2½ Year Old Child Missing In Finkbine

Christopher Griffith, 2½-year-old son of Dr. and Mrs. J. Edwin Griffith Jr., 103 Finkbine park, disappeared from his home about 6:30 p.m. Wednesday, police said.

Griffith is chief resident pediatrician at Children's hospital.

The missing child was last seen by Ray Boucher, son of Mr. and Mrs. Morris R. Boucher, G. 822 Finkbine park, about 6:45 p.m. near hole No. 6 on the Finkbine golf course west of University hospitals.

Boucher said the boy was heading southwest and was alone. At that time, Boucher didn't know the boy was being sought by his parents.

Christopher's disappearance was reported to police about 7:45 p.m. Wednesday. His father described him as being about 33 inches tall, weighing about 33 pounds, blond, blue-eyed, and wearing a pink parka coat and red pants.

Approximately 150 police officers, firemen, friends and neighbors searched the surrounding area in small groups until after midnight without success.

A "more organized" searching party was assembled about 12:15 a.m. today by David B. Ray Jr., A4, Quonset park, in cooperation with police and firemen.

The searching party assembled on Finkbine golf course, green six, and the group set out to thoroughly search the immediate area for the missing boy.

Early this morning an area bounded by highway 6 on the north, University hospitals on the east, Melrose avenue on the south, and Finkbine golf course on the west had been covered by the searchers.

Ray, president of the University Married Students' organization, said early this morning the search would continue as long as it seemed practical.

Frame-up Victim, Bridges Claims

SAN PEDRO, CALIF. (UPI)—Harry Bridges opened his campaign to defeat his perjury-conspiracy conviction Wednesday by claiming he was "framed" by the U.S. immigration service and "certain elements in the labor movement."

As leaders of his CIO Longshore union along the west coast mapped plans for carrying his case "to the people," Bridges lashed out at Teamster Union Leader Dave Beck, his long-time avowed enemy.

Beck, he said, master-minded the prosecution that may be successful next week in revoking Bridges' citizenship and putting him in line for deportation to Bridges' native Australia.

He said one of the immigration department officials who sat in on the prosecution got his job through Beck.

Paris Police Battle Red Demonstration

PARIS (AP) — Helmeted police battled down a Communist demonstration along the broad Champs Elysees Wednesday and arrested 120 persons. The hour-long clash was described as the most bitter in Paris since the end of the war.

Twenty officers were injured, six seriously enough to require hospital treatment, under a barrage of bottles, stones and cafe tables.

About 1,500 demonstrators and 1,000 police are estimated to have been involved.

McCarthy Promises to Back Up Red Charges

WASHINGTON — Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.) said Wednesday a senate subcommittee will take testimony April 13 from witnesses who he claims can prove his charge that far eastern expert Owen Lattimore is a Communist spy.

McCarthy said he will go to New York this week - end to try and persuade the unidentified witnesses to appear before the subcommittee. He had said earlier that he could produce "some, if not all" of them provided they were assured the committee would make use of their testimony.

He made the statements as:

1. Seth W. Richardson, chairman of President Truman's loyalty review board, testified that an FBI check of some 3-million government employees failed to turn up a "single syllable of evidence" leading to any Communist spies.
2. Donald L. Nicholson, chief of division, told the subcommittee he knows of no "card - carrying Communists" in the department and would fire them immediately if he should find any. He said the department's employees are under constant loyalty check.

McCarthy said he will try to get permission to reveal the names, not only of the prospective witnesses, but also of persons who he said have signed affidavits regarding Lattimore's alleged Communism.

The witnesses will appear before a senate foreign relations subcommittee, headed by Sen. Millard E. Tydings (D-Md.) which is investigating McCarthy's charges that the state department is loaded with Reds, including 57 "card-carrying" Communist party members.

The flying boat, smoking as it turned back toward Kehi lagoon off the Honolulu airport, blew up shortly after it made a forced landing. Watchers said one engine was afire as the big boat settled down.

'As the Twig is Bent'

Readin' and 'ritin' and 'rithmetic . . . will there be a new use for the hickory stick? The touchy question of adding religious instruction to public school curriculum was given a new and painful twist last week.

