Truman Threatens Use Of A-Bomb 'If Necessary'

Yanks Battle Clear Of Communist Trap

From the Wire Services
TOKYO (FRIDAY) - The battered U.S. Second division fought its way out of an enemy encirclement on the northwest front and rejoined the U.S. Eighth army today, but in the frozen northeast efforts to smash Communist road blocks isolating the First marines failed.

A dispatch from Tenth corps headquarters reported no success in efforts to open an escape route for the trapped marines and elements of the U.S. Seventh division in the Chosin reservoir area, and they were still being supplied by air.

Ease Pressure
The Reds strangely eased the pressure of their rolling counter-offensive on the northwest front. Allied troops took advantage of the lull in the fighting to start building a new defense line north of Pyongyang, former North Korean Communist capital.

Allied officers put forth no reason for the sudden let-up in the Red drive against the northeast front just as its fury appeared about to carry it around the U.S. Eighth army's right flank and trap it against the Yellow sea. It could be caused by over-extended supply lines or the need for regrouping, among other possibilities.

The withdrawal was orderly all along the front, though the narrow, winding Korean roads were choked at times with Allied equipment. North Korean refugees, pouring south, added to the general crush on the retreat trails.

"Still Not Bad"
Brig. Gen. George Barth of Leavenworth, Kan., 25th division artillery commander, was spotted in the middle of the road near Sukchon.

"This is still not as bad as it was down south in the early days," he said with reference to the battle of the old Pusan beachhead.

"We can still maneuver in orderly fashion. This is a damned long way from being a rout."

In the northeast front the Reds were using mainly small arms and mortars in the new drive against the Allies. The Communists had a few tanks, but their artillery was negligible.

Allies Outnumbered
The Allied forces were outnumbered but held the upper hand in artillery and air strength. American warplanes pounded Chinese concentrations around the clock, mounting the heaviest aerial offensive seen in the Korean fighting since the desperate days of early September in the Pusan beachhead.

Far Eastern airforce planes swarmed like angry hornets across the Korean battle area hammering at the Chinese masses with every type of weapon they possessed.

No confirmation was available at Eighth army headquarters on battle zone reports that retreating UN units had abandoned whole convoys of trucks loaded with ammunition and other supplies. But it was acknowledged that much of the stocks piled near the Chongchon river for the abortive end-of-the-war offensive had fallen into Communist hands.

Student Council Refuses To Act on Frivol Issue

A heated debate over Frivol magazine highlighted Thursday night's meeting of the student council and brought the meeting to an early close.

The council, upholding a disputed ruling by President Jack Whitesell, voted that the management and policy of Frivol was not within the realm of the council.

As the only new business presented in the half-hour meeting, Bill Ebert, C4, Mt. Pleasant, Quadrange representative, attempted to read to the council an objection to Frivol by the Quad council.

Ebert was ruled "out of order" by Whitesell, who stated that Frivol was not within the province of the student council.

Ebert moved to appeal the decision and was seconded by Bill Eads, A4, Ida Grove, South Quad representative.

Council members voted to uphold the decision and further discussion on the issue was immediately ruled "out of order" by Whitesell.

Whitesell explained, in ruling the discussion "out of order", that the student council should not be approached on the matter until the proper channels had been gone through.

"In this case, he said, "the proper channel is the Student Board of Publications."

Ted Leighton, Frivol editor, who was present during the discussion, declined to comment on the debate.

Truman Signals Swift Buildup Of U.S. Forces

WASHINGTON - President Truman Thursday signalled a swift and mighty buildup of American military strength—more A-bombs, men and weapons—and his chief home front aide, W. Stuart Symington, said all elements of the civilian economy will be "hurt."

Mr. Truman said he will ask congress immediately for "large" funds to bolster the army, navy and air force and to speed the work of the Atomic Energy commission.

Hydrogen Bomb
That work concerns the production of atomic bombs and the development of the so-called hydrogen "hell bomb."

At his press conference, Mr. Truman said the question of all-out mobilization on the home front — presumably including wage-price controls and other curbs on inflation — is now under careful study.

Mr. Truman did not go into details beyond his broad, general call for shoring up the nation's defense at "a very rapid rate."

Draft Law Change
However, members of congress were quick to interpret the President's words as meaning changes in the draft law to swell the manpower pool, stronger controls over the nation's economy, and higher taxes.

Democrats and Republicans agreed in advance that Mr. Truman will be given just about what he asks for.

Chairman Clarence Cannon (D-Mo.) of the house appropriations committee estimated the request would be for about $15-billion and said the President would get it. Chairman Eugene Millikin (R-Colo.) of the senate Republican conference, agreed.

Before the latest Korean reverses Mr. Truman spoke of a 9-million-man armed force by next June. Thursday some sources said Mr. Truman was ready to ask for a force of 3.5-million to 4-million men as fast as training facilities are available.

Attlee to Fly To Meet Truman

By The Associated Press
British Prime Minister Attlee will fly to the United States — probably this weekend — to discuss the tense world situation with President Truman.

The meeting is expected to be held in or near Washington.

In London, Prime Minister Attlee announced to the house of commons that he had written Mr. Truman suggesting a meeting. His announcement drew cheers from the house.

The prime minister's official spokesman said Thursday that Attlee needed at least 48 hours to prepare for the trip.

If Attlee adhered to such an urgent schedule it would be possible for him to leave London Saturday night and arrive in the United States on Sunday.

U.S. Casualties Climb to 31,028

WASHINGTON (AP)—Total announced American casualties in the Korean war mounted to 31,028 Thursday. A single week's combat added 1,032 to the list.

The defense department's summary of U.S. losses included all casualties where the next of kin had been notified through Nov. 24. In some cases there is a lag of several weeks before the death, wounding or capture of a serviceman can be verified and relatives notified.

