Congressional Group Agrees On Truman's Control Powers

WASHINGTON (AP) — A compromise bill giving President Truman war-style powers to speed production and curb inflation was approved finally Thursday night by a house-senate conference committee.

Prompt acceptance by both chambers is expected. The "national defense production act of 1950" may be on President Truman's desk when he delivers his "fireside chat" tonight at 8 p.m. (Iowa time).

The President's half-hour message to the people to be broadcast and televised, may give the public its first knowledge of what domestic sacrifices are to be imposed under the broad mobilization bill.

Agreement had been delayed for hours while the conferees heard administration leaders appeal for a two-year law expiring June 30, 1952, instead of the ten-month bill previously agreed on. The upshot was this schedule of termination dates:

Wage - price and rationing controls, restraints on credit, and machinery to settle labor disputes would expire next June 30.

Other powers would run until June 30, 1952, including allocations, priorities, and defense production loans.

The bill provides: Wage and price control powers, on a standby basis, rationing authority, allocation and priority powers, authority to restrict civilian output of cars, television sets and other metal-using civilian goods.

Controls over installment credit and real estate credit and loans to industry for the construction and expansion of needed defense plants.

23 Americans Perish in Disaster

55 Dead as Plane Crashes in Egyptian Desert

CAIRO, EGYPT (AP) — A Trans-world Airlines Constellation passenger plane crashed Thursday in the desert wastes of the lower Nile, leaving 55 persons dead in a burning wreckage.

Twenty-three of the victims were Americans, including five members of the crew. The others were of many nationalities, some of them students in the United States, one an Egyptian movie actress, others delegates to the United Nations.

The luxury liner "Star of Maryland" on the Cairo - Rome leg of a flight from Bombay to New York, sent radio positional messages steadily for 27 minutes after taking off from Farouk airport here after a 45-minute stopover.

The veteran pilot, Capt. Walton Webb, was to have sent another message when he passed over the Mediterranean coast, but no more was heard. TWA officials denied Webb had reported engine trouble. They said "no body can tell how the accident occurred."

It was thought Webb had tried to turn back to Cairo.

Youths Again Ransack ATO Fraternity House

Three Iowa City teen-age boys, who vandalized the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity house just a month ago, were apprehended and jailed Thursday after again ransacking the same house.

The youths, on probation after causing an estimated $2,000 damage to the house about Aug. 1, were surprised by Detective Harland Sprinkle at about 1 p. m. Thursday at the house. He captured the group after a mile-long chase.

Police Thursday identified the youths as George Lehman, 16, 701 N. Gilbert street; Jerry Arnold, 15, 304 Ronalds street, and Aaron Lee Howell, 15, 122 Evans street.

The boys are now in Johnson county jail after being charged as "delinquent boys." Hearing on the case has tentatively been set for Saturday morning in juvenile court before Judge James P. Gaffney.

The extent of damage caused at the house, located at 828 N. Dubuque street, was very small, Sprinkle said. A desk lamp was broken, a mirror was torn from the wall, and a can of paint was opened.

Sprinkle said he had gone to the house to survey the damage. When he encountered the boys, they fled on their bicycles. Sprinkle ran after them, then hailed a cab and finally captured the boys after the mile-long chase.

In the first ransacking about Aug. 1, the boys wrecked furniture, dumped food on the floors and walls and destroyed numerous other articles in the house.

The boys were turned over to juvenile authorities and put on probation on the recommendation of Sprinkle. They were directed to repair as much damage as possible. They finished the work only last Friday.

The contract, effective today, includes a general wage boost of six cents an hour and a special increase of one to 10 cents an hour to adjust inequities.

Chief change in the contract from a proposal which the same workers rejected a few days ago in a close vote was a revision in the welfare and health insurance program.

Russia Charges Justice Spies in Middle East

LONDON (AP) — Moscow radio charged again Thursday night that Justice William O. Douglas of the U.S. supreme court is spying for his country in the middle east, using mountain climbing as a blind.

Francis Pope, a pilot returning to the United States on leave, and his three children were aboard.

Best known of the Americans were Dr. Everett Moore Baker of Wellesley Hills, Mass., Dean of Students at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. He was returning from Bombay where he had addressed a student conference.

Another of the victims was Egypt's No. 1 movie actress, "Camelia," a girl of 23.

Austin Admits Plane Strafed Chinese Land

From The Wire Services

LAKE SUCCESS (AP) — Ambassador Warren Austin, chief U.S. delegate to the United Nations, told the security council Thursday night that one American F-51 fighter plane "may have" strafed a Chinese Communist airstrip in Manchuria.

Austin's announcement came as a surprise. He said the United States had several times warned airforces in Korea to exert every care to avoid crossing the borders of China. He added that as soon as the first complaint was received from Chou En-Lai, Chinese Communist foreign minister, the government ordered an inquiry.

Austin asked that the item be placed on the council's calendar under the title "complaint of bombing of Chinese territory by United Nations aircraft." He stressed the words United Nations.

Austin spoke as Russia's Jakob A. Malik ended his presidency of the council in the midst of another bitter procedural wrangle like those that have paralyzed the council for 31 days.

The U.S. delegate proposed that the UN set up a commission to investigate at once the reported attack and to assess damages. He said the United States would be willing to pay whatever damages the commission decided were fair.

Formosa Fleet ...

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Truman said Thursday the U.S. Seventh fleet can be withdrawn from Formosa waters when the Korean war is ended.

He also told a press conference he hopes there is no great danger of Communist China becoming involved in the Korean fighting.

Mr. Truman said he ordered the Seventh fleet into Formosan waters last June for the protection of United Nations forces fighting in Korea. There will be no reason to keep the fleet there after the Korean dispute is settled, he said.

Tax Leaders Offer Compromise Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate tax leaders offered a compromise Thursday in an effort to head off growing sentiment for immediate passage of an excess profits tax.

Sen. Joseph O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) leader of the "act now" forces, refused to compromise. He insisted on his amendment to add an excess profits levy to the $4.5-billion tax increase bill now in the senate.

The amendment would put an 85 percent tax on all profits since July 1, which are above a corporation's "normal earnings."

The compromise was offered by Chairman Walter George (D-Ga.) of the senate finance committee. He offered a pledge to sponsor an excess profits tax in another bill next year, and make it retroactive to Oct. 1 or July 1 of this year.

