U.S. Immediately to Call Up Limited Number of Reservists

WASHINGTON (AP)—The armed services will begin immediately ordering limited numbers of reservists to active duty. A decision on calling up national guard outfits is not expected until around the end of this month. President Truman Wednesday authorized the calling of reservists and guardsmen, along with the use of the draft law to build up fighting units. In a quick follow-up to the President's call for greater military strength, legislation was introduced in both houses of congress to "freeze" in military service for the next 12 months all persons now in uniform. Stress on Special Skills The army and air force promptly announced a "limited" call of reservists "to meet the needs of the Korean situation" and the navy announced a "selective" service call-up. The emphasis in all three services was for individuals with immediately usable skills, such as electronic experts. The army and air force indicated that some of their organized reserve units, as well as individual reservists, will be called. The navy said there is a possibility that some air reserve squadrons may be summoned into service as units. The marine corps said it, too, may mobilize certain select reserve units. May Raise Age Limits The defense department is expected to take a further step to mobilize manpower by asking congress to raise the top age subject to draft from 25, possibly to a new figure of 35. In announcing its "selective" call-up of reserves, the navy said that no deferments will be granted except in cases involving key industrial jobs vital to defense or in cases where community welfare would be seriously affected. The navy said its quotas will be filled as far as possible from the organized reserve, who are considered to be qualified for active duty, and from the fleet reserve. All three services said that they intend to provide a minimum of one year's service for reservists ordered to extended active duty and that reservists may continue to volunteer for active duty.

Damage Suits for $9,125 Filed Against Eldon Miller, Inc.

Auto damage suits totalling $9,125 were filed Wednesday in Johnson county district court against Eldon Miller, Inc., 1030 S. Riverside drive.

The suits were brought by two Kalona men as a result of an accident July 3 on highway 218 one and one-half miles south of Shu-eyville.

The accident involved an Eldon Miller gasoline transport truck and a truck driven by Isaac D. Yoder and owned by Simon Mullet, both of Kalona.

Both suits charged Dale Halter, 510 Ronalds street, driver of the Miller truck, with negligence, and alleged that he did not have his truck under control, failed to yield half of the road and was traveling too fast.

Yoder's suit asked $7,500 plus costs and demanded a jury trial. He alleged he was in a Cedar Rapids hospital for a week, would be unable to work for an indefinite time and sustained a permanent knee injury.

Mullet asked $1,625 for loss of his truck which was reported demolished. The truck was worth $1,800, Mullet charged, and was sold for junk at $175.

Mercury Dips to 63 In Sudden Cool Spell

A cold, dry air mass moved into Iowa City from the north Wednesday afternoon, causing temperatures to drop 17 degrees in four hours.

The temperature was 80 degrees at 3 p.m. when the cold air began to move in. At 7 p.m. it had dropped to 63 degrees.

Temperatures dropped five degrees an hour for the first two hours as the cold front advanced. Clear weather probably will follow the cold front today, weather officials at the local airport said Wednesday night. They added the severe weather and precipitation has presumably passed Iowa City.

Nation Begins Partial War Mobilization

Yank Reinforcements Move into Korea

GI REINFORCEMENTS MOVING into South Korea are indicated by broken arrows from Pohang and Pusan, where the First Cavalry division and 25th division, respectively, are pushing to block Communist southward drives against the Pusan-Taegu-Taejon supply line. Open arrows in Taejon area indicate continued U.S. opposition to the invaders in that sector. Solid arrows mark Communist pressure points on the front line.

Reds Doomed to Lose: MacArthur; New Rocket Launchers Stop Tanks

TOKYO (THURSDAY) (AP)—North Korean armor made its first attack south of the Kum river today and the American defenders of Taejon destroyed eight Red tanks with a new rocket weapon.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur said the Communists already had lost their chance for victory in the Korean war.

The tank-led assault broke a three-day lull on the western front. The Reds rammed their tanks in close to Taejon. Associated Press Correspondent William R. Moore said the first seven were knocked out as men of the battle - tested U.S. 24th division let them have it for the launchers.

An informed source at advanced headquarters told Moore the situation was "under control but fluid." The Red assault on the new American defensive positions north and west of Taejon was met with heavy artillery and mortar barrages.

South of Taejon, abandoned emergency capital of the South Korean republic, infiltrating Reds struck from both sides of the highway. This highway leads to American rear positions, to the to Pusan, U.S. supply port at the southeastern tip of the peninsula. Even as the attack broke, two reinforcing divisions of U.S. troops moved west and northwest from east coast landings to protect these vital supply routes.

It was this swift deployment of the U.S. Eighth army, MacArthur said, that "has ended the chance for victory by the North Korean forces."

Mary Driscoll, 1130 First avenue, a waitress and one of the two who knew the terms of the President's message, said she agreed with all of the proposals. "I think he should have imposed price controls and rationing, too," she added.

Did Right Thing Lola Mulherin, 421 Market street, a waitress, said she believed the President did the right thing in calling out reservists and national guardsmen.

A state employe said he was glad President Truman had not asked for rationing. "If steak costs $2 a pound I don't have to buy it, but I like to know that I can get it if I want it," he said.

Following the President's radio address to the nation Wednesday night, several other people were questioned. Only one man had listened to the speech. He said, "I hope President Truman carries out his threat to invoke price controls and rationing if the hoarding of food and other staples continues. I remember the way people hoarded food during the last war."

War at a Glance UN Forces ...

