Russia Hits U.S. For Air Attack

MOSCOW (AP) — Russia charged Wednesday that a Soviet bomber shot down in Korea Bay Monday was the victim of an unprovoked attack by 11 American fighter planes. It said three Russian fliers lost their lives.

A Soviet note to the American government broadcast by Moscow radio said the Russian plane was on a training flight and carried "neither bombing nor torpedo armament." It did not say the plane was unarmed, but said it did not fire on the American planes or even approach American warships.

U.S. ambassador Alan G. Kirk declined at the foreign ministry to receive the note on grounds the incident was a United Nations matter, the radio said, but the Russians later sent a copy to the U.S. embassy.

The note said the two-engined craft was shot down in flames five miles south of Haiyang Island (Hai-Yun-Tao). The island lies about 75 miles north of the 38th parallel, 87 miles west of the nearest Korean coast, and about midway between Korea and the Soviet naval base of Port Arthur in Manchuria.

Ambassador Kirk was called to the foreign ministry by Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky to discuss the incident at 1 p.m. They were together about half an hour.

The Moscow radio then broadcast the text of the note. It said Kirk had refused to receive it on the basis that American forces in the area are under United Nations jurisdiction and the Soviet demands would have to be examined by the UN, not the United States.

Almost simultaneously with the broadcast, however, Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Jakob A. Malik was handing the United Nations the same protest concerning the incident.

The United States informed the security council Tuesday that a two-engined plane bearing a red star had been shot down by a United Nations fighter patrol off the west coast of Korea near the 38th parallel and that the body of a Russian lieutenant had been recovered. The U.S. announcement said the plane flew over a screening ship toward the center of a naval formation in a hostile manner and fired on the fighter patrol.

President 'Sincerely Regrets Choice of Words'

Truman Apologizes for 'Propaganda' Remark to Marines

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Truman told the U.S. marines Wednesday he sincerely regrets the "unfortunate choice of language" he used in calling them a "propaganda machine" "almost equal to Stalin's."

The President acted at the height of a 24-hour capital-to-Korea storm of bitter protest against his remarks about the marines in a letter to Rep. Gordon McDonough (R-Calif.).

Mr. Truman called Gen. Clifton Cates, marine corps commander, to the White House late in the day and personally handed him a letter which began:

"I sincerely regret the unfortunate choice of language which I used in my letter of Aug. 29 to Congressman McDonough."

Describing himself as "concerned" over the furor his remarks had aroused, the President also asked that his "I'm sorry letter" be read at the annual convention of the marine corps league, which opened here Wednesday amid rank-and-file denunciation of the President's remarks.

President Clay Nixon did read the letter to the indignant membership and the tempest subsided in cheers and scattered boos.

The uproar began with publication of Mr. Truman's letter to McDonough in the Congressional Record. The congressman had written the President urging equal representation for the marines on the joint chiefs of staff, along with the army, navy and airforce. Mr. Truman said no, then added:

"The marine corps is the navy's police force and as long as I am President that is what it will remain. They have a propaganda machine that is almost equal to Stalin's."

Escaped Parolee Held in Omaha; Find Stolen Car

A Nebraska reformatory parolee, who is believed to have stolen a car in Iowa City over the weekend, has been captured by Omaha, Nebr., authorities, Iowa City police learned Wednesday.

Omaha police identified the man as Marden Mayes, alias Robert Evans, who escaped from the Nebraska state prison in 1948. He was arrested in a 1939 Ford which had been stolen sometime Saturday from Paul Holland, 309 S. Duquesne street.

Local authorities have been notified that Mayes will be prosecuted in Nebraska on the escape charge and would not be released for hearing in Iowa. The man had been sent to prison for grand larceny.

Mayes, known in this area as Robert Evans, 26, Sunday night disappeared from the James Schneberger farm where he was on parole from the Anamosa men's reformatory. Holland reported the theft of his car Sunday morning.

A Coralville woman, Leila Melsha, told police a man answering Mayes' description Saturday gave her a ride to University hospitals. She reported that the man took $12 from her purse which had been left in the car.

178 Years Late — Book Fine Hits $3,255

NEW YORK (AP) — A book was returned to the Columbia university library Wednesday, 178 years and $3,255 overdue.

The book was checked out of the library of King's college, Columbia's predecessor, in 1772 by Librarian Robert Harpur.

It was returned by Harpur's great-great-grandson, Enos Johnston, Brooklyn, who recently found it in the attic of his aunt's home at Binghamton, N.Y.

Johnston said his great-great-grandfather had tutored Alexander Hamilton, the nation's first secretary of the treasury, in mathematics at King's college. The university said records showed Harpur was in favor of the American revolution from the beginning.

University officials said they did not imagine Harpur had any malicious intent in keeping the book so long. Back in the tense days before the revolution, they said, members of the faculty "saved" a good part of the library by taking books home.

Taegu Defenders Dig In As UN Planes Strafe Enemy; Reds Ready New Attack

Russia Vetos Action Against North Koreans

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y. (AP) — Russia used its 44th veto Wednesday night to kill an American resolution calling on United Nations members to refrain from helping the North Koreans or taking action that might spread the war.

The vote was nine in favor, only Russia against, and Yugoslavia abstaining.

It was this proposal for localizing the Korean war that was suspended in air throughout the month of August because Soviet Delegate Jakob A. Malik, chairman of the council that month, held the council in a procedural snarl.

In addition to recommending that the Korean war be kept in strict bounds, it also would have:

1. Condemned the Red Korean invaders for defying the council's June 25th resolution calling on them to cease-fire and pull back to the 38th parallel.
2. Requested all UN members to "use their influence to prevail on the authorities of North Korea to cease this defiance."

Despite the fact that Russia's veto kept the American resolution out of the UN record books, the 9 to 1 vote was regarded by observers as a propaganda victory for the west. In their view, it did Russia no good in the fight for world public opinion to stand alone in voting against the UN's Korean war effort.

Hint Symington to Head Home Front Controls

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Truman has picked W. Stuart Symington as boss of the home economic front, with supervisory powers over controls to be instituted soon, senators said Wednesday.

Sens. J. William Fulbright (D-Ark) and A. Willis Robertson (D-Va) told a reporter it is their understanding that Symington, who heads the national security resources board, will have over all direction of a series of credit controls, priorities and allocations operations to be started soon.

WEDNESDAY'S DEVELOPMENTS IN THE HOT Korean War showed counterblows (A) by Allied troops which rolled Reds back at least 10 miles from Kyongju, halting Tuesday's breakthrough attempt. Yongchong (B) was recaptured by Allied forces; Allied lines north of Taegu (C) were consolidated under North Korean pressure and an unsuccessful assault was made on Red hill positions at Hyonpung.

