The New York Yankees all but dashed any hopes the Philadelphia Phils had of winning the world series Friday by handing the National League their third straight one-run licking, 3-2. The Yanks can win the series by taking today's game in which their "Whitey" Ford is slated to oppose either "Bubba" Church or Bob Miller.

UN Won't Go Beyond Korea, U.S. Assures

NEW YORK (AP) — The United States and Britain gave solemn assurances Friday that United Nations forces will not cross the Korean border into Communist China or the Soviet Union.

These pledges were made as several influential delegates suggested privately the president of the fifth general assembly, Naroluh Entezam, sound a call for the North Koreans to cease hostilities.

Warren R. Austin, United States, and Kenneth Younger, Britain, spoke for the eight-nation plan in the final stages of the assembly debate.

Younger assured all nations the UN forces would not carry hostilities beyond Korea nor remain in Korea longer than the UN objectives demanded.

Austin endorsed the British pledge in his speech. He said also the quicker Korea is permitted to live its own life without foreign interference, the better.

The assembly rejected a Soviet Union motion to invite North Koreans here to take part in discussions of the Korean issue.

The eight-nation plan calls for a reorganized UN commission on Korea to conduct elections and take necessary steps for setting up a unified, independent Korean government.

Determents Asked For Top Students

(From the Wire Services) WASHINGTON — Draft deferments for "exceptional" high school and college students without regard to their fields of study was urged Friday by six selective service advisory committees.

They suggested a plan to exempt students who pass the army general classification test with a score of 120 or more and remain in the top bracket of their classes.

Selective Service Director Lewis B. Hershey endorsed the plan "in principle."

President Truman, meanwhile, set Oct. 16 as the doctors' first draft registration day.

The order applies only to doctors who received their training at government expense or were deferred from selective service to complete their training, and who served less than 21 months in the military service.

Firms Show Interest In Subsidizing Floats

Several Iowa City business organizations have shown interest in financing an SUI organization wishing to enter a float in the Homecoming parade Oct. 21.

William D. Coder, chairman of the parade committee, said many small organizations were unable to enter a float in last year's parade because of too little financial backing.

This year, the parade committee has set up two classes of entries for the parade, a subsidized and non-subsidized group.

Under this plan, groups unable to finance a float will be able to contact a business organization, thus acquiring necessary funds to build a float.

Coder urged any SUI groups unable to finance a float to contact him at the veteran's service building, 110 Iowa avenue, and he will try to pair them with an interested Iowa City business firm.

Student Football Trip Planned

Plans are being made for a student bus trip to Minneapolis, Minn., for the Iowa - Minnesota football game Nov. 4, John Harris, G. Humboldt, S.D., president of Tailfeathers, announced Friday.

The bus is scheduled to leave Iowa City Saturday, Nov. 4 at 3 a.m. and return Sunday at 12:30 p.m.

Women students making the trip must have reserved approved housing before making the trip. Men students may make their own housing plans if they desire.

Bound trip bus and game tickets total $12.75. Registration for the trip will be in the Iowa Union, Oct. 12, 13 and 14.

They Have Parking Troubles, Too

CLEVELAND (AP) — Pay your parking fines or you won't graduate.

That was the word sent out Friday by President John L. Knight of Baldwin-Wallace college in nearby Berea. He made the warning in a set of regulations sent out to student drivers in an effort to control the small town's traffic problem.

"SNAFU," A2, IOWA CITY, WAS MUGGED Friday, just before the five o'clock deadline for tuition payments. Last year, Snafu was Tailfeathers' mascot but he had to give up extra-curricular activities this year because of a heavy scholastic schedule. In an interview Friday, Snafu confided that he plans to major in archeology.

150 Fail to Meet Fee Deadline; 31 ID Retakes Ordered

Nearly 150 SUI students failed to meet the 5 p.m. Friday deadline for payment of their registration fees, and are subject to late-payment fines.

University Treasurer F.L. Hamborg urged all of these students to report at his office as soon as possible to make this required payment.

The fine for late payment, he said, is $2 for the first day, today, and $1 for each additional day.

Some veterans and students with scholarships and appointments carrying tuition rebates have not made this payment, Hamborg said, because they understood they were exempt. They were asked to report to his office at once.

Office hours are from 8 a.m. to noon and from 1 to 5 p.m.

Hamborg said 31 students were asked to return today and have identification card pictures retaken. He urged them to come to the same hall in which their original pictures were taken.

They include: Robert Bailey, Robert Baldwin, Margaret Bratzel, W. Lambert Brittain, Jack Buerkle, Betsy Lou Clemens, Wayne Everson, Irving Fryauf, John Gower, Mary Hatfield, Alfred Hooper, Melvin Jansen, Dean W. Jones.

