Allies Arm Police In Western Berlin, Reveal Radar Use

BERLIN (AP) — The Western Allies erected new safeguards here Thursday against surprise aggression from the East and disclosed that a hitherto secret American radar screen, backed by jet fighter patrols, has passed its first tests.

The bulwarking of West Berlin was illustrated in three actions:

1 — The Americans, British and French decided to equip and train the 13,800-man West Berlin police force with machineguns and automatic rifles of French make so the force could join Western troops in resisting any invader.

2 — The British moved eight 23-ton Comet tanks to West Berlin to replace light armored cars. The tanks pack 77-millimeter guns.

3 — The United States started building a new regiment here with the arrival of 200 troops comprising a headquarters company.

"The day of thinking we can't defend ourselves here is over," a U.S. staff officer said.

"... This re-equipping of the West Berlin police is long overdue, since the Soviets have long ignored Allied control council directive No. 16 which authorized only pistols for police. Apart from their creation of military formations, the Soviets have always given their east sector and east zone police armament beyond that which we only now are providing."

Allied forces now numbering about 10,000 will be increased to about 12,000 by the end of the year. The result will be a combined Allied-German force equal to more than two divisions. American officers calculate that, with the new weapons and coordinated planning, such a force would be able to pin down an enemy three or four times its size.

Military units of the East German Communist People's police, trained with tanks and artillery, number about 50,000. The Soviet army in East Germany, however, is five or six times that size.

The radar chain measured up to expectations in disclosing uncharted flights of Communist planes carrying delegates from Britain to the Communist-backed second world peace congress, which opened Thursday in Warsaw. A high commission aviation board announced that it will protest the flights as a violation of rules that each plane crossing West Germany must notify air headquarters of its course, identity and arrival.

Injunctions Sought To Ban Picketing In US Phone Strike

NEW YORK (AP) — Court orders curbed picketing by striking telephone equipment workers in many parts of the country Thursday as the Bell system sought additional anti-picketing injunctions.

Only one outbreak of violence was reported during the day — at Haverhill, Mass.

There, shouting, boozing pickets scuffled momentarily with police escorting non-strikers into a Western Electric company plant.

There were no arrests or injuries. With wage talks between the big equipment subsidiary of the Bell system and the CIO communication workers of America still stymied, the company moved to broaden a pattern of anti-picketing injunctions.

A hearing was set today on an application of the Bell Telephone company of Pennsylvania for a court ban on picketing in Philadelphia, scene of picket line battles Tuesday and Wednesday.

Iowa PTA Hears Stassen, Hancher

DES MOINES (AP) — Harold E. Stassen declared Thursday night that "the type of education our children get today will determine the freedom of the nation tomorrow."

The president of the University of Pennsylvania and former governor of Minnesota addressed a meeting of the golden jubilee convention of the Iowa Congress of Parents and Teachers.

SUI President Virgil M. Hancher told an afternoon convention session that we must not "overlook the importance of our economic and technological development. If we don't understand our system we might hamstring our strength."

Council to Circulate Anti-No-Cut Petition Beginning Today

Petitions for lifting the no-cut rule Jan. 2 will be offered today to students in housing units and at one point on campus, SUI's student council decided Thursday night.

The council plans to have the on-campus petition at a table in Schaeffer hall, but arrangements for facilities had not been made with University officials by Thursday night.

A clarification of the purposes of the petition was given to the council and the 60 students attending the meeting in Hillcrest's dining room.

"This action was not conceived as a request for an extra holiday," Ed Diekmann, E4, Ottumwa, petition committee chairman said. "We hope that the students don't take it that way."

"It was designed only as a measure for the relief of students who otherwise would have to travel on New Year's eve and New Year's day."

An unidentified student interrupted the council's discussion of the petition by expressing doubts about the council's motives in circulating the petition.

Legal Rights He spoke from notes at some length, asking whether the council was within its legal rights in circulating the petition on campus.

Jack Whitesell, L3, Davenport, council president, asked for comment from council members in answer to the objections.

Diekmann then attempted to clarify the issue, and there was no further discussion.

Florence Schuck, A3, West Point, council secretary, pointed out to the council and other students that the present SUI calendar was set up a year ago, and that this year's council had no voice in its formulation.

SUI, ISC Heads Get Top State Pay

Presidents Virgil M. Hancher of SUI and Charles E. Friley of Iowa State college received higher salaries last year than the governor of Iowa, an annual state salary book reports.

Hancher and Friley each received $14,000, according to the book released annually by the state printing office, while Gov. William Beardley's salary was $12,000.

Friley also received $1,956 and Hancher $700 for travel and subsistence. Beardley collected a $100 expense account for travel in connection with veteran's bonus bonds.

The book showed that 282 more state employees received salaries above $5,000 during the 1949-50 than in the previous fiscal year.

A total of 945 persons was listed in the $5,000 bracket. Another 945 state employees drew salaries of $6,000 or more.

Egypt Challenges British Treaty

CAIRO, EGYPT (AP) — Egypt's Wafd government Thursday challenged the validity of the Egyptian-British defense treaty of 1936 and pledged cancellation if Britain does not remove her troops from the Suez canal zone.

The threat was made in a formal speech from the throne, read by Premier Nahas Pasha for King Farouk I at the opening of parliament. It was the first time an Egyptian government has officially pledged before parliament to denounce the treaty unilaterally.

The Suez base, which serviced Allied armies throughout the Middle East in World War II, covers about 2-million acres. It is now staffed by 40,000 army and civilian personnel. The value of the buildings and facilities has been estimated at $500-million.

Death March Survivor Returns

HAPPY TO BE SAFELY HOME, Lt. Alexander Makarounis is welcomed by his mother, Mrs. George Makarounis, in Lowell, Mass. Lt. Makarounis is one of three survivors of a month-long death march after capture by Red forces in Korea. The lieutenant lost 60 pounds on the 300-mile trek from Hadong to Seoul to Pyongyang. He normally weighs 195. Since he was freed Oct. 29 by American forces, Lt. Makarounis has regained 30 pounds.

Mayor: "No Comment" On Rent Control Problem

Mayor Preston Koser kept Iowa Citizens in further suspense Thursday when he said "no comment" to queries about how he would vote on rent controls, should the city council session end in a deadlock on the issue Dec. 11.

