Truman Blasts Red Baiting; Reports New Appointments

KEY WEST, FLA. (AP) — President Truman Thursday bitterly denounced Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis) and senate Republicans associated with him for trying to "sabotage the bipartisan foreign policy of the United States."

He described McCarthy, instigator of an investigation of alleged communism in the state department, as the Kremlin's greatest asset in this country.

His denunciation came in an action-packed press conference in which he announced sweeping changes in his administration.

He said he is appointing Budget Director Frank Pace Jr., immediately as secretary of the army succeeding Gordon Gray.

Adjust Exports, Imports

Gray, who has resigned to become president of the University of North Carolina in September, was designated as special assistant to the President to work until that time on a bi-partisan program to reduce the dollar gap between exports and imports.

The President also announced that Secretary of the Air Force W. Stuart Symington is being named chairman of the national security resources board, that Frederick J. Lawton, now an assistant, will be budget director and that Special Assistant Elmer Statts is moving up to succeed Lawton.

He declined to reply to questions as to whether Thomas K. Finletter, former ECA chief in London, will succeed Symington as air force secretary.

Defense Policy Unchanged

Mr. Truman said there were no fundamental differences on defense policy between the administration and Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, but he declared he did not believe in the slightest that defenses have fallen below the danger point.

But, it was mostly on foreign policy, and on the series of attacks on Secretary of State Dean Acheson and the state department that the President devoted most of the 25-minute conference on the lawn of the Winter White House here where he served newsmen hot dogs and hamburgers.

Convict's Confession Solves Hospital Fire

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A 26-year-old convicted arsonist, committed to the Belle Vista sanatorium for mental treatment, confessed Thursday he set the fire that suffocated nine fellow inmates.

State Police Sgt. Charles Taylor and Police Chief Andrew J. White of Springfield township said Nicholas Verna of Upper Darby, Pa., broke down after a three-hour grilling and confessed he was the firebug who started Wednesday night's blaze at the 47-year-old institution.

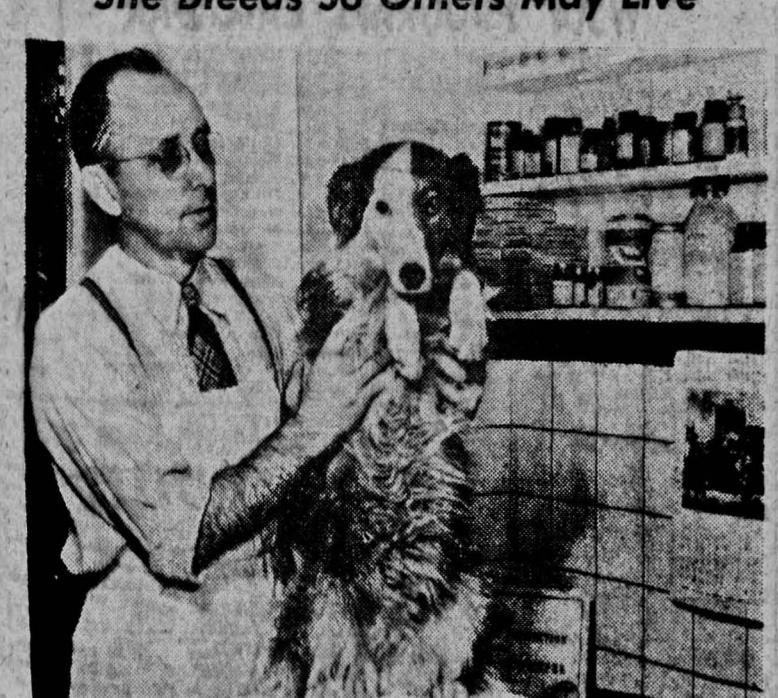

Some of the men who died were shackled to iron cots, in barred and bolted rooms.

At least 60 other persons, including firemen, nurses and patients, were injured.

Sgt. Taylor arrested Verna at Valley Forge General hospital at nearby Phoenixville where Verna and 13 others were taken after the fire. Taylor said Verna was convicted of arson in 1949 in Delaware county (Pa.) court and committed to Belle Vista.

Taylor and White said Verna also was convicted of setting eight fires in the Coxer building in downtown Philadelphia "several years ago."

CANINE VERSION OF THE BLOOD DONOR, Queenie, has saved the lives of more than 200 dogs — show dogs and curs alike — and is still going strong. Three or four times a week, whenever an emergency arises, Queenie goes on the operating table at Dr. F. D. Gentry's small animal hospital in Springfield, Mo., to donate her blood so some other dog may live. She is shown here with Hubert L. Marler, an attendant at the doggy hospital.

Pavement Swellings, Caused by Thawing, Damage Two Autos

Two automobiles were damaged Wednesday and Thursday when they struck "frost boils," or protruding mounds of brick, on West Burlington street, according to Street Commissioner Willard Irvin.

Irvin said "frost boils" are caused by the thawing of frost and mud beneath the surface of the street.

The oil pan of each auto was damaged and left a trail of oil on Burlington street as the cars drove on. Police stopped one of the cars and told the driver what had happened. They were unable to stop the other car, however.

Barricades Placed

Street department employees have placed barricades around the three "boils" that have appeared to date — one in front of Brady's Super market, 103 W. Burlington street; another at the Crandie crossing on West Burlington street, and a third in front of the Nagel Lumber company, 120 W. Burlington street.

Within a week or 10 days, he said, street department employees will dig out the thawed mud, fill in the hole with crushed rock and replace the bricks.

To Begin in '51

Plans for the unit call for its operation to begin in September 1951. The unit will be of no help to the power plant next winter.

Parizek said next winter would be a critical one for SUI because added construction on the campus funds have been allocated for only the first unit.

The cost of the boiler, stoker, furnace, controls, fans and accessories equipment, along with the actual installing of the unit, will be included in the bid.

Bids Open May 4 For Work on SUI's New Heating Unit

Bids will be received May 4 for a new $300,000 steam generating unit for the SUI power plant, George Parizek, assistant superintendent of SUI's division of planning and construction, said Thursday.

The unit is the first of a proposed total of four identical units.

Funds have been allocated for only the first unit.

The cost of the boiler, stoker, furnace, controls, fans and accessories equipment, along with the actual installing of the unit, will be included in the bid.

Expect Defense To Rest Case This Morning

Robert E. Bednasek, charged with the strangulation slaying of Margaret Anne (Geege) Jackson, completed his testimony Thursday after six hours on the witness stand.

Bednasek began his testimony Wednesday afternoon, and most of Thursday morning was questioned by Defense Atty. Clair Hamilton.

