House Stifles 'Point Four' Plan for U.S. Investments

WASHINGTON (AP) — The house stiff-armed a new plea from President Truman Tuesday and tied up in restrictive knots his "point four" proposal to guarantee American investments abroad.

Then it put off a final vote until today when Republicans will try to kill the whole thing.

Rep. Jesse Wolcott (R-Mich.) said, with action so limited by amendments, the bill is "meaningless" anyway. He will try to have it sent back to the committee where it probably will die.

The $250-million proposal is part of the Truman program for helping underdeveloped areas abroad raise their living standards and bolster their economies. The guarantees would be given for investment in enterprises considered useful in that direction.

The plan is a companion to one for provision of technical aid and American know-how for the same purpose. The President made some headway Tuesday with an effort to get more money for the latter program than the $10-million the Senate appropriations committee voted for it.

A direct written plea to the house on the investment guarantee phase of the foreign program, however, showed no signs of success.

Union Board Cancels All-University Dance

"Summer Serenade," the all-university dance scheduled for Saturday night, has been canceled due to a lag in ticket sales.

Dean Fritch, C4, Decorah, said the decision to call off the dance was made because by Tuesday only 22 tickets had been sold. Fritch is a member of the Union board, which, with the central party committee, was sponsoring the event.

"To break even on the dance, at least 280 tickets had to be sold," Fritch said.

Money will be refunded Thursday and Friday mornings at the information desk in the Union.

The River room will be open Saturday night for dancing to juke box music, Fritch added.

Two Iowan Staffers To Leave Today On Army Press-Lift

Two Daily Iowan staff members will leave Iowa City today for Camp McCoy, Wis., in an air-force C-47 as a part of the fifth army's press-lift.

John A. Sundberg, G, Iowa City, chief photographer, and Barney Seibert, G, Chicago, reporter, will spend two days at the Wisconsin summer training center.

Stories and pictures of Iowa City reservists and university ROTC trainees will be filed from Camp McCoy.

Sundberg is a former airforce crew-chief who received his B.A. at SUI in 1949. Seibert is a cavalry and field artillery veteran of the south Pacific.

The press-lift is an annual fifth army public relations venture. The army assumes all expenses and the newsmen are flown to training camps for a two-day stay.

This will mark the second consecutive year The Daily Iowan is participating in the press-lift.

SUI Plastic Surgeon Awarded Fellowship

Dr. William C. Huffman, assistant professor of otolaryngology, SUI college of medicine, has received the first traveling fellowship sponsored by the college's Central Scientific fund.

Huffman, a plastic surgeon at University hospitals, is studying the latest plastic surgery techniques at Atlanta, Ga.

The fellowship is meant to bring the latest medical information to SUI.

The annual grant was approved by the board of education in June. It is to provide one year of special study to qualified faculty members.

The Central Scientific fund, used to foster research and teaching, is derived from consultation services of the professional staff of the college.

Labor Agrees to Aid Manpower Controls

WASHINGTON (AP) — Labor leaders agreed Tuesday to help War Mobilization Chief W. Stuart Symington plan manpower controls for use in case a major war breaks out.

In turn, they demanded the right to "full and adequate" representation of any war agencies that may be set up — labor or otherwise — and indicated they received a favorable response.

Americans Driven Back To Vital Defense Line

Kum River Last Natural Barrier Before Taejon

TOKYO (WEDNESDAY) (UPI) — American troops, battered by Communist tanks and greater forces of infantry, have fallen back to the vital Kum river defense line protecting the temporary South Korean capital of Taejon, Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced today.

The Americans who were caught in a North Korean "avalanche" of troops spearheaded by 80 tanks have fallen back across the Kum defense line to make a new stand against the invaders.

The Kum river is the last natural barrier of any consequence between the Communists and Taejon, which is less than 15 miles south of the river.

Advance to 7 Miles

In his afternoon communiqué, MacArthur said the North Koreans in the west section, where the Americans are fighting, had advanced from four to seven miles.

In the central area, south of Chungju, the Communists drove South Korean troops back 5 to 10 miles.

