Yale Psychiatrist Slain

(From the Wire Services) NEW HAVEN, CONN. — What caused a British-accented Yale-Harvard graduate to slay Dr. Lewis Thorne, Yale psychiatrist, Sunday night seemingly was partially solved Monday. It was learned that the graduate had spent more than two recent years in mental hospitals.

No formal charge has been lodged against 27-year-old Theodore A. Trent-Lyon of New Haven, but State's Atty. Abraham S. Ullman said "there's not much question" but that he will be accused of shooting Dr. Thorne and seriously wounding Mrs. Thorne from the doorway of their home.

Grand Jury Ullman, disclosing that a grand jury will be summoned "in a couple of days," said Dr. Thorne had treated Trent-Lyon nearly a dozen years ago, and that the latter "resented it" when the psychiatrist told him he was a mental case.

Both the prosecutor and the state police said that when Trent-Lyon was apprehended at a Springfield, Mass., bus terminal five hours after the shooting, he had a .22 automatic pistol in his pocket and seven exploded cartridges. Returned to New Haven, they said Mrs. Thorne identified him as the assailant.

Answered Door The shooting occurred when Thorne went to the door to answer the expected call of a neighbor. Mrs. Thorne was resting in the living room, her first trip down stairs subsequent to a recent major operation.

She heard her husband speak, then shots rang out and he staggered into the living room. Trent-Lyon, according to her story to police then turned his gun on her and clubbed her, with a heavy sick he carried.

Security Bar Lifted To Allow Concerts By Austrian Youth

NEW YORK (AP) — A 20-year-old Austrian pianist who was forced under Nazi law to join the Hitler Youth movement at the age of 10, was permitted Monday to enter the U.S. for six days for a concert engagement.

The youth, Friedrich Guida, had been held on Ellis Island for more than 48 hours under the nation's new internal security act, which bars admission of anyone who has ever been a member of, or "affiliated" with, a Communist, Nazi or Fascist party.

The same law had threatened for a time to bar the return to his home here of Arturo Toscanini, the world's most renowned conductor, who arrives from Europe today.

But immigration department officials in Washington quickly issued a statement saying the 33-year-old musician would be allowed to re-enter this country, thereby avoiding a certain storm of pygmy from artistic circles.

Local Rent Control Goes on Ballot in General Election

The problem of whether rent control in Iowa City should be discontinued will be placed before the electorate at the general election Nov. 7.

The Iowa City council Monday night made the decision in a vote of four to two.

Favoring controls, Fred Amrose, SUI business manager, said, "A housing shortage will exist in Iowa City until the 1,001 student families living in temporary housing units are moved to permanent quarters."

Floyd Duncan, representing the Property Owners association of Iowa City, spoke against continuing controls.

Dr. Paul E. Huston, associate professor of psychiatry, spoke in favor of controls, together with Students Lawrence Conover, 1020 Kirkwood court, and Mel Baker, G. Finkbine Park.

A survey taken during an eight-day period last month showed that no real estate agencies in Iowa City had vacancies, while 20 dwellings were advertised in the papers. Thirty-one persons advertised for a house or an apartment.

One realtor had a waiting list of 6.

SUI had a waiting list of 200 families.

Other university families, numbering 958, were living in university maintained houses.

The survey showed that most of the landlords who asked for rent increases obtained them, and that the increases averaged more than 21 percent.

Halstead Carpenter Of Education Board Dies of Heart Attack

Halstead M. Carpenter, 59, member of the state board of education, died Monday of a heart attack while at work in the Monticello State bank, where he had been cashier since 1922.

Mr. Carpenter, active in state Democratic party circles, was serving his fourth year on the state board of education. He was also president of the Franklin Equipment company, Monticello.

SUI President Virgil M. Hancher issued the following statement soon after Mr. Carpenter's death was announced:

"The death of Mr. Halstead Carpenter of Monticello, a member of the Iowa state board of education, is a great loss to state-supported higher education in Iowa. On behalf of the State University of Iowa, I extend sincerest sympathy to his widow, to his brother, Dr. M.F. Carpenter of our department of English, and to the other members of his family.

"Mr. Carpenter was a man of great ability and high character. He was a frank, candid and loyal friend.

"Mr. Carpenter brought all of his qualities to bear on the problems of higher education, and especially he contributed a knowledge of business and finance which was invaluable.

"In his death, higher education has lost a true friend."

Mr. Carpenter was born Feb. 21, 1891, at Monticello and was graduated from Monticello high school and Lake Forest academy. He received a Ph.D. degree from the University of Chicago in 1919.

Local Woman Claims Saw Necedah Vision; Sun Whirled, Sank

By CHUCK LEEDHAM An Iowa City woman saw the sun "whirl and dip" Saturday over Necedah, Wis., she said here Monday.

Standing less than 15 feet away from Mrs. Fred Van Hoof in the center of a throng of 25,000 persons, Mrs. George A. Parizek, 1304 E. Davenport street, heard people around her shouting, "The sun! It's whirling!"

"I turned to look up into the sky," Mrs. Parizek said, "and I saw it whirling."

"It looked as though there was a silver dollar lying in the center of a pool of blood, and it was whirling too."

Mrs. Parizek was one of 19 Iowa City women who traveled Saturday to the little farm near Necedah to be present when Mrs. Van Hoof had said she would receive her seventh visitation from the Virgin Mary. Mrs. Parizek said that at first she couldn't believe her eyes.

"I asked myself if I were imagining things or really seeing it," she said.

"Then I looked harder, and the sun was really whirling. It dropped down a little, and the clouds around it danced."