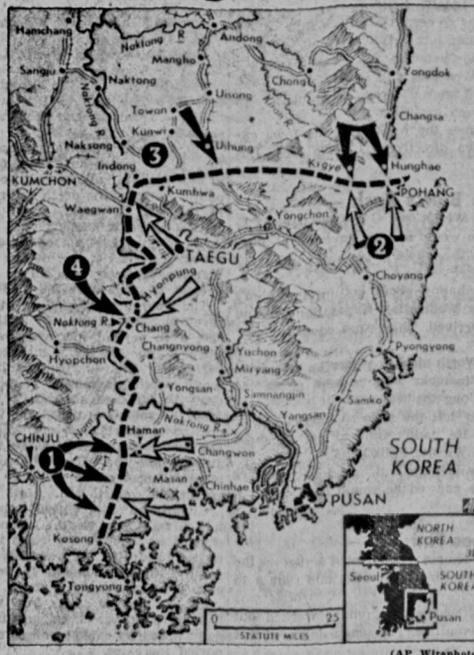

President Truman has declared publicly that he does not want the excess profits tax passed at this time because it might delay the "quickie" tax boost which he wants in a hurry.

Plan Drafting Married Men

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chairman Carl Vinson (D-Ga.) of the house armed services committee said Thursday the draft will be extended to draft-age married men with dependents soon.

Such men, under 26, are now deferred. Asked what he meant by "soon," Vinson told newsmen: "Right away."

At selective service headquarters, officials said they could not tell when it might be necessary to draft married men.

Officials estimated there are a million married non - veterans of draft age 19 through 25 — and that up to 400,000 would qualify for induction.

Vinson made his statement to reporters shortly after the house passed and sent to the senate a bill providing allowances ranging from $85 to $165 a month for the families of enlisted men.

"This means that selective service can now broaden its calls to include men with children who are within the draft age," Vinson said, referring to the legislation.

"That is the purpose of the act — to make financial provisions for the families of such men."

Selective service officials said no announcement on expanding the draft would be made until after final congressional action on the family allowances bill.

A spokesman said, however, that President Truman could order the drafting of married men under the present law, by amending the regulations. It would not require legislation.

SUI Students Win Engineering Prize

Two SUI engineering students today jointly received $500 second place award in a national contest sponsored by the James F. Lincoln arc welding foundation, Cleveland, Ohio, for the 1949-50 year.

The two, Earle Compton, Iowa City, and Francis Springer, Wapello, won the prize with their joint paper on the "Investigation of Some Practical Applications of the Low Hydrogen Type Electrodes."

Both were juniors in the department of mechanical engineering last year.

A third SUI engineering student, Forrest Rehberg, Independence, won a $50 prize for his paper on "The Designs of a Welded Radial Arm Woodworking Saw."

In honor of the award, SUI has been granted funds to establish two scholarships of $250 each to be given in the name of the winners.

The scholarship grant is subject to the approval and acceptance by the finance committee of the state board of education.

Yanks Send Fresh Troops To Halt Push

TOKYO (FRIDAY) (AP) — More than 30,000 tank-led North Koreans, with 20,000 more in reserve, unleashed an all - out drive today along a 47-mile front for the United Nations lifeline port of Pusan.

At heavy cost in men and armor they (1) punched out gains up to five miles, (2) threw a pincer around one town and (3) crossed the Naktong at five points. They drove against two outnumbered American divisions.

The central and southern walls of the front exploded into tank, artillery and ground battalions.

The Americans rushed up fresh troops to reinforce the hard pressed 25th division in the south. The U.S. Eighth army called the Red offensive "a general attack."

A quick look down the battle line at the coordinated attack: 1. Two Red battalions crossed the Naktong at Tuksong, 12 miles southwest of the key American advanced supply base of Taegu.

2. Near Pungon, five miles west of Changnyong, two reinforced Red battalions made three crossings and advanced nearly a mile to positions where they dug in.

3. Just south of this area, 3,000 Reds crossed the Naktong and pushed five miles eastward, driving toward Yongsan.

4. Two Red divisions struck hard near the confluence of the Nam and Naktong rivers, sent a large assault force south toward Haman and curved a pincer around that town.

The Red battalions, possibly 1,600 men, which crossed the Naktong against the U.S. Second Infantry division, dug in after moving a mile beyond Pungon.

War at a Glance

Korean front — North Korean Communists lash out in general offensive along 47 - mile front reaching from distant approaches to Pusan northward almost to Taegu. American Second and 25th infantry divisions are heavily engaged. Reds concentrate at the juncture of the Nam and Naktong rivers and make five river crossings. In one crossing southwest of Changnyong the Communists gain as much as five miles.

Washington — Chairman Carl Vinson (D-Ga.) of house armed services committee, says military draft soon will take fathers.

Defense Department to Tell Casualties Weekly

WASHINGTON (AP) — Officials said Thursday that the defense department has decided to tell the public regularly, probably once a week, the total cost of the Korean conflict in Americans killed, wounded or missing in action.

The promised summaries will be in addition to the lists of individual casualties now made public daily by the department.

Urges Boycott of Russian Products

LAFAYETTE, IND., (UP) — The use of "all legal means" to refrain from handling Russian-made goods and commodities from Red-dominated countries was urged Thursday by James A. Suffridge, secretary-treasurer of the retail clerks international association, in a message to the 250,000 members.

He stressed that it was not an order but "a patriotic appeal to the membership to implement the international position." Union members were asked to urge employers "as loyal American citizens" to withdraw from inventories and sales counters such merchandise already on hand.

Suffridge's statement, from the union's international headquarters here, reminded members of action taken at the 1947 convention to bar communists and other "subversive elements" from membership or official position in the RCIA.

Nebraska Officials Praise Iowa Fair

LINCOLN, NEB., (P) — Attorney General C. S. Beck said Thursday he had a report that the Iowa state fair is "plenty clean."

Beck's deputy, Walter Nolte, and Nebraska Fair Board Secretary Ed. Schultz visited Des Moines Wednesday to learn if there were any games or concessions on the Iowa fair's midway that would be out of line with Nebraska's crack-down on gambling.

Nebraska's fair traditionally comes the week after the Iowa exposition and many concessions move directly to Lincoln from Des Moines.

Mickey Cohen Gets Texas Bum's Rush

FORT WORTH, TEX., (UP) — West Coast Gambler Mickey Cohen went west Thursday, vowing he would sue the governor of Texas, the Texas Rangers, and in fact, "the whole state . . . if my lawyer tells me I can."

The unwelcome Cohen was unhappy about getting the bum's rush from Texas after arriving only Wednesday. Texas Rangers and other officers were sorry he ever arrived. They were equally happy that he was gone.

They saw him off at the Fort Worth airport, where he was driven earlier from Wichita Falls and to make sure he kept going, the rangers posted guards at airports along the way.

The pudgy Los Angeles gambler left the state so hurriedly that he was wearing bedroom slippers. He hadn't time to put on shoes when Rangers roused him from his Wichita Falls hotel.