University Begins Construction Of 90-100 Car Parking Lot

Construction began Friday on a 90 to 100 car SUI parking lot east of the medical laboratory on the west campus, Fred W. Ambrose, university business manager, announced.

The new lot will be served for staff parking and will help to relieve the parking problem on adjacent streets and drives, Ambrose said.

Other SUI parking projects now underway or completed include the razing of buildings for a 35 to 40 car lot on Market street near the University per - school, a 95 car lot on Madison street north of the Iowa Union and an improved lot west of the pharmacy building.

The lot at the west end of Jefferson street has been expanded along with additional facilities at the northwest corner of the Children's hospital.

A new 30 car lot near Hillcrest was completed this fall and a lot south of the art building has been resurfaced.

"In addition to these improvements, several other new sites for parking lots are being studied," Ambrose said. "However, our next step must be the establishment of regulations insuring maximum use of all our present facilities," Ambrose explained.

"We hope to have the detailed recommendations completed and approved by early next week," he said.

CAVE-IN KILLS FOUR

ATLANTA (AP) — Tons of earth tumbled into a downtown excavation Friday and killed four workers including a heroic father who ignored a chance to jump to safety and died trying to save his son.

President Virgil Hancher, with Ambrose as chairman, will regulate the lots.

The members of the committee include Ambrose, Dean of Students L. Dale Faunce, Prof. Richard L. Holcomb of the institute of public affairs, R.J. Phillips, superintendent of maintenance and operation, and Prof. James Jordan, head of the SUI information service.

John C. Strabala Jr., 16, 1012 E. Washington street, was in "good" condition at Mercy hospital Friday night after he was accidentally shot Thursday at the City high school rifle range.

School officials did not disclose the name of the boy who wounded Strabala in the arm with a small-caliber pistol. They said the youth brought the gun to show to his instructor, Sgt. Walter D. Winborn, SUI department of military science.

Both boys were members of the school rifle team which was scheduled to hold its initial meet at the rifle range Thursday.

Red Tanks Rumble South

Predict Landing Behind Reds

TOKYO, (SATURDAY) (AP) — Gen. Douglas MacArthur shrouded his major striking forces in secrecy Friday for what observers believed could be a forthcoming three-way amphibious knockout punch to end the Korean war.

The activity of all United Nations ground forces in Korea except three South Korean divisions was kept secret.

Apparently anticipating an amphibious assault, the Reds sowed both land and sea mines along a wide stretch of the Korean east coast and begin moving forces in Wonsan back toward the north.

Observers believed MacArthur was building up to a knockout punch with these possibilities:

1. A smashing attack across the 38th parallel north of Seoul along the road leading to the North Korean capital of Pyongyang.
2. An amphibious landing on the west coast north of Pyongyang to cut off the main body of Communist troops and government leaders from escape across the Yalu river in Red Manchuria.
3. A similar landing on the east coast somewhere north of Wonsan.
4. A combination of all three possibilities, forming a new hammer and anvil attack from which there could be no escape.

Ten Finalists Selected For SUI Dolphin Queen

Ten SUI coeds were named Friday as candidates for Dolphin queen, Jon Thorson, A2, Dubuque, chairman of the queen committee announced.

The Dolphin club's annual show, at which the queen will reign, will be a part of the Homecoming weekend festivities.

The 10 finalists were chosen from a field of 27 women representing all women's housing units on campus.

Those selected were Mickie Berg, A4, Chicago, Ill.; Mary Jo Clark, A1, Iowa City; Patricia DeVilbiss, P4, Waukegan, Ill.; Francine Kruse, A3, Vinton; Jody Palmer, A2, Aurora, Ill.; Jean Reller, A2, Jefferson.

Pat Severson, A4, Soldier; Marilyn Smith, A4, Rockford; Jo Thompson, A2, Davenport, and Kay Wildman, A4, Sully.

The final vote for the Dolphin queen will be taken Thursday but the queen and her four attendants will not be announced until Oct. 19, the opening night of the Dolphin show.

"Manhattan Serenade" is the title of this year's show. It will be presented each night during Homecoming, with two shows on Oct. 21.

Beginning today, The Daily Iowan will print one picture each day of the queen candidates.

"Manhattan Serenade" will consist of swimming acts, exhibition diving, synchronized swimming demonstrations and special water stunts.

Buelah Gundling, Cedar Rapids, U.S. entry in the synchronized swimming field at the Pan-American games in Buenos Aires next spring, will appear in the show.

Miss Gundling won the national senior women's AAU outdoor solo synchronized swimming championship at the Cypress Gardens in Chicago last August.