"The clouds were lit with rays of vari-colored light, and rays of light shone on the house, on the people and on the statue of the Virgin."

When Mrs. Van Hoof first came out of her house to pray before a statue of the Virgin, Mrs. Parizek said, the weather was cloudy. After she spoke to the crowd for about five minutes, the clouds cleared away and the sun shone through.

"It was then that it began to whirl," Mrs. Parizek reported. "The other Iowa City women I talked with saw it too. I wasn't watching it all the time, but the whirling seemed to last about 15 minutes."

Mrs. Van Hoof, after praying beside a statue of the Virgin set up inside a cordon of fences, delivered a 25-minute plea to the crowd, asking them to pray harder for peace, and warning of "terrible trouble" in coming years unless people prayed.

"I was standing less than 15 feet away from her when she spoke to the crowd," Mrs. Parizek said, "but there were people in front of me on chairs and rocks. I could see what was going on only when they moved out of the way for a moment."

"Mrs. Van Hoof delivered the message from the Blessed Virgin, and then there was a moment of silence."

"I heard a rattling noise, and people craned to look. Someone told me, 'I think she's dead,' and I heard someone else say she had fallen to the ground holding her hand over her chest."

"Her husband brought a glass of water from the house," Mrs. Parizek continued, "and they tried to revive her. She was finally brought around and walked into the house without saying anything else."

"The tribunal refused to reconsider its decision of last June which required the University of Texas law school to admit Herman Marion Sweat, a Negro."

It further emphasized its position by declining to review a Maryland appeals court ruling that the University of Maryland must admit Esther McReedy, Baltimore Negro, to its nursing school.

In another ruling Monday the high tribunal denied Sen. Glen Taylor (D-Idaho), a review of his conviction on disorderly conduct charges in Birmingham, Ala., May 1, 1948.

Taylor was fined $50 and was sentenced to 180 days in jail. Justices Hugo Black and William O. Douglas favored a review of the case.

Told of the high tribunal's ruling, Taylor said in Pocatello, Idaho, that he had no intention of going to Alabama to turn himself over to "that chain gang."

★ ★ ★ To 'Get' Taylor ...

BIRMINGHAM, ALA. (AP) — Police Commissioner Eugene (Bull) Connor said Monday that if Sen. Glen H. Taylor (D-Idaho), doesn't come back to Alabama to serve a jail term "I'm going to get him."

"He owes a debt to society and he's going to pay it," Connor said. "If they don't send him down here, I'm going to get him. We're going to put him in the Southside jail to serve his time like anybody else."

Connor added he would take immediately the necessary legal steps for Taylor's extradition. Asked whether he expected trouble with the extradition, Connor said, "We'll cross that bridge when we get to it."

Callahan Resigns From City Council

James M. Callahan, alderman for Iowa City's first ward, Monday submitted his resignation to Mayor Preston Koser.

Callahan listed ill health as his reason for resigning. He served in office for five and one-half years, but had not attended a council meeting since July 31.

Callahan, a painter at University hospitals, was one of the aldermen instrumental in bringing about such civic enterprises as the Benton street bridge and the Municipal swimming pool.

★ ★ ★ Russia May Accept Parts of U.S. Plan To Strengthen UN

LAKE SUCCESS (AP) — An American-supported program to strengthen the United Nations assembly as an agent for peace won a partial and strongly headed endorsement Monday from the Soviet Union.

John Foster Dulles, Republican adviser to Secretary of State Dean Acheson, introduced the seven-60-nation political committee, power resolution in the assembly's where it was assured wide support from the start.

Just what provisions Russia liked were not made clear, but Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei V. Vishinsky's statement that some of its points were agreeable to him came as a big surprise to the other delegates.

The resolution provides for emergency sessions of the assembly when the security council is paralyzed by a veto, for UN peace patrols to act as observers at world trouble spots, and for nations to pledge troops units to serve under a UN flag to put down aggression.

The resolution also calls for a UN survey during the coming year to learn how big a defense pool UN members can build up against aggression.

Russia Protests U.S. Strafing Soviet Airfield

LONDON (TUESDAY) (AP) — The Soviet Union has protested to the United States that two American fighter planes strafed a Soviet airfield about 62 miles from the Soviet-Korean frontier on Sunday.

This was disclosed Monday in a broadcast from Moscow which said the incident occurred at a Soviet airfield on the sea coast in the Sukhaya Rechka area. The planes were identified as F-80 shooting star jets. Moscow said some property damage occurred but mentioned no casualties.

The allegation was contained in a protest note handed to the American minister - counselor in Moscow. He refused to accept it on the basis it was a matter for the United Nations to handle.

The note also demanded that the United States give assurance it would take measures to prevent "such provocative actions" in the future.

(In Washington, the state department said it had not received the Russian protest.)

Steelworkers Press For More Money In Wage Parleys

(From the Wire Services) PITTSBURGH — The CIO united steelworkers opened "preliminary discussions" with four major producers Monday in their big drive for "more money" for 1-million workers in the steel industry.

The union launched its campaign to keep wages in line with rising living costs at meetings with Republic Steel corporation. They employ more than 107,000 workers.

U.S. negotiators also met on a local level with representatives of a score of smaller steel firms. Jones & Laughlin Steel corporation, the nation's fourth largest steel-maker, was scheduled to join the contract talks today.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Steel wages promised Monday to be the first big job — and at the same time the first big opportunity — for Economic Stabilizer Alan Valentine.

Dr. Valentine, 49-year-old former president of the University of Rochester and a director of several large business enterprises, will assume office next week as administrator of the economic stabilization agency.

Earthquake Tidal Wave Strike Island

JAKARTA, INDONESIA (AP) — A great tidal wave battered the island of Ambon Sunday night in a series of violent earthquakes.

