Love Troubles, Man Leaps Into River Here

A man tentatively identified as Robert E. Smith, 26, Lyndon, Kan., jumped into the Iowa river from the Iowa avenue bridge at about 12:30 a.m. today.

He managed to swim to shore and was helped up the bank by some bystanders who took him to University hospitals.

At 1 a.m. he was conscious and talking, although hospital officials declined to comment on his condition.

Smith was reported to be a member of the merchant marine who had to come to Iowa City to marry his fiancée. Her name was reported to be Gardie Smith, about 19, a University hospitals' employe.

Eyewitnesses told this story: Smith rode to the bridge on a girl's bicycle registered in the name of Margaret J. Smith, 2219 H street.

Before making the jump, Smith took off his shoes, sat on the bridge rail, read a diary for about 10 minutes and then left his billfold and the diary on the rail before leaping.

Neil Simpkins, G. Iowa City, notified police who sent a squad car and a fire truck pulmotor.

A man who works on the new Veterans hospital project here and refused to give his name, said he talked to Smith on the corner of Capitol and Linn streets about 9:30 p.m. He said Smith told him he was going to jump into the river because his fiancée had changed her mind about getting married today.

Nation Moves To Mobilize

WASHINGTON (AP) — In swift strides, the nation drove toward large-scale mobilization Friday amid increasing signs of stiff tax increases to help defray war costs.

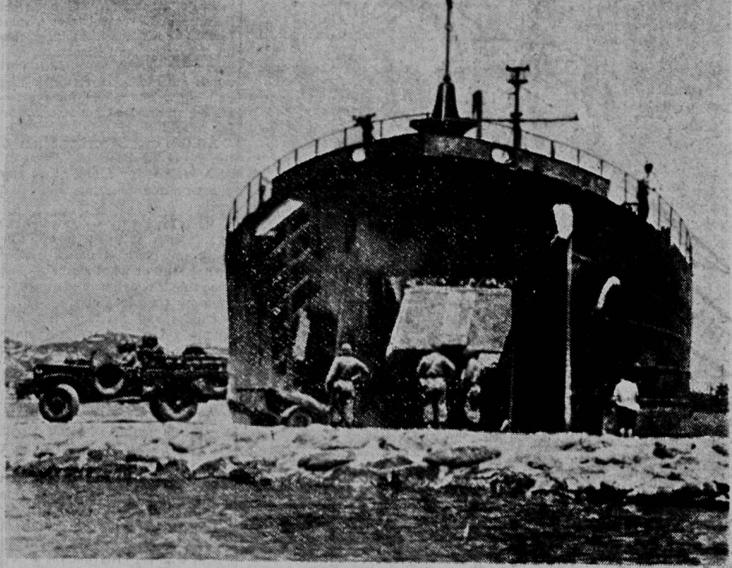

The army called up some national guard troops and reserves on 30-day notice.

The air force said it may seek to draft veterans of World War II, but still hopes to get along with volunteers.

Maj. Gen. Lewis Hershey, U.S. draft chief, spoke of a 7-million man war machine. It was not clear, however, whether the figure represented the total draft goal or manpower needs for combined military-industrial replacement.

On Capitol Hill, the senate and house armed services committees voted overwhelmingly to wipe out the present 2,005,882-man limit on the size of the armed forces and to "freeze" for one year all enlistments.

In new moves to speed the war effort, President Truman ordered 14 major federal agencies to curb construction, tighten credit and hold down their buying of items made of critical materials—such as cars and typewriters.

Insurance Firms Invoke Limitations on Policies

Limitations on insurance policies for men going into the armed forces were invoked Friday by at least two insurance companies doing business in Iowa City.

These restrictions do not constitute war clauses, but Marc M. Stewart, local agent for the New York Life Insurance company, pointed out that the limitations are probably a preliminary step toward invoking war clauses.

Companies included are the New York Life and the Prudential Life Insurance companies.

(One company reportedly invoked a war clause, but The Daily Iowan was unable to contact representatives of the firm.)

Jess P. Moffitt, agent for the Prudential Insurance company, reported that his company had ordered limitations on policies. "The notification came by telephone and it was very vague as to terms of the limitations. I hope to receive confirmation by mail on Monday," Moffitt said.

The restrictions placed on the New York Life policies will not go into effect until Thursday. They will apply only to new policies written after that date.

Under the ban, agents for the company will no longer be permitted to sell term insurance policies to men in the armed forces, organized reserves or national guard.

Men about to be inducted into the armed services are not eligible for term insurance under the order.

Life insurance policies can be sold provided the total amount of new and old insurance held by the applicant does not total more than $10,000.

Double indemnity and premium waiver clauses will not be included in policies sold to applicants concerned in the ban.

(Term insurance is any insurance which covers a specified period of years. Premium-waiver clauses provide that no premium be paid on a policy when the policy-holder is totally disabled.)

Fire insurance and casualty companies reported that no special instructions had been received.

However, G. W. Buxton, local representative for Aetna Casualty and Surety company, said nearly all property floater policies and automobile policies already contain war clauses.

SUI's employes will begin reworking pocket-size magazines sometime this fall, Arlyn C. Marks, director of the personnel service, announced Friday.

The new magazine, an SUI publication, will be called "Staff" and will expand the "Employee Record" which was formerly sent to all non-academic employes.

"Staff" will be designed to serve both non-academic employes and faculty members with articles about new technical developments, teaching techniques, general news and features.

University problems and policies will be backgrounded and discussed. Present plans call for a 32-page, illustrated monthly magazine about the size of "Coronet."

Editor of the new periodical will be Bill McBride, former Daily Iowan columnist and information service intern.

WHISKEY ALLOCATION NEW YORK (AP) — Brown-Fordman Distillers Corp. said Friday that "due to apparent hysterical buying" of whiskey, the firm was reserving the right to allocate orders of its top brands of bonded bourbon and straight whiskeys.

CHICAGO (AP) — A disillusioned 19-year-old playboy sat in jail Friday and complained that "hungry and thirsty blondes" helped him run through $4,200 in 10 days.

"Everywhere I went I ran into a blonde," said Robert Dernbach Jr., North Bergen, N.J. "The blondes were nice. But all of them seemed to be hungry and thirsty. There sure must be a lot of starving blondes in this world."

Tells of Spree Dernbach was seized Thursday on a charge of defrauding an innkeeper when he was unable to pay a $73 bill.

It was then he told of his 10-day spree with "blondes, champagne and steak" among the night spots of Chicago's near north side.

Dernbach said he ran away from home in North Bergen, taking $3,000 of his own money out of a bank account and his father's car. He sold the car before leaving New Jersey, for $1,200.

Discovers Blondes Then he got on a bus and headed for Chicago. When he arrived there, he discovered the blondes. He said the city seemed over-populated with them.

"Everywhere I looked, there was a blonde," he said. "Bleached blondes, natural blondes, light blondes, dark blondes — all of them hungry and thirsty."

Bill Would Grant Truman Control of Foreign Ships WASHINGTON (AP) — The senate passed and sent to the house Friday a bill giving the President control over operation of foreign ships in American waters.

Sen. Warren Magnuson (D-Wash.) said the purpose of the bill is to permit the President to order security regulations as a safeguard against possible "sneak attacks" by atomic bomb bearing ships.

WASHER PLANT CLOSED NEWTON (AP) — The Maytag company's new automatic washer plant was closed down Friday until Monday following a work stoppage.

MEAT PRICES SKID CHICAGO (AP) — The American Meat institute said Friday that "panic buying" caused some meat prices to skyrocket but "this pressure has lessened and the present price trend is downward." It said the future meat supply situation seems "bright indeed and sufficient to meet normal requirements."

About Love and War OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — A 20-year-old youth shuffled into The Associated Press office here Friday and said he wanted information—about love and the Korean war.

"What's the latest," he asked, "on Oklahoma's marine reserve unit being called to duty?" The AP editor said the state's 20th infantry reserve battalion had been placed on a 24-hour alert for an expected call to active duty.

"You in the marine reserves?" he asked. "Well, no," the youth answered, "but my girl friend's boy friend is—and I want to know when he's going to get out of town."

