Weather

Fair and colder today. Friday partly cloudy with moderating temperatures. High today, 15; low, zero. Wednesday's high, 32; low, 9.

Rain, Sleet, Snow Plague Iowa Citizens

Cold, driving rains turning to sleet late Tuesday night changed Iowa City's streets and sidewalks into mires of slush and water Wednesday.

Civil Aeronautics administration officials here reported temperatures were dropping fast Wednesday night, with a five degree plunge in one hour. A total of an inch and one-half of water fell Tuesday night and Wednesday morning.

The weather bureau predicted the sleet and snow to end early Wednesday night. Today's forecast was for cloudy skies with occasional light snow probably mixed with sleet or freezing rain.

Ice Stops Crandic
The Cedar Rapids and Iowa City railway station said that all cars had been stopped Wednesday due to the ice on the electric wires.

Crandic officials said they hoped to send a car through later Wednesday night.

Officials of the Iowa-Illinois Gas and Electric company reported several electric light wires down in Iowa City. R.H. Lind, manager of the company said repair crews would be out all night but there were no major break downs. Most of the damage was caused by falling trees, he said.

Union Bus depot officials said that although the sleet had made traveling tedious, the busses in and out of Iowa City were running on time.

Send Trucks
The Iowa Highway commission said that trucks sent to clear the roads were able to remove most of the ice on the main highways. However, a few icy spots remained, officials said.

Intermittent showers Wednesday added to the discomfort of SUI students going to and from classes. Some students were prepared for the weather while others had to jump the puddles in an effort to keep dry.

Several Iowa City merchants reported rushes on overshoes and raincoats as the students tried to cope with the rains and high water.

Temper Flare
Several tempers flared momentarily Wednesday when pedestrians were soaked by motorists driving too fast through the flooded streets.

Picturesque scenes were formed by the sleet which clung to the streets and trees, however, most pedestrians were too busy jumping puddles to enjoy the scenery.

The high reading for Wednesday was 33 degrees with an expected low of zero. The weather bureau predicted highs today of 10 to 15 degrees. Low reading was expected to fall between zero and five above.

Flowers Bloom . . .
CHICAGO (AP) — The weather went berserk Wednesday as flowers bloomed in Baltimore, bees buzzed in Indiana and snow fell in New Mexico.

On the east coast, a dense fog weathered in airports and stymied shipping in New York harbor.

Record-breaking warmth covered the Ohio valley and the east from St. Louis to Buffalo. In dozens of cities workers shed their overcoats in mid-70 weather.

But snowstorms and cold covered the great plains to as far south as New Mexico and the mercury sank to 60 below zero at Chester, Mont.

Fog which had blanketed New York for 30 hours halted planes at LaGuardia, Idlewild and Newark airports.

Senate Okays Equal Rights For Women

WASHINGTON (AP) — The senate Wednesday approved a proposed constitutional amendment that would grant women equal rights with men and at the same time safeguards all special legal protection that they now enjoy.

The vote was 63-19, with eight more "ayes" than were necessary for the required two-thirds majority. The measure still must win a two-thirds vote in the house and then be approved by 36 of the 48 states within seven years to become a part of the constitution.

The amendment provides that: "Equality of rights under law shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any state on account of sex. The congress and the several states shall have power, within their respective jurisdictions, to enforce this article by appropriate legislation. This article shall take effect one year after the date of its ratification."

Several Hollywood stars had comments about the proposed amendment:

"I'm glad to hear I may be hardly different at all from a man," said Marie Wilson. "But thank heaven for that little difference."

"Now we women can go out and play poker with the boys," Jane Greer said.

Bob Hope said he hoped it meant "Women will start to drive on the same side of the street as men."

Rap Russ for Taking North China Areas
WASHINGTON (AP) — The state department Wednesday renewed charges, which Russian Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky has angrily denied, that the Soviet Union is taking over large areas of north China.

It backed up the statement with a detailed report.

The charges first were made by Secretary of State Dean Acheson in a Chinese - policy speech to the National Press club on Jan. 12. From Moscow, Vishinsky roared that Acheson was telling "monstrous and awkward lies."

The state department document hurled the lie right back. It traced the steps by which it said Russia has moved into effective control over Outer Mongolia, Manchuria and other rich areas that nominally belong to Moscow's new ally in China, the Chinese Communists.

Larson to Speak Today At Rotary Club Meeting
State Attorney General Robert L. Larson will address members of the Iowa City Rotary club at their noon luncheon meeting today at the Hotel Jefferson.

Program Chairman W.G. Channon said that Larson had been scheduled to speak earlier, but his statewide shutdown on gambling activities had prevented him from coming to Iowa City.

Storm Keeps City Street Crews Busy

AFTER THE STORM, employees of the city street department Wednesday gathered ice-coated branches from more than 10 streets. Here one crew is working in the 300 block, South Dubuque street. Street Commissioner Willard Irvin said other men cleaned out sewer catch basins that were clogged with snow.

Predict President May Enter Soft Coal Dispute by Weekend

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Truman will step into the soft coal dispute "before the weekend" unless John Lewis gets his 90,000 striking miners back to work quickly, a high government official predicted Wednesday.

He said Mr. Truman might invoke the injunction section of the Taft - Hartley act or try a personal appeal to the United Mine Workers' president and industry officials to get the miners operating at full speed again.

He added that Mr. Truman might act even if the wildcat strikers, who are said to be defying Lewis, return to the pits on a three-day work-week basis.

This disclosure came soon after James Boyd, director of the federal bureau of mines, told the senate labor committee he had informed the White House coal supplies have dropped near the "danger point."

Some observers believe Mr. Truman might announce some action at his press conference, now scheduled for Friday.

At the same time, Lewis met with two of his lieutenants from Uniontown, Pa., where most of the miners are on strike.

It is believed he told them that the two week "revolt" against his back-to-work order must end by Monday.

Elect 8 Iowa Citizens To Historical Society
Eight Iowa Citizens, including four persons from SUI, have been elected to membership in the State Historical Society of Iowa, Supt. William Petersen announced Wednesday.

SUI members are Prof. Robert Ebel, director of the SUI examination service; Ted McCarrel, registrar; Prof. Robert Ray, director of the Institute of Public Affairs, and Cynthia Tedrow, A4, Media-polis.

