Gromyko Note Says Russia Not Holding American Citizens

MOSCOW (FRIDAY) (AP) — Russia denied today, in a note to the United States, that 38 American citizens were being detained in the Soviet Union.

Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko said in a communication delivered to the American embassy that 37 of 38 persons cited as American citizens really were Russians, citizens of other countries, or persons without a country.

However, the Russian note said, four Russian citizens among the 38, whose families are permanently residing in the United States, will be granted permission to leave Russia.

The Soviet note counter-charged that "tens of thousands" of Russians in Germany and Austria, and at least three in the United States, were being kept by the United States from coming home. Gromyko's communication disclosed that American Ambassador Adm. Alan Kirk made representations to the Soviet foreign office Oct. 4, 1949, and Dec. 12, 1949, about the 38 persons.

Kirk asked the foreign ministry to find out the whereabouts of the persons concerned, claiming them as Americans, and to permit them to leave the Soviet Union.

"The facts show the complete groundlessness of the assertions contained in the memorandum of the embassy to the effect that allegedly some American citizens are being prevented by the Soviet government from returning to the United States," Gromyko's communication said.

"Further, since the memorandum points out that persons having citizenship in the Soviet Union could be among those persons, the ministry of foreign affairs of the Soviet Union drew to the attention of the embassy the fact that a decision concerning citizenship of Soviet citizens belongs exclusively within the competence of Soviet authorities."

Maine Home Fire Takes Eight Lives, Mother Survives

MONSON, ME. (AP) — Eight members of one family died Thursday in a fire that swept their home. Only the critically burned young mother survived.

The tragedy cost the lives of Elwood Smith, 36; his mother, Mrs. Harriet Smith, 68, and Smith's six children, Carolyn 11, Patricia, 9, Malcolm, 7, Robert, 5, Judy, 3, and Cheryl, 1.

The only survivor was Mrs. Norma Smith, 32. Awakened by her screams, a neighbor found her struggling naked through deep snow toward a road. All of her clothing had been burned off.

Another tragic fire, at Kenosha, Wis., flashed through a small trailer camp cabin Thursday, wiping out a family of five. The dead there were Carroll Maxwell, about 28; his wife, Betty, 26, and their three children, Jimmy 4, Steve 2, and Patricia, 2 months.

Monson is a little state-mining town of 800 persons, 60 miles northwest of Bangor.

Smith, an independent trucker, died trying to save his children and his mother. He smashed the glass of a front storm door, led his wife into deep snow and near zero cold and raced back into the flames.

Firemen believe he cut himself badly. Blood reddened the snow near the door of the 125-year-old house.

The eight bodies, burned beyond recognition, were recovered from the ruins of the one and one-half story frame dwelling.

Local Men Named To Census School

Two Iowa citizens have been selected to attend the 1950 census-taking school in Davenport, beginning Wednesday.

They are George Kanak who will supervise the census-taking operation in Iowa City, and George Krall, who will be in charge of the rural areas and small towns.

After finishing the one-week school, they will conduct a similar school later this month for about 37 local persons who will be employed as census-takers in Johnson county.

Nose-counting is expected to start about April 1 and be completed within two or three weeks. No arrangements have been made for counting students at SUI as yet.

Mayor Gets CMA Petitions

A MANUSCRIPT-SIZE VOLUME OF PETITIONS CALLING FOR a special election Thursday was presented to Mayor Preston Koser, left, by Atty. Gen. J. Hamilton, chairman of the local Council-Manager association. The election, to be held within two months, will decide the question of whether Iowa City will adopt the city-manager form of government. The petition was signed by 3,400 local residents. In the background is shown the cover of the volume of petitions.

Mayor Schedules Late April For Council-Manager Election

Mayor Preston Koser said Thursday the special election to determine whether Iowa City will adopt the council-manager form of government probably will be held in the latter part of April.

The local Council-Manager association Thursday presented the mayor with petitions which workers started circulating Jan. 25, and which contained 3,400 signatures.

A minimum of 1,300 signatures was needed to require Koser to call the special election. Under Iowa law the required number is equal to 25 percent of the persons who voted for mayor in the last city election.

Sometime this month the mayor must set the date for the special election. If Iowa City residents vote at the election to adopt the city manager plan, the plan will not go into effect until after the regular city election in March, 1951.

At that time voters will elect five councilmen-at-large, provided the new system is to go into effect. This council will hire a city manager, whose duties are to manage city business affairs. The council is the policy-determining body.

In Iowa, cities using the city manager plan which have populations of more than 20,000 are entitled to five councilmen. Because SUI students will be included in the local population by 1950 census takers, Iowa City's population is expected to be above 20,000.

Representatives of the Council-Manager association who gave the petitions to Koser were Clair E. Hamilton, chairman; Mrs. Don Lewis, vice-chairman; Robert G. Stevenson, chairman of the petition committee, and J.P. Kelley and R.P. White, members of the association's executive committee.

Truman Backs Cut In Military Budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — The administration defended its cuts in military spending Thursday but indicated the ceiling on such outlays will not be dropped below $13-billion annually for the next two years.

President Truman himself spoke out in support of Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson, who has been holding down army, navy and air force budgets.

Mr. Truman told a news conference he is aware of criticism in some quarters that the economy moves have weakened U.S. defenses. That's not the truth, he said.

As a matter of fact, the president continued, the country is in the best situation as to defenses that it has ever been in when it was not at war.

At the same time Johnson made public a report to congress declaring: "We will not retreat from our basic objective of maximizing our national security and minimizing its cost."

Conservative Press Claims British War Minister Communist

LONDON, FRIDAY (AP) — The powerful Conservative Beaverbrook press opened a drive today to force War Minister John Strachey out of his job on the ground that he is "an avowed Communist" and unfit to conduct an investigation into the leakage of atomic secrets to Russia.

Lord Beaverbrook's afternoon newspaper, The Evening Standard, opened the attack on Strachey Thursday by calling him "an avowed Communist" and cited his writings to prove it.

Beaverbrook's morning paper, The Daily Express, followed up by saying that it was highly undesirable that Strachey, as war minister, should have charge of Britain's military counter-espionage.

He will not command sufficient public confidence in that position," The Daily Express said. "The prime minister should therefore give recognition to this by removing Mr. Strachey from the war ministry forthwith."

Beaverbrook is a Conservative party leader and a close friend of Winston Churchill. His blast against Strachey may prove the opening gun in a merciless bombardment of the Labor government that will last until the next election.

Strachey was promoted from food minister to war minister Tuesday, in a post-election cabinet reshuffle. As war minister, he is in direct charge of the war office's famous "Mi-5" secret service, this country's chief counter-espionage bureau.

It was reported Prime Minister Clement R. Attlee had ordered Strachey to take charge of a sweeping investigation into the way atomic spy Klaus Fuchs, sent to prison for 14 years Wednesday, was able to keep a key atomic energy job though he was known to be a Communist.

Missing G.I. Indicted For Knife Slaying

DES MOINES (AP) — Thomas Ellis, 21, was indicted for murdering here Thursday in the hunting knife slaying of Mrs. Flora A. Bryan, 85-year-old Des Moines widow.

The Polk county grand jury returned the indictment against Ellis, an AWOL soldier, after hearing 19 witnesses during an investigation started nearly a month ago.

Ellis has been missing since the slaying of Mrs. Bryan in her three-room home Feb. 4.

The soldier, who has been absent since Feb. 1 from Fort Riley, Kan., has been the object of a widespread search which now has become virtually nationwide.

Polk County Sheriff Howard C. Reppert's office and state criminal bureau agents have been working on the case since Mrs. Bryan's body was found the day following the killing.

UMW Acquitted Of Contempt Charges; Government To Appeal To Higher Court

SUI Officials Offer to Share Coal Supplies

SUI Thursday offered a share of its coal supply to relieve shortages in Iowa City public and parochial schools, Mercy hospital, fraternities and sororities.

Mayor Preston Koser received a letter from Business Manager Fred Ambrose saying SUI had analyzed its coal supplies and found it could furnish some coal to groups affiliated with the university or closely connected with public welfare.

SUI will be able to help out in the local emergency only to an extent consistent with its obligations to keep the university and University hospitals in continuous operation, Ambrose said.

Officials predicted SUI buildings would be a "few degrees cooler" as a result of the program. SUI now has a 30-day coal supply in storage, they added, which is being replaced by incoming shipments at the rate of about half the amount going out. (About four and one-half railroad cars of coal are used daily.)

Ambrose urged that SUI's coal supply be tightly conserved on campus and drawn upon by outside sources only in "extreme emergencies."

He pointed out that SUI's supply is the only storage source available from which the university has been providing coal for the tuberculosis sanitarium at Oakdale, the School for the Blind at Vinton, Iowa State Teachers college at Cedar Falls and Iowa State college, Ames.

