Questioning of Bednasek Jury Continues, May End Today

State and defense attorneys Wednesday completed questioning of 28 prospective jurors for the murder trial of Robert E. Bednasek, former SUI psychology student.

Two persons have been excused from the panel for having made up their minds about the guilt or innocence of Bednasek, charged with the strangulation slaying of Margaret (Geege) Jackson last Dec. 11.

Another member of the panel, M.C. Bragg, 50-year-old clerk for Dunkel's cigar store, was dismissed after he said in reply to questions by the state that he "couldn't take the life or liberty of any man."

At the close of the second day of the trial, the state had used five and the defense four of its peremptory challenges. Each side is permitted eight. It addition, each side may dismiss two more jurors without cause.

Indications were that a jury might be selected by noon today.

As the repetitious questioning of prospective jurors continued Wednesday, Bednasek sat at the lawyers' table betraying no emotion.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Emil Bednasek, sat about 10 feet behind their only son inside the courtroom railing. At the end of Wednesday's session, the 24-year-old former merchant marine kissed his mother and shook hands with his short, round-faced father.

The memory of Miss Jackson was still strong with Bednasek.

"I think of her all the time," he remarked to reporters during recess. "She is on my mind especially at night."

He said he was encouraged by demonstrations of support from fellow students and fraternity brothers.

Of the three persons dismissed from jury duty for cause, two were excused Wednesday. Besides Bragg, Frank Colony, a North Liberty farmer, was challenged by the defense which contended he had formed an opinion which could not be changed. Judge James P. Gaffney dismissed Colony.

Defense Attorney Clair Hamilton again challenged Mrs. Velva Vitsosh, wife of an Iowa City police officer for cause.

Judge Gaffney, who overruled such a motion Tuesday, denied Hamilton's motion. The defense claimed Mrs. Vitsosh could not be a fair juror because of her husband's friendship with other police officers.

Questioned by counsel for state and defense Wednesday were:

Ralph Klenk, 66, a retired Oxford farmer;

C. Jay Miller, 44, an employee of the Gay Locker company in Iowa City, who said he was against capital punishment;

Mrs. Susan Ellison, wife of an Oxford realtor;

Mrs. Merle Dewey, a farmer's widow;

Carl E. Schillig, 40, 25 N. Van Buren street, a painter and father of three children;

Harold W. McGinnis, 34, a Corvallis farmer;

Mrs. Cecilia Burns, mother of six children and farm wife;

Mrs. Dorothy Krall, mother of three children from Newport town ship;

Joe Kadera, 64, a farmer from Graham Township;

Robert Breske, 936 Bowery street, a carpenter and farmer;

Glenn P. Wentzel, 46, foreman of SUI plumbers and steamfitters;

George A. Svatos, 55, a farmer and former township assessor for Newport township.

At the end of Wednesday's proceedings, Judge Gaffney warned jurors not to read newspaper accounts of the trial or listen to radio news programs. He also told them to stay away from movies which might "contain the tragic symbol" of the Bednasek case.

Court will convene at 9:30 a.m. today.

Gubitchev to Go Home; No Appeal

NEW YORK (AP) — Convicted spy Valentin A. Gubitchev withdrew Wednesday from further trials with American courts and said he'd go home to Russia next Monday.

The 33-year-old Russian remained in jail. His decision not to appeal a 15-year prison sentence was announced by his attorney, Abraham L. Pomerantz.

Sentence is to be suspended on condition Gubitchev go back to Russia "never to return."

U.S. Attorney Irving H. Saypol had insisted that Gubitchev waive all right of appeal from his conviction of plotting to spy for the Soviets with his ex-pal, former government girl Judith Coplon.

Civic Groups Help Polish DP to Study Engineering at SUI

Twenty-one Iowa City and SUI groups have combined forces to bring a 25-year-old displaced engineering student here next fall.

The student council's National Student Association committee has completed plans which guarantee the student DP, Zynnowij Glowiaik, a year's schooling here.

The university has agreed to waive Glowiaik's tuition and Smith's restaurant has guaranteed his board.

Glowiaik has had four semesters of college work and hopes to continue his mechanical engineering studies at SUI.