Yank Casualties Reach 8,863

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defense officials Wednesday reported 1,977 more American casualties of the Korean war.

These were for the week of Aug. 25-Sept. 1. They brought the total announced since the war's beginning to at least 8,863 — 599 killed in action, 5,366 wounded, 2,898 missing.

Five Polio Cases Enter Hospitals

Five more persons suffering with polio were admitted to University hospitals Wednesday, and seven were discharged.

Among the new patients was a 16-week-old girl from Waterloo, Michelle Hoffer, daughter of Paul Hoffer.

Total number of active cases reported in the hospital Wednesday night was 43.

The four others admitted to the hospital: Donna Goltz, 11 months, daughter of Charles Goltz, Decorah; Irene Kramer, 2, daughter of Leonard Kramer, Montrose; Ralph Knudson, 4, son of George Knudson, Decorah, and Gwen Otteson, 6, daughter of Emmet Otteson, Charles City.

Hand-to-Hand Fighting Nets Heavy Losses

TOKYO (THURSDAY) (AP) — Defenders of imperiled Taegu dug foxholes in the city today while swarms of United Nations planes attacked Korean Communist mountain positions within sight of that keystone supply base.

The planes, which shot up nearly 40 tanks Wednesday, went after Reds who had pushed the U.S. First Cavalry division back two miles on the north to within seven miles of Taegu.

Disregarding soaring losses in men and armor, the Reds exploded new power drives today toward Taegu and at the southern end of the battle perimeter.

But the Reds were taking a bloody beating in the Changnyong sector, 23 miles southwest of Taegu. There U.S. marines and Second Division infantrymen, who have killed or wounded an estimated 7,300 Reds in a week, pushed a large force of Communists back to the banks of the rain-swollen Naktong river.

Associated Press Correspondent Don Huth reported the leather-necks and doughboys seized two dominating heights in fighting so close that rifles were used as clubs. American casualties also were reported heavy.

The Americans were eating up a communist bridgehead which a week ago extended east of the Naktong for eight and one half miles.

Moving in fresh reinforcements Wednesday night, the Communists attacked in force this morning against the U.S. 25th division near the south coast. The attack, which achieved a slight penetration in its early stages, was made at the confluence of the Nam and Naktong rivers, more than 35 miles west of the lifeline port of Pusan.

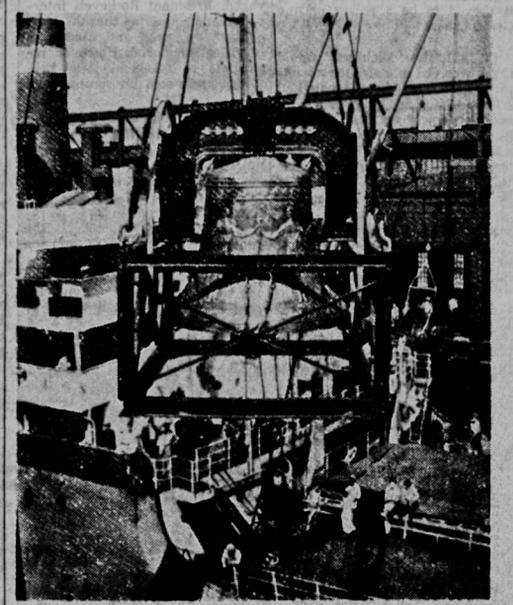

War at a Glance

Korean warfronts: Fresh waves of North Korean troops smashed into southern anchor of Allied line in a general attack; First Cavalry troops fell back toward Taegu, with enemy seven miles from that major Allied base. Allied forces drive Reds out of Yongchong.

Washington: Defense department says 8,863 American casualties — 599 of them killed — in the Korean war have been reported to next of kin through Sept. 1.

HERSHBERGER ENLISTS: Everett Jay Hershberger, 18, Iowa City, has enlisted in the marine corps, Des Moines recruiting officers said Wednesday.

Freedom Bell to Tour America

FORGED IN ENGLAND this Freedom Bell arrived in New York Wednesday for an exhibition tour of the United States. The bell, 12 feet high and 10 feet in diameter, will be exhibited in 21 American cities before being permanently hung at the Freedom Shrine in Berlin. It was built as a symbol of America's fight to spread democracy in Europe.

Three Youths Face Hearing Today

The three teen-age boys who twice ransacked a SUI fraternity house today are scheduled to go before juvenile authorities for a 10 a.m. hearing.

The three ransacked the Alpha Tau Omega house, 828 N. Duquesne street, about the first of August and again during the last days of the month.

Apprehended after the first ransacking, the three were given a chance to clean up the house and pay for the damages to the house and furniture.

When the cleaning job was nearly completed, they again ransacked the house. They were then arrested and held in the county jail pending hearing.

Democrats Meeting to Plan Campaign Moves

DETROIT LAKES, MINN. (AP) — Democrats from 15 midwestern states will get together here today to map strategy which they hope will help them retain control of congress in the November elections.

Party leaders are making every effort to counteract increasing Republican criticism of the administration's handling of domestic affairs and the Korean war.

SPEAKING OUT WEDNESDAY for the marines was the national commander of the marine corps league, Clay Nixon (center) of Seattle. Meeting at Washington he discussed President Truman's charge about the corps "propaganda machine" with Harvey Helman, Endicott, N.Y., and Mrs. Helen Rogers of Meriden, Conn. Helman heads the league's New York department while Mrs. Rogers is president of the league's auxiliary.

Calls Parents God's Agents —

CEDAR RAPIDS (P) — Parents as "agents of Almighty God" are responsible to conduct themselves in such a way that there can be no doubt as to whether they are good parents.

This statement was made by Judge William Mathias Wednesday as he lectured Mr. and Mrs. Merle Coon. The Judge dismissed charges of wanton neglect of a child filed against the couple after the drowning of their son Richard, 3, in a ditch last month, but added: "Responsibilities are not being carried out by parents who hang around taverns."

Witnesses who appeared before Judge Mathias had testified that the Coons frequented taverns and that Mrs. Coon had been in a tavern the day the boy drowned. They said the father was in the house at the time.

Americans Favor Military Training —

INDIANAPOLIS (P) — First returns from an American legion auxiliary survey indicated Wednesday night that American public opinion was running 13 to one in favor of universal military training.