A district court judge ruled that teaching abstinence from alcohol and tobacco did not constitute religious education. His decision was part of the Bethany, Okla., episode in which several students walked out after a high school queen got kissed at a basketball game coronation in that "blue law" town.

"Frate citizens" had complained that the school board was allowing the local church to dominate the school.

One girl testified that "she was forced to put her head on her desk and raise her hand because her father and mother smoked."

It doesn't take a Freudian to visualize the danger inherent in forcing a child to shoulder responsibility for his parents' behavior, especially if some persons may frown on that behavior.

When the stability of a home — or a mind — is at stake, the smoke issue loses some of its fire.

Another girl said "she was told it (smoking) was sinful and she would go to hell if she smoked."

This seems to smack of certain training methods based on fear — highly effective and highly controversial as an educational device.

Carrying such a system to its logical extreme, we may as well teach a child to be a smart thief because if carefully coached in clever tactics, he is far less likely to get caught.

All this is not meant to lambast the teachers, who undoubtedly are acting in good faith. Unfortunately, however, education involves more than noble intentions.

The public education system might well stick to the customary "three R's" until instruction or guidance on such a delicate subject as morality can be safely placed in the hands of informed, intelligent teachers.

Let's look them over carefully before turning them loose on "R" number 4.

An Encouraging Percentage —

Census estimates that women will outnumber men by about a million may have some of us U.S. men worried, but gentlemen, some new facts have been revealed that allow us to resume our former pride and position.

According to latest reports, women comprise only about six percent of all persons listed in the newest edition of "Who's Who in America."

How the figure got as high as six percent is beyond all understanding. Perhaps there was an error in computation — a decimal point out of place or something — perhaps it should be .6 percent.

But don't be discouraged ladies, the report says that even with such a low percentage as 6 percent, 2,400 of you made the listing.

It also seems that largest number of Who's Who's women are in the educational field — 23 percent of them to be exact.

As usual, their average age was hard to determine accurately for many of the coy or "weaker" sex didn't list their age. But, figuring as closely as possible, the median age of Who's Who women is 57.

So, with these facts in mind, it is not difficult for ambitious ladies to plot a campaign toward Who's Who listing. It's simple — just find the educational field, continue working at such until the gray side of 40 is reached and there's a 4 to 1 chance Who's Who will come through.

May we suggest an easier way? Get married, or stay married as the case may be. Don't enter the educational field, and hope your husband makes the list. If he does, your name will accompany his.

Much simpler — and carries much better odds.

Interpreting the News —

French Reds Losing Power

By J.M. ROBERTS JR.
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

France's Communists have themselves become the best supporting witnesses for the claims of success made by Marshall plan supporters on its second anniversary.

On Monday, President Truman, General Marshall, Paul Hoffman, Secretary Acheson and others claimed that the European recovery program had thwarted communism and cited it as a vital weapon for winning the cold war.

At the same time, in convention near Paris, French Communist leaders were admitting that they had lost a large part of their hold on the French working man.

They are failing, they admitted, to stir up French workers on political issues, and find it more and more difficult to call strikes for any save economic purposes. One after another, department leaders confessed that the number of Communist cells was dwindling.

In the early days after the war France's Communists received heavy popular support. Observers always agreed that an overwhelming proportion of the Communist vote represented economic dissatisfaction rather than ideological conviction. Now the Communists admit it themselves. And as the causes of economic unrest are removed, the temptation toward "pie in the sky" schemes becomes less and less.

The Communist party will now concentrate on rebuilding its political, or ideological fences. The leaders seemed to be resigned to a smaller party, only hoping to make it more militant.

This sort of retrenchment is not unusual among the Communists. In fact, it has occurred almost everywhere, including Russia. It may not be entirely due to a changed public outlook brought about by the Marshall plan. There is evidence that the party throughout non-Communist nations is being pointed toward agitation and sabotage rather than political power.

But the very desperation of such a measure — if we accept the theory that there will be no war now in which the cells would become active adjuncts of the Russian military — testifies to the reviving strength of the democracies.