Over 35 Students Apply For Fulbright Scholarship

More than 35 students made applications for Fulbright scholarships during the first week for applications at SUI, according to Richard E. Sweitzer, Fulbright program advisor. Deadline for applications is Oct. 31, 1950.

Students awarded the scholarships will receive one year of graduate study abroad in a field of their choice.

Eight students from SUI are abroad studying during the 1950-51 school year.

One Flew for Uncle Sam, One for Germany's Luftwaffe

Enemies in War, SUI Students Now Dorm Neighbors

By CHUCK LEEDHAM
George Sperl and Eugene Thomson, SUI graduate students, were both pilots in World War II. Now dormitory neighbors at SUI, they pal around together, talk over their war experiences and argue the merits of their outfits.

This situation seems quite ordinary—but it isn't. Instead of flying together for Uncle Sam, Sperl and Thomson spent the last year of the war trying to kill each other.

"In addition to these improvements, several other new sites for parking lots are being studied," Ambrose said. "However, our next step must be the establishment of regulations insuring maximum use of all our present facilities," Ambrose explained.

"We hope to have the detailed recommendations completed and approved by early next week," he said.

Square, Rockefeller center, his first television show—and came out to Iowa City Sept. 21.

Iowa City and SUI were a surprise to him, Sperl said. German universities usually are in one large building, or spread over a large town in buildings housing separate departments, he pointed out.

At SUI he found a sprawling campus, new and spacious buildings, and living facilities far different from anything he had known.

Classes, examinations and other aspects of American university life were strange to him, too. In Germany, he explained, students rarely enter into class discussions, except in advanced graduate seminars.

German students come and go to class as they please and take one comprehensive exam at the end of four years, rather than final examinations in each course at the end of a semester.

Having been here less than three weeks, Sperl still is discovering new things about SUI. At the pep rally on campus before the Iowa-Southern California football game, he was amazed at the school spirit displayed by students.

George's fluent and nearly accentless English, learned in German schools, help make class work comparatively easy for him. With just one year on his exchange scholarship, he plans to get the most out of his stay here.

James Liek, G, Iowa City, chairman of the musicians' union committee for the program, said the Carnival of Bands is considered one of the largest and best attended projects in the Midwest and will be covered by "Downbeat magazine," musicians' trade paper.

Ed McLaughlin, E3, Des Moines, chairman of the Union board program committee, announced the times the bands are scheduled to play.

Main lounge — Chuck Heyne, 2-3 p.m.; Bill Meardon, 3-4 p.m., and Grant Eastham, 4-5 p.m.

Say Track Magnates Paid Old Capone Gang

CHICAGO (AP) — The senate crime committee Friday was told that a member of the old Capone gang got two big bundles of money from race track operators.

Named as key figure in the transactions was Paul "the Waiter" Ricca, a former henchman of Al Capone. He also has been described by Sen. Alexander Wiley (R-Wis.), a member of the committee, as the leader of the secret organization known as the "Mafia."

ENEMIES IN WAR BUT FRIENDS IN PEACE, Gene Thomson, G, Garrison (left), and George Sperl, G, Munich, Germany, talk over their experiences as opposing pilots during World War II. Thomson flew an American bomber over Austria and Germany, and Sperl, a Luftwaffe fighter pilot, attacked Thomson's squadron on many occasions when it bombed his base. The two are now cottage neighbors and close friends.

Watering Our New War Elephant

Stalin Lied About Intents Stassen Says

By J.M. ROBERTS JR.
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

Harold Stassen says, in effect, that Joseph Stalin lied to him about Russia's peaceful intentions in 1947, but that he is willing to give the premier another chance.

Recalling Stalin's peace statement, the president of the University of Pennsylvania and former candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, said:

"I find it impossible to reconcile that statement with the North Korean aggression, with the Soviet Union's refusal to cooperate in stopping that aggression, with the Soviet Union's rearmament of eastern Germany and with other recent actions of the Soviet Union."

Russia must change, Stassen tells Stalin in a letter suggesting another conference between them, if the drift toward war is to be stopped.

U.S. Will Fight

He thinks the greatest danger of war lies in Russian miscalculation of America's strength and firmness of intention. He wants to try to convince Stalin that Russia cannot cause a collapse of the western economy and that Americans will fight if necessary for their ideals.

Well, there's an old saying that there is no harm in trying, but it isn't always true.

Russia at the moment is conducting a propaganda campaign designed to weaken the will of the west to resist. American leaders are worried lest an end of fighting in Korea produce a public revolution against the burdens of preparedness. Stalin will probably jump at a chance to tell people that it is all unnecessary, and many people are prone to believe what they want to believe.