Meanwhile, SUI's Young Democrats club met Thursday evening to draft a letter to Koser requesting the city council extend rent regulations.

Discontinuing controls, the letter read, would create "hardship and suffering among SUI students and their families" living in off-campus housing units.

Koser may be the "man of the hour." He will have to cast the deciding ballot if the six-man council splits evenly for and against extending the controls to June 30, 1951 — and from all indications, that's what is going to happen.

Three councilmen are against continuing rent restrictions beyond the Dec. 31 deadline. Two other councilmen favor the issue.

The sixth alderman is non-committal.

Congressional leaders in Washington, D.C., have said they do not intend to take the initiative to keep the rent control program alive — unless President Truman decides it necessary.

Complaints Against High School Drivers Discussed at Meeting

Complaints against City high school drivers were discussed Wednesday at a meeting called by Principal Buford Garner.

The meeting resulted from complaints made last May to the Iowa City school board by a committee of residents living near the high school.

Conclusion Reached The overall conclusion of the meeting was that full cooperation helping enforce traffic laws must be obtained, and if these groups fail, the local police department of Iowa City should enforce traffic laws more rigidly.

Garner disclosed that he had already talked with the 75 students of City high and that he had written a letter to each of the parents asking their cooperation.

Report License Numbers Detective Ollie White, who attended the meeting as a representative of the Iowa City police department, suggested that all residents in the school district report license numbers of offending traffic violators to the police.

He emphasized that names of persons turning in numbers will be held in strict confidence.

HOPE SUES LIFE LOS ANGELES (AP) — Comedian Bob Hope Thursday filed a $2,010,000 damage suit against Life magazine and radio columnist John Crosby, charging they libeled him by asserting he stole comedian Fred Allen's jokes.

U.S. Had No Intentions Taking Hostilities To China, Truman

Allied Forces Inch Forward, Near Manchuria

TOKYO (FRIDAY) (AP) — The U.S. Seventh division drove within sight of Manchuria's blue haze mountains today and a Tenth corps spokesman said the Communist lines on the northeast front were breaking under a sustained ground and air assault.

United Nations forces made cautious gains of from two to 10 miles all along the 250-mile long North Korean battlefield against little or no resistance, but military authorities warned that the going may suddenly get tougher.

The most spectacular developments came on the northeast sector of the battle line that meanders through the mountains across Korea's waist from the Yellow sea on the west to the Sea of Japan on the east.

The U.S. Seventh division, pushing steadily ahead on tortuous mountain trails in below-zero weather, was only about 20 miles from the Yalu river. They were pushing through Korea's highest mountains on a trail so warm enemy campfires still burned by the roadside.

Units of the Seventh and First marine division on the Seventh's left flank were enveloping the great Chosin and Fusen reservoirs — two of the greatest prizes of the war. A regiment of the Seventh division reached the northern tip of the Fusen basin.

Russians to Veto Demand to China

NEW YORK (AP) — Russia's Jakob A. Malik served notice Thursday he will veto a six-power demand that Communist China pull its troops out of the Korean war immediately.

Confronted with that impasse, the United States read to the security council President Truman's statement that the U.S. never had any intention of sending troops into China.

Malik attacked the U.S. role in Korea and the Far East once more, said the resolution was based on illegal council decisions and he would vote against it.

There were reports Thursday night that the backers of the resolution, including the U.S., might not press for a vote immediately in view of a certain Soviet veto. The council adjourned until today, when it will continue argument over the Korean question.

U.S. Dead in Korea Reaches 4,798

WASHINGTON (AP) — American forces have suffered a total of 28,881 announced casualties in the Korean fighting, a defense department summary showed Thursday.

The figures covered casualties where the next of kin had been notified through Nov. 10. The new total was 646 larger than that announced a week before. It does not, however, cover all casualties to Nov. 10, because on occasions weeks elapse before the next of kin is notified.

The latest list showed 4,798 dead, including 4,049 from the army, 627 marine corps, 49 navy and 73 air force.

Non-fatally wounded totaled 19,740. Of the 4,347 persons who at one time or another were reported missing, four are known to have died, 107 are in enemy hands, and 517 have returned to military control. This left 3,719 unaccounted for on Nov. 10.

The army, with the largest forces in the fighting, suffered the greatest number of casualties — 24,989. The marines reported 3,375, the navy 311, and the air force 206.

Took Own Life, But Preached Against It

Robert Garipey, the divinity student who hurled himself in front of the Rock Island Rocket Wednesday night, preached a sermon against suicide Nov. 5 in the Iowa City Trinity Episcopal church.

Citing the example of the gull in Noah's ark, Garipey told members of the congregation "there is always hope somewhere" and they must overcome their material troubles.

Relates Incident In the sermon he related a recent incident in which he had dissuaded an SUI student from attempting suicide, according to a member of the congregation.

Speaking at the 5 p.m. Evening service, Garipey reportedly "hypnotized" his audience by his sincerity and logic — and then took his own life 10 days later.

He was described by an intimate friend as a man who was always willing to listen to another's troubles and help in every way he could.

Cunning Wit He was a brilliant analyst, a cunning wit, his friend said, but he had no conception of finance.

Garipey was known among his acquaintances for his generous and sentimental spreading of his money. He always wanted to pay the check.

Earlier this week he had telephoned his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Raul Garipey, Woonsocket, R.I., for money to get out of his financial distress.

The money arrived Thursday. His mother was scheduled to arrive in Iowa City at 2:30 p.m. the same day.

Severely Disturbed Officials at SUI psychopathic hospital, where he worked, said Garipey was severely disturbed. Doctors felt that his condition was such they suggested Tuesday he should enter the hospital for treatment.

Garipey first came to SUI in the summer of 1949 with a group of Yale divinity students to work in the hospitals here.

He came back again last summer and decided to stay as an attendant in the hospital and to establish his Iowa residency in order to enroll in the SUI medical school.

More Needed He had said his object was to combine medical and theological degrees, for he felt that more than theology was needed to cope with the problems of a congregation.

Funeral services will be held in Woonsocket, R.I. His body was shipped there at 4:42 a.m. today.

Storm Strikes Johnson County

An abrupt change in the weather Wednesday night brought high winds and hail the size of golf balls to some parts of Johnson county, but the storm missed Iowa City.