Other Iowa Citizens elected are Laurence Leffler, C.O. Parks, Dr. E.W. Paulus, and Mrs. Paul Vermillion.

70 New members totaled 166 from 70 Iowa counties. Davenport, Des Moines and Iowa City were in the lead this month with eight new members each, Petersen said.

SUI Union Board Honors Dean Stuit For Student Work

Dean Dewey Stuit received the 12th honorary key to be given by members of the Student Union board in the 22 years of its existence, Vice-Pres. Don Guthrie, A3, Iowa City, said Wednesday.

The key was presented at the annual Union board dinner Tuesday night by Board Pres. William Tandy, A4, Pella.

The key was given on the basis of Stuit's membership on the Union advisory committee, his continued interest in student activities in the Union, and his position as dean of student affairs, Guthrie said.

Service Keys to 16
Service keys were presented to the 16 board members by Prof. Earl Harper, director of the school of fine arts and the Iowa Union.

Those receiving keys were: Tandy; Guthrie; Don Edwards, E4, Davenport; Mrs. Paul Griewe, A4, Iowa City; Robert Brose, G, Iowa City; Don Hays, P4, Maquoketa; Roger Ivie, L3, Iowa City; Robert Spratt, D3, Fort Madison; Rome Schaffner, M3, Cedar Rapids.

Hancher Speaks
In a speech to the group, President Virgil M. Hancher emphasized the need for understanding and ability to see other's points of view.

Dean Stuit stressed the well-rounded preparation for life found in Union associations.

Kapers Cast Plans Show for Oakdale
Patients at the state hospital at Oakdale tonight will be given a special performance of the 1950 Kampus Kapers musical which closed a five-day run Saturday night.

Five skits from "The Happy Atoms" show will be presented. They include "Snow White," "What Bliss Is This," "The Dancer," "Look for the Silver Lining" and the "Roaring Twenties."

Helen Goldberg, A2, Milwaukee, in charge of entertainment for the YWCA, invited the cast to give the special show.

Those in the cast will be Dick Shull, A4, Chicago, Ill.; Jerry Handman, A4, Brooklyn, N.Y.; Mel Donnelly, A3, Highland, Ind.; Carolyn Covert, A, Iowa City; Shirley Snodgrass, A2, Kansas City, Kan.; Jack Miller, A3, Newburgh, N.Y.

Barbara Bender, A3, Des Moines; Lorna Elliott, A1, Dubuque; Sharon Kriens, A1, Sioux Falls, S.D.; and Dick Williams, A1, Iowa City.

Hiss Gets Five Years; Acheson Still Friend

A Bird in the Hand is Worth . . .

VINITA, OKLA. (AP)—It couldn't have been more convincing. Mrs. Eldon Legg was discussing chickens before her home demonstration club.

"Now this," she pointed to one of the breed perched on her palm, "is a good laying hen."

Obviously overwhelmed, the biddy promptly laid an egg in Mrs. Legg's hand.

Stand Renewed By Secretary Despite Critics

NEW YORK (AP) — Alger Hiss was sentenced Wednesday to five years in a federal prison. A few hours later Secretary of State Dean Acheson made it known that he still regards Hiss as a friend.

The jail sentence was for perjury.

U.S. Trucks May Test Blockade by Russians

BERLIN (UP)—A U.S. military truck convoy sped toward Berlin Wednesday night in what promised to be a dramatic test of the Russians' stepped up "baby blockade."

Sixty army trucks, carrying supplies for the American garrison in Berlin, were scheduled to arrive early today at the border town of Helmstedt where Russian trucks have slowed truck traffic to a trickle.

Civic Music Group To Present Viennese Ballet Here Monday

The spirit of Old Vienna will be brought to Iowa City Monday evening when the Civic Music Association presents the Viennese Ballet ensemble in a concert at 8 p.m. in City high auditorium.

Iowa City's program might almost be considered a sort of U.S. premiere, because the dancers have arrived in this country this month to begin a tour of 40 American cities.

Directed by Grete Weisenthal, noted European choreographer, the ensemble features a program of dances which combine the technique of dance with theater.

Unlike some choreographers, who begin work with a story and then seek appropriate score, Mme. Weisenthal goes directly to the music for her inspiration.

From such diverse composers as Bach, Dvorak, Johann Strauss and Schubert, she has created more than 20 works which are in the repertoire of the ensemble.

"We are continuing our usual plan of accepting reservations and urge students to act early in order that we may assure them of a seat," Spelman said.

The Rock Island depot officials said additional cars would be added on the Rockets during the expected rush time after final examinations.

Get Tickets Soon, Students Advised

Students planning to go home between semesters are urged to get their travel reservations early.

Phil Spelman, manager of the Union Bus depot, said Wednesday that students should get their bus tickets early in order that additional busses can be secured.

Won't Change Mind

He added Wednesday that stand will not change regardless of the outcome of the Hiss case.

Hiss, pale and tight-lipped, maintained his innocence when he was sentenced, and pledged that he would vindicate himself. He filed notice of appeal and was freed on $10,000 bail.

It was a strange and agonizing experience for the brilliant, Harvard-educated lawyer who helped found the United Nations and went to the Yalta conference as an adviser to President Roosevelt.

Broken financially, the ash-faced Hiss stood in front of Federal Judge Henry Goddard before he was sentenced and declared in a composed, resonant voice:

Confident of Future
"I am confident that in the future all the facts will be brought out to show how Whitaker Chambers was able to carry out forgery by typewriter."

Before Defense Counsel Claude Cross of Boston filed notice of appeal, he asked the judge not to imprison the slender, 45-year-old defendant, whose first perjury trial ended last July in a jury disagreement.

Hiss' appeal will go to the U.S. circuit court of appeals. The next step beyond that would be appeal to the supreme court of the United States.

Hiss resigned a $20,000-a-year post as president of the Carnegie endowment for international peace last spring. He was secretary general of the United Nations planning conference at San Francisco.

President May Accept New Draft Legislation

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Truman Wednesday agreed to accept a stand-by draft law provided he, as well as congress, has the power to order inductions in case of national emergency.

His compromise proposal was relayed in a letter to the house armed services committee by Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson.

UAW Strike Paralyzes Chrysler Production

DETROIT (AP) — Eighty-nine thousand CIO united auto workers walked out at Chrysler corporation Wednesday in a dispute over pensions and paralyzed booming production of the third - largest automaker.