Requests for SUI coal from fraternities, sororities, Mercy hospital and the schools, when coal could not be obtained from dealers, would be processed through the coal administrator (at the mayor's office) like all other private requests.

Such requests will be filled at the cost of the coal plus the drainage charge, Ambrose said.

Raymond L. Phillips, superintendent of SUI maintenance, said, "We are trying to conserve coal by cutting down on the amount of heat that goes to buildings."

Phillips requested that students in SUI housing help conserve fuel by not wasting hot water and not using more electricity than necessary.

City churches do not plan to cut Sunday services. However, officials said some week-day schedules may be cut and churches may not be as warm this Sunday.

Coplon Trial Ends Abruptly; Case Set for Jury Tuesday

NEW YORK (AP) — Judith Coplon declined Thursday to call a single witness in her defense. Testimony in her trial with Valentin A. Gubitchev on spy conspiracy charges ended so abruptly it took the government by surprise.

The long-drawn-out case now goes to a jury of six men and six women, after final pleas by lawyers for both sides Monday and the charge by Federal Judge Sylvester J. Ryan, probably on Tuesday.

Pette, dark-haired Miss Coplon made it clear by her action that she is confident a higher court will reverse any conviction on charges that could send her to prison for 35 years.

One of her court-appointed lawyers, Samuel Neuberger, said it was on his advice that she rested her case without testifying in her own defense or calling witnesses.

"In my opinion," Neuberger told reporters, "the court has made so many errors in denying the motions for a mistrial that her interests would best be served by resting."

Miss Coplon, 28, formerly a justice department analyst, was convicted in Washington last summer of stealing defense secrets for the Russians. Sentenced to 40 months to 10 years in prison, she is free on bail pending appeal.

In the present case, she and her stubby 33-year-old Gubitchev, Russian engineer suspended from his United Nations post, are accused of conspiring to transmit the stolen documents to the Russians.

They contend they met secretly in New York not to spy but to carry on a love affair which grew up when Miss Coplon learned that Gubitchev was married.

Neuberger and two other lawyers were directed by Judge Ryan to defend Brooklyn-born Miss Coplon after she dismissed her previous counsel, Archibald Palmer, in mid-trial.

Ryan gave the new lawyers, all of whom had some contact with the case in earlier stages, nine days to prepare their defense. Since then, the lawyers repeatedly have asked for a mistrial, extending the time for preparation far too short.

The government rested its case shortly before noon Thursday after five weeks of trial. Miss Coplon's lawyers came up with a number of motions for a mistrial or a directed acquittal. Gubitchev's lawyer, Abraham L. Pomerantz, made similar motions. The judge denied all of them.

Attumwa Woman Joins State Auditor's Race

DES MOINES (AP) — Mrs. Edna Lawrence, Ottumwa, safety commissioner, announced Thursday she would oppose another Ottumwan, Chet Akers, in the Republican race for nomination as state auditor in the June 6 primaries.

Akers, seeking re-election, is the only GOP candidate to announce plans to run for the office.

FHA Halts Loans For Iowa Housing

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal housing spokesman said Thursday the agency does not now have either "authority or money" to approve any additional loans for rental housing projects in Iowa and elsewhere.

The official, who asked his name not be used, said the agency "ran out of money" last week, before the March 1 deadline which ended its authority to make such loans.

Seizure Move By President Not Expected

John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers union was acquitted Thursday of contempt charges that it deliberately refused to end the paralyzing soft coal strike, and the government announced an immediate appeal to higher courts.

The government's action, announced by Atty. Gen. J. Howard McGrath, seemed to indicate that President Truman still is pinning his hopes for ending the crippling strike on the courts rather than on some such drastic action as seizure.

Judge Richmond B. Keech ruled that the union was innocent of both criminal and civil contempt. He said the government had failed to prove its charges that the union disregarded Keech's own back-to-work order issued Feb. 11.

The government will appeal only the civil contempt decision. Under the law, there is no appeal from an acquittal decision on criminal contempt.

Asst. Atty. Gen. H. Graham Morrison told newsmen he hoped to get the appeal of the civil contempt decision into the U.S. court of appeals today. He said he will ask that a decision be reached.

Meanwhile in Iowa, store window lights in the business district of Iowa Falls were turned off Thursday night as part of a coal conservation measure.

Street lighting in the business district was reduced, but not changed in the residential section.

The Central States Electric company asked consumers to reduce their use of electricity 25 percent. Mayor Floyd Klippel issued a proclamation asking for coal conservation.

Coal dealers there said they had approximately 100 tons of coal on hand, all spoken for.

Jubilant Pennsylvania soft coal miners Thursday said "God bless" Judge Richmond Keech and decried their readiness to go back to work if and when President Truman seizes the mines.

Sen. Wayne Morse (R-Ore) said he had a bill ready which would authorize the government to seize the mines for 60 days. This would make the miners employees of the government and would be designed to set them back to work.

There was no sign that President Truman wants the seizure power which Morse proposed. But it appeared certain that if such a bill passed quickly.

Under Morse's bill as he outlined it, the President could issue a proclamation saying that a critical dispute exists.

At any time after issuing the proclamation, the President could report to congress and make recommendations for settling the strike.

Whenever the strike continued after issuance of the proclamation, the President would be required to submit a report to congress and make whatever recommendations he wanted.

If he recommended seizure of the mines, the government would be authorized to take them over for five days unless congress vetoed the idea in the meantime.

The seizure period would run for 60 days unless later extended by congress. During the period the federal mediation service would be required to continue to try for a settlement.

The government agency operating the seized mines would have no authority to alter wages or working conditions, unless specifically authorized by congress or by an emergency board.

Morse said his seizure bill would avoid "playing into the hands of those who would nationalize the coal industry."

"This is a back-fire bill — a check bill against the danger of nationalization," Morse said.

It was drafted, he continued, so it could not be used "by Communists, leftists and radicals to spread propaganda for nationalization and socialization of basic industries."

Reports from the coal fields indicated that the rank-and-file of the 372,000 striking United Mine Workers believe the government will take over the mines and sign a new contract on John L. Lewis' terms.

Dilemma on 'Mercy Killing' —

The trial of Dr. Herman Sander, Manchester, N.H., physician charged with the "mercy killing" of a cancer-riddled patient, has hung the medical world on the horns of a dilemma:

Can we justify suspending the fifth commandment and its embodiment in our laws for purposes of war or retribution—or "mercy"? Popular opinion, as indicated by petitions and fund-raising crusades, gives sanction to the 41-year-old country doctor accused of injecting a lethal dose of air into the veins of his "incurably ill" cancer patient.

Medical opinion throughout the country is less concerned, however. Most doctors feel the American Medical Association, acting under policy and precedent, will revoke Sander's license. But where organized medicine stands on Sander's moral and legal guilt has not been made clear.

Medical opinion in Iowa City splits as sharply as it does throughout the nation. Doctors generally are reluctant to discuss the issue, inasmuch as it represents a conflict among legal, religious and ethical interpretations of Sander's action.

However, several physicians indicated they would declare themselves one way or another if the euthanasia, or "mercy killing" issue came to a rock 'em, sock 'em battle in medical circles. These doctors offered opinions which reflect the controversy among physicians all over the nation, as well as in Iowa City.

Perhaps the basic paradox in the Sander case, as pointed out by some local physicians, is the fact that practices only once removed from outright "mercy killing" long have been accepted and confirmed by medical ethics.

"There are innumerable instances, for example, where patients in extreme pain are given overdoses of morphine or other drugs to relieve them," one doctor said. "These drugs sometimes affect respiration and even the lungs and may very well tend to shorten a patient's life."

Other doctors cited more insidious instances which, while protected by medical protocol, might be classified under "mercy killing."

Deliberate neglect of a patient can hasten his death, it was pointed out. "A physician can declare a case hopeless and discontinue treatment," one doctor noted. "Often no effort is made to prolong the life of a newly-born deformed baby. And in war, doctors generally attend those wounded whom they consider capable of survival and neglect or defer treatment of others who have no apparent chance to live. These practices are widespread and widely approved."

Nonetheless, other doctors asserted they could not condone Sander's overt act of "mercy killing" under any circumstances.

One physician rebuked Sander for "assuming" his patient's case was "hopeless," citing many recoveries in cases originally diagnosed as incurable.

"It's impossible for medical science, having as many blind as it still has, to determine absolutely the fate of a patient," he said. "Miracles are not uncommon — divine or otherwise — and for Dr. Sander to set himself up as a final judge in a matter of life or death is both presumptuous and short-sighted."

The general feeling among these physicians was that Sander, while possibly acting in the best of faith, overstepped himself by refusing to consult other physicians before he injected air into Mrs. Borrolo's veins.

The legal case itself rests, of course, on whether or not the air injection actually caused her death. Testimony of a nurse and doctor indicates Mrs. Borrolo may have died prior to the injection, since her pulse could not be detected.