High winds and heavy snows were reported all through the northwestern states. North Dakota reported near-blizzard conditions and dangerously iced roads late Thursday night. Floods were reported in some parts of Oregon.

Snow flurries dotted northwestern Wisconsin, northeastern Iowa and the western part of upper Michigan. Four inches of snowfall was reported in the Duluth area of Minnesota.

Forecasters predicted partly cloudy and warmer weather here today with a high of 45-50, and a low of 22-27.

The local storm broke windows and blew down farm buildings on one farm near Lone Tree.

Hail fell in the Lone Tree area twice Wednesday while the 65-mile an hour accompanying wind drove an estimated two inches of rain on the area.

Travelers Urged To Reserve Seats

Those planning to leave Iowa City by bus for the Thanksgiving holiday must have reservations to be assured seats, according to Phil Spelman, manager of the Iowa City Union bus depot.

Reservations may be made through Monday, he said. Heaviest travel is expected Wednesday on the 12:05 p.m. eastbound, 1:50 westbound, 3:11 p.m. special northbound, 3:40 special southbound and 5:25 southbound busses.

Union Offers Open House After Game Saturday

An after-game open house will be held at the Iowa Union Saturday from 8 to 12 p.m., Dean Fritchen, C4, Decorah, Union board publicity chairman, announced.

Don Lundquist, D4, Cedar Rapids, is in charge of the program which will include dancing, movies and a floor show.

Also Insists Acheson Stays In Cabinet

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Truman declared Thursday the United States "never at any time entertained any intention to carry hostilities into China."

In his first news conference since the election, the President said:

"If the Chinese Communists share the desire of the United Nations for peace and security in the Far East, they will not take upon themselves the responsibility of obstructing the objectives of the United Nations in Korea."

Under questioning, Truman told reporters they might as well quit speculating as to whether Secretary of State Dean Acheson is going to resign.

Acheson to Stay He said Acheson is remaining on the job, and added for emphasis: "Acheson is going to be secretary of state, period."

The President also declared with chin outstuck, that he's going to keep right on pressing for adoption of his whole "Fair Deal" program as long as he is President.

He brushed off the Republican election gains as normal in a non-presidential year and said they don't make him blue, even though they're not what he expected.

GI's have Winter Clothes In answer to other questions, the President said:

1 — Gen. Douglas MacArthur tells him American troops in Korea have plenty of warm clothing and that's good enough for him.

2 — Surveys still are going on to determine whether price and wage controls are necessary.

3 — He could be convinced that this country should send an ambassador to Franco Spain, but he hasn't been convinced so far.

4 — He doesn't agree with Taft's recent statement that higher taxes could lead to inflation.

5 — There will be further conversations on the proposed Japanese peace treaty within two or three weeks.

Bachelors Beware! SUI's Spinsters Will Prowl Tonight

The Spinsters' Spree, annual girl-ask-boy dance at SUI, will be held from 8 to 12 p.m. today in the main lounge of the Iowa Union.

The Union lobby desk reported Thursday that over 100 tickets remained unsold. Tickets cost $4.

The ballot committee from University Women's association, sponsor of the dance, said 1,800 women cast votes for Mr. MEBOC (Most Eligible Bachelor on Campus) Wednesday.

The results of the election will not be revealed until tonight, when Mr. MEBOC and his two attendants will be introduced.

Les Brown and his "band of renown" are scheduled to provide music for dancing.

Chaperones at the dance will award a prize to the man wearing the most original corsage made by his date. Corsages will be judged for attractiveness, humor and uniqueness.

The chaperones will be Dean and Mrs. L. Dale Faunce; Dean and Mrs. Dewey B. Stuit; Prof. and Mrs. Leslie Moeller; Prof. and Mrs. James Jordan; Miss Helen Focht and Dean Myrtle Kitchell.

Spy Says Chemist Gave Secret Plans

NEW YORK — Atom Spy Harry Gold testified Thursday that in 1942 he gave Russia complete plans for a synthetic rubber plant which were stolen by Chemist Abraham Brothman. Gold declared a high Soviet official said the information was worth "two or three brigades" of Red soldiers.

Gold, Philadelphia chemist who is awaiting sentence for passing secret American atomic information to Russia, said Brothman also offered him plans for "a military explosives plant in Tennessee."

Cohen to Testify Clean-Handed

WITH CLEAN HANDS, Mickey Cohen, Los Angeles gambler, got ready for his appearance before the senate crime investigating committee in his home town. The gambler was scrubbing his hands as he waited for his turn before the committee Thursday. He wasn't called then, but is expected to testify today. Cohen has a bent for cleanliness. He washes his hands dozens of times a day.

Public Office - A Public Trust

On the night of Oct. 9, a scene was taking place in the Iowa City council chamber which bore directly upon the welfare of many SUI students and faculty members.

The room was packed with visitors, and for more than two hours, the council heard arguments for and against the continuing of rent controls. Few, if any, subjects recently have brought as much participation in a council meeting.

After hearing the talks, the council retired to another room. Upon their return they voted to conduct a referendum at the Nov. 7 elections to determine how the public felt about continuing the controls.

We presume the members realized that in a case where feeling was as strong on both sides as that indicated at the meeting Oct. 9, they would be wise to feel out the public before casting their own votes on the issue.

For this action, we feel they are to be commended. However, a question has arisen in our minds now.

When the citizens went to the polls on Nov. 7, they voted almost two-to-one to continue the rent controls. This vote appears to leave no doubt as to what most of the people want.

And, yet, at least half of the council members have taken it upon themselves to oppose the very findings they were seeking.

Had the vote been close, we'd say each council member would have to vote according to his own conscience, and the outcome of that vote would not have been questioned.

But we feel the members now are violating the obligations which come with their offices.

Why did they even hold the referendum if they were determined to vote the way they wanted to—regardless of the wishes of the public they serve?

There should be no question in the minds of the members. The public—whom they are supposed to serve—has indicated its wishes.

Get It - Ah - Settled

(Reprint from the Daily Kansan)

We sure wish they would get it settled. It's of—ah—great interest to us. Will or won't anti-histamine tablets knock a cold?

