If You Build a Better Mousetrap —

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP)—Tucked away in the basement of a huge convention hall is a new mousetrap that uses peanut butter as a lure.

The Brooklyn, Mich., manufacturer of the mousetrap says, "it does not mutilate the rodent, but suffocates it quickly." The trap is a boxlike affair of aluminum with an entrance large enough to permit Mr. Mouse to get his head and neck inside.

Once he nibbles on the bait, the mouse releases a guillotine-type catch which makes extraction of the head impossible.

The mousetrap is one of thousands of household gadgets that went on display Monday at the opening of the 13th national Housewares and Home Appliance exhibit.

House Kills Truman's Health Plan —

WASHINGTON (AP)—The house Monday killed President Truman's plan to create a new department of health, education and security.

It adopted a resolution of disapproval. That killed Mr. Truman's plan to create the department by use of his general government reorganization powers.

The resolution was approved 249 to 71.

The major organizations of physicians and dentists had opposed Mr. Truman's plan. They contended it would be a step toward government health insurance which they have fought as "socialized medicine."

Mormons' 'Deseret News' 100 Years Old

By THE CENTRAL PRESS
SALT LAKE CITY, UTAH — On the morning of June 15, 1850, four weary but excited men — one of them Brigham H. Young, nephew of his namesake — completed printing about 200 copies of an eight-page, leaflet-size newspaper called the "Deseret News."

One hundred years later, almost 100,000 subscribers in western states found in their mailboxes and on their porches a 152-page, colorful modern journal. It was the centennial edition of the present-day "Deseret News," a newspaper unique in the history of English language journalism.

The "Deseret News" is one of the several commercial enterprises of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints church, more commonly referred to as the Mormon or L. D. S. church. It is referred to by journalism historians as "the first successful religious daily in the English language."

Its uniqueness lies in its operation in the same manner as the non-sectarian papers with which it competes. Its theology is confined to a weekly supplement printed in mid-week and going to all daily subscribers, plus thousands who subscribe to it alone.

The centennial edition, considered to be the first news and picture summary by a newspaper covering so great a period, was highlighted with reproductions of historic front pages during the past 100 years.

The first edition, copies of which are on file in the church library, gave three of its 24 columns to doings in congress, where statehood of the provisional state of Deseret was then a vital issue. It also carried a headline reading "Terrible Fire in San Francisco."

The "Deseret News" first edition was printed with hand-set type on a crude press transported across the plains in an ox-drawn wagon in 1848.

Other reproductions headlined the death of Brigham Young, the assassination of Abraham Lincoln, Utah's admission to the Union, the great Schofield, Utah, mine disaster of 1900, the Armistice of 1918, and Charles Lindbergh's flight to Paris.

The newspaper continued as a weekly — with intermittent suspensions because of lack of newsprint — until 1867, when the daily was started. It was the first newspaper in the west between Santa Fe, N.M., and California.

It is virtually indistinguishable from any other newspaper, carrying comics, syndicated columns, and the standard features. However, because of Mormon teachings, it will not accept initially tobacco, coffee or liquor advertising, but will not censor tobacco ads in prepared store advertisements.

San Francisco Bridge Really a Gold Mine

By THE CENTRAL PRESS
SAN FRANCISCO — San Francisco's famed Golden Gate Bridge, longest suspension span in the world, is plagued by too much prosperity.

With $5.5 million in reserve, enough to pay off its non-callable bonds as they mature through 1957, plus $3.5-million in an insurance reserve, the directors recently reduced tolls from 50 cents per automobile to 40 cents.

Commuters living in Marin and other counties north of the bridge, who use it daily to reach their employment in San Francisco, have begun to bombard bridge directors with demands that their tolls likewise should be reduced.

Commuters now pay 40 cents per automobile with one driver for the daily round-trip. They are hopeful this rate might be cut to 25 cents. Directors admit that if traffic continues to grow other rate reductions will be made but at the moment they are reluctant to do any more cutting.

Thrown open to the public May 27, 1937, the bridge has carried a total of approximately 76.6-million vehicles since then.

The first fiscal year, July 1 to June 30, 1938, 3.3-million vehicles crossed the bridge. The number increased each year until the fiscal year 1943 when 5.3-million were recorded. In 1944 and 1945 there was a slump to 4.8-million and 4.7-million as certain war industries began to curtail.

Cables supporting the bridge are 36 inches in diameter and contain 80,000 miles of wire. Joseph B. Strauss, the chief engineer, saw those cables, in his mind's eye, spanning the Golden Gate during the years in which the project was debated throughout the district which later bonded itself to make the dream a reality.

