It Pays to Advertise

HER MASTER'S VOICE put an end to her wanderings when Tuffy, a kitten, strolled into The Daily Iowan newsroom in answer to a lost-and-found ad. Her owner, Clyde H. McMillan, E3, Cedar Rapids, said Tuffy, an easterner from New Jersey, had been missing four days. Apparently she had seen the ad and, being an unusually intelligent cat for her age — three months — logically decided to drop in and announce herself. After Tuffy had spent most of the day on a photographer's shoulders, a reporter remembered seeing the ad. The owner was phoned and the mystery solved. Now everyone is happy — except the Iowan staff, which misses Tuffy.

Communist Officials Flee Seoul; South Koreans Open Offensive

Surrenders by Reds Increase Peace Hopes

TOKYO (FRIDAY) (AP) —Some sources here speculated today that several hundred North Korean soldiers who gave up the Red cause Thursday may be the vanguard of wholesale surrenders and quick peace in Korea.

Other quarters, aware of grim realities on the fighting fronts, where resistance is still stiff, hesitated to predict such a trend. The Reds, hastily shifting troops to adjust for the United Nations offensive in the Inchon-Seoul sector, are fighting determinedly to hold Seoul.

Whatever may follow, almost every sector saw enemy troops toss in the towel Thursday. Defections ranged from that of a divisional chief of staff to 200 men on the North Korean lines, many of them boys 14 and 15 years old.

One prisoner said he gave up because to remain where he was meant certain death at the hands of advancing Americans, and if he and his companies retreated they would be shot by their own officers.

With word of increasing Red surrenders, glum predictions two weeks ago that the war would last at least until next July have given way to some optimistic forecasts of a quick foldup which might even bring peace by the end of September.

SOLID ARROWS INDICATE Allied drives on Seoul, Communist-held capital of South Korea, against stiff opposition from North Korean forces (open arrows). Marines are moving on Seoul from the northwest and southwest and the U.S. seventh division is fighting west of a main highway and railroad linking Seoul with Suwon and the south. UN units are cleaning out snipers around Kimpo airfield (circled).

Fighting Bitter As Marines Storm City

TOKYO (FRIDAY) (AP)—Communist military and political leaders fled northward from Seoul today to escape the U. S. marines who were storming the city.

In another phase of the United Nations' master plan to crush the Korean Communist armies, an estimated 50,000 South Koreans jumped off on a general offensive along the northern rim of the Pusan beachhead.

American marines crashed into the defenses of Seoul from the northwest and southwest. The fighting was bitter, and to the southwest the suburb of Yongdungpo was a flaming mass of ruins.

Guerrillas Harass Reds

Inside Seoul anti-Communist guerrillas arose to harass the Red defenders. In the face of these threats from within and without the city, the Communist political chiefs and Red army's high brass fled hastily.

But even with these chaotic conditions inside the city, the battle for Seoul was expected to be bloody. The Reds apparently were preparing a last-ditch defensive.

Five South Korean divisions launched the attack from the Pusan beachhead.

Along the western edge of the Pusan beachhead, the U.S. forces carried the battle to the enemy this way:

U. S. First cavalry sector — Eighth army headquarters announced that troops of the U. S. First cavalry division and the South Korean First division routed the remnants of Red troops from the walled city of Kansan, 12 miles north of Taegu.

Waegwan front — U. S. 24th division troops now hold a solid line from six miles south of Waegwan to three miles north, which is 3½ miles deep on the west bank of the Naktong.

U. S. Second division front — U. S. troops entered Chogye, five miles west of the Naktong with infantry and tanks at noon today.

Southern front —Troops of the U. S. 25th division swept ahead eight miles to within eight miles of the vital southern Communist base of Chinju.

U.S. Anti-Aggression Plan Moves Ahead In UN Assembly

NEW YORK (AP) — The UN assembly's steering committee called Thursday for full debate on an American program for combatting aggression and on a counter Soviet bid for peace on the lines of the Communist - backed Stockholm peace appeal.

Without dissent, the major proposals of U.S. Secretary of State Dean Acheson and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky were moved toward the assembly by the 14-member steering committee.

In other decisions, the committee voted down Russian objections and recommended assembly consideration of:

1. A charge from Nationalist China that the Soviet Union aided the Chinese Communists to attain power and is a threat to the peace of the Far East. The vote was 11 to 2 (Russia and Czechoslovakia) with India abstaining.

2. A demand by the United States, Britain and Australia for Russia to account for thousands of German and Japanese war prisoners. The vote was 12 to 2 (Russia and Czechoslovakia).

3. A review of the Franco Spain situation. The Dominican Republic wants the assembly to study again its 1946 resolution to recall ambassadors from Madrid. The vote was 10 to 2 (Russia and Czechoslovakia), with Cuba and Iran abstaining.

4. A review of the Balkans situation. The vote again was 12 to 2 (Russia and Czechoslovakia).

SUI Registration Drops; Final Total Not Available

Registration at SUI this fall dropped as expected, SUI Registrar Ted McCarrell said Thursday. McCarrell was unable to give any estimates on the number of students registered in the various colleges.

A large number of late registrations means final figures will not be available until early next week, McCarrell said.

New Student Dean Introduced At First Council Meeting

SUI's new dean of students, L. Dale Faunce, was introduced Thursday night at the first Student council meeting of the 1950-51 school year.

Liberal Arts Dean Dewey B. Stuit introduced the new dean of students and the two met with the council members informally after the meeting.

A constitutional amendment was introduced to make the dean of students an ex-officio member of the council and its chief adviser.

The amendment would clear up a situation which left Dean Stuit as council advisor after his appointment as dean of the college of liberal arts. The council will vote on the amendment next week.

Council Pres. Jack Whitesell, L2, Davenport, appointed Douglas MacRae, A2, Eldora, to the campus Homecoming committee.

Other appointments were William Eads, A4, Ida Grove, student trip committee; Louise Bekman, A3, Ottumwa, National Students' association committee, and Miriam Showalter, A4, Kokomo, Ind., Eads and Miss Bekman, constitutional committee.

Ross Williams, A4, Davenport, appeared at the meeting to ask the council to investigate parking problems at the Quadrangle dormitory.

Williams said the parking lot north of the fieldhouse was not open and that a serious problem has resulted.

Whitesell turned the matter over to the council's parking committee. The next council meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. Thursday.

