Expect Airforce Reserve Calls Early In Week

WASHINGTON (AP) - The air force is expected to start calling its organized reserve units to active duty early this week.

Indications are that present defense plans would put at least 2-million men in uniform by the end of the year.

The first draft call is going to provide 20,000 men. The draft now affects only men 19 through 25, but more than 1,500,000 are eligible.

Considerably more than 50,000 of the nation's 2,555,000 reserves - including some small national guard units - already have been called.

Here is the reserve picture: Marine corps - all of an estimated 47,000 organized ground reserve units have been called and probably will be getting into uniform starting a week from Monday.

There has been no call yet for the marine corps air reserves.

Navy - at least 12 squadrons have been called up affecting about 4,000 men. An unannounced number of reserves are being called on an individual basis.

The navy has a total of 1,200,000 reserves.

Army - some ground units of less than division size have been called, both from the national guard and the organized army reserves.

The army has total reserves of 932,000 of which about one-third are in the national guard.

Air force - calls some non-divisional national guard and organized reserve units to active duty.

Marines - order entire organized ground reserves - 47,000 men - to active duty.

Navy - calls up nearly 4,000 organized air reserves.

Air force - warns it may have to draft World War II veterans. Expected to start calling up organized reserve units next week.

Ships - 32 ships taken out of "mothball fleet" for military use.

Deferrals - defense department working on unified policy for granting deferments to reservists; no decision yet.

DRAFT WORRIES did not hamper the fishing luck of these Iowa City youths Saturday - or even concern them. The only thing that seemed to matter was catching a full quota of bullheads.

Riots Greet Return Of King Leopold

BRUSSELS, BELGIUM (AP) - The return of King Leopold III from six years in exile set off militant demonstrations by his foes in downtown Brussels Saturday night.

Windows of the pro-king Catholic newspaper Libre Belgique were smashed.

In Martyr's square, Socialists vowed, with upraised arms and clenched fists, to drive Leopold from the throne.

Leopold supporters heckled the demonstrators, led by ex-Premier Paul - Henri Spaak, and were chased down a side street.

Communists paraded in downtown boulevards.

The Socialist - controlled Belgian trade union federation ordered the labor movement to open resistance against Leopold "at the opportune moment."

Fifty-seven percent of Belgian voters are on record in favor of the king.

At 1 p.m., in a broadcast to the nation, the king offered his hand to "all those who, like me, think only of serving the country."

BACKS TAX PLAN. WASHINGTON (AP) - Sen. Walter F. George, (D-Ga.) Saturday endorsed proposals for meeting war costs on a pay-as-you-go basis but reaffirmed his belief that congress should not rush into a tax program before it knows what the cost will be.

He said he jumped because he was despondent when his fiancée, Gardie Smith, changed her mind about marrying him.

Miss Smith, about 19, was an employe of University hospitals.

Early Saturday morning it was reported Smith had injured his back in the leap and was unable to control his legs.

Eye witnesses gave this account of the incident: Before leaving, Smith removed his shoes, placed them on the rack of the bicycle he rode to the bridge, and put his billfold and tobacco on the bridge rail.

He then sat on the rail, swinging his feet and reading an almost illegibly-kept diary for a few minutes.

At the hospital Smith said, "I can't do anything right. My mother doesn't want me, my girl doesn't want me, and I can't even commit suicide when I try."

Smith leaped from near the center of the Iowa avenue bridge at 12:13 a.m. Saturday.

Mackenzie King Dead, Was Canadian Chief

OTTAWA (AP) - Former Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King of Canada died Saturday night. He was 75.

King died at his home, Kingsmere, about 20 miles from Ottawa. His physician said that he died of "hypostatic pneumonia, preceded by an attack of pulmonary edema (accumulation of body fluids)."

He was a bachelor. Several nieces and nephews were at his bedside when death came.

When King stepped down from office Nov. 15, 1948, he had ended 21 years, five months and five days of service as prime minister of the dominion.

Longest Tenure. His tenure of 7,829 days in office is the longest in British commonwealth history, surpassing that of Sir Robert Walpole, who served as Britain's prime minister for 7,619 days early in the 18th century.

After retirement, King sat merely as the member of the Ontario Riding (district) of Glangarry, but the decades of his experience were at the beck of his successor, Louis S. St. Laurent.

His retirement had been foretold, when he asked his Liberal party in the summer of 1948 to choose a new leader. Shortly thereafter the Liberals named St. Laurent.

Disclosed Retirement. King disclosed his retirement date a few days before in a letter to the Canadian legion of the British Empire Service league, just after his return in November from London.

He became ill a month before his retirement while attending a conference of commonwealth prime ministers in the British capital.

King celebrated his 75th birthday Dec. 17, 1949. He said then his memoirs were not progressing very rapidly because he was easily fatigued.

He had been comparatively inactive since that time, being confined to his home for long periods. He rarely accepted invitations and received visitors only when his health permitted.

This summer he told a caller he was confident he would recover much of his strength and health at his summer home, where he proposed working on his memoirs. But Thursday he was stricken with pneumonia and lapsed into unconsciousness Saturday.

JAP WAR LORD DIES. TOKYO (SUNDAY) (AP) - The death of Shigenori Togo, 68, one of the top Japanese war lords convicted on charges of masterminding the Dec. 7, 1941, attack on Pearl Harbor and Singapore, was announced today by U.S. army authorities.

Other top items on the list of expenditures included cigarettes, $276,000 (most students buy them by the package rather than the carton, phonograph records, $76,000, and bus and taxi fares, $151,000.

Clothing Cost $1,340,000. Men in the group spent a total of $1,340,000 on clothing. Suits accounted for $330,000 of the amount and the average suit cost more than $59.

Women in the study paid $370,000 for their clothes. During the school year the group bought $147,100 worth of toiletries, $54,000 worth of typewriters and $24,500 worth of fountain pens. The average typewriter cost nearly $75 and the average fountain pen more than $7.

U.S. Population 150,520,000; Up 19-Million

WASHINGTON (AP) - The census bureau Saturday estimated the 1950 population of the United States at 150,520,000 men, women and children.

This is almost 19 - million higher than the 1940 total of 131,689,275.

At the same time, the bureau announced preliminary totals for all of the states and the District of Columbia.

The figures, when carefully checked and revised where necessary, will be used by congress to help determine how many representatives each state will be entitled to in the house.

That information was not immediately available, and census officials said it probably would not be for some time.

For one thing, they said, the total figure includes an estimated 700,000 persons - mostly transients and merchant marine crews - whose home states are not definitely known.

But officials called attention to estimated made in 1948 by the house postoffice committee which shows California gaining eight seats and New York and Pennsylvania losing three seats and two seats, respectively. They said these figures likely will not be off by more than one.

Other changes indicated by the 1948 house estimate: Arkansas, Georgia, Illinois, Kentucky, Mississippi, Missouri, North Carolina, Oklahoma, Tennessee, are likely to lose one seat.

Florida, Indiana, Michigan, Oregon, Texas, and Washington are likely to gain one.

Iowa showed a 2.8 percent increase over 1940 figures, according to the figures released Saturday. Iowa's total census is 2,609,748 as compared to 2,538,268 in 1940.

Nationalists Report Reds Shelling Island

TAIPEI, FORMOSA (SUNDAY) (AP) - The Chinese Nationalists reported the Chinese Reds began shelling the Nationalist island of Quemoy (Chinmen) Saturday night in evident preparation for an attack.

Quemoy is a 50-square-mile island 100 miles west of Formosa and just off the Chinese mainland. It blocks entry to the Communist port of Amoy.

The Nationalist defense ministry, announcing the shelling, said more than 1,300 Communist small craft were massed around Amoy in seeming readiness to attack Quemoy.

One high Nationalist source said Red conquest of Quemoy could be a prelude to an invasion of Formosa.

This source, insisting on anonymity, said that in the past the Nationalists had been able to break up such Red concentrations by air and sea attacks but that now Washington had the say.

President Truman has banned Nationalist air and sea operations against the Red mainland.

Plunges to His Death From Hospital Window. CEDAR RAPIDS (AP) - Charles Snell, 77, Fairfax, Iowa, plunged to his death Saturday from a second floor window of St. Luke's hospital where he had been a patient for two months because of a heart ailment.

Linn County Coroner Robert Brosh said the death was a "definite suicide." He said the aged man suffered severe head injuries when he landed on a parking area pavement.

Red Guerillas Paced Tanks In Taejon Nab

By TOM LAMBERT WITH AMERICAN FORCES IN SOUTH KOREA. (AP) - A haggard, exhausted executive officer told Saturday night how his men fought North Korean tanks, Red soldiers and their "white robed brethren" through Taejon as the Americans withdrew from that flaming city.

Lt. Col. Robert L. Wadlington, St. Martinsville, La., of the 24th division's 34th Infantry regiment told a news conference:

"It's the same old story you've heard before. We killed them, and killed them by the thousands, but they came on. I don't know where they get their people."