Italy has repeatedly beaten off an armed and militant Communist party. In England the party hardly represents a matter of more than watchful care. In eastern Europe the party is involved in an almost constant purge of dissidents who probably represent a greater movement than we know about.

Conspiracy Trial Ruling Upheld by Appeals Court

NEW YORK (AP) — The U.S. Court of Appeals Wednesday upheld in a two to one decision the contempt sentences against the five attorneys for the 11 convicted U.S. Communist leaders and Eugene Dennis, who served as his own counsel.

Federal Judge Harold R. Medina levied the jail terms, ranging from 30 days to six months, against the six men at the close of the marathon nine-month Communist conspiracy trial.

After the appellate court's decision was handed down, U.S. Attorney Irvin Saypol indicated the date on which Dennis and the attorneys would go to jail would be decided by Atty. Gen. J. Howard McGrath.

He indicated that they might be allowed to go free until they argue the appeals of their clients or until they appeal their own convictions to the U.S. Supreme court.

Egyptians Uncover Ancient Mummies

HELMWAN, EGYPT (AP) — Slowly and with infinite care, skilled Egyptian workmen Wednesday uncovered the well-preserved bodies of four men and two women buried for at least 5,000 years.

King Farouk financed the excavation, in which workers specially selected for their delicate touch used shaving brushes to clear the last grains of sand from the coffins of grass in which the bodies had reposed for 50 centuries.

This correspondent stood with young archaeologist Zaki Saad who headed the expedition which found the burial site dating from the first dynasty, in this suburban town 15 miles south of Cairo.

The old, dry grass disintegrated at the slightest touch as the coffins were removed and the bodies began to be visible for the first time since approximately 3000 B.C.

The first body uncovered was that of a woman. As the grass was painstakingly cleared away her head still showed locks of hair. The skull and teeth were well preserved and there was a distinct feminine contour to the rest of the body.

The woman had been buried on her left side, facing west, with her head to the south. Her knees were pulled up to the breast. One hand was under her left cheek, the other rested on her chin, a method peculiar to the first dynasty.

Zaki Saad said it was customary to bury the dead in the position of an embryo to prepare them for rebirth to eternal life.

Jars and skillfully worked small alabaster vessels and necklaces of colored stones lay under the body. There was no indication of her name.

One of the male bodies showed clear signs of having had a leg fracture. The bone was removed carefully for examination by medical experts.

Nature Foils Second Attempt by Rainmaker

NEW YORK (AP) — Nature foiled New York's second try at making rain Wednesday.

The big city's rain plane took off at 6:01 a.m. CST with 100 pounds of cracked dry ice, two police pilots and two rainmakers bent on sprinkling swollen clouds with dry ice pellets. But they lost their way.

Rainmaker — in — Chief Wallace E. Howell, who makes $100-a-day when he works, said atmospheres were so bad the pilot couldn't get a radio fix to tell where he was. Without a fix, at 14,000 feet up, Howell did not know whether he was over the watershed, since the plane was above a solid, towering cloud mass.

Pity the Pedestrians! —

Brazil Motorists Make Game of Driving

By CENTRAL PRESS

SAO PAULO, BRAZIL — A Brazilian claims that he must have his wits about him more frequently than a North American who takes so many things around him for granted; that he must be quicker, smarter and more alert in his daily activities.

When it comes to driving a car (the first sport of the country) or being a pedestrian, he is more than right.

A sophisticated San Franciscan or New Yorker who considers himself adept at the intricacies of big city traffic, both behind the wheel and on foot, would perish in a matter of hours in Sao Paulo, a metropolis of 1,275,000.

At any time of day in Sao Paulo life is problematical, but at rush hours the cards are definitely stacked against you.

The great avenues and streets of this mad city are filled with blustering buses of Italian and latest American design that are jammed with Paulistas; the "bon-des" are bursting with bodies that miraculously cling to the tiny open street cars, while cars of all makes dash in and out of traffic honking ceaselessly at obstructions, delays, all corners — or just to honk.

BY NATURE, the Brazilian is a charming, witty, compassionate fellow, until he gets behind the wheel. From the moment he turns on the ignition he is changed man.