However, a local physician observed that death does not necessarily accompany a lapse of the pulse. The circulatory system may operate at a borderline level, making the pulse imperceptible even though the patient still lives.

These various reflections were epitomized by one local physician in perhaps the clearest explanation of the quandary yet offered.

"We are surrounded by a 'legend' which doesn't permit individual physicians to decide who shall and shall not be allowed to live," he said. "This 'legend' originates with and is fortified by all the legal, religious and moral institutions of our society."

"Yet, strangely enough, a group of people in our society are vested with legal rights to force criminals to forfeit their lives — for the benefit of the society."

"Strangely enough also, there seems to be no particular odium attached to a given individual who chooses to take his own life. And furthermore, we have people in our mental institutions who — if restored to their right minds — would elect to die, for the benefit of society, rather than vegetate as pariahs of the society."

"These inconsistencies cannot but impress themselves on a physician when he finds himself — as Dr. Sander did — torn between his obligation to medical ethics and his inner consciousness that his patient would be far happier, and far more useful to the society, dead. "It's a terrifying decision to make but, in our brutalized civilization, it's one that has to be made."

"In my opinion, euthanasia is NOT a crime against God or man. But I doubt that it's practice by one man independent of consulting physicians can be defended as sound or justified."

"I believe we will see the time when all these problems will be resolved in the creation of a constituted body of physicians which would make decisions in euthanasia cases, which would safeguard the prerogative of 'mercy killing' from abuse and which would come under the protection of legal and moral sanctions."

Head Examination Suggested —

The University of California board of regents last week ordered professors to sign anti-Communist oaths within 65 days or lose their jobs.

The regents of the world's largest university ought to have their collective heads examined.

In the first place the regents' generous offer of protection is not needed. To protect the university against subversive acts, well-established laws against treason, sedition and sabotage are on the statute books.

The regents' theory seems to be that Communists and fellow travelers do their dirty work by spreading Communist propaganda in the classroom. If this is true, it is not difficult to recognize the Reds. They advertise themselves by disciplined activity which follows a well-publicized party line.

The most serious objection to an anti-Communist oath is the dangerous precedent it sets. If the regents' order were followed to its logical conclusion, a Socialist, a Dixiecrat, or anyone else with views which deviate from the accepted norm could be fired.

The regents' action has served one good purpose. The 4,000-odd faculty members affected by the order say they will make a "do-or-die" fight against it and will go to the supreme court if necessary.

Before very long the public may learn whether the supreme court recognizes the danger of citizens losing their jobs, not for overt acts, but because they have been accused of holding certain beliefs.

Law Students Open Mock Collision Case

Six SUI law students became attorneys Thursday in a mock collision case at a practice court in the law building.

Four witnesses were called to testify during the afternoon. The attorneys expect to finish the case this afternoon and submit it to a jury consisting of other law students.

This is the second in a series of practice cases which law students will try during the semester as part of their academic work.

Assigned to the collision case this week were Alan Hawley, L3, Richard; Barney Bernard, L3,

Eric, Pa., and Dean W. Wallace, L3, Kearney, Neb., for the plaintiff; and Jack Bedell, L3, Spirit Lake; David O. Shaff, L3, Camanche, and Clark J. Sloan, L3, Manchester, for the defendant.

Arthur O. Left, Iowa City attorney, directs the practice court course. Students handling the cases are all seniors in their final semester of school.

Practice cases have been scheduled at weekly intervals for the remainder of the semester. They will involve divorce, robbery, will, assault, accident, slander, kidnapping and other cases.

U.S. Nears Realization of Atomic-Powered Submarine

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — More and more hints are popping up that the U.S. may be closer to building an atomic-powered submarine than is generally believed.

Last month the atomic energy commission reported that considerable progress had been made toward developing suitable "reactors." (Presumably atomic energy would be used to create steam for steam engines in space considerably less than the usual boiler set-up.)

Two weeks ago it was learned that a subcommittee of the house-senate atomic committee had been meeting secretly with AEC people on the question of power for submarines — and planes, although little more has been heard of this.

Now a reliable informant says the U.S. is pushing plans to start actual construction of an "A-sub" and that congress may be asked to appropriate money for it in the forthcoming naval budget.

Some members of congress feel that such a submarine might revolutionize naval warfare with its almost unlimited range.

SOVIET SHOWDOWN?

WASHINGTON — The time may soon come when President Truman and Secretary of State Dean Acheson will have to meet head-on with administration senators — publicly or privately — over U.S.-Soviet relations.

Senators Brien McMahon, chairman of the senate-house atomic committee; Millard Tydings, chairman of the armed services committee, and Tom Connally, of the foreign relations committee, all have spoken up in favor of new approaches to Russia. Acheson has already taken issue more or less directly with McMahon and Tydings.

The President continues to stand on the American plan for international inspection of atomic installations — through the United Nations — as part of any control agreement. Russia apparently will never go for this. Rep. Durham (D-NC), vice chairman of the atomic committee, has lined up with the President in labeling as "dangerous" the pressure for an atomic conference with Russia.

DEWEY'S PLANS

WASHINGTON — Friends think Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York is all set to run for reelection. Dewey is reported favoring selection of a Roman Catholic to oppose Sen. Herbert Lehman (D-Lib-NY) in the senate race.

Former Sen. John Foster Dulles, Dewey's short term appointee, has indicated he would like to take on Lehman, who defeated him in last year's special election. Dulles is a leading Protestant layman.

The bureau figures it will make refunds on three of every five returns this year.

LIFE IN AN OYSTER

Personally, my sympathies are with the leopard, especially now since he is about to be stuffed or used as a welcome mat for Oklahoma officials to wipe their muddy feet on.

First they capture the leopard; then they put him in a cage; then, adding injury to insult, they croak him with a piece of dope-dipped salami.

Can you blame him for getting mad? Can you condemn him for trying to escape? How would you like it if you were taken to Gimme a break, willya?

Mars, for instance, put behind bars and subjected to a bunch of goons, watching, pointing and screaming to their children, "Watch the stupid animal, Betty!"

Got to give plenty of credit to that animal. He outsmarted dogs, hunters, U.S. Marines and police for hours.

Not saying much for the aforementioned groups, but on the other hand, could be that the world is about to be conquered by a group of intellectual cats. Seems I've heard something to that effect before, only in this case, it has nothing to do with edifices.

Then the zoo director has the nerve to call the kid a glutton because he ate too much of the loaded protein. This is probably the first time in recorded history that an unconscious nugget was slipped to a Mickey.

And the veterinarian confesses, "I'm sick about his (the leopard's) death."

If he's sick, think how the leopard must feel — he's not even breathing.

The fact still remains, however,

Interpreting the News — Says Russia Plans 'Ruble Area'

By J.M. ROBERTS JR. AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

Russia's revaluation of the ruble and adoption of the gold standard cannot be dismissed merely as propaganda or a monetary trick.

It is true that by shifting to a gold basis for purposes of trade with her satellites that she might be undertaking a further "milking" process.

The move, of course, does make propaganda. It attempts to show Russian money — and the economic system behind it — as worthy of competition with the west. But this could be a by-product rather than an objective.

Revaluation with the accompanying price cuts to the Russian people would be taken in any other country as an important administration bid for public approval just prior to the elections to the supreme Soviet. But it's been a long time since Stalin & Co. had to worry about elections in Russia.

As a matter of fact, money values mean little in a country where production, prices, distribution and even allotment of consumer goods are controlled by the government, and where much production is by slave labor or by labor which is paid largely "in kind" at the will of the government management.

The major point, it seems to me, is that Russia is going about the establishment of a "ruble area," just as there already exist a sterling area and a dollar area.

It has been more than a year since observers of things Russian began to expect her to throw her gold hoard into the cold war. How much gold Russia has is a mystery.

But she is one of the world's important producers. For years the government has made gold mining one of its principle activities, giving it high priorities in machinery and labor. That Moscow has a truly important gold hoard can hardly be doubted. Now she is throwing it behind her currency. The effect should certainly be more than a phony stability.

Step by step, ever since the war, Russia has been trying to stabilize the ruble. From the time of the revolution she has conducted a never — ending campaign to collect dollars. At one time she was even sending agents around the world with all sorts of jewelry and art for the purpose. In what foreign trade she has done with the rest of the world she has insisted on dollar payments.

Iowa Yields 1-Million Pounds of Fish Annually

Iowa annually produces a million pounds of Mississippi river commercial fish, according to a recent report by the upper Mississippi river conservation committee.

In the area between St. Paul and Cairo, Ill., over 8-million pounds of fish are produced each year, yielding a return of two-thirds of a million dollars to fishermen.

Carp leads in both poundage and value, amounting to over 5-million pounds per year, valued at over $200,000.

