IOWA FINDS SCORING SPARK, 33-21

Aroused Hawks Rip Purdue For First Big Ten Victory

By ROBERT DUNCAN
Daily Iowan Sports Editor

Iowa's Hawkeyes turned the potentialities they had shown in previous games into actual performance Saturday, for a 33-21 win over Purdue to the delight of 52,621 Homecoming fans at Iowa Stadium.

It was a team victory over Purdue whose coach had boasted that the Boilermakers would win if it was the last thing they did.

Iowa's victory, its first in the Big Ten, moved the Hawks to sixth place in the conference with one victory and two defeats.

But Glenn Drahn, Jerry Faske and Don Commack were among the brightest stars in the Hawkeye lineup.

Drahn, finding the passing touch he enjoyed last year and which had been missing in two previous conference games, pitched three touchdown passes — one each to Commack, Bernard Bennett and Hubert Johnston.

Commack scored another of Iowa's five touchdowns on a 10 yard dash and Faske got the other with a masterful exhibition of broken field running from 53 yards out.

The touchdown pass to Johnston, giant left tackle who didn't start the game because of injuries, was only one of the surprises the Hawks had for Purdue.

On the play, Johnston became an eligible receiver when the left end dropped back into the secondary leaving the 6 feet, 6 inch from Wheeling, W. Va., on the flank.

Another surprise was the aggressive play of the Iowa ends

Commack X-Rayed

Don Commack, Hawkeye halfback injured in Saturday's Homecoming game, was released from University hospitals late Saturday.

Team Physician W. D. Paul, professor of internal medicine in the college of medicine, said that although he had not yet seen the X-ray pictures of Commack's injured shoulder, he did not believe the speedy jittie halfback was seriously injured.

who have left much to be desired in two other Big Ten games.

In general, the Boilermakers couldn't cope with the hard smashing efforts of the Iowa line which time and again broke through to halt the ball carrier on the line of scrimmage or just beyond it.

Dale Samuels, a quarterback trickster who is a firm believer in the might of air power, was the one man the Hawks couldn't bottle up.

He passed for Purdue's three touchdowns, made all three conversions, and completed 14 passes in 23 attempts for 129 yards. With Samuels, who wrecked Notre Dame earlier in the year, in the lineup, the Boilermakers were dangerous.

But Saturday, Purdue just wasn't up to spoiling Iowa's Homecoming as it did in three previous appearances.

Same Pattern
The first quarter of the game Saturday, except for the Hawks' one scoring play, was cut from the same pattern as Iowa's games with Indiana and Wisconsin. A penalty or bad break cut short every Iowa threat just when it began to show promise.

Iowa's scoring play came as a result of a partially blocked kick which rolled out of bounds on the Purdue 35 yard line. Bob Hoff, Iowa's right end, burst through the Boilermaker line and partially blocked Norman Montgomery's kick.

After three cracks from the 35, which resulted in a net gain of one yard, it looked like one of the few breaks Iowa has received this season wouldn't result in a score.

Then Drahn took the ball, faked a run to the right parallel with the line of scrimmage, jumped and arched a pass to Commack who was trotting all alone in the end zone. Bill Reichardt's conversion was true and the Hawks held a 7-0 lead.

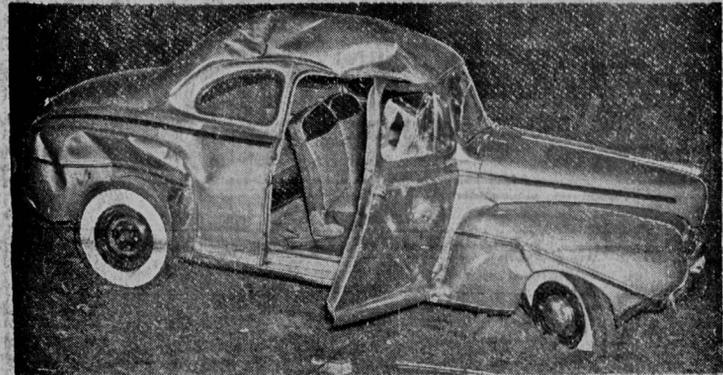

The Game
Purdue came back to score before the first quarter ended. Samuels climaxed a drive from the Iowa 29 yard line with a short eight yard pass to Darrel Brewster after the Iowa line had held for three downs from the six yard stripe.

Samuels kicked the extra point

SUI'S LARGEST HOMECOMING CORN monument burned brilliantly for about half an hour Saturday night as 5,000 persons gathered to cheer for victory over Ohio State next Saturday and demand no classes Monday. The blaze was started at 6:45 in the kerosene-soaked structure and five minutes later flames crackled 70 feet in the air.

A HOMECOMING TRAGEDY injured one man and two others escaped injury in an accident Saturday near the Fairview golf course east of Iowa City on highway 6. William Davis, 32, Moline, Ill., was injured. Thomas Barkley, 28, Davenport, an SUI alumnus, and James Sones, Moline, escaped injury. Barkley lost control of the car (shown above) on a curve and the car crossed the highway, jumped the ditch and overturned in a pasture.

Three Accidents Mar Homecoming Celebration

Three traffic tragedies involving Homecomers in which six persons were injured marred SUI's otherwise near-perfect Homecoming Saturday.

Five persons were injured in a head-on collision 12 miles south of Iowa City near Kalona before the Iowa-Purdue football game.

Leon R. Jefferson, Ottumwa, his wife, and two other persons were headed north toward Iowa City to see the game when their car collided with one driven by Dale A. Nebel, Waylani.

The Jeffersons and Nebel were taken to Mercy hospital. Nebel suffered a fractured left leg. Mr. and Mrs. Jefferson and Mr. and Mrs. Albert L. Mahaskey, Ottumwa, Jefferson's passengers, suffered minor injuries.

Highway patrolmen reported the graveled highway was very dusty.

One man was injured and two others escaped injury in a post-game accident a mile east of Iowa City on highway 6 when their car left the road, leaped the ditch and turned over in a pasture.

Injured was William Davis, 32, Moline, Ill., a passenger in the car driven by Thomas Barkley, 28, Davenport, an SUI alumnus.

The other passenger was James Sones, 24, Moline, Ill. Davis was taken to Mercy hospital, but the extent of his injuries were undetermined.

Barkley said he was driving east on the way to Davenport at about 7 p.m., returning from the football game, when he rounded a sharp curve and was blinded by the lights of an oncoming car.

He said he lost control of his car and it came to rest in an instant later in a pasture north of the highway.

An SUI student and two Homecoming fans were involved in a three-car collision at the intersection of Melrose and Grand avenues.

Cars driven by Richard L. Allen, M3, Bloomfield, William C. Sittler, Washington merchant, and Robert D. Roller, Bettendorf, were in the accident that resulted in an estimated $600 damage.

No one was reported injured.

CEDAR RAPIDS — Two persons were killed and two injured Saturday when a convertible collided with another car at an intersection.

Mrs. Edwin Vorba, 35, and Ray Struve, 26, both of Cedar Rapids, were killed when their convertible struck a car driven by Don Hanks, 17, North Liberty.

Vow, Monument —

Go Up in Flame, Smoke

Like Purdue coach Stu Holcomb's promise to "beat Iowa if it's the last thing we ever do," Iowa's 1950 Homecoming corn monument went up in fire and smoke Saturday.

The promise went first — on the football field Saturday afternoon — the monument soon afterward. With more than 5,000 jubilant students and Homecomers shouting "burn it, burn it," the monument was lit at 6:45 p.m. Five minutes later the entire structure was flaming.

Classes will meet Monday and the no-cut rule will be enforced SUI President Hancher said Saturday night.

At 6:55 the monument toppled amid chants of "no school Monday" and "on Iowa, beat Ohio State."

At the rally, SUI President Virgil Hancher called this "the best Homecoming I can remember, completed by a Hawkeye victory."

Tailfeathers President John Harris and cheerleaders Dick Turchin and Jane Graham led the crowd in cheers until the barrage of dried corn and the "burn it" shouts became too great.

Four gallons of kerosene were poured over the monument before it was lit.

Whereabouts of Atomic Scientist Remain Unknown

ROME (AP)—The whereabouts of an Italian-born British atom scientist, reported by Rome newspapers to have left Italy for Moscow seven weeks ago, developed into an international mystery Saturday night.

The scientist, Bruno Pontecorvo, arrived in Helsinki, Finland, Sept. 2. That is the last official word of his whereabouts. At that time he was with his wife and his three young children.

The British foreign office and Scotland Yard indicated they had no interest in Pontecorvo's movements. His father in Milan, Italy, said he had no reason to believe the physicist would not return to Britain at the end of a vacation he began in July.

Finnish police said they did not know the present whereabouts of the scientist but that Pontecorvo and his family had not passed through any Finnish border control post to neighboring Russia or in any other direction since they arrived in Helsinki via plane from Stockholm.

A spokesman for the ministry of supply in London said there was no reason to believe the scientist would not return to England in time to take up an appointment as atomic physicist professor at Liverpool university Jan. 1.

DOING A JUGGLING ACT with the pigskin is Bernie Bennett, Iowa's sophomore halfback from Mason City. An instant later, however, Bennett firmly grabbed the ball, an aerial from quarterback Glenn Drahn, and eluded Purdue halfback Neil Schmidt (40) to score Iowa's second touchdown. The Hawks went on to score three more times to submerge Purdue, 33-21, before 52,621 well-pleased Homecomers.