To him, driving is a game to be made as interesting as possible, and he calls upon all his Latin dash and pride. With ears pointing and eyes alert for victims, he enters into the fray.

The rights of a pedestrian are very simple. He has none. The many thousands of walkers who pack the boulevards and intersections are open season to any driver.

Roaring buses and cars charge into crowds of pedestrians who scatter madly, and a driver never slows for a walker directly in front of him for by law the roads are automotive property and it is death to any biped.

SCUM! GARBAGE! OUT OF MY WAY, MOST MISERABLE ONE!

In reality the Brazilian drives as he does due to his inheritance and economic situation.

Only a few years ago the rich were the only people with cars and in a land where you either had everything or nothing and life was cheap, the upper classes were used to stamping on the poor. Drivers today reflect that attitude.

CROSSING a busy street in Sao Paulo is quite an adventure. Careful planning and plotting must be carried out before stopping off the curb. One has to consider whether it is the gin tonic hour (in this case it is better to camp overare on), or whether traffic islands night on the side of the street you can be made before the calculating policemen gleefully throw his light switch and traps you in mid-stream.

Equally important is to properly assess your opponent for obviously a pint-sized English Austin or a little French

Citroen can be dodged more readily than a charging U.S.

Then too, your number is important. As a Brazilian woman pu-one can be in dire pain on a roadside after an accident and no onlooker will aid you, for he is immediately liable for your safety and becomes hopelessly involved in the whole mess.

Also one can only be moved by a police ambulance, whether drawing a last breath or not, and measurements and photographs at the site of the accident must be taken first.

Time, of course, ceases to exist when involved in a collision and if you are on a street car, it is better to get off and walk for they may still be discussing the pros and cons the next day.

A good yardstick of driving is that if you are not a track man, do not drive a car in Brazil. For when a serious accident occurs, contrary to our practice, it is a rule never to be found at the scene of the crime. This is the land of the hit and run driver.

So that if you smash headlong into another car, or with a deaf turn of your fender send someone to the other world, the common practice is to get out of your car and run like sixty. Even fat businesmen with a paunch at this time can put on a sprint worthy of the Olympic games. One hides for the first 24 hours; the law to all intents, is that for the first 24 hours you are guilty until proven innocent, but after that it revolves to our system of innocent until proven guilty.

MEANWHILE, your car (or what is left of it) is towed away to a police compound of waiting wrecks, where after your period of hiding, you appear with a lawyer to claim it and usually to readily clarify the matter.

Jail sentences in such matters are remarkably light. Similarly to the other world, the common practice is to get out of your car and run like sixty. Even fat businessmen with a paunch at this of the Olympic games. One hides for the first 24 hours; the law to innocent, but after that it revolves to our system of innocent until

But it is doubtful.

Winning Ribbons Simple for 'Queen'

Bringing home a bevy of ribbons isn't really "dog's work" for "Queen of the Eighth," a black Labrador owned by Alfred J. Hornung, 510 Brown street.

The dog won four ribbons at

the licensed retriever trials in Chicago last week. The trials were under the auspices of the American Kennel club and were sponsored by two Chicago newspapers.

Hornung originally bought the black Labrador from a local barber for hunting purposes. The combination field and companion dog proved to be such a good hunting dog that friends induced him to enter her in the dog contests.

Entered in Two Contests

Hornung entered Queen in both the field trial and the bench show which is comparable to a beauty contest.

In the licensed field trials, the dogs try to pick up points to enter the national contest held every year in Herrin, Ill.

Although the black Labs are cold-water dogs, the field trial work is especially hard on them because of the constant strain and cold which gives them rheumatism, Hornung said.

Half Wash Out

Of the two series on water and land, he said, almost half of the dogs wash out at the end of one land and one water series.

Bunnies, Chicks Again Feature Easter Cards

Although They Cater Primarily to Children —

Easter Cards Designed for Entire Family

Easter cards this year with their rabbits and chickens aren't exclusively for the children, but designed for the whole family.

Cards for grandma and grandpa, mother and father, aunt and uncle and even one "to some mighty fine folks" are included in the Easter greetings — no one is forgotten. As one Easter card phrases its message,

"Here's an Easter greeting I went and boughtcha, To let you know I ain't forgottecha."

