First Group Qualifies For SUI Insurance

Group number one of SUI's employe insurance and disability benefit program has qualified for the plan, President Virgil M. Hancher announced Wednesday.

This means the program can be instituted for group one members July 1, he said. Needs 75 Percent

The plan calls for at least 75 percent of all eligible employes in each group to participate in order for the program to be instituted.

Group two has not yet reached its required 75 percent, but enrollment will continue and the plan will be instituted for group two members when the necessary number are enrolled, he said.

"It is my hope the program can be installed for the entire staff at an early date," President Hancher said.

Under the plan the groups are defined as follows: Group one consists of all academic employes and any non-academic employes who earn more than $5,000 a year.

Group two is composed of all non-academic employes who earn less than $5,000 a year. All employes, irrespective of length of service, are eligible to participate in the life insurance plan.

This will cost 50 cents a month for each $1,000 worth of insurance carried. The maximum insurance under the plan is $6,000.

Members of group one become eligible for the disability benefit program if they have had more than one year of service at SUI by June 30, 1950.

Group two employes are eligible for the disability benefit program if they have had more than two years of service at SUI by June 30, 1950.

Payments for the disability benefit plan are graduated according to salary and length of service.

If a sufficient number of signed cards are received before the deadline, the plan may still be initiated for group two employes July 1.

Representatives of the Bankers Life company will continue to call on employes who have not filed applications, Hancher said.

Signed applications can be sent directly to the SUI personnel office, he said.

Hunt 23 'Chutists After Plane Wreck

NASHVILLE, TENN. (AP) - An airforce officer said 23 paratroopers bailed out of their crippled Old Hickory, Tenn., Wednesday night after their plane developed engine trouble.

Lt. Paul L. Briand, Sewart airforce base public information officer, said he did not know how many of the 23 reached the ground safely or what the fate of the four-man crew might be.

Ambulances from Nashville and surrounding towns were rushed to the scene as well as all available personnel and equipment from Sewart.

Highway patrolmen and volunteers scoured the countryside in search of the men who parachuted from the plane.

Jimmy Roosevelt Gets President's Blessing

WASHINGTON (AP) - James E. Roosevelt, Democratic candidate for governor of California, said after a White House call Wednesday that he has President Truman's backing.

"The President said he hoped I'd be elected," Roosevelt said after a 20-minute talk with Mr. Truman.

Hotel Sues Bob Hope For Remark

NEW YORK (AP) - Bob Hope faces a $100,000 libel and slander suit because of a wisecrack about a Manhattan hotel.

The suit was disclosed Wednesday when Manhattan Supreme Court Justice Denis O'Leary Cochran reserved decision on a motion by the hotel to examine the comedian before trial.

The Nesa Realty corporation, which owns the Forrest hotel on W. 49th street, sued Leslie Towne Hope - the comedian's real name - and the Paramount Pictures Theaters corporation, which operates the Paramount theater.

The suit involves a remark Hope made during a personal appearance on the stage of the theater. The complaint in the suit said the remark was as follows:

"I got into town today and the mayor met me and gave me the key to the city and I checked in at the Forrest hotel on 49th street where they gave me a cell - the maid changes the rats every day."

Senators Group Votes To Report on Reds; Cite 3 for Contempt

WASHINGTON (AP) - A senate foreign relations subcommittee voted, 3-2, Wednesday, to draft a report on the four-month-old Communist investigation touched off by Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.).

Earlier, the subcommittee unanimously approved contempt of congress citations against three witnesses - ex-Communist boss Earl Browder, leftist millionaire Frederick Vanderbilt Field, and former Amerasia magazine editor Philip J. Jaffee, all of New York.

Tydings said the report will be based on 1-million words of testimony in the 1945 Amerasia stolen secrets case and McCarthy's charges that the state department is riddled with Communists and "bad security risks."

He hoped that "every single solitary word" of the voluminous record could be made public in the report.

McCarthy said he has no intention of dropping the Reds-in-government issue regardless of what the subcommittee does.

"If it means the windup of that whitewash operation, it is good news for the country," he said. "It leaves the way open for another committee that is interested in investigating Communists instead of those exposing Communists."

Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) said he and Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. (R-Mass), vigorously opposed the proposal, but were outvoted.

Dr. Sander Regains License to Practice

CANDIA, N.H. (AP) - Dr. Hermann N. Sander got back his medical license Wednesday and minutes later a man called to ask him about a pain in his arm.

The telephone caller was the first patient in nearly six months for the 41-year-old country doctor who was acquitted of murder after a trial of world-wide interest.

The state charged that Sander killed Mrs. Abbie Borroto, 59, a cancer patient, by injecting air into a vein in her arm. A jury acquitted him - and neighbors rang church bells - after the defense held that the woman was dead before the injection.

The New Hampshire five-doctor board of registration in medicine Wednesday restored the license which it suspended April 19, more than a month after his acquittal. Sander had not practiced since his indictment for murder Jan. 3.

SUI Student Fined; Gave Minor Beer

Andrew B. Dewing, G. 804 N. Dubuque street, was fined $102.50 in police court Wednesday by Judge Emil G. Trot for providing beer to a minor.

A 15-year-old boy told police Dewing invited him up to Dewing's room for a beer Sunday. Dewing pleaded guilty to the charge.

Martin Approves Tax Cut With Qualms

WASHINGTON (AP) - Rep. Tom Martin (R-Iowa) told the house Wednesday he would vote for the $1-billion tax cut bill but that he objected to some of its provisions.

"The need for the reduction of excise taxes together with the need for eliminating the 'notch' provision that taxes small corporations 53 percent of their income between $25,000 and $50,000 are factors of such great importance that I plan to vote for the bill," he said.

Martin, whose home is in Iowa City, criticized the ways and means committee for not having previously brought out a bill calling only for a reduction in excise taxes.

Buyers Hold Off The Iowan said an adverse result of the committee's delay was a "buyers' strike on merchandise on which the public expected a tax reduction."

He said agricultural fairs throughout the country are bitterly disappointed that the proposed excise tax cut will not be effective until Sept. 1. In Iowa most fairs will be over by then, he added.

Martin said people in his district are asking why a seven percent

U.S. Planes Hold South Korean Fate

MacArthur In Korea to View War Firsthand

TOKYO (THURSDAY) (AP) - Gen. Douglas MacArthur flew to the South Korean warfront in an unarmed transport plane today and U.S. B-29 bombers went into action against the North Korean invaders.