3 Iowa College Heads Back Survey Proposals

DES MOINES (AP)—Presidents of Iowa's three major educational institutions Saturday expressed hope a series of survey proposals to the state board of education will become realities.

Though millions of dollars will be required to finance the programs recommended by survey experts, the heads of the University of Iowa, Iowa State college, and Iowa State Teachers college declared the need justifies the expense.

At Iowa City, President Virgil M. Hancher of the University of Iowa said:

"I am hopeful proposals contained in the survey report will be carried through. Recommendations as to adjustment of salaries and the extensive building program would assure a bright future for the institutions."

He termed the survey report "most comprehensive and constructive."

The survey committee's recommendations, as presented to the state board and the legislature's interim committee in a joint meeting Thursday at Iowa City, included:

A $45-million building program between now and 1965.

An immediate raising of salaries for academic staffs amounting to $555,000 to $752,250 annually, and an increase of at least 7 1/2 percent in the wages for non-academic staffs at the three schools.

A continuing effort to improve teacher training as a step toward meeting the heavy demands of the present and future years.

An increase of advanced graduate and research programs in which all three institutions would share.

Harris, G. Humboldt, S.D., said the director of the Minnesota union has given Tailfeathers 150 tickets to the Homecoming dance.

Without a ticket, no SUI student will be admitted since the dance is already a sellout, Harris explained.

The tickets are $1.50 apiece. The Minnesota trip costs $12.75 for transportation and a ticket to the game. University housing can be provided if requested. Transportation alone costs $9.25.

Harris said reservations for both the party and the trip may be purchased at the Iowa union Tuesday and Wednesday. By Saturday women must sign up at the office of student affairs for approved housing for the night of Nov. 4.

Chartered buses will leave Iowa City at 1 a.m. Nov. 4 and will leave Minneapolis at noon the next day to return here.

Cossacks to Give Concert Here Oct. 30

The Don Cossack chorus of Russian singers and dancers will present a concert at 8 p.m. Oct. 30 in the main lounge of the Iowa Union.

Prof. C. B. Righter, manager of the SUI concert series, said free student tickets for the concert will be available starting Friday at the Union.

Students must present their I.D. cards in person to receive tickets, Righter said.

The Cossack chorus is now on its 21st American tour. It was formed in 1920 from a group of Russian soldiers fighting near Constantinople.

Expect New Peace Plea by Truman

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman probably will deliver a new world peace plea to the United Nations Tuesday, following up his Pacific conference with Gen. Douglas MacArthur and his foreign policy speech in San Francisco last week.

The other was a southwestward thrust out of Pyongyang by the U. S. first cavalry division for 27 miles to the seaport of Chinnampo.

The task force racing toward Kujang was seeking a trainload of prisoners reported to be hidden in a tunnel. The U.S. eighth army also received a report that 60 UN war prisoners had been found murdered at Suncheon.

The once powerful North Korean Red army, reduced to disorganized remnants, was making no firm stand anywhere.

MacArthur's headquarters said the total of Red prisoners rose to more than 82,000 Saturday. It said about 7,000 prisoners were taken Friday and Saturday.

A Korean Communist broadcast from Sinuiju, a Korean city at the Manchurian border, announced the establishment of a refugee Red capital there.

UN Group Asks For Peace Talk

LAKE SUCCESS (AP)—The UN assembly's political committee unanimously endorsed Saturday a Syria-Iraq resolution calling for big power peace talks.

U. S. delegate John Foster Dulles warned the world not to get its hopes up since Russia must be judged by her deeds, not words.

The Syria-Iraq proposal recommends that the five permanent security council members — China, United States, Russia, Britain and France — consult together on their differences. It sets no date for the talks.

Rhee to Work with UN For Peace, Koreans Say

SEOUL (AP)—The government of President Syngman Rhee will work with the UN and its field commander, Gen. Douglas MacArthur "in complete harmony" to win the peace in Korea, the highest Korean republican sources let it be known Saturday.

This includes temporarily limiting Rhee's authority to territory south of the 38th parallel and holding separate elections north of that line under UN supervision.

Kissing Is Just So Much Chemistry

TORONTO — Kissing is just so much chemistry. It has to do with craving for salt.

Douglas Walkington, a chemist for Canadian Industries, Ltd., gave a purchasing agents meeting this history of the kiss: The cave man found that salt helped cool him off in the summer heat. He found too that he could get salt by licking his neighbor's cheek. It was then discovered that the process was more interesting if the neighbor was of the opposite sex. Then everybody forgot about salt.

Thanks — for a Job Well Done —

A word of praise and gratitude is in order for many SUI students, staff members and townspeople. They're the persons who made Homecoming possible and successful.

Every organization which entered a float in the parade should be commended. Some will say this was no more than the organizations should have done, but we feel that in a life as busy as that of a college student, taking on a task as time-consuming as float building is praiseworthy.

Many faculty members and members of the university administration have worked madly for several weeks on plans for the celebration. Most of their names will never make the news columns, and letters of thanks from committee chairmen will be the extent of the credit they receive—except for the satisfaction that comes with doing a good job.

We want all those persons to know we're aware of the effort and long hours they put in on the plans for SUI's biggest weekend—even though they'll remain anonymous to most of us.

Many local townspeople also have labored long and hard, working in conjunction with the Homecoming committee. They, too, are due our applause.

The success of the plans can't be questioned. A festive spirit started building up Friday night before the parade and lasted throughout the weekend.

The State University of Iowa had a great Homecoming. So we want to extend our compliments and thanks to every person who helped to make it so—from the little sorority girl who stuffed paper napkins into chicken wire on a float, to the highest officials who supplied the overall plans.

A big job was well done.

The deadline for registration for voting isn't far away—as a matter of fact it's this coming Saturday.

The important thing is not to let registration go until the last minute. Then lines begin to form and it takes more time.

If you're lived in Iowa City for 60 days, in the precinct where you live for 10 days, and in the state of Iowa for six months, go to the City Clerk Monday and register.

Stock Market Advances Slightly

NEW YORK (AP)—Specialty issues led a moderate advance on stock exchange Saturday in quiet dealings.

Outside of the specialty group, there was very little interest shown by investors in the market. Attendance in Wall street was light as many traders continued to observe long week-ends.

The market opened with a flurry with all sections moving up fractionally. However, after the initial orders were executed, the market turned extremely dull with some stocks losing part of their opening gains.

Stocks affected by the government stockpiling program as a group displayed the most strength. In this section, climax molybdenum was a bright spot. The issue was active. During the session one block of 4,400 shares changed hands at 24, up 1 1/4. Later, it moved up over 20 points.

Elsewhere, oil equities moved higher on fairly active dealings. Atlantic Refining continued to react to its highly favorable earnings report. The stock reached a new high of 87 1/2. Others in this group improved small amounts.

Chemicals strengthened with American Cyanamid in the van with a gain of more than a point. Steel shares moved irregularly. Automotive issued steady. Railroad stocks were generally quiet and little changed.

For the Record

To anyone who hasn't had Math Skills and thus is unable to cope with large figures, the number of songs turned out by America's mass production-songwriter, Irving Berlin, is staggering. "Prolific" is the very least of the adjectives that can be used to describe Berlin, whose successes date back to 1911's "Alexander's Ragtime Band."

Hardly a season passes without a new Berlin hit or a revival which seems new to this generation. Certainly an example is "Play a Simple Melody," for Bing Crosby & Son's disc of this old Berlin song has been one of Decca's best-sellers.

Perhaps Berlin should make that song his theme for he leaves the complicated melody and sophisticated lyric to others and concentrates on turning out pleasant material which lends itself to whistling and humming. And by sticking to "simple" melodies he has created songs that are adaptable to any trend in musical styles.

His Broadway shows, as well, are eagerly awaited and his latest, "Call Me Madam," opened last week to "rave reviews." Decca and Victor are planning show albums but in the meantime two of the ballads have been recorded as singles.

Victor has Perry Como doing them back to back; the first, "Marrying For Love," isn't as good as the other, "The Best Thing For You," which is also locally available by Columbia's Doris Day and Margaret Whiting on Capitol.

Early the most exciting new record this week is Stan Kenton's version of Cole Porter's "Love For Sale." With a terrific Pete Rugolo arrangement, this disc surpasses any recent Kenton offering.

Another big band, Harry James, turned up with an LP album this week as part of Columbia's "Dance Date" series. It includes two standards, "Deep Purple" and "These Foolish Things," and four fine instrumentals, one of them a sharp new arrangement of the familiar "Two O'Clock Jump."

Though tending toward monopolizing the spotlight for himself, Harry and the band have never sounded better, and if you're a James fan you'll like this album.

Following in the vein of a local cinema ad, if you don't get a ticket for "Jazz At The Philharmonic," you can always run down to your corner record shop and find most of the albums on Mercury, either standard or LP.

Credit Curbs Cause Unemployment CIO Says

DETROIT (AP)—The CIO united auto workers union charged Saturday night that tough credit curbs on car, household appliance and home buying are a "grievous blunder which will create mass unemployment."

President Walter P. Reuther and other top officers of the million-member union demanded that the "discriminatory, ill-considered and dangerous" new regulations be dropped at once.

The union's protest of the week-old federal reserve board action followed complaints of automobile merchants across the nation who have blamed the regulations for a general sales slump.

Fair Deal Suggested For Asia's Peasants

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman's farm lieutenants fear communism will win by default in Asia unless non-Communist governments there can be persuaded to give impoverished peasants a "fair deal."