Another 23,000 employees were immediately idled when UAW President Walter Reuther gave the order which shut down 25 Chrysler plants in all parts of the nation.

The union, bulwarked by new powers in collecting strike funds, was set for a long strike.

Federal and state conciliators hoped to bring Chrysler and the union back to the bargaining table before the end of the week. Both Reuther and Robert Conder, Chrysler labor relations chief, said they were willing to begin new conferences.

The first hours after the walk-out were marked by unusual quiet and the complete absence of mass picketing. Workers returned home after mild demonstrations, leaving only token groups at plant gates.

There was none of the bloody violence which characterized auto strikes in the infancy of the UAW.

Chief issue was the method of paying company - financed pensions and the union's insistence on a "better" health and hospitalization program.

DODGE MAIN PLANT EMPLOYEES of the Chrysler corporation, members of the CIO united auto workers, are shown as they walked out on strike Wednesday morning at Detroit, Mich., after company and union negotiators failed to reach an agreement on pensions.

Council Polls 1,800 Students on Value of Rating Faculty

SUI's student council this week polled 1,800 liberal arts students on the value of a faculty rating system by students.

Students in all four years of college were asked six questions on their ability to judge their instructors, Burton Faldet, A4, Decorah, chairman of the council's grading committee, said Wednesday.

Knowledge of Subject
The students were asked if they felt competent to rate an instructor on his knowledge of subject, clarity in explaining points, interest in class progress, friendliness, enthusiasm and fairness in examinations.

They also were asked how long they would have to be enrolled in the course to make a fair judgment.

The third question was whether personal likes or dislikes for the subject and instructor or standing in the course would influence their anonymous judgments.

The group also was asked if they thought their friends would take the rating seriously and if they would be interested or opposed.

A space was left blank for the students to write in what advantages or disadvantages could be gained from the ratings.

The questions were made up by Psychology Professor Norman A. Meier and Reynold Landon, A4, Council Bluffs, public relations director for the student council.

Earlier this year, faculty members had been asked if they would object to students rating them.

Results Next Semester
The results of both surveys will be announced at a student council meeting after the second semester opens, Faldet said.

Classes which were quizzed with the permission of the faculty members in charge, and the size of samples were: Biology of Man, 450; History of Western Civilization, 580; Introduction to Social Science, 275; Psychology of Adjustment, 117; Social Psychology, 55, and the junior and senior sections of American Government, 318.

Work on the student grading of faculty was begun in May, 1949, when the council voted to investigate the idea.

They appointed a committee composed of Faldet; Mary Qualley, A4, Des Moines, and Larry Walker, C4, Cedar Rapids.

This group, helped by Agnew Rovon, C3, Keokuk, and Robert Rinnan, C3, Gilman, wrote 25 colleges and universities to find out what other institutions were doing in faculty grading.

Stuit Wrote Letters
Dean Dewey Stuit of the college of liberal arts helped the group and wrote letters to the instructors asking cooperation in the latest poll.

If students show enough interest in the project, Faldet said he would recommend its adoption by the student council.

He also said he would probably recommend the grading forms to be made out by "competent university officials" and that they be used on a "voluntary basis."

A Two-Way Street — with a Few Obstructions —

World trade essentially is a simple transaction of exchanging goods for goods. Today that transaction has been complicated through a legion of artificially created barriers such as tariffs, import quotas and exchange controls. Such practices in western European nations have resulted in economic instability, and continued dependence on American aid.

Paul G. Hoffman, economic cooperation administrator, explains that "with small national economic compartments surrounded by high walls, Europe has also been unable to make the most efficient use of its resources." Resources include not only raw materials but also skills and labor supply.

To bring about the effective integration of the economy of western Europe, the organization for European economic cooperation has been set up. Member nations have agreed to trade reforms such as tariff reductions.

Integration of trade among the western European nations, however, is only a part of the solution to stabilizing their economy. These nations need to build up dollar reserves and pay off Marshall plan debts, largely by exporting to the United States.

According to Charles Riotta, president of M.J. Corbett & Co., customs house brokers, increased sales of imports in the U.S. will provide dollars to maintain our export markets, build up stockpiles of essential raw materials and assist in raising living standards here and abroad.

The biggest obstacle to trade between the U.S. and the rest of the world has been our customs procedures, which have remained practically unchanged since 1930. Riotta suggests these practices should be changed to conform with the principles endorsed by the U.S. at recent world trade conferences.

Trade reforms are necessary both in the U.S. and abroad if any expansion of the world market is to be effected. The result will be economic stability for a large part of the world.

Swan Song to New Car Hopes —

The nation's auto industry had high hopes for a year of smooth sailing, but like that lulling line of a not-so-old melody, "it's all over now."

Automakers are becoming a little uneasy, as the coalminers leave their jobs and coal supplies dwindle.

C. E. Wilson, president of General Motors, said he thought some steel mills might be forced to close down next month unless the tense coal situation is exploded. And nothing much happens to steel without the auto industry feeling the effects.

Ford, planning on record production during the next six months, is also altering its plans to conform with the amount of black stuff the steelmakers will find in their bins.

The auto industry is probably secured only to steel as far as its effects on our economy. Of course, coal is the key to both.

After the last double-barrelled coal-steel strike, the auto makers found themselves with a shortage of cars. They have planned on making up the shortage with full scale production this year.

Lewis, however, has different ideas, and it looks as if he is in the driver's seat at the moment. President Truman is afraid to invoke an injunction — one of the biggest features of the Taft-Hartley law — and no one else can make the miners budge.

Mr. and Mrs. Consumer, who were dreaming about the 2-million cars and autos originally planned for production before April, probably will be forced to change their plans.

Car prices will stay up until a full market, which can only come about through an abundance of steel, is realized.

Let's Have No More of It! —

Rain, sleet, snow and overcast skies are but four elements that the weatherman pulls out of his bag of tricks when a mean mood comes over him.

But when he combines all four stunts in a single day, we can only think that something catastrophic must have upset his life to make him come up with such a concoction.

He should never allow himself to get so carried away that he pours his nasty temper out on us, the unfortunate victims of an unfortunate temper. Wednesday was too much for most of us to handle — especially without a life raft.

Cold noses, with feet to match can be the only result of such a demonstration. Let's have no more of it, Mr. Weather-Mixer.