"The withdrawal of the South Koreans to a new position has been orderly," the communiqué said.

MacArthur confirmed that a number of North Koreans in the invasion forces were troops who had fought with the Chinese Communists in Manchuria. Earlier front reports had estimated the number of these veterans of the Chinese civil war at 75,000.

Threatened Encirclement

The communiqué said the Americans and the South Koreans holding the right flank had fallen back because of the enemy's pressure on the front and because of the threat of an encirclement of a unit of a South Korean division.

In a special communiqué MacArthur said he had documentary proof that the North Koreans had shot four American soldiers who had their hands tied behind their backs.

He said he holds the North Korean leaders responsible for permitting these "uncivilized actions" and that those who committed the atrocities are subject to military trial and the death penalty as war criminals. The shootings, he said, were "barbarity and murder."

War at a Glance

TOKYO — American troops fall back toward Kum river line; 80 Communist tanks roll up Yank positions; North Koreans lob shells across Kum defenses.

Washington — Gen. Douglas MacArthur relays grim word to congress — be prepared for long, tough fight; senator says other UN nations to send troops into battle.

London — British Ambassador Sir David Kelly calls on Gromyko in Moscow and appeals to Russia to help end Korean war; India also planning mediation effort.

Week of Withdrawals, Losses For U.S. Forces in Korea

By TOM LAMBERT

WITH AMERICAN FORCES IN SOUTH KOREA (AP) — One week ago Tuesday U.S. armed forces went into action in the South Korean war against communism. The week has been one of American withdrawal and losses.

For one week surprisingly strong North Korean forces have mauled one of the most powerful nations on earth. A review of General MacArthur's communiques and statements of an advanced communiqué spokesman discloses that the Americans have been pushed back and back since they went into the lines.

There are various reasons for this. We were not prepared for this fight. In fact it is extremely doubtful that we knew the Red invasion was coming. We have underestimated the North Koreans, as has been, and will be, admitted by U.S. soldiers and generals alike.

Affected Morale

The withdrawals and losses here have affected the morale of the soldiers who, like all Americans, hate to lose a fight. In their outcries against what has happened here this past week, men and officers complain:

Our force is not strong enough.

We are outnumbered.

The air force has let them down by failing to halt every Red tank on Korea's roads.

We are being committed in a piecemeal and haphazard fashion.

Our mounted equipment is not powerful enough to halt the rice-paddy-treading, hill-climbing Reds from North Korea — half guerrilla but well trained.

Cost High

Everyone here is confident the North Koreans are in for the jolt of their lives when we get set and start moving north. In the meantime we have lost ground which must be retaken — at a cost. And the cost is high.

Our soldiers, generally speaking, seem to have no stomach for this war. This is a personal opinion, but I doubt if many of them here know that in fighting the Reds themselves.

An occasional soldier mentions Russia and communism, of course, and some of them wonder if the third world war has started here. Many of them think, however, the South Koreans should fight their own battle and seemingly would care little if this country fell to the Reds.

But the Americans are learning something here. They are learning that a Communist enemy is an implacable, deadly enemy with no thought for life.

Coe College President Submits Resignation

CEDAR RAPIDS (UPI) — Byron Hollinshead, president of Coe college, asked his board of trustees Tuesday to accept his resignation, effective Jan. 1.

Head of the college since 1945, Hollinshead said in submitting his resignation that he had "long wished to escape the weight" of responsibility and physical demands of the presidency.

Excise Tax Cuts Delayed in Senate —

WASHINGTON (P)—Majority Leader Lucas (D-Ill.), said Tuesday the "grave" Korean situation has delayed plans for speedy senate action upon a billion dollar excise tax slashing bill.

Lucas told reporters he still hopes to get the housepassed tax revision before the senate for action, but now does not expect it to follow senate action on the multi-billion appropriations now pending.

His comments came after a two hour closed-door strategy session of the Democratic policy committee.

Lucas said he expected the senate to complete action on the huge appropriations bill this week.