Not only are doctors tossing the question around, but the government is having—ah—difficulty with it. The federal trade commission recently charged three leading producers of anti-hist tablets with using false and misleading advertising. The commission said that the tablets were—ah—neither a cure nor adequate treatment for the common cold. They don't even stop the sniffles.

Meanwhile, another federal agency, the food and drug administration, says the tablets were all right—at least they aren't harmful when taken—ah—in recommended doses.

In the past F.T.C. and F.D.A. have worked together, as in the recent F.T.C. ruling against certain cigarette companies for false advertising. But this—ah—has us confused, and we hope they get it straightened out soon.

We've just got to know whether or not anti-hist tablets will cure—ah—ket-chool!—this cold we have.

Japanese Trains Run on Strict Schedule

TOKYO (AP)—Japanese trains run on time. If they say they're going to leave at 1:06 p.m., they leave at 1:06 p.m.

Don't ask me why they don't leave at 1:05 or 1:10. Just find out the time they're leaving and get there before the dot. If you get there on the dot, you'll find the train moving.

The train from Nagoya to Tokyo left at 1:06 p.m. I was there and seated five minutes ahead of time. I had gone to the station during the morning and bought a ticket. The agent said I'd have to check my baggage.

That was a marine shoulder pack, with green fatigues and a sweater inside and a huge mountain-type sleeping bag and a poncho rolled up and strapped to the outside, and a dirty little musette bag with my name inked on it.

The Japanese ticket agent, a man with hornrimmed spectacles who spoke pretty good English, looked at the pile.

"War about over?" he asked.

"Don't ask me," I replied. "Some days I say yes and some days I say no. How much is the fare to Tokyo?"

"Eight hundred and eighty yen," he said.

That's $2.45. It's a six-hour trip. Nagoya, a manufacturing center, is 227 miles west of Tokyo. The railroad runs through picturesque country—past Mt. Fuji—and I wanted to make the trip to see the much-talked-about Japanese countryside. It rained.

The rain was so continuous and the day so gray that Mt. Fuji and most of the rest of the scenery were invisible. Lots of brown rice fields and gaudy Japanese lanterns and saucy Japanese lanterns whizzed by.

Those Japanese lanterns. They are one of the reasons you have to pinch yourself, or somebody, frequently, to see if this country is real. They're called "cochin" in

Red Peace Congress Opens in Warsaw

WARSAW, POLAND (AP)—The Communist-backed second world Peace congress opened last night with a roaring ovation for North Korean, and Chinese delegates elected to its presidium.

Names of about 50 nominees were read and all were declared elected unanimously. The audience rose in tribute to Pak Den-Ai, the North Korean member.

Candle In the Wind

Renters, Homeowners Differ In Views on Rent Control

What does rent control mean to you?

That was the question asked wives of ten SUI students and faculty members—some of whom own their homes and will not be affected should rent controls be discontinued in Iowa City Dec. 31.

But six of the housewives, now living in rental housing units, will be directly affected and expressed their fear of having to move should the controls be lifted.

Because of different financial conditions, and because four of the women were apparently secure in their housing situations, the comments were markedly different.

Like The Weather One of the wives questioned by The Daily Iowan had a philosophical approach to the rent control problem. The mother of two children and husband of an SUI graduate, student said:

"Rent control is just another phase of our topsy-turvy world situation—and like the weather, we talk about it, but do nothing." She said there was a possibility that their landlord might not raise the rent of their apartment.

But, she added, her family intends to leave Iowa City in June when her husband is graduated. So they aren't too worried about the final decision of the city council.

Not all of the woman contacted, however, were quite so passive. The wife of a graduate assistant said that if controls are discontinued, "We'll be in a pickle. Our landlord is the kind of person who's out to get all he can."

Rent Raised "It's not easy," she said, "to live on the wages the university pays." Their rent has already been raised 15 percent since they moved in last year.

Another young woman, wife of an SUI commerce student, said she did not believe their landlord would increase the rent on their apartment if the controls were removed.

"We only have three small rooms that are unfurnished," she explained, "and we pay for all the utilities plus $50 a month."

And the wife of an SUI liberal arts student, still on her honeymoon, or practically so, since she was married during Armistice vacation, said "Our landlord doesn't act like he cares about us; therefore, he might raise our rent if he could."

Another woman with her at the time of the interview, a clerk in an Iowa City department store, said, "Some (of the landlords) will be fair, but others won't. It all depends on the individual landlord."

And a clerk-typist in a university office, in her off-hours, said she disagrees with her husband on the possibility of a rent increase for their apartment-home should the controls be discontinued.

"He thinks our rent will be increased," she said. "But I don't believe so. Besides, we hear that congress next year is going to bring the controls back."

She was referring to a report issued recently from Washington, D.C., that Housing Expediter T. G. E. Woods has prepared legislation to extend controls to March 31, 1951.

On the other side of the ledger are the student "families" who own their homes, or have rent contracts with their landlords, and are not alarmed by the possibility that rent controls may be discontinued Dec. 31.

Insect Bites May Cause Many Deaths

Texas Doctor Says

ST LOUIS (AP)—Many deaths attributed to heart disease may actually be due to certain insect bites and therefore are possibly preventable, a Texas doctor said Thursday.

The opinion was expressed by Dr. Ralph Bowen of Baylor university. He urged people who are sensitive to the bites of bees, "yellow jackets" or ants to carry antihistamine tablets with them for bites which he said can be fatal.

He also urged doctors to be on the alert for the insect-bite possibility in handling emergency cases of doubtful origin.

Dr. Bowen told the Southern Medical association: "Insect allergy may cause people at any age to experience death within a few minutes or hours."

He explained that some people who have such a sensitivity may get bitten many times with little or no effect and then suddenly, a single bite might kill them—or make them very sick.

Dr. Bowen declared, however, that most people who have an insect allergy are aware of the fact from previous experience.

Seven Deaths He told reporters that in Texas alone last year there were seven "reported" deaths from insect bites, and he offered the view that certain other deaths—including those attributed to heart disease—may have been of insect origin.

The danger from insects, Dr. Bowen said, is particularly acute in warm states, "but it exists in all states of the union at some time of the year and people have died from insect bites in all states."

White bees, ants and "yellow jackets" are the only proven potential killers that he knows of, Bowen said some people can become sickened by the bites of a variety of pests ranging from lice to chiggers, and from mites to Mexican "kissing bed bugs."