The list showed 5,307 deaths, 21,114 wounded and an overall total of 4,611 missing. In the latter category, four have been definitely ascertained to be dead, but are listed under both dead and missing.

Actually, the current missing list totals 3,954, after allowing for those four known dead, 546 who have returned to UN military control, and 107 known to be in the hands of the enemy.

The army, with far the largest number of men committed to action, sustained the heaviest casualties—26,627, of whom 4,442 were dead.

The marine corps total was 3,829, including 725 dead; the navy 328, including 50 dead; and the air force 244, including 90 dead.

Hancher Declines To Lift No-Cut Rule

President Hancher Thursday rejected the request of 3,000 SUI students that the no-cut rule be lifted Jan. 2.

In a letter to Jack Whitesell, student council president, President Hancher gave his reason: "— the suspension of the no-cut rule was considered and not adopted for the reason that it binds the faculty to appear at their classes on Jan. 2, but leaves the students free to appear as they see fit."

Second Refusal
The refusal climaxed a four-week campaign by the student council to have the rule altered, including a similar request by the council and refusal Nov. 9.

President Hancher's second refusal was in response to a petition circulated Nov. 17 to 20 by the student council and signed by over 3,000 students.

In both requests, the contention was that returning to classes Jan. 2 would cause many students to have to travel New Year's eve or New Year's day.

Individual Petition
In his letter, President Hancher said, "in cases where real hardship is involved a student may petition the dean of his college for permission for late arrival."

Explaining also that the SUI calendar could not be changed to alleviate the situation, President Hancher said: "— it has seemed to me that the calendar ought not to be changed, even though the calendar committee may have been overly generous in providing for an additional weekend in excess of the customary two weeks."

The "customary two weeks" referred to by President Hancher would mean a Christmas vacation beginning Wednesday, Dec. 20, at 12:20 p.m. and ending Wednesday, Jan. 3, at 12:20 p.m.

This year's scheduled vacation begins Saturday, Dec. 16, at 12:20 p.m. and ends Tuesday, Jan. 2, at 7:30 a.m.

The first in a series of three Iowa City parking lots will be ready for use within a few days — but the work on the other two has been bogged down by the early winter weather.

City officials Thursday said the 50-car lot on East College street adjoining the Community building lot will be ready by the first of the week after the area has been resurfaced with gravel.

The 190-car parking lot at Washington and Gilbert streets, former site of the Hawkeye Lumber company, should be ready by Jan. 15.

The third lot, at Dubuque and Washington streets, is expected to be completed Dec. 15. This lot was designed to hold approximately 40 cars.

Work on the parking lot at Washington and Gilbert streets, according to Mayor Preston Koser, has been delayed not only by the weather, but also because of the difficulty of removing huge concrete foundations which were part of the old lumber sheds.

Hopes Bomb Not Necessary To Halt Reds

From the Wire Services
WASHINGTON - President Truman warned Communist China Thursday that the United States will use atomic bombs if necessary to put down Red aggression in Korea.

But he added a prayerful hope that it won't come to that. In a grave news conference statement, he denounced the Chinese invasion of Korea as a Russian-inspired threat to "our own national security and survival."

He Warns Aggressors

and announced a rapid build-up of U.S. armed forces.

He said the United Nations will not abandon Korea, but will take whatever steps are necessary — including use of A-bombs — to win the war and check Communist aggression before it engulfs the whole world.

"If aggression is successful in Korea we can expect it to spread through Asia and Europe to this hemisphere," he said.

Bomb Not Authorized
And thus he touched off a flurry of confusion that didn't end until the White House, three hours later, issued a statement saying the use of the bomb has not been authorized so far and that the President's comments "do not represent any change in this situation."

Mr. Truman said, and repeated in answer to questions hurled by some of the 208 reporters present, that the use of the A-bomb in Korea always has been under active consideration.

Asked if the use of the bomb in Korea would depend on UN permission, the President said no. He said Gen. Douglas MacArthur will have charge of using all weapons, as he always has.

The White House statement made it clear, however, that MacArthur has not been empowered to use the A-bomb.

To Increase Forces
Calling for national unity in the face of a "serious crisis," Mr. Truman said he will soon ask congress for "large" new appropriations "to increase the size and effectiveness of our armed forces," and to expand atomic energy production facilities.

The program is expected to call for an increase in the number of active army divisions and a step-up in their strength and firepower. This inevitably would mean bigger draft calls and tightening of selective service regulations.

Dispatches from abroad reported that Western European capitals were "shocked and dismayed" by Mr. Truman's remarks about the A-bomb. There was immediate fear that if the United States resorted to atomic warfare in Asia, Russia might retaliate in Europe.

Mr. Truman made it plain that the United States will not attack Chinese bases in Manchuria with A-bombs or anything else without a go-ahead from the UN.

French Retake Key Post In Indochinese Defense
HANOI, INDO-CHINA (AP) - French troops have retaken a key post in their defense line, after a bitter week-long struggle, it was officially reported Thursday.

French units opened a counter-attack Monday in a determined effort to recapture the semi-demolished post, 20 miles from the coastal frontier fortress of Moncahy. After violent combat with Vietminh forces, the Tricolor was hoisted over the post Tuesday night.

SUI Progressives Plan "Cease-Fire" Petition

The SUI Young Progressives plan to circulate a petition today that calls for an immediate cease fire order in Korea, recognition of Communist China in the United Nations, and determined peace negotiations both within and without the UN.

L. Dale Faunce, director of student affairs, said he hadn't seen the petition but understood that a copy had been left in the Office of Student Affairs for approval. He said he'd act on the petition as soon as possible today.

Charles Muhlstock, A3, Woodmere, N.Y., Young Progressives president, said he expected to get permission this morning and set up tables to secure signatures on the petition at Schaeffer hall and the Iowa Union.