A broadcast from the island, center of a bloody rebellion against the government of Indonesia, reported casualties and appealed for Red Cross help.

The tidal wave, the broadcast said, reached a height of 200 meters. (This would be 656 feet and seems most improbable. Seismic waves as high as 90 feet are big enough to spread enormous destruction over a wide area.)

Damage was reported great in coastal villages such as Galala and Halong, where the broadcast reported casualties. It gave no figures on dead or injured, but there were fears here that the toll was heavy.

The island, heart of the South Moluccan rebellion against the Indonesian state, is 32 miles long and has an area of 386 square miles. Its population is about 240,000. The Ambon district includes the island of Ambon, Saparua, Boeroe, Ceram and the Banda isles. These islands lie between Dutch New Guinea and the island of Celebes, and are North-east of Java.

The East Indies suffer frequently from earthquakes, volcanic eruptions and attendant atmospheric disturbances, and tidal waves. One of the most disastrous was the violent eruption on the volcanic island of Krakatoa in 1883. This caused a tidal wave which reached a height of 50 feet and brought vast destruction. Some 30,000 persons were reported to have perished.

Tot's Puppy Believes in Fairies Too

MANITOWOC, WIS. (AP) — As any little child will tell you, if you take one of your baby teeth, when it falls out, and put it under your pillow, why, a good fairy will leave you something while you sleep.

Six-year-old Nancy Haese knows it's true, too. She left one of her teeth under her pillow and the next morning she had: Two teeth.

Nancy's folks were mystified until Skippy, the terrier who sometimes misbehaves by sneaking into Nancy's bed, displayed a smile as gapping as Nancy's.

Lone Tree Float Raises Homecoming Total to 14

Lone Tree, a town about 15 miles southeast of Iowa City, will enter a float in SUI's Homecoming parade Oct. 20 at 7 p.m.

However, William D. Coder, chairman of the parade committee, said the float would not be judged in the contest.

Applications for float entries in the parade numbered 14 Monday.

SUI organizations entered in the self-financed class included Theta Xi, Sigma Phi Epsilon, Phi Kappa Alpha, Phi Kappa, Acacia, Phi Gamma Delta, Beta Theta Pi, South Quad, Quadrangle, SUI athletic department and one of three groups of sororities.

This year the sororities were split into three groups for the purpose of entering floats. The group which has entered floats, the Zeta Tau Alpha, Sigma Delta Tau, Delta Gamma and Kappa Alpha Theta.

Two SUI organizations have entered floats in the subsidized class. They will be financed by Iowa City business groups. The university town women will be sponsored by Younkers, and Theta Tau will be sponsored by the Iowa-Indiana Gas & Electric company.

Coder said several Iowa City business organizations were interested in sponsoring floats, and campus groups desiring financial aid should contact him.

Young Progressives To Raise Money, Help Jailed Negro

SUI Young Progressives said they will attempt to help gather attorney fees for a Negro being held in a Cedar Rapids jail on a rape charge.

The organization adopted the plan at its meeting Sunday in the Iowa Union. Groups in Cedar Rapids and Des Moines also are trying to gather attorney fees for the man.

Charles Muhlstock, A3, Woodmere, N.Y., president of the SUI group, said the club would attempt to raise the funds through contributions and by staging social affairs.

The following officers were elected at the meeting for the 1950-51 school year: Muhlstock, president; Norma Ludins, A1, Hartford, Conn., vice-president; Renee Brower, A4, Marshalltown, treasurer; and Barbara Binswanger, A3, New York City, secretary.

The Young Progressives will sponsor two movies at the art auditorium Friday and Saturday nights. They are "La Marseillaise," a story of the French revolution, and "Chapayov," about the Russian revolution.

The 1,800 tickets available will be issued on a "first-come-first-served" basis, said Prof. Earl Harper, chairman of the committee on lectures.

Students will be required to present their I.D. cards to receive tickets. Faculty and staff members will be checked against the university directory.

A French military spokesman said the battle was the most "violent" of the four-year-old Indo-China guerrilla war and could only be described as a "hard reverse" for the French. He said the French were outnumbered 10 to one.

One of the columns, including legionnaires and Moroccan and burdened with civilians, evacuated untenable Caobang, one of the border forts, 31 miles north of Thatkhe, last Tuesday.

First Cavalry Leads American Forces North

TOKYO (TUESDAY) (AP) — An army spokesman said South Korean troops seized Wonsan's airfield streets of the Red Korean east today and were fighting in the coast port.

Reports to U. S. Eighth army headquarters in Korea at the same time indicated the entire U. S. First cavalry division had pushed across the Communist border into North Korea near the west coast. There was no official confirmation, however.

★ ★ ★ Two Drives

The two drives followed General MacArthur's second and "last time" demand yesterday that North Korean Communists lay down their arms.

Three other South Korean divisions were across the Red border between the Americans on the west coast and Republican forces on the east. One, the South Korean Capital division, reported the capture of a loaded train containing 5,000 Russian-made rifles, 500 machineguns and other war booty.

The American cavalrymen pushed over the 38th parallel north of Kaesong. They had advanced more than a mile against stiffening Red resistance and were about 83 miles south of a major UN objective, Pyongyang, the North Korean capital.

★ ★ ★ Red Prisoner

At Wonsan, the charging South Koreans captured 1,000 Red prisoners.

Earlier KMGAP reports said the South Koreans beat down Red resistance a mile south of Wonsan before entering the port city.

Wonsan, a fine deep water port with unlimited anchorage, was a major prize for which the Reds had made a bitter stand. It is 95 air miles east of the North Korean capital at Pyongyang, across the narrow waist of the peninsula.