LAKE SUCCESS (AP)—UN forces fighting Communist aggression in Korea are growing slowly, but no combat troops have been formerly pledged so far to join American GIs on the battlefield.

UN Sec. Gen. Trygve Lie dispatched an appeal last Friday to 52 of the 59 UN members for all help they could give. To date, he has not been pledged one soldier. Only one power, Britain, appears on the verge of committing troops. In fact, UN officials say no formal replies have been received.

Student Fined $102.50 For Assault, Battery

Benedict J. O'Meara, L. O'Meara, has been fined $102.50 by Police Judge Emil G. Trott on a charge of assault and battery.

O'Meara previously was charged with assault, but the charge was changed upon the recommendation of County Atty. Jack C. White.

The charge against O'Meara was filed after he was involved July 6, in a melee in Kenny's tavern on South Clinton street with Warren T. Thompson, A. Shelton, Conn. During the affair, O'Meara allegedly slashed Thompson's face with a broken beer glass.

SEEKS STRIKE PEACE NEW YORK ...

NEW YORK (AP)—A World-Telegram and Sun management representative said Wednesday he had made a new offer to striking members of the New York newspaper guild (CIO) and was willing to "sit through the night" in an attempt to settle the 37-day strike against the newspaper.

What President's War Message Means

WASHINGTON (AP)—Here is what President Truman's Korean war message means to you: Reservists—The armed services issued their first call Wednesday.

National guardsmen—First call is believed imminent. May come today. Servicemen—If congress approves, anybody in service now is in for at least another year if their enlistment is due to run out before then. This would not apply to draftees because none are now in uniform.

Draft registrants—Draft calls probably will be stepped up. The President asked congress to let the services take as many men as they need. Taxpayers—Increases in the offing. May include an excess profits tax on business and higher personal income taxes for upper-brackets.

Consumers—No rationing and price controls now. But refrigerators, television sets, automobiles and similar items may be scarcer. Credit will be harder to get and bills will have to be paid sooner. Home buyers—If congress approves, the President can set minimum down payments, rates of payment and govern other "related matters." Any person granting consumer or real estate credit would have to make his books available for government inspection. Down payment requirements, in effect, already have been raised by tightening home credits.

Manufacturers—Would get considerable more business from the President's proposed military $10-billion program, but at some cost in civilian output and freedom of business activities. Small businessmen were promised consideration. Farmers—The government will try to keep the market stable by selling its surplus stocks at the market price as long as they do not dip below support levels.

Labor—No wage controls now. AFL President William Green said a no-strike pledge and manpower controls would be discussed if the time comes.

Students, Iowa Citizens Back Truman Proposals

Only two of about twenty Iowa Citizens and SUI students interviewed Wednesday knew the contents of President Harry S. Truman's special message to congress.

Five of the group did not know the President had sent a message to congress. When informed of the terms of President Truman's requests to the legislators, all but two of the group supported the proposals and several said the proposed legislation was all right as far as it went, but that it did not go far enough.

Supports Allocation William W. Martin, C4, McGregor, said he supported the President's plan to allocate strategic materials, but not the curbs on credit and the increased building restrictions.

None of those interviewed seemed surprised or perturbed over the proposed tax increase, although one Iowa City policeman said that congress should decrease domestic spending to help ease the tax load.

Mary Driscoll, 1130 First avenue, a waitress and one of the two who knew the terms of the President's message, said she agreed with all of the proposals. "I think he should have imposed price controls and rationing, too," she added.

Did Right Thing Lola Mulherin, 421 Market street, a waitress, said she believed the President did the right thing in calling out reservists and national guardsmen.

16 County Men Up For Possible Draft

Sixteen men may be drafted from Johnson county in the near future, according to an announcement received Wednesday by the local selective service board.

The notice from state draft headquarters in Des Moines said that 16 Johnson county men may be called up for armed forces physical examinations soon but did not say when or where.

Draft board officials said they did not know when the drafting of local men would begin. They said they imagined "it won't be too long."

Top Reds of Europe, China Meet in Berlin

BERLIN (AP)—Top Communist leaders of Europe and Red China gathered in Berlin Wednesday night for what appeared to be an important Cominform discussion.

Ostensibly these Red representatives from 18 nations came here as foreign guests for the third annual convention of East Germany's Socialist Unity (Communist) party which opens today.

But the prominence of the visitors and the fact that many of them were leading lights in the Moscow-directed Cominform suggested that something bigger was afoot.

It was the biggest gathering of Communist leaders since the outbreak of the Korean war. It came at a time when Cominform pressure was being intensified against Premier Marshal Tito's Yugoslavia. Western leaders also have been expecting increased Cominform pressure on Greece.

The Soviet delegation consists of M.R. Suslov and P.M. Pospelov. Suslov is secretary of the Russian Communist party's central committee and is Russia's Cominform delegate.

Truman Asks $10-Billion To Halt Reds

WASHINGTON (AP)—The nation moved swiftly toward partial war mobilization Wednesday after President Truman asked congress for a $10-billion down payment on the struggle to halt Red aggression.

The armed services announced they will begin immediately calling up limited numbers of reservists—chiefly specialists—to active duty.

Mr. Truman also authorized the calling of national guardsmen and free use of the draft law.

Raise Draft Age? At the Pentagon, there was talk of asking congress to raise the top draft age from 25 to possibly 35.

The President called on congress this noon to gear the United States to a virtual war footing. He called for anti-inflation controls, a swift set-up in war production, additional huge sums to arm non-Communist nations and, later, a sharp boost in taxes.

