Problem Greater Than Distribution

(An Editorial)

A recent letter to The Daily Iowan concerning the distribution of tickets for programs presented at the Union leads us to comment to some length on the entire ticket-distribution story—which started this year with the Charles Laughton lecture.

Graduate student Patrick J. Martin, in his letter, said: "At 10:30 the sign in the Union Lobby said '... the system broke down under pressure—sorry.' Maybe students with 7:30 classes should not have to pay the activity fee, or unpunched ID cards should merit a refund at the end of the semester."

Mr. Martin has a point, just as have many others who are reported to be asking the same question. However, despite the criticism The Daily Iowan has voiced of the distribution system to date, we want to add a word of sympathy and understanding to those who are finding themselves targets of criticism from all directions.

We suggested editorially that the tickets be distributed at 7:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. on two consecutive days, with one-fourth of the tickets given out at each scheduled time. We thought this would mean almost all students would have an opportunity to get in line, whether they got tickets or not.

The committee under Prof. C. B. Righter, manager of the university concert course, chose another system—one under which a certain number of tickets would be distributed every hour on the hour from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Why We Didn't Object to SUI Plan

Although we thought our plan was better, we didn't object to this for two reasons: (1) His plan was designed for the same purpose as ours—that is, fairer distribution—and we care less about the method than the results. (2) We were aware of the experience Professor Righter has had in such work and we realized his plan might be better than ours whether we thought so or not.

Prof. Earl E. Harper, chairman of the committee on university lectures (which sponsored the Laughton lecture, not the Cossack concert) told us he believed our plan would not work. In voicing this belief, he emphasized, with what we believe unquestionable sincerity, that this was only his opinion and that he did not want to reject arbitrarily any suggestion on the basis of past experience alone.

And we respect his opinion, although we believe the trouble which occurred last Friday morning would not have happened if unified spirited student support in the Purdue game after two successive defeats.

Can the students and Monday morning Iowa quarterbacks meet the test of loyalty? Here are two students who wish to go on record — two who have confidence, that Floyd Rosedale will return to Iowa next Saturday.

Hick and Big Gas ...

TO THE EDITOR:
Lots of people use natural gas. A few big companies control the supply. In most areas — as in Iowa City — there is only one source of supply: a monopoly in effect.

The big gas companies know that the federal power commission regulates rates in the public interest — seeing to it that only fair rates are charged.

But the big gas companies don't want this — naturally. So the "independent" gas companies introduced a bill in congress to take themselves out from under federal power commission regulation.

Backs Big Gas
This would have raised gas rates for every user. But did Sen. Bourke Hickenlooper care? No, he voted for the "independent" gas bill on March 29, (Congressional Record, page 4264). It is interesting that the bill was introduced by a Democrat — Kerr of Oklahoma. But another Democrat — President Truman — vetoed it.

The point is not particularly partisan — but what is good for America. Hick showed by this vote who he's for — not the people but the big gas and oil companies.

Perhaps they could give the first one for all students lucky enough to get free tickets and the second one for faculty, town people, and students who could not get in on the first night. I know that I would rather buy a ticket to some of the concerts than miss them.

We are in this university, presumably, to learn something and to broaden our cultural background. This is a point that most "educators" yell about. It seems to me that something is done about music and other cultural programs held here. I am referring especially to the Don Cossack concert. This morning at 8:30 I was told that I could not get a ticket until nine because of the new plan, and a good one, to give only 125 tickets each hour. Because of classes, I was not able to return until twelve, when I found a notice to the effect that the system broke down under pressure and all of the tickets were gone.

Later I heard from reliable sources that over 400 tickets had gone out by 8:30. Many others were in the same boat today and it seems to be a very unnecessary situation. A school this size, in the first place, should have an adequate hall for large concerts and since this one does not, it could at least provide two identical programs.

Start Now
Suddenly, at 8:45, Prof. Righter came in saying, "I guess my system has broken down ... I'm allergic to lines ... We'll start distribution of tickets now."

Why this decision was made is very obscure. The students were perfectly willing to wait in line for distribution of tickets at 9 o'clock, and others on campus had planned to stand in line for theirs at later hours. Why "line formation" and "breakdown of the plan" were construed to be synonymous by the authorities is certainly not clear. What is clear, however, is that the faith of the students in the published word of university officials has been dealt a severe blow.

A "first-come-first-served" system is decidedly unfair, when most students are prevented by class schedules from coming at 8 o'clock to pick up tickets.

However, the real root of all the trouble is the policy of distributing only 1,125 tickets among 10,000 paid-up customers. Can't programs be given in a larger auditorium — say the fieldhouse — or held over for 2 or 3 performances? Until then, let us find an equitable means of ticket distribution, and abide by what we promise to do.