The commander of American forces in the far east arrived in the Communist - invaded little republic with several of his top officers "to see for myself" the turn of battle that was going against the South Korean army.

Bombs Airfield Shortly after MacArthur's plane landed far east airforce headquarters in Tokyo announced the big Boeing superfortress had bombed Red - captured Seoul's Kimp'o airfield this morning.

The B-29 raid, described by headquarters, as against primary targets with "good results," came as northern forces slashed southward from the South Korean capital.

As MacArthur left Tokyo's Haneda airport under poor flying conditions the South Korean defense position was reported so grim that authoritative sources in Japan said some U.S. combat troops had been placed on the alert for possible immediate movement to the war zone.

MacArthur's Party With the general on the Korean trip - which he said would be for at least two days - were these ranking officers:

Lt. Gen. George E. Stratemeyer, commander of U.S. far east airforces; Maj. Gen. E.M. Almond, MacArthur's chief of staff; Maj. Gen. C.C. Willoughby, his top intelligence officer; and Brig. Gen. Courtney Whitney, chief of his government section.

Looking vigorous and eager, MacArthur made the third visit of his life to Korea - a trip that undoubtedly will give a shot in the arm to the South Koreans. It may also bring to the fighting a touch of his daring and swift ground strategy.

Talmadge Takes Lead In Georgia Election

ATLANTA (AP) - Georgia's unique county unit election system gave Gov. Herman Talmadge, defiant champion of "white supremacy," a big lead for renomination Wednesday night.

But former Gov. M.E. Thompson, a never-say-die ex-school teacher, pulled ahead in popular final victory in the Democratic primary.

Veteran Sen. Walter George piled up an overwhelming lead over Atlanta Atty. Alex McLenahan.

Returns from 563 of 1,704 precincts, and 127 of 159 counties, gave Talmadge 245 indicated unit votes - enough to win if he continues to lead in the same counties. Thompson led in 31 counties having 97 unit votes.

But Thompson led in popular votes, 77,962 to 71,925.

SUI Student Fined; Gave Minor Beer

Andrew B. Dewing, G. 804 N. Dubuque street, was fined $102.50 in police court Wednesday by Judge Emil G. Trot for providing beer to a minor.

Mabie's Condition Reported 'Better'

Prof. E. C. Mabie, head of the SUI speech and dramatic art departments, who suffered a partial stroke Monday was reported "a little better" Wednesday night by his attending physician.

The Mercy hospital physician could give no estimate on how long Mabie would be hospitalized. Mabie's absence has cancelled the production of "The Hairy Ape," scheduled to open July 5 under his direction.

Senate Group Plans Probe of Miami Crime

WASHINGTON (AP) - The senate crime investigating committee announced Wednesday that big-time gambling and crime in Miami, is coming in for a public airing soon.

The date and site of the hearing have not yet been decided, Chairman Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) said, but he disclosed a group of witnesses have been ordered by subpoena to hold themselves in readiness to testify. He declined to state the number of prospective witnesses.

A FORMATION OF six U.S. bombers flew over the export bazaar building at Fukuoka on the Japanese island of Kyushu Wednesday as they left to carry out a mission in South Korea.

Russia Hits UN Call For South Korean Aid

LONDON (THURSDAY) (AP) - Russia today attacked the legality of the United Nations security council decision backing up American and British armed support of invaded South Korea.

It was the first official word from the Soviet government on the subject since Russian-trained North Korean troops launched the invasion last Sunday.

Russia's position, announced in a Moscow broadcast, rested on the following two legal contentions:

1. The Soviet Union was not present at the security council meeting at Lake Success Tuesday in which the resolution was adopted.

2. One of the seven affirmative votes was cast by the Nationalist Chinese delegation which Moscow maintained had "no lawful right" to speak for China.

The Russians have maintained that the Chinese Communists should represent China and have stayed away from UN meetings in which the Nationalists participated. Russia's absence at Tuesday's meeting was a part of that policy.

The Soviet position was defined in a note addressed to UN Secretary-General Trygve Lie. The Moscow broadcast of a Tass dispatch made public the text of the note.

The note said "in accordance with the United Nations charter the security council can take a decision on important issues only if unanimity is expressed by all five permanent council members, namely - U.S.A., Britain, France, USSR and China."

The security council voted, 7-1, Tuesday night to ask all member nations to apply military sanctions against the North Koreans.

Korean War At Glance

Tokyo-Seoul, Southern Korea's capital city, fell to Northern Communist invaders. Fighting moved 20 miles southward despite attacks on invading force by American jet fighters and bombers.

London-Britain ordered naval forces in Japanese waters - 22 or 23 ships including an aircraft carrier - to support American action in Korea.

Authoritative source said American combat troops have been alerted for action in South Korea "at a moment's notice."

Washington-President Truman declared the "unprovoked invasion" of Southern Korea was an example of the threat communism presents to the undeveloped areas. Expressed hope peace will result from U.S. action to help Korea. Both parties close ranks behind President on Korea.

Moscow - Pravda calls American action in Korea "a direct act of aggression" against Northern Korea and Communist China. Asks if United States has not gone too far but gives no answer to question.

Lake Success-United Nations sent out security council appeal to the 59 member nations for assistance to Southern Korea.

Taft Blasts Acheson For Korean Crisis

WASHINGTON (AP) - Sen. Robert Taft (R-Ohio) Wednesday called on Secretary of State Dean Acheson to resign. He said administration "bungling" shares blame with Russian aggression for the crisis in Korea.

He told the senate he supports the use of American armed forces to roll back Communist invaders from the north but argued at the same time that President Truman was not justified in acting without the approval of congress.

His speech drew a sarcastic response from Sen. Scott Lucas (D-Ill.), the Democratic leader. Lucas said it is "wonderful to have hindsight" and agreed heartily with Taft's comment that the Ohioan is no military expert.

Lucas said Taft had placed "all the responsibility for what now is going on in Korea on the President of the United States." He added:

"I am sure the people of Russia will be very happy to learn that fact."

Taft's call for Acheson's resignation got a scattering of applause from the Republican side of the senate floor.

Taft led off with his announcement of support for the American policy laid down yesterday by President Truman. He said it was right "and I see no choice except to back up wholeheartedly and with every available resource the American men in our armed forces who have been moved into Korea."

Taft argued that the need never would have arisen if the administration had followed a firmer and more consistent line in the past.

Turning to Secretary Acheson, Taft told the senate that any secretary of state who has been "so reversed by his superiors and whose policies have precipitated the danger of war had better resign and let someone else administer the program to which he was, and perhaps still is, so violently opposed."