Associated with Strauss in the design were two other famed engineers, O. H. Ammann and Leon S. Moisseiff, a team whose imagination admittedly shocked many more conservative engineers.

Financing of the bridge was conservative and enormous sums of money are being spent each year paying interest on non-callable bonds paying 4 3-4 and 3 3-4 percent interest.

As of June 30, 1950, $18,917,950 in interest will have been paid on the bonds. Only $3,260,000 of bonds have been retired so far, leaving a balance of $24.4-million of bond outstanding.

Currently only $400,000 of bonds is being retired each year. From 1952 through 1953, 800,000 will be paid off annually; from 1957 through 1961 $1.2 million; from 1962 to 1966, $1.6-million, and from 1967 to 1971, the last year, the annual total will be $2,800,000.

With gross operating revenue of $4.5-million this year, the bridge pays out $921,000 for maintenance. Paint, including labor, is the largest single item, $190,000.

Litigation instituted by ferry companies and other groups opposed to the bridge proved to be a boon to the structure. Originally set up in 1923, the bridge district was harassed by litigation until 1928. In 1930 the bonds were authorized. New litigation delayed approval of the bonds until 1932 and it was not until January, 1933, at the bottom of the depression, that construction began.

Labor and material costs were at their lowest level at that time, giving taxpayers and automobile owners an outstanding bargain.

Eye Witness Reports General Destruction Along Korean Front

By CHARLES CORDBRY — AN AMERICAN AIRFORCE BASE IN JAPAN (UP) — I have just returned from a flight over the North Korean lines and a survey of the situation in the front area generally.

I saw burned tanks, overturned trucks, other wrecked vehicles and burning buildings along the road in the neighborhood of Yongi, 17 miles northwest of Taejon.

I saw also United States infantry marching forward in squad-column formation, overtaking their armor — their first — which was strung along the highway. What appeared to be Howitzers, also the first, appeared to be firing at the North Koreans.

I found that the United States airforce now has a landing field near the front lines. It is an improvised dirt landing strip about a mile long, with a few tents and shacks. But it is going to get big. I found we now have a fighter base in Korea, too.

Already troop carrier airplanes are landing on the front area base with increasing frequency. Liaison planes take off from it to scout the enemy and aid fighter pilots in detecting targets.

While I was at the front base here came a report that Mustang fighters had again strated the American lines by mistake, and killed two men — due to the lack of properly functioning tactical control teams.

Fighters already are using this base. F-51 Mustangs are taking off from its dirt runway laden with rockets and napalm — gasoline jelly fire bombs — instead of having to go all the way from Japan.

Non-Communist Oath Doesn't Apply to AFL

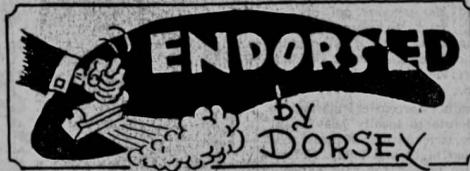

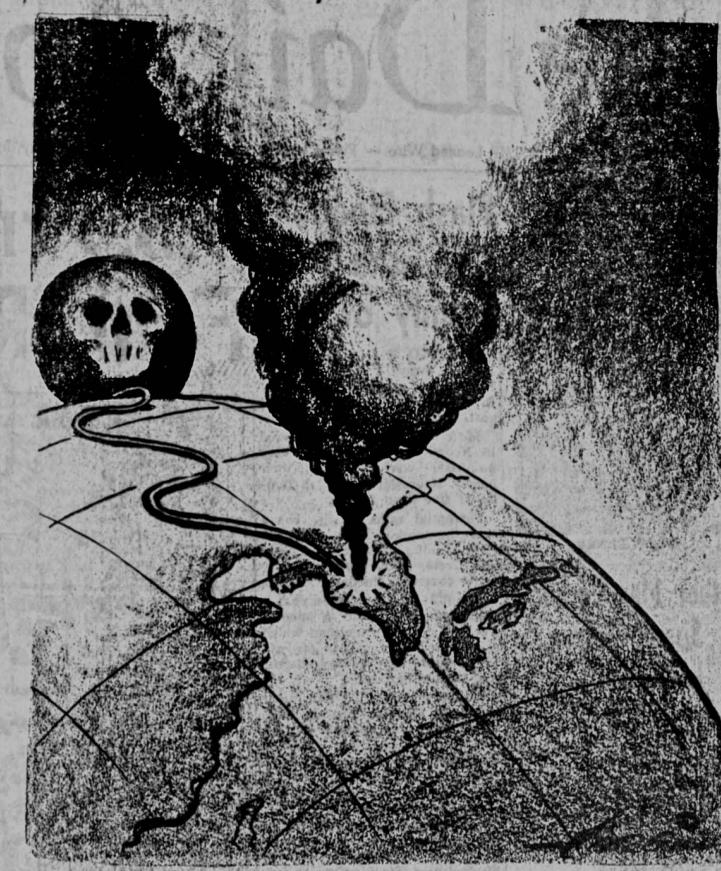

WASHINGTON (AP) — The District of Columbia circuit court of appeals ruled Friday that AFL officers don't have to file non-Communist affidavits under the Taft-Hartley law because they do not take part in collective bargaining or have authority to call strikes.