Glowiaik was displaced in 1943 and had to go to Germany as a common laborer. He was separated from his parents until he met them in the Dormstadt, Germany, DP camp, after the war.

The NSA committee contacted the World Student Service Fund to bring Glowiaik to SUI from Dormstadt. The WSSF recommended 10 DP students and their credentials were sent to the SUI registrar's office.

Glowiaik was chosen because of his high academic records and command of English.

Before coming to the U.S., he will be screened as to his political leanings by the World Student Relief, International Refugee organization and the U.S. government.

He said he was encouraged by demonstrations of support from fellow students and fraternity brothers.

Dean Congratulates Freshmen 3.5'ers

Liberal arts freshman with 3.2 or over grade averages have been sent letters of congratulations from Dean Dewey B. Stuit, college of liberal arts.

About seven percent of all liberal arts freshmen will receive congratulations.

"To be sure," said Stuit in the letter, "there is little merit in earning high grades just for the sake of the grades themselves, but if the grades are marks of real achievement they should mean much, both from the standpoint of personal satisfaction and as indicators of future achievement."

Stuit encouraged students with grade averages between 3.2 and 3.5 to exert a little more effort and become eligible for Phi Eta Sigma and Alpha Lambda Delta, men's and women's freshman honorary organizations.

Three point five is the honorary grade requirement.

Bednasek Talks with Mother as Jury Selection Continues

HOLDING HIS MOTHER'S HAND, Robert E. Bednasek waited for his trial to re-convene Wednesday afternoon. The 24-year-old former SUI psychology student talked with his parents before entering the courthouse in the Johnson county court house where he is facing a first degree murder charge in connection with the death of Margaret Jackson, his campus sweetheart. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Emil Bednasek commute between Iowa City and their home in Cedar Rapids daily to be beside their son during the trial. The selection of the jury will continue at 9:30 this morning.

British Free African Chief, Queen

LONDON (UPI) — Britain has backed down in the case of Se-rete Khamza and his white "queen" and will allow him to return to her in Africa at least until June, reliable sources said Wednesday.

Prime Minister Clement Attlee's government has decided the young chief-designate of the Bamangwato tribe can return to Bechuanaland and remain with his wife until their baby is born in June or July. There were indications the government eventually would just forget the five-year exile imposed on the young chieftain.

The decision was made Tuesday in a formal cabinet meeting. The fate of the African Negro who married Ruth Williams, a London typist, has stirred up such a furore it could actually unseat the Labor government.

Informed sources said Attlee transmitted the cabinet's decision to Labor members of parliament today in a private meeting. At least, these sources said, felt he could not afford to light a fire under the 40-odd Socialists who are smouldering with resentment at what they call the shabby treatment of Serete.

Two belated problems gave them additional clues to last year's stone Tuesday evening, but still didn't lead to the stone's location.

The final problem was found tacked on the engineering bulletin board by Mary Sheedy, secretary to Dean F.M. Dawson, after a mysterious telephone call.

The note cryptically said "Clayworkers Red Williams 25." This clue led Alvin Brown, Flushing, N.Y., to the Blarney stone when he found "Red Williams 25" painted on the brick wall of the storage room.

Nearby, Brown found a shelf of old volumes on clay working, and behind these musty books he discovered the stone.

Helping Brown in the search were Charles Reardon, Tina, Mo., chairman of the Blarney stone committee; Wayne Johnston, Lockport, Ill., and R.J. Isenhart, Clinton, N.J.

Reardon said the stone would be put in safe keeping until the night of the Mecca ball, Friday.

Meanwhile, many engineers continued working in ankle-deep ice and mud looking for the original Blarney stone believed lost near the city dump by the class of 1947.

All 12 animals were put to pasture Wednesday after their long confinement, Cochran said.

Showdown on Cutdown —

President Truman Monday sent to congress 21 more changes in the executive department suggested by the Hoover report. The commission for reorganization of the executive branch of the government, appointed by Mr. Truman and headed by former president Hoover, spent nearly two years studying ways to streamline the executive branch. Last year the group submitted 91 recommended changes.

Twenty-five of the recommendations have been approved by congress already. The 21 measures now before congress would put the reorganization program past the halfway mark.

