Indiana Rally; Calsbeek Hits 32

By ALAN MOYER
Daily Iowan Sports Editor

Iowa survived a desperate Indiana rally in the final four minutes Saturday night to nip fast-breaking Indiana, 65-64, in a Big Ten basketball game before 12,223 persons.

The Hawkeyes appeared to have the game won with 16 minutes of the second half played when Guard Lou Watson went on a personal scoring rampage. He tallied four quick baskets while Center Bill Garrett added another, to make the score 63-62 with less than two minutes remaining.

With five seconds remaining and the score 65-64, Garrett took a leaping shot which rebounded high off the basket. A wild scramble for the rebound took place but Iowa's Bob Schultz emerged with the ball as the buzzer sounded.

Iowa missed its chance to win by a comfortable margin by missing 14 free throws in the second half.

Calsbeek Nets 32
Frank Calsbeek, 6-foot, 6 1/2-inch Iowa center, sent hook shots sliding through the nets from every angle and added tip-ins at the most opportune times to account for 32 points.

Bob Vollers, rebounding in excellent fashion, scored 20 points to help bring Iowa's Big Ten record to one victory and one defeat.

Vollers and Calsbeek were as torrid against the Hoosiers as they were cold a week ago against Michigan. There they gathered 12 points between them, compared to 42 Saturday night.

Watson and Garrett shared high scoring honors for Indiana, each with 18 points. The defeat was the second in Big Ten play for the Hoosiers. They tripped Wisconsin but Monday night lost a last-second decision to Michigan, 69-67.

Free Throw Missed
The only thing that prevented an overtime game was a missed free throw by Jerry Stuteville in the closing seconds. On the basket the Bob Masters which made an score, 65-64. Schultz fouled Stuteville but his attempt shot rebounded off the back of the rim.

for his first misfire from the free throw line in five attempts. Big Calsbeek, in out-doing his previous high mark of 29 points, made last year against Michigan, came within two points of the 34 points Murray Wier made against Illinois here two seasons ago.

His pivot shot midway in the first half put the Hawks into a brief lead, 16-15. Bob Clifton tied it up again at 20 each, then put his team in front again with six minutes left by netting a free throw, making the score, 27-26.

A tip-in and a pivot shot by Calsbeek, a set shot by Dick Riecks, plus a free throw by the string-bean center and Iowa enjoyed its biggest lead of the first half, 34-29, with a minute, 30 seconds left to play.

It was while Garrett, the smooth and clever Negro center, was being rested that the Hawks spurred to a first-half lead. The half ended, 38-36, with Garrett once again in the lineup.

Hawks Shoot 33 Percent
Iowa took 55 shots in the opening half, the Hoosiers 46. The pace for both teams slowed in the final 20 minutes, with Iowa doing the better shooting. The Hawks completed the evening with a 33 percent average, compared to Indiana's 29 percent.

After 13 minutes of the second half Iowa had built a 5-47 lead. Garrett was effectively bottled up by three Iowans, which slowed the Indiana attack to a walk.

Gene Ring tallied 14 points for Indiana, taking up some of the slack left when Garrett wasn't able to get the ball, but until the Hoosiers suddenly came to life even his deadly set-shots were not enough to catch the Hawks.

Frosh Scrimmage
The Iowa freshmen had their first intrasquad scrimmage as a curtainraiser to the Iowa-Indiana game and the Gold outfit edged the Whites, 55-48. At halftime the losers led, 29-26.

Grapplers Come from Behind To Overpower Badgers, 15-11

Iowa successfully opened its Big Ten wrestling season Saturday afternoon by coming from behind in the last three matches to defeat Wisconsin, 15-11.

Decisions by Joe Scarpello in the 175-pound division and Joe Paulsen, making his first intercollegiate start, enabled the Hawks to bounce back from a 9-11 score. An estimated 2,200 field-house spectators highly approved of the action.