He also declared that some people may develop an allergy to scales or dust from the wings or bodies of certain insects.

Declaring that a hive-like ailment called "popular urticaria" had long been a common and puzzling disease of infancy and childhood, he said that up to recently, this ailment was considered to be a food allergy.

Some infants, he said, were being "virtually starved" as doctors put restrictions on a variety of foods.

"And 90,000 Communist Chinese troops block their way. Many more thousand Communist reinforcements, and military stockpiles are massing just across the border where they are now immune from UN attack."

General MacArthur has requested permission to send planes across the border and bomb these concentrations. "Personally," said Brines, "I cannot see how—militarily—we can expect our front line troops to continue against an enemy building reserves with impunity."

Australia Wants Pacific Pact, Japan Disarmed

By GORDON TAIT

SYDNEY (AP)—Australia wants two things in the Pacific—a disarmed Japan, and a Pacific pact that includes the United States.

Will she get both? Many people are beginning to think so, because Communist expansion poses a new threat.

There is a feeling in the capital, Canberra, that Australia may use the promised peace treaty talks as the basis for "horse trading" on a Pacific pact. In other words, this white Pacific country might agree to Japan having some armed strength if a Pacific pact or some other guarantee will guard against Japanese aggression.

The Australian people have a deep-rooted fear of the Japanese. They had it long before Japan's attack on Pearl Harbor. They believe Japan looks on this big country of only 8-million people as an ideal place to settle millions of Japanese from their overcrowded islands. And Australia is determined to keep the country "white."

Oppose Japan Australians have been slow to forgive Japan for its misdeeds in World War II. They still oppose Japan's entry into international sport, and the mass of the people, led by the Returned Soldiers league, a powerful organization of veterans, want Japan completely disarmed.

Australia, however, does want an early peace treaty.

Six months ago Australia's minister for external affairs Percy C. Spender went on record as saying the attitude of the United States towards Japan "does not quite accord with the wishes of the Australian government."

Spender's misgivings were directed at the U.S. policy of giving a gradually increasing measure of responsibility in the conduct of internal and even some external affairs to the Japanese government.

Spender recently has been sounding out treaty possibilities in personal-level talks in Britain and the United States.

Conference Wanted As far as can be seen here he has been plugging the Australian line—that there should be an orderly tidying-up of the Japanese problem at a formal peace conference rather than a general relaxation of control.

He has already expressed a fear that gradual easing of restrictions might lead to Australia being presented with a fait accompli.

This Australian view is opposed by the U.S. view that a strengthened Japan would be the basis of defense in the Pacific.

Wisconsin's Kohler Resolved in Pacific To Serve Public

MADISON (AP)—Seven years ago, while serving as a naval intelligence officer in the Pacific, Walter J. Kohler Jr., decided that if he ever got back he would devote more time to public life.

In his first bid for public office Republican Kohler was elected governor of Wisconsin. He will succeed Gov. Oscar Rennebohm, also a Republican, who did not run for reelection, on Jan. 1.

When Kohler is inaugurated he will be the second son of a former governor to take over the chief executive's post. His father, the late Walter J. Kohler, served as governor of Wisconsin in 1929-30.

The other father and son team was the late Robert M. LaFollette Sr., and his son Philip.

Walter Kohler Sr., was beaten in two other tries for office after his election on his first bid. He lost to Philip LaFollette in 1930 and to the late Albert Schmedeman, a Democrat, in 1932.

Young Kohler is the oldest of four brothers. Of medium height, he weighs 165, has a friendly smile, is energetic and makes a good impression on people he meets.

Attended Yale He was born in Sheboygan, Wis., and attended public schools there. He went to Phillips Andover academy and was graduated from Yale university before turning to work in the big Kohler company at Kohler, Wis., a suburb of Sheboygan. The firm manufactures plumbing equipment and was founded by Kohler's grandfather.

French Attempt to Colonize Kerguelen Isles

PARIS (AP)—Forty French pioneers headed southward Thursday to break the curse which lies over the bleak "isle of desolation" midway between Australia and South Africa.

For six months they will live on the windswept and surf-battered islands which have defied all attempts at colonization.

They will throw up pre-fabricated shelters against the winds which chain the surf at the foot of the rocky and forbidding cliffs surrounding the isles.

And on the grey terrain where nothing grows but stunted herbs, they will experiment with vegetables to supplement their meager diet—and grasses which might be grown for cattle.

The 40 men—all technicians—were ordered to the islands, known as the Kerguelen group, by colonial minister Jean Letourneau, who, for the second time in this century, saw possibilities in developing that area of colonial France more desolate than even the Sahara.

And so the Kerguelens were forgotten for almost two decades as only an outpost on the farflung map of colonial France. Forgotten that is, by almost every one except German merchant raiders and submarine crews.

America's wealthier women may be well-dressed, but the rest of us, by trying to ape expensive fashions, look worse than "a poor flower-seller in the slums of Rome," a designer says. The reason? The flower-seller dresses simply, and doesn't wear bargain-basement versions of "high fashion," he says.

Daily airing of blankets in use not only is a good sanitary practice, but it helps them last longer and keep their fluffiness.

Changeable jewelry forms are motivating New York designers. A new 20-inch string of pearls can be worn as a single strand necklace, choker and double choker or double dog collar. The secret is two circular devices of palladium or gold, studded with eight small pearls and a large one in the center. They fasten on the pearl strands to give the desired effect.

Don't throw away a worn-out overshoe. A good piece of rubber fabric may come in handy to patch a child's overshoe, and the stray boot may provide it.

This recipe for candied orange sweet potatoes is ideal for a fall dinner. Mix 2 teaspoons dark corn syrup, 1/4 cup brown sugar, 1 teaspoon grated orange rind and 3 tablespoons orange juice in skillet. Bring to a boil and add 2 sweet potatoes (cooked, peeled and halved lengthwise). Cook over low heat, turning potatoes occasionally, for about 30 minutes. It makes 2 servings.

Toasted blanched almonds add a festive touch to a salad or a simple dessert. They are as good with vegetable salads as they are with fruit, and they dress up chocolate pudding, fruit whips, and custards.

Menonite Leader Describes Voyage To Local Rotarians

A 78 year-old Kalona Menonite leader told local Rotarians Thursday that he never felt better in his life than when aboard a ship bound for Europe this summer.