These farm program administrators—who until recently were concerned almost solely with prosperity of American farmers—have quietly begun beating the drums for farm reforms in Asia.

They believe communism can be stopped with such reforms. Undersecretary of Agriculture Clarence J. McCormick told a farm audience at Mitchell, S.D., on Oct. 5 that unrest in Asia is due to "hunger, insecurity, excessive land rents and a general hopelessness."

"We can talk to these people about the Communist threat to their freedom until our tongues and throats are parched," McCormick said. "But their poverty and hopelessness keep our words from meaning much to them. Their answer is likely to be: So what?"

Toys Make Arithmetic Easy for Children

By WELDON D. WOODSON
Central Press Correspondent
Two years ago and past-middle age, gray-haired Agatha Magnus came from her native Switzerland to the United States, believing with all her heart that America was a land of opportunity.

She still does, but knows money does not grow on trees. After hard work and many disappointments, she has on the market a patented pair of toy inventions that educators claim will enable school children to learn simple arithmetic in a few days instead of the now required two to four years.

When first landing here, she tried to get persons interested in blood banks where the blood was obtained not from humans, but from domesticated animals. She pointed out this is being done in some of the South American countries.

Lifeline Work
Settling in Pasadena, Calif., she turned to the profession she had followed all her life, teaching arithmetic and science studies to children. She discovered, though, that her age barred her from being adapted readily into the Pasadena school system. Not losing courage, she found teaching jobs in private schools.

One day she was observing a first grade teacher, who wrote on the blackboard four minus one and asked a 5-year-oldster what was left. The child replied, "Nothing's gone away. It's all there on the blackboard."

That started her thinking. She was well aware of the advantage of visual aid in education. Why couldn't something be devised to help the youngsters?

What she finally worked out makes grown-ups wish they could go to school again and study arithmetic. For subtraction and addition, she invented a slide rule so that something actually disappears or appears. One part consists of a transparent celluloid case marked off with 10 rectangles. They are numbered at the bottom.

The other part is a slide rule with 10 persons drawn on it—policeman, baseball catcher, and so on. She has two models. On one a Indian chief. Tests show children prefer the clown.

For addition, one slides the clown on the number to add. Then push slide in the number of rectangles or units you wish to add. Where the clown lands is the answer.

For subtraction, slide clown to the number from which you wish to subtract. Then pull out slide the number of rectangles or units you wish to subtract. For your answer, read where clown was moved.

She has a toy balance with a graduated scale for multiplication and division. One side is weighted with a basket into which one puts marbles. On the other

UN Observes Fifth Birthday; Communist Threat Presents New Problem in Indo-China

Editor's Note: This is another in a series of weekly summaries of recent periodical articles on various aspects of the war in Korea and on foreign affairs. These articles are selected and annotated by staff members of the serials - reserve department of the SUI library.

In keeping with the commemoration of United Nations Day, Oct. 24, this week's selection of current magazines recommends for your reading several articles dedicated to the observance of the fifth birthday of the UN.

A most distinguished group of men have collaborated in writing an excellent appraisal of the United Nations for the feature article of October's Congressional Digest.

Included among the contributors for the 25 page article are George Marshall, secretary of defense; Herbert Hoover, former president of the United States; Trygve Lie, secretary - general of the UN, and Tsialah Bowman, late president of Johns Hopkins university.

The title of the group of articles, "The Question of New Non-Communist World Organization," indicates the general approach taken. The problem raised is should the UN be revised; and if so, how.

Herbert Hoover, U.S. Sen. Estes Kefauver, and Will L. Clayton, former U.S. Undersecretary of State, take the pro in answering the question.

Taking the negative are George C. Marshall; Trygve Lie; John D. Hickerson, assistant Secretary of State; and Clyde Egleton, professor of international law at New York university.

"I suggest that the United Nations should be reorganized without the Communist nations in it," declares Herbert Hoover. General Marshall comes back with these fiery words:

"Personally I think it would be unfortunate for the peace of the world deliberately to upset the precarious equilibrium that now exists."

Russian View
The fifth anniversary issue of the United Nations Bulletin contains all the United Nations day messages given by dignitaries. Most interesting of these messages is "Soviet Program for Peace" by Andrei Y. Vishinsky, minister for foreign affairs of the U.S.S.R.

As its contribution to UN week, the New Outlook, published by the New Century foundation, reviews the purposes and accomplishments of some of the specialized agencies of the UN.

Pamphlets published by the UN for the observance of its fifth anniversary are part of a special UN display at Library Annex. Two of these pamphlets, "Facts about the United Nations General Assembly" and "What the U.S. Gets from the UN," are yours for the asking.

The Communist campaign in French Indo-China presents the United States with problems entirely different from those faced in connection with the North Korean aggression.

Communist action in Korea was against a government set up under the auspices of the United Nations and represented a direct challenge which could be met under the machinery of that organization.

In Indo-China, on the other hand, the Communists, using vast numbers of men whose primary interest is to oust France, are fighting three Paris - sponsored governments which are not popularly supported because of their connections with the colonial power.

Two Alternatives
Here, as the United States becomes more and more concerned about stopping the Communist penetration, we find a decided conflict between her traditional sympathy for exploited peoples and the necessities of the moment in the cold war with Russia.

The case of aggression against Communist Ho Chi Minh and his forces, nor against Communist China which is aiding them, is not specific. In Korea a Communist government was established north of the 38th parallel through the power of the Russian army. Then it made an overt break in an effort to take over the republic of South Korea established by a UN-supervised election.

In Indo-China, however, the fighting has been going on for years, and the Communists have immanently taken charge of a rebellion against French rule

Indian Opposition

Since this is true, a nation like India, which seems far more interested in the promotion of Asiatic nationalism than in stopping communism, would probably be joined by other Oriental countries in opposing the type of action in Indo-China which set the Communists back on their heels in Korea.

Because of a close community of interest in seeing the Indo-Chinese Communists whipped and the French army there relieved for duty at home in connection with reconstruction of western Europe's defense system, the United States cannot afford to antagonize France on the subject. But there is evidence that Washington would like to see France withdraw from her colonial position in Indo-China now, handing the country's future over to the United Nations.

Position Questioned
France has been spending nearly half a billion dollars a year just barely holding on during the guerrilla war which has lasted for five years. The expense must be immeasurably greater now, even with U.S. help. What she can get or hopes to get out of Indo-China is hardly worth the candle, except as an outpost on the world line of Communist containment. There is no suggestion that she should withdraw from that role until the emergency is over.

But by handing the political problem over to the UN, a situation would be created more like that which existed in Korea, and the number of ways in which action against the Communists could be taken would be greatly increased.

Mrs. 'Raff' Knows Her Football Game, Too

By CHUCK LEEDHAM
When Leonard Raffensperger was appointed head football coach at SUI, the first thing that flashed through his wife's mind was, "We'll never have another moment of peace."

The phone rang continually from 10 a.m. that day until 4 a.m. the next. The family answered it in shifts, taking the congratulations of friends and supporters.

It's not quite like the movie, "Father Was a Freshman," Mrs. Raff says, but being the wife of a Big Ten football coach has its hectic moments.

Games Bring Tension
On game days, tension in the house hits a peak. Tempers are sometimes a little short, and the entire household is in a turmoil.

"Raff" has on his game suit and tie—the outfit he wore the day of the Iowa-USC game. It's the "luck" suit, and it's worn for every game.

The four Raffensperger children are on hand, and the confusion is heightened by no less than three cats and two dogs.

"Raff" Always on Time
But everything is done on schedule. That's one of the things about "Raff"—he's always right on the dot for everything, and he sees to it that everybody else in the family is on time, come fire, flood or disaster.

If Iowa loses the game, there's no peace—if Iowa wins, there's even less.

Win or lose, the house is crowded on weekends with visitors—alumni, friends, congratulators—and the coffee and sandwiches flow.

If she had a hundred and one couches instead of just one, Mrs. Raff believes, she could use them to put up weekenders.

Mrs. Raff can talk football with the best of them. For twenty years, before coming to SUI, Raff was coach at Waterloo and Reinbeck high schools.

Then two years as SUI's freshman coach, and now the job as head man. After all that time, some of it was bound to rub off on Mrs. Raff.

She's never gone quite so far as to advise Raff on the plays he plans at home, but in one sports field, she definitely has the upper hand.

She Picks Winners
When the state high school basketball tournament comes to Iowa City, the Raffensperger family picks a slate of six teams each as the winners. Raff picks his scientifically, on the records of the teams and players.

But Mrs. Raff—her choices are the teams from towns where she knows someone. Who wins the bets every time? Mrs. Raff, of course.

The Raffenspergers have been married for a little over 23 years now. And logically enough, it was football that brought them together.

Mrs. Raff was working for Dr. Arthur Steindler in the University hospitals as a physical therapist a few years after her graduation from SUI in 1923, and one day she took charge of an SUI football player who injured his knee tackling the famous Red Grange.

It was her job to take care of the knee, and somewhere along the line, the emphasis switched to the knee's owner, and they were later married.

It isn't hard to figure out who in the family has a degree in physical education. Mrs. Raff was the undergrad athlete, while Raff took a commerce B.A. at SUI in 1927 and an M.A. in education a few years later.

"It was different then," Mrs. Raff says. "Today it seems that half the campus is married, but I can't think of more than a dozen who were in those days."

Couple Married 23 Years
After 23 years, Mrs. Raffensperger looks back on being the wife of a coach as being not too different from anything else.