The Hoover Citizen's committee lists three ways in which the Hoover plan will streamline the federal government and bring savings to the American taxpayer:

1. It will strengthen cabinet officers and chairmen of independent agencies;

2. It will modernize personnel practices in the federal government, and

3. It will modernize and standardize bookkeeping systems in the federal executive agencies.

Unless congress kills within 60 days the 21 measures submitted by Mr. Truman Monday, they will become law. But there are some hot potatoes among the 21 — changes that are more controversial than those previously approved. The recommendation for abolition of the maritime commission will probably run into strong opposition from shipping interests. Under the

Loyalty Probe May Backfire —

The move by Republican Sen. Joseph McCarthy of Wisconsin to purge the state department of spies with a red herring tinge seems to be backfiring. And with it may backfire the hopes of members of the 81st congress to lodge their man in the White House in 1952.

Nobody's talking — nobody will admit anything — but the rumor goes that the Republicans picked the freshman senator to carry the ball in an attempted smear campaign against State Secretary Dean Acheson that would in turn discredit the Truman administration.

Where the facts came from to support the alleged probe are not known — or if they're known, nobody's willing to say for publication.

What the whole business boils down to now is a fight within the ranks to oust Harry Truman. And the best bet is that although the Republicans may not succeed, they will at least embarrass the President considerably.

The senate has ordered the loyalty files of the FBI subpoenaed . . . a precedent-breaking action if the order is carried out. No congress has yet been able to get this type of order through. In fact once the house plan, the functions of the commission would be placed under Secretary of Commerce Charles Sawyer.

Other measures that are expected to run into trouble from powerful Washington lobbies are the Veterans' administration reorganization and the suggested consolidation of the army engineers' civilian river dam activities in the department of interior. There have been minor skirmishes already in the battle to reduce the engineers' powers, but the army men have strong backing in some parts of congress.

The 21 measures congress now has under consideration should indicate whether the legislators are serious about cutting down expenses within the federal government. Only previous controversial recommendation to come before congress was defeated. That was the proposal for a cabinet-rank department of welfare and education.

Hoover plan backers believe that the mere massiveness of the executive branch of the federal government (2-million people employed in 1,816 units or departments) leads to red tape and inefficiencies — inefficiencies which can be overcome through adequate reorganization in line with Hoover plan recommendations.

The next few weeks should tell whether congress will let pork barrel methods stop it from instituting needed modernization of the federal government, or if congress is really sincere in its desire to cut down the nation's expenditures.

This would get around the old one that has the Chief Executive currently on the pan. He would be saved from the accusations that he is trying to keep his record clean by hiding all evidence to the contrary.

The other matter that remains to be considered is the one about what will happen to the Republicans in the 81st congress, particularly McCarthy, if the spadework fails to turn up any dirt.

The only choice the Republicans would have is to dump McCarthy overboard, which would be a shame since the senator is a good man, partywise and legislatively.

This then appears to be a gamble that Republicans have launched so they can gain seats in the 82nd congress and so get back the presidency they have not had since 1932.

rules committee ruled against itself and decided it had no authority to take such action.

Newspaper stories have said that President Truman is likely to permit the congressmen to look at the loyalty files but they probably will not be allowed to take them back to the other end of Washington to study and throw mud.

Young Idealism . . .

TO THE EDITOR:

The current factional struggle in the S.U.I. Young Democratic club is illustrative of a basic problem facing all campus organizations which are, in any manner or means, affiliated with a national or state political organization.

From its activation in the fall of 1947, the S.U.I. Young Democratic club has had within its ranks individuals who advocate party loyalty and discipline to the near exclusion of principle and ethics. To these "party people", the state central committee is some sort of a supreme body which transcends critical examination and demands blind obedience. The state chairman ranks somewhere between Zeus and the Oracle of Delphi and must be spoken of in hushed tones with heads bowed in the direction of Des Moines. To these "practical souls", who equate "Party" with God and Country, independent thinking and action contrary to the dictates of the exalted state body is "adolescent idealism" and advocates of these awful heresies "live in ivory towers."