The precedent — making 2 to 1 decision conflicts with a recent ruling of the fifth circuit court of appeals in New Orleans. This held that CIO officials must file so their affiliated unions can use the services of the national labor relations board.

Presumably the issue will have to be decided eventually by the supreme court.

The decision likened the AFL's position to an employers' trade association.

Pray for Rain!

By TOM DORSEY

THE FUND for frail little Judy Ditmars, the six-year-old polio patient, who needs a wheel-stretcher so she can attend class and learn to "read and write" reached $115 late Monday.

The contributions for Judy are coming in slowly from all over Iowa.

One little Cedar Rapids girl sent her dollar with the following letter:

"Dear Judy,
"My name is _____
"I am sending you a dollar for your fund.
"I have a little sister who has cerebral palsy.
"I hope someday, someone will do the same for my little sister who is just 18 months old.
"Good luck, Judy. I hope this will help."
"This little girl gave — won't you? Send your contribution to: FUND FOR JUDY, IOWA CITY, IOWA."

WORTH REPEATING: Ed Wynn, the CBS-TV clown, tells of the girl who is so pretty that when she gets on a bus the advertising is a total loss.

RISE AND SHINE: Guys and gals who have been arriving late to early morning classes and coasting on that old alibi — "I forgot to set the alarm" — have been given a sharp jolt by an electric company.

A new automatic alarm clock which has to be set only once and thereafter wakes its owner at the same time every morning will soon make its appearance in local stores.

Another excuse down the drain, Hamm?

IT SEEMS TO ME: That before we take offense at criticism we ought to make sure that it was intended to be critical.

SOME GUYS TRY ANYTHING: An Iowa City boy reported the theft of his bicycle this week. He said he parked it early in the afternoon and when he returned at 11 p.m. it was gone.

Where did he have it parked? In the bicycle stand right in front of the police station. Nothing is safe around here anymore.

FAMILY SCRAMBLE: Francis Ruzsa became a stepbrother to his wife this week and his mother became his mother-in-law. This all resulted from a double wedding in which Ruzsa married Jean Dunasky and his mother, Mrs. Goldie Ruzsa married Jean's father, Frank.

"I'LL BE SEEN YA!" A jail prisoner prevailed on a Missouri jailer the other day to extend him credit for a package of cigarettes.

The next day, as the prisoner was taken from the jail, he told the jailer: "I'll pay you for those cigarettes when I get back."

The prisoner was being taken to the state penitentiary to serve a life term for murder.

BATTER UP: A fellow and his girl went to a baseball game in CR the other night. It was the first time for her.

"I love this game," said the girl. "I especially like watching the man at bat. It's so cunning, too, to observe the way in which he continues to strike the ground gently with the end of his bat. Why does he do that?"

"Well, dear," explained the beau. "It's this way: the worms, you see, have a most annoying habit of coming up to see who's batting. Naturally, that puts the batter out a trifle. So he just taps them on the head lightly and down they go again."

'Amber' Author Clicks Again

By Central Press
CHICAGO — There's a bewhiskered wheeze floating around the book world that a best seller never repeats.

Stunning refutation of this theory is dark-haired, dark-eyed Kathleen Winsor whose "Forever" she writes when she points out that she is on the cash register and whose "Star Money" is destined to do the same, having already hit the list as No. 2 in a country-wide survey.

Curious about this comely female whose typewriter is attuned to the public taste we ambled over to meet "Amber's" brain-mother and found a friendly, forthright, 31-year-old who has learned to answer the No. 1 question put to her: "Are you the heroine of your books?" with: "If I were, I wouldn't have had time to write them."

That point neatly dispensed with she adds that the reason she made the heroine of her new book a successful author is because: "I wanted a character I knew something about."

Currently, Kathleen is swearing off of busy heroines bursting their seams on the dust jackets of her books and confines her latest effort to paper as devoid of illustration as a post-sale bargain counter is of stock.

She admits she is fed up with people asking her why there is so much sex in her books and stops them cold with "Is there sex in life?"