Added Attractions

Card manufacturers, however, cater primarily to children. Fluffy kittens, lambs, chickens and rabbits are aimed to please children, along with added attractions of suckers, licorice gum and balloons. A balloon is worked into this message,

"You're not hard-boiled An' deviled wouldn't do, But ask me who's a darned good egg."

One Easter card has a package of flower seeds included to please the adult. It says,

"I hope this Easter brings to you a lot of happy hours. And here's a bag of seeds for you so you can plant some flowers."

Women's hats rate a comment in a card which pictures a kitten peering from a window and drooling over a bird. The card opens to show the kitten wearing a downcast expression when it discovers the bird is a hat decoration.

Suitable for Friends

Two similar Easter cards suitable for friends carry these verses, "You're not too soft, You're not hard-boiled An' deviled wouldn't do, But ask me who's a darned good egg."

The other humorously says,

"The same old 'quack' From the same old 'duck' Happy Easter and lots of luck!"

Nursery Rhymes

Nursery rhymes are also brought into the Easter theme with,

"Mary, Mary quite contrary How do your wishes grow?"

With Easter joy and lots of love For a dear little girl I know!"

or

"The three little kittens have found their best mittens,

Their mother has brushed their soft fur,

And here they come bringing a wish just for you, 'Have a wonderful Easter! Purr, Purr!'"

Sweethearts are also sending Easter greetings to each other with the thought that, "Easter's wonderful and so are you."

Lilies Symbolize Hope

White lilies symbolize Easter hope in a thoughtful message,

"Now Easter hope is lifted up, In every lily, tall and white, In every yellow buttercup That opens to the morning light, In every heart that wakes to see The light of immortality.

May all this joy be a token, too, Of Easter happiness for you!"

Most of the verses carry the same message aptly phrased by, "May your joys be as long as this bunny's ears."

RUSSELLVILLE, ARK.—Iowa's touring baseball team combined adequate pitching by Rod Marsh and George Schamberger with timely hitting in the clutches to defeat Arkansas Poly here Wednesday, 6-4.

The victory was the Hawkeyes' third in four starts on their current southern tour. They face the Arkansas team in the windup of the two game series here today.

The Iowans did all of their scoring in the first five innings. They jumped to a two run lead in the first when Catcher Ed Browne singled home Outfielders Rex Vana, who had walked, and Murland Moran, who had singled to center.

Cancer Crusade Fund Raising To Get Underway Here Soon

April has been designated the official cancer crusade month. Organization is now being completed for the county-wide campaign here in Johnson county.

Fund Raising Chairman Newman Toomey of the Johnson county chapter of the American Cancer society said committees will be set up for door-to-door canvassing of residential districts in Iowa City and for canvassing business and rural districts.

Johnson county owes a far greater debt to the American Cancer society than does any other Iowa county, Toomey said. He said hundreds of thousands of dollars are pouring into this community from the ACS.

Over $100,000 in grants to the SUI college of medicine for research and experimentation have already been made this year by the society.

"We are getting a far greater return for our dollar than do the majority of communities," he said. "We should bear this in mind and be as generous as our means allow when the cancer society worker calls during the coming campaign."

Two Demo Candidates To Attend Rally Here

Two state Democratic senatorial candidates have indicated they plan to attend the Johnson county party dinner in Iowa City April 19. Edward W. Lucas, county Democratic chairman, said Wednesday.

Lucas earlier had announced that former Undersecretary of Agriculture Albert J. Loveland would be one of the major speakers at the rally. He said Gene Poston, Corydon, later notified him that he will attend.

Poston opposes the Brannan farm program, the prime plank in Loveland's platform, Lucas said.

Lucas said invitations had been extended to all five senatorial candidates. He said he expected to hear from the other three within another week.

The party dinner will be held at 8 p.m. in Hotel Jefferson, he said.

Mate Plans to Fight Bette's Divorce Suit

The United World Federalist's world-government program was explained to members of the Iowa City junior chamber of commerce at a dinner in the D & L Grill Tuesday night.