Rest comes to those who have earnestly given their best to the task of the day . . .

The bigger a man's head gets the easier it is to fill his shoes . . .

U.S. Berlin Blunder Aids Soviet Road Block

By WES GALLAGHER

FRANKFURT, GERMANY — It appears the United States committed a cold war blunder in Berlin.

The British and French are disgusted. The west Germans are disappointed. And the Russians are making the most of the current Berlin dispute which finds the Russians squeezing Berlin's road supply lines and harassing western traffic in small ways.

The situation came about this way.

The Russians by four-power agreement in 1945 were granted the use of a large railroad building on the edge of the American sector of Berlin. It was used as a signal center for the east zone railroads.

Since the Soviet blockade of Berlin and the subsequent violent railroad strike the Russians had gradually moved out of the building except for a small signal center. This left 500 to 600 rooms empty.

The western city administration, both German and allied, hungrily eyed these rooms, a rarity in Berlin's devastation.

On top American levels there was some discussion about moving into the building but no decision. Berlin's commander, Gen. Maxwell Taylor, anticipating Russian counter action, wanted no hasty action.

At this stage, without top authority, the property control division of the American command suddenly approved orders for German occupation and the Germans occupied the building.

Neither Taylor nor High Commissioner John J. McCloy knew of the action until it took place. If there had been any east-west good will, the action would have amounted to nothing.

But there isn't — and the expected Soviet and Communist reaction was immediately forthcoming.

The Soviets and their east zone satellites cut elevated traffic in west Berlin in half, leaving thousands of workers stranded.

They demanded new papers and placed new restrictions on road traffic to the city.

They threatened further measures. Their newspapers made new cries against the U.S. for breaking agreements, aggression, and so on.

The west Germans rallied to the American side in press and open discussions and defended the action.

The British and French, although privately expressing their disgust at the American move which threatened to ignite the always dangerous Berlin powder box, stood by the western side.

Gen. MacArthur Predicts Next War Will Be End

By EARNEST HOBERECHT

TOKYO (AP) — Gen. Douglas MacArthur, on the eve of his 70th birthday, believes that a third world war will mean the end of modern civilization.

The supreme allied commander in the Pacific, who has not taken a rest since he led allied forces to the shore of Japan, is convinced modern war is so destructive it must be outlawed completely.

These personal convictions have never been stated publicly, but after 4 1/2 years of covering his headquarters, I can set forth with assurance these and the following beliefs:

Hastings Man Seeks U.S. Senate Seat

HASTINGS (AP) — Former Rep. Otha Wearin, Hastings farmer, announced Wednesday he would enter the wide-open race for the Democratic nomination for United States senator.

Wearin was the fifth Democrat in the state to announce his candidacy. He made his announcement after a meeting of southwest Iowa Democrats at Malvern Tuesday night asked him to run.

"Wearin is the only Democrat who can carry the Republican seventh district of Iowa for the United States senate and the Democratic ticket in November," Tom Delaney, Council Bluffs, told the group.

Wearin served in congress as representative from the seventh district from 1932 to 1938, losing to Republican Rep. Ben Jensen in 1938.

1. A ban on individual weapons such as the atomic bomb and other more fearful forces, is not the answer.

2. The answer lies in liberty, Christianity and democracy.

3. Communism is the biggest threat in the world today, and there is no mission more important than meeting this challenge.

4. Civilization as we know it will be destroyed if world leaders fail their responsibility to find the solution to the problems facing them and permit a third world war.

MacArthur plans to stay on his job until it is finished. There are rumors he might take a job in private industry after that, and rumors that he might retire completely.

When I asked the general for an answer to that question for a "birthday announcement" he laughed good naturedly and said: "I'm no prophet to foretell the future."

MacArthur, who was born in Little Rock, Ark., on Jan. 26, 1880, plans only a simple birthday celebration with his wife and 12-year-old son, Arthur, named after the general's famous army father.

MacArthur will go to the office as usual, and the only breaks in his seven-day-per-week routine are expected to be visits by a few top members of his staff, a few diplomats and others who will call to extend greetings.

MacArthur, at 70, has been a general in the U.S. army longer than many American generals have been officers. He was promoted to Brigadier General on June 26, 1918.

On Dec. 16, 1944, he was made a five star general. With that post he will never officially retire from service.

The supreme commander has seen service in Japan before. He was assigned to Tokyo in October 1945 as an aide to his father, Lt. Gen. Arthur MacArthur.

The Christian Faith . . .

TO THE EDITOR:

The Christian faith has suffered much in "Christian" countries from the tragic confusions and mis-identifications to be seen in recent Letters to the Editor column:

- 1) Spiritual richness is NOT the same as "cultural" richness.
- 2) "Outward Christian profession" is NOT the same as "inward Christian conviction".
- 3) Christian life and ethics are NOT the same as American civilization or the "American Way of Life".

Nero was cultured, but would anyone say he was "spiritually rich"? Things of the spirit are the things of God. All men, with or without cultural "atmosphere," are spiritually equal, for all have sinned and come short of the glory of God — all are equally damned.

The only salvation from this state is Jesus Christ — a single-minded trust and faith in, devotion to, and love for Jesus Christ as Saviour and God — an inward the unions to destroy property, disrupt communications, and cut off the nation's fuel supply in order to force certain issues desired by the unions.

Big union man Phil Murray was quoted as saying that he would back telephone workers who are strike threatening with their plan to jam telephone equipment. Union members and their friends are to place so many calls that the Bell company's automatic equipment will break down and the Bell people will supposedly have to meet the terms of the union.

Another news story related: "Fast moving pickets dumped coal and blocked mine entrances Tuesday in an effort to cut off the nation's coal supply."

Isn't it about time that the unions were forced to stop their sabotage of industries that are necessary for our every day well being?

WAIT A MINUTE

By JOE BROWN

"CHLOE" has a competitor on our campus.

If you think that old gal's silence to the millions of calls can be irritating, just listen to the plight of a fellow I heard from the other day.

He called me and asked if he could register a complaint through this space. He's pretty sore at the nerve of some gal here at SUI.

Several nights ago, he said, the phone in his Hillcrest room rang at a very wee hour. Cursing and stumbling over to the horrible sound, he answered and heard a girl's voice say:

"Do you know who lives in room number such and such?"

"Huh?"