Two New Polio Patients Admitted

Two new polio cases were admitted to University hospitals Thursday, bringing the number of active cases in the hospitals to 30.

Admitted in "fair" condition were Hazel Peterson, 37, Britt, and Chalmer Wineinger, 33, Bloomfield.

Two Iowa Citians were transferred to inactive wards. They were Robert Mawdsley, 15, and Jacqueline Lorimor, 8.

Others transferred to inactive wards were Rosalie Hotchkiss, 11, New Hampton; Maxine Marolf, 7, Hopkinton; Leo Priebe, 28, Elma; Virginia Dalton, 16, Waterloo, and Theodore Frueh, 8, Donnellson.

Discharged were Judy Marlow, 8, Decorah; Charles Wilson, 36, Williamsburg; Glenn Wagner, 1, West Point, and Phyllis Yacko, 7, Ottumwa.

Pep Rally Tuesday To Open 1950 Football Season

A pep rally at 7:15 p.m. Tuesday on the south approach to the Iowa Union will open the 1950 football season. Tailfeathers, SUI's pep club, is sponsoring the rally.

Iowa plays its first football game against the University of Southern California next Friday night at Los Angeles.

This will be the first pep rally for an out-of-town game at which SUI band will play. The Highlanders, all-girl bagpipe band, also will play at the rally.

Evan "Curly" Hultman, L2, Waterloo, will be master of ceremonies. Jack Whitesell, L2, Davenport, president of the Student council, will present Football Coach Leonard Raffensperger with a key to success.

A torch light parade from university housing sections to the Union campus will precede the rally. Tailfeather members will lead the parade sections.

Three Local Children Escape Injury as Lightning Hits Home

Three Iowa City children narrowly escaped injury early Thursday morning when a bolt of lightning passed though their bedroom, searing the wall near a light socket and burning out the wiring of the house.

Marilyn Parizek, 7, and her brothers Michael, 7, and Bobbie, 6, children of Mr. and Mrs. Lester J. Parizek, 1313 E. Davenport street, were startled from their sleep about 1:15 a.m. when the lightning flashed through their room.

The children's cries woke their parents, who came to the damaged bedroom with a flashlight.

The children were unharmed, but their narrow escape was attested to by a charred area around the light socket near their beds.

Another bolt, apparently following the same path, struck a tree 50 feet away from the Parizek home, in the yard of Jane Irish.

Bark and pieces of wood from the tree were found as far as 45 feet away.

Instructor, Wife on Late Honeymoon

Joel, S. Branham, 38, SUI English instructor, pushed his wife's wheelchair up the gangplank of the S. S. Britannic Thursday to begin a delayed honeymoon in Dublin, Ireland.

Mrs. Branham, 36, was striken with polio at the age of seven. The couple was married in 1947 at Columbia university, New York, they were both taking graduate work.

Mrs. Branham received her doctorate at Columbia in 1949 and the couple moved to Iowa City. Branham taught SUI English courses during the 1949-50 school year and took further work.

He will complete work for his doctorate at Trinity college in Dublin during their stay in Ireland.

SUI Law Student Chosen Circuit Presiding Officer

R. Bruce Hughes, L3, Sioux City, has been chosen regional presiding officer for the eighth judicial circuit of the American Law Student association, it was announced here Thursday.

Robert Laura of St. Johns university, Collegeville, Minn., was elected national president.

Two Members Say Local Union Will Win Recognition

Two members of the meat cutters and grocery clerks local union Thursday night expressed their confidence in winning recognition of their union from their employers.

International meatcutters and grocery clerks representative Lyle Swanson reported on conditions existing in the controversy with three Iowa City store owners at the regular meeting of the newly organized Iowa City Federation of Labor.

About 30 delegates from affiliated local union attended the meeting where new officers were elected, and installed by J. J. Brown, secretary of the Iowa Federation of Labor.

Clem Kupka, an SUI employe, was elected president, and Ray Ipsen, another SUI employe, is the new vice-president.

Other officers were Charles Ruppert, carpenter, financial secretary; C. R. Opfel, barber, recording secretary; and Roy Skriver, labor union, Wes McGinnis electrician, and Marshall O'Hara SUI employe, trustees.

CIO Steelworkers Demand Pay Hikes

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Philip Murray's powerful CIO united steelworkers Thursday demanded higher wages from the nation's steel industry.

Murray did not fix a dollars and cents wage increase goal. He said the exact figures will be set by the union's wage policy committee at Pittsburgh at meetings Oct. 4 and 5.

USW leaders made no secret of their view that higher living costs and wage gains won by the CIO united auto workers and other unions are making the steelworkers restive.

Murray disclosed the union fatter pay drive at a news conference concluding the first day's session of a two-day meeting by USW's executive board.

That was just a few hours after the Aluminum Company of America offered its 45,000 employes a 10 percent pay boost.

Armed British, Russian Troops Dig In on West Berlin Border

BERLIN (AP)—British and Russian troops with rifles and machineguns dug in Thursday night on opposite sides of a disputed border intersection in Berlin's western outskirts after two days of negotiations failed to settle the affair.

As huge kleig lights shone on the contested area, located between Potsdam and the British-operated Gatow airfield, Soviet tanks were reported jockeying through the neighboring woods.

The British commandant, Maj. Gen. Geoffrey Bourne, dispatched a stiff protest to Soviet Commissioner Sergei Dengin demanding withdrawal of Russian troops from the road block they set up just inside the British sector Wednesday.

Meanwhile, the Russians released two American military policemen seized at gunpoint Wednesday near the American-Soviet zonal border. The two said they were held 13 hours without food or water.

As night closed in, the disputed border area, located in what normally is a remote part of the city, stood out like a spotlighted stage.

British "Tommies" dug foxholes in the woods overlooking the intersection and posted sentries along the road nearby. A few yards away, grim Russian soldiers did the same.

Agree Not to Advertise Medicines Cure Colds

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal trade commission said Thursday that eight companies have agreed not to advertise that their anti-histamine preparations will cure or prevent common colds.

The stipulations do not prevent the firms from saying that the medicines will relieve and often stop cold symptoms such as sneezing, nose congestion, simple coughs and eye watering; and that they are safe when directions are followed.

HAIL, HAIL

LOGANSPORT, IND. (AP)—Hailstones bigger than golf balls broke thousands of windows and piled up on the ground like snow here late Thursday.