"I remember the first game Raff coached at Waterloo high," she said. "It was pouring rain, but I went out and sat in the stands while the team won it."

"When we got home afterwards, a neighbor came over to talk and said, 'Nobody but a fool would go and sit in that rain for a football game.'"

Mrs. Raff just shrugged and said, "That's the way we earn our groceries."

STANDING IN HER "GREENHOUSE," Mrs. Leonard Raffensperger, wife of SUI's football coach, admires one of the dozens of varieties of plants she grows as a hobby. The former owner of the house started her off on the hobby by leaving a few plants in the glass-paned addition built on one side of the house, and Mrs. Raffensperger built up the collection of ferns, cacti and other plants.

FIRE DESTROYS FLOAT

Although court manners were in a high state of development in the 1600's and 1700's, apparently no holds were barred when our ancestors sat down to eat. A book on etiquette of that period sensibly asks that guests refrain from returning meat to serving dish after smelling it, eating soup with a fork and scraping plates with the fingers.

Hard-cooked eggs should be cooled promptly after cooking. This prevents over-cooking and helps ward off the dark ring which sometimes appears around the yolk.

A quick and easy way to wash a head of lettuce and separate the leaves at the same time is to cut out the white "core" or stem at the base of the head. Then let the water flow in, doing the dual task of cleaning and separating.

When buying a new refrigerator, be sure to check that the door doesn't swing into valuable work space. Instead see that a counter adjoins the open side where food taken in or out of the refrigerator may be placed.

Bridal Workshop To Visit Jewelers

The 'Big' Show is About to Begin ...

CIRCUS POSTERS AND AN ELEPHANT collection line the walls of a storage room in Eric Wilson's sports information department in the fieldhouse. A circus fan, and a collector of programs, posters, miniature elephants and model circus wagons, Wilson started his strange hobby while in grade school. His interest in the subject was sharpened when he traveled with Ringling brothers circus for two weeks.

Wagons, Elephants Not Enough —

SUI Man Collects Circus Posters

By JACK BICKERS

Collecting postage stamps is taking the easy way out, according to Eric Wilson, SUI sports information director. An avid circus fan, his hobby is collecting circus posters.

His big problem right now? Not enough wall space to hang them.

All four walls of a storage room connected with his field house office are covered with placards put out by Ringling Brothers, Barnum and Bailey, Cole Brothers and several smaller shows.

Wilson started the unusual collection while in grade school, but one summer while he was away from home, his parents moved and several rows of posters he had hanging from the rafters in the attic went into the waste can.

He began his collection all over again after spending a vacation on the road with Ringling Brothers, Barnum and Bailey. He spent two weeks watching them set up and tear down, wandering around the back lot, and in general getting acquainted with circus life.

When a circus comes near Iowa City, Eric goes early and makes a day of it, watching them set up in the morning, spending the afternoon in the back lot, and the seeing the big show in the evening.

Each year Eric writes to the circus' winter quarters for a copy of their program so he will have it on hand when the show opens in New York in the spring.

He collects posters from signboards, store windows, or wherever they can be found. This year he has all but three of the placards being used by Ringling Brothers, Barnum and Bailey.

When the circus visited Rock Island last summer, Eric was there to watch the spectacle. Coming home from the show, he saw in a vacant building a poster he didn't have. He got out of his car, tried all the doors, but finally had to give up because no one could be found to open the building for him.

Besides his collection of posters, Eric has a miniature elephant collection ranging from tiny hand-carved ivory pachyderms 1/4-inch long to 8-inch metal Jumbos, mechanical elephants that nod their heads, and one tiny glass elephant perched on the top of a drinking straw.

Apparently interest in the circus is hereditary. His son, Eric Jr., an insurance salesman in Davenport, builds miniature circus wagons. The wagons are 4-inch replicas of the larger versions, and are painted the exact colors of the real ones.

When a wagon is completed, Eric Jr. sends it to his father to be painted. The latest finished model is a colliery.

Although the hobby is not as profitable as stamp collecting, some old posters are worth as much as $10. One Oregon man has a collection dating back nearly 50 years. Periodically he sends out long sales lists to other collectors.

Interest in the posters does not affect Mrs. Wilson, who insists that her husband keep his collection at his office and not bring any home to hang on the walls. However, she does permit five model circus wagons on the Wilson mantle.

SUI Grid Schedules Toughest in Nation, Brechler Declares

SUI plays the most difficult football schedules in the U. S., Athletic Director Paul Brechler told the "I" club Saturday.

Speaking at the club's annual meeting in the Community building, Brechler outlined the athletic department's progress since the "I" club last met.

Other speakers included Football Coach Leonard Raffensperger, Basketball Coach Rollie Williams and Baseball Coach O. H. Vogel.

Raffensperger said the Hawkeyes were in "good physical" and mental condition for the tough contests ahead of us.

The winter sports season looked promising to Williams. "We'll be a good ball club, but I don't know how good we'll have to be to get on top," he said.

Vogel, who also coaches freshman football, said the freshman squad will have good material to add to next year's varsity squad.

"The freshman backfield is faster than the varsity backs right now," he said.

V. Graven Shuttlesworth, president of the "I" club, announced the club is now represented in 83 Iowa counties.

George Margulies, Davenport, was elected president of the club. Other officers include Glenn Miller, Waterloo; Clyde Charlton, Des Moines, and Charles Hastings, Cedar Rapids, vice-president; George Scanlon, treasurer, and Charles Galher, secretary, both of Iowa City.

The American Legion auxiliary served luncheon to the 200 club members following the meeting.

Farmers Union Chief Calls for Profits Tax

WASHINGTON (AP) — President James G. Patton of the National Farmers union has called for a stiff excess profits tax, price ceilings on scarce goods and strict controls on materials.

In a statement issued Friday, Patton said drastic steps should be taken to curb business profits which "have reached fantastic heights."

"They are about 50 percent more than they were in 1949," he said. "Profits of leading corporations have ascended into the stratosphere."

City Engineer Issues Three Building Permits

Three building permits totaling $12,000 were issued this week by City Engineer Fred E. Gartzke.

Receiving permits were:

H. J. Sorenson, 301 Kirkwood avenue, for a $1,000 three-car garage at his residence.

Eldon Memler, 227 Fairview street, for a $10,000 residence and garage.

J. M. Griffith, 1601 Center avenue, for a $1,000 garage at his residence.

Hancher Honored At ODK Breakfast

A plaque commemorating ten years of service to SUI was presented to President Virgil M. Hancher Saturday morning in the dining room of the Hotel Jefferson by the Omicron Delta Kappa, national honorary service society.

George W. McBurney, L3, Council Bluffs, president of the society, presented the plaque to President Hancher. More than 75 people attended the organization's fourth annual Homecoming breakfast.

The plaque was inscribed: "To Virgil M. Hancher for a Decade of Leadership."

Prof. Glen Devine, Iowa football great of 1922, showed a movie entitled "Football Highlights of '49."

City's Napkin Supply Stuck in Parade Floats

Sorry, no paper napkins!

That was the sad tale given out Saturday by some Iowa City storekeepers. The reason? — the SUI Homecoming parade.

An effective way of making a float is to cover a wooden framework with chicken wire and then poke napkins through the holes. By varying the color of the napkins it is possible to cover the float with colorful designs.

Practically every one of the 32 floats used this system to some extent. One float had 20,000 napkins in it.

U.S. Forces Rush To Rescue Yanks From Red Captors

PYONGYANG, KOREA (AP) — Tank-led U.S. First cavalry division troops raced northward from Pyongyang Saturday in an effort to rescue 150 American prisoners of war before their Communist captors have time to kill them.

The prisoners, part of a half-starved, beaten, bedraggled group of 376 men who were forced to make a "death march" from Seoul to Pyongyang, were believed to be held in a train stalled in a tunnel about 40 miles north of the fallen Red capital.

As tanks and troops rushed toward the spot, planes blasted the main rail line leading to the Manchurian border, which escaped prisoners said was the destination of the prison train. The tunnel was believed to be near where two paratrooper forces landed Friday.

Escapes said the North Koreans had planned to take the prisoners to Manpojin, on the Manchurian border, in the hope they could not be rescued.

But Allied officers feared that if the Communists could not get the train going again, they would massacre their weakened prisoners and then flee, as they have done several times in the past.

Eight men who escaped before the train departed a week ago Saturday, said that 376 prisoners who began the torturous foot journey to Pyongyang, 295 arrived.

Eighty-one died of malnutrition, dysentery, exposure, beatings and shootings, the escapees said. Only 20 have been accounted for definitely. They escaped or were known to be dead.

Whereabouts of the survivors not aboard the stalled train were unknown.

Teachers' Chances To Be Discussed

Looking for a teaching job? Opportunities in teaching will be discussed for SUI seniors and graduate students Tuesday and Wednesday at 4:30 p.m. in room 221A, Schaeffer hall.

Seniors will meet Tuesday and graduates will meet Wednesday, Frances M. Camp, director of the SUI placement office, said Saturday.

Teaching opportunities in universities, colleges and junior colleges throughout the United States and abroad will be included in the discussion, she said.

The services of the placement office, both for securing teaching and other positions, will be listed and registration procedures will be explained, Miss Camp said.

She urged all seniors and graduate students interested in teaching to attend the meetings.

Troop 3 Scouts Plan Honor Court

Troop three, Iowa City Boy Scouts will hold a court of honor at 7:30 p.m. Monday in the First English Lutheran church, Melvin Masbruch, publicity committee-man, announced Saturday.