"Do you know who lives in such and such?"

"This is number so and so."

"Yes, but do you know who lives in such and such?"

"No, I don't!"

"Can't you find out?"

The poor fellow shook his roommate, tried to find out who lived in such and such, received only a snort or two, and went back to the phone.

"We don't know who lives there. Good night."

"WAIT A minute. You see, I had a call about 3 a.m. last night and was instructed to call room number such and such tonight. No one answers, though, and I thought you could tell me who lives there. My curiosity is killing me."

"That's encouraging."

"Please can't you tell me?"

"Go away, will you?"

"Whoever, it is, is known as Big Red. That's who I was supposed to ask for — Big Red."

"Never heard such a stupid name."

"I just gotta find out who Big Red is."

hook and returned to bed.

But he couldn't go back to sleep, because over and over in his mind tumbled the words: "Big Red. Big Red. Big Red. Big Red."

So, if you're ever walking near Hillcrest late some night don't be surprised if you hear a girl's voice drifting along through the stillness of the night — a voice crying:

"Big Red, Big Red, I gotta be where you are . . ."

CLASSROOMS can be pretty exciting at times.

A friend was telling me of a recent incident in his salesmanship class that would put some of the more conservative campuses in a state of shock.

Seems that two members of this class had to put on a skit when trying to make a sale.

The fellow portraying the prospective purchaser asked the "salesman" to show him a pair of socks.

But the salesman ignored the request and started telling the purchaser about a wonderful portable pants presser he had for sale.

The purchaser insisted he wanted socks, but the salesman never heard a word of his request and continued praising the portable pants presser.

"Look here," he said, taking the other fellow's coat sleeve, "See how well it creases the material?"

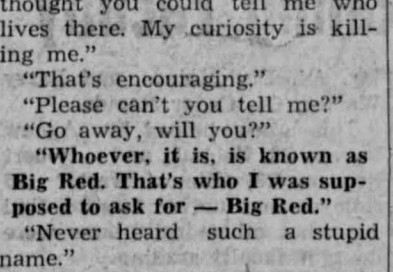

"I want socks."

"You should see it work on pants. Here, I'll show you."

Whereupon, to the mixture of mild and embarrassment of the girls in the class, the salesman staged the final move in the little skit.

Talking about the virtues of the pants presser all the while, he calmly turned his back to the class and removed his slacks while members of the class stared with appreciation.

But laughter echoed through the corridors of University hall when, with relief, they saw a pair of white trunks appear, across the seat of which blared in huge letters the word: IOWA.

"I told you I don't know who Big Red is."

"Don't you know anyone at all called Big Red?"

The fellow could take no more. He slammed the phone to its

Warm? Go North, Gal, Go North

Argentine Lass at SUI For 'Summer' Vacation

By ANN RUSSELL

Some Iowans are leaving for Florida or Arizona these days to escape from midwestern winters. But Marta Aslan, Buenos Aires, Argentina, has "come north" for her summer vacation.

Marta, who is only 16, is spending three months studying art at SUI before she completes her first year of high school in Buenos Aires. She is studying modern, northern and 19th century art here.

In describing her high school, Marta explained that they offer a five-year program instead of the usual four. "No choices in courses are made by the students except in languages," she said.

Stress General Education

General education is stressed much more there, too. For instance, her curriculum next year will include Spanish literature, trigonometry, astronomy and geology, government, Argentine economic geography, French, philosophy, physical education and music.

Some girls go to professional schools which offer sewing and cooking to prepare one for marriage. Others attend private or Catholic schools, she added.

Soccer reigns as the most popular Argentine sport, Marta recalled, with basketball, rugby and baseball as runners-up in group sports. Golf, tennis, and contests of skill in horsemanship are also widespread. "High schools are just now beginning to emphasize intramural competition," according to dark-haired Marta.

Architecture Next

After graduation, Marta plans to study architecture at the University of Buenos Aires. She will be the second member of her family to enter this field, following her father's example.

Marta's father designed a soccer stadium for professional competition which is allegedly the largest in South America. The Aslans live in an apartment house which he designed.

American people are a little confounding at times, Marta believes. However, she enjoys her newly-

"DID I GET A LETTER TODAY?" asks Maria Aslan, 16-year-old Argentine girl who is studying art at SUI. Daughter of a well-known architect in Buenos Aires, Marta is spending her vacation from high school here. Likes all the girls at Clinton place where she lives, Marta eagerly looks for a letter from home.

No More Books — Liz Taylor To Graduate

By ALINE MOSBY

HOLLYWOOD — Elizabeth Taylor puts on a black cap and gown tonight and graduates from a public high school like any other 17-year-old.

"I've never been so nervous over anything in my life," giggled Hollywood's newest glamour girl. "It's so wonderful. I feel like velvet inside."

Luscious Liz got her book-learning at the MGM studio school, but according to law, she'll pick up her diploma at a regular graduation ceremony with 206 other students at university high. Linda Darnell, Deanna Durbin and Judy Garland officially ended their high school careers there, too.

"Glad School's Over"

"I'm sure glad school's over," said Elizabeth. "No more classes, although I might take part-time classes at college."

"At times there were 10 students in the entire studio school, including Jane Powell and Margaret O'Brien. But now there are only three: me, Claude Jarman and Dean Stockwell."

"I missed big classes with people my own age. Being privately tutored isn't much fun."

Elizabeth took lessons in Spanish, English, literature and history between love scenes with Robert Taylor, Montgomery Clift, Robert Stack, Van Johnson and other passionate profiles.

No Report Cards

"The students never get report cards," she added. "I took exams and the board of education told me I did all right."

Besides tossing away her school books, MGM's successor to Lana Turner passes another milestone soon. On Feb. 27 she'll be an officially grown-up 18.

"I'll like being 18," said Miss T. "That's a wonderful age. But then I liked 17, too."

"Grown-Up Roles"

"Being 18 won't make much difference in my life. I don't get control of my trust fund until I'm 21. And I drive my own car and have had grown-up roles for a year now. I'd like something else besides rich girl parts, though. A half-breed, maybe. Something dramatic."

"The only change in being 18 is that I'm old enough to elope. But I'd never do that. It's sneaky, like something to be ashamed of. I'm going to have a big wedding when I get married."

When that will be, the brunette beauty doesn't know.