Born in Minnesota, brought up in California, her poised and persistent good humor have you on her side when she points out that it would be more sporting of the literary critics to review her books than to review Miss Winsor, but then they seem to be equally engrossing.

She is mighty serious about this author business and thinks she has earned every inch of success that has slid her way since she was an 18-in-week sports writer for the Oakland, Calif., "Tribune" following graduation from the University of California.

World Scientists Join For Old Age Study

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
LIEGE, BELGIUM (AP) — Scientists from 14 nations Friday formed a new society to combat man's biggest medical problem — growing old.

And, said some, it is not too much to hope for 100 years of active, healthy life as the normal human life span.

The new society is "The International Association of the Gerontological Societies." Gerontology is the scientific study on why and how people wear out and grow old. Dr. E.V. Cowdry of Washington university, St. Louis, Mo., was made the president.

A main goal, he said, is "to add more life to our years."

The average life span is going up and every nation is getting a larger and larger proportion of older people. But these extra years are not all good ones. It is estimated that 40 percent more of people past 60 are invalids and about 57 percent at the age of 65. The percentage goes up with the years.

The new association will spur research and seek funds for research into the many different causes of aging — biological, medical and social.

Backyard Oil Changes Village

BELMONT, W. VA. — A portable oil well rig in the yard, rather than a television aerial rising from the roof, is the mark of distinction in tiny (pop. 150) Belmont.

The grimy derrick became the hallmark of the Belmont citizen's affluence after Brady Higgins innocently started digging a water well last winter.

The Higgins family had installed a shiny new bathroom in its pleasant little home on a one-acre plot. The cistern was continually running dry. So Brady, a 50-year-old sawmill operator, invested $500 in a well.

Instead of fresh water for the bathroom faucets, Higgins got a salt solution — and oil. It brought back the smell of "black gold" to the placid country air which had been undisturbed since the last oil boom in Belmont in the late 1890's.

Portable derricks began arriving by trucks, and backyards and front lawns of the countryside became dotted with them. Within a week's time, diggers would be down to pay sand — at depths of 175 to 285 feet.

The wells produce from three barrels to 80 barrels a day. For each gallon of oil, the salt water flow averages from three to four gallons, and producers are put to the expensive necessity of a separating process.

But say the slightly oil-crazed citizens of Belmont, what's a little salt water here and there when oil is bringing $3.25 — cash on the barrel head.

At the height of the madness, one could stand in the middle of Belmont's muddy main street and throw rocks in any direction. And without even a good throwing arm, hit as many wells as he has rocks. "Locations," they call them in the oil fields.

The fever, after more than three months at the boiling point, is subsiding but little. New companies are springing up. Oil men from a distance are keeping an interested eye on Pleasant county in general, and Belmont in particular. And, nearly everybody is digging, either in the front yard or behind the house.

St. Paul's Lutheran chapel, 404 E. Jefferson street, at 6:30 p.m. Sunday.

From 1939 until 1942, Miss Ludolph studied costume designing, but the Hitler regime considered that unessential. She turned to language study at Frankfurt university and later became an interpreter for Chaplain Edgar M. Kirschenmann of the U.S. army.

She became an organizer of German youth and helped the chaplain establish a Sunday school for German children. She also arranged meetings between the Frankfurt branch of the Walthers League (for American soldiers) and German youth groups.

To help her get training and an understanding of both the democratic and Lutheran spirit in America, a scholarship to Valparaiso university, Valparaiso, Ind., was arranged for her by Chaplain Kirschenmann.

She came to Valparaiso in February, 1949, to begin her studies in social work. When she completes that course, she plans to return to Germany to begin her work with German youth. She will work in cooperation with the military government and the Missouri Synod Lutheran church.

While she has been in the U.S., she has spoken to more than 90 groups and appeared on numerous radio programs. Her Iowa City trip will be sponsored by Gamma Delta of St. Paul's Lutheran church.

Seminarians Act as Psychopathic Attendants

Eight Episcopal seminary students, are getting first-hand experience in human problems by working as attendants at the SUI psychopathic hospital this summer.

The Seabury - Western Theological seminary of Evanston, Ill., sponsors this clinical training program, now in its fourth year at the hospital.

Under the 11-week program, the students, all training for the priesthood in the Episcopal church, will work as attendants and attend lectures by hospital staff members.

They will receive 14 hours credit for their work here. The program is not designed to make them specialists in psychiatry. Its purposes are:

1. To help them learn to recognize cases needing psychiatric treatment.

2. To enable them to interpret this need to the patient, his family and friends as an illness that can be treated.

3. To make it possible for them to work in cooperation with the psychiatrist when the patient is improved.

Teen-Agers Needed To Detassel Corn

A lack of elbow grease may prove harmful to this year's heavy corn crop.