Rains Up to 7 Inches Close Many Iowa Roads

DES MOINES (AP) — Many roads remained closed and much damage was counted Thursday following rains that dumped as much as 7 inches of water in some northeast and north-central Iowa communities.

The hard pounding water and flash floods that developed washed three bridges out on highway 20 near Waterloo and Independence. A number of gravel and dirt country roads were impassable.

Admits Prices Rising Faster Than Wages —

U.S. Considering Price Controls: Truman

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Truman disclosed Thursday the government is considering price controls, but has reached no decision.

He said, he is moving cautiously to avoid the mistakes in the handling of anti-inflation controls in the last war.

The President expressed concern at his weekly news conference over the increase in prices. When a reporter observed that most wages are not rising while prices are going up fast, Mr. Truman agreed this is so and said the government is working on plans to meet it.

He said he will act expeditiously but in an orderly way, as he wants to avoid the travail under the trial and error system he said was followed in the last war.

The defense production act, which he signed Sept. 8, authorizes the President to put ceilings on individual items if he finds the prices has risen "unreasonably" above the May 24-June 24 level or threatens to do so.

He also can act if price rises materially affect defense costs.

He is still looking for men to fill key posts in the anti-inflation setup.

The President backed up the attack on Senator Robert Taft (R-Ohio) made by Averell Harriman, his special assistant. He said he endorsed the speech in which Harriman accused Taft of "furthering the desire of the Kremlin" by his voting record on foreign policy.

Mr. Truman, however, had praise for some other Republicans. When a reporter asked if he knew any Democratic senator whose record on foreign policy equaled or surpassed Taft's, he replied there are more Republicans who voted right than Democrats who voted wrong, so the country still has a bi-partisan foreign policy.

Just a Matter of Brushin' Up

NORTH MANCHESTER, IND. (AP) — Last year Ernest Abele was a janitor at Manchester college.

This year he is an instructor of physics.

It was just a matter of brushing up his English.

He held a master's degree from the University of Latvia and had taught 20 years before he came here last September from a displaced persons camp in Germany.

Marshall Has His Weak Points —

Most Americans want General George C. Marshall to succeed in his new job as secretary of defense for two reasons. They want him to succeed quite naturally for the good the nation will derive from that success. But he's an American hero and they also would like for him to remain a hero—in every thing he undertakes.

However, even with all the moral backing we can muster, only time will tell whether the man eulogized by President Truman as "the greatest living American" will succeed in this enormous new job.

There are a number of things we might remember as the general takes over this new job.

Many persons feel that Marshall, despite his military greatness, had pretty definite limitations as a civilian administrator. And in this new role that's exactly what he'll be again. He won't be issuing orders which have to do with the strategy of war—he won't be issuing orders which can't be challenged.

He has been criticized for his failure to succeed as special envoy to China, but knowing the determination of both sides, there is little reason to believe now that any man could have gone there and ended the civil war.

On the success side, we have the plan which bears his name. The Marshall plan is credited with having kept France and Italy from Communist control and strengthening western Europe's economy to a point where it can stand on its own feet again.

The general's personality is something else to consider. Diplomacy is hardly his forte. Critics and friends alike believe his cold, uncompromising personality often made his job more difficult than the circumstances which he faced. He often seemed unable to understand why his diplomatic opponents didn't see things his way.

He is reported to have been "frigidly aloof" to his staff and to the press when he was secretary of state. And, yet, he still got results in the state department.

It is said that President Franklin D. Roosevelt called by their first names the biggest wheels that turned—except Gen. Marshall. The soldier-diplomat just never felt it necessary to be familiar with people.

And, yet, all these points may have little significance in the new secretary of defense's chances of success.

There's no question about the greatness of the man. On the day he retired as army chief of staff, President Truman said: "He takes his place at the head of the greatest commanders of history."

Let's hope that when he leaves this new post to go back to his roses and asparagus at his home in Leesburg, Va., the general will have the same high sentiments of the American people following him as former secretary of defense.

Russian Joke —

(Reprinted from the Chattanooga Times)

A refugee from behind the Iron Curtain brings to this country a joke which he says is causing considerable, although we presume silent, mirth in that section. It goes this way:

An old man was dragged into NKVD headquarters in Moscow one day on suspicion of bourgeois-capitalistic proclivities.

"Who was your father?" an interrogator thundered.

"He was an industrialist," quavered the white-beard.

"Aha!" sneered the secret policeman. "And your mother?"

"Daughter of a wholesale merchant," the suspect muttered.

"Very compromising. What's your job?"

"I do some writing now and then."

"But you live on that?"

"Oh, no," replied the old man. "I inherited some money and marriage quite well on that."

"Suspiciously bourgeois," commented the NKVD man. "Are you married?"

"Yes."

"To whom?"

"My wife is a baroness."

"That does it," exploded the interrogator. "Of all the filthy blankety-blank bourgeois-capitalistic swine—industrialist father, rich mother, his wife a baroness! And," turning to the prisoner, "you still have the impertinence to claim to be a member in good standing of our proud Communist party?"

"Yes," said the white-beard. "You see, my name is Karl Marx."

While the incident obviously could not have happened, the biographical facts concerning Marx are correct. We leave the obvious conclusion to the reader.

Battle for Parking Space, Books —

The resumption of classes Thursday brought the regular headaches of finding parking places and purchasing textbooks. More cars than ever seem to have appeared on campus, despite a letter by SUI President Virgil Hancher urging freshmen to leave their cars home.

Even with increased parking areas, it was the plight of many to park their automobiles in spots nearly as far from their classrooms as their rooms.

One senior—used to the situation—had a ready answer for the book store struggle.

After standing in line for 20 minutes and missing an appointment, he finally attracted a clerk. She returned empty handed.

"Sorry, all out. Try another store."

The senior shrugged and turned to make his way out of the crowd around the counter. "Heck, I won't have time to study until next week anyhow."

CIO Meat Packers to Hold Strike Talks

CHICAGO (AP)—The CIO United Packing House Workers union said Thursday that local union officials will meet here Sunday to discuss plans for a strike against Wilson and company packing plants in seven cities.

Some 10,000 Wilson workers would be affected by a strike, but the UPW said the meeting would be among officials from 350 locals representing its entire membership of 200,000 in the meat packing and allied industries.