Other varieties produced in quantity include: buffalo fish, one and a quarter million pounds valued at $175,000; catfish, three quarters of a million pounds, $200,000; and 600,000 pounds of drum, $75,000.

Of the five states on the upper-Mississippi river, Wisconsin leads in production with 6 - million pounds; Illinois and Iowa each produces about 1-million pounds; Minnesota produces over half a million, and Missouri a little under half a million.

Iowa City Woman's Club Fosters Music, Drama

Talent doesn't go to waste in the music and drama department of the Iowa City Woman's club. That was the opinion expressed by three representatives of the group who discussed their work Thursday morning over WSUI's weekly feature, "Club Camera." They are Mrs. J.E. Schuppert, drama chairman; Mrs. L.C. Jones, music chairman, and Mrs. M.M. Crayne, a member of both groups. Flo Robinson, WSUI women's director, was mistress-of-ceremonies. "The department's purpose is to stimulate interest in music and drama and give everyone a chance to express herself in these fields," declared Mrs. Crayne.

War Caused Change
Organized in 1921 the Iowa City Woman's club consists of seven departments. The music department originated at that time while the drama group sprang up just 15 years ago.

Before the war the music and drama departments were separate entities, Mrs. Crayne said. "Because the war affected membership the two groups have merged to build up their departments," she added.

At present the music group consists of 75 members with 5 women retaining membership in the drama group.

Holding Tryouts
The representatives emphasized that the department is organized primarily for those interested in venting their creative abilities — in both the music and drama areas.

"Every year we have a play festival and organ - piano recital and tea," Mrs. Schuppert said. These events culminate the year's work of both groups.

"Each year contest plays are entered in the high school and community play festival," Mrs. Schuppert added. Many superior and excellent ratings have been received by the club. Tryouts for the present contest play, a cutting from "Ladies in Retirement," are now being held by Mrs. Schuppert.

Endorse Projects
The groups are frequently called upon to provide talent for various clubs and associations in Iowa City and nearby communities. In the past a number of plays and musical programs have been presented and exchanged with high school students.

"We back the civic music association and any project in music which we're requested to uphold," Mrs. Jones said. Other officers are Mrs. W.E. Bockentien and Mrs. Walter Murray, secretary - treasurers for the music and drama department respectively.

NEW FRATERNITY
Pi Kappa Phi, national social fraternity, has been admitted as a colony at WSUI, Pres. Ray Waite, A3, Clinton, said Thursday. After a year's probation as a colony, Pi Kappa Phi will be raised to active fraternity status, he said.

EXAMINING THE RECORD collection at WSUI are these three members of the music and drama department of the Iowa City Woman's club. They are (left to right) Mrs. J. E. Schuppert, drama chairman; Mrs. L. C. Jones, music chairman, and Mrs. M. M. Crayne, a member of both groups. The women participated in WSUI's "Club Camera" Thursday morning.

Sign Uncovers 'Nineties' Memories

By JACK BERNET
Back in the days when ladies wore dusters while riding in horse-drawn buggies along Iowa City's unpaved streets, Frank Fryauf opened a harness shop at 4 S. Dubuque street.

Seven other harness makers were in business in Iowa City, and Fryauf was told it would be foolish for him to enter the trade. "They'll drive you out of business," Fryauf said he was told. But he went ahead and rented the shop for $15 a month.

Today, Fryauf is the only harness shop Iowa City had in 1900 that is still open for business.

Find Old Sign
Frank Fryauf Jr., Iowa City alderman-at-large, now operates the store, which has been remodeled inside and is soon to have a new front.

Men working on the remodeling of the store front recently uncovered a sign painted on the plaster wall just inside the door. It reminds you of the day when the elder Fryauf, now 81, sold dusters and blankets along with his other goods.

The elder Fryauf went into business for himself in the fall of 1900. Emil Dvorak, a Spanish-American war veteran who was in the sign-painting business in Iowa City then, suggested that Fryauf have a sign advertising his wares. He told the harness-maker he would paint one on the wall for $5.

Chickens 15 Cents
In 1920 Dvorak painted another sign for Fryauf, this time on a large sheet of tin. The new sign was fastened to the wall and completely covered the old one, which was forgotten until workmen found it last week.

Fifty years ago when the sign was new, chickens sold for 15 cents apiece in Iowa City and dentists charged a dime for pulling a tooth. Those were the days when the big attraction was P.T. Barnum's show.

The elder Fryauf said an apprentice harness maker started out with a salary of $50 a year. During his second year of apprenticeship he was paid $150 and for the third year $200.

Worked in Market
No longer a part of Iowa City is the market that used to line Iowa avenue from Clinton street to Linn street. Fryauf worked there, measuring and selling wood and weighing grain at the same time he operated his harness shop around the corner on Dubuque street.

Iowa City has changed in many ways since the early days of the century, both Fryauf's agree. But Alderman Fryauf said there are probably other fifty-year-old relics lying hidden in old Iowa City stores and houses.

CROWN POINT, IND. (AP)—Audrey Wedding, 23, and Charlene McGrew, 22, will be wedding soon. They got a marriage license Wednesday. Both live in East Chicago.

PAINTED HALF A CENTURY AGO FOR ONLY $5, this sign was uncovered recently by workmen remodeling Fryauf Leather Goods store, 4 1-2 S. Dubuque street. Frank Fryauf Jr., proprietor of the store and Iowa City alderman-at-large, said the sign had been covered since 1920 by another metal sign. Two small cardboard signs announcing that the store is open for business during the remodeling cost more than the 50-year-old, 4 1-2 by 11 foot sign.

SUI to Hold High School Music Workshop

The third annual Brass and Woodwind Small Ensemble workshop will be held Saturday at SUI. Prof. Himie Voxman of the music department said Thursday.

The workshop, sponsored jointly by the music department and the extension division, will consist of discussion groups, demonstration groups and, at 1:30 p.m., a concert of wind ensemble music in the north rehearsal hall.

Demonstration groups participating in the workshop will be from University high school and City high school; Roosevelt high school, Cedar Rapids; East high school, Waterloo.

High schools from Wyoming, Monticello, Tipton, Clinton, Marshalltown, Grinnell, Oelwein, Creston, Anamosa, Marengo, West Liberty, Chariton, West Branch and Burlington.

Discussion leaders will be J. Irving Tallmadge, director of music at Proviso Township high school, Maywood, Ill., and Manley Whitcomb, director of bands at Ohio State university, Columbus.

Tallmadge's organizations at Maywood have won many national honors, Voxman said. During the summers, Tallmadge is head of small ensemble activity at the National Music camp at Interlochen, Mich.

Voxman said that Whitcomb is an expert in the field of brass instruments.

Group to Discuss Therapy Problems

Problems of rehabilitating handicapped persons will be discussed at a meeting in the medical amphitheatre of General hospital tonight at 8 o'clock.

This is the last in a series of three meetings sponsored by the Iowa chapter of the American Physical Therapy association, Program Chairman Marie Hickey said.

Speakers to discuss the "Overall Views of Rehabilitation" include Charlotte Vasey of the physical therapy department and Prof. Wendell Johnson of the speech department.

Dr. W.D. Paul of the SUI college of medicine will make the concluding remarks.

Easter Seals Drive To Aid Handicapped To Start March 9

Easter seals will be mailed to SUI students and Johnson county residents between March 9 and Easter Sunday, according to James E. Stronks, head of the county Easter seal drive.

The seals provide the principal means of support for services offered America's 28-million handicapped children and adults, Stronks said.

About $3,200 was collected in Johnson county in 1949. Mrs. Bion Hunter, route 5, said. Mrs. Hunter is treasurer of the Johnson county chapter of the Iowa society for Crippled Children and Adults.

Of the nearly $6-million contributed nationally in the 1949 campaign, more than 90 percent remains in the state where it was collected, county chapter chairman the Rev. Evans A. Worthley, minister of the First Unitarian church of Iowa City, said.

The balance is sent to the Chicago headquarters for a three-point program of direct services, education and research, he said.

The 1950 seal pictures a young crippled boy throwing away his crutches. It was designed by a 17-year-old Detroit high school student, Ardy Kazarosian, winner of a nationwide seal - designing competition sponsored by the national society.

This year's campaign is the 17th annual campaign of the National Society for Crippled Children.

Re-Elect 10 to Armory Board

Four representatives of the city government and six representatives of the local national guard company were re-elected to the board of directors of the Iowa City Armory Corporation Tuesday night.

Mayor Preston Koser was re-elected president of the corporation and Dr. Edward W. Paulus, 237 Ferson avenue, was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

Iowa City aldermen on the board of directors are Frank Fryauf Jr., Clark F. Mighell and Wayne E. Putnam.

National guard board members are Dr. Stephen C. Ware, 925 E. Washington street; Capt. Harry W. Dick, 896 7th avenue; Robert S. Lee, 12 1/2 W. Court street; Harold A. Knotts, 214 Stadium park, and Edward W. Windrem, 919 S. Van Buren street.