Then Wednesday night he spoke to the nation over all major radio networks and television channels and read a dramatic last-minute report on the Korean war from Gen. Douglas MacArthur declaring, "The issue of battle is now fully joined and will proceed along lines of action in which we will not be without choice."

Belt Tightening The President warned the nation that it must undergo some belt tightening to provide the signets of war, and he condemned scare buying and hoarding as foolish and selfish.

As he had told congress earlier, Mr. Truman said "It will be necessary to make substantial increases in taxes," both to win the Korean war and to help arm America's allies against any Communist aggression elsewhere on the global front.

In the bitterest terms he has used yet, Mr. Truman denounced the Red attack on Korea as "an act of raw aggression... an outright breach of the peace... sneak attack"

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congress leaders set up a fast timetable Wednesday to write into law President Truman's proposal for fighting the Korean war and setting up a guard against Communist onslaughts in other parts of the world.

Strong evidence of bipartisan backing for most of his plan built up within minutes after his message was read to congress.

There was even an audible undertone of demands that the nation go farther and faster toward a war footing than the President recommended.

Old Coins, Relics Valued at $1,700 Stolen from Safe Here

Old coins and relics valued at $1,700 were stolen from a safe in one of two offices broken into during the noon hour Wednesday in the Schneider building, 114 E. College street.

The coins and relics were taken from a safe in the office of Atty. Floyd P. Brant.

Dr. Jackson H. Roe, dentist, who occupies the other office, said he could discover nothing missing.

Brant discovered the loss of two cigar boxes containing the coins after he returned from lunch about 1:30 p.m.

Other Box Untouched He said a box containing Roman coins valued at $1,000 was on a shelf in the safe directly above the stolen coins, but was untouched. Also on the shelf were American coins valued at $500.

Police said entrance was gained to the Brant office "by someone using a very thin instrument, which left no marks except above the lock." "It was a smooth job," they added.

Brant said he had left the door to the safe open when he went to lunch. The compartment in the safe containing the coins was locked but the key to it was in another compartment. The thief used the key to open the first compartment.

Ancient Greek Coins One box contained 100 ancient Greek coins dating back to 500 B.C., valued at $1,000, Brant said. The other box contained odd coins dating from 1100 B.C. to 1869 A.D.

Also missing were some Egyptian coins from 3000 B.C., ancient Chinese razor and dagger coins, some of the first English and American coins and Aztec relics, he said.

COINS AND RELICS VALUED AT $1,700 were stolen from the Schneider building office of Atty. Floyd P. Brant during the noon hour Wednesday. Th robber "overlooked" $1,500 in Roman and other coins which were immediately above the stolen coins in Brant's safe. Taking inventory of the remaining coins (above), Brant said the Roman coins were the most valuable and hardest to replace.

Group Inspects Sewage Problem

ARNOLDS PARK, IOWA — Members of the Iowa legislative interim committee Wednesday made a first hand inspection, by boat, of the sewage disposal problem on the Iowa Great lakes.

The problem came to the fore this week after E. Quillin Hoberg, Sioux City, complained by letter to Gov. William S. Beardsley that raw sewage was dumped into Spirit Lake early this month.

Residents of the lakes area have been seeking state cooperation in extension of the present great lakes sewer system to embrace resorts and private cabins on Okoboji and Spirit Lake which presently are not included in it.

Says Acheson Plans Diversionary War

MOSCOW — Playwright Anatoli Safranov said Wednesday in an article in the Literary Gazette that Secretary of State Dean Acheson planned a diversionary war somewhere else to cover his "failure" in Korea.

"The facts show that the aggressors are intensively preparing for that," he wrote.

"The foreign press indicates that diplomats in Belgrade have the impression Marshal Tito is not against undertaking armed provocation against the neighboring peoples' democracies."

Bolshevik, monthly political magazine of the central committee of the all-Soviet Communist party, reaffirmed the Soviet stand on Korea and demanded withdrawal of American armed forces from Korea.

Boy Saves Father from Sentence

NEW YORK — Eight-year-old Donald Conway sat on the rail before the judge's bench Wednesday, clutched his red leather gun holster, and saved his father from a jail sentence for felonious assault.

The boy denied that his father, 38-year-old Martin Conway, had picked him up the night of July 3, said "one, two, three" and tossed him out a third floor window.

"I fell by myself," Donald told the judge.

Judge Frederick L. Strong looked at Conway, who was struggling to keep back his tears, and said: "Well, there were only two human beings in the room, but God was also in the room. He knows what happened. If you did throw your son out the window, you will pay for it in the future. You are discharged."

Patrol Scores Lop-Sided Victory

AT THE TAEJON FRONT — An American patrol surprised a large Communist force on a road five miles north of Taejon Wednesday and scored the most lop-sided victory of the Korean war.

When the battle was over, 200 to 300 north Korean dead and wounded were strewn over the road.

There was only one American casualty. A machine gunner burned his hand.

The engagement occurred when a patrol headed by Capt. John A. Kearns, Jamaica, N.Y., met the Communist force, which had planned an attempt to fight its way into Taejon.

"We hit them head on and threw them back," Kearns said. "Then they attempted to flank us and we called for help."

Another company, under Lt. Julius Brown, Birmingham, Ala., came up and caught the North Koreans in the middle of their flanking attempt.

"His machine gunners and automatic riflemen just mowed them down," Kearns said.