Fortunately, this hack element represented a small minority in the 1947-48 and 1948-49 school years. During this period the S.U.I. Young Democrats distinguished themselves as a hard-working liberal organization with guts enough to speak out against injustices it saw in our government and society. When it was "politically expedient" to stifle one's opinions about Jim Crowson, the Young Democrats came out vigorously for the establishment of a FEPC (Fair Employment Practices Commission).

In that particular instance, the S.U.I. Young Democrats relegated political considerations to the background to cooperate with the Young Progressives, the Y.M.C.A. and other liberal organizations. Time and money (and the group had little of both) were expended in this effort which culminated in a lobbying group which put the entire question before the state legislature at Des Moines. The so-called "Eads faction" should be saluted for its fight to save the autonomous position of the S.U.I. Young Democrats. That autonomy — that freedom — has been the club's strength since its inception. It seems feasible that this position can be held without breaking from the Democratic organization. The Johnson county and state groups should welcome thinking students who have demonstrated in past years that they can get out the vote and capably handle "practical politics."

Real aggressive liberalism is woefully lacking in both the Republican and Democratic parties in the state of Iowa. The state Democratic leaders would be the worst kind of folks if they parted company with the S.U.I. group.

Political Pledges . . .

In your editorial of March 14, you express hope that the Young Democrats on campus won't become an organization of political "hacks." It is one thing to be a political hack and it is another to have party discipline. If the young Democrats on campus want to be a study group let them form a debating society and change the name of the organization.

The present name implies they will support what is known as the "fair deal" program. It is this lack of party discipline, which you praise in your editorial, which makes party platforms so meaningless in America and in fact a butt of jokes of the constituency.

The Truman "fair deal" program seemed to be upheld in the last election. Yet because there is no party discipline F.E.P.C. and other bills cannot come to a vote and we have the spectacle of Democrat Sam Rayburn of the house obstructing F.E.P.C. to which his party is pledged.

The British Labor party with a smaller majority proportionately than the Democrats are attempting to carry on their program because they always know they can take the issue to the people, in a new election. There is no way the American people can make their representatives responsible to a program unless by some form of party discipline which is used to great effect (whether you believe it or not) by both business and labor.

A labor strike can't be effective without discipline (witness the solidarity of the United Mine Workers) and neither can a political party. This solidarity is not discipline to a party machine, but is in a real sense solidarity to a principle.

With Three Months to Go —

Candidates A Pile Up for Primary Elections

DES MOINES (AP) — The way things are shaping up there will be four races — possibly five — to watch in Iowa's primary election.

It probably will take the action of the major parties' post-primary conventions to decide on two of the nominations.

These were the indications today, slightly less than three months from the June 5 ballot-

The possible fifth race could be the one drawing the most interest. It would involve the Republican nomination for governor.

The other top contests apparently will be for the Democratic and Republican nominations for U.S. senator, the Democratic nomination for governor and the Republican nomination for lieutenant governor.

The Democratic convention may have to make the nomination for senator, and the Republican convention the nomination for lieutenant governor.

There are six candidates for the Democratic nomination for Governor thus far as Myron J. Bennett, Des Moines safety commissioner and a disc jockey. He is campaigning by radio and emphasizes that he is an independent candidate.

Democratic party leaders say it is certain that Lester Gillette, Fort Dodge farmer, will oppose Bennett for the nomination. Friends of Gillette say he has several speaking engagements and does not want to make his announcement until he has completed his schedule.

The sixth candidate is A. J. Loveland, Janesville farmer and presently undersecretary of agriculture in Washington.

Alvin P. Meyer, Van Meter farmer; State Rep. E.E. (Gene) Positon of Corydon; Otha D. Wearin, Hastings farmer; W.M. Shaw, Newton theater man, and Ernest J. Seemann, Waterloo factory worker.

The sixth candidate is A. J. Loveland, Janesville farmer and presently undersecretary of agriculture in Washington.

BURBANK, CALIF. — Even psychologists tout one now and then, Dr. David M. Tracy of New York said Tuesday.

Dr. Tracy is working with the St. Louis Browns at their spring training base here. He said his error came in a mass hypnosis class Monday night.

"Has any pitcher a sore arm?" he asked. Up stepped Les Stone, one of the club's rookies. "I have," said Stone.

Without asking any more questions, Dr. Tracy worked on Stone's right arm. Later he asked Stone how the arm felt.