Farmers Reduce Corn Acreage —

DES MOINES (P)—Iowa farmers have reduced their corn acreage 14 percent this year in comparison with 1949, at the same time boosting their soybean acreage 41 percent.

Some farmers put soybeans on their corn land after government allotments were announced in an effort to cut down on corn surpluses.

Iowa farmers also held back 52 percent of their 1949 corn crop, the third largest record of stocks on farms as of July 1. Only in 1940 and 1949 were corn stocks on farms July 1, more than the current figure which is estimated at 276,483,000 bushels.

The Iowa crop and livestock reporting service gave these statistics Tuesday. It said Iowa has 9,721,000 acres of corn now for harvest, compared with 11,303,000 harvested in 1949. This brings the Iowa corn acreage back close to the 1942 level when 9,568,000 acres were harvested, the service's records showed.

Captured American Reported on Red Radio —

WASHINGTON (P)—A man claiming to be a captured U.S. army officer has delivered a Communist propaganda speech over the North Korean radio station at Seoul, it was disclosed Tuesday.

American monitors said the speaker identified himself as Capt. Ambrose Nugent, assigned to the 24th U.S. infantry division.

(The army said there is a Capt. Ambrose Nugent, whose home is listed as South Center avenue, Merrill, Wis. But there was no confirmation here that he had been captured in Korea.)

Monitors said the speaker called on American troops to oppose the "capitalist monopolists of the United States" in their "barbarous aggressive action" in Korea.

He spoke slowly in a tired, halting, toneless voice," hesitating over several words in the speech, the monitors said. The voice was a deep baritone. The monitors thought it sounded like that of a person who had lived in America at least long enough to lose any trace of a foreign accent.

National League Problem —

According to tradition, the teams leading in the major leagues on July 4, will win the pennants. The date passed this year without any team in the National league enjoying a real advantage. Four clubs—Philadelphia, St. Louis, Boston and Brooklyn—were all bunched near the top. This congestion could very easily continue throughout the season.

North Korean's Equipment Better, Heavier

By PETER KALISCHER

TOKYO (P)—The North Koreans are not supermen, but to date they have better and heavier equipment than the American units facing them. And there are many more of them.

That is the answer to the question why the Americans are being shoved around.

I've witnessed the Communist offensive from 150 yards and their tactics are bold and tenacious, backed by tanks, guns and artillery which the Americans simply do not have in the field.

Russian 40-ton tanks mount rapid-firing 76 or 88 millimeter guns which last week smashed an American 105 mm artillery placement like a marshmallow.

Tanks Use Blitz Tactics

The general Red tactics are to bring up anywhere from 10 to 30 tanks under cover of darkness and then punch straight through along a main road—preferably in rainy or cloudy weather when the American airforce is blind.

As has happened twice, the Americans' positions are overrun before they know what is happening—and too late for the airforce to strike.

Reports that the Russians are manning tanks have not been confirmed to date. One American sergeant who knocked out a tank with a bazooka reported that two

Korean War Prelude To European Attack By Reds: DeGaulle

Gen. Charles de Gaulle, who saw many of the pitfalls of World War II, discusses the current world crisis and his proposals for meeting it in the following interview with United Press Vice-President for Europe A. L. Bradford. It is the first interview de Gaulle has granted since 1945 when he still was in power in France.

By A.L. BRADFORD

PARIS (P)—The western world must prepare for a war with Russia, Gen. Charles de Gaulle told me Tuesday.

In an exclusive interview at his home outside Paris—the first he has granted in five years—de Gaulle said the Communist adventure in Korea was preparation for a Soviet attack on Europe.

He stressed the weakness of the western powers and urged sweeping rearmament to meet the danger.

Europe is in "mortal peril," said the French leader who, in the opinion of observers, is more likely than ever to come back to power through elections that may be hastened by repeated political crises.

"We are a coalition," de Gaulle said. Emphasizing that Europe first must be covered as the advance danger zone.

Back Truman's Stand

Germany should be included in the system of western strategy, he said, but on the basis, first, of an accord between France and Germany, to be followed by a federation of Europe to include Germany.