Message Repeated

Nor is the message which Stassen will carry something new. The very same message was delivered at the Kremlin by the United States ambassador, Bedell Smith, in 1948. Russia's reply has been plain.

The timing and content of the Stassen letter very strongly suggest a domestic political motive. Stassen is not a candidate for anything at the moment, but since becoming president of the University of Pennsylvania he has become active in the Grundy political organization in that state.

The Republicans all over the country, pointing to the incumbency of Democrats during all of America's wars in this century, are trying to label their opponents in this election campaign as members of a "war party," and themselves as members of a "peace party."

Stassen says his move was made in consultation not with government officials in Washington, but with "other university presidents, Republican leaders of the senate and house, leaders of Republican state organizations" and others.

If Mr. Stassen is right it is not a matter for condemnation if his act has political effects. But any approach which might give Stalin a dangerous opening is something for very careful consideration. Stalin's words of peace would fill a book almost as large as the record of his aggressive actions.

Beardsley Requests State Salary Study

DES MOINES (AP)—Gov. William S. Beardsley said Friday he had asked executive council Secretary Henry Wichman and an administrative assistant to make a study of state employees' salaries.

The governor said he wanted the information to "see what the immediate situation is" and for use in preparing budget recommendations to the 1951 legislature.

Arthur Wallace, an administrative assistant, will assist Wichman in the project, Beardsley said. He added the two were asked to report to him "as soon as possible."

Although state employees have had some salary adjustments during the last two years "within brackets" provided by the state pay scales, there "might be some people who would be forgotten" under the system, the governor said.

Beardsley noted that the recent increases in federal income tax rates and other cost of living boosts affect state employees "as well as other people."

Wilson, Union Come To Terms on Contract

CHICAGO (AP)—Wilson and Co. and the CIO packinghouse workers union came to terms on a new contract Friday, ending the threat of a strike by 10,000 workers in seven plants across the country.

Specific terms of the agreement were not disclosed, but the company and union said they conformed "generally" with contracts signed by the UPW with other packers.

Television Planned for Union

There's one thing the Union still needs, despite all the conveniences and good features it now offers.

Any student surely can hear a radio in his room or the room of a friend. Letters can even be written with a pad on the knee if the poorer faring student doesn't have a desk in his room. And nice as the furniture is in the main lounge and the Union library, studying and resting could be carried out in other places if necessary. Though crowded and not as comfortable and pleasant, other soda bars and restaurants in town also could handle the Union's business if necessary.

This is not to disparage the features the Union does have. The crowds that visit the building and use its facilities attest to its value to the students.

But there is one more thing we need there and we've found that we may soon get it. It's television.

Watching a world series or football games would be just part of the enjoyment that would come from having a set placed on a high level in the main lounge. The Union might become more popular than ever if, in the evenings, crowds could gather to watch the programs which are becoming increasingly popular.

Frank Burge, assistant director of the Union, told us Friday the only reason we have no set now is that engineers have advised against it until a relay station about 10 miles northeast of here is completed. The reason for this, he said, is the low area or the valley in which the Union sits.

We're glad it won't be necessary to wait until the addition to the Union is built. It's good to know that the persons responsible have had the idea in mind all along, and that fulfillment of the idea will be in the near future.

Futile Campaign

(Reprinted from the St. Louis Star-Times)
Toy soldiers, guns and bombers should be outlawed, Miss N. S. C. Tendeloo, a Dutch delegate, has told the Inter-Parliamentary Union Conference in Dublin. Such stuff, says she, makes children war-minded.

She has an argument with child psychologists on her hands. There are many who say such toys actually decrease war-mindedness in the youngsters. Play lets them work off animosities and anger, prevents the building of repressions—stuff like that.

Even more, though, she has quite an argument with kids themselves, and she's bound to lose. Because there isn't a youngster worth the name who couldn't circumvent the sort of ban she proposes in roughly three minutes flat.

For a moppet of five any loose bit of wood can become a Colt revolver, a snubnosed automatic or a Garand at will. (It can also become an alpenstock, an umbrella, a snake, a flagpole, a bow, an arrow and a tree in quick succession, but never mind that.)

Any two sticks of wood tied or even held together can be a P-51 or a B-36 or even a B-604X upon the game's demands. Even if one were to take sticks away entirely, one would still be licked. There's a queer thing kids do way down deep in their throats that makes a machine-gun stutter guaranteed to render any passing adult a dead duck.

It's just no good, Miss Tendeloo. The kids have you licked before you start.

Communists Spread Propaganda as They Flee South Koreans

YANGYANG, KOREA (AP)—Panic swept this North Korean town when word came that South Korean forces had crossed the 38th parallel and were coming to occupy Yangyang.

There was good reason for fright.