"My right arm feels great," Stone replied. "The only trouble is that I'm left-handed."

'Herky the Hawk' Plays Varied Yearbook Roles

"Herky the Hawk" is a dominant theme of the 1950 Hawkeye, SUI yearbook, Editor Pat Lounsbury, A4, Des Moines, said Wednesday.

The yearbook is expected to be distributed in late May.

Instructor Richard Spencer III's creation, the two-year-old hawk, is quite an active bird.

He's miserable Herky, the ROTC student, plowing through the mud in typical yearbook regalia; Freshman Herky, just out of his egg, and Mountaineer Herky, with a rope around a mountain top, to name a few of his roles.

Herky A BHOC

Whatever his role, Herky will be acclaimed BHOC — Big Hawk On Campus, Miss Lounsbury predicts. In fact, he's shown weighted down with keys and pins, casual in his slouch hat, "I" sweater and bow tie, in one illustration.

This year's Hawkeye will have a different colored cover than any previous issues, Miss Lounsbury said.

The volume will include four books, she added.

These, Miss Lounsbury labeled Organizations, Activities, Seniors and an all-inclusive title, "College Atmosphere."

The latter book includes sections on sports, parties, "beauties" and two new sections, one showing informal class pictures and the other described by Miss Lounsbury as the "surprise package."

The Hawkeye staff calls this week "clean-up week" for pictures.

4,000 Pictures

At least 4,000 pictures, about 2,200 of them senior pictures, must be sent to a Chicago engraver by the end of the week, Miss Lounsbury said.

When the engravings are returned, SUI's yearbook can "go to press." Hawkeye is printed at the Economy Advertising company here, she said.

Two production assistants, Thomas Dorsey, A2, Keokuk, and Ted Leighton, A4, Storm Lake, and about 50 other students aid Miss Lounsbury in turning out the Hawkeye, she said.

Instructor Bernard Stern, school of journalism, is Hawkeye publications adviser.

Orientation Leaders For Fall Semester To Be Picked Soon

The executive committee for the 1950 men's orientation program will be chosen during the next two weeks, Don Guthrie, A3, orientation chairman, said Wednesday.

Guthrie said committee members will be picked after personal interviews.

Men interested in positions on the committee should leave their names, addresses, and telephone numbers in the office of student affairs before the application deadline Wednesday, March 22, he said.

From six to 10 men will be chosen, Guthrie said. The function of the committee is to plan and carry out a fall orientation program for freshman and transfer men students.

Each member of the committee will be responsible for one portion of the fall orientation program, and will select his assistants in accordance with the student council's policy of equal opportunities for all students.

Guthrie said a schedule of available times for personal interviews will be found at the office of student affairs. Applicants can select the time for their interviews.

Applications for positions as group orientation leaders will be available later this spring. Group orientation leaders will work directly with new students, Guthrie said.

Randall listed 43 persons entitled to a share of the net proceeds. Some of them had died, he said, and others lived in Czechoslovakia.

In case of death the money will be divided among the person's heirs, the report stated.

Rainbow Assembly To Sponsor Dance

The Sweater Swing, girl bid dance sponsored by the Iowa City Rainbow assembly, will be held in the Community building from 8 to 11 p.m. Saturday, Publicity Chairman Pat Price said Tuesday.

Tickets are $1.25 per couple, Miss Price said.

City High Club to Present A-Bomb Play

Paint and Patches, City high drama club, will present "E Equals MC Squared," an informational play about the atomic age, in the school auditorium at 8 p.m. April 5.

Written by Hallie F. Davis, a graduate of Grinnell college, the play is called "a living newspaper about the atomic age."

The 35 scenes of the two-act play require a cast of 87, Director Robert Pendleton, G, Iowa City, said.

The scenes follow immediately upon each other, and effects will be attempted through the use of lighting, movable boxes and rock wall, he said.

Final scenes will show the possible effects of fear and suspicion coupled with atomic power.

Hearing Date Set For Partition Suit

John D. Randall, Cedar Rapids, son of the partition suit involving land near Walford and Oxford, filed his report in district court Wednesday.

