Weather

Continued cold today and partly cloudy. High today, 26; low, 20. Wednesday's high, 28, (high for state); low 14 below zero.

Lambeau to Cards

Curly Lambeau, long-time coach of the Green Bay Packers, was named head coach of the Chicago Cardinals professional football team Wednesday. For story see page 6.

Missouri Slips Off Sand Bank, Ends Sea Saga

NORFOLK (AP) — The battleship Missouri slid off a sand bank Wednesday with a sigh heard at naval stations the world over.

Release from 15-day captivity on Thimble shoal came quietly, almost before men closest to the scene knew it. But the word spread rapidly as the "Mighty Mo" edged into deep water.

The great battlewagon, historic scene of Japan's surrender, headed immediately for the navy yard and drydocking. All indications were that the Missouri was not badly hurt when she plowed a half mile upon the hard sand at the entrance to Hampton roads.

Rear Adm. Allan E. Smith, chief of the salvage job, radioed Adm. William H.P. Blandy, commander in chief of the Atlantic fleet. "Missouri reports for duty. Seven fathoms of water under her keel."

Ignores Drama

Military terseness ignored the drama. Smith was shouting success in the biggest salvage job of his life. Blandy was getting back, only two hours before retirement, the nation's only commissioned battleship.

Blandy turned over his command to Adm. William M. Fechteler making only a solemn-faced reference to the "Herculean effort" that made it possible to give his successor a fleet entirely afloat.

On the grim side, Smith announced a formal board of inquiry to determine the cause of the Missouri's grounding will meet Saturday.

Capt. William D. Brown, the Missouri's skipper, stated his feeling with impressive simplicity: "It's a great day."

Maiden Voyage

Worn with fatigue and ordered to bed Tuesday, Brown was on the bridge during the successful effort Wednesday. The Missouri had grounded during his first cruise as its commander as he headed for Cuba on a month's training exercise.

Although plans were still to have the Missouri go to the Caribbean for a big training operation later in the month, a discordant note came from Washington.

There Rep. Carl Vinson (D-Ga.), chairman of the house armed services committee, proposed that the Missouri be put in mothballs along with all other battleships and be replaced in the active fleet with an aircraft carrier.

SUI Student Faces Arraignment Today

Preliminary hearing has been set for today for De Wayne Nystrom, SUI student being held in the county jail for default of bond, Police Judge Emil Troit said Wednesday.

The date was set as tentative, however, pending the arrival from Boone of the youth's father, Clifford Nystrom, Boone county representative to the Iowa lower house.

The younger Nystrom was arrested Tuesday by Iowa City police for allegedly passing bad checks.

Senate Gives Go-Ahead On Destroying Potatoes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate farm leaders Wednesday gave the department of agriculture a tacit go-ahead on the destruction of millions of bushels of surplus potatoes.

They refused to stay the department's hand on the ground that even though congress passed the potato price support law, getting rid of the unwanted spuds is strictly an "administrative" affair. There, it is, they said, "a matter of principle" involved.

Dimes Drive Falls Short, to Be Continued

Johnson county's March of Dimes drive will be continued indefinitely, Mrs. J. K. Schaaf, chairman, announced Wednesday.

The drive, scheduled to end Tuesday, has netted only slightly more than one-third of its goal of $10,000, with $3,378.01 collected thus far.

This total does not include contributions placed in coin containers throughout the business district of Iowa City and other Johnson county towns, Mrs. Schaaf said.

These miniature "iron lung" containers will be left out for contributions until Feb. 9, she said. Other donations may be mailed to the Johnson county chapter of

'Mighty Mo' Pulled Off Perch

AFTER 15 IGNOMINIOUS DAYS on a mudbank, the mighty Missouri was floated free Wednesday. This stern view of the pride of the navy shows one of several pontoons used to float the battleship as she moved off the mud of Chesapeake bay. The flags flew Wednesday for the first time since the Missouri was grounded Jan. 17.

Judge to Set Sentence For Anderson Tomorrow

The date for passing sentence on Oscar Anderson, convicted of assault with intent to commit murder, was set back to 2 p.m. Friday by District Judge H. D. Evans Wednesday.

In the meantime Evans will decide on a motion by the defense for a new trial, based on a hearing held with the Anderson jury in the courtroom Wednesday.

The twelve members of the jury were quizzed on a charge by William H. Bartley, defense attorney, that he read news stories concerning the trial in an Iowa City newspaper.

These stories contained information and testimony which were not part of the court record, the defense claimed.

All of the jurors but one testified they either had not read the stories or had not been influenced by it in their decision.

The other juror, Joseph J. Langenberg, said he didn't know whether or not it influenced his vote.

County Atty. Jack C. White asked all of the jurors in cross-examination if the jury had ruled upon Anderson's sanity before they had recessed for supper.

The paper, the jurors testified, had not turned up until after they returned from their meal about 7:30 p.m. the night before their decision, Jan. 18.

All 12 jurors testified they had decided unanimously before the supper recess that Anderson was sane when he shot Clifford Kelly at the Strand cafe April 22, 1948.

White asked Juror Langenberg if he had been in the defense attorney's office the day after the trial.

Langenberg answered he had been there about noon and said, "I thought I had done something wrong. I wanted to get it off my chest."

Langenberg, under cross-examination by White, said he was concerned with the penalty during the deliberations and had changed his vote to "guilty" after being informed that the sentence was not to be considered by the jury.

Injured Veteran Clears Buddy, Then Kills Self

DANVILLE, VA. (AP) — A legless veteran, pinned under a wrecked car, kept rescuers away at pistol point Wednesday while he dictated a weird "confession" of framing an army buddy, and then shot and killed himself.

Andrew L. Blasko, 25, of Fentress, Va., said, "I told lies on Sgt. Jack Lemons. I want to clear him before I kill myself," a witness reported.

Confessed to Newsman

Blasko, brandishing a pistol, warned rescuers to keep away from the wreck or he would shoot himself. He made his confession to a newspaper photographer in the hearing of other witnesses, then shot himself in the head.

The veteran, an amputee with two artificial legs, told Photographer John Tate of the Danville Register he lied about Lemons at a court martial in Germany. He said the enlisted men of his outfit caught their officers hauling illegal whisky.

The men brought charges, he said, but at the court martial he said he acted as a "stooge" and helped the officers frame the men.

He did not identify Lemons beyond saying he thought he was from Norfolk, Va., but now living in Florida.

Not Seriously Hurt

Blasko's 1949 convertible hit a power pole guy wire near here. He was thrown out of the car and pinned beneath the left front wheel by one of his artificial legs. He did not appear to be seriously hurt.

Service station operator James Tillman said he was chasing Blasko for driving off without paying for a tank of gasoline.

"The boy was a war casualty," said State Trooper Jimmy Hughes who stood close enough to hear Blasko's story.

Veterans Administration records showed that Blasko was a private first class in Company H, 119th Infantry. His legs were blown off by a mine near Julich, Germany, Dec. 7, 1944.

IC Flying Service Sued for $105,000 In District Court

Damage suits totalling $105,000 were filed late Wednesday in district court against the Iowa City Flying Service, as a result of a plane crash Sept. 4 near Downey in which four persons were killed.

The three petitions were filed for the estates of three of the victims — Glen E. Creno, Wayne Kennedy and Gale Kennedy, all of West Liberty.

Also killed when a Stinson plane owned by the flying service cracked up two miles southeast of Downey in Muscatine county was the pilot, Ruard William Cochrane, a partner in the flying service.

The suits were filed against the Iowa City Flying Service, Robert J. Jehle, a partner, and George Nagle, administrator of Cochrane's estate.

Cochrane was charged in the petition with negligence and carelessness in the operation of the plane.

The petition stated that Cochrane put the craft in a steep bank at a dangerously low altitude and that the plane stalled and crashed as a result.

Cochrane was demonstrating the plane to the three passengers to interest them in buying the plane. The petition said.

Filing the suits were Neva Creno, administratrix of the Glen E. Creno estate; Fae Kennedy, administratrix of the Gale Kennedy estate, and W. C. Jack, administrator of the Wayne Kennedy estate.

Each of the petitions asked for trial by jury.

Educator Recommends Pre-Marital Relations

NEW YORK (AP) — Prof. George P. Murdock, Yale, anthropologist, Wednesday urged Protestant clergy to lead in removing society's taboo against pre-marital sex relations.

Such relations, he said would remove a major cause of divorce, lessen perversion, and provide a good basis for marriage.

BEVIN VISITS POPE

VATICAN CITY (AP) — British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin called on Pope Pius XII at the Vatican Wednesday night. The pontiff received Bevin in his private library. They talked 25 minutes.

Students Prepare for Another Semester

THESE ARE JUST A FEW of the more than 8,000 SUI students who will pick up registration materials at University hall before Tuesday. Assistant Registrar J. Harvey Croy said Wednesday students can get permit to register cards and registration materials in rooms B4 and B8 University hall, 8 to 12 a.m. and 1 to 5 p.m., through Tuesday. Students failing to get their materials before 5 p.m. Tuesday must pick them up at the Registrar's office, room 1 University hall.

Solon Town Council Nixes Beer Permit Because of Students

The mayor and town council of Solon declared Wednesday that it would be against the interests of the parents of SUI students to grant a beer permit to Lowell Hartsock in Solon.