Interpreting the News —

Acheson Asks Strong UN Army

By J.M. ROBERTS JR.
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

With the United Nations "police action" in Korea about to enter its fourth month, and with many of the reinforcements promised by its members still "on order," the United States has begun a move to see that the organization is not caught again with its military pants down.

In doing so, Secretary of State Dean Acheson drops the generalized approach which the U.S. has usually followed in the UN and calls directly for counteraction against the policies of Soviet Russia.

The U.S. proposes a rules change to permit the general assembly to meet on 24 hours notice instead of ten days if the security council veto prevents action by that body, and would have military forces constantly ready for call should the Communists repeat their Korean actions elsewhere.

These forces would be mobilized from regularly designated units in the national armed forces of each nation. Thus the long-standing failure to secure agreement on a permanent United Nations force would be offset.

The general assembly would be expected to call these forces into action upon information supplied by a permanent "peace patrol" organized to survey and report on threatening situations.

The secretary's program was developed as the result of the salutary results obtained in the security council because of Russia's absence when the Korean thing broke, and in the light of what would have happened had Russia been present with her veto. There is no veto in the general assembly.

There is more involved, however, than a mere rules change. There is the fundamental relationship between the security council and the general assembly. In matters of a threat to peace, the theory was that the security council would act, and that the assembly would play an advisory role. But there is nothing to prevent the member nations from using the assembly as an organizational meeting place where collective defense can be arranged.

The UN charter specifically provides for such self-defense arrangements by individual or groups of nations outside the security council.

The American policy under which Acheson acted is unchanged, but it is recommended to the UN with a new directness.

Acheson outlined the actions and attitudes of the Soviet Union which have made necessary concerted action against her, and then said:

"Time may have its effect. It is, but 33 years since the overthrow of the czarist regime in Russia. This is a short time in history. Like many other social and political movements before it, the Soviet revolution may change. In so doing, it may rid itself of the policies which now prevent the Soviet Union from living as a good neighbor with the rest of the world.

"We have no assurance that this will take place. But as the United Nations strengthens its collective security system, the possibilities of this change in Soviet policy will increase. (The secretary had previously referred to the realism of Soviet leaders when faced with facts.) If this does not occur, the increase in our defensive strength shall be the means of insuring our survival and protecting the essential values of our societies."

When you take it all together -- this movement in the United Nations begotten by its new pride of strength in having been able to act in Korea; the redoubled American military program; the speed-up in creation of a western European army; all of the new evidences of anti-Communist unity—it is no wonder why, or if, the Russians are not thinking already of the possibilities of a profitable change.

Red China's Link With Moscow

By SIGRID ARNE

WASHINGTON (AP) — Experts on the Far East acknowledge there are two unhappy channels through which the Korean fighting might spread to Red China:

1. Through Chinese Communist troops' going into Korea.

2. Through Formosa, which the Chinese Communists have said they will take, and which President Truman has said the U.S. will protect.

So the leader of Red China, Mao Tse Tung, is watched for every move and word.

State department experts say the main question is this: Will Mao conduct Chinese communism for the good of China alone, or will he sacrifice Chinese needs at the command of Moscow?

Some American commentators hope that Moscow and Peking will finally tangle over Manchuria and the northwest Chinese provinces. But state department experts say that if Mao leans in any direction it's towards Moscow.

The Chinese Reds have asked that Formosa be dicussed in the UN. Is Mao acting as a purely Chinese leader? Or is he jumping as a Communist puppet?

To these questions state department experts put forward these facts:

The Chinese Reds want to represent their country in the UN. But the UN charter pledges its members to seek peaceful negotiation rather than war. Knowing the UN pledge, will the Chinese Reds abide by negotiations on Formosa and give up their threat to attack?

In June, 1949, Mao had followed the rest of the world's Communist leaders with a statement that China would go to war on the Soviet side, if Russia became involved in a war.

When Yugoslavia, a Communist government in bad standing with Moscow, made a move to recognize Red China, Mao ignored the Yugoslavs.

A few days ago Pravda, Moscow's most authoritative newspaper, carried a story about 50 incidents of British planes flying over Chinese lands, from June on, in the neighborhood of Hong Kong.

Italy's No. 1 Problem: Too Many Italians

By SANFORD MARKEY
Written Especially for Central Press and This Newspaper

ITALY — The nation that on the map resembles a giant boot, is today like the story book old lady who lived in a shoe and had so many children she didn't know what to do.

The government in Rome is finding over-population its most serious post - war problem. Italy is an area smaller than the state of New Mexico and it has a population of over 46-million, about 372 persons to the square mile as against 48 persons to the square mile in the United States.

Italy's unemployment figure is two-million. America, with a proportionate area-population setup as Italy, would have an unemployment figure of 12-million.

One of Italy's chief exports has been its surplus population that went to South America, western Europe and the United States to fill the demand for unskilled workers.

Today, despite energetic government efforts to find immigration outlets, the post-war flow of Italians abroad has narrowed to a trickle.

The government maintains that at least 200,000 must leave every year to keep unemployment at a manageable state. In 1949, only 160,000 left, and 26,000 of those returned.

The drop in emigration figures is reflected in the amount of money sent back to Italy. In 1928, for example, former Italians sent home more than $125-million; in 1948, the send-home money was only $45-million.

Italy's reservoir of human unemployment is a fertile spawning ground for Communist propaganda and a threat to the country's pro-western regime.

Mussolini sought to solve the over-population crisis by acquiring colonies and sending Italians to North Africa, but Il Duce, even in his best years, never was successful.

Before World War I, Italian immigrants flocked to North America. The United States, however, has long since cuts its quotas sharply. Italians also flocked to South America with a large percentage, since World War I, finding homes in Argentina, whose immigration treaty with Rome is the most liberal of the nine similar treaties Italy has with other South and Latin America nations.

Even South America is not providing too favorable a source for immigration. Many Italians have written home that they are forced to live in a "frontier" condition; that they are "labor fodder."

These unflattering letters, plus accounts of hard living related by persons who have returned to Italy, have cut sharply into the ranks of those who want to carve new lives in South America.

Western Europe which took many post-World War II immigrants, has reached the saturation point, with such countries as Switzerland, France, Belgium and Holland posting "no immigration" signs.