Reserve Officers Welcome Truman

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Harry Truman held up his hands to halt an ovation given him Wednesday in Washington, D.C. as he stepped to the rostrum to address the reserve officers association. He said he hopes the U.S. decision to challenge communism will mean "peace in the world." Behind him are Defense Secretary Louis Johnson (dark suit) and Commander John B. Bracken, USNR, president of the association, (right).

Red Landings, Guerrillas Aid North's Thrust

TOKYO (THURSDAY) - United States war planes threw their full striking power into an attack on the North Korean Communists today in a desperate attempt to stem a rout of the South Korean army.

The Communists had captured Seoul and its Kimp'o airport. They had advanced to within 10 miles of Suwon, 20 miles south of Seoul, where American headquarters had been established. The 400-yard-wide Han river alone offered a barrier between them and a sweep far southward.

Communist troop landings and guerrilla uprisings were reported in the area of the two most important cities in far southern Korea.

Planes Held Fate On the planes of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's far eastern air forces alone, it appeared, depended the fate of South Korea.

Jet, attack bomber and Mustang fighter planes lashed at Communist tanks, artillery emplacements, troop concentrations, truck convoys, roads and railroads with bombs, rockets and bullets.

Though American planes dominated the sky, bad weather hampered U.S. air support and even worse weather is normally to be expected there at this season, the department of defense said in Washington today.

Changing Weather Weather experts report the weather in Korea now is alternately bad and fairly good, with about 12 to 18 hours of each at a stretch.

An airforce spokesman said the weather at Japanese bases is expected to improve enough to permit planes to take off - even those not equipped for all-weather operations.

Up to now, an army spokesman said, there has been no evidence that Russian troops are fighting along with the Communist forces of North Korea.

In addition to airforce officers, signal men and airforce ground troops are now in southern Korea to maintain communications and to salvage damaged planes.

No combat troops are involved. No Casualties Two American planes - an F-82 jet fighter and a B-26 bomber - were destroyed on the ground by enemy strafing yesterday. There were no casualties to any plane crews.

Broadcasts by Seoul radio and the Pyongyang radio in the Reds' northern capital said that Communist troops entered Seoul in force at 3:30 a.m. Wednesday (11:30 a.m. Tuesday, Iowa time) and completed the capture at 11:30 a.m. (7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Iowa time).

Dispatches from the front in South Korea said that American headquarters probably would be moved southward from Suwon at any time.

It was reported the South Korean government was setting up a temporary capital at Taegon, 85 miles south of Seoul.

But even in the far south the situation was dangerous. Seoul radio reported that North Koreans had landed at Pohang 170 miles southeast of Seoul on the southeast coast and were advancing toward the important railroad town of Taegu, 40 miles southwest.

Front dispatches from Suwon cited unconfirmed reports that there had been a guerrilla uprising in Kwangju, 170 miles southwest of Seoul.

Taegu and Kwangju are the two most important cities in far southern Korea.

Pledges Support . . .

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Truman said Wednesday the United States must counteract "the Communist weapon of fear" and pledged this country's help to the people of other lands in their struggle to keep free.

"We must and we shall give every possible assistance to people who are determined to maintain their independence," Mr. Truman said, in an address before the annual convention of the American Newspaper Guild.

"The recent unprovoked invasion of the Republic of Korea by Communist armies is an example of the danger to which undeveloped areas are exposed."

Korea - Western Europe?

(Guest editorial by Prof. Kurt F. Schaefer, Geography department)
The invasion of Korea confirms the bankruptcy of our policy towards Russia during the pre-Truman administration. The policy of handing large areas over to Russia in order to appease her was based on a concept of balance of power. This concept was applicable to the conditions of the 17th and 18th centuries but does not apply to the American-Russian antagonism.

New present policy makers are burdened with the fruit of seed sown by America and Russia together behind the back of China and Korea during the war and immediately after. There is also little doubt now that areas such as Germany and Korea should not have been divided but controlled in their entirety by a joint commission of occupation. The assumption that Russia would eventually withdraw from the occupied areas was amateurish and unrealistic.

Secondly, the invasion proves the inherent aggressiveness and urge for aggrandizement on the part of Russia. In a delicate international situation as the present one Russia does not hesitate to risk war. Those who still remain sceptical could probably only be convinced by Russia actually violating American soil.

Thirdly, in spite of the fact that the Korean area is well suited for guerrilla fighting, like Yugoslavia, reports seem to agree about the poor morale of the South Koreans. In this respect one should recall the report of the investigation of the establishment of human rights in Japan and Korea as undertaken by the Civil Liberties union at the invitation of MacArthur. The report, favorable on Japan, was highly unfavorable on Korea. Poor social conditions make poor allies for America.

The immediate alternatives with which the United States has been confronted are either to give up Korea and suffer a certain loss of prestige or to make a military effort within the limits of a local war. And we must realize that we cannot lose such a local war without even greater loss of prestige. If the Russians gain Korea, they will be encouraged to take French Indo-China, Berlin, Finland, Formosa, etc., etc. The pattern is clear and slightly overworked. After the Munich experience America has no excuse for misinterpreting that pattern. We must not be misled by it again.

The problem is, when and how to stop aggression. Can it be done by a local war and use of the UN machinery? Or will it take a major effort most likely to lead to another world war?

No responsible statesman can at the present time afford to call a possible bluff by a bluff. On the other hand, a series of conquests like Korea may cost us the morale of the Asian and European masses who may take a fatalistic attitude when we actually need them. To make a supreme decision too early is foolish, to make it too late may be fatal. Obviously such a decision is beyond the knowledge of the average citizen in this technological age and will have to be left to the political and military experts.

However, that much should and could be understood by the citizen: That it is not only a military decision. To be lined up with the reactionary and feudal forces, as the United States has been in many parts of the world, breeds fatalism among the masses. In spite of all controversy on the subject, the fact remains that the Russians have been able to gain support among the peasant masses of Asia by supporting their 1911 agrarian demands.

By gaining control over them in that fashion they have then been able to push them along totalitarian lines, convincing them that United States foreign policy has no other aim but the strengthening of their feudal oppressors. In a critical hour these elements in Asia, and also in western Europe, may not fight with us but collapse morally.

Thus, our foreign policy has often made it too easy for Russian propaganda to work toward this goal. The excuse has always been one of military or tactical necessity. Yet, the probability of success will be greatly enhanced when our means will be compatible with our aims.