"White robed brethren" provided a clue. It referred to the white gowns that are characteristic dress for male civilians in this country. Guerillas dressed as peasants would wear white robes.

Wadlington, wincing with fatigue, said his regiment knocked out 11 North Korean tanks in Taejon in a roaring fight through flaming streets and narrow roads. In this the new 3.5 inch bazooka had its first battle use.

Wadlington said the first fight started Wednesday. They hit us late in the afternoon and didn't stop. We were fighting all night long," he said.

About 7 a.m. Thursday the first tank of the oncoming North Koreans was bagged. It was knocked out with a 3.5 bazooka, and so was another tank which followed. He added:

"Almost half an hour later a tank came into the town and hit us. I didn't know where he came from. He was joined by several more. They were shooting hell out of everything."

The officer said at least 20 Red tanks took part in the Taejon battle, 11 of which the Americans knocked out. Nine others clattered into the city late Thursday afternoon. Wadlington said he understood the airforce accounted for six of the nine.

Report Gen. Dean Officially 'Missing' SOMEWHERE IN KOREA (SUNDAY) (AP) - Maj. Gen. William F. Dean, commander of the defeated 24th infantry division in Korea, was officially reported missing in action today after apparently being wounded while he fought beside his men in the final stand for Taejon.

Fifty-six-year-old Dean, who had been pushed back from Suwon to Taejon in four weeks of bitter defeats, disappeared into "no-man's-land" when North Korean forces stormed into the city Thursday and trapped units of the 24th division.

The burly, hard - working general had become so infuriated at the Communist assault that he grabbed one of the new super bazookas and knocked out a tank. He did not sleep in three days and nights of furious fighting.

Truman Prepares Tax Hike Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Truman plans to send congress next Tuesday a blue-print of his $10-billion program to help fight the Korean war and guard against Communist aggression elsewhere.

It will be in the form of a detailed request for the huge appropriation designed to carry out partial mobilization of the nation's military strength.

The White House said Saturday the President hoped to have it ready by Tuesday.

On Wednesday the nation may get the first official tip - off on the extent of the new taxes which will be asked to finance the $10-billion program - and the additional billions which will be sought later.

On that day the President will send to congress the mid - year economic report of his council of economic advisers, along with an economic message of his own.

These are expected to give, not only official views on the state of the national economy, but on the control steps necessary to safeguard it from inflation.

Both house and senate leaders were certain of quick final passage this week of two measures for building up strength of the fighting forces.

One, allowing the President to extend all enlistments one year, already has sped through the senate without objection. The President now has authority to call and hold officers in both regular and reserve forces.

The other would remove the present manpower ceilings of just above 2-million from the army, airforce, navy and marines.

Reds Advance Toward Pusan, Supply Center

TOKYO (SUNDAY) (AP) - North Korean troops have recaptured Yongdok on the east Korean coast, General MacArthur announced today as American and Communist patrols probed along the western front.

Yongdok, destroyed by allied naval gunfire and taken by U.S. and South Korean forces Friday, was lost Saturday before a Red attack in regimental strength, MacArthur said in a Sunday communique.

The town is 26 air miles north of Pohang where the First Cavalry division landed Tuesday in the first American amphibious operation of the war. It is an important point in the Reds' southern thrust toward the east coast supply port of Pusan. It also controls a highway through the high coastal mountains to the central front around Yecheon.

MacArthur also reported "increased" Red pressure in the area of Hamchang, 15 miles southwest of Yecheon which was taken by American forces Friday.

Field dispatches reported Red armor and infantry building up for assault on new American positions south and east of fallen Taejon where First Cavalry elements have gone in as reinforcements.

American artillery and mortars pounded moderately throughout the night, Associated Press Correspondent William R. Moore reported from a command post, but there was no major ground contact.

Communist patrols probed at new defense lines of the First Cavalry, sent to bolster the gallant 24th division. The First Cavalry also sent out patrols to scout Red positions and concentrations.

Skies were clearing. It was believed American aircraft would have opportunities to return to full-scale attack after being hampered by bad weather.

The American artillery concentrated on roads and valleys where the North Koreans were believed assembling for a fresh thrust. One of the aims was to keep the Reds from using the Taejon-Yongdok road and the double-track railroad that parallels it southeastward out of Taejon.

Death-Try Victim Improves

Robert E. Smith, 26, Lyndon, Kan., who early Saturday jumped into the Iowa river in an apparent suicide attempt, was reported in "good" condition by University hospitals officials late Saturday.

Smith leaped from near the center of the Iowa avenue bridge at 12:13 a.m. Saturday.

He said he jumped because he was despondent when his fiancée, Gardie Smith, changed her mind about marrying him.

The 'Handwriting on the Wall' —

Visitors to SUI probably wonder what kind of people we are here, and if their suspicions are not too complimentary we can't blame them much.

Some of them might even decide they don't want their sons and daughters enrolled here, and we might feel the same way if we came only on a visit. As residing students, we, ourselves, sometimes have a feeling of utter repulsion.

The filthy, obscene manner in which some of our wash-room walls are defaced would cause anyone to wonder about us.

Some of the offensive, disgraceful stuff seen here makes children's book illustrations of the paintings we saw on the walls in the ruins of Pompeii. And American tourists probably look at that lewdness and think our culture is morally superior.

A visitor here must surely ask: "What in the name of heaven is this place? An educational institution? Do adults go to school here? Are the country's leaders coming from people like this in universities?"

Although a blanket charge against the entire university is unfair, we can understand the view most visitors take when they see this foulness. They probably think we're a bunch of moral degenerates, and the lame-brains who are responsible should have a well-placed kick for bringing this criticism on us.

We're not sure what the psychologists say about these offenders. Doubtless, they have been classified. We might even be told we should be tolerant and that the guilty ones are good citizens otherwise.

We still recommend using the toe of the shoe on them.

However, we have a serious plea to make to you mush-heads who are guilty.

Families and friends will flood the campus again soon for commencement ceremonies.

Please suppress your ugly habit long enough for your past efforts to be erased in preparation for our folks' visit.

American Counter Attack Expected in Fall

WASHINGTON (AP)—A high military authority said Saturday that Gen. Douglas MacArthur's forces can't expect to launch an all-out counter offensive in Korea before fall.

But the big push north will come, he said, and it will continue until the Communist invaders are whipped.

Meanwhile, he added, the United States is performing one of the most amazing supply feats in military history. He disclosed that "a considerable number" of American tanks, including our newest and best, will reach the front in a few weeks. Our best tank is the General Patton which, the army claims, can knock out any other tank in existence.

MacArthur's main job, this spokesman said, is to hang on to a big enough chunk of South Korea to provide a secure staging ground for the counter offensive.

The drive back to the 38th parallel will begin, the officer said, some time after the rainy season ends next autumn.

37-Thousand Iowans Draw Federal, State Retirement Pensions

DES MOINES (AP)— Nearly as many Iowans as live in Council Bluffs are getting retirement pension checks every month from the state and federal governments.

The total distributed monthly by two agencies is running close to three-quarters of a million dollars.

The Iowa Employment Security commission reported Saturday it sent out 2,903 checks amounting to $95,630 last month. They went to former employees of the state and its subdivisions.

The Des Moines office of the federal social security administration said the latest report available — for last December — showed monthly checks were going to 34,508 Iowans totaling $635,318. There has been a steady increase in recipients and money, as is the case with the state pension system.

That means at least 37,411 persons are getting at least $730,948 per month in federal and state retirement checks. On the basis of preliminary census figures for 1950, Council Bluffs has a population of 45,324.

Recipients of the one program do not benefit from the other. The June payments this year by the Iowa employment security commission completed the first three years of the state program. During that time 51,105 checks have been distributed in the sum of $1,344,136.

The 34,508 Iowans who got federal social security checks last December compared with 2,742,800 for the nation as a whole. The $635,318 distributed to Iowans in December compared with $56,075,000 sent to recipients in all states. The employer and the employee pay 1-2 percent of the employee's salary to finance the program.

Those getting checks from the state showed an increase of 173 last month over the previous month. June payments totaled nearly $8,500 more than those in May.

The increase in the number of Iowans getting monthly social security administration checks was 2,370 between June 30, 1949, and last Dec. 31. During the same period the amount of money distributed per month increased by $50,255.

Truman's Campaigning Threatened by War

WASHINGTON (AP)— The Korean fighting may shelve President Truman's plans for whistle-stop political tours this fall and cramp the re-election campaigns of many members of congress.

With American troops likely to be committed to vigorous fighting in Korea beyond election day, a presidential adviser said Mr. Truman isn't expected to make any extended trips such as that he took last spring to the west.

"It looks like the whistle stopping is out," this man said.