All along a new 120-mile front in Red Korea—ranging from one mile north of the 38th parallel on the western end of 90 miles deep on the east coast—Korean Communists were fighting back stronger and with more determination than in many days.

NSA Values Pointed Out —

The student council will have to decide this week whether to maintain SUI's membership in the National Student association or to allow it to drop by default.

The specific issue is whether or not to pay the yearly dues of NSA.

This, of course, brings up the question of what value the organization has to us.

NSA is the only organization made up of college students throughout the country interested in attacking problems common to all students.

Most of the prominent colleges and universities in the U.S. are members.

On the national level, NSA sponsors a yearly congress where delegates gather to discuss policy for the organization in regards to world and campus problems.

Locally the NSA has been the sponsor of the all-Iowa collegiate conference where common problems of student government have been discussed.

The organization since its origin has been a source of information for campus groups. When groups at SUI have tried new schemes in organization, the NSA has been willing to provide information on similar schemes on other campuses.

Opposition here to NSA centers on the value of these services in relation to the cost.

National dues have been lowered this year so that SUI would pay $150. Last year's dues were $205.

When the issue comes up at the student council meeting Thursday night, both sides will have ample opportunity to air their opinions. Council meetings are open to all students and council members urge students to attend and take part in the discussions.

Resolution Gives MacArthur Authority to Finish Business

By J.M. ROBERTS JR.
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

The United Nations resolution confirming Gen. Douglas MacArthur's authority to pursue the Communist enemy into North Korea was somewhat disappointing in comparison with the clearcut action regarding the original aggression, but at least enables both the general and the assembly to get on with business.

It may be some time before we really know whether the political confusion of the last week or so actually caused a military delay. The allied forces in Korea had been moving fast, and regrouping may have been essential, although the whole timing suggests MacArthur has been hampered.

Aside from the military angle, the resolution, of course, marked a new milestone in UN history. It is moving in, through a commission on which the big powers are not represented, to organize and restore an entire country.

At the same time, and even more importantly, the American program to strengthen UN powers against aggressions seemed, as general debate opened at Flushing, to be gaining momentum. Britain, France, Canada, the Philippines, Turkey and Uruguay have joined as co-sponsors of the measure, which would permit the general assembly to meet quickly in case a security council veto threatened to prevent action in serious situations which would be reported by special peace commission doing a continuous observation job.

Participating nations would maintain earmarked units in their own armed forces subject to UN call for enforcement of its decisions.

Surprisingly enough, even Andre Vishinsky, the Soviet foreign minister, said his country would favor some of the U.S. proposals. He didn't say what.

Soviet obstruction has been one reason why the UN has never been able to get anywhere with organization of an international armed force as originally envisioned under charter.

The Russians, of course, have indicated general agreement with western peace proposals on many occasions in the past, and then everything has bogged down when it came to working out details. There seemed to be a feeling, however, that whatever Russia does, the power of the assembly will be strengthened, and it will come out of the Korean war in better shape than when it went in.

Stock Prices Decline Due to Credit Curbs

NEW YORK (AP) — Fears of credit curbs sent stock prices into a swift decline Monday.

Losses for a wide variety of stocks ranged from $1 a share up to $6. Many others were off from a few cents to a dollar. Steel and automotive stocks were in the van of the decline.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks dropped 70 cents to $84, for the widest index loss in two weeks. The industrial component was down 90 cents at $115.30, rails down 80 cents at $54.70 and utilities 20 cents at $45.60.

Volume was 2.3-million shares, compared with 2.36-million at the last full session Friday. Curb volume amounted to 410,000 shares, against 420,000 Friday.

Prices also dipped in the curb market. Lower were Alcoa, Cities Service, Creole Petroleum, Imperial Oil, Trans-Lux, Raytheon and Mesabi Iron.

What Price Luxury?

Government Agencies to Curb Building Boom

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government is about to clamp credit-tightening brakes on the nation's greatest home building boom. The aim is to cut its 1.3-million units-a-year speed by more than one-third.

Three agencies, the federal reserve board (FRB), federal housing administration (FHA) and veterans administration (VA), were reported getting ready Monday to pull the control levers about the middle of next week.

The agencies intend to slow down home building sharply — without stopping it cold — by making considerably stiffer down payments necessary on newly built houses, particularly the high-prices, "luxury" type.

Advance reports from government and industry sources point to these requirements: for veterans, 10 percent or more down; for non-veterans, 15 to 30 percent on houses in the moderate cost brackets, perhaps 50 percent on "luxury" homes.

There also were reports that the FRB to cover private mortgage terms may limit payoff time to 20 years and require higher installment payments for the first five years. But few banks now allow more than 20 years to pay off.

Builders and lenders, already concerned over materials shortages, have reached nervously to the coming of controls. Many have recently begun curtailing construction for fear buyers will be harder to find.

Some industry groups have warned that the government, in aiming at holding new home starts to a level close to 800,000, may overshoot the mark, produce a slash to 600,000 — and "drastic" economic repercussions with it.

Officials insist a sharp reduction is necessary to check inflation and to reduce home building's heavy use of materials and labor so they can go into the defense expansion program. They plan to curb housing now, store and plant construction later.

The big slowdown in housing output won't be obvious until next year, because the 1950 building season passed its peak months ago and because the law authorizing the controls forbids applying them to houses started before Aug. 3.

Naturally, earlier built houses will continue to be bought and sold without federal restrictions on the mortgage arrangements. It's unlikely, too, the restrictions will apply to new homes on which firm loan commitments are obtained before the order comes out.