All matches ended in decisions with the exception of a fall by Wisconsin's Sam Costanza, scored in three minutes, 59 seconds over Ken Carmen, 136-pound grappler.

Badgers Hold Lead
Costanza's fall, good for five team points, pushed the score to 8-3 in favor of the Badgers. A 10-5 decision by Captain George Tesla in the 145-pound class narrowed the gap but Iowa didn't regain its lead until Scarpello took a 9-2 victory over John Falter in the next to last bout.

The loss was Wisconsin's second in the Big Ten, the Badgers having beaten Northwestern and Indiana while losing to Illinois. The meet was Iowa's first of the season.

Vern McCoy, in his fourth year of competition, started the afternoon off with a 6-1 victory in the 121-pound class but the Badgers quickly tied the score on Bob Spicuzza's 7-0 decision of Iowa Sophomore Manuel Macias.

Wisconsin extended its lead in the 155-pound division when Don Ryan, a sophomore from Council Bluffs and reported to be one of the greatest wrestling prospects in Wisconsin history, won a 4-2 match from Russ Taarp. It was Ryan's fifth consecutive win this season.

Starts Hawk Comeback
Miles Benda started the Hawks on the comeback in the 165-pound class by decisioning Bob Lessl, 5-3, in a match that had the crowd yelling throughout most of the three periods.

Lessl took a 3-0 lead in the first two periods, but in the final three minutes Benda came within inches of pinning his opponent. The second time he held Lessl's shoulder's inches above the mat, only to have the buzzer end the period. The final score was 5-3.

Scarpello scored a take-down 16 seconds after the start of his match and was in command for the entire bout, but could not pin his man. He skidded Falter across the mat and whipped him to mat's edge several times for a new start.

With Iowa leading 12-11 the team victory depended upon Paulsen, who left little doubt in the minds of the onlookers when he scored a take-down after 10 seconds of the opening period. The 200-pounder from Davenport went on to defeat Henry Levihn, 9-1.

Iowa Tankers Whip Badgers

MADISON, WIS. (AP) — Winning seven first places and sharing in another, Iowa's balanced swimming team swamped Wisconsin Saturday, 54-30.

The Hawkeyes gave up an undisputed first place only to Jerry Smith, who copped the 220-yard free style event. Iowans Paul Hutinger and John Boyd, however, took second and third places in the same race.

Rudy Matzke of Wisconsin and Don Watson ended their 440-yard free style battle in a tie in 5:01.7. Rusty Garst won the 60 and 100-yard free style showdowns, also serving as anchor in the victorious 400-yard free style relay.

The whipping was the Badgers' second in as many Western conference starts.

Ohio 61, NU 51
COLUMBUS (AP) — Ohio State took over the Western conference basketball lead Saturday night with a 61-51 victory over Northwestern while Michigan was losing at Wisconsin, 53-41.

Saturday night's action kept the Buckeye conference record unblemished and spoiled Northwestern's and Michigan's perfect league marks. Ohio State now has a 2-0 mark in Big Ten play; Northwestern, Wisconsin and Michigan are 2-1.

Northwestern, the midwest's "Cinderella team," had the Buckeyes down 51-49 with five minutes to play. Then the Wildcats couldn't bag a single point the rest of the way and Ohio pulled away with a 12-point flurry.

Lanky Dick Schnitker, who wound up as high scorer with 22 points, scored six fast points to put the Buckeyes in the lead at 53-51.

The victory gives the Hawkeys a 3-2 standing in the Mississippi Valley conference. Roosevelt now has a 3-3 record in conference play.

Bill Fenton, forward, hit for 15 points to top the scoring for the evening. Close behind him was Forward Gene Brawner with 11.

The game was a rough and tumble affair with much body contact resulting from the smallness of the Roosevelt court. Hawkeyet Mickey Moore, guard, fouled out with three minutes remaining.

Jack Dole, Rider guard, left the game at the same time on a double foul.