Spain should not be left out of the western security system, in the opinion of de Gaulle.

Describing the attack against South Korea as a "signal of alarm which is reverberating around the world," de Gaulle said President Truman and Gen. Douglas MacArthur should receive the credit for the decision to resist Communist aggression.

"God only knows whether war is inevitable between Russia and the west. For the world is harassed not only by ambitions of domination but also by currents which have escaped the control of mankind. Therefore we should expect the worst and do everything necessary to win if the worst takes place. Perhaps that is the way to avoid the conflict."

A Bombs Not Enough

"Be strong," de Gaulle exclaimed in reply to my questions as to what the west should do to prepare for the worst.

"And in a manner to dominate the situation rather than be dominated by it," he added.

"They say that atomic weapons suffice to guarantee our side of liberty. But that is not true.

"Soviet Russia is preparing also.

"Furthermore, various nations are so placed geographically that they can succumb before the ultimate resort to the atom bomb has produced its effect. Such peoples would become hostages. Would not they thus suffer the most, directly or through reprisals, from atomic bombardments?

"No matter what happens it would always be necessary to hold or capture the territory involved, as we already have seen in Indo-China and Korea. In other words, in addition to maintaining at all costs its atomic superiority, the west must have armies capable, whenever necessary, of protecting all parts of its territory and to take the initiative wherever indicated."

Longer Life Span For Children Born Of Young Mothers

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

LIEGE, BELGIUM (P)—The younger your mother was when you were born, the longer you may expect to live, a new study shows.

If she was 20 or 25, you may get 10 to 15 years more of life than if she was 40.

It does not make any difference how old your father was. His age at your birth does not count in offering you these extra years of life.

This peculiar effect of a mother's age on her children's length of life was reported Tuesday by Dr. Eeva Jalavisto, professor of physiology at the University of Helsinki, Finland, to the first conference of gerontologists—the study of aging.

Dr. Jalavisto studied the birth and death records of 18,000 Swedish and Finnish men and women born between the years 1800 and 1850.

A child born when the mother was 24 or younger lived an average of six or seven years longer than a child born to a woman of 40 or more, she said. The mother's youth gave the child an extra seven years of life on the average.

The average life span at that time was about 43 years for girls and slightly less for boys. Today the average life span is much higher, being over 65 years in the United States.

GI's Escape Enemy Territory

By WILLIAM R. MOORE

AN ADVANCED AMERICAN COMMAND POST IN KOREA (P)—Sgt. David Colombe, 34, a Sioux Indian from Winner, S.D., and Cpl. Van Bullman, 21, of Alexander, N.C., walked into this command post Sunday and reported they had been playing hide and seek with North Korean troops since July 5.

Stranded deep in enemy territory by a Red tank penetration, they had slipped along a mountain ridge between valleys full of Communist soldiers in order to reach the front and get back to U.S. forces.

"We went out on the Fourth of July and they attacked on the fifth," related Bullman. "We were on these two hills," he said, pointing to his knees, "and they came through just like this." He sliced his hands between his knees.

Bullman said Americans fired bazookas at the 32 tanks in the Red column, but "never stopped one of them."

"We knew the Red infantry would be along behind, so all of us got on one hill."

The Red infantry passed on both sides of the hill and all but encircled it.

"There must have been a thousand of them for sure," the corporal continued. "The only way out was covered by crossfire—and that's where we got out."

Bullman said enemy fire spat at them every time they moved. Repeatedly they ran short distances and dived for cover as bullets kicked up ground around them.

"We must have played dead five or six times," Bullman said.

They crawled down a valley and were nearly exhausted when they reached a village where a 16-year-old Korean boy, able to speak English, let them stay in his home. The boy's frightened parents asked them to leave about 4 a.m. They joined the South Korean troops later in the day.

The Koreans were able to get rice from friendly villages along the way. About 4 a.m. Saturday the party reached the front line and slipped under a bridge held by the Reds. From then on it was only a matter of more walking.