"I think your Texas hospitality is very bad," he told reporters at the airport. In fact, he added, he guessed he would have to get a passport if he ever returned.

Allowance Plan for Enlistees Finished

WASHINGTON (P) — Congress Thursday completed action on the living allowance bill for enlisted servicemen's families and sent it to the president for signature.

By voice vote, the house approved a compromise worked out Wednesday by a joint conference committee. The senate followed suit a few hours later.

The measure provides allowances ranging from $85 to $135 a month, more than 50 percent higher than those of World War II. It was rushed through to relieve the financial plight of married reservists and national guardsmen mobilized for the Korean war.

Selective service officials revealed Wednesday that as soon as the act becomes law they will urge President Truman to lift the ban on drafting married men in the 19-through-25-year age group.

Mechanical Carhop Here

Not as Glamorous, But There's No Tipping As Machine Replaces Pretty Gals

STRIPED CANOPIES cover the traveling trays which whisk food steaming hot from the roadside restaurant kitchen to the driver's window of car.

By MARK FINLEY

Central Press Correspondent
LOS ANGELES — Pretty-girl carhops and male waiters at drive-in restaurants have a new rival in a machine that serves the customer in his car from a tray that whizzes outdoors on a small steel track.

It saves tipping, says the inventor, K. C. Purdy, who has 116 locations scattered throughout the United States.

The device consists of a kitchen conveyor center where an operator sees that the little covered trays are in the right place when an auto wheels alongside the tracks, which fan out to the various outdoor parking stalls like petals extended from the center of a flower.

The motorist finds a glass of water and a menu awaiting him. He sends his order back on the mechanical waiter and in a few minutes the traveling tray returns, its hood protecting the food from the weather.

When Purdy first proposed his idea to several Los Angeles restaurant men he was uneasy because he feared they might turn it down. He was overwhelmed by their immediate response and demand for franchises.

"I was dumfounded and had to get out to think things over," he now reminisces with a smile.

"My first reaction was to think they were as crazy as I, so I decided to talk to others to convince myself of the soundness of my system from an operator's viewpoint."

The last business man he consulted suggested he burn up his plans and forget about the whole thing. "Had he been the first one I talked to there might not be any motormat today. From there it went very fast and in a short time everyone was fighting to get it," mused Purdy.

The first unit, in Los Angeles, was estimated to do a $200-$300 business on opening day but when the cash register totaled $800 the pantry ran out of food and the place had to close.

Purdy estimates that "no tipping" amounts to a saving of about 40 percent in drive-in checks. For this reason people have average checks of 35 cents, which is about 15 percent more than if they had to pay a tip in addition to the food purchased.

Because of economy of the mechanical operation there is also a saving of 10 percent in the preparation of food for the operator, he estimates. Families with children and people who like to dine in private also find advantages in the new device.

The canopied trays operate like an automobile elevator. A 1-12 gear reduction head motor provides motive power, but the customer can only send the rolling tray in. An operator inside the control-center can stop, forward or reverse at all times. If a person puts his hand on the track, the tray stops automatically.

The trays run so smoothly they deliver a tumbler full to the brim without spilling. A weather seal enables automobile diners to reach outside for the food dishes under the canopy without getting rain or snow on their sleeves.

Purdy is now working on other mechanical food delivery devices for use in grocery stores. He plans to use warehouses for a proposed grocery operation to effect a saving up to seven percent in the grocery bills for the average shopper. "I hope," says Purdy, "it will eliminate standing in line and carrying groceries."

Predict 435 Deaths From Auto Accidents In Holiday Weekend

CHICAGO (P) — The national safety council has predicted that 435 persons will die in traffic accidents over the Labor Day holiday, a death rate of one every 10 1-2 minutes for the three-day period.

At the same time, the council reported that a total of 36,000 traffic deaths can be expected this year if a present upward trend continues.

The council said the end of summer vacation periods and back-to-school treks would increase the traffic hazard over Labor Day and put an estimated 36-million vehicles on the highways.

The predicted toll of 435 covered a 78-hour period from this evening to midnight Monday, Labor Day.

Motorists can cut the expected toll, the council said, if they will only use "courtesy and common sense."

For the year, the council said that if the nation reaches a toll of 36,000 it will have recorded one of the worst traffic death records in the last 13 years.

An upward trend developed in July when 3,150 persons were killed, the most traffic deaths in that month since 1941 and a 13 percent increase over July, 1949.

The July deaths brought the seven-month total for 1950 to 18,320, a 12 percent increase over the corresponding period last year.

However, the council noted that while deaths increased 11 percent for the first six months of 1950, the volume of travel also increased exactly 11 percent. Mileage figures were not available for July to compare with the seven-month's boost of 12 percent in deaths, the council said.

Cities of more than 10,000 population reporting to the council showed an average 6 percent increase in deaths for the seven months this year and a 16 percent increase for July alone.

Of 46 reporting states, only six had decreases for seven months, one showed no change and 39 reported increases.

Silverman Denies Giving Away Secrets To Russian Spies

WASHINGTON (P) — George Silverman, former airforce economist, flatly denied Thursday that he fed wartime secrets to Russia, but refused to say whether he associated with known Communists.

He told the house committee on un-American activities he was afraid his answer might incriminate him. The committee is expected to cite him for contempt.

It was the second time he had denied two-year-old charges by former Communist Courier Elizabeth Bentley that he gave her highly secret information for delivery to a Soviet spy ring.

Her accusations, he said, are "utterly unfounded." But when asked specifically whether he had associated with Miss Bentley and others described by her as Communists, the Harvard and Stanford educated Silverman refused to answer.

Silverman is the first of four witnesses subpoenaed by the committee following last Monday's appearance of Lee Pressman, one-time agriculture department employe and former CIO general counsel, who admitted membership in a Red cell here back in 1934-35.

The others, to be heard today, are John Abt, Nathan Witt and Charles Kramer, all of New York. They are former government colleagues of Pressman.

Iowa Casualties

WASHINGTON (P) — Names of two Iowans killed in action and one Iowan missing in action in the Korean war were announced Thursday by the department of Defense.

Listed as killed in action were Pvt. Kenneth C. Radeke, son of Mrs. Lillian C. Radeke, 1613 E. Avenue NE, Cedar Rapids, and Pfc. Robert N. Wheeler, son of David R. Wheeler, route 4, Daventport.

Missing in action is Pvt. Charles A. Vorel, son of Mrs. Lucille A. Vorel, 1514 Nebraska street, Sioux City.

All three Iowans were army men.