Signatures will be solicited between 9:30 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. at

Schaeffer hall and from 9:30 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. at the Iowa Union. "We feel it's urgent that the people take some steps to show the government how they feel in regard to Korean crisis," Muhlstock said. "Campaigns such as this if done in large enough quantity may be capable of saving the peace."

Points Listed
The petition is addressed to President Truman and Secretary of State Dean Acheson and reads: "In view of the seriousness of the present crisis in which the world stands on the brink of a third world war, we urge that the following be done:

1. An immediate cease fire in Korea in order to avoid further loss of life.
2. Negotiations within and outside of the UN in a determined effort to avert the disaster of war.

3. Recognition of the legitimate government of the People's Republic of China so that they may take part in these negotiations.
"The petition is clearly a repetition of the Communist party line as presented in the UN and I don't believe SUI students will fall for it," R. Bruce Hughes, L4, Sioux City, state vice-president of the Young Democrats, said.
Loss of Life or Freedom
Alec Mackenzie, L1, Cedar Rapids, state chairman of the Young Democrats, said, "Fortunately most of us still prefer some loss of life to total loss of freedom. We've tried for four or five years to negotiate a peace and found that it's hard to do in a vacuum."
Atty. J. Newman Toomey, Johnson county president of the United World Federalists, termed the cease fire order in Korea as "completely unrealistic."

Constructive Criticism Needed

An Editorial

The charges students are leveling now at Frivol can hardly be ignored by Ted Leighton, the magazine's editor. It seems apparent that the sentiments being expressed on campus and in letters to The Daily Iowan are widespread and are not simply those of a small group of dissatisfied individuals.

The most often heard of the criticisms is that of the predominance of space given to fraternities and sororities.

We too, feel that this criticism is justified. Perhaps in a small college or in an institution where the "country club set," as Mr. Leighton calls it, is in the majority, a publication of the nature of this month's Frivol would be appropriate. But in a university as large as SUI, where this group constitutes a small minority of the enrollment, the editor should have expected such an editorial policy to arouse resentment.

But there is more yet to the complaint concerning the fraternities and sororities. Instead of helping these social groups, Mr. Leighton is, in our opinion, placing them in a position they don't care to occupy.

Through his efforts, which we believe to be sincere even though misdirected, the old bitterness between these social groups and the "non-affiliates" is in danger of being revived. Some bitterness exists now, but we believe it is in no significant proportions.

Any bitterness, though, is unnecessary. We feel these social groups should have the undisputed privilege to organize and live the lives they desire, so long as they stay within the bounds of the law.

Another issue of Frivol similar to this month's, though will do little toward keeping down that unnecessary injustice.

And, to repeat, we feel it is more of an injustice than a boost to SUI's fraternities and sororities. We believe the members of these organizations would prefer that Mr. Leighton wouldn't put them in the position in which they now find themselves as a result of the current Frivol.

However, we suggest that, instead of scathing letters and comments, the students should send letters to Mr. Leighton which will reveal to him just what they want. This certainly is a time when constructive criticism is needed.

Frivol has suffered for a number of years from lack of student interest. The very existence today of what appears to be widespread dissatisfaction with the magazine is a healthy condition. It means the students are interested in whether or not SUI has a good campus magazine.

Our request that Mr. Leighton receive constructive criticism is not to imply that students should hesitate in presenting their complaints. Any student publication on campus, including The Daily Iowan, should be, and is, subject to criticism by the students. Frivol is no exception.

But we believe Mr. Leighton would welcome letters from students with suggestions as to what they want their campus magazine to be.

He should be given a chance to prove he intends to make Frivol a magazine of collegiate life—not in name only, but also in fact.

University Hospitals Begin Painless Childbirth Lectures

By MARIAN PETKOVSEK

Natural childbirth — which focuses attention on emotional needs of women during labor and delivery and offers minimum pain with optional use of drugs — may be seriously considered by the prospective mother who consults University hospitals in the future.

Following a program founded by British Dr. Grantly Dick Read, author of "Childbirth Without Fear", the SUI department of obstetrics and gynecology began a series of lectures on natural childbirth at University hospitals Thursday.

They are designed to prepare the expectant mother physically and psychologically so that childbirth will be anticipated with "satisfaction, knowledge and joy."

Lecture Series In a series of three lectures with subsequent exercise periods, the natural childbirth program is presenting an understanding of what processes and changes occur during pregnancy, why these changes occur, and what the mother must do in order to experience a minimum of discomfort during the labor period. Dr. Virginia Stuermer, of the obstetrics and gynecology department, said.

Proponents of natural childbirth believe that knowledge and understanding of what takes place during pregnancy can eliminate the chief cause of pain during labor — tension due to fear of the unknown.

Exercise periods leading to suppleness in body movement and improvement in muscle tone are believed to produce the better body posture and increased ability to achieve muscular relaxation, necessary for minimum labor pain.

If the mother can learn to get rid of fear and to relax, little or no anesthetic is needed during labor and delivery. Understanding and exercise actually lessen the need for medication, the supporters of the program believe.

Not Painless Contrary to Dr. Read's theory of "painless" childbirth, the SUI program does not claim to be painless. It does propose to prepare the mother for the event so it can be experienced with a minimum of discomfort.

Medicine and drugs are offered her if she requests them or if the obstetrician thinks she needs them. Two additional classes, open to anyone interested in the natural childbirth program, but especially to prospective parents, will be held on the next two consecutive Thursday evenings, at 8 p.m., in the third floor medical amphitheatre of University hospitals.

The first lecture held Thursday evening, "Physiology of Pregnancy," dealt with the anatomy of the reproductive organs and the part they play in formation of the baby.