"I can't say when I'll be married," said Liz, who at 17 has one broken engagement and another busted romance on the record. "When somebody comes along and we're in love we'll be married."

Winter Wear in Velvet

VARIEITY IN VELVET brightens up dresses and suits for special winter parties. A black velvet collar and piping add interesting trimming to the dress (left) of "tapestry wool jersey" patterned in green, red and black. Narrow handbags of black velvet trim the jacket pockets and skirt of the black wool suit (right) designed for winter and early spring.

Nylon's Many New Uses Boost Buyers' Approval

Nylon, the so-called "miracle yarn," is becoming more popular daily. With each new use consumer approval soars.

The biggest use for nylon today is not in hoisery, but in knit fabrics. Nylon is woven into satins, tafetas, crush-resistant velvets, sheer marquisettes and nets, and even into heavy damask drapery fabrics, rugs and heavy freeze used for upholstery.

Nylon yarn is long - wearing, and nylon fabrics have high elasticity and excellent resistance to abrasion and soil. They clean easily and dry quickly, are unaffected by mildew and can't be damaged by moths or other insects.

Nylon fabrics gain some of their versatility through the permanent "heat set" they receive during their manufacturing process. Consequently they don't stretch or shrink noticeably in wear, washing, or dry cleaning. When spun yarns are used, very warm nylon fabrics can be produced.

Because it is a thermoplastic yarn, nylon can be permanently pleated. Already women's negligees and skirts of ballerina or street length have been styled with permanent pleats.

Nylon fabric may be washed easily by hand or machine. Men who travel have been quick to adopt nylon shirts in preference to carrying a lot of extras. One shirt, washed every night, is preferable to struggling with cleaners and carrying extra luggage.

Coeds and career women, too, find nylon a great time saver. Washing lingerie and blouses and letting them hang dry is better than a nightly ironing session.

The future of nylon fabrics appears to be bright, and the direction in which their use will grow depends on consumers who largely control such trends.

THESE BOYS ARE IOWA'S FUTURE STARS?

Have You Heard? — Iowa's Gift to Television, Bob Rossie, Back Home

By JOHN HOLWAY

Bob Rossie, SUT's gift to television, is thinking of enrolling in school again, still pretty much state-mated in his efforts to end things with his present ring manager, Andy Skaff.

The clean-cut Iowa sophomore has had a falling out with Skaff, and is considered to be quite a prize by five or six prospective managers who would like to cash in on the video bonanza Bob represents in Chicago.

One of the most interested has been Jack Hurley of Chicago who took Vince Foster to the top in welterweight circles before that Omaha whirlwind was killed in an auto accident this spring.

Rossie has stayed out of the ring for four months, refusing to fight under Skaff. Under the NBA he can't break his contract, but in Iowa, one of three non-NBA states, he'll be able to box under his father's management.

Bob Rossie, Sr. has been hospitalized for a month, and young Bob says he won't fight until his dad can train him. He thinks that Skaff will break down sooner or later under his holdout and sell his contract at a fair price.

Though TV has held crowds down at his fights in Chicago and Minneapolis, Bob thinks it's worth it in wider prestige.

Occasionally, the Chicago stadium bouts have carried to Iowa City receivers when Bob was fighting. What's more, fan mail has reached him from such far-flung points as New York, Tennessee and Cincinnati.

Rossie rates slightly behind Milton Berle, Ed Wynn and the Chicago Cubs as a television drawing card in the Windy City.

Good looking, square jawed, his fan mail numbers as many letters from the saddle shoes and hair ribbon set as it does from avid ring fans.

Bob has a year and a half left to graduate. He's thinking of a sportswriting or sportscasting career, although he still has every boxer's ambition of managing a fighter of his own some day.

Billy Jurgas, the new manager of the Cedar Rapids Indians, tonight will tell the CR chamber of commerce some of his plans for this year in the Three-I league. Jurgas, long-time Chicago and New York Giant shortstop, will also show the 1949 world series films.

John Jay, who takes skiing movies by keeping ahead of the skiers, themselves, is presenting his movies of the last Olympic winter games here Sunday. Jay gets on skis, himself, and follows the competitors right down the hill for his shots, or else short cuts them to get the skiers coming at him.

Sam Snead Leads Field In Ben Hogan Tourney

PHOENIX, ARIZ. (AP) — Sam Snead held the favorite's role for the $10,000 Ben Hogan open golf tournament Wednesday as he fired a three-under-par 68 in the preliminary pro-amateur event.

But the sweet swinger from Greenbrier, W.Va., and most of the gallery took notice of the fellow for whom the tournament was named — Ben Hogan.

Hogan said he felt "100 percent better" and thought he had the flu licked. Then he went around the 6,620-yard Phoenix country club course in even par 71, showing one and all he stood ready for the start of the 72-hole grand today.

Charles, Beshore To Meet for Title

NEW YORK (AP) — Ezzard Charles, NBA heavyweight champion, will put his title on the line against Freddie Beshore, young California heavyweight, at Buffalo, Feb. 28, it was announced Wednesday.

Ralph Gold, Beshore's manager, said Charles and Beshore would sign contracts for the bout here next Friday. He said Beshore will receive 17 1/2 percent of an expected $100,000 gate and that Charles would probably receive a flat guarantee.

St. Mary's Subdues Fort Madison, 44-26

St. Mary's shook off the effects of a slow start and went on to defeat Catholic Central of Ft. Madison, 44-26, here Wednesday night.

The Ramblers played the game without the services of their starting center, Leonard Milder, who suffered a torn knee cartilage in a practice session last week.

Neither team could accomplish much in the scoring column early in the game. Midway in the second quarter, the Ramblers began to hit and turned the game into a rout with the Ft. Madison five firing away with late desperation shots to get back in the game.

Guard Bob Sueppel provided the spark that helped St. Mary's lead at halftime, 23-14, after trailing 10-8 at the end of the first quarter. Sueppel was the leading scorer with 16 points.

The win was the second for the Ramblers over Catholic Central. Earlier this year St. Mary's won at Ft. Madison, 51-36.

Freddie Mills Retires From Boxing

LONDON (AP) — Freddie Mills announced his retirement from the ring Wednesday while Joey Maxim, the freshly crowned light heavyweight champion, weighed a flock of offers to display his newly found knockout talent.