U.S. Press Lacks Competition of Ideas Newspapermen Told

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Hubert Humphrey (D - Minn.) told the American Newspaper Guild convention Wednesday that the "American people have left the press" of the nation because it doesn't have enough competition of ideas.

"People don't listen to or respect what they see on editorial pages," he said.

He said democracy depends on "the competition of ideas" and competition cannot thrive with newspapers being "gobbled up by great chains."

The guild, he said, should go on record with an assertion that economic monopoly in the newspaper business "is an evil in our society which needs to be eradicated."

However, Humphrey added — "lest I be misunderstood" — that there is "a good deal of freedom of the press today — perhaps the most in the world." But he said the time has come for "preventive action" against growing monopoly.

Humphrey told the newspapermen — delegates to the convention that they can do even more than congressmen to help create conditions in the world in which democracy will thrive.

"There is no room in the world for totalitarian mentality," Humphrey said. "And the way to defeat it is not to curse it or investigate it but to make the conditions that will keep people from falling into its trap."

Senate Investigators To Report Findings

WASHINGTON (AP) — The senate Communist investigating subcommittee overrode strong Republican objections Wednesday and voted three to two to make a report on the Amerasia case and charges of communism in the state department.

The subcommittee members immediately began arguing as to the kind of a report to be made. Chairman Millard E. Tydings (D - Md) said it would be merely an "interim" report which would not preclude further investigation. Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) challenged the statement.

"The record will not bear that statement out," he said. "There was nothing said about an 'interim' report. The record will show that it is a report upon which conclusions can be based."

Next? — "Greetings: You Have Been Chosen..."

By TOM DORSEY
AN SUI EDUCATION professor talked himself into a $2 fine in Iowa City police court this week. The professor was protesting a ticket he got charging him with blocking a driveway with his car.

The well-known professor said that he found no ticket when he returned to his car and if the patrolman had left one on the car he would have known it because his wife was sitting there. The police judge was prepared to dismiss the charge if the professor agreed to having his car "safety checked."

The prof refused and was fined two bucks.

GOOD COOKS and thoughtful guys: In a recent survey asking recently married couples what they considered the ten most desirable traits in marriage partners, the following resulted:

Men, first and foremost, want their women to be good cooks. And apparently if she can cook, she doesn't have to be any great shakes as a housekeeper — that quality was sixth on the list.

As for women, they want a man, who, above all, is thoughtful. If the little woman gets enough attention, the head of the house can scatter his ashes or clothing and forget them. Neatness and helping around home are at the bottom of the list of desirable traits for men.

Guess a home ec major and a thoughtful guy would make a perfect match. Huh?

World Labor Group Seeks Plan to Raise Standards of Living

By SIGRID ARNE

WASHINGTON — Over in Geneva, Switzerland, people from 50 nations are talking over plans that may lighten the international burdens the United States has shouldered. The conference is the annual meeting of the International Labor Organization (ILO).

It brings together government, worker and employer delegates. This meeting is concentrating on how to raise the general living standard. It is discussing ways to increase the production of labor. The initial shove came from two Americans — David A. Morse, once undersecretary of labor and now director general of the ILO, and George P. Delaney, international representative of the AFL.

Delaney said that in the first half of this century, because of increasing production rates, American working hours were reduced for the most part to 40 hours a week and that at the same time American workers got better housing, food and education.

American production, Delaney said, has not been tied to turning out small quantities of fine goods for the rich but goods for as large a market as possible. As volume increased, "costs decline and prices are reduced. We have found that our best hope of expanding markets lies at home, in the pay envelope of the very workers who produce the goods."

He said American workers hope many other parts of the world will find some way to adopt American methods.

Director General Morse made several proposals, tackling the problem of a higher living standard from a quite unorthodox angle. He argued: "A mere redistribution of existing wealth would make no essential difference to people and merely would redistribute poverty. It is broadly true that only if the average man produces more wealth can he enjoy a substantially higher standard of living."

But he warned: "To say that the average man must produce more wealth is not the same thing as saying that he must work harder." He thought harder work may be necessary but listed several other things that help workers turn out more products per work day.

Among these were: wider use of machinery; wiser use of resources; training programs; incentive pay; closer liaison between scientific research and industry and concentration on shifting workers to new jobs rather than opposing new machinery.

Japanese Statesman Visits U.S.

By Central Press

WASHINGTON — Dr. Yukio Ozaki, who has been a member of the Japanese parliament for more than 60 years, is a good will visitor to the United States at the age of 91. This elder statesman from Japan looks back upon experiences richly sufficient for any dozen politicians.

Ozaki carved a niche for himself in American history when in 1908 he sent 3,000 young cherry trees to our national capital.

At that time he was mayor of Tokyo, and his gift which has beautified Washington down the years was an expression of gratitude for the efforts of President Theodore Roosevelt in helping end the Russo-Japanese war of 1904-05.

In Japan the fame of Ozaki is founded upon his never-faltering battle as a liberal. In 1882 he established the Progressive party which blasphemed the emperor by asserting for the first time that sovereignty lay jointly with the people and the Son of Heaven, and was not solely concentrated in the later.

For this early heresy, Ozaki's party was dissolved but he continued his fight as a newspaper editor. When the first constitutional parliament met in Tokyo in 1890, Ozaki won a seat.

From that moment on he has never been out of legislative office. He is modestly certain that no parliamentarian in any country can boast of such lengthy service.

In the parliament Ozaki struggled to wring concessions from the throne until 1942, during the war against the United States, he was sentenced to 8 months in jail for lese majeste. Despite the fanaticism fostered by Japan's war lords, Ozaki ran for parliament while under the prison sentence and was re-elected. Such a popular expression caused the appeal court to hastily acquit him.

It is news when any man lives to be 91 years of age. However, with this Japanese it is little short of a miracle. His progressiveness naturally was never acceptable to the strutting militarists and time and time again he was marked out for assassination.

The dramatic elder statesman escaped death from stabbing during the military revolt of February, 1936, merely because extremists had his name at the head of a list of those slated to die in a projected March uprising. He had another narrow escape when army sympathizers burned down his Tokyo home in 1940.

Welcoming Ozaki to this country was former Ambassador to Japan William R. Castle, who described the aged visitor as perhaps "the foremost advocate of peace in any nation."

Ohioans Have Long Ballot Splitting History

COLUMBUS, OHIO — The recent statement of Ohio's Democratic governor that he "might" vote for Republican Sen. Robert A. Taft, confounded some politicians — especially Democrats and labor leaders seeking to defeat Taft.

However, to students of Ohio voting habits since the turn of the century, Frank J. Lausche's independence of thought and action comes as no surprise.