Italian diplomats have a standing order abroad to investigate all possibilities for immigration. It appears that the only major takers are South America, Canada and Australia.

Since the end of the last war, Rome reports that an estimated 620,000 Italians have left for new lands. The government is now seeking to speed up the flow.

The economic cooperation administration has been contacted for $10-million to be used for both new ship construction and travel expenses. ECA, however, has told Rome that emigration is not the answer to Italy's over-population.

Spurred by both ECA warnings and the reminder that communism breeds best with discontent, the government in Rome has announced a series of proposed undertakings to ease the unemployment crisis.

One program calls for a vast land resettlement project to put 500,000 persons on new farms.

Another calls for increased industrialization to provide several hundred thousand jobs, while a third proposal includes a vast public works undertaking to give jobs to more than 100,000 persons.

The failure to find employment has resulted, too, in a drop in the nation's birth rate, from 23.8 per thousand to 21.6 per thousand in 1949.

Wisconsin Raises Rates On Long-Distance Calls

MADISON, WIS. (AP) — It will cost more to make a long distance telephone call within Wisconsin starting Oct. 1.

The public service commission Thursday okayed new and higher intrastate toll rates for the Wisconsin Telephone company. The new rates, which go into effect at 12:01 a.m. Oct. 1, will boost the company's revenue by $1.9-million a year.

To the customers, the new rates will mean a nickel boost in station-to-station calls lasting three minutes or less and a five to 10-cent hike in person-to-person calls for the same period.

THIS NAVY BLUE WOOL GABARDINE SUIT was chosen by Mary Ellen Steiner, A4, Armstrong, to serve as a basic article in her new campus wardrobe. The double-breasted suit, with its smart oversized collar, has large blue shell buttons and double flap on the pockets. Miss Steiner wears a white rayon blouse and navy blue pumps to complete this fall outfit.

Student Church Groups Plan Parties Tonight

At least five Iowa City churches' student groups are planning informal get-togethers tonight.

They are the Roger Williams fellowship of the Baptist church, United Student fellowship of the Congregational church.

Canterbury club of the Trinity Episcopal church, Lutheran Student association, and Westminster foundation of the First Presbyterian church.

The Baptist group will meet at 8 p.m. at the student center, 230 N. Clinton street.

The Congregational students will hold a banquet at 6 p.m. with the Rev. John G. Craig, pastor, giving the welcoming address.

The Episcopal students will give a student-faculty dinner at 6 p.m. at the parish house, 320 1-2 E. College street.

Annual "welcome" party sponsored by the Lutheran students will be at 8 p.m. in the Iowa Union's River room.

The Presbyterian students will have "Friday Fun" from 4 to 5:30 p.m. and a "welcome" party at 8 p.m. at the church, Clinton and Market streets.

Three Professors To Speak at Meeting

Three SUI professors are scheduled on the program of the Northwest Conference for College Teachers of Languages and Literature Oct. 13 and 14 at Minneapolis.

They are Prof. Paul H. Engle of the English department, who will participate in a discussion on "The Teaching of Creative Writing to Undergraduates."

Prof. Alexander C. Kern of the American civilization and English departments will speak on "American Literature and General Education."

Prof. Seymour M. Pitcher of the English department will speak on "English Literature and General Education."

About 500 college teachers from six midwestern states and Manitoba, Canada, are expected to attend the conference, which is sponsored by the University of Minnesota this year.

Discussions will center around teaching techniques and the place of language and literature studies in colleges. Trends in general education and post-war educational developments in Europe also will be discussed.

MARRIAGE LICENSES

A marriage license was issued Thursday in Johnson county clerk's office to Amos E. Morrison, West Liberty, and Joan M. Chopek, Iowa City.

Geraniums, long considered as Victorian as rubber plants, are household favorites again.

Especially in blocky, oblong containers, geraniums blend with today's bleached and silver-gray wood finishes. The dry air of the average room suits them, as long as they get plenty of sun.

'Bobo' Rockefeller Denies She Refuses Divorce

LOWELL, IND. (AP) — Blonde Barbara (Bobo) Rockefeller said Thursday that published reports that she would "never" give her millionaire husband a divorce were "somewhat distorted."

At the same time she said that she herself has no plans for seeking a divorce from Winthrop Rockefeller Sr.

The "Cinderella girl" who married the grandson of the late John D. Rockefeller in 1948 went into seclusion after a new burst of headlines over her widely-publicized marriage.

Published reports had quoted her as saying she would never give Rockefeller a divorce in order to "humiliate" him and make him "suffer."

Profile Preview Models' Applications Due Today

Applications for Profile Preview models are due today in the office of student affairs, Chairman Marilyn Smith, A4, Rockford, said Thursday.

They may be obtained from orientation leaders and activity chairmen of the various housing units.

Profile Preview is the annual style show and fashion clinic for new women students sponsored by University Women's association. Each contestant models one outfit. Upon the completion of the style show, "Miss Perfect Profile" of 1950 will be named.

Judges for this year are Dick Pahre, C4, Des Moines, president the interfraternity council, Robert B. Hilliard, A3, Storm lake, president of Quadrangle and John Towner, A3, Des Moines.

The modeling tryouts will be held Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evening at 7:30 p.m. in the Currier hall dining room.

Division tryouts this year will be based on ensembles and each contestant will be individually notified of the time for her tryout.

Models should appear in the outfits they wish to wear in the style show, Miss Smith said. The ensembles will be checked on appearance and suitability.

Members of Miss Smith's committee are Judy Fein, A3, Chicago, who is in charge of the style show and models; Carl Jackson, A4, Akron, Ohio, interviews, and Doris Horslund, A4, Waterloo, publicity chairman.

Hawkeye Staff to Meet

All students interested in working on the 1950-51 Hawkeye, SUI's yearbook, have been asked to meet in room 221A Schaeffer hall at 10:30 a.m. Saturday.

Joe Ryan, C2, Des Moines, assistant business manager, said the meeting will include prospective workers on both business and editorial staffs.

Mrs. Letha Mulford Files Divorce Suit

Mrs. Letha Mulford, 331 S. Summit street, Thursday filed a divorce suit in Johnson county district court.

Mrs. Mulford charged her husband, Newton Mulford, with cruel and inhuman treatment, and habitual drunkenness.

The plaintiff asked for a divorce, custody of their two minor children, and property or alimony and support for herself and the children.