All the North Koreans still able to stand up turned and fled, he said, and Taejon was still in U.S. hands.

Defense of Formosa Poses Big Problem

WASHINGTON, D.C. — What will it take for Formosa to withstand a gigantic Communist invasion thrust across the 100-mile strait which separates it from the Chinese mainland? For months that has been the big question here, debated by United States military men who face hard-bitten veterans of the world's greatest amphibious military operations during World War II.

Such an invasion of Chiang Kai-shek's last-ditch Nationalist China stronghold would dwarf any wartime activity since historic D-Day, when Allied troops started the liberation of Europe.

The Korean crisis has increased the stakes, of course, in the guessing game as to which has the ascendancy, the massed Communist armies of nearly five million men on the mainland or the estimated 600,000 defenders on rich and fertile Formosa.

And coupled with the initial question as to whether the Reds could reduce Chiang's island fortress is the further query as to what would be required in the way of American support — on land, sea or in the air — to tip the scales in favor of the defenders.

American military men who have lately returned from Formosa draw a striking parallel between its menace of invasion and the threat which England faced after Dunkirk.

Formosa, one of the richest lands in the Orient, is pictured as virtually a floating fortress. Its length of 240 miles and 85-mile width makes it smaller than combined Connecticut and New Hampshire, but with a population of more than seven million, which is three times that of the two states and on a par with that of all Australia.

Chiang has added about 600,000 troops to the total. They constantly flex their muscles and conduct defensive maneuvers on the broad plains leading to the invasion coast. They reflect a better morale than any of his sadly beaten forces which yielded four mainland capitals.

In Japanese hands from 1895 to 1945, Formosa was vigorously developed as a springboard for Japanese conquest of the west Pacific area, and its resultant prosperity now seems good insurance against internal Communist uprisings. However, Formosans are restive under the relative inefficiency of Nationalist Chinese administration.

The Japs mounted their attack on the Philippines from there, and picked it as the base from which bacteriological warfare would be launched against the United States. Discovery of the latter plan

Republican Senators Attempt to Squelch Report on McCarthy

WASHINGTON — Senate Republicans Wednesday temporarily blocked the filing of a Democratic report which accuses Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.) of a "fraud and a hoax" for charging the state department is Communist-infiltrated.

A showdown on the bitterly-partisan issue was scheduled for today when GOP Floor Leader Kenneth S. Wherry of Nebraska, will present a motion to nebraskify the controversial report to the senate foreign relations committee.

Sen. Millard E. Tydings (D-Md) chairman of the five-member foreign relations subcommittee which first looked into the charges, predicted he will succeed in formally filing the critical report signed by himself and two other Democratic members.

Unanimous consent was required for filing the report Wednesday, and Tydings' effort to do so was blocked by Wherry and Sen. Robert A. Taft, (R-Ohio).

Today, however, the senate will meet in the so-called "morning hour" and the rules will permit Tydings to file the report unless Wherry can muster a majority vote for his resolution to toss it back to the committee.

It appeared unlikely that the Republicans would succeed.

Viennese Musician Barred from U.S.

NEW YORK (AP) — Orchestra Conductor Josef Krips called off his American debut Wednesday and flew back to Europe to escape being deported.

The 48-year-old chief conductor of the Vienna state opera left after immigration authorities gave him a choice of going voluntarily or being deported without a hearing.

He was to have conducted the Chicago symphony orchestra Wednesday night for his debut in this country.

The charges against him were not made public and Krips said he had no idea what they were. Immigration Supervisor Edward J. Shaughnessy said only that "certain information" had been received about the orchestra conductor. He did not disclose its nature.

Krips told newsmen the only thing he could recall that might be held against him was a 1947 trip to Russia where he conducted concerts at Moscow and Leningrad.

Quiet Korean Front Apparently Justifies MacArthur's Stand

By RALPH TEATSORTH UNITED STATES EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS IN KOREA — Gen. Douglas MacArthur's insistence on the value of the American army's stubborn delaying action on the west Korean front seemed justified Wednesday.

Three weeks of a miserable, at times uncertain retreat have ended temporarily.

For three days the Communists have been gaining yards where before they gained miles.

The Americans and South Koreans have gained time during which weapons and reinforcements have been pouring into Korea.

The expectation is that the Americans will make their big stand in the mountains south and southeast of Taejon.

But it has now become only a question of time, in the opinion of many here, until the Americans start on the offensive from that line.

The American forces are stronger than ever. The morale of the South Koreans — once at the vanishing point — is soaring. Koreans even say that at points on the front some of their men want to go on the offensive now. But that time is still to come.

The following factors have aided the allied forces while they clung on grimly in the face of great odds:

1. The civilian population of South Korea has remained orderly and well disciplined.
2. The railroads have done a magnificent job in running material, men and supplies right up to the front lines.
3. There has been almost no sabotage on the south side of the fighting front — no major sabotage at all — by Communist agents.
4. The patriotism of the South Koreans, and their loyalty to the Republic government, has been a rallying influence.
5. The Korean national and provincial governments have been able to function effectively to maintain political stability and thus support military operations.
6. There is plenty of food in South Korea and the refugee problem is being well handled.

'Looks Good, But What About the String?'

By TOM DORSEY "OOPS, PARDON ME!" Some people not only can't read but they can't even see! Such must have been the case of the joker who tripped and fell over the "keep off the grass" sign in front of Macbride yesterday morning. And what did he do when he recovered? Why, continued on across the grass, of course!

