

Will of the People -- What Should It Mean?

(An Editorial)

The will of the people is in danger of being thwarted! However, there is a chance Iowa Citizens might still get the continuation of rent controls they voted for Nov. 7.

City officials repeatedly have said the referendum on rent control, conducted in conjunction with the recent general election, would not be binding upon them.

And there is a question as to whether the will of the people will prevail, because at least three city council members have taken it upon themselves to oppose the findings of the referendum — even though the vote was a decisive 5,060 to 2,650 in favor of continuing the controls.

Aside from the obligation the council members bear to carry out the wishes of the people, of which the vote left little doubt, there is another matter which should be investigated.

CAN THE COUNCIL MEMBERS LEGALLY DISCONTINUE RENT CONTROLS — EVEN THOUGH THEY REPEATEDLY HAVE SAID THE REFERENDUM WAS NOT BINDING UPON THEM?

The amendment to U.S. public law 574 (Housing and Rent Act of 1950, 81st Congress) reads:

"The provisions of this title . . . shall cease to be in effect at the close of December 31, 1950, except that they shall cease to be in effect at the close of June 30, 1951 —

"(A) in any incorporated city, town, or village which, at a time when maximum rents under this title are in effect therein, and prior to December 31, 1950, declares (by resolution of its governing body adopted for that purpose, OR BY POPULAR REFERENDUM, in accordance with local law) that a shortage of rental housing accommodations exists which requires the continuance of rent control in such city, town, or village. . . ."

In view of the wording of this amendment, is there any choice on the part of the council, now that the referendum has been conducted?

While there may be no court determination yet which would afford a precedent for judging this case, it would appear reasonable to assume from the language of the amendment that the results of the referendum constitute a mandate to the council.

The referendum ballot used here on the rent control question Nov. 7 read:

"Shall the following measure be declared adopted by referendum?"

"It is hereby declared that a shortage of rental housing accommodations exists in the City of Iowa City, Iowa, which requires the continuance of Federal Rent Control in this City until the close of June 30, 1951."

We feel there is a chance that the council might, by legal action, be compelled to abide by the people's voice, although it's a sad state of affairs when such action is necessary.

We feel, too, that the council has placed the city in an embarrassing position in the eyes of the state by creating a situation where legal action is needed to see the people's will prevail.

Even though the city officials contend the referendum is not binding upon them, there is no wording to that effect in the minutes of the Oct. 9 council meeting. In those minutes there appeared the following:

"And whereas, the city council of Iowa City, after a public hearing of which notice was published in advance, has heard arguments for and against continuation of such controls, and having received the recommendations of the Iowa City Rent Advisory Board, and is of the opinion that the question should be determined by a vote of the duly qualified electors of the city of Iowa City rather than by the council."

It would appear, then, that the people, themselves, are not bound by the officials' stand on the matter.

An information release from the office of the housing expediter in Washington, D.C., states:

"Any community which makes a declaration in this manner (action taken by a local governing body or by referendum) for the continuation of federal control beyond December 31, 1950, shall promptly notify the Housing Expediter in writing of the action."

To prevent the necessity of the citizens using legal action to force the council to acknowledge the mandate the referendum results appear to constitute, we suggest that the council:

1. Publicly acknowledge they have received a mandate from the people of Iowa City.

2. Notify the housing expediter that Iowa City plans to maintain rent controls until June 30, 1951.

Anything less than this will be an admission by the council that it is not functioning as a representative of the people.

The Weather

Mostly cloudy and mild today. Sunday cloudy, windy and turning colder. High today, 55-60; low, 35-40. High Friday, 41; low, 25.

SEVEN SENIOR FOOTBALL PLAYERS, the band and 400 SUI students turned out Friday night for a pep rally at the Iowa Union bandshell. Earl Harper, director of the Union, recalled past wins over the Irish and urged students to support the Hawkeyes today. Wally Schwank, freshman football coach, told the crowd, "Iowa tomorrow will be great — great enough to wreck Notre Dame." The seven players (left to right) are Bill Greene, Harold Bradley, Junebug Perrin, Glenn Drahn, Bob Bostwick, Bob Hoff and Joe Paulsen. Three other seniors, Jerry Lons, Jerry Faske and Louis Ginsberg, were not present.

53,000 Expected to See Hawks Battle Irish in Final Home Game

By HOBERT DUNCAN
Daily Iowan Sports Editor

Iowa and Notre Dame play the ninth game of a series rich in tradition this afternoon before an expected capacity crowd of 53,000 in Iowa stadium. Game time is 1:30 p.m.

Very little of the game's pre-season luster has been dimmed by Notre Dame's three defeats and Iowa's four. As has been proven in the past, when these two teams meet records are of very little consequence.

Not since 1940 have the Hawkeyes beaten Notre Dame although they have tried five times. In that 1940 game, Bill Green gained all of Iowa's yards on the ground and scored the touchdown that beat the Irish, 7-0. A year earlier, in 1939, the famed Ironmen whipped Notre Dame, 7-6.

Iowa repeatedly has played its best ball against Notre Dame and Hawkeye fans hope this holds true today. Last season, the Irish beat a stubborn Iowa team, 21-7, but not until the Hawks had put up a terrific battle. The Irish then went on to an undefeated season.

Today the Hawks will have to contend with a good, if not a great, Notre Dame team. Some of the finest players in the country are on the Notre Dame roster.

These players include Quarterback Bobby Williams, Center Jerry Groom, End Jim Mutscheller and Halfback John Pettibon.

Football experts consider Williams one of the finest ball handling and passing quarterbacks in the country. Iowa has been practicing all week on a defense to stop Williams' passes to Mutscheller and the other end, Chester Ostrowski.

The Hawks go into the game a one to two touchdown underdog but loyal fans think this is the time to beat the Irish. Iowa has a better chance for victory in this game than in any since 1940. The Hawkeyes have never been favored over Notre Dame in the course of the series.

Russ Propose Peace Plan

FLUSHING, N.Y. — Russia Friday unveiled its own version of a 20-year peace program, including meetings of the United Nations security council attended by chiefs of state or foreign ministers.

The surprise Soviet proposal was hinged on the necessity of giving the Chinese Communists the UN seat now held by the Nationalists.

It also included several key tenets of Soviet foreign policy, such as an outright ban on the atom bomb and strict application of the big power veto privilege.

But, despite the heavy ration of ingredients obviously unacceptable to the West, UN observers felt the Soviet move might have large significance because it came in the midst of the crisis over Chinese Communist intervention in Korea.

Collazo Pleads 'Not Guilty'

WASHINGTON (AP) — "I plead not guilty, your honor." Thus spoke Oscar Collazo Friday when called upon to plead to an indictment carrying the possible death penalty for his part in the Nov. 1 attempt of two Puerto Rican revolutionists to kill President Truman.

The indictment charges him with murder and housebreaking with intent to murder.

U.S. District Judge Schweinhaut set no trial date but, in effect, rejected Dec. 13, a date favored by U.S. District Atty. George Morris Fay. The judge gave the court-appointed defense attorneys until Dec. 8 to file any motions they may desire.

SUI Student Hurt When Hit by Car

Eugene C. Rembe, 22, A4, Primghar, suffered abrasions of the head, wrist and hip, when he was struck by a car at 11:46 a.m. Friday.

The accident occurred at the intersection of Iowa avenue and Riverside drive.