While the impact will fall first on potential buyers of new houses, it is expected to reach far beyond them and be felt throughout the economy.

The steady output of new houses has been providing jobs in plenty — over 2.5-million persons held construction contract jobs in August — and an ever-expanding market for sellers of building materials, furniture and rugs, and household appliances.

The government itself fattened the boom on a diet of easy credit in pre-Korea days when it was concentrating on providing more living space, and expanding job opportunities and sales markets.

Home construction costs, on the word of government and industry men alike, have risen about nine percent since the Korean fighting outbreak June 25. But a construction cutback that went deep might produce reverse effects by relieving buying pressure on materials.

The government has refused since mid-July to let any of the post-Korea climbs in costs be absorbed into the FHA — insured and VA-guaranteed mortgages which together account for about half of total mortgage volume.

That has meant, in effect, that buyer down payments had to be increased to cover the extra costs. Besides that, veterans, once able to get by with no down payment, have been required since July 19 to hand over 5 percent in cash. Persons getting FHA mortgages have had to pay down 10 to 25 percent.

The aftermath, as shown by reports from VA and FHA offices all over the country, has been a 50 percent cut in applications for new home purchases with government mortgage aid.

The commerce department has estimated the mid-July restrictions on government mortgages alone will cut housing starts next year by about one third from this year's estimated $1.3-billion total, but that it will produce only "modest" savings in materials needed for defense.

Industry sources say the mid-July restrictions, plus a tightening up on bank credits to builders to cover materials and labor costs, have eased off demand for materials so much that lumber prices are showing signs of declining.

Some of the building and lending groups who oppose drastic controls — and they're numerous — are claiming that government "planners" want to cut home construction so as to "get rent controls continued in effect."

They're arguing, too, that the result will be to increase rather than restrain inflation because people whose money might be tied up in paying on houses will now have the cash to spend on consumer goods.

India Maintains Neutrality to Promote Peace

By GEORGE BRIA

LAKE SUCCESS (AP) — India is traveling a lonely road in the United Nations in a unique effort to promote peace — and stay friendly with everybody.

Her cautious, close-to-the-chest approach easily lays her open to charges of tightrope walking and fence straddling.

But her delegates deny India is trying to withdraw into sheltered neutrality. Indian policy, they maintain, is the difficult one of "independent judgment" aimed at the hope of keeping one door open for mediation in the east-west struggle.

India wants to be that open door. So far there have been no callers, but Indian delegates suggest the day may come when a mediator is needed with a record of independence.

Chief Delegate Sir Benegal Rau summed up his country's position this way in a United Nations debate:

"During the last few months India has tried her best, at the cost of some misunderstanding, to exercise a restraining influence on all concerned and to prevent the Korean conflict from spreading. In the interests of peace my delegation must do nothing likely to diminish our effectiveness."

This policy has led India to vote, with the Soviet bloc one day and with the west another. It has led her to abstain frequently. But, her delegates argue, it also has kept her from being identified with either bloc and has built up her stature as virtually the lone "independent" in the 60-nation organization.

India opened her "mediation offensive" in the current general assembly by proposing a new Big Four foreign ministers' conference, the first since the 1947 London session that split east and west.

Said Sir Benegal, in proposing the parity:

"Perhaps such discussions have not been very fruitful in the past. They may fail again. But the attempt is worth making. Even if nothing else came of them, the ministers could at least reaffirm jointly what each of their countries has already affirmed separately in signing the charter, namely that they would settle all their international disputes by peaceful means."

The Indian proposal was unsuccessful. French Foreign Minister Robert Schuman summed up the western view; you cannot talk to Russia as long as she keeps building fifth columns behind your back while they're talking. The Soviets have not shown they were aware of the proposal.

The Indians made another mediation attempt during the Korean debate in the assembly's 60-nation political committee. They suggested west and east draft a compromise solution for peace in Korea. The separate proposals of the Russians and the west both had good and bad points, said Sir Benegal, and India felt she could not vote for either.

His compromise suggestion was voted down.

Russia to Supply Grain to Europe

GENEVA (AP) — The Soviet Union agreed Monday to negotiate a large-scale multilateral treaty for the supply of Russian grain to west European countries.

Gunner Myrdal, executive secretary of the United Nations Economic Commission for Europe, said Russia would attend a conference opening here Nov. 14 at which details of the agreement are to be worked out.

N. I. Koroukine, Soviet charge d'affaires in Bern, told Myrdal of Russia's readiness to negotiate an agreement for the supply of large quantities of wheat, rye, corn, barley and oats to Europe's principal importers, including France, Italy, Sweden and the United Kingdom.

Horse Stages Comeback on American Farms

GLENVILLE, MINN. (AP)—The horse is staging a comeback in rural America.

Once a beast of burden on the farms, the nag now has a new role. It is becoming a plaything.

Of course, he'll earn his keep by giving the farm family the pleasure of horsemanship riding, but he's working far below the rate at which he used to till the soil.

The horse has again found favor in southern Minnesota — so highly mechanized that farmers hereabouts won't even swat mosquitoes by hand. Insect destruction has been put on a mechanized scale. What the farmers can't kill by aerial spraying, they destroy by other mechanical means.

This section used to be proud of its Clydesdales, Percherons and Belgians. Now such animals are as unusual as a 1912 Maxwell and at county fairs a matched team of Clydes gets as much attention as the hootchy-kootchy dancers on the midway.

The draft animal gave way to tractors. And something went out of rural living. A farmer and his team of horses held each other in mutual esteem. They worked for each other's living and fared equally in the fortunes of the battle of wresting an income from the stubborn soil.