In answer to a suit in district court which would force Solon officials to approve Hartsock's permit, Mayor Frank Reynolds and members of the Solon town council filed a reply Wednesday.

The petition said: "Since Solon is only 10 miles from the University of Iowa the defendants owe a duty to the public of the state and parents of the students who attend school there, and this duty consists of proper policing and regulation of taverns."

Met Legal Requirements

Hartsock claimed in his suit, filed Jan. 6, that he had met the legal requirements for a class B permit and had offered a permit fee of $300.

The Solon officials' petition said the town had passed an ordinance limiting the number of permits to be granted.

It said this was in accordance with a state law which says there shall only be one permit for each 500 population.

Population of 510

The reply said Solon has a population of 510. The question will be heard during the February term of court.

Asks Hirohito Trial As War Criminal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Russia demanded Wednesday that Emperor Hirohito of Japan be tried as a war criminal on charges involving bacteriological warfare.

The demand was made in a note delivered to Secretary of State Dean Acheson by Soviet Ambassador Alexander S. Panyushkin. It was understood the Soviets were also distributing the note to the other members of the 13 nation far eastern commission.

That is the top policy making body for the Japanese occupation.

The note, which has yet to be made public, reportedly asks for war crimes trials of four other Japanese in addition to Hirohito. Their names were not immediately made known.

Panyushkin did not get an instant reply from Acheson during the seven minutes he was in the secretary's office.

MARGARET TRUMAN ON WAX

NEW YORK (AP) — Margaret Truman will begin making recordings for RCA-Victor late in 1950, the company announced Wednesday.

Glass Eye Smashes; Marriage Likewise

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Mrs. Philomena Augustino, 41, was granted a divorce Wednesday after she testified she didn't know her husband, Antonio, 66, had a glass eye. She learned of the glass eye, she said, when it broke while she and her hubby were fighting after three years of marriage.

Oxford Man Charged With Poisoning Attempt

Anton Tomash, Oxford township, today will go before Justice of Peace C. J. Hutchinson for a preliminary hearing on the charge he attempted to poison his wife.

Tomash was arrested late Wednesday by Johnson County Sheriff Pat Murphy after Hutchinson issued a warrant charging Tomash with "poisoning food and drink with intent to kill or injure."

Mrs. Tomash filed the charge, saying her husband put strychnine in her drink, Hutchinson said.

Wilber J. Teeters, dean emeritus of the SUI college of pharmacy, said he had the evidence presented to him and "found enough poison to kill several people in a cup she was using to drink orange juice."

Hutchinson said Mrs. Tomash told him the following story: In the middle of January, she had eaten some canned fruit, and noticed it tasted rather bitter. The fruit made her sick, but she had no reason to believe she was being poisoned.

Last week when she noticed something in the bottom of a cup, she became suspicious and sent the cup to county officials to be tested for poison.

Grand Jury Meets, May Indict Elefson

SIDNEY (AP) — A grand jury that is expected to consider the Lyman Elefson poison murder case convened Wednesday.

Elefson, former student at the University of Iowa, has pleaded innocent to a charge of murder filed in connection with the poison death of his grandfather, Alonzo L. Rhode. Elefson is being held in the county jail in lieu of $20,000 bond.

His attorneys have filed an appeal to the Iowa supreme court for a writ of habeas corpus.

Witnesses have been subpoenaed to appear before the grand jury in connection with the case. Authorities said consideration of the case would probably begin today.

MacArthur Aids Ask US Power in Pacific

TOKYO (AP) — The United States must throw more air, sea and land power into its Pacific line if it is to hold back Asia's Communist tide, the joint chiefs of staff were told Wednesday.

Trustworthy informants said General MacArthur's highest commanders presented that view in the first full - dress conference with the chiefs of staff, now on a tour of Pacific installations.

WANT JITNEY LICENSE

OTTUMWA (AP) — Ottumwa City lines Wednesday sought district court action to regain its jitney license and prevent the city council from terminating the license or refusing to accept the fee.

Tell UN We'll Ban H-Bomb: Vandenberg

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Arthur Vandenberg (R-Mich) said Wednesday night the United States should announce to the world it stands ready to abandon the hydrogen super-bomb as soon as such weapons can be "dependably outlawed."

Vandenberg called on President Truman to so notify the United Nations. His statement came amid a furore over other H-bomb developments:

1. American atomic leader were reported hopeful of exploding the first hydrogen bomb in 1951 — or even earlier.

2. Sen. Millard Tydings (D-Md) urged stepped-up research to make sure this country will have planes big enough to carry the H-bomb when it is invented.

3. Some congress members advocated a new attempt to bring about rigid international control of atomic energy before the United States goes to work on the H-bomb.

4. Sen. John Bricker (R-Ohio) said he doubts that the White House decision to develop the H-bomb would cause any change in Russia's actions — "they go ahead and do anything they want," he said.

Tydings, chairman of the senate armed services committee, raised the question of planes big enough to deliver the projected "super bomb" in protesting against any delay on a bill dealing with aeronautical research.

Impatiently, Tydings told the senate: "You've heard of the hydrogen bomb. Well, we'll have to have an airplane big enough to carry it."

Later, Tydings told newsmen he doesn't believe anybody knows, yet, what the size or shape of a hydrogen bomb would be. He said research on planes to carry the bomb should go forward simultaneously with work on the H-bomb itself.

Vandenberg, Republican foreign policy leader, made the following comment on President Truman's fateful order for speedy development of the new-type bomb:

"In view of the fact that ruthless aggression is loose in the world, I should say that the President's decision was unavoidable. Obviously it is subject to congressional referendum in respect to the appropriations involved."

"I wish the President, however, would immediately notify the United Nations of our intent and purpose to suspend all our activities in respect to mass destruction weapons the first moment the use of these weapons can be dependably outlawed."

"Unfortunately, the Moscow attitude has thus far prevented this reliance," Vandenberg said.

Senator Plans Aid Bill For Public Schools Only

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Graham Barden (D-NC) said Wednesday he will introduce a new federal school aid bill, providing strict bans on parochial and private school participation.

Barden said his new bill will contain even more stringent provisions against church-school aid than his original version. That bill was denounced as "un-American" by the Roman Catholic hierarchy.

Senate Votes Election Change

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new method of electing presidents and vice presidents was approved by the senate Wednesday in a proposed constitutional amendment still subject to action by the house and 48 state legislatures.

It would abolish the electoral college as such, and split the electoral vote of each state among the candidates in proportion to their popular vote.

If approved, it would be the first change in the presidential electing machinery in 145 years.

The senate approved the proposed constitutional amendment, 64 to 27, more than the required two-thirds margin. A similar majority is required in the house. Then the legislatures of three-fourths of the states would have to ratify it before it became a part of the nation's basic law.

Democrats backed the proposal strongly. A majority of the Republican senators opposed it, although its chief sponsor was one of their own number, Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., of Massachusetts. Forty-six Democrats and 18 Republicans lined up for it on the final vote; 23 Republicans and four Democrats opposed it.

Various substitutes, including proposals to elect the president by straight nationwide popular vote, were turned down.

Senator Guy Gillette (D-Iowa) voted with the majority Wednesday to change the method of electing the President. Senator Bourke Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) was listed as among those not voting or paired but announced as for the amendment.

Potatoes Point Up a Need —

Potatoes are putting Agriculture Secretary Charles Brannan in a dilemma. He is faced with the alternative of destroying 50-million bushels of surplus potatoes or putting them on the market and watching the price hit absurd lows.

In fact, this second alternative is really beyond consideration. Potatoes have been a supported crop for so long that it would be poor policy to let the controls go at this time.

What will actually occur, in all probability, is complete destruction of the surplus spuds. Some manufacturers have indicated that they might purchase them, but are reluctant to pay even the freight costs that would be necessary.

Having to come to such a solution is a tragic thing. Destroying enough potatoes to feed millions of starving persons points up a lack of something. It seems to run at cross purposes with the whole aim of recovery and the Marshall plan.

Such a troublesome surplus should, however, give the administration a boost when it comes to tossing the Brannan plan into the congressional ballgame once more.

Subsidy payments — although they run along with production and marketing controls — should keep such surpluses from accumulating. If such surpluses are going to be wasted, there is no reason why they should be produced.

Everyone is a little skeptical of the "planned economy" of which the agriculture secretary seems to be scratching the surface. But certainly no one can sympathize with the wastage of $100-million worth of potatoes.

It is a fair deal problem. Up to now, the administration has been largely unsuccessful in keeping farm production at levels where it could be easily handled.

If it can convince congressmen that it has the solution now, smooth sailing may be ahead for the farm program. On the other hand, there is also the possibility that the new proposals would only compound the error.

MacArthur Tastes His Own Medicine —

Gen. Douglas MacArthur is getting a taste in Boston of his own medicine. The general probably remembers when he ordered a United Press correspondent thrown out of occupied Japan for security reasons.

MacArthur has pulled several other tricks along the same line. He has cracked down on the freedom of Fourth Estaters to report the occupation to their newspapers in America.

Always the answer has been the same: security. The success of the occupation depends on American newsmen not breaking his security rules.

Close observers of the iron-fisted regime have claimed the security cloak is of doubtful parentage and not wholly honorable. Despite this criticism, MacArthur has continued to rule Japan with something approaching cloak and dagger tactics.