Elmer E. Eggert, Victor farmer, driver of the car, reported he was meeting a bus coming from the opposite direction when Rembe stepped in front of the vehicle. Eggert said he was crossing on a green light.

Rembe was treated at University hospitals and released.

Allied Troops Advance As Resistance Weakens

Say Road To Border Virtually Clear

TOKYO (SATURDAY) — Allied troops drove forward in northeast Korea today amid weakening Communist resistance and an American spokesman said they apparently faced no strong enemy forces the rest of the way to the Manchurian and Russian frontiers.

The U.S. Seventh division pushed toward the transport hub of Kapsan, 21 miles below the frontier, as marine and navy fighter planes provided close support. Kapsan already has been practically destroyed by the air attacks.

At the same time the South Korean Capital division took the offensive seven miles northeast of the Myongchon river near the east coast.

The Seventh division had only 23 miles to go to reach the frontier town of Hyesanjin to the north, while the South Koreans were about 97 miles from the Soviet frontier on the east coast.

A Tenth corps spokesman said there appeared to be no sizeable Communist forces between the two divisions and the Manchurian and Soviet borders.

Meanwhile U.S. marines enveloping the ice-rimmed Chosen reservoir reported making only slight contact with them in that area.

Elsewhere on the sprawling 250-mile front there was little activity as numbing cold and billowing snow prevented strong air support.

Party Tonight Ends International Week

An international party in the River room of the Iowa Union, from 9 p.m. to midnight tonight, will close this year's International Student week activities.

Dr. Bruno Haid, an Austrian now studying anesthesia at SUI, will sing some of his native folk songs at the party. Foreign students will present skits.

"The many cultures represented on our campus provide SUI students with an opportunity to understand and appreciate the problems, hopes and desires of other nations," said Richard E. Switzer, counsel to foreign students, commenting on the week's activities.

Party invitations have been sent to SUI housing units and they are also available in the Union lobby. Invitations are free and the party is open to all SUI students.

Kidnapper's Brain Deteriorating: Lawyer

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — Dr. Nancy Campbell's lawyer said Friday the woman kidnapper has a "definite brain deterioration."

The attorney, former State Supreme Court Justice A. L. Zinn, made that statement several hours after her release from an Albuquerque hospital.

It Had a Kick Coming

Lt. E. J. Knoedel, Iowa City fire department, is convinced "a bird in the hand is worth two in the bush."

He was hunting pheasants Thursday afternoon with six other firemen on a farm northwest of Williamsburg, 31 miles west of Iowa City.

Knoedel said he saw the head of the bird sticking out from a refuge under eight inches of carpeted grass. Knoedel blocked its escape with his foot, and reached down and caught him by hand.

Witnesses said the bird "didn't do any squawking, but it kicked like the devil."

Petition to Lift No-Cut Rule Jan. 2 Makes Little Progress

The petition to lift SUI's no-cut rule Jan. 2 got off to a slow start Friday, when stations for signing failed to materialize as promised in Schaeffer hall and the petition was blocked in the Quadrangle by Quad officers.

In other housing areas, some progress was made, however, with one student council member reporting 350 signatures Friday night out of a quota of 700.

The council's original plan was to have a table in Schaeffer hall for persons wanting to sign the petition, along with stations in the housing units.

Although the petition was approved by the student council Nov. 9, the petition committee did not ask for Schaeffer hall facilities until Friday morning.

Permission was granted and a table was promised. Because of other jobs, the physical plant office did not have the table in Schaeffer by 1:30 p.m. Friday.

Council members responsible for setting up the signing place failed to follow up the situation, and the petition did not appear in the building Friday afternoon.

Council members indicated Friday night that they probably would have tables in both Schaeffer and University halls Monday morning.

In the Quadrangle, progress of the petition was held up by Quadrangle President Robert B. Hilliard, who said that President Hancher's office would have to approve the circulation of the petition.

Under SUI regulations, "solicitations" require the approval of the President's office.

Berserk Thug Slays Five

MALAGA, N.J. (AP) — A berserk gunman driving a green sedan shot and killed five persons and wounded four others in two communities near here Friday, state police reported.

The dead were shot down in the village of Piney Hollow, five miles from here.

Police identified the gunman as Ernie Inganiti, a war veteran. He was captured early today by New Jersey state police after an intensive search.

Barrack's Contents Destroyed by Fire, Second Damaged

Fire destroyed the contents of a metal barracks south of the Quadrangle and damaged contents of a second at 5 a.m. Friday.

Iowa City firemen brought the blaze under control within 35 minutes after reaching the scene.

The heat of the flames melted the aluminum roof of the barracks as it ate through the mattresses and furniture stored inside. Nothing remained of the structure but the outside walls.

The fire threatened a second of the buildings used by SUI for storing room fixtures, but firemen stopped the blaze before great damage could be done.

The cause of the fire was undetermined.

Firemen said the flames could be seen from the corner of Linn and Washington streets as they answered the call.

They said the only things which could be salvaged from the building were lavatory equipment and some metal pipes.

Union Plans Varied Post-Game Activities

Movies, dancing and a floor show will be among activities at the Iowa Union tonight during the after-game open house from 8 p.m. to midnight.

Records will provide dance music. An intermission at 10 p.m. will feature a floor show emceed by Dick Williams, A2, Iowa City, WSUI announcer.

Three movies will be shown in the north lobby of the Union. They are "Our Old Car," a 10-minute comedy; "Winter Carnival," a color film on winter resorts, and "Treasure Island."

There will be group singing to the film "Songs of Stephen Foster" in the main lounge during intermission.

Refreshments and juke box dancing will be in the Union cafeteria.

Student's Stolen Car Found Near Coralville

A stolen car, completely stripped was recovered by Iowa City police Friday in a field near the Coralville dam site.

Police said that everything of value, including the wheels, had been removed from a 1947 Studebaker which Edwin G. Goebel, 6, Moline, Ill., reported stolen early Thursday morning.

State agent Bob Gregson and highway patrolman Virgil Johnson conducted the investigation.

Hyde Crowned Mr. MEBOC

Thomas Hyde, C4, Fort Madison, was crowned Mr. MEBOC (Most Eligible Bachelor on Campus) at the Spinners' Spree Friday night.

Marvin Leuhrs, A3, Sheboygan, Wis., and Joe Regan, A3, Cedar Rapids, were named attendants at the annual dance which gives women students a chance to invite men and arrange the dates.

Hyde had campaigned by having members of his fraternity, Delta Chi, pass out candy kisses with the remark, "Here's a kiss from Tommy Hyde."

Thirty-one men were nominated by their housing units and voted upon by SUI women. The University Women's association, sponsor of the dance, said Hyde received the most ballots.

However, the association declined to give a breakdown of the voting results, saying the 1,800 ballots had been burned immediately after counting.

Holiday Library Hours Announced

Schedules of Thanksgiving recess hours at Macbride library and serial-reserve library reading rooms, were announced Friday by SUI library authorities.

The schedule will be: Wednesday, Nov. 22, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.; Thursday, Nov. 23, closed all day; Friday, Nov. 24, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.; Saturday, Nov. 25, 9 a.m. to 12 noon; Sunday, Nov. 26, closed all day, and Monday, Nov. 27, 8 a.m. to 10 p.m.

Reserve books may be charged for the vacation period beginning at 10 a.m. Wednesday. These books will be due by 9 a.m. Monday, Nov. 27. One copy of each reserve book will be held for use in the reading room during the interim period.