Mrs. J.H. Verdin, head of the local Iowa state employment office, said Monday more than 100 teen-agers are needed in the Johnson county area to detassel the 1950 hybrid seed corn crop, which will be ready Saturday.

She said she has received numerous applications from youngsters who are either too small or too young.

"Just the other day," Mrs. Verdin said, "I had a boy, who was no taller than the position of the door knob in my office, inquiring about a detasseling job. Of course, I had to turn him away."

Teen-agers wishing to detassel corn for about two or three weeks may contact Mrs. Verdin at the local employment office. The only qualifications are that they be over fifteen, tall, and able to do the farm work.

...sical examinations which SUI elm trees are receiving have nothing to do with the July 1 cloudburst damage. R. J. Phillips, superintendent of maintenance, said Monday.

"We try to do this every year. During the war we got behind and we are attempting to catch up," he said.

The trees are being cared for by Andrew Howard, tree surgeon. Ottumwa. Howard has a crew of five men working on the project. Phillips said the crew will concentrate on the east campus elm trees in the vicinity of East hall. However, other trees which are in need of emergency attention will also undergo repairs.

Howard conducts a three-fold operation, Phillips said. Dead limbs will be removed, cavities filled with cement and "bleeders" (trees which are emitting fluid) tapped and drained.

The Ottumwa firm will work here for three weeks. This marks its third appearance on the SUI campus and its work has always been "very satisfactory," Phillips said.

Phillips said. SUI does not call for formal bids on tree surgery. Several firms were contacted, however, and Howard's price seemed the most satisfactory, he said.

Local companies were not employed because "there are no tree surgeons in Iowa City, or at least we haven't been able to find any," he said.

Dead branches will be taken to the city dump. "Elm is not very good for firewood and we can't even give it away," Phillips said.

Robin Roberts Vs. Yanks' Vic Raschi

CHICAGO (P) — Hank Sauer, "the peoples' choice," will occupy center field for the National league today when the Phils' Robin Roberts faces Yankee Vic Raschi in the 17th all-star game. Trailing 12-4 in the embarrassing series, the National is a 9-5 underdog against the booming home run power of Ted Williams and Co.

Despite the lopsided odds, a capacity crowd of 49,000 will jam Comiskey Park, site of the original all-star game in 1933. Millions more will watch and listen to television and radio reports. Game time is 1:30 p.m. with receipts going to the players' pension fund.

Manager Burt Shotton of the Nationals will find himself in hostile surroundings because of the Sauer controversy. That didn't sit well with Chicago fans. Shotton, finding himself without a center fielder in the fans' vote, tried to sideline the Cubs' Sauer for his own Dodger Duke Snider. First the officials said "yes." Then they changed their minds. When the 781,533 fans who voted for Sauer started to shout, Hank went back in the lineup.

Here is the batting order, announced by Manager Shotton and Casey Stengel:

A COUPLE OF STRONG RIGHTHANDERS, Vic Raschi (left) of the New York Yankees, and Robin Roberts of the Philadelphia Phillies have been named as rival starting pitchers in today's 17th annual major league all-star game at Chicago's Comiskey Park. Raschi, sporting a 10-6 season's record, was chosen by Yankee manager Casey Stengel who will pilot the American League. National League Manager Burt Shotton of the Brooklyn Dodgers selected the 23-year-old Roberts, winner of 11 games, as his starting mound choice.

Carlson, Crabbe Lead State Golf Tournament

MASON CITY (P) — Skip Carlson, who just finished his career at Iowa, and Tom Crabbe Jr., just beginning his, tied for medalist honors at the state amateur golf tournament Monday.

The leaders of the 64 qualifiers shot 70s, two under par, for the Mason City country club course. Carlson, now living at Britt, made a mid-afternoon appearance on the scoreboard with his performance.

Crabbe, a 19-year-old Cedar Rapids lad who won the state junior title in 1949, worked on the late shift. He missed a 12-foot putt on the home green for a birdie four and a 69.

Crabbe narrowly missed winning the Waterloo Open tournament Sunday. He and Wally Ulrich, Austin, Minn., pro, were tied at 136 at the end of the regula-

Union Cafeteria to House Student Organizations' Offices

The cafeteria at the Iowa Union will be turned into a student activity center when the $3.5-million addition becomes a reality. The 8,000 square foot area now occupied by the cafeteria will be used to accommodate over 27 student organizations and hold up to 100 students in conferences, according to Prof. Earl E. Harper, union director.

The purpose of the area is to be available in a location free from interference, offices and headquarters for all approved student organizations which may carry their activities in the Union, Harper said.