Inspection Trips
This, of course, wouldn't bar so-called inspection trips such as the late President Roosevelt took in wartime. On such trips the President might weave in some formal speeches urging the people to support specific Democratic candidates. But Mr. Truman isn't good at formal speeches — it's with the off-the-cuff kind that he shines.

An "inspection" trip easily could be made to California for a look at the aircraft industry and possibly to say a good word for Helen Gahagan Douglas, the Democratic senatorial nominee in that state, and James Roosevelt, the party's nominee for governor.

But Democratic leaders don't think the people, in their present mood, would take kindly to purely political back platform talks — the kind the President told western audiences last May that he would back to make in the fall.

GOP Would Welcome Tour
Senator Brewster of Maine, who leads the GOP senatorial campaign committee, said Republicans would welcome an effort by Mr.

Truman to duplicate the 1918 campaign President Wilson made for the re-election of a Democratic congress.

Wilson's wartime efforts failed, and Brewster said he thinks Mr. Truman would encounter the same sort of difficulties.

Whistle stopping efforts might hurt some Democratic candidates. Mr. Truman has demonstrated that when he takes to the stump he can get the voters interested, although it is always a matter of doubt as to how much any man who isn't a candidate himself can help another win an election.

Most dopesters think it is too early yet to assess the political effect of the Korean fighting. A lot will depend, they say, on how the battle is going in the few days before the election.

Truman's Popularity Peak
General opinion is that the President hit a peak in popular support when he moved swiftly to counter the Communist aggression with force.

But early reverses in the Korean fighting brought widespread demands to know why American intelligence reports hadn't pinpointed the possible attack and why men and equipment hadn't been moved into the Pacific long ago to be prepared for it.

Republican senators say their mail is heavy with complaints of that kind. Some of them apparently intend to argue in their campaigns that the Truman administration was caught flat-footed.

To counter this, Democratic senators have been assembling the records of leading Republicans who have opposed such things as the European recovery program, foreign arms aid and military appropriations.

Sen. Scott Lucas of Illinois, the Democratic leader, has put this in pocket card index form, ready for quick reference in stump speeches.

Opposition Benefits
Because of Korea, however, the senator apparently isn't going to make so many speeches in his re-election campaign in Illinois as he had hoped. He is opposed by former Rep. Everett Dirksen, Republican who has been campaigning off and on for nearly two years.

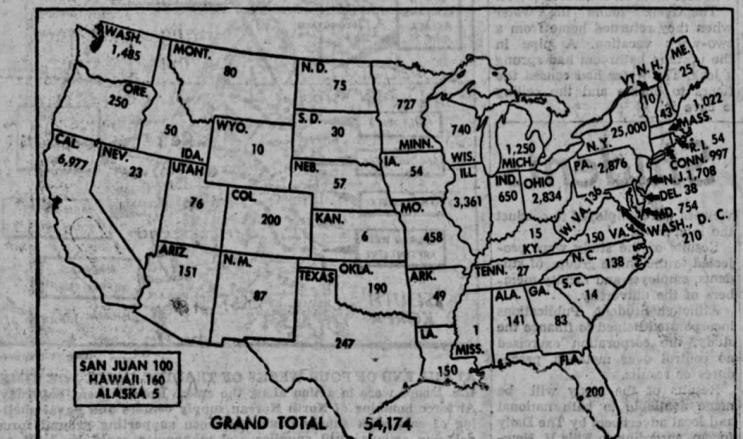

Congress may take a vacation sometime in August, but it will be on an on-call basis in case new military crises develop.

With a war or near-war on, candidates drumming up votes often get a fishy eye from the voters, who want to know why the lawmakers aren't on the job in Washington. A recess gives a candidate the reply that he's ready to act promptly any time he is needed and is only at home on leave, as it were.

This state of affairs gives the opposition a break. Nobody blames a candidate who isn't a member of congress for spending his time in intensive campaigning.

On the other hand, office holders do have the advantage of seeming to be on the inside of developments, of doing something about it while the other fellow is just talking. They also have the advantage of the don't-change-horses-in-the-middle-of-the-stream feeling — for whatever that is worth.

Communist Party Members Listed by States

ALMOST HALF the number of Americans belonging to the Communist party live in New York state, according to this map published by Look magazine. Look says it shows the number of Communists in each state of the union, based on FBI figures. This is the first time total has been released.

Crop Duster Pilots Commended by State For Safety Record

DES MOINES (AP)— The Iowa aeronautics commission Saturday commended pilots of aerial crop spraying planes for their "outstanding safety record" of the last several weeks.

"Twice as many companies flying double the number of planes have almost completed the season's first spraying without a fatality or a serious injury," Commission Director Norbert Loeke related.

"Last year seven pilots were killed in a too - lengthy series of aerial crop spraying or dusting accidents," he continued. "Three of the fatalities occurred in seven days. There also were several cases of serious injuries."

Loeke estimated that 200,000 acres of Iowa corn have been sprayed as an anti - corn borer measure so far this year. He added that this is equal to the entire acreage sprayed in all of last year.

"We commend the pilots for becoming more safety-conscious," the commission director said. "For the most part, the pilots are more experienced this year. They better realize the hazards and are more alert in preventing mishaps."

"We have breached constantly against overloading, and the necessity of having the planes equipped with stall warning indicators and shoulder harnesses. Apparently we are making progress."

A stall warning indicator warns the pilot by means of a horn when the plane is losing lifting power. Use of the shoulder harness keeps the pilot's head and body from jamming into the instrument panel in case of an accident.

Secretary of Agriculture Clyde Spay said the first crop spraying of the season is about completed. It began about three weeks ago, a little later than last year.

The next spraying, where needed, is expected to take place in about a month.

Sgt. York Says Use A-Bomb on Russia

WOLF RIVER, TENN. (AP)— World War I hero Alvin York said Saturday that if we fight Russia we should do it with the atom bomb and "if they can't find any one else to push the button, I will."

Back in fighting trim after a siege of pneumonia, the graying giant of the Argonne said American forces must win in Korea or "we'll have the Russians to fight."

But, added the 63-year-old mountaineer who captured 132 Germans by himself two wars ago, if we knock the Russians out of South Korea he doesn't think the war will spread further.

He predicted that the Reds would be put out of South Korea, "and we're going to put them out now."

The red - haired hero also believes we are far better prepared than we were at Pearl Harbor. York, who is perhaps history's best-known sergeant, said that if we fight Russia, "Let's start at Josef Stalin's and go on down 'til we burn 'em all up — atomic bomb and all."

By TOM DORSEY

FIGHTING COMMANDER: An SUI student who served under missing Maj. Gen. William Dean in World War II tells me that Korea isn't the first place the general has led the march to battle.

The SUIer says he remembers many times when Dean would reach the center of battle before his men.

On one occasion, the student says, Dean didn't have time to brief his men on their mission so he jumped into a jeep and said, "Just follow me." And they did, with Dean riding alone towards the battle line in a jeep while they followed in tanks.

The same Gen. Dean is now missing in action after leading his troops in battle in Korea.

TAKING LIFE EASY: CBS Maestro Vaughn Monroe was playing for a college prom and observed a couple of students who seemed to take life pretty easy.

"Yes," agreed one. "Even when we graduate, we do it by degrees."

CHALLENGE TO EDUCATION: Although it may be heresy, more and more tension-ridden parents in professional jobs are questioning the value of college training and encouraging their sons to seek careers in the crafts and manual trades.

The thinking of this growing minority is expressed in the article, "My Boy's Not Going to College," in the August issue of Better Homes and Gardens.

There are arguments against college from the dollar angle. A civil engineer, for example, must spend years in low-paying jobs before he starts getting more than the brick-layers he supervises.

The article points out that mechanics and other skilled workers have more leisure than young professionals and business people — that you never see a mason or shovel operator take home a brief case of problems, nor hear of one having a nervous breakdown from job pressures or social obligations.

The prevailing opinion that every boy and girl should have a college education as a right is challenged in the article. Rather, higher education is held to be a privilege for those who desire it. It is felt the world can get along without so many misfits with college degrees who waste trial-and-error years finding a satisfactory field.

Dollar Troubles in Military Aid

By J.M. ROBERTS JR.
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

Only a few weeks ago the re-arming of western Europe was considered more or less of an adjunct of the Marshall plan.

Only a few weeks ago President Truman said he thought there was an improved outlook for peace.

The Atlantic pact was entered into to take care of what was considered an outside chance, and as a deterrent.

Today the Marshall plan is being more or less bypassed, and the actual military security of the allied anti-Communist perimeter has become the paramount thing.

How quickly the situation has changed is pointed up by the European arms aid appropriation passed this week.

When the Atlantic pact foreign ministers met in London it was supposed that this military production would be in addition to and not interfere with the regular economic effort.