Chris Harshberger's advice to tourists going abroad is "don't take the advice of all your friends on what to do and what not to do when aboard ship."

He said when he first boarded a ship in New York last July for his trip he remembered the advice given him by all his neighbors in Kalona—Don't eat very much, eat all you want, don't look over the side of the harbor etc.

"As the ship pulled away from the wharf I edged back from the railing then I decided I was going to enjoy myself and I marched over to the railing and peered down at the water below in clear defiance of a neighbor's advice. "I enjoyed myself the rest of the trip," he said.

"I ate what I wanted and forgot all the advice that I'd been given—I just acted myself," he related.

Harshberger spoke at the weekly luncheon meeting of the Rotary club at Hotel Jefferson.

He described his 37 day tour of Germany, France, Austria, Switzerland and Italy.

Dixie Walker May Receive Cardinal Job

NEW YORK (UP)—Dixie Walker, who rose to stardom at Brooklyn during a colorful 18-year major league career, is a leading candidate for the vacant St. Louis Cardinals managerial job, it was learned Thursday.

Walker's candidacy was confirmed at the annual baseball draft meeting in Cincinnati Thursday by Fred Saigh Jr., president of the Cardinals, who admitted he has discussed the job with Dixie.

Won Pennant

The 40-year-old Walker, who guided the Atlantic Crackers to the Southern association pennant last season—his first as a manager—unobtrusively visited Saigh in St. Louis recently to discuss the position left vacant by the resignation of Eddie Dyer, Oct. 16.

Walker, contacted by telephone at his home in Birmingham, Ala., was noticeably flustered when pressed about the prospects of his signing to pilot the Cards. He admitted, however, that he had been "listening to some offers."

"Let's put it this way," he said evasively. "I have not yet signed a contract with any club. Quite frankly, I can't say what's in Mr. Saigh's mind. He is in Cincinnati and I'm here. He hasn't said anything about a new manager, has he?"

Ready to Sign at Atlanta

In Atlanta, President Earl Mann of the Crackers said Walker had notified him that he is ready to sign a contract to manage the Crackers' next season.

"But," Mann added significantly, "we would not stand in his way if he later had a major league offer."

Saigh, in Cincinnati, said he has discussed the vacant manager's job "with Walker and a lot of others, but I have no leading candidate for the position."

Buckeyes Touchdown Favorite Over Illini in Top League Game

CHICAGO (UP)—Illinois' football team, aiming for its second trip to the Rose Bowl in five years, was a 6½ point underdog Thursday for Saturday's decisive battle with the Ohio State Buckeyes, apparently bound for an undisputed Big Ten title.

The two teams will tangle before a capacity mob of 71,119 in the Illini's memorial stadium in the most important conference game of the week and one nearly equally prominent in the national picture.

Other conference games Saturday pit Purdue against Minnesota at Minneapolis and Northwestern against Michigan at Ann Arbor. In non-conference games Iowa entertains Notre Dame, Wisconsin appears at Pennsylvania, Indiana plays host to Marquette and Michigan State travels to Pittsburgh.

Offensive Against Defense

The Ohio State-Illinois clash will match the Big Ten's roughest offensive team against the best defensive outfit. The Buckeyes have ripped at a record breaking pace thus far to score 208 points while winning all five conference games and the average score per game for Ohio State was sure to set a new conference record.

Illinois, on the other hand, has permitted only two touchdowns in four league games for the top defensive record.

Both teams had one major backfield man on the questionable list. Illinois' Johnny Karras, who rammed to a new Big Ten rushing record last year, has been kept out of the last two games by an ankle injury and though he worked out Wednesday, Coach Ray Eliot listed him as exceptionally doubtful.

Ohio State's problem was Quarterback Tony Curcillo, also suffering from a bad ankle. However, Curcillo will make the trip and even though he should not play, Vic Janowicz could return to quarterback with Fred Bruney moving in at halfback.

Bumps and Bruises

Other than these two stars both teams were reported in good condition, with the exception of the usual bumps and bruises.

Purdue was favored to capture its first Big Ten game of the campaign against the Gophers, although Minnesota was sure to be at a peak in morale due to Coach Bernie Bierman's resignation Monday. The Boiler-makers, nevertheless, were a one touchdown favorite.

Michigan, with a record of two wins, one tie and a loss in four league games, also was a touchdown choice over Northwestern, carrying a two won two lost mark into the contest.

Phi Delta Theta Wins Fraternity Grid Title

Phi Delta Theta won the fraternity intramural football championship Thursday afternoon with a 7-6 win over Sigma Alpha Epsilon.

The winners scored their touchdown late in the first half on a pass from Jim Mitchell to Rex Rutherford. The conversion pass was good.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon's touchdown was scored on a line plunge by Les Van Dyke.

Faske, Perrin To Co-Captain Hawks

Guard "Junebug" Perrin and Halfback Jerry Faske were picked Thursday to co-captain Iowa's underdog Hawkeyes against Notre Dame in the last home game of the season.

Perrin and Faske, both seniors who will be playing their last game before a home audience, have captained Iowa before this year.

The Hawks completed practically all preparations for the Irish Thursday afternoon with a light signal drill and kickoff return practice. They will work out this afternoon on the stadium field.

Several backfield lineup changes have been indicated by this week's practice. Faske and Don Commaek, starting halfbacks earlier in the season, may have re-earned their starting jobs from "Chug" Wilson and Bernard Bennett.

Wilson replaced Faske after the Minnesota game and Bennett filled in for Commaek when the Waterloo mite was out with a shoulder injury. Even though Faske and Commaek start, Bennett and Wilson are expected to see plenty of action.

The Hawks have been drilling all week on a pass defense to use against Bobby Williams, Williams, a holdover from last season's undefeated Irish, and Jerry Groom, from Des Moines, have been credited with holding this year's team together.

Brechler Highest Paid

DES MOINES — Paul Brechler, director of athletics at Iowa, was the highest paid sports department official at the state's three institutions of higher learning during the last fiscal year.

The annual state salary book, released Thursday, showed Brechler got $4,500 from state funds and $5,500 from athletic department accounts.

Next in line was Dr. Eddie Anderson, former Hawkeye football coach, whose salary for a part of the year was $8,333, from department funds. Anderson's salary on an annual basis was $12,500.