The plans call for at least 27 student activity cubicles. Each will be complete with desk, chairs, and table space.

All sections will be soundproofed, air-cooled, well lighted, and equipped for plug-telephones.

The lounge area in the center of the building will afford places for casual conferences. The reception desk in the center will supervise the coordination of the area.

In addition to the lounge and individual units, a large file and storage room will be provided for storage of equipment.

A workshop area will be adjacent to the activities area. This will allow organizations to conduct their projects near the center of planning.

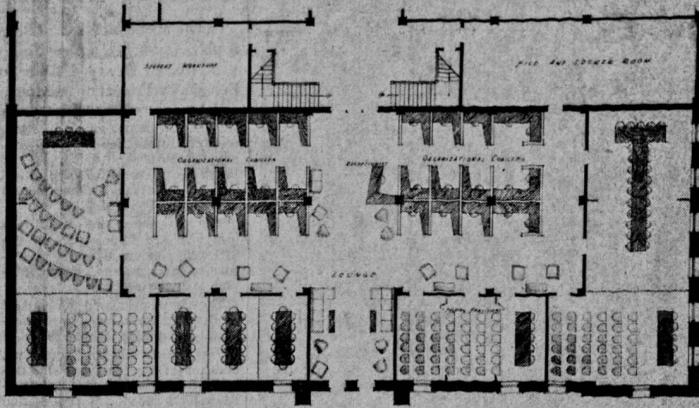

Another feature of the area will be a private entrance, easily accessible from the River room, theampus room and the main lounge floor above.

The contract to draw up the plans for the addition was awarded June 10. Construction is expected to begin in the fall of 1950, Harper said.

Marriage Licenses

Marriage licenses were issued in county clerk's office to Paul Louquist and Maud Viola Matti, both of Iowa City; Charles R. Chase, Chicago, and Patty Gram, Cedar Rapids; Jessie A. Buehl and Rome G. Hanscn, both of Hickman, Neb.; Shirley Hash, Peoria, Ill., and Henry Brittingham, Burlington, Ill.

Raymond Springsteen, Davenport, and Carol Hines, Moline, Ill.; Paul Thomas Neider and Delores Perkins, both of Iowa City, and Dale L. Franz and Lorraine Albershasky, both of Iowa City.

STUDENTS WILL MEET INSTEAD OF EAT on this 8,000 square foot area now occupied by the cafeteria, when the Iowa Union's $3.5 million addition becomes a reality. The student area will be able to handle up to 400 people in hourly conferences. Twenty-seven student organizations will be provided with cubicles (see artist's sketch, left) which will include desk, chairs, phone, and table space. Lounge area and workshop space will also be provided.

Postponement Given In Assault Hearing

Robert H. (Red) Goody, 807 Maiden Lane, Monday as granted an indefinite postponement by Police Judge Emil G. Troit of a hearing on a charge of assault and battery.

Goody is charged with beating up Elmer LaVora Sunday at LaVora's home, 807 Maiden Lane.

In other action, Harold L. Hurd, 1027 Rochester street, was fined $12.50 for driving a vehicle without a valid operator's license.

He was found not guilty of another charge of driving with defective brakes. However, he is not to move his truck until it is checked for safety by the highway patrol.

Running a stop light at Jefferson and Burlington streets Saturday brought a $12.50 fine to John

No Director Yet To Draft Board

Iowa City draft officials said Monday they had received no directive from state selective service headquarters to begin drafting men.

Questions on individual draft status have poured into the Johnson county selective service offices, on the third floor of the Iowa City courthouse, they said.

Draft regulations state that all men between the ages of 18 to 25 inclusive are required to register with selective service officials in their locality.

According to present laws, a man cannot be drafted until he reaches the age of 19.

Father-of-Four Coaxed Down from Silo Perch

GRAETTINGER, IOWA (AP). — A creamery worker who had perched for nearly 24 hours atop a 32-foot silo was coaxed down Monday.

He was identified by Deputy Sheriff T. J. McCaffery as George Torrence, 35, the father of four children. He said Torrence recently suffered a nervous breakdown.

Until this morning, Torrence had a pitch-fork. He brandished this when rescuers came too close as they climbed up the silo to plead with him. Later he lost the fork.

STUDENT HEALTH

A total of 36,793 students consulted SUI's family doctor, student health, last year. This figure covers June 30, 1949, to July 1, 1950, Dr. C. I. Miller, director of student health, said. Total for the previous fiscal year was 38,800 students.

Pneumatic Tubes Being Installed in Veterans' Hospital

The nerves of the new Veterans' hospital are now being installed, Ralph Brooks, resident engineer for the army engineers, said Monday.