The city council formed the armory corporation last October and authorized it to lease the local armory to the state armory board for 20 years. The state board will remodel and make improvements on the armory.

Col. Beryl Averill, a representative of the state board who was present at Tuesday's meeting, said there were 41 armory corporations in Iowa, all organized for the same purpose.

"This is one of the best organized and best run corporations that I've seen," Averill said.

At Tuesday's meeting the board of directors leased the armory to the state board, which will pay a yearly rental of $6,000 for it.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

ABSENT-MINDED professor story number 63,871: the math wizard who left his berth for a glass of water and couldn't remember the right number when he returned. He appealed helplessly to the porter, who asked, "haven't you any idea of what part of the car it was in?" The mathematician pondered, and suddenly piped up, "Ah yes, I remember now that at one time this morning the window looked out on a beautiful little lake."

"Girls," sniffed Farmer Jones disdainfully as he whittled beside the general store cracker barrel. "Girls are a dime a dozen where I come from." A red-headed youngster in the corner looked up and sighed, "G-sh all hemlock, and here I've been buying lollipops!"

After a minor collision on Commercial Street in Provincetown, Eve Backer jumped out of the car that had been hit and expostulated, "What came over you? I turned exactly the way I signaled." "I know you did," confessed the other driver meekly. "That's what confused me."

There's an easier way

There are better ways of building character than by making things tough for yourself and doing it the hard way. Take, for instance, money-saving—you can force yourself into trying to be diligent about saving.

But!

The easiest way yet to save money is through the Payroll Savings Plan or the Bond-A-Month Plan.

With the Payroll Plan you merely agree with your employer to set aside a fixed amount from your weekly salary. You don't see it, so you don't spend it.

If you are your own employer, you arrange with your bank to buy a Bond a month from your checking balance—simple and easy again.

Then after 10 years, when the Bonds have matured, you find yourself the proud possessor of $4 for every $3 you put in. Nice... eh?

—Yes, there are easier ways to do anything... anything except to find a better way of saving than this!

Automatic saving is sure saving—U.S. Savings Bonds

Former Nebraska Tutor To Report Here Monday

His appointment was announced by President Virgil Hancher, following recommendation of head Coach Leonard Raffensperger and Athletic Director Paul ...

Following his college playing career Masterson directed the Chicago Bears' T-formation for several seasons.

From Shenandoah Masterson, 38-year-old native of Shenandoah, quarterbacked the University of Nebraska in 1931, '32, and '33, during which time the Huskers were unbeaten in the Big Ten conference.

Following his college playing career Masterson directed the Chicago Bears' T-formation for several seasons.

AFTER HIS FOURTH 175-LB. TITLE IN THE BIG TEN

Joe Scarpello AN OLYMPIC ALTERNATE

JUST READ THESE AND LET YOUR SHOULDERS TOUCH THE CANVAS

JOE'S CHIEF BIG TEN RIVAL FOR 4 YEARS HAS BEEN WALDEMAR VAN COTT OF PURDUE. BEAT HIM 7-6 IN LAST 30 SEC. FOR TITLE.

Van Cott in 165; Won't Meet Scarpello

One of the keenest and most colorful wrestling rivalries in the Big Ten ended Thursday when Purdue Coach Claude Reeck announced that Waldemar Van Cott would not be entered in the 175-pound class of the Western conference championship, to be held in the Iowa fieldhouse today and Saturday.

For three years Van Cott and Iowa's Joe Scarpello have battled for honors in the 175-pound class, with Scarpello winning the Big Ten title in each of those years, while Van Cott gained his only decision over Scarpello in the NCAA tournament in Bethlehem, Pa., two years ago.

Injured Shoulder Due to a shoulder injury and the limited amount of wrestling he has done this season Reeck said Van Cott would instead be entered in the 165-pound class.

Scarpello, with six straight victories this year and 21 straight college dual meet triumphs in his four-year career, will be after the conference title for the fourth consecutive year.

Van Cott, a senior from New York, is given a good chance to displace Michigan's Jack Powers as the 165-pound champion although Van Cott has wrestled only once this year in competition. He won that bout with a first round fall.

Last year at Bloomington, Ind., Scarpello came from behind in the final 30 seconds to gain a 7-6 decision over Van Cott in the title bout.

The decision to take Van Cott out of the 175-pound class gives added strength to the Boilermakers' chances of winning the team championship for the third year in a row. They have two defending champions in Arnold Plaza in the 121-pound class and Joe Patacil in the 128-pound division.

Opposition Changes Scarpello's chief opposition now appears to be Tom Ragouzis of Northwestern and Bill Vohaska of Illinois. Scarpello holds decisions over both this season. Ragouzis finished third a year ago, behind Scarpello and Van Cott.

Action on the two mats will start at 2 this afternoon. Semifinals are scheduled for tonight at 8, with finals and third-place bouts to be held Saturday afternoon beginning at 2.

Six champions will defend titles won a year ago. They are Plaza, 121; Patacil, 128; Alan Rice, 136; Bryce Keough, 155; Powers, 165 and Scarpello, 175.

Andy Puchany of Indiana, who won the 145-pound crown and Vern Gagne, heavyweight from Minnesota, are the only champions who graduated. Gagne is now wrestling professionally.

Five Undeclared Although not champions there are five grapplers who are undefeated in dual meets this year. One is an Iowan, Don Ryan, from Council Bluffs, who has won nine straight 155-pound bouts for Wisconsin. He is a top candidate for Keough's 1949 crown, when the Ohio Stater was a sophomore.

The most publicized of the undefeated non-champions is big Leo Nommellini of Minnesota, the all-American tackle in football. Nommellini has said he doesn't know a lot about wrestling but just the same he won the Minnesota title in 11 matches this season and 16 in a row over a two-year period.

Last year he was over-shadowed by Gagne, the clever 210-pounder who won the Olympic title two years ago in London.

Other undefeated grapplers are Warren Jones, Ohio State 136-pounder, Jack Moreno, Purdue, 145 and Fred McLean, Ohio State 165-pound wrestler.

Fenton Wins

15 Points Per Game Leads City

By OZZIE JENSEN

Bill Fenton of City high has won the Iowa City high school basketball scoring race.

The regular cage campaign is all over, and the final tabulations show that Fenton led at the finish with an average of 15 points per game. He scored 270 points in 18 games.

41 in Two Games

Fenton turned on the heat in the final stretch, bagging 41 points in his last two games, to win going away. The 6-foot 3-inch, 190-pounder, an all-state end last fall, turned in the best single game spurge of the season Friday night, scoring 25 points against Franklin of Cedar Rapids on 10 field goals and five free tosses. Then he added 16 more points to his total Wednesday night against Oskaloosa.

Earl Cooney of St. Patrick's was right behind Fenton at the close with a 14.3 average. Cooney, a constant bidder for the lead all season, was never below second during the campaign and held the lead momentarily several times. Only last week he moved up to tie Fenton, but big Bill pulled ahead again this week while Cooney's team was idle.

Cooney, Lenz Battled

During the early weeks of the season, while Fenton, fresh from the gridiron, was finding his basket-eye, Cooney and Bud Lenz of St. Mary's battled for the lead.

Then Fenton began to connect regularly and moved into first place during the Christmas holidays. After Christmas the race became a two-man duel between Fenton and Cooney.

City high's Gene Brawner dropped to the No. 4 position this week, moving Lenz into third place in the final analysis.

Cooney, St. Patrick's forecourt demon, took the honors in all departments except the averages. He scored the most points (371), the most field goals (145) and the most free throws (81).

Played 26 Games

His 371 points dwarf Fenton's 270, but he played 26 games to Fenton's 18. Behind Cooney and Fenton in points are Lenz with 225, Alvin Streb of St. Patrick's with 224 and his teammate, Jerry Cunningham, with 198.

The other two Iowa City schools wound up in the red in the victory ledger. St. Mary's had an 8-16 record and U-high had a 2-12 record during the season.

The leaders as taken from official score books:

are five grapplers who are undefeated in dual meets this year. One is an Iowan, Don Ryan, from Council Bluffs, who has won nine straight 155-pound bouts for Wisconsin. He is a top candidate for Keough's 1949 crown, when the Ohio Stater was a sophomore.

The Fan's Loss May Be Purdue's Gain

By Alan Moyer

The decision to keep Waldemar Van Cott out of the 175-pound class in the Big Ten wrestling championships being held here today and Saturday takes away what would have probably narrowed down to the feature match of the two-day competition. But it's clever strategy on the part of Purdue Coach Claude Reeck.

The former Clinton, Iowa, high school wrestling coach is in an unenviable spot. Every team, and every grappler, will be out to beat Purdue. The Boilermakers have won the title for two years running and if eight other teams have any say-so they won't make it three in a row.