The following questions and answers were taken from Thursday's direct questioning.

Hamilton asked the 24-year-old former psychology student about the events in the death room of a man's rooming - house at 411 E. Washington street.

Q. Were the two of you there for a little while together?

A. Yes.

Q. Margaret Anne Jackson received some injuries there at that time, did she not?

A. Yes.

Q. Tell the jury to the best of your knowledge what happened.

A. We came back to the room, were standing approximately in the middle of the room, as far as I can recall. I kissed her and that time she . . .

Q. After you kissed her and she kissed you . . .

A. She sort of laughingly . . . she laughed and put her hands up to my throat as she had done at times before, and I said something to the effect that that was not the right place or was too high or something and at the same time that she had her hands around my throat, I put my hands around hers, and the next thing I remember — I remember it just seemed like the next instant — she had a sort of surprised and strange look on her face and threw up her arms to break my arms away from her.

Q. And did your hands leave her neck then?

A. Yes, yes.

Q. Then what did you do?

A. Well, I didn't think anything about it at the time and we sort of started to dance a little bit. And I don't remember how many steps. It might have been a minute, it might have been a few seconds. It might have been longer. And I noticed a sort of a gasping or sort of a moaning sound and she was sort of twisting in my arms and I turned to look at her and she went away from me and I backed off from her and then she was gasping and moaning and then she began to stagger.

Q. Did you see what she did with her hands?

A. Yes, her hands went up to her throat, I do not know just how, it was all so very hazy. And she staggered toward the bed and turned, then she fell against the edge of a chair that was in the room right next to the table right next to the bed. She fell, it seemed on her side, and she tried to get up, I believe she was holding onto the edge of the chair trying to pull herself up and then she fell back again. The next thing I remember was sitting on the floor. I don't know how I got there — getting up from lying - down position. I couldn't remember how it happened.

Q. When you saw Margaret Anne Jackson clutch at her throat and stagger, what did you do, if anything?

A. I don't know. I just felt paralyzed and numb.

Q. Could you tell what part of the chair she struck?

A. Yes, the back edge of the chair.

Q. Could you tell what part of her body or anatomy struck the chair?

A. Somewhere on her face or neck. I couldn't tell.

Q. When you were sitting on the floor beside her, did you still observe any gasping or moaning?

A. Yes, it sounded as if there was a whistling effect in the throat, I couldn't understand what was causing it. It was terrible. At that time I saw a

Canadians Hold Service For U.S. Crash Victims

OTTAWA (CP) — Military and diplomatic honors were paid by Canada Thursday to U.S. Ambassador Laurence A. Steinhardt and four Americans killed with him Tuesday in the crash of a U.S. embassy airplane.

Thousands of persons lined Ottawa streets in a biting wind to see the funeral corteges move to Union station following separate funeral services.

Two 19 - gun salutes boomed and a band played the Star Spangled Banner as the bodies were placed aboard trains for the trip to the United States.

1950 College Graduates Face Bleak Job Outlook

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — This year's crop of college graduates, largest in the nation's history, will find job-hunting a harder task than in any year since the end of the second world war. Commissioner Ewan Clague of the Bureau of Labor Statistics said Thursday.

Clague told a meeting of the American College Personnel association that many of the 500,000 students to be graduated this spring will not find the jobs for which they were trained.

FIND WOMAN INNOCENT PRINCETON, IND. (AP) — A 12-month jury returned a verdict of innocent after only 30 minutes deliberation Thursday night in the arsenic poison murder trial of Mrs. Clarice Spurlock, 28, Evansville, Ind., housewife accused of slaying her father.

Fall Against Chair Killed Geege, Insists Bednasek

State Attorneys Examine Bednasek's Date Book

THE DATE BOOK belonging to Robert E. Bednasek is examined by County Atty. Jack C. White (standing) and Special Prosecutor Edward F. Rate. It was revealed in testimony Thursday that Bednasek noted in this book comments on 15 dates he had with 11 different women in a period of two weeks last fall. The former SUI student, charged with the murder of Margaret Anne (Geege) Jackson frequently referred to his dates with the SUI coed before she was found dead in an Iowa City rooming house last Dec. 11.

SUI Doctor Named To Head Denmark Specialists' School

Dr. Stuart C. Cullen, chairman of the division of anesthesiology at University hospitals, has been appointed by the World Health Organization to set up a school in Copenhagen, Denmark, for training anesthesiology specialists.

Dr. Cullen will conduct a four hour and twenty minute speech to the senate which set off these chain reactions:

President Truman branded McCarthy, along with Sen. Styles Bridges (R-NH) and Kenneth Wherry (R-Neb) as the greatest asset the Kremlin has.

In a statement which he permitted newsmen at Key West to quote directly, Mr. Truman condemned the "partisan attempt in the senate to sabotage the bipartisan foreign policy of the U.S."

Lattimore also fired back at McCarthy, labeling his accusations as an "unmitigated lie."

The Johns Hopkins professor and one time state department consultant made that report in London during a stopover on his flight back to the United States to answer the senator's charges in person.

Dr. Cullen will be responsible for outlining the program of instruction and supervising the Copenhagen school.

Dr. Cullen will instruct the students in clinical instruction supplemented by seminars, discussions and lectures, similar to the SUI program.

Senior Instructor

During the first three months of the course, Dr. Cullen will remain in Denmark as one of the two senior instructors at the school. The other senior instructor, as yet unannounced, will supervise the last three months of operation. Several junior instructors will make up the permanent staff.

The project will be financed jointly by WHO, operating under the United Nations, and the government of Denmark.

Dr. Cullen, his wife and daughter will leave Iowa City during the last week in April.

Red-Tagged Adler To Discuss Music

EVANSTON, ILL. (AP) — Larry Adler, a harmonica player who has been accused of communism, will lecture in a Northwestern university building tonight.

A university spokesman pointed out that the Adler talk is not sponsored by the school but by the International Society of General Semantics.

He said that the university has a contract with the society for the hiring of an auditorium and will not accept him as a full-fledged musical instrument.

A member of the Northwestern faculty said Adler would lecture on the harmonica and his efforts to get it accepted as a full-fledged musical instrument.

"At first I thought it was a weather balloon," Adler said. "But then I decided it wasn't."

Adler told reporters that if these files were made public then the people can "decide who is harboring subversives and moral perverts in high places in government."

Sen. Bridges curiously replied to the President's blast that the "only sabotage I'm trying to create is to sabotage some of the subversive security risks so that they are thrown out of key spots in the government."

Meanwhile, United Press reported:

Leo Jeske, weather bureau employee, said he saw a "whitish translucent" craft about 8 a.m. while taking an observation.