Atty. J. Newman Toomey, county UWF president, said Wednesday David Stanley, A3, Muscatine, executive director of the local groups, gave a general outline of the over-all aims and purposes of the UWF.

"I took the blame before," the husky artist said in an exclusive interview with the United Press. "But this time I'm going to tell my side of it."

Sherry said he had done the work of a "housewife" but he objected to her lack of affection when she was working.

He said the big-eyed actress left home Tuesday morning for work with their three-year-old daughter, Barbara, and didn't come back.

Miss Davis hired Atty. Jerry Geisler Tuesday night to go ahead with her divorce suit, which she filed last fall but postponed when they were reconciled.

Sherry charged the star, who's won Oscars for love scenes in the movies, did not stage many at home.

HOPES OF BRIGHTER, warmer days filled the hearts of thousands of SUI students as they boarded trains, busses and autos and fled homeward for the annual brief interlude from study and classes. The blight of bad weather, mid-semester examinations and the tense atmosphere surrounding the trial of Robert Bednarski had been lifted from their shoulders. The bright sun that flashed through a three day murky overcast may have seemed symbolic of freedom for them.

Cigarette Ads Labeled 'False'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal trade commission Wednesday ordered the makers of Camel and Old Gold Cigarettes to drop advertising claims which it held to be "false and misleading."

The companies — R. J. Reynolds Tobacco company for Camels and P. Lorillard company for Old Golds — quickly came back with statements that most of the material found objectionable by the FTC had been discontinued long ago.

Both companies denied they had ever intentionally used any false advertising.

The FTC centered its complaint particularly on claims that the cigarettes contained less irritants than other brands.

The agency said similar action is under consideration against at least three other companies. FTC listed them as the American Tobacco company, makers of Lucky Strikes, Philip Morris and Co., Ltd., manufacturer of Philip Morris, and American Cigarette and Cigar company, producers of Pall Mall.

OAKLAND, CALIF. (AP) — Arthur E. Prindle, recovering from an overdose of sleeping tablets, confessed to his father late Wednesday night from a hospital bed that he choked to death his pretty 18-year-old fiance during a lover's quarrel.

OAKLAND, CALIF. (AP) — A man's belt tightened about her throat, Sally Ann Humphreys, 18, was found strangled Wednesday in the front seat of an automobile.

In the rear seat, her fiance, Arthur E. Prindle, 19, lay unconscious, bleeding from a slashed wrist. He wore no belt.

Sheriff's Inspector Norman Wilson said a sleeping pill bottle was found under the girl's body. Wilson said the bottle had been filled Tuesday for Prindle by a Berkeley pharmacist on a physician's prescription.

Hospital attendants said Prindle would recover, although he still was unconscious late Wednesday.

"There seems to be no pattern to the thefts. Thefts are reported from one spot in town, and then another which is far away from the first place," he said.

"Also," he added, "no particular make or model of car has been singled out. We do not know what is being done with the articles."

Wednesday night 10 different motorists had complained of small thefts from their cars, and one person reported a rear window glass broken out while the car was parked.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — This city's police are receiving special training on how to handle out-of-state visitors. It's part of a project to give Los Angeles a reputation among tourists — who spend $400-million a year here — as a courteous, hospitable city. Officers on downtown street corners were given special briefing by the All Year club, the city's unofficial tourist bureau.

Arthur M. Shaw, Iowa City, was named a defendant in a $4,256.79 suit filed in district court Tuesday by the Physicians and Hospitals Supply company, Minneapolis.

The medical supply company's petition said Shaw was selling products for the company on a commission basis, and claimed he owed $4,256.79 on overdrawn commissions.

The plaintiff asked for five percent interest on the same from Aug. 2, 1948, and also for court costs.

FILING EVICTION PETITION

Attorney and Mrs. Will J. Hayek, 900 N. Dubuque street, filed a petition in district court Wednesday to evict Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Stanfield from a residence at 514 S. Linn street. Judge James P. Gaffney set April 12 as the date of hearing on the petition.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

JOE FRISCO, the stuttering comic, took an ailing friend to the hospital for a minor operation. He peered into the operating room just as the doctor placed a white cone over the girl's face. "For P-p-pete's sake," gasped Frisco, "w-w-what are you doing?" Just giving her an anesthetic, soothed the doctor. "After she has this she won't know a thing." "You're w-w-wasting your time, doc," Frisco assured him. "That g-g-girl doesn't need it."