Now the Europeans are considering stepping up their efforts and converting peacetime production into war production. Washington is considering a straight dollar subsidy for the purpose, to avoid new dollar shortage troubles which such a cutback in export goods would produce.

Under the plan, the United States might pay France directly in dollars for rifles which would be delivered to Belgium, thus paying for the loss in, say, automobiles for export. This is believed necessary to get the Europeans to greatly increase their own defense expenditures, which their finance ministers say they are not now able to do without interfering with economic recovery.

In addition, the United States is expected to go all out in providing its own share of European arms. Where this week's bill provided only a billion and a quarter dollars for the purpose, now there is talk of five billions more. That will mean an effort to do immediately what originally was considered a five year job.

Another sign of the new urgency is contained in the plans for next week's Atlantic council meeting in London. Originally designed as an organization meeting — the American representative was sworn in only this last Thursday — it is now expected to get right down to brass tacks, with these production and aid matters to the fore.

All this new urgency has come about in an atmosphere spotlighted, but certainly not entirely accounted for, by the Korean war.

'Code for Coeds' Uses Cookbook Theme

A SUCCESSFUL COLLEGE LIFE means "sifting" every phase in order to budget time, choose friends and developing into a mature person. This is the idea depicted in the sketch which appears with many others in the "Code for Coeds" booklet, published by the University Women's association to send to all incoming freshmen women.

UWA Booklet Tells How to 'Whip Up' Good Year at SUI

A brisk and colorful tour of SUI packaged in one little book — that's a description of the "Code for Coeds". The code is a booklet published by the University Women's association each year to send to incoming freshmen.

The 1950 booklet, using the cookbook theme, tells the prospective coed how to "whip up" a successful freshman year at SUI. Lending tips on everything from what to wear to how to study, the cookbook contains 24 clever sketches of the typical coed in a cook's cap, going about her college routine.

The staff members are Sue Orsborn, A2, Red Oak, editor; Margaret Hahn, N1, Dysart, assistant editor; Sally Yeates, A1, Greenfield, freshman editor, and Donna Gow, A3, Fairfield, art editor.

A greeting from the 1950-51 UWA president, Mary Louise Anneberg, A3, Carroll, opens the booklet.

The following pages are divided into sections tagged "Entree," "Mixing Well," and "Garnish" and other cooking terms.

The booklet's "Entree" describes initial impressions the coed will experience as she arrives on cam-

EXTRA-CURRICULAR ACTIVITIES at SUI are as varied as a shelf of spices, this sketch in the "Code for Coeds" college "cookbook" tells freshmen women. The booklet explains what to wear, the dormitory system, the opportunities for extra-curricular work both in departments and in organizations and forecasts many of the social events that will take place next year.

"This Way to the Kitchen" tells her the things she should pack to be fully equipped with such essential gadgets as a shoe-bag and shower clogs.

"Mixing Well" discusses the college roommate, rush week and dormitory life.

Other chapters enumerate the extra-curricular activities available to the student, the honorary and professional groups she may strive for, the big dances, points of campus etiquette and other things awaiting the eager, excited coed-to-be.

American housewives are on the verge of a widespread hoarding spree, a New York psychologist warned Saturday.

According to the United Press, Dr. Ernest Dichter said all that is needed to touch off hoarding panic is some indication by government or industry that certain items might become scarce.

In an analysis of what makes people hoard, the psychologist and his staff interviewed several hundred consumers and found three types of hoarders.

There is the aggressive hoarder, who feels let down by the failure of the promise that World War II would bring peace.

The second type hoards because he derives a sense of security from piling up supplies at home.

Mr. Smarter-than-anyone-else is the third hoarder. He feels he is wiser than the nation's leaders. Dr. Dichter suggested that government and industry should provide physical and emotional outlets for the hoarder's desire to be active and self-protective. He praised victory gardens as an excellent constructive outlet.

Scouts Leave Today For Amana Outing

Approximately 100 Boy Scouts representing eight troops from the Iowa River Valley council leave today for a wilderness outing at Dutch lake near Amana.

Troops from Iowa City, Coralville, North Liberty, Marengo and Amana will live as independent units for a one-week outing. Each troop will provide its own leadership and living facilities.

John M. Kelly, neighborhood commissioner, and Martin L. Hunter, administrative director, will be in charge of the camp. Both executives are from Iowa City.

Saturday, 29 Boy Scouts from Kalona, Riverside, Victor and Lone Tree completed a week's activities at Camp Wopena, the regular Boy Scout camp located five miles west of Iowa City and one-half mile south of highway 6.

Climaxing the outing was a camp pow-wow which attracted approximately 50 visitors.

What can be more forlorn-looking and unappetizing than a plate of day-old doughnuts? Left-overs always invite an active imagination to take over, so next time try this.

Split the doughnuts in half, toast them in the broiler three or four inches from the flame and serve with jam, maple syrup or honey.

Have hayfever? Then shaking the dustmop is a mission of misery unless you avoid enveloping yourself in a cloud of dust.

Try putting a large paper bag held in place by a rubber band, over your dust mop. Shake the mop and the dust remains inside the bag instead of en route to your sinus.

Creole coffee is a novel hot drink to serve guests, or the family for a midnight snack. Fix it by mixing equal parts of hot coffee and hot cocoa, and then top each cup with whipped cream or a marshmallow.

To make those windows shine, add a little household ammonia, alcohol or vinegar to the warm water when you wash them.

It's always disappointing to take a box of fresh berries from the refrigerator and find those on the bottom are crushed and beginning to spoil.

Most of this waste can be prevented by spreading the berries in a shallow stain resistant enameled baking pan or tray. Then the bottom fruit will not be crushed by the top layers.

For a delicious sandwich filling, mix about a third of a cup of pimiento cream cheese with a mashed hard-cooked egg. Then add a little prepared mustard and

Fraternity Rushing Set for Sept. 9-14

SUI fraternity rushing dates will be Sept. 9 through 14, Graham E. Marshall, fraternity counselor, said Saturday.

Information on rushing is contained in a booklet, "Fraternities at Iowa," being sent to all new men students entering SUI this fall.

It contains a list of all SUI social fraternities and officers of each. The purposes of fraternity life are explained in the booklet.

Marriage Licenses

Marriage licenses were issued Saturday in Johnson county clerk's office to Robert Pate and Shirley Lewis, both of Iowa City; Robert D. McKenzie and Norma Gerard, both of Iowa City; Tony Whetstone and Lola Oswald, both of Iowa City; Robert E. Dohrer and Jacqueline Louise Noel, both of Iowa City; Amos Coblenz and Edith Ann Halstead, both of Downey, and Lawrence P. Fugate and Marlene Ann Dytert, both of Cedar Rapids.

Iowa Citian to Marry

THE ENGAGEMENT AND APPROACHING MARRIAGE of Alice Johnson, N4, Iowa City, to Richard Bogue, E4, has been announced by the mother of the bride-to-be, Mrs. Ebba Johnson, Joliet, Ill. Bogue is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bogue, State Center. The wedding is planned for Sept. 24 in Iowa City.

Wisconsin Surgeons Attend SUI Meetings

Eight Wisconsin surgeons visited University hospitals Friday and Saturday for a series of meetings.

They were members of the Eastern Wisconsin Surgical club. The meetings, sponsored by the surgery department at the hospitals, consisted of clinical presentations, talks and discussions.

Dr. Nathan A. Womack, professor and head of the surgery department in the SUI college of medicine, was in charge.

Costume Designing Like Engineering

By BLANCHE REDMAN

Designing costumes for the theatre is like an engineering job, Helen Forest Lauterer says.

This is her fourth summer at SUI as visiting lecturer in speech, and costume designer for SUI theatre productions.

"I always call costume designing 'building'," she said.

She said the basic quality, has to be selected to set the feeling, such as wool for ancient Greek costumes and shiny material for other periods.

Students who wish to become costume designers should be thoroughly grounded in the history of costume and in the practical know-how of sewing, draping and pattern cutting, she said.

Movement Essential

However, the important thing is to know what can be done in the way of movement in any costume and the "sculptural" design which will be good from all sides on the stage.

To allow for movement of the stage in such period dress as the hoop skirts and high wigs of the 18th century ("School for Scandal") the designer selects just the important detail of that period.

Mrs. Lauterer and her crew of costume workers are busy persons, but theirs is a well-organized haste with not a minute to spare.

Varied Activities

Simultaneous with a hurried knock on Mrs. Lauterer's door comes a report about this or that — the laundry, the dyeing, a request from the director upstairs or something to do with the sewing in the adjoining beehive of rooms.

In a few moments she is in the thick of the activity. The several rooms that make up the workshop are a composite kitchen, laundry, cleaning establishment, ready-to-wear warehouse, modiste's sewing salon and shoe-and-haberdashery shop.

Beyond the sewing room and the "kitchen" for dyeing, washing and drying by blower — is a room lined with wall cabinets of costumes.