Schedule of hours and loan privileges at departmental libraries will be posted at those libraries.

SUI Band to Dance At Iowa-Irish Game

The association did not reveal the names of the members on the ballot-counting committee.

Hyde received engraved gold cuff links in honor of his selection as Mr. MEBOC. Leuhrs and Regan got cigarette cases.

A pair of copper barrel mugs were presented to Marjorie Martin, A1, Hamburg, and her date, Willis Volkmer, A2, Washington, D.C. The chaplains decided that Volkmer's corsage was the most original at the dance.

It was a cardboard cash register which he wore over his head. The keys spelled out "Marge and Willy." A sign on the machine said, "You register with me."

MOST ELIGIBLE BACHELOR, Thomas Hyde, C4, Fort Madison, and his date, Stacia Pleva, A3, Hammond, Ind., danced Friday night to the music of Les Brown and his band. Hyde was crowned Mr. MEBOC by Francine Appleman, A4, Elmhurst, Ill., chairman of the Spinners' Spree committee of the University Women's association.

What's Your Opinion on This Subject?

HMMM, COULD THEY BE DISCUSSING A POLL TOPIC? Dr. George H. Gallup (center), director of the American Institute of Public Opinion, was here Friday conferring with Prof. Norman C. Meler (right), of the psychology department, Meler is one of Gallup's advisers and a former teacher of Gallup. Prof. Paul I. Lyness, head of the school of Journalism's research division, is shown at left. (Story on page 6).

Not Time for World War Yet

By The Associated Press

Kenneth De Courcy, editor of the British "Intelligence Digest" who either scooped President Truman or had a premature story on Russian development of the atom bomb, says World War III has already started.

De Courcy spoke the other day before the National Press club in Washington. His thesis is interesting even if not authoritative. De Courcy's position in British journalism is about the same as that of some of the better known and miss columnists in the United States. He does specialize in reports from behind the iron curtain.

You can play around with this thesis as you wish. You can say that one third of the world has been conducting an industrial revolution for 200 years, and that it is now causing an economic and political revolution in the two-thirds which hasn't benefitted much.

You can say that it is all a continuation of World War I. You can say that current events are merely trial heats for World War III in which the pole position remains to be determined.

There is good reason, however, for the contention that World War III will not really be under way until Russia and the United States start shooting at each other, which a lot of folks don't think will happen during the 15 or 20 years which it is believed will take Russia to develop an industrial base for war which will be even as strong as Hitler's was in 1939.

There is less reason to hope that the present series of armed skirmishes will not continue and become an informal prelude if not an actual part of World War III, just as Ethiopia, Manchuria, Austria, Czechoslovakia and Spain

Spain Celebrates 14 Years of Franco's Rule

By CENTRAL PRESS

MADRID, SPAIN — Spain celebrates 14 years of Franco and the people seem happy, orderly in ceremonies held around the peninsula on this anniversary of El Caudillo's rise to chief of state.

The country has changed greatly since Capt. Gen. Francisco Franco came to power, having settled its civil war to survive a difficult reconstruction period and World War II. Outward signs are that the generalissimo will continue to rule and that Spain is satisfied.

A mere walk on the street suggests this: in Madrid there is an extraordinary amount of building activity and natives claim the work accomplished is a marvel. People here do not complain in public nor do they talk politics; 26-million silent Spaniards.

The crowds are orderly, tranquil. A rumpus is rare and will only amuse people. One evening an elderly gentleman stopped Madrid's Broadway throng by shouting "Long Live the King," but he was considered crazy rather than monarchist.

Francisco is certainly a busy leader. The censored peninsula press gives him much attention and he is always "in the news," frequently "noble" and never just "Francisco." Yet only 600,000 just is allotted for his palace and 1,000 employees there, so he may not be too expansive.

Outdoors feel that beneath Madrid's calm something else exists and they may be right. What one sees and hears in Spain is not all the truth. Critics of the administration insist nobody is satisfied here.

One young man said this: "Sixty or 70 percent of Spain wants a change. Times are bad, prices high, wages low and too much oppression. I myself have suffered and my family lost everything when Franco came to power."

He sells coffee, beer and drinks in a central university bar-canteen and earns 50 cents in eight hours. He says things would have been better if his father had not lost the family grocery to the "machine." His father died a few years back and his mother earns her living in the subway.

What he said about prices is substantiated by government figures. Living costs, taking 1936 as the norm, rose from 153.6 in 1939 to 447.5 last year. Wages only doubled in the same period.

were connected with World War II, which is not considered to have started formally until 1939.

De Courcy plays with an idea which has more meat to it when he suggests that it is time for the anti-Communist nations to launch a political offensive. He suggests leadership and material aid for the masses behind the iron curtain which hate the Communists and which contain the elements of revolt. He likes the chances of overthrow of the Communist hierarchy from within by intensive political warfare.

He apparently would conduct the same sort of campaign behind the iron curtain that the Communist fifth columnists conduct on this side. One difficulty, of course, is that Democratic nations permit Communist activity rather than establish precedents for limitation of their own individual liberties, something with which the dictatorship of the proletariat is not the least concerned.

Resort to War
If that fails, the English writer asks, should not war be carried to Russia "while we have the power." He says it wouldn't be a preventive war, because war already is here.

This is the argument of many Americans, too, some of whom think the west's great mistake was its failure to march when Czechoslovakia was raped nearly three years ago.
For the moment it is sufficient to reply, aside from any moral grounds, that we don't have the strength, as witness our troubles in Korea, and that we didn't have it in March, 1948. Also, that resort to war would mean the collapse of every effort which the west has made for five years to avoid it. Things are bad and times are irritating — but not as bad as a big shooting war.

However, money in Spain does not tell everything for the government does much for the people. It has housing programs, marriage loans, government in business, and what we call security programs.

An older man, who lives on "property," said, "The administration has good intentions. I think Franco a great man but 'bureaucracy' ruins all his good intentions." The speaker mentions electricity rationing in Madrid's present dry spell. "Good government would avoid the rationing," he said, ".... Franco got around it."

This man lives near National palace. His taxi driver-son is not satisfied either. "Imagine," the father said, "my boy earns $5 in six days of work. Gas sells for 50 cents a gallon and he gets only 15 weekly. Contraband gas is double price but he buys it to live."

Many people talk this way and you wonder how Franco stays in power. Perhaps it is because he is supported by 700,000 soldiers, many types of police and a highly organized apparatus that includes even your keyman.

"Don't ask political questions," the young barman said. His words ring in your ears: "And don't give your address to anybody but a friend."

Yet figures indicate only 36,000 remained in Spanish prisons last year. Why be afraid? Perhaps the young man was thinking of the early 1940's when jails bulged with 200,000 or more.

Since the picture is so gloom, ask an American. "Spain is hungry like all Europe," this one said. "Naturally the administration is blamed. The drought forces electricity rationing. I can't see to work but think of the factories — they can't produce."

This man pays as much for an apartment monthly as a $30 white collar worker earns in two; laborers and artisans earn $15 a month here. The American wants more business with Spain but doubts if it will come.

The peninsula has always been a paradox. One wonders whether to believe what people say or do. Spaniards are individualistic and Ortega y Gasset, the noted philosopher, claims they don't like any kind of administration.

Council of Europe to Debate Question of Unified Army

LONDON (UP) — "In a straight fight between tanks and committees, tanks are apt to win."