The tireless tractor has made the horse obsolete as a drawer of loads. The tractor is more efficient and faster. Maybe that's why the farmer has time to go horsemanship riding.

Anyhow, something has happened, as P.H. Cottrell of Glenville can testify.

Cottrell is in the business of meeting the farmers' demand for horses. He reports they are offering fancy prices for saddle animals. To meet the demand he has had to go to the Dakotas and Iowa for stocks.

It's a grand life the nag is leading now. Fed, groomed and cared for like high priced milk cows they go to the fairs trimmed with satin ribbon.

Shed no tear for the horse. He's on his way back to a respectable station in rural America.

Cotton Harvest Eighth Smallest Since 1900

WASHINGTON (AP) — A cotton harvest of only 9,869,000 bales, eighth smallest since the turn of the century, was forecast Monday by the agriculture department.

The crop will not be large enough to meet domestic and foreign demand without digging deep into the nation's reserve supply. Because of this, government this fall may clamp limits on the amount of cotton that can be exported.

The forecast, based on Oct. 1 conditions, is 38 percent smaller than last year's 16,128,000 bales.

Local Patients Read by Ceiling Projections

By WAYNE SHAW
A small, triangular-shaped machine that looks like a movie projector on its side is bringing cheer to bedridden patients in City and other communities throughout the nation.

The machine is a ceiling projector which enables bed-ridden patients to read books while flat on their backs.

Iowa City has two of these machines, purchased by the Lions club and circulated by the public library. Both projectors are currently being used by patients at Mercy hospital.

Donald Worden, Hampton, patient at the hospital, is reading "Valley of Decision" with the aid of the ceiling projector.

Worden described the projector as a wonderful device that allows bedridden patients to read without becoming arm-tired by holding a book.

"The projector certainly helps the hours seem shorter and gives me a lot of enjoyment in the same time," Mrs. Worden said.

The machine works like a movie projector except that the pages are cast on the ceiling in front of a screen and microfilmed pages are projected instead of slides.

The projector has a control panel which allows the patient to turn a page by pushing a button on a movable control panel. This panel is connected so that buttons can be pushed with the hands, feet, or by moving the head.

The control panel has three buttons on it — one to switch on the machine, another to turn the pages, and one to flip the pages back.

Eugene B. Power, university microfilm company director, developed the projector, which was used in military hospitals in World War II.

The non-profit organization, Projected Books Inc. was formed with the aid of authors donating their books.

Projectors and films are available only to hospitals, libraries, and service organizations. The plan is designed for bedridden patients whose illness or injuries prevent them from reading in normal positions.

Variety Available
Books on mystery, adventure, westerns, sports, fiction and travel are available on microfilm at the Iowa City Public Library. Librarian Joyce Nienstedt said the library had approximately 120 books on microfilm and that another projector has been ordered.

Projectors are checked out for two weeks through the local library. Microfilms of six books are taken to the patient with the machine by a Lions club member.

The patient is instructed in the use of the device by the club member and the machine is picked up by a member when it is due.

Any bedridden person in the general area serviced by the Iowa City Public Library may check out a projector and book films.

'If It's the Last Thing We Do'—

Holcomb Vows To Beat Iowa

Purdue Students Take Day Off to Celebrate

LAFAYETTE, IND. (P) — Purdue officials tried — not very hard and with no success whatever — to promote "education as usual" Monday on the campus that produced the first conqueror of Notre Dame's football team since 1945.

But, the no-celebrating idea was a lost cause from the time the first underclassman came whooping out of his dormitory Monday morning.

President Frederick L. Hovde, himself a former quarterback at Minnesota, took one look at 7,000 screaming students packed into the hall of music and gave unofficial approval to the holiday.

"Officially," Hovde said, "the university is in session. Unofficially it is yours!"

Emotion was so intense in the spontaneous celebration that Coach Stuart K. Holcomb broke all precedent and promised that his team will win another ball game — from Iowa, Oct. 21. That will be Purdue's first Western conference contest. The school plays Miami of Florida here Saturday.

"About the Big Ten race," Holcomb said, "I still don't know how good the boys are. Winning the conference championship is quite an assignment. We'll take the games one at a time. But I promise we'll beat Iowa in the first one if it's the last thing we ever do!"

In a calmer moment, the Purdue coach had said everybody would be gunning for his team and it might lose the rest of its games this season. But the jubilant students didn't want to hear that kind of talk.

Holcomb told the crowd he hesitated to single out any one Purdue player as the hero of the Notre Dame game, but he introduced Fullback Don Kasperan as "the boy who was as responsible for the victory as anybody."

Kasperan backed up the weak side of the line on defense.

A few students had reported dutifully to classrooms. A few firecrackers and horn blasts brought them galloping to join the celebration.

Opera Star Buys Interest in Browns

NEW YORK (P) — Helen Traubel, blonde Metropolitan opera star, said Monday night she has bought a part interest in the St. Louis Browns baseball club "mostly to satisfy a sentimental urge."

She wouldn't reveal the size of her investment but said "it is a nice chunk."

"I've always been sentimental about the Browns because they are my first recollections of baseball," the St. Louis-born singer said. "The first love of my life were George Sisler, Babydoll Jacobson and Urban Shocker."

"I've been a Browns fan all my life. The Cards are second."

Bill DeWitt, president of the Browns, confirmed the purchase.

PURDUE STUDENTS CELEBRATED last week's victory over Notre Dame Monday by cutting classes. Shown above are part of 7,000 students who received unofficial permission from Purdue's president to take the day off. At a pep rally, Boilermaker Coach Stu Holcomb declared that "We'll beat Iowa if it's the last thing we do."