This will be followed by exercise 1, on Thursday morning, Dec. 7. The second lecture, at 8 p.m., Dec. 7, "Physiology of Labor," will explain the phases of the labor period, the "whys" connected with it, and the possible complications.

Exercise 2 will follow on Thursday morning, Dec. 14. The third lecture based on "Nutrition during Pregnancy," will stress the essential dietetic standard necessary to maintain health while supporting growth of the baby.

The 3rd and 4th exercise periods will conclude with a tour of the obstetrics and gynecology department, including an inspection of the delivery and labor rooms to help eliminate the feeling of strangeness when entering the hospital for actual delivery.

"Very informal and free of charge," the classes work hand-in-hand with question and answer periods. Husbands are urged to attend the lectures in order to get adequate information about pregnancy and childbirth — necessities for a favorable beginning toward family life.

(For information regarding dates beyond this schedule, see reservations in the office of the President, Old Capitol.)

GENERAL NOTICES GENERAL NOTICES should be deposited with the city editor of The Daily Iowan in the newsroom in East Hall. Notices must be submitted by 2 p.m. the day preceding first publication; they will NOT be accepted by phone, and must be TYPED OR LEGIBLY WRITTEN AND SIGNED by a responsible person.

Faulty Intelligence Blamed For U.S. Setback in Korea

With American troops in North Korea, Thursday, Nov. 30 (AP) — Behind the crushing defeat of the American eighth army in northwest Korea are two great questions.

And some high ranking officers believe the answers—when they come—will rattle a few skeletons in the American military establishment and perhaps force a revision in the American technique of waging ground warfare.

The questions they raise — and the fighting troops raise them too — are these:

1 — Why, before launching its disastrous "end-the-war" offensive didn't the American high command know the enemy had massed such a force against it that victory was impossible?

2 — Why was the enemy able unerringly to pick the weak spots in the United Nations line while the allied attackers were unable even to locate with certainty the general areas where the Reds had concentrated their strength?

Goods Underread A number of officers give this as a general answer to both questions:

"Our intelligence was faulty and we again made the mistake of underestimating what a well trained oriental foot army can do." The same classic error was made early in July when American troops first ran up against the invading North Korean army. One officer said afterwards:

"We honestly believed that all we had to do was stand up and show our American uniform and goods would turn and go back across the 38th parallel."

Why didn't the airforce spot them? An airforce officer said: "The North Koreans are so well camouflaged by day they are extremely difficult to locate. They move up at night. We send out night planes to check on their movements but in the darkness you can't judge accurately the nature or the size of their troop and supply movement."

stand with the usual understanding that in cases where real hardship is involved a student may permit the dean of his college for permission for late arrival.

Sincerely yours, Virgil M. Hancher

Attempt to Find Oil On Missouri River Results in Failure

COUNCIL BLUFFS (AP) — If there are any rich oil deposits in the bottom land area along this stretch of the Missouri river they are still firmly locked within the good earth.

The latest effort to produce oil from the land has resulted in failure and for the time being no more exploratory operations are in sight.

A company known as the Council Bluffs Oil Exploration trust undertook test well drilling last August on the E. Schafer farm south of Council Bluffs. Its operations restored memories of oil fever that dated back to the early 1900's.

C. E. Foote of Omaha and R. C. Mitchell of Spencer, Iowa, as co-partners and O. M. Campbell of Omaha as secretary - treasurer made up the company.

Their drillers got down to a depth of 2,512 feet without finding any oil. About ten days ago, with cold weather setting in, the operations were stopped and no further plans for drilling.

The failure of this test is not the first in this area nor the first in southern Iowa but there are persons, including geologists, who think oil ought to be found because the rock formations are similar to those in northwest Missouri and southeast Nebraska which have yielded deposits.

Accordingly, the no-cut rule will

New York Preacher's Radio Show Attracts Thousands of Fans

By SHERRY BOWEN

NEW YORK (AP) — Try to find the most popular star on the air and you may come up with a radio preacher.

Dr. Ralph W. Sockman speaks for 15 minutes on a half-hour program each Sunday morning. It is a bad week that brings only 5,000 fan letters. Some programs may bring 20,000.

He has been at it, October through May each year, since 1936. From 1928 through 1935, he was summer replacement for Dr. S. Parkes Cadman who started the program in 1923. Associates say the "national radio pulpit" is the oldest continuous program on the air. More than 100 NBC stations carry the talks and letters come in from all over the world.

Dr. Sockman insists there are no tricks to it. His sermons are based on the Bible and the response shows the people like them.

"I suppose," he says, "I must be classed as a liberal, but —"

Behind that unfinished statement are these facts: He is pastor of the swank Park Avenue Church, Methodist. His Ph.D. from Columbia is earned, although he has received several honorary doctorates since. As a youth he was a student at Union Theological seminary where he now teaches.

"Some people think it (the seminary) is heretical," he says, but some of his best response comes from parts of the south usually classed as fundamentalist.

Some of his most popular sermons are based on what he calls fundamental parts of the Bible. One of these was on the Lord's Prayer. It was expanded into a best selling book. A series of sermons on the Beatitudes was the basis for another best seller. "You must," says Dr. Sockman, "think of the people to whom you are talking until you reach them so completely they forget themselves."

Stocks Make Gain; First This Week

NEW YORK (AP) — Stocks registered their first recovery of the week Thursday.

Prices mounted fractions to 3 points and held a fair-sized portion of the gains despite late realizing selling.

The list opened higher as war scare selling subsided at least temporarily.

Too Many Greeks . . .

TO THE EDITOR:

We have just finished reading the new Frivol, or should we call it the "Fred-ful." Since Frivol has adopted its new policy of portraying collegiate life, we have been bombarded with pictures and articles of fraternity men and sorority women. Are we to draw the conclusion that collegiate life begins and ends with belonging to a sorority or fraternity . . .