She also asked for an attachment of Mulford's business and personal properties to insure his future ability to provide support.

The court was asked to prevent Mulford from entering the plaintiff's premises, or molesting her or the children.

According to the suit, the couple was married Nov. 23, 1938, at New London, Mo., and separated Sept. 19.

Tigers Drub A's, 8-2, Tie For Top

Detroit Sweeps Series; Could Take Lead Today

DETROIT (AP) — The onrushing Detroit Tigers cashed in on nine walks Thursday to drub the hapless Philadelphia Athletics, 8-2, and climb into a tie with the New York Yankees for first place in the American league pennant scramble.

The victory gave the Detroiters a sweep of the three game series with the A's and left them a chance to grab sole ownership of the No. 1 spot when they meet Cleveland today.

New York was idle Thursday and also will have a day off today.

The luckless Athletics, whose pitching staff is riddled with a collection of sore arms and other injuries, had to rely Thursday on a couple of pitchers who hadn't won a game this season.

Starter Joe Coleman walked four men in the opening inning, but the A's replacements were so thin they stuck with him until the seventh when Rookie Joe Murray took over.

Lady Luck, who gave the Tigers a great big helping hand in their 6-5 win over the A's Wednesday came through for them again Thursday in a six-run first inning that settled the issue in a hurry.

It was a weird inning for Coleman, one of the few pitchers who was not on the Athletics' ailing list. Four walks and three hits figured in that six-run uprising, even before the chilled crowd of 5,194 had gotten comfortably seated.

Coleman was fairly stingy with base hits but his over generosity in giving up nine walks during his six-inning stay snuffed out any chances the Athletics had to win.

MINNESOTA SCRIMMAGES

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Coach Bernie Bierman pitted his best offensive team against his best defensive team Thursday and one of the stiffest scrimmage sessions for the Minnesota Gophers of the season resulted. Blocking was the best it has been and Skip Engel cut loose for several good runs.

Hawklets Dump Wilson, 35-7

Offense, Defense Gets Attention in Football Practice Thursday

Offense and defense both received attention in a semi-scrimmage Thursday as the Hawkeyes headed into final preparations for the Sept. 29 opener against Southern Cal.

Team members who are expected to see duty on both offense and defense teams alternated on the scrimmage teams Thursday.

An indication that the Hawks are reaching a fighting edge was given Thursday when 2 opposing linemen had a brief scuffle before teammates intervened.

The battle for the offensive end spots has apparently narrowed down to a four man contest between Don Swartzendruber, Dave DeProspero, Jerry Long, and Bob Hoff. Swartzendruber and DeProspero started for the offensive team Thursday before being replaced by Long and Hoff.

The rest of the line in the offensive team had Hubert Johnston and Andy Buntz at tackles, Austin Turner and Lou Ginsberg at guards and John Towner at center.

ASSISTANT COACHES

Herb Shoener and Lyle Ebner Thursday were appointed assistant coaches of the freshman football squad, the office of President Virgil H. Hancher announced.

Shoener played end on the Iowa teams of 1946 and 1947 while Ebner captained the Hawkeye baseball team in 1948.

City High Scores 2nd Straight Mississippi Valley Loop Victory

By BILL MILLER
Daily Iowan Sports Writer

CEDAR RAPIDS — City High's Little Hawks won their second consecutive Mississippi Valley conference game of the season Thursday night with a smashing 35-7 conquest of Wilson.

The Little Hawks, regarded by some as the top team in the state, scored in every quarter in rolling up 409 yards from scrimmage. The statistics about tell the story of City High's rout. The Hawklets had 15 first downs — 13 by rushing — and ran for a total of 381 yards on the ground.

Complete Mastery

Iowa City had such complete mastery over the game at halftime that Coach Frank Bates used his reserves almost exclusively in the final two periods.

The Hawklets scored their first touchdown after three and a half minutes in the first quarter. Mike Korns, 200-pound fullback transfer from Dubuque high school, sparked the downfield drive from the Iowa City 33-yard line which ended with Jim Freeman scoring on an end around.

Jerry White kicked the first of five straight conversions to give the Little Hawks a 7-0 lead.

Three penalties suffered enroute couldn't stop the City High march from its own 31 midway in the second quarter. Quarterback Ed Morgan threw to End Mickey Moore for a touchdown and a 14-0 City High lead.

An intercepted pass by Center Tex Katzenmeyer set up the third Iowa City score from the Wilson 33 yard line. Davis went all the way on the next play for a 21-0 lead.

White and Korns Score

John White and Korns scored the last two City High touchdowns on sprints of 37 and 43 yards respectively.

With the Little Hawks leading, 35-0, Wilson finally scored late in the final quarter after a sustained march from their own 27 yard line.

U-High Opens Against Wapello

By JERRY COPELAND

Coach Bob Weber leads a crippled University high eleven to Wapello tonight and the Blue Hawks may find it a bad night for their conference opener.

Rebuilding around four returning lettermen, Weber had molded the Blues into an efficient outfit when injuries developed last week. Four men went on the ailing list.

Bob Cantrell, veteran end and converted right halfback pulled a leg muscle and Ed Bowers, starting left guard, twisted a knee Wednesday. Cantrell may see limited action Friday night while Bowers will probably sit it out.

In addition Bob Davis, 145 pound center, twisted a knee in a scrimmage with Kalona Saturday while Ron Davis, an end, sprained an ankle Monday. Both are expected to be sidelined.

Wapello may prove to be a poor host. With a squad studded with returning veterans the Louisa county team rolled over Wilton Junction, 19-0, Friday night in their conference opener. They are at full strength.

The Blues will field a team built around Co-captains Bob Ewalt at left half and Dick Hradek, 180 pound right tackle.

If Cantrell is not ready, Gardner Van Dyke, inexperienced but swift footed right half back, will replace him. Tom Kent at quarterback and Bill Dinsmore at fullback will round out the backfield.

Craig Perrin and Mel Rittger will anchor the ends of the inexperienced line which averages 167 pounds. Don Stover at center, Ken Butterbaugh and Maynard Hebl at guards, and Ken Stock opposite Hradek will complete the lineup.

Spahn Wins 21st, Beats Cards, 5-0

BOSTON (AP) — Lefty Warren Spahn became the National league's first 21-game winner Thursday by pitching the Boston Braves to a two-hit 5-0 shutout over the St. Louis Cardinals.

