Student Council Approves Plan To Rate Faculty

The SUI student council Thursday night voted to recommend a faculty grading plan to the liberal arts college.

Of 300 faculty members polled in a recent survey, 85 percent were in favor of having themselves graded. Ninety-six percent of 1,200 students surveyed approved the plan, the faculty-evaluation committee reported.

The main faculty opposition to such a plan centers around the possibility that it would become a popularity poll. Some faculty members said the grading would be an opportunity for students to practice "apple polishing."

Raps Plan

"Such plans are of little value in a school such as SUI," one instructor stated in a questionnaire. "The standards (if one could admit at all that the school has any standards whatsoever) are so low and the quality of student intelligence so low, that they are incapable of understanding effectively most of their course work, let alone having sufficient intelligence or ability to even begin rating their instructors."

Another instructor, quoted in the report of the survey, said: "I have had experience with such a 'stunt' about 20 years ago in another university and it did more trouble than it did good."

One of the main issues of the council meeting was a discussion of whether or not personal likes or dislikes for an instructor would influence the judgment of the student.

In the survey, 65.5 percent of the students filling out the questionnaire voted that their personal likes and dislikes would influence their judgment and 32 percent said they would not.

"No Better than Effort" Dean Dewey B. Stult of the college of liberal arts pointed out that "ratings are no better than the effort that the students put into them."

He said the council should get behind the students to make them realize these tests must be answered as objectively as possible.

The faculty-evaluation committee also recommended the instructor have exclusive and voluntary use of the rating blanks. The information compiled in the reports would not circulate through the dean's office but would inform the instructor of his weak and strong points.

Gambling Survey Pleases Larson

DES MOINES (AP) — Atty. Gen. Robert L. Larson returned to his office Thursday after a five-county survey of his gambling crackdown and said he was pleased with public reaction.

He declined to name the counties he visited on his tour but said that he had talked with farmers, labor groups, professional men and public officials.

"I am pleased with the cooperation I am getting and with the attitude of the public," Larson said. "Public expressions to county officials have strengthened their backbones," he added.

Larson said he discussed complaints with some officials and asked them "how things were going." Some county authorities, he said, wanted to know how they could give him further help in his drive.

Iowa Coal Conservation May Become Necessity

DES MOINES (AP) — Rodney Q. Selby, Iowa fuel coordinator, said Thursday that unless warmer weather eases the situation it may become necessary to enforce a statewide coal conservation program.

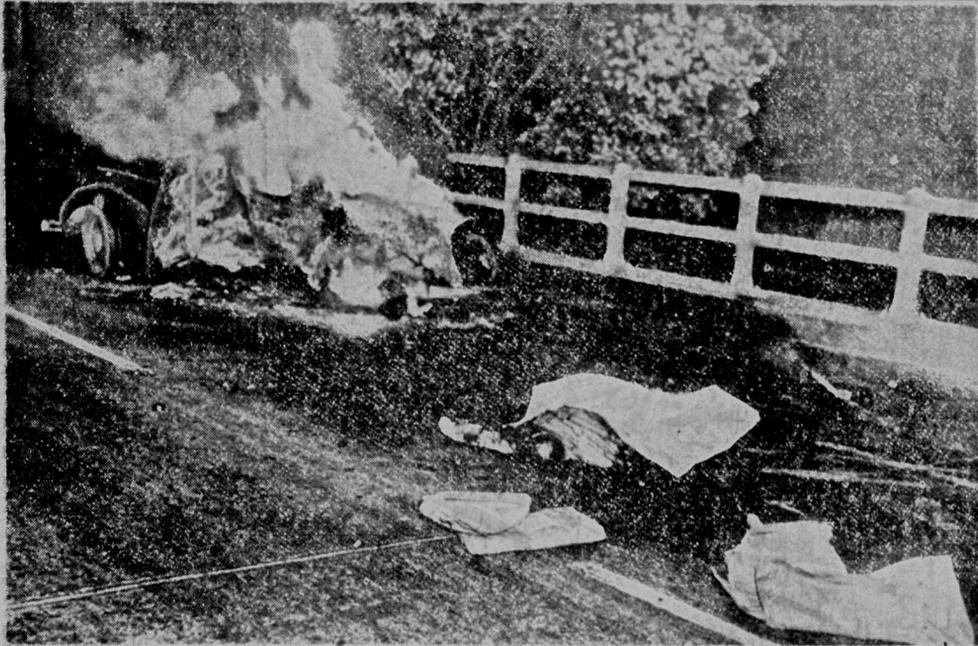

Witness Says Doctor Admitted Mercy Killing

MANCHESTER, N.H. (AP) — A county sheriff testified Thursday Dr. Hermann N. Sander admitted killing cancer patient Mrs. Abbie Borroto in a "weak moment" after yielding to pleas of her husband to "eliminate" her to relieve her suffering.

Sheriff Thomas F. O'Brien's testimony came after the defense claimed it would show that the 59-year-old housewife was dead before air was allegedly injected into her veins.

In charging Dr. Sander with first degree murder, the state contends that he made four fatal injections of air as an "act of mercy."

President Rejects Dramatic Approach For A-Bomb Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Truman stood firm Thursday in rejecting any dramatic new approach to Moscow on the control of atomic weapons.

And he told his news conference he has received no "feelers" from Russia on the subject which has stirred grave misgivings in world capitals.

The President also persisted in a stern refusal to give congress confidential "loyalty" files on federal employees.

Cooperate with Committee He said he has promised the senate foreign relations committee he will otherwise cooperate with it in disproving what he called false charges made by Sen. Joseph McCarthy (R-Wis.) that a Communist spy ring exists in the state department.

Sen. Kenneth Wherry of Nebraska, GOP leader, promptly proposed that, if the state department refuses to give up the records, the senate have Secretary Dean Acheson prosecuted for contempt. Thus, he said, the powers of the senate would be tested in the courts.

Won't Answer Subpoena Mr. Truman plainly indicated that the executive branch would not respond to a subpoena. He said it would be pretty hard to serve a subpoena on the President since the government affords him protection against such service.

McCarthy issued a statement Thursday night saying, "I do not think the senate will allow the President to get away with this boyish thumbing of his nose at all of the senators who represent the 48 states."

The President said he has under consideration an invitation to dedicate Grand Coulee dam in Washington this spring and if he accepts, he will make speeches on the way out and back. He conceded laughingly that they would be political since any statement or speech a president makes is political.

WHISTLE - STOP TRIP WASHINGTON (AP) — President Truman said Thursday he may make his long-promised "non-political" whistle-stop trip across the country in May.

Renew Attempt to Set Aside Information Against Bednasek

Another legal maneuver was made Thursday by attorneys for Robert E. Bednasek, charged in the strangulation death of Margaret Anne Jackson, SUI coed from Burlington.

Clair Hamilton, Iowa City, and Milo O. Hanzlik, Cedar Rapids, filed a renewal of a motion to set aside a county attorney's information charging Bednasek with first degree murder.

The original motion was overruled by Judge James P. Geffney at a hearing in the Johnson county courthouse last Friday. Geffney, however, ordered County Atty. Jack C. White to file a bill of particulars relating to the autopsies performed on Miss Jackson's body.

Hearing Today (A bill of particulars is a legal paper listing witnesses White plans to use in the trial, together with their expected testimony. An information is a formal charge which moves a case to district court without going through the grand jury.)

Gaffney said the hearing on the renewal of the motion would be held sometime today, probably late this morning.

The new motion to quash "the county attorney's information was similar to the first one, but it was extended to cover the bill of particulars on the autopsies which White filed Monday.

The renewal of the motion maintained the minutes on the information and the bill of particulars "do not constitute the offense charged in the information, and that the defendant did not commit that offense."

Violated 14th Amendment Bednasek's attorneys asserted White did not file the names of all the state's witnesses he expects to use in the trial.

This was a violation of the U.S. constitution, they said, resulting in Bednasek's being deprived of "life, liberty and property without due process of law."

Bednasek has not made his plea in district court. He was scheduled to make a plea Feb. 15, but the arraignment was postponed when the defense motion was filed.

Bednasek has been held since Dec. 11, 1949, when Miss Jackson was found dead in a rooming house where he lived. He is now in the Johnson county jail, without bond.

Truman to Head Off U.S. Railroad Strike WASHINGTON (AP) — President Truman disclosed Thursday he will invoke an automatic 60-day stop to head off a threatened nationwide railroad strike, tentatively set to begin at 5 a.m. (Iowa time) Monday.

The Brotherhood of Conductors and Trainmen, representing between 200,000 and 250,000 workers, called the strike after rejecting federal arbitration on its wage-hour demands.

However, the railway labor act provides that a strike must be postponed for at least 60 days after the President appoints an emergency fact-finding board.

The White House announced that Mr. Truman will appoint an emergency board today or Saturday. The board has 30 days to submit a report, and no strike can be called then until another 30 days has elapsed.

Hungary Asks Cut In Diplomatic Staff BUDAPEST (AP) — Communist Hungary requested the United States and Britain Thursday night to reduce their diplomatic staffs in this country.

In notes to the British and American legations, Hungary said the number of their diplomatic personnel here "greatly exceeds their prewar number and is more than the staff of the Hungarian legations in Washington and London."

The request came on the heels of a break in diplomatic relations between the United States and Communist Bulgaria.

TRUCK DRIVER INJURED Walter Brooks, 41, driver of a semi-trailer truck for the Gateway-Trucking company, Cedar Rapids, was injured about 9 p.m. Thursday when he slipped while working with tire chains. He was taken to University hospitals, where his injuries were reported as undetermined.