A new

"too," he said, embracing them both.

Later in the library behind the courtroom, Benny willingly posed for pictures with his attorneys and with friends.

Hugs Friend

Photographers asked him to hug Ray Davenport, A4, Grinnell, six or seven times, before they had enough pictures.

"You've been a real friend," he told Davenport, after the photographers had left. "I'm very grateful for your faith in me."

At the jail, Benny picked up two cardboard boxes containing his clothes, including the tuxedo he wore the night he dined with Miss Jackson on lobster and burgundy wine in a borrowed bedroom of the "Empty Arms."

Wears Fraternity Pin

Wordlessly he opened one box, took out his fraternity pin and pinned it to his lapel for the first time since his arrest early in the morning of Dec. 11. It was the pin Miss Jackson once wore.

The Rev. Harold McGee, Episcopalian minister came to the jail to greet Benny and later accompanied him to Hamilton's office, where Benny's mother waited.

Mother Not Present

Mrs. Olga Bednasek was not in the courtroom when her son was freed by the jury. She remained in Hamilton's office, and heard the news of his acquittal over the radio.

"I never doubted his innocence," she said after embracing her son in the attorney's office. "He's my boy."

Benny's father, Emil, had returned to his Cedar Rapids home Tuesday, because of an illness. He was overjoyed at the news of his son's release, when Mrs. Bednasek phoned him from Hamilton's office.

Miss Jackson's father, W. Elmer Jackson, socially prominent Burlington attorney and chairman of the Iowa Board of Parole, wasn't in the courtroom Wednesday morning.

He had testified for the prosecution that Margaret Anne — also an only child — was "the innocent victim of a one-sided romance which ended in violent death."

"Bitter Man"

He could not be reached for comment Wednesday, but associates said the elderly lawyer "probably would be a bitter man."

At Hamilton's office, Benny and his mother were besieged by newsmen, photographers, well-wishers, friends and acquaintances.

The youth posed for pictures, blushed when kissed by Hamilton's pretty secretaries, accepted congratulatory messages — one a telegram from SUI's baseball team, then in Arkansas.

The youth repeatedly praised Hamilton for having faith in his innocence. When Hamilton made the remark that he never again would participate in a criminal case, Benny said he was sure Hamilton would "if another innocent man needed help."

When asked if he planned to return to his SUI studies, Benny said he didn't know for sure, but that he would like to go back to school.

He said he would like to continue his studies in psychology, or possibly take up creative writing. He also expressed a vague desire to enter the ministry.

"I read a great deal while in jail. A lot of novels and books on Christian theology," he explained.

"My parents gave me strength and confidence to carry on until it was all over. They are the two most courageous people in the world."

Benny denied that his parents had been forced to mortgage their small Cedar Rapids home to help pay for his education and defense.

Hamilton was asked whether he donated his services and replied, "Darn near."

"Yes, that's right," Benny said. "I don't know how I'll ever be able to repay him. That's another thing about my returning to school. It's a question of finances I would like to return, however."

After a press conference in Hamilton's office Wednesday morning, Benny and his mother attended the Trinity Episcopal church to take Holy Communion and to offer a prayer of "thanksgiving."

After lunch, Benny was informed in a telephone interview with a Daily Iowan reporter that his car had been impounded by the police for having delinquent 1949 license plates.

Benny said he had forgotten all about the car, but that he certainly intended to redeem it as soon as he possibly could.

The car is in the College street parking lot, behind the Community building.

The handsome youth and his mother left Iowa City about 2:30 p.m. Wednesday, after first stopping at Benny's fraternity house to visit and thank his brothers for standing by him during the trial.

Hamilton drove the mother and son to Cedar Rapids, but his car was trailed to the Bednasek home by two carloads of photographers and newsmen.

A large crowd already had assembled at the small, neat frame house in the middle-class, tree-shaded neighborhood.