Scattered returns from 150 communities across the nation showed that out of more than 50,000 persons polled, 43,162 were for UMT, 3,501 against and 4,320 undecided.

Mrs. Norman L. Sheehy, Rockford, Ill., national auxiliary president, ordered the organization's 13,625 units last Aug. 25 to start the nationwide survey. Polling got underway Sept. 1.

The units were told to send "progress reports" and final poll results to the national headquarters at Indianapolis from where they will be forwarded to congress.

Wild Animal Reported in Minnesota —

ORTONVILLE, MINN. (P) — Reports of a "wild animal" roaming through two western counties brought warnings Wednesday from Sheriff P. A. Daly, Ortonville.

The Big Stone county sheriff said "a large, marauding wild animal" was reported seen in southeastern Stevens county between Chokio and Hancock and in Northeastern Big Stone county.

Livestock in the area were mauled and killed, it was reported. Sheriff Daly feared the animal may attack children attending rural schools in the area.

Stevens County Sheriff H. H. Myers, Morris, was told by a Chokio farm wife that she saw an animal that looked like a wildcat in the shrubbery near her home.

Tennessean Sentenced for Assault —

LURTONWOOD, ENGLAND (P) — A U.S. court martial sentenced a young Tennessee medical corporal to 30 years at hard labor for assaulting a 16-year-old English chorus girl aboard a train June 15.

Cpl. Robert R. Jones, 22, Wartburg, Tenn., was found guilty of attacking Miss Mavis Holland, a dancer in a sideshow called "Beauty and the Beast."

Jones said he met Miss Holland at the entrance to the railroad station at Liverpool the night of June 15. She followed him into an empty first-class compartment.

Miss Holland accepted a cigarette and chewing gum from him, and did not object when he started "necking." She took off her skirt and did a dance for him. What happened after that he said occurred with her consent.

Miss Holland admitted accepting the gum and cigarette, but denied removing her skirt.

First Iron Warship

U.S.S. Michigan — Not Monitor or Merrimac — Was Old Ironsides

SANDUSKY, OHIO—What was the first iron American warship? The "Monitor"? Wrong! The "Merrimac"? Wrong again!

It was a 498-ton iron side-wheeler, the "U.S.S. Michigan," which served gallantly on the Great Lakes for more than 80 years, preventing hostile acts, engaging in rescue work, making surveys, and training sailors.

Congress authorized the building of armed ships to sail the lakes when the American people became concerned over the large numbers of troops sent to Canada by the British.

Construction of the parts for the iron ship, "Michigan," began in 1842 at Pittsburgh, Pa. Sections of the ship were transported to Erie, Pa., by ox team and river boat.

The many people gathered to see the launching were disappointed when the ship would not budge. That night, after the crowd had dispersed, the "Michigan" launched itself, slipping off the ways into the water.

Because of its iron construction many believed that the boat would sink, but instead of sinking it proved to be a power on the Great Lakes.

In 1851, the "Michigan" found itself involved in a strange adventure. A James Jesse Strang had set himself up as "king" of a Mormon settlement on Beaver Island, in Lake Michigan.

The "Michigan" visited the island and took Strang with some of his companions to Detroit. He was tried for treason but acquitted. Later he was killed by some of his followers.

The "Michigan" passed out of existence when the foes of Strang drove the settlers from the island. Some hold that the "Michigan" saved the Great Lakes for the Union in the Civil war. It foiled a great Confederate plot to free thousands of prisoners on Johnson's island in Sandusky bay.

It was planned that the prisoners would then burn Cleveland and Sandusky, Ohio, and eventually release the Confederate soldiers confined at Columbus, Ohio. The Confederate plan could not be executed unless the warship was destroyed.

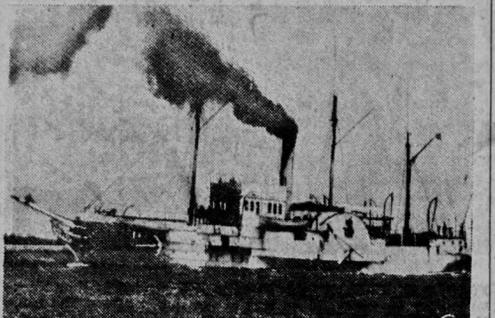

The commander of the "Michigan" heard of the plot and had one of the leaders seized. The others were frightened away by the armed vessel. Two boats used by the southern sympathizers in the attempt, the "Island Queen" and the "Philo Parsons" were both eventually destroyed.

The "Michigan" was used as a naval training ship intermittently throughout its long career. After its last cruise in 1927, the boat began to rust away in the harbor and acts of vandalism further deteriorated it.

World War II brought proposals for the ship's destruction in order that the iron hull might be salvaged. President Roosevelt intervened and requested that the "Michigan" be saved and used as a historical memorial. However, regardless of this and later protests, it was sold for scrapping in 1949.

It is hoped that the sale of souvenirs from the structure of the boat will bring enough money for a monument at Misery bay in Pennsylvania, in memory of the ship.

While there remain tangible reminders of the "Michigan," the souvenirs, the monument, and the charts of the Great Lakes made aboard the vessel, its service to the country as the first iron warship in the navy, will never be forgotten.

THE U.S.S. MICHIGAN, 498-ton iron side-wheeler, patrolled the Great Lakes.

Tides in Florida —

Damage May Hit $100,000

ST. PETERSBURG, FLA. (P) — More than a score of resort cottages, their foundations washed away, appeared on the verge of total collapse.

A woman wept beside her home which appeared doomed to wreckage by the pounding gulf waves.

Two beds, their colorful spreads flapping in the wind, hung crazily suspended from a second-floor apartment whose sides the flood had partially torn away.

A two-story house, shuddering before wind and wave, split almost in two.

Grim aftermath

This was the picture at Sunset beach Tuesday, the grim aftermath of a harrowing night when Gulf of Mexico tides four to five feet above normal lashed it mercilessly.

St. Petersburg's 25-mile of gulf beach islands took a pounding during the night. Some, like Sunset beach, suffered damage which may run into the hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Others, like Pass-A-Grille, St. Petersburg beach and Treasure Island seemed little the worse for the experience.

Water was everywhere, standing up to two feet deep over the main beach highway at some points, flooding low-lying areas, splashing into many buildings.

Foot of Sand

At Madeira beach, which is a narrow, low area, gulf waters raced into stores and houses to a depth of eight to 10 inches. More than a foot of sand was carried from the beach over Gulf Boulevard.

The beach disaster committee, on continuous duty for two days and nights, worked in a room of the Madeira beach town hall where water was 10 inches deep.