The Riders opened the scoring with a basket by Dole but a rebound by Bob Fry at the two minute mark tied things up. Ken Hay hit a moment later to make it, 4-2, for the Little Hawks and they never relinquished the lead.

Wrestlers Usually Close, But Never No. 1
There have been several wrestlers at Iowa who have won honors over the nation for their prowess on the mat but in all Coach Mike Howard's 28 years of directing Hawkeye grapplers never has there been a Big Ten title at Iowa.

More than once it's been oh-so-close. Two seasons ago Purdue took the championship meet with 24 points. Right behind was Iowa, 23 points. That was the second time in five years for a one-point failure.

Other years it wasn't that close, like last year at Bloomington, Ind. The Hawks left for the league meet with an outside chance for title No. 1, came home with whatever seventh place it good for.

Saturday Mike's boys got off to a winning start by whipping Wisconsin, 15-11. A week before Champion (for second year running) Purdue bowed to Michigan, 19-9, although without the services of three of its top competitors. Still, the champ fell. Now Iowa has a win over one (if the better teams in the conference and best of all, the Big Ten championships are scheduled for Iowa City, March 3rd and 4th.

Just as in its brother sports there is a home-mat advantage in wrestling. The team has balance, still has Joe Scarpello and still needs that title, how about staging that first one in 1950?

George Martin, Wisconsin coach, said after the meet Saturday he thought Iowa had a better team than Illinois, the team Iowa has yet to defeat after 11 attempts.

"We lost to them by a big score (22-18) but several of the bouts were close," he said. "I think Iowa can beat Illinois; we shouldn't have lost by the score we did."

Joe Scarpello, after scoring a 9-2 win Saturday, was disgusted at not pinning his opponent. Joe is undefeated in dual competition and gets real worried when he comes close and doesn't get a fall.

"I had both shoulder blades bent to the canvas," he said, "and I still couldn't pin him, he must be double-jointed."

We realize its tough enough to produce top teams in the nine sports we do have at Iowa, but wouldn't it be fun to have a Hawkeye hockey team?

Recently we got in on the tail-end of a game between Michigan and Montreal. The rink at Ann Arbor was packed, and according to the publicity director it seats 3,800 persons.

It's ideal for hockey there, and not so ideal in Iowa, but Minnesota has a team, and Wisconsin completed a couple years ago. North Dakota has a team and, of course, every Canadian school of any size has hockey. Up there it's practically required.

Nobody cared last week but the Montreal university team had one player starting his sixth year on the varsity. He's a graduate student by now but as long as he's in school he's eligible for hockey. Montreal is about as tough as they come in collegiate hockey, so we were told at Michigan.

The Wolverine won 20, tied three and lost two last year. As an added attraction the Detroit Red Wings (National pro league) visit Ann Arbor each season. The two teams are divided up and everybody (the place is really jammed that night) has a big time.

Money, a rink, players and interest would have to be raised for a team here, the later two probably with greater ease than the first considerations, if we're not mistaken.

Nebraska Gymnasts Drop Hawks, 54-42
LINCOLN, NEB. (AP) — A record crowd of 150 was on hand Saturday to see the University of Nebraska beat Iowa 54-42 in a gymnastics meet.

Al Dunavan of Nebraska was high man in the meet with 21 points. Leo Geier, Nebraska, and Clair Jeanner, Iowa, tied for second with 14.

Dunavan won even on the parallel bars, high bars, and flying rings, and his teammate Art Hillman placed first in the side-horse.

Ed Craren, Nebraska, tied with Bill Harris, Iowa, in the trampoline. Don Casaday, Iowa, took the tumbling event.