Elizabeth Coffin, M4

one-fourth of the tickets had been distributed at the early hour, with a wait of several hours before the next distribution. It's our guess that Professor Righter's reasoning on that morning was something like this:

After giving out the first 125 tickets, he knew that in less than an hour he would release 125 more. He looked at the line which reportedly consisted of more than 125 persons at that time. He probably felt it actually was unfair to make those persons wait when he knew there was no question that they would be the next ones to get tickets.

His decision probably was the same most of us would have made under the circumstances. He let the next 125 tickets go—and that started it.

Our Suggestion Still Might Work

Whether The Daily Iowan's suggestion would work, we're not sure—from its first appearance on this page, it has been only a suggestion. Perhaps there are better suggestions forthcoming now from faculty and students. If not, there would be little harm in giving ours a chance.

But there is something else we should consider—something of a far longer-range of view. Why is it necessary that SUI students rush to obtain tickets to attend these performances? Out of more than 9,000 students, only 1,500 to 1,800 of them may attend.

The committees arranging for the programs face an unfortunate decision: (1) They must resign themselves to a thankless job of trying to bring the best performers available to a student body which will be dissatisfied because only a relative few may attend the shows, or (2) they must sign contracts with persons who are competent but not of the highest caliber—just to prevent the dissension which comes when the really "big boys" appear.

SUI Needs a New Auditorium

If the State University of Iowa has ever needed a new building, this fall's program of Union events has proved it needs a new auditorium now.

SUI needs an auditorium which will accommodate the students—one which will accommodate them at performances of the caliber the first-rate university we have here should present.

Until then, we can only hope to distribute as fairly as possible the relatively few tickets we'll have each time.

And until then, Mr. Martin's question will be a little embarrassing.

Broken Promise ...

TO THE EDITOR:
I wish to protest the reported "Failure of the Plan" in the distribution of tickets for the Don Cossack concert Friday, Oct. 27. As a student who "was there" when the decision was made to ignore all previously published promises to have tickets available throughout the day, I feel that the action was entirely unjustified.

There was a report in The Daily Iowan that a mob of "400 students stormed the Union." This is not true. What actually happened was this: About 3:30, some of us students came to the desk, inquired, and were told that the 8 o'clock tickets were all gone. Many of us had come quite a distance and, rather than go away and return later, we stood near the tables and a line began to form to wait for the 9 o'clock tickets. Everything was very orderly, as students in line read newspapers, studied textbooks, or visited with their neighbors. The line soon became rather long, extending back to the door of the main lounge, but there was no jostling or complaining.

Start Now
Suddenly, at 8:45, Prof. Righter came in saying, "I guess my system has broken down ... I'm allergic to lines ... We'll start distribution of tickets now."

Why this decision was made is very obscure. The students were perfectly willing to wait in line for distribution of tickets at 9 o'clock, and others on campus had planned to stand in line for theirs at later hours. Woods to Propose Rent Law Changes
WASHINGTON (AP) — Housing Expediter Tigue Woods is expected to propose broader federal rent control powers amending the local option control law which does not expire until next June 30. Woods' proposals were reported to be:

1. A change in the present law to eliminate the requirement for affirmative local action to continue controls if a housing shortage exists. Under the present law, controls expire the first of the year in any community which does not act to continue them.

2. New authority for the housing expediter to recontrol any area or general class of housing when defense needs warrant it.

Stock Prices Fall; Hogs, Lambs Turn Lower

NEW YORK (AP) — A decline in stock prices suddenly picked up speed in the final hour of Monday's market and brought final losses ranging to more than $2 a share.

The storm of selling swept over the list with such intensity that the ticker tape ran behind floor transactions for a brief time. Principal targets were steels, railroads, and selected motors and oils.

Cattle Steady ...

CHICAGO (AP) — Hogs and lambs turned lower but cattle were steady to higher at the stockyards Monday.

Most hogs were weak to 35 cents lower with most of the loss appearing in barrows and gilts. These sold at $18.50 to $19.15 generally, several loads testing choice edging up to the top of $19.25. Sows were $16 to $18.75.

Corn Drops ...

CHICAGO (AP) — There was enough cash corn here Monday to bring the little boomlet corn has been enjoying under control.

The yellow cereal dropped fractions, after being off more than a cent at one time, in reflection of lowered prices for the cash grain.

Distribution Fiasco ...

TO THE EDITOR:
I would like to submit the following views for publication in your newspaper:

The editorial campaign of The Daily Iowan for a new system of Lecture — Concert ticket distribution, carried on immediately after the Charles Laughton program, was a laudable endeavor and a job competently done. It seems reasonable to suppose that these editorials were a strong factor in bringing about the announcement of a new policy of ticket distribution. In view of such a well-done job, it is a shame that this same paper could publish an item last Saturday bearing the headline "Ticket Distribution Plan Fails."