Thursday afternoon the first contingent of Purdue wrestlers arrived in Iowa City, along with their coach. Later in the afternoon Reeck brought several of the boys to the fieldhouse wrestling room for a short workout.

"It'll be close again," he said. "I only brought seven wrestlers. We'll be right in there for the title again but I wouldn't say any team is going to win by much."

Reeck explained the decision to enter Van Cott in the 165-pound class like this: "He's been injured and out of action most of the season, in fact, he's only wrestled once. So I figure there's no use putting him in against a guy like Scarpello (Iowa's Joe), who is one of the strongest 175-pounders I've ever seen."

Van Cott won his only bout with a first period fall, proving that the senior from New York is at least getting back into top shape. He isn't a really big boy, so it won't be hard for him to make the 175-pound grade in the weighing-in this morning.

By using Van Cott, who will shift his activity to the track team next week, Reeck has a better chance to win the conference crown for a third straight year.

Arnold Plaza, the 121-pound champ, is in good shape, has won all 26 bouts in his four years, and will probably give Purdue at least six big points in that weight event. Joe Patacil at 128-pounds could bring in a first or second place, adding four more points, maybe six.

With Van Cott a possibility to oust Jack Powers, the defending 165-pound champ from Michigan, the Boilermakers could gather first-place points whereas if he goes against Scarpello the chances are he'd finish second. In the neighborhood of 20 points will win the team title.

Scarpello has beaten Van Cott the past two years in the title bout. Last year it was a 7-6 thriller, the year before not so close. Two years ago in the NCAA meet at Bethlehem, Pa., Van Cott scored his only victory over Scarpello.

"If Van Cott was in top shape and had been free of injuries all season I'd certainly put him in against Scarpello," Reeck added, "but as it is I'm afraid it'd be like throwing a mouse into a lion's cage."

It may take one of the best bouts away from the championships but it may deliver Purdue its fifth championship in the past nine years. Not bad.

Merl Naber, two-letter winner in Iowa's backfield, has left the university and is reported to be on his way to Europe. According to a card received by one of the baseball players here, Naber decided to take off for at least a semester, possibly getting a job on a freighter.

His grades were OK, so he may be back for more football next fall.

Frank Calsbeek, leading Iowa basketball scorer, has been kept out of practice by a severe cold for the past two days. He'll get to play in the Creighton game Saturday night if his condition continues to improve.

Iowa Tennis Trio in TV Show

Three Iowa tennis players, Don Lewis, Bill Ball and Bob Richards will televise a demonstration of tennis technique over WOC-TV, Davenport, March 9, Coach Don Klotz announced Thursday.

Lewis, a junior from Ft. Madison and Ball, Cedar Rapids junior, rank number one and two on the varsity tennis squad. Richards, whose home is in Moline, Ill., is an outstanding freshman player.

He was a winner of both the singles and doubles last year in the Quad Cities' junior meet.

The team's first Big Ten match is not until April 29, here, although Klotz said he hopes to schedule several non-conference matches before that date.

A late winter tournament is now being held among the players. The tourney is a double elimination affair with a losers' as well as a winners' bracket. There are eight entries: in both the varsity and freshman divisions. Five of the first round matches have been played and the varsity semifinals are scheduled for early next week.

Tournament results:

Varsity Bill Ball, Cedar Rapids, defeated Bruce Higley, Iowa City, 6-0, 6-1; Gordon Chapman, Des Moines, defeated Mike Trueblood, Sioux Falls, S.D., 6-4, 6-2; Don Lewis, Ft. Madison, defeated Jack Fletcher, Cedar Rapids, 6-2, 7-5; Mel Sinton, Chicago, defeated Al Pierce, Los Angeles, 6-2, 6-4.

Freshman

Dave Van Ginkel, Des Moines, defeated Dick Coe, Clinton, 6-0, 6-3.

Conference Indoor Track Meet Begins Today

Illinois, Michigan Head 40th Annual Loop Field

By EVERETT MONTGOMERY
CHAMPAIGN, ILL. — The 40th annual Western conference indoor track meet — the main event of the Big 10 winter season — will get under way in Illinois' spacious armory here this afternoon with the qualifying trials.

Michigan's power-laden Wolverines and Illinois' strong crew appear to be the two top clubs of the league. Behind this pair, but not too close, on fairly even terms with each other are Iowa, Purdue, Ohio State and Wisconsin with Minnesota, Indiana and Northwestern trailing.

Illini Material Deep

The Wolves owe their co-favorite role to depth in the distance events plus good performers in the shot put, broad jump, pole vault and mile relay team.

The Illini, on the other hand, have strength in all events except the 60-yard dash. Illinois has defeated Michigan, Minnesota and Ohio State in dual meets this year besides racking up 73 points in last Saturday's quadrangular to give them a ranking position. Iowa should be able to collect about 20 points in the big get-together. The bulk of the Hawkeye strength lies in the 60-yard dash and the high and low hurdles.

Merkel Leads Hawks

Other events where Iowa could gain markers are the half-mile, quarter-mile, broad jump, high jump and mile.

Russ Merkel, the leading Hawk point-getter this year, will be tough to beat in both hurdle events. It is in the hurdles that the Hawks have the most depth. Gene Freels and DuWayne Dietz pair with Russ in the lows while twin brother, John, and Freels are also entered in the highs.

Russ Merkel owns the best time for the low hurdles with :07.9 and his :08.6 time in the highs is shared by Minnesota's Fred Bass.

In the 60-yard dash, Marcellus Boston is the No. 1 entrant, with Jack Simpson in the supporting role. Boston is one of the top four in the Big 10. Only Indianan's Charles Peters, with a :06.1 clocking, has a better time.

Simpson has been hampered all season with a pulled leg muscle but is in near top condition at this time.

Keith Brown, who was edged out of first place last Saturday, is a good possibility to tally in the 800. If Tom Sangster hits his peak this weekend, he could grab points for Iowa in the 440-yard dash.

Pole-vaulter Clair Jennett has been added to the 14-man Hawk team and will arrive here today.

Hawk Cagers Win From Charity Line

"Pressure" free throws sent through the nets 22 of 23 times within the final three minutes of four Big 10 basketball games have helped boost Iowa's cage team to several victories.

The old proverb "practice makes perfect" has provided wins via the free throw department for the Hawkeyes this season. The results of free throw practice by the Hawks were brought forth in a summary Thursday.

One of the best examples of gift shot accuracy was the Northwestern game here. Iowa was leading, 54-52, with two minutes remaining. Fred Ruck, Skip Greene and Bob Vollers made 7 of 7 free throws while the Wildcats hit two baskets. Iowa won, 61-56.

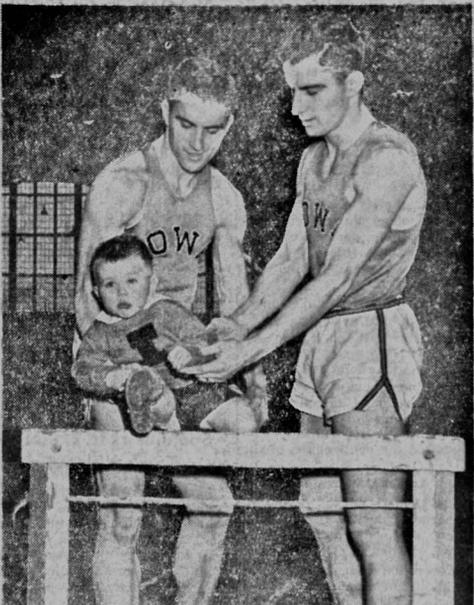

The Hawks repeated this feat at Indiana last week when Iowa was leading, 52-47, with 1:44 to go and the Hoosiers threatening. Frank Calsbeck made three, Greene and Dick Riecks two each, and the Hawks won, 59-53.

Iowa had a 60-58 lead over Minnesota with 2:50 left and it was anybody's ball game until Iowa's free throw charm appeared again. Calsbeck and Darling made one each and Riecks dropped in two, and Iowa held a two-point lead to win, 64-62, for its first win at Minneapolis in five years.

Mallard, Kamrar Go To Semi-Final Round

DES MOINES (AP) — Mallard and Kamrar took thrilling one-point victories Thursday night to shoot into the semifinal rounds of the girls' state championship high school basketball tournament.

Mallard's rugged defensive team staged a strategic stall to down Mary Ann Jensen and her Oakland mates, 31-30, after Kamrar had rallied for a 66-65 triumph over Runnels' speedsters.

Iowa's Watson Wins 5th in 1,500-Meter Swim

ANN ARBOR, MICH. (AP) — Jack Taylor of Ohio State set a new NCAA and American record Thursday night in winning the 1,500 meter free style event at the opening of the Big Ten swimming meet.

His time of 18:58.1 broke the old record of 18:59.3 set by Jack Medina of the University of Washington in 1935. It was the oldest mark in the NCAA record book.