At present, costumes for "As You Like It" are hung on the movable racks. Every costume of billowy sleeves and long hemlines is labeled.

Peaked 15th century velour hats with cocky quills perch askew on pegs or corners of racks.

Ladies' hats of the period have "chaperones" — long pieces at back which fit tightly around modern hair cuts. They save the renting of 25 wigs.

Sewing Room

In the sewing room are long tailors' tables loaded with supplies — boxes of braids, beads, strips of cloth. There's also a barrel full of umbrellas and wall-shelves lined with labeled boxes of folded shirts, trousers and hat boxes.

Mrs. Lauterer, a tall, slender, energetic brunette insists that all her associates are "knocking themselves out," working on costumes, acting in plays, helping with make-up and being on hand backstage.

Rented costumes usually do not fit and at the last minute there is a "mad scramble" of altering to do, Mrs. Lauterer said.

Costumes must be pressed for the final rehearsal. For the rehearsal Saturday of "The Bartered Bride," the cast appeared at Macbride in freshly starched and pressed Czechoslovakian garb.

If some part of their apparel rips, someone of the costume crew is at hand in the dressing rooms with needle and thread.

Costume Personnel

Among those working with her is Margaret Hall, G, West Dennis, Mass. Margaret designed all costumes for the SUI summer TV shows. Frances Arley, G, Hampton, plays Celia in "As You Like It," and works with Mrs. Lauterer.

Ethelyn Pauley, G, Sioux City, now doing special work on theatre productions, designed the costumes and stage constructions for "King Lear" last winter. She is also in charge of costumes for the opera, "The Bartered Bride."

Joanna Jeffreys, G, Clarkston, Wash., will play in "Life with Mother." Charlotte Miller, G, Sioux City, is also working with Mrs. Lauterer.

Cards, Phils Tie For Lead

Braves Win, 8-5; Cards Take Finale

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Outhit, 13-10, the St. Louis Cardinals spurred into a first-place National league tie with Philadelphia Saturday night by beating Boston 11-7 in the second game of a day-night double-header.

The Redbirds dropped the afternoon contest, 8-5.

Two-run homers by Stan Musial and Red Schoendienst in the night game helped Howard Pollet chalk up his 10th victory — the first Cardinal pitcher to reach that mark this year.

The Braves hit almost anything the St. Louis Cardinal pitchers offered in the afternoon game.

Boston began picking on Gerald Staley in the fourth inning. Bob Elliot singled and Sid Gordon homered to put the Braves in the lead.

In the fifth the Braves knocked Staley out with three runs.

Three singles and a long fly brought in two runs off George Munger in the sixth and in the eighth Tommy Holmes' double and Elliott's third hit of the game produced the final tally, this one off Fred Martin.

Enos Slaughter got his 1600th hit of his career in the second inning — a double. He scored on Del Rice's single for the Redbirds' first tally of the game. He also homered.

Timely Cardinal hitting and a batch of walks by Boston pitchers — starter Warren Spahn and relievers Ernie Johnson and Johnny Antonelli — spelled the difference in the night score.

A walk by Spahn and Musial's homer, another walk and Schoendienst's homer in the third gave the Redbirds a 4-0 lead.

Boston picked up one run in the fourth, but the Cardinals came back in the fifth with six more — making it 10-1. Spahn was knocked out in that frame after having given up six hits and five walks. Johnson, in relief, walked in a run on two passes and gave up a single which scored two more markers.

With two out and the bases loaded, Antonelli struck out Musial to retire the side.

A walk, an error by Pollet, Earl Torgerson's double and Luis Olmo's single gave Boston three more runs in the seventh.

In the ninth, the Braves staged a serious threat, collecting three more markers on five hits. Gerry Staley relieved Pollet and got the last Brave to foul out.

CHICAGO CUB CATCHER MICKEY OWEN SLAPPED THE BALL ON NEW YORK GIANT SECOND BASEMAN EDDIE STANKY IN THE FIRST INNING OF SATURDAY'S CUB-GIANT GAME IN WRIGLEY FIELD. CUB THIRD BASEMAN BILL SERENA MADE THE THROW TO OWEN. STANKY SCORED LATER IN THE GAME AS THE GIANTS KNOCKED OFF THE CUBS, 7-0, BEHIND FIVE HIT PITCHING BY JIM HEARN.

Giants Blast Cubs; Hearn Gives 5 Hits

CHICAGO (AP) — Big Jim Hearn, the waiver price bargain of the Giants, pitched the New Yorkers to a brilliant five hit 7-0 victory over the Chicago Cubs Saturday.

Hearn, acquired recently from the St. Louis Cardinals for $10,000 fanned eight and walked only one Cub in turning in his second triumph for the Giants. In his first outing he beat Cincinnati on four hits.

The Giants jumped on Cub starter Doyle Lade for three runs in the first inning. A trio of doubles, a fielder's choice and a single did the damage.

Lefty Johnny Vander Meer, who relieved Lade in the first, kept the Giants at bay on three hits until the seventh when he was touched for four runs. Two walks, an error and singles by Monte Irvin, Tookie Gilbert and Al Dark figured in the seventh inning uprising.

Wins Junior Golf Crown After Two Futile Tries

DENVER (AP) — Mason Rudolph's third attempt to climb the nation's junior golf throne proved a charm Saturday when he reached the top with a 2-1 victory over slim Charley Beville of Los Angeles.

The Clarksville, Tenn., smoothie reached the quarterfinals in the first U.S. golf association 'teen age tournament two years ago at Ann Arbor, Mich. Last year, in Washington, D.C., he went to the finals before losing to Gay Brewer of Lexington, Ky.

Saturday's 18-hole match was the seventh for Rudolph in a four-day grind.

Big Dodger Third Sinks Pirates, 12-3

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Brooklyn Dodgers capitalized on the wildness of pitcher Bill Piro, Jr. and romped to a 12-3 victory over the last place Pittsburgh Pirates.

Brooklyn sewed up the game with a seven run third inning during which Piro, a Brooklyn native, Walsh and Law issued six bases on balls.

With one out in the third, Duke Snider, Jackie Robinson and Carl Furillo singled for one run. Piro then walked Gil Hodges and Roy Campanella to force home the third run. Piro threw two balls to Pee Wee Reese and was replaced by Walsh. Walsh completed the walk to Reese and then passed Ralph Branca, fanned Bob Morgan and walked Gene Hermanski.

Law took over at this point and walked Snider to force home the sixth run. Law wild pitched Branca across with the seventh run before Robinson flied out to end the inning.

Twelve-year-old Ann Cooper of Cedar Rapids, nationally known speed skater, has entered the Iowa AAU swimming meet which will be held at the Iowa City swimming pool Saturday.

Entries to the meet represent Clinton, the Olympian team of Des Moines, Waterloo, Davenport, Cedar Rapids, Marion, Marshalltown, Iowa City and Ames.

The Iowa City group is expected to be especially strong in the events for boys and girls 12 and under.

Duane Petzel, who has been doing well in 25-yard freestyle competition, and Ruth Ashton are expected to lead the local group.

Miss Ashton is favored to take at least one of two titles in the 15 to 16 age class.

Paul Slack, Des Moines North High athlete, and Roger Watts, former Iowa State star, have entered the freestyle and back stroke events.

Slack recently was placed in three events in the mythical All-American high school swimming team which is selected yearly. Watts is a Big Six record holder.

Miss Cooper recently won two firsts in the Good Park senior women's open swimming meet at Des Moines. She will be allowed to compete in any age division.

A trophy will be awarded to the team scoring the most points, and medals will be awarded winners of first, second and third places in individual meets.

Noon Monday is the deadline for entries. Preliminaries are scheduled to begin at 2 p.m. and the finals at 7 p.m.

There are 21 classifications of swimming competition and two in diving.

Phils, Reds Split; Roberts Wins 11th

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds and the Philadelphia Phils wound up all even Saturday in their doubleheader with the Phils taking the first game, 2-0, behind the brilliant pitching of Robin Roberts and with Howard Fox hurling seven hit ball to win the finisher for Cincinnati, 6-1.

Fox, who had a shutout against the New York Giants only last Tuesday, had another whitewash job until the ninth in the wind-up of Saturday's doubleheader.

Roberts kept a firm four-hit grip on the Reds in the opener and not one Redleg got to third. The closest the Reds got to it was in the second when lead-off man Bobby Usher doubled. He was out at third on a fielder's choice.

Newhouser Chased; Mize Goes Hitless

NEW YORK (AP) — The onrushing New York Yankees pounded the league-leading Detroit Tigers, Saturday, 10-4, cutting the margin between the first two clubs to just half a game. The victory was the sixth in succession for the Yanks and their 13th in 16 decisions.

The crowd of 42,685 saw Tommy Byrne roll to his 11th win of the season and fourth straight over the Bengals. The southpaw was opposed by Hal Newhouser at the start but the latter left after yielding five runs in three innings. Fred Hutchinson and Hal White worked the rest of the way.