Now MacArthur has sent Japanese representatives to America that they may see democracy at work — and his mission ran smack into a Boston stone wall.

That city's governing body ruled the visitors couldn't watch the council at work because, it claimed, the Japanese were here only to learn about our atomic secrets.

(Just what Boston's city council would be doing with atomic secrets hasn't been made clear, but apparently the council felt itself justified in refusing admittance to the Japanese.)

So Gen. MacArthur has had the tables nearly turned and faces the same dilemma he forced on American newsmen. We wonder what the old soldier feels now that the shoe is on the other foot?

Red Faces, but the 'Big Mo' Is Free —

The inter-service squabble that racked our defense department has died down, but chances are a lot of foreboding thoughts have been in the air since the "Big Mo" hung itself up in the waters off Norfolk, Va.

The battleship Missouri, one of the biggest battlewagons in the world, until Wednesday was as helpless as a one-legged turtle playing center field.

Several rescue efforts, which involved the army as well as the navy, failed before the huge craft was finally freed. At first, it was thought that the mud holding the giant captive might be dredged away, but this proved to be impossible.

Then better than 20 tugs, salvage ships and beach gear rigs pulled all together, but still the boat held fast. Efforts to fasten pontoons below her stern — for greater lifting power — also were futile.

But finally, Wednesday, the combined efforts of the tugs, a high tide, a north-east wind and straining winches succeeded in freeing the Missouri from the hard sand that held it for 15 days.

The Big Mo finding her way to the open seas spared a lot of navy men permanent red faces. Ever since the defense department scuttled plans for the B-36 navy airship, the navy has been losing prestige. If the giant battleship had set much longer on the bottom of Chesapeake bay, the department might have decided that battleships were obsolete. That would have been the straw for the camel's back.

To Cut Down Traffic Deaths —

Five eastern Iowa cities have taken a commendable new step towards cutting down street and highway accidents. Although the plan is still largely in the experimental stage, there is no reason why it shouldn't work.

The five cities, Cedar Rapids, Clinton, Waterloo, Davenport and Dubuque have tentatively agreed to a plan of uniform traffic law enforcement.

The new plan would set up uniform enforcement policies involving the six most frequent traffic offenses, speeding, disobeying traffic signals, disobeying stop signs, improper left turns, improper right turns, and improper passing.

Under the new plan, drivers would be subject to the same restrictions in one city as in another. If the speed limit were 25 miles per hour, drivers would be picked up when exceeding the limit. They wouldn't be allowed to cruise along at 40 in some cities and still not be in danger of the traffic whistle.

Certainly, different traffic regulations have been the cause of many accidents. This is true more from state to state than it is from city to city.

Traffic accidents have taken their tragic tolls year after year. It is obligatory that cities, states, and even the nation explore any means that may lead to a reduction in the number of deaths.

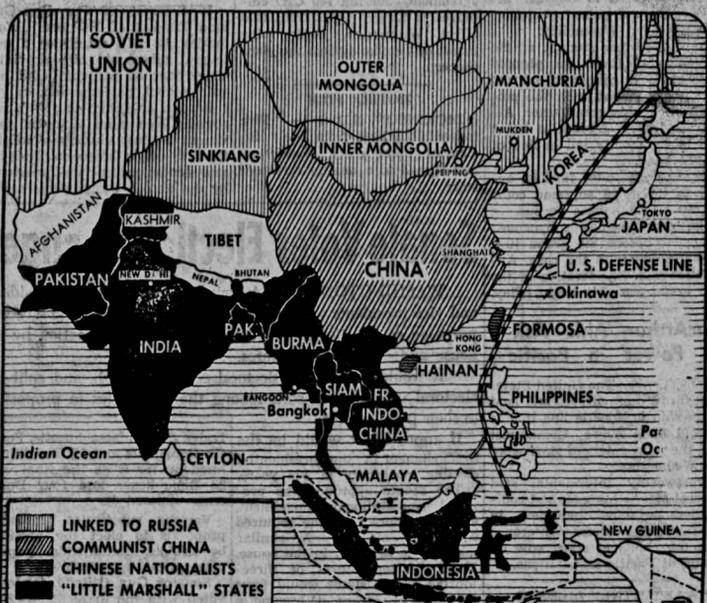

Standardization is certainly one means. The five Iowa cities are to be commended. If the new program works for them, it will undoubtedly spread to the rest of the state.

Iowa City would benefit from such a move. Let's hope that it, too, will take part when the opportunity presents itself.

forsook for underground warmth last fall.

The whole future of Iowa's weather depends, the story goes, on which way Mr. Ground Hog faces and whether the sun is shining. Should he see his shadow by facing away from the sun — if there is one — we're in for six weeks more of winter.

Line-Up of the Troubled East

THIS IS THE WAY the far east lines up as final preparations are made for an Asiatic meeting this month. Top U. S. Diplomats, headed by Philip Jessup, will meet at Bangkok, Siam, to weld details of an anti-Communist strategy. Plans will be formed around a "Little Marshall plan" for southeast Asia, with aid, including arms, tailored to fit the special needs of each nation. A definite U.S. far eastern policy will probably emerge from the conference.

Students to Earn Credit for Summer Trips

You won't find it in SUI's schedule of courses, but six hours of college credit can be earned for spending a summer in Europe.

Prof. Oscar Nybakken of the SUI classics department will lead a classical backgrounds tour through Italy, Switzerland, France, Belgium, Holland and England this summer.

Six hours of college credit will be granted to students passing examinations over the tour and the discussions involved. Nybakken said.

The all-inclusive price of the tour is $1,475.

This may seem like a lot of money, Nybakken said, but students should deduct the cost of going to summer school from the total to get an estimate of actual travel expenditures.

Reservations for the two-month tour sponsored by the Bureau of University Travel will be accepted from 25 students or former students.

A payment of $100 will hold a reservation and will be refunded if cancellation is necessary.

"A tremendous amount of misleading information is being circulated about European tours," Nybakken said.

Supposedly European travel costs have fallen with the devaluation of the British pound.

However, Nybakken said, this does not hold true in France and Italy, where prices have risen 25 or 30 percent above the 1949 level.

Anticipating the tourist boom, American speculators have bought accommodations in Italy to the extent of $2-million, he added.

Another cause of high prices is the willingness of the American tourist to pay. Because extreme prices in these countries are still lower than prices in the United States, tourists pay them cheerfully.

Other tours to be conducted this summer are centered on comparative government, political science, modern European history, drama and theater, music appreciation, art and culture, European art, backgrounds of English history and literature and the flying seminar on comparative European education.

Applications for any of these tours can be obtained from Nybakken at his office, 111 Schaefer hall.

Atom Blast Within 1,000 Feet Would Wreck Any Building

No building can be designed to withstand the effects of a direct atomic bomb hit or a burst within a radius of about 1,000 feet, according to an article by Harry L. Bowman in the current issue of Engineering News-Record.

Bowman said something can be done about making office and factory buildings, outside this critical circle immediately below the bomb burst, safer against an atomic bomb attack, however.

Bowman is a consultant to the atomic energy commission on weapons effects and protective construction. In addition, he is a professor of civil engineering at Drexel Institute in Philadelphia.

He said properly designed buildings can withstand many of the terrific forces unleashed, and claim the best type of building is one of poured reinforced concrete or steel frame covered with corrugated asbestos.

The steel frame should be well braced and connected continuously, and connections should be sturdy.

Bowman pointed out, however, that even though the walls may stand, deadly radiation effects may seep through.

New Job Openings With Civil Service

Mineral technologists are wanted by the U.S. civil service commission for jobs connected with development of mineral resources in region five of the U.S. bureau of mines.

N.J. Oganovic, eighth region director, U.S. civil service commission, Monday announced examinations for positions paying $5,400 to $6,400 a year in Iowa, Michigan, Minnesota, Nebraska, North and South Dakota and Wisconsin.

There is no written test for these positions and applicants will be rated on appropriate education and experience.

Further details and application forms may be obtained from Lester Parizek, civil service secretary, at the Iowa City post office.

Former Iowa Citizen Gets Army Promotion

Corp. Jack M. Manary, son of Mrs. Leo L. Embree, 318 E. Jefferson street, has been tested and found qualified for a military occupational specialty of general clerk, according to a report from Yokohama, Japan.

This qualification will aid Manary in obtaining advancement under the army's new career plan governing all promotions of enlisted men. Manary has been in Japan since June, 1947.

Interpreting the News — U.S. Draws Line in East

By J.M. ROBERTS JR. AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

Despite recent statements of political policy which seemed to wash America's hands of the military situation in China and southeast Asia, the U.S. chiefs of staff are being urged during their Oriental tour to revive the issue.

The joint chiefs planned their trip, as did Mr. Philip Jessup of the state department who is on a similar tour in the diplomatic field, when their findings might still have had some effect on specific subjects. But the political situation in Washington brought public statements from Secretary Dean Acheson and President Truman which sounded final.

The President said the U.S. would not intervene militarily to save Formosa from the Communists.

Acheson said in effect that the Philippines, Okinawa, Japan and Korea marked the American frontier in the Pacific.

Seemingly, then, the joint chiefs would have no further responsibility than to see to the defenses of this frontier.