IT PAYS TO SHUT UP: When it costs you $10 a word to talk life gets sort of tedious. Don't it? That's what it cost 56-year-old George Conybear of Chicago for talking too much. Conybear had been fined $25 on a disorderly conduct charge by a Chicago judge. As he was led away the judge heard him mutter: "I make more money than all of you put together."

ZOO HOO: The Cincinnati zoo has lost its chief children's attraction: one skunk, deodorized. The zoo superintendent said a thief broke open a locked door on Wanda's cage to make off with the $125 polecat. Wanda's high value is due to her being the favorite pet of visiting youngsters, the superintendent said.

"UNUSUAL" TO SAY THE LEAST: An SUI student told me a story this morning which she swears to be true. It seems her uncle is a commercial artist in Chicago and the other day one of his models fell from a first floor window, landing in a nearby trash can.

Just about that time a Chinaman came along and after surveying the girl's predicament said, "These Americans! They are so wasteful. Why there is still a lot of good left in that woman."

IT SEEMS TO ME: That it is hard to tell what and when the world is coming to.

HOW TO LIVE A LONG TIME: A 102-year-old Chicago woman, Mrs. Mary Grubb, offers this formula for a long life: "Don't take things seriously and take a daily nap." Most SUI students get the latter in class.

WHAT NEXT? Southern belles don't have to take a back seat to Yankees when it comes to ingenuity.

The gals have discovered that the brown ink, when judiciously mixed with white hand lotion, makes excellent suntan leg make-up. The pen company says it doesn't necessarily recommend the concoction.

THAT RUSSIAN BEAR: A new kind of refugee fled to Austria from Yugoslavia and was killed by an Austrian forestry official by one shot. The refugee was nearly seven feet tall and weighed 396 pounds. He is now being stuffed and mounted. Officials say it is the first bear shot in Austria in 45 years.

U.S. First Cavalry, Now Infantry Outfit, Operating in Korea

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. First Cavalry division which made an amphibious landing at Pohang on the eastern shore of Korea Tuesday has long been on occupation duties in Japan.

The division liberated Manila in World War II and fought throughout the war in the Pacific. It is an old time cavalry organization with a history dating back to the Indian wars on the western plains. Lately it has operated as an infantry outfit.

Its leader, Gen. Hobart R. Gay, 56-year-old native of Rockport, Ill., entered the army as a second lieutenant of cavalry during the first world war.

Amphibious landings are nothing new to him. He participated in the North African and Sicily landings during World War II. In 1944 he went to the European theater of operations and fought there the rest of the war.

Gen. Gay commanded the military district of Washington from 1947 to 1949 and assumed command of the First division at Asaka, Japan, in September, 1949.

There have been some reports that Gay was in ill health. However, an army spokesman here said Wednesday he is in good shape, although at one time he had been through what was described as a "mild cardiac episode."

Ships from the Seventh fleet which supported the landing have bombarded the Korean coast roads frequently, harassing the enemy. Bombardments at times have been directed against cliffs, precipitating avalanches which temporarily blocked the coastal road. When enemy troops and vehicles piled up behind these road blocks the fleet then poured on fire.

During the last 48 hours there of a small unit at Yonngok on the Korean eastern shore. However, the assumption was that were vague reports of the landing they were South Koreans, possibly put ashore for scouting or patrol work.

U.S. Reports Few Shortages

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dealers' shelves are well-stocked with goods that were scarce in World War II but heavy scare-buying could create serious "artificial" shortages, government officials warned Wednesday.

Their reports on a long list of products from sugar to automobiles and shoes to fuel oil showed the nation is much better off now than during the last war.

Here, in brief, is the outlook for each commodity: Meat—no shortage in sight at present. Prospects are for increased supplies this fall because of a bigger pig crop and more cattle.

Soap—ingredients are more plentiful than a decade ago and no shortage is foreseen.

Sugar—agriculture department officials already have arranged to import 350,000 more tons than originally provided for under import quotas. They say there is plenty more where it is coming from.

Coffee—although supplies in producing areas are not as big as in 1941, coffee is being produced at about the same rate. Prices, however, are going up.

Automobiles—manufacturers are breaking all production records. But the war scare has sent demand soaring and the waiting period for new automobiles now ranges from 10 to 90 days. Tires—the only shortages are those of retailers who are not able to cope with scare buying. Production is breaking all records and manufacturers' inventories in May was a near-record 10,391,809 tires.

Housing—the backlog of demand from World War II has not been met fully. The demand is greatest for middle and lower cost units. The industry expects to complete 1.25-million units this year. Once the backlog is filled, industry sources believe there will be a constant need of 500,000 new units a year.

Electrical appliances—wholesalers had a 40-day inventory at the end of June. Production has continued at a near-record level.

Clothing—no shortage of finished or of fabrics and fibres. Wool reserves are comparatively low but not dangerously so. Rayon producers are plentiful.

Shoes—industry has not been operating at full capacity and only a rush by customers could create a shortage.

Gasoline and oil—military supplies could be boosted by 10 percent without cutting into civilian consumption.

Tips for Buying, Cooking Pork Loin Roasts

Several shopping tips should be remembered by the housewife when she is buying a pork loin roast, a delicious dinner meat for a rainy summer evening.

There are two kinds of pork roasts—the center cut and the loin end. Because the center cut includes tenderloin and is easier to carve, it is considered the choicer cut.

The loin end roast, either from the shoulder or the ham end, is tender, and a wise economy buy. When purchasing a center cut loin roast, have the back bone loosened from the ribs, and the carving task will be easier.