Communist propaganda had told the people of Yangyang that South Korean soldiers put metal rings through the noses of captives and led them through the streets like cattle.

The propaganda said women would be raped and mutilated.

Instead, the South Koreans arrived peacefully. There was no brutality. The South Koreans talked with the residents of Yangyang about the subject most important to every Korean—the unification of North and South Korea.

Bloodlessly, Yangyang became the first iron-curtain town in Asia to be liberated.

News of the border crossing reached Yangyang on Sunday, Oct. 1. Immediately the 100-man North Korean army unit in Yangyang began packing. So did the political commissar and the security police.

Word spread quickly through the town of 10,000. Half the residents threw food and precious belongings into bundles, heaved them onto their backs, and took to the hills.

"Pretty soon," said one of them, 50-year-old Chai Byong Il, "we have decided we had done nothing wrong and that we were being foolish. So we came back."

Chai told me how it was in Yangyang then.

People Return
Soon the streets held their normal quota of white-clad civilians.

Crudely—made paper flags of the Republic of Korea appeared on every store front, at every gate, in every child's hands.

The South Korean soldiers and the citizens of onetime Red Yangyang gathered in bunches and shared fruit, biscuits and talk of unification.

There were almost as many flags of the Republic of Korea on display as there had been in villages and towns south of the 38th parallel.

As we talked, sitting on the floor of Chai's tiny room on a side street, Chai heard for the first time that the fight against North Korea was not started by South Korean aggressors or American "imperialists."

Chai thought a moment, looked uneasily around the little bare room, then whispered:

"We hate the Communist leaders who started this war. The

Correspondent Finds C Ration Not Only Edible but Appetizing

By H. D. QUIGG
United Press Staff Correspondent
WITH U.S. FORCES KOREA

—Veterans of World War II will probably feel like releasing an emotion or two when they learn that our text for today is the C ration.

Don't stalk out in disgust, men. C ration has come of age. Something new has been added to the canned stuff "our boys" are chomping in the field. Much of the new C ration is tasty enough to grace the table in a semi-respectable eating dump in the states.

The old C ration, as I remember it in the last war, came in three delicious flavors: meat and beans, meat and vegetable stew, and meat and vegetable hash. After a while—say three or four months—there developed about this diet a monotony which can only be described by direct quotation: "Ugh."

In the new ration, however, you are likely to bump without warning into cans containing such labels as sausage patties with gravy, ham and eggs with potatoe, chicken and vegetables, ham and lima beans, beans with pork and tomato sauce, hamburgers with gravy, and ground meat and spaghetti in sauce.

They can be, and very frequently are, eaten cold. But they're much better hot. Heating involves starting a fire. That might be done by rubbing together North Korean and South Korean—or possibly marine and GI—but the common method is by striking a "humidity resistant safety match."

"Humidity resistant safety matches" come in an "accessory packet" in the C ration or "individual combat ration box." They work fine except when wet or "after long exposure to damp air" as it says on the match folder.

Build Fire
There are several methods of building a fire. One is by gathering kindling wood. Another utilizes an empty can. In the latter method you put some dirt in an ordinary twelve ounce C ration can. Then you obtain some Jeep gasoline or some airplane gasoline. Pour the gasoline on the dirt. Light a safety match, throw it in the can and step back quickly.

If it doesn't explode you have—as GIs say—"got it made." It burns with an issue of oily smoke. Put a couple of bricks or stones next to the fire to set your food cans on.

No matter what kind of fire you use you've got to keep stirring to keep the food at the bottom of the can from burning black. This is done with a "plastic spoon." Several plastic spoons are to be found—wrapped in cellophane—in a cardboard individual combat ration box. They are a fine addition to the C ration—a clean batch with each box, and they're all you need in the way of tableware.

Kids Gather
While heating your food you're practically certain to be surrounded by kids, their hands extended, calling "allo, allo," and likely to be visited—as I was the other day—by a Korean housewife about your laundry. My housewife pointed toward a sign in her front yard. This is exactly what it said: "Right opposite, a wash house. Please call or whistle if you necessity."

'Voice' Suggests Kissing Machine
WASHINGTON (AP)—A kissing machine to accommodate lovelorn Communist girls was suggested Friday by the "Voice of America" as a goal for the Kremlin's next five-year plan.

Red newspapers, which have claimed Russia invented almost everything else, printed a poem by 18-year-old Irish Nebel in the Soviet Zone of eastern Germany. The paper cited it as "a notable example of progress in the working class."