Gulf boulevard, which runs the length of the keys from Pass-A-Grille to Indian Rocks, was so badly pock-marked with holes, washouts and undermings that county highway engineers said it would "cost" thousands of dollars to repair it.

One section 200 feet long completely disintegrated.

Trees Uprooted

Debris was everywhere. Pine trees and palms were uprooted or blown down. A big concrete seawall at Lido beach was smashed, its big slabs torn loose from inch-thick steel tie rods.

The tides dumped eight inches of beach sands on part of Gulf avenue at Pass-A-Grille and shell collectors were having a field day picking up prize specimens in their front yards.

Several cars inching along on flooded roads suddenly dropped into washouts up to two feet deep.

Beach town officials were too busy even to estimate the damage. One said, however, it may very well run close to $100,000.

Naval Museum in Washington —

Unique Shrine Monument to Naval Greatness

By DAVID A. HELLER
Central Press Correspondent

WASHINGTON — A block from the White House, and only a stone's throw behind Blair House, temporary home of President Truman and the First Family, stands a unique new naval shrine, a monument to America's sea greatness.

Located in the carriage house of historic Decatur House on Lafayette Square, the promenade of presidents, the Truxtun-DeCATUR Naval museum is something different.

Free to the public and entirely financed by private contributions, the museum was 24 years finding a suitable home. Fleet Admiral William D. Leahy, president of the Naval Historical Foundation, is its sponsor. Its mission to collect and preserve records, paintings and relics of American sea power and nautical history.

The museum houses unique items, such as a gigantic silver trophy, worth thousands of dollars, presented to Commodore Truxtun by Lloyd's of London in gratitude for his feat in capturing the French frigate "L'Insurgente" during our undeclared war with France in 1799.

The French ship had been raiding American and British commerce, driving insurance rates (and claims) sky high. When she was put out of business, Lloyd's was grateful beyond words.

During the Revolutionary war he won many brilliant naval victories for America and at a public dinner in Philadelphia, Gen. George Washington declared of him, "Truxtun is worth a whole regiment."

Truxtun fought his way through and such famous ships as the "Constitution" (Old Ironsides) and the "Constellation," two of the three original frigates of the American Navy — also ship models, swords, mugs, spy-glasses, pistols, snuff boxes, early naval uniforms, and battle scenes of great American victories, give visitors an insight into our early nautical history which no book could do.

One colorful item is a two-foot-high stove pipe hat, embellished in the front by fouled anchors. It was worn on state occasions by a Navy enlisted man prior to 1810. No uniform was prescribed for enlisted men in those days and the sky was the limit for gaudy apparel if the wearer wished!

Named for Commodore Thomas Truxtun and Stephen Decatur, the unique museum recalls two of the brightest chapters in America's early fights for freedom.

Truxtun went to sea at the ripe old age of 12 in 1787 and at 15 was impressed into the British Navy. He so impressed the captain of "HMS Prudent" that the officer urged him to make a career of the Royal Navy. Fortunately for America, Truxtun declined.

During the Revolutionary war he won many brilliant naval victories for America and at a public dinner in Philadelphia, Gen. George Washington declared of him, "Truxtun is worth a whole regiment."

Truxtun fought his way through the British blockade in 1781, sailed for the French coast, and raided British commerce a mere 20 miles from the doorstep of the Mistress of the Seas!

Stephen Decatur was a real-life counterpart of the dashing cut-throat — wielding hero of the movies. He won immortal fame in the war with the Barbary pirates.

A full captain after a mere five years in the Navy, Decatur swung the fighting in favor of the United States when he Britain's immortal Lord Nelson termed, "the most daring act of the age."

The frigate "Philadelphia," once the pride of the American navy, had been captured after becoming stranded on an uncharted reef off the Tripolitan coast. Repaired and refloated, she gave naval superiority to the enemy. The "Philadelphia" had to be destroyed.

Under cover of darkness, Decatur approached the "Philadelphia" with a small boatload of picked men, and in a fierce hand-to-hand battle with the surprised pirate crew, killed or swept them overboard, set fire to the ship, and escaped from under the deadly fire of Tripoli's shore batteries.

Decatur later was a hero in the War of 1812, and in 1815 became the toast of the civilized world when his squadron forced the Dey of Tunis to sign a peace treaty ending the necessity of paying tribute to the pirates for all times.

Arctic Voyage Should Make U.S. Best Informed

By CENTRAL PRESS
BRUNSWICK, ME. — When Comdr. Donald B. MacMillan, one of America's most colorful explorers of all time, returns here soon from his 29th expedition into the Arctic it is expected that the United States will have valuable new data for defense plans against any enemy thrust across the top of the world.

After making the flat prediction that "the Arctic will be the battleground for the next war," MacMillan again sailed away in the middle of last June in his specially constructed vessel, the "Bowdoin," with a handpicked crew of specialists and husky college students.

In subsequent weeks he penetrated far north of the strategic air base which the United States air forces have been installing at Narsarsuaq, Greenland, as part of the Atlantic pact defense system of which Denmark is a member.

On the opposite side of the North Pole, Russian explorers also have been pushing northward this summer to complete investigation of the new range of mountains they have located in hitherto unexplored Oymyakon, long believed to be the coldest spot on earth.

MacMillan cites the Russian efforts as further indication that the Soviets bank heavily on the far north as the key to the outcome of any World War III.

Their discovery of the new mountain range, which is estimated to contain at least five billion tons of coal as well as other valuable resources, has been acknowledged by the Arctic Institute of North America as a major geographical discovery of this generation.

MacMillan, however, does not expect war between Russia and the U.S. for at least three years. "We aren't prepared for war in the north — where it must be fought — and neither is the U. S. S. R.," he declared.

Although he decries the "colossal ignorance" of the United States concerning the regions north of it and Canada, Commander MacMillan can hardly be criticized for not doing his bit to try to remove it. Since he accompanied Peary on his North Pole expedition in 1908, he has been making almost annual trips to the region. Now he is 76.

His current expedition will yield valuable charts of the interiors and coasts of Labrador and Hudson Bay Territory, Baffinland, Greenland and Ellesmere Land. They are expected to fill in the United States Navy's knowledge until it is the best posted in the world on the territory.

Formerly Denmark had the clearest picture of the region, and when its charts fell to Hitler

Scientist Tells Progress on Radiation Cures

NEW HAVEN (P) — A scientist has reported that some progress is being made to prevent or cure radiation sickness which results from atomic bomb explosion.