Jeske said the object seemed to remain stationary at 10,000 feet in altitude, while taking an observation.

Muddling Through A Cold War —

One of the most closely guarded secrets of the peace has been the progress of the peace and the occupation of Japan. This has been largely because Gen. Douglas MacArthur has used every trick in the book to keep news from leaking out.

The general has been especially difficult for members of press media to deal with, and these columns have rapped him sharply more than once.

MacArthur, however, has one piece of evidence on his side. He is winning the peace, and those men who serve under him are among the first to admit it—even though they may hate him just as much or more than do some of the "civvie" clad vets on the outside.

We had a letter recently from a soldier who is old enough to know what is going on in the world, one whose judgment we respect. We're taking the liberty of quoting part of his letter:

Dated Honshu Island (one of the five islands that make up Japan proper), the letter mentions, "I managed a few weeks ago when we cleaned out our office files to get copies of the daily issues of all '48 (Nippon) Times.' It's interesting to note the gradually increasing optimism and courage (in the face of occupatic policies) shown in the editorials.

"The articles freely disagree with certain occupation policies, but on the whole are quick to see the benefits of long range policies and to disseminate them among that part of the population still resisting U.S. policies."

This soldier who writes of the success of the occupation of Japan goes on to point out that "the Communist threat has been somewhat reduced. The issue of Japanese prisoners of war... still held by the Soviets has made no friends for the Russians in Japan."

The letter writer calls the American occupation a success where it has left the Japanese with a feeling of almost affection for things American. He hopefully predicts the occupation will ultimately "pay in the westernization of Japan."

He lists some of the success of the MacArthur regime: a slow reduction of the vast unemployment that gripped that nation after the war and the development of markets with other countries in the Far East.

While he admits "this is no top-drawer top-secret opinion," he declares "to prevent the rest of the Far East from going Red, we have to hold onto Japan. It will be a long while before any other nation becomes far enough advanced to utilize the raw materials of the other Far East countries."

There you have the opinion of a man who is using his brain for something, trying to fill in the chinks that a cloistered army life produces when you are shielded from the facts and told what to do.

This is something of a change from the ivory-towered philosophy of an editorial writer who pores over the day's happenings seeking to fill these same chinks with a bit of subjective interpretation.

As long as our world is filled with men of this soldier's type, there seems to be hope that the cold war to eliminate this hostile ideology of communism from its place of dominance is not wholly lost.

Our task here now is to keep the state of affairs flowing so that another foreign country occupation won't be necessary in another generation. We have muddled along in this direction for centuries but have never accomplished what this small army of American servicemen have in just five short years.

As long as we remain a vital, active member of the United Nations, there is hope that we may yet muddle through to the traditional happy ending. We owe those American servicemen at least the effort.

'Illini' Pushes Faculty Evaluation —

(Reprinted from The Daily Illini)

Plans for faculty evaluation have excited considerable interest among university personnel, a Daily Illini survey has shown.

Since the last evaluation editorial in Saturday's Daily Illini, nine schools and colleges have expressed opinions—all in favor of faculty evaluation.

The consensus is that the plan should be administered by the department, school or college. Most of the deans feel a plan required by the university administration would (1) be too general, (2) cause a sense of insecurity, and (3) cause ill feeling between administrators and instructors.

Another revision deemed necessary by many of the men interviewed, is that the evaluation sheets be given directly to the instructor concerned and not passed through the head of the department or school.

They believe such action makes the instructor uneasy and, that actually, it is unnecessary. As one dean pointed out, "Contrary to student opinion, most college and department heads know exactly who are the better teachers or the more popular ones. We usually pick this up during our daily contacts with the men."

All the men concerned in the wish that the university administration give all possible aid in planning the individual evaluation plans. Because that such plans, to be of value, must be composed in such a way as to increase student objectiveness.

One amazing thing we found out during the survey was this:

One department head on campus wants such an evaluation to be imposed by the administration because he doubts acceptance of the plan by the members of his department if he invokes it himself.

"I can then use the sheets as concrete evidence," he said, "to remove instructors in my department who can't teach, but are employed because of seniority and the fact they are good in administration."

He advocated the placing of these persons in nonteaching positions "where they belong."

The students want the plan and the faculty wants the plan.

Solution:

Each department, school, or college begin plans for such evaluations and the university administration stand by to help in framing the questions and procedures.

Record of 3,800-Year-Old Murder Trial Found

By THE CENTRAL PRESS

THE OLDEST known record of a murder trial—dating back 3,800 years—has been unearthed and translated by scholars of the Universities of Chicago and Pennsylvania.

It is incised on a clay tablet, two by four inches, taken from excavations of the Near East city of Nippur in Iraq, and discloses a highly civilized system of justice prevailed there in 1850 B.C.

Dr. Thorild Jacobsen, of the University of Chicago, and Dr. Samuel Noah Kramer, of the University of Pennsylvania museum, translated the tablet's unique record from its obscure cuneiform script of the Sumerian language.

These experts are two of about a dozen in America who can decipher this earliest form of writing yet discovered.

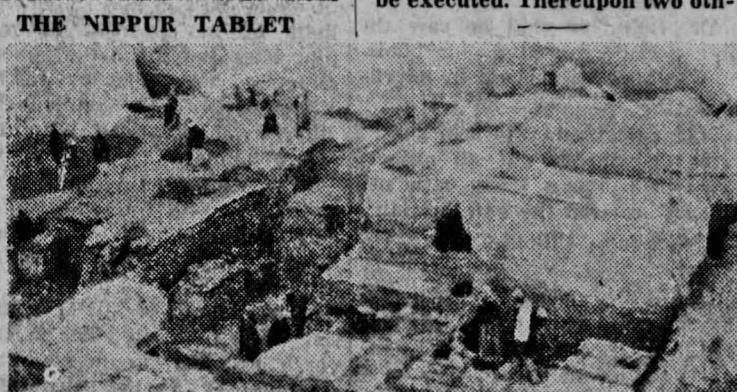

Except for one corner, the precious bit of baked clay is intact. Its missing lines were fortunately filled in from a small fragment of another copy of the same trial report found at Nippur by Pennsylvanian searchers some 50 years ago. Both relics were taken from houses of the 1800 B.C. period.

Nippur, which is 100 miles south of the modern city of Bagdad, was the cultural and spiritual center of Sumer. Its schools were famous and its scholars and scientists were the most distinguished in that ancient land.

THE AMERICAN translators read in the tablet's story how in 1850 B.C. three men killed a temple official and then confessed to their wife, Nin-dada. She kept their secret until all four were turned over to the Citizens Assembly for trial by King Ur-Ninurta.