Bolivia Offers Troops to Aid UN in Korea

LAKE SUCCESS (AP)—Bolivia has offered 30 officers and elements of its regular army to join Gen. Douglas MacArthur's forces in Korea, the United Nations disclosed Friday night. Size of the elements was not disclosed.

This was the first definite offer of soldiers from any of the 52 UN members who were asked last week to do all they could to help the UN war effort.

The Bolivian offer was made public by the UN several hours after Lie had told reporters that official offers of planes, ships and hospital supplies had been received in response to his appeal.

Lie told his weekly news conference he does not think messages from only nine UN members is a poor response. He said it is too early for definite answers from governments and that maybe two weeks from now he might expect final responses.

Nine Nations Respond The nine nations responding with offers either of sympathy or actual assistance in transport of supply, are Peru, Sweden, Denmark, Norway, Argentina, France, Brazil, Greece and the Philippines.

Canada has indicated it will send an air transport squadron for assistance in the Pacific air lift.

Both UN and U.S. sources have said that in any event offers of soldiers must be top secret and must be handled in that fashion until all arrangements have been made.

Plan Square Dance For Next Saturday

The second informal dance of the summer session will be a square dance party next Saturday on the lawn in front of the Iowa Union bandshell.

A caller and a three-piece orchestra will perform for the party called the "Grass Hop." No admission will be charged.

All university students, faculty and Iowa Citizens are invited, Dean Fritchey, C3, Decorah, publicity chairman of the Union board and central party committee, said. These two groups are sponsoring the dance.

In case of rain the party will be held in the River room of the Union. The River room will be used for regular dancing if the square dance is not rained out.

Fritchey said square dancing instructions will be given for beginning dancers. Tables and lights will be set up outside the Union as they were for the street dance, the summer session's first party July 3.

Restored Belgian King Takes Off for Home GENEVA (SATURDAY) (AP) — King Leopold III took off from Geneva airport early this morning to return to his throne in Belgium.

Korean War at a Glance

Korean Front—American Negro troops capture Yecheon after 16-hour battle in first aggressive ground victory. GI's withdrawing from Red-captured Taejon hold grimly to positions in nearby hills. Exact heavy toll in enemy tanks with new bazooka. Anti-infiltration tactics working against Reds. Maj. Gen. William Dean still missing.

Washington — Senate votes President power to hold all enlisted men in armed services for extra year. Senate and house committees approve bill to wipe out 2,005,882-man limit on size of armed forces. Senate also votes President control over operation of foreign ships in U.S. waters. Army begins calling national guard and reserves to active duty.

Lake Success—Nine nations answer UN appeal for some effective aid in Korea but only Bolivia offers ground combat forces.

Lodge: State Department Security System Sound

WASHINGTON (UP) — Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. (R-Mass.) told the senate Friday he is convinced the state department has set up a "sound" security system and that he found no Communists on its payroll.

But he repeated that a senate foreign relations subcommittee failed to make a "thorough" investigation of charges by Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.) that the department is Red-infiltrated. He urged a new inquiry by an independent bipartisan commission.

Lodge, who was one of the two Republican members of the subcommittee which spent five months looking into McCarthy's allegations. In a report accepted by the senate Thursday, the Democratic majority branded the charges "a fraud and a hoax" and accused McCarthy of deliberately lying to the senate and the nation.

Explaining why he refused to sign the report, Lodge said that while McCarthy produced no evidence to back up his charges, the subcommittee should not have stopped there. It should have struck out on its own, he said, to study "the whole question of foreign penetration" of the state department.

He said the studies that were made indicated "great laxity of judgment in 1945 and 1946" when thousands of employes of temporary wartime agencies were transferred to the state department without security clearances.

But since that time, he said, "the department has made a sincere effort" to weed out potential security risks.

CIO Director Demands McCarthy's Resignation MILWAUKEE (AP) — Jack Kroll, national director of the CIO political action committee, Friday demanded that Sen. Joseph McCarthy (R - Wis) resign.

Kroll based his demand on McCarthy's promise that he would quit the senate if he ever tried to take advantage of his congressional immunity.

Reds Attack Supply Hub Headquarters has expressed belief, however, that this deep plunge into South Korea can be contained by air attacks.

However, about 20 miles west of where the 25th won its baptismal battle at Yecheon, the tank-led First North Korean division attacked Ocheon, a communications hub on the supply road between the front and the port of Pusan.

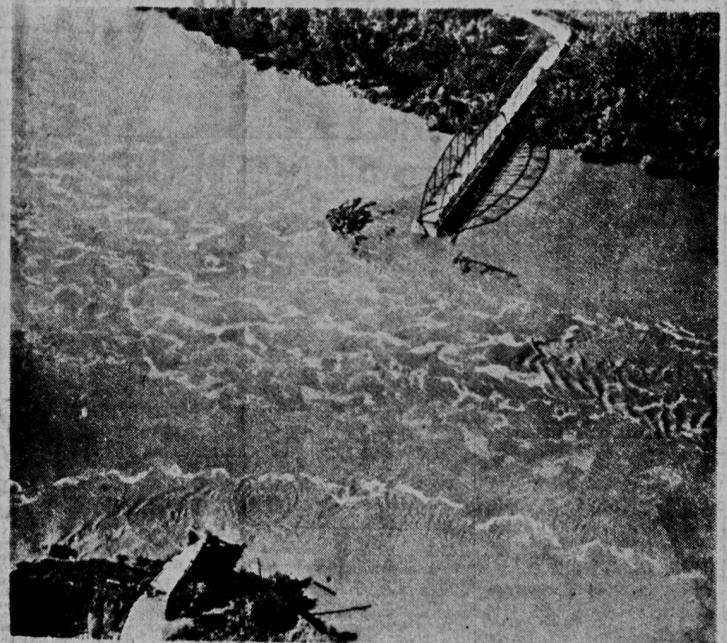

American and South Korean troops advanced to Yongdok behind a U.S.-British naval barrage. For a week the naval guns had been pounding away at the area.

AMERICAN NEGRO TROOPS, in action on the central Korean front (A), captured Yecheon (underlined) Friday in the first sizeable U.S. ground victory of the Korean war. Red pressure in that sector has been a flanking threat (broken arrow) against Kumchon, American defense zone rail center. Other broken arrows indicate Communist flanking threats to American defense lines southeast of Taejon (B). On the east coast, activities of the U.S. First Cavalry division have not been reported since they started inland after landing at Pohang earlier this week.

Shortages—Scare-Buyers' Frankenstein—

Newspapers and radio for three days have carried the joke about a woman who bought huge supplies of grocery and clothing items and told clerks she did so to beat the hoarders.

The joke was the woman's stupid hogwash.

Iowa City, like the whole nation, faces no immediate shortages in most items except those caused by these selfish cheats. President Truman, himself, said no prospect of any food shortage exists in the United States.

Dealers, too, reported few shortages. There is no worry about meat — prospects are for increased supplies this fall because of a bigger pig crop and more cattle.

No shortages exist and none are expected in supplies of soap, sugar and coffee. The same picture holds true for clothing.

And, yet, stupid people over the country are on the verge of upsetting this worldenied condition we enjoy.

Every citizen who walks into a grocery store and buys several times the need amount of an item is guilty of endangering the nation's welfare of his or her "I've got mine — to hell with you" philosophy.

These stupid people also are the ones who will scream first when they have to fall in at the end of a long line which they, themselves, brought about.

Theirs, too, will be among the voices crying for "our poor boys" fighting the war.

They should hope the news of their selfish and foolish attitude doesn't reach those "poor boys." The boys might be just a little contemptuous of the sympathy.

We believe a campaign of contempt and derision should be leveled at these thick-headed betrayers of their fellow men.

Apparently, simple reasoning isn't enough.

UN Assembly Grows Stronger

By SIGRID ARNE

WASHINGTON — The United Nations is changing character. An old hand on the international scene described it this way:

"The UN started out as a semi-automatic association. Eleven nations could ask the others to help keep the peace. But more and more the whole membership is voting on decisions.

"The UN vote on June 27 to support the South Koreans — although taken in the small security council — has spotlighted the shift. But the change has been taking place for three years.

"The UN's main objective when it started was to keep the peace. But only 11 nations on the security council could vote on action against an aggressor.