Without the present Russia, the UN might just be able to do a large part of the job for which it was intended, until the day when it can be rounded into a real world "cooperative" with the admission of the Chinese Reds.

The UN has demonstrated that, without Russia, it is a real force in organizing the defense of peace.

Without the "police force" which was originally planned, it has found a way to provide one through the group action of its members.

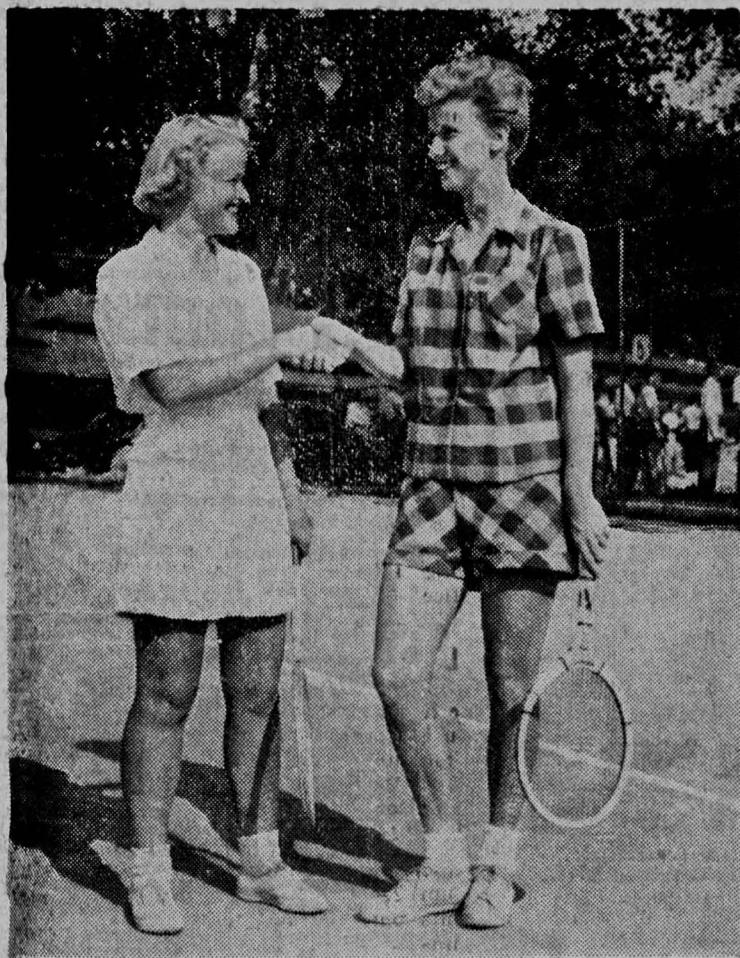

Russia, then, can be expected to boycott this fall's general assembly, in which the Nationalist Chinese will continue to participate. And she might leave for good.

There is a great deal more complicity about this prospect in United Nations circles than was the case just a month ago, although Lie is reported clinging to his "peace program" which includes urging Russia back to the council tables through admission of the Chinese Reds.

Tennis Players Take Time Out From Tourney

Pausing for a cool drink between sets, the girls said they were enjoying the tournament. They said they always play doubles together, practice together and know each other's weaknesses. This is their second year in midwest tournaments. Ruth is a sophomore and Elizabeth a junior in high school.

Mrs. Gibson, 23, is a secretary at the Home Federal Savings and Loan association in Des Moines. She spends her annual two-week vacation playing in tournaments, and has participated in women's singles and doubles, and mixed doubles.

Miss Popple, 26, teaches in a Spokane, Wash., high school, but spends her summers in Des Moines, and in playing tennis. She won the women's singles championship in the Missouri Valley tournament last year.

She has also played in the Heart of America tournament in Kansas City; the Southwest open tournament in Little Rock, Ark.; the Southern Championship at Louisville, Ky., and in the doubles and mixed doubles in Iowa State college. She arrived too late for the Missouri Valley singles, she said.

American husbands are polygamists, in an innocent sort of way, according to conclusions reached in a recent magazine article.

This author claims the average American male expects his wife to be nine persons in one.