Nin members of the assembly contended that the woman, as well as the murders, should be executed. Thereupon two oth-

Industrial Fair Ship Plans Russian Trip

NEW YORK — An ocean liner scheduled to carry an American industrial fair around the world will try to penetrate the iron curtain to show the Russians how this half of the world lives, a cruise official said Thursday.

Arthur H. Herts, president of Exhibition Ships, Inc., said he had received state department approval of attempts to carry the floating exhibition to Russian and other iron curtain posts on the Black sea during the planned year-long voyage.

"Of course, we don't know what the Russians are going to decide in the matter," Herts said. "But there is no harm in trying, anyway. Our idea is to attempt to improve relations with Russia, to extend the olive branch to Josef Stalin."

Mid-West Demo Leader Asks 'Fair Deal' Laws

BISMARCK, N.D. — Orville L. Freeman, Minnesota state Democratic chairman, Thursday night called on all liberals in North Dakota and the middle west "to join with the new Democratic party so that the 'Fair Deal' can be enacted into law."

Freeman pinch-hit for Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey Jr. (D-Minn.), in a keynote address before the 1950 North Dakota state Democratic party convention. Humphrey was ill with influenza.

New Union . . .

TO THE EDITOR:

I am disgusted with the architectural style of the new student union being offered to SUI students. Perhaps I am being totally unappreciative of the fact that this school, at long last, is to have an addition. But as long as a new one is promised, why not build a new one? From the floor plans I can only consider the functional element, for I don't know how the interior will be styled. But the exterior is atrocious! It is unimaginative and unoriginal. I would call it glibly! The architect is wise, (perhaps?) in presenting to the powers-that-be a "safe" style of construction. It must be "safe"; it certainly isn't new. Why can't we have a building that would rise at least from the year, 1950, which would still inspire us in 1980 or 2050? Or aren't we that optimistic about the future?

SUCH ANCIENT jurisprudence compares favorably with that of 20th century America, says former Supreme Court Justice Owen J. Roberts.

"The wife would not be guilty as an accessory after the fact under our law. An accessory after the fact must not only know the felony was committed, but must also receive, relieve, comfort or assist the felon."

Further learned legal comment on the Nippur trial comes from the law historian of the University of Chicago, Max Rheinstein. He recognizes the tablet as "significant for the light it throws on the cultural and political state of the time."

Scholars of the two American universities stress the new revelation of the democratic nature of the Nippur Citizens Assembly, which not only decided major political matters, but legal issues as well.

Now again some architect is supposedly speaking for us, and he gives us this dead stock of stone. It's almost tragic when we imagine the beautiful, functional and vitalic structure a Frank Lloyd Wright might envision. — But then it's always "safe" to wear a navy-blue serge suit.

Labor Leader Says —

Unemployment Figure Soaring

PITTSBURGH — CIO President Philip Murray Wednesday accused American industrialists of spending their high profits on new machines to replace workers and "starve them to death."

Murray said the "displacing" of man by machines is fast pushing unemployment to the 5-million "danger mark" and warned that the "crisis" is getting worse day-by-day.

He told the CIO's state industrial council that there were 4,384,000 unemployed in February, 1950, an increase of 1,463,000 over February of 1949.

"We are only 316,000 away from the danger mark of 5-million set by the President's economic advisory council," Murray said.

He bitterly accused industry of using its "bigger and bigger" products on plant improvements, "not necessarily to increase production but to increase profit and per capita production."

He said that in this fall's elections "there will be those on the platforms who will condemn our form of government as a kind of socialism — statism."

"This is nothing new," Murray said. "The propagators of faith in democracy will forever be castigated."

Murray said the "critics of the so-called fair deal administration who claim we are heading into a state of socialism are the people who get the most out of our government."

Murray picked out General Motors and Steel Inc. as examples of "big business" that has enjoyed "bigger and bigger profits" while employment is on the decline.

He cited GM's $656-million profit last year and declared "they made so much money they didn't know what to do with it; yet they are getting ready to resist the conservative requests of the United Auto Workers for improvements in their contract."

"The American people believe in the profit motive but they don't believe the free enterprise system conveys the right to extort to take monies out of consumers' pockets that are wholly unwarranted," Murray said. "That might be akin to theft."

He said that in 1947 net corporate profit after taxes was $16,000,000. In 1939, which he described as a "good year," it was $8-billion and in 1950 he estimated it will be $18-billion.

"It is unusual to witness a great country such as ours rushing hell-bent toward these ravishing figures of unemployment, of depressed standards of living for the working people, and see these unprecedented profits on the other hand," Murray said.

The outlet works allow the normal flow of water through the gates as a converter to a spillway which allows the water to go over the top, he said.

Three gates go into the outlet works and control the flow of water, Howell said.

He said possibly the rest of the construction would go ahead even though the gates probably will not be finished by the originally planned time.

Col. R. L. Dean, Rock Island district engineer, presided over the conference.

Contractors Discuss Second Phase Work On Coralville Dam

Between 45 and 50 contractors from all over the U.S. in a pre-bidding conference Wednesday discussed various contingent problems of the second construction phase at the Coralville flood control dam.

At the dam site conference, four miles north of here, manufacturers who are bidding for the making of the flood control gates that go into this phase of construction pointed out that the specially designed gates could not be manufactured in less than a year.

He told a look at SUI buildings: The Old Capitol is not the most beautiful building on campus in spite of all the ballyhoo. It is ill-fitted to our times and culture.

The Doric severity would be acceptable had the building persisted through a couple of millennia. So might the dome and the side-chimneys if they could stand by themselves. The Fine Arts building is years behind — reminiscent of an old monastery. Nothing deserves to be said for the other campus structures. The brightest spot around is the Dramatic Arts building, which — conquering some stray strains — manages to speak for itself and for us of this time.

Now again some architect is supposedly speaking for us, and he gives us this dead stock of stone. It's almost tragic when we imagine the beautiful, functional and vitalic structure a Frank Lloyd Wright might envision. — But then it's always "safe" to wear a navy-blue serge suit.

Former War Prisoners Eligible for Benefits

Former World War II prisoners may file for payment of benefits through the U.S. war claims commission if they failed to receive sufficient food from the enemy government during internment.

Mrs. Lorna L. Mathes, executive secretary of the Johnson county Red Cross chapter, said Wednesday the local Red Cross office, 15 1-2 S. Dubuque, will aid eligible persons in filling out the claims.

The war claims commission has determined all German and Japanese prison camps were substandard in terms of international law established by the Geneva convention.