There's No Place Like Home The Johnson county sheriff's office had a strange visitor Thursday.

A man walked in, told Sheriff Albert J. (Pat) Murphy he had been arrested 600 times — in practically all of the 48 states — but hadn't been convicted once. The sheriff was stumped. Perhaps the stranger was homesick.

Miners Must Answer For 'Contempt' Today; No Progress in Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Soft coal contract talks brought "absolutely no results" Thursday night despite earlier reports that John L. Lewis and the operators had edged closer together on money differences.

David L. Cole, chairman of President Truman's coal inquiry board, appearing haggard and dejected, told reporters that progress had stopped in negotiations which failed for the eighth day to end the strike of 372,000 United Mine Workers.

The two sides, under federal court order to stick to their bargaining, were called back for 1:30 p.m. (Iowa time) today as the strike's mighty squeeze sent unemployment in other industries toward 78,500.

Violence hit again at non-union diggings. Cities tightened rationing and more steel plants were closing. Railroads were down to a 14.4 days' overall supply.

Apparently hope had vanished for a sudden break in the strike which the miners have maintained in defiance of a federal court Taft-Hartley directive.

And at 9 a.m. (Iowa time) today their union must answer for it.

The UMW must try to convince Federal Judge Richmond B. Keck that it hasn't been in contempt of his order issued Feb. 11 and should not go to trial Monday. He can make the penalty as harsh as he wishes.

It was assumed that one UMW contention would be that the miners were acting as individuals in quitting work — which the Taft-Hartley act permits. Lewis is on record with two public calls for them to go back to work.

Urges Seizure . . . WASHINGTON (AP) — AFL President William Green Thursday urged government seizure of the soft coal mines as fuel-starved states put mounting pressure on President Truman to end the paralyzing United Mine Workers strike.

Green told a senate judiciary subcommittee Mr. Truman has "inherent" power to take emergency action in a strike affecting the national health and safety. He said he is certain the miners will return to work if the government takes over the mines.

He disagreed with President Truman's recent statement that his seizure powers expired with the wartime Smith-Connally act. Green said he is convinced the President does not need additional power from congress to take over the mines.

Labor Gains 5-3 Lead In Britain's Elections

Returns Talled In Over Third Of Districts

LONDON (FRIDAY) (AP) — Britain's Labor party wrapped up a 5 to 3 lead over the Conservatives in parliamentary election returns from more than a third of the nation today. Labor claimed a clear-cut victory and with it, a mandate to drive Britain along the road to socialism for five more years.

Returns from 261 of 625 constituencies showed Labor clinched 161 seats in the new house of commons, the Conservatives 99 seats, and the once-powerful Liberals, only one.

Jubilant Laborites predicted at least a 60-seat majority in the new house. They had a 148-member majority in the last one.

Gloom settled over Conservative headquarters. While Winston Churchill's hard-fighting party had cut into Labor's ranks in parliament, by morning it still had a long way to go. But the Conservatives had not yet given up the fight.

Attlee Re-elected Prime Minister Attlee was re-elected to the house, along with Sir Stafford Cripps, chancellor of the exchequer, and Aneurin Bevan, the health minister.

Attlee hailed the results as "pretty satisfactory."

At 4:45 a.m. (10:45 p.m. Thursday, Iowa time) he told Labor party officials at party headquarters:

"I should say while one never likes to anticipate a result before the finish, the results are pretty satisfactory and the vote is up."

The 67-year-old leader seemed tired, but was in good spirits.

"There will be a Labor government in power in Britain tomorrow," (today) declared Morgan Phillips, Labor secretary.

The indications were that the vote was the heaviest in Britain's history — somewhere in the neighborhood of 26-million.

The Labor minister of health, Bevan, was a four-to-one winner in his district in Monmouthshire, Wales.

Bite into Majority Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin was returned to the house, but Colonial Secretary Arthur Creech Jones lost out to his Conservative opponent by a margin of 81 votes.

The vote in Conservative leader Churchill's district was not to be counted until later today, but like most top party leaders, his was a "safe" constituency with election virtually assured for the 75-year-old leader of his majesty's loyal opposition.

In biting into Labor's majority, the Conservatives took 14 commons seats which had been Laborite, while surrendering only one which had been Conservative.

Because of the revision of constituencies, it was not possible in most cases to compare these results with those of 1945, when Labor scored its postwar landslide.

The count of votes will be resumed this afternoon.

The Communists had won no seats at all. They had two seats in the last parliament and put 100 candidates in the field this time.

House Passes FEPC; Strips Board's Power

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a bitter defeat for the administration, the house Thursday passed a substitute FEPC bill stripped of the legal barriers against racial discrimination in employment that President Truman has demanded.

The vote was not even close: 240 to 177. Some of the sponsors of the original administration measure voted against the substitute, although in doing so they had to get in the same column of the roll call as the southern Democrats who superintended the wrecking of the original bill.

Mystic Initials FEPC, the initials which have taken on almost a mystic significance to Negroes and some other minority groups, stands for "fair employment practices commission." The bill the house passed and sent to the senate would establish such a commission, but that is about all.

The board would be directed to work with state and local agencies to discourage discrimination in the hiring and firing of minority groups. The commission could hold investigations, and make recommendations — but it couldn't issue cease-and-desist orders enforceable by the federal courts, as the administration bill provided.

A Democrat who holds a very high position in the house summed it up:

"Just a gesture."

On 1948 Platforms Both major parties came out for anti-discrimination legislation in their 1948 platforms, and Rep. Joseph Martin of Massachusetts, the minority leader, declared the substitute meets the requirements of the Republican platform: "This is an FEPC bill."

However, the Democratic leader, Rep. John McCormack of Massachusetts, said the measure doesn't comply with his party's promises and he doesn't think it meets the Republicans', either.

The consensus was that FEPC remains a very lively campaign issue despite the house vote.

President Truman repeatedly has demanded action on his "civil rights" program, and FEPC was right on top of the stack.

Group to Prepare Way for U.S. Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Acheson disclosed Thursday the United States is sending a special survey mission to southeast Asia to prepare the way for American help in bolstering the area against communism.

A state department group headed by R. Allen Griffin, publisher of the Monterey (Calif.) Peninsula Herald, is due to leave next week on a tour of five countries.

One is the new French-supported state of Viet Nam, in Indo-China, which promises to become a cold war hot spot because of the Communist sweep in neighboring China.

Diplomatic authorities said the group will look into the needs of Indo-China and other countries for military as well as economic assistance. Countries on the itinerary include Malaya, Burma, Thailand and Indonesia.

Search in Iowa City For Missing Youths Iowa City police said Thursday night they had been notified to look for two 11-year-old boys who ran away from their homes in Burlington Thursday afternoon.

The boys were listed as William Robinson, who was last seen wearing a brown and yellow plaid jacket with a hood, and Leonard Matson, who was wearing a blue zipper jacket.

Both boys were described as five feet tall. Matson has brown eyes and blond hair, police reported.

That's About Enough for This Winter

CAUGHT UNPREPARED for Thursday's snowfall, Samuel Young, A3, Graettinger, gloomily brushes off the windshield he had neglected to cover. The state highway patrol said the snow was beginning to pack on Iowa roads Thursday night but added that little drifting had occurred. All roads except those in the extreme northwest were termed "slippery" by the patrol, and "great care" was recommended for anyone forced to travel. Temperatures were falling and were expected to reach five below in northern Iowa, the state weather bureau said.

Systematic Step Forward —

Iowa can have a faculty rating system. The student council Thursday reported its findings on student and faculty attitudes toward a proposed plan of evaluating SUI faculty by the students.

From here it looks like a good thing. To confess any need for grading the faculty presupposes that some of our teachers leave something to be desired. However, to assume otherwise would be adopting a foolish ostrich-head-in-the-sand attitude.

On any university staff — especially on a university as large as SUI — there are bound to be some instructors and professors who are either lacking in the ability to get their subject material across or who are unable to make their courses interesting to their students.

This is, of course, not true of a great majority of the staff or even a large minority. But it is true of enough members of the faculty to make such an evaluation of their teaching methods very desirable.

The main drawback to the plan as we see it, and as certain faculty members expressed in the student council report, is that the grading by the students would degenerate into a faculty popularity poll, or: "You're a good Joe, so you don't have to worry; you're a stinker — so look out, professor!"

If and when the plan reached that stage, then it will have flopped on its face and would have to be completely disregarded if SUI is to maintain any quality in its teaching staff.

The whole purpose of the plan — to improve the quality of instruction at SUI — would be defeated if students used the amount of A's and F's handed out by a teacher as their main criteria for evaluation.

However, according to the poll taken by the council, two-thirds of the SUI students questioned said that they would not be influenced by any personal feeling of the instructor. And 56 percent said they felt themselves competent to rate an instructor on knowledge of his subject. Around 90 percent felt they could rate an instructor on clarity in explaining points, on friendliness and cooperativeness, and on enthusiasm for his subject. Four-fifths said they could spot interest in class progress and seven out of 10 said they would have an opinion on the fairness of the instructor's examinations.

Whether they could hold to these criteria remains to be seen. But it is on this basis that the plan can succeed or fail.

The greatest misgivings about the plan expressed by the faculty was that it would become just a popularity poll. For this they definitely cannot be blamed.

However, there were others who expressed a very naive and unhealthy attitude toward the project and the whole student body at Iowa.