Among the types is "Mrs. Mom" who keeps the youngsters in rein, and out of sight when he wants to read the evening paper. As "Mrs. Super Service" she must systematize her housework so that they will have abundant time for relaxation.

She must assume the role of "Mrs. Open House" ready to whip together lunch for 20 poker-playing neighbors, or "Mrs. Gourmet" who cooks like a chef supreme. Other times she must be "Mrs. Budget" who can produce a television set and a new oil burner from her weekly food budget.

Enrollment Doubles In Library Course

The enrollment of 41 persons in the SUI library education program during this summer session is about double that of past years, according to Curtis E. Jenkins, program director.

Jenkins said Tuesday the main reason for the increase is the North Central accrediting association's policy of more strict enforcement of its requirements for librarians.

The majority of the summer students are teachers, he said, and practically none are undergraduate students.

The program consists of four basic courses: organization, reference, book selection, and such technical processes as cataloging and classifying books.

This summer, the University high school library is being used as a laboratory and workshop.

Well, we can't offer any help to you on the first two, but when it comes to spending too much money and not saving, we've got an easy, painless way that requires no strain, no struggle, and no self-control on your part. It's . . .

. . . the Payroll Savings Plan and a mighty good thing it is, too.

After you sign up, the amount you have designated is automatically saved for you without fail. It's put into U. S. Savings Bonds for you, regularly. Therefore . . . you'll never find yourself at temptation's door with your savings money in your slippery hands!

And to prove that Uncle Sam really has your interest at heart, you get four dollars back, after ten years, for every three you save!

Honestly, the Payroll Savings Plan is really the best way to save up for the future that's just around the corner. Don't put it off any longer — sign up tomorrow and you can kiss one temptation good-bye!

If you're not on a payroll, look into the Bond-A-Month Plan at your nearest bank.

Automatic saving is sure saving — U.S. SAVINGS BONDS

Work Begins on School For Crippled Children

Work to clear the grounds for construction of SUI's new $750,000 School for Severely Handicapped Children has begun.

The new building will be northwest of University hospitals in the Newton Park area.

The first of two temporary dwellings to be moved from Newton to Finkbine park, to make room for the new building, was moved Saturday.

The construction contract for the new school is scheduled to be let in August, it was reported. Plans for the building were drawn last spring.

The school was established by law in 1947 and received its first student-patients in September, 1948.

Ramps in Building

Located in the basement of Westlawn, the present school can accommodate 20 students. The new structure is to be an 80-bed unit, with additional room for 20 day-pupils.

The new building will have ramps throughout so that students in wheel-chairs or walking with braces may move from one part of the building to another with the least possible difficulty.

The three-story building has been planned so a patient may spend most of each day on one floor.

Classrooms, therapy facilities, the speech clinic, living and dining quarters, a library and a music room are all to be on the same floor.

Trains Teachers

W. B. Schoenboem, director of the school, said he could not yet predict the staff requirements for the new school. At present, the staff numbers about 20 persons.

In addition to the three-fold program for severely handicapped children which includes care, education, and treatment, the school trains teachers in the fields of speech, occupational, and physical therapy, special and physical education.

Victims of cerebral palsy and polio comprise the majority of the school's patients.

Child Awakes Out Of 57-Day Coma

TUCSON, ARIZ. (AP) — A little 12-year-old girl turned a hand mirror over Tuesday and began to read a verse inscribed on the back . . . "The Lord is my shepherd, I shall not want."

Patricia Murphy had regained consciousness after laying in a coma for 57 days.

Patricia was returning to Tucson after a Mother's day outing on May 14. The car collided with a truck. Mr. and Mrs. E. Browne, the child's grandparents, were killed. Mrs. Edwin Murphy, her mother, was critically injured.

Patricia received a dangerous brain injury. She was unconscious when they picked her up. Since then Edwin Murphy, the father, has spent endless hours trying to break the child's coma.

Kiwanis Told Philippines Lack Development

The fundamental problem in the Philippines today is lack of economic development, Prof. L.A. Van Dyke, SUI college of education, told members of the Kiwanis club Tuesday.