Johnny Mize was stopped by the Tiger hurlers and went hitless in four times at bat. He entered the game with a record of 13 hits in his most recent 15 times at bat. Joe DiMaggio, who has lost his clean-up spot in the batting order to Mize, kept hitting, however. He banged out two of the dozen New York safeties and scored four runs.

Byrne walked eight men, three in the second when the visitors got their first run and two in the seventh when they gained two more. George Kell, the leading hitter of the league, completed the Tiger tallying in the ninth when he hit his sixth homer. That was the 19th off Byrne this year.

Yogi Berra and Bobby Brown helped DiMaggio with the attack. Berra smashed three singles and Brown drove in four runs with two hits and two scoring flies.

Red Sox Beat Browns, McDermott Goes Rote

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Red Sox were given their first nine-inning pitching stint in 19 games and the fifth in their last 23 Saturday when lefty Maury McDermott turned back the St. Louis Browns, 11-2.

While going the full distance for the first time since May 12, McDermott gave the Browns eight scattered hits and seven bases on balls. He now has a 6-1 record.

The Red Sox slugged out 14 hits against three Brownie pitchers. One of the blows was Bobby Doerr's 14th homer and 100th safety of the season.

Ferrier Keeps Lead In St. Paul Open, Two Tie for Second

ST. PAUL, MINN. (AP) — Big Jim Ferrier of San Francisco fought off a cloudburst and an unknown golfer from Philadelphia Saturday to retain a one-stroke lead in the $15,000 St. Paul Open golf tournament.

Skip Alexander of Nashville, Tenn., who snared the lead with Ferrier at 136 strokes after Thursday's second round, slipped into a second place tie with one 18-hole round to go today in the four-day grind.

Ferrier, fighting a drenching rain that turned fairways and greens into miniature lakes, fired a three-under-par 69 at Keller course Saturday to run his 54-hole total to 205 — 11 under regulation figures.

Alexander, playing behind Ferrier, had a chance to hold his tie for the top spot as he started the par-five 18th hole 10 under and chipped to within eight feet of the cup on his third shot. But his ball rolled past the cup by inches on the sodden turf and he had to settle for a par and 206.

Tying Alexander for runner-up honors was Jerry Barber, 34-year-old Philadelphia professional who never has had a major tournament.

He fired a brilliant five-under-par 67 to take over second place from Ted Kroll, New Hartford, N.Y., and Henry Ransom of St. Andrew's, Illinois.

Kroll and Ransom matched 71's Saturday for 54-hole aggregates of 208.

Sioux City Tourney To Begin Tuesday; Attracts Top Golfers

SIoux CITY (AP) — Many of the nation's leading golfers are expected to drop down to Sioux City Monday after finishing the St. Paul open — to compete in Iowa's first PGA tournament.

Members of the sponsoring Colorado club, hoping to make the Sioux City $15,000 open an annual affair, have gone all-out in their preparations for the 72-hole medal play grind beginning Thursday and ending next Sunday.

Golfers here are divided as to how those stars will do on the par 72 Boat club course.

Some say the tall elm trees will make the going rough for the pros and amateurs.

Outside of those 100-to-150 feet high groves of elms, the course is comparatively easy — compared to some of the difficult courses the pros have been playing, that is.

The 6,506 yard layout doesn't have what can be called a hill. Its distance is average and it's moderately trapped.

But any straying in the trees usually means an extra stroke — as Cary Middlecoff and Sam Snead found in an exhibition here last year. Middlecoff scored a 68 on his first try at the course and Snead had 70. The course record is 65, held jointly by home pro Bill Adams and Jim Gardner, a former member of the club.

Monday the players will test the course in warm-up rounds. A qualifying round for local golfers is set for Tuesday if the entry list exceeds 150.

Six of the pros will present a clinic Wednesday before the opening 18-hole round Thursday. Three more 18-hole rounds are set for Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Early entries are Jim Ferrier, Billy Demaret, Jack Burke Jr., Dutch Harrison, Lloyd Mangrum, Skip Alexander, Porky Oliver, Dave Douglas, Lawson Little, Fred Haas Jr., Ed Fulgot, Joe Kirkwood Jr., Fred Hawkins, Loddie Keompa, Dick Metz, Bill Nary, Jimmy Clark, Wally Ulrich, Eric Monti, Rolph Blomquist, and Otto Breiner.

Cherokee Sportsmen Day Scheduled for Aug. 6

CHEROKEE (AP) — Eleven events have been arranged for the second annual Sportsmen's field day here on Aug. 6.

Events include dog retriever trials, trapshoot, fly-casting, pistol and rifle matches and count-down trials.

The day is sponsored by the Little Sioux and Rod Gun club here.

The field of 207 entries started at 8 a.m., and seven golfers failed to finish before dark. They will complete the 18-hole qualifying round today.

The 34 qualifying golfers, and all professionals, will tie off today for the 36 hole final round. Remaining golfers will begin their 18-hole play at 10. Qualifying score was 77.

Injured Power

Schroeder, Larsen Go to Semi-Finals In Clay Court Meet

CHICAGO (AP) — Four favorites, headed by top-seeded Ted Schroeder of La Crescenta, Calif., Saturday gained the semi-finals of the men's singles in the National clay courts tennis tourney.

Schroeder, the nation's top-ranked amateur, lived up to his reputation as the game's greatest "five-set" player by wearing down Seymour Greenberg of Chicago, 2-6, 5-7, 8-0, 6-4, 6-4.

In today's semi-finals, Schroeder will face 20-year-old Tony Trabert of Cincinnati, who spoiled Ted in last weekend's Western tourney semi-finals at Indianapolis. Trabert, seeded sixth in this met at the suburban River Forest tennis club, Saturday defeated unseeded Charley DeVoce of Indianapolis, 6-2, 6-1, 6-1, 6-2, 6-4.

No. 2 seeded Art Larsen, San Leandro, Calif., southpaw, trated sixth nationally, defeated aggressive Glenn Bassett of Santa Monica, Calif., 6-3, 3-6, 6-4, 6-3. Larsen's cleverly-placed left-handed chops and lobs finally forced the younger and less experienced Bassett into frequent errors. Larsen meets Herb Flam in the semi-finals.

Flam, of Beverly Hills, Calif., seeded third, proved too steady for England's Tony Mottram as he won, 3-6, 6-2, 6-2, 6-2.

The two highest seeded feminine players, Doris Hart of Jacksonville, Fla., and second-seeded Shirley Fry of Akron, Ohio, gained the women's finals which will be held today.

Miss Hart, ranked third nationally, had no trouble ousting slim Beverly Baker, Toluca Lake, Calif., the 1949 runner-up, 6-2, 6-2, in yesterday's semi-finals.

Miss Fry eliminated defending champion Marda Rucac of Los Angeles, 4-6, 9-7, 6-1.

Chisox Whip A's Pierce Goes Rote

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Dave Philley's 10th home run of the season and Phil Masi's fifth accounted for three of five runs in the fifth inning to defeat the Philadelphia Athletics, 8-1, Saturday.

Sox Southpaw Billy Pierce held the A's to four hits.

Chicago scored first, tallying once in the second on Hank Masi's double and Mike McCormick's single. But Philadelphia got the equalizer in the fourth on Elmer Valo's double, a wild pitch and Ferris Fain's outfield fly.

Then the White Sox broke the stalemate with a five run outburst in the fifth as Philley and Masi got their home runs.

Philley's came after a single by Chico Carrasquel.

Before the A's lettie got the side out, an error by Billy Hitchcock and doubles by Eddie Robinson and McCormick accounted for the other two tallies.

Jim Brown Leads In Iowa Masters Meet

AMES (AP) — Jim Brown, Des Moines professional, fired a three-under-par 68 over the Iowa State college course to lead players through the qualifying round in the Iowa Masters golf tournament Saturday.

Brown was only one stroke off the tournament play record of 67 set last year by Earl Wild, Moline, Ill., professional, now of Waterloo.

One amateur and two professionals tied for second place with one under par 70s. They were Eli Orlich, Des Moines amateur; Jack Fleck, Davenport; and defending champion Joe Brown, Des Moines. Joe and Jim Brown are brothers.

A stroke behind were Merle Lint, formerly of Des Moines but now of La Jolla, Calif.; Wilde and Jack Hall, Des Moines professional.

Study of Indian Teeth Starts Dentist's Career

By BOB ROSS
A museum-goer's curiosity and the museum employee's inability to answer the question changed a man's life course and put him on the road to being head of an SUI department.

Before he studied dentistry, Prof. Alton K. Fisher, head of the SUI department of oral pathology, was an archeologist. One day someone asked him if the old story of Indians always having perfect teeth was true.