Thousands of former American prisoners of war have testified individually Red Cross food packages alone saved them from starvation, Mrs. Mathes said.

A report of total claims received, and the extent and nature of possible claims to be paid, will be submitted to the President of the United States by the war claims commission for presentation to the congress on or before Saturday.

Violation by the enemy government in feeding the prisoners was stipulated by the convention as not giving the quantity and quality of food served in the enemy's base camp.

Miss Appleman has been publicity chairman for UWA council during the past year and is a member of the central party committee.

The Recognition Day committee was composed of B. J. Johnson, A4, Bedford, mistress of cere-

Two delegates of the local group discussed their club's background and activities Thursday morning over WSU's "Club Camera." Participants were Mrs. Wilbur Miller and Mrs. Henry Matill.

Membership is limited to 25, Mrs. Miller added, and members suggest new names if there are any vacancies.

First president of the club was Mrs. W.J. Haddock, the first woman lawyer to graduate from the SUI law school.

The purpose of the club is to study "some topic of interest in literature," Mrs. Miller said. "Topics are chosen from suggestions made by the members."

After the theme is chosen for the year, the program committee outlines the course and sets the program of study. This committee also presents the bibliography used for reference and suggested reading.

One-half of the membership draws up the papers to be read at each meeting, with the other half acting as hostesses.

Approximately 11 meetings are held each year with one outside speaker, a specialist in his field, discussing the chosen topic. "A lively discussion follows the presentation of a paper," Mrs. Miller said.

State Hospital Flu Epidemic Takes 14 Lives

CLARINDA (Iowa) — Fourteen patients at the state mental hospital here died of influenza within three days in an epidemic which started two months ago, it was disclosed Thursday.

Dr. Norman Render, superintendent of the institution, said 48 patients had died of influenza since the first of February, but he added that most of them were elderly persons suffering from "debilitating conditions" (state of feebleness).

Twenty-three other patients, the doctor said, were still under treatment for the disease. Their conditions, however, were not considered serious, he said.

Render said he became aware of the seriousness of the epidemic when the last fatalities occurred over the weekend, taking the lives of 14 persons within three days.

A total of 1,450 mental patients is confined at the state hospital. In addition, 312 employees were exposed to influenza, some of them coming down with the disease. But there were no fatalities among employees.

The superintendent said he regards the situation as "serious" but not one calling for "especially heroic measures." Although no emergency action had been taken, influenza patients were watched closely and given full medical care, he said.

Students Plan Palm Sunday Breakfast

A Palm Sunday breakfast for Presbyterian and Congregational students will be held in the Congregational student center following the sunrise service, on the steps of Old Capitol, sponsored by the SUI Student Christian council.

Grace Hadley, Congregational student director, said the breakfast will include fruit juice, eggs, hot buns and milk or coffee.

The tables will be decorated with rabbits, chickens and Easter bonnets. The "spring colors" of yellow and green will dominate the scene, she said.

The Congregational student group, which is sponsoring the joint student breakfast, has selected the following persons to serve on the breakfast committee: Lorraine Huisenga, A1, Wall Lake; Richard Humke, A1, Dubuque; Richard Ferguson, A2, Clinton; Richard Buxton, A1, Iowa City, and Richard MacMillan, E3, Piermont, N.Y.

B-36 Bomber Seen Above Iowa City

An airforce B-36 bomber, the type over which the airforce and navy recently fought a battle of words, flew over Iowa City about 5 p.m. Thursday.

It was believed that Thursday was the first time a B-36 has been seen flying in this area, Major Irvin M. Parsons, professor of air science and tactics at SUI, said.

The bomber, flying at an estimated 6,000 to 8,000 feet, crossed over Iowa City from north-west to south-east, he said.

The plane was a modified type, he added. This means, he explained, the plane had two jet engines on each wing in addition to three regular pusher type line engines on each wing.

The nearest base for B-36s is believed to be at Fort Worth, the major said. The plane is reported to have a 10,000 mile range.

The B-36 is generally considered to be about twice the size and to have twice the capacity of a B-29," he said.

The plane made no radio contact with the local civil aeronautics administration radio station at the Iowa City airport, authorities said.

British Labor Party Suffers Second Defeat in Two Days

LONDON (UPI) — The Labor government suffered its second parliamentary defeat in 48 hours Thursday night.

The house of lords, by a vote of 29 to 14, passed over government objections a bill to permit midwives to wear uniforms.

Labor had suffered its first defeat in commons Wednesday when the Conservatives caught the government napping and forced through a motion to adjourn.

Not Major Issues

Both defeats were humiliating but neither came on a major issue. In any event, the lords are overwhelmingly Conservative and governments do not treat defeats in that house as involving a question of confidence.

The government decided, as the result of a morning cabinet meeting, to remain in office despite its commons defeat.

But well-informed labor sources said the Prime Minister Clement R. Attlee would seek an early — and formal — vote of confidence in an attempt to offset Labor's loss of prestige.

Attlee Hit: Churchill

Attlee told commons that Labor's 26-vote defeat Wednesday night on a motion to adjourn debate was a sneak attack "admirably arranged" by Winston Churchill's Conservatives.

As Labor now has a majority of only three votes in the 625-seat commons, it always will be faced with the possibility of a defeat on a "snap" vote, Attlee said.

But Wednesday night's 23 to 257 vote against the government was a minor one, Attlee said.

Vocalists to Sing During Holy Week

A group of SUI students will sing over radio station WSU at 8 a.m. each morning during "Holy Week," Monday through April 8.

This morning broadcast is a regular feature sponsored by the SUI school of religion, but during "Holy Week" we are turning the program over to student soloists, Prof. Marcus Bach, SUI school of religion, he said.

The music for the singers was arranged by Prof. Thomas Muir of the SUI music department, he said.

The schedule will include solos by Henry Bannon, G, Iowa City; Dorothy Krebill, A3, Donnellson; Patricia Key, A4, Shenandoah; Richard Buxton, Al, Iowa City, and Donald Johnson, Al, North English, Bach said.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

WILEY old George Bernard Shaw continues to say and do things that assure him publicity in newspapers the world over. A jealous rival, in fact, attributes his robust health at 93 to "constant basking in the energy giving violet rays of the spotlight."

Shaw's latest explanation of his technique is, "I take the utmost trouble to find the right thing to say, and then say it with the utmost levity." Years ago he rashly stated that if a man wrote a play at ninety it would be "all piffle." When he himself turned out Buoyant Billions at 92, however, he moderated that statement considerably. "It's the best I can do in my dotage," he said blandly, "and I daresay it's as good as most current plays by youngsters of 60 and 70." Only 1,000 copies of Buoyant Billions were authorized, and they were snapped up by collectors at $25 a throw.