According to the council report, one instructor stated: "Such plans are of little value in a school such as the State University of Iowa, where the standards (if one could admit at all that the school has any standards whatsoever) are so low and the quality of student intelligence so low, that they are incapable of understanding effectively most of their course work, let alone having sufficient intelligence or ability to even begin rating their instructors."

When any faculty member can make such a statement (splitting an infinitive, at that), we cannot believe any sort of rapprochement exists between him and the students. How can he have any sympathy for, or an understanding of his students' problems? He doesn't like his pupils, nor does he apparently like the educational standards at SUI.

He is entitled to his own opinion as long as it doesn't affect the quality (or lack of quality) of his teaching. We feel that an effective faculty rating plan would reveal his shortcomings and the undesirability of having such an instructor at Iowa.

Other faculty members indicated their misgivings of such a "stunt" because of previous sad experiences with them at other schools. Still others said they were willing to go along with the plan if it was not given to the administration to exert pressure.

We feel that the rating proposal should not be a final and sudden reason for dismissing those faculty members receiving unfavorable reports. This "Sword of Damocles" hanging by one hair over their heads would lead to an insecure feeling on the part of our faculty — those good and bad. And SUI certainly cannot afford to lose any good instructors.

However, the ratings turned in by the students should be considered by the administration. If a professor or instructor should receive numerous bad reports over a period of time, the administration should certainly take some action. Otherwise the plan would lose all effectiveness since only the conscientious members of the faculty would pay attention to criticism contained in the evaluations.

But this is one of the most far-reaching projects that the student council has ever undertaken. We think it's a good plan.

But like any project which involves a cooperative effort on part of the student body, this plan requires a conscientious attitude and must be applied in an intelligent and healthy manner. Otherwise it will fail.

Iowa can have a faculty rating system.

Interpreting the News —

Western Diplomats Expect Agreement Offers

By J.M. ROBERTS JR., AP Foreign Affairs Analyst.

Western diplomats in Moscow are reported unanimous in their belief, despite the "grow strong and wait for a break" attitude in London and Washington, that there will be a new move soon toward atomic and other agreements with Russia.

They do not expect a top level move such as suggested by Winston Churchill, but rather some action, initiated by the west, through the United Nations or the Council of Foreign Ministers.

Correspondents of both the New York Times and The Associated Press have carried references to the belief that such a move would be welcomed in Moscow, and that the Kremlin would like to talk about German and Japanese peace treaties as well as the atom bomb.

Eddy Gilmore of The Associated Press reports, however, that there is no indication the Russians are coming up with any new proposals or concessions themselves.

It is the firm belief in Washington and London that Russia has no concessions to make, and that the west cannot make any with regard to the bomb, which has caused the allies to adopt their present policy. Senator Lodge has just done one of the best overall jobs of explaining the reasons why, under these circumstances, direct attempts to negotiate are now dangerous.

He says another unsuccessful conference would only add to western fears and might produce a feeling that, since no peace is possible, the issue may as well be joined by force of arms now rather than later.

All of the explaining, however, does not seem to have quieted an increasing tendency among the American and British publics to ask "what have we got to lose through negotiation?"

The argument is that regardless of whether an agreement can be expected, the allies can keep Russia on the defensive and keep the record of her intransigence before the world by pressing constantly for a modus vivendi.

This is the Russian way of doing business. They constantly come forward with suggestions for agreements which they know have no chance for acceptance, but which enable them to put forward the claim that they are the real peace seekers.

More and more people are asking me why this would not be sauce for the gander as well as for the goose. And they are not interested in preservation of any false pride about it.

These people don't care whether such meetings are held in Washington, Moscow, Lake Success or in the middle of the Gobi desert, as long as there is even the slightest chance that western diplomats could be wrong about the possibility of doing business.

Non-Union Workers Attacked by Pickets

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Roving bands of pickets beat police to the punch Wednesday as they swept down on non-union mine operations in Pennsylvania.

Three diggers were beaten at a strip mine near Clearfield, Pa. A 200-man caravan hit two mines near Pittsburgh. Five truck drivers were forced to dump their loads on the spot.

Harry Finberg, owner of the non-union operation near Clearfield, estimated 500 men were in the group of pickets which attacked his men. None was hurt seriously.

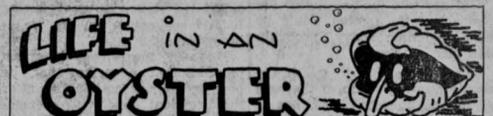

In the Ligonier, Pa., area state police reported $4,000 damage resulted from visitations of pickets to two mines.

Officers said the pickets used sledgehammers to wreck a power shovel, a bulldozer and truck at the Robel strip mine and a truck at the R. & L. strip mine. Coal was dumped at the Joseph Hall loading platform near Murraysville, Pa.

By the time police arrived the pickets had dispersed and no arrests were made.

At Brookville, Pa., non-union miners carried shotguns and revolvers in order to protect their right to work.

State police kept watch and reported there were no pickets.

OKAY, SO I'M NEUROTIC . . .

so I'm a confirmed worshipping of the Nicotine God . . . so I have no regard for modern moral standards!

But the regulation of "No Smoking" during classes in Schaeffer hall is driving me crazy. It kills me, I tell ya, it kills me.

IF I DIDN'T SMOKE approximately two packs a day of those paper shelled lung corrupters, I probably wouldn't mind the rule.

On the other hand, of course, exposing all alternatives — if I didn't mind, I probably wouldn't smoke two packs a day. Having a dire dilemma at hand, I hereby choose the former, thus escaping the possibility of becoming a split — personality.

THE ACTION THAT REALLY brought the force of the law home to me was walking into a class the other day right after lunch — a mistake in itself.

I assume that all loyal followers of Sir Walter Raleigh and lovers of life realize — after indulging at the luncheon table, including a hot bowl of borst, to inhale and exhale smoke is, though somewhat beastly, pure ecstasy.

AS I SAY, I walked into class and immediately started huffing and puffing enjoying the extra puffing activity of my favorite 'longest' brand cigarette. Besides the long ones, apart from being and, are cheaper . . . I cut them in half.

Whereon the instructor reminded, "I believe the sign up there (indicating a white card with black letters) stipulates that there is to be no smoking in Schaeffer classrooms."

I SUGGESTED that he cultivate the art of ignoring signs as I had done. He again said, "no smoking!"

How do you like that? I say "yes" and he says "no!"

He pulled his rank . . . I pulled the cigarette from my quivering lips and helplessly watched my foot crush the life out of one of my best friends.

WELL NOW, in the first place, those "No Smoking" signs do not say positively. As far as I'm concerned without 'positively' signs are in great want of validity.

In the second place such a considerate and very uneconomical. Can you think of any place that equals a classroom as a green field for "bumming."

I STAYED THERE for the rest of the hour shaking like a tuning fork, totally unable to concentrate

Hotdog Stand Bids For City Hall Spot

BRADLEY, ILL. (AP) — Bradley found its relief Tuesday that it won't have to move the City hall to make room for a hotdog stand.

An unidentified citizen recently notified the village that he owned the property under City hall, having bought it at a tax lien sale, and intended to build a hotdog stand on the spot.

Village President Clarence Lock and other officials scurried about delving into property records and consulting lawyers. At first it appeared that the City hall property had been included inadvertently in a group of tax sales.

But Lock reported Tuesday that the citizen didn't own the City hall lot, but the one next to it.

A Throbbing Tooth-Ache —

These are the times that try — not only the nation's coal bins, but also the power of the Taft-Hartley act and its injunction clause.

So far the injunction has failed to force the United Mine Workers back to the pick and shovel to put an end to the current coal shortage.

The miners claim the present walkout is not a strike but an individual stoppage of work. Chances are, however, that the supreme court may think differently when the UMW comes up for trial for failure to comply with the injunction.

Yet the coal crisis throughout the country still exists and, in that respect, the Taft-Hartley has lost the first round. Schools, churches and public halls over the nation have been forced to close. New York City is "browned out" (probably browned off, too). Industries other than coal have been forced to

Video Costs Low

Now that a new television station, WOI-TV, has been constructed, practically in our own backyard, prospective receiver purchasers are wondering how much it will cost to operate a set in their own homes.

Television receivers range in size and in price, and installation costs also vary. However, television engineers have come up with average costs figures which apply to operation.

Engineers estimate it will cost approximately one cent an hour to operate the average-size (console model) TV set. The average radio costs about one-half cent an hour to operate.

By way of comparison, use of an electric coffee maker costs about one cent an hour, and an iron, three and one-quarter cents an hour.

lay off more than 42,000 workers. Violence has broken out around several mines.

All this adds up to the fact that there is a loose tooth somewhere in the jaws of the Taft-Hartley legislation.

To add to the woes of President Truman and his administration, the Bell telephone workers have decided that it's as good a time as any to catch the strike germ themselves, but they've allowed for a 60-day truce period.

Where does the American public fit in, in relation to labor? Are the people to be left at the mercy of labor monopolies?

If current episodes are an indication, it would seem so. Quick and makeshift congressional action may end the coal walkout, but certainly won't handle future situations. It looks like the aforethought-too-tough Taft-Hartley act and its loose tooth had better be taken to the dentist either for extraction or repair.

Video Costs Low

TV engineers also estimate the cost of burning a 60-watt light bulb at one-fifth of a cent an hour. Thus, the difference in operation costs of the radio and TV set may be saved by turning off lights in other rooms while watching video programs.

That much skimming on electricity bills probably won't be necessary for most families, but if it should, the younger generation probably wouldn't complain.

Now that America claims the hydrogen bomb know-how, the first question that occurs is this: how long will it take Russia to decide she can safely claim having originated the atomic bomb?