Van Dyke, who recently spent nine months in the Philippines surveying that country's educational program, said, "Because the people are economic slaves to a few landowners, their economy is based on the production of a very few commodities."

This, he said, is causing economic and political unrest of which the Communists are taking advantage.

He said all efforts of the Philippine government to solve this problem have failed because of political unrest and family ties.

Concerning the granting of independence to the Filipinos in 1946, Van Dyke said, "The timing was unfortunate both from the standpoint of the United States and the Philippines. They lack in-

Professor Warns Workshop of Danger For U.S. Economy

The United States must either increase its imports or change its economy and get along with a reduction of exports, Prof. Paul R. Olson, economics department, said Tuesday.

The professor spoke to the workshop on economic education being held here June 25 through Saturday.

While the nation gives lip service to the principle of free world trade, in actual practice it supports restrictions of trade, he said.

To support this, Olson cited U.S. activity in reciprocal trade treaties and international financial organizations.

While these organizations promote a return to free trade, the nation circumvents the free-trade principles by utilizing escape clauses and tariff quotas.

Such evasion by the United States is closely observed by other nations and has a definite influence on the trade policies of the world, he said.

School Board Adds $80,000 to Budget

The Iowa City school board Tuesday night approved an $80,000 increase in cash expenditures for the 1950-51 school year.

The increase is due mainly to the hiring of additional teachers, the raising of some teaching salaries, and construction expenses.

The board designated Aug. 1 for public hearing on the budget increase.

Four teacher appointments were also approved by the board to the following positions: Fredricka Helene Rossbach Fry, fourth grade, Longfellow school; Mary Jean Hogg, arithmetic teacher, Junior high school; Mrs. Donald G. Trumpp, Spanish teacher at City high school and Clifton W. Wolf, sixth grade teacher, Henry Sabin school.

Two other teachers were recommended, but are subject to personal interview by the board.

In other action, the board formally agreed to allow students from a section of West Lucas township to attend Iowa City schools.

The board also heard reports from the various committees planning the activities of the 1950-51 school year.

Also approved was an $8,943 bid from the Larew plumbing company for installation of a new boiler system at Horace Mann grade school.

With Judo and Crime-Spotting —

Police Convention Features Target Practice with Live Bullets

Finkbine golf course had its own "war" Monday as the second day of the 14th annual peace officers short course opened with members of the basic police class displaying their shooting ability.

Target-practice was held under the instruction of Kay Olsund, field representative of the Remington Arms corporation, Lincoln, Neb., and Ollie White, local police force detective.

Uniform is Barrier

In the general lecture of the day, Prof. Richard L. Holcomb, director of the short course, said "firemen are heroes" while "police are bums" to the general public.

"The uniform puts up a barrier between you and a lot of people," he told the officers. He explained this happens because most relations with the public are "restrictive" relations.

To counteract this general feeling and merit the respect of the public, he said, "you have to have a good agency to sell the people."

"A policeman is always on the spot," he said, adding that neat uniforms and a professional bearing are necessary to influence the public. "Look like an officer rather than someone waiting for eight hours to pass," he told the group.

Judo Instruction Given

In all contacts, he said, "you must avoid taking sides, or you are in trouble. When you put on a uniform, you are not an individual, but an impartial representative of the majesty of the law."

Judo instruction was given to the members of the basic police class who didn't fire Tuesday. H. M. Howard, SUI wrestling coach, demonstrated holds while the men practiced on each other.

The advanced course spent the entire day studying road blocks under the instruction of Holcomb and Sgt. Loren Ayres, police administration, Indiana University.

The advanced investigation class spent the day studying crime scene research.

R. W. Nebergall, chief of the Iowa bureau of criminal investigation, and George Yates, chief photographer of the Des Moines Register and Tribune, supervised instruction of this group.

CROUCHING TO MAKE A SMALLER TARGET for "return" fire, Iowa City police force patrolman Pat J. McCarney, 1315 Muscatine avenue, brushed up on his shooting Tuesday at Finkbine golf course during the 14th annual peace officers short course. Firing at life size targets of men will continue through Friday for the basic police class members.