The nerves — pneumatic tubes four inches in diameter — will carry 12-inch metal message capsules throughout the thirteen story building. In a few seconds, these capsules can be shot pneumatically from one part of the hospital to another, Brooks said.

Steam pipes on the fourth floor are now being roughed in. On the first and second floors, window sashes have been put in, and the all-steel casement window frames are now being put up.

Pulverizing Equipment
On the fifth floor, equipment for the pulverization of ashes from the furnaces is being put in the ash silo.

The ash silo is a five story bin where the pulverized ashes are stored before being hauled away by truck.

Brooks said the ninth floor concrete work has been finished, and forms for the pouring of the tenth floor are now being put up. The stairs have been finished as far as the eighth floor.

In the basement of the building the three boilers which will supply steam to the entire building have been completely installed and tested. Two of the boilers have already been encased in their brick fireboxes, he said.

Work which has been done in the basement includes installation of bunkers for coal storage, and pumping out of water in preparation for drying the dirt floor so concrete can be poured, he said.

Apartment Building
In the laundry and parking building, the inside lathwork has been completed in preparation for plastering, and a five-inch high green terrazzo base is being put in along the walls, Brooks said.

In the apartment building, which will house interns, nurses, and the management staff, the brick-work has been completed for the first floor. The second floor concrete will probably be poured next week, he said.

Mrs. Manning and her small daughter were evacuated from Seoul where Capt. Manning was on duty as a member of the Korean advisory board at the time of the Red invasion.

New SUI Library on the Up and Up Thanks to Modern Machinery

HARD WORK IS MADE EASY at the new SUI library with the use of this gasoline powered wheelbarrow. August Wehmyer of Lone Tree poured a load of wet concrete into the barrow operated by Jim Graham, 111 S. Governor street. With the use of this machine, and two others, the number of men required to pour concrete has been reduced from 13 to six. Formerly, three men were needed to haul a load of wet concrete up ramps in the building, one pulling and two pushing. Now, a man to steer, and the use of a little gasoline, and the work is quickly accomplished.

AROUND AND AROUND SHE GOES, and the result is a smooth concrete floor in the new SUI library building. John Niles, Cedar Rapids, who is operating the gasoline powered trowel, said the machine enables him to put a final finishing polish on seven to eight-thousand square feet of freshly poured concrete in the average working day. He said it not only gives the flooring a mirror smooth finish, but also helps bring out moisture and close the pores of the concrete.

'Bartered Bride' Cast with Authentic Touch

An 81-year-old "bride" is causing quite a stir in the Czechoslovakian communities at Iowa City and Cedar Rapids.

The bride is Prodana Nevelsa — "The Bartered Bride" of Smetana's three act opera, to be presented at SUI July 26 through July 28 as the feature of the 1950 fine arts festival.

Written in 1869, the opera holds a dominant place in Czechoslovakian culture and is considered a national work according to Prof. Earl E. Harper, director of the school of fine arts.

The fact that this area has a large Czechoslovakian population did not influence the choice of the work, Harper said.

The choice was made solely on the basis of the music and the ease with which the libretto could be translated into English.

Enthusiastic Reception

"However," he said, "we have been pleasantly surprised by the enthusiastic reception the local Czechoslovakian population has given to the production. Several groups have offered their services in authenticating the show."

For example, the Sokol organization of Cedar Rapids has agreed to send four couples to dance in the musical numbers of the opera, and has hired Milida Prechal of Chicago to train the SUI dancers.

(The Sokol is the Czechoslovakian organization devoted to serving the physical, educational and cultural needs of the Czechoslovakian people, and to the preservation of traditions. The organization was founded in 1863 and the Cedar Rapids group dates back to 1877.)

Translation Checked

Mrs. Mary L. Walsh, SUI audiovisual department, has checked the translation to see that it retains the spirit which Smetana intended in the original. Prof. Harold C. Crain, dramatics director said.

Setting of the opera is a restaurant and street scene in a Bohemian village. It is "artificial and brittle" to correspond with the comic scene, Prof. Arnold Gillette, who designed the set, explained.

This set is not an exact replica of a Czech town, but was designed from authentic Bohemian models.

The production includes tumblers and chorus dancers. They are being trained by Norman "Dick" Holzapfel, SUI gymnastics coach and Prof. Dudley Ashton, of the women's physical education department.

Authentic Costumes

Authentic Czech costumes have been rented from a Chicago firm. Costuming is under the direction of Helen Forest Lauterer, visiting lecturer in speech who is being assisted by Ethelyn Pauley, graduate assistant in dramatic arts.