The chief result of their visit, then if this hypothesis is correct, would be its effect on the talk of a Japanese peace treaty.

This is true particularly in connection with reports that Yokusuka will be recommended as a permanent and prime American naval base in the far Pacific, and that key American air bases should be established in Japan proper.

All this would be in addition to Okinawa, where permanent installations, particularly air, already have been established.

There has been much talk of American responsibility for the defense of disarmed Japan, meaning, of course, that the islands are vital to the U.S. military position in the Pacific. There has even been talk of helping Japan prepare for self-defense despite her U.S. sponsored constitutional rejection of future wars.

What the United States wants out of a Japanese peace treaty from a military standpoint will, of course, be of prime significance. The visit of the chief of staff, then, may be more of an indication of some early move toward a treaty than of anything connected with anti-Communist policy in Formosa, Indo-China and the rest of southeast Asia.

Tax Swindle? ... TO THE EDITOR:

Are SUI students being swindled by a sales tax racket?

The nature of the Iowa sales tax is such that the retailer pays two percent tax on his total sales and he, in turn, charges his customers approximately the same amount.

However, some Iowa City merchants selling coffee, ice cream, snacks and soft drinks do not follow this system consistently. For example, a person buying two ten cent items in a snack shop is presented with two checks and pays a penny tax. But if a person buys two fifteen cent items he is presented with two fifteen cent checks and charged two cents tax. A person is not permitted to pay tax on his total bill as before, but instead is required to pay the tax twice.

In instances such as this, I believe SUI students, who are the most frequent customers of such places, are being swindled by a sales tax racket.

Art Room at U-High Modernized with Color

New Shades Needed For Tempo of Times

Color is king is University high school's art room since its redecoration by Frank Wachowiak, head of the school's art education department.

Paprika red, warm and cool grays, chartreuse, turquoise and rich brown bring the once drab room up to the tempo of the times.

"Colors for today should be as exciting as contemporary life," Wachowiak said. "You can build with color."

Seemed Expensive

Although changing the atmosphere of the room looked like an expensive venture to many, the art supervisor said he thought great improvement could be made at low cost.

He obtained paint, burlap and pine boards, recruited practice teachers and art students and went to work.

Semi-partitions were constructed from the narrow boards to divide the single room into functional sections.

The latticed tops of the partitions form part of the room's modern design. Burlap-covered lower sections can be used for exhibition of art work.

Eye-Catching Effects

Among the new divisions formed is a teacher's counseling area. This space makes consultation possible while class is being held in the adjoining drawing area.

Other sections are a woodworking and pottery division, an elementary art room and an exhibition area.

Many of the eye-catching decorating effects were achieved inexpensively. Shadow boxes, for instance, were made from old crates, and bulletin boards were painted black and bound with rope to simulate old-fashioned slates.

Most Important Factor

Back to color, Wachowiak called

AFTER INTRODUCTION OF "KING COLOR," the art room was turned to the tempo of the times. Inexpensive redecoration was achieved mainly through the use of paint. The room was also divided into functional divisions by modern looking semi-partitions made from pine and burlap.

ed it the most important factor in the room's remodeling.

Glancing at the paprika red interior of a supply closet, he said, "At least the students are going to learn not to be afraid of color."

Plans are being made for displaying the work of SUI art students in the exhibition area, as well as that of high school artists. A special table has been built for the exhibition of sculpture.

Poet Ogden Nash to Lecture In Iowa Union Lounge Feb. 9

Tickets will be available Monday at the Iowa Union desk for the Feb. 9 lecture of Ogden Nash, writer of light verse. Nash, speaking on "Midway Thru Nash" at 8 p.m. in the main lounge, will recite a number of his verses and comment on the events in his life that caused their creation.

Latest Book

His latest book, "I'm 'Stranger Here Myself," published in 1936, sold more than 100,000 copies in the first edition. Other of his works are "Hard Lines," "Good Intentions," "Many Long Years Ago" and "The Face Is Familiar."

Nash wrote the lyrics and was co-author with S.J. Perelman of the musical, "One Touch of Venus."

Born in Rye, N.Y., he is a descendant of a North Carolina revolutionary general, Francis Nash, who gave his name to Nashville, Tenn.

Doodled at Desk

He entered the Harvard class of 1925 but left after one year. After selling bonds in New York, Nash went to work for an advertising agency. In 1925 he joined the advertising staff of Doubleday Page, publishing house.

While working there he began his writing career by doodling at his desk. He attributes this accidental beginning of his career to "the sudden and subconscious idea of writing bad verse deliberately."

Except for a brief period during which he was managing editor of "The New Yorker" Nash has concentrated for some 20 years on producing verse.

ACADEMY SITES SURVEYED

WASHINGTON (AP) — Army engineers have been asked to survey more than 100 possible sites for the proposed airforce academy, but some of the people doing the work are willing to bet the location has been at least informally selected. They'll bet, too, it's in Texas.

Spry was born in Henry county on March 26, 1889, and educated in Mt. Pleasant and Ottumwa schools. He is a member of the Westminster United Presbyterian church and the Polk county chapter of the Isaac Walton league

Skiing in the 'K-Ration Alps'

THIS MAY NOT BE SUN VALLEY but Iowa City boasts a few slopes to keep skiers in trim. Torstein Lundesgaard, E4, Oslo, Norway, gave the "K-ration Alps" near Hillcrest a workout Wednesday and found the snow "a little thin, but good." Torstein, who learned to walk on barrel-staves, said Iowa's snowfall compares favorably with his native Norway. This winter, however, Mother Nature has given short shrift to skiers. If she offers nothing better to winter sportsmen than the ice-storm of last week, Torstein plans to trade in his skis for skates.

Norwegian Skier, Wartime Saboteur —

Finds IC Slopes Ski-Worthy

Although Iowa's terrain isn't the most rugged in the nation, Norwegian skier Torstein Lundesgaard, E4, Oslo, said Wednesday his skis haven't gathered dust during his two-year stay at SUI.

Lundesgaard was practically weaned on skis — "I think I could 'slalom' before I could walk — and in his native Norway he learned that, like home, skiing ground is where you find it.

"Iowa City gets about the same amount of snow as Oslo," he said. "The slopes aren't as fast here, but generally speaking this isn't a bad spot for skiers."

Studying Civil Engineering
Lundesgaard is studying civil engineering on an international scholarship from SUI. He plans to take advanced work after graduating in June and then will return to Norway.

In Norway Lundesgaard lived near the famous skiing resort at Nordmarka, with ski runs nearly 1,800 feet high. Nordmarka is renowned for its international jumping event on the first Sunday of March every year.

Participants in this contest are selected from countries the world over. The only prerequisite is that the skiers are amateurs and don't get dizzy from height.

Lundesgaard himself has never entered this contest, but he has copied first prize in several smaller tournaments throughout Norway. His specialty is cross-country, although he holds his own in downhill 'slalom' — zig-zagging — and jumping as well.

Hitch-Hiked to California
While a student at Norway's Schous Institute of Technology, from which he transferred to SUI in 1948, Lundesgaard spent his Easter vacations junketing across Norway with skis and dog-sleds. On one such trip, he covered 200 miles in nine weeks. Still wearing seven-league boots, he hitch-hiked to California and back last summer with a friend. Travel is cheap, if you don't mind blisters, he discovered.

Lundesgaard was a member of the Norwegian underground from 1943 to 1945, during the Nazi occupation. While still in high school he engaged in sabotage and resistance activity.

"Even during the occupation one phase of life kept on as usual," he said. "That was skiing."

Married Students' Housing Inadequate

By NEDIM CAPMAN and JOHN ROSS

The February enrollment of new students will present SUI housing officials with the same problem, insufficient housing for married students.

University officials stated that any university housing space for married students made available by February graduation will be more than taken up by waiting lists.

"We cannot definitely say how many units will be vacated for the new semester because many of the students remain to do graduate work," J. Robert Cotter, manager of married student's housing, said.

1,004 Units

He added that with the completion of the veterans apartments on Capitol street, the university will have 1,004 units for married students.

All of these units are now filled and the expected turnover from February graduation will make only a small dent in the long waiting list, he said.

The same situation exists for married students' housing off the campus.

Richard Sweitzer, director of off campus housing, said he expects no ease to the off campus housing problems of married students as a result of February graduations.

"We have never been able to furnish enough apartments for married students and with the expansion of Iowa City and the continued high enrollment of the university, I can see no let up in the near future."

Largest Difficulty

"Couples with children are our largest difficulty. They still meet with the rebuff 'I like children, but a dog is okay, but no children,'" Sweitzer said.

Housing for single students, both on and off the campus, is the only bright spot in the housing situation.

Sweitzer said his office has been able to supply housing for all single students who have applied.

"With the last university inspection, we have over 1,100 householders who rent to students, and though we have lost some housing due to non-cooperation of students, there are still plenty of sleeping rooms for single students."

"Single students who apply for dormitory housing will meet with no difficulty," Imelda C. Murphy, manager of the dormitory assignment office, said.

Space in Cottages

"There will be plenty of space in the cottages for single students who apply."

They will be moved into the dormitories when vacancies occur according to the date of their application, she said.

Area Rent Control Director T.J. Wilkinson, said that since the installation of rent control in December, 1944, he has seen no great change in the amount of housing available because of graduation.