Austin M. Brues, of the Argonne national laboratory, University of Chicago, told the seventh international conference on biology at Yale university that studies with animals have shown that blood transfusions and drugs may be administered to cut down the mortality rate.

Experiments

Furthermore, he reported, animals when given a chemical substance known as cysteine become more resistant to radiation.

All the work now is experimental, but Brues said that it is significant that even preliminary progress has been made. The studies also have shown that dividing cells are the most susceptible to radiation.

He listed three types of injury involved in radiation sickness. One he said is the direct damage done to the body tissue, including to molecules in general. The radiation also destroys cells, including those of the blood-forming organs and the intestinal tract.

With such cells as the white corpuscles destroyed, the body is left vulnerable to infection and bacterial invasion — which is the third type of injury. However, it has been shown that injection of some drugs can control the infection until the blood manufacturing process in the body can get back into action. Unless there is extremely heavy exposure, Brues said, the blood-making organs do not degenerate.

Pro-ective Clothing

At a press conference in connection with his report, Brues said he saw no possibility of the development of clothing that would protect the body from the penetrating rays of an atomic explosion. He said the clothing necessarily would have to be too heavy if the radiations were to be absorbed or thrown off.

"As of now, about the only thing you can do," he said, "is to jump into a ditch or get behind a wall."

COMMANDER DONALD B. MACMILLAN
Colorful American Explorer

after his invasion of that country, the Nazi planned to invade the United States through Norway, Iceland, Greenland and Canada, MacMillan reported.

During World War II, MacMillan joined the United States aerial flights over Labrador, Greenland and Baffinland which resulted in more than eight hundred strategic photographs which now are proving vital to the establishment of bases in the radar protective screen being built by the United States and Canada.

However, MacMillan's favorite mode of exploration is the one he is using this summer, because he can study surface conditions first hand. He predicts that rockets and A-bombs and H-bombs will not be the only instruments of Arctic warfare by any means.

Ground troops will occupy large parts of the area in any future war, so that air and radar bases may be maintained within easy striking distance. Russia, with a complete Arctic frontier, might attack from any point, he hazards, but his theory is that the Red's most logical route would be across the Bering straits to Alaska and Canada.

Part of MacMillan's long-range strategy has been to change his crews each summer so that more Americans would be intimately familiar with the far north.

He asked friends not to vote for him in the Sept. 19 primary, when his name will be on the ballot. "With what I have gone through, I am no longer interested in holding public office," he said.

Robarge was beaten in his office July 27, 1949, and again last February. Six weeks ago he was found lying on the highway with three bullet wounds. He told authorities he had been slugged and shot by a pair of gunmen who layd him near a country club, took him to his office and tried to force him to open the safe.

No money was taken then, but $2,400 in county funds was stolen in 1949 and Robarge said $70 was taken from his wallet in February.

The treasurer said he believes the same gunmen attacked him three times. They've never been found.

Planes Hit Hard at Korean Reds

B-29 SUPERFORTRESSES of the Strategic command scored direct hits on a vital North Korean target, the important highway base at Pangnini.

AMERICAN JET PLANES have hit the North Korean Reds with everything but the ammunition containers as evidenced by this huge pile of empty 50-caliber cans representing two days' shooting by a pair of jet fighters in Korea. M. Sgt. Norman E. Dupont shown beside stack of shells, says that in 8 years of loading airforce guns, he's never seen anything equal to the fire power the U.S. jets have dropped on the Reds.

Wanted to Start Zoo

House Father Fired for Escapade To Get Chimpanzee

GENEVA, ILL., (UP) — Lloyd Rosenbrock, 24, wanted to start a zoo. He landed in jail Wednesday because: He rented a plane, flew to St. Louis and left it there. Bought a chimpanzee for $500 on credit. Returned with the ape in a taxicab, but could not pay the $85 fare.

As a result of his escapade, Rosenbrock was notified that he has been fired as a house father at the state training school for boys at St. Charles, Ill., where he was supposed to set an example for wayward youths. Rosenbrock said he was fond of wild animals and wanted to start a zoo at the school. Last month he bought a lion cub, but it escaped from its pen at the school. It was found several days later and Rosenbrock sold it.

Tuesday, authorities said he rented a plane at the Du Page county airport, flew to St. Louis and persuaded officials of the Forest park zoo to part with a chimpanzee named Scotty.

Authorities said Rosenbrock promised to pay $500 for the animal, and to throw a lion into the bargain, claiming that the lion is being kept for him in Texas.

Rosenbrock told airport officials at St. Louis that he would have to leave the plane there because he had "been instructed" not to fly at night.

So he took a cab back to St. Charles Tuesday night, arriving there at 2 a.m. with the chimpanzee.

He was arrested and charged with obtaining credit under false pretenses. Scotty the Chimpanzee, which has an aversion to uniformed policemen and deputies, was turned over to Sheriff Byron Scott.

Second place in the contour contest went to Gordon Day, Muscatine, who scored 82.8 points. He also was competing in a state contest for the first time.

The contour contest climaxed a two-day plowing contest and conservation field event sponsored by radio station WHO, Des Moines. Trophies and prizes totaling $750 were presented by the station to winners of the two days' events.

Chemist Asks For Deferment Of Scientists

CHICAGO (AP) — The president of the American chemical society said Wednesday night that the wholesale induction of skilled scientists into the armed forces for combat or police duty would be a "critical waste of abilities."

Dr. Ernest H. Volwiler, in his presidential address to the 188th national meeting of the society, urged congress to enact specific selective service legislation relating to the drafting of scientists.

Volwiler proposed that: 1. Key scientists in industry, government and universities be allowed to remain at their posts. 2. Scientists in the armed forces be used "to the highest degree" in work related to their fields of knowledge.

3. Outstanding science students be deferred by means of a quota system until they complete their training.

Volwiler spoke as the society conferred the Priestly medal, highest award in American chemistry, on Prof. Charles A. Kraus of Brown university, a key figure in the development of the atomic bomb.

In an address of acceptance, Kraus warned that many colleges are neglecting their duty to the public by ignoring or subordinating scientific research.

Bootlegger's Heirs Get Confiscated Whisky

DES MOINES (AP) — The heirs of a man who died after his arrest on a bootlegging charge are entitled to 24 bottles of whisky now in the possession of police, authorities said Wednesday.

Police confiscated the whisky when they arrested John M. Price, 50, last May 1 on a complaint he had sold liquor to minors. Price died five weeks after his arrest.

Authorities began a search for Price's legal heirs after Municipal Judge Harry Grund ruled the whisky should be returned to them. The whisky bore Iowa liquor seals.