Wisconsin Candidate Hits Demos 'Bungling'

MILWAUKEE (P) — Walter Kohler Jr., Republican gubernatorial candidate, accused the national Democratic administration Thursday night of "bungling" the nation's foreign affairs and defense.

Kohler said he decided to campaign on national as well as state issues because "the finest state government in the world won't save the people of Wisconsin if something isn't done to end the Democrats' incompetent bungling of our foreign affairs and national defense."

He urged Milwaukeeans to replace their Democratic congressmen with Republicans.

MacArthur's Statement Untimely But Harmless

By J.M. ROBERTS JR.

AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

Comment on General MacArthur's statement about Formosa, which the administration tried unsuccessfully to suppress, would lead one to think that the general advocated taking over the island for a U.S. military base such as Guam and Okinawa.

That may be what he would like to see. Lots of people, after seeing the lengths to which Russia is willing to go in pushing her expansionist policy, wish, the United States could establish a military base at every strategic point around the Communist periphery.

But that isn't what MacArthur said.

His text contains not one word about occupying Formosa, making it a military base, or holding it under any sort of thralldom whatever.

His entire exposition concerned how Formosa had been used for aggression in the past, what its possession meant to Japan in the Pacific, that if we defend Formosa we alienate continental Asia. Those who speak thus do not understand the Orient. They do not grant that it is in the pattern of Oriental psychology to respect and follow aggressive, resolute and dynamic leadership — to quickly turn on a leadership characterized by timidity or vacillation — and they underestimate the Oriental mentality.

That was striking pretty close to some people both in Washington and London right at a time when the U.S., asking for a United Nations investigation of its Formosa policy, was attempting to rally international support and to responsible for 90 percent of the trouble said:

"Nothing could be more fallacious than the threadbare argument, by those who advocate appeasement and defeatism in the Pacific, that if we defend Formosa we alienate continental Asia. Those who speak thus do not understand the Orient. They do not grant that it is in the pattern of Oriental psychology to respect and follow aggressive, resolute and dynamic leadership — to quickly turn on a leadership characterized by timidity or vacillation — and they underestimate the Oriental mentality."

That was striking pretty close to some people both in Washington and London right at a time when the U.S., asking for a United Nations investigation of its Formosa policy, was attempting to rally international support and to straighten out its split with Britain on the subject.

Britain wants to make peace with the Chinese Communists, despite the fact that her offer to extend diplomatic recognition has, so far, been spurned. The U.S. denial of the Communist aim to incorporate Formosa with the rest of China runs counter to this British policy. London has announced it will have nothing to do with the defense of Formosa.

In this atmosphere, MacArthur's reference was considered highly gratuitous.

Aside from that, there was nothing except the timing which really conflicted with Washington policy. MacArthur was advocating a policy for the future and commending the policy of the present. Since Washington specifically disavows a policy for the future, there was no room for conflict there.

As for timing, it undoubtedly was unfortunate, and the whole embarrassing situation could have been avoided if MacArthur's headquarters had first checked with Washington. As for the context however, this is a procedural rather than a substantive question, as they would say at Lake Success. MacArthur's message undoubtedly was written, and was even being distributed, before the Washington moves with which it conflicted.

Britain's Sir Jebb Takes Over Reins Of Security Council

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y. (P) — The presidency of the United Nations security council passed at midnight Thursday from Jakob A. Malik, the wordy Russian, to Sir Gladwyn Jebb, a taciturn Briton who likes to get things done.

Jebb's first action will be to unseal the parliamentary tangle which has prevented the council from really considering the Korean war for the last month.

He will rule that the invitation extended on June 25 to South Korea to attend the council's discussion of the Korean war still is valid and will ask South Korean Ambassador John Myun Chang to sit at the council table.

Malik used this issue to further Russia's aim of preventing action on Korea. He refused to rule on the issue and thus tied up the council for the entire month of the Soviet presidency.

The action the Briton plans is characteristic. The story is told that during negotiations of the North Atlantic pact, the conferees found themselves in a deadlock that defied solution. The British foreign office beckoned Jebb, long one of its most efficient "back room boys," and sent him to Washington. In a single afternoon, he solved the crisis and the treaty became an accomplished fact.

That is the sort of thing the big British diplomat has been doing for most of his 26 years in the service of the foreign office.

Born in 1900 of British gentry in the north of England, he was educated at Eton and Oxford's Magdalen college. His knighthood was conferred by King George in the new year's honors list of 1949.

GI's Find War Grim Inching Ahead Against Korean Reds

(The following account of an advance by U.S. Pershing tanks and infantry was written by AP Correspondent Tom Lambert who is with allied forces at Pohang. Apparently for security reasons Lambert does not pin-point where the following action took place.)

By TOM LAMBERT

WITH U.S. FORCES IN SOUTH KOREA, (AP) — The road lay warm and yellow in the mid-afternoon sun, winding alongside rich green rice paddies on the floor of the valley.

On the grey sandy ridges above the valley, ridges laid with erosion ruts and sparsely covered with scrubby undergrowth, were the Reds.

American tanks and infantry began moving, flanked by South Korean allies, to clear the hills.

In single file tanks edged along the road, with "Belle Starr" commanded by Staff Sgt. Ernest W. Belcher of Hazy, W Va., in the lead.

"Belle Starr" is a Pershing tank, 46 tons of steel with a 90 mm gun. The other Pershings, "Bama Belle," "Bucket O' Bolts" and "Bewildered" followed.

The GIs commanded by Second Lt. Henry E. Davis, Los Angeles, stalked warily along the flanks of the steel monsters or edged gingerly up the slopes of the ridges.

The tanks' machine guns hammered harshly at a few Reds who fled their approach, or at targets pointed out by the tense doughboys.

"Belle Starr" had just rounded a twist in the road when the Reds reacted first. There was a ripping burst of machinegun fire and a lieutenant and two men on the slopes staggered, slumped and fell.

The tanks and the soldiers halted. While angry eyes scanned the hillside and the shallow ravines which scarred them, soldiers slid cursing down the shale slope carrying the wounded men.

The fight was forgotten for a moment now, especially by the rookies.

The wounded were placed on litters and laid on a tank, alongside the turret, under the big gun which swung menacingly toward the hills.

The fire and the blood halted the action, except for quick sniping shots by GIs and the occasional hasty stuttering rat-tat-tat of a Red burp gun.

Then the marines flew in, four of them in Corsair fighters, laden with bullets, rockets and bombs of jellied gasoline.

They circled the area once, carefully, then for approximately 20 minutes lashed viciously at the Reds.

The flying leathernecks circled the Red-held hills like riders on a merry-go-round. Each time they swung past the Red-held positions they strafed. The bombs dropped lazily, bursting into flames and towering columns of smoke.