One verse of the poem, titled "Ode to the machine," ran: "I love you because you are beautiful. You shine in the sun and you are so strong; You give me new courage when I am disheartened—You, my friend, —the machine." "Voice" broadcasts relayed this seemingly-sad state of young Communist love back to Russia and added:

"We do not think the Kremlin, which has invented everything, has as yet devised a machine which can kiss a young girl. Perhaps in the next five-year plan... Who, knows?"

FARM FRATERNITY MEETS
DES MOINES (AP)—Delegates from 33 states met Friday for the opening of the 31st biennial convention of Alpha Gamma Rho, a national agricultural fraternity.

Stock Market Prices Reach New High

NEW YORK (AP)—Stock market prices advanced to a new 1950 average high Friday in a broad movement resulting in gains of as much as $2 and $3 a share among the leaders.

New highs for the year also were established by 160 individual issues, an unusually large number. Only three new lows were reached.

These striking gains were scattered widely throughout the list, but the leadership for the advance was supplied by steels, motors and oils.

Rails, distillers and building material issues contributed substantially to move.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks moved up 60 cents to $84.60, the highest level since Feb. 27, 1931. This is the third time this week that the AP average established a new high for the year, each going back 10 years.

The industrial component of the average was up $1.10, rails 50 cents and utilities 10 cents.

Altogether there were 1,162 individual issues traded of which 606 advanced 291 declined.

The volume was a tidy 2,360,000 as compared with 2,490,000 shares Thursday.

Cattle Steady

CHICAGO (AP)—Hogs turned higher in price Friday for the first time in two weeks. Cattle were steady to weak with little offered while sheep were unevenly weak to firm.

Most good and choice barrows and gilts sold from $18.00 to $19.60 and a top of $19.65, sows took $16.00 to $19.00. Clearance was good on a supply estimated at 5,000 head, which was in line with trade expectations.

Medium to good steers fetched $25.00 to $29.00 and medium to low-good heifers were $24.00 to $28.25. Common to medium beef cows ranged from $18.50 to $20.50, medium to low-good sausage bulls from $23.50 to $25.50, and medium to choice vealers from $27.00 to $33.00.

Killing quality lambs topped at $27.50, yearlings at $23.50, and ewes at $15.00.

Receipts also included 1,500 cattle, of which around 500 were stockers. An estimated 200 calves and 1,000 sheep likewise were on hand.

Soybeans Rise...
CHICAGO (AP)—A fairly brisk short-covering movement lifted soybeans as much as 3 cents on the board of trade Friday. The firmness in beans was reflected in moderate advances for other cereals.

Less favorable weather for harvesting, expectations of export sales of soybean oil and belief Monday's government cotton report will show a further reduction in that crop spurred the buying in beans. Trading was quite active at times in beans, but not in anything else.

Wheat closed 1/4-3/4 higher, corn 1/4-1/2 higher, oats 3/4-1 higher, rye 1/2-3/4 higher, soybeans 2/4 to 3 cents higher and lard 20 to 42 cents a hundred pounds higher.

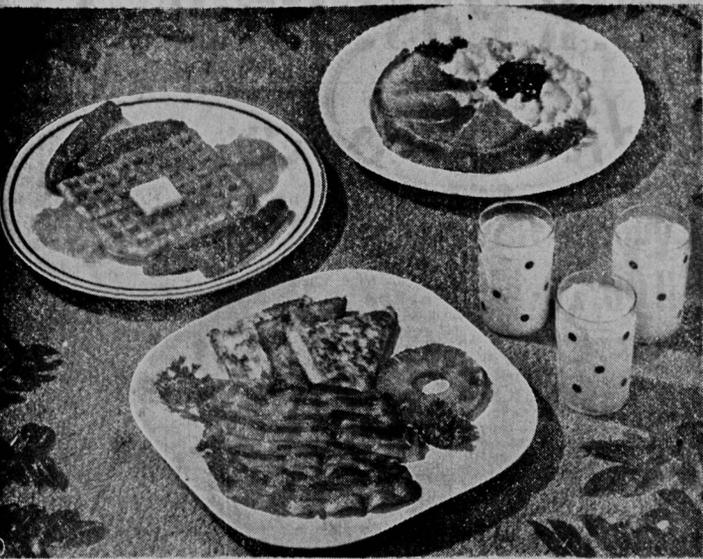

Soybeans have not encountered much hedging pressure as yet, traders said, most of the cash beans coming here being applied on previous sales. However, the bulk of the movement is still to come and it is this fact which has led the shorts to believe prices will sink lower.

Some shorts decided not to wait longer Friday, particularly with the cotton forecast coming up. This was expected to show less cottonseed, from which oil is made. That in turn would indicate a greater demand for soybean oil, made from soybeans.

Hearty 'Wake-Up' Breakfasts for Winter Mornings

Hearty Breakfasts Suggested to Start Winter Days Right

Research has shown that a hearty breakfast is necessary for energy, especially on cold winter mornings.