Awards will be presented to the following scouts: tenderfoot, Billy Bartley and Barley Kuhn; second class, Lawrence Westland, Michael Moehlman and Jimmy Bane.

First class, Michael Moehlman and Don Wilson; star, Lee Smith and Melvin Masbruch Jr.

An eagle scout award will be presented to John Kelly, neighborhood commissioner.

Parents and friends are invited to attend.

First Canadian Troops Leave for UN Service

SEATTLE (AP) — Canada's first troops for service with United Nations forces in the far east have left the Seattle port of embarkation.

The serious-faced token force embarked without fanfare after buses brought them 40-miles from Fort Lewis, with a state patrol siren-sounding motorcycle escort.

The primary mission of the advance group is to establish an overseas camp for a large force to follow.

Plant to Close

TOLEDO, O. (AP) — A 54-year-old electrical manufacturing concern announced Saturday it "will discontinue attempting to operate here" after it was closed down by a strike called because of its refusal to sign an area pension plan.

Investigations conducted by the army and the house armed service and civil service committees revealed that the St. Louis office had paid out more than $157-million in excess of rightful claims to military dependents. A substantial amount was recovered.

The army, at that time, said no evidence of fraud was discovered in the overpayments and blamed the excess payments on pressure of wartime and demobilization days.

The congressional investigation also resulted in the dismissal of 10 employees at the St. Louis finance center as bad security risks.

Three Men Killed As Train Hits Truck

SAN MARCOS, TEXAS (AP) — Three trainmen were killed Saturday when a speeding Missouri-Kansas-Texas (KATY) freight train rammed a loaded gasoline tank truck at a grade crossing and exploded in flame.

The dead were Tuck Reader, 65, engineer; Gilbert Johnson, 37, fireman, and G. H. Erlic, Jr., brakeman. All lived at Smithville, Texas.

The bodies of Reader and Johnson were recovered within two hours after the fiery collision. Erlic's body was recovered shortly before noon.

Leaping flames from the disintegrated tanker truck raced through ten cars of the derailed train but the truck driver, T. D. Koch of Kennedy, Texas, survived the crash, along with two members of the train crew who were riding the caboose.

Koch was badly burned. After emergency treatment at San Marcos hospital, he was rushed to San Antonio's Baptist hospital. His condition was critical.

Koch was employed by the Phoenix Oil Refining company, owner of the truck.

Army Reorganizes Finance Division

WASHINGTON (AP) — The army Saturday reorganized its finance department and eliminated its much-criticized accounting division from the central finance office at St. Louis.

Investigations conducted by the army and the house armed service and civil service committees revealed that the St. Louis office had paid out more than $157-million in excess of rightful claims to military dependents. A substantial amount was recovered.

The army, at that time, said no evidence of fraud was discovered in the overpayments and blamed the excess payments on pressure of wartime and demobilization days.

The congressional investigation also resulted in the dismissal of 10 employees at the St. Louis finance center as bad security risks.

Waterloo Woman Named District DUV President

WATERLOO (AP) — Mrs. E. W. Andrews of Waterloo was named district president of the Daughters of Union Veterans at an area convocation here Saturday. She succeeds Mrs. John Gilles, also of Waterloo.

Other officers are Mrs. H. E. Packard of Waterloo, senior vice president, and Mrs. C. E. O'Dell of Dubuque, treasurer.

Among the 60 women at the convention was Mrs. Minnie Duval of Des Moines, department president.

'L'Amour' Mixed Reactions Given Love Refuge Plan

It would be a sad commentary on college youth if they needed to have a sign put up telling them where to neck and where not to neck.

This was the opinion Friday of Prof. Clayton Gerken, of the SUI counseling office, on a Wisconsin sociology professor's plan for a lakeshore "lovers' paradise" where students could court in private under reasonable supervision.

L. Dale Faunce, SUI dean of students, said, "Not knowing the University of Wisconsin campus, I am not sure if the (lovers' paradise idea) is related in any way to the problems at SUI."

"However, I am interested in the part of the article that mentioned the matter of social standards, and I believe the establishment—by the students themselves—of accepted social standards would be of value on this or any other campus."

(Faunce referred to the proposal of Wisconsin's Prof. Howard Gill that university faculty and students get together and set up standards of courtship conduct.)

Helen Focht, counselor to SUI women, declined to comment.

On the Wisconsin campus, reaction to Gill's plan was split. Most campus leaders thought he had a good idea, but they wanted to know what type of supervision he planned for the lovers' lane area.

Wisconsin coeds were cautious. Two protested the idea might lead women into temptation. Gill thought otherwise — "We can trust our kids," he said.

Gill asked the university to set aside a well-lighted section along the Lake Mendota waterfront for student courting.

He said students shouldn't be forced to do "en masse lovemaking" with many couples kissing each other each night in front of the dormitories.

He added students find it "disturbing to have police snooping on them" when they try to seek a little privacy.

Belle Plaine Woman Dies of Polio Here

Betty Van Speybroeck, 24, Belle Plaine, died at University hospitals Friday of polio. She was the 20th person to die of the disease at the hospitals this year.

Two Iowa City girls were transferred from the active to the inactive ward. They were Janet Moore, 12, and Sharon Branson, 8.

Two patients were discharged: Richard Weber, Harper, and Irene Kramer, Montrose.

Admitted as polio patients were Janice Daubner, Clinton; Allen Hunsaker, Mt. Pleasant, and Dean Kisling, Keosauqua.

Railroad Engineers' Wage Talks Break

WASHINGTON (AP)—Wage talks between the Brotherhood of Railroad Engineers and a national management bargaining committee have broken down, it was reported Saturday.

The break, reported by a management spokesman, was the first important development in several days in the carriers' billion-dollar dispute with almost every segment of railway labor. The spokesman did not interpret the rift as a strike threat, however.

The engineers first demanded a 20 percent pay boost for yardmen and 25-cents-an-hour expense allowance for road men. The carriers said that had been reduced to an 11.8 percent raise for engineers with a minimum 23 cents-an-hour boost.

Management countered by offering a 23 cents-an-hour wage increase for yardmen, five cents for road employes and one-cent across the board for every point the government cost of living index increases.

Revamped Course Tells Nurses-to-Be Of Role in Careers

A reorganized course for new students in the SUI college of nursing helps the freshman nurses of 1950 acquaint themselves with the nursing role early in their careers.

In a new orientation course required during their first semester at SUI, freshman nurses learn the nurse's role in care of the sick, and in the health program of the community, Marion Schrum, coordinator of beginning nursing courses, said.

A brief history of hospitals and nursing is included with an examination of the working relationship between the nurse and other members of the "health team."

During the orientation period, community service is also stressed, Miss Schrum said. Religious aspects of caring for the patient, the effect of hospitalization on him and personal responsibilities between the nurse and her patient are studied.

Following the orientation course, students enrolled in the degree program enroll in the Foundation of Nursing course for three semesters.

This course applies the scientific principles learned during the orientation period, and provides a foundation for future clinical studies in which basic nursing concepts will be developed.

Special attention is given throughout the course to public health aspects of nursing, particularly to patient-care outside the hospital. Organization of hospitals and health agencies, both governmental and voluntary, is also studied.

Students are taught to develop conversation skills necessary for patient relationships. Psychological and sociological factors of illness also are required study.

Auto Demolished, Teen-agers Unhurt

Three Iowa City high school students, riding in a car which overturned four miles southeast of Iowa City, miraculously escaped injury while their car was demolished late Friday night.

Involved in the accident were: James Goertz, 16, driver of the car, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Goetz, 610 S. Madison street; Robert Goss, 17, son of Mrs. Evelyn Goss, 1026 N. Summit street, and Ronald Teefy, 16, son of Mrs. Mabel Teefy, 425 E. Davenport street.

Traveling towards Iowa City, Goertz lost control of the car, which skidded and turned over in a ditch, police said. The three students crawled out with only minor bruises and scratches.

Making Loans — SUI Helps Book Hunts

By CHUCK McLAUGHLIN

"You name it, we'll get it." This could well be the motto of the inter-library loan department at SUI.

Under the direction of Irene Steidl for the past 26 years, this department has borrowed or loaned books to other libraries and business corporations the world over.

Most of the transactions of the department are outgoing books sent to smaller libraries and colleges in Iowa. However, Miss Steidl said books are often sent to foreign countries.

Foreign language periodicals and books are most often requested. "We have a very good collection of Russian, German and French books in our libraries," she said.

These rank high on the list of requests. They are the most expensive items to ship since many of them are unpublished and the government requires they be sent by express or special delivery.

Rare works are not usually sent to libraries. "There is too much danger in loaning rare items," Miss Steidl said, "so the usual procedure is to make photostatic copies of the material."

A man in Germany recently requested a copy of a thesis. A micro-film was sent in its place, since there were so few copies available. The cost was more than $25.

Miss Steidl said all expenses in loaning books are covered by the borrowing libraries, and the SUI service is only for graduate students, professors or business firms.

She said she locates books through the use of a Union Depository catalog and a Congressional Library catalog, which has a list of all books published and where they may be located. "Sometimes I just make a lucky guess," she said.

In addition to the catalog, Miss Steidl said there is a circular issued every Monday with lists of books other libraries are looking for. "We often use this means of locating desired materials," she stated.

Some libraries are quite particular as to how their books are handled. She said Harvard, Princeton and Illinois insist their books be shelved in a fire proof building.