Then the marines fired their rockets.

On the hills and in the valley the tankers and GIs, still tense, talked about the first lap of the fight for the hill.

Sgt. Belcher, a man with a mustache and fierce goatee, said he'd fired on Reds "who were moving all around that mountain to get into their position before we got there."

Pfc. Donald Taylor, Detroit, fired a few fast rounds from his Browning automatic rifle, and grinningly announced he'd brought down a "moving Korea free" which actually was a heavily camouflaged North Korean.

Sgt. Belcher discussed tactics of the new move with Sgt. Edward Kleinfleiter of Rossford, Ohio, whose rifle squad was to accompany "Belle Starr" to the crest of the road.

Master Sgt. Walter P. Turner of Denver, Ky., altered the crews of his Pershing "Bucket O' Bolts."

"Belle Starr" took the lead again. She lumbered up the road threateningly, a cluster of riflemen crouched on her back.

Then came "Bama Belle," "Bewildered" and "Bucket O' Bolts." The tanks rounded one turn, then another. They were still in view of the infantrymen behind them on the slopes.

Suddenly "Belle Starr" opened up — and jolted with the effort. Dust spurted from her cleared tracks.

The shell burst on the hillside, to the right of a saddle on which we could see the Reds running up a ridge.

The attack was stalled for the moment. Red automatic weapons gunners had brought the tanks under fire and pinned down their accompanying infantrymen.

The burp gun chattered again. On the ridge a GI stood up boldly against the skyline and, in a furious burst, fired a futile clip of ammunition.

The action degenerated into a clatter of small arms fire.

Modern and Age-Old Methods Combine

DESPITE MODERN ARMS AND TACTICS used by the United Nations forces in South Korea, seemingly timeless methods of transportation are sometimes imperative. Here a group of American GI's use a farmer's cow they commandeered to carry their provisions to an outpost over terrain too difficult for machines.

Torch Procession Begins 'Eriest Battle' of War

WITH THE 2ND U.S. INFANTRY DIVISION ON THE NAKTONG RIVER, FRIDAY (UP) — Fifteen infantrymen on a lonely patrol were watching the west bank of the Naktong Thursday night when they saw the flicker of lights approaching the river in the early darkness.

It was the start of the eeriest battle of the war — a series of torchlight processions by North Korean troops, followed by a tank - artillery - mortar - infantry attack which 2nd division troops were still fighting off early today.

Most Fantastic

"It was the most fantastic thing I have ever seen," said Lt. Terry Hume Davis, Salt Lake City, who described it as he and the 14 men in his patrol saw it.

It happened at the bend on the Naktong where the Reds once had their big Yongsan bulge bridgehead.

"At 8:10 last night we spotted 200 to 300 people on the west side of the river, marching toward the river carrying torches," Davis said. "They were marching over low hills toward us."

"North of that group another crowd of about 200 was advancing toward the river in the same way."

Third Group

"Then between the two groups a third group of about 150 started toward the river."

"Our artillery batteries opened fire and dispersed them."

"At 9 o'clock the torches appeared again. This time they were massed in the shape of a letter 'v,' still marching toward the river. We threw artillery shells in again and the torches went out."

"At 9:30 the torches came again. This time they were in the shape of a letter 'o.' They burned for 30 minutes, and went out."

Heard Tank Engines

"At 10 p.m. our observation posts reported hearing tank engines. Then they said that 122-millimeter artillery fire was coming in."

"At 10:30 about a company (300) enemy troops began crossing the river in a single file."

Tanks, artillery and mortar fire started pouring into the American positions on the east bank of the river, now so shallow after a dry spell that it can be waded in parts.

American reinforcements were called in, and the weird battle raged on.

Truman Upheld On Bonus Issue

WASHINGTON (AP) — An economy-minded senate Thursday upheld President Truman's veto of a bill which would have granted an "indirect bonus" ranging up to $250 a year for 100,000 postal workers.

The roll call vote was 48 to 29, just four short of the required two-thirds majority. The house voted 213 to 72 last June 26 to override the veto.

The action means the bill is dead at least for this session.

In disapproving the measure, the President said it eventually would cost the federal treasury upwards of $163-million a year.

He called it a "far-reaching step in an undesirable direction" and said it would discriminate against thousands of other postal workers.

Veterans groups and postal unions had backed the bill which would apply only to World War II veterans who joined the postal service after their discharge.

Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.) said congress would have to do the same thing for some 800,000 other veterans who joined the government after their discharge, if the veto were not sustained.

Such a program, he said, would cost more than $1-billion.

Warden Denies Inmate Had Jail Honeymoon

CHICAGO (AP) — County Jail Warden Chester Fordney admitted Thursday that five trustees were assigned to pick apples on a former congressman's farm, but he denied that an inmate was allowed to honeymoon with his bride in jail.

Fordney, faced with charges that his jail guards were bribed by inmates, said the apple-picking incident occurred last year. He said he had been told apples were going to waste on the farm of former Rep. James Simpson.

Apple Pies Fordney said five picked trustees were driven to Simpson's farm at Wadsworth, Ill., and returned with the apples, which were baked in pies for the prisoners.

He denied that an inmate was allowed to leave jail to get married, returned with his bride and was given a wing of the jail for his honeymoon.

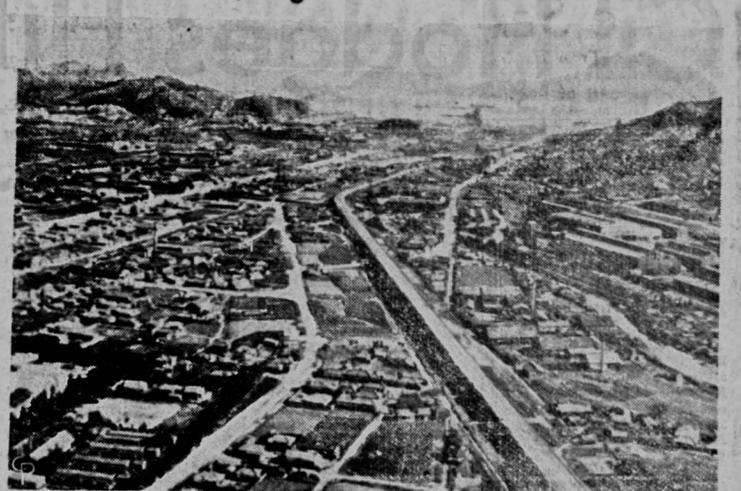

No Hours He also denied that women inmates were allowed out after midnight to go to taverns.

Assistant State's Atty. James Condon charged Wednesday that inmates could get liquor, narcotics and a private room to entertain women by bribing guards.