It is unbelievable that anyone could honestly be convinced that the new plan had failed — it never received a fair chance to prove whether or not it could succeed. If the headline referred to the "opinion" of a Union Board member, it should have been quoted as such, with due accreditation, and certainly not included in the headline as a "fact." The article stated that the new plan failed under "pressure." Although the undersigned was not present at the Union during the hours involved, second hand information has given him cause to wonder just what definition was implied in the use of the word "pressure."

No Threats
In approving of the new plan of distribution, the Union management must have been fully aware that large crowds of people would besiege the Union — continuously all day long. How could it possibly have been otherwise with a student body of more than 8,000 trying to get slightly more than 1,000 tickets? It was reported to me that at the time all the tickets were put at the disposal of those present, the many people there were acting in an orderly fashion. There was no indication of threats or pandemonium reported. If this so-called "pressure" was merely the assemblage of a large number of people with the resultant noise naturally attendant upon such a large gathering, then the student body has sorely misplaced part of the management of its affairs.

Even if there had been a "constraining force" of some type brought to bear upon the ticket distributors, they would have been giving in to the "pressure" of a relatively small group, whereas the new system was announced in response to the desires of the majority (assuming that the newspaper editorials represented the implied wish of the majority of the student body).

Leaders Needed
If the reasons for the "breakdown" of the new plan are similar to those suggested above, then the announcement of the new plan was merely a giving of "lip-service" to the demands of the majority. If those responsible for the ticket distribution fiasco of last Friday cannot serve in the capacity in which they are acting, then it would seem the democratic thing to do to remove their influence. Certainly it would appear that if they are unable to withstand the type of "pressure" which caused the ticket distribution plan "to fail," they could reasonably be expected to fail to bar from admittance to a concert or lecture the throngs which could conceivably organize to break into the Union, without the necessary tickets which they were deprived of by the irresponsibility and failure of those professing to serve them.

This problem cannot conceivably solve itself in the near future. It calls for insight and for decisions which will be adhered to. The student body has a right to demand reliable leadership in its affairs.

Keep Our Boys Home ...

TO THE EDITOR:
I have noticed with increasing interest and anguish the opinions of various United States congressmen in regard to universal military training. These men seem to wish our boys to devote more of their lives to becoming professional soldiers than to becoming good, clean and moral American citizens. I did not raise my boy to become cannon-fodder, nor did I raise him to become morally degenerate, as he will doubtless be after he falls under certain influences of the army.

I am a member of many organizations whose aim is to promote peace, but we feel that patriotism begins at home; not in corrupt situations in foreign lands where our boys might be sent.

Used as Foil
Why should the United States be forced to bear the brunt of foreign arguments and aggressions? We are being used as the foil of the scheming bureaucrats of other countries. We should keep our boys right here at home, where they are needed.

I have seen all to many of our youth troop off to war, bright in the firmness of their convictions and beliefs, return later to us almost bestial strangers. Many of these boys have been rehabilitated, but let us not make them go through the same horrors again. I repeat the thousandfold wishes of American mothers — "Do not send our boys to war!"

Hick's Poor Record ...

TO THE EDITOR:
Hickenlooper has such a terrible record on housing he should be deposed at the election.

Public housing is desperately needed in every part of the nation. Nowhere is this more apparent than here in Iowa City. He voted AGAINST low — rent public and harm housing in 1949 (Congressional Record, April 21, page 4954).

This would have helped people get better housing — but Hick would have none of this.

This is what Al Loveland, Democratic candidate to defeat Hick, means when he says the record shows "a startling lack of service to Iowans."

That's why Hickenlooper should be defeated in the election and Al Loveland elected.

Severe Test ...

TO THE EDITOR:
The aftermath of the Iowa-Ohio State game will not only be a severe test of team stamina but one of student loyalty. The coaches have a difficult assignment of rebuilding team confidence. This task can be accomplished but can only be a success if they rally behind the staff and players.

The team took a severe physical beating but the psychological beating was even worse. If you as a student felt demoralized — think of the effect on the forty fighting Hawkeys.

No excuses are being made by anyone nor should any be made. Ohio State may have been as strong as the score indicated but Iowa definitely isn't that weak. Iowa's play on the four previous week-ends is proof enough. Even the powerful teams have such a day. Remember the championship play-off in 1948 between the two most powerful teams in the pro circuit. And the score: Chicago Bears 73, Washington Redskins 0!

Iowa Can Win
Iowa has a football team which can win games during the remainder of the season — but only if the Iowa supporters continue to boost their team in defeat as enthusiastically as in victory. Each of us witnessed the effect of a

More Room Needed ...