Ohio voters never have succumbed to straight party voting and the figures are in the records to prove it. Consequently, candidates with independent thoughts and actions are not unusual.

Since 1900, there have been 11 presidential elections at which Ohioans also selected governors. There was none before 1908 as Ohio then elected its governor in odd-numbered years.

In the 11 elections at which Ohioans selected both presidents and governors, there were five occasions when the Ohio winners were of different political faiths.

It could have been 7 out of 11 with the switching of less than 10,000 votes. And in all 11 elections at least a million Ohioans went to the polls.

Even in the four other elections in which both presidential and gubernatorial winners in Ohio were of the same political party, there is clear evidence of independent voting.

In 1920, Republican Warren G. Harding won Ohio's electoral college votes by about 400,000 votes over James M. Cox, the Dayton publisher. At the same time, however, Republican Harry L. Davis won the governorship by only 80,000 votes.

Even in the GOP sweep of 1928, there was a wide difference in margins between the two races. Herbert Hoover won Ohio from Al Smith by nearly 800,000 votes, but Myers Y. Cooper's margin over Democrat Martin L. Davey was only 250,000.

Franklin D. Roosevelt's sweeping re-election in 1938 led to eventual splitting of the presidential and gubernatorial tickets. Straight tickets for FDR gave the late President a 620,000 — vote margin over Alf Landon and defeated Republican John W. Bricker. However, while FDR's margin was enormous, Democrat Martin L. Davey's margin over Bricker was only 125,000.

Perhaps the independence of the Ohio voter can best be shown by figures in the 1924 election. Calvin Coolidge that year won Ohio by 700,000 votes but his running mate for governor lost by 180,000 votes. That means that approximately half a million out of two million voters scratched their tickets.

The two times when only a few thousand votes could have given the presidential and gubernatorial races to different parties were in 1916 and 1948.

Woodrow Wilson defeated Charles Hughes in the 1916 presidential race by 90,000 votes but Democrat James B. Cox won over Frank B. Wills by only 6,500 votes.

Two years ago, President Truman captured Ohio by a slim 7,000 vote margin over Thomas E. Dewey while Democrat Governor Lausche was winning over Republican Thomas J. Herbert by 220,000.

Down through the years since 1908 Ohio stacks up as follows in election years in which both offices were up for decision:

- 1908 — President — Republican by 70,000. Governor — Democratic by 20,000.
- 1912 — President — Democratic over Republican and Progressives. Governor — Democratic over Republican and Progressives.
- 1916 — President — Democratic by 90,000. Governor — Democratic by 6,500.
- 1920 — President — Republican by 400,000. Governor — Republican by 80,000.
- 1924 — President — Republican by 700,000. Governor — Democrat by 180,000.
- 1928 — President — Republican by 800,000. Governor — Republican by 250,000.
- 1932 — President — Democratic by 75,000. Governor — Democratic by 200,000.
- 1936 — President — Democratic by 620,000. Governor — Democratic by 125,000.
- 1940 — President — Democratic by 150,000. Governor — Republican by 360,000.
- 1944 — President — Republican by 12,000. Governor — Democratic by 110,000.
- 1948 — President — Democratic by 7,000. Governor — Democratic by 220,000.

Farm Price Supports Signed by Truman

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Truman signed into law Wednesday a bill providing another $2-billion for farm crop price supports.

The money will be used to bolster the price of 1950 crops. Some commitments already have been made and others will be announced soon. Supports are being considered for cottonseed, soybeans, grain sorghums, rye, barley and oats.

These would be in addition to the six so-called basic crops — wheat, corn, cotton, rice, tobacco and peanuts — which must be supported at a full 90 percent of parity.

Actual dollars and cents support levels for these crops also will be announced soon.

The government now has almost $40-billion tied up in crop surpluses. The new law raises the limit on crop investments to $3,850,000,000.

Mother, Daughter Room Together at Currier Hall

By MARY HEALY

The scenario writer who produced "Mother Was a Freshman" has nothing on SUI. In fact, SUI does him one better, because the mother-daughter combination at Iowa is a graduate pair.

Mrs. Elizabeth White, Oklahoma City, Okla., occupies the unique position of being Vivian Goodson's college classmate, roommate and mother. They share a double room in Currier hall.

The demure little lady's eyes twinkled as she said, "My daughter seems to carry her roommates with her, wherever she goes." Mrs. White referred to the fact that the only other roommate Miss Goodson has had was a girlfriend from her hometown, when she was at Spelman college in Atlanta, Ga.

Miss Goodson explained that this is not the first time she has lived with her mother while attending school. They were also roommates at the University of Southern California in 1946.

"It's really a family affair here," Mrs. White said. Their cousin, Mayre M. Cravin, G. Fort Worth, Texas, is studying in the SUI physical education department this summer.

Miss Goodson said that she and her mother chose SUI for their summer work because they preferred a fairly small university town in the Midwest. Then, she added, "we have several friends attending SUI and heard a great deal about the university from them."

Mrs. White will return this fall to the Dunjee school, Choctaw, Okla., where she has taught for the past 15 years. Miss Goodson, now working on her doctor's degree in sociology, will resume her teaching position at the Texas State University for Negroes in Houston.

Professor to Serve With National Group

Prof. David B. Stout, sociology department, was appointed to a membership — at large in one of the divisions of the National Research Council, Washington, D. C.

Prof. Harold W. Saunders, department chairman, said Wednesday. Stout's appointment was made by the National Academy of Sciences. He will serve on the council's division of anthropology and psychology.

The council was created by President Lincoln during the Civil war as an operating extension of the National Academy of Sciences.

It serves both to marshal the resources of various sciences for the aid of the government and to encourage and administer research programs.

Stout is teaching during the summer session at the University of California, Los Angeles.

Cubs Collect 15 Hits, Slaughter Cards, 15-3

CHICAGO (AP)—The Chicago Cubs rolled up their biggest scoring total of the season Wednesday. They massacred the St. Louis Cardinals, 15-3, before a ladies day crowd of 25,062 that included 12,109 paid.

While Doyle Lade went the route, scattering nine hits, the Cubs walloped George Munger, Cloyd Boyer and Jim Hearn for 15 hits. They included three homers, a triple and four doubles for a total of 30 bases.

Roy Smalley topped the assault with his 12th homer, a triple, double and single in five times up. The other homers were by Phil Cavaretta and No. 10 for Andy Pafko. The first eight Cubs were powered across on home runs.