"The whole membership in the general assembly could vote on such issues only when the security council permitted.

nations. A UN commission named the three Greek neighbors as the source of the trouble. But action stalled in the security council, where the Soviet Union objected.

Greek Success

The assembly took up Greece's worries in October, 1947, and sent a "watch-dog" committee to the area. That committee reported to the assembly — not to the security council — and took its orders from the assembly. Little by little, the guerrillas were defeated and scattered. Greece has had comparative quiet for a year now. There have been several such actions.

The assembly meets only once a year, for about nine weeks. The security council is in almost continuous session.

That meant that issues stalled in the council had to wait months for the next assembly meeting. So the assembly decided to keep a working committee going all year. This was the little assembly. The Russians have refused to sit in the assembly, where decisions are taken on majority votes and no veto can be cast.

Planned Veto Dodge

On June 24, 1950, the North Korean Reds invaded the southern half of the nation. The security council took action — the next day. It named the North Koreans aggressors and two days later called on UN member nations to give the South Koreans help. Those two votes on Korea went through the security council speedily and with no Russian veto. The Russians refused to attend. But suppose the Russians had cast a veto and stopped the security council dead in its tracks. There was a plan, all worked out, to hold an immediate general assembly meeting. The buck would have been passed again to the assembly, and this time on an issue which has been considered exclusively the business of the small security council.

Newspaper Runs Ad To Explain Reasons For Not Publishing

NEW YORK — The World-Telegram and Sun, which has been closed since June 13 by a strike of the New York Newspaper Guild (CIO), Thursday carried advertisements in all four New York morning newspapers explaining to its readers why they "can't buy" the newspaper.

"One of the two main issues standing in the way of settlement of the strike is the guild's insistence on a form of union shop, or guild shop, which would compel at least ninety percent of the employees within the jurisdiction of the guild to join and remain members of the guild as a condition of their employment," the advertisement said.

"... We believe that membership in the guild should not be a condition of employment for editorial people and advertising salesmen whose work makes them interpreters of the paper's policies."

"The management of the World-Telegram and Sun has been under pressure to accept a clause stripping it of the right to keep the size of the staff in balance with the paper's income," the ad continued. "Such a clause would be contrary to practices governing every other trade union having contracts with the World-Telegram and Sun."

The newspaper said that as evidence of its "good faith and desire to negotiate a fair and equitable contract, it had offered the guild, in addition to a maintenance of membership clause, the following:

1. A general wage increase.
2. An increase in every minimum wage scale.
3. The 35-hour week.
4. Eight holidays with pay.
5. Vacations with pay — one week after six months employment, two weeks after one year, three weeks after five years, four weeks after 15 years.
6. Arbitration of all grievances under the contract.

Assembly Takes Over

After five years, that machinery has been found wanting. Too often the Soviet Union has stopped or stalled action in the security council that the majority of nations wanted. So, little by little, the general assembly has taken over major jobs when the security council failed to act. Here are two examples:

KOREA. That little nation was promised independence by the World War II allies. But Russia tried to limit Korea's choice of government officials to Communists. Plans for Korean independence bogged down, and the United States finally asked the general assembly to help give Korea independence. The assembly set up a commission to confer with Korean political leaders and to supervise the election which set up the government. The Soviet Union refused the UN border permission to enter the northern half of Korea, where Red army troops were stationed. But the election went through for the southern half of the nation, which was occupied by U.S. troops.

STEEL PRODUCTION RISE

NEW YORK — United States Steel corporation said Tuesday it will increase its steelmaking capacity by 1,600,000 tons annually "as rapidly as possible."

Korean Problem Dates Back Many Years

By Central Press

The east-west showdown in Korea has led to many speculations and comparisons. The British have compared it to their situation in Malaya and the French to their troubles in Indo-China. With our active participation in Korea, all the democracies are now occupied with active fronts in the east.

Coincidence or planning, these same three democratic powers are entrenched in Berlin and west## pletely at variance with facts the next.

We all realize the seriousness of the situation. We know that it can easily lead to a large scale war and at the same time we hope that it won't.

We therefore include as part of our story of Korea a resume of some of the treaties that concerned the country in modern times.

In 1885, China and Japan signed what has become known as the Tientsin Convention. By it, both countries agreed to withdraw their troops and allow Korea to reorganize its army under foreign direction which would be neither Chinese nor Japanese. It failed to accomplish its objectives because the Koreans requested Russia to supply officers to train the army and granted Russia port privileges in payment. Russia then became a threat to Japan.

By the treaty of Shimonoseki, which ended the Chinese-Japanese War of 1895, China recognized the independence of Korea. It failed because the Japanese assumed control and clashed with Russian interests in Siberia and Manchuria.

In 1905, by the treaty of Portsmouth, the Russians recognized the supremacy of Japan in Korea. It was also reported that President Theodore Roosevelt assured Japan that we would have no objection to Japanese rule in Korea.

Next came the Yalta agreement where it was agreed to setup an independent Korea under joint Russian-American sponsorship. Russia has failed to live up to the agreement and has failed to cooperate with the United Nations in attempting to set up a free and independent Korea.

While we are aware of the previous failures, and can make comparisons with them, we can make no predictions for the future of Korea or of the world.

Mark Twain on War

TO THE EDITOR:

I can think of no more fitting comment on the recent upsurge of war hysteria than the following quotation from Mark Twain's "Mysterious Stranger."

"The loud little handful — as usual — will shout for the war. The pulpit will — warily and cautiously — object — at first; the great, big, bulk of the nation will rub its sleepy eyes and try to make out why there should be a war, and will say, earnestly and indignantly, 'It is unjust and dishonorable, and there is no necessity for it.'

"Then the handful will shout louder. A few fair men on the other side will argue and reason against the war with speech and pen, and at first will have a hearing and be applauded; but it will not last long; those others will outshout them, and presently the anti-war audiences will thin out and lose popularity. Before long you will see this curious thing: the speakers stoned from the platform, and free speech strangled by hordes of furious men who in their secret hearts are still at one with the stoned speakers — as earlier — but do not dare to say so. And now the whole nation — pulpit and all — will take up the war cry, and shout itself hoarse, and mob any honest man who ventures to open his mouth; and presently such mouths will cease to open. Next the statesmen will invent cheap lies, putting the blame on the nation that is attacked, and every man will be glad of those conscience-soothing fables, and will diligently study them, and refuse to examine any refutation of them; and thus he will be by and by convinced himself that the war is just, and will thank God for the better sleep he enjoys after this process of grotesque self-deception."

More on Korea

TO THE EDITOR:

Mr. Moore's letter on Korea implied that the previous letter caused confusion because the facts presented were removed from context. His submission of the context did not alter the original facts, yet he drew amazingly divergent conclusions.

In his book, "The Situation in Asia" (1949), Owen Lattimore states that "in south Korea the Americans organized not a national army (like the Russians in the north) but a constabulary, the backbone of which consists of men who served in the police under the Japanese... Syngman Rhee, a returned exile is at the head of this political structure. He has completely tainted himself by his wholehearted association with the relatively prosperous, crooked and pliable Koreans who collaborated with the Japanese... The army cannot be trusted to fight; the people do not trust the government; the government cannot be depended on and does not depend on itself; it appeals for continued American occupation and protection. If there is to be a civil war, South Korea would not be able to subdue

The Gathering Storm

Sen. Tydings to Play Broadcast Recording Of McCarthy Claims

WASHINGTON — Sen. Millard E. Tydings (D-Md) is going to stage a private performance starring the "golden voice" of Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy.

And though advance billing promises a show to remember, you can bet Republican Whip Kenneth S. Wherry won't be in the audience. Tydings was like a frustrated impresario when Wherry started to object to playing the McCarthy recording on the senate floor.

The Maryland Democrat wanted to give the flavor of reality to his charges that McCarthy perpetrated a "fraud and hoax" on the senate and the American public.

All the apparatus was in place. Tydings was about to let the senators hear the Wisconsin Republican's own voice charging there were 205 card-carrying Communists in the state department.

McCarthy had made the claim in a broadcast over station WVAW, Wheeling, W. Va., last February.