Fisher did not know, but he was curious, so he started examining teeth of prehistoric Indians, as represented in the collection of skeletons owned by the Milwaukee public museum, where he was working.

Since he did not know very much about teeth, himself, Fisher got two dentists to assist him in his investigation.

They concluded about 27 percent of the Indians examined had cavities.

However, a while later, a similar study in Illinois failed to reveal any cavities.

Apparently, the reason for these conflicting conclusions was to be found in earlier discoveries of R. W. Leigh, an army dentist, who in the early 1920's had studied various tribes of prehistoric Indians in different parts of the country.

Study Sioux Tribe
One group of Indians studied by Leigh was the prehistoric plains Indians, probably Sioux, who were nomadic hunters, living on the meat of bison. About 10 percent of these Indians had cavities.

Another group was studied in Kentucky. These Indians were hunters, but they also ate vegetables. About 25 percent of this group had cavities.

The most striking examples Leigh found were the Zuni Indians in the southwest U.S.

About the 13th century A.D., it appears the American southwest for some reason, changed from a fertile land to a dry desert.

Land Causes Change
When the grass lands dried up and game disappeared, the Zuni turned to more farming, actually employing irrigation.

THE SKULL OF AN IOWA INDIAN WOMAN, DEAD 500 YEARS, is measured for facial growth by Prof. Alton K. Fisher, head of the SUI department of oral pathology. The woman's skeleton was found during excavation of a Decorah basement. Fisher, who has been conducting an investigation of Indian dental diseases, found this Indian had cavities.

As their diet became almost exclusively beans, squash and maize, the portion of these Indians having cavities rose to about 90 percent.

From these finds of Leigh's, it seemed unsafe to lump all Indians together and say they were all alike.

The question, "Did the Indians have perfect teeth?" could not be answered with a simple "Yes" or "No."

The number of cavities the Indian had depended on what he ate, and some of the tribes had widely differing diets.

These studies have not been concerned only with prehistoric peoples.

Arctic Study
It was not until early in the 20th century that white men moved their trading posts into the arctic, and established solid contact with the eskimos and Indians there.

The Copper eskimos of the far north, for instance, lived on caribou, seals, birds and fish, and had teeth completely free of cavities.

But when white traders came with Winchester rifles and canned foods, the diet of these eskimos changed immediately, and their teeth developed cavities at a very high rate.

The matter of "perfect teeth" is not just an absence of cavities, however.

While the eskimos and some Indians lived on meat and were not bothered much with cavities, they often had other dental troubles.

Chewing Leather
Some of these persons wore their teeth to the gums chewing leather to soften it. Serious cases of pyorrhea developed from this practice.

Eskimo women were found to be sharpening stone knives by chipping them with their teeth.

The basket weavers of California made baskets so perfect they held water with no special treatment. These Indians actually did their cooking in these baskets by filling them with water and dropping hot stones into them.

However, this ability to make fine baskets led to the ruin of the people's teeth, as their food picked up fine particles of pumice from the stones used to heat the cooking water, and the pumice ground into their teeth.

These evidences that all Indians can not be classed together, and other factors that have come to Fisher's attention since he has been a dentist, have led him to believe he should retrace his old investigations.

Other Diseases Also

By studying primitive men, it can be determined whether some of modern men's illnesses are results of the modern way of life, or are to be found in all men, no matter what their cultures.

Another advantage of studying prehistoric men is that they were very conservative — their ways of life did not vary from year to year, or even from generation to generation.

Because of this constancy, the results of a way of life on a large number of individuals over a long period of time can be seen in primitive men, while modern laboratory experiments are limited in scope and time.

This makes the study of prehistoric men a valuable check on the findings of laboratory experiments, Fisher said.

Divorce Granted To Student's Wife

Viola Mabel Reynolds, 108 W. Burlington street, was granted a divorce Saturday in district court from Levern L. Reynolds, G. Lenox.

Reynolds is assistant program director at radio station WSUI. The suit, which charged cruel and inhuman treatment, stated the couple was married Jan. 1, 1946, in Ainsworth.

Mrs. Reynolds was awarded possession of all household furniture and effects, except the radio and typewriter. Reynolds retained possession of them and his car. He was ordered to pay Mrs. Reynolds $200.

Ice Packs Ease Fatigue

Placed on Abdomen for 10 Minutes Does Trick
Coach Used Treatment on Basketball Team

There is an answer in your icebox to that tired, rundown feeling, according to Everett Irish, G. Montrose.

Celery tonics, pills and "pick-me-ups" may do the trick, but there is a better, cheaper way, he said.

A plastic or rubber icebag containing six or eight ice cubes applied directly to the abdomen for ten minute periods will reduce fatigue and Irish says he can prove it.

He is high school basketball and baseball coach at Montrose. He received a B.S. degree in physical education at SUI in 1948 and he is back in Iowa City to work on an M.A. in the same field.

He used the system on his basketball players last year with satisfactory results, he said.

A former airforce bomber pilot, Irish first heard about the use of cold applications to reduce fatigue during the war. Hitler's Luftwaffe used cold hip baths on pilots returning from missions.

Used by Germans
The practice relaxed the German pilots sufficiently to allow them to fly again without prolonged rest periods.

Following World War II, SUI's physiology department conducted experiments with the cold baths and finally substituted ice bags applied to the abdomen.

The theory behind the system is that blood vessels of the abdomen are primarily intended to supply blood to the internal organs of the digestive tract. Muscles in this area are not used when exercising.

Forces Blood Movement
Ice packs contract the blood vessels in the abdominal area and force more blood to the arms and legs. The increased blood supply increases the number of red corpuscles available and these are the blood stream's oxygen carriers.

Lactic acid forms in muscles when they do not get enough oxygen. This acid is responsible for fatigue and sore muscles.

Irish said ice packs will speed recovery from fatigue and delay its resumption.

He denied being the first to apply the SUI-developed method. Gil Wilson, former Iowa City high school basketball coach, used abdominal ice packs on his players in 1948, Irish said.

Several college football teams also are employing the system, he said.

For Summer Heat
Irish also passed along a tip for cooling-off during hot days.

Iowa City Urologist Studies at Hospital

Dr. Ernst Lehmann, a urologist from Tel Aviv, Israel, is here studying urological surgery techniques used at University hospitals.

Lehmann is head of urology at Kupat Holim Hasharon hospital at Tel Aviv. The hospital is supported by the "sick fund" of the Jewish Labor federation.

After attending the Congress of the American Urological association in Washington last May, Lehmann studied at various New York hospitals before coming to Iowa City.

He is on a six-months leave of absence from his duties in Tel Aviv for study in the United States.

nurses' low strength rating, Tuttle said.

He also found that physical education majors could maintain a "fatigue level" after reaching a peak of output.

Students of the other two groups did not level off to a constant rate of output after reaching a peak, but steadily declined in output.

Undergraduate women from 18 to 25 years old were tested in the study. Their average height was five feet, four and one-half inches. Average weight was 128 pounds.

Edmund Burke, the famous orator, was discovered one evening alone at a table in a Sussex pub with three empty bottles in front of him. "Do you mean to tell me," thundered his friend, "that you consumed all that port without assistance?"

"Not quite," answered Burke, swaying slightly in his chair. "I had the assistance of a bottle of Madeira."

Hamish Hamilton, England's court tennis champion, avers that a party of Londoners got lost in the Swiss mountains one weekend. For an entire day and night they kept shouting, "Alp! Alp!" And that's how the Alps got their name.

'The Bartered Bride' to Open Tuesday for Three Nights in Macbride Auditorium

TRIPPING THE LIGHT FANTASTIC Czechoslovakian style is a featured part of "The Bartered Bride," Smetana's three-act opera opening here Tuesday night. The dancers are from the Cedar Rapids Sokol organization. The group is aimed at promoting Czechoslovakian folk culture. The dancers have two specialty numbers, a "furiant" and a polka. The performers are pictured in authentic costumes to be worn during the opera. The opera is the featured production of the 12th annual fine arts festival.

$56,266 Received by SUI In Gifts, Research Grants

Gifts and grants to SUI totaling $56,266 have been accepted by the state board of education's finance committee, President Virgil M. Hancher announced Saturday.

Research grants were given to the psychology, pediatrics and internal medicine departments in the college of medicine, and to the zoology, nutrition and biochemistry departments.

Largest grant, $15,606, from the National Institute of Health of the United States public health service, is for research concerning normal embryonic cells. The study will be directed by Prof. Joseph Bodine, head of the zoology department.

Second largest grant, $10,000, was from the Cerebral Institute, incorporated. It will be used by the physiology and nutrition departments for studies of how breakfast habits affect aged persons.

Physiology Department Another grant to the physiology department was $7,560 from the Life Insurance Medical Research fund. It will be used for studies on reaction of blood vessel walls to various temperatures and drugs.

This project will be directed by Dr. Steven M. Horvath, associate professor of physiology.