Smalley hit a two-run homer in the second and Cavaretta belted his with two on in the third to rout Munger for his fifth loss against three wins. Boyer stopped the Cubs momentarily and then Hearn was whacked for a three-run homer by Pafko in the fifth.

That was only the beginning for Hearn. Manager Eddie Dyer left him in there while he was lathered for 10 runs on as many hits in the final four Cub innings.

Every Cub except Lade collected at least one hit. Hank Edwards was next to Smalley with a double and two singles.

The victory was the fourth for Lade against one loss. It was his first complete game in five starts. St. Louis lost 100-000-3 Chicago 023 032 235-15 15-1

Mel Taube Named Coach at Carleton

NORTHFIELD, MINN. (AP)—Melvin Taube, 45-year-old former basketball coach at Purdue University, Wednesday accepted the post of baseball and basketball coach at Carleton college here.

Taube's decision completed a circuit of resignations and new coaching assignments at Carleton, Purdue and the Kokomo, Ind., high school.

After Taube's resignation at Purdue earlier this year, his post was taken over by Ray Eddy, former coach at Kokomo high school. Taube succeeded to the coaching job at Carleton which Joe Platt gave up to become basketball mentor at Kokomo.

Taube also will be associate professor of physical education at Carleton. It was reported that the former boilermaker coach was coming to Northfield "to get away from the pressure."

Indians Scalp Browns

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A four-run rally on a homer, two doubles and a single in the first inning was all that was needed as the Cleveland Indians mauled the St. Louis Browns, 18-2, Wednesday night. # Brooklyn Beats Giants, 5-3; Phils Lose

Carl Furillo Beated In Game with Giants

BROOKLYN (AP) — Gene Hermanski's first home run of the year broke a deadlock between Preacher Roe and Sheldon Jones in the seventh inning and gave Brooklyn a 5-3 victory over New York Wednesday.

Brooklyn outfielder Carl Furillo was beated by Jones in the eighth inning and was carried off the field on a stretcher. Pending the development of X-rays at Swedish hospital, the Dodger right fielder is not believed to be seriously injured. However, he has a bump behind the right ear.

Furillo has been hitting .500 since the Brooks returned home and in his two previous trips to the plate he banged out a two-run homer and a single. Jackie Robinson accounted for the first Brooklyn run by scoring on a short fly ball to Tookie Gilbert behind first base.

The score was tied at 3-3 when Hermanski hit his four bagger with a mate on base.

Brooklyn ..... 010 200 208—5 8 0
Jones (6-4) and Westrum; Roe (9-3) and Campanella. Home runs—Furillo (5th), Hermanski (1st).

Reynolds Pitches Yanks over Nats

NEW YORK (AP) — Allie Reynolds, veteran New York right-hander, pitched a three-hitter Wednesday as the Yankees defeated the Washington Senators, 5-1, to even their series at one victory apiece.

But for the wildness in the fifth inning, Reynolds would have pitched a shutout. A single and three straight walks forced in the only Senator run. Washington had a good chance to break the game wide open but Sam Mele popped out with the bases loaded to end the threat.

Allie was involved in a tight pitching duel with Al Sims, left-handed rookie fresh from Chattanooga of the Southern association, for seven innings.

New York ..... 020 000 028—5 8 0

The Referee Used His Head

(AP Wirephoto)

EVEN THE REFEREE gets into the act in Australian professional wrestling matches. Jack Claybourne (on top at right) used the official's back as a spring board to get off to a flying start in this bout. Frank Valois is the unfortunate wrestler getting a face full of feet. Referee Bonny Muir isn't in much of a position to see if Claybourne's tactics are legal or not. Claybourne understandably won the match held in West Melbourne.

Happy Hollow Not So Happy for Some

OMAHA (AP)—It was an unhappy day Wednesday at Happy Hollow for four of the seeded contenders in the Trans-Mississippi Golf tournament.

But nine of the 13 top-ranked players who entered the second round came through unharmed in the activity at the 6,827-yard course.

Gene Zuspann, the 35-year-old Goodland, Kan., shooter who drew the No. 2 spot at the top of the lower bracket, was the chief casualty. Zuspann, runnerup for the 1947 title, lost to Gene Beister, Omaha city champ, 5 and 4.

Dick Knight of Omaha, seeded No. 5, fell before Don Young.

Johnny Sain Hurls Tenth Win of Year

BOSTON (AP) — Johnny Sain became the first National leaguer to pitch ten victories Wednesday night as the Boston Braves whipped Philadelphia, 3-1, and knocked the Phillies back into second place behind Brooklyn who beat New York, 5-3, in an afternoon game.

The Phils outbit the Tribesmen, 8-5, but the locals bunched two of theirs with a pair of walks and an error for all their runs in the third inning.

The Quakers scored their only run in the second on three singles, one of them tainted.

Russ Meyer, who went the first six innings, suffered his seventh defeat, his second to the Braves. The former Cub righthander has won only two games.

Sain, who has lost five games, didn't win his 10th in the Braves' pennant winning year of 1948 until July first. That season Sain won 24 games.

Tigers Down Chisox Behind Houtteman

DETROIT — Young Art Houtteman became the first 10-game winner in the major leagues Wednesday afternoon as he led the American league-leading Detroit Tigers to a 6-2 decision over the Chicago White Sox.

Johnny Sain of the Boston Braves and Bob Lemon of the Cleveland Indians equalled Houtteman's record of 10 victories Wednesday night.

As per custom of late, the Tigers roared from behind again to gain their third straight victory over Chicago.

Detroit was assured of the victory when Hoot Evers blasted his 14th homer with a runner on base to spark a three-run fifth. Thereafter the Tigers were never headed.

Red Sox Win Sixth Straight

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Steve O'Neill's Boston Red Sox swept to their sixth straight victory Wednesday night, defeating the Philadelphia Athletics, 6-2. Home runs by Ted Williams, Vern Stephens and Don DiMaggio helped send Lou Brissie down to his 12th defeat of the season.

Ellis Kinder survived an 11-hit Philadelphia attack to record his sixth victory against seven defeats for the Sox.

All but one of the Boston runs scored on homers. DiMaggio connected in the third with one on to put the Red Sox out in front but the A's deadlocked the game at 2-2 before Williams' two-run homer in the eighth sewed up the game.

Stephens homered for insurance and the Sox added another tally in the ninth on a walk, a sacrifice and a single by DiMaggio.