NOW SQUEEZE SLOWLY! Demonstrating the stance for shooting from behind buildings, Morris Richardson (left), Webster City police force, received expert instruction from Ollie White, Webster City police force detective, at the opening session of target practice at Finkbine course Tuesday. Poses like this one have been set up to be used as building corners for barricade firing.

GOP to Elect New District Committeeman

A new Republican state committeeman from the first congressional district will be elected at the eight congressional districts in Iowa are members of the state Republican central committee. Doud has been committeeman from the first district for eight years.

The present committeeman, state Sen. Alden Doud, Douds, is expected to resign at the convention and the first district caucus will elect a new committeeman.

Word of Doud's intention to resign came after a recent meeting in Burlington of the twelve county chairmen in the first district.

GOP committeemen for each of the eight congressional districts in Iowa are members of the state Republican central committee. Doud has been committeeman from the first district for eight years.

Candidates for the position are reported to be James S. Schramm, Burlington, Des Moines county chairman and state GOP finance chairman; Charles Wittenmeyer, Davenport, Scott county chairman.

Roy Pierce, Morning Sun, Louisa county chairman, and Ben Galler, Mt. Pleasant, Henry county chairman.

The first congressional district includes Johnson, Iowa, Cedar, Scott, Muscatine, Louisa, Washington, Jefferson, Henry, Des Moines, Van Buren and Lee counties.

Paving Assessment Reduction Ordered

A special paving assessment levied against Marie Petrie, 1830 F street, was reduced $181.65 Tuesday by District Judge Harold D. Evans.

Evans ordered the assessment made last year by the city, reduced from $881.65 to $700.

The suit was one of 26 filed in February against Iowa City, charging that the paving assessments exceeded the legal maximum and were out of proportion to the benefits they gave the property owners.

The Republican candidate for judge of the eighth judicial district will be nominated today at the district judicial convention in the Johnson county courthouse.

According to the official call issued Tuesday, the convention will begin at 11 a.m. A previous announcement listed the time as 10 a.m.

Harold D. Evans, Iowa City, is considered the most likely candidate for the nomination. He has been judge here for 22 years.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERV

IN THE early days of steamboating on the shallow Missouri River, recalls Bernard Sobel, a largish craft was attempting to scrape its way over a treacherous sand bar. The crew held its collective breath as the vessel inched along. A recluse living in a riverbank cabin chose this moment to wander down to the river's edge for a pail of water. As he turned away with a brimming pail, the captain of the steamer caught sight of him and yelled apologetically, "Hey, you scoundrel! You took that water back!"

Clarence Jones tells of a station agent at Saginaw who heard a crash on the platform. He dashed out to see the tail end of a train disappearing round a bend, while a disheveled gent lay prone on the ground, surrounded by upset milk cans and the contents of his opened suitcase. An owlish youngster stared at the gent, but made no effort to assist him. "Was he trying to catch the train?" the station agent asked the youngster. "He did catch it," reported the youngster, "but it got away again."

Journalism School Gets Television Set For Seminar Study

SUI journalism students will study television newscasting by means of a new television receiver recently delivered to the school of journalism, Prof. Arthur M. Barnes said Tuesday.

The set is a table model with a 12-and-one-half inch picture tube. The screen measures more than 100 square inches.

Barnes had the set installed in his office, room N-107, East hall, "for lack of anywhere else to keep it."

Beginning with the 1950 fall semester, Barnes will conduct a seminar in television newscasting and will use this set or a second set, which has been ordered, to demonstrate newscasting techniques.

Two TV stations are within range of Iowa City, he said.

Davenport video has been received in Iowa City for several months. Ten days ago a new station in Rock Island, Ill., began regular program schedules.

Barnes said Chicago stations have been received in Iowa City but the picture quality is very poor.

The antenna is located atop the sixth floor of East hall's west wing. Since the antenna is so far from the set, a booster mechanism is necessary.