Hawkeyes Drill to Correct Flaws

The Iowa Hawkeyes returned to the practice field Monday and started intensive work to correct the flaws which ruined their Big Ten opener at Indiana, 20-7.

Pass offense, pass defense and tackling will all come in for their share of attention this week. Coach Leonard Raffensperger will drill the squad hard in preparation for the Wisconsin game this Saturday.

Work on passing was emphasized Monday. The coaching staff also sent the squad through a stiff tackling dummy drill with backfield men participating.

Tough Team
Wisconsin may be a tough team to come back against. The Badgers defeated Illinois, one of the pre-season favorites for the conference title, 7-6, Saturday.

Quarterback Bob Petruska, a dangerous passer, didn't have much of a chance to throw against the Illini because of rainy weather.

In the Illinois game, Wisconsin was out downed 11-5, made only 92 yards to Illinois' 242 and lost more yards, 31-28. The only department in which Wisconsin held an edge was in punting. The Badgers gradually forced Illinois back toward the goal line and then recovered a fumble to set up their touchdown.

Iowa Scout Maury Kent saw the Wisconsin-Illinois game. "The Badgers capitalized on a break to beat Illinois," he said. "But they hung on to their lead by playing smart defensive football. Because of the rain, they could not get a real attack underway so it was impossible to get much information about their offense."

Statistical Advantage
Iowa, in contrast, held a huge statistical advantage over Indiana but lost the game. The Hawks outdowned Indiana 18-7 (some unofficial figures showed Iowa making 20 first downs) and held a big bulge over Indiana in yards gained by rushing.

Official statistics released Monday showed that Iowa enjoys a big margin over its two opponents — Southern Cal and Indiana. Iowa has 31 first downs to 18, 444 yards by rushing to 250 and 673 total yards to 582 for the opposition. Only in passing do Iowa's opponents hold an edge.

Southern Cal and Indiana have completed 19 aeriels for 332 yards. Iowa has made 229 yards on 17 completions.

Jerry Faske Leads
The individual statistics indicate that Jerry Faske is slightly over his 1949 record of 6.6 yards per carry. This year, the fleet halfback from Brooklyn has averaged 6.8 yards each time he's carried the ball. Fullback Bill Reichardt is second with a 5.9 yards average, followed by Don Commack, 4.3, and Mike Riley, 3.7.

Jerry Long and Reichardt have each caught four passes to lead the Hawks in this department. Long's receptions have been good for 58 yards and Reichardt's catches have gone for 33 yards.

Faske with two, and Long and Commack have scored Iowa's four touchdowns this season. Reichardt has converted three of the four scores.

Army Replaces Irish As Nation's No. 1 Team; SMU Second

NEW YORK (P) — Army's Cadets took over the No. 1 spot among the nation's college football teams Monday as Notre Dame dropped to 10th place, its lowest position in the memory of the younger generation.

Purdue's upset of the Fighting Irish, 28-14, last Saturday, shook up the football ratings like an earthquake. There were other form reversals on "Black Saturday," including Maryland's 34-7 thumping of Michigan State.

When the debris had cleared away, the pikist experts from coast to coast had to start from scratch in figuring their top ten teams. Monday the Irish received only one first place nomination. Notre Dame has finished no lower than ninth since 1941.

Army, with an unbeaten string of 22 games, vaulted from fourth to first. The West Pointers received a total of 2,101 points by a national panel of 241 sports writers and sportscasters. They were named first on 115 ballots.

Southern Methodist's air-minded Mustangs moved into second place followed by 3-Oklahoma, 4-Texas, 5-Kentucky, 6-Stanford, 7-California; 8-Maryland, 9-Purdue and 10-Notre Dame.

From Strong to Weak —

When Iowa lost to Indiana last Saturday the two departures which were among the strongest in the Southern Cal games—ling and pass defense—were among the weakest.

Add a sputtering passing attack to these failures and you have the story of the Iowa defeat.

Yet in spite of the apparent weaknesses, Iowa played a enough game to win. It was just a case of Indiana, who was serving homecoming, having a greater desire to win than I.

Some writers and announcers charged after the game that "wasn't mentally prepared" for the game and didn't have the attitude going into the game.

As we saw it, the Hawkeyes were as prepared as any team be after registering a major upset the week before. Iowa didn't like a sluggish team devoid of all spirit. The team hustled all t the game and didn't admit defeat on the field until long af Iowa fans had despaired of starting the Big Ten season with tory.

It's true that the Hawks had lapses in several department is to be expected in an early season game. Iowa's offensive left much to be desired and so did the tackling.

Many times, Indiana backs went for long gains, especif pass catches after they should have been stopped. It becam apparent that Iowa is going to have to develop some pass e ends, and develop them fast, if Iowa is to win many ball gam

In the Indiana game, after the aerial game had fallen fl its face, the Hoosier line bunched up at the line of scrim and just waited for running plays.

No running attack in the country can function well ag a line and secondary prepared for nothing else.

The players and coaches realize that the Wisconsin gam Saturday is a must if they are to have a successful season. Th be the weekend which reveals Iowa's ability to bounce back.

The team can be assisted in their comeback attempt by th dent body. About 600 fans, both students and townspeople, we hand Sunday evening at the Rock Island depot to greet the tear coaches.

This response, given to a losing team, meant a lot to all cerned. Athletic Director Paul Brechler said he thought the tu was a fine expression of school spirit. Coach Leonard Raffens remarked that it was "pretty nice" of the students to suppor team that way.