Two Michigan swimmers, Matt Mann III and Gus Stager, took second and third places, respectively. Mann's time was 19:43.5 and Stager's 19:47.5.

In fourth place was Charles Stephanos of Ohio State with a time of 19:50.5. Fifth place went to Don Watson of Iowa, who turned in 19:58.5.

Ohio State's first and fourth places gave the Buckeyes a point total of eight as compared with seven for Michigan. The Buckeyes are rated strong favorites in the meet with Michigan conceding a good chance for runner-up honors.

Events today include low board diving, the 50-yard free style, the 150-yard backstroke, 220-yard freestyle, 200-yard breaststroke and 400-yard freestyle relay.

Training Camp Briefs

LAKELAND, FLA. (AP) — Detroit Tiger Manager Red Rolfe started looking Thursday for another righthanded hitter.

"We need one if we're going to stay up in there," Rolfe declared. "I'd be willing to toss in quite a few players to make a deal for one — preferably an outfielder."

He didn't say where he expected to find the latter.

BRADENTON, FLA. (AP) — With National League President Ford Frick among the spectators, Manager Billy Southworth Thursday put all of his available Boston Braves through two two-hour workouts.

The Tribesmen devoted much of their time to batting practice.

ST. PETERSBURG, FLA. (AP) — Outfielder Dick Wakefield left the New York Yankees' camp in a huff Thursday after being offered a contract reportedly calling for $17,500 a year.

He refused to sign and then motored back to Lakeland, 60 miles away, where he indicated he would remain until the Yankees gave him better terms.

TAMPA, FLA. (AP) — Manager Luke Sewell let it be known quickly Thursday that he wants some power in the Cincinnati Reds' attack this year.

Sewell had the Redlegs right back at batting practice and said, "Forget the bunting and swing from the heels."

There still was no word from Ted Kluszewski, the holdout first baseman.

ST. PETERSBURG, FLA. (AP) — Steve Bilko, probably the best player wearing a baseball uniform, put on a slugging show at the St. Louis Cardinals' training camp Thursday.

Steve, who tips the clubhouse scales at 260, slammed several terrific drives over the left-center wall to display some of the power that enabled him to blast 34 homers at Rochester last year.

BURBANK, CALIF. (AP) — Rookie Ken Wood, who rapped 32 homers for Baltimore last year, lost no time in showing off his slugging prowess as the St. Louis Browns held their first batting session Thursday.

Install New Head Football Coach at St. Bonaventure

OLEAN, N.Y. (AP) — Losing its head football coach, 22 lettermen and plenty of money isn't going to stop tiny St. Bonaventure.

The Brown Indians made that clear Thursday when they announced the signing of another Notre Dame product to replace Head Coach Hugh Devore.

The new coach is Joe Bach, one of the famed "Seven Mules" as a tackle at Notre Dame in 1923 and 1924.

He comes here from his job as line coach of the New York Bulldogs of the National American Football League.

The 1950 grid-iron outlook for the Brown Indians was pretty dark when 22 lettermen were graduated — nine of them first-string players.

It got darker when Devore left Jan. 31 to become head coach at New York university.

The Bonnies had looked to Devore to lift them into "big time" football when he came here from Notre Dame in 1946.

He did well, too. For example, the Bonnies won six and lost three last season. Its victims were Boston university, Canisius, Niagara, Scranton, Wayne and Houston. It lost only to Canisius (in a second game), Dayton and San Francisco.

It was when Devore left that the athletic council studied the question of finances. This got impetus too from Canisius' decision to drop the sport as "too expensive."

The Rev. Silas Rooney, St. Bonaventure athletic director, said the question of whether to drop football was considered by the council because it turned out to be a "very expensive" proposition for small schools. St. Bonaventure's enrollment is 1,950.

However, said Father Rooney, the majority of the council wanted football "so we all wanted it."

SCHNITTKER ACCEPTS

NEW YORK (AP) — Dick Schnittker of Ohio State, Thursday became the first western player to accept an invitation to compete in the annual East-West basketball game in Madison Square Garden on April 1.

Sander to Testify Patient Dead Before He Gave Air Injection

MANCHESTER, N.H. (UP)—Dr. Hermann N. Sander will testify at his mercy murder trial that Mrs. Abbie C. Borroto was dead of cancer before he shot air into her veins, the defense disclosed Thursday.

As Atty. Ralph E. Langdell opened the defense case, he said that Dr. Sander made the injections on an "impulse of a moment" and "was thinking of making sure that the pain would not return."

The announcement that Dr. Sander would personally fight against the charges of first degree murder came after the prosecution had rested its case and a defense motion for a directed verdict of acquittal was denied.

Thought Her Dead

Langdell said Dr. Sander would tell the entire story and tell it accurately.

"He did not tell anyone he killed Mrs. Borroto," Langdell said. "The statements he made have been twisted beyond recognition."

Langdell said Dr. Sander went to see Mrs. Borroto at about 11:15 a.m. on Dec. 4 at Hillsborough county hospital and put a stethoscope to her chest. He heard nothing.

"He thought Mrs. Borroto was dead," Langdell said. "But a doubt crossed his mind. There was on Mrs. Borroto's face a frozen expression of pain."

No Needle Reaction

Dr. Sander thought of making sure that the pain would not return and called for a sterile syringe. Langdell said, and injected it into her arm.

"No blood appeared on the arm or in the syringe. There was no reaction when the needle was inserted," Langdell said. He explained how Dr. Sander put air into her vein — two cubic centimeters at a time — and watched her face and body for a reaction.

There was none, he said. "There was no evidence that the air had — or was having — any effect."

Langdell said Dr. Sander never made statements attributed to him by prosecution witnesses and said that the dictated notice of the air injection and Mrs. Borroto's death gave a false impression of the facts.

Daughter Testifies

Dr. Sander, looking pale and drawn, sat motionless and absorbed during the long opening statement and during the testimony of the first two defense witnesses. One of these was the pretty dark haired daughter of the victim, 19-year-old Elise Borroto.

She testified that Dr. Sander tried everything possible to relieve her mother's pain and would "come to our house and just sit and talk to get her mind off her difficulties."

Elise said Dr. Sander seemed very sorry and "felt almost as bad as I did" when he told her Dec. 4 that her mother could not live through the night.

After Mrs. Borroto died, Elise said, Dr. Sander invited her and her father "to stay at his house. He didn't mean for the night, he meant for a week or so — he was so concerned about us."

Iowa Mountaineers To Sponsor Movie Here Sunday Night

The Iowa Mountaineers will sponsor a color movie travelogue on Guatemala at 8 p.m. Sunday in Macbride auditorium, a Mountaineer official said Wednesday.

Ava Hamilton, explorer, lecturer and photographer, will present the picture, "Land of the Mayas," he said. The film shows ancient Mayan ruins and the present life of Guatemala.

Mayan ruins, their temples and pyramids of the fifth century, stand out against the dense Peten jungle of Guatemala, Miss Hamilton said in a Christian Science Monitor article.

These light-colored stone monuments to a dead past can be seen for 40 to 50 miles, she explained.

The movie includes scenes of chicla camps, where natives tap Sapota trees to get the sap used in making chewing gum. The chicla is boiled, cooled in molds and taken by burrow to little airfields where it is flown to civilization.

Volcanos and jungle lakes are other attractions shown in the film, the official said.

Admission to the performance is by Mountaineer membership or by ticket obtainable at the door.

X-Rays Set for 109 In Local TB Check

X-rays will be taken of 109 persons at a conference here March 9 to detect undiscovered tuberculosis cases, Elizabeth Budreau, public health nurse, said Wednesday.

Miss Budreau for the last six weeks has been interviewing persons known to have had close contact with the disease, and has invited these persons to take skin tests and the chest X-rays if necessary.

The conference for the X-ray tests, sponsored by state and local tuberculosis associations and health agencies, will be held in the city hall from 8 to 11 a.m. and 12 to 2 p.m.

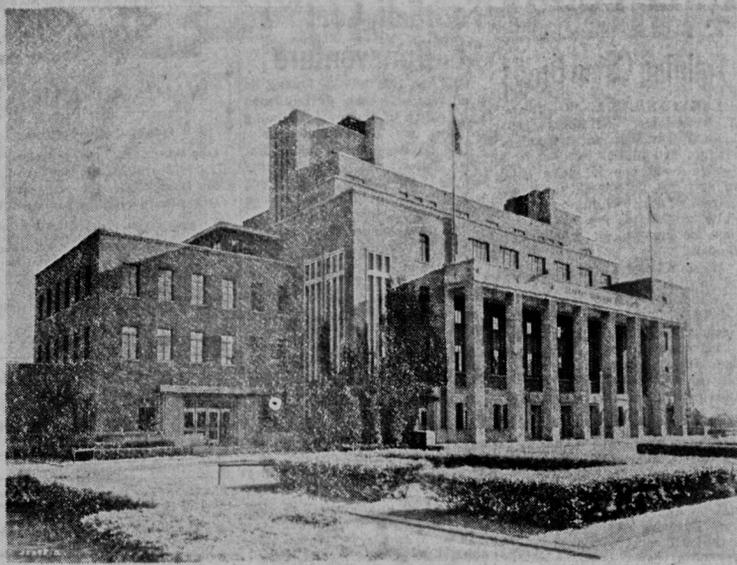

The X-rays, Miss Budreau explained, will be given only to those persons recommended by their physicians after skin tests have been made.