Philadelphia ..... 000 000 011—2 8 0
Boston ..... 100 001 006—6 11 0
Kinder (6-7) and Tebbetts; Brissie (7-12) and Guerra. Home runs—DiMaggio (1st), Williams (13rd), Stephens (10th).

Pittsburgh Rallies To Clip Reds, 6-5

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Pittsburgh Pirates rallied for two runs in the eighth Wednesday night to edge the Cincinnati Reds, 6-5, before a sparse crowd of 12,040. The payoff blow was Stan Rojek's run-scoring double with two men out.

Howie Fox, Cincinnati starting pitcher, was taken out at the start of the eighth because of a tiring shoulder. Until that time, mostly because of the three-run homer he blasted in the fourth, Fox seemed on his way to his second win against six defeats.

Frank Smith, who relieved Fox, was greeted with a triple by Buc second baseman Danny Murtaugh. After Jack Phillips had lined out, pinchhitter Johnny Hopp tripled to score Murtaugh and make it 5-5.

Relief pitcher Murry Dickson, who received credit for the win, was allowed to bat for himself and grounded out. Then Rojek's screaming double scored the winning run.

Pittsburgh's starter Bill Werle was relieved by Dickson who gave up only two hits in the last 5 2-3 innings.

Steeplejacks Tempt Fate High in Air

By HARVEY SHAMAN
Three guys in Iowa City don't seem to give a darn about their necks.

They are the Rummelhart brothers, Elmo, Clifford and Glen; steeplejacks now painting and repairing the steeple of St. Mary's church at E. Jefferson and Linn streets.

Every day, they tempt fate hundreds of feet in the air, and only one has escaped serious injury. Elmo fell in the spring of 1943 while working on a gas storage tank. A rope broke, and he plunged to the ground, breaking his back.

Glen broke his leg, his left arm, and his back the same year when he fell from the Iowa City English Lutheran church. He broke his other leg in a later fall.

"Scared to Death"
When asked how he felt about climbing again after he got out of the hospital, Glen said, "I was scared to death, but I went up. I had to, this is the only work I know."

Clement, a fourth brother and member of the team, was killed in 1942, when a bolt dropped from the top of a water-storage tank he was working on.

Clifford, the only member of the team who has had good luck so far, said he has no desire to make the accident record unanimous.

When they start work, fixing a roof or repairing a steeple or flagpole, their first job is rigging their lines—that is, getting ropes to the top of the building.

Start at Top
This is done by drilling a hole in a wall or roof from the inside about 25 feet from the top of the steeple. A line is dropped through the hole to the ground, and the material and ropes are pulled up. From this point, a rope is thrown around the tower, and is worked up in the same manner used by a telephone line-man.

When the lines are finally secured to the top, they are tested to see that they won't come loose while someone is working. These lines are rigged so that a slight tug will release them, so they can be taken down easily when the job is finished.

On a repair and paint job, such as is being done on St. Mary's, rigging takes about two days, Glen said. Rigging of the 800 feet of flag pole on such a job takes from two to six hours, depending on the shape and height of the building. St. Mary's is 200 feet from the ground to the cross at the top.

The brothers then begin work.

English Professor Advises Dramatists

Prof. Curt Zimansky of SUI's English department is lecturing this summer at the Oregon Shakespearean Festival, Southern Oregon college, Ashland.

The Oregon festival claims the unique distinction of operating the world's only Elizabethan theater producing annually a repertoire of Shakespeare's plays on an authentic Elizabethan stage.

This year's productions are "King Henry IV," "Comedy of Errors," "As You Like It" and "Anthony and Cleopatra."

Zimansky is acting as academic consultant in the production of these Shakespearean plays. Zimansky is also teaching three Shakespearean courses.

Steel-Built Schools May Solve Iowa Problem

Steel-built schools may be the solution to the Iowa school building program, Prof. C. Theodore Larson, Michigan university school of architecture, said Wednesday at the SUI school building conference.

He said this new type of construction would be safe, economical, flexible, durable and good-looking.

Specialty-formed steel girders and cross members can be bolted together and covered with four-foot squares of cement asbestos to form a new type of economical temporary school construction.

While no school has yet been built utilizing the new method, construction will begin on the first such building at Pittsfield, Mich., this summer, Larson said.

He and his staff have erected partial buildings for testing purposes in the Michigan school of architecture.

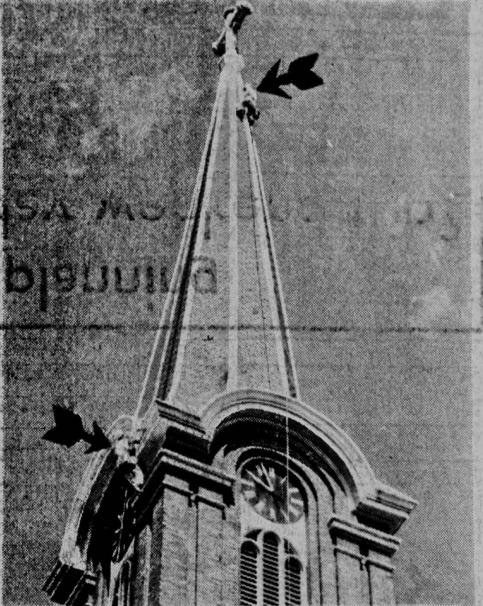

These steel buildings will have automatic heating and lighting, and will feature movable interior walls which can be adjusted to meet changing needs.

Larson's talk highlighted the final sessions of the conference. The purpose of the conference was to acquaint school officials with the trends in school construction.

WOW! 200 FEET OFF THE HARD GROUND and no parachute in sight. "Fly" Elmo Rummelhart (top arrow) and his partner in high altitude artistry, Clifford, were two of the three Rummelhart brothers, professional steeple-jacks, painting the spire and bell tower of St. Mary's Catholic church, E. Jefferson and Linn streets Wednesday. The other brother, Glen, was on the ground when this picture was taken. The cross atop the spire is 14 feet tall, and each of the clock faces is six feet in diameter. High winds and rain have made the going slow on this job, the brothers said.

United States. From April until October or November, depending on the weather, they work in the vicinity of Iowa City. During the winter, they usually work in the south.

All three are married. Clifford has one son, aged four. When asked how their wives liked their working so high above the ground, Glen said, "They don't."

Father Sold Lightning Rods
The Rummelhart brothers have been steeplejacks for the last fifteen or sixteen years. They inherited the work from their father, who sold and installed lightning rods.

They have worked all over the United States. From April until October or November, depending on the weather, they work in the vicinity of Iowa City. During the winter, they usually work in the south.