That typical bit of British understatement goes a long way toward putting neatly one of the major rows now going on inside the Council of Europe which was created to produce European unity.

Now some of the leaders of the European unity movement are the greatest critics of the Strasbourg organization because, they claim, it has become just a talk fest, rather than an organization stimulating action.

When the council of Europe was created, the foreign ministers of the western union specifically wrote into its charter that the problems of defense could not be considered within the scope of the consultative assembly.

Europeans will hear a lot about that at the assembly meeting which convenes in Strasbourg today to complete its 1950 session because most of the members of the assembly think it should discuss the defense problem and make recommendations to their governments.

More than Discuss
No one proposes that the assembly should do more than discuss or recommend. Although the French plan for creation of a European army might fit into the council if the latter was given more supra-national authority.

The international row over defense came to a climax at the first part of the 1950 assembly session in Strasbourg in August, Winston Churchill, Conservative party member of the British delegation, wound up his major speech with a resolution calling for "immediate creation of a unified European army."

Despite bitter protests by British Labor government delegates that it was out of order, the resolution obtained a thumping favorable vote — 89 for, only five against, and 27 abstentions. And at that time it had been amended by the French to include the proposal for a European minister of defense.

Recently, the French national assembly endorsed that resolution — 353 to 184 — with only the Communists and a handful of conservatives opposing it. The German Bundestag approved it Thursday.

U.S. Takes Lead
Events have moved fast since that August day when the European assembly endorsed the Churchill plan. The United States has since taken the lead in opposing a separate continental European army as such but advocating a North Atlantic pact army which would even include German divisions. France, still sticks by its insistence upon a separate European army.

The council of Europe's procedure calls for assembly resolutions to go before the committee of ministers for action. When the ministers met earlier this month in Rome they politely rejected the assembly's resolution and again pointed out that "decisions on matter of national defense do not fall within the scope of the council of Europe."

The ministers' resolution ended with the "hope" that: "The problems of defense of free Europe may be satisfactorily dealt with in the near future by decisions of the governments and the competent international organizations."

But that is hardly likely to deter the assembly members from raising the issue in one form or another at Strasbourg.
All of this adds up to this in general:
1. All of the European countries are aware of their present danger and are willing to pay lip service to the fact that they cannot defend themselves without abandoning some part of their national sovereignty.
2. Few if any of the European countries are prepared to give up national sovereignty to an extent that is likely to produce quick results.
3. France says it is willing to start rearmament of Germany but only within the framework of a united and at least semi-federated Europe. But Britain wants no part of a federated Europe.

Ohio Prognosticator Specializes in Home State Elections

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democrats and organized labor took quite a trouncing in Ohio, just as a Democrat and a union man predicted they would.

Now that the election results have been counted, or nearly so, it's time to hear the I-told-you-so's of the political prognosticators.
So let's make room for John L. Nichols, a traffic expert for the interstate commerce commission.

He's a sort of poor man's Dr. George Gallup, in that he specializes on politics in Ohio, his old home state. He says he's been guessing on Ohio elections for 20 years now with pretty good results.

"Only missed on one major office in that time," he says.
But this year, Nichols told a reporter, he hit it almost smack on the nose.

His guesses: Gov. Frank Lausche (D) to be reelected by 150,000 votes (off less than 5,000). Sen. Robert A. Taft (R) to be reelected by 380,000 (off only 70,000).

On the other hand, Nichols missed on his congressman-at-large selection. Nichols thinks he may have the proper qualifications for an opinion sampler.

He's an oldtime union man who worked for 35 years with the New York Central as an auditor, and belonged to a railroad brotherhood. He now belongs to the AFL federal workers union.
But he thinks labor flubbed it horribly in Ohio. He says:

"The combination of farm population, plus the business and professional groups, along with non-union men and women workers, collectively outnumber the dues-paying-union voters about 3 to 1."

He says he's helped in several Democratic campaigns, but once switched over to work hard for a Republican.

This year he surveyed the situation because some congressmen wanted the verdict. He said five Democrats were in danger. They were all right. All lost.

Guards Formula
Nichols guards his formula as a football coach guards his favorite touchdown play. But he is willing to say that the main idea is to be careful to get all sizes and shapes of opinions, ages, vocations and religions in sampling voters.

Even so, it's easy for a pollster to go wrong, as witness: He was pulse-taking in Wayne county, Ohio, when a nice lady kindly offered to round up voters from various vocations and ages until Nichols became suspicious and asked if she had any personal interest in the election.

"Oh, my yes," she said. "I'm one of Taft's minute women."
A little of that, either pro or con, can make any poll-taker a crowd-eater.

Acheson Offers To Settle War With Red China

By J.M. ROBERTS JR.
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

Secretary of State Dean Acheson has informed Communist China that if she wants a reasonable settlement of Korean border problems she can have it.

The secretary was obviously speaking over the heads of his small Washington audience to the Chinese Communists when he said the U.S. would welcome discussions with them on their "legitimate" interests on both sides of the border, the reference being taken to mean the vast power developments.

The Chinese may be assured of the secretary's sincerity, too, if they really know anything of world affairs beyond what Russia tells them.

The United States obviously needs to disentangle itself from Korea and China as rapidly as possible. It needs to concentrate its strength in far more vital areas — Europe, and the middle east where Russia may seek the oil she would need for a major war.

Settlement Vital
That makes settlement of the Korean war vital, if it can be done on any reasonable terms. Indications now are that if China wants assurances against her professed fear of aggression, if she wants an international border guard, or perhaps even a buffer zone, she can have them, under the color of international action by the United Nations.

The United States, however, is not ducking its obligation in Korea, even if she might stop before clearing the last few miles of Korean territory.

Both Acheson and his assistant, Dean Rusk, made it fairly clear that if China continues to pour troops into North Korea the United States will continue to fight them. If the Chinese are actually intending to try to throw the UN forces out and reconquer Korea for international communism then they are asking for a general war.

First Necessity
The first necessity for the UN defenders would then be the bombing of the Chinese bases and supply lines across the Yalu river in Manchuria. That would be a big jump nearer open war.

Then the question would be whether Russia would come in under her mutual assistance treaty with Peiping, starting World War III, or whether the U.S. would be left to fight a war of attrition in an area which would not be decisive in the broad world conflict. The United States is well aware that it can't win the world war by fighting China.

But there will be no alternative, for if the Chinese keep coming the principles will be the same as in the original North Korean aggression. And if the Chinese come by the million, as they can, then the U.S. would be forced eventually to turn its attention to the real seat of the trouble, Moscow.

The only justification for U.S. withdrawal from Korea would be a military one, in which she actually found herself at war with Russia in one of the more vital areas such as Germany or Iran. Then it would boil down to the question of who to whip first, just as it did in World War II.

There may be some arguments as to whether Acheson and Rusk might have done better to be just as specific about the war alternative as they were about the U.S. willingness to negotiate. The U.S. and the UN badly need to let Russia and China know where the deadline is, so that if it is crossed the Communist intention for war will be immediately apparent.

Russia Strengthens East German Police

BERLIN (AP) — The Russians have strengthened their East German military police force by adding an airforce unit to it, Allied sources said Friday.

About 1,000 men have been recruited in the airforce and sent to Gotha, 75 miles southwest of Leipzig, where the Germans maintained an airforce school before VE-day, reliable informants said.