Hunting Ratio Shows Good Brood of Birds

More than 5,000 pheasant less were turned in to conservation officers by sportsmen during the open season last fall as requested by the state conservation commission, Harry N. Wagoner, district forester, announced Thursday.

By measuring the length of the spurs, commission biologists can determine ages of pheasants shot. A high ratio of young to old birds shot indicates good reproduction during the spring before the hunting season.

Over the entire state there were 482 young birds bagged to each 100 old birds. The highest average was in northeast Iowa where the ratio was 656 young to 100 old birds and the lowest in the west central section, 360 young to 100 old birds.

Pheasants are showing up well in winter counts, Wagoner said, promising a good breeding season this spring.

Women Enter Studio for Radio Discussion

Athens History Club Studies Literature

One of the oldest study clubs in Iowa City — that's the distinctive claim of the local Athens History circle.

Three organization delegates briefly discussed the club's functions and background over WSUI's Club Camera program Thursday morning.

Club Camera is a weekly feature of WSUI's women's hour moderated by Women's Director Flo Robinson, A4, Cedar Rapids.

The three representatives are Mrs. P.W. Herrick, club president; Mrs. Don Guthrie, secretary-treasurer, and Mrs. S.L. Duncan, vice-president.

Study Literature
"The object of our club is the study of current literature," Mrs. Herrick stated. "We feature a book review at each meeting."

Considering Iowa City as a main educational center in Iowa, they named their club the Athens History circle after the educational center of Greece. Organized in 1897, the local book review club met originally to study history.

One of the early sets of books studied by the members was "Great Men and Famous Women." Each member bought a whole series of books, Mrs. Herrick said.

Once Studied History
"In 1947 we honored one of our first members, Mrs. Homer Johnson, at a Golden Anniversary tea. Her sister, Kate Wickham, who taught school here, has been in the club since 1902."

Until 1934 the club's interest centered on historical subjects, then its attention focused on current affairs — current literature and fiction, Mrs. Guthrie pointed out.

Religion Programs Open at 7:45 A.M.

Today's schedule for "Religion in Life Week" activities is as follows:

7:45 a.m. Communion service at Presbyterian church.

8 a.m. WSUI chapel, Albert G. Watson, speaker.

The four students making the trip are John Berger, E3, West Amara; Edgar Jeffrey, E4, Burlington; Paul Zimmerman, E4, Amarna; and Don Hall, E4, Vinton.

Steeped in Tradition

"We are steeped in tradition," Mrs. Duncan said. "Three special events exemplify this fact — the guest tea in the fall, the spring luncheon and the family picnic she added. Since 1940 the family picnic has been held at Mrs. John Cameron's farm: home, "Wildwood."

Membership is limited to a maximum number of 20 and is open by invitation only.

Some of the books recently reviewed by the club are "The Chain" by Paul Wellman, "The Elephant Walk" by Robert Standish and "Passionate Journey" by Irving Stone.

Thirty-five women will be formally initiated into the all-girl unit.

WOI Video Reception Better in Rural Areas

Iowa City reception of television programs from the new Iowa State college station, WOI-TV, was generally better in rural than downtown areas, according to a survey Tuesday night. WOI-TV broadcast regular programs for the first time Tuesday night. Test patterns had been transmitted for the past month. Dealers reported farm reception superior to city because farm houses usually sit on the high part of the ground. Rural reception is even more effective if the antenna extends above nearby trees.

About 35 TV sets are now in use in Iowa City, and about 80 in Johnson county. Iowa City dealers have installed 68 sets — 33 on farms.

Not Satisfactory
Downtown reception generally was poor because of interference from automobile ignitions, machines and motors.

Sound reception in almost every instance was reported good. In some cases the Ames station came in good early in the evening but faded out later.

Tuesday night's reception was not considered satisfactory from the new station. Reception of test programs on other nights varied from good to poor.

Some Reception Good
Reception of Davenport's WOC-TV stays consistently the best in Iowa City. Portions of video broadcasts from Chicago, St. Louis and Milwaukee have been received here on sets with high antennas located on homes situated on fairly high ground.

Iowa City lies on the fringe of the Davenport station's transmitting radius. The primary area for good TV reception is 40 miles with 55 miles possible for high TV transmitting towers in flat country.

The Ames transmitter, with a 580-foot tower, is about 125 miles from Iowa City.

One dealer said perfect TV reception from Ames would be seldom. The station's distance, plus a considerable amount of rough terrain northwest of Iowa City would tend to spoil reception, he said.

Med Society Picks SUI Doctor Chief

Dr. Elmer L. DeGowin, associate professor of internal medicine at the SUI college of medicine, was elected president of the Iowa branch of the Experimental Biology and Medicine society at a meeting Tuesday.

Dr. Ralph G. Jones, associate professor of anatomy at SUI, was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

One new council member was named. He is Dr. Warren O. Nelson, professor of anatomy in the college of medicine.

The April meeting of the society will be held Friday, April 28, in Ames.

Engineer's Team Completes in Meet

Members of the SUI engineers' rifle team Thursday completed firing in the Society of American Engineers' postal rifle match—the first entered since 1943, Sgt. J.P. Anderson, varsity rifle coach said.

Anderson said results of the postal match would not be known till scores are returned from the adjutant general's office in Washington D.C.

Members of the SUI engineers' unit who fired were Richard Roseberry, E3, Cedar Rapids; David Jacobs, E3, Cedar Rapids; William Olson Jr., E3, Iowa City; Keith Nicodemus, E2, Vinton; John Hudachek, E2, Mechanicsville; Darrell Davidson, E1, Osage, and James Culhane, E2, Des Moines.

To be eligible for the shooting, team members must belong to the engineers' unit of ROTC, Anderson said.

Firing was done in four positions, kneeling, prone, kneeling-standing and prone-sitting, he added.

Pastor Announces Lenten Program

The Lenten program for the Trinity Episcopal church was announced Thursday by the Rev. Harold F. McGee.

Services of Holy Communion will be held at 6:45 and 10:45 a.m. each Wednesday and at 6:45 a.m. each Friday during Lent.

At 11:15 a.m. each Wednesday a group of the women of the parish will meet in the rector's study to discuss "The Thirty-Nine Articles."

Beginning March 8, the parish mid-week Lenten program will be held each week: evening prayer at 5:45 p.m.; a potluck supper at 6 p.m. in the parish house; a rehearsal of the church's junior choir at 6:45 p.m. Children of nursery age will have a supervised program in the rector's study.

Father McGee will conduct a series of four discussions on the formation, content and significance of the gospels. The complete program will be concluded by 7:30 p.m.

Measles Total Hits 337 During Month

Thirteen new cases of measles reported Thursday in Iowa City brought the month's total to 337, City Clerk George J. Dohrer reported. January's total was only 37.

An average of 18 cases daily have been reported here during February. The days with highest totals were Feb. 16 with 60, Feb. 6 with 45 and Monday with 43.

Nearly one-third of the children who have contacted measles are pupils at Henry Longfellow school.

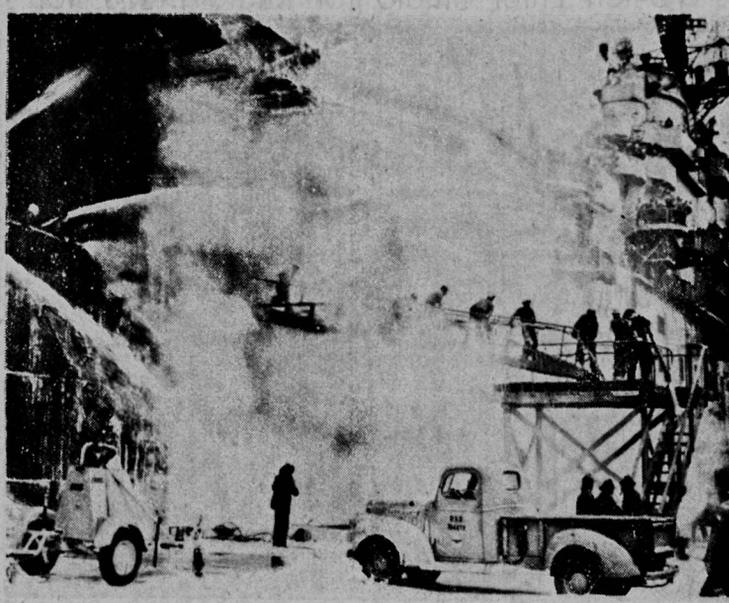

Ranking next in the number of pupils with measles are Horace Mann, St. Patrick's, Henry Sabin, St. Mary's and Kirkwood schools respectively.

Aircraft Carrier Valley Forge on Fire

THERE WAS MORE TROUBLE FOR THE NAVY THURSDAY. At San Diego, Calif., an aircraft carrier, the Valley Forge, caught fire, damaging the huge ship. Pictured are the ship's fire-fighters pouring a chemical foam on the gasoline fire to smother the flames. It seems that it was the Pacific fleet's turn for a bit of trouble. Faces are still a bit red on the east coast where the battleship Missouri finally was floated free recently after 15 ignominious days stuck on a mud bank in the Chesapeake bay.

Iowa City School Board Election Near

Seven days remain in which persons not already qualified by Iowa City's permanent registration system may register to vote in the school district election March 13.

At this time, two new members will be elected to the Iowa City school board for three-year terms and the floating of a $62,700 bond issue for a four-room addition to Roosevelt school will be voted upon.

Anyone who has legally voted or has been properly registered in the last four years may vote in the election without further registration, City Clerk George Dohrer said.