Edward Newhouse, London, Ky., was fined $27.50 for soliciting without a permit after being told not to do so by Mayor Preston Köser. He was one of five handcuffed men selling magazine subscriptions in Iowa City the past few days, police said.

J. C. Barnhart, West Branch, was fined $27.50 for operating a motor vehicle in a reckless manner. Fifteen dollars of the fine were suspended on the condition that Barnhart have his eyes examined and report to the court within 10 days.

350 to Participate in River Cruises
Approximately 350 persons from 51 Iowa towns, five other states and Mexico will participate in the Iowa Historical society's four one-day cruises down the Mississippi river, beginning July 4.

Prof. William J. Petersen, superintendent of the society, said Wednesday the purpose of the trips is to acquaint participants with the historical landmarks of the Mississippi river.

The four trips to be made are from McGregor to Dubuque, Dubuque to Davenport, Davenport to Burlington and Burlington to Keokuk. The Burlington to Keokuk cruise will be round trip.

Petersen and Prof. Harold Ennis, Cornell college, will give talks and lead discussions concerning various aspects of the excursion. Movies will be taken of the entire 300-mile cruise.

A member of the excursion will be Frank Luther Mott, of Columbia, Mo., a former director of the SUI school of journalism.

Three SUI Students Among Contestants For Dairy Empress

Two SUI students are among the 13 candidates who will compete for honors in the Johnson county Dairy Empress contest at 7 p.m. today in the Jefferson hotel.

They are Vivian Lacinia, N1, Iowa City, sponsored by the Johnson county farm bureau, and Virginia Schnoebelen, A2, Iowa City, sponsored by the Pheasant Holstein Breeders' association.

Candidates will be judged according to beauty and ability to speak. The queen will be announced and crowned during the July 4 parade in which the candidates will participate.

The winner will enter the district contest in the fall at Davenport. The district winner will compete in the state contest at the Dairy Cattle congress in Waterloo the first week in October.

Other candidates from Iowa City in the county contest tonight are Joanne A. Smith, Ann Scanlon, LaDonna Stubbs, Coleen Sehr and Alice Sehr.

Judges for the contest are Mrs. E. T. Hubbard, Herb Olson and Atty. William Hart.

The county contest is sponsored by the Johnson county Milk Producers and Processors association.

SUI Ophthalmologist Addresses AMA

Interference of the blood supply to the optic nerve is the basic cause of swelling of the optic nerve, Dr. P. J. Leinfelder, professor of ophthalmology (eye department) in the SUI college of medicine, said Wednesday.

Leinfelder delivered a paper on the optic nerve at the American Medical association meeting in San Francisco.

Swelling of the optic nerve previously was thought to be a definite sign of brain tumor. Better diagnostic methods now make it possible to identify brain tumors before swelling occurs, he said.

Miss Davis had appealed the special paving assessments levied against Ruby Davis, 1903 E. Court street, were reduced to $204.75 in district court Wednesday by Judge Harold D. Evans.

Miss Davis had appealed the special paving assessments made on two of her lots on East Court street. Her assessment on one lot was reduced from $517.25 to $337.50 and on the other lot from $775.13 to $750.13.

A total of 26 suits were filed in February protesting the special assessments for paving in Iowa City. The plaintiffs claimed the assessments exceeded the legal maximum and were out of proportion to the benefit the new paving gave property owners.

The 26 property owners who filed suits were overruled in their objections to the city council Nov. 26, 1949. The paving, costing nearly $100,000, was completed last summer.

Four-Year-Old Smokes Cigars

THREE CIGARS DAILY IS THE TOBACCO ROAD for Raymond "Butch" Bossert, 4, Philadelphia, Penn. He can't light them, so his grandfather does that for him. During the day, when Granddad's at work, the cop on Butch's beat does the lighting. Butch's grandmother refuses to light his cigars because she said he'd smoke too many if she would light them for him. He has been smoking since before he could walk.

SUI Doctor Says Polio Misnamed

"Infantile paralysis" is the wrong name for polio because the average age of persons stricken with the disease is increasing, according to Dr. Donald C. Zavala, resident in internal medicine in the SUI college of medicine.

Zavala, along with Mattie Brass, state director of public health nursing, and Dr. Madeline Donnelly, state director of maternal and child health, spoke at the third and final day of the health education workshop here.

Polio cases have been light so far this year, but the hot summer months may bring more cases, he said.

Zavala cautioned mothers against allowing children to become chilled or over-tired, which might make them more susceptible to the disease.

Expect 50 Teachers For Reading Course

Approximately 50 teachers, supervisors and superintendents, primarily from Iowa, are expected to enroll in the SUI remedial reading workshop which will be held at University high school July 10 through 14, it was announced Wednesday.

Prof. Margaret Lee Keyser, director of the workshop, made the announcement.

Miss Keyser said the workshop, sponsored by the college of education, is designed to give an overall view of the problems of remedial reading in public school education.

Lectures, demonstrations and discussions of remedial techniques and teaching methods will be conducted during the five-day session. One semester hour of graduate credit will be awarded.

Prof. Helen Robinson, director of reading clinics at University of Chicago, will participate in the workshop July 13. The workshop staff will consist of instructors from the college of education.

Wisconsin U. Staff Investigates Cheating During Final Tests

MADISON, WIS. — University of Wisconsin President E.B. Fred announced the school is not ready to report on alleged examination stealing this month, but that the cheating problem is "one of constant concern."

Fred returned recently from a series of meetings in the east and had his first report on the tests that were reported to have been stolen just as students prepared for semester finals.

Fred said, "A full investigation is proceeding through regular administrative channels."

He said the university functions and policies committee reported last fall that it believed "only a few students are habitual cheaters."

The committee recommended a four point program for the problem, which the president said is being put into effect.

It includes an intensive program to impress on students the importance of maintaining high moral standards in academic work; examinations which encourage individual thinking and make cribbing difficult; an effort to provide more effective proctoring for the examinations, and a fair, uniform assignment of penalties for cheating.

GEOLOGIST TO MEETING
H. Garland Hershey, state geologist at SUI for the Iowa Geological survey, Monday will attend a meeting at Des Moines of the Iowa Natural Resources council, of which he is chairman. New officers will be elected at the meeting, Hershey said Wednesday.

Lectures, demonstrations and discussions of remedial techniques and teaching methods will be conducted during the five-day session. One semester hour of graduate credit will be awarded.

Prof. Helen Robinson, director of reading clinics at University of Chicago, will participate in the workshop July 13. The workshop staff will consist of instructors from the college of education.