FCC Completes Case Against Radio Station

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The federal communication commission has completed its case against radio station KMPC on charges of news slanting after 13 weeks of testimony.

During the 13 weeks 34 witnesses were heard and one witness, Station Manager Robert O. Reynolds, was on the stand for 23 days of the 54 days that the government used to present its case.

The hearing was recessed at the end of Wednesday's session until Sept. 5 when Defense Atty. Hugh Fulton will begin presenting the station's case. Fulton said he had no idea how long the defense case would take but he expected to present about 100 witnesses.

Most of the men were giving up jobs, educational plans, and even marriage arrangements. One of the latter was Carroll Spencer, 22, Des Moines, who had planned to marry Dixie Weaver, 18, Clumming, in October.

Brig. Gen. Charles K. Grahl, adjutant general of Iowa and head of this state's selective service, told the inductees they are "only the first" of many who will follow.

'Modern' Marble Cake Cuts Mixing Time

Good eating and surprising designs are the rewards of baking a marble cake.

A recipe for a "modern" marble cake cuts down the amount of time in mixing. One batter serves for the chocolate and white mixtures. Here is the recipe:

- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 cup shortening
- 1 cup sugar
- 2 beaten eggs
- 1/2 cup milk
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1 ounce (square) chocolate
- 2 tablespoons milk

Sift flour, baking powder and salt together. If using the "mix everything at once method," which is especially successful with an electric mixer, add all other ingredients except the 2 tablespoons of milk and chocolate. If the shortening is too hard, it may have to be creamed separately.

Divide batter into halves. Melt chocolate with 2 tablespoons of milk (don't add cold milk to the melted chocolate or the chocolate will lump.)

Drop batter by teaspoons, alternating white and chocolate, into a greased pan. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees).

Frosting may be white, chocolate or a mixture of the two.

62 Iowa Draftees Leave for Training At Camp Funston

DES MOINES (AP) — Sixty-two Iowa draftees, the first of 860 who will be processed and inducted between now and Sept. 23, entered the army Thursday.

The group included 61 men from Polk county and one from Buena Vista county.

The men will leave today for their basic training center at Camp Funston, three miles east of Fort Riley, Kan.

Ages 22-25 At Camp Funston they will swap their civilian clothes for olive drab and begin drawing $75 a month as army recruits. After a four-day period for orientation, testing, and issue of equipment they will be assigned to their 13-week basic training stations.

Ages of the draftees ranged from 22 to 25, and most of the inductees said they were glad that the uncertainty of waiting for the call was at an end.

'Dangerous' Hurricane Heads West from Virgin Islands

MIAMI (UP) — A severe and dangerous hurricane with winds of 140 miles an hour rumbled westward from the Virgin Islands area Thursday night just as gulf coast residents began cleaning up after another big blow which caused an estimated $1-million damage.

The new tropical storm, the fourth full-sized tempest of the year, was located 1,500 miles southeast of Miami in a 4:30 p.m. advisory from the San Juan weather bureau. It was first noticed Wednesday in the hurricane "breeding" grounds where the gulf storm that hit Alabama and northwest Florida Wednesday night was spawned.

Termed Dangerous "This new hurricane is a severe and dangerous one," the weather bureau reported. Its winds had increased in intensity from 110 to 140 miles per hour during the six hours between advisories Thursday.

Hurricane warnings were ordered up from Guadeloupe to St. Martins and storm warnings in the Virgin Islands and from Dominica to Martinique. It was apparently moving westward or "slightly north of west" at about eight to 10 miles per hour.

Crop Damages The gulf hurricane that hit near Pensacola Wednesday at midnight dissipated into squalls and thunderstorms over the Mississippi valley Thursday, leaving behind an estimated $600,000 damages to the rich gulf resort area in northwest Florida.

Alabama reported an estimated $500,000 damages, mostly to crops in the fertile truck crop area and in the cotton belt. Two persons were reported killed and five injured in Alabama accidents indirectly attributable to the hurricane.

Cedar Rapids Teamsters Vote Strike Ultimatum CEDAR RAPIDS (AP) — American Federation of Labor teamsters employed by three bakeries here have voted to strike Sept. 4, unless their demands for a wage increase are met.

The union did not disclose its wage demands but said it was also asking for a definite hourly set up of 60 hours weekly for country drivers and 54 for city.

The companies, Peterson and Cedar Rapids bakeries, have maintained that the drivers are commissioned salesmen and not subject to week hour minimums.

The companies have offered weekly increases of $1.25.

Authorities Search for Diabetic Two-Year-Old SPRINGFIELD, ILL. (AP) — Authorities Thursday offered "complete amnesty" in exchange for the return within 24 hours of a missing two-year-old boy who is a diabetic and needs medical care.

The boy, Ernest Cagle Jr., has been missing since early last Sunday. He vanished from a parked car in Buckhart, Ill., where his parents said they left him while they visited a tavern.

State's Atty. George P. Coutrakon said he believed someone had taken the child and was now afraid to return him.

No Prosecution Coutrakon said there would be no prosecution if the boy was returned alive and unharmed within 24 hours and that the identity of any person involved would be kept in "strict confidence."

The state's attorney acted after a conference with the parents in which he said they made an "urgent request" for the amnesty, offering the child was of "paramount importance" because of the state of his health.

Detailed Investigation Some 2,500 persons have searched the Buckhart area since Sunday without finding the boy. As part of an investigation, the parents underwent two lie detector tests.

Gil Hodges Hits 4 Homers, Ties Record

Yanks Clip Indians, Up Lead

Winners Slam 4 Home Runs

NEW YORK (AP) — Blasting Bob Lemon for four home runs into all sections of the stands, the New York Yankees went on to conquer the Cleveland Indians, 7-5, Thursday and increase their American league lead to two full games.

In making a clean sweep of the four game series with the injury riddled Tribe, the Yankees picked up another game on the second place Detroit Tigers who suffered a 2-1 setback in Washington.

Faced with the unhappy prospect of falling five games off the pace, Manager Lou Boudreau's men did not give up without a battle. Trailing, 7-3, as they came up for their last time at bat, the Indians rallied for two runs against Joe Page and had the potential tying run at the plate with only one out. Tom Ferrick replaced Page at this point and snuffed out the rally with but three pitches.

Halts Uprising

Page halted an earlier Indian uprising, coming to the rescue of Starter Tommy Byrne after the southpaw had been slugged for three runs.

Of the ten hits the Yankees made off Lemon before they sent him to the showers in the eighth, four went for the distance. Each homer landed in a different section of the stands. Johnny Mize powered his 18th four-bagger into the centerfield bleachers, 400 feet away, in the fourth. Cliff Mapes hit his 10th into the stands in right center in the fifth. Yogi Berra belted his 19th into deep right in the sixth and little Phil Rizzuto rapped his fourth into the left field seats in the eighth.