Exceptions are persons who have changed their names or addresses.

Registration Deadline
The registration deadline is 5 p.m. March 3, 10 days before the election as required by law.

Dohrer gave the following requirements for entry on permanent registration rolls:
(1) Must have been residents of Iowa for at least six months.

(2) Must have been residents of Johnson county for at least 60 days.
(3) Must have been residents of the precinct for at least 10 days. ("Precinct" in this case refers to precincts applying in city elections.)

It was also emphasized that the independent school district of Iowa City differs from the area within the city limits in that it includes outlying districts such as University Heights.

Pick Committee
A bi-partisan nominating committee for the March 13 school election was named Thursday by County Democratic Chairman Edward Lucas and City Republican Chairman William Meardon.

The committee members are (Democrats listed first): first ward, Atty. William Jackson, Merston Spicer; second ward, Mrs. Joe Crumley, Robert H. Lind; third ward, Atty. Donald Borchart, Mrs. Elwin K. Shain.

Fourth ward, Francis Suetpell, Dr. J.A. Swisher; fifth ward, Mrs. Thomas Farrell Sr., Mrs. Ray Thornberry; outlying areas, Dr. P.W. Richardson and Roy Winders.

This bi-partisan committee system is an unofficial Iowa City tradition for the nomination of school board candidates.

Anyone is Eligible
Any legally qualified person may be nominated, however, by submitting a petition signed by at least 10 qualified electors of the school district.

All nominations must be filed with Charles Galher, school board secretary, by 12 noon March 3.

Two Iowa Citizens have already announced their candidacy for three-year terms. They are Mrs. Kenneth E. Greene and L.R. Beals, both present board members.

A meeting of the nominating committee is tentatively scheduled at 7 p.m. Tuesday.

Orchestra Concert Wednesday, Tickets Available Saturday

Free tickets for the University symphony orchestra concert Wednesday will be available Saturday at the Iowa Union information desk.

Prof. Philip Greeley Clapp, head of the music department, said this fourth concert of the season will be presented in the main lounge of the Iowa Union at 8 p.m.

The four-part program will open with Bach's "Brandenburg Concerto No. 3, for strings." The second number will be d'Indy's "Symphony for Orchestra and Piano on a French Mountain Air, opus 25."

After intermission the orchestra will play "Adagio from Symphony No. 5" by Mahler. The concluding number will be the overture "Karelia" by Sibelius.

"Symphony on a French Mountain Air" is based on a French folk tune that uses folk dance rhythms, Clapp said. Besides the full orchestra, a solo piano will be played by Prof. Norma Cross of the music department.

Clapp said the concert will mark the first performance by the University orchestra of the d'Indy and Sibelius numbers.

Kirk Porter to Speak On Hoover Reform Plan

Prof. Kirk Porter, head of the SUI political science department, Thursday will speak in Davenport at a "kick-off" banquet given for supporters of the Hoover commission report.

Davenport's Junior Chamber of Commerce is conducting a campaign for support of the commission's recommendations for cutting expenditures in the U.S. executive department.

The campaign is in response to the urging of a national committee organized to back the report, Porter said.

The banquet will be held in the Blackhawk hotel.

Science Group to Hear Talk on Opinion Polls
Members of Gamma Alpha, graduate science fraternity, will meet at 7:30 p.m. today in room 205, Zoology building.

Prof. Norman Meier of the SUI psychology department will speak on "Sampling as Applied to the Measurement of Attitude and Opinion."

New members will be elected at the meeting, according to President Robert Melville, G, Iowa City. Refreshments will be served after the program.

UWF Official Describes Way To Avoid War

"A united world government is the only obvious way to reduce the danger of a third world war," David Stanley, former state executive director for United World Federalists, told members of the organization's Iowa City chapter Thursday night in the Iowa Union.

Citing progress the Federalists have made since their organization was organized in February, 1947, Stanley said the best possible way to avert an early clash with Russia is to have the nations of the world ratify a world constitution and put it into effect immediately.

Such a movement, he pointed out, would have to be supported and adopted first by the United States congress and later by the United Nations.

In listing some of the UWF's achievements, Stanley said 21 states had passed resolutions to support the world movement. Membership has doubled during the last year and opposition has come from extreme left and right wing groups only, he said.

"What we need most are more people who are willing to dedicate themselves to the idea of more active chapters and more money," Stanley said.

Stanley, who is Iowa's representative on the UWF's national executive council, told his listeners that an attempt would be made to get the U.S. senate to ratify the world movement resolution this year.

Stanley resigned as state executive director of United Federalists to re-enter SUI in February.

Thank Goodness That's Over

OBVIOUSLY PLEASED that his FEPC measure passed, Rep. Samuel K. McConnell Jr. (R-Pa.) smiled broadly Thursday. The house passed McConnell's fair employment practices substitute proposal after Wednesday night's long battle. The FEPC measure, which now goes to the senate, carries no cut-replacement provisions and is far short of what President Truman asked. (Story on Page 1)

Robbery Text Gains Fame

Arthur Godfrey, Scotch, English, Israeli
All Mention SUI Man's Work

By JOHN DURNIAK

Even Arthur Godfrey is talking about the armed robbery text by Prof. Richard L. Holcomb, head of the SUI bureau of safety, institute of public affairs.

During his coast-to-coast radio broadcast Thursday morning, Godfrey described the work, "Armed Robbery," as a book of "Etiquette for holdup victims."

"Don't sneeze and don't cough when a crook has a gun at your back," Godfrey advised, adding on a passage in the book, "or you'll have a belly full of lead to go with your cold."

Written For Money Handlers
The 44-page book was primarily written for Iowa's most-likely-to-be-held-up people—bank employees, cashiers and others who handle large sums of money. It provides information so robbery victims might stay alive longer and be of more aid to police in operating a state-wide road block plan.

After its publication in June, 1949, the book broke its intended Iowa boundaries and gained national and international recognition.

Though figures are not available on how many lives have been saved by the book's readers and money kept from criminal's hands, proof from as far as Glasgow, Scotland, and Israel is available on the interest of keeping both figures down to a minimum.

Scottish Comment
The Glasgow Evening Times said in a January story: "... Holcomb of Iowa university has turned his academic knowledge and experience in police work into a weapon against gunmen."

The council general of the Israeli government bought two of the 1,200 copies that have been distributed.

Reviews of the work have appeared in the Des Moines Sunday Register; Business Week; Progressive Grocer; Successful Grocer; the London, England, Daily Mail and Evening Standard.

It is illustrated with cartoons by Robert W. Gadbois, G. Iowa City, and aims at doing four things: give tips on how to act with a gunman and stay alive; how to keep money losses to a minimum; how to ensure that the criminal will be caught, and how to avoid a holdup altogether.

The book may be purchased for $1 through the SUI institute of public affairs.

WSUI Adds Eight To Training Staff

Eight prospective radio announcers were added to the WSUI-KSUI "B" staff as the result of Saturday's auditions. Program Director Richard Setterberg, G. Iowa City, said Thursday.

The "B" staff is a training group, Setterberg explained. They do not announce on the air. However, they work before the "mike," make wire recordings of their broadcasts, and otherwise learn to improve their announcing.

After going through such a period of training, "B" staff members may audition again for a position on the "AB" staff which announces on KSUI, the SUI FM station.

From the "AB" staff the men may be promoted to the "A" staff which handles announcing duties on WSUI, the AM station.

The new staff members are Gary Gotberg, A2, Chehalis, Wash.; Warren Haffner, A4, Iowa City; David Hall, A1, Iowa City; Kenneth Kronholm, A3, Moline, Ill.; James Mergen, A1, Fennimore, Wis.

Benjamin Silver, A3, New York; Shepard Van Gelder, A3, New York; and Curt Williams, A1, Cedar Rapids.

Professor Diagnoses Ills of Republicans

One of the main factors in the apparent decline of the Republican party is the harm done by opposing factions within the party, Prof. Jack Johnson of the political science department said Thursday.

Johnson spoke at a meeting of SUI's Young Republicans.

He said "a political party should work at a level where its influences can be felt" and suggested "grass-roots campaigning" as the key to future success.

Other business at the meeting included plans for the Big 10 Republican conference March 24 and 25. Eight delegates from SUI will attend.

William Ebert, C3, Mount Pleasant, was appointed social chairman of the league.

Try and Stop Me

EUGENE LYONS tells of the FBI investigator who discovered evidence of some amazing marksmanship in a West Virginia town. On trees, fences, and walls were countless bullet holes, with the bullet-hole in the absolute center. The FBI man demanded an introduction to the Dead-eye Dick responsible for this spectacular shooting and was led to the village half-wit.

"Greatest shooting I ever saw," marveled the FBI man. "How in the world do you do it?" "Nothing to it," deprecated the half-wit. "I shoot first and draw the circles afterward."

In Texas, they tell a story of the days when the redoubtable Ma Ferguson first tossed her sombrero into the political arena. She came back from a succession of stump-speeches all over the state, and reported happily, "Looks like I'm going to sweep Texas." Pa Ferguson took the pipe out of his mouth, and suggested gloomily, "How about starting with this living room?"

Bandits Get $350,000 Loot as Owner Sleeps

CLEVELAND (AP) — Wearing stockings on their shoes and hoods over their heads, seven gunmen got an estimated $350,000 in uninsured jewels Thursday in a slick holdup at the William G. Mather mansion.

But Mather himself, 93-year-old retired board chairman of Cleveland Cliffs Iron Co., and a millionaire, many times over, slept on as his wife screamed and his Irish terrier, Pokey, barked.