TO THE EDITOR:
It seems to me that it is high time that something is done about music and other cultural programs held here. I am referring especially to the Don Cossack concert. This morning at 8:30 I was told that I could not get a ticket until nine because of the new plan, and a good one, to give only 125 tickets each hour. Because of classes, I was not able to return until twelve, when I found a notice to the effect that the system broke down under pressure and all of the tickets were gone.

Later I heard from reliable sources that over 400 tickets had gone out by 8:30. Many others were in the same boat today and it seems to be a very unnecessary situation. A school this size, in the first place, should have an adequate hall for large concerts and since this one does not, it could at least provide two identical programs.

Perhaps they could give the first one for all students lucky enough to get free tickets and the second one for faculty, town people, and students who could not get in on the first night. I know that I

Chinese Girl Born Here, Wants to Return

A Chinese girl born in the SUI hospitals nearly 18 years ago and now a resident of Hong Kong, hopes to return here soon for her college education.

In a letter received at University hospitals recently, Mr. and Mrs. N. W. Ch'ien asked the assistance of hospital officials in obtaining Christine Ch'ien's birth certificate and citizenship papers. Christine was born in Iowa City on Dec. 26, 1932 while her father was attending SUI's college of law.

Even though born of Chinese parents, Christine is entitled to U.S. citizenship by right of birth in this country.

"During these unsettled times in our country," writes Ch'ien, "we are even more desirous to see that our daughter should have her proper education."

The Ch'ien family left Iowa City shortly after Christine's birth in 1932, and Ch'ien continued his law study at the University of

Students May Apply For NSA Positions

Five National Students association subcommittee chairmen positions are now open on the campus to students.

Louise Beckman, A3, Ottumwa, student council NSA chairman, announced Monday any qualified non-council members may serve in these positions.

The student council has voted to remain a member of the National Students association, and the central NSA committee and five subcommittees will handle NSA business at SUI.

The five committees include: public relations, secretariat, educational, student and international affairs.

Applications are due in the office of student affairs Friday, Miss Beckman said. Applicants not chosen as chairmen may serve in other positions on the committees.

Graduates' Story to Appear in Journal

A story on two SUI graduates will appear in the November issue of Ladies Home Journal in its "Our Own Young Marrieds" department with a unique home furnishing idea they developed.

John and Eleanor Simmons bought an old grade school desk with metal grille sides and storage under the top. By painting it and lining the book space under the lid with cotton flannel, they made it into a silver chest.

By placing a bouquet of flowers in the inkwell, and books on the shelf below, they made the old desk an attraction in their home.

Mrs. Simmons has been on the Journal staff since 1947. She did the illustration for the article about the desk.

Mrs. Simmons is the daughter of Professor and Mrs. Fred Pownall, Iowa City. Simmons is from Osceola.

Notes on Ohio State —

When Iowa's routed Hawkeyes left the field in Columbus Saturday, broken in both spirit and body, chances looked bleak indeed for the remainder of the season.

But after watching Monday's practice where the players and coaches were trying hard to forget the humiliation, the future looks brighter.

The players are determined to be ready for Minnesota. The coaches are determined to have the players ready.

It does no good to look back and analyze a game like the one with Ohio State but a few points are worthy of mention here.

The Buckeyes have a great team but they aren't nine touchdowns better than Iowa. The Hawkeyes suffered every imaginable bad break. In fairness it must be admitted that a lot of the misfortunes were traceable to poor play.

Iowa fumbled eight times—seven were recovered by Ohio State—and had five passes intercepted. You can't make mistakes this often against a team like Ohio State and still escape with a respectable score. The Hawks found this out.

Coach Leonard Raffensperger refused to put Ohio State in the great class.

"As I said before the game," Raffensperger said, "Ohio State has the best personnel of any team on our schedule. But the poorest team on our schedule would have looked good with all the mistakes we made Saturday."

As Raffensperger says, any team would have looked good against the Hawks Saturday but no team without Vic Janowicz would have looked quite as good.

Janowicz does everything at Ohio stadium but put lime on the yard lines.

He's a throw back to the long past era when the offensive team didn't run like scared rabbits for the side lines when the ball changed hands. He plays defense with the same drive and almost the same success as he passes, runs and kicks on offense.

Janowicz gives everything he has on every play and usually this is a little too much for the opposition. In addition to everything else Saturday, Vic gave a great exhibition in the important, if sometimes overlooked art, of kicking off.

He kicked about four through the uprights from his own 40 yard line. One of his most spectacular feats came on a kick off after Iowa had been penalized twice. The penalties moved the ball to the 50 yard line. Janowicz decided to give the fans a treat. He took just one step and booted the ball out of the end zone. If he had taken a normal length run he would have probably kicked the ball into the second tier of the huge stadium.