Wherry started to protest that "there are certain rules governing use of the senate chamber," but Tydings cut him short, snapping:

"I will play this record off the senate floor at a later time, but admission will be by card only."

"My hearers will never get the full beauty they could through hearing the golden voice itself telling it. (Laughter filled the packed chamber.)"

"It is just like going to the Metropolitan opera in New York and hearing Lauritz Melchior, the great Danish tenor, reading the libretto instead of, with the full-throated orchestra in full cry, singing, with his soaring golden voice, reaching, bold and reverberating through the hall of the Metropolitan opera."

But the crowded senate and jammed galleries could not have been more attentive as Tydings took the center of the stage.

Now shouting, now speaking in a low intense voice, Tydings produced a chart which he said he had labelled "Behind the Eight-Ball."

It listed eight groups he said had found nothing in the 81 cases — four committees of the Republican — controlled 80th congress, former Rep. Bartel Jonkman (R - Mich), Sens. Burke B. Hickenlooper (R - Iowa), and Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., (Mass) and "the entire 80th congress."

Letters to the Editor

North Korea without a great deal more American help than is now available. North Korea would be able to overrun South Korea without Russian help, unless stopped by American combat troops. America, which has in China complained of the bad luck of having inherited the Kuomintang through no fault of its own, has in Korea manufactured its own Kuomintang. To support our proclaimed policy of world-wide opposition to police states, we have in South Korea created a weak and unreliable police state of our own."

This Rhee administration is the one Mr. Moore denies is fascist and cautiously refers to as "not above reproach." Since 1949 there has been strong feeling that in the event of a civil war, North Korea would win. Why should the North have waited this long, till U.S. aid was obviously forthcoming, to provoke a war? Is it not more logical that the South, aware of U.S. commitments ($100 - million) should use this power to her own purpose. What defense is there for a "nazi-minded" minister of education in a government supported by the United States? Because the UN repeats its announcement of desire to work with the South Koreans, it is not to be assumed that the UN's work proceeds unimpeded. The assumption that "had the South Koreans been supplied with necessary arms they would have liberated their northern brothers," is the most far fetched of all Mr. Moore's musings. In a country of land owners and peasants, under the Japanese yoke for 35 years, it is hardly to be assumed that the bulk of the people (peasants) will take up arms to rescue or liberate the Communist North.

No matter what the state of the Communist Asiatic areas, it becomes increasingly evident that the American policy is one of support for the reactionary, anti-Communist elements, no matter how unpopular and corrupt they be. (e.g. Bao Dai, Chiang Kai-shek, Rhee). The imposition of unpopular governments on long-oppressed peoples is both ineffectual and hopeless (and according to democratic theory, now apparently discarded, undesirable). American foreign policy has lost all balance in its anti-Russian myopia and as a result we find ourselves defending with blood, the Rhee government in Korea and un-progressive governments all over the world. The UN stands now as our only bulwark against total global destruction and must be supported in good faith by all nations still intent on peace.

City Dwellers' Ears Deafened by Noises

NEW YORK — Country people hear better than city people and some people who work in large cities eventually go stone deaf, a magazine survey indicated Friday.

The Woman's Home Companion, in a survey of noise in American cities, said that too much sound also can cause indigestion, headaches and even insanity.

Trainmen, taxi drivers and policemen frequently suffer occupational deafness, the article said.

Merely living in a large city can cause partial deafness. The interior mechanism of the ear thickens and the hearing nerve itself can become exhausted, the survey indicated. One concert pianist who lived in Manhattan was forced to move to the country because she was no longer able to hear the overtones in her music, according to the magazine.

Most people do not realize the effect of sound, since they accustom themselves to it, but their nerves react to it whether they realize it or not, it was explained.

By TOM DORSEY

While American GI's were fighting in Korea this week, some Iowa Citizens were looking out for their personal pleasures.

They bought large quantities of nylon stockings, cars, extra tires and sugar and other foodstuffs — all the things that got scarce during World War II.

All this excess buying comes on the heels of President Truman's plea Wednesday night, "that anyone who hoards is just plain foolish."

One Iowa City woman bought $27 worth of nylon hose. She told the clerk it didn't matter what kind or what gauge — just so they're nylon and approximately the right size.

Clerks say most of the large quantity buyers have a standard excuse, in fact, they all have some excuse.

One of the more popular ones is: "I'm buying these for a friend."

Another Iowa City woman bought 20 pounds of black pepper. Just to be on the safe side, of course.

The effect of scare buying on automobiles is about the same as on other things. And tires seem to be a big horders item too. One dealer tells about a man who recently bought a new car and asked for 12 new tires.

The sweetest of all commodities, sugar, is being hard hit too. One grocer says he sold one Iowa City man 25 hundred - pound bags and says he sold several individuals 500 - pound sacks.

Other housewives, who usually buy sugar in 25 - pound bags are now buying in hundred pound lots.

Meanwhile, in another part of Iowa City this week, a reserve officer — who landed against German fire at Marcellise — fought the Nazis in the mountains of France — and faced their whirling fire on the Rhine river — spoke out against frantic buying and hoarding.

He said that one of the American troops greatest enemies during the last war was the news they got from the states — news of the selfish conduct of civilians — news of civilians fighting to hoard and get more than their share of scarce materials — while the GI's battled in mud and blood for everyone's freedom.

He called the hoarders and stockpilers, "saboteurs of the first order."

Referring to the rush of some Iowa Citizens for nylons, cars, tires, sugar and pepper, the officer said he wished the newspapers and radio stations would list and hold up to ridicule the names of every such buyer.

He added that every housewife, when she enters a store, should think of all the American GI's who are battling in a grim struggle for existence in Korea, and realize that by buying only what she needs and no more — those GI's might be better able to fight and live longer.

He concluded, that to do otherwise, almost amounts to treason.

TO ATTEND CONFERENCE
Dr. R. G. Bunge, associate professor in the urology department of the SUI college of medicine, plans to attend a conference concerning tissue culture at Cooperstown, N.Y. The conference will be from Aug. 7 through 28.

An attempt will be made to "find out the cause and effect of scare buying" when the retail dealers of Iowa City meet at the Iowa City chamber of commerce at 9:30 a.m. today.

Robert Gage, chamber of commerce secretary, said scare buying has been noted in Iowa City since the outbreak of war in Korea, although merchants, locally and nationally, have emphasized that adequate supplies of food and other commodities are available.

Nineteen women met to organize the Opti-Mrs. club, an auxiliary to the Optimists club, in the home of Mrs. William Olson, 415 Ronalds street, Thursday night.

The Iowa City chapter of the Optimists club, established last year, is a branch of the national organization. It is customary to organize an auxiliary, the Opti-Mrs. club, to each chapter. Both organizations are civic groups working with underprivileged children.

Plans have been made by the Opti-Mrs. group to meet the second Thursday of each month, beginning in September. A dinner will be sponsored by the club for its September meeting, and a charter will be presented.

Officers elected were Mrs. Howard Holman, 5 S. Dubuque street, president; Mrs. Stanley Davis, 36 Prospect place, vice-president; Mrs. D. E. Borchart, 1330 Cedar street, secretary and Mrs. Norwood Louis, 317 S. Linn street, treasurer.

Plastic Place Mats Add Charm, Variety

Economy plus charm and variety add up to plastic place mats in interesting table decor.

They come in ample designs and colors suitable to any hour or occasion. The clever housewife economically provides enjoyment for family and guests by using them.

Many mats are accurate reproductions of expensive linens, and are greaseproof, stainproof, and heat resistant. They lie flat and may be wiped clean with a damp cloth.

To start the day as cheerfully as you mean to continue it, why not serve breakfast on gay cork mats? An American provincial design consists of bright red apples applied on gingham pattern.

Whether it's breakfast-time or time for mid-morning lunch, the young fry will enjoy it more if the table is enlivened with mats that tell a story. Hopalong Cassidy will bring them running to their meals.

A family luncheon may be made into a festive occasion if you have a drawer full of attractive mats to choose from.

A simple polka-dot pattern capturing the sheerness of organza lends itself to a table centerpiece of mixed flowers, simply arranged. No matter what the shape of your table you can use one or more mats to make a runner.