As a humor magazine, the Frivol was a notable flop. Now, as a pseudo-magazine of college life, it has hit an all time low . . .

This is not meant to be a personal issue as regards the merits of fraternity or sorority life but rather a query as to why the editor or thinks that by publishing so many pictures and articles of fraternity men and sorority women he will portray college life on this or any university campus. We think that the money used to produce Frivol magazine could be used to a much greater advantage for the student body now and in future years. As an example, it could be donated to the fund for the improvement of our Memorial Union.

Wrong Emphasis . . .

TO THE EDITOR:

I was slightly disturbed by the premier issue of the revamped Frivol. I marveled at the amazing consistency with which the editors piled triteness upon triteness. But considering that it was the new staff's first attempt, I decided to wait for another issue before spilling my spleen . . .

What was once a magazine of adult (if plagiarized) humor has been relegated to a sounding board for the rah-rah bloc on campus. Its emphasis on BMOC's, parties, pledges, pinnings, and the whole gamut of high school antics seems sadly out of place . . .

At a time of great world crisis it seems small and myopic of us to permit college life to be characterized as a puerile, sophomoric activity whose main function is partying. Frivol, in so characterizing it, has hardly scratched the surface. It is much like the child who, wading in a creek, plunges make Frivol "a magazine of collegiate life." This was very commendable, and acceptable to most SUI students.

However, Leighton has demonstrated through the last issue of Frivol, that he thinks fraternity life and collegiate life are synonymous.

In analyzing the latest issue of Frivol, we find that 13 of the total 24 pages are devoted to fraternity people, deals and misdeals. Seven of the 24 pages are given over to advertising, and two whole pages to a non-fraternity student at SUI. The remaining two pages being taken up by an interview with Charles Laughton . . .

The vast majority of students here (who belong to no fraternity) have a different opinion on the content of Frivol. They would like to see Frivol portray the real collegiate life on campus.

Since Frivol is owned by, financed to a great extent, and put out by SUI students, they have every right to be represented in their magazine.

Unless the present policy of Frivol is changed in the next issue, I suggest the SUI students demand the resignation of Editor Ted Leighton.

Bureau Produces Gasoline from Coal

LOUISIANA, MO. (AP) — First production of gasoline from coal "in practical quantities" in the United States was disclosed Thursday by the government's bureau of mines.

More than 225,000 gallons already have been produced here at the bureau's $25-million "coal-to-oil demonstration plant" on the Mississippi river about 100 miles north of St. Louis.

The "proving ground" was established to test the feasibility of establishing a synthetic oil industry in this country, operated by private industry, to meet the challenge of lessening reserves of natural petroleum, bureau scientists said.

The bureau says that if that feasibility is established, the United States would achieve independence of foreign sources of petroleum in the event of war and would be able to meet the country's normal needs for oil for centuries to come.

Bradley Urges Aid For Marshall Tito

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. Omar N. Bradley Wednesday urged congress to "exploit" for our own benefit the break between Yugoslavia and Russia by rushing emergency food shipments to Marshal Tito.

The chairman of the joint chiefs of staff made the plea shortly after President Truman formally asked congress for $38-million to feed hunger-stricken Yugoslavia and help it to "resist Soviet aggression."

Time for Action . . .

TO THE EDITOR: The time is drawing near when the SUI students will have to take some sort of action to prevent the further degeneration of their magazine, Frivol.

Last spring, Ted Leighton, editor of Frivol, said he was going to

Economic Factors In U.S. Unfavorable For War: AFL Man

The United States is in a poor economic condition to fight another war, Austin Finessey, director of public relations for the Iowa AFL said Thursday.

Speaking to SUI students at the Information First lecture in Old Capitol, the labor leader said American industry faces a severe manpower shortage.

"We are on the threshold of another great conflict," Finessey said, "and we have no reservoir of labor. This shortage of manpower will undoubtedly affect production."

Finessey attributed the cause of the labor shortage to the low birth-rate of the thirties and the present near-full employment of working men.

In expanding his topic, "Future Demands of Labor," he suggested several means by which production might be increased without employing more men.

He urged putting more "give-and-take" into labor-management relations. This would make the worker feel more important and increase his output.

He plugged for giving increased opportunities to members of minority religious and racial groups. "We allow tremendous economic resources to go down the drain by not giving these persons a fair economic chance," Finessey said.

He asked for Americans to "export" their ideas on free enterprise to other countries, especially India and Indonesia. In conclusion, he called on students to do "serious, constructive thinking" about the problems of the American economy.

Denning, Drahn Honored

Collier's magazine, like many other publications this time of year, has picked an all-American team. In addition to conventional first and second teams with an honorable mention section, Collier's editors have gone a step farther in picking specialists in various departments.

Two Hawkeyes were honored in this specialists group. Chuck Denning was voted one of the country's outstanding line backers and Glenn Drahn was selected as a top punter.

Denning is probably one of the most under rated players in the Big Ten. This is partly due to the emphasis put on offensive football. The ball carrier gets the headlines. The defensive man is all but ignored.

This isn't as it should be but it seems inevitable as long as football is geared to offense. In the games we saw this season, Denning ranked as the best line backer in the Big Ten.

At the Ohio State murder, Denning was one of the few players who bore much resemblance to their former selves. If it hadn't been for his work, the point spread might have been worse.

Drahn's kicking this season was consistently good. He averaged over 40 yards per boot and had only one kick partially blocked. Drahn had the ability to get the kick away very fast—something that has to be done in the face of seven charging linemen.

Both the Associated Press and United Press presented all Big Ten teams this year supposedly picked by the conference coaches. It's surprising to me how, with the same men picking the teams, Bill Reichardt was on AP's second team and UP's first team.