Ohio State's opening game loss to Southern Methodist is beginning to hurt Buckeye fans worse every Saturday as their favorites roll to impressive victories.

The loss could well be the Bucks only one of the season. And everyone who saw the game tells the same story—Ohio State had much the better team.

One Ohio State fan muttered as he left the Iowa game, "Why couldn't we have caught Southern Methodist on a day like this." It would have been all right with Iowa fans if the Bucks had caught anyone but the Hawkeyes on a day like that.

Wes Fesler, Ohio State's coach, received a letter before last year's Michigan game which contained very good advice. The trouble was Fesler didn't know how to apply the advice.

The letter had three major suggestions. Here's what they were:
1. "Send an end 60 yards down the field and throw him a pass." Fesler thought this was all right but he didn't have a passer who could throw 60 yards.
2. "Concentrate on the plays that gain 12 or 15 yards and forget the two and three yarders." Again this was sound advice.
3. "Keep the ball away from Michigan. They're dangerous."

No one needed to tell Fesler that Michigan was dangerous. The Ohio State fan was rewarded for the master-minding with a tie against Michigan which allowed the Buckeyes to represent the Big Ten in the Rose Bowl. Maybe they should have hired him for an assistant coach.

Hunters Hit Gold with Lead

VERMILION, S. D. (AP)—Three Vermillion hunters really "hit the jackpot" while duck hunting.

The trio, Tom Brick, Jack Stewart and Bob Jolley, said Monday they bagged their limits while hunting ducks near Aberdeen. When they cleaned the waterfowl, they found a $5 gold piece in the gizzard of one of the ducks. The gold coin was dated 1909.

Iowa Starts Week With Scrimmage; Drahn's Injury Shows Improvement

Iowa's practice field was no place of mourning Monday as the Hawkeyes started preparations for Minnesota with a stiff scrimmage. Glenn Drahn, veteran quarterback injured in the Ohio State game, reported for drills Monday in unexpectedly good condition. Drahn suffered a severe leg bruise against the Buckeyes and it was feared at the time he would be out for the Minnesota game.

Definite Improvement
However, the injury has shown definite improvement. Barring further complications Drahn should be ready to go.

Drahn, who was held over in Columbus for examination and X-ray, said doctors doubted if he would be in shape for Saturday's game. "I hope to prove them wrong," he said.

Another hopeful note for success against the traditionally tough Gophers was the return of Halfback Don Commack to practice. The Waterloo mite was hurt in the Purdue game. It is expected that he'll also be ready for Minnesota.

Lou Ginsberg, starting guard who missed the Ohio State game with a thigh injury, is also showing improvement.

The only doubtful starter is Arnold Caplan. He suffered an ankle injury in blocking a kick which resulted in Iowa's third touchdown Saturday.

Ends Bob Hoff and Jerry Long were hurt in the rough and tumble Ohio State game but both are expected to recover this week.

All indications are that Iowa will have to be in top physical and mental condition for the Gophers.

Minnesota, apparently tired of four consecutive cuffings by conference and non-conference opponents alike, held highly favored Michigan to a 7-7 tie last week.

Double Incentive

The Hawks will have a double incentive in Saturday's game. One will be to avenge last year's 55-7 trouncing administered by the Gophers. Another will be to prove to themselves and everyone else that the Ohio State massacre wasn't a true indication of their abilities.

Beating the Gophers, especially at their Homecoming, may be quite a chore. Iowa Scout Maury Kent, who saw the Gophers last week, reported that they will be tough to beat from here on out.

The Gophers have a big aggressive forward wall—the usual trade mark of a Minnesota team. Behind this is a backfield that isn't particularly fast but that is tricky in running from single wing, double wing and T formations.

Southern Methodist Tops UP Poll; Army Second, Bucks Third

By LEO H. PETERSEN
NEW YORK (AP)—Southern Methodist, although idle last week end, took over Monday as the nation's No. 1 football team with Army, leader for the three previous weeks, dropping to second place.

It marked the first time that a team other than Army or Notre Dame has led the United Press football ratings, compiled from the selections of 35 of the nation's outstanding coaches on the basis of 10 points for a first place vote, nine for a second and so on down to one for 10th.

It also climaxed a gradual rise by the Mustangs, one of the nation's eight unbeaten and untied major elevens. They ranked 15th in the preseason ratings, jumped to seventh in the first weekly poll, to fourth in the second and second in the third. They fell back to third the fourth week but climbed back to second place last week and now have taken the top spot.

Although SMU took last Saturday off to prepare for its major clash against Texas this coming Saturday, it drew 16 first place votes and a total of 306 points as Army failed to impress the coaches with its 34-0 victory over Columbia.