On his 93rd birthday Shaw grumbled, "I get packages of food from America and Australia and God knows where else that I've never eaten in my life and never will!"

Alumnus Leaves For Washington

Maurice A. Repass, SUI alumnus who spent the last several days visiting friends in Iowa City, left Thursday afternoon for his home in Washington, D.C.

Repass received his bachelor of in 1912, and a professional degree in civil engineering in 1916. He has for many years been a partner in the firm of Alexander and Repass, a large contracting company. In addition to their Washington offices, Alexander and Repass have headquarters in Des Moines.

Dean F.M. Dawson of the SUI college of engineering called Repass "one of our outstanding engineering graduates of former years."

Student Visitor at SUI Tells How —

Wheaton Revival Began After Chapel Service

The revival at Wheaton college, which started Feb. 8 and attracted nation-wide attention, all began as a result of a regular chapel service, according to Robert Carlson, a junior at Wheaton, who visited SUI Thursday.

Carlson said that on Feb. 8 the students had a regular day of prayer, which took place in the college chapel, and was led by Pres. Raymond Edman.

Carlson said contrary to some reports the revival was not a display of "emotionalism" but rather a "display of truth and sincerity."

"Some of the fellows thought at first it was a crazy stunt. However, later they came over and accepted the fact that this was God's doing," Carlson said.

One football player came into the chapel and gave his confession, then proceeded to get the rest of the team, and they all came to the chapel and gave testimony, he said.

No Shouting Evangelist

The remarkable thing about the Wheaton revival is that it wasn't started by any shouting evangelist or fiery speaker," he said.

The chapel, which holds about all of the 1,500 Wheaton students was filled most of the time during the three day period, Carlson said.

"We at Wheaton feel that right relations with God is the most important thing in a man's life. And during the revival we saw our short-comings and how we had failed," Carlson said.

Carlson said the revival was ended by Edman in an official statement, but students continued with it in classrooms.

Becomes a Spectacle

The reason it was ended officially is because Edman felt it was becoming a "spectacle" for curious onlookers," he said.

"The revival brought each one of us closer to God, and has given us a clearer view to our primary purpose in a Christian life," Carlson said.

Carlson visited the SUI campus when he and 42 other members of the Wheaton college band stopped for lunch in Iowa City. The band is on a 12-day tour, which will take the members to Des Moines for a concert Wednesday night.

Crippled Children Plan Easter Egg Hunt

An all-school Easter egg hunt today will climax the last-day-before-vacation for the children of the SUI Hospital School for Severely Handicapped Children.

The children have been coloring eggs and making Easter baskets during the past week, according to Beverly Lillie, musical therapist and recreation director at the school.

The decorated eggs, with added jelly beans, "Easter grass" and chocolate eggs, will fill each child's basket, and all baskets will be hidden by special agents of the Easter bunny — the Hospital school staff.

School will officially be closed at 4 p.m. today. The boys and girls will return to Iowa City April 16 to begin classes the next day, Mrs. Lillie said.

Art Guild to Show 'Million Dollar Legs'

The movie comedy "Million Dollar Legs" will be shown Saturday at 4 and 8 p.m. in the art auditorium by the Art guild.

The film stars W.C. Fields, Jack Oakie and Ben Turpin. An experimental film, "La Rose et le Reseda," also will be shown.

Tickets can be obtained at the door for 40 cents.

City Engineer Issues Nine Building Permits

Nine building permits totalling $74,200 were issued during the first four days of the week by City Engineer Fred E. Gartzke.

They were granted to Atty. Samuel B. Whiting, 825 Rundell street, $18,700 to build a residence and garage at 125 Halley street.

Prof. E.B. Kurtz, head of the SUI electrical engineering department, $15,000, to build a residence and garage in the 300 block of Farnam avenue.

Alfred Maas, 1310 Rochester avenue, $10,000 to build a residence and garage in the 1300 block of Rochester avenue.

Fieldhouse Site of Two Prep Track Meets This Weekend

20th Annual Valley, State B Title Events

Two high school indoor track and field meets will be held in the Iowa fieldhouse Friday and Saturday.

The first of the two affairs, the 20th annual Mississippi Valley conference meet will be held tonight with the field events scheduled to start at 7 p.m.

Class B Meet Saturday

The marks of the 19-year-old meet are exceptionally good and not many new records are expected. Last year, however, one record was broken and two tied. Favorites this year are Davenport and Clinton.

Saturday afternoon and evening the state title Class B meet will be held. The fourteen-event program will begin at 1 p.m.

Forty-one Iowa high schools, a record number, have entered a total of 454 athletes, Coach Francis Cretzmeyer, meet manager, said Wednesday.

Defending Champs

Defending champion Nevada has entered a 16-man team. Harlan, runner-up last year, has not entered. Some of the larger teams entered are Iowa City (University), 23; Clinton (Lyons), 20; Mt. Vernon, 22; West Des Moines, 20; and Washington, 22.

Of the individual champions of 1949, only three will defend their titles. They are Tom Shupe of Clarion, holder of the meet broad jump record; Bill Honnold of Winterset, winner of one section of the half mile run, and Bob Clark of Oelwein, who won a section of the quarter mile.

Eastern Hawkeye Meet Scheduled for April 5

The Eastern Iowa Hawkeye conference indoor track meet will be held April 5 in the Iowa fieldhouse. The first event is scheduled to start at 7:30 p.m.

Howard Moffit, Iowa City high athletic director, will be in charge of the meet. Each school will be permitted two competitors in each event except the relays, in which each school will be permitted to enter one team. Drawings are to be made the night of the meet.

Hawk Homecoming Foe to Be Purdue

The football game with Purdue, Oct. 21, will be Iowa's 1950 Homecoming affair. Dad's day will be observed Nov. 11 when the Hawks play Illinois.

These dates were decided upon by the Iowa board in control of athletics and announced Wednesday by Director Paul Brechler.

Next year's Homecoming, the 39th in the series, will be the fourth with Purdue. Iowa played the Boilermakers in 1940, 1944 and 1948, losing each of the contests.

Graziano Favorite Over Tony Janiro

NEW YORK (AP) — Former middleweight Champion Rocky Graziano, hoping for another title shot, was rated a 1 to 3 favorite Thursday to defeat handsome Tony Janiro of Youngstown, Ohio, in their Madison Square Garden round robin tonight.

It will be Rocky's first fight in the Garden in four years and a bumper crowd of 16,000, mostly pro-Graziano rooters, is expected to welcome the roughneck slugger back to action.