These men are undergoing indoctrination as the first stage, but glider training and ground force training will start soon, Allied sources said.

The British-licensed Berlin newspaper Telegraph reported that the Russians plan to have 5,000 men in the "police" airforce unit by January.

Non-Residential Building Shows Increase

DES MOINES (AP) — Non-residential building was the only type of construction to show an increase in September over August and that was slight, the Iowa bureau of labor reported Friday.

Urban building declined for the fourth consecutive month and new residential building was 26.4 percent less than in August. New non-residential building showed only a 1.5 percent increase for September over the previous month.

During September, the bureau said, $2,551,000 less was spent on urban construction than during August. The construction in September also was less than that for September, 1949. The bureau's report said this was the first time construction in any 1950 month was less than in the corresponding 1949 month.

In September, 1949, urban building valued at $19,176,000 was authorized, compared with $12,931,000 authorized during September, 1950. The 1949 figure included $8,448,000 for construction of institutional building, the report added. The bureau said the largest decline in the new residential building group was in one-family dwelling units, which declined by 381 units and $2,499,000. Even with this decline, the number of dwelling units authorized since Jan. 1, is 89.9 percent above the same 1949 period.

Children Find Fun Making Cardboard Doll Houses

Entertainment for your child on rainy days can be provided by making a doll house from a cardboard carton beget from your grocer.

A large variety of odds and ends, old wall paper, scraps of hintz and lace, gift wrappings, ribbons and bits of decals, are needed to give inventive genius a full swing.

One side of a large, shallow box, the skeleton of the doll house, is cut away with a razor blade or a very sharp paring knife. The flooring and wall dividers, are made from the cut-off front. Small metal angle supports from the tool box make sturdy supports for this flooring. Then the supports can be taped to the cardboard walls.

For trimmings, use strips of jelly jar labels that make French windows which look real enough to open; lace paper dollies make elegant curtains. Linoleum may be made by color-penciling a pattern on embossed gift wrapping.

Gift papers in small flower patterns may be folded accordion-wise to resemble drapes, and then hung in place by tape.

Small toy furniture may be used or pictured furniture from an old home furnishings magazine.

NEXT TIME IT RAINS, try making a doll house from a cardboard carton. Wall paper, scraps of hintz and lace, gift wrappings, ribbons and lots of imagination and ingenuity are all it takes.

Beads, Jewels Fashionable — Bathing Suits Acquire 'Oriental Look'

NEW YORK — Southern beach resorts will see the most elaborately-dressed lady sun bathers in history this winter.

Last sunning season, high fashion swimmers wore jewelry with their suits. This year it's tacked right on to the suit.

Harold Schnurer, husband and business partner of bathing suit designer Carolyn Schnurer, credits the renewed interest in the Far East for the jeweled suits.

"Fashion reflects the things, and anything that's beaded or jeweled looks oriental," he said.

Beads Attached

He added that the jet, coral and turquoise beads used on suits are attached, so they can be worn in the water without damage.

One two-piece pique bathing suit is decorated with black embroidery and coral beads around the cuff of the bra top. Another in black features all-over gold embroidery.

Prof. Porter to Attend Buffalo, N.Y., Convention

Prof. Kirk H. Porter, head of the political science department, left for Buffalo, N.Y., Friday to attend the annual National Municipal league convention Nov. 20, 21 and 22.

Panel discussion topics will be "University Services and the Improvement of State and Local Government" and "Strategy for State Reorganization and Constitutional Revision."

Public officials and university professors will attend the conference. Porter is the author of a book on state administration and has written articles about the Iowa governmental reorganization commission for the Iowa Law Review.

Bathing Suits Acquire 'Oriental Look'

The suits are cut along approximately the same lines as before, with one piece suits holding a slight edge over separate bra and shorts.

"There is a tendency away from extreme skimpiness," Schnurer said, "except for the French girls. They are built with shorter legs and flatter busts, so they like those tiny bra tops and very high cut shorts."

Lace Trimmed

One Fifth avenue department store has a gold nylon lastex suit with delicate black lace appliqued from the strapless top to the hip - hugging trunks. Asked why it was kept under glass, away from the rest of the suits, a sales girl commented, "It costs $75."

For moonlight swimming, there's a black rayon velvet suit with a gold metallic stripe designed by Francis Sider, which is part of her "Moonlight" group of suits. The velvet is water resistant, though it looks fragile. As an oriental touch, there is a matching velvet beach coat with a Mandarin collar and huge gold hooks and eyes.

Pre-Medics Get Preview of School Problems

Approximately 90 pre-medical students and their advisors, representing 18 Iowa colleges, attended the second annual pre-medical conference sponsored by the SUI college of medicine Friday.

Delegates to the Lake Placid convention suggested the need for more courses in psychology, sociology, literature and philosophy in addition to the required basic science courses, Morris said.

He also said that race, religion, sex or minor physical handicaps are not considered deciding factors for admission to medical school if the applicant is otherwise qualified.

Dr. Wilbur R. Miller, professor and head of the Psychopathic hospital, explained procedures used in selecting medical students at SUI.

Pre-medical students and their advisors were escorted on a tour of the SUI medical laboratories and University hospitals.

Public 'Forces' Flanagan's Band Tour

Ralph Flanagan's band, which will play for the all-university Christmas dance at the Iowa Union Dec. 1, is the first American dance band "forced" by public demand to go on tour. Flanagan's career as a band leader started when the Radio Corporation of America decided to revive its pre-war Bluebird records.

DON MCEWEN WINS AGAIN
CHICAGO (P)—Michigan's Don McEwen, a junior with plenty of endurance, Friday won his second straight Big Ten cross-country title, proving his dethroning last year of Wisconsin's famed Don Gehrman was no fluke. Wisconsin took the team crown for the third straight year.

St. Ambrose Rolls Over Loras, 27-6

DUBUQUE — St. Ambrose relied on an alert pass defense Friday to defeat Loras college, 27-6, for the Iowa conference title before 4,500 fans.
St. Ambrose, champion of the southern division, turned two stray Loras aerials into touchdowns as the Bees scored in every period. The northern division champs displayed the more powerful running game but could not move when it counted.
St. Ambrose struck first on a 46-yard pass from Tom Green to End Dick Les midway in the first period. Early in the second quarter Bee Center Bruno Mikut intercepted Jack Rohan's pass and ran 30 yards to score. Late in the same period Loras drove 61 yards for its only touchdown with Bob Bergmeier going over. The score was 13-6 at halftime.
In the third quarter Jack Melligan intercepted another Loras aerial and dashed 39 yards to score. The final Bee touchdown came in the fourth period on a 32-yard pass play from Lee Maper to Joe Dhont.

St. Patrick's Loses to Burlington Catholic

Burlington Catholic High took the lead in the second quarter here Friday night and went onto defeat St. Patrick's High of Iowa City, 51-41.
Trailing 11-10 at the close of the first period, Burlington moved quickly to a 23-17 halftime margin. They led by 35-23 at the three quarter mark.
Jim Rowan tossed in 13 points to pace the winners while Paul Schupick was second with 12. Dean Kelsey, of St. Pat's led all scorers with 16 points and Bob Vedpo tallied 11.

Buckeye-Illini Game Tops Gridiron Slate

NEW YORK (AP) — The city of Champaign, Ill., becomes the nation's football capital today with top-ranking Ohio State and eighth-rated Illinois bringing a batch of major issues into head-on collision.