Receiving 10 first place votes — against 21 last week — Army placed second with 294 points with Ohio State's powerful Buckeyes advancing to third place. Ohio State received seven first place votes and a total of 261 points.

Oklahoma, third last week, dropped to fourth with one first place ballot and a total of 221 points. Rounding out the top 10 were California, Kentucky, Texas, Illinois, Princeton and Washington in that order.

GLENN DRAHN Injury Improved

Rickey Continues Looking for Job

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Branch Rickey, baseball's top front office man, was still looking for a major league desk Monday but there was every indication that Pittsburgh would be his final destination.

Rickey, reliably slated for the general manager post with the Pirates in a deal that would send incumbent Roy Hamey to the New York Yankees, called upon St. Louis Browns Owner Bill DeWitt for what he described as a social visit. He assured reporters that he was not "primarily interested" in buying into the ball club.

Spartans Can't Play in Rose Bowl

CHICAGO (AP)—Michigan State, conqueror of Michigan and Notre Dame, but member in-name-only of the Big Ten football family, is not eligible to compete in the 1951 Rose Bowl game.

Big Ten Commissioner K. L. (Tug) Wilson Monday recalled a ruling of May, 1949, in which the conference stipulated that only a championship contender would play in the final two games of the five-tilt bowl series which ends next New Year's day.

Michigan State begins conference title play in 1953. The Spartans lately have had considerable backing as a Rose Bowl prospect.

The 1949 conference decision eliminated a clause in the bowl pact which provided that the Big Ten could send an outside representative from the middle west or east to the final two bowl games.

However, the possibility that Michigan State may get a Rose Bowl nod in the 1952 or '53 Pasadena classics still exists. This is contingent upon the form a new Big-Ten Pacific Coast conference bowl pact takes.

At the moment, neither conference seems anxious to rush into renewal. Wilson said the subject will be discussed by his conference in December and probably acted upon next May.

"Both conferences have exchanged ideas on a new pact," said Wilson. "But we haven't done anything definite yet, and I don't think the Pacific Coast conference has either."

"The Pacific conference apparently still has a preference for sending its champion every year. We thus far are sticking to our old idea of limiting a team to one bowl appearance every three years. If we get together, undoubtedly there will be a compromise. This would be a once-every-two-years limit."

Buckeyes Ineligible

Michigan State has been mentioned as a Rose Bowl prospect this season, not only because the Spartans have won four of five starts, but also because the Big Ten's potential champion, rampaging Ohio State, is ineligible under the Big Ten's current pact. The Buckeyes appeared in the last game and shaded California, 17-14.

2 Divorces Granted In District Court After Property Is Divided

Two divorces were granted in Johnson county district court Monday by Judge James P. Gaffney after the parties involved agreed on division of their property.

Viola Stock, Lone Tree, and Everett Stock, agreed that Mrs. Stock would get the Farmers' Inn tavern and all its accessories, the car, and the two dogs. She would get no alimony but could assume her maiden name.

Everett Stock, who was discharged from the army with a total disability compensation for neck and back injuries, accepted the family savings account, his government compensation, and fishing equipment.

The couple was married April 23, 1945, in Galesburg, Ill.

Hildred S. McNany received from Dr. Cyril E. McNany, Fort Worth, Texas, one of the two family cars, $1,800 in cash, $480 in 24 monthly installments, and alimony.

For the next two years, Mrs. McNany will receive $50 a month alimony from then on $100 a month until she remarries.

Judge Gaffney stipulated that neither could remarry for at least one year. Dr. McNany, a retired army officer, was allowed the other car and some of the household possessions.

Polio Cases Increase To 15 at U Hospitals

Active polio cases rose again to 15 at University hospitals Monday after a low of 12 was reported Saturday.

Four new polio patients Monday were Jannise Page, 12, Rudd; Arthur Swenson, 14, New Hampton; Jennie Stolar, 42, Cedar Rapids, and Keith Mills, 8, Bonaparte. All were reported to be in "fair" condition.

Two others were discharged—Walter Clauson, 9, Strawberry point, and Harold Sepler, 30, Salem.

Arnold Martin, 13, Dubuque, was transferred from the active to inactive ward.

Ross Criticizes 1-Party Vote

Don't vote a straight party ticket in the Nov. 7 election, Prof. Russell Ross of the SUI political science department advised an audience at the "21ers rally" Monday night in the Community building.

"It is inconceivable that one party has all the best qualified candidates," Ross said. "When casting their ballots, voters should consider the candidate's position on issues, his experience and integrity," he said.

Ross urged his audience to vote on the referendum issues. These include the question of whether rent controls should be extended, whether the county court house should get an elevator, and whether a state constitutional convention should be called.