Here are three breakfasts designed to start the day off right: 1. Sausage links with waffles and spiced apple sauce. The apple sauce also may be served with spoon bread and fried cornmeal mush. For quick service, you might prepare the waffle batter the night before or use packaged mix.

When breakfast time comes, place sausage in a cold skillet and cook over low heat for 12 to 15 minutes, pouring off fat as it accumulates. Never cook quickly or skins will burst.

To prepare apple sauce, add 1/4 teaspoon cinnamon and a pinch of cloves to a can of applesauce. Color a delicate pink with a few drops of red food coloring and heat.

2. Fried ham slice and scrambled eggs: Slash fat edge of ham slice and broil or pan fry. Uncooked ham will require longer cooking than ready-to-eat ham.

In a double boiler cook the scrambled eggs so that the meat will be ready to eat at about the same time. Center eggs with strawberry preserves.

3. Bacon with pineapple French toast: Cook bacon slowly so it is evenly crisp. Lay the unseparated slices in a cold skillet and pan fry over low heat.

Bacon slices will separate as they cook. Pour off fat as soon as it accumulates for extra-crisp bacon. Drain bacon on absorbent paper and keep in a warm place.

Fry French toast and pineapple slices in bacon drippings. Use pineapple juice or pineapple syrup instead of milk if desired.

To make the French toast, combine 2 eggs, 1/3 teaspoon salt and 2/3 cup canned pineapple syrup. Pour into shallow bowl or pan.

Dip bread slices quickly in pineapple and egg mixture and fry in bacon drippings until lightly browned.

the road ahead...

The boy who brings your paper every day is probably an average newspaperboy. . . However, we would not say he was an average boy because he has a head start on most of the fellows. You see he is a chap who has good marks in school. He has to have to lease his route. He's ambitious, that's obvious.

This boy is thinking of the road ahead. . . the day when he'll be twenty-five, then thirty-five, and earning his own living. We'll bet he's a success. You see he's learning the things that count now.

Movie Has Novel Plot

— With 'Casual Killings' —

By JACK LARSEN

Without risking comparisons, it's a safe wager that most audiences will find "Kind Hearts and Coronets" equal if not prior to its recent predecessors, "Passport to Pimlico" and "The Little Island."

The fact is, this newest British comedy, which opened Friday at the Capitol theatre, is especially distinguished for its original, unique plot. About the only thing definitely borrowed from Tennyson is its title. In a not-often-ventured comic tradition which seeks to make order funny, it stands above "Arsenic and Old Lace," its most memorable competitor in that tradition. There that American comedy reveled much of its laughter by being to rowdiness, "Kind Hearts and Coronets" succeeds even better in making a comic story by remaining "killingly" usual.

The plot concerns a young nobleman who sets out to murder the surviving relatives, who've disinherited him, in order to acquire both family title and fortune. Guinness, who gained his American reputation largely through his appearance in "The Cocktail Party" in New York, plays all eight doomed members of the D'Ascoyne family.

With such an acting opportunity, he is bound to divert some attention from the other players by reason of sheer novelty. But it is regrettable that other performances as noteworthy have been overlooked, and that some of our sagacious critics have been unable to see the trees for the forest.

Guinness is beyond a doubt superb, even if his distinct delineations of character are prevented from rising above the level of caricature.

It would be unjust to overlook Dennis Price as the aspiring dandy who plays his own game of "Little Indians." He captures the spirit of the period of the story as well as the whimsical mood on which the story depends for much of its humor. His is a portrayal as well-balanced as a teacup on a Victorian knee.

Joan Greenwood as a saucy temptress continues to display gracefully the affinity for comedy apparent in "Tight Little Island." She is not teasingly sexy but possesses a throaty voice which makes her Britain's closest counterpart to Jean Arthur.

Valerie Hobson in a genteel, unspectacular role (there are one or two in the picture, incidentally) performs with a great deal of charm. And she has never before looked as beautiful.

Film Depends On Narration
With so much to recommend a film, it's perhaps pity to mention that the film tends to depend too much on offscreen narration.

But while this dependence impedes the flow of action, it permits some condensation of plot and at the same time is frequently as hilarious as any incident in the action itself. A case in point is the couplet recited by the "hero" after indulging in a bit of archery on a suffragette aunt.

"Kind Hearts and Coronets" is a triumph of drollery for its writers, its director, its actors. It is genuinely amusing without trying to be. It is a model for tongue-in-cheek comedy while maintaining a relaxed pace.

It fulfills its artistic function in that it succeeds in doing what it set out to do—to provide unconventional, adult amusement of high technical quality.