Before the gunmen left, both Mrs. Mather and Mather's male nurse, roused by her screams, were bound and gagged with adhesive tape and tied in a sitting position to her bed. The nurse is 72-year-old Walter Mussel.

Police Chief William L'Estrange of suburban Bratenahl, where the Mather's live, said the bandits seemed suspiciously familiar with the six-acre layout and 30-room mansion on the lake front.

He has obtained the names of four or five ex-Mather servants because the bandits got into the home through the servants' entrance, the first servant to enter last night — at 11:00 — insists she locked the door.

As police described the holdup, the robbers stationed three men outside to be on the alert for burglar alarms. They wore the stockings on their shoes to blot footprints in the snow.

Holdup Method
Then the other four slipped inside and crept upstairs to Mrs. Mather's bedroom.

When Mrs. Mather screamed, Nurse Mussel tore into the room but was quickly bound.

"The leader told me that no one would be seriously hurt if I gave him the combination to the three diamond necklaces, a pearl necklace, a diamond pin, a ruby and diamond pendant, a sapphire and diamond ring, a butterfly diamond brooch and two diamond earring clips.

Before leaving, the robbers ripped out telephone wires. They also asked Mrs. Mather if she had any valuable paintings and apparently were satisfied when she replied "No."

Actually, she said later, they do have a number of expensive paintings.

Townships Advised to Buy Fire Equipment

Outlying townships were advised in an Iowa City council meeting Thursday night to levy taxes for fire protection and use the money collected to buy fire equipment suited for country roads.

Alderman Charles T. Smith told trustees of West Lucas and East Lucas townships that the equipment of the Iowa City fire department was too heavy for use outside the city.

He referred to a proposed ordinance the city council has been studying which would permit Iowa City to enter fire protection contracts with townships within a six-mile radius of city hall.

Under the contracts, the Iowa City fire department would be subject to call when a fire occurs in one of the townships.

Smith, chairman of the council's committee on fire and water, suggested the townships pool their tax money to buy a light fire truck and suitable pumping equipment and to pay the Iowa City fire department for training and employing two firemen.

Fire Chief Al Dolezal said the yearly wages for two firemen are about $6,000. The townships could buy pumping and chemical equipment needed for about $8,000, he said (this figure did not include the cost of a truck).

Minnesota's Henry Stenquist gave the Gophers their only first by winning the 220-yard free style. It was only the second defeat of the season for Captain Charles Robison who was out-pointed in the high board diving by Iowa's Jack Wilson.

Hawkeye Wrestlers To Meet Minnesota

Iowa's wrestling squad will leave today for Minneapolis where the Hawkeyes take on Minnesota Saturday afternoon in their final dual meet of the season.

The Gophers had a bad time last weekend, losing to Illinois Friday and to Wisconsin Saturday. Minnesota had previously lost to Ohio State. Its only win was over Northwestern.

The Iowa squad downed Wisconsin, Wheaton and Northwestern and lost meets to Illinois and Michigan.

Featured bout of the match will probably be between Heavyweights Joe Paulsen and Leo Nommellini. Nommellini, Gopher football tackle, has won 10 straight. His latest win, against Wisconsin, was by virtue of a fall gained in the first period.

Rangers Down Chicago, Tie Montreal for Third

CHICAGO (AP) — The York Rangers moved into a tie with Montreal for third place in the National Hockey league standings Thursday night by sweeping their midweek two game series against the last place Chicago Black Hawks before 11,418 here, 7-3.

The Rangers, who now have a seven game unbeaten run of five victories and two ties, virtually clinched Stanley Cup qualification. Wednesday night in New York they won, 3-0.

The only bright spot from the Chicago standpoint was Doug Bentley's unassisted goal early in the third period. That was the 200th goal in his major hockey league play and it came after he had tried unsuccessfully to pass the 199 mark six games ago.

Davis to Play Football With LA Rams in '50

FORT MONROE, VA. (AP) — First Lt. Glenn Davis, former all-American gridiron star at Army, said here Thursday he would play professional football next autumn with the Los Angeles Rams.

Davis was notified Thursday afternoon that the army had accepted his resignation. Although the resignation becomes effective June 3, Davis said he would be free to accept civilian employment March 1.

Davis said he would leave Fort Monroe March 1 for his home in California.

Except for a couple of exhibition games played for charity, Davis has played no football, he said, since the Army - Navy battle of 1947.

Trackmen Leave for 4-Way Meet

Iowa's track team, 22 strong, will leave this afternoon for Champaign, Ill. to participate in a quadrangular meet with Purdue, Northwestern and the host school, Illinois Saturday afternoon.

The undefeated Hawks have locked good in recent practice sessions with most of the emphasis given to star's, pacing and baton passing.

Have Beaten Wildcats

In their two outings this season — both on the fieldhouse oval — the Hawkeyes have compiled 147 1/3 points in whipping Marquette and Northwestern. The Wildcats will be one of Iowa's opponents Saturday.

Mel Rosen, one of the Old Gold's top half-milers, has influenza and will not be able to make the trip. With Rosen, Iowa could possibly figure on two places in the 800.

Another Hawk who will not participate Saturday is pole-vaulter Clair Jennett. He will go to Madison for the gymnastics meet.

22-Man Squad

Gymnasts Travel

Iowa's gymnastics team will travel to Madison, Wis., for a triangular gym meet Saturday afternoon. The Hawks, winners of one meet this season, will be facing Wisconsin and Michigan in the three-way competition.

PEP FINED $500

MIAMI, FLA. (AP) — World Featherweight Champion Willie Pep Thursday was fined $500 and his opponent, Jimmy Warren of Brooklyn, $250, for "poor showing and lack of effort" in a 10-round non-title fight Wednesday night.

IOWAN MILER Jack Davis, holder of the university mile run record of 4:21.8 will meet two of the Big 10's top distance men Saturday in the quadrangular track meet at Champaign, Ill. Davis hopes to win points for the Hawks in addition to lowering his own mile mark.

Nice Guys!

Iowa Track Teams Like Wildcats

Northwestern must stand mighty high on the list of opponents Iowa indoor track teams like best to meet.

Saturday the Hawkeyes won their second dual meet in as many starts this season by trouncing the Wildcats, 73-41. Not since 1939 has an Iowa squad been able to win two dual meets in a row, and that year, too, Northwestern figured in the twin victories.

In 1939, however, the Iowans had won one, lost one before downing the team from Evanston and then defeating Minnesota.

The previous year, 1938, Iowa's indoor team took three in succession, beating Minnesota, Northwestern and Chicago, in that order.

The Hawkeyes did not meet Northwestern in the years between 1932 and 1938 but in '32 Iowa's lone win came over the Wildcats. Previous to 1932 the two schools did not meet in indoor competition.

Not once in six indoor dual encounters has Northwestern been able to gain a victory over the Hawkeyes. A more obliging opponent could hardly be asked for.

Lavern Roach Dies After Bout

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP) — Lavern Roach, handsome ex-marine boxing idol of Plainview, Texas, died Thursday of brain injuries suffered Wednesday night in a 10th round knockout loss to George Small of Brooklyn.

The end came at 11:50 a.m. (Iowa Time) at St. Clare's hospital, where he had been taken on a stretcher from St. Nicholas arena.

"The patient was in a deep coma," the hospital report read, "and there was respiratory failure with final cessation of heart action due to the after effects of a cerebral hemorrhage and brain damage."

Huddled at the bedside in stunned silence were the boxer's wife, Evelyn, and his manager, Johnny Abood, who handled Roach's career since his days with the Cherry Point, N.C., marines. Wednesday was his 24th birthday.

Dr. Nardiello Stayed
Dr. Vincent A. Nardiello, New York State Athletic commission physician, and four other doctors attended the stricken athlete after his last fight. Dr. Nardiello remained with the patient through the night until his death.

Only a handful, 1,832, waded through sleet and snow to see the middleweight battle in the ancient midtown club. Hundreds of thousands and perhaps millions of shocked television viewers saw the tragic ending of the fight at 1:57 of the 10th over a CBS network telecast. Cameras focused on Roach's corner for several minutes as his handlers and doctors worked over him following the knockout.

Roach, boxing's "rookie of the year" in 1947, was on a comeback when tragedy struck. Rushed into a match with Marcel Cerdan, March 12, 1948, Roach suffered a bad beating that almost ended his career. This was a few months before Cerdan won the middleweight title.

Scorecards of both judges and Referee Frank Fullam had the Texan out front in the first nine rounds of his last fight. Early in the battle he outpunched Small with a solid left hook although he appeared to be off in his timing.

Seconds later, Small battered Roach to the canvas again and he collapsed flat on his back. Referee Fullam quickly ended the fight without a count, reaching down to remove the boy's mouthpiece. Dr. Alexander Schiff, a commission doctor, was in the ring immediately.

After Roach was half-dragged to his corner he came to and opened his eyes. Talking to his trainer he said, "Damn it, this would happen."

Two or three times he started to get up and sagged and sat down on the stool. Dr. Nardiello quickly gave him an injection and ordered a stretcher.

Roach was placed under an oxygen tent at the hospital and fed through the veins. He was unconscious from the time he left the ring.

Notre Dame Grigger, Injured in Gymnastics, Dies of Broken Neck

SOUTH BEND, IND. — Charles Raymond (Ray) Espanan, 24-year-old Notre Dame football end, died late Thursday of a broken neck he suffered in a gymnastics demonstration.

Unhurt in four years of big-time collegiate football, Espanan was injured attempting a back flip on a trampoline in a Central high school gymnasium Monday.