In his talk to young voters who have become 21 years of age since the last election, Ross advocated the following:

Don't use colored pencils or ink in marking the ballot, don't sign name to ballot, use an X and not a check mark in voting, and don't smudge or soil the ballot. If you do, ask for another ballot. The voter may spoil two ballots without being disqualified.

Vote for one candidate only for each office unless otherwise designated. Don't stay in voting booth more than five minutes, as a voter remaining longer may be disqualified. Know the duties of the offices which the candidates are seeking.

Ross emphasized that voters who aren't sure about election procedure should feel free to question election officials.

'SOUTHWIND' DERAILED

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—"The Southwind," a limited train of the Pennsylvania railroad, northbound from Miami, Fla., was derailed here Monday. Witnesses said three passengers were injured, none seriously. Cause of the derailment was not determined immediately.

Goldin to Participate in Religion-Social Panel

Prof. Judah Goldin, SUI school of religion, has been invited to participate in a discussion panel of the Institute of Religion and Social Studies in cooperation with the University of Chicago.

This is the fourth year Goldin has participated in the institute. This year's panel will be on "borderline of ethics in individual and public affairs; with regard to mass communications."

Contest Opened for Marketing Students

Resignation of Teacher Brings Comment Here

The resignation of a Lynnville schoolteacher charged with voicing subversive political views brought repercussions Monday at SUI.

The teacher, Mrs. Mary E. Cassill, 59, is the mother of Verlin Cassill, SUI English instructor and novelist.

She quit her job after a long hearing last week after declaring, "I am not a Communist and as far as I know, I have never seen one, nor talked with one."

At SUI, her son refused to comment on her resignation.

During the hearing, the name of Prof. Paul Engle, SUI English department, was mentioned in connection with an article he wrote for Flair magazine titled "Revolution on the Campus."

A fellow teacher in the Lynnville school complained that Mrs. Cassill had urged her to read the article, saying that it featured a picture of Mrs. Cassill's son, Verlin, leading an outdoor "revolutionary" class.

Prof. Engle said Monday: "I have no views on Mrs. Cassill's resignation. I don't know the facts."

"However, I do feel that any public school teacher who makes public statements in absolute ignorance of the facts that she is talking about should consider resignation, also."

Engle said his article was about creative writing and not politics. He added that he did not put the title on the story — that was done by the magazine.

"I consider it a bad title," Engle said, "because the increased importance of creative writing has not been a revolutionary but an evolutionary thing. I brought that out in my article."

Mrs. Cassill was reported to have shown teachers the magazine in fact edited by George Seides and The Monthly Review which Mrs. Cassill called "a socialist publication."

George Evans, Lynnville's superintendent of schools, said Mrs. Cassill had told teachers "that the United States had crowded Korea into war; that Russian soldiers had left North Korea, and that the United States had not permitted North Korea to have the kind of government the people wanted."

Mrs. Cassill denied the charges. "I said I didn't think it was right to go in there and fight, instead of trying to help people — that what we have done will not do any good, or win any friends in Asia."

Evans said that so far as he knew Mrs. Cassill had not tried to indoctrinate her pupils with her point of view.

He said the board regretted to ask Mrs. Cassill to resign. As a teacher, he said, she was "doing a very satisfactory job, using modern methods and techniques."

Mrs. Cassill has returned to her home in Barnes City, where her husband, Howard Cassill, is superintendent of schools.

Damages to Cars In Five Accidents Estimated at $715

Five auto accidents with total damages estimated at $715 were reported to Iowa City police Monday.

A car belonging to Arthur Schmeichel, mechanical superintendent of The Daily Iowan, was reported struck by an Iowa City Coach company bus at 9:30 p.m. Saturday. Damages were estimated at $300.

Driver of the bus, Arthur A. Pickering, 815 N. Dodge street, reported he was blinded by the bright lights of a third car and struck the Schmeichel car parked at 610 Church street.

Michael Strayer, El. Des Moines, was fined $27.50 in police court Monday for an accident at midnight Friday in which the car he was driving struck a car parked west of the Quadrangle. The second car belonged to Richard Hoover, A1, Robins.

A two car collision on Clinton street, north of Washington street, resulted in estimated damages of $100 to cars driven by Harry F. Eisele, C4, Grinnell, and Donald R. Waller, 629 N. Linn street. The accident occurred at 6:45 p.m. Friday.

K. L. Kaufman, 201 Ferson avenue, reported his car was struck by an unidentified vehicle while it was parked in front of his house during the weekend.

Pranksters Can't Wait, Damage Two Schools

Two rural schools near Sharon were damaged during the weekend by what appeared to be early Halloween pranksters, Frank J. Snider, Johnson county superintendent of schools, said Monday.