Iowa Labor Group Questions Candidates

About 100 persons attended a public meeting Thursday night at the American War Dad's hall where candidates for county and state offices were asked to tell of their stand on various labor problems.

Among speakers at the meeting, sponsored by the Iowa State Federation of Labor, was Frank F. Messer, a Democratic candidate for judge of the Iowa supreme court in the coming November elections.

Messer said he was "strongly in favor of non-partisan election of supreme court judges." The common man, he continued, should be assured that the courts are free of any political bias.

Jack C. White, Democratic candidate for county attorney and first speaker of the evening, urged every member present at the meeting to go out and vote at the coming elections.

White was followed by William L. Meardon, Republican candidate for the same office.

Other speakers for the evening were: Albert J. Murphy, Republican candidate for county sheriff; James G. Donohue, Democratic candidate for sheriff; Joseph Rain, Democratic candidate for the state house of representatives; and G. M. Ludwig, Republican candidate for state representative.

West Point Exams Open to Reservists

Organized reserve and national guard examinations for entrance to the U.S. military academy, West Point, N.Y., for the 1951-52 school year will open in November, Iowa military district headquarters announced Friday.

Applicants for entrance must file before Nov. 1 in order to be eligible for the preliminary exam and be 17 but not 18.

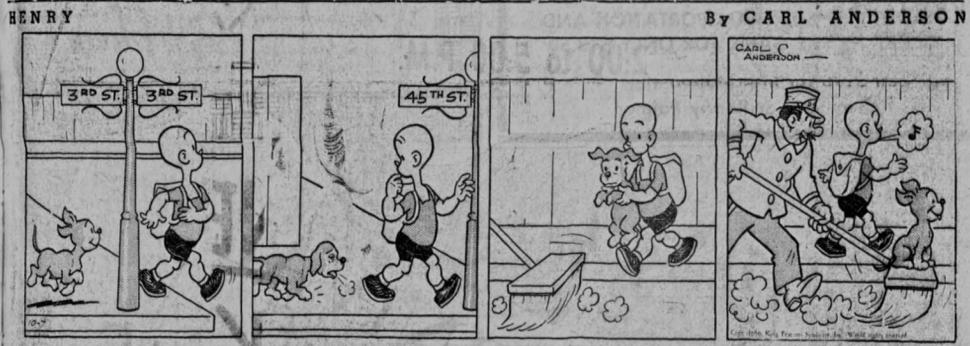

To be eligible an applicant must be on active service in the active reserve, or have been in active reserve training before being called to duty.

Former enlisted men now on active duty with the reserve as temporary commissioned or warrant officers, or as aviation cadets also are eligible if they meet requirements.

Local Junior C of C To Sponsor Annual HS Speech Contest

Iowa City's junior chamber of commerce will sponsor the fourth annual "Voice of Democracy" public speaking contest, Glenn Cline, contest chairman, announced Friday.

Cline said he expected all ten Johnson county high schools to participate in the contest which has its finals in Little Theater at Iowa City high at 10 a.m. on Oct. 29.

Contests will be held soon at each high school in the county to determine who is to represent each of the ten high schools in the final contest. Each school will have one representative with the exception of Iowa City high and University high. Both will have two finalists.

A recording will be made of the winning speech in the county contest. It will then be sent to the state contest and the winner of that contest will have his or her recording forwarded to Washington, D.C., for the national contest.

Names of the 12 Johnson county contestants must be turned in to the Iowa City Jaycees not later than Oct. 27.

A banquet will be held Nov. 7 for the Johnson county contestants.

The four winners of the national contest will receive $500 scholarships to any accredited college or university, an all expense trip to Washington, D.C., and an audience with President Truman.

Dinner Opens United Jewish Appeal Drive

The Iowa City section of the United Jewish appeal will open Sunday at 6 p.m. with a dinner at Hotel Jefferson. The appeal's national goal this year is $272-million.

Manfred Arie, former supreme court justice of Vienna, Austria, and an authority on international law for the United Nations, will speak to the group.

A short movie, filmed by Eddie Cantor on a recent trip to Israel, will be shown.

The funds raised in the appeal will be used to transport, feed, clothe, and rehabilitate displaced persons in Europe. These people will be moved to Israel as rapidly as funds are available for their transportation and care.

The drive here will open in conjunction with a national "C" day. "C" day is being sponsored by a Christian Relief association directed by Eddie Cantor. Each year this group gives a portion of its funds to the appeal.

The United Jewish appeal is a joint operation carried on by the United Palestine appeal, the Joint Distribution committee, and United Service for New Americans.

The goal this year has been set $22-million higher than last year's mark of $250-million. The 1949 campaign raised $112-million.