Roasting pork loin to juicy tenderness is easy, if you follow the correct procedure.

Season the meat with salt and pepper, and place it fat side up on a rack in an open roasting pan. If you have a meat thermometer, insert it through the outside fat into the center of the roast. Make certain the bulb of the thermometer does not touch the bone.

Place the meat in a 325 degree Fahrenheit oven and roast, allowing 35 to 40 minutes for each pound. The meat thermometer should register an internal temperature of 185 degrees Fahrenheit.

If you have chosen a loin end roast, follow the same procedure, but cook 45 to 50 minutes for each pound. End roast is chunkier and requires longer cooking time.

For a more attractive meat platter, use a fruit garnish of boiled pears or cinnamon apples.

One of the convenient aspects of roast pork is that it makes delicious leftover dishes.

Cold sliced pork is a favorite for dinner or sandwiches and cubes of pork can turn a tossed salad into something special. Pork barbecue sandwiches are another delicious method of preparing leftover meat.

Barbecued Pork on Buns
 1 cup diced leftover pork
 1/2 cup catsup
 2 tablespoons brown sugar
 2 tablespoons vinegar
 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce

Heat the ingredients together in a sauce pan and spread on split toasted buns. Serve a relish dish of carrot curls, celery sticks and ripe olives with the barbecued sandwiches for a dinner that can be prepared in a few minutes.

BROWN AND JUICY PORK LOIN ROAST is always a dinner favorite. When buying a pork loin roast, have the backbone loosened from the ribs and carving will be easier. Cook the meat fat side up on a rack in an open roasting pan, and use a meat thermometer to make certain the internal temperature of the roast is 185 degrees Fahrenheit.

New House Design Brings 'Outdoors In'

A new Frank Lloyd Wright dwelling is as interesting to art students as a new Picasso painting.

John Schulze, instructor in architectural and industrial arts at SUI, recently took his class to see the Frank Lloyd Wright house being constructed on Adele road, southeast of Cedar Rapids.

Schulze said first-hand observation of Wright's design is especially valuable to students in architectural arts classes. Wright is not only the foremost architect in the U.S., but probably one of the world's most outstanding architects, he said.

For the past 40 years, Wright has been consultant for nearly all the governments in the world. Wright was once architectural adviser to the government of Soviet Russia, Schulze added.

Wright designs a house so it derives its beauty from several factors, he pointed out.

One factor is that his houses are "organic" to the spot on which they are built. Often the house is adapted to a specific terrain—a cliff, hill or stream—and when the shrubbery matures, the house looks as if it "grew out of the ground".

Utilizes Convenience

Wright utilizes the most contemporary conveniences for his designs, Schulze pointed out. Many of his structures are "radiantly" heated.

Instead of heating the air in the rooms, the floors and walls become warm because hot water is piped through them. This method is most often used when walls and ceilings are made of stone or rock.

Sol Simkin, Chicago, a graduate student in art, said the beauty of a Frank Lloyd Wright house "comes from its livability." Wright features "bringing the outdoors in" in his plans by the extensive use of glass for outer walls.

Sol was among the art students who went in station wagons to study the new dwelling near Cedar Rapids.

Douglas Grant of Cedar Rapids is the owner of the new house. The stone for the house was dug from his own quarry near the house.

Typical Wright House

It will be a "typical Frank Lloyd Wright house," he said. The house will have a flat concrete roof, four bedrooms, a combination dining and living room, kitchen, two utility rooms and a fruit cellar.

A photographic "dark" room has been designed for Grant's hobby of photography.

The site selected for the house is on the brow of a ridge overlooking Cedar Rapids and Marion. Grant said workers are now ready to put on the roof, and although the house will not be fully completed, he hopes to move in this fall.

Grant said Wright is probably on his way home from Europe now. He was invited by the British government to attend a conference on architecture July 1

West Branch Pastor Talks on Radio Program

The Rev. Bernard G. Olson, pastor of West Branch and Springdale Methodist churches is guest speaker this week on "Morning Chapel" over WSUI.

The 15-minute broadcast is sponsored by the SUI school of religion daily at 8 a.m.

Rev. Olson's subject is "Pillars That Guide," according to Prof. Marcus Bach of the school of religion.

He went to Paris after leaving England.

Besides the dwelling in Quasqueton which was opened to the public Sunday, a Wright home is being built in Charles City, and two will be built soon in Oskaloosa, Grant said.

He said there is a wide variation in prices for Wright homes. He kept the cost of his own down by digging the stones from his own property.

Paratroops Bail Out in Air Maneuvers

WITH PARACHUTES JUST BEGINNING TO open, paratroopers of the famed 82nd airborne division tumbled through the air in various positions during a recent practice session at Fort Bragg, N.C. The jumpers' static lines, which automatically pull the parachute release cords, trail behind the open door of the Fairchild C-119 Packet.

Policeman Fined $27.50 for Writing Worthless Check

Harlan Harr, Armstrong, Iowa, policeman, Wednesday was fined $27.50 and sheriff's costs by Police Judge Emil G. Trott for writing a false check.

The check was a $5 check drawn on the First National Bank of Iowa City.

Also on a charge of writing a false check, Shirley F. Duffy, 421 E. Market street, was granted a continuance of hearing until Friday at 5 p.m.

She was charged with passing a bad check for $25 to a local merchant, drawn on the Iowa State Bank and Trust company.