The United Press came out with its team a few days after the rival news service. Maybe Reichardt's abilities became more distinct to the conference coaches as time passed. There must be some explanation.

Basketball Coach Rollie Williams has maintained all along that the Hawkeyes are over rated in pre-season predictions. Practically every magazine hazarding an estimate on the probable conference champions lists Iowa on top of the Big Ten.

The experts also like the Hawkeyes on the national level. All the predictions we've seen have Iowa rated around sixth or seventh in the country. All of this ballyhoo puts Iowa in the unenviable position of always being the favorite.

Rollie pretty well summed it up. "In the Big Ten," he said, "no team is going to win every game. The team that wins the title will have to get the breaks. Any team in the conference is capable of beating any other one on a given night."

"The team that does win the championship has to win the games even when it's having an off night. If the opponent is also suffering an average night, everything is all right. However, if the other team is hot, the favorite is going to be beaten."

Williams picked Illinois, Indiana and Minnesota as co-favorites in the conference along with Iowa. "Wisconsin kind of has a sleeper over there," he said. "They might be tough."

In fact, Rollie thinks every team in the conference is going to be tough. He's probably right.

Waterloo Mauls Trotters-Swedes In Exhibition, 123-68

By JACK BENDER
The Waterloo Hawks of the NPBL gave a demonstration of the power of a major league team in racking a combination of Grundt's Globe Trotters and the Terrible Swedes, 123-68, Thursday night in the City high gymnasium.

Coach Jack Smiley of Illinois Whiz Kid fame didn't even use his first team players as a unit in the exhibition but the unusual combinations casually went on making baskets to send the estimated crowd of 1,000 home with their money's worth.

See Leads Scorers
Wayne See of Arizona State clicked for nine baskets in less than half the game to lead the evening's scorers. Leo Kubiak was runner-up for the Hawks with 15, the same that John Pritchard, an ex-Drake star, was able to put in for the Swedes.

Former Hawkeyes Murray Wier and Bob Vollers were in the starting lineup and responded with 14 and 10 points, respectively. Wier had just returned to the squad following a two week layoff to rest an injured ankle.

Charley Share, 6-foot, 11-inch former Bowling Green all-American and starting center for the 1950 college all-stars, gave a good demonstration of how agile a big man can be with his rebounding prowess and clever, behind-the-back passes. Share was rated the No. 1 pro prospect on completing his collegiate career last year, and he deserved the title Thursday night.

After a chuckle - inspiring warm-up period, the Trotters-Swedes took the lead, 4-0, on Junior Johnson's set shot and Pritchard's hook. Kubiak hit two successive jump shots, Wier made a free throw and Share cashed in on a drive-in hook but Johnson and Cleo Johnson hit set shots to keep the Des Moines combination ahead, 8-7.

Vollers Scores
Share then hit a pivot shot and Claudell Overton drove in for an easy one and the Hawks were off to the races. Soon after the start of the second half, Vollers' hook put Waterloo ahead by 30 points, 52-28.

Five-foot, 10-inch Kubiak took over Share's pivot spot and Share went to guard, but the Trotters-Swedes still couldn't stop the Hawks. With 7:43 playing time remaining, 6-foot, 8-inch Mac O'ton's lay-up gave the Hawks 100 points. Smiley finally entered the scoring column with a set shot to account for the final score.

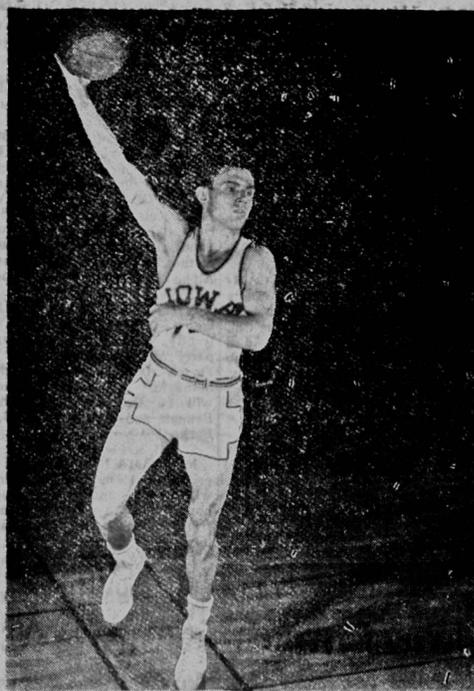

The Trotters were clever ball-handlers but the Hawks made the baskets.

Although Unimpressive, Louis Wants to Fight

CHICAGO (AP) — Joe Louis, aging, balding and slightly paunchy, is determined to continue on fistiana's comeback trail despite his unimpressive showing against 23-year-old Cesar Brion in the Chicago Stadium Wednesday night.

Boxing is his business, the ex-world's heavyweight champion said Thursday, and he intends to stay in business.

Iowa Continues Drilling on Offense

Dick Riicks

Dick Riicks Quits Basketball Squad

Dick Riicks, one of the six major lettermen on this year's basketball team, has dropped from the team to concentrate on school work.

Coach Rollie Williams, in making the announcement, said the forward from Danbury has another year of eligibility remaining and intends to use it next season.

Riicks was used mostly as a spot player the last two seasons. If he uses his remaining year of eligibility next season, Riicks could contribute more to the team this year when the Hawks have almost a surplus of talent.

Riicks was a star on the Cinderella Danbury high school team which attracted state wide attention with upset victories over favored opponents in the state tournament.

With Riicks off the squad, the five lettermen remaining are Forward Frank Calsbeek, Center Chuck Darling and Guards Bob "Pinky" Clifton, "Skip" Greene and Fred Ruck.

Irish Lose, 51-47; Kelsey Scores 20

St. Patrick's high couldn't hold a 25-23 halftime lead and dropped its third game in seven starts Thursday night losing in the final minutes to Immaculate Conception of Cedar Rapids, 51-47.