School spirit and the feeling that the student body is be them is essential to any winning team. Let's do our share to that the Hawkeyes have the proper incentive in future games

We feel that the Brooklyn Dodgers would have given New a better tussle in the world series than the Phillies. Philade was a sentimental choice for both the National league pennan the world series but the Yankees apparently didn't feel very mental in the series.

The Phillies were a team which relied all season on their pitch- ing and defensive play rather than a batting punch. They received good pitching in the series but the Yankees' pitching was just a little better.

If the Dodgers had gained the world series, we feel that what they lacked in pitching would have been more than made up in hitting.

Badgers Start Practice For Saturday's Game

MADISON, WIS. (P) — University of Wisconsin football players had little time to rest on their laurels Monday as Coach Ivy Williamson started the job of preparing for Iowa Saturday.

The varsity men who played in the successful game against Illinois ran through signals for a short time, while the players who sat it out had a short scrimmage against the freshmen.

HOOSIERS INJURED
BLOOMINGTON, IND. (P)—Indiana faced the possibility Monday of losing End Hugh Craton and Fullback Jerry Van Ooyen for the Ohio State game Saturday.

DEFENSIVE DRILL

EVANSTON, ILL. (P) — Northwestern, worried about Minnesota's single wing, went through a heavy defensive drill Monday.

As a result police raided Jim's pool hall and nabbed several men gathered around a pool table trying to stuff money into their pockets. A dice cup and two dice were found.

Iowans Carry Corn In California Parade

DES MOINES (AP) — California-grown corn from Iowa seed will be carried by Iowans in the American Legion national convention parade at Los Angeles today, state legion headquarters said Monday.

The Iowans will sing "That's where the tall corn grows," even though the crop was grown in California, because the stalks measure 12 to 15 feet tall. Iowa Legion officials arranged the growing of the corn with the Los Angeles county extension service, the University of California and the U. S. department of agriculture.

Iowa's total income payments fell nearly 13 percent under 1948 levels last year, led by a 39 percent drop in agricultural income, October's Business Digest reported.

Marshalltown Man in Shooting

MARSHALLTOWN (AP) — Robert Lee Lincoln, 21, Marshalltown, was sentenced to 25 years in Anamosa reformatory Monday on charges that followed a shooting spree at a birthday party.

Withdrawing an earlier plea of innocent, Lincoln appeared before District Judge B. O. Tankersley and pleaded guilty of robbery with aggravation.

Police said Lincoln fired four shotgun blasts into the walls of his sister's home here at a birthday party Sept. 8 in a fit of anger.

The youth forced two guests to leave with him in a cab, authorities said. They said he shot the cab driver, William Sult, at a filling station, wounding him in the hip.

Lincoln then took another man's car and fled. He surrendered two hours later at Grinnell.

Breaks Parole Twice, Local Forger Gets 10-Year Sentence

After twice breaking his parole,olph H. Krotz, 38, was ordered today to serve a 10-year for-sentence at the state penitentiary at Ft. Madison.

Judge Harold D. Evans on advice of County Atty. C. White and Iowa City Atty. Swisher, in whose custody Krotz had been released the second time.

Arthur Paulsen, 1109 E. Fair-street, reported to police on Monday that his car heater was being used to melt the heat-out Paulsen denied it.

Krotz was working for Paulsen at the time. Monday in district court, Krotz said Paulsen gave him permission to pawn the heater.

The case against Krotz began in 1949, when he pleaded guilty to forging $53.75 in bad checks. At that time, Judge Evans sentenced him to 10 years but let him for one year to Thomas A. Kelley, Iowa City.

Krotz was brought before the court again Sept. 16 for forging checks totaling $63 and signed in the name of Kelley's attorney, who took over his parole.

As a condition of parole Krotz was to pay back the bad checks, stop drinking, and go to church Sunday.

Council Approves Payment for Bell

DES MOINES (AP)—The Iowa Executive council Monday approved a second final payment for placing a liberty bell on the state-house grounds near the new office building. The total cost was about $787.

Approved Monday was payment of $171 to Robinson and Parnham, Des Moines landscape architects. The firm supplied landscape plans for the area where the bell was to go, and some nearby grounds. The office building contractor, William Kucharo Construction company, Des Moines, previously was paid $616 for placing the bell.

The bell was a gift from the federal government, given in connection with savings bond sales.

The council also approved the sale of nine used state cars at prices ranging from $979 to $1,152. Other items approved included about a dozen trips by state officials to conventions, meetings and so forth, at state expense.

Robbers Give $15 To Banker-Father

CHICAGO (AP)—Four gunmen robbed the Peoples Federal Savings and Loan bank of $15,000 Monday, but handed $15 back to the bank president when he said he was a family man.

The bandits completed rifling vaults and cash drawers and then left $65 from the wallet of President Stanley Ropa.

One gunman asked Ropa if he had any children.

"Yes," Ropa replied.

"Well, here, take this," the gunman said and handed back $15 of the $65.

The bandits lighted cigarettes before they strolled leisurely to a getaway car waiting outside, Ropa said.

He said one of the men looked like a member of a bandit gang of four which held up the bank in August and escaped with $3,000.

Frivol Founder Dies in New York

One of the founders of the SUI humor magazine, Frivol, died recently of cancer in a New York hospital.

Warren L. Bassett, who established his reputation in Iowa by editing SUI publications, also provided some of the financial backing for The Daily Iowan and aided in buying its printing press.

Frivol made its bow on the SUI campus in 1919 with backing from Sigma Delta Chi, journalism fraternity.

Bassett edited Frivol for two years, during which time such tributes as the following by the literary editor of the Des Moines Register & Tribune were written: "Frivol is as gay a bit of foam from the educational wave as we have ever seen anyplace. Iowa ought to know it and rejoice. Enough!"