The demonstration was part of his practice teaching as a senior in the Notre Dame school of physical education.

Death came in St. Joseph's hospital. At the bedside were his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E.J. Espanan, of New Orleans, and a brother, Pierre, a pre-medical student at Notre Dame. Edward (Moose) Krause, Notre Dame director of athletics, was sitting outside the hospital in his automobile.

University officials sought to notify Coach Frank Leahy, reported fishing from a yacht off Miami, Fla.

Espanan was a member of the Irish gridiron squad throughout its string of 38 games without defeat — a string that is still unbroken.

Although a superior end, Espanan had the misfortune to play the same position as Leon Hart, Notre Dame's all-American star. Espanan was the No. 1 replacement for Hart but was overshadowed by the huge wingman. Espanan did not get to score last season as the Irish went through an undefeated season for the mythical national championship.

Intramurals to Stage Two All-Star Games

A pair of "East vs. West" all-star intramural basketball games will be held Tuesday, March 7 at the fieldhouse, the intramural office announced Thursday.

The contests, first of its kind at SU, will match the leading intramural performers from the west side of the river against a similar team from the eastern part of the campus. There will be a heavyweight and 150-pound game.

Members of the competing squads will be selected by the all-university intramural council from nominations submitted by the athletic managers of all heavyweight and lightweight leagues. Each team will have 15 men.

Post cards have been sent to the managers requesting their presenting a five-man all-opponents team from the players encountered in intramural competition. Nominations must be in the intramural office by 5 p.m., Feb. 27.

Hawklets Home

City high faces Franklin of Cedar Rapids here tonight in the final Mississippi Valley game of the year. The Hawklets have a firm hold on third place with a 6-4 record.

Bill Fenton, who has won the league scoring title, will have a chance to increase his point total of 158 in 10 games.

Who's the Prospect in This Case? —

Talk as to the successor to Frank Carideo as Iowa's backfield coach has settled to a mere whisper since two of Dr. Eddie Anderson's assistants were re-appointed to the staff by Coach Leonard Raffensperger. Everybody guessed for the first day or so, then — silence.

Oh, Sid Luckman's name was heard here and there, and several high school coaches were suggested as possible successors to Raffensperger's old freshman coaching job. But until Thursday afternoon, we hadn't heard a thing. Then it happened, via the grapevine, of course.

"Bob Swisher's in town," we were told. "Remember what a star he was with Northwestern years ago? I'll bet he's here seeing about the backfield job."

Frankly, the only Swisher we knew of was a town between Iowa City and Cedar Rapids, but a check proved such a fellow did play for the Wildcat 10 years ago. He was a backfield man, then later played pro football for the Chicago Bears.

So with much haste we called Dr. Paul Brechler and asked how much he'd signed for, or something like that. The answer: A few dozen shoes.

Seems Swisher makes a habit of coming to Iowa City, as a representative of Riddell's, an outfit that sells athletic equipment, shoes, stuff like that. "Sure he was in town," Brechler said as he chuckled. "He was here all day. In fact, he's here every once in a while. As far as I know he was selling equipment, not looking for a coaching job."

"Anyway," he added, "Raff is out of town."

Not long ago we had a chance to see intercollegiate boxing for the first time. It is mighty popular at many colleges, competing successfully with every sport but football at the box office.

The match we saw was between Wisconsin and the University of Idaho, attended by 12,500 fans, who went slightly wild when the action became hot and heavy. By winning, 5-3, Wisconsin protected its record of never having been defeated at home.

Like wrestling, there are eight bouts, but unlike wrestling, each win counts a point, each tie half a point. The contestants wear protective headgear and use 16-ounce gloves, pillows compared to the eight-ounce gloves the professional boxers use. They also wear shirts.

The action was slower than the pro bouts and many of the bouts must have been hard to judge. After Idaho had lost a close bout a fellow behind us remarked, "No wonder Idaho hasn't been here in five years; now they'll probably never come back."

There were no knockouts, nor were there any knockdowns. The knockout is unusual, the knockdown fairly common. Anytime during the three two-minute rounds that the action became just a dance the crowd would start yelling. The fighters usually responded with a flurry of amateur, but fun-to-watch, boxing.

Those Iowa big boys, Frank Calsbeek and Chuck Darling, must have seemed mighty tall to Indiana when the Hoosiers were here Jan. 14th. According to information we've received, Iowa's height, "provided by Chuck Darling's 6-10 and Frank Calsbeek's 6-8, makes it a tough chore for the Hoosiers."

The release was referring to the game Saturday night at Bloomington, Ind., where the Hawks will try and make it two straight over Indiana. Actually Frank is 6-6 1/2, Chuck 6-8. That's still pretty big, when Indiana's big man is a mere 6-5.

As far as the outcome is concerned we wouldn't mind seeing the same thing happen at Bloomington that happened a few years back, when with Iowa a point to the good everybody was yelling as loudly that the players didn't hear the final gun.

Not waiting Indiana to get any more of a chance to score than the Hoosiers had had for 40 minutes of regulation time, Pops Harrison, picked up a chair and tossed it onto the court.

"That's all boys," he screamed, "let's go home."

A terrific right hand punch to the jaw, just as Roach was starting a left hook, smashed the Texan to the canvas for a count of nine in the last round. Roach, acting on instinct alone, followed through with his hook, spun weakly and flopped flat on his back. Out cold for seven counts, he bounced up jerkily like a mechanical doll to beat Fullam's count.

Seconds later, Small battered Roach to the canvas again and he collapsed flat on his back. Referee Fullam quickly ended the fight without a count, reaching down to remove the boy's mouthpiece. Dr. Alexander Schiff, a commission doctor, was in the ring immediately.

After Roach was half-dragged to his corner he came to and opened his eyes. Talking to his trainer he said, "Damn it, this would happen."

Two or three times he started to get up and sagged and sat down on the stool. Dr. Nardiello quickly gave him an injection and ordered a stretcher.

Roach was placed under an oxygen tent at the hospital and fed through the veins. He was unconscious from the time he left the ring.

Leo 'the Angel' Seeks Wrestling Crown

By ALAN MOYER

Daily Iowan Sports Editor
"The first time my coach told me to switch, I got up and turned the lights out," said giant Leo Nommellini recently when he was asked about his latest athletic fame — wrestling.

Minnesota's Leo, known as "the Angel" around the Western conference, will be tossing his 260 pounds around the mat in the Big Ten championships, to be held in the Iowa fieldhouse, March 3 and 4.

The all-American football tackle — now better versed in the language of wrestling — has won 14 straight bouts, 10 of them this year, to establish himself as the heavyweight favorite. He'll be after the title held last year by Vern Gagne of Minnesota, now wrestling professionally.

Five Champions

Fans will be able to see five champions from 1949 in action, among them Iowa's three-time 175-pound winner, Joe Scarpello, and Purdue Big Ten and NCAA 126-pound title holder, Arnold Plaza.

Seven of the nine eligible Big Ten schools Thursday had officially entered the 1950 conference wrestling championship tournament, to be held in the Iowa fieldhouse, March 3 and 4.

Minnesota and Illinois entries are expected today, while the team that made it the Big Ten again — Michigan State — will not enter league competition until the cross-country season opens next fall.

Iowa Coach Mike Howard, off with his team to Minneapolis this weekend, will enter 8 grapplers in the league meet, which will take place on the varsity basketball floor. Two mats will be used at the same time until the finals Saturday afternoon, March 4. Drawings will take place Friday morning, with preliminaries opening the competition that afternoon at 2. Semi-finals begin at 8 Friday evening, saving the championship and third-place bouts for Saturday afternoon.

Boilermakers Champs
Purdue has won the conference title for two years running and has won four championships in the last 10 seasons. Last year at Bloomington, Ind., the Boilermakers eased through to their second straight one-point title. Iowa finished seventh last year, after trailing Purdue in second place the year before by a single point. Plaza will lead the Purdue team in its title defense. Coach Claude Reeck also has Joe Patz, conference 123-pound champ, and Waldemar Van Cott, second to Iowa's Scarpello in the 175-pound division for the last two years.

SUI Law Alumnus Honored As Rotary Group Founder

The name of an SUI law graduate of the class of '91 Thursday figured in Iowa City Rotarians' celebration of the founding of the first Rotary club 45 years ago. Paul Percy Harris founded the first Rotary club in Chicago in 1905. When he died in 1947, the 1,000 clubs in Rotary International set up an international scholarship fund in his honor. At Thursday's meeting, Prof. Allen C. Tester, club president, announced that local Rotarians had subscribed 100 percent to the fund.

Fellowship Student Here

Rotary clubs have contributed more than $2-million making possible grants of 111 fellowships to students from 26 countries.

Applications for SUI Student Nurses organization elections will be available Monday. They may be obtained from Westlawn unit leaders, Jean Baer, counselor and instructor in the SUI college of nursing, said Thursday.

Applications may be filled out by girls who wish to run for president, vice - president, secretary, treasurer, social chairman, activities chairman or Hawkeye representative and historian.

All applications must be turned in to President Lois Gutz, A4, Hampton, by March 7, Miss Baer said. They will be screened by the present student nurse council for qualified candidates. Further nominations then be made, she said.

Among requirements for candidates is a cumulative grade point average of 2.3. Election campaigns will begin March 16, she said. Voting will take place late in March during all-campus elections.

Formed Club

He opened a Chicago law office in 1896. There he grew restless in the loneliness of the city, and in 1905 he and some friends formed the first Rotary club.