Leonard Raffensperger, present Iowa grid coach, received $7,345 from the state for the fifth highest salary. His present pay is at the rate of $10,000 annually.

The salaries of other SUI athletic officials were: assistant football coaches Pat Boland, $3,749; Bob Fitch, $5,250, and Bernie Masterson, $2,333. Basketball coach, Rollie Williams, $6,775; Popa Harrison, former cage coach, $7,010. Baseball coach, Otto Vogel, $3,500. Track coach, Francis Cretzmeier, $5,000. Business manager of athletics, Fran Slavicek, $6,000.

Oh Woe! Ezzard Has To Clip Off Mustache

CINCINNATI (AP)—Ezzard Charles, world's heavyweight boxing champion, must shave off his mustache before fighting Nick Barone of Syracuse, N.Y., in a title bout here Nov. 28.

The city boxing commission so ruled Thursday. Charles and the boys who boss the sport here have been fussing over the question for days. Charles is real proud of the thing.

"This rule applies not only to the champion, but to all boxers who fight in Cincinnati rings," Paul Cain, commission chairman, announced. "The rules say the fighter must be clean shaven."

Inca Girl's Voice Unusual

Listeners Swamp WSUI With Requests For More of Yma Sumac's 4 Octaves

Every morning's mail brings dozens of requests to radio station WSUI's music department. Recently, requests have poured in asking to hear more records of singer Yma Sumac, an Inca Indian singer from the Andes of Peru.

Miss Sumac's voice, described by critics as "something that soars into the acoustic stratosphere," has attracted nation-wide attention in recent weeks. She has over four octaves at her command.

On Dinner Hour
Monday night, Dave Hall, WSUI's classical music librarian, played some of Yma Sumac's records on his Dinner Hour program from 6 to 7 p.m. Calls began coming in immediately from students and Iowa City townspeople.

Some of the callers asked: "Who is this woman?" "Can I get her records downtown?" Others called in to say how much they enjoyed hearing her, and requested the station to play more of her recordings in the future.

Special Program
Saturday, WSUI will feature a special Music Hour show at 8 p.m.

Local Thefts Reported To Iowa City Police

John Nickelson, 11, Havelock, has reported to Iowa City police the loss of a pen and pencil set, a hair brush and a $10 bill.

Nickelson told officials the items were taken sometime between last Friday and Wednesday afternoon from the room where he was living at 904 N. Dodge street. He said he discovered the theft when he moved to 524 E. Washington street.

Earl Kooper, 406 Riverdale, reported the theft of the bottle gas adjustment mechanism from the gas tank at his home.

Art Guild to Present Laurel and Hardy Classics

Two early Laurel and Hardy films will be shown in the auditorium of the Art building, Saturday at 8 p.m.

The films, "Two Tars" and "Hands Up," are being shown under the auspices of the Art Guild, SUI organization of art students.

Tickets may be purchased at the door for 40 cents.

Playschool Hearings Continued to Nov. 29

Hearings on a suit to stop the operation of a playschool in Woodlawn have been continued until Nov. 29, by District Judge James P. Gaffney.

The suit is being brought by SUI history Prof. W. R. Livingston, Mable Evans, and Klara Robbins against their neighbor, David C. Davis, who operates a playschool in his home, 1041 Woodlawn street. The suit says the school is a nuisance and in violation of city ordinances.

Judge Gaffney was forced to interrupt the hearings last Friday because of scheduled cases coming up this week. The September term of the court ends today and Monday the judge will be in Marengo.

The defense will begin presenting its case when the hearings are resumed. Judge Gaffney said he hopes to finish testimony in the case in two or more sessions.

Construction Begins On Gym Addition

Construction work has finally begun on the addition to the SUI women's gymnasium after a delay of four months.

The digging of the excavation for the foundation of the 70 by 150 foot addition marks the beginning of the construction that was scheduled to begin last July.

Scarcity of reinforcing steel caused the delay, and because of the probability of further delays it is impossible to set a date for completion, R. J. Phillips, SUI's superintendent of maintenance said.

The state board of education awarded the Merhead construction company, Cedar Rapids, a general construction contract for $215,345 earlier this year. The cost of the addition is estimated at $287,000.

UAW Warns Labor Must Broaden Its Political Objectives

DETROIT (AP) — The CIO united auto workers union, licking its Nov. 7 election wounds, warned labor Thursday that it must switch its political tactics to broader issues that affect the whole public.

"Labor cannot win elections against people like Taft (Sen. Robert A. Taft, R-Ohio) when it campaigns on the very narrow basis of issues that directly affect only labor," it said.

Election Teaches Lessons
Leadership of the million-member union came to that conclusion in an analysis of Democratic setbacks in the off-year balloting.

The statement was made in a long editorial entitled "Lessons of the Election" in the United Automobile Workers, official UAW monthly paper.

PAC Lives — Murray
CIO President Philip Murray said that the CIO political action committee is not washed up as a result of the general election and will fight on for repeal of the Taft-Hartley act.

Murray said the PAC "unquestionably" would continue to function as usual, despite its defeat in Ohio Nov. 7 when Taft won reelection.

The CIO chief pointed out that in an off-year election, Republican candidates usually compile a majority of 500,000 to 600,000 votes, Taft himself, he said, had expected a margin of 30,000, whereas he won by about 430,000.

DRAFT, UMT STUDIED
WASHINGTON (AP) — The defense department is studying a plan to assure an ever-ready reserve of trained men by combining the draft and a system of universal military training, it was disclosed Thursday. The study, still in its preliminary stages, is being made by a special committee headed by Felix E. Larkin, the department's general counsel.

SUI Doctor Edits New Medical Book

Scribbled notes, hastily jotted on envelopes, scraps of paper and hospital history sheets nearly 50 years old have resulted in the first published volume of bedside teachings and writings of the world-famous physician, Sir William Osler.

Edited by Dr. William B. Bean, of the SUI college of medicine, the volume, "Osler Aphorisms," has been prepared for both doctors and patients.

Comments in Book
Typical of Osler's short, clear comments on medical practice, education and life in general are the following:

"Have no higher ambition than to become an all-around family doctor, whose business in life is to know disease and to know how to treat it."