The 30-year-old Mills, who was knocked out in the 10th round by Cleveland Joey Tuesday night in his first defense of the 175-pound title, decided to "pack the game in" after a family conference.

After the confab, Ted Broadribb, manager and father-in-law of the dethroned Mills, said his boy was quitting and that he intended to tear up the contract guaranteeing him a return but with Maxim.

Lew Burston, European representative of the International Boxing club of New York, said that if the bout had been close he would have tried to get the return for New York's Madison Square Garden.

"Not a chance now," said Lew Burston, "it wouldn't draw a quarter."

Burston, however, had several propositions to offer Maxim and Manager Jack Kearns, in behalf of the IBC. Sam Becker, the Cincinnati, Ohio, promoter, also would like to show Maxim, and there was a bid from Paris too for the U.S. pair to mull over.

But Jack Solomons, the London promoter who staged Tuesday night's highly successful show before 18,000 — a British indoor record — had the inside track.

"Solomons gave me my chance to win the world title and I would like nothing better than to fight for him some more," said Maxim. He got approximately $35,000 for Tuesday night's bout, one of the biggest, if not the largest, purses of his nine year career.

What Maxim and Kearns had in mind was a shot at the winner of the Bruce Woodcock - Lee Sa-void fight which will be staged here in May for the British and European recognition as world heavyweight champion.

"We want that one," said Kearns, "because then we would have just as much right to claim the heavyweight championship as Ezzard Charles (the NBA titleholder). And if we win that we would be ready to take Charles on anytime."

Darling Boosts Hawk Hopes; Clifton New Leader in Scoring

The rise of Chuck Darling, the 6-foot, 8-inch sophomore center, has been the outstanding and most optimistic feature of the Hawkeye basketball team in the last two games.

During his stay in his first two conference games, he scored 11 points and had a shot percentage of .267.

Then it all started — Saturday night it was mainly the efforts of the sky-scraping center that rallied the Hawks to a win over Northwestern.

Although Ohio State proved to be too much for the Iowans Monday night, it was Darling who paced the offense. During his last two games he poured in 31 points and booted his shot percentage to .357 in conference games — best on the team.

Leader in total points in league games now is Bob Clifton, who replaced Frank Calsbeek by one point. Clifton has scored 61 points and Calsbeek 60. However, Calsbeek has a .330 shot percentage compared to Clifton's .261.

Bob Vollers is third in the scoring parade with 51 points a .281 percentage.

Hawks Average 66.1

Fenton Holds Scoring Lead Little Hawk Star Leads St. Pat's Cooney By One-Point Average Over Season

By OZZIE JENSEN

With little more than a month remaining in the high school cage season, the Iowa City high school scoring race is shaping up as a two-man duel between Bill Fenton of City high and Earl Cooney of St. Patrick's.

Fenton's 153 points in 11 games keeps him in the city scoring lead again this week with a 13.9 average.

Cooney is close behind, however, with a 12.9 average. He hasn't been below second since the campaign got under way in November.

After passing Bud Lenz of St. Mary's, the early leader, Cooney held first place until the Christmas holidays when Fenton took over. He moved up again to lead Fenton two weeks ago, then dropped back into second.

Lenz is third with a 10.5 average, followed by Gene Brawner of City high with 10.4.

Alvin Streb of St. Patrick's with 8.3, his teammate, Jerry Cunningham, with 8.0, and Evan Clasen of U-high with 7.5 round out the first seven which is the same as last week.

Cooney leads again in total points, 245, and field goals, 98. Lenz and Streb are second in total points with 158 each.

Lenz is second in field goals, too, with 61. Fenton is third with 57, while Cunningham is fourth with 56.

Streb has the most free throws

Buckeyes Seek to Retain Lead at Minnesota

CHICAGO (AP) — Ohio State and Minnesota Saturday will match the top records in the Big Ten for shooting accuracy from the field as the Buckeyes seek a win in order to hold on to the league lead, conference statistics showed Thursday.

The Gophers, tied with Indiana for fourth place, boast the best mark in the circuit with a .328 average while the Buckeyes were second at .322.

Ohio State's runner-up position was a comedown for the league leaders. For the first three games, the Bucks cracked the nets at home at a .374 pace, but in loss-ing at Illinois for the first league defeat, Ohio State registered only .177 of its field goal attempts.

Ohio State was the top club in the league in free throw accuracy, however, with a .646 mark, while Minnesota was third with .636.

Small Audience Hears — Well-Rounded Concert

— By SUI Symphony —

An inspiring performance of the "Symphony No. 6 in A Major," by Anton Bruckner, highlighted a well-rounded evening of music played by the SUI symphony orchestra under the direction of Prof. Philip G. Clapp, Wednesday night.

A small but appreciative audience gathered at the Iowa Union to hear the third, and seemingly best, orchestral performance of the season.

Bruckner's long and difficult symphony was interpreted by Professor Clapp and the orchestra with emphasis on dynamic contrasts and lyric qualities.

Organ-Like Chords

Arpeggios and fast moving scale passages were accurately and precisely played by the strings and organ-like brass chords sustained the fortissimo climaxes.

Honors for the evening, however, should go to the French horn section, Bruckner's music is especially noted for its difficult horn parts and these were played expertly by the SUI musicians. The horn section, under the competent leadership of Paul Anderson, SUI instructor, displayed near perfect balance and beautiful rich tone quality, even in the more bombastic passages.

This is not to slight the rest of the orchestra, for, with the exception of a few off-pitch notes in the violins, all the sections performed with outstanding skill in knitting together the somewhat episodic symphony.

Rich Soprano Voice

Music of an entirely different nature, "Bachianas Brasileiras, No. 5" by Heitor Villa-Lobos, followed the Bruckner symphony.

This work, for soprano, cellos and contrabass, was under the direction of Prof. Hans Koebel, who played cello solo parts and conducted the ensemble at the same time. Musically, the performance was brilliant. Edith LeCoque, voice instructor at Morningside college who sang here last year, blended her rich soprano voice with the string accompaniment of novel rhythms and inharmonic changes. It was indeed pleasant listening and I hope more such music will be programmed in the future.

Audience applause was so great that the group returned to repeat the first section of "Brazilieras" as an encore.

Professor Clapp and the orchestra returned to close the concert with a spirited rendition of the overture "Cockaigne" by Sir Edward Elgar.