"No houses have been kept off the market because all Iowa City landlords can obtain a reasonable rent."

Wilkinson said the real need in Iowa City was for construction of units that would rent for $40 to $50 a month.

LEAVING HIS POST as chief counsel to President Harry Truman is Clark Clifford (seated). Clifford officially retired Wednesday. He plans to open a private law business. His successor as chief counsel will be Charles Murphy (standing) a North Carolinian.

Hearing Postponed For Student Cabbie

Lloyd W. King, C3, Hiorvick, driver of the taxi from which Mrs. Jacqueline Bloom was allegedly thrown and injured in an accident Tuesday night, posted $15 bond in police court Wednesday and was granted a postponement of hearing until Tuesday.

Emil Yoder, route 2, Wellman, also involved in the accident, paid a $12.50 fine for failing to stop at a stop sign.

In other police court action, Phillip Kabela, Iowa City, was sentenced to five days in the county jail on each of two false check charges. Two days of each sentence will be suspended if restitution is made, according to Judge Emil Trott's order.

Byron Hopkins, 20 W. Burlington street, paid $7 for meter violations and failing to answer summons.

Grad Ends Training For Foreign Work

George D. Miller, an SUI graduate from Albia, was graduated by the American Institute for Foreign Trade at Thunderbird Field near Phoenix, Arizona, last week.

Miller had completed an intensive year's study in international business administration and foreign languages designed to prepare him for a position in foreign service with an American business firm or the government.

Miller attended SUI from 1940 to 1943, and again in 1948. He left in January, 1949, to enroll at the American Institute for Foreign Trade.

$200 Fire in Home At Finkbine Park

A fire Wednesday afternoon at the home of Sgt. J.P. Anderson, 618 Finkbine park, caused an estimated $200 damage, J. Robert Cotter, manager of married students housing, said Wednesday.

Two trucks answered the call and kept the blaze from spreading through the rest of the barracks style house.

A davenport and a rug was burned and smoke damage was extensive, Cotter said. Firemen listed the cause of the fire as "probably a cigarette."

Anderson is connected with the SUI ROTC department.

Lambeau Quits At Green Bay, Signs With Chicago Cardinals

Resigns Position to 'Restore Harmony'

CHICAGO (AP)—Earl L. (Curly) Lambeau, dean of professional football coaches with 31 years as major coach of the Green Bay Packers, Wednesday became head coach of the Chicago Cardinals.

Lambeau, 51, accepted a two-year contract as Cardinal field boss and vice-president after resigning at Green Bay to "restore the harmony so necessary if the Packers are to keep their place in major league football."

14th Cardinal Coach
Lambeau becomes the 14th Cardinal coach since the club was organized in 1921, succeeding Raymond (Buddy) Parker, who resigned last December. Lambeau's salary was undisclosed, but he'll run the Cardinal show.

At a news conference Lambeau said he was interested in signing Cecil Isbell, former coach of the Baltimore Colts, who starred as a passer for him at Green Bay. He also said he planned to continue the T formation, which the Cardinals used successfully last season.

"I am confident I can do a better coach job for the Cardinals than I did at Green Bay," he added.

Lambeau's only coaching peer in pro football is coach George Halas of the Chicago Bears, one of his bitterest rivals in a packer-Bear feud which has crackled down through the years.

Lambeau organized the Packers in 1919, a year before Halas founded the Decatur, Ill., Staleys, forerunners of the Bears. Both were iron men of the National Football league which this year becomes the National-American league.

Resume Rivalry
Now they resume their ancient rivalry in the field on a cross-town basis. That won't hurt a bit the turnstiles at Comiskey Park and Wrigley Field where the Cards and Bears respectively operate.

The Cardinals caught Lambeau on the recoil after front office bickering at Green Bay. Curly's letter of resignation Wednesday addressed to Emil R. Fischer, Packers president, clearly indicated that he was quitting instead of playing second fiddle at Green Bay.

The letter conceded that packer policy changes the past several years with which Lambeau disagreed "brought about a dangerous disunity of purpose within the corporation, one which in my opinion threatens the existence of the club."

Lambeau Signs with Cards

FORMER GREEN BAY COACH Earl "Curly" Lambeau (right) Wednesday signed a two-year contract with the Chicago Cardinals. Lambeau, who served as Packers coach for 31 years prior to the acceptance of the Cardinal post, will serve as vice-president of the Chicago team and will have complete charge of player personnel. Watching signing proceedings is Ray C. Benningsen, Cardinal president.

Rehfeldt Leads Big 10 Scorers

CHICAGO (AP)—Defending champion Don Rehfeldt of runner-up Wisconsin Wednesday held a fractional lead in average Big Ten basketball scoring over Dick Schnittker of first-place Ohio State, 21.7 to an even 20 points per game.

Rehfeldt, however, has played only four conference games in scoring 87 points, while Schnittker has hustled through seven games for a 147-point bag.

The big Badger center and the bounding Buckeye forward will feud face-to-face for the only time this season in the crucial Buckeye-Badger game at Columbus Saturday night.

Schnittker already has topped his 12-game total of 144 points last season when he finished seventh in conference scoring. Rehfeldt won the individual title last season with 229 points, an average of 19 points.

The towering Wisconsin hookshot artist will have to maintain

Unknown Now Nation's Top Cage Scorer

NEW YORK (AP)—George King, a comparative "little" six-footer from Morris-Harvey college at Charleston, W. Va., has taken over first place in collegiate basketball's individual scoring race.

King ousted big Nate DeLong, of River Falls (Wis.) Teachers, by getting 12 field goals and 11 free throws for 35 points Tuesday night against Glenville. This gave him a season total of 554 points compared to DeLong's 550.

A week ago DeLong held a 40-point edge over King, 480-440, but King rushed to the fore with 114 points in his last four games while DeLong was getting 70 in two games.

Monday night DeLong rimmed 25 points against LaCrosse (Wis.) to King's 34 against Wheaton (Ill.). This left big Nate with a 31-point edge until King bombarded the net with his 35 points against Glenville.

King and DeLong, so far, are making far ahead of the others. Ron Bontemps, of Beloit, held third place at 430 points although he did not play during the week.

Leslie Curry, of Montana State, moved up to fourth with 399 points, one point ahead of Bob Cope, of Montana. Charley Share, of Bowling Green, did not play and dropped from fourth to sixth with 385. Jim McCabe of Loras is seventh with 380, and Andy Taff of Hanover eighth with 378.

Bobby Jones Voted Century's Top Golfer

NEW YORK (AP)—Bobby Jones, Atlanta's "boy wonder" who fashioned an unparalleled grand slam, took his place beside other sports giants as the greatest golfer of the age.

The fluid-swimming Georgian, who won every major championship from one to five times and then retired at 28 while at his playing peak, was an overwhelming choice in The Associated Press' fifty-year poll.

He thus joined these others as the greatest in their specialty through the first half of the twentieth century.

THE TOP EIGHT

- Bobby Jones, 283
- Ben Hogan, 47
- Walter Hagen, 29
- Byron Nelson, 17
- Sammy Snead, 6
- Cene Sarazen, 4
- Hoey Wethered, 2
- Jack Vardon, 1

tieth century: Jack Dempsey, boxing; Jesse Owens, track; Jim Thorpe, football, and George Mikan, basketball.

In the golf balloting, no one else was close to this fabulous amateur shotmaker of the golden twenties who climaxed a spectacular career in 1930 by winning four top championships in the space of four months.

Beginning with the British amateur title May 31 at historic St. Andrews, Jones went on to capture the British open at Hoylake, the U.S. open at Interlachen and the U.S. amateur at Merion Cricket club in Ardmore, Pa.

It was a sweep unmatched on the links before or since. The sport's wise men say it probably never will be achieved again.

Last-Second Basket Tips St. Mary's, 37-34

A basket by Jim Rowen in the last second of play, gave Burlington Catholic a thrilling 37-34 victory over St. Mary's Wednesday night at the Junior high school gymnasium.

With the contest tied at 34-34, and an overtime period seemingly certain, Rowen grabbed a loose ball under his own basket and calmly sank the clincher as the game-ending gong sounded. Fouled on the play, he registered a free throw after the game was officially over.

St. Mary's, starting fast, raced to a 13-5 lead at the quarter and opened a 20-8 bulge by the half. Bob Sueppel, whose 15 points were high for the evening, paced the Ramblers' attack.

The visitors trimmed the lead to 26-20 by the end of the third period, as St. Mary's was able to record only one field goal for the session.

After tying the contest at 28-28, Burlington fell three points behind. But a last minute rally set the stage for Rowen's dramatic goal.

Senior League 74 Years Old

NEW YORK (AP)—The National league, baseball's senior circuit, celebrates the beginning of its 74th year today.

The game has come a long way since Feb. 2, 1876 when William A. Hulbert, a prominent Chicago business man, and Albert G. Spalding, famous pitcher of the day, founded the National league.

Only two clubs—Boston and Chicago—of the original eight have gone through all 74 seasons without a miss. Had the Cincinnati club not been dropped in 1881 for selling liquor on its grounds, it, too, would have gone through without interruption. The Reds returned in 1900.