John J. Hiner, Cedar Rapids, was fined $102.50 for driving a vehicle upon a public highway without adequate brakes.

Police said the car also lacked one head light, a stop light, a tail light and a horn. Trott ordered Hiner to have the equipment repaired.

Perry J. Oakes, 1606 Morning-side drive, was fined $12.50 for failing to comply with a lawful order of a police officer.

He made a right turn in his car at Washington and Dubuque streets after being told not to do so by a policeman.

Army's New Rocket, Fails at Launching

POINT CANAVERAL, COCOA, FLA. (AP) — The army's big double-header bumper rocket aimed for the Atlantic fizzled out on the launching platform Wednesday after nine torturous hours of off and on waiting.

The 250,000 - pound rocket stood white and still in a small feathered footing of smoke for some seconds, then the bull horn on the telephone channel linking seven control stations bellowed mournfully:

"The missile did not lift. The missile did not lift."

A few minutes later a voice on the channel announced that a main fuel valve apparently had failed to open. Only the initial igniter flow of fuel had come through.

A second try is possible Monday, but officials said the rocket will have to be partly disassembled and inspected before a decision can be made.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

IN A RITZY suburb of Chicago, relates Marcia Winn, there's a garbage collector who takes his job very seriously, with a special uniform, a special pail—even a special mop. An approving resident watched him removing refuse with dainty precision, and invited him in for a drink. Over scotches and soda the resident said, "I think you're the finest garbage man in Illinois."

The collector, not to be outdone, responded gallantly, "I have a high opinion of your garbage, too."

Copper's Weekly has a new twist on the standard story beginning, "Darling, how about giving me a diamond bracelet for your tenth anniversary?" In the new version, the bagedgered husband, a very cagey fellow this time, answers, "My dear, extenuating circumstances necessitate my precluding you from such a trifle of extravagance." The wife, trapped, admits, "I don't get it." The triumphant male answers contentedly, "That's what I said!"

Iowa Citian Files Collection Suit

Suit for collection of $532.95 has been filed in district court by George J. Alberhasky, route 1, Iowa City, against the Viggo M. Jensen company, Albert Lea, Minn.

The defendants, Mr. and Mrs. Viggo M. Jensen, operated the construction company which built the addition to Currier hall, which was completed last year.

Alberhasky claimed he and his men did the cement finishing work for the addition under contract with Jensen.

He also claimed he was paid only $1,432.40 of the $1,965.15 due him for the cement work.

The suit asked the Iowa Board of Education also named as defendant to withhold from Jensen twice the amount of Alberhasky's claim.

Under an Iowa law on public improvements, a secondary contractor, such as Alberhasky, may file a claim against the primary contractor, such as Jensen, for money owed to him.

The Iowa Board of Education may then withhold twice the amount of the claim from payment to the primary contractor until the matter is settled, according to the law.

Also named as defendants in the suit were the Iowa Board of Education, SUI Treasurer F. L. Hamburg and SUI Business Manager Fred W. Ambrose.

Payment to Alberhasky cannot be made from the money withheld unless it is authorized by both Hamburg and Ambrose. The suit asked Hamburg and Ambrose to authorize that payment.

Contracts Approved For Gym Addition

Contracts for the construction of a two-floor brick addition to the women's gym Tuesday were approved by the interim committee of the state legislature.

The committee met at Cherokee, where it was making an inspection of the Cherokee state hospital.

The general construction contract of $215,345 went to the Morehead Construction company, Cedar Rapids. The $49,850 plumbing and heating contract went to Carstens Brothers, Ackley.

Davenport Electric Contract company, Davenport, was given the contract for the $15,338 electrical work, and Barber-Coleman company of Rockford, Ill., received the $6,430 temperature control contract.

Contract bids for the construction work were opened by the SUI division of planning and construction June 29.

State Fair Board Plans Fiddling Contest

Calling all old-time Iowa fiddlers!

Contest supt. W. E. Tanner and the Iowa state fair board have extended an invitation to the state's fiddlers for the Iowa state fair championship fiddling contest, Aug 25 and 26.

According to Fair Secretary L. B. Cunningham, fiddlers must be at least 50 years old, and must play strictly "old time" music by ear.

The "old time" music may be self-composed, well known, named or un-named, and each fiddler may play as many tunes as he wants, just so he doesn't take more than five minutes.

Originality and lively playing will help win some of the $100 in cash prizes for the festival's finest fiddlers. If they like, fiddlers may choose their own accompanist on the organ, guitar, banjo or violin, but use of an accompanist is optional.

Three judges, none of them old time fiddlers, will pick the winners.

Entry blanks and contest rules may be obtained by writing the state fair board, statehouse, Des Moines.

Welcoming Committee at Camp —

Iowan Officers at McCoy

(Daily Iowan Reporter Barney Seibert and Photographer John Sundberg attended a two-and-one-half day encampment at Camp McCoy, Wis., last week to report the training activities of SUI students who are in camp for six weeks ROTC training, ending July 27.)

By BARNEY SEIBERT

Iowa's reserve and national guard units are not scheduled to go to Camp McCoy until next month but there will be a welcoming committee awaiting them when they arrive.

Six Iowa officers are staff members in Camp McCoy's Organized Reserve Corps headquarters.

The Iowans include Col. Irwin Beyer, Des Moines, commanding officer; Capt. Jerry M. Smith, Fort Dodge; Maj. S. K. Toomey, Sioux City; Capt. Elroy Kane, Cedar Rapids; Maj. G. J. Johns, Des Moines; and Maj. Victor Ollis, Mason City.