The Nutrition Foundation, incorporated, gave a total of $4,500. Largest part, $3,000 is for research directed by Dr. P. C. Jeans, head of the pediatrics department.

This research will concern the relation of vitamin K deficiencies in mothers to head injuries of babies at birth.

The remainder of the grant, $1,500, is for a project directed by Dr. George Kalnitski of the biochemistry department. The project concerns utilization of biotin and pantothenic acid, a vitamin B complex.

Similar studies on pantothenic acid will be conducted by the internal medicine department, headed by Dr. William Bean.

These studies will be supported by $7,900 from Eli Lilly and company.

Glenwood Study A $5,000 grant from the Sugar Research foundation is for continuation of SUI studies of the Glenwood State school for the feeble-minded.

The study, which is four years old, will be directed by Dr. J. D. Boyd, professor of pediatrics, in conjunction with Dr. Kenneth E. Wessels, associate professor in the college of dentistry, and Iowa State college personnel.

A $500 grant from the Flint-Eaton company will be used for research on diet control by Dr. Kate Daum, director of nutrition at University hospitals.

Evans Hands Down Judgments on Nine Paving Assessments

Judgments on nine more paving assessment cases were handed down Saturday morning by District Judge Harold D. Evans.

The cases were among 26 suits filed against the city by eastern Iowa City property owners, appealing special paving assessments levied against them last year.

The property owners charged the assessments exceeded the legal maximum and were out of proportion to the benefits they received from the new paving, completed last year.

One assessment as set aside completely and five others were lowered a total of $1,560.48. The other three were ruled legal and were unchanged.

Judge Evans set aside the $483.89 assessment against Mr. and Mrs. William Hughes, 1401 Keokuk street.

The $542.49 levy against James W. Roberts and Alice M. Roberts, 1221 Keokuk street, was lowered to $500.

Assessments against Mr. and Mrs. Darwin P. Cox, 1027 Keokuk street, were lowered from $1,153.43 to $1,000.

The $537.50 assessment against Robert H. Engleman, 1125 Keokuk street, was reduced to $362.50. An assessment of $1,138.63 against Charles F. Anclaus, 909 Seventh avenue, was cut to $200.

Assessments ruled legal were $1,004.76 against H. W. Neumann, 1025 Keokuk street; $786.22 against Fannie Messner, 909 Seventh avenue, and $1,352.18 against Mr. and Mrs. Lewis L. Smith, 1207 Marcy street.

Iowa City Policemen Double As Cowboys Iowa City police turned cowboy early Saturday morning as a "herd of longhorns" thundered onto the highway in front of the Mayflower Inn.

Policemen chased cattle here and there for an hour before the cattle finally were "corralled."

The cattle belonged to Charles Alberhasky, 1119 E. Jefferson street, and had strayed from their pasture.

The 20-year-old girl is the daughter of Prof. and Mrs. Ned L. Ashton. Ashton is an associate professor in civil engineering at SUI.

Miss Ashton and five other counselors scaled the mountain with ropes, after the man became marooned while doing some "fancy hiking."

In 'The Astonished Heart' — Ladies Steal Show

— From Noel Coward

By JACK LARSON

A Noel Coward picture is always an event, and "The Astonished Heart" is no exception. The Universal-International release opened at the Capitol theater Saturday, and is scheduled to run through Tuesday.

The British film's most astonishing feature is that two ladies steal the show right out from under Mr. Coward's authoritative nose.

Celia Johnson is well established as one of the best cinema actresses alive — a most notable accomplishment if you remember that she has appeared in only five movies, all of them Coward enterprises.

But while Coward falters here, Miss Johnson brings authority to a part which could have been wishy-washy.

She goes quietly about playing the role of a wife eager to be "understanding" when confronted with a romantic triangle in which she might be expected to suffer most.

Margaret Leighton has proved her reliability with contrasting roles in "Under Capricorn" and "The Winslow Boy." Here, in a part which could overwhelm a lesser actress, she makes the "other woman" a pathetic person rather than a femme fatale.

With excellent support from Joyce Carey (who must have one of the familiar British movie faces by now) and Graham Payne, the ladies leave little for Mr. Coward the actor.

The main complaint is that Mr. Coward has suffered a lapse in subtlety. His devices to establish the conflict are crudely inserted. His screenplay is so constructed that one is not moved to compassion for his protagonist at the same time one senses that Mr. Coward himself is feeling very sorry for him.

The central character, that of a psychiatrist who finds himself "submerged" in a passion for his wife's friend, never quite earns the sympathy one would like to feel for him.

Failling to identify oneself with the psychiatrist, the logical move is to concentrate the attention on the ladies. There are brief instances of the polished Coward wit, sure direction by Terence Fisher and Anthony Barnborough, and an almost documentary-like photography. And even with flaws, it's still a fact that a Noel Coward picture is an event. Even the imperfections can be interesting — and they are.

Two district court suits involving Gladys S. Nall, 350 Hutchinson avenue, and Charles S. Gaeta and Joseph C. Gaeta, 412 S. Governor street, were dismissed Saturday by Judge Harold D. Evans.

Mrs. Nall is the wife of Vernon W. Nall, president of Nall Motors, incorporated. The Gaetas operate the Iowa City Farm Store, 26 S. Van Buren street.

Mrs. Nall filed suit against the Gaetas, charging they failed to pay their rent, and asked that they be evicted.

The Gaetas filed suit against Mrs. Nall, asking the court to include a renewal option in the lease on the farm store property, which is owned by Mrs. Nall. They had claimed they thought the option clause was included in the lease when they signed it. Judge Evans, in dismissing the cases, declared that the Gaetas were guilty of negligence if they did not know what was in the contract they signed.

CR Man Receives Concussion in Crash

Rueben Rovang, Cedar Rapids, was hospitalized Saturday with a slight concussion and a bruised thigh received in an auto accident five miles south of the airport on highway 218, highway patrolmen reported.

Mercy hospital authorities said late Saturday his condition was "good."

He was injured about 2 a.m. when his car ran into a ditch, the patrolmen said.

Two-year-old Daniel R. Owens, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence R. Owens, Des Moines, received a cut lip in an accident two miles east of Tiffin on highway 6 at 1 a.m. Saturday, patrolmen reported.

His parents and an eight-month old brother, Craig, were not injured, according to University hospital authorities who examined them.

The car struck a shoulder, shot into a ditch and tipped onto its side, the patrolmen said.

During the week, workshop participants tested an audience reaction machine developed by Prof. Forest L. Wian, visiting lecturer in speech, University of Wichita, Kan.

According to the reaction meter, a film on propaganda techniques was rated more favorably by a teacher group than a high school group.

BRITISH MILITARY STRENGTH LONDON (AP) — Defense Minister Emanuel Shinwell declared that it was Britain's plain duty "in a world gone mad" to build up her military strength, even at the expense of the Labor government's domestic program.

The association plans to hold its next meeting in conjunction with the Iowa State Education association meeting in November. At the SUI audio-visual workshop, approximately 75 teachers and administrators spent a week of intensive study in the use of audio-visual aids in the classroom.

This included work with motion pictures, strip films, graphs, charts, globes and slides.

Others were Lee Bostock, 3, Bonaparte; Junior Krouse, 4, Cantril; Donna McIntosh, 11, Farmington; Raymond Watters, 2, Clinton; Nicky Haren, 3, Grundy Center.

Marie Wharton, 12, Ft. Madison; Philip Weigand, 27, Muscatine; Robert Lenninger, 30, Westington, Iowa, and Rebecca Shuck, 15 months, Parkersburg. Discharged were Phillip Comes, 12, Cedar Rapids; Marilyn Walther, 12, Waverly; Marlin Messenger, 11, Washington, Iowa; Larry Minks, 9, Waterloo, and Robert Whipple, 21 months, Traer.

Patients from Cedar Rapids transferred to the inactive ward were Theresa Myers, 19 months; Melinda Miller, 7; Zula Lawrence, 36; Gerald Disco, 23 months; Harlan Brumwell, 24; Charles Conried, 18 months; Laura Baker, 30; Kenneth Bracy, 4, and Kregg Johnson, 10 months.

Four new patients were reported Saturday, all in "fair" condition. They were Howard Lyon, 25, Toledo; James Townsend, 6, Tama; Edwin Rohdy, 8, Farmington, and Adrian Turnis, 6, Hopkinton.

Audio-Visual Educators' Meeting Closes

SUI's week-long audio-visual activities ended Saturday with the first formal meeting of the newly organized Audio-Visual Education association of Iowa.

Friday and Saturday approximately 20 members of the association discussed ways of strengthening the association and methods of assisting teachers in the use of audio-visual materials.

Committee reports were heard on such subjects as audio-visual activities in other states and audio-visual teacher education.

The association plans to hold its next meeting in conjunction with the Iowa State Education association meeting in November.