It was the eighth defeat for Cleveland's 20-game winner and half of his losses have been dealt him by the Yankees.

The only Yankee runs not attributed to homers came in the third and eighth innings. After Lemon had retired the first seven men he faced, the ace righthander suddenly gave up a walk and singles to Byrne and Mapes to left behind, 2-0. Hits by Hank Bauer and Berra and Mize's infield out produced the final Yankee marker.

Bases on Balls

Bases on balls started Byrne on the way out, although he received credit for his 14th win. Walks to Bob Kennedy and Lemon set the stage for consecutive run scoring singles by Boudreau and Allie Clark. Clark's hit netted two. Page had to be called in to squelch the uprising.

The Yankees played without Joe DiMaggio, who before the game disclosed he had pulled some ligaments in both knees in Wednesday's game. The slugging outfielder is expected back for the series with Washington starting today.

NEW YORK'S HANK BAUER slid into second base in an unsuccessful steal attempt in the first inning against the Cleveland Indians Thursday. The Yanks took their fourth straight from Cleveland, 7-5, and upped their American league lead to two full games. Ray Boone, Cleveland shortstop, made the putout.

Red Sox Edge Chisox, Stay in Pennant Fight

BOSTON (AP) — Boston's Red Sox kept themselves within reaching distance of the American league leading New York Yankees Thursday by edging Chicago's White Sox, 4-3, in a game held up for 61 minutes by rain.

The winning run was forced home in the last of the ninth with two out when Billy Pierce walked Clyde Vollmer with the bases loaded.

The victory kept the third place Sox within 2 1-2 games of the leading Yankees and moved them to within a half game of the runner-up Detroit Tigers.

Buddy Rosar began the home ninth by singling to left field and Rookie Fred Hatfield ran for him. Ellis Kinder, who recorded his 13th victory of the season, sacrificed perfectly to push Hatfield to second.

Dom DiMaggio was walked purposely and was forced by Johnny Pesky.

A walk to Billy Goodman filled the bases and Pierce then walked Vollmer on four pitches.

All of Chicago's runs came on homers off the starting Walt Masterson.

Eddie Robinson slammed his 16th of the year with Dave Phillips on base in the sixth and Gus Zernial banged his 22nd in the eighth.

Chicago: 000 002 010-3 9 1
Boston: 000 102 001-4 8 1
Pierce (9-11) and Mast; Masterson, Kinder (8) and Rosar. WP, Kinder (13-12); Home runs — Robinson (10th), Zernial (22nd).

Senators Beat Sagging Tigers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The sagging Detroit Tigers slipped another game out of first place Thursday by taking a 2-1 beating from Washington's Senators.

The New York Yankees, who took over the American league lead Wednesday night, meanwhile completed a sweep of their four-game series with the Cleveland Indians.

Gene Bearden allowed the Tigers nine hits and managed to cut them off with a single run in a ninth-inning rally.

The Senators got only five hits off Art Houtteman, but they included consecutive doubles by Eddie Yost and Gil Coan and a single by Irv Noren that brought in both of Washington's runs in the third inning.

Five Foreign Threats Blasted In National Amateur Net Meet

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — Five foreign threats to the National Amateur Tennis championship, headed by Egypt's Jaroslav Drobný and Australia's John Bromwich, were blasted out of the running Thursday to eliminate the feared possibility of an all-foreign final.

Drobný, the exiled Czech rated second among the invaders, was eliminated by young Art Larsen, San Francisco, 6-2, 2-6, 6-2, 7-5, while Bromwich, third — seeded foreigner, fell before the flailing racket of youthful Dick Savitt, Orange, N.J., 3-6, 6-0, 4-6, 6-2, 6-3.

Foreigners Fall

Beaten back, along with those major threats, were Sweden's Torsten Johansson, Felicísimo Ampon of the Philippines, and Australian Davis Cupper George Worthington, ranked fifth, sixth and seventh respectively among the visiting aces.

Johansson crumbled before the all-round play of Gardner Mulloy of Coral Gables, Fla., the third-seeded American, 6-4, 6-2, 6-2. The tiny Ampon bowed to unranked Sidney Schwartz of New York, 4-6, 6-2, 10-8, 7-5, and Worthington was blasted by Tom Brown Jr., of San Francisco, only singles victor in the United States' recent loss of the Davis cup, 6-2, 1-6, 6-1, 7-5.

Herbie Flam, Beverly Hills, Calif., ranked second among the Americans, advanced to the quarter-finals, against ninth — seeded Bill Talbert, New York. Flam conquered 10th ranking Jim Brink, Seattle, 6-4, 6-3, 6-3, while Talbert scored a mild upset in eliminating fifth-seeded Vic Seixas, Philadelphia, 6-1, 2-6, 3-6, 6-2, 6-3.

Australian Champion Frank Sedgman, the top-seeded and last foreigner remaining in the men's singles, took a two-to-one set lead over Earl Cochell, Los Angeles, in a match halted by darkness. Sedgman dropped the first set, 5-7, and won the next two, 7-5, 6-1. Cochell led, 4-2, in the fourth set.

Brought Upset

Upsets were the order of the day as shapely Nancy Chaffee, Ventura, Calif., the latest glamor girl of the courts, scored a resounding reversal to reach the women's quarter — finals with a straight set, 6-2, 7-5, triumph over Wimbledon Queen Louise Brough of Beverly Hills, Calif.

Four Pitchers Yield Homers to Hodges; Brooks Club Braves

BROOKLYN (AP) — First baseman Gil Hodges blasted out four home runs to tie a major league record Thursday night as the Brooklyn Dodgers trounced the Boston Braves, 19-3.

Hodges connected in the second, third, sixth and eighth innings off Warren Spahn, Norm Roy, Bob Hall and Johnny Antonelli. He drove in nine runs on his circuit drives. He was at bat six times.

Only other players to hit four home runs in one major league game are Bobby Lowe of the 1894 Boston Nationals, Ed Delahanty of the 1896 Philadelphia Nationals, Lou Gehrig of the 1932 New York Yankees, Chuck Klein of the 1936 Philadelphia Phils and Pat Seerey of the 1948 Chicago White Sox.

All of Hodges' four drive traveled at least 350 feet into the left field stands at Ebbets field. He also had a single and knocked in a total of nine runs. He was stopped at the plate only once, when he grounded out to the third baseman.

Iowa Backfield Well Balanced

(This is the sixth and last story about Iowa's football candidates.)