The visitors staged an 18 - point rally in the final period to clinch the win, their fourth straight without a defeat. The winners hit on 9 of 18 free throws while St. Pat's could connect on only 5 of 16.

Dean Kelsey of the Shamrocks led all scorers with 20 points. Bob Michael and Sid Stenlar each hit 16 for Immaculate Conception. The game was close all the way with the Cedar Rapids club leading 14-12 at the first quarter and seldom more than a basket separated the teams.

Calsbeek May Play Against DePauw

Indications were Thursday that Frank Calsbeek, Iowa's leading scorer last season, will be in shape to play against DePauw Monday night in the season's opener for the Hawks.

Calsbeek suffered a charley horse last week. He has been working out in practice this week and if the ailment continues to respond to treatment the big forward will be available.

Meanwhile Iowa continued work on offense in preparation for the game. Eddie Colbert has been drilling at forward this week and might start against DePauw.

The rest of the lineup appears set with Calsbeek, if available, at the other forward, Churk Darling at center and "Skip" Greene and Bob "Pinky" Clifton at guards. DePauw opened its season with a 77-57 win over Canterbury. The Greencastle, Ind. school plays Indiana Saturday night. DePauw had an 11-7 record last season.

Pays Tribute to Coach, Texas Wins, 17-0

AUSTIN, TEX. (AP)—Ben Tompkins and a massive, man-handling line whipped Texas A. & M. 17-0 Thursday as Texas thundered to the end of the Southwest conference race undefeated for the first time in history.

Playing smashing, jarring ball, the slam-bang Longhorns paid tribute to their coach, Blair Cherry.

Cherry lay ill in a hospital, not even permitted to listen to the game on the radio. But Tompkins, the passing, running, thinking quarterback of the Longhorns threw for one touchdown, engineered the slashing Orange Wave on another scoring drive, then wound up his greatest day by kicking a field goal from the Aggie 17-yard line.

City High Plays Waukon, Anamosa

Waukon and Anamosa furnish the basketball opposition in a weekend road trip for City high school's Little Hawks.

Waukon will meet Iowa City Friday night. Despite a loss at the hands of McKinley of Cedar Rapids, Coach Howard Moffitt expects a tough game from them on their home court.

Theron Thompson, SUI graduate, is the Waukon coach. He boasts two lanky players according to Moffitt's scouting reports, one a 6-foot, 5-inch center and a 6-3 forward.

Another former SUI student, Marvin Calvert, is coach at Anamosa, whom the Little Hawks battle Saturday evening.

SUI Host to Forensics Conference

About 150 students, representing 17 colleges and universities, are expected to register at 8 a. m. today for a two-day Intercollegiate Conference on World Problems sponsored by the SUI department of speech.

Eighty-seven representatives from 16 other schools and about 60 SUI students will participate in the general program designed to provide training and experience in all major forensic activities including debate, discussion, extemporaneous and public speaking.

As a cooperative exchange for evaluation of information on national and international problems, the conference will be similar to those held at SUI the past four years.

Activities will be criticized and rated by the faculty director from each of the participating schools, SUI faculty members and graduate assistants.

Visitors are welcome to attend. Programs designating time, place and participating schools will be posted outside rooms 7 and 11, Schaeffer hall, and on the second floor of Old Capitol, Instructor Merrill T. Baker, conference chairman said.

The opening address will be given at 9 a. m. today by Prof. H. J. Thornton, department of history. He will discuss the background of the world crisis which led to the formation of the United Nations. This will be followed by discussion period I at 10:20 a. m., discussion period II at 11:20 a. m., drawings for extempore speaking in the senate chamber of Old Capitol at 12:20 p. m., and an informal luncheon meeting for visiting directors at 12:30 p. m. in the private dining room of the Iowa Union.

Extempore speaking will begin at 1:30 p. m., followed by discussion period III at 2:20 p. m. Public speaking will start at 3:30 p. m., with round I debate at 4:20 p. m., round II at 7 p. m., and round III at 8 p. m.

Johnson Prepares Conference Reports

Three reports have been prepared by Prof. Wendell Johnson, director of the SUI speech clinic, for the Midcentury White House conference on children and youth in Washington, D. C., Dec. 3 to 7.

As president of the American Speech and Hearing association, Johnson will lead a delegation of the association's members to the conference.

Senator Guy Gillette will serve as chairman of a cooperative forum which Johnson will address in Washington Dec. 7. Johnson will be introduced by Helen Hill Miller, Washington correspondent for Newsweek magazine.

He will also lecture at Columbia and Purdue universities.

SUI Graduate Elected To New Science Post

Phillip Peak, who received his M.S. degree from SUI, has been elected vice-president of the Central Association of Science and Mathematics Teachers.

Peak is assistant to the dean of education at Indiana university.

Expect Sellout At Winter Party

A sellout crowd is expected at the Iowa Union tonight for the all university, semi-formal "Winter Party."

Ralph Flanagan's orchestra will play for the dance from 8 to midnight in the main lounge of the Union. The music will be amplified in the cafeteria "Club Cabaret."

A few tickets were available Thursday at the Union desk for $4 a couple. If any remain tonight, they may be purchased at the door.

The Christmas spirit will be prevalent as "Santa Claus" will be taking tickets and handing out programs and a 16-foot Christmas tree will be a source of light for the dancers.

Other lighting will be furnished by fires in the main lounge fireplaces and by colored floodlights on the ceiling.

Guests of honor will be SUI President and Mrs. Virgil M. Hancher, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Pendleton, Prof. and Mrs. Russell Ross, and Prof. and Mrs. Stanley Wawzonek.

WSUI will carry a broadcast of the dance music from 9:30 to 10 p. m.