Harris thought of the club as an organization in which members might become acquainted and, through their affiliation, serve their community.

They selected "Rotary" because the club's meeting place was to be a rotunda.

Professor to Speak to Medical Society

Dr. C. M. Kos, assistant professor of otolaryngology at the SUI college of medicine, will speak Wednesday at the regular meeting of the Johnson County Medical Society, Secretary E. J. Boyd said Thursday.

The meeting will open with a dinner at 6 p.m. at Hotel Jefferson. During the scientific program, Kos will discuss the surgical treatment of selected types of hearing loss.

War Claims Questionnaires Available Now

Two questionnaires are available at the office of the Johnson county chapter of the American Red Cross for filing war claims arising from World War II, excluding prisoner of war claims. Mrs. Lorna L. Mathes, executive secretary of the chapter, said one claim should be filed by any person or firm who wishes to submit a statement regarding loss or damage of personal or real property, arising out of the war. The second questionnaire, she said, should be filed by any person who wishes to submit a statement of personal injury such as detention or impairment of health incurred during the war. Neither of these questionnaires will constitute a formal claim for benefits, she added. The fact that an individual has already filed an application for benefits as a former POW, civilian internee or the survivor of one of these persons does not mean that he should not submit a statement of additional loss, injury or damage, she said. This information, she added, is being requested by the War Claims commission which, in turn, must submit it to Congress. The applications must be received not later than March 2, she said.

Troubled Elopement Ends Happily

IT WAS A DOG'S LIFE for awhile but Priscilla Manning, 19, Rochester, and Arthur Cratsley, Honeoye, N.Y., were finally married in Probate Court, Flint, Thursday after an elopement they thought would avoid a five-day wait for a license. They had to wait anyway. Almost broke, they stayed in Cratsley's car for several days until a deputy sheriff learned of their case and took them to his home until they could wed. Shown with them is the puppy who shared their adventure.

Students Help Feed 500 At City High's Cafeteria

With at least 500 mouths to feed, City high school's cafeteria operates entirely with student help, with the exception of three cooks.

In return for the noon meal, 24 students make sandwiches, set up and serve at the counter, perform cashier duties, wash dishes and work in the store room.

Open from 11:50 a.m. to 1:20 p.m., the cafeteria operates on the basis of three half-hour shifts. Supervisor Byrdine Reece, who teaches food classes, does the planning, buying and managing for the cafeteria. She managed a Chicago cafeteria before coming to Iowa City.

Just More Work

"Cooking for 500 persons isn't any different than cooking for one person, except that it's 500 times as much work," she laughed.

Cooking for the 500 persons are Mrs. Katharin Beecher, Mrs. Agnes Kelley and Mrs. Don Rochau.

Macaroni and cheese on the cafeteria menu means that 45 pounds of macaroni went into its making. In the same Paul Bunyan proportions, it takes 30 gallons of chili to serve students and faculty, Miss Reece said.

Nine Iowa Citizens Join History Society

Nine of the sixty-three members elected Wednesday to the State Historical society were Iowa Citizens, Prof. William J. Petersen, superintendent, said Thursday.

The new members were elected by the board of curators at its regular monthly meeting. New members from Iowa City are E. W. Chittenden, Edna Harter, Frank E. Lee, W. J. Matthes, Donald E. Northup, W. E. Starr and T. Roger Thompson. Junior and City high schools also were listed as members.

Petersen said the new members represented 34 different Iowa towns and 28 counties.

Grissold and Stanton are represented by four members; Dayton and Mount Pleasant, three; Ames, Belle Plaine, Des Moines, Montezuma, Red Oak and Waterloo, two each.

Capitol Theater Owner To Open New Theater

Ernest A. Pannos, owner-manager of the Capitol theater, said Thursday he will open a new theater in Champaign, Ill., March 10.

This new theater, to be called the "Illini," will be Pannos' second in university towns. It will feature art and foreign films, he said.

Sabin Third Graders To Entertain Parents

Parents of Henry Sabin third graders will be guests at an assembly held by the class Monday. Instructor Lynne Forward said Thursday.

The program will consist of illustrated talks by the students on the subject of fur-bearing animals.

A YOUNG girl, recounts Harry Conover of the Model Agency, came to Father Healey in Dublin and confessed that she had incurred the sin of vanity. "What makes you think that?" asked Father Healey. "Every day," said the girl, "I look into the mirror and tell myself how beautiful I am." Father Healey put on his glasses to study the girl more carefully, then told her gently, "That's not a sin, my child, it's only a serious mistake in judgment."

Miss Krieswirth, an extremely nervous patient at best, jumped to her feet in alarm when a series of staccato reports sounded from within Dr. Rodgers' impressive inner sanctum. "Nothing to worry about, my dear," the nurse soothed her. "That's just the old doc giving Mrs. Nussbaum some thols."

Chief Hoo-chok, of a noble cannibal tribe, came down with a severe attack of hay fever. His wife pointed out coldly, "That's what you get for eating that grass widow!"

SUI's New Construction Program Continues Despite Winter Weather

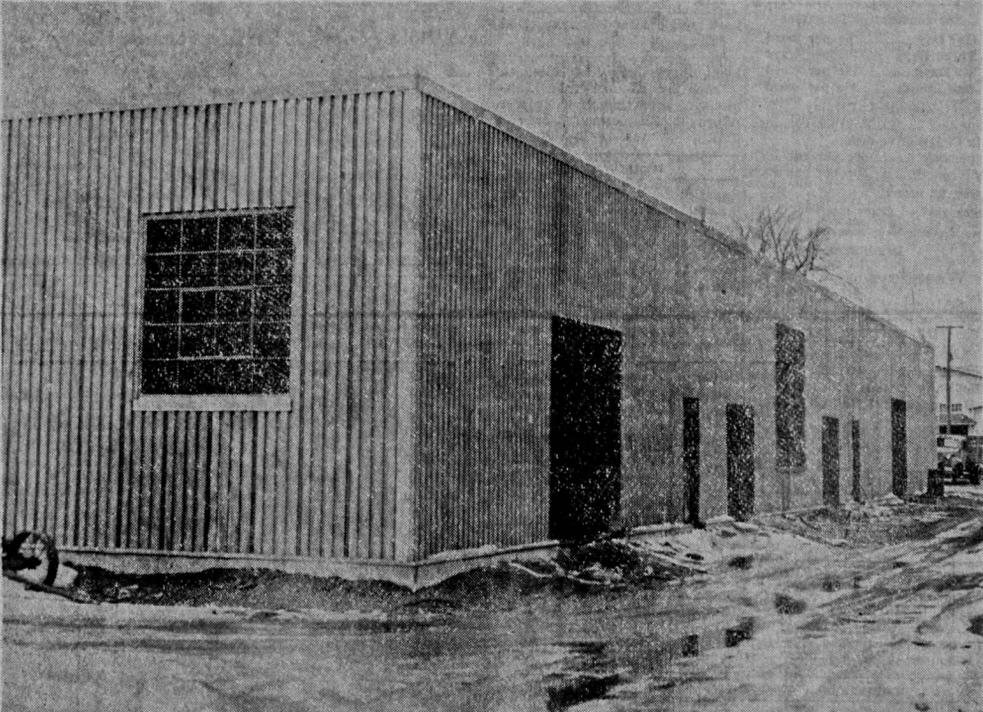

NEW QUARTERS FOR BOOKWORMS are contemplated at the new SUI library, corner of Madison and Washington streets, but probably won't be available until 1951. Despite interference from Jack Frost, work on the library is proceeding at a good clip. Metal sheeting for the fourth floor has been laid this week, climaxing the metal-sheet phase of the job. Wooden forms into which concrete is poured now are being built, and concrete for the first floor should be laid in March.

CONSTRUCTION ON THE MULTI-MILLION DOLLAR veterans hospital advances steadily despite the ravages of wind and cold weather. The project, located on highway 6 near Westlawn, has been commissioned by the federal government and is in the hands of the Rock Island district engineers. Total cost of the project and total number of beds and facilities which it will make available have not been announced.

WORK ON THE NEW SUI GENERAL STORES building is only a stone's throw from completion. The building, located on the corner of Front and Court streets, lacks floors, doors and windows—but that's all. These probably will be installed this spring and the building will be ready to store SUI equipment and materials. Corrugated metal—not handsome but adequate—comprises the outside of the new building. Work seldom has suspended because of cold weather.

EXPANSION OF STUDENT LIVING QUARTERS at SUI currently is underway in the new addition to the south wing of Hillcrest. Work continues in the face of Iowa's winter by dint of two gas-line-operated heaters which permit concrete to be poured in freezing temperatures. Mechanical vibrators do the work of five or six men in pouring concrete. After concrete has been laid in the lower section this week, work will commence on columns to support the second floor. Forms for these columns already have been built.

PROPOSED ADDITIONS TO THE IOWA UNION will extend outward towards the reader from the southwest face of the Union (shown above). Tentative plans for the $3-million Union expansion program include student service or recreational facilities, food service—about six additional dining rooms served by a central kitchen and a "guest house" with between 75 and 100 hotel rooms. Construction on the addition may begin by the spring of 1951. Prof. Earl E. Harper, Union director, announced.

THE PRESENT UNION, as seen from the southeast (above), often has been closed to students for lack of facilities when a big party is held there. A 12-year planning campaign for expansion has culminated in the current proposal drawn up by Harper and the student Union boards. Tentative approval has been awarded the plan by the SUI executive committee, trustees of the Iowa Memorial Union corporation, campus planning committee, Union advisory committee and the state board of education.