Although the 22-year-old Janiro never has been stopped in 85 bouts, the bookmakers have established Rocky as an even money bet to win by a knockout.

Asked how he will do, Rocky said: "I look to lay him out."

Janiro, a reformed playboy who crashed back into the big time by outpointing Charlie Fusari in January, is confident he'll outbox his 28-year-old rival.

"I asked for this fight," said Tony, "even though a lot of guys said I would belt me. I've known Rocky a long time and I always felt I could beat him. Now that I've quit being a kid and got myself serious, I know more than ever that I can lick him."

Oma Named . . .

CHICAGO (AP) — Lee Oma, Detroit heavyweight with a string of 11 consecutive wins, was named by the International Boxing Club Thursday to meet Bob Satterfield in the Chicago stadium May 17.

Earlier the IBC had expected the NBA heavyweight champion Ezzard Charles to defend his title against Satterfield, but Charles was ruled out of the ring this week by a bruised heart muscle.

Truman Gibson, IBC secretary and head of the Chicago office, aid he expected Oma's manager, Tex Sullivan, to sign for the May 17 bout in the near future.

Sam Jethroe was safe at first on a missed double play, went to second on Bob Addis' drive off Staley's glove and both advanced on a balk.

Jethroe dashed home with the run after Bob Elliott flied out to Eddie Kazak in short left field foul territory.

Mike Goliat slammed out two homers to lead the National leaguers to victory. Another Phil four-bagger was contributed by Bill Nicholson who left the game in the fifth inning because of a sprained ankle.

The onslaught, topped by home runs from Henry Thompson and Jack Harshman, was witnessed by 6,616 fans.

However, the Cubs were not lacking in the four-base blow category. Wayne Terwilliger and Mickey Owen selected offerings of Dave Koslo for their mighty blows. Koslo won the first seven innings for the Giants.

The Giants got to Walt Dubiel for nine hits and four runs in three innings, including the homers. Don Carlsen, a rookie, gave up five runs in a big fifth inning. Lee Holloman, another rookie, was tagged for the final Giant run in the seventh inning. R. D. Smith and Jim Arvea.

Allie Reynolds pitched five scoreless rounds for the Bombers.

Frank Shea, hurling the last four frames, lost the shutout for the Yanks in the eighth when the Reds bunched three hits.

U.S. Newsman Discounts Fear Of Immediate 'Shooting War'

Robert Magidoff, American newsman in Russia for 12 years and recently expelled on spy charges, discounted fears of an immediate "shooting war" between the two countries Thursday night at the Iowa Union.

Magidoff told a University lecture-series audience that the Soviets would be "gambling on their great gains by precipitating war at this time."

The Russia-born author and lecturer, Soviet correspondent for The Associated Press and the National Broadcasting company since 1935, was banished on "48-hour notice" from Russia in 1948 as an "American spy."

Russia's post-war policy of "isolationism" — deporting foreigners and shutting out the rest of the world — stems from weaknesses within the Communist regime itself, Magidoff said.

Internal Pressures

"Pressures within Russia are at work to prevent her wartime alliances from becoming peacetime cooperation. Among these pressures is the 'failure of Lenin's ideal' of making all Russians blindly devoted to communism, he said.

Soviet leaders were forced to swallow "three bitter pills during the war," Magidoff said.

First came the realization that "young Russians, reared under a Soviet discipline, were not fighting for communism at all, as Lenin had hoped, but for Mother Russia as it has been since Peter the Great."

A second "bitter pill" was the resurgence of religion in Russia, running "directly counter to Soviet principles of atheism and Godlessness," he said.

Third and "perhaps the most bitter pill" was the corruption of Russian troops on the march, who, coming in contact with capital in the first time, found their Soviet propagandists had lied and "became either wholesale deserters or unruly looters."

Reason for Break

Russia broke with the U.S. initially because America refused to allow Soviet territorial expansion to proceed "under the cloak of a wartime alliance," Magidoff said.

The Soviet high command now fears dissension among her satellite countries — as evidenced by Tito's Yugoslavian rebellion — unless firm internal control is exercised.

Another threat to Russian security is the "alarming fact that Stalin — practically out of public affairs now — will have to be replaced by someone equal to his 'Super-God' dimensions, and no such person is available."

Only about 6 million of the 200-million Russian citizens are members of the Communist party, Magidoff said. Among these members are many, because of "hostility, indifference or semi-literacy incapable of carrying out the party line."

Mate War Unlikely

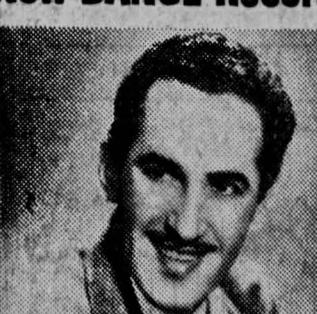

These factors make it "unlikely" that Russia will attempt war now, until she has remedied her internal evils," Magidoff said.

He added that "the U.S. cannot risk the possibility of finding itself weaker than Russia, however. Only America's strength stands between Russia and further aggression."

"There is still time — through our resources and prestige — for America to win the cold war and prevent a shooting war," Magidoff said.

Prior to Magidoff's talk, his Russian wife, Nila, gave a highly entertaining account of her adventures in America since she was "exchanged in 1941 by the Russians for two tanks of high-octane gas."

Law Student Convinces Court Shooting Dummy Not a Crime

By TONY HUEBACH

George D. Pappadackis, L1, Storm Lake, made the best of a bad night Tuesday by convincing three judges that shooting a stuffed dummy through the head is not "attempted murder."

He had to fight alone to prove his contention, against which a lower court previously had ruled.

The battle took place in McClain supreme court — a mythical court of appeals at the SUI law building, where freshman law students have been engaging in arguments each night Monday through Thursday for two weeks.

Partner Drops Out

Ordinarily there are two attorneys for each side in a case but Pappadackis' partner dropped out of school, leaving Pappadackis without help in preparing his brief and 40 minutes of oral argument.

Defending a Victor Vilas, Pappadackis summarized the incidents that lead to Vilas' trial on 106 at the law building.

Vilas, incidentally, is the name of a hall at the Harvard law school.

Witt hinted to Vilas that William Warren, Vilas' underworld rival, would be sitting near a certain window at a certain time.

Defendant Shoots Figure

Vilas went to a place near the spot. Witt pointed out a figure in the window as Warren, and the defendant shot the figure through the head.

It turned out the figure was a dummy and charges were filed against Vilas, but the culprit complicated the case by escaping to Canada.

Policemen from McClain apprehended the refugee in the dominion by drugging him and transporting him over the border without bothering with extradition.