Last year Miss Steidl said her department handled nearly 3,000 books, three-fourths of them outgoing. This year she said borrowing is heavier than any previous year, with an increase of incoming articles.

'Horse Feathers' — Features Marx Brothers — In Nostalgic Revival

By JACK LARSEN

When a New York theatre booked two old W. C. Fields films back in 1949, it created an unexpected bonanza.

Because the films met with widespread critical acclaim and considerable box-office success, you can see the Marx brothers through Tuesday at the Capitol theatre in one of their earlier comedies.

"Horse Feathers" has nothing to do with W. C. Fields, except that one or two movie companies were so impressed with what a combination of nostalgia and curiosity could do by the way of bringing crowds to see some of their mothballed films, that they released others.

The "adventure" of the madcap farces current in town is typical of the vehicles they made in the early Thirties in that it is no more or less amusing than the others and makes no more or less pretense at taking the matter of plot seriously.

"Horse Feathers" is just about the last of the re-released Marx comedies to come to the Capitol, which means that it's a good idea to catch the brothers now if you haven't seen them in other earlier efforts.

The Marx brand of humor is, of course, unique with them just as was Fields'. That's the reason, obviously, that a market seems to exist for the old films starring distinctive personalities who are now either dead, no longer making films, or—as in the case of the Marxes—at present out of worthy material.

But there's plenty of material in "Horse Feathers," and it is delivered with the explosive energy of old. Major reliance for holding the picture together is, as usual, on Groucho, who owes his material to the still-thriving S. J. Perelman and to Bert Kalmar and Harry Ruby (the pair recently rendered immortal by "Three Little Words").

There's a hectic Olsen and Johnson quality about Marx brothers comedy—except that the "kitchen sinks dragged in are verbal rather than real. Groucho employs his unceasing chatter in this one as a college president anxious to get his son (brother Zeppo) through school after twelve years as he is to get a winning football team at all costs.

As in all college movies, the climax is the big game. You will find it hardly as exciting as the Iowa-Purdue game, but the plays as executed by Chico and

Red Nations Oppose Arms For Germany

PRAGUE, CZECHOSLOVAKIA (AP)—Russia and her eastern European Communist associates, faced with growing demands in the west for rearmament of western Germany, Saturday called for a new declaration by the four big powers promising to keep Germany demilitarized.

At the close of a two-day conference led by Soviet Deputy Premier V. M. Molotov, the eight Communist foreign ministers attending issued a communique which repeated many of the demands of the similar 1948 Warsaw conference—especially the appeal for an immediate peace treaty with Germany and the withdrawal of all occupation troops.

The communique accused the west of violating the Potsdam agreement with its plan to rearm western Germany and then demanded:

1. A pledge by the big four—Russia, Britain, the U. S. and France—that Germany will not be remilitarized.
2. The removal of all obstacles in the way of the establishment of peaceful German economy.
3. Immediate conclusion of a peace treaty with Germany, together with the unification of the German state and the withdrawal of occupation troops.
4. The establishment of a council for all Germany to prepare a government for the unified Germany.

Charges GOP's Aid Communism

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The 1950 election campaign is a "fight by the little people to get their share," Walter Reuther, president of the CIO united auto workers, said Friday night.

Reuther told 1,200 UAW members that Sen. Robert Taft (R-Ohio), and Sen. Alexander Wiley (R-Wis.), were aiding communism by voting against measures that would "help the people."

Reuther described Sen. Wiley as a "rubber stamp of Taft," and called Taft's leadership "purely negative."

Celebration in Iowa Dressing Room--

'We're Getting Better Each Week'--Raff

Stu Holcomb Not Talkative After Defeat

By DICK JACKMAN

The "last thing coach Stu Holcomb and his Purdue Boilermakers did" Saturday afternoon wasn't quite enough.

It was a conservative Mr. Holcomb who sat quietly on a dressing room bench after watching his Boilermakers fade before the Iowa Hawkeyes, 33-21. He praised the Hawkeyes as being a "real aggressive ball club."

"Both teams were up for the game," Holcomb said. "Iowa just had more of it out there today."

"It Was Wonderful"

And up they were. The Hawkeyes dressing room was the scene of plenty of backslapping and handshakes. In the middle of it all was head coach Leonard Raffensperger who moved about congratulating his players. "It was wonderful," Raff said.

"We seem to be coming along a little better each week. Penalties are still hurting us a lot, but I particularly liked the way the team overcame several bad breaks early in the game and came back to win," Raff beamed.

Quarterback Glenn Drahn who skillfully guided the Hawkeye machine, heaped praises on the coaching staff. "They really had us ready for the game," Drahn said, "and they didn't jump on us a lot during the week for the loss to Wisconsin. They had Purdue well-scouted and us well built-up for the game."

Drahn had showed Purdue what Iowa wasn't supposed to have—a passing attack. The Monona senior carefully threw three touchdown aeriels and kept other drives going with timely tosses. The target of his first scoring pitch was livewire Don Commaek who tallied two touchdowns before leaving the game early in the fourth quarter with a shoulder injury.

Commaek picked up the injury clearing the way for Jerry Faska's 52 yard touchdown run. Faska who cut back beautifully to break into the clear said, "That aye, really opened up. The blocking was terrific and when I once got by the line of scrimmage all I had to do was cut back to get away from all those people in Purdue jerseys."

Commaek commented on catching Drahn's first pass for a touchdown. "I thought that thing would never come down. It just seemed to hang up there."

Juggling Act

Two other surprise touchdowns were elated by the Homecoming victory. Bernie Bennett who caught another Drahn aerial and did a juggling act into the end zone on his first play of the game, said "It sure was a good feeling."

Bennett is a sophomore from Mason City. Hubert Johnston, the giant tackle who took a Drahn pass on a tricky tackle-eligible play for a touchdown, limped into the dressing room, a broad smile on his face. It was Johnston's first collegiate touchdown though he had scored during high school days as an end.

Line Coach Pat Boland was well-pleased with the hard-hitting of his linemen. "Those boys have been working hard all fall and today they really showed it," Boland said. Ends Bob Hoff, Jerry Long, Don Swartzendruber, tackle Harold Bradley, guards Junebug Perrin and Austin Turner and linebackers Joe Paulsen, John Towner and Chuck Denning were outstanding on defense."

The sturdy Iowa pass defenders, Burt Britzman, Duane Brandt and Bill Greene were weary but happy after the battle. The rugged Perrin voiced the belief that Purdue wasn't as strong as last year when the Hawkeys posted a 21-7 win at Lafayette.

Won't Compare Teams

Back in the Purdue dressing room, Holcomb refused to compare Iowa with Notre Dame. "Football is getting to be a mental game every Saturday," he said. "Whoever is up the highest wins, so you can't accurately compare teams. You fellows in Iowa play Notre Dame later on — you can compare them yourselves then."

It was a sad day for Holcomb's forces, the original conquerors of Notre Dame, but not so in the Iowa camp. There the smiles, shouts and celebrating formed a satisfying picture of Hawkeye Homecoming happiness.

Huskies Win

LINGCOLN, NEB. (AP) — Bob (The Rambler) Reynolds ran Penn State's Nittany Lions footsores Saturday in Nebraska's 19-0 victory before a near-record football crowd of 38,000 fans.

The sophomore sensation ran 19 yards, 26 yards and 42 yards for touchdowns. He scored one conversion, missed the two other tries.

Stu, Boilermakers Fail To Make 'Vow' Stick

for a 7-7 ball game.

A typical Iowa bad break resulting from a fumble and a penalty set up Purdue's second touchdown of the quarter.

On the second play from scrimmage after Purdue had kicked off after the touchdown, Reichardt fumbled on the Iowa 54. Don Kasperan, a reserve fullback, pounced on the ball and the Boilermakers, who looked like the team the experts thought it was, were again in good scoring position.

Even with this break, Purdue almost held. On the first play after gaining possession of the ball, a Purdue pitch out was fumbled. The ball rolled back to midfield where a host of Iowans swarmed all over it with the ball scooting around under several Hawks finally clutched it.

The head linesman, however, called Iowa for offside and the ball was advanced to the Iowa 28 yard line.

Johnny Kerestes, injured fullback, and Dean Schmidt carried the ball on five plays down to the seven yard line from where Samuels passed to Leo Sugar for the touchdown. Samuels' conversion attempt was good for a 14-7 Boilermaker lead.

Then the Hawkeyes came back in the second quarter to surprise Purdue with their hitherto dormant pass attack and go into the lead, never again to be headed.

Iowa tied Purdue with about nine minutes left in the period.

Iowa Line Charges

The Hawks took the ball on their own 40 yard line when Montgomery, in punt formation, dropped the ball, and with the Iowa line changing, ran it up to that point.

After two running plays by Faska had advanced the ball to the 43, Drahn hit Hoff with a short stand up pass over the line of scrimmage which ended on the Boilermaker 41 with a first and ten.

Drahn, showing more confidence in his passing than at any time during the season, fired a completed pass to Commaek and the little Waterloo speedster went to the 25 before being hauled down.

An incompleated pass and a two yard gain momentarily slowed Iowa. But the Hawks weren't to be held off this time.

Strike to Bennett

On the next play, Drahn threw a strike to Bernard Bennett, who had just entered the game, on the two yard line and Bennett stepped over to score. Reichardt's conversion was good and the 52,000 fans could sense that this was a different team than the one which made mistake after mistake in losing two straight. It was.