4-H Livestock Club Chooses Officers

Howard Mottel, Solon, was elected vice-president of the club; David Cilek, Solon, secretary-treasurer, and Joe Kral, reporter.

The ten charter members of the club selected Melvin Holubar leader, and Joe G. Raim, assistant leader.

Prof. Ray Previews Government of Future

Miss Barnes said further details concerning these jobs may be obtained at her office in room 111, University hall.

Iowa City Jaycees to Debate Council-Manager Stand Feb. 7

Iowa City Junior Chamber of Commerce members will decide at their Feb. 7 meeting what stand and action they will take on the proposed council-manager form of government for this community.

Four SUI students will conduct a symposium on municipal government and then Jaycees will discuss their stand on the local issue.

Neutral Position

In Des Moines and other cities, Jaycees have been instrumental in getting city manager measures passed for their communities.

President Larry Butler said that the local organization is maintaining a neutral position on the issue until the measure is voted upon and discussed Feb. 7.

A discussion will follow the symposium and then Jaycee members will vote three times.

Three Ballots

The first ballot will be oral. Members will vote whether they are for or against the council-manager plan. The second ballot will determine if the junior chamber will publicly support its action, and the final ballot will decide what action the chamber will take to support its decision.

SUI students who will take part in the symposium are Richard Law, E2, Iowa City; Will Perrin, A2, Iowa City; Evan Hultman, L1, Waterloo, and John Kohrs, A3, Burlington.

Members of the present city administration and proponents of the council-manager plan have been asked to attend the meeting.

New Protective Pads Added in Fieldhouse

Safety measures are being taken by the SUI physical education department to protect students using the north section of the fieldhouse. Rollie Williams, assistant athletic director, said Wednesday.

Pads are being installed on the metal cage covering the new stairs leading to the gym, he said. Steel girders partially projecting from the east wall also will be covered with padding, Williams said.

A new physical education office with windows facing the gym floor is being built, he said.

Athletic classes using the gym require constant supervision and the new office shall be used for that purpose, he explained.

Graduate students and assistants in the physical education department will use the office to observe play on the floor.

Prof. Engle to Teach At Louisiana State

Prof. Paul Engle of the SUI English department will go to Louisiana State university in February as a visiting professor in creative writing and criticism.

Engle, who is in charge of the creative writing program at SUI, will stay at LSU for one semester and return for the SUI summer school session.

WSUI Dimes Party To Feature Music, Speeches, Comedies

Brief opening messages by Mayor Preston Koser, SUI Pres. Virgil M. Hancher, and Mrs. J. K. Schaaf, chairman of the Johnson County March of Dimes, will get the WSUI March of Dimes party under way at 10:15 p.m. tonight.

The purpose of the party is to collect money for the Johnson county polio fund. The radio station will accept telephone pledges for the March of Dimes, and in return will dedicate numbers by Bill Meardon's band.

The telephone numbers to call will be announced prior to, and during the broadcast of the March of Dimes party from 10:15 p.m. till midnight.

In addition to the short talks, SUI faculty members and Iowa City businessmen will present a variety of comedy skits.

Vocalists on the program, besides Meardon's singer, "Hank" Cutler, will be Mary Lou Elliott, A3, Oskaloosa; Dick Williams, A1, Iowa City, and Jack Miller, A3, Newburgh, N.Y., all of whom sing regularly over WSUI.

Mal Westly, A2 Manley, will play the piano and the Hammond organ. Westly also is a regular performer on WSUI. Leo Cortimiglia, SUI alumnus and Iowa City businessman, will play the accordion.

Program Director Richard Setberger, G, Iowa City, said everyone had cooperated "to make a really fine program," and he expects a good response on the part of listeners in pledging donations to the March of Dimes.

Icy Streets, Rain Cause 2 Accidents

Iowa City's freak winter weather helped cause two automobile accidents Wednesday, police said.

Cars driven by William R. Tiffany, G, Washington, and Clarence Conklin Jr., 307 1-2 N. Capitol street, collided at the intersection of Jefferson and Clinton streets.

The drivers were unable to stop their cars "because of icy pavement." Damage was estimated at $90.

"Rain and fog" was listed as the cause of the collision at the intersection of Jefferson and Clinton streets of cars driven by Delbert V. Jebousek, South Amana, and David C. Davis, 1041 Woodlawn avenue. Damage was estimated at $165.

SUI Professor to Do Research in England

Prof. Eleanor Slifer, zoology department, has been granted a year's leave of absence to serve as a consultant and adviser for research on locust physiology in England.

Prof. Joseph H. Bodine, head of the zoology department, announced Wednesday that Miss Slifer will leave at the end of the current semester to work at Cambridge and other universities in England.

She will be received as a "distinguished visitor," a letter from British government authorities said.

The research program is sponsored by the United Kingdom Colonial Office Anti-Locust Research center.

Miss Slifer said the ultimate object of her work will be to aid in finding better means of exterminating locusts in their breeding grounds in Africa.

Locusts, or grasshoppers, as Americans know them, have caused untold starvation through crop damage since Biblical times. Economic insect poisons are necessary before many Middle East and African areas can be developed, Miss Slifer said.

She received her Ph.D. degree from the University of Pennsylvania in 1930, and came to SUI that year as a National Research council fellow. She has been an assistant professor here since 1937.

City Employee Hurt By Falling Limb

P.J. Bream, 504 Bowway street, was injured Wednesday afternoon when an ice covered tree limb fell on him, police said.

Bream, a city street department employee, was cleaning the street in the 400 block of S. Capitol street when the accident occurred.

Police took him to University hospitals in a squad car, where he was admitted for treatment and observation. He suffered a cut on the head and possible chest injuries.

Final Exam Schedule for First Semester

Final examination schedules have been released by SUI's examination service and the registrar's office for the colleges of commerce, education, engineering, liberal arts, and the graduate college.

First exams are set for the morning of Jan. 28 and the last sessions, Feb. 4. Exams are listed according to the department and course number or by the first weekly lecture or recitation meeting.

In general, courses with early exam periods last spring are scheduled late in the period now. In cases of conflicts, the course with the higher department number takes precedence. If two courses in the same department conflict, the higher course number counts.

No student is required to take more than three finals in any one day. Anyone with more than three the same day or two the same hour, should file a request for schedule change in the registrar's office by noon, Jan. 21.