The back yard may be made the scene of pleasant, casual meals. All you need are a table, bench or chairs, and informal cork mats which lie flat and refuse to budge even in a strong breeze. Checked mats create a picnic atmosphere.

For formal luncheon settings, flower designs of mats with cut-out scalloped edges reproduce every thread of fine organza. Magnolia blossom or violet bouquets designs of these mats give them a festive touch.

When the bridge game is over and the cards are cleared away, set your bridge table with four mats and bring out your prettiest china for tea.

Floral centers of your mats enhanced by a wide border of lace with a flower design will add to your hospitality.

For the small impromptu party, handsome leaf-shaped mats fit smartly on coffee or small serving tables so that guests can be served individually. After the meal the mats can be whisked out of sight in a twinkling.

Holidays are a fine time to use mats. Cork mats with calico pumpkins and gingham radishes in their design will intrigue the children at a Halloween party. For Thanksgiving mats of a colorful fruit pattern save laundering the next day.

Sprigs of holly and red borders ornament the Christmas mats and "Happy Days!" and bells add a seasonal touch to New Year's party mats.

These versatile individual covers may be used to protect furniture if placed beneath vases of flowers.

THE SIMPLE FLORAL PATTERN in these plastic place mats harmonizes with the pattern of the china, and provides an attractive setting for the matched crystal. Practical because they can be wiped with a damp cloth and used hundreds of times, these mats are available in many designs. Many women prefer them to table linens, because they are easy to clean and provide ideas for attractive centerpieces.

Crandell Forced At Third

BOSTON'S DEL CRANDELL (right) was forced out at third base the eighth inning in the Braves — Cubs game Friday. The play was made by pitcher Johnny Sain bunted to Cubs' first baseman Hank Sauer who relayed the ball to third baseman Bill Serena, left. The Cubs won in the 13th inning, 4-3.

Chicago Drops Braves In 13th

CHICAGO (AP) — Andy Pafko's double and Bill Serena's single gave the Cubs a 13-inning, 4-3 victory over the Boston Braves before a Ladies' day throng of 27,445 Friday.

The victory was the seventh straight for the Cubs over the Braves.

It was Pafko's 16th home run of the season which had given the Cubs a 1-0 lead over Johnny Sain in the fourth inning.

The contest was a pitcher's duel between Sain and Bob Rush for eight innings. The Braves went ahead with a three-run outburst in the eighth, but the Cubs tied the score in their half of the inning on Hank Sauer's double with two mates on base.

In the end, Rush left the game in the ninth and Walt Dubiel and Johnny Schmitz finished up, with Schmitz gaining his ninth decision of the season. Sain, who went the distance for Boston, suffered his seventh loss of the year, compared with 12 wins.

The Braves open an important series with St. Louis today with a day — night doubleheader.

Washington — None in reserves and none in national guard. Eddie Yost and Irv Noren both below the 26-year-old age maximum of current draft.

White Sox — Ray Scarborough and General Manager Frank Lane in naval reserve. Lane already has been ordered to take physical.

Yankees — Bobby Brown, commissioned in naval medical reserve; Bill Martin and Ed Ford 1-A in draft.

Cardinals — George (Red) Mungler and Claude Boyer both in reserves.

Phillies — Curt Simmons in national guard and ordered to report for drills in mid-August; because of youth program, numerous draft prospects.

Braves — John Antonelli and Del Crandell both 1-A in draft.

Giants — None in reserves or national guard and only a few draft prospects.

Brooklyn — none in reserves or national guard; because of youth program, at least 11 players under the 26-year-old draft maximum.

Cubs — virtually immune under present conditions.

Cincinnati — None known to be in national guard or reserves.

Pittsburgh — Only one, Ralph Kiner, who's on inactive list, naval reserve.

Giants Win in 11th On Miller's Error

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Shortstop Eddie Miller's 11th inning error gave the New York Giants a 5-4 decision over the St. Louis Cardinals Friday night dumping the Red Birds into a first-place National league tie with Philadelphia. It was a tight pitchers' duel between Sal Maglie and Cloyd Boyer. Stan Musial kept the Red Birds in the ball game with a seventh inning homer with none on.

St. Louis' Boyer struck out nine men, allowed seven hits and walked eight in the overtime contest. New York's Maglie fanned six, gave up seven hits and walked four.

The score was tied 4-4 in the 11th. With one out, Alvin Dark doubled against the right field wall and went to third on Maglie's grounder. Eddie Stanky then grounded to Miller, who fumbled the ball and permitted the winning run to cross the plate.

St. Louis grabbed a 1-0 lead in the first on Musial's single that scored Rocky Nelson, who had walked and then stole second.

The Giants came back with three runs in the third. A single and a stolen base by Eddie Stanky, another single by Don Mueller, a double by Hank Thompson, two walks and a long fly accounted for the markers.

In their half of the third, the Cards knotted it up at 3-3. Tommy Glaviano drove in the two Red Birds runs.

Dark broke the deadlock in the fourth, leading off with a triple and scoring on Stanky's double-play grounder.

With two out and the bases empty, Musial tied up the count again in the seventh with a homer on the right field roof, his 12th of the year.

Yachts Set Sail Today In Race to Mackinac

CHICAGO (AP) — A fleet of 63 yachts set sail today in the longest fresh water race in the world — the Chicago to Mackinac event sponsored by the Chicago yacht club.

The elapsed time record for the 335-mile race established in 1911 still stands, as does the top corrected time. The schooner Amarat, owned by Dr. W. L. Baum, set the straight time of 31:14:30 in a howling gale in that year. E. M. Mill's sloop Mavrounee made the corrected time of 28:31:51.

The race is scheduled to start at 1 p. m. off the Chicago fair grounds.

Champion and His Bride

THE HONEYMOON IS OVER for suspended featherweight Champion Willie Pep and his bride, the former Delores Von Frenckell of Hartford, Conn. The couple cut a belated wedding cake at a party in Washington, D. C. Pep, scheduled to fight Bobby Bell at Griffith Stadium, July 10, disappeared to get married and was suspended by the District of Columbia Boxing commission and the National Boxing association until he met Bell in the ring. Pep will be reinstated Monday when he is scheduled to fight Bell.

Former Champion In Iowa Golf Finals

CLINTON (AP) — Mary Louise Cordingley of Des Moines, twice state champion, and Bebe Fisher of Mason City entered the finals of the Iowa women's golf tournament Friday.

Miss Cordingley, the tournament medalist, eliminated the defending titlist, Mrs. H.R. Staats of Davenport, 3 and 2.

Miss Fisher, a native of Boone representing the Mason City country club, upset Corky Major of Ottumwa, 1 up in 19 holes.

Miss Cordingley, who was state champion in 1947 and 1948, won the first three holes for a lead that Mrs. Staats was unable to overcome.

The defending titlist cut her deficit to 2-up at the turn, and it was still two up at the 16th when Miss Cordingley fired a bogey four. Mrs. Staats was also in trouble on her drive and barely missed a long put that would have sent the match into another hole.

Miss Major overcame a 2-up lead by Miss Fisher.

She won the 16th and 18th holes to square the match.

Vern Fear Pitches No-Hitter for Bruins

DES MOINES (AP) — Pitcher Vern Fear hurled a no-hit ball game as Des Moines defeated Denver 5-0 in the seven — inning first game of a Western league doubleheader Friday night.

The best Denver could do at bat was two line drives, both caught by Bruin infielders.

Fear walked three and two men got on base on errors. But one runner was cut down on a double play, another was caught trying to steal and only three were stranded.

The Bruins' big inning was the sixth, when they scored three runs.

Ferrier, Alexander Deadlocked for Lead In St. Paul Tourney

ST. PAUL, MINN. (AP) — A two-foot putt that refused to drop Friday threw Jim Ferrier of San Francisco into a tie with Skip Alexander of Knoxville, Tenn., for the leadership at the halfway mark in the St. Paul $15,000 Open golf tournament. Both had 136's, eight strokes under par, for the two 18-hole rounds.

The recalcitrant putt came on the 18th hole of Friday's round. Ferrier, who started the day seven under par with a 65 in the first round, was on the green in three with what appeared to be a certain birdie on the par five hole.