The Sharon school, Nos. 2 and 5, reported 12 broken windows and several lights smashed. Nothing was found missing from either of the schools, Snider said.

Able Led by Jaroff — Cossacks Captivate Audience

— In Varied Program

By TERRY RINK

A diminutive package of dynamite, Serge Jaroff, kept a 23-man chorus and an audience of 1,800 attention tied during the Monday evening performance of the Don Cossack chorus.

The chorus presented a program drawn from the religious "Credo" and "Lord's Prayer" to the gay and peppy "Down St. Peter's Road."

Jaroff Dominates — The whole performance was dominated by Jaroff, who never forgot or let his chorus forget that he was boss. And his men gave instant response with a power blast to lift the audience from their seats or a whisper so soft it could have been imagined.

One of the most thrilling aspects of the concert was the complete range of pitch produced from apparently effortless tenor notes that would have made a soprano envious, to low notes of the bass that vibrated the building.

Audience Favors Folksongs — The audience favored the folksongs, possibly because they were in major mode and were sung with such vigor and spirit.

In particular, "Down St. Peter's Road" received applause. The chorus laughed throughout it, the audience laughed with the chorus and everyone enjoyed it.

The director visibly basked in the audience's approval and responded by performing two encores.

"Legend" is Pleasing — In this reviewer's opinion, "Legend" by Tchaikovsky was the most pleasing of all the selections. It combined everything — range of pitch and intensity, true tones, a charming legend and melody.

One of the main attractions of the program was a group of dances performed by a pair of satin-clad dancers twice during the evening.

Dancers Leap, Kick — The two leaped and whirled, hopped and kicked in a series of rhythmic figures which made professional acrobats look like babies learning to walk.

They did all the expected steps plus any number of new ones and hardly displaced a hair or wrinkled their jackets.

Every member of the chorus could have been a soloist, and many did perform alone against the background of voices, but it was as a unified voice that the group really excelled and justified its international reputation.

Child May Need Surgery for Eye

Lynn Ann Hudson, 7, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. O. Hudson may have to undergo surgery as a result of an eye injury sustained while playing Friday morning.

Lynn Ann and some other children were playing with long dried weeds, during the morning recess at East Lucas school, just east of Iowa City on highway 218.

One of the spear-like weeds was thrown up in the air and struck Lynn Ann in the eye when it came down. It was not believed at the time that the child was seriously injured.

Further examination at University hospitals disclosed, however, that surgery may be necessary. Another examination has been scheduled to determine the extent of the injury.

Highlanders to March At Minnesota Game

The SUI Scottish Highlanders will appear between halves of the Iowa-Minnesota football game at Minneapolis Saturday.

Seventy-two members of the all-girl group will perform, including 36 pipers, 30 drummers, a drum-major and five dancers, according to Pipe Major Bill Adamson.

4 Students, 3 Others Fined In Court Here

Seven persons, including four SUI students, were fined a total of $95 by Judge Emil G. Trott in police court Monday.

Michael P. Strayer, El. Des Moines, was fined $27.50 on a charge of reckless driving.

Paul M. Jerabek, A2, Cedar Rapids, was fined $7.50 for drinking beer on the street.

John Kozikowski, G. Moline, Ill., was fined $5.00 for using the street to store his car.

Jim Lawrence, G. 361 S. Park street, and Joe Fackler, 1131 4th avenue, were fined $17.50 each for disorderly conduct.

The cars of John R. Howes, 363 N. Riverside drive, and Hans L. Ehrenhaft, 741 Melrose avenue, sustained damages estimated at $150 in an accident at 3:30 p.m. Saturday near the intersection of Clinton street and Iowa avenue.

Glen Thomas, 925 S. Dubuque street, was fined $7.50 for intoxication.

John M. Hoffman was fined $12.50 for operating a motor vehicle with defective equipment.

Losses Hit $4,000 In Coralville Fire

A double garage and a 1950 Hudson automobile were destroyed by fire early Sunday morning at the Charles H. Skriver home in Coralville. Damage was estimated at $4,000.

An unidentified man, apparently passing through Coralville, awakened Mr. and Mrs. Skriver about 12:15 a.m. Sunday and told them of the fire.

The Coralville volunteer fire department was summoned immediately, but the blaze, which burned rapidly, was beyond control.

The double garage was burned to the ground leaving only the charred remains of the car. The car, purchased by the Skrivers in August, was covered by insurance.

WAGON RIDER INJURED

JAMESTOWN, N.D. (AP)—Sixty-year-old Jesse Lacinah, traveling from Montana to Minnesota by covered wagon, was injured Monday when her team of horses bolted and ran into a truck. She was hospitalized here where her condition was described as not serious. Attendants thought she could be released Tuesday.