Worley said "an increase in our fare structure would have been necessary" even without the problem of raising wages of employees. No new negotiations between the striking union and the company are scheduled at present.

Joe College Joins Highland Fling

PLAIDS FOR THE LADS seem to be the coming thing this year. Fashion authorities predict the fellows will blossom out in plaid ties, vests, tracers, shirts, socks — and maybe even dinner jackets. Two Chicago students, Jo-Ann Ring of the University of Illinois and Bob Kucera of Knox college, found they had something in common with their plaid vests.

Cedar Rapids Buses Can Increase Fares

CEDAR RAPIDS (AP) — The Cedar Rapids city lines, idled by a bus strike which began at midnight Tuesday night, announced Wednesday afternoon that the city council has been asked to authorize an increase in fares.

The bus line has the franchise to furnish public transportation within the city of Cedar Rapids, which has a population of 72,000.

Sixty drivers and 10 shopmen of the AFL bus drivers union went on strike after the company declined to meet union demands for a 10 cents an hour wage boost. Drivers presently get $1.23 an hour and shopmen $1.40.

The union said it rejected a final company offer of an immediate 3 cents an hour wage increase plus an additional 4 cents an hour later contingent on city council action granting an increase in fares.

L. A. Worley, company superintendent, said the bus line is asking the city to grant it a fare increase to 10 cents a ride. The present rate is two tokens for 15 cents. The rate for children under 12 years old would remain unchanged.

Worley said "an increase in our fare structure would have been necessary" even without the problem of raising wages of employees. No new negotiations between the striking union and the company are scheduled at present.

Free Iowa Convict To Give Skin Graft To Dying Daughter

DETROIT (AP) — Sped by his dying daughter's side by an emergency parole, an Iowa convict gave the five-year-old girl skin grafts Wednesday in a desperate attempt to save her life.

Ed Wdowicki, 35-year-old convict, was freed from a five-year term at the Ft. Madison state penitentiary on the plea of Michigan Gov. G. Mennen Williams and rushed here by plane.

He underwent complicated skin - trading surgery at Children's hospital where the girl, Carol, lay in critical condition from burns.

"I guess it's all I could do," Wdowicki said, entering the operating room for the three - hour surgery. "And I'm glad I didn't have to come in handcuffs."

Carol's legs and lower body were burned June 9 when her dress caught fire. Doctors said the only chance to save her was to replace the damaged skin.

Already her mother and nine-year-old brother, who live in suburban Hamtramch, Mich., had given up as much skin as doctors would allow.

The family asked Iowa to parole Wdowicki but he had served only 26 months and their plea was turned down.

Told her daughter could not live unless more grafts were made, Mrs. Wdowicki called on Williams for aid.

Five hours after Williams' intervention, the Iowa parole board decided to release Wdowicki outright if Michigan would accept responsibility.

Corn Crop Improves; Frost Damage Likely

DES MOINES (AP) — The weekly weather and crop bulletin said Wednesday favorable conditions had given the state's corn crop a push last week but it still was likely one-third of the crop would suffer frost damage.

At least half the corn should be well denting and hard by this time in "ordinary" good seasons, but only three percent of this year's crop was well dented by the end of last week, the bulletin said.

About 23 percent of the current crops was denting by the end of last week, compared with 89 percent at the same time last year.

Observers said yield-per-acre prospects were "quite similar" to last year's 49-bushel average. Shallow kernels, small ears and a slightly smaller average number of ears per hill were characteristic of this year's crop.

'He Bullied Me,' 16-Year-Old Says Of Boy He Slew

CHICAGO (AP) — It was the second day of school in Chicago, but the tragedy might have happened anywhere that children were trooping back to classes.

Police found August De Lise, 16, an eighth grade pupil, sprawled on the sidewalk.

He had a knife wound in his ribs and was dead on arrival at a hospital.

Shortly afterward officers arrested Hubert Stevens, 16, who confessed killing the boy because "he picked on me."

"He bullied me all last year and when school started yesterday I met him on a streetcar and he started a fight," Stevens said.

"I was just sick and tired of being pushed around," the boy sobbed. The victim's mother, however, said her son was a "quiet boy" who seldom had fights and was fond of model airplanes.

Police Capt. Robert Ryan shook his head.

"Stevens is just any American kid on his way to school this morning on the second day of the new term," the policeman said.

Red Sox Drub Yanks; Tigers Edge Cleveland

Detroit Has to Rally Twice for Triumph

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Tigers climbed to within half a game of the American league lead as they came from behind twice to beat the Cleveland Indians, 5-3, Wednesday night.

The Tigers tucked the game away with a big four-run seventh inning as they won the opener of the important two-game series before 52,555 fans. Coupled with the Yankees' loss to the Red Sox, it left the second place Detroiters just half a game off the pace.

Hal Newhouser kept eight Cleveland hits pretty well scattered as he won his 13th game and his fourth decision over the Indians.

His teammates had plenty of trouble getting to Early Wynn, who kept pitching himself out of tight spots until the seventh.

The Indians grabbed a 1-0 first-inning lead. Detroit tied the game in the fourth. Cleveland put on its biggest offensive in the sixth when the Indians moved into a 2-1 lead. Doby walked with one out and took second on Boudreau's single to left. Doby came home on Al Rosen's single, but Newhouser bore down to get the next two batters.

The Tigers started up again in the seventh against Wynn.

Don Kolloway walked to open the inning and took second as Wynn threw wide for an error on Johnny Lipon's sacrifice bunt, with both men safe. George Kell tried a sacrifice bunt but forced Kolloway at third and Vic Wertz struck out.

Hoot Evers then singled Lipon home with the tying run and Johnny Groth doubled to right scoring Kell as Detroit took a 3-2 lead. Jerry Priddy was walked intentionally, loading the bases for Pinchhitter Charley Keller, who singled Evers and Groth home to make it 5-2.

McCormick's Single Gives Chisox Win

CHICAGO (AP) — Mike McCormick's single with two out in the ninth scored Dave Philley with the winning run Wednesday night as the Chicago White Sox defeated the St. Louis Browns, 6-5, before 3,244 persons. Ned Garver, who replaced Starter Cliff Fanning at the start of the ninth, suffered his sixteenth loss. Louis Aloma, working in relief for Starter Ray Scarborough, posted his seventh decision.

Chicago compounded the winning rally when Philley walked and stole second after two outs. Eddie Robinson was purposely passed and McCormick lined a single to right to give Chicago its ninth victory in 15 games against St. Louis this season.