The cast and production crews number well over 150 persons. This includes an orchestra of 45 persons directed by Prof. Philip Greeley Clapp, head of the SUI music department.

A 37 voice mixed chorus has been trained by Prof. Herald I. Stark who will conduct the opera.

Lighting is under the direction of Walter S. Dewey, lecturer in dramatic arts.

Marie, the lead, will be double cast with Victoria Sedlacek, A. Cedar Rapids and Lura Reed, G. Danville, singing the role.

Pool Room Clue Proves 'False' Alarm

BALTIMORE (AP)—When Baltimore vice squad chief, Alexander Emerson, burst into a pool room recently he saw Frank Jaromin cram something into his mouth.

"Spit it up," ordered Captain Emerson, suspecting destruction of numbers game evidence. Jaromin lowered his head, jaws working. "Give me what you have in your mouth," barked the officer.

This time the man complied, Emerson told Magistrate Leroy Shaughnessy, who then dismissed the lottery charges.

Gleaming in Emerson's palm were Jaromin's false teeth.

Lagomarcino Firm Accused by FTC

WASHINGTON (AP)—The federal trade commission Monday accused the Lagomarcino - Grupe Co. and Davenport brokerage company, both of Davenport, and stockholders of each corporation with violation of the brokerage section of the Clayton anti-trust act.

Lagomarcino - Grupe is one of the largest wholesalers of food products in the midwest. It owns a substantial stock interest in Lagomarcino - Grupe Fruit company, Galesburg, Ill., and operates branches in Iowa City, Creston, Ottumwa, Burlington, Cedar Rapids, Clinton, Muscatine, Fort Madison and Keokuk.

The commission said Lagomarcino - Grupe buys all or nearly all its food products through Davenport brokerage which, the complaint says, receives brokerage fees on these transactions from the sellers.

Mr. Average Citizen Should Know — Role of Economics in Society

The average citizen must understand economics and the part it plays in society, a New York educator said here Saturday.

Prof. C. Derwood Baker, chairman of the Joint Council on Economics Education, addressed participants in the SUI workshop.

Baker, of the New York university department of education, originated the idea of such economics workshops after it was found the present-day high school fails to pay much attention to economics.

The 55 teachers and administrators who are taking part in the SUI program are expected to return to their schools better equipped to teach economics.

They have discussed methods of conducting workshops on community and high school levels.

Prof. Baker told the group that, because of the controversial nature of some of the issues involved, schools need full cooperation of community leaders in developing such programs.

The present SUI workshop is an outgrowth of a similar meeting at New York university in 1948, which was attended by N. D. McCombs, superintendent of Des Moines public schools, and J. E. Stonecipher, director of secondary education, Des Moines public schools.

McCombs and Stonecipher in 1949 formed the Iowa council, with the cooperation of business, education and labor leaders. It was the first regional council developed and affiliated with the national group.

McCombs is a member of the national council board of trustees, and Stonecipher is co-director of the SUI workshop.

Prof. C. Woody Thompson, director of the SUI Bureau of Business and Economic Research, is chairman of the Iowa council. Other workshops on economic education will be held this summer in Minnesota, Tennessee, Wisconsin, Michigan, New York, Pennsylvania, Florida and Indiana.

TV Makers Hold Chicago Convention

CHICAGO (AP)—Many TV manufacturers undraped their new fall lines Monday at the opening of the convention and market of the National Association of Music Merchants.

The emphasis was on lower prices, bigger pictures and handier cabinets.

Luxury in receiving sets wasn't missing, however.

Du Mont showed a 30-inch direct view tube, which won't be delivered until September and is still unpriced. The monster tube is shallow enough to fit into cabinet not much larger than present 19-inch console. A Du Mont spokesman estimated the eventual price at around $1,000.

Du Mont also showed a combination that does everything but scratch your back. It has AM, FM radio, a three-speed recorder changer, 19-inch television, a tape recorder, and "clock selector," which can be set to select programs in advance. This number won't be delivered until November and is expected to sell for "under $1,500."

Larson's Crusade Cuts Tax Revenue

DES MOINES (AP)—Atty. Gen. Robert L. Larson's anti-gambling drive is having results on the division of internal revenue.

That is the division of the federal treasury that collects taxes for coin-operated gaming machines. So far this fiscal year the division's Iowa office has received no applications for tax stamps.

Last year 893 places in Iowa paid $100 each for a federal stamp to operate the machines. Coin-operated gambling devices are illegal under state law but up until last fall the law was not rigidly enforced.

The 1949-50 stamps expired June 30. Internal revenue officials don't expect any applications because of Larson's drive.

The attorney general announced a few weeks ago, he would investigate the place of business of anyone applying for a federal tax stamp.