Side Horse — 1-Art Hillman (Neb.), 2-Leo Geier (Neb.) 3-Bob Yarwood (Neb.); 4-Frank Engle (I.); 5-Clair Jeanner (I.); High Bar — 1-AI Dunavan (Neb.); 2-Don Casaday (I.); 3-Jennett (I.); 4-Norm Anderson (Neb.); 5-Art Hillman (Neb.); Parallel Bars — 1-Dunavan (Neb.); 2-Geier (Neb.); 3-Jennett (I.); 4-Paul Williams (I.); 5-Earl Duggan (I.); Flying Rings — 1-Dunavan (Neb.); 2-Geier (Neb.); 3-Jennett (I.); 4-Ken McKenna (I.); 5-Fred Hughes (I.); Tumbling — 1-Casaday (I.); 2-Williams (I.); 3-Dunavan (Neb.); 4-Geier (Neb.); 5-Jennett (I.); Trampoline — 1-Ed Craren (Neb.) and Bill Harris (I.); 2-3-Jennett (I.); 4-McKenna (I.); 5-Cliff Kurrin (Neb.).

Vote Fails to Expel Southern Foes of NCAA Sanity Code

By WILL GRIMSLEY

NEW YORK (AP) — The rebel schools which defied the National Collegiate Athletic association's sanity code won a rousing victory Saturday when a vote to expel them failed of a necessary two-thirds majority.

After nearly seven hours of heated debate, without a stop for lunch, delegates to the association's annual convention voted by secret ballot 111-93 for expulsion of the seven recalcitrants. This was 25 votes short of the number needed for expulsion.

The seven who gained this partial vindication of their athletic policies were Virginia university, Boston college, Maryland, Virginia Military Institute, Virginia Polytechnic and the Citadel.

Moment of Confusion
There was a moment of high confusion immediately after the vote was announced when Dr. Karl Leib of Iowa, president of the NCAA, declared "The motion is carried."

The cry went up from the floor "No, no — two-thirds are required."

Upon being shown a copy of the NCAA constitution, Leib changed to "The action failed," but declined to concede the result was a victory for opponents of the purity code.

"This vote shows merely that the circumstances in this group of cases were not enough to justify the severe penalties contemplated in the aggravated cases of non-compliance," he said.

Immediately after the vote was announced, President H.C. Byrd of Maryland introduced a resolution calling for a special committee to investigate the athletic practices of all member schools and to make a report at next year's meeting. This was passed 67-71.

The Citadel Withdraws
The result of the ballot apparently will not alter the decision of the Citadel, military school at Charleston, S.C., to withdraw from the NCAA. Its official resignation was presented early Saturday.

Col. D.S. McAlister, dean of student activities at The Citadel, said:

"We resigned in December, we resigned again today and we are still resigned although those fellows seem hard to convince. If they had accepted the resignation and not brought us on the floor we probably would have applied for readmission. Now that's out."
During the lengthy discussion which followed presentation of the case against the rebels by Clarence Houston of Tufts, chairman of the NCAA's compliance committee, two of the schools, Boston college and Villanova, were disclosed to have advised the committee that they wished to comply with the code.

Boston college presented new evidence two days ago to show that it now is in compliance with all the rules and regulations governing aid to athletes. Villanova stated, simply, that its president the Rev. Francis McGuire had not received several letters addressed to him by the policing body, having been on vacation at the time of their arrival.

The three Virginia schools, as well as Maryland, did not back down a foot in their defiant stand.

Support Indicated
A clear indication that the accused schools had summoned sufficient support to avoid expulsion came several hours before the decisive vote. An amendment offered by W.A. Alexander, director of athletics at Georgia Tech, to make a three-meal-a-day training table legal was voted down by only 115-106.

As the 106 who supported the measure obviously were opposed to strict enforcement of the article in the code which permits athletes to receive only one free meal a day, the rebels felt certain of their support on the show-down ballot.

Those favoring a stricter sanity code won a minor victory, however, when the convention adopted by a vote of 168-45, a Dartmouth recommendation forbidding campus tryouts for athletes.