Pappadackis based his appeal on three elements: illegal arrest, entrapment into committing the act and the question of whether a dummy can be murdered.

No Attempt at Murder

The law student focused his attention on the latter point, asserting, "There was no attempt at murder because there was no life to take."

One of the prosecuting attorneys brought up the point that the intent with the belief the act would be effective constituted an attempt at murder.

T.M. Ingersoll, Cedar Rapids attorney who acted as chief justice, then asked if shooting a water pistol with a confident intent constituted an attempt at murder.

The prosecuting attorney argued it would be under the McClain law if the person shooting the

A. I did not know what to do. I took off her coat.

Q. Do you know how you took off her coat?

A. I tried raising her to a sitting position and took off her coat. I was feeling awfully warm and hot, was perspiring and drenched with sweat. I took off my topcoat, took off my tuxedo coat and then I remember vaguely taking off my shirt.

Q. After you had taken off your topcoat, tuxedo coat and shirt, what did you do?

A. For some reason, I knew she wasn't getting her breath. I believe I turned her over and tried to apply artificial respiration in back.

Q. How did you do that?

A. By pressing in the lower part of the rib cage.

Bednasek testified that he lifted Miss Jackson to a lower bunk, in an attempt to make her more comfortable.

Q. After you put her in that lower bunk, did you again apply artificial respiration?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Then what did you do?

A. I tried feeling her pulse. It seemed that I could still hear her moan, I couldn't be sure though. I tried to feel her pulse, but couldn't feel it. All I could hear was the beating of my own heart . . . I threw on my tuxedo coat and topcoat and ran down the stairs.

Q. Then what did you do?

A. I vaguely remember running out the front door, down the steps and to the police station. I just couldn't think. I was sick to my stomach. I vomited.

Q. Prior to the time that Margaret Anne Jackson fell, had you been sick or felt any nausea?

A. Not that I can recall. No, I was not ill at all.

Bednasek said he ran to the fire station. Finding no one there, he went into the police station.

Q. What did you say to them?

A. I remember saying something about there's a girl who isn't breathing in a rooming - house down the street.

Bednasek said he left the police station immediately and returned to the rooming - house. Several policemen were in the death room when Bednasek returned, he testified.

Q. Did you at some time or other make some statements to the police?

A. All I wanted was a doctor and a pulmoter. They did not seem to be doing anything and I did not know what was happening.

Q. When you got back to the rooming-house, state to the jury whether or not you were in an excited and terrified condition.

A. I was terrified.

Q. Do you remember reaching for an officer's gun?

A. Yes, vaguely I do.

Q. Did you have any intention of using it on any of those officers or anyone else?

A. No.

Q. Do you recall saying something to the policemen about playing?

A. Yes, I vaguely recall it.

Q. Do you recall showing him?

A. Yes, very vaguely I remember something about saying we were playing a game.

Q. Do you remember being taken to the police station?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you know how long you were there?

A. Until somewhere around daylight.

Q. While you were at the police station, you heard the testimony of Harland Sprinkle that you told him you had consulted a psychologist with reference to homicidal and suicidal impulses a month before? Did you tell Sprinkle that?

A. No, I did not. I simply told him I wanted to see Dr. Shoben. (Sprinkle is an Iowa City policeman who had testified previously for the state. Prof. Shoben is director of the SUI student counseling office.)

Q. Do you recall being questioned in the station or in the judge's chambers when Dr. Callahan was present?

(Dr. George Callahan is the county coroner.)

A. Yes, I do.

Q. Had they at any time prior to that told you whether or not Margaret Anne Jackson was living?

A. Yes, they did.

Q. What had they told you?

A. Police told me they were arresting me for disturbing the peace. For about an hour and a half, various individuals told me she was alive and doing well.

Q. When Dr. Callahan and others were questioning you, tell the jury what was said by Dr. Callahan and what he did.

A. He told me she was dead. I did not believe him. He told me I had killed her and he called me some names.

Q. There was a witness, a policeman Snider (Charles), who said that testifying relative to asking you whether or not you were making some bare - chested love - making. Did he make such a statement to you?

A. No.

Q. Did you make the statement to any of the police at the police station that now you supposed they would call you the tuxedo murderer?

A. I definitely did not.

Hamilton introduced as evidence three letters written to Bednasek by Miss Jackson last summer when she had a job in Denver, Colo. The texts follow:

Dear Benny,

How art thou? I am a wee bit homesick. Puchi, so do write to this address. Also tell me about your summer plans. I am enjoying the freedom of this life even though the knocks are some times discouraging. Do write again soon.

Lots of love,
Geege

Received your marvelous letter yesterday . . . It was grand to read about what you have been doing and above all, to learn that you have such a good job, even though you hate it. You must admit Collins radio sounds much more respectable than Cole Brothers circus even though I am sure it would have been a heap of fun . . .

Although this is my first rooming-house, I hope it is not the last.

Was very much amused by your dream, although don't be so squeamish about the root beer. Please write soon, Puchi, your letters are verra, verra interesting.

Lots of love,
Geege

Hamilton then resumed direct questioning.

Q. I note a reference to you by the name of Puchi. State to the jury whether or not that was a nickname or a pet name Margaret Anne Jackson often applied to you:

A. Yes, it was a Spanish name

On other occasions did you and Margaret Anne Jackson play or scuffle?

A. Yes, I taught her quite a few holds. She wanted to learn to box for some reason. She was interested in that. She was a better boxer than I was and I was on the defensive most of the time.

Q. State whether or not you failed to work the proper defenses.

A. Yes, I did.

Q. What happened?

A. She gave me a black eye.

Q. Was that in fun?

A. Oh, yes.

Hamilton then asked Bednasek about his talk with Shoben last October in which Bednasek reportedly admitted homicidal and suicidal impulses.

During the final part of the detailed cross - examination, Bednasek testified he vaguely remembered telling police after Miss Jackson's death, "I must have done it. I was the only one there."

After Bednasek was dismissed from the stand about 4:08 p.m., the defense introduced Dr. Richard Lee, 27, a resident psychiatrist at the Iowa Psychopathic hospital here, as its last witness when the court reconvenes at 9:30 a.m.

The doctor admitted that some of the statements made by a patient under the influence of the drug may not be true. He acknowledged under questioning by Rate that it would be difficult to tell whether a "smooth and smart" person had amnesia or was faking it.

He also said that in his opinion any person who would consult a psychologist about "homicidal impulses" would be "very much opposed" to those impulses.

On cross - examination, Rate questioned Lee about the effectiveness of sodium pentothal in bringing out the truth from a patient.