The triumph, which gave the Braves an 11-11 season's split with the Cardinals, enabled them to continue in their second-place deadlock with the Brooklyn Dodgers, seven games back of the idle Philadelphia Phillies.

Only two rivals reached base as Spahn turned in his first whitewashing job in his 25 games.

Spahn was given a flying start by his mates. In the first frame Roy Hartsfield led off by working Gerry Staley for a base on balls and Sam Jethroe followed with his 17th homer.

St. Louis	.000	000	000	—	0	2	1
Boston	.211	000	10x	—	5	10	0

Staley, Brazle (3) and Rice; Spahn (21-15) and Crandall. LP-Staley (12-13). Home run-Jethroe.

Plan Explanation Of Social Security

A representative of the social security administration will be in Iowa City at the employment office in the Community building, 204 S. Gilbert street, at 10 a.m. Tuesday.

Kenneth Reid, manager of the Cedar Rapids office, said additional service is being provided residents of Iowa City and Johnson county in order that they may find out about their status under the new social security act.

The representative also will be at the local employment office at 10 a.m. Oct. 3.

Persons unable to call on the above date may write to the Social Security administration, 329 Federal building, Cedar Rapids.

Vincent Bartunek, 520 Brown street, is undergoing recruit training at the Naval Training center, Great Lakes, Ill. Upon completion of his training, Bartunek will be assigned either to units of the fleet or to a service school for specialized training.

Canney Files Accident Suit

A $1,131 auto accident suit by Jack W. Canney, route 1, Thursday was filed in Johnson county district court against John Nunn, 1120 E. Burlington street.

Canney charged negligence on the part of Nunn caused a collision betwen their cars June 19, 1950, just west of the intersection of Capitol and Washington streets.

According to the petition, Canney's wife, Louise, was riding with him at the time of the collision, and suffered injuries to her back and nervous system.

Canney asked $1,000 for his wife's injuries and medical costs, and $131 for repairs to his car.

Marshall Heyman Called To Active Duty in Texas

Marshall N. Heyman, 432 S. Johnson street, has been ordered to active duty with the army, Iowa military district headquarters announced Thursday.

M/Sgt. Heyman will report Oct. 6 to Ft. Hood, Tex., for necessary reception processing.

President Hancher Welcomes Foreign Students

Iowa Population Grows Slowly

Iowa's population from 1929 to the present has risen only slightly and has not kept pace with increases in the nation.

The state had 2.4-million residents in 1929 and 2.6-million in 1948. Persons leaving the state for the armed forces and war industries from 1941 to 1946 caused a population decline in the state during those years.

This is one of the long-range economic trends recently compiled into an Iowa Basic Data book by the SUI bureau of business and economic research.

According to one of the book's 34 charts, Iowans are following a historic national trend by steadily moving to larger towns. In 1840 none of Iowa's 43,112 inhabitants lived in any town over 2,500 population.

By 1940, however, over two-fifths of the state's population lived in such towns.

The data book, currently being distributed to senior high schools, junior colleges and colleges in the state, is also being offered to individuals.

Copies may be purchased for one dollar from the SUI department of publications, according to C. Woody Thompson, director of the bureau.

Income derived from agriculture in the state has historically been greater than income obtained from manufacturing, the book shows.

In 1929 Iowans received an income of $194-million from manufacturing while farming produced $419-million in income.

In a similar comparison for 1948, income from manufacturing was $642-million while farm income in the state was $1,548-million.

An index of retail sales in Iowa, using 1939 as a base of 100, shows sales in the last quarter of 1949 at 340.

This was a drop from the postwar high of 343 recorded in the third quarter of 1949.

Farm prices received by Iowa farmers, also based on an index using 1939 prices as 100, climbed to a postwar high of 359 in July, 1948, and then tapered off. In June of this year, the index stood at 281.

Other long-range economic trends traced in the book include bank debits, farm parity ratios, construction contracts and employment.

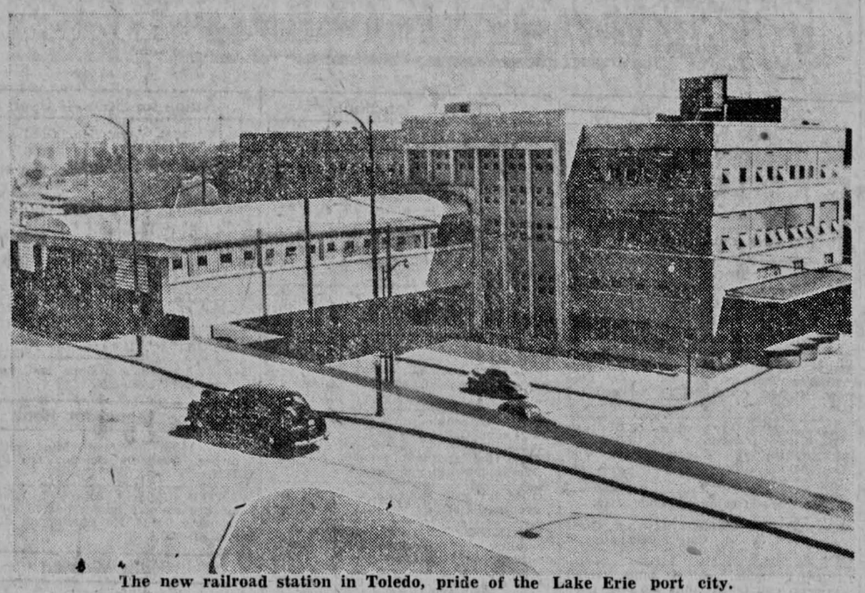
"Stop playing 'Take me out to the ball game'!"

ROOM AND BOARD — By GENE AHERN

From Shambles to Shangri-La in Toledo



The new railroad station in Toledo, pride of the Lake Erie port city.

UNTIL NOW THE PEOPLE OF TOLEDO advised visitors to their city not to judge it by the Union station. In fact, they even constructed a billboard which proclaimed, "Don't Judge Toledo by Its Union Station." Now that billboard has been replaced because the civic pride has glistened to the tune of a $3.5-million structure that has replaced the 64-year-old eyesore. Dedication of the new station set off a week-long celebration.

Truman to Veto Communist Controls As 'Liberty Threat'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Truman will veto the Communist control bill today with a strongly-worded message to congress.