Under the provisions, schools cannot pay traveling expenses of any prospective athlete nor can it hold practice sessions to test boys' skills prior to enrollment. No action was taken on the Bowl committee's six-point recommendation. In the main, it specified that sponsors of post-season games must give competing schools 80 percent of the gross receipts and allot them one third of the tickets.

A special committee was formed, instead, to compose a set of by-laws in which such items may be incorporated. This is to avoid having to revise the constitution repeatedly.

Godfrey's Tie — Chinese Scroll — Chesterfield —

Informal 'Bargain Ball' Provides Fun for 750

About 750 "hardtimers" went "scotch" on everything but enthusiasm and informality at the Iowa Union's "Bargain Ball" Friday night.

Costumes ranged from glorified feed sacks to blue jeans as the bargain hunters roamed the entire Iowa Union during a four-hour session of dancing and entertainment.

With Skippy Anderson's band in the main lounge and the Leo Cortimiglia combo in the River room, dancers received a variety in music for the year's low in admission costs.

Auctioneer "Snowball"
Adding to the bargain theme was Auctioneer "Snowball" Cole, Orion, Ill., who enticed would-be bidders with Mary Martin's hat, Arthur Godfrey's tie and an autographed picture of Notre Dame Coach Frank Leahy.

Godfrey's tie sported an intricate Chinese scroll which revealed the word "Chesterfield" to the careful observer.

Mary Martin's hat was sent to the Central Party committee by Ezio Pinza, co-star of the Broadway musical, "South Pacific."

Beat-up Hat
The hat's battered appearance was explained by Pinza, who enclosed a letter saying, "Don't mind the condition of the hat, as that was caused by the rather rough treatment it received as Miss Martin sang 'I'm in Love with a Wonderful Guy'."

Cole, who intends to become a National Tobacco auctioneer, provided to be equally capable as an entertainer. As encores to his auction, Cole imitated Al Jolson, Billy Eckstine, Tiny Hill and Peter Lorre.

Although the party offered more in the way of entertainment than any of this year's Union parties, its success may have been due to the lack of tuxedos and formals.

Union Janitor Charlie Snider said, "This is the best party we've had so far. The students seemed to feel right at home."

Cedar Rapids Driver Fined for Intoxication

Samuel Clifford Sisemore, Cedar Rapids, was fined $300 in Johnson county district court Saturday after pleading guilty to a county attorney's information charging him with operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated in Iowa City Oct. 26.

District Judge Harold D. Evans suspended Sisemore's operator's license for 60 days and cancelled his liquor permit.

ARTHUR GODFREY'S TIE attracted high bidders Friday night at the "Ball" auction in the Iowa Union main lounge. Auctioneer "Snowball" Cole, Orion, Ill., also sold Mary Martin's hat and an autographed picture of Notre Dame Coach Frank Leahy during the dance's intermission.

Court Says Director Free to Wed Ingrid

TURIN, ITALY (AP) — Film star Ingrid Bergman and film Director Roberto Rossellini cleared the next to last legal hurdle Saturday on their road to marriage.

An Italian court here recognized the validity of an Austrian annulment of Rossellini's previous marriage, to the former Marcella de Marchis.

The Swedish star of "Joan of Arc" now must obtain her own divorce from Hollywood surgeon Peter Lindstrom. Negotiations for custody of their 11-year-old daughter Pia, have been going on for several weeks.

The annulment was obtained by Mrs. Rossellini under a friendly arrangement. The Rome newspaper Il Paese Sera quoted her as telling a friend: "I believe Ingrid can make Roberto happy. As for me, I'm 33 years old and life can still smile at me."

Father, Three Children Drown in Wabash River

OAKTOWN, IND. (UP) — A father rescued one of his four children floundering in flood waters of the Wabash river Saturday after their boat capsized and then drowned with the other three as he tried to save them.

Ronald Hall, 42, and his children, including a 10-year-old twin sons, were spanning a quarter-mile stretch of backwater between their isolated home on a knoll and a neighbor's house in a motor-driven rowboat.