Followed Old Loop
The National league's inception followed the disintegration of the National Association of Professional Baseball players which was organized in 1871 and collapsed in 1875. Inadequate central control, breaches of contract, intimidation of umpires and open gambling and dishonesty were blamed for its downfall.

Hulbert, Spalding and Morgan G. Bulkeley, the circuit's first president, were motivated by one idea—to eliminate the gambling and dishonesty that had brought baseball into disrepute.

The 25 seasons before 1900 were years of change, construction and reconstruction, experimentation and reorganization, inner strife and combats with rival leagues.

31 in 25 Years
Thirty-one different franchises were held during the 25 years up to and including 1900.

In the years since 1900, there hasn't been one franchise change. The eight cities that lined up at the start of the 1901 season have continued their unbroken membership through the years.

12 Teams to Play In Invitational Meet

NEW YORK (AP)—A dozen teams, the same number as last year, will be invited to compete in the 13th annual National Invitational basketball tournament in Madison Square Garden, Asa Bushnell, tournament committee chairman, announced Wednesday.

The tournament will hold forth five days, beginning March 11. Other games will be played March 13, 14, 16 and 18. The Invitational, inaugurated in 1938, is sponsored by the Metropolitan Intercollegiate basketball association, headed by Walter McLaughlin, athletic director of St. John's University. San Francisco university was the winner last year, defeating Loyola of Chicago in the finals.

List of Coach Prospects Cut By Committee

Chopping down a list of about 60 prospects for the University of Iowa football coaching job confronted the five-member staff committee of Iowa's athletic board Wednesday night.

The committee met with the "sole purpose" of whittling down the growing list of names to a more workable number, according to Athletic Director Paul Brechler.

It was the second committee meeting since Dr. Eddie Anderson, Iowa coach for eight seasons, resigned Saturday to go to Holy Cross. Anderson came to Iowa from Holy Cross in 1939.

"Just because we're cutting a few names off the list does not mean we're through looking around," Brechler said. "We're still open for suggestions. But we must get some of the less likely possibilities off the list so we can go ahead and interview some of the others."

Brechler said the interviewing would probably begin later this week and continue until the right man is found. Members of the staff committee will do the contact work.

Brechler would not comment on whether Sid Luckman, long-time professional football star with the Chicago Bears, was a possibility other than to say there are several names of professional players on the list.

Another excellent prospect, according to rumors, is Lawrence Siemering, successful College of the Pacific coach since succeeding A.A. Stagg in 1947.

The rumors also had Jim Pheasant, left without a job when the professional Log Angeles Dons disbanded, and Southern California Coach Jeff Cravath in the running for the job along with others who have already been mentioned.

Fenton Still City Leader

Little Hawk Star Averaging 13.5 Per Game, Cooney Second with 12.9, Lenz Third

By OZZIE JENSEN

For the third straight week Bill Fenton of City high leads the point-getters in the Iowa City high school basketball scoring race. He has scored 176 points in 13 games for a 13.5 average.

Fenton has held the top spot since he passed Earl Cooney of St. Patrick's and Bud Lenz of St. Mary's during the Christmas holidays, except for a short time three weeks ago when Cooney moved up again to share the lead.

Cooney Close Second
Cooney, who has not been below second since the campaign began in November, is still close behind Fenton with a 12.9 average. He held onto the No. 2 position though his team was idle during the past week.

Lenz still has a slim hold on the No. 3 spot with a 9.9 average, but he is threatened by Gene Brawner of City high who owns a 9.7 average.

Alvin Streb of St. Patrick's with a 8.3, his teammate, Jerry Cunningham, with 8.0, and Evan Clausen of U-high with 7.5 complete the first seven which has not changed in three weeks.

Cooney still leads in total points—245 in 19 contests. Fenton's 176 in 13 games give him second in total scoring. Lenz has 168 for third, and Streb is fourth with 153.

Cooney leads again in field goals too, with 98. Behind him are Fenton with 66, Lenz with 65, Brawner with 57, and Streb with 56.

Streb is still the best free throw shooter in the city. He has 50 successful tosses. Next best is Cooney with 49. Fenton follows with 44, and Cunningham has 40.

The best one-man effort of the week was turned in by St. Mary's Eob Sueppel. Sueppel is the son of the Ramblers' coach, Francis Sueppel. The 5-foot-6-inch sophomore sophomore guard poured in six field goals and four free tosses for 16 points in his team's 44-28 win over St. Joseph's of Ft. Madison last Friday.

These tabulations include games through Tuesday, January 31. As taken from official score books, the leaders are:

Tickets Available Today For SUI Play, 'King Lear'

Tickets can be obtained today at room 8A, Schaeffer hall, for the University theater production of "King Lear" to be shown from Feb. 9 until 18.

Students may obtain seat reservations by presenting their I.D. cards.

The postwar generation finds "King Lear" the most modern of all Shakespeare's plays, Prof. George Kernodle, director of the play, said.

Director Kernodle claims world events of the 1950's turn people to thoughts and problems similar to those faced by Lear.

Butted by Storms In the play, the old world of love, trust, honesty and gratitude is swept away and Lear finds himself buffeted by storms and madness in one of the greatest scenes of terror and chaos ever written, Kernodle said.

Peace and order are restored, but only after the evil forces have destroyed themselves and some of the innocent people. Those who survive are ready to rebuild the world on the old values of sincerity, gratitude and love.

Shakespeare's richest poetry is in the play, Kernodle points out. Coming out of the action of the play, the poetry reinforces the themes of nature, beastiality and tragedy.

True Insight Emphasized Blindness, deception and true insight are emphasized. Gloucester is without true insight until he is blinded just as Lear comes to wider understanding only when he goes mad.

The action of the play begins when Lear divides his kingdom between his flattering daughters and the daughter who is plain-spoken. Nature recoils against the violation of the bond which binds children and parents. Only through great struggle and suffering does man learn to obey the laws of nature.

City Government Must Solve Parking Problem: Dutcher

Iowa City is to solve its parking problem, it is the responsibility of the city government to take action, Atty. Dan C. Dutcher told Chamber of Commerce members at their annual business meeting Tuesday night at the Hotel Jefferson.

Dutcher, chairman of the chamber's community parking committee, declared that although the parking problem is far from solved, means are available for the establishment of off-street parking.

He pointed out that parking meters can provide funds to buy off-street lots, but declared his committee can only advise, not act.

Chamber members also heard year-end reports from committee chairmen Irving Weber, community advertising, and Hugh Dunlap, agriculture.

Retiring Chamber Pres. Roland Smith introduced Roy Ewers, president for 1950. Ewers stressed that the chamber's long range plans call for the securing of industries for Iowa City.

Prof. Jim Jordan of the SUI information service spoke to the members on mutual problems of the city and university.

SUI Art Professor Speaks in Chicago

Prof. William Heckscher, SUI art department, presented an illustrated lecture at a meeting of the College Art association in Chicago last weekend.

Heckscher's paper, a summary of a larger work in progress, gave a hypothetical history of the classic statue, "Thornpuller," a piece which remained above ground in Rome through the entire Middle Ages.

Two features of the conference were the special showing of the Van Gogh exhibit to be opened to the public this week and the showing of the new art movie, "The Titian: Michelangelo."

Hollywood Accordionist Featured at Youth Rally

Arne Hartman of Hollywood, former entertainer and now full-time Christian worker, was featured on a program Wednesday evening at the Church of the Nazarene in Iowa City.

An accordion virtuoso, Hartman entertained at the Youth for Christ rally.

Bob Pierce, Los Angeles, vice president of Youth for Christ International, was the main speaker. Pierce is scheduled to leave the United States soon for a tour of the Orient.

Petition Filed Here To Evict Tenant Farmer

Suit was filed Wednesday in district court to evict Irvin Fountain from the John Walker farm near Lone Tree.

The petition, filed by Walker's guardian, Steyn C. Westfall, Lone Tree, charged Fountain had not paid $800 rent due Jan. 1 and had violated his contract.

The contract specified the 60-acre farm be planted in corn or beans, and Westfall charged oats were planted.

Steel Work Starts Again on Library After Week Delay

Steel construction continued Tuesday on the new SUI library after about a one-week delay caused by weather.

Ice and snow on the narrow beams stopped workmen from venturing off the ground.

Clarence Casey, superintendent of general construction, said that the plating stage has started.

Plating is a thin-ribbed steel that acts as a base and reinforcement for concrete floors, he said.

It has been placed on the west end of the second and third floors of the library.

About 20 carloads of plating was bought from two manufacturers and workmen have no expected material shortages in that phase, Casey said.

Robertson Decking company of Ambridge, Pa., furnished plating for the three main floors of the building. Ceco Steel Products received the contract for the attic plating.

Decrease Reported In Sale of Bonds

Total sales of United States savings bonds in Johnson county during 1949 reached $3,778,212. Series E bonds accounting for $2,385,683.

According to figures released Tuesday by Roger F. Warin, state director of the treasury department's savings bond division, total sales in Iowa during 1949 reached $220,400,902.

Total investments during 1949 were approximately $25-million less than in 1948, but only $10-million of the decrease came from series E bond sales, Warin asserted.

"The slight decrease in saving bonds sale and the increase in redemptions are not surprising, because during the war years, and since, many bonds were purchased as a means of saving for future major purchases when consumer goods could be obtained," Warin said.