Ohio State, beaten only by Southern Methodist in its first game of the season, will be seeking to apply a firmer grip on the Big Ten championship and the No. 1 national position won last week in the Associated Press poll.

For Illinois, defeated only by Wisconsin, it's a chance to scramble the conference race and possibly pluck off the lucrative Rose Bowl bid. Ohio State is a seven-point favorite.

This battle of midwestern titans before an anticipated crowd of 71,000 steals the spotlight from the activities of the other members of the first ten and diminishing ranks of the unbeaten and untied.

Of these, Army's Black Knights attract the greatest interest with one of their rare excursions to the Pacific coast. The West Pointers, unbeaten in 27 games, will play twice-beaten and once-tied Stanford at Palo Alto, Calif., on a field heavily soaked by continuing rains.

This is a "prestige" game on the light Army schedule, despite Stanford's mediocre record. The Cadets must score a convincing victory if they hope to regain the No. 1 spot they have held off and on during the turbulent campaign.

They are ranked third at the moment, behind Oklahoma, having plummeted from the top after a 51-0 "under wraps" conquest of little New Mexico.

Earl Blaik's hard-hitting athletes lure 20-point favorites over the Indians. The other unblemished powers — Oklahoma, Kentucky, California and Princeton — also are two to three touchdown choices.

Oklahoma will attempt to make Missouri No. 29 in its string of victories, already a modern day record.

California's fourth-ranked Bears will tackle San Francisco before closing out the season Nov. 25 with Stanford, a game that is expected to plant Pappy Waldorf's boys in the Rose Bowl for the third straight year.

Kentucky, eyeing a major bowl assignment, takes it easy with North Dakota while looking ahead to the finale with rugged Tennessee. Princeton, pride of the east, will try to put another nail in 11 Ivy league championship against improved Yale at New Haven, Conn.

Texas, fifth-ranked, is rated two touchdowns over Texas Christian at Fort Worth, Tennessee, No. 9, plays Mississippi at Knoxville, Michigan State, No. 10, invades Pittsburgh.

Outside the ranking elite, the game at Philadelphia between Pennsylvania and Wisconsin stands out prominently on the day's football map.

Indiana to Keep Head Grid Coach

BLOOMINGTON — Despite a mediocre record, Indiana university's board of trustees voted late Friday to extend the football contract of Head Coach Clyde Smith another three years.

The university's governing board acted on the recommendation of the athletic committee, headed by Prof. W. R. Breneman, faculty representative in the Big Ten.

The stocky, soft-spoken Pennsylvanian came to Indiana in April, 1948, when football at the Hoosier institution reached an ebb. His teams won two games in his first season, only one last year and lost four and tied one so far this season with Marquette and Purdue still to be played.

President Herman B. Wells voiced his approval of the new contract.

Notre Dame-Iowa Renew Rivalry

Final Week of Football Forecast

By HOBERT DUNCAN
Daily Iowan Sports Editor

We take our last long look into the crystal ball for the year today. Did I hear someone say "It's about time?"

The way we've been taking a beating this fall, most of the experts consider it about time to quit.

We couldn't have completed the season without the assistance of Mr. Abe Lincoln and his penny. That's the coin we've been flipping all year with varying degrees of success.

Enough of this stuff. Let's get on with the predictions.

Iowa over Notre Dame—In this last game of the home season, the Hawks will have a great incentive to win—not only to please the capacity crowd but also because they're playing a team with the greatest tradition in football.

Iowa has the personnel to beat Notre Dame this year. If the Hawks can finally get together in a unified effort, they are capable of handing the Irish their fourth loss of the year.

Notre Dame won't be an easy opponent, but the Hawks aren't accustomed to easy opponents. In view of Iowa's potential ability and the incentive involved in today's game, our vote goes to the Hawkeyes.

Ohio State over Illinois—The game of the day. The Buckeyes will be after undisputed ownership of the Big Ten title while Illinois desperately wants a Rose Bowl bid and a share of the championship.

This game is a natural from every angle. Illinois has the best defense in the conference and Ohio State has the best offense. With so much at stake, the game could go either way but should go to the Buckeyes.

Michigan over Northwestern—Michigan still has a chance for a title and a trip to Pasadena. The Wolverines have been inconsistent this year but should be good enough this afternoon to beat the Wildcats.

Minnesota over Purdue—The upset of the week. The down-trodden Gophers should have plenty of will to win today. Coach Bernie Bierman announced his resignation earlier this week and the players are going to try to win this one "For Bernie."

Penn over Wisconsin—The Badgers will be exhausted from their struggle with Ohio State last week and won't be prepared mentally or physically for a good Pennsylvania team.

A Bit of the Shamrock Evident Here

THOSE FIGHTING FIGHTING IRISH do have a few who really wear the shamrock. And the three sets of brothers above will be around today to see if that can apply a little Irish luck and muscle to the task as Notre Dame meets Iowa here. Above, left to right, Bill and Dave Flynn, Charlie and Tom Murphy, and Eddie and Jack Whelan represent Erin on the squad. The man with the Irish garb is Bill Flynn, who is the only three letterwinner on the Notre Dame team. He starts at left tackle.

Courts Halt Mass Pickets

WATERLOO (AP)—A temporary injunction was granted Friday to prohibit the striking United Auto Workers union from mass picketing or interfering with employees who attempt to return to work at the big John Deere Tractor plant here.

A similar injunction had been granted a few hours earlier in Des Moines to the John Deere Des Moines works.

District Judge W. T. Evans here set 10 a.m. Monday as the time for a hearing on a motion by the union to dissolve the injunction.

In Des Moines union attorneys did not resist the company application.

The temporary injunction granted by Judge Evans and Judge O. S. Franklin in Des Moines allow four union pickets near each gate.

At Moline, Ill., no progress was reported between company and union representatives trying to settle the contract dispute which has idled 13,000 Deere workers in Iowa and Illinois since Sept. 1.

New Trial Denied In Damage Suit

A motion for a new trial by the Iowa Water service company in a suit against Libbie Bohmke, 1231 First avenue, was denied Friday by District Judge James P. Garney.

The company had originally asked for damages of $195 to their truck and $145 to a fire hydrant as the results of an accident last April. Mrs. Bohmke countered with a demand for $2,913.80.

However, a petit jury awarded her only $813.80 Oct. 27. The company appealed on the grounds the jury misinterpreted the facts.

Army Will Draft 11 From Here in December

Johnson county's fourth draft call will take 11 more men Dec. 14, the local selective service board announced Thursday.

Already 33 men have been sent from the county since the Korean war began. One more will leave on Nov. 29 to report to Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo.

Including the 20 men sent for physicals today, the board has sent 97 men for examination.

SUI Quonset Guttled by Early Morning Fire

GUTTED BY A FRIDAY MORNING FIRE was this temporary SUI housing quonset used by the Quadrangle to store fixtures. A 4:48 a.m. fire destroyed furniture and mattresses inside the building and burned out the aluminum roof before firemen could bring the blaze under control. Metal lockers toward the rear of the building escaped destruction. (Story on page 1).

SUI Enrolls in Proportion to Populations

SUI enrolls students in almost perfect proportion to the population of Iowa counties, a study of enrollment figures by Registrar Ted McCarrel revealed Friday.

This information was obtained by ranking the counties according to population and comparing them with the number of SUI students from each county.