But the ball rolled three-quarters of the way around the rim of the cup and six inches away. Alexander started Friday's round with a five-under par 67. On the outgoing nine he butchered three strokes off regulation figures by getting birdies on the second, fifth and seventh holes. His game slipped a bit, however, on the incoming nine and he took a par 36 for his 69 total.

They paced a field of 139 players battling for survival in the 72-hole tourney. The field was cut at the end of Friday's round to the low 60 scorers, who will continue with 18 holes today and again Sunday.

One stroke behind Ferrier and Alexander with 137's, were Ted Kroil of New Hartford, N.Y., and Henry Ransom of St. Andrews, Ill. Both carded 70's Friday to go with first round 67's.

Ted Schroeder Wins In National Tennis Meet; Pople Beaten

CHICAGO (AP) — Seeded stars were in form Friday in a busy session which reduced the National clay courts tennis tourney to quarterfinal size in the men's singles and semi — final stage among the women.

A rain — caused delay of two days required cramming two rounds of singles as well as the opening doubles round into the day's activities at the River Forest Tennis club.

Schroeder Wins
Top — seeded Ted Schroeder of La Crescenta, Calif., displayed his old — time technique with easy wins over Bob Perry of Los Angeles, 6-4, 6-3, and Bernard Schreiber, Miami, Fla., 6-1, 6-1.

In the women's singles, No. 1 seeded Doris Hart of Jacksonville, Fla., ended the title quest by the meet's first Negro entry, Althea Gibson from Tallahassee, Fla. Miss Hart eliminated Miss Gibson, 6-2, 6-3 after spanking Jean Doble of San Diego, Calif., 6-0, 6-1.

Pople Beaten
Miss Hart's semi — final opponent today will be Beverly Baker of Toluca Lake, Calif., who won Friday over Doris Pople, Des Moines, 6-4, 6-3, and over Peggy Eby, Houston, Texas, 6-3, 6-1.

In the other feminine semi-final, defending Champion Magda Nurac, Los Angeles, encounters No. 2 seeded Shirley Fry of Akron, Ohio.

Other men's favorites to gain today's quarterfinal round include second — seeded Art Larsen, San Leandro, Calif., southpaw; third-seeded Herb Flam of Beverly Hills, Calif.; the top foreign entry, Tony Mottram of England; and 19-year-old Tony Trabert of Cincinnati, sixth-seeded.

Red Sox Hammer St. Louis, 7-4

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Red Sox pounded out 12 hits, including homers by Dom DiMaggio and Birdie Tebbets, while gaining their 11th win in 12 starts against the St. Louis Browns Friday night by a 7-4 margin. The Soxers had to use three pitchers, running up a hurling total of 31 for their last 11 home games.

Joe Dobson, in action for the seventh time in the last 12 games, was credited with his 11th pitching win. He kept the Browns blanked until he tired in the eighth and they scored thrice on two bases on balls and two batters by Sherm Lollar and Ken Wood.

Tiny Castle, Miniature Doll House, Hobby of Stone Mason

By OZZIE JENSEN

A miniature medieval castle, a lighthouse five feet high, doll-sized houses, a heart-shaped fish pond—they are just part of Al Vevera's artistic rockwork.

The little stone replicas decorate Vevera's terraced back yard at 1006 N. Dodge street.

Vevera, a bricklayer and stone mason, built a heart-shaped fish pond in 1930.

Since then, he has spent most of his spare time building more fish ponds, the lighthouse, miniature houses, rock retaining walls for his terraces, winding steps with a rock-studded handrail leading down the terraces and the Old English castle.

Houses Furnished

All are minute in every detail. The small houses are completely furnished with toy furniture, and there's a dime-store Cadillac in the garage of one.

The castle and the little houses are electrically lighted and have glass windows.

Vevera said it all started nearly 15 years ago when he began collecting rocks. Later, Vevera took his family along to collect rocks too.

"In the early years of our married life when the kids were 'just a kid,' said he still brings home rocks if he sees 'any good ones.'"

He first got the idea for his castle in 1917 when he was with the U.S. army in England. He sketched plans for a model of an ancient castle in Southampton.

Fourteen years later, he built the model in his back yard.

Received National Acclaim
Two years ago, Vevera's handiwork received nationwide acclaim when the Associated Press picked up a picture of the castle and Vevera's old tabby cat which lived in it.

"She just moved into the castle and had three or four litters of kittens there," Vevera said.

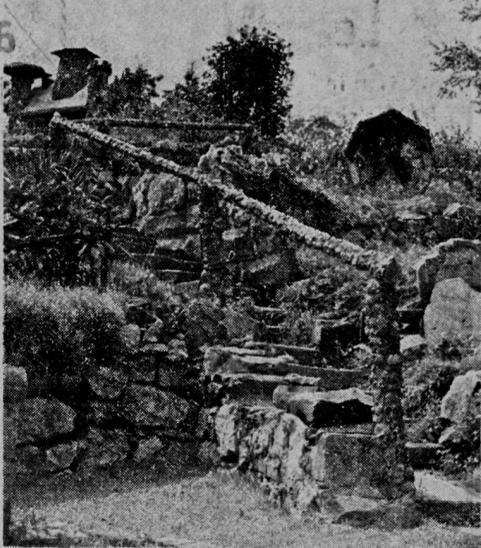

The picture of the cat and the castle brought a veritable blizzard of fanmail to 1006 N. Dodge street from all over the country.

"Finally the letters got so thick that I quit answering them," Vevera said. "Answering 15 or more letters a day got old after a while."

The four and one-half foot castle took more work to build than any of Vevera's other models, he said. Measuring 3 by 5 feet at the base, it has five medieval towers, arched portals and solid stone walls.

Wind, weather and little children have left their marks on the castle. Vevera said he had no time for people who turn their mischievous little children loose in his rock garden.

Builds Fifth Tower
Slate shingles on the castle became so worn and broken that Vevera had to make a new roof.

VISITORS HAVE COME FROM MILES around to see Al Vevera's back yard handiwork. During his free time in the last 20 years, Vevera has terraced his back yard, built rock retaining walls and winding steps with a rock-studded handrail. A medieval castle can be seen at the upper left of the picture. Vevera was once offered $400 for the castle by a Des Moines rock dealer. Vevera has collected rocks for nearly 35 years and has rocks from all parts of the United States.

NO HOUSING SHORTAGE HERE — for cats, that is. These two miniature houses and the Old English castle in the background were built by Al Vevera, 1006 N. Dodge street, bricklayer and stone mason, during his spare time. Two years ago Vevera's sleek black and white cat made her home in the castle which is modeled after one in Southampton, England. She raised several litters of kittens there. Vevera strives for detail in every one of his tiny houses. The one at right is complete with fireplace, dime store furniture and a miniature Cadillac in the garage.

It was while he was putting on the new roof that Vevera made the fifth tower.

But the castle is only one of Vevera's many models. His terraced back yard is dotted with his artistic handiwork.

From a small rock fountain and fish pond nearby, water trickles through a little mill wheel under the lighthouse and on down Vevera's terraces.

Last winter, Vevera built a model of a modern bungalow type house with complete interior furnishings.

"Al had our whole family looking all over town for dime store furniture for it," Mrs. Vevera said.

Vevera said he has done all the work on his back yard models after five in the evenings, on Sundays and during the winters.

The castle is the only structure that he planned beforehand, Vevera said.

"I just start in and get ideas as I go along. Every time I have a few minutes, I'm tinkering around with something."

Pride in Flower Bed
Vevera takes pride in his flower beds and little patches of garden which are scattered among the terraces.

He said he enjoys having people come from all around to admire his back yard as long as there aren't too many at once.

"During the rock garden craze in the early 1930's, there used to be 15 or more carloads of people at once on Sundays," he said.

"One university professor used to bring his whole geology class out here and they really had a good time. That fellow knew the names of all these rocks."

"The names are so long that I can't even twist my tongue around most of them."

Mrs. Vevera said she wished her husband would stop making model houses long enough to build the real thing.

As he beamed over his plans for the 'dandy little one' he wants to build next winter, Mrs. Vevera interrupted, "Next time you make a rock house, you'd better make one for me to live in."