The Hawks kicked off, then held the Boilermakers for downs. Montgomery kicked into the Iowa end zone.

With faith in themselves and the enthusiasm of the Homecoming crowd spurring them on, the Hawks covered 80 yards in seven plays to take the lead.

On the first play of this series of seven, Reichardt bulldozed his way to the Iowa 38 for a first down. Commaek picked up two to the 40. Then Faska, running like he did in wrecking Southern California, dodged and twisted down to the Purdue 31 for a 29 yard gain.

The ball was given to Faska again on the next play. He carried it to the 15 for another first down and put the Hawks in a golden scoring position.

In three more plays, one an incomplete forward pass, the Hawks had a touchdown.

Commaek Scores

Commaek punched to the ten and after the incomplete aerial, sliced into the end zone. Reichardt's conversion was good to make the score 21-14.

After some mid-field sparring which almost used up the entire third quarter, Iowa broke loose to score again.

This was the pass to Johnston. Running by Faska and Commaek and passing by Drahn moved the ball from the Purdue 46, where safety man Burt Britzmann had returned a kick, to the 15.

Drahn passed to Johnston on the next play and the Hawks had another touchdown. Again Reichardt's conversion was no good. The score stood at 27-14.

Faska scored next for Iowa on the most brilliant running play of the game. A one handed pass interception by Chuck Denning, who played a whale of a game on defense, made his run possible.

Eludes Linebackers

Denning took the ball on the Iowa 48. Drahn handed off to Faska on the next play. The Brooklynite started off Purdue's right tackle, eluded the linebackers, and outdistanced his pursuers in a run that had the crowd on its feet.

Several times during the jaunt it looked like Faska was trapped but each time he squirmed out of the pockets and kept driving.

Reichardt failed on his second straight conversion. Iowa led, 33-14.

Purdue's last touchdown, and the last scoring play of the game, came with eight minutes, 32 seconds left in the game.

A pass from Samuels to his favorite receiver Flowers scored. The Boilermakers had taken over the ball on the Iowa 25 yard line on Bennett's fumble.

Purdue almost scored again in the last seconds but the Iowa line stopped the Boilermaker running attack as it had done all day.

A pass interference penalty was ruled on the Iowa 20 with a minute and five seconds remaining. Samuels threw to Flowers on the Hawkeye three where it was first and goal to go.

Three running plays failed to net the necessary yardage and Iowa had its victory, 33-21.

UCLA Bruins Dump Favored Stanford
LOS ANGELES (AP) —	Stanford's football team tumbled out of the unbeaten ranks and its Rose Bowl hopes got a shocking jolt Saturday at the hands of the astonishing Bruins of UCLA.	Writing another chapter in 1950's book on major grid upsets, the twice-beaten Uclans sank the favored Stanford by a 21-7 score.	Coach Red Sanders' spirited Bruins found three golden scoring opportunities and promptly hit the jackpot with three aerial blasts to sew up this Pacific coast conference game.

Hawks Stop Johnny Kerestes

TWO HAWKEYE LINEMEN HIT Purdue's fullback Johnny Kerestes (left) after a short gain Saturday. The Hawkeyes upset favored Purdue, 33-21. Shown diving into the play is Iowa's end Jerry Long (36) over Purdue blocker Dean Schmidt. In the background is Boilermaker quarterback Dale Samuels, and Iowa tackle Harold Bradley (18).

Indiana's Bobby Robertson Ruins Favored Irish, 20-7

By ED SAINSBURY

BLOOMINGTON, IND. (UP) — Indiana's fighting Hoosiers and the shining heels of their star Negro fullback Bobby Robertson shattered Notre Dame, 20-7, Saturday for the second Irish loss in the past five seasons.

Robertson, a heavy-shouldered junior halfback from South Bend, Ind., the site of Notre Dame, loped for 185 yards in 18 tries, including an 83-yard dash for a touchdown on the first play from scrimmage of the second half.

That splendid run broke the back of the Fighting Irish and Notre Dame, still fighting, went down.

Battle of Lines

Except for Robertson, who scored two touchdowns, it was a battle between the two lines. And Indiana's forward wall showed quickly it intended to give no quarter and demand none, Indiana, behind this fine protection, scored touchdowns the first two times it had the ball, and after that the Hoosier forwards smothered all but one Notre Dame march.

Even Bob Williams, Notre Dame's all-American quarterback who had been a shining example of how to play football in the Irish win over North Carolina and Tulane as well as the earlier loss to Purdue, could do little against the onrushing Indiana linemen.

Williams completed 11 out of 21 passes for 114 yards, but his completions came at mid-field usually and only one toss had anything to do with the Notre Dame touchdown. Williams was knocked out on this 80-yard third period drive, and substitute John Mazur had to take over after Williams had passed to Fidel Gander for a 19-yard gain.

Gander Scores

Mazur promptly hit Gander for 24 yards, and then Jim Muscheller for 21 more yards. Then Williams came back to call Gander's signal for an eight-yard plunge to finish off the drive.

Notre Dame center and captain Jerry Groom again was a star even in defeat, but Groom played no better than half a dozen Hoosier linemen, notably end Sam Winston, tackle Ernie Kovatch and Sam Talarico and guard Danny Thomas.

Undeclared SMU Keeps Rolling, Beats Rice Owls, 42-21

HOUSTON, TEX. (AP) — Undeclared, untied Southern Methodist, powered by hard charging Kyle Rote and protected by an iron-clad pass defense, knocked Rice from among the unbeaten, 42-21 Saturday night before a crowd of 70,000.

SMU struck for touchdowns the first two times it had the ball, then beat off a Rice comeback and rolled along easily as two pass-interceptions got a pair of quick scores.

The victory was the fifth straight for the Methodists, the nation's third-ranking team this week.

For Rice, starting defense of its 1949 Southwest conference championship, it was the first defeat in 13 games, its first conference loss since October, 1948.

Rote scored the first and third SMU touchdowns and paved the way for another as the Methodists relied most of the night on power instead of their anticipated aerial show.

Karras smashed 183 yards in 25 tries and Rakovits 81 in 20, compared with 72 for McElhenry in 20. In all Illinois cruised 38 yards on the ground to 183 for Washington.

Washington scored first in the second period as halfback Bill Earley grabbed a 25 yard pass in the end zone without anybody within hollering distance.

Bucks Batter Gophers, 48-0

Loss One of Worst In Minnesota History

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Ohio State's Buckeyes used everything in their book to overwhelm Minnesota's hapless and badly out-classed Gophers, 48-0 in a Western conference football game Saturday.

The defeat, the fourth in a row for Minnesota, was one of the worst drubbings ever absorbed by a Gopher squad. It was the third victory in four starts for Ohio State, which has lost only to Southern Methodist thus far this year.

Passes and a pass interception were used by Ohio State to set up and score their first four touchdowns. Then, just to prove they had the power on the ground as well, they sent ball carriers over for the last three scores in the fourth period. Another touchdown was called back because of a clipping penalty.

Striking swiftly the first time they took the ball, last year's Rose Bowl victors and conference champions, scored just three minutes and 19 seconds after the game started. From then on it was just a question of how high they wanted to run the score.

The Buckeyes put two touchdowns across in the second period, another in the third and three more, two of them within six minutes of each other, in the fourth period.

(AP Wirephoto)

OHIO STATE'S TOM WATSON (88) went high into the air Saturday to catch Vic Janowicz' touchdown pass for the second Buckeye score against hapless Minnesota. Watson evaded Minnesota's half-back Darrell Cochran (7). Ohio State clouted the Gophers, 48-0, to mark Minnesota's fourth straight loss this season.

Wildcats Stave Off Last Quarter Rally, Conquer Pitt, 28-23

EVANSTON, ILL. (AP) — Undeclared Northwestern Saturday grabbed its fourth straight football victory 28-23 over Pittsburgh, which exploded for all its points in the last quarter.

The Panthers, who upset the Big Ten Wildcats last year, were so helpless and beset by penalties through the first three periods that when the band began playing "Oh, Dear, What Can the Matter Be?" the crowd of 35,000 in Dyche stadium laughed.

Before the finale began, Pitt had been a team in reverse. It was set back 124 yards on infractions while gaining only 101 rushing.

Northwestern lost 104 on penalties as the whistle blowers had a picnic.

All of Northwestern's touchdowns came through the air. Dick Flowers passed for three, two of them going to end Don Stonesifer. Sophomore Bob Burson flicked one, and also place kicked four extra points. End Burt Keddie also snared two touchdown passes.

Army Humiliates Harvard, 49-0

CAMBRIDGE, MASS. (AP) — Mighty Army, the nation's No. 1 college eleven, overwhelmed Harvard, 49-0 to add another blotted page to the Crimson's 77-year-old football history Saturday before a 26,000 crowd at the Stadium.

It was the third straight setback for the season for the Crimson. Last year Army ran up a record high score against Harvard with a 54-14 decision.

Less than 10 minutes after the opening kickoff, Army had scored thrice on a 36-yard romp by veteran fullback Gil Stephenson, a six-yard payoff pass from Bob Blaik to winger Dan Foldberg and a three yard slam by Jack Martin.

Ortmann Starts Drive
Ortmann got Michigan's first touchdown drive started, running back a punt from the midfield stripe to the Wisconsin 30. He climaxed the drive four plays later by clipping off tackle from the 16 for the score.