That fall feeling in the air wasn't just fooling; it actually is that time of year because 66 Iowa football players will open practice next Wednesday for the 62nd Hawkeye season.

And for the first time in 41 years, a native Iowan and a graduate of the university will be in charge as head coach. Leonard Raffensperger, the 46-year-old coach who served 21 years in Iowa high schools before coming here as freshman coach in 1948, is the new mentor.

He will greet a squad which has 31 major lettermen but some have played only limited time. Actually 30 of the squadmen have no intercollegiate game experience and the entire group numbers 28 sophomores, 26 juniors and 12 seniors.

Could Cause Trouble

Iowa probably deserves the rating as a team which will cause trouble for any of its nine opponents. The squad showed spirit and fair skill in spring practice, a distinct liking for the new coaching staff, and a mastery of the "T" formation which pleased Raffensperger.

A set of backs perhaps with greater balance and proven worth than any at Iowa in many years might generate quite an offense, if the linemen can come through, specially some of the promising younger forwards.

Carolina Schools Admit Sanity Code Violations

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — The University of North Carolina and North Carolina State college are not complying fully with the "sanity code" of the NCAA.

This was revealed Thursday by officials of the Greater University of North Carolina which administers both of the southern conference schools.

Technical Differences

W.D. Carmichael Jr., acting president of the Greater university, said in a statement that he had notified the National Collegiate Athletic association several months ago that "our two institutions were not in complete technical compliance with the regulations of the 'sanity code.'"

The code attempts to regulate the assistance given to athletes by colleges.

The university football team, led by all-America Halfback Charlie (Choo-Choo) Justice, ranked high among college football powers for the last four years. Under Coach Carl Snavely, it appeared twice in the Sugar Bowl and once in the Cotton Bowl during that period.

N.C. State has not achieved the prominence of North Carolina in football, but it is the home of Coach Everett Case's fast stepping basketball team which has ranked high nationally for several years.

The sanity code requires, among other things, that athletes shall receive scholarships on the same basis as other students and that athletes who work shall receive pay in line with the work they do. In Boston, an NCAA spokesman confirmed Carmichael's statement.

Wait for Decision

"Last spring," he said, "the college wrote me they had discovered some technical violations of the code and they were taking some steps to get into compliance. We'll wait until after the school opens and see how they're getting along before we do anything."

The sanity code, and the NCAA's efforts to enforce it.

brought stormy debate at the annual NCAA meeting in New York last winter. Seven schools were charged with violation of the code. A vote to expel the alleged violators was short by 25 votes of the necessary two-thirds.

Athletics, St. Louis Divide Doubleheader

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Philadelphia and St. Louis traded run victories Thursday night with Bob Hooper, freshman right-hander, beating the Browns for the fifth time as he hurled the A's to a 3-2 second game victory. Dick Starr shaded Lou Brissie, 4-3, in the first game with Roy Sievers' home run providing the margin of victory.

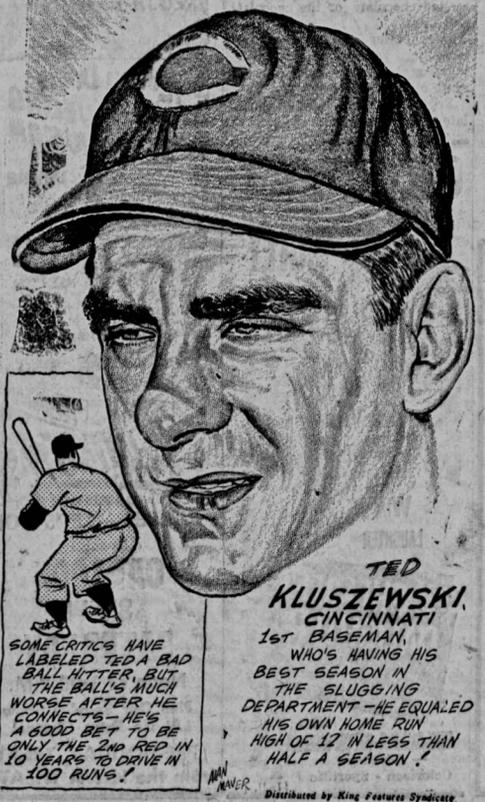

The Athletics had a base runner in every inning except the seventh of the opener but were unable to break through. Sievers hit his 10th homer in the sixth while Ray Coleman tripled and a single by Billy Demars accounted for the other run that brought the Browns from behind.

Don Lenhardt sent the Browns away in front in the nightcap with his 22nd homer of the year. His marker held up until the fourth when Ferris Fain's double, Ben Chapman's single and two walks accounted for the tying run.

COACH ILL
ANN ARBOR, MICH. (AP) — Clarence (Doc) Spears, former Michigan football coach is critically ill in university hospital, his daughter disclosed Thursday. The hospital declined information on his condition.

Giants Clip Bucs, Move Into Fourth Place Tie

Hawkeyes are strong at quarterback, with Glenn Drahn and Fred Ruck who played there last year, at right halfback with Jerry Faske, who was leading ground-gainer with a 6.6 average; and left half where Bill Reichardt, the big second all-conference fullback, has been shifted; and at fullback with powerful Don (Mike) Riley.

Other Lettermen Ready

Raffensperger also will benefit by the presence of Chuck Dunning, Duane Brandt and Bill Greene, good defensive backs; Don Comack, a quick-starting left half; and Gerald Nordman, senior fullback. Joe Bristol, Don Fryauf, Bob Bostwick and Bob Wilson will be valuable, too.

Drahn and Ruck probably will do most of the passing, but the receiving is a big question mark. None of the five letter-winning ends caught a pass in 1949, and it is this lack of offensive ends which is a major problem. Three sophomores are possibilities.

In the line there is a good roster of lettermen, some of whom should be more effective after their 1949 seasoning. Bob Hoff, Jerry Long and Dave DeProspero are ends; Hubert Johnston, Andy Euntz and Harold Bradley will shoulder big tackle work; seniors Lou Ginsberg, Joe Paulsen and "Junebug" Perrin are top guards, along with Austin Turner; and John Tower and Ron Petersen will take care of the ends.

Some Promising Sophs

About a dozen sophomores are regarded as promising in varied degrees and there always is the happy chance that others may surprise by their fast development. The young ends include Don Bjork, Don Swartzendruber and Clyde Gardner; tackles are Dudley Noble, Bob Bain Jack Sievers and Pete Spajners; and Bill Baehr might be the best of the new guards.

Backfield sophs face a rough time competing against the veterans, but some include Burt Britzmann, quarterback; Harold Reister, Lyle Leinbaugh, Bernard Bennett and Jack Heis, halfbacks.