Vevera said he thought his newly remodeled home was good enough for him and his wife.

Russian History Key to USSR, Professor Says

Americans think of Russia as a peculiar place because they know little about Russian history, Prof. Nicholas V. Riasanovsky, SUI history department, wrote in the July issue of the American Oxonian magazine.

The American Oxonian is the official magazine of the Association of American Rhodes scholars. Riasanovsky's article, entitled "Some Ways to Misunderstand Russian History," analyzed and criticized various popular misconceptions Americans have about Russia.

He wrote that clear thinking of the subjects involved will help solve many of the problems between the United States and Russia.

Riasanovsky blamed the ignorance of the American people concerning Russia partially on the neglect of Russian history in our school and college curricula.

This neglect stems from the difficulty American students have in mastering such subjects as the Russian alphabet, he said.

He added that many American writers, and the Russian "Iron Curtain," are creating a wall of mystery between many people and Russia.

Instructor to Judge Georgia Contest

John Scott Davenport, instructor in the SUI school of journalism, has been named a judge for the "Community Service" contest, sponsored by the Georgia Press association.

The annual contest is planned to honor the Georgia newspaper "doing the most constructive work for its community," Stanford Smith, secretary - manager of the association, said.

Editorial campaigns such as promotion of schools, civic or agricultural projects will be considered by the judges.

Winner of the contest, which might be any Georgia weekly or daily newspaper, will be awarded the W. G. Sullive trophy.

Hickenlooper Celebrates Birthday

A BIG SURPRISE awaited Sen. Bourke Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) at a Des Moines hotel Friday when friends presented him with a decorated birthday cake in honor of his 54th birthday. Hickenlooper was in Des Moines to address a GOP convention.

Yanks Gain Time In Valiant Stand Made at Taejon

SOMEWHERE IN KOREA — A game bunch of Yanks wrote "Taejon, Korea" into American history this week.

On the approaches to Taejon, and in the muddy streets of this city of clapboard shacks and jerrybuilt houses, the U.S. 24th Infantry division fought its heart out against overwhelming odds and claimed a deadly price in blood for each yard it yielded.

When they finally lost burning Taejon to the Red invaders of South Korea, the thinned ranks of the 24th had won the chief ingredient of eventual Allied victory—time.

Three weeks ago these young Americans left a carefree occupation life in Japan.

Then for two weeks they took a bloody pounding. They gained time for two fresh American divisions and strong American air and naval forces to get into action.

They fell back to the Kum river line before Taejon and there, for six days, they fought off well-armed Communist forces at least five times stronger numerically.

By all the books of military science they'd have been justified in pulling out without a fight for Taejon. They were in desperate need of rest, regrouping, and reinforcements.

The Red radio boasted that the invaders would march into Taejon—for a time the temporary South Korean capital—with bands playing and with "loyal Koreans" welcoming them in.

They were welcomed, all right—by a hail of bullets and mortars.

If courage were the only factors, Taejon would still be ours. But there were other factors—ammunition, communications, and thousands upon thousands of North Korean infantrymen who kept filling the holes the red-eyed Yanks knocked in their ranks.

Christianity Only Key To Peace, Kagawa Says

The world must become conscious of God to survive the atomic age, Toyohiko Kagawa, Japanese Christian leader, said Friday night.

Kagawa spoke to nearly 500 persons at the fifth SUI summer session lecture at the band shell south of the Iowa Union.

"In passing through the atomic age, it is no use to have a petty army, navy and air corps. It is better to be armed with Jesus Christ," he asserted.

"Cosmic consciousness — consciousness of God, is the only way to regenerate mankind, and unless we remake mankind, it is impossible to have a good state," he said.

To demonstrate what Christ and the Bible can do for the world, Kagawa pointed to Japan in the atomic age.

"Although Japanese Christians are few in relation to the total population, Christian characteristics are respected in Japan," he said.

"Before the Bible was introduced, public prostitution was common, with 55,000 living as white slaves." When Christian women organized purity groups, prostitution was abolished and since the war has disappeared, he said.

"Respectful labor wasn't prevalent, but when Christ became known, labor unions and parties were organized by Christians," according to Kagawa.

Today there are 48 labor unions, he said, which until last June followed communism, but which under the direction of Christian leaders have deserted communism.

A main reason communism was unsuccessful in Japan and more successful in Italy and China, according to Kagawa, is that there is a land program in Japan and none in the other countries.

"In China, the Communist promise of land for peasants made Chinese turn communistic. In Japan the land was divided among the people since the war, and they realized communism could do nothing for them," he said.

'Miracle' Ends Girl's 27 Years as Mute

CHESWICK, PA. (AP) — A curtain of silence which shrouded the speech of a coal miner's 27-year-old daughter since birth lifted slowly Friday.

Townfolk spoke of the "Miracle at Mushroom Farm" and whispered the name of Helen Kovel with reverence.

They were certain an act of God had released the deeply-religious girl from her vocal prison. Doctors were more skeptical but none could explain her sudden return from muteness.

Helen, a bright-eyed, cheerful person, broke her lifelong silence with a faltering, barely-audible "mamma" last Sunday. Since then she has mastered "more," "mom" and "mother."

Her tongue is gradually becoming accustomed to the workings of speech. But her progress is slow and too much effort brings headaches.

Helen's parents were overjoyed that their daughter had broken through the wall of silence. They had resigned themselves to her affliction years ago when they sent Helen to the Polk school for deaf mutes in Slippery Rock, Pa., for three years.

Two Cars Damaged In Thursday Collision

Cars driven by Robert E. Rhodes, 24, 21 1-2 E. College street, and Carl D. Martin, 35, North Liberty, collided at Clinton and Washington streets at 10:30 p.m. Thursday.

Damage to Martin's car was very slight and $100 damage was estimated for Rhodes' car.

City Groups to Review Zoning Laws Thursday

Iowa City's zoning laws will be reviewed and discussed Thursday, when Iowa City chamber of commerce holds a special meeting in conjunction with various civic organizations.

Robert Gage, secretary of the chamber of commerce, who called the meeting for 7:30 p.m. in the Iowa Union, said the chamber of commerce board of directors has invited the following civic groups to participate:

The Iowa City board of adjustment and review, the city zoning and planning commission, the city council, Mayor Preston Koser, the city engineer and attorney, the zoning committee of the realtors association and the zoning committee of the chamber of commerce.

Gage said the need for a new or revised zoning ordinance would be considered if the participating organizations think it necessary.

Gage said it is known there is something wrong, either with the Iowa City zoning laws or their administration, and the purpose of the meeting will be to find out what the trouble is.

City Engineer Fred E. Gartzke said there are known violations of the zoning laws. He used the illustration of residences in "A" residential areas being converted from the legal two-family dwellings to four, six and eight family apartments.

Hoarding, Prices Fall; Shortages Unlikely

CHICAGO (AP) — Reports of hoarding and price boosting fell off Friday as Americans apparently began believing the statements of government and business leaders that no shortages in commodities are likely.

The United States Cuban Sugar council at New York told consumers there is more sugar available now than they have ever used in a single year.

Other industry officials said there was an excess of nearly 10 pounds available for every man, woman and child in the U.S. on the basis of estimates that each consumes about 100 pounds a year.

They acknowledged that a temporary shortage exists at the moment. But they said it was caused entirely by hoarding housewives and will end as soon as grocers shelves are restocked.

Packers of canned meat report they have been carefully examining offers for considerable quantities from people not normally in the business, the institute said.

"Because of excessive demand, and to protect the public from being gouged by operators not usually in the business, some meat canners quit selling for 24 hours about a week ago, in order to permit the taking of inventories and assure the routing of supplies to regular legitimate channels of trade."

Sugar, Sugar . . .

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — You say you can't find any sugar?

Then you should have been down at the Philadelphia waterfront Friday.

The Angelina, a Puerto Rico freighter, docked at the Pennsylvania Sugar company pier with a cargo of 10,400 tons of sugar.

That made the total receipts of sugar here this week almost 38,000,000 (that's right — millions) pounds.

A great many stores here have signs posted for their customers: "NO SUGAR."