Capt. Archie M. Deedrick, Des Moines, is a clerk in the ORC headquarters.

Beyer is the Iowa State Senior instructor for the ORC. The other men, all regular army personnel, are reserve unit instructors.

The Iowa reserves are as good as any he has seen this summer, Beyer said.

"I won't say they are better than the units which have already been at Camp McCoy this summer, but I think they would compare favorably with most of them," he said.

Despite the threat of war, Washington has not issued instructions for a concentrated ORC recruiting drive, the Colonel said.

"Naturally, however, we shall try to bring our reserve units up to the maximum authorized strength," he said.

Kane, adjutant in the Camp McCoy ORC headquarters, is a veteran of 20 years in the army. During his career he has served in the infantry, field artillery and armored force. He is unit instructor for Cedar Rapids reserve units.

Catholic Priest, Mistook for Prowler, Slain in Chicago

CHICAGO (AP) — The Rev. Thomas Patrick Conway, 31-year-old Roman Catholic priest from St. Louis, was wounded fatally Wednesday by a man who mistook him for a prowler in an apartment house gangway.

Father Conway was taking a short cut through the gangway with Marjorie Walsh whom he was escorting home after taking her to dinner.

Charles Caspar, a resident of the apartment building, said his wife awakened him when they heard noises in the gangway. He ran out with a .22 caliber rifle and sounded a challenge but received no response.

He shouted again, he said, then fired three shots into the gangway before Miss Walsh ran out screaming. Father Conway was wounded in the chest, shoulder and arm and was pronounced dead at a hospital.

Father Conway was vacationing at his parents home from his assignment at Seven Holy Founders Seminary in St. Louis. He was a priest of the Servite order.

A coroner's jury ruled that his death was accidental.

Arms Inspection

INSPECTION. ARMS was the command as Company A assembled in preparation for retreat formation. Capt. Richard Nalle is shown inspecting a rifle belonging to Cadet Rudy Wright, A3, New York, one of SUI's ROTC detachment in training at Camp McCoy, Wis. Nalle is a West Point graduate of 1944 who served as a field artillery battery commander during World War II. Currently he is assigned to the ROTC unit at the University of Missouri.

Medical Students Double as Summer Nurses

Thirty pre-medical and medical students have taken over some of the nursing duties at University hospitals this summer.

Not only are they helping alleviate the nursing shortage, but they are getting training in medical care, hospital officials said.

Spring brings a nursing shortage to University hospitals as nurses graduate or leave Iowa City when their husbands graduate.

This is not the first summer medical students have worked at the hospitals, but their previous duties were limited to work as orderlies.

Students have been assigned to areas fitting their qualifications and interests. The colleges of medicine and nursing are giving instructions in theoretical and practical nursing procedures.

Some nursing assistants had previous experience on hospital wards as medical corpsmen during World War II.

One assistant is working in the nursery, a job for which more than half the men applied.

He changes diapers, bathes and feeds youngsters in his care.

Dr. William Bean, head of the internal medicine department, said, "The typical man nursing assistant is an interested, capable and efficient young man. With medicine as his future goal, he is eager to learn the rudiments of patient care."

One hospital nurse said, "The regular nurse had better do her job well. Iowa's future doctors may know her job almost as well as she does."

Iowa City Woman Sues for Divorce

Suit for divorce was filed Wednesday in Johnson county district court by Ellen Moberg, 905 E. Burlington street, against Dean A. Moberg.

Mrs. Moberg charged cruel and inhuman treatment. She asked permission to resume use of her maiden name, Ellen Thompson, and asked custody of all furniture and household furnishings belonging to the couple.

She also asked that the defendant be ordered to pay all outstanding bills incurred by the couple and pay costs of the divorce action.

According to the divorce petition, the couple was married in Iowa City March 2, 1945.

Janitors Learn Fire Control

About 60 SUI janitors fought smoke and flames Wednesday afternoon, with fires furnished by the Iowa City fire department.

"The demonstration enabled the janitors to become acquainted with different types of fires, and the right types of extinguishers to use," SUI Foremen of Janitors Raymond E. Wagner said.

The three types of extinguishers used at SUI were explained by Iowa City Fireman Ted Fay in a demonstration at the parking lot south of the Iowa City water plant.

Fay said 65 percent of all fires in the U.S. are put out or controlled with the three types of extinguishers used here.

He also demonstrated several new types of extinguishers not now available in university buildings.

He used small trash, gasoline and oil fires to simulate fires likely to occur in university buildings.

All extinguishers should be aimed at the bases of fires, Fay said.

A soda and acid extinguisher is best for ordinary fires, but chemical and electrical fires are better handled with carbon tetrachloride, or carbon dioxide extinguishers.

Auspauch asked $225.58 for damages to his automobile.

Hillcrest Addition Nears Completion

The final waterproof finish is being put on the roof of the new Hillcrest dormitory addition, construction Supt. Harold Van Horn said Wednesday.

Van Horn said a rag-felt sheet has been put down and covered with two layers of celetex insulation material. A covering sheet will be placed over this, and the whole thing covered with waterproof paper, tar and gravel before the job is completed.

Ninety-five percent of the outside walls have had the dirt and excess mortar, which accumulated during construction, scrubbed off, Van Horn said.

Inside the building, partitions have been completed on the second and fourth floors, and partially completed on the first and third. Most of the rough plumbing and wiring have been put in, he said.