McCarrel's figures show a .86 correlation between county population and student enrollment by county. This figure tops the 1949-50 enrollment - population correlation by .01. If the two were to match perfectly, the correlation would be 1.0.

An even, higher correlation would have resulted if the distance factor had been calculated, McCarrel said, because counties nearest to the university are represented somewhat out of proportion to their population.

Forty-six states and forty-two countries are represented on the SUI campus.

This is unusual, McCarrel said, since the Iowa state board of edu-

Air Express Rates Raised Friday

Air express rates on short-haul, low-weight items have been raised effective immediately, the Railway Express agency announced Friday.

The minimum charge of $1.50 remains, but now only one pound can be sent for that price, whereas under the old scale up to 24 pounds could be shipped as far as Chicago.

In general, charges for articles from two to 10 pounds have been increased two to five cents a pound for hauls under 1,000 miles. From 10 to 20 pounds, prices have been increased on shipments destined for points up to 549 miles away.

Air express shipments from Iowa City should reach the Railway Express office, by 1:30 p.m., the agency said.

Worthless? Confederate Bills Buy T-V

WASHINGTON, D.C.—For what may be the first time since the Civil war, it now is possible to buy merchandise with Confederate money.

A local radio station, WRC, had the idea it would make a nice stunt to auction off a $525 television set.

But the buyer would be the person who could pay off with the most Confederate bills. The denomination of the bills didn't count. One hundred $1 bills were rated 100 times as valuable as one $100 bill.

The results have been surprising. So far, with the auction winding up today, more than 21,000 bills have been bid.

This may be due to the fact that Washington is, to a large extent, still a southern city. And Virginia is just across the Potomac.

At any rate, here are a few of the letters that have turned up:

A fellow in Benedict, Md., said he found his bills in a neat bundle in the attic. He said the bills were wrapped in a newspaper dated April, 1865, and that the paper had the details both on the assassination of Lincoln and the surrender of Lee.

An oldtimer at the Soldiers' home said he has 505 bills, whose face value is $50,000. "They belonged to Grandpa," he wrote.

Carroll Simms, whose great grandfather was William Gilmore Simms, the South Carolina writer, said he had some bills and might have had more if you-know-who hadn't burned up great grandfather's house and $10,000 in money.

Vandenberg Backs Morse for Committee On Foreign Relations

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Wayne Morse (R-Ore.) pressed his fight for a seat on the senate foreign relations committee by producing Friday a letter from Sen. Arthur Vandenberg (R-Mich.).

In it Vandenberg, top-ranking Republican on the committee, told Morse "the path is now clear for you to cash your IOU on a seat."

Vandenberg added that he would be happy over such an outcome.

A fight appeared to be on between Morse and forces backing Sen. William Knowland (R-Calif.) for the coveted committee vacancy in the new congress. The outcome may have an important bearing on the course of foreign policy.

Morse has the advantage of seniority, a point cherished by the senate.

The attitude of Vandenberg has been a big question mark. He expected to resume in January his role of bi-partisan leadership which had forced him to abandon several months ago.

The committee seat at issue will be filled by the senate Republican committee on committees. The vacancy results from increased Republican power in the new congress. Whereas the present ratio is eight Democrats and five Republicans, the new committee will consist of seven Democrats and six Republicans.

Says Power Companies Try to Control Resources

BISMARCK, N.D.—Rural Electrification Administrator C. R. Wickard charged Friday that "there is a determined effort on the part of commercial power companies in this country to control the power which is developed from natural resources."

Wickard made his charge during a talk before the state convention of the North Dakota Farmers' union meeting. Secretary of Agriculture Charles Brannan is due to address the convention today. The farmers' union is the only one of the three major farm groups supporting the Brannan farm plan.

Gallup to Begin New Study Of Polio Victims' Histories

The American Institute of Public Opinion will soon embark on a comprehensive study of polio, Dr. George H. Gallup, institute director, said here Friday.

Gallup was in Iowa City to confer with Prof. Norman C. Meier of the psychology department. Meier is one of his advisers and a former professor of Gallup's.

Gallup was returning to his headquarters in Princeton, N.J., after a visit to Los Angeles, where he conferred with members of his staff in that vicinity.

"We believe that in time we'll be able to shed some light on polio carriers and those persons most susceptible to the disease," Gallup said.

To Collect Case Histories

He said all the theories ever advanced on carriers of polio and the case histories of all polio victims this season will be collected.

Three or four hundred facts about each polio victim will be compared with the facts of a control group (persons who don't have polio).

Some of the facts to be compared are medical histories, living conditions, eating habits and psychological histories, Gallup said.

Commenting on the institute's 1948 election predictions, Gallup blamed the last minute shift in opinion for the unexpected reversals.

His poll predicted a Republican congress and president would be elected.

New Method Developed

"We think we've developed a method to measure last minute shifts in opinion," Gallup said. Some 100 areas will be pinpointed and half of them will be covered during the last two or three days before the election.

The pulse of the other half will be taken earlier.

The time required to compile the results of a nationwide survey ranged from 24 hours to one or two years. The latter will be the case in regard to the polio survey.

Gallup said the average time required to compile the results of a nationwide survey was 10 days. "One of the most interesting surveys we've ever conducted was on finding out who were the happiest people," Gallup said.

Religious Persons Happier

The survey showed that religious persons are happier than those who aren't, people in rural areas are happier than city folk, people residing on mountain sides are happier than people of the plains, Gallup said.

"Education and income of persons don't have a great deal of effect on the happiness of the persons," he added.

The survey revealed city factory workers are the least happy people Gallup said he selects a topic for a survey on the basis of whether it is "intriguing" or not.

149 More War Bonus Claims Rejected by State

DES MOINES (AP) — Executive Secretary Ed Kallemyrn of the World War II bonus board announced Friday that an additional 149 bonus claims had been rejected.

The board also was considering disposition of questionable claims involving minors and stepchildren on an individual basis, Kallemyrn said.

Dear Mr. Santa Claus...

HER NAME MAY OR MAY NOT BE ALICE but she was in wonderland Friday night. Passersby stopped after a casual glance into Firestone's window on Dubuque street to see if it was a real little girl playing with dolls and trucks in the Christmas toy display window. Storekeepers next door said the girl was not locked in, that her father was in the rear of the store finishing some work.

Consider Plan for 3.2-Million Army by 1952

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Pentagon is considering a plan to build a trained armed force of 3.2-million men and then reduce the number on continuous active duty to 2.4-million.

To expand the nation's defenses swiftly in an emergency, there would be sufficient reserve and national guard units filled with fully trained men.

In a speech to the Associated Press Managing Editors association, at Atlanta, Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, proposed that the reserve and national guard system be modified to strike "a sound balance" between military and civilian demands for manpower.

Until reserve and guard units can be brought to an improved state of readiness, Bradley said, America's manpower resources may have to be taxed severely to create the active armed forces that the nation needs.

Informed persons here said that the Pentagon is studying a proposal to build up the active strength of the armed services to 3.2-million men within the next year and a half, provided congress votes the huge sums required to reach this goal.

Under the plan now being studied, the navy would continue expanding until the middle of next year, after which it would be maintained at about the same size, unless a general war should develop.

The airforce and the army would continue to expand for some time.

An element of the proposal is a request that congress extend from 21 months at least to two years the period of service for draftees.