Judge James P. Gaffney set March 2 at 10 a.m. for the hearing on the report and a request by Randall to distribute proceeds from the sale of the land to those legally entitled to a share.

The suit, Anna Sinkora, et al., vs. Mary Wlach et al., was concerned with two tracts totaling 313.34 acres near Walford and two tracts totaling 138.92 acres near Oxford.

Randall reported he received $45,808.83 from the sale of the land. Disbursements for sale expenses, taxes and miscellaneous totaled $13,343.98.

Randall listed 43 persons entitled to a share of the net proceeds. Some of them had died, he said, and others lived in Czechoslovakia.

In case of death the money will be divided among the person's heirs, the report stated.

Cedar county led the list giving a total of $12,526, with Buena Vista county second giving $11,593.40.

Crop bought 14 railroad cars of lard, 3 of wheat, 3 of honey, 5 of powdered milk, 5 of flour, 2 of cereal and 2 of seed corn with the money contributed by the people of Iowa for distribution in overseas relief.

Tickets are $1.25 per couple, Miss Price said.

City Clerk Reports 11 Measles Cases

Eleven new cases of measles reported Wednesday in Iowa City brought the total for March to 171, City Clerk George J. Dohrer said.

Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday each had higher totals than any other day since March 6. The daily number reported did not rise above five during the latter part of last week.

Also reported here Wednesday was a new case of chicken pox and one of mumps. Four cases of chicken pox and two of mumps have been reported here during March.

Freshman Law Arguments Scheduled to Start Monday

A total of 140 SUI law freshmen will compete in the first year law club arguments at the college of law, beginning Monday, Richard G. Huber, L3, Charles City, director of the arguments, said Wednesday.

The winners will enter the junior arguments next year, from which students who argue on Supreme Court day each year are chosen.

On Supreme Court day, scheduled for April 27 this year, student lawyers present arguments before justices of the Iowa supreme court who are in Iowa City for the day.

The freshman arguments will begin at 7 p.m. each evening, Monday through Thursday, from March 20 until April 20, Huber stated.

Attorneys to Judge

Two arguments will be held each evening — one in the law school courtroom and one in room 106 of the law building.

They will be open to the public. Each of the arguments will be heard by a chief judge and two associates. The chief judges will be practicing attorneys from Iowa City, Cedar Rapids, Davenport, Washington, (Iowa), West Liberty and other nearby towns.

Two senior law students will serve as the associate judges for each argument.

4 In Each Argument

Four freshmen will participate in each argument — two on a side. They will be given the records of a case supposedly tried in a lower court. The four will argue these cases as though they were in an appellate court.

"Appellate cases are generally considered to bring together all of the arts and experience a lawyer has," Huber said.

"An effective brief and argument is as a rule considered to be one of the highest accomplishments in the legal profession."

20-Minute Argument

Each of the four students on a case will have 20 minutes to present his argument. The judges will decide on the best arguments and not on the case itself, Huber pointed out.

After the judges return from their deliberations following each case, they will announce the winners and point out weaknesses in briefs and presentations to the participating students.

The simulated court is called the McClain supreme court, named after a former law college dean.

All freshmen law students who entered the college last fall are required to participate in the arguments, Huber said. Approximately 30 other freshmen are participating, even though they are

McCarthy's 'Red' List To Go to Investigators

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy Wednesday reluctantly agreed to give senate investigators his long-hidden records on 81 alleged Communists and fellow travelers in the state department.

So far, McCarthy has named nine of the 81. All have angrily denied or scoffed at his charges.

The Wisconsin Republican said he hopes to have his evidence ready by Monday and will turn it over "en masse" to a senate foreign relations subcommittee which has been investigating his allegations of red plotting in his state department.

Recall Diplomat

In cccidentals developed: 1. John Stewart Service, U.S. diplomat denounced by McCarthy as pro-Communist, was ordered home from India to testify in a review of his loyalty record.

The state department announced that Service was recalled on the recommendation of the U.S. civil service loyalty review board.

The department, which had previously cleared Service, emphasized that his recall did not mean Service was under any new suspicion, but that it was considered desirable to let him "speak for himself."

2. The house voted 368 to 2 to stiffen the nation's internal security laws and to make it tougher on federal employees caught snooping for foreign agents.