SUI Opens Bids On School Building

Bids for construction of the Iowa hospital school for severely handicapped children were open Thursday and the only bid for general construction of the building was rejected.

Kucharo and associates, Des Moines, was the only firm bidding on general construction. The company's base bid for the first phase of construction was $799,880 and for the second phase $1,099,640. Both bids were rejected.

SUI architect George Horner said that new bids for general construction will be requested at a later date.

Thirteen firms submitted bids for the sub-construction on the school. Carstens Brothers, Ackley, submitted the only bid for heating, plumbing and ventilation. Carstens' bids were $99,581 and $26,410.

The Armature and Electric Machine company, Omaha submitted the low bid among seven bids on electrical facilities, and Burber Colman, Moline, submitted the low bid for temperature control work.

Steel Wage Increase Forces Prices Up

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Steel wages and prices went up Thursday.

The big CIO united steelworkers accepted an average 16 cent an hour pay increase for its 259,000 members working for the United States Steel corporation and the Bethlehem Steel corporation. Those are the two biggest steel producers in the nation.

U.S. Steel immediately boosted prices about 5 1-2 percent. The company said that would just about cover the $125-million annual increase in employment costs.

There was no immediate notice of what Bethlehem planned to do about prices. But all the nation's steel companies are expected to follow the lead set by the Bethlehem U.S. Steel company and match both the wage increase and price advance.

The wage increase lifts pay of U.S. Steel and Bethlehem employees to an average $1.88 an hour.

Massacre Survivor Comes Home

(AP Wirephoto)

PRAYERS TO SEE HIS WIFE AND SON were answered for Pfc. William Hennington, St. Paul. The prayers were said by him while 68 of his army buddies were massacred by North Koreans Oct. 21. He escaped the Suncheon railway tunnel atrocities by feigning death. Hennington, who is now on a 30 day furlough, said, "I never prayed so honestly in my life to see my wife and son again."

Suit Filed Against Lone Tree Man

A suit to recover three refrigeration units valued at $1,425 was filed against Kenneth Smith, operator of the "Nibble Nook" inn near Lone Tree, Thursday in Johnson county district court. The suit by the Modern Refrigeration company of Cedar Rapids also asks $1,000 damages because Smith has refused to give up the units voluntarily. M. A. Leoni, who operates the company, claims Smith bought the refrigeration units on a conditional sale which allowed the company to take them back if not paid for in a reasonable time. Smith has been twice indicted and convicted of illegal possession of liquor.

Church Convention Backs Acheson's Speech

By MART BAILEY
(Special to The Daily Iowan)
CLEVELAND—Ranking Protestant clergymen voiced approval late Wednesday night of Secretary of State Dean Acheson's speech charging Chinese Communists with "brazen aggression" in Korea.

They found no conflict with Acheson's six-point "peace strategy" program issued by the secretary as the administration's freedom policy.

The 5,000 delegates, gathered to constitute a new religious body, expressed confidence in the administration and the state department at a time when the secretary was under fire from many sides.

Acheson had been scheduled to speak in Cleveland at the National Council of the Churches of Christ, but the Korean crisis made it impossible for him to leave Washington.

Acheson's Speech
His address, directed to delegates of the Cleveland convention, was broadcast over four radio networks as a major policy speech in the crisis period.

Acheson outlined six elements of his strategy of freedom: 1. Development of international order under the UN. 2. Rapid buildup of the military strength of the U.S. and its allies. 3. Development of regional groupings within the UN for collective security. 4. Economic cooperation to build against outward attack and inward decline.

5. Readiness at all times to negotiate a just peace. 6. Firm adherence to the "moral values which give meaning to our lives."

Included in the group of clergymen interviewed at a late press conference were Methodist Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam and Episcopal Bishop Henry K. Sherrill.

Earlier in the day, Bishop Oxnam, had called for a resolution of assurance to the administration that it had the support and prayers of the convention. Frequently during the sessions prayers were offered for the nation.

The entire delegation joined in a union prayer of dedication as eight church organizations and 29 Protestant orthodox congregations merged to form the National Council. It will represent 31-million American Protestant and orthodox Christians.

Japanese Christian Leader
Toyohiko Kagawa, famed Japanese Christian leader, (who spoke on the SUI campus last summer) told the council that world Communism was committing suicide by prolonging the struggle in North Korea with the intervention of Red Chinese armies.

Kagawa predicted that if China should become involved in a war with the UN as a result of "Russian pressure," her whole economy would collapse.

At the same time, he warned the UN to be careful not to go too far geographically. "Japan," he said, "advanced so far into central China that she lost everything."

He suggested Chinese resistance at this time might "be a play for recognition in the UN."

Dulles Given Citation
At a preliminary session, John Foster Dulles, U.S. delegate to the UN, was given a citation as a "Christian statesman." Dulles, unable to attend the testimonial dinner because of the storm in the east, asserted in a prepared address that war with Russia was neither "inevitable or imminent."

Wednesday the council heard President Truman's message of tribute read to the convention. He had been invited to address the gathering, but recent developments in Korea kept him in Washington.

The convention will close tonight with the installation of officers and a service of dedication.

Armory Corporation Will Issue Bonds

A $70,000 bond issue will be floated by the National Guard Armory corporation for payment of debts and remodeling of the armory building, according to City Atty. W. H. Bartley.

Repairs and remodeling of the building will account for $40,000 of the bond, with $30,000 allocated to pay off old debts.

For many years, Iowa City has been renting the armory to the national guard, paying for repairs and upkeep.

Under a new lease, approved recently by the state executive committee, the armory corporation will rent the building from the city, paying all costs, with a provision that the state armory board may buy the building at any time within 20 years.

Armory officials expect remodeling to be completed by April, with an open house tentatively planned for Memorial day.