"Practically everyone I visited was willing to be tested. It is this kind of cooperation which will lead to the ultimate eradication of tuberculosis," Miss Budreau said.

Activity Center at University of Minnesota

COFFMAN MEMORIAL UNION, at the University of Minnesota, is one of the most attractive Big Ten student unions. Instructions there in games, sports and social graces prepare students equally well for skill contests and for the informal and formal dances. The special activities planned through the Union include sleigh rides and student-taught tug-of-wars. Special recreation such as picnics and horse-back ride-outs is planned periodically through the year. An art-craft workshop provides materials at cost and student instructors to help aspiring artists over the humps in tooling leather or making pottery. Students can eat at the cafeteria or at the "Gopherette," snack bar. (This is the second in a series of pictures of Big Ten student unions.)

Committee Studies Way To Finance Union Plan

A plan to finance the $3-million addition to the Iowa Union must be approved by the state board of education before construction plans of the building will be passed, SUI Business Manager Fred Ambrose said Wednesday.

Ambrose said a committee has been set up and is working on the financial plan.

Members of the committee include Ambrose, Prof. Earl Harper, director of the union, and Waterloo attorney B. F. Swisher, president of the board of trustees for the Union corporation.

Fee Increase?

A $6 increase in student fees, to pay for the new addition, would have to be authorized by the state board of education, Ambrose said.

The Iowa Union operates on a different system than many college unions, he said. At SUI the Union runs as part of the school and every student may use its facilities without charge.

Pay Dues

Unions such as those at Iowa State and the Universities of Wisconsin and Illinois operate on a club basis. All students of those schools are required to join the Union and pay dues, Ambrose said.

The only connection between the schools and the Unions results from the collection of dues through the school's treasurers, he said.

Ambrose said the proposed $1-million for a guest house for the Iowa Union would be paid by returns from the renting of the rooms.

104 Measles Cases So Far This Week

Twenty-seven cases of measles reported Thursday in Iowa City bring the total here this week to 104.

Professor Glockler Plans 11-Day Tour

Prof. George Glockler, head of the department of chemistry and chemical engineering, will make a speaking tour of western Canada from Sunday through March 15, he said Thursday.

His tour will include addresses at Seattle, Wash., and Lincoln, Neb., he said.

At the invitation of the Chemical Institute of Canada, Glockler will give lectures to student and scientific groups at Winnipeg, Saskatoon, Edmonton, Calgary, Ralston Trail and Vancouver.

His subject will be "Bond Energy and Bond Distance." Glockler said he also would address a University of Manitoba student section at Winnipeg on "Simultaneity and Originality in Human Thought."

The University of Washington, Seattle, where he received his B.S. and M.S. degrees in 1915, has invited the SUI chemist to speak there March 16.

Glockler will stop at Lincoln, Neb. March 20, to address the Nebraska section of the American Chemical society.

Annual SUI History Conference Begins On Campus Today

The 28th annual SUI History conference opens here today with Prof. Hans Rothfels lecturing on "International Aspects of the German Opposition to Hitler," Prof. W. O. Aydelotte, chairman, history department, said Thursday.

The first open session will be held in the house chamber of Old Capitol at 2:00 p.m., Aydelotte said.

Rothfels, University of Chicago history professor, recently published a book on the underground movement in Germany against Hitler. His speech will deal with several chapters from his book.

Another aspect of German history will be discussed during the same session by Prof. Walter L. Dorn, history department, Ohio State University. Dorn will talk on "American Military Government and the Problem of Germany."

Aydelotte said other speakers will lecture on various social, political and economic problems.

Prof. Richard Hofstadter, history department, Columbia University; Prof. John H. Haefner, chairman, social studies, University high school, and Prof. Leland L. Sage, history department, Iowa State Teachers college, will speak during the two-day session.

Approximately 200 visitors are expected on the campus for the conference.

All Work Or No Play

Preparing for Irish Play 'Shadow and Substance' Takes Planning, Work — Not Done in Jig-Time

By TERRY RINK

Lilting voices and beguiling ways will take the stage when the play, "Shadow and Substance" opens at the University theater Thursday.

Though the play and the characters are Irish, life is not one rousing jig and leprechauns or sipping tea by a peat fire.

Rather, there's a great deal of thought behind the modern attitudes presented, and a great deal of care and thought in the work that's being done behind the scene.

The one-scene set didn't appear on the stage by wishing.

Its creator, Deborah Cohen, A4, Brooklyn, N.Y., spent hours discussing the play with Prof. Lewin Goff of the dramatic arts department, director of the play, and with Prof. Arnold Gillette of the dramatic arts department, who supervised the construction of the set.

Author's Suggestions

Miss Cohen had suggestions of the author to work with, but that Gillette said, "doesn't necessarily imply" she had to follow them.

Playwrights recognize the superior ability of designers to fit a stage to a play and actually are interested only in giving a play the best possible setting, Gillette asserted.

Next, Miss Cohen did research on source material. This presented a problem, Gillette said, since "very little source material on Irish interiors" and furniture is available.

After making about 16 different sketches, one design was decided on as giving the greatest variety in playing space and the greatest latitude for working out necessary stage business.

The setting is the living-room in the parochial house of the Very Rev. Thomas Canon Skerritt.

'Splattering, Blending'

Since "most Irish interiors are just plaster," a combination of "splattering" and "blending" was used to achieve walls of "rough texture" with a "lived-in" look.

Blending consists of painting the walls with two intensities of a color or so that corners and naturally dusty or dark places in a room would be darker than those well-lit.

Splattering is done by hitting a wide brush on the palm of the hand and allowing drops of paint to fly onto the wall.

Such double treatment "adds variety and color by allowing the base color to come through" and add depth and reality to the walls.

To find the proper size of doors and windows, detailed drawings were necessary. Nine sheets of drafting paper were used in making proportionate drawings of the walls, floor space, doors and windows of the set, Gillette said.

Set at Angle

The set is placed at an angle to the audience so persons seated at either side of the theater will be able to look through the French doors located at the center of the back panel.

Furniture for the set is another problem. To obtain pieces of sufficient authenticity, Gillette said the stage crew must be ready to "build, borrow or make over."

Costumes for the play are "supposedly modern," Ethelyn Pauley, A2, Sioux City, costume designer, said. There is "just a touch" of the peasant dress in some of the costumes.

Mrs. Pauley said she attempted to use homespun fabrics, not cloth "so soft or fine as that found in cities." Bridget, the heroine of the play, will be dressed in "simple and charming" clothes.

Men's clothing is "non-descript" except for the priest's clothing. In all costumes, Mrs. Pauley said she tried to "fit the texture to the character."

Prof. Gladys Lynch of the speech and dramatic arts departments gave individual instruction in Irish dialect and worked out a paper of pronunciation for each character.

Twain Cave

Spelunkers to Explore Tom's Hideout

Shades of Tom Sawyer! About 12 Spelunkers — cave explorers — will be off Saturday for the Mark Twain region of Missouri to explore the caves around Hannibal where Twain, then Samuel Clemens, spent his boyhood.

The Spelunkers, members of the National Speleological society, will meet at 6 a.m. Saturday for an automobile trip to Hannibal, Bill Petrie, G, president of the Iowa Grotto of the society, said Thursday.

He said anyone interested in making the trip should contact him as soon as possible.

Petrie said the SUI Spelunkers plan to meet a group from Washington university, St. Louis, which is interested in forming a grotto of its own.

The combined groups plan to visit Mark Twain cave, a "commercial" cave about a mile south of Hannibal, and two or three "wild" or unexplored caves nearby.

Doctors to Discuss Cancer Treatment

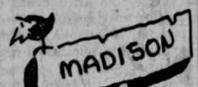

Two members of SUP's medical faculty, Dr. H. Dabney Kerr, chairman of the department of radiology, and Dr. R.H. Flocks, chairman of the department of urology, will discuss problems in diagnosis and treatment of various types of cancer at the Dallas Southern Clinical society conference, March 13 and March 14.

The doctors will be guest speakers at the society's 19th annual spring conference, which will be held in Dallas.

Flocks will present five lectures and Kerr four. Dr. Willis R. Brown, chairman of the department of obstetrics and gynecology, University of Arkansas, and a former SUI faculty member, also will be a guest speaker at the conference.