Wolverines Brighten Hopes For Title, Down Wisconsin

ANN ARBOR, MICH. (AP) — Chuck Ortmann, the blonde bombshell from Milwaukee, tossed and ran Michigan to a 26-13 victory over Wisconsin Saturday to brighten the Wolverines' hopes for a fourth straight Big Ten crown.

The 190-pound tailback exploded with rifle passes during the first half, one of them for a touchdown. Then he scampered 16 yards for another score with six would-be tacklers slipping off of him.

Not Has-Beens
The Wolverines' rousing opening conference triumph was a siren warning that "we're not has-beens yet." It was Wisconsin's first defeat of the season.

Ortmann's passing was fabulous, breaking previously-unbeaten Wisconsin's back with ten connections out of 14 heaves in the first half.

With the Badgers crumbling from Ortmann's deadly barrage, the way was easy for line-smashing fullback Don Dufek to crash over for two more scores in the third period before a Homecoming crowd of 91,202.

A knee injury early in the third period sent Ortmann to the sidelines but he had already done the damage. Wisconsin, even though scoring twice in the final period, never really threatened.

After turning back a stubborn 50-yard Wisconsin march that hit as far as the Michigan 22 in the opening minutes of the first quarter, the Wolverines put on the gas and soon sped ahead.

SUI To Begin Moving Into New Library This Christmas

By JERRY COPELAND

The new SUI library building is 90 percent completed, and SUI libraries are expected to begin moving into the building during the Christmas vacation, Prof. Ralph E. Ellsworth, director of SUI libraries, said Saturday.

"We expect to move into the first floor during the Christmas holidays. And we will be moving off and on beginning with the holidays and until the last of March," he said.

"Students will be informed where to go during the movings," Ellsworth said, "and we will have the movings arranged to avoid chaos for the students."

First 'Home' Since 1857

The new building will provide the first permanent home for SUI libraries since 1857. SUI will be one of few major universities in the United States to have an entire library in one building.

Flooring and paneling in the building are almost completed. The building will have 91,000 square feet of asphalt tile flooring.

Paneled rooms will have modernistic aluminum doorways and aluminum acoustical ceilings. The ceilings and insulation will permit typing in any part of the three floors without disturbing library patrons.

Moveable metal sectional partitions in each room can rearrange, enlarge, or reduce the size of the rooms.

"Although progress has been satisfactory," said Clarence L. Casey, superintendent of construction, "delay in delivery of materials has slowed up completion of the building."

Auditorium Complete.

Already, a 150-seat library auditorium for audio-visual instruction is completed except for seats. Marble paneling, 42 inches high, adorns lobby walls at the entrance of the library.

The new $1.5-million structure will accommodate 1,800 students at one time, and will provide a home for all but 60,000 of SUI's 600,000 books and 350,000 government documents.

Ellsworth said the remaining books will be stored in the Midwestern Inter-library center in Chicago, and a few will be left in McBride hall. The Chicago library center is a joint library for 20 midwestern research libraries.

SUI hopes to double the size of the new library if sufficient funds can be obtained from the state legislature at its January session to make room for one-million volumes.

Books Reclassified
Books in the SUI libraries are being reclassified before moving. A staff of 40 part-time helpers have already reclassified over 8,000 books under the new congressional system. The old Dewey system had been used since 1912.

Ellsworth explained the new library will have two innovations never before tried in libraries. The first, on the main floor, is the Benjamin F. Shambaugh Heritage library of 25,000 volumes.

In the first floor library students will find all their materials for core course reading, and experts in core courses and introductory course subjects will guide and advise the students.

"The Heritage library will provide advisory services and guidance for the new student who is making the transition from high school to college," Ellsworth said.

The second innovation will be an arrangement of the open-shelf collection for the use of advanced undergraduates and graduate students on the second floor. The 70,000 books in this collection will be arranged in seven chronological time groups.

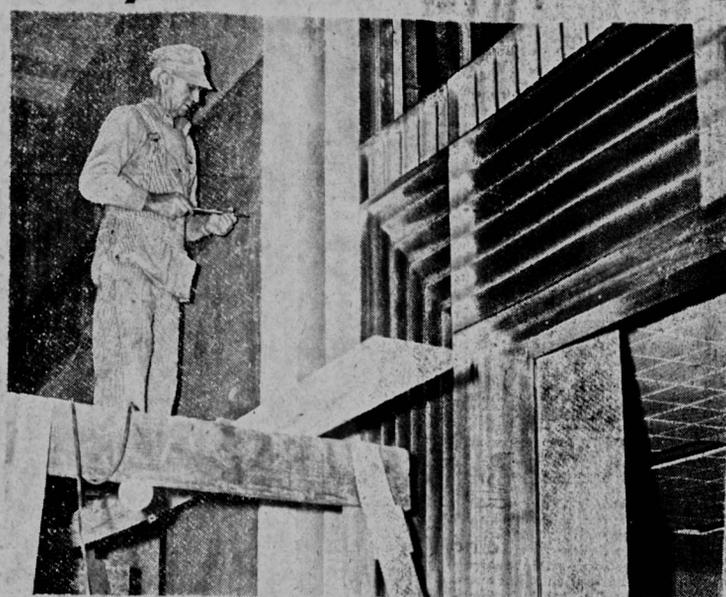

Ellsworth said that these books will be arranged according to subject matter. They will include early civilization, Greek and Roman, middle ages, reformation and renaissance, 16th century, 17th and 18th centuries, and 19th and 20th century.

Ellsworth said the chronological groupings were decided upon by the library staff because many books apply to more than one field. By such arrangement, they can be studied not only for their time period, but also for the individual subject field.

The new three-story brick and poured concrete building will be entirely air conditioned sometime in the future. Whether or not the library will have an ASPHALT TILE FLOORING in the new SUI library was 95 percent completed Friday. Workmen were applying the checked flooring on more than three acres of floors. Progress in the completion of the library has been hampered by the shortage of materials.

PANELING IN THE NEW SUI LIBRARY was 85 percent completed Friday. John Miller, Iowa City, was installing the paneling in the library lobby. The foot of the lobby walls is faced with marble 42 inches high. Moveable sectional metal partitions separate each room of the library which has acoustical steel ceilings.

elevator will be decided by the state board of education.

When the library is enlarged, the 11 other departmental libraries and reading rooms scattered throughout the SUI campus, will be moved into the building.

Besides the Heritage library, SUI's collection of rare books and manuscripts will be housed on the first floor. Ellsworth said this collection will number about 50,000 volumes and papers.

The second floor of the building will have the new open-shelf book collection. The second floor will have the new open-shelf collection, reading, conference, seminar and typing rooms, and an audio-visual room for use of SUI's slide and movie teaching aids.

On the third floor will be the government document department, the geology and map collections and the major part of the stack collection. Other stacks will be located throughout the building.

Ellsworth said the books in the stack collection will be arranged in numerical call-number order.

Students will be able to obtain these books by consulting the card catalog in the lobby of the library and finding the call number of the book they want. They will give this number to a desk attendant who will obtain the book for them.

Prepare Study Rooms

There will be reading rooms where no more than one student will be able to work at any one time, unassigned graduate study places, and individually-assigned study places for graduate students.

Ellsworth said most of the study places will be of the unassigned type. Since assigned study places usually stand empty most of the day, the number of these will be limited, he said.

The 150-seat auditorium on the first floor will be used for audio-visual instruction in connection with the Shambaugh Heritage library on the same floor.

Two large lounges will be available for students.

Communications within the building will be handled by series of pneumatic tubes — similar to tubes in department stores — which will send book orders from one part of the building to another in a few seconds. The books will be brought to the main desk by a book lift.

TO SPEAK ON UN

Prof. Vernon Van Dyke of the SUI political science department will speak on the United Nations at the Clinton Rotary club meeting, at 12:15 p.m. Monday.

Larson Enforcing All Laws: Beardsley

Governor William S. Beardsley said Saturday that he knew of no laws that Attorney General Robert Larson wasn't enforcing.

Beardsley's gubernatorial opponent, Lester S. Gillette, charged Friday that Larson wasn't enforcing other laws while conducting his anti-gambling campaign.

In an interview at the Iowa Union shortly after his arrival in Iowa City by plane, Beardsley said, "I think the state of Iowa has the best law enforcement in the nation."

He declined to comment on the accusations of Liquor Commissioner George L. Scott that the governor was interfering with the commission.

Loveland To Speak Here

Al Loveland, democratic nominee for U.S. Senate, will speak at SUI Thursday Oct. 26 at 7:30 p.m. in the River room of Iowa Union, Mary McMahon, A4, president of the SUI Young Democrats, announced Saturday.

Following the speech a mixer will be held at which refreshments will be served.

STIMSON BURIAL MONDAY

COLD SPRING HARBOR, N.Y. (AP)—Henry L. Stimson, 83-year-old statesman who served as a cabinet officer under four presidents, will be buried Monday in the Stimson family plot at Memorial cemetery here. The funeral will be held privately at the home at an undisclosed hour, with only members of the family and close friends attending.

Malik Quoted As Favoring Disarming

NEW YORK (AP)—Jacob Malik, chief of the Soviet delegation to the UN, was quoted Saturday as saying the Russian government "is for general disarmament and mutual inspections between governments."

The Russian official was said to have made the statement to a group of five women from the Chelsea section of New York city whom he received at the Soviet delegation's headquarters on Park avenue.

Malik also was quoted as saying that Russia's "promises officially not to use the A-bomb first." Malik would not discuss his interview with the women, who identified themselves as members of the Chelsea women's committee for peace.