Gratitude

Immigrant Gives $100 To Aid Korea

SANTA MONICA, CALIF. (AP) — White-haired, smiling Dave (The Bellboy) Epstein, 78, explained Friday he sent $100 to President Truman as a contribution toward the Korean war cost to show his gratitude for being an American.

"It isn't much," said Epstein at the hotel where he works, "but it may help some."

Epstein, a Lithuanian-born naturalized citizen who came to the United States when he was 19 years old, said his $100 contribution was in addition to a like sum he has been sending annually to the U.S. Treasury.

"I'm an old man and I don't have many expenses," Epstein said. "My three children have all had good American educations. They went to college and they taught me to speak good English. If I had stayed in the old country, now under Russia, I wouldn't have made enough to be able to give a nickel away."

"The country was good to me from the start," he said. "After the hardships of the old country it was like a dream to be here. I made money in business and I lost the money but I was always happy and I was able to see that my children had the things I didn't have as a child."

"That's why I decided to send $100 a year to the treasury. It's my way of saying 'thank you' to the government for letting me come here."

'Let's Get it Over!' Say War-Bound Men

CHICAGO (AP) — The reservists and guardsmen called to the colors Friday sounded a unanimous battlecry:

"Let's get this job done fast!" they said.

One of the first to be called was John S. Leady Jr., a St. Louis lawyer who holds a lieutenant commander's commission in the naval air reserve. He volunteered, giving up a promising race for the Republican nomination as congressman from Missouri's 11th district.

"It's tough to go back in again after only five years," he said. "But the faster we get at it, the sooner it'll be over with."

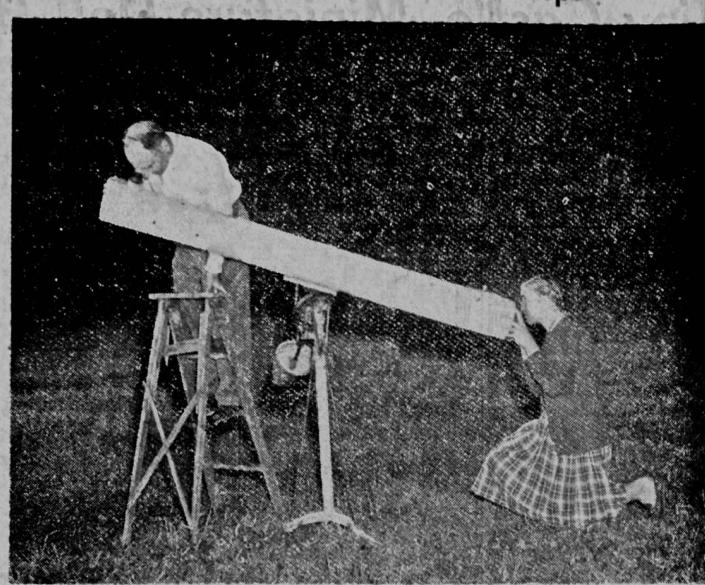

Naval reservist Harold Foden of East Liverpool, Ohio, was preparing to leave his wife and five children, aged 2 to 13, within two days. His family will live on the bank account and his pay.

"I don't care where they send me," said Foden, a boiler technician 1st class. "But I hope it's to Korea."

Edward W. Sewell of Madison, Wis., 32-year-old father of three, said "I kind of expected to be called."

"There's only one way to get the damn thing over and that's for everybody to pitch in. But I don't feel so good about being one of the first to go."

Kalona Girl Builds Own Telescope

REACHING FOR THE MOON may be futile, but an 18-year-old Kalona girl has managed to bring it much closer by means of the telescope she herself built.

Virginia Ann Brenneman, (right) May graduate of the Iowa Mennonite school, helped adjust the instrument at its first public showing Thursday night at the Mennonite community, 8 miles northwest of Kalona. School industrial arts instructor Samuel B. Nafziger (left) said that Miss Brenneman ground and polished the 6-inch mirror to within a few millionths of an inch of perfection. It has 2,000 times the light-gathering power of the eye, according to Nafziger, who supervised the work. Virginia was assisted by her father in construction of the mounting of the telescope. Work on the instrument was completed in about six months, Nafziger said. He is enrolled in summer school at SUI.

Sentence Girl for Writing 'Bad' Checks

Shirley F. Duffy, 421 E. Market street, was sentenced to 30 days in the Johnson county jail Friday by Police Judge Emil G. Trott on a charge of writing false checks.

Trott suspended 20 days of the sentence on condition the bad checks, totalling $75, be paid within 10 days.

Miss Duffy was charged with passing nine false checks since May 31.

In other action, William L. Parkin, 201 1-2 Iowa avenue, was fined $25 on four charges.

They were: failure to display an automobile registration, failure to transfer the registration to his name, parking in an alley, and a meter violation.

Stewart A. Mather, West Branch, was fined $25 for failing to observe two rural highway stop signs July 18.

Aldean W. Davis, Wellman, forfeited $10 bond on a charge of intoxication.

GOP Nominates Boone Man for State Treasurer

DES MOINES (AP) — M.L. (Abe) Abrahamson, 47, of Boone, won the Republican nomination for state treasurer by an overwhelming vote on the first ballot at Friday's GOP state convention.

Abrahamson, on leave as cashier of the Iowa tax commission, defeated Edward J. Kallemyrn, Pella, secretary of the Iowa World War II bonus board; Lawrence I. Truax, Des Moines, veteran employee of the state auditor's office, and George W. Hesalroad, Green, former secretary of the state executive council.

'Promising Young Artist' — Prize-Winner to Teach Here

Prize-winning Artist Howard Warshaw will be an assistant professor in the SUI art department this fall, Prof. Lester D. Longman, head of the department, said Friday.

Warshaw, 30, was one of the artists mentioned this spring in a Life magazine article on promising young American painters.

He has been teaching at the Jepson Art institute in Los Angeles. Warshaw won first prize in drawing and second prize in oil painting at the Los Angeles Annual exhibition in 1942.

Last summer he won first prize in water color at the California Centennial exhibition. He is now having a one-man exhibition at the Peris gallery in Los Angeles.

Warshaw was born in New York City and attended school at Pratt institute, the National Academy of Design, Columbia university and the Art Students league, all in New York City.

He has worked in the Walt Disney studios, and designed sets for the Jean Paul Sartre play "No Exit."

Warshaw has had one-man shows in the Julian Levy gallery, the 44th gallery, New York City; five galleries in Los Angeles, and the Santa Barbara Museum.

Since 1945 his work has been exhibited at the Whitney museum, New York City, the Carnegie International institute at Pittsburgh, Pa., the Los Angeles county museum and the Iowa Summer show.

"Warshaw's work is strongly architectural," Longman commented, "involving the organization of formal structures in three-dimensional space.

"He is not entirely unromantic, either in the sense of being purely rational or in the sense of being calculating or academic," added.

"Inspiration plays an important part in his work, else he should not be such an outstanding artist."

Longman said that it is Warshaw's conviction that the finest painting comes from life experiences and that its forms come from nature.

"In his more surrealist work of earlier days," Longman said, "Warshaw lacked the structural strength he now has. In his recent paintings, however, the factors of imagination and fantasy are still present, acting to heighten their vitality."

NOEL COWARD

About the Movie
"The Astonished Heart" is one of the most daringly frank films in years. A stirring story of a famous psychiatrist, who falls in love with his wife's childhood chum and becomes blinded to everything but this beautiful woman. "The Astonished Heart" is gripping screen entertainment.

The Universal-International release marks Noel Coward's first screen appearance in eight years, and presents the famous actor-playwright-composer, as the psychiatrist Christian Faber, in a role that finds him at his best. Co-starring with him are Celia Johnson, who was so wonderful in "Brief Encounter" as the patient, loving wife who gambles her husband's heart to win him back to sanity and save his soul, and Margaret Leighton, a blonde charmer who took England by storm and undoubtedly will do the same in this country.

As Leonora Vail, Miss Leighton sets out to fall in love with Faber, and to make him fall in love with her. She succeeds in doing both. The usually calm, reserved psychiatrist finds himself being swept away by his single passion, and his dormant passion erupts into fierce possessive jealousy that highlights the film's story and provides a most dramatic climax to the film.