The boat upset and Hall swam with one of the twins, Larry, to the branches of a treetop sticking above water. Then he turned and swam toward the others but went under before he could take a second to safety.

The other children drowned. They were Rosella, 13; Charles, 4, and Garry, 10.

Hall's wife, Verlene, who stayed home while the others went out in the boat, ran screaming to the water's edge when she saw what had happened. Her screams attracted two couples who had stopped their automobile to chase a fox.

One of them, Hubert, McKinley, and Paul Shepard got a rowboat and rescued Larry as he clung to the treetops. The boy was dazed and incoherent and couldn't tell what happened.

Hall had taken the children, relatives said, across the water to see his aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stevens. The Stevens and the McKinleys had driven from their homes to see about the property of a neighbor who had fled the flood area.

National guardsmen from a unit at Vincennes patrolling a flood-wall took rescue equipment and dragged the water for the bodies. They found only the motor and gasoline tank from the boat.

College Secretary Slain; Body Found Near Creek

LANCASTER, PA. (AP) — The battered body of Marion Baker, pretty Franklin and Marshall college secretary who disappeared last Tuesday, was found Saturday beneath a pile of roof sheathing near a summer cottage two miles south of here. Police said she was murdered.

Detective Capt. John Kirchner said the girl's head was bashed in. He said it could not be determined immediately whether she had been raped.

The body was found in the rear of a cottage owned by William M. Harnish along Mill creek, just off heavily-traveled U.S. highway 222.

Frogmen Confirm Loss of 64 Sailors Aboard Submarine

CHATHAM, ENG. (AP) — Frogmen confirmed Saturday that only the dead remain in the smashed and silent hull of the submarine Truculent, but one seaman officially listed as a victim turned up alive.

He had been given leave because of illness in his family. The admiralty, revising its figures again, announced that only 65 men were lost with the submarine, which sank in the silty Thames estuary Thursday night after a collision with the Swedish tanker Divina.

The revision was made in a final statement listing the 10 known dead and the 54 missing officers, seamen and dockyard workers. Fifteen were rescued.

Thickening fog settled Saturday night over the spot where several hundred sailors and salvage experts worked on preparations to raise the submarine.

Out in the Thames channel, eight miles from the nearest shore, frogmen — expert swimmers with breathing apparatus — managed to wiggle into the compartment which had been ripped open.

They brought back reports giving no hope that any of the 54 missing men are alive.

No bodies lay in the compartment they penetrated, but the frogmen could not move much because of tangled gear and they did not try to open bulkhead doors.

Jury to Be Selected Monday For Oscar Anderson Trial

The trial of Oscar Anderson, former Iowa City steeplejack, is scheduled to begin Monday with selection of a jury at 10 a.m. Anderson, 59, is charged with intent to commit murder of Clifford Kelly, Iowa City, Apr. 22, 1948.

Anderson's attorneys Wednesday filed a notice of defense of insanity, naming three expert witnesses expected to testify in his behalf.

He was committed to the insane ward in the men's reformatory at Anamosa October, 1948, after he was found insane then by a Johnson county district court jury. He was judged incapable of producing a defense.

Anderson was returned to Johnson county jail last summer after Warden Foss Davis of Anamosa reported the prisoner had been found sane.

The move was protested by County Atty. Jack C. White, who claimed there had been no legal determination of Anderson's sanity.

District Judge Harold D. Evans upheld White's position, despite the fact that Atty. Gen. Robert Larson defended Warden Davis' action.

The judge declared the defense attorneys, the law firm of Messers, Hamilton, Cahill and Bartley, could have presented evidence to support their claim of returned sanity, but had failed to do so.

Anderson was returned to Anamosa until his attorneys brought action in the Jones county district court asking for a habeas corpus hearing to determine the legality of holding him in the reformatory.

At the hearing in December Anderson was found to be then sane and was returned once more to Iowa City to stand trial.