The ministers association of Tipton, Iowa, will conduct WSUI morning chapel hour programs during Thanksgiving week. Each clergyman will preside one day. The chapel broadcast is at 8 a.m. each weekday.

There will be no broadcast on Thanksgiving day.

M. Willard Lampe, director of the SUI school of religion, will give the religious news of the week, covering all faiths at 12:45 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 22.

GETS 30 DAYS
DES MOINES (AP) — August J. Tregner, 74-year-old junk dealer, was ordered to jail for 30 days Friday after he told a municipal court judge he "was going to continue driving his truck with or without an operator's license."

STRIKERS ASK TRANSFER OF ACTION TO U.S. COURT
DUBUQUE (AP) — Striking West ern Electric company workers filed a petition Friday asking that proceedings against telephone company picketing be transferred from Dubuque county district court to the U.S. district court.

The petition was filed with Lee McNeely, clerk of the U.S. district court here. It says the action brought by Northwestern Bell Telephone company, is an action in which U.S. district courts have jurisdiction.

BRANNAN SOFT-PEDALS FARM SUPPORT BILL, BUT STILL BACKS IT
MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Any speculation that Secretary of Agriculture Charles Brannan might suddenly abandon his controversial farm plan due to the recent election results got a dash of cold water Friday.

Brannan, speaking at the 84th convention of the National Grange, said he still thinks the Brannan plan is a good one for handling price support problems.

Brannan didn't make a big issue of his price support plan in his talk, but he didn't abandon it either. Despite reports that he might drop his plan in his talk here, Grange leaders said his talk followed the line they thought it would take. They said they felt he "soft-pedaled the plan" but certainly didn't drop it.

Brannan in his talk held out an olive branch to the Grange and other farm organizations which have opposed it. While he said he still thinks it is a good thing, he added that he hopes the next big farm proposal he sends to congress will be approved by farm organizations.

One of the criticisms of the plan has been its development without guidance from farm organizations.

Korea Hits Plan For Buffer Zone
WASHINGTON (AP) — Korean Foreign Minister Ben C. Limb Friday opposed proposals for temporary establishment of a buffer zone along the Manchuria-Korea border to head-off a major war with China.

He said Korea wants all its original territory and creation of a demilitarized area along the border might pave the way for war rather than avoid it.

There is sentiment among some American officials for creation of a neutral area along both sides of the Yalu-Tumen river, which forms the historic boundary of Korea. The region would be under United Nations administration and all armed forces would be withdrawn.

Some officials believe it might be a temporary solution to the problem of peace — if China accepted it — and it would give time to work on a permanent peace plan.

The whole idea hinges on whether China will make known its aims in Korea.

Pittsburgh Papers Settle 7-Week Strike

PITTSBURGH (AP)—News-hungry Pittsburghers heaved a sigh of relief Friday as this steel and coal metropolis' daily newspapers went back into operation after a seven-week strike.

The long shutdown of the dailies officially ended at 5:25 a.m. (Iowa time) with an agreement after all-night negotiations with non-strikers demanding back pay for the time they were idle. The issue was submitted to binding arbitration.

The strike involved 200 mailing room workers who walked out Oct. 1, demanding a 13 1-2 cent an hour pay boost. They got 10 cents in a settlement Tuesday night with another three and a half cents to come in nine months. The mailers previously got $78.13 for a 37 1-2 hour week.

Members of the AFL teamsters union signed at the same time as the mailers for the same increase. Their contract expired three days after the strike started.

Poggenpohl Wins Suit Against Son

Elmer W. Poggenpohl, 712 Iowa avenue, has won a $914.75 judgment against his son, Robert, on charges he lent him and his former wife, Thelma Poggenpohl, money to furnish their home.

The senior Poggenpohl also sued Mrs. Poggenpohl, but Judge Gaffney ruled she was not liable unless she signed for the debts.

The plaintiff claimed from 1945 to 1948 he lent the defendants money and bought household items for their home, which was at 429 Iowa avenue.

Mother, 4 Children Die In Farm House Fire

RAUCH, MINN. (AP) — A mother and her four children burned to death Friday in a fire which destroyed their farm home, 30 miles from the nearest fire department.

Dead were Mrs. Rose Smith, 38, and the children, Thomas, 11, Marilyn, 10, Betty, about 5, and Jack, about 2. The father, Thomas Smith, was away at the time.

Authorities said the blaze was discovered when it caused a short circuit and set telephones ringing in the homes of neighbors. The neighbors ran to the farmhouse, but were too late to save the Smiths.

Iowa CROP Extended To Complete Farm Drive

DES MOINES (AP) — The 1950 Iowa CROP has been extended to give volunteer helpers time to complete their farm-to-farm drive to collect food, commodities and cash for the needy overseas.

Harry E. Terrell, state director of CROP, said the late campaigning season was a major reason for continuing the drive into a second week.

The contributions will be distributed overseas by church relief agencies served by three sponsoring agencies — Catholic Rural Life, Church World Service and Lutheran World Relief.

U.S. May Allocate Copper

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government told the copper industry Friday to expect a cut in civilian use of its product soon, reportedly by 25 to 30 percent.

National Production Administrator William H. Harrison at the of the closely-allied communications industry that shortages of their equipment may have to be met at expense of military needs in special cases.

Reviewing the proposed slash in civilian copper usage, Harrison said a companion regulation governing distribution of non-defense supplies to civilian producers now is under study. It would give particular attention to needs of new and small businesses.

Waterloo Man Held On OMVI Charge

Ned W. Hutchinson, Waterloo, was fined $12.50 by Judge Emil G. Trott in police court Friday on a charge of operating a motor vehicle with defective steering equipment.

Hutchinson was bound over to the grand jury on a charge of operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated.

Hutchinson was returned to the county jail in default of a $1,000 bond.

In other cases: William J. Costello, 424 E. Market street, was fined $12.50 on a charge of intoxication.

Les F. Spiwak, A1, Ottumwa, was fined $12.50 on a charge of mis-using dealer's license plates.

Veep Was Just Teasing All the Time

PADUCAH, KY. (AP) — The Veep was just teasing all the time. Vice-President Alben W. Barkley let on as though he hadn't had time to buy his bride of one year a present for their first wedding anniversary today, but he came through handsomely Friday with a big radio-phonograph combination.

"I'm thrilled to death, it's just what I wanted," said the lovely Mrs. Barkley.

STILL IN SYSTEM

DES MOINES (AP) — The attorney general's office rules Friday that a highway patrolman called to military service is a member of the peace officers retirement system even though he left before the system became effective.

Kinsey Considers Writing Third Sex Volume

BLOOMINGTON, IND. (AP) — Dr. Alfred C. Kinsey said Friday night he is contemplating a third volume on sexual relations, "Sex Law and the Sex Offender."

The brilliant educator, who heads the institute for sex research of Indiana university, created a furor with his first book, "Sex Behavior in the Human Male." His second volume, "Sex Behavior in the Human Female," has not yet been published.

Kinsey made known his plans for a third volume on sexual relations to the United Press when he was asked to comment on his duel with customs officials over admission of "obscene pictures" imported from foreign lands.

Customs officials refused to pass the pictures, which he said were "a source of date and used in connection with compiling data." The controversy has raged since last spring, he said.

"But because of the absence of customs officials for summer vacations, conversations have hardly been renewed this fall," he said. The pictures which have been impounded by customs, he added, will not be used in either his second or third volume on sex behavior.