Gus Zernial drove his No. 23 home run into the left field second deck with one out in the sixth, and tripled for two of the three runs in the Chicago eighth.

Four Yankee Players Threatened by Letter

BOSTON (AP) — An anonymous letter writer Wednesday night threatened the lives of four members of the New York Yankees — Phil Rizzuto, Hank Bauer, Yogi Berra and John Mize.

A pencil scribbled note, post-marked at Hartford, Conn., was received by Shortstop Rizzuto Wednesday evening. It read, in part:

"If the Yankees are still in the pennant race on the last two days of the season, and you dare to show up at Fenway Park to play the Red Sox, I have contrived to shoot you (Rizzuto), Bauer, Berra and Mize from the stands."

The letter was turned over to Boston police.

Bucs Dip Reds In 9th Inning, 3-2

CINCINNATI (AP) — Ewell Blackwell hit Vernon Law with a pitched ball to force in the ninth inning run that gave the Pittsburgh Pirates a 3-2 victory Wednesday night over the Cincinnati Reds. Two infield singles and a walk had filled the bases with two out before Blackwell's pitch hit his mound opponent.

Law and Blackwell took turns at superlative pitching. Blackwell didn't allow a hit or a man to reach first until Wally Westlake homered with one out in the fifth.

Law, getting stronger as the game progressed, had retired 13 men in a row when Ted Kluszewski broke the spell with a double with two out in the ninth.

Giants Move Toward Third, Beat Boston

NEW YORK (AP) — The red hot New York Giants advanced to within a half game of third place Boston Wednesday night as Larry Jansen turned back the Braves, 3-1, on a strong nine-hitter for his 15th victory.

The Giants got only six hits off Johnny Sain but made the most of them. In the first inning Eddie Stanky walked, went to second on an infield out and scored on Don Mueller's single to left center to make it 1-0 for the Giants.

In the second, an unearned run boosted it to 2-0 and Westrum's 20th home run of the year gave the Giants their last run in the fourth.

Hawkeyes Emphasize Passing In First Practice of Season

Bill Skaife Injured In Wednesday Drill

Iowa's football squad Wednesday took off the game uniforms they wore to have their pictures taken during Tuesday's press and radio day as they got down to work preparing for the Sept. 29 season opener against Southern California.

Wednesday's practice was marred by the injury of sophomore Fullback Bill Skaife. Skaife, a 175-pounder from Dubuque, twisted his knee while making a sharp turn in Wednesday's morning session of the two-a-day practice schedule. X-rays are to be taken today to determine the extent of his injuries.

It was feared Wednesday night that an operation may be necessary to correct the condition. Calisthenics, passing, blocking and tackling were included on Wednesday's schedule with the emphasis on passing. Coach Leonard Raffensperger, serving his first year as Iowa's boss, plans to supplement the ground game with a good passing attack.

Gienn Drah, one of the two returning quarterback regulars in the Big Ten, Fred Ruck, Jim Sangster and Burt Britzmann all had their turn tossing passes.

While the backfield and end candidates concentrated on pass catching, linemen had their first taste of contact work in blocking and tackling. Raffensperger has given no indication when the first intra-squad scrimmage will be held. It probably won't be until the squad starts rounding into shape after the layoff since spring drills.

Major Problems
One of the major problems facing Raffensperger and his corps of assistants is finding end replacements for graduated Jack Dittmer and Bob McKenzie. End Coach Bob Fitch put his candidates through a series of footwork drills and quick direction changes Wednesday.

The 66 man squad, to be pared to a permanent squad of 55 before the season starts Sept. 29, will continue the twice daily practice schedule until school starts Sept. 21. Also included on this daily schedule are two chalk talks.

A check on personal statistics of the squad Wednesday showed that the composite Hawkeye weighs 206 pounds, is 6-feet tall, 19 years old and a first semester junior. The squad is almost equally divided between sophomores and juniors with 28 second year men, and 26 juniors.

CHAMPAIGN, ILL. (AP) — Illinois opened football practice Wednesday with a squad of 75, although two invited players were unable to report.

End Charles Nagy enlisted in the army, while End Marshall Smith, hampered by a knee injury, quit the game on advice of his physician.

Coach Ray Eliot made two position shifts, switching halfback Dick Raklovits to fullback and fullback Bob Rylowicz to halfback.

Churchman, Expelled from Romania, Arrives

NEW YORK (AP) — Archbishop Gerald P. O'Hara, Roman Catholic bishop of the Savannah-Atlanta, Ga., diocese, arrived aboard the liner America Wednesday after being expelled from Communist-dominated Romania as a capitalist spy.

"There is no one left to guide the church in Romania," he said. The archbishop disclosed that all but two of the Catholic bishops there are in prison. Those two, he said, the Archbishop of Bucharest and a Hungarian bishop, are under house arrest in small Transylvanian monasteries.

"Believe it or not, I'm not glad to be back," he said. "I am returning reluctantly to the United States. It's good to be an American. I'm not sorry about that. But I regret that we are not returning to our mission in Bucharest where so much remains to be done for the church and the Romanian people."

The archbishop spent three and a half years in Romania. He said that on July 4 he and two associates, Msgr. John C. Kirk, of Athens, Ga., and Msgr. Guide Del Mestri, of Italy, were charged with espionage and ordered to leave the country in three days.

The archbishop vehemently denied the charges. "Our interests were solely and exclusively the welfare of the 3-million Catholic people in Romania," he said. "We never had and therefore never gave any military or non-ecclesiastical information to any diplomatic mission in Bucharest, although we were accused of giving information of a military or political nature to the British, Turkish and American missions."

Archbishop O'Hara and his staff were ordered to leave Romania one hour after his chauffeur and six others were convicted of espionage. The chauffeur, a Romanian, was arrested Dec. 6, 1949, held in prison seven months and then tried and sentenced to seven years at forced labor.

He sent a letter to Chairman Joseph C. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo) of the senate interior committee, asking for a chance to appear at the "earliest opportunity" to answer the "unsupported charges" that he has been affiliated with four Communist front organizations.

Chapman asked that Schoepel be present "in keeping with the traditional spirit of fair play which we Americans so cherish so that he may hear my statements and ask such question as he desires."

O'Mahoney already had announced the committee will begin public hearings today on the accusations made by Schoepel, with Chapman as the first witness.

E. L. Bartlett, Alaskan congressional delegate, who figured in Schoepel's attack on the interior department, also will testify.