"If the license to practice meant the completion of his education, how sad it would be for the young practitioner, how distressing to his patients."

"Make a thorough investigation. Never forget to look at the back of a patient. Always look at his feet. Looking at women's legs has often saved her life."

"The glutton digs his own grave with his teeth."

Notes Traced
The notes can be traced back to the beginning of the century when Dr. Bean's father, Dr. Robert B. Bean, was an internist doctor at John Hopkins university, Baltimore, Md., and first came into contact with Sir William.

On patient rounds with Sir William, the late Dr. Bean penciled his casual thoughts and remarks on anything he had in his pockets, with the thought of future publication.

Highly Respected
Dr. Osler died in 1919, a highly revered member of his profession. Dr. Bean went on to become an outstanding anatomist and physical anthropologist at the University of Virginia until his death in 1944.

This year, SUI's Dr. Bean edited his father's notes and the volume was published by Henry Schuman, Inc., New York City.

Local Scout Promoted
Thomas Giblin, 15, was approved for the rank of Eagle Scout this week by the district Boy Scout Council of Review.

He is a member of Scout troop 18 at St. Mary's. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer J. Giblin of 521 S. Governor street.

Scout Executive Martin Hunter said the date of the court of honor for the presentation has not been set.

'Sometimes Brilliant' — Operetta Charms Audience

— 'Sometimes Slipshod' —
By WAYNE DANIELSON

City high gave a production of "The Chimes of Normandy" Thursday night which was sometimes brilliant and sometimes slipshod, but never dull.

The operetta, a translation from the French of Robert Planquette, is a romantic comedy containing about every plot-cliche known to man.

Mistaken identity, chimes that are to ring when a hero returns, a cruel guardian who secretly hoards stolen gold — all these creaking devices are dragged in.

Charmed Audience
It is a compliment to the entire cast and especially to general director Glenn Jablonsky, city high chorus instructor, that the performance charmed and held the audience.

The chorus and orchestra were especially good in the numbers, "If You are Wanting Servants" and "Silent Heroes."

Darlene Hanson, as Germaine, the petite heroine, filled her role adequately while singing, but her acting smacked of memorization.

Graham Crow, as Henri, the long-lost count who returns to take over the chateau of his ancestors, showed marked singing ability. His enunciation was especially notable.

Bill Davis as Grenicheux, a kind of French Tom Sawyer who wandered on when laughs were wanted, displayed real potentialities as a comic. Scene stealing, however, was his unforgivable sin.

Supporting Roles
Ted Dunnington and Gordon Beals in supporting roles as the miser and the village governor were often convincing.

Outstanding in the cast, both as an actress and a singer, was Shirley Scott in the role of Serpolette, the village gossip. Her flexible voice showed remarkable control for her age and her nerve in line delivery gave life to many scenes.

The main fault in the production seemed to be a lack of spontaneity on the part of the chorus. While their singing was excellent, their acting was only fair.

It is a mistake to be too critical, however, for the show obviously fulfilled its function — to entertain. The audience called the actor's back for two bows.

"The Chimes of Normandy" will be given again tonight, at 8 p.m., at City high auditorium with different singers in several roles.

European War Near, Austrian Doctor Tells Information First

War clouds hang over Europe and it is only a question of time before they explode, Dr. Bruno Haid told an Information First audience at SUI Thursday afternoon.

Dr. Haid, an Austrian, spoke in connection with International Student week. A resident student in anesthesiology at University hospitals, Haid is in this country on a Rotary Foundation fellowship.

Haid expressed the opinion that the European situation could lead to war at any time and that the Russian army could be on the Atlantic coast within two weeks.

The European people would not fight, declared Haid, because of the overwhelming arms superiority of the Russians.

"This attitude would change and the people would be willing to fight for their liberty if they had a decent chance to win. But they don't want to be in a war which they know they would lose," Haid said.

On the problem of rearming Western Germany, he said the question is not whether or not we shall allow the western zones to rearm, but how to get as many Germans and Austrians as possible for a Western European army.

Riasanovsky Outlines Nazism to Group

Prof. Nicholas V. Riasanovsky said Thursday night that Hitler was able to attain power in Germany because of his ability to look at weaknesses of human nature.

He spoke in the house chamber of Old Capitol as a part of International Student week activities.

Riasanovsky told about 150 persons that an overestimation of human nature's weaknesses, such as Hitler's, would prevent an overpowering of the world by one man or group.

Two Types
In defining Nazism, Riasanovsky said there are two types of definitions. One type, which is a false interpretation, is that Nazism is a German characteristic.

The other type, of which he said there are various groups, are possible workable definitions.

One is "Nazism is a rebellion against the entire Christian religion." He said Nazism is more than a political or economic movement.

Another is Karl Marx's theory that Nazism is the last stand of the monopolistic capitalists. Riasanovsky said some of the best books on Nazism are written from Marx's point of view.

Other Theories
The other theories ranged from the ideas of a Germany united by blood to Nazism as a logical development of German ideologies such as their art and philosophies.

He said the type of people most easily swayed by a theory such as Nazism are the younger set, mainly dissatisfied and radical persons resulting from periods of economic collapse.

Other speakers on the program were Robert Kramer, International Student week committee chairman; Dr. T. Z. Koo, SUI school of religion; Simmo Ince, master of ceremonies, and Dean Dewey Stult.

Picket Back on Duty; Butchers Still on Strike

Iowa City's grocery strike continued Thursday with resuming of the picketing of Koza-McCollister Super market, 115 S. Dubuque street, by members of the Amalgamated Meatcutters and Butcher Workers local union.

For the first time in 63 days Wednesday a picket was not on duty in front of the store. However, the store owners' hopes that the strike was over were short-lived.

Union Picket Betty Law, 426 Hutchinson street, was back to "work" Thursday, explaining she was unable to be on the picket line the day before because of illness.

Building Problem Hinders Car Lot

Work on Iowa City's proposed parking lot at Gilbert and Washington streets has been delayed because a contractor on the project cannot find a location to move one of the buildings.

City Engineer Fred E. Gartzke Thursday said the parking lot is far from ready for public use. Concrete storage shed foundations from the buildings formerly on the lot have yet to be moved.

And Joe Conway, one of two contractors clearing the area, has yet to move an office building because he can't find a place to put it.