As soon as the smiling youth stepped into his parents' living room, the telephone began to ring.

Old friends, classmates and

Benny's Car Awaits Him at City Parking Lot

THIS DILAPIDATED AUTO will remain in the city's College street parking lot (behind the Community building) until claimed by its owner, Robert E. Bednasek, who was acquitted Wednesday morning of slaying his coed sweetheart, Margaret Anne Jackson. The auto was parked on Iowa avenue near the Gilmore street intersection from early last December until Tuesday. Police ordered the auto towed to the parking lot, because it still bore delinquent 1949 license plates. When informed Wednesday his car had been towed away, Bednasek said he certainly wanted to get his car "out of hock" and would do so as soon as possible.

neighbors began arriving to talk to Benny, however, and they kept coming and going for many hours.

If the youth ever found peace, quiet and relaxation Wednesday night, it was long after he had gone to sleep — safe and free and, at last, in his own home.

★ ★ ★Discipline . . .

Robert E. Bednasek, will have to obtain the approval of the SUI discipline committee if he chooses to return to the university.

This announcement was made Wednesday night by Walter R. Goetsch, dean of students, "in the light of the admitted violations of the university's rules and regulations."

Earlier Dean Goetsch had said Bednasek could apply for re-admission "like any other student."

Women are not allowed in men's rooming houses. Bednasek also had several bottles of liquor when he and Miss Jackson dined at his rooming house. He took them to his fraternity formal dance before returning to the house where Miss Jackson died.

The liquor in student quarters also violates a university regulation.

Bednasek is not now a university student and has not been since he was confined to the Johnson county jail last December.

"He is free to apply for registration in the university," Goetsch explained. "We have done nothing to date which would exclude him from making such application."

Bednasek returned to his home in Cedar Rapids Wednesday afternoon. He said he is not sure of his future plans but would like to finish his schooling.

Veteran Dividends 80 Percent Paid

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Veterans administration said Wednesday night it has cleared more than 80 percent of World War II veterans' claims for payments in its $2.8-billion insurance premium distribution.

A TV spokesman said "close to 12-million" applications for payments from living veterans have been cleared and sent to the treasury department for dispersal of checks.

He said the VA still has some 2,500,000 applications for payments to check over. These, he added, are being processed as quickly as possible.

POPE GREETS PILGRIMS
VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Pius received 25,000 Holy year pilgrims in a general audience in St. Peter's basilica Wednesday and addressed them in six languages. The Pontiff appeared in improved health.

The industry had $850-million in sales last year, the report said, with television accounting for nearly $600-million of the total.

The new fabric has many of the characteristics of Nylon, in that it is easy to wash, quick drying, needs no ironing, resists mildew and moths, and is practically impossible to wear out.

Elevator Operator Plunges to Death

SIOUX CITY (AP) — A 66-year-old elevator operator plunged into an open elevator shaft and fell to his death Wednesday in a downtown hotel.

Dr. Thomas L. Coriden, Woodbury county coroner, said the victim was Winfred Feist, formerly of Pipestone, Minn.

Feist fell two floors to the basement of the Mayfair hotel after opening the elevator door on the second floor by mistake, the coroner said.

The man had worked at the hotel only two days.

The accident came after Feist had found the elevator door closed on the third floor when he returned from distributing linens to guest rooms. He went to the basement, officers said, got a piece of wire and was going back to work the door open.

He mistakenly returned to the second, instead of the third floor, police said.

Chemical Fabric, 'Orlon,' Unveiled

NEW YORK (AP) — The newest fabric of the atomic age was unveiled Wednesday at the annual trades exhibition of the American Institute of Decorators, held in the Waldorf-Astoria.

The newborn baby of the textile family has been christened Orlon by its parents, the Du Pont company.

Its initial public appearance is in a soft, silky casement curtain fabric in Jacquard weave. It was displayed at the annual decorators' show, where the nation's home furnishings experts gather new ideas for the homes of tomorrow.

The new fabric has many of the characteristics of Nylon, in that it is easy to wash, quick drying, needs no ironing, resists mildew and moths, and is practically impossible to wear out.