Saxophonist to Give Two Concerts Here

Leeson's typical recital program includes compositions by Moritz Rachmaninoff and Rimsky-Korsakoff.

Boy Scouts To Mark 40th Anniversary

The 40th anniversary of the Boy Scouts of America will be celebrated in Iowa City as well as across the nation Feb. 6 through Feb. 12.

Knowledge of city government procedures will be gained by the Iowa City scouts when certain elected members take over the administration of Iowa City on Feb. 11, Martin L. Hunter, local scout executive, said Wednesday.

Two party caucuses will be held on Tuesday for the purpose of nominating city officers, Hunter explained. The election, in which every registered Boy Scout and Explorer may vote, will be held in city hall on Feb. 9.

Installation Ceremonies
Hunter said official installation ceremonies will be held in the city offices the morning of Feb. 11.

One of the highlights of Scout week will be the presentation of a report to President Truman on the accomplishments of scouting in its crusade to "Strengthen the Arm of Liberty," Hunter said.

Coincidental with the event in Washington will be a report to the governor of each of the 48 states on Feb. 11.

Harold V. Vestermark, president, Hunter and one Boy Scout or Explorer from the Iowa River Valley council, will participate in the ceremony in Governor Beardsley's office in Des Moines.

New Changes
Several changes have taken place in the scouting program in the past year, Hunter said. Lowering the age requirements for Cub, Boy and Explorer Scouts to 8, 11, and 14 respectively were the major changes.

Hunter said several new Cub Scout, Boy Scout and Explorers were registered in the council.

During January alone, 55 new Cubs were registered, which is an indication of the growing desire on the part of the boys to participate, he said.

Another highlight in the activities in Johnson county district, Hunter added, would be the annual appreciation dinner for all scouts and their families.

Present Awards
The meeting will be held in the community building Sunday at 5 p.m., he said.

On the program, in addition to the recognition of unit leaders, will be a Court of Honor under the direction of District Advancement Chairman Alan Graves. Graves will present awards to the Boy Scouts, Hunter explained.

Glen Jablonski, district leadership training chairman, is in charge of arrangements, Hunter added.

Boy Scout Council To Review Charter

A dinner meeting of the executive board and advisory council of the Iowa River Valley Boy Scout council will be given Friday, Martin L. Hunter, local scout executive, said Wednesday.

The meeting is scheduled for 6:30 p.m. in the Jefferson hotel, Hunter said.

Earle K. Behrend, deputy regional scout executive from the Kansas council, will be present, Hunter added. A charter review of the Iowa River Valley council will be discussed at the meeting, he said.

TRAFFIC ACCIDENT FATAL

Rhythm Rambler Turns Over Contributions

(Daily Iowan Photo)

RECEIVING THE FINAL CONTRIBUTIONS from the Rhythm Rambles March of Dimes campaign is Mrs. J. K. Schaaf, chairman of Johnson county drive. Milo Hamilton, A4, Fairfield, presents her with the final amount of $1,537.50 collected from SUI student organizations. Hamilton started the drive over WSUI Jan. 14 and ended it with a frequency check March of Dimes party at 12 midnight Tuesday. The total WSUI-raised contribution, including Rhythm Rambles and the party, amounted to $2,182.71.

Wilkinson Justifies Rent Boosts

Most rent increases now being granted here compensate landlords for higher operating costs, T. J. Wilkinson, director of the Iowa City rental area, said Wednesday.

Higher operating costs include higher taxes and greater insurance and maintenance costs, he said. Rent increases also are given to landlords who have improved their property or have provided added services for their tenants, he added.

Increases Not Automatic
Wilkinson emphasized the rent increases are not automatic. They are based on the landlord's petition and on evidence that backs up his claim of having paid higher costs or of having provided added services.

Effective Date
Wilkinson added that although it takes from two to three weeks to complete all the steps connected with a rent increase case, "the rent change becomes effective on the date the landlord filed his petition."

Eskimos, Igloos Added To 3 R's for IC Kids

The fresh-out-of-diaper Iowa City grade schoolers are more than knee deep in the snow these days. Eskimo culture is now being stressed in grade school classes.

At Kirkwood school the children have made clay igloos, while Henry Sabin primary classes are painting murals with an eskimo theme and an Eskimo movie has been shown to first graders at Lincoln school.

Job Chances Good For Grads

(Material for this survey story was gathered and written by Richard Hallock, Jean Duncan, Jim Stein, James Lindvall and Marian Petkovsek.)

Nurses ...

Job hunting need not be practiced by students graduating from the nursing school this year.

"Positions for nurses are manifold," said Jean Baer, counselor and instructor in the SUI college of nursing.

In Iowa 30 hospitals being constructed or building additions will demand the services of graduate nurses.

"There is also considerable work in public health, school nursing and the visiting nursing field," she said.

Nurses Needed
"By 1960 the minimum need for nurses will be 554,000, and it is doubtful whether this need will be met. At present there are only 280,000 active graduate nurses in this country."

In the past 10 years the need has jumped 164 percent in the public health area as a result of social security and veteran aid legislation. The need for nurses, though, is greatest in the non-federal hospitals.

Miss Baer said nursing schools and hospitals cooperate quite closely in placing the nurses. At district and state meetings recommendations for various nursing positions are made.

The SUI college of nursing does not guarantee jobs. The favored source of placing graduate nurses, she said, is through the American Nurses association where recommendations and opportunities in each state are made known.

Senior nurses investigate the need as well as the vocational opportunities in a course, "Trends in Nursing," taught by Dean Myrtle Kitchell, of the college of nursing.

Many women remain at University hospitals after graduating, Miss Baer said. The others go into private duty or to one of the many other positions open to them.

Variety of Jobs
Salaries in nursing vary from $175 to $200 a month for beginning graduates in Iowa. Wages for nurses reflect the standard of living of the community in which the nurse is working, she said. Highest salaries are paid in California. Lowest are found in the southern states.

There are vocational opportunities for nurses in the armed forces. Other government agencies in which nurses may acquire positions are the children's bureau, the civil service commission, and the departments of labor, Indian affairs, and inter-American affairs.

Nurses also are needed for work in clinics, hospitals, offices, private duty, both community and county visiting nurses, schools, industries and private corporations such as hotels and department stores.

Lawyers ...
About half of the 35 SUI mid-year law graduates have obtained positions or know what their future plans will be.

The rest probably will wait until they have passed their bar examinations before making plans for employment.

Dean Mason Ladd of the college of law said he was sure all graduates will be placed within two months after graduation and admission to the bar.

Profession Crowded
"The law graduates at SUI have been unusually fortunate thus far. The profession, nevertheless, is becoming crowded. How long obtaining positions will be comparatively assured presents a real problem," Ladd said.

The larger percentage of SUI graduates will practice in Iowa. In certain non-legal professions in which law training serves as a necessary background there is ample opportunity for young lawyers.

Already a substantial number of graduates have been placed in these professions through the law college or through their own initiative, he said.

Special Jobs
There is also a need for young lawyers who have had special training in the tax field.

The FBI needs men admitted to the bar. Ladd said probably three or four SUI graduates will go to work for the bureau.

Some of the graduates plan to open offices alone or in partnership with each other.

"However," Ladd said, "location in traditional law practice will become more difficult."

Pharmacists ...
The college of pharmacy has no trouble in placing its graduates, Dean R. A. Kuever said recently.

"We will have no graduates this February," Kuever said, "but we wish that we had."

The dean explained he had several positions for pharmacists available but no graduates to fill the positions.

"The college of pharmacy seldom has February graduates, since all courses normally start in the fall," he said. "Once in a while a student has to repeat a course or gets his schedule a little mixed up. In such cases, we graduate the student in February."

Placement Service
"There is a great need for pharmacists," Kuever declared. "Every graduate from this college has been placed. Even in the depths of the depression, SUI pharmacy graduates were placed in good jobs."

The college of pharmacy maintains its own placement service. This service has built up a great number of contacts throughout Iowa and the nation. It keeps in touch with druggists, pharmaceutical houses, chain stores and other business organizations which require the services of pharmacists.

"In April and May, representatives of these companies come to SUI to interview June graduates," he said. "Those students who accept positions begin work about the first of July. In June, they have to take state board exams during one week. After that, most of them take a short vacation."

"Last year's graduates had their choice of four or five positions," the dean said.

Small Classes
First year classes in the college of pharmacy are limited to 65 members.

"We then have a comfortable size class which will fill the needs of those who depend upon our placement service, yet not overcrowd the field," Kuever said.

"In this way, we can give more attention to the needs of each student," he explained. "Every one is able to have his own desk and equipment without being overcrowded."

"We are interested in filling the needs of Iowa — not Idaho, Massachusetts or Texas," he said. "We must limit enrollment primarily to Iowa residents in order to take care of our state first."

Engineers ...
February graduates from the college of engineering are having little trouble finding job openings.

Ten interviewers, representing several large companies, have been on campus this week holding conferences with students who are candidates for graduation.

Dean F.M. Dawson, college of engineering, said, "Placements are much better than I anticipated they would be."

The 54 engineers, who will be graduated next month, have either been placed or have a lead for a job, Miss Norma A. Englert, secretary of the personnel placement service, said.

She added the college's graduates get leads for jobs through the placement service mostly, but a few have gone directly to work from opportunities offered through the service.