Secretary of Interior To Answer Charges

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of the Interior Oscar Chapman Wednesday accused Sen. Andrew F. Schoepel (R-Kan) of making "incorrect statements" in questioning his loyalty, and asked for a face-to-face showdown on the charges.

Plan Survey to Number Nurses

DES MOINES (AP) — The Iowa state health department wants to know how many nurses there are in Iowa and what the state's current and future nursing needs are. To find the answers, the state board of nurse examiners will conduct a survey, Dr. Walter L. Biering, commissioner of health, announced Wednesday night.

The survey, which may begin in October, will require three months and will be financed by $1,500 released by the state executive council. Dr. Biering told the council it has been almost impossible to keep up-to-date records on the number of nurses in Iowa.

In addition to compiling information on total nursing personnel and needs, the survey will seek to determine whether the present system of nursing education is adequate and will furnish recommendations on any action that needs to be taken.

Club Advises Safety Training for Children

Just as schools prepare youngsters for daily living, so should parents train children in safe walking habits, the Iowa City Motor club advised Wednesday.

"Parents should teach children to cross only at corners and marked crosswalks, to look left and right before crossing and to obey traffic and pedestrian signals," the motor club stressed.

The motor club also said that parents should accompany children to school each day until they have learned thoroughly the safest route.

Iowa's Black and Gold Rings Up Curtain On 1950 Season

Wheeling Into Iowa

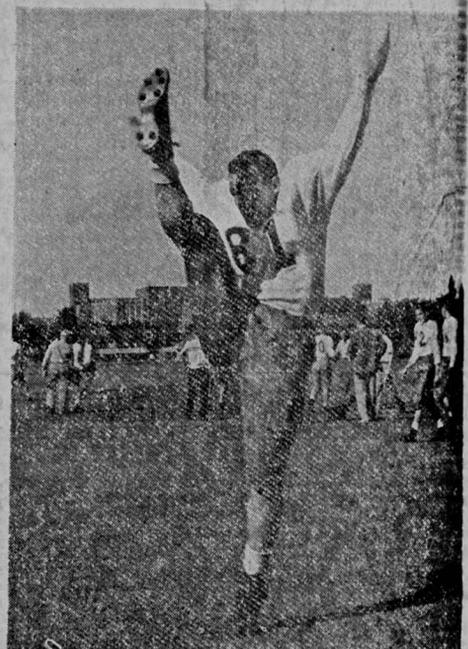

WHEELING, WEST VIRGINIA'S contribution to the Hawkeyes gridiron forces are a couple of the squad's biggest men. Hubert Johnston (left) talked over old times with Dave DeProspero at the Hawk's opening practice. Towner Leads Hawkeye Squad

CENTER JOHN TOWNER (right) led the 66 man Iowa football squad around the practice field Wednesday during the first day of actual drills. Most of the day was devoted to calisthenics and conditioning workouts although some of the linemen got their first taste of contact work. The backfield men were drilled in foot work and quick direction changes. Iowa opens its 1950 season Sept. 29 at Los Angeles against Southern California. There are four home games — three conference opponents and Notre Dame — on the schedule.

The Foot in Iowa Football

IOWA'S COACHING STAFF has expressed little worry over the punting department for the coming year. One of the reasons is the return of Chuck Denning, Boone junior. Denning shared kicking chores with Glenn Drahm last fall and also contributed some of the sharpest tackling in the Big Ten as a defensive regular backing up the left side of the Hawkeye line.

First Contact Work

TWO FORMER EAST DES MOINES players, Don Gregory and Andy Buntz, had their first contact work of the season Wednesday when football practice started. Buntz (left), a 205-pound junior, was a major letter winner last year. Gregory, who weighs in at 220-pounds, is also a junior.

Blocking Practice Session

THESE TWO HAWKEYES STARTED GETTING IN SHAPE Wednesday with a blocking practice session during the afternoon drills. The 66 man Iowa squad is practicing twice daily until school starts when the sessions will be reduced to one. Head Coach Leonard Raffensperger is starting his first season as varsity mentor after serving as freshman coach the past two years.

Chelf Gives College Try

DON CHELF SMASHED into a tackling dummy held by Bill McDonald Wednesday when the Hawkeyes started preparing for a tough nine game season. McDonald and Chelf are both end prospects. Finding adequate offensive end replacements for Jack Dillmer and Bob McKenzie, lost through graduation, will be one of the Iowa coaches major problems.

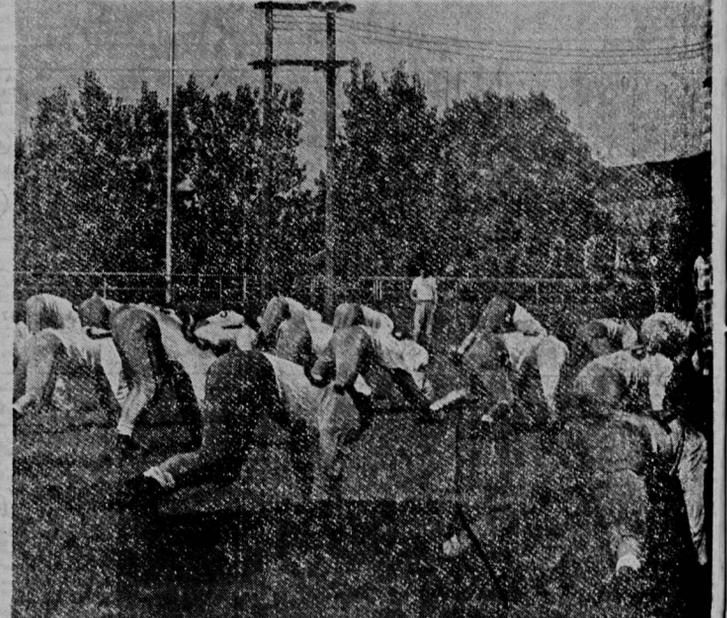

When Iowa Citizens Get Together

SIX HAWKEYE FOOTBALL ACES WHO take their meals at home everyday gathered around Backfield Coach Bernie Masterson to discuss Hawkeye hopes. All six athletes hail from Iowa City and figure prominently in Coach Leonard Raffensperger's 1950

Hawkeyes Swing Low

IOWA'S FOOTBALL SQUAD started their training program Wednesday with a series of bending exercises under the direction of the Hawkeye coaching staff. The first day of practice was spent on such exercises and drilling on fundamentals as Iowa started preparations for its Sept. 29 game with Southern California in Los Angeles. A total of 66 men, including 31 major lettermen, are practicing twice daily under new head Coach Leonard Raffensperger and his crew of assistants.