The message was being drafted at the White House Thursday. Despite pleas from Democratic congressional leaders that he sign the politically-hot measure, Mr. Truman will denounce it as unconstitutional and a threat to American liberties.

Barring a sharp shift in sentiment, congress is certain to enact it over his veto. Both house and senate approved it Wednesday by far more than the two-thirds margin needed to override a veto.

The bill, aimed at check-reining Communists now and rounding up subversives if war with Russia comes, requires all Communists and Communist-front organizations to register with the justice department.

It also provides for detention of Reds in event of emergency, and tightens the nation's naturalization and espionage laws.

Mr. Truman refused to say what he will do about the measure when asked at his weekly press conference. He said it hadn't reached his desk yet, but promised quick action when it does.

But a top administration leader in the senate, who asked not to be named, said later the President definitely has decided on a veto.

"Plenty of us have been working to get he President to sign it," he said, "but he is going to veto it."

CIO President Philip Murray added his voice to those who have urged a veto. He said the CIO has no "tenderness" for Communists but he believes the bill would only drive them underground and might be used to hurt labor unions.

SUI'S CHEERLEADER CAPTAIN, JANE GRAHAM, A4, Iowa City, Thursday demonstrated a few new tactics aimed at raising the pep-ratio at this fall's football games. Sorry, fellows, but she's a Mrs. But you can still get into the act. John Harris, G. Humboldt, S.D., president of Tailfeathers, has issued a call for male cheerleaders qualified for tumbling. Interested men will meet at the gym office in the fieldhouse at 5 p.m. Wednesday. Tailfeathers, SUI's pep club, plans and carries out half-time entertainment at campus athletic events, sponsors pep rallies and assists in the selection of cheerleaders.

Schedule Appearance of Cossack Chorus Oct. 30

The famous Don Cossack chorus will appear at SUI for the third time when the group opens the SUI concert course Oct. 30.

Prof. Earl E. Harper, director of the SUI school of fine arts, is chairman of the concert course committee. Harper has announced the following performances for the 1950-51 school year.

The Don Cossack chorus and dancers, Oct. 30.

Patricia Travers, violinist, Nov. 29.

Dorothy Maynor, soprano, Jan. 17.

Minneapolis symphony orchestra, April 10, evening, and April 11, afternoon and evening.

The chorus appeared in Iowa City in 1943 and 1945, and sang to capacity audiences both times.

Patricia Travers appeared once before on the SUI music series in 1945.

Although Miss Travers was termed a "brilliant young artist" at that time, her technique and musicianship have matured and she is now recognized as one of the leading violinists.

Soprano Dorothy Maynor has recently completed a brief European tour during which she was acclaimed by critics in France, Sweden as an "outstanding artist" and a "charming personality."

This will mark Miss Maynor's first appearance in Iowa City.

The Minneapolis symphony orchestra needs no introduction to Iowa City audiences, the group having played 15 concerts in the course of the past five seasons in the SUI series.

All concerts will be in the Iowa Union main lounge.

Tickets will be available to SUI students and faculty and to Iowa City residents.

Students may obtain tickets free upon advance presentation of identification cards.

Others may purchase reserved tickets at a nominal cost. No season tickets are sold for the concert course. Tickets for single concerts will be on sale before each event at times to be announced.

Court Grants Willa Newlin Divorce

Mrs. Willa W. Newlin, Iowa City, Thursday was awarded a divorce by District Court Judge James P. Gaffney.

Mrs. Newlin had charged her husband, Willard S. Newlin, Norwalk, Calif., with cruel and inhuman treatment.

The court awarded Mrs. Newlin a divorce and custody of their minor child, and confirmed their property settlement.

Ira Orris, brother of the plaintiff, was named trustee of the child, and was awarded $2,500 for its support.

Mrs. Newlin waived any alimony or support.

Deputy Sheriffs Still Search For Whistling 'Mystery Man'

PARADIS, LA. (AP) — An 18-year-old bride-to-be, terrorized by a phantom whistler who has threatened to kill her, fled her home Thursday night, hoping for a night of untroubled sleep.

The unknown whistler, who began serenading Miss Jacquelyn Cadow with eerie funeral dirges last February, has vowed to stop her Oct. 1 marriage to 26-year-old State Trooper Herbert Beisom.

But the girl's mother, Mrs. Clifford Cadow, told reporters Thursday night, "my daughter is going to get married Oct. 1. She is going to have a big wedding and nobody is going to stop her."

While this little Bayou community of 200 watched and waited Wednesday night, the whistler called the home of Belsom's parents in New Orleans, 25 miles to the east.

"Jackie is dying at 12 o'clock tonight," the voice whispered.

The state police said they were convinced the whistling was the work of a prankster and were stepping out of the case. Neighbors are undecided whether the nocturnal whistler is a prankster, a would-be killer, or a harmless lunatic.

Mrs. Clifford Cadow, Jackie's mother, said the "mystery man" — whistling tunes and wolf calls — began skulking her home at night last February after Jackie had met Belsom the previous July. When Jacquelyn's engagement was announced Aug. 1, the mother said the whistled tunes changed to a funeral dirge and telephoned threats began.

"Your daughter will never marry Herbert," the whistler told Mrs. Cadow. "I'm going to kill her, and if I don't get her, I'll get your little boy, Mickey." Mickey is Jackie's five-year-old brother.

Marshall Sworn in as Secretary of Defense

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. George C. Marshall was sworn in as secretary of defense Thursday, and immediately announced he will meet with British and French defense ministers in New York today to discuss the rearming of Germany.

The veteran soldier-statesman, fresh from a satisfactory physical checkup at the army's Walter Reed hospital, was sworn in at the Pentagon office from which he will boss this country's vast war and rearmament program.

The ceremony was private, in accordance with Marshall's wishes. Only a handful of persons attended, including retiring Deputy Defense Secretary Stephen T. Early, one-time press secretary to the late President Roosevelt.

After taking his oath, Marshall went into conference with the joint chiefs of staff — military heads of the army, navy and airforce whose job is plotting the nation's world-wide defense strategy.

Then he called a press conference at which he announced his intention of discussing German rearmament with the British and French.

The Big Three and 12 North Atlantic pact foreign ministers discussed the question in New York last week and early this week, but postponed a decision.