Nearly 60 percent of last year's graduates took jobs offered through the placement service, she added.

Dawson said one February degree candidate had been offered a job starting at $350 monthly.

Doctors ...
The supply of doctors still is not sufficient to meet the demand. There are excellent vocational opportunities for medical students after graduation and completion of their internship, according to the American Medical Association journal.

The greatest need for doctors exists in rural areas. Physicians are now concentrated in the highly populated and high income areas.

Expanding Demand
A rising national income and pre-payment plans for medical care have made the demand for doctors greater now than it was before the war.

Government provisions of medical care for veterans and their families have added to the general demand for practitioners.

Another factor which makes the vocational outlook for future physicians bright is the increase in hospital construction and extension.

Underlying the entire demand, said the journal, is a general trend in the United States toward higher standards of medical care and public health.

Earnings High
About 4,000 doctors are needed each year as replacements for doctors who have retired or died.

The average doctor's earnings were in the top three percent of the population in 1947, according to a survey taken by the Medical Economics magazine. Average net income for doctors was $9,900 annually. Earnings vary greatly for doctors depending upon the community in which they are practicing and the degree of specialty which they practice.

Types of work open to doctors are in private practice, hospital staffs, private firms, government agencies, research and teaching at medical schools.

Teachers ...
Teaching positions for February graduates are relatively more scarce than they were at this time last year, Frances Camp, of the Educational Placement bureau said recently.

Although the mid-term graduates are assured of finding teaching positions, the demand for them has decreased, she said.

A definite number of students who have secured teaching jobs cannot be determined since the placement is not asked to find jobs for all graduating seniors.

Miss Camp claimed graduate students receiving advanced degrees have a fair chance for finding good jobs. The demand for them depends, however, on their major fields. Some fields continue to demand a new supply of students, while others tend to fluctuate or fall off.

Liberal Arts ...
February graduates from the college of liberal arts are finding jobs harder to get than in previous years.

Miss Frances Camp said many openings are still available, but there is a smaller diversity of jobs than were present in previous years.

She is director of the educational placement service and coordinator of the student personnel service.

Place Teachers
The educational placement service and the industrial and business placement office are available to all students, but Dean Dewey B. Stuit of the college of liberal arts said comparatively few of the students use the service.

The educational placement service places graduates in teaching positions mostly, Miss Camp said.

She added that high school teaching positions are getting fewer, but there are many openings in speech pathology, special education and elementary teaching.

"A very high percentage of the persons using the service have been getting positions during the past few years," she said.

Jobs On Weeklies
Merritt Ludwig, assistant to the director of the journalism school, said nearly every February journalism graduate wants a job has one.

Ludwig said there are "fewer jobs than last year at this time, especially on larger dailies and metropolitan newspapers, but there are many openings on weeklies."

Businessmen ...
Job opportunities for mid-year graduates in commerce seem to be favorable, according to a consensus in the SUI college of commerce.

Helen Barnes, head of the SUI business and industrial placement bureau, said although there are no specific figures on the number of commerce students who have been placed, there seem to be enough jobs for qualified students.

Increase in Jobs
"One sign of encouragement," Miss Barnes said, "is that there is an increase over last year in the number of business firms making requests for interviews with students."

Dean C.A. Phillips of the college of commerce, speaking of the over-all picture in the business field, said, "There is no inadequacy of opportunity."

Accounting Positions Open
Prof. Sidney Winter, chairman of the accounting department, said there is not much of a job problem in the accounting field.

In general, there are more opportunities than graduates. However, the dozen or fewer mid-year accounting graduates will find most firms do not have time now to train men, since this is the busy time of year, Winter said.

The trends in economics, labor and industrial management, marketing, office and business education and general business should follow the pattern in the school of commerce as a whole, the respective department chairmen said.

Prof. Elmer Hills, chairman of the general business department, said job opportunities in his field are not as numerous as they were a couple of years ago but that the decrease has been slight.

Dentists ...
There will be no February graduates in the SUI college of dentistry, Dean Alvin Wesley Bryan said.

He reported the college of dentistry graduates only one class yearly — in June.

No Official Count Yet On Petition Signers For Council-Manager

No official count has been made of the number of persons who have signed petitions being circulated by the Council-Manager association, according to Mrs. Don Lewis.

Mrs. Lewis, chairman of the association's petition campaign, said that several workers have already completed their part in the drive to get 1,300 signatures.

The petitions request the mayor to call a special election to decide whether the council-manager form of city government will be adopted in Iowa City.

Mrs. Lewis said any qualified elector may sign the petition. A qualified elector is one who has been a resident of the United States for one year, Iowa for six months, Johnson county for 60 days and his precinct for 10 days.

Local residents do not have to be registered voters in order to sign the petition, she explained.

The budget of the Council-Manager association provides for obtaining signatures to the petition and for an educational program for the people of Iowa City, according to Roy Ewers, chairman of the association's finance committee.

At a meeting Jan. 24, Ewers said expenditures of $2,500 were called for in the budget. He reported that $1,108 already had been raised through letters to "a very small group" of people asking them for $5 or $10 donations.

CHICAGOAN CREMATED HERE
The body of Theodore A. Fisher, 46, Chicago, was cremated at Iowa City this week following his death Saturday afternoon at Mercy hospital.

Iowa Cities to Try New Traffic Scheme

Tentative approval has been given to a plan of uniform traffic law enforcement aimed at reducing the number of accidents on Iowa streets and highways.

Last week the new plan was explained to police and public officials in Cedar Rapids, Clinton, Davenport, Dubuque and Waterloo by Officer W.J. Andresen of the Dubuque police department traffic bureau and chairman of the research committee of the Iowa association of police chiefs and peace officers, and Prof. Richard L. Holcomb, SUI institute of public affairs.

The plan will be given a trial run in the five Iowa cities. Under the new plan, the arresting officer reports the violation and the circumstances, including conditions that tend to increase the seriousness of the offense.

All these factors are then scored on a point system and give the traffic judge an accurate and more complete picture of each case.

Also under the new plan, enforcement of the six commonest violations will be uniform for all the cities under the plan.

Studies Can Take Less Time

"Improvement is not usually so spectacular, but out of all the classes I have worked with, there has been no student who has not made substantial improvement," he said.

Two methods are used in improving the reading rate, Stroud said. "One method is by reading selections and the other is by film reading," he added.

Lesson Eye-Fixation
In method one, the reading selection, the student is given about 1,000 words to read. While the person is reading an eye-movement camera is photographing the number of eye fixations the person makes. The whole idea is to lessen the number of fixations, Stroud said.

Each fixation is a very brief stop while reading. The average fixation is about one-fourth of a second, and there are usually six or seven fixations for each sentence read by the average person. The better readers have only three or four fixations in each sentence, he said.

"The fixations take about ten percent of the reader's time," Stroud said.

The reading improvement class, which was first started in 1941, is required of all students taking their first course in communication skills. However, anyone in any division of SUI may enroll, Stroud said.

Last year there were about 200 freshmen and 150 volunteers in the class. Persons wishing to enroll next semester should contact the office of student affairs.

Studies Can Take Less Time

By CHARLES MICK

How would you like to read a book in half the time it now takes you? It's very possible to do just this, according to Prof. J.B. Stroud, SUI departments of education and psychology.

You may double or even triple your reading rate in five weeks by enrolling in a special reading course under Stroud. However, no credit will be given for the course.

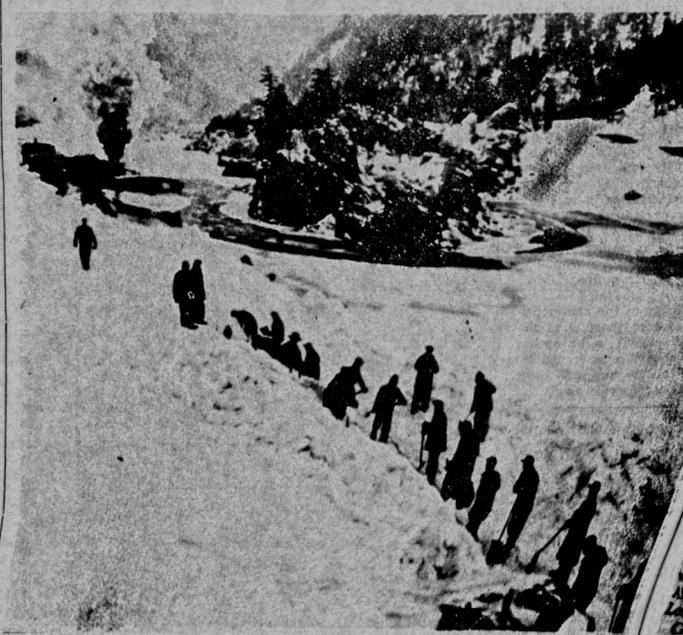

A person entering this course must take it for a period of five weeks and he attends class four hours each week.

Stroud supervises the class, which is taught by Prof. Walker T. McElheny and Prof. Lee Parman, both of the SUI communication skills department.

Average Reading
"The average freshman student reads 250 words a minute, and we had a student enter this class last semester, who read 240 words a minute," McElheny said.

"The same student was reading 1,500 words a minute at the end of the five weeks, but of course this is the exception rather than the general rule," McElheny asserted.
